SpringWeekend Paper Suspended

Once again, the month of April is upon us, and to the Social Committee this means Spring Weekend. This year, Spring Weekend falls on April 23, 24, and 25. Unfortunately, the Social Committee is left with approximately $4500 to work with for the entire weekend, including the concerts. Most of the arrangements have all been made. Briefly, here is a schedule of events:

Friday night - April 23rd - Dance in the PUB from 9 to 1. Music by the "Bel-Airs." Admission - Students with I.D. cards - FREE, non-students 50¢.

Saturday evening - April 24th - Beginning at 7 p.m., the movie "Cactus Flower" will be shown in Price Auditorium. Admission - FREE. Immediately after the movie at 9 p.m. there will be a Spring Dance in Bentley Hall Dining Room. Music will be by "Bitter-sweet." The dance will last from 9 to 1. Admission - FREE. Food and drinks will be provided.

Sunday, April 25th - Two concerts by the Paul Butterfield Blues Band. Concert times are 7 and 9. Concerts will be in Price Auditorium. Admission - Students - FREE, non-students - $2.00.

As compared with last year, Spring Weekend has numerous changes. This year, we are going to let the student body elect a Spring Queen. The contest for this will be similar to the one held at Homecoming. On April 15th, there will be a general vote. Students may write in the name of the girl they wish to see as Spring Queen. The five girls with the most votes will be the finalists and will be announced on April 20th.

Voting for the queen will take place on Saturday, April 24th from 12 to 5 p.m. Ballot boxes will be located in the PUB, Bentley Hall, and all the dorms. The queen will be crowned at Midnight at the dance. Dress at the Spring Dance will be informal although the atmosphere will be of a more formal type.

More information regarding the events in detail will be made available to the students at a later date. We on the Social Committee hope to provide you with an active weekend. As long as you are a student, everything for the weekend is free. However, the weekend cannot be a success without your participation. We feel that with the limited amount of money we have to work with, we have done a fairly good job of providing entertainment for the students. All we need is your participation. Start thinking about a Spring Queen.

The Slippery Rock student newspaper, The Rocket, has been suspended in an administrative move to censor the student publication. President Albert Waxrel warned the printer of possible repercussions if the paper were released. Watrel objected to The Rocket's anti-war stand and its pro-student rights editorials.

Slippery Rock students reported that there had been several attempts in the past few years to set up campus media boards to select editors and advisors for campus publications. Watrel, according to several sources, wants the paper's advisor, Ed Mulready, replaced.

The last issue of The Rocket printed at Slippery Rock carried a first page design of a Wanted Poster with President Nixon's picture on it.

The Eagle Eye questioned Edward H. Young, the Assistant to the President here at Lock Haven State concerning the legality of Watrel's move. Young said that under House Bill 999, the President of any state college has the authority to make rules under which student organizations may be created and operated.

Indiana State University's campus newspaper, The Indiana Penn, with emergency funds from the U. S. Student Press Association, will assist in publishing a limited number of issues of The Rocket. Meanwhile members of the Slippery Rock staff are working with the American Civil Liberties Union regarding constitutional issues related to The Rocket's position.

Lounge Discussion

Smith Hall Lounge will be the site for a well planned panel discussion on the controversial topic of abortion. Panelists will investigate and examine the problem of abortion from an ethical, religious, legal, psychological, and medical point of view. After the panel presentation, the program will be open for questions and discussion from the audience.

The panelists for this program will be Dr. Howard Congdon (ethical), Dr. Charles DeSanto (religious), the Rev. Gerald Kelley (religious), Neil Wilson (psychological) and Dr. Edward Hoberman (medical). Joseph Nicholson will serve as moderator.

The program sponsored by AGAPE Fellowship will take place Monday, March 29, at 7:30 p.m. All are welcome.

Bill Proposed by Commission

CHICAGO, Ill., March 14. - The Carnegie Commission on Higher Education proposed yesterday adoption of 'Bills of Rights and Responsibilities' for members of American colleges and universities, and suggested new guidelines for campus responses to dissent and disruption.

