Trustees approve budget, discuss academics

By Kim Wilkinson

The 1985-86 fiscal budget was approved Friday by the Council of Trustees.

The budget is two-tier, as requested by the Chancellor's office of the State System of Higher Education (SSHE), according to George Marshall, vice-president for administration. One tier is the budget with a four percent increase, giving the University $18,788,195. The other is a budget with a fourteen percent increase and a total of $19,830,237.

Matt Huber, student member of the Council said that he felt there are certain areas in which Lock Haven University (LHU) could use improvement in, to help strive toward academic excellence.

He feels that there should be a limit to the number of times that a student can be on academic probation and still return to LHU.

He suggested that someone look into classes which he says are known "cum boosters." He named Introduction to Film and Marriage and the Family as examples and said that at least 10 others could be named.

Huber said academic equipment should be updated and the library should be open more hours, especially during the weekend.

A required reading list should be reinstated, according to Huber, because students are graduating from LHU with a literary ignorance.

He also said an evaluation of professors should be instituted and an honors program started.

The other trustee members and administration said that if they could see these recommendations in writing, they would see what actions could be taken.

Dr. Larry Lytle presented a slide show of the Poland exchange program, which he and Dr. Craig Willis, president of LHU experienced in January. Lytle said they visited many cities, talked with professors and students and visited quarters, which exchange students live in.

Bernard Dornisch, professor of math/computer science, questioned the Council as to why continued education courses are being offered to only 15 adults and daytime students are not allowed to participate, such as Accounting I.

Dr. John Zaharis, vice-president of academic affairs, said that the adult classes pay for themselves and the size of those classes is determined by the faculty member teaching it.

Dr. Willis added that the University must serve two needs, those of the students and those of the local people.

In his report to the Council, Dr. Willis said the Fall enrollment is at 2624 and Summer enrollment was up eight percent.

Dr. Zaharis reported that 135 students were dismissed for academic failure last spring semester. He said 125 students were placed on academic probation and 112 were removed from probation.

At present the average grade point average for LHU is 2.537, according to Dr. Zaharis.

Dr. Douglas Campbell, president-elect, LHU Chapter of the Association of Pennsylvania State College and University Faculty (APSCUF), reported that 94 percent of the faculty are members of APSCUF, which is the highest of all the State universities.

The next Council of Trustees meeting will be on November 14.

Neighbors, police meet with Greeks in forum to improve relations

By Paula Miller

If last Thursday's meeting was any indication, the times seem right for meaningful communication between the University's Greeks and the Lock Haven community.

The Associate Dean of Students, Tim Susick, initiated the forum after speaking with several homeowners on Susquehanna Avenue. Susick, who oversees the fraternities and sororities here on campus, decided it was time to better the relations between the town and the Greeks.

Although the presentations of Interfraternity Council President Glen Ardis and Panhellenic Council President Jennifer Samuels were upbeat in nature, the community residents present highlighted the negative.

Susick refereed the discussion, beginning his part of the program by pointing to the future of the Greek system, "We can't go back and mend some fences that were broken with some of the events that did happen, we'd like to build a new road." Susick added that although the Greek community has made important strides along the road to improvement, "it's not 100 percent yet, but we are working to improve it. I think we're just knocking the trees down and making way for the road."

Susick explained the new alcohol policy that has been adopted by the University and says that the new ideas have been readily accepted by the fraternities and sororities. The fraternities "social events" have been limited to weekends to help the academics of the University and alleviate the disturbances to the neighbors.

Along with these changes, an All Greek Judicial Board has been established. With this board, community residents now have an avenue to follow if they have any complaints with a sorority or fraternity. The first step is a formal, written complaint. From there the organization is informed of the complaint against them. A hearing date is set and both sides are eligible for legal counsel. If the organization is found guilty, sanctions are leveled against them.

Lock Haven Police Chief James Belcher was also on hand to explain his part in the scheme of things. Belcher admitted that the "Greeks aren't the biggest problem on campus, they are the most visible." The chief warned all campus groups that "if we have some of the same types of things we had last year, I'll mobilize all 13 people in the department and I'll arrest some people." This tough line was echoed by two Pennsylvania Liquor Control Board (PLCB) agents, also at the forum.

Agent William Kinnely explained the Board's position on the fraternities "social events". Kinnely emphasized that "arrests will be made". He also commented on the practice of charging admission to these parties, a topic which IFC President Ardis would not address. According to Kinnely, "They are considered 'constructive sales' and they are illegal." Regarding voluntary donations, the PLCB sees them as "technically not constructive" but quickly adds that voluntary donations can quickly become involuntary.

As Susick and some of the Greeks present pointed out, it's not a majority of the brothers and sisters that cause the problems. Also, that some of the problems are found at the independent boarding houses, known to the students as the "Cave", the "Zoo" and the "Asylum", among others.

