Graduate courses starting to go through approval processes

The first graduate courses to be proposed at Lock Haven University since its founding more than 110 years ago officially started their journey this week through the approval process, according to LHU President Craig Dean Willis.

"I am extremely pleased to announce that only six months after being granted permission by the State System of Higher Education to offer a Master of Liberal Arts in International Studies, the University completed the curricular structure needed to begin developing courses," said Willis.

As a result, courses focusing on German philosopher Friedrich Nietzsche, the legend of King Arthur, modern world drama and Asian and Western fine art have been introduced to the appropriate departments as the first step towards approval.

University Curriculum Committee Chairman Robert Weller, associate professor of health and physical education, said, "This master's degree represents a new, exciting direction for Lock Haven."

He added, "There was some lively, but necessary, academic debate in the committee. At the end, though, the department chairs pulled together to approve it overwhelmingly."

Dr. Lucienne de Wette, chairperson of the Graduate Council, said, "Although students will be able to take courses from virtually every department, primary support for the degree will come from a core of 14 humanities disciplines."

This core includes art, music, theatre, speech, literature, journalism, philosophy, foreign languages, history, government, economics, sociology, anthropology and geography.

In addition to these, students will be able to take a limited number of courses in the sciences and in education.

According to Graduate Coordinator Dr. Douglas S. Campbell, "This is the first master's of its kind in the entire country, and it is intended to attract students with three rather distinct kinds of interests."

First, said Campbell, it offers a rare opportunity for mature students to pursue a plan of study designed to enrich their intellectual lives and to develop, through the investigation of intercultural comparisons, critical thinking skills valuable for making decisions in a global society.

Secondly, he added, the program

Graduate Coordinator Dr. Douglas S. Campbell

represents for elementary and secondary school teachers an alternative to an education degree.

This alternative focuses, not on methods of teaching, but on the liberal arts related to the teachers' content areas of specialization, Campbell said.

Finally, he said, the program is intended to be viewed by persons in business as an alternative to the MBA.

According to Campbell, the curriculum would consist, not of skill courses, but rather those in the liberal arts, such as a course focusing on the common market.

A special feature of the degree is a component which allows students to take six hours of their course work abroad, he added.

Campbell said that most of the course work will be offered during the summer with a smaller number of courses placed on the schedule during the academic year.

Three courses are planned for this first summer, but the exact dates have not yet been set, Campbell stated.

Tutorial center looks for new coordinator

By Dan Davidson
Staff Reporter

The Lock Haven University tutorial center is currently searching for a new coordinator, according to temporary replacement Marybeth Long.

She said that the position was vacated at the end of last semester by Don Pearman, who moved to Maryland to work toward a master's degree.

According to Long, the University did not have much time to screen applicants and did not want the center to close down until they had found a replacement, so she was asked to take over.

Long, who worked last year as the director of Special Services at LHU, said she would like to be hired for the position full-time.

"The application deadline is Friday (today), and they should start interviewing in March," she said.

The tutorial advisor's duties include hiring, training and supervising tutors, said Long.

She added that there are currently 24 tutors handling approximately 125 students.

Long said she needs tutors for the sciences (biology, physics and genetics), economics and physical education.

She remarked that the center's main emphasis is on Equal Opportunity Program (EOP) students, incoming freshman who have to pass two summer courses for admittance in the fall.

EOP students are required to have two tutors for each semester of their freshman year, Long said.

The center also works closely with Special Services for disadvantaged students. These are students who have either physical handicaps or financial difficulty.

Long strongly urges any student having trouble with a class to take advantage of the center.

The tutorial center is located in the bottom of Smith Hall, office G-11, and the phone number is 893-2457. The center is open Monday-Friday between 8 a.m. and 4 p.m.

STUDENT SPOTLIGHT

"Non-traditional" Kreidler loves the academic life at LHU

By Donyale Blair
Staff Reporter

LHU student Debra Kreidler prefers to be called a "non-traditional" student. Why "non-traditional?"

"I was really scared my first semester coming back to school, because of the long time span since my high school education," she said.

Kreidler, 36, is a junior and has a dual major in philosophy and psychology.

She is an active member of Psi Chi, the honor society on campus for psychology majors, a member of the Psychology Club and a student representative to the psychology department.

Some of Kreidler's accomplishments include her current enrollment in the honors seminar, which is the first one at LHU, as well as being the first "non-traditional" student accepted for the summer's honor program.

Kreidler has been on the dean's list every semester at LHU, while acquiring 80 credits and maintaining a 4.0 grade point average.

"I love learning. I appreciate everything a little more now than when I was 18," said Kreidler.

