101 Seniors Join the Ranks of Central State's Alumni

The class of 1925, one hundred and one strong, have followed in the footsteps of forty-seven preceding classes; have made that last slow march across the platform; have received their diplomas from the faculty and trustees of this old school; have gone out of its doors together for the last time. The class of 1925, whose Commencement Day once seemed so distant, are now and for the rest of time alumni of Central State.

It is a good class, this class of 1925. There are many, very many, in it who will be remembered pleasurable as long as one member of the faculty which taught them continues to teach in the school. They did their share and more than their share in every activity of the school, and did it willingly. They seemed to go into work and play both with zest, to get out of both all of pleasure there was in it. Their work was right. Their spirit was right. Their friendships with classmates seemed unusually many, deep and strong. The separation which comes with Commencement cannot end them. Yet, hard as it is to say goodbye to each other, to the school, it should be deep satisfaction to the class of 1925 to know that they have left behind them a feeling of personal regard which no class to this time has equalled and few classes are likely to excel.

EXERCISES IMPRESSIVE

The Commencement exercises of the class of 1925 were in keeping with the worth of the class. Dignified, well balanced, effective, they brought to an impressive close their undergraduate days. The Senior addresses were worthy in thought and delivery. The commencement talk was distinctly impressive, original in the trend of its thought, coherent, earnestly and sincerely delivered. The resumption of the traditional way of awarding diplomas, the graduates eight at a time advancing from their seats before the platform, crossing the platform from alternate sides, and receiving each his diploma in full view of the audience; all this has more solemnity than any way of distributing the sheepskins wholesale.

GROVE CITY PRESIDENT SPEAKS

The commencement address was delivered very forcefully by Dr. Weir C. Ketter, President of Grove City College. His theme, "The Responsibilities of Modern Life," pointed out that the fundamental principal and keynote in life today is organization and the spirit of co-operation.

Back in the pioneer days the world needed individuals to work alone and build up a civilization out of the wilderness. Today we need the man who can work harmoniously with his fellow workers for the benefit of all. Group spirit and community life must be developed or the individual becomes narrow and cramped in his views.

In order to be this highest type of individual one must have a judicial mind, a tolerant spirit and a simple courageous faith.

Dr. Ketter concluded with an appeal to the graduates to avoid cynicism and pessimism.

FOUR ADDRESSES BY STUDENTS

The four honorary addresses were delivered by Mrs. Gertrude McLaughlin, Timothy J. Ferguson, Miss Etelka Kiffer, and Miss Violet Agnew.

Mrs. Gertrude McLaughlin spoke on "The Evolution of Geography Teaching." She pointed out that through the teach-

Record Breaking Crowd of Alumni Hold Class Reunions

The class of 1925 was welcomed on Saturday, May 30, by nearly four hundred former graduates of the school, ranging from those who obtained their diplomas half a century ago to members of the class of last year. The class of 1895, with twenty-five members present, had the largest representation.

The events of the day started with a novel and entertaining program of "stunts" staged at 1 p. m. on the athletic field, under the direction of Miss Denniston. Photographs of the various classes were taken at 2 p. m., by G. A. Brion.

At 3 p. m. the one-act play, "The Reader," by Ada Tully Ammerman, was presented by members of the graduating class under the direction of Miss Alber.

Following a song service in charge of Miss Whitwell with Prof. C. R. All at the piano, a brief program was given by members of the Alumni Association, including a vocal solo by Mrs. Clyde A. Stouck, accompanied by Miss Mabel E. Knecht and a vocal solo by Miss Ada E. Sperring, accompanied by Prof. All. Both soloists were compelled to respond to encores.

With Dr. D. W. Thomas, president of the Alumni Association, presiding, brief talks were given by A. W. Reagle, '78, Waverly, Ill.; W. H. Keeney, '78, Olean, N. Y.; T. D. S. Bordner, '95, Pittsburgh; E. L. Deppa, '10, Fair-chance, Pa.; Dr. H. C. Feldstein, 1900, Pittsburgh; W. P. Irwin, 1900, Washington, D. C.