At a press briefing here on a report to be published by McGraw-Hill in April, Dr. Clark Kerr, the Commission's chairman, said the Commission found that, in recent years, American campuses have been in 'the greatest turmoil in all of their history.' Dissatisfaction and disaffection that reflect concerns for many current problems in American society and many problems faced by the colleges persist, and are expected to be present on campuses for the foreseeable future. The Commission's new report is addressed principally to the students, faculties, trustees, and administrators of the nation's campuses, and recommends procedures designed to assure that dissent and protest on campuses be expressed in constructive ways and in accord with the principles of a free society.

Three Steps Recommended

Specifically, the report recommends these three steps: 1. Adoption, campus by campus, of 'A Bill of Rights and Responsibilities for Members of the Institution.' A model bill is suggested.

2. Development by each campus of effective measures for consultation and contingency planning in the event of disruptive emergencies. In particular, the Commission says, 'a campus is not and cannot be a sanctuary from the general law, and thus, must relate more consciously and effectively with the police than it did in earlier periods.'

3. Creation by each campus of effective judicial procedures; Consideration of using external panels and persons, and of the general courts for certain types of cases is suggested. One of the difficulties in dealing with 'campus unrest', the Commission reports, is that the American public seems to show limited tolerance for mass protest activities, even when they are within the bounds of the law. The Commission report distinguishes between dissent and disruption and proposes that responses to events on a campus be based on this distinction.

Defines Terms

The Commission defines dissent as: 'Individual or organized activity which expresses grievances held against, or changes desired in, society, or a campus, or both. The activity is carried on within the limits of the democratic processes of freedom of speech, assembly, and petition. Dissent may be more generalized than around a single grievance or remedy and may have an ideological base. It often includes proposed solutions as well as complaints.'

The Commission's report says that dissent 'lies at the foundation of a university,' and that 'organized dissent and protest activity within the law, are basic rights which must be protected on the campuses--as they should be for all citizens everywhere.'

Disruption is defined by the Commission as: 'Activity which is not protected by the First Amendment and which interferes with the rights of others. Whereas dissent relies on persuasion, disruption is based on coercion and sometimes violence.' The report says that disruption 'is utterly contradictory to the values and purposes of the campus, and to the processes of a democratic society. . . . It must be morally condemned and met promptly by the efforts of the campus and, when necessary, by application of the general law.'

Society's reaction to instances of coercion and violence should 'be undertaken only with reference to those specific individuals and groups who engage in them,' the report says. 'A campus as a whole, a system as a whole, or higher education as a whole, should not be penalized.'

The Commission calls upon the campuses to reform themselves and to develop their own rules and procedures to protect dissent and prevent and control disruption.

Bill For All Campus Members

To this end, the Commission recommends that members of each campus endeavor to agree on a bill of rights and responsibilities applying equally to faculty, students, administrators, staff and trustees. 'Too often, in the past,' the Commission says, faculty members have set rules for the students but not for themselves; or trustees have set rules for the faculty but not for themselves. We believe the time is appropriate for certain rights and responsibilities to be applied equally to all members of a campus.'

The Commission's bill treats with rights and responsibilities simultaneously 'for one person's rights are only effective as other people recognize them and accept responsibility to guarantee them.' It also establishes the principle that the greater the privileges of members of the institution, the more responsible they should be for maintenance of high standards of conduct and an environment conducive to extending, sharing, and examining knowledge and values. This applies particularly to faculty members with tenure and to trustees.

In its review of emergency situations on campuses, the Commission found that (1) grievance procedures are often too slow or nonexistent; (2) rules governing protest activities have often been unwise or imprecise or both; (3) too many members of the campus have been reluctant to give up 'the myth of uninterrupted serenity,' and thus too few campuses have thought through the handling of emergencies; (4) the view that a campus is some kind of sanctuary from the law has been held 'for too long by too many'; (5) police relations have been treated on an arms-length basis that encourages improvisation, rather than accepted as an essential part of campus life, as they are elsewhere in the society; (6) and campuses have often failed to consider temporary closure as a last resort in situations of clear danger of violence to persons or property. The report recommends that in cases of nonviolent disruption, to the extent possible, procedures internal to the campuses be used initially, and that nonviolent actions be met by responses which do not use physical force. But violent actions involving injury to persons or more than incidental damage to property should be met immediately by enforcement of the law, using internal and external personnel to the full extent necessary.