She serves as PUB Administrator and also serves on the Executive Committee of SCC.

As PUB Administrator, Kreidler explained that her duties include supervision of the recreation room and of the PUB employees.

She also sets policies for the student union and is in charge of all yending machines on campus.

Even though she is kept busy with a family life, part-time employment and college life, Kreidler said that she really loves academic life.

She plans on going to graduate school upon graduation from LHU.

The Wilderness Club members would also like to go caving and play hot pursuit, which is a game with two teams in a designated area.

The goal is for one team to capture the other team's flag, said Paguia.

Paguia stated that a lot of effort went into reforming the club, and the people involved would like to see the club continue next year.

Current officers are Paguia, president; Maria Demain, vice president; Monica Fly, secretary; and Dimitrius Frangiadas, treasurer.

The club is trying to make the best of the vast potential for activity in the outdoors, added Paguia.

"It offers LHU students something else to do," he stated.

Wilderness Club gives students an opportunity to enjoy the outdoors

By Kim Beery
Clubhouse Columnist

The Wilderness Club gives students the "opportunity to enjoy the outdoors with people who have similar interests," said club advisor Dr. Robert Scherer.

Steve Paguia, club president, said he reorganized the club a year-and-a-half ago. He found a new advisor and was allocated money by the SCC.

Since he restarted the club, Paguia said that they have done such activities as white-water rafting, cross-country skiing and a picnic last year.

This semester, Paguia intends to form committees which will plan trips canoeing, white-water rafting and camping.

OFF-CAMPUS LIVING

Building and housing codes enforced to protect the public

By Dave Romig
LH City Code Enforcement Officer

The purpose of this column is to give students living off-campus a better understanding of building and housing codes.

I would also like to explain the purpose of these codes and what rights and responsibilities students have when living off-campus.

Building codes assure the construction of safe structures to protect their occupants and the public from injury resulting from their collapse or rapid deterioration.

Housing codes provide minimum standards for the use and occupancy of dwelling units and residential structures.

They include standards for living space, density of occupancy, light and ventilation, sanitation and fire and health safety.

In addition, housing codes dictate standards for facilities such as water, drainage and electricity and for their maintenance and certain environmental conditions.

Building and housing codes were developed for one reason - to protect the health, safety and welfare of the public. The concept is simple.

Unfortunately, the administration and enforcement of these regulations can be very involved and require community understanding and support.

The methods used to obtain compliance have a direct bearing on the public's acceptance.

In future articles, I intend to discuss areas that are the least understood and generate the majority of problems.

These may include topics such as tenant responsibility, landlord responsibility, local ordinances, and lease agreements.

It is important that students and the general public understand that the code office is not the police department or legal counsel.

Public awareness and cooperation will be the long-term solution to remedy past, present and future problems.

Hopefully, this column will help generate the interest that it takes to make a difference.

High Hall elevator fire kept under control Tuesday night

By Tammy Reklto
Staff Reporter

Three fire trucks and an ambulance responded to a fire in High Hall Tuesday night, reported Lt. Dennis Grenniger of Law Enforcement.

He said that a breaker box had shorted out in the elevator shaft and caused smoke to travel up the shaft.

There were no injuries and everything was kept under control, said Grenniger.

One of the Law Enforcement officers said that he wished to compliment the students and counselors for their speedy evacuation.

Four cases of theft were reported to Law Enforcement in the past week.

In the first case, Grenniger reported that firecrackers were set off, furniture was broken, and bulletin boards were torn down.

He added that there may have been a possible theft. The case is now under investigation.

In the second case, a student who had parked his car along Railroad St. allegedly had a $290 stereo stolen from his car.

City police are now investigating that case, Grenniger said.

In the two final cases of theft, an undetermined amount of money was reported stolen from Russell Hall and from the faculty lounge in Robinson Hall.

In a case of minor drinking, Grenniger said that two students were apprehended in parking area 2 for tampering with the ROTC military truck.

They were cited for purchase, consumption and transportation of alcohol by minors, according to Law Enforcement.

In another area, there were three separate incidents reported of underage drinking by students at 95 Susquehanna Ave.

All three students were found staggering back to their dorms, according to Grenniger.

He added that a person living at 95 Susquehanna Ave. received a citation from city police.

There were also three cases of disorderly conduct reported by Law Enforcement this week.

In one incident, a student and a local resident were cited for scattering rubbish over the embankment behind Smith and Woolridge Halls.

In the second case, two students were cited in parking area 5 for knocking over the trash receptacles.

In the third case, a student walking down by Stevenson Library was cited for using obscene gestures towards the officers.