The big concerns voiced by the residents living near the Greek houses are the parties and specifically the noise. Ardis assured them that if there are any complaints about the fraternities, "the music will be turned down and the parties will be stopped." One resident's answer to that was, "It's all well and good, if it works."

Not all Lock Haven natives have the same pessimistic attitude. Several in attendance expressed a desire to get together with the Greeks on campus and get to know the system and the students better. Some even went so far as to comment the fraternities. One man, who has lived across from Sigma Pi for a number of years congratulated the brothers, "So far this year, things have been better at Sigma Pi than they have been in the past ten years." Yet another neighbor commented, "We've got to commend these particular groups of students."

Those at the forum liked the idea of getting together and talking out the problems, and would like to see more adventures in this area. To this, Susick answered with a promise to have smaller get togethers with the neighbors of various Greek houses.

“Testmania” Strikes

Three weeks of school has come and gone and classes, for the most part, have consisted of taking a few notes and reading a couple chapters.

Brace yourself now (especially you first-year students) for what is and will soon be known as “Testmania.”

Doesn't it seem to happen year after year, semester after semester? All of your tests come in the same week or two. The first 3-4 weeks you are looking for something to do in your free time and now you're searching for a breath of air. This is known as “Testmania.”

I know some people believe that all your tests in the same week will, in the long run, help your studies. But I believe that if the tests were spread out a little more then that would be the best for your studies.

But then you have the unsolvable problem of spreading the tests out. Most professors teach in 4-5 week sessions and this is why we get jammed up. All the tests come up at the same time.

Although there probably isn't an answer to “Testmania,” I'd still like to hear some suggestions. Meanwhile, I hope you survive the next two weeks. Take plenty of deep breaths.

Men finish fourth

By Christa Landas

The Bald Eagle men's cross-country team finished in fourth place Saturday in a quadrangular meet held at Mansfield.

RIT took the top place honors with a total of only 24 points. They were followed by Mansfield, Lemoyne, and the Lock Haven squad. The Eagles tallied a score of 79 points. Canasius finished in the last place position in the five team meet.

The first man across the line was an RIT runner, Tim O'Grady. O'Grady clocked a 24:56 over the tough, hilly course.

Bud Murphy was the first Bald Eagle to fly across the finish line. Murphy came in at the ninth spot for a time of 26:04.

Mike Eidenshink and Andy Shearer finished together taking the 14th and 15th places.

Ken Toner copped the 19th spot, and Craig Yakscoe came in 22nd to round out the Lock Haven top five.

The remainder of the men's squad finished as follows: Kevin McNamara, 29th; Al Yocca, 31st; Bill Hunter, 32nd; Doug Kiss, 33rd; Joe Madrak, 35th; and Chip Miller, 37th.

Lock Haven's loss to Mansfield brings their conference record to 2-2.

Coach James Dolan said, “We were expecting to take fourth, and we got fourth. RIT and Lemoyne are two of the toughest teams in New York. We did fairly well. I guess I'd have to say that I was pleased.”

Coach Dolan is looking forward to this Saturday's meet with Susquehanna and Bloomsburg. The match will be held at Susquehanna to 2:00 p.m.

Women split two

By Christa Landas

The Lady Eagles cross-country team split in a double dual meet this Saturday at East Stroudsburg.

ESU defeated Lock Haven by a score of 17-39. But the Eagles were strong enough to overcome another conference foe, Bloomsburg, by a 27-28 squeaker.

Georgianna Messinger of East Stroudsburg was the overall winner in the competition with a time of 18:28.

Finishing in the fourth position was Lock Haven's own Betsy Potter. She ran to a time of 20:49.

Coach Leroy Straley said, “Betsy ran extremely well considering that she is still recovering from illness.”

Pam Noll sped across the line next for the LHU harriers for a seventh place finish.

“Pam had another consistently strong performance and is improving with every race,” commented Straley.

Helping to clench the win over Bloomsburg was Maureen Fry. She passed three Bloom runners in the last mile to assure the Bald Eagle team of a narrow but satisfying win over the Huskies. Fry grabbed the tenth place spot.

Carol Bashore and Lisa Sagan rounded out the Haven top five.

Coach Straley felt that both Bashore and Sagan responded to the pressure of this double dual meet and ran strong.

The Lady Eagle harriers have this week off which Coach Leroy Straley thinks should help his team recover from numerous illnesses.

“The rest of the season will be a struggle,” said Straley. “We need to get our runners healthy in order to be competitive for the remainder of the season.”

Hockey loses to Maryland, beats American

By Christa Landas

A split decision this weekend leaves the Lady Bald Eagle field hockey team with a season record of 4-3.

The University of Maryland defeated Lock Haven in a close contest Saturday ending with a final score of 2-1.

Sunday the Eagles regrouped and downed American University, 3-1.

Maryland's record goes to 5-1 after their victory over LHU. But the Lady Eagles can be proud knowing that they are only the second team so far this season to score against nationally ranked MU.