Outside Courts

The Commission urges that significant actions which could be construed as violations of the general law be handled by the outside courts.

On the campus, the Commission suggests the appointment of ombudsmen to handle complaints made by faculty, students, or administrators informally. If an ombudsman's recommendations are not accepted, the case at issue could go to a campus hearing officer for more formal investigation of the facts before a provisional decision is reached; a member of the campus community could bring charges to the hearing officer. Campuses might also consider appointing 'campus attorneys' to prosecute cases of alleged violations of campus rules.

If solutions recommended by the hearing officer are not accepted by parties to a case, the matter should be referred to some higher tribunal. The Commission suggests that in cases which could result in suspension or dismissal, the tribunal might be composed partially of totally of persons external to the case, preferably with an 'external' person as chairman. External persons might be chosen from other schools within an institution with many schools, from another campus of a multicampus institution, from other nearby campuses, or they might be lawyers or judges. 'Such a selection process should add objectivity and fairness to the procedures and relieve fellow members of face-to-face groups from the personal difficulties of service in such cases.'

Wrestlers in Alabama

Three members of the Lock Haven State College wrestling squad and coach Dr. Ken Cox left for Auburn, Alabama, for the NCAA wrestling championships which begin this afternoon and continue through Saturday.

Competing for LHS are Bynie Parker at 126 pounds, Larry Rippey at 134 pounds, and Paul Brodmerkel at 142 pounds.

Rippey, an NAIA champion last year, carries an unblemished 26-0 record this season into the national tournament. Unbeaten in three years of dual competition, the Bald Eagle ace has won three tournament titles this season. He captured a C. W. Post crown in December and added a Pennsylvania Conference title and NCAA Eastern Regional crown to his record earlier this month.

Brodmerkel, enjoying the best season of his career, has compiled a 26-2 season record. He won a C. W. Post title, a conference title for the second time and placed third at the regional tourney.

Parker In First Year

Parker, in only his first year as a regular, has compiled a 21-5-1 record this season, including a C. W. Post title, a conference crown, and a fourth place finish at the regional tourney.

Iowa State University, NCAA champion the past two years, and Oklahoma State are expected to fight down to the wire for the team title. The Cyclones have gone unbeaten in dual competition this season, and will rely on their overall team balance in quest of their third straight title. They have defeated the Cowpokes in two duals this season.

Gone are outstanding individuals in Dan Gale, Jason Smith, and Chuck Jean. The Cyclones have had to rely on their balance this season and fared well in copping the Midlands, finishing well ahead of Oklahoma State, but they then dropped the Big Eight title to the Cowpokes.

Peterson Best Bet

The Cyclones best bet at an individual title is Ben Peterson, a fourth place finisher last season, and currently unbeaten this season. The Cyclone 190-pounder holds two one-point decisions over the Cowpokes Geoff Baum, who copped the 190 crown last year. Carl Adams, Cyclone flashy 158-pounder, has a shot at a title, but he has been pinned by Larry Owings, NCAA champ and outstanding wrestler last year, and whipped by Larry Laush, of Oklahoma.

Oklahoma State returns three defending champs in Dwayne Keller, Darell Keller, and Baum. Dwayne Keller has won two NCAA crowns, both at 126, and was an outstanding wrestler three years ago. He has moved up to 134 this season and recently set a Cowpoke consecutive victory mark when he won his 53rd straight match.

His brother Darell captured his first title last year at 134, but has moved up to 142 this year and may have to contend with defending champion Owings. Keller had been hurt during the season with a shoulder separation, but has returned and appears to be in his old form.

A total of 28 other place-winners from last year will be making the return trip in hopes of bettering their mark of last year.