Former student pleads not guilty in fellow student's death

Clarion -- At a formal arraignment hearing Jan. 26, former CUP student John M. Kapusnik pleaded not guilty to one count of criminal homicide, two counts of aggravated assault and one count of simple assault in the Nov. 16 stabbings of two CUP students.

A 22-year-old former Marine, Kapusnik is accused in the stabbing death of 21-year-old Eric S. Knotick of Butler. Knotick bled to death from a single stab wound below his left ear which cut the carotid artery, a main blood vessel in the neck.

Kapusnik is also accused of stabbing 20-year-old William C. Marsh of Oil City. Marsh survived a wound to the chest that punctured his lung. He spent seven days in Clarion Osteopathic Hospital and was discharged on Nov. 23.

Clarion Borough Police filed the charges.

Kapusnik was released on a $50,000 bail bond from Clarion County Jail on Dec. 15 after his parents put up their home in Natrona Heights and $5,000 cash to make bail.

Police said Kapusnik stabbed the two students in front of Collegio's Restaurant on Main Street, after Knotick and Marsh attempted to break up an argument between Kapusnik and his former girlfriend, Barbara Brauneck.

"I saw someone on top of her, lying on top of her," said Marsh. "She was screaming. She sounded as though she was in pain. We discussed whether we should help the girl or not. She looked like she definitely needed some help."

"I said, 'Calm down buddy. . . take it easy. . . that's enough,'" said Marsh. Marsh recalled that Kapusnik asked them, "Who the hell are you two?" He said Knotick then replied, "Obviously somebody who cares."

Clarion University student Bill Marsh survived a Nov. 16 knife attack, while a friend, Eric Knotick died while the two tried to help a CUP coed who was being attacked by her former boyfriend.

"He jumped on us," said Marsh. He recalled all three of them struggling on the sidewalk but insisted that, "there were no fists thrown."

"I was scared," said Marsh. "I didn't anticipate a fight or his strength. I struggled with him and remembered thinking I wanted to get away. He (Kapusnik) and Eric were struggling together. I wanted Eric to get out of it."

Though Marsh could not remember seeing a knife or being stabbed, he remembered getting to his feet and grabbing Kapusnik "so that Eric could get away."

East Stroudsburg -- Alpha Phi Omega, the only co-ed service fraternity on campus, is sponsoring their annual "Unique Professor Contest" March 4 - 6. Any popular ESU staff member may be nominated.

Each contestant must pick a charity to support. Instead of a written ballot, voters place money in one or more jars of any contestant. The winner is determined by the amount of money they earn. The money is then sent to these charities following the contest.

Millersville -- Dr. Joseph A. Caputo,

University president, was recently approached by a small group of faculty members who complained that there was inadequate equipment for academic computing on campus.

A faculty committee has been set up to investigate the possibilities of computer technology. The computers will be used for faculty research and computer assisted instruction and testing. Students will not be permitted to use the computers.

Funding will primarily come from the University. Millersville may also receive federal or state grants for the equipment.

"I'm really very optimistic that the problem is within our grasp to solve," said Caputo.

Also at Millersville:

According to Police Chief Wayne Silcox, campus crime has dropped since 1985. The statistics were drawn from an annual report filed by University police.

There were 60 arrests made on campus in 1986, down from 107 in 1985.

MEET THE WORLD

Botswana possesses several unique features

By Mrugan Desal
Guest Columnist

Botswana, a landlocked country in southern Africa surrounded by Zambia, Namibia, Zimbabwe and South Africa, possesses several unique features that would interest the Western mind.

Botswana is almost totally covered by the Kalahari desert, with the exception of a few miles on its eastern border with Zimbabwe. A distinctive feature of Botswana is the Okavango delta, located in the north western part of the country. It is the only inland delta in Africa, and is one of only two such deltas found in the world.

The delta is home to an immense diversity of exotic birdlife. These colorful and beautiful birds reflect both the humid and swamp-like conditions found around the delta.

The rest of the land is dry and barren. The rainfall is minimal, and the wet season falls between November and March.

Botswana is also rich in wildlife. Lions, elephants, ostriches, and many other spectacular species can be observed on the plains.

The population is approximately one million, with a density of one person per square kilometer. The population seems relatively small when compared to other countries, particularly the United States.

Scattered tribes still exist, practicing a primitive and nomadic way of life. The land is not suited for agriculture, so the rearing of cattle and hunting are still the primary sources of survival for the Kalahari bushmen.

The mining of diamonds and other valuable minerals has contributed to the recent industrial development in Botswana. Due to the crystal industry, three major cities have developed: Gaborone, Francistown and Selibe-Pikwe.