At the conclusion of the afternoon officers were elected as follows, to serve for the ensuing year: President, Dr. D. W. Thomas, Lock Haven; vice president, J. S. Cranmer, Williamsport; second vice president, Dr. H. C. Feldstein, Pittsburgh; secretary, Miss Edna D. Rich, Lock Haven; treasurer, G. A. Mincemoyer, Mechanicsburg; executive committee, I. T. Parsons, Lock Haven; Mrs. Franklin M. Noecker, Renovo; Mrs. Christine E. Richens, Mrs. G. D. Merine, Lock Haven; William P. Cornelly, Madera; J. Buell Snyder, Perryopolis.

Three hundred were in attendance at the annual Alumni banquet, the long lines of former graduates filing into the dining room to music furnished by the Normal School orchestra, under the direction of Miss Whitwell. The diners stood with bowed heads after entering the room and paid a silent tribute to those for whom Memorial Day is kept sacred. The invocation was given by Prof. H. A. Kiess, of Albright College.

A delicious dinner was served under the direction of Miss Bentley, the tables being decorated with honeysuckles, the color scheme being pink and white.

Talks were given by Principal Dallas W. Armstrong on the subject, "The Alumni and the School," in which he stressed the benefits of an endowment fund, by Prof. Charles Lose, of Montoursville, who discussed "Special Education for the Young Teacher," by W. J. Weaver, who gave a clever toast in original verse, printed elsewhere in this issue of Normal Times; and briefer talks by seven class representatives.

A pleasing vocal solo was rendered by Miss Whitwell, accompanied by Mrs. P. R. Kamp. Selections were furnished during the banquet by the Normal School orchestra, under the direction of Miss Whitwell.

The annual Alumni dance was held in the gymnasium at the conclusion of the banquet, the building being artistically decorated under the direction of Miss Yale. The school orchestra furnished music for both the dance and banquet.

Summer Session Athletics

The large enrollment of men for the summer session has made possible the organization of a varied athletic program. This program includes baseball, track meets, and tennis.

The baseball team at present has games scheduled with teams in the Lock Haven City League and Muncy Normal School. Much is expected of this team as many of the last year's players are back, in addition to many high school stars from various high schools throughout Central Pennsylvania. The first night's work-out clearly showed each man that he would have to work to hold down his position as there were fully three candidates for each position. County baseball teams are being organized for the county games to come later. Much competition is displayed in these games and group rivalry is very keen.

The final event in the athletic program will be the county track meet. This will be carried on under the auspices of the Men's Health Education class, who will act as judges, etc.

Another feature of this county rivalry is the dodge ball games. The teams are composed of mixed groups. The winning team in this event is presented with a silver cup to be kept in C. S. N. S. library in memory of this event.

Tennis is very popular here this summer. The courts are well filled at all times, with large lists of students waiting their turn. It is extremely interesting to the spectators, judging from the numbers who repair to the sporting goods stores of the town to procure rackets that they may try it for themselves. It is rumored that a tennis tournament will be staged but nothing definite has been arranged at this writing.

Boy's Glee Club

"Boys' Glee Club Practice" read the notice. The whole student body read, stared, yet read again. It was true. Mr. All has succeeded in organizing a Glee Club composed of about sixteen members.

The movement is yet in its infancy yet great things are expected of it. It is the first boys' glee club at C. S. N. S. for some time. It has a record to make for itself as well as a tradition to start for other glee clubs to follow.

No extensive plans have been made for the program but the student body is expectant of some good chapel performances before the close of the session.

Initiation Hike

"The Initiation Hike" taken by the Naturalists' Club on Saturday, May 2, was one of the jolliest, all-round-good time hikes that has been planned this year. The Naturalists, with Mr. and Mrs. Ulmer and Mr. and Mrs. Trembath, left the home of the latter about 4:30 p. m., and perambulated to the camping site which had previously been considered. A good hot fire was started immediately, and it wasn't long before a bed of red hot coals provided a spot for the coffee pail.

While some of the Naturalists divided their attention between preparing lunch and giving the "members to be" a side line (quite a little to the side) on their initiation, others played games and "did stunts."

The steaming hot coffee, with hot baked beans, potato salad, bacon and buns, followed by bananas and cakes, comprised a lunch which could not have been excelled, and which will long be remembered.

After appetites had been satisfied, and every one was feeling tip-top, the hikers pulled stakes and started back to the Alma Mater. The return trip was made via the other side of the mountain, and all arrived at the school in plenty of time to complete the initiation of the new members, and go to the Rag Party.