Heading the Pennsylvania Conference are Rippey, Clarion's Wade Schalles, Slippery Rock's Stan Dziedzic, and East Stroudsburg's Ted Pease.

Dziedzic Leading Candidate

Dziedzic is the conference's leading candidate to capture a title. He was a mid-season All-American and finished third in last year's tourney, losing 8-5 to eventual champ Mike Grant of Oklahoma.

The flash from the Lehigh Valley has won two NCAA College Division titles and was named outstanding wrestler at the college division tourney in Fargo, N. D., two weeks ago. He carries a 73-1 record with him to Auburn.

Rippey was injured during the NCAA during his sophomore year and then won two matches last year before being eliminated by Tom Milkovitch of Michigan State.

Schalles in his first year of competition should be ceded fourth at 158 and will carry his stunning fall over Penn State's Clyde Frantz with him to the tourney. Wonderous Wade has lost only twice this season, both defeats coming at the hands of Dziedzic.

Pease, who was a mid-season All-American has never placed in the tourney. He placed third in the NCAA college division two weeks ago at Fargo, N. D.

Baum Returns As Champ

The other Cowpoke returning champ is Baum, a talented 190-pounder from the Lehigh Valley, who has dropped to 177 for this year's tourney after his two losses to Peterson.

The Cowpokes hope to crown another champion at 126 in Yoshiro Fujita, who is undefeated this season and did not have a point scored against him in the Midlands earlier this season.

The other two defending champions are Owings, of the University of Washington, and Greg Johnson of Michigan State at 118.

Owings, who stunned Dan Gable in last year's tourney and walked away with the MVP award, had trouble earlier in the season, placing only third at the Midlands while on his honeymoon. But the Huskie has looked sharp and owns that bearhug pin over Carl Adams in a match he was losing, 5-4.

Injured Most Of Year

Johnson, injured most of the year, won his only December dual meet and then lost to Ed Dumas, former Northwestern wrestler, now with the Mayor Daley Club, in the Midlands. He then became plagued with injuries and did not return to action until February 5 in a dual against Cal Poly which he won.

Petitions for candidates wanting to run as a slate or independently for Women's Dorm Council Executive Board may be obtained from Beth Albarano, Russell - Nancy Hannigan, Woolridge - and Linda Kerchinski, McEntire. These petitions must be returned to Beth Albarano, Russell 107 by midnight, Thursday, March 25.

Thank You

Class Meets

The main event discussed at Tuesday night's sophomore class meeting was the upcoming elections which will be April 20. Petitions will be available beginning April 13 in Miss Kearney's and Dean Smalley's offices. The petitions must be in by April 16. Alpha Phi Omega members have volunteered to run the elections.

Also discussed at the informal meeting were ways to spend the class money. The treasurer reported a balance of $279.00. It was decided to donate $25.00 to the Centennial Ball patron committee.

WOMEN'S ARMY CORPS OFFICER PROGRAM

Women's Army Corps Selection Officer, Captain Margaret M. Kirchmaier, will be on campus March 30, to give students information on the Army Officer Programs open to them. She will be in Bentley Hall Lounge from 1 p.m. to 2 p.m., and will tell Juniors about a new program that will pay students while they are Seniors.

Gym Team Performs

The Lock Haven State College exhibition gymnastic team will conclude another highly successful season with a 'Home Show' in Thomas Fieldhouse on Tuesday at 7:30 p.m.

During the past six weeks the LHS team—which includes both young men and women—has performed at high schools throughout Central Pennsylvania.

The performance features tumbling, modern gymnastics, floor exercises, apparatus work, and vaulting. Taking part are 32 students who are highly skilled in all areas of gymnastics.

The fine success of the show is due not only to the gifted skills of the team, but to the closeness and togetherness that is quite evident among the members.

Coaching the team are Miss Lucienne deWette and Lester Zimmerman of the LHS health and physical education department.

Captain Chosen

Cliff Billet will captain the Lock Haven State College 1971-72 basketball squad.