This once British protectorate has changed since its independence in 1968. Traditional values are gradually merging with the ideas of the west. Botswana is rapidly becoming an industrially and culturally developed country.

"Quit smoking" program offered at LH Hospital

By George Rey
Guest Columnist

Many cigarette smokers want to quit. They know that cigarettes pose a threat to their health and the health of others, annoy non-smokers and cost a lot of money. The one thing they don't know is how to stop.

Thanks to the American Cancer Society and project L.I.F.E. (Lifestyle Improvement For Everyone) of Clinton County, there is now an effective program designed to help smokers, FRESH START.

FRESH START is a straight forward, no-nonsense, "quit smoking" program. It consists of four one-hour sessions that are held over a four week period.

Beginning Wednesday, March 18 at Lock Haven Hospital, LHU students, faculty and staff will have the opportunity to participate in a FRESH START program. The program is offered to users of smokeless tobacco as well as cigarette smokers.

"We really encourage students, faculty and staff to come to the FRESH START classes. We have had Lock Haven students in the past and anticipate a good turnout this year," said Harriet Cooper, director of the American Cancer Society of Lock Haven.

Cooper also noted that although the percentage of male smokers has dropped over the past ten years, the percentage of female smokers has risen. Therefore, she wants to especially encourage female smokers to attend.

The classes will be held on the following Wednesdays: March 18, March 25, April 1 and April 8. Classes start at 7 p.m.

If interested in learning more about or joining FRESH START, call Lock Haven Hospital Extended Care at 893-5000.

Phi Mu Delta sponsors area service projects

With the bulk of their spring '87 rush program behind them, the Phi Mu Delta fraternity is involved in a number of different service projects.

One of the fraternity's ongoing projects involves work with Lock Haven's Infant Development Center (IDC) located on West Walnut Street, one of the chapter's traditional charities.

Presently, ΦΜΔ is working with the IDC to check for asbestos in the attic and basement of the center, and will be participating in the IDC's bedrace in early March.

Other fraternity activities include an Easter egg hunt for area toddlers and an "escort service" that has been offered in previous semesters. The service presents an alternative to walking across campus alone at night.

LHU choir to perform on Sunday

By Barbie Hannah
Staff Reporter

The Lock Haven University Choir, under the direction of Professor Gary Renzelman, will be performing at St. Agnes Church on Sunday, March 1 at 3 p.m.

The choir will include "Adoramus Te" by W.M. Mozart, "Sanctus" by Franz Schubert, "I Have Longed For Thy Saving Health" by William Byrd, "When Jesus Wept" by William Billings and the Faure Requiem.

For the Faure Requiem, the choir will be accompanied by a new ICMI Heilinger 32-stop organ that was acoustically designed especially for the conditions of the St. Agnes Church and dedicated in concert last summer. The guest organist will be LHU professor Ona Ruth Weimer.

Soloists for the Requiem are baritone Darrell Scott, soprano Roberta Selleck, and bass Jim Blachek.

According to Renzelman, the Faure Requiem is an expression of the peacefulness of eternal rest rather than the fear of death. Faure viewed death as a happy deliverance to something better, not a joyless transition to some ominous unknown.

The Requiem is one of Faure's most representative works with its purity of line, long winding melodic phrases and harmonic refinement. The work possesses a distinct grandeur and force beyond its surface innocence and reticence.

The concert is open to the public and there is no charge.

OPENING NIGHT

Annie Hall to be shown in the PUB

By Ken Foster
Movie Columnist

It is a rare occasion when the Motion Picture Academy nominates a comedy for an Academy Award. Woody Allen's Annie Hall won Oscars for Best Picture, Best Actress, Best Screenplay and Best Director which should not be taken as faint praise, particularly when the competition included such favorites as Star Wars and The Goodbye Girl (This year it is Allen's Hannah and Her Sisters that is favored to win the Oscar).

Annie Hall is a great film that takes a look at every small pleasure that makes life and broken romance worth living through.

The film opens with Allen telling an old joke about an elderly couple in a restaurant. One comments on how terrible the food is, to which the other replies, "Yes, and in such small portions." Life, philosophizes Allen, is very much the same. It is unbearable, yet we can never get enough.

Diane Keaton plays Annie, the neurotic woman who charms Woody into a love affair and eventually outgrows the relationship. Keaton's wardrobe, made up of men's ties, shirts and vests, inspired one of the most annoying fashion trends of the seventies, the Annie Hall look.

The story drifts back and forth in time, much like many of Allen's films, and the memories he shares are priceless. In one scene, he travels back to his second grade class and asks the group of seven-year-olds what they are doing now. "I'm into leather," responds one bespectacled little girl.