New members were Wilford Pomeroy, Clyde Swoyer, Anna Winkleblech, Dorothy Campbell, Marguerite Schenk, Helen Kokronk, Betty Kenny, and Margaret Heylman.

Fashion Exhibition

Naturalist Club Has Last Meeting

The new members furnished the program for the last meeting of the Naturalist Club, May 18. Because of the great number of meetings and rehearsals on that night some of the entertainment committee were forced to be absent, but those who were left strove valiantly to take their place and succeeded fairly well. Pomeroy and Helen Kokron entertained royally by giving several stunts requiring the cooperation of the entire club. Janet Campbell related the experiences of a city man's first visit to the country. Last of all Ann Winkleblech read a poem, "Birds in Summer."

At this meeting there was election of officers for the coming year. Those elected were:

Margaret Cunningham.....President
Marguerite Schenck.....Vice President

Demonstration School Opens

The summer session of the Lock Haven Normal Demonstration School opened on Monday, with the largest enrollment in its history. One hundred and sixty-one children were reported present on the first day.

This will be the fourth demonstration school in conjunction with summer sessions. Hundreds of children who have attended have been assisted to advance to the higher grade when otherwise they would have been compelled to be retarded because of illness or some other cause of absence. It is one of the aims of the Demonstration School to help each child to do his next grade of work better or to help him to be promoted to his next grade.

The work the children pursue is determined by the recommendations their present teachers send. The training school has on file a statement of the general courses the city teachers ask for their children, and such courses will be offered. Games, supervised outdoor play, music, rhythms, are a few of the various features of the work the children will enjoy for short periods. The work in the subjects will be intensive, so that the work recommended by the city teachers can be completed.

The children's health is guarded by the Normal School nurse, Mrs. Lydia A. Cresswell, who has given every child a careful health inspection. This sort of health examination will recur periodically throughout the session.

All teaching will be done by college and university graduates. The high standards used in selecting the teaching staff makes it possible to do the best and most intensive work possible.

The kindergarten has the largest enrollment it has had in recent years. There are 37 in attendance. Miss Nancy Woodworth, of New York City, who is the kindergarten teacher, is a graduate of Genesee State Normal College and has pursued extensive work elsewhere. For a short time, on account of the unexpected large enrollment, she will have the assistance of Miss Neta White. Miss White has been teaching in and will return to the public schools of Nanticoke. She is a graduate of Central State Normal and is spending the summer vacation with her parents in Lock Haven.

Miss Grace L. Taylor, of Pittsburgh, has charge of the first and second grades. She is a college graduate who has had training in the University of Pittsburgh, the University of Pennsylvania, and Pennsylvania State College.

The fourth grade will be under the charge of Miss Helen C. Greene. She is very highly recommended by the present director of kindergarten and primary education. Miss Greene is a graduate of one of the New York State Normal Schools.

Miss Helen B. Leshner will be the teacher of the third grade. Miss Leshner is a graduate of the Froebel Institute and is very well known to all the people of Lock Haven and vicinity. After her work is completed here this summer she is planning to spend several weeks in Europe before her return to work in September.

Miss Helen McKee will teach in the fifth and sixth grades. She is a college graduate who has also had work in one of the Pennsylvania State Normal Schools and at Columbia University.

Miss Dorothy R. Denniston, of the regular school faculty, will have charge of the health education in the lower grades. Miss Denniston is a graduate of the Sargent School of Physical Education. The upper grades will be under the direction of Harold Van Arsdale, a graduate of Springfield College.

Miss Harriet M. Raffle, a graduate of Zaner College, and a member of the regular faculty, will be the instructor in penmanship.

Miss Mary Tressler, a graduate of New York University, and Miss Ivah Whitwell, of Flint, Michigan, a graduate of Oberlin Conservatory and New York University, will have charge of all demonstration work in art and music.

With the possibility of admitting a very few more pupils in grade four the school has closed its registration to further admission.

The unexpected large enrollment is as follows:

Kindergarten .....	37
Grades 1 and 2 combined .....	39
Grade 3 .....	33
Grade 4 .....	29
Grades 5 and 6 combined .....	33

Total .....