The York native has been a regular the past two seasons for Coach Jim Christopher's Bald Eagle cagers. The 6-5 Lock Haven junior has scored 420 points over the past two campaigns.

In the season just ended the Eagles posted a 8-12 record. It was the first time in 19 years that a Lock Haven team had won eight games in a season.

Commenting on Billet's selection through a vote of his teammates Coach Christopher said, 'Cliff will make a fine captain. He is a natural leader and is dedicated to the sport of basketball.'

Interview Discloses Findings of State Auditor General

In an interview yesterday with Business Manager, Edward F. McCloskey, Eagle Eye discussed the findings of State Auditor General, Robert P. Casey. In Casey's report to Lock Haven State College, the Auditor General's office stated that the LHS commonwealth books, "present fairly the operation of Lock Haven State College for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1970." This is "in conformity with generally accepted accounting principles applied on a basis consistent with that of the preceding year."

In further attempts to dispel the rumor that the college books as a whole were in question, McCloskey said, "It wasn't explained enough on either the broadcast or the news release from Harrisburg. It did not explain it enough for those who are not familiar with college operations. They said it was the college books which were being criticized when it was Student Union Books, specifically the SCC. These are separate from the college books. The Commonwealth books were not criticized."

The following is an excerpt from the Auditor General's report concerning the Student Co-operative Council Fund.

"Our review of the accounting procedures and systems of the Students' Co-operative Council Fund, which includes the Bookstore and Student Council Funds, revealed a lack of internal control through December 31, 1969. Corrective measures were started by the Department of Education and College Officials during January 1970, but were not fully implemented until November 1970. The following corrective measures were initiated:

1. An inventory control system was established in January 1970, and by July 1970, Colonel Latta, Bookstore Manager, had all stock items under inventory control.
2. Two NCR accounting cash registers were purchased on June 17, 1970, for $6,156, thus allowing the following improvements in internal control.
  - (a) The possibility of changes to cash register tapes has been reduced.
  - (b) The mechanized system eliminates the need for prenumbered receipts.
  - (c) Control of charge purchases made by students is improved because the cash registers provide a running balance of credit purchases. Credit is extended only to students and only for the purchase of academic supplies.
3. New management established in the bookstore on July 13, 1970 eliminated the practice of bookstore employees accepting gifts in lieu of trade discounts.

The facts surrounding the acceptance of trading stamps, by a former employee, in lieu of trade discounts was reported on September 21, 1970 to the Secretary of Education and then by our Department to the Attorney General for investigation and disposition.

4. Bids on all purchases of $100 or more are required with the exception of textbook items which normally have but one source of supply.

5. Each day's receipts are deposited intact daily.

6. The accounting manual prepared by Adler, Faunce and Leonard, Certified Public Accountants, has been used as the basis for the establishment of new accounting procedures, internal control functions, and other necessary books and records.

7. A fixed asset ledger was in process of preparation and 25% completed during November 1970.

8. A proper control of petty cash has been established.

The results of the new procedures could not be fully evaluated during the course of our audit field work for the fiscal year ended June 30, 1970; however, a complete evaluation of the new procedures will be undertaken during the audit field work for the fiscal year ended June 30, 1971.

The co-operative, as evidenced by the Department of Education, in implementing the recommendations of the Department of the Auditor General is most gratifying and reflects the true spirit of working together by the various State agencies of the Commonwealth."

Respectfully submitted,
Robert P. Casey

Blues Band To Appear At LHS

Paul Butterfield and his Blues Band have quite a reputation. Their name is synonymous with, not only Blues, but also Rock, folk and jazz all in one. There are eight members of the group, led by Paul Butterfield. Their instruments range from harmonica to brass. This dynamic group will be appearing at Lock Haven State on Sunday night, April 25th. Concerts will be at 7 and 9 p.m., and will be held in Price Auditorium. Admission is FREE for students, $2.00 for non-students.

The Butterfield Blues Band has appeared in thousands of concerts all over the country, has had seven albums out already, and appeared at Woodstock, where they played 'The Love March'.