Allen creates hilarious moments by repeatedly breaking any sense of realism the film possesses. When Allen and Keaton first meet, the audience is provided with subtitles to their conversation, revealing what the characters are thinking.

"I can't believe I'm saying this. He must think I'm a yo-yo," Keaton's character thinks. Allen's thoughts are, of course, more sexual in nature.

In a scene where Allen is complaining about Keaton's vacant mood during sex, we see her soul rise from her body and sit next to the bed.

"Let me know when you're done with my body," she says.

The film tells us everything about the two characters lives and former lovers and ends by letting us know that they will never be quite as happy after they have split up.

However, the ending also expresses the upbeat philosophy that no matter how unhappy a romance may leave you, it will be worth every minute.

Sponsored by the SCC, Annie Hall will be shown Friday, Saturday and Sunday at 8 p.m. in the lower level of the PUB. Validated ID is required for free admission.

Moliere returns to LHU ...

The Imaginary Invalid presented in Sloan

By Amy Barner
Staff Reporter

A money hungry wife and a daughter looking for parental consent contribute to the story lines for the play "The Imaginary Invalid" which will be performed February 26, 27, and 28 at 8 p.m. in the Sloan Theatre.

"The play is about a man [Argan, played by Wayne Harvey] who considers himself sick and people react to him by the way he feels. His wife wants to get his money and his daughter wants to get his consent to marry," explained Dr. Denys Gary, professor and department chairperson of speech/theater.

The wife, Beline, played by Marla Hyde, and the daughter, Angelique, played by Jackie Maino, both manipulate Argan to get what they want.

The daughter is helped in her plot for parental consent by the maid, Toinette, played by Debbie Markowitz. They get what they want, but how they get it is what keeps the story going.

"Everything that happens [in the play] is prepared for before it happens," said Gary.

The two stories, that of the wife and the daughter, eventually weave together.

The costumes and set for the play are being done in the style of 1673.

"I think the students will enjoy it; it's funny. Part of what makes it funny is that everything is exaggerated; costumes, acting, make-up, etc.," Gary said. He also commented that the students who attend the performance will notice its tight structure.

Moliere, the playwright who was also known as the Shakespeare of France, makes fun of everything included in the society of the time. He pokes fun at the medical profession, lawyers, the family unit and education.

The first complete dress rehearsal on Monday night went very well. Gary noted the last Moliere play at LHU was performed about ten years ago and that a Moliere play is done about every ten years.

The remainder of the cast of "The Imaginary Invalid" includes Mark Thomas, Melissa Lewis, Craig Orefice, Robb Warren, Steve Zoldi, Joe Jones, David Lexner and Jamie Crankfield.

The set is designed and supervised by John Gordon and the costumes were created by Denise Warner. Thomm Yost is stage manager and is assisted by Steve Zoldi.

Gene Loves Jezebel duo are weird

By Lisa Falzetta
Record Columnist

Gene Loves Jezebel -- "Discover" Geffen Records (1986)

These guys are strange . . . I mean seriously weird. Take one good, long look at these two, and the first thing that comes to your mind is a galaxy, far, far away, possibly where Gene Loves Jezebel came from.

Actually, Gene Loves Jezebel are from this planet, and they're also known as Michael and Jay Aston, twin brothers from Wales. Being from Wales, they have brought a whole new style of music for the 80s with their third album "Discover."

Technically, I'd say they fall into the category of "progressive music." Once you hear them, you'd probably say their "progressive music" is in a category all its own. The twins share the lead vocals, and truthfully, most of the time it's hard to tell whether Jay or Michael is singing their style of high-pitched, almost nasal, vocals.

Before the recording of "Discover," Jay and Michael met and briefly worked with John Cale, also a Welshman and a former member of the Velvet Underground. The influence of Cale is what I feel helps Gene Loves Jezebel along. Although they are nowhere near the magnitude of the Velvet Underground, it's very easy to pick out certain aspects of the Velvet Underground's style in Gene Loves Jezebel. Their songs are loud and surreal, yet haunting at the same time.

For the best cut to listen to on this LP, I'd say "Brand New Moon" is the one. Other songs to pay attention to are "Heartache," "Kick," and "Over The Rooftops."

With their flamboyant style, both in appearance and in music, Gene Loves Jezebel give music exactly what it needs to keep moving -- a good, swift kick in the pants!

"Discover" from Gene Loves Jezebel can be found at TLM Records, 136 E. Water Street, Lock Haven. Cuts from the album can be heard on 90.3 FM, WLHC, "Nuclear Radio."