The directors of the school and the faculty are delighted with the enrollment. The way in which the complex program of the school has been gotten into working order is a credit to the Demonstration teachers. The daily sessions open for forenoon work only and continue from 9 to 12 o'clock except in the primary work, where the sessions will close at 11:45. Programs will change every two weeks so that children will have the same subjects but at different hours. In this way from 6,000 to 10,000 individual observations will be available.

This gratifying response to the Summer Normal Training School indicates that it has become a fully established and thoroughly needed phase of the education of the children of Lock Haven and vicinity and it is certain that the children will profit greatly from the instruction given by this highly qualified and carefully selected faculty.

There are just two things I don't like to do here this summer, and reference work is both of them.

Temporary Council Named

A meeting of the girls of the dormitory was called Tuesday night, June 23, for the purpose of explaining some of the rules which are necessary to be observed in and about the school.

The girls were informed as to who the temporary student council was that would serve them to the best of their ability during the first two weeks of school. The following members were appointed:

Mary Adams.....President
Florence Shaw.....Vice President
Ann Winkleblech.....Secretary

Dr. Lose Gives Instruction Here in Rural Problems

The Normal School has departed from the usual form of instruction in Rural Sociology by having, instead of one instructor, a different Superintendent for each week. We were exceptionally fortunate in having for the first week Dr. Charles Lose, of Montoursville, former principal of Central State Normal School.

Dr. Lose gave a splendid talk in chapel, June 26, on the subject of the deaf and blind. In this talk he gave us all a new idea concerning those so afflicted. We are not to think as some, that they are mentally deficient, altogether helpless or necessarily unhappy, but rather as useful and helpful citizens. Dr. Lose is always an inspiration, and will be welcomed by all as often as he can come.

'80's Toast

Kindly greetings to all, in this large dining hall,
 Thanking Heaven, that we yet survive
 To extend a glad hand to the incoming band,
 The members of "Class Twenty-Five."

Aye! We're glad to be here, amid all this cheer,
 Greeting friends, both the new and the old,
 As each year rolls around, our Alumni are found
 Here assembled like sheep in the fold.

May we pause in our rhyme and look back for a time?
 Thru the years, many changes we see,
 Companions of yore have gone on before,
 And vacant their places now be.

We have followed "Old Central" from infancy's state,
 Thru her struggles 'gainst fire and foes,
 But with spirit unquenched, in defiance of fate,
 Phoenixlike, from her ashes she rose.

From '77, the year of her birth,
 She continued to prosper and thrive,
 And this evening she stands, holding out loving hands,
 To welcome Class Twenty and Five.

Classes come, classes go, for weal or for woe,
 Each cycle new faces appear,
 But class "Twenty-Six" shouldn't try any tricks
 For an "ARM-STRONG" to curb it is here.

Where, oh where are the boys that we used to chum with?
 They're out fighting the battle of life,
 And where is the girl that we used to go with?
 We know! She's another man's wife.

But be that as it may, let's be happy and gay,
 With a smile and a handshake for all,
 So if you'll excuse this "bout" with the "muse,"
 I'll dance with the "Belle of the Ball."
 —W. J. Weaver, '80.

ing of Geography the teacher hopes to bring her class to a higher and broader view of human relationships and establish a foundation for true citizenship. The various methods were described and ways were shown in which the teacher could correlate this subject with other school work.

The need of health education for adolescents was emphasized in an address by Timothy Ferguson on "Health Education in the Junior High School." Mr. Ferguson said that the present day health program for the Junior High School takes into consideration the moral, social and aesthetic as well as the physical well being. Inter-class games, play and health festivals give all a chance to participate while the point system of scoring the athletic events makes it possible for any child to win recognition, even though not endowed with superior physical equipment.

"The Value of the Kindergarten to the Pre-School Child," by Miss Etelka Kiffer, was a very convincing address on the great value the kindergarten training was to a child in laying a good foundation for his future school career. Miss Kiffer defined the kindergarten as a connecting link between the home and the school. She pointed out that the effects of kindergarten training as shown by investigation proves that the broader the experience gotten early in life, the more certain the child is of remaining in school and being interested and active in his school work.