The unique thing about the Butterfield Blues Band is that they can play a variety of music. They can sound like Blood, Sweat, and Tears though one number and during the next song sound like James Brown.

Like the roots of his music, Butterfield's appeal is varied. They are one incarnation of what a culmination of elements of black and white culture can mean. Paul Butterfield refers to his music as "the blues overstated". He has become the pioneer of Chicago blues in American pop music. He writes much of his own material and has emphasized the back beat of his sound to satisfy the contemporary demands of the pop music audience.

The Butterfield Blues Band is so total and involving that they cannot compromise and become anything but gutsy and straightforward.

The unorderliness of their sounds, the way the sounds seem to be going in all directions at once, is precisely what makes the Butterfield Blues Band so potently penetrating and appealing. Attention and emphasis flash across the stage, falling upon one musician before they are captured by another, gaining impetus and strength along the way.

Appearing with Butterfield, who plays the harmonica and sings, is Ralph Walsh on guitar; Gene Dinwiddie on the tenor saxophone, Roderick Hicks, bass; Dennis Whitted, drums;

Phasing Out Of Akeley School Confirmed By Trustees

LOCK HAVEN - The phasing out of the Akeley campus school in coordination with the construction of a learning resources center was affirmed by unanimous vote of the Lock Haven State College Board of Trustees on March 18.

The phasing out of the campus school, which has been under study since 1966, is scheduled for completion by May 1974, at which time the present Akeley School building will be converted into a college classroom building. The board specified that the phasing out procedure was to be conducted in such a manner as not to cause any avoidable hardship for the present Akeley pupils or faculty, or the Keystone Central School District.

Dr. Francis N. Hamblin, president of LHS, pointed out two major determining factors in the decision to phase out the campus school - function and cost.

"During the last two decades, a new concept in education concerning campus laboratories has been emerging across the country. The campus laboratory school is, with increasing frequency, being replaced by the Learning Resources Center concept."

"The function of the campus laboratory school has changed. Further, with the high cost of running a college today, Lock Haven State can no longer afford to maintain a facility which does not contribute maximally to the entire teacher training program of the college," said Dr. Hamblin.

Akeley School was founded at LHS in 1929 for the purpose of providing, on campus, a living laboratory of education for college students preparing to become public school teachers. For over thirty years, it has provided a training area primarily for students majoring in elementary education.

In October 1966, Dr. Richard T. Parsons, then president of the college, made the following observation to Dr. Irene Russell, dean of teacher education, "I have always wondered how we can defend the campus laboratory school while providing for experiences with children solely in the elementary grades."

By 1966, the program in secondary education had grown to 586 students, and the health and physical education program had an enrollment of 476 students. The elementary education program's enrollment was 542 students. Today, the proportion of students enrolled remains about the same as in 1966.

"I would also like to pose the question as to whether a campus school is sufficiently typical to obtain good research results," Dr. Parsons said.

In 1966, a faculty study committee was appointed to determine the function and programs of the future Learning Resources Center. On December 10, 1970, the committee agreed that the Center's program would concern itself with a "non-residential, non-duplicatory, and a permanent-variable population." That is, pupils involved in the Center's programs would be drawn from the public schools and elsewhere on a short-term basis, rather than being permanently assigned to the Center for a full six to twelve year program of education. The Center would not duplicate the program of the public schools, and the age levels of the pupils at the Center would vary, depending upon the programs of study being conducted by the Center.

This promises to be a great performance and all students are urged to attend. Information on when tickets will follow shortly.

"Although the functions of the Akeley School and the Learning Resources Center are not the same, the approval of the plans for the LRC in December 1970 gave us a timetable for phasing out the campus school. Akeley School is to be phased out and will cease operation upon the completion of the LRC," said Dr. Hamblin.

"The total operating costs this year for Akeley School, including salaries but excluding indirect costs, amount to approximately $174,546. Even with the $3,200 in reimbursement from the Keystone Central School District, the cost to the college is still around $171,366, and we must absorb that entire amount without the subsidies which the public school districts receive for each pupil."