Lady Eagles advance to final four in state tourney

By Chris Sager
Sports Reporter

The Lock Haven University Lady Eagles defeated a stubborn Slippery Rock team 71-69, to advance to the state final four this weekend at Bloomsburg.

The Rockets, 7-12 overall and 5-5 in the PSAC West, battled the Lady Eagles, 14-10, 6-4, toe to toe in the first half, with neither team holding more than a four point lead.

Donna Sergi and Maryellen Jaskuta scored 8 and 7 points respectively to give the Lady Eagles a slim 31-28 halftime lead.

Tina Moynihan scored 16 of her team high 20 points in the first half to keep the Rockets close.

The second half started as a carbon copy of the first half. Then, with nine minutes left to play, Slippery Rock went on an 11 point run leaving the score 52-43.

A time out called by first year coach Frank Scarfo seemed to settle down the Lady Eagles and slow down the Rockets.

Three consecutive steals, one by Sergi and two by Jaskuta, cut the SRU lead to one.

After a flagrant technical foul was called on a Slippery Rock player, ejecting her from the game, Lori Young canned two free throws to give Lock Haven the lead 55-54.

With the score knotted at 60, Amy Derus converted two big buckets, one on a blind pass from Young, to extend the lead to 64-60.

From there, Young made five of six free throws to seal the victory for the Lady Eagles.

Lock Haven placed four players in double figures. Sergi lead the way with 20, and Jaskuta, Young and Derus each chipped in with 17, 13 and ten respectively.

Moynihan lead a trio of Rockets in double figures with 20 points. Viola Bournes had 17 and Lisa Menegat had 15.

The next stop for the Lady Eagles will be at Bloomsburg Friday night where they will play Bloomsburg, the number one team in the East.

Gair and Hoffer take firsts at Dickenson Invitational

By Bill Hunter
Co-Sports Editor

Although Shippensburg took the team crown at the Dickenson College Invite this past weekend, Lock Haven placed numerous athletes in the top four positions.

"We had a few good performances, but some injuries kept us from the first place finishes we could have won," said Head Coach Stan Burke.

The indoor meet, attended by Kutztown, Shippensburg, Bucknell and Millersville University, saw an LHU pole vaulter and a triple jumper take first place titles. Rob Gair vaulted 13 feet and Deanna Hoffer jumped 36.75 feet to take top honors.

Taking second for the Bald Eagles was Joe Kravitz with a 2:03 in the 800 meter run and Hoffer with 17.4 feet in the long jump.

Glenn Gusciora high jumped 6 feet two inches to qualify third.

Two fourth place finishes were turned in by Sonia Yingling in the 55 meter hurdles and Vicki Sterner in the long jump.

"Even though they did not place, Brad Seth, Dan Sheredy and Kathy Stein, who ran her personal best with 5:37 in the 1500 meter, deserved to be mentioned," said Burke.

The team has one final indoor meet at Penn State this weekend.

When asked about the competition, Burke said, "There will be a lot of Division I teams there. It will be a good chance to see what we've got."

Boxers to compete in Williamsport tonight

The fifth ranked Boxing Club will compete at the Bethune-Douglass Community Center in Williamsport tonight.

Six of the 15 Bald Eagle boxers are scheduled to compete in the Novice (Amateur) Golden Glove/Collegiate show which will feature eight to ten novice golden glove bouts and four or five collegiate bouts.

Haven junior Paul Levy is scheduled to box against Rob Coleman of Lafayette College in the 139 pound bout.

In the 190 pound category, Joe Salluzzo will take on Brett Whipple from the University of Pennsylvania.

Also boxing for the Bald Eagles will be Brad Klein, 139 pounds; Frank Lynch, 147; Frank McClary, 156; and Don Gallucci, 165 pounds.

Three of Lock Haven's top open division boxers, including captain Joe Ferrari, 147, Keno Saavedra, 125 or 132, and Eric Gravely, 180, will not compete according to Dr. Ken Cox. Each boxer has already had four regulation bouts this season, with only one more bout allowed before the Eastern Collegiate Boxing Association (ECBA) North Regional Championships on March 20-21 at Penn State.

the Bux squad lost in the semi-finals. Both teams lost to the Jersey Shore Lazars on penalty kicks. This made Jersey Shore the overall winner.

Haven will be represented with an additional team named the Lam F.C. Play begins at 8 a.m.

The event is being sponsored by the Lock Haven Soccer Club.

Jaskuta earns varsity spot as frosh

By Patrick Burns

A major contributor to the women's basketball team this season has been guard Maryellen Jaskuta.

In 24 games this season, Jaskuta, a freshman from Macungie Pa., has assisted the Lady Eagles cause by averaging 9.8 points and 3.5 rebounds per game.