Miss Violet Agnew in her oration, "Literature as a Builder of Character," made a plea for literature that will serve to bring home to the adolescent boy and girl the qualities that make for character. The main purpose in teaching literature should be to enrich the lives of boys and girls by raising their ideals of what constitutes a worthwhile life. Interest and variety should be the two factors to be considered in choosing literature for study in the Junior High School. The way to develop character in adolescents is through literature that appeals to them and furnishes material out of which may be created worthy and lasting ideals of life and conduct.

COMMENCEMENT MUSIC

A number of selections were sung very beautifully by the Seniors, under the direction of Miss Ivah Whitwell. These included "The Heaven Resound," by Beethoven; "I Would That My Love," by Mendelssohn, and the negro spirituals, "Steal Away" and "Swing Low, Sweet Chariot." Selections were also rendered by the school orchestra. The overture and march were rendered by the orchestra as the graduates filed in.

Dallas W. Armstrong, Principal of the school, presided. William Keiner, vice president of the board of trustees, in the absence of the president, Hon. M. B. Rich, who is convalescing from an operation, presented the graduates with their certificates.

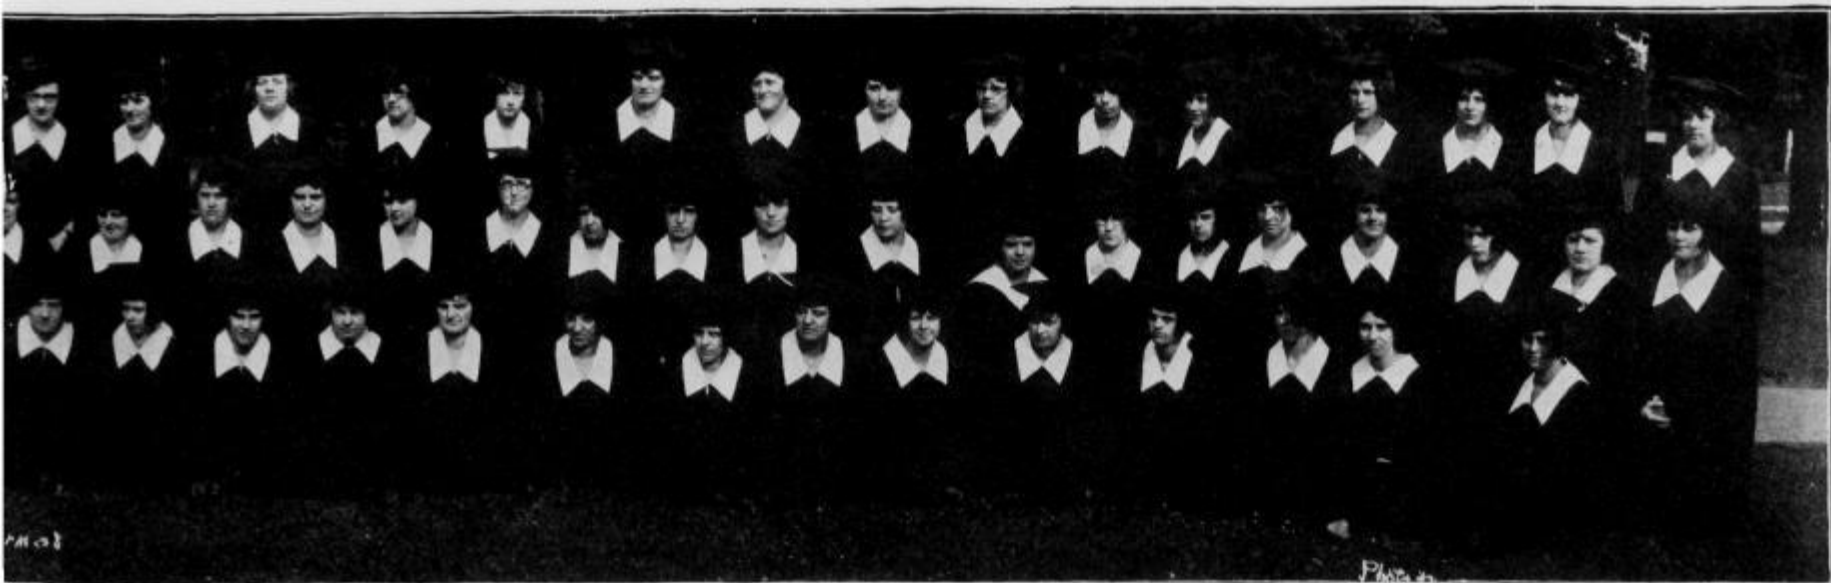

The invocation was delivered and the benediction pronounced by Rev. J. Merrill Williams. The program concluded with the class song and the traditional slow, stately recessional of the graduates through the standing audience.