Dr. Hamblin explained that, because of increasing student enrollments, the staff and building presently used for the campus school are more critically needed for educating the college student body. The projected increase in student enrollment to 3,600 by 1974 will require additional faculty and classrooms.

"Since the state has not allowed us to hire any additional faculty for the past two years, the teacher complement of Akeley School will be needed for the general college faculty if Lock Haven is to meet its obligation to educate Pennsylvania's increasing number of high school graduates," said Dr. Hamblin.

"The eight teachers assigned to Akeley School are carried on the college complement as faculty members, but the children enrolled in the school are not counted as part of the college's student body. On paper, it appears that we have a better faculty-student ratio than is actually the case, so that when we request additional faculty positions we are at a disadvantage."

"Another problem is the need for classroom space. Until this year, we have been using the lounges of residence halls to hold classes, and we will have to revert to this practice unless additional classroom facilities can be made available. The auditorium area of Price Auditorium continues to be used for classroom space. Neither condition is conducive to high-quality education."

"In May 1974, we plan to begin converting Akeley School building into a college classroom building. By then, the last building constructed for general classroom use, Raub Hall, will be ten years old and the need for additional classrooms will be almost desperately critical," said Dr. Hamblin.

Petitions for candidates wanting to run as a slate or independently for Women's Dorm Council Executive Board may be obtained from Beth Albarano, Russell - Nancy Hannigan, Woolridge - and Linda Kerchinski, McEntire.

These petitions must be returned to Beth Albarano, Russell 107 by midnight, Thursday, March 25.

Hawaii Buffet Style

A.R.A.'s adventures in dining presents a Hawaiian luau today, March 24, starting at 4:30 in Bently cafeteria.

The menu for the luau is as follows: tropical fruit punch with pineapple sherbert, pork waikiki, polynesian chicken, spanish corn and southern island baked banana.

The cafeteria will be decorated with flaming volcanoes and pigs roasting on a stick. The cafeteria staff will be dressed in Hawaiian costumes. The pledges from the five sororities will be dressed as hula girls and will be handing out leis to the students as they enter the cafeteria.

The cafeteria staff has put much work into making this luau something special for the students. So don't be late for supper!

Bahamian Regulations

We are happy to receive you as a guest in our Islands. To ensure a pleasant holiday in the sun may I suggest that you take note of this summary of Bahamian regulations and laws, which apply throughout the Islands to citizens, residents and guests alike.

1 - Any possession of marijuana or other dangerous drugs, even without their use, is illegal and is punishable by up to one year in prison and/or a $1,000 fine. This law is strictly enforced.
2 - Sleeping on the beaches at night is strictly prohibited.
3 - Firearms, even those registered in the United States or other countries, may not be brought into the Bahamas. The legal penalty for possession of firearms is up to two years imprisonment and/or a $500 fine.

4 - There is a $3 departure tax on all persons leaving the Islands.

5 - Spearfishing with guns is illegal. So is spearfishing with SCUBA gear. Only Hawaiian slings or pole spears may be used, and only with mask and snorkel.

Popcorn Selling Is Big Business

Selling popcorn seems to be an unusual way to make the money for a college education, but it is working very well for a group of students in New York City.

Some fifty of them have been working the last few weeks for a new firm called Pop-A-Doodle, which furnishes them with small carts, uniforms and the ingredients for making popcorn and pays them a 20% commission on their sales.

On weekends their commissions have reached $40 to $50 a day. Week day sales, while not that big, have been substantial.

They go wherever people congregate; shopping centers, parks, athletic events, school areas, and just busy street corners. The demand for popcorn - at a quarter for a large bag - is phenomenal, and lots of New Yorkers have been buying a bag as a cheap and healthy substitute for lunch. One big advantage of the Pop-A-Doodle job for students is that they can work on their own time, days, evenings, or weekends. Another is that no training or experience is required.

The company is now opening distributorships in all parts of the U.S. and it will soon have many jobs available for students, both men and women. Anyone interested in applying for one of these positions is asked to write to Pop-A-Doodle, Inc., 60 East 56th Street, New York City.