She has also produced 51 assists and 55 steals, which are outstanding statistics for a freshmen.

When commenting on Jaskuta's play this season, Head Coach Frank Scarfo said, "We feel Maryellen has been outstanding for us. She has adapted to the college game very well, and always seems to be where the ball is. She has been player of the game for us two or three times this season."

Maryellen Jaskuta

"I am happy with the way I have played. The team has been great the whole season," said Jaskuta.

Golden Eagles take over nest with 23-16 win last night

By Scott Crispell
Sports Reporter

The Bald Eagle wrestling team finished the dual meet season with a disappointing 23-16 loss to 15th ranked Clarion, last night in Thomas Field House.

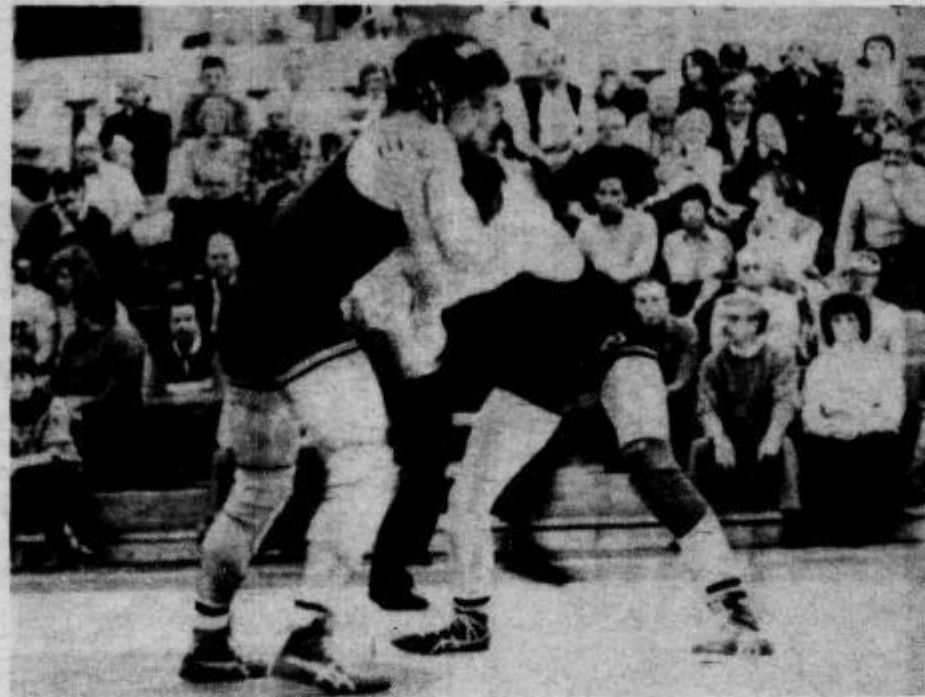

The loss ended LHU's season at 9-7 and 1-5 in the Eastern Wrestling League, while Clarion ended at 14-6 and 5-1 in the EWL.

In his 100th career bout as a Bald Eagle, Dicky Howell got the meet off to a good start with a technical fall over Kip Winget at 118. Howell hit five takedowns in the first period to take a commanding 12-5 lead after the initial three minutes. Howell added four more takedowns in the second stanza on his way to a 23-8 win in 4:38.

Prior to the meet, Howell and fellow senior Willy Metzger were honored by Head Coach Neil Turner and Athletic Director Dr. Charles Eberle. Both wrestlers received an Lock Haven University lettermen's blanket for their four years of service to the wrestling team.

Jeff Husick pushed the lead to 10-0 with an 11-2 victory over Greg Shapiro at 126. Husick scored two early takedowns to lead 5-1 after one period. In the second period, Husick added a takedown and three stalling points to run up a 10-1 lead with one period remaining. Husick gained a point for riding time advantage to cruise to victory.

At 134, Metzger didn't fare as well as Howell in his home finale, as he dropped a 4-1 decision to fifth ranked Paul Clark. Clark jumped in front with a takedown with 1:00 to go in the first period. Metzger cut the lead to 2-1 with an escape with :30 left. Clark picked up a second period escape to lead 3-1. Clark rode Metzger for the final two minutes and picked up a point for riding time.

Mike Cole, the sixth rated 142-pounder in the nation, pulled Clarion to within one point with a technical fall over Mike Lingentel in 6:21.

Clarion grabbed a 12-10 lead when Tim Tusick downed Thane Turner, 11-8 at 150 pounds. Tusick led 4-1 after one period via two single leg takedowns. Turner battled back in the second period with an escape, a reversal and two penalty points to tie the bout at 6-6. Tusick opened the final period with a takedown and Turner answered with a reversal. Tusick picked up a reversal and a riding time point to win.