Audubons Hold Program

The Audubon Society of the Monday 1:20 period of Nature Study, had a very interesting program Monday afternoon, May 11. The program was in charge of the president, Virginia Miller. ### Movies at C. S. N. S.

Besides all the new students, new teachers, new furniture, etc., we are having something else that is new at C. S. N. S. "The Chronicles of America" in motion pictures is our latest addition. Tuesday evening Mr. Ulmer showed us "Jamestown," the first of the series. Judging by the crowded auditorium and by the spirit of interest manifested there, the experiment was an overwhelming success. Nearly every seat was taken and we are sure Mr. Ulmer never had a more attentive audience.

The Yale University Press, which produces these pictures, is extremely conscientious as to the accuracy of detail in the mounting as well as the dramatic action of each piece. Authorities tell us that we can be sure that the log cabins, the type of furniture, the costumes, and even the color of Paul Revere's horse are not those of the customary historical fiction but that they are, as nearly as possible, true reproductions of America as it was.

Particular care has been taken to draw the characters justly. "Jamestown" gave us a clear story of the early English settlement and acquainted us anew with Powhatan, Pocohontas, John Rolfe, and the "Iron" governor. One of the most beautiful scenes was the wedding of Pocohontas and John Rolfe.

We are extremely fortunate in having this opportunity of actually seeing how this America came to be and we are eagerly looking forward to the next of the series.

Mr. Ulmer is planning on five more pictures to be given as follows:

- Puritans .....July 7
- Eve of the Revolution.....July 14
- Alexander Hamilton.....July 21
- Frontier Women.....July 28
- Dixie .....Aug. 4

- William Bitner, Betty Block, Assistant Editors.

Field Ball Proves Good Game

The Gym classes are playing a new game which they seem to find quite interesting. They call it field ball. It is not basketball, not football, and not hockey, but is a decided cross of the three. It is like football in that there are eleven players. Their position names are different from those in football, and the players take their positions as in hockey. They use the basketball and where guarding is possible it is the guarding used in basketball.

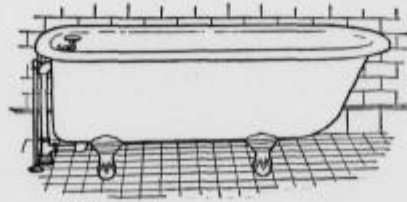

There is a front line or advancing line, which does practically all the scoring. The center forward throws off the ball instead of kicking it off. There is no tackling and the only chance for the other team to gain the ball outside the semi-circle is by intercepting passes or recovering fumbles. The front line advances with the ball and the object is to throw it under the goal post. A throw under the goal post from outside the semi-circle scores two points; a throw from inside the semi-circle scores one point. A throw that sends the ball over the goal post, gives one score to the opposing team.

The game was begun late this semester so the girls are just "getting on" to it. We trust Miss Denniston will start it earlier next term.

Dr. Parkhill Preaches Baccalaureate

The Rev. Elliott D. Parkhill delivered the Baccalaureate sermon to the graduating class of 1925. Taking as his theme "What Men Live By," the Rev. Mr. Parkhill pointed out to the members of the class that this was a solemn time for them, a time fraught with great significance which should be considered with the utmost seriousness. For now, he told them, they will leave the school where they have been instructed and must take their places as leaders of the young with all the responsibility their positions will bring. The sermon was concluded with an appeal to the graduates to lead their pupils to the discovery of God in everything about them.

The invocation and benediction were given and the Scripture lesson was read by the Rev. W. E. Harr. Miss Ivah Whitwell sang a pleasing solo with Mrs. P. R. Kamp at the piano and a violin obligato by Garth Kleckner. Those present joined in the singing of a number of hymns under the direction of Miss Whitwell.