Third ranked Ken Haselrig increased the Golden Eagle lead with an 11-4 win over John Barrett. Haselrig scored four takedowns, three of them in the final period on his way to victory.

At 167, Jody Karam dominated Keith

Powell for seven minutes as he came up with an 8-0 major decision. Karam recorded a takedown in each period and added an escape and a point for time advantage.

Gary Horner kept Clarion in front with an 8-6 decision over Jeff Karam at 177. Karam trailed 5-4 going into the third period, but seemed to grab a victory with a late reversal. Horner, however, scored a reversal of his own just seconds later and added a riding time point for the win.

At 190, the only scoring of the bout between Bill Freeman and Dave Cowan were stalling points as the match ended in a 1-1 draw. Each wrestler picked up a point on a double stalling call midway through the third period.

Todd Harrison cinched the victory for Clarion with a 1-0 win over Mike Mazza at heavyweight. Once again, the only scoring here was on a second period stalling call against Mazza.

The Bald Eagle wrestlers will be in action next weekend as they attempt to qualify for the NCAA Tournament. Penn State will host the Eastern Wrestling League Tourney March sixth and seventh in Rec Hall. The top three wrestlers in each weight class along with four "wild-card" selections will travel to the University of Maryland for the national tournament, March 19 -21.

Bald Eagles suffer heartbreaking loss at hands of Vulcans 86-84

By Bill Alexander
Co-Sports Editor

Sometimes a basketball rim can be your best friend, and other times your worst enemy.

Unfortunately for the Bald Eagles, it was the latter of the two as Tony Bacon's last second shot bounced around the rim and fell out, giving the Vulcans of California an 86-84 victory and the PSAC Western Conference Championship.

"With eight seconds left, we didn't want to take a timeout. We executed our fast break and Bacon had a layup, and just missed it," said Head Coach Kurt Kanaskie, who was not placing any blame on Bacon.

"If he makes it, we're divisional champs. He misses it and our season is over. It's very disappointing," he said.

Lock Haven took a six point lead into halftime and built the lead to ten in the second half, but the Vulcan fans at Hamer Hall helped California fight back to tie the score at 69-69 with 7:28 left in the half.

"We held the lead the entire game until about the last minute and a half," Kanaskie said. "Then, it went back and forth a couple of times. We missed a couple of free throws, and they came down and scored. We couldn't stop them."

Dean Kriebel lead the Bald Eagles with 23 points and eight rebounds. Senior Junior Price kicked in 16 and grabbed 11 rebounds while Jeff Null added 13.

Daryl Norfleet lead all scorers with 30 points for the Vulcans. Joe Miller contributed 23 points and nine rebounds and Dana Zajicek chipped in 15.

The Bald Eagles finish the 1986-87 season with a 21-8 record while the Vulcans head to Millersville with a 17-11 record.

Although the loss ends Lock Haven's play in PSAC competition, they may still have a slim chance at getting an NCAA Division II playoff bid.

"At 21-8, considering three of our losses were to Division I schools, and every loss was on the road, and this game could have gone either way," said Kanaskie. "The committee is going to have a tough selection process, and I just hope that somehow we get in there."

Thanks for the memories guys

By Joe Jones and
Rob Yoegel
Sports Columnists

Thanks for everything guys.

That is what we should say to the members of the Bald Eagle Basketball team for the many accomplishments that they made this season.

Even though the season didn't end quite the way they wanted it to, it was still a great season.

They finished the year at 21-8 and Coach Kurt Kanaskie, after two seasons, has compiled an impressive 36-20 record.

Some excuses can be made why the team has finished their season so abruptly, but we, and they, should not ponder the past but only look forward to the future.

And the future is just as encouraging.

Though they do lose Kevin Charney, Junior Price, Bob Wolf and Rich Haubert, the Bald Eagles, thanks to Kanaskie and his assistants, have a good crop of underclassmen waiting in the wings.

Names like Jeff Null, Tim Glass, Tony Bacon, Dean Kriebel, Sean Lucas, Dirk Remensnyder, John Jekot, Scott Peterson, and Ron Taylor will keep this team extremely competitive as a PSAC contender.

And after this season, high school standouts from all around might die for the chance to play hoops at LHU.

With all this, plus the fact that the crowd support was incredible from day one at Midnight Hoops, there didn't seem to be anything to get in the way.

The Bald Eagles are just starting to build a winning tradition of yearly success with the basketball program. With that feeling, it seems more than evident that a state championship is on its way.

So, hail to the Bald Eagles, and once again, thanks!