Juniors Receive Penmanship Certificates

Maybe all the hard work was worth while, as those lucky Juniors who received their penmanship certificates would tell you, now that it is all over. No more books to be filled; no more letters to be written. Some were skilled enough to get their certificates at the end of the first nine weeks. To those few who were unfortunate enough not to get theirs we say: "If at first you don't succeed, try, try again."

The following are those who received their certificates at the end of the semester: Marie Neubert, Mary L. Ruddy, Faye Lord, Lillian Kephart, Carrie Allen, Bernice Beck, Grace Beck, Marjorie L. Geography Class Visits the Tannery

Thursday morning, May 21, Mr. Ulmer took his class in Economic Geography to visit the local tannery. Mr. Gahagan, superintendent of the tannery and a graduate of C. S. N. S., acted as one of the guides in conducting the class through the factory and did all he could to explain the various stages and processes in the tanning business. Mr. Eberhart, assistant superintendent, acted as the second guide so that the entire class could hear about the process.

More was learned by the class in regard to tanning in the approximate hour and a half spent in observing the actual processes than was learned from all the study and class discussion previous to the observation. It is very likely that appreciation of all leather and hide products has increased in a greater proportion than the actual knowledge of the industry was increased.

Mr. Eberhart saw to it that each member of the class was supplied with a small piece of leather—the finished product—for the purpose of analyzing it, or to keep it for a scrap book.

The class appreciated the kindness of Mr. Gahagan and Mr. Eberhart, and the consideration shown them on their observation trip through the tannery.

Alumni Notes

Esther Schofield, a graduate of C. S. N. S., visited here June 25. Esther has been teaching in Montgomery County since February.

Erma Miller, a student of summer session, 1924, is spending her summer at her home at Blanchard, Pa.

Nell Holton was here on Tuesday to see every one she knew and didn't know at Normal.

Miss Grace Peterson, a former student of C. S. N. S., is touring the Western States this summer.

Miss Beatrice Hegarty, 1924, is camping along the Shenandoah river.

Miss Floretta Heffner, '23, spent Friday, July 3, visiting at the Normal School.

Miss Anna E. Valyo, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Valyo, of Bitumen, was united in marriage to Joseph Tirpak, Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Tirpak, of Brooklyn, N. Y., June 22, at 10 o'clock at St. Mary's church in a nuptial high mass.

The bride was a student of Lock Haven Normal School during the summer of 1924.

Normal School Faculty

The faculty members surely like C. S. N. S., for most of them returned for the summer session. However, a few have changed their work for this summer. Miss Alber is traveling with a Chautauqua. Miss Himes is attending Columbia University. Miss Griffin, who has been teaching in Grove City College, will take Miss Alber's place in the Expression Department. The English Department claims Miss Rollins, who has been teaching in Altoona.

Concert by the Glee Club

The Girls' Glee Club surpassed itself in its last concert. We did not know, at least we had not realized, that our girls were able to give such a program in the beautiful manner they did. Part one of the program was really more than any optimist could have expected, but part two seems almost to defy description.

In "Memories" the idea carried out is beautiful in its exquisite simplicity. It is the story of a modern girl (youth) who, starved for sleep, falls asleep and Memory comes to show her parts of her past life. There are four pictures represented to her. As Sweet and Low is heard in the distance, she sees the picture of her mother with a babe in her arms. Youth would go to mother, but Memory stays her, and in dances a Wild Rose to McDowell's familiar melody. As youth seemingly dozes off again the beautiful tones of Mozart's Minuet are heard, during which four little girls did the old dance. Then the Glee Club quartet sang the Recessional and Memory silently glides away to give way to youth once more.

Music Student's Recital

C. S. N. S. and its friends were treated to an excellent program given by the special students from the Music Department. The recital is an annual affair in the department and seems to grow better and the students more talented each year. The interest aroused in the student body as well as in the surrounding community has become much keener, until the evening is one to look forward to throughout the school year, and to remember pleasantly after it has passed.

The finger technique of Mr. All's pupils is particularly worthy of mention, and the singing tone, which is the aim of good pianists was especially noticeable in some of the younger students.

The stage presence of Miss Whitwell's students was very acceptable. Clearness of diction, a good forward placement of tone, and accuracy of pitch were evident in the performance of practically every student. The work of the two pupils of more advanced standing was of such a nature as to be a real inspiration to any girl who wishes she could sing.