Old Dominion, ranked No. 1 in the country, was the other team that scored on Maryland and beat them, 1-0.

Lock Haven's only goal came in the second half. At the 24:07 mark, Sherry Derr made a diving score that was assisted by Lori Ferguson.

Maryland's goals came in the first half.

Anysia Fedec pushed in an easy score just 3:45 into the half. Then they came back 30 seconds later with a solidly hit goal by Kelli Bischo.

LHU's Bev Young made a great save in the first half. She blocked a ball at the net that had gotten past Bald Eagle goalie, Kate Murphy. This set up a penalty stroke that Murphy knocked down and thus stopped Maryland's scoring drive for the rest of the contest.

Both Lady Eagle goalies had a super game against Maryland according to Coach Sharon Taylor.

Murphy had 11 big saves including the penalty stroke stop at the 15:22 point of the first half. And sophomore goalie, Lori Sannella, added another five great stops in the match.

Goalie Kim Chorosiewski of MU didn't have much action on her end of the field and was only forced to save six shots at the net.

Coach Sharon Taylor said, "We looked awful. Nobody was in a position to do anything. We didn't pressure them at all. It was not one of our better performances."

Sunday's performance against American University was much better for the Lady Eagles.

Sherry Derr and Ginny Neiss were the story in this match up.

Derr scored at the 22:20 mark of the first half on an assist from Neiss. Eight minutes later, Derr again scored, but this time it was an unassisted hat trick.

Derr was forced to leave the game shortly after her second goal because of an injury. She was hit in the head with a field hockey stick, taken to a nearby hospital, and received four stitches. But Sherry was otherwise all right.

LHU freshman Tammy Flowers scored her first varsity goal of the season off an assist from Neiss.

Murphy and Sannella were able to lounge in the net as each were only made to save one shot a piece. American goalies, Kathy Handschin and Suzanne Gallager combined for 14 saves.

Lock Haven held a big edge in shots over American University, 43-12. The Lady Eagles also cornered the market on penalty corners with nine to American's three.

Coach Taylor said, "Our team played better. It took us about ten minutes to get going, but then we played well."

Taylor singled out Denise Adams and Neiss as playing well defensively against the University of Maryland. And Taylor also singled out Adams and Derr for their super play against American University.

The Haven field hockey team will host Bucknell on Tuesday at 4:00 p.m. in hopes of upping their season record.

Late FG Kayos Gridders hopes for first victory

By Dave Walters

The Bald Eagles football squad watched their chances for their first victory slip away as Mansfield's Bob Whitmer booted a 28-yard field goal with 32 seconds to play to give the Mounties a 13-10 triumph last Saturday.

Head coach Jack Fisher said, "I'm disappointed we didn't win. We did some good things. The kids did what they were supposed to do. But we couldn't come up with the win. It's frustrating."

LHU's gridders are now 0-3 after their loss to the Mounties. The Eagles have been outscored 63-24 in their first three outings.

Mansfield struck first 11:00 in the game as their sure-toed kicker, Whitmer, nailed a 41-yard field goal to take a 3-0 lead. With just seven ticks on the clock before halftime, freshman Don Ellis chipped in a 25-yard boot to dead lock the slate.

After the intermission, the mountaineers drove the ball into Bald Eagle territory and regained the lead on a 27-yard pass from quarterback Don Faulstick to slotback Doug O'Connors. Whitmer kicked the extra point.

The Eagles bounced back on the very next play. Freshman Steve Gluek returned the mounties kick off 60-yards to the Mansfield 36 yard line. The Haven then started a nine-play scoring drive ending with freshman quarterback Pat Cahill plunging into the end zone from the one.

The score remained 10-10 until the ill-fated field goal by Whitmer.

Leading the Bald Eagle running attack was sophomore Tom Smykowski with 57 on 17 carries. Cahill completed five of nine passes for 50 yards and had one pass intercepted which led to the game winning field goal. Rick Myers and Smykowski each had 22 yards in the receiving department.

Defensively Chris Kustanbuater led the squad with 11 solo tackles. Tackle Dave Shriver had eight tackles and one sack while Jimmy Van Camp had five tackles and one sack. Freshman cornerback Nick Biscontini had a fumble recovery in the contest.

The Eagles will open their Western division season this Saturday at Jack Stadium against Shippensburg. Ship fell to conference favorite Clarion this past weekend on a last second field goal.

Ship is led by quarterback Mark Beans who has 639 yards in just three games. The Red Raiders running attack is led by halfback Tom Miller, who was All-Pennsylvania Conference Western Division.

The Eagles will face off against Ship at 2 p.m. at Hubert Jack Stadium.

Booters beat Edinboro, 3-0

By Mark Mahoney

Even though the LHU soccer team didn't put on their best showing of the year, it managed a 3-0 victory at Edinboro on Saturday. The win evened the Bald Eagles' record at 3-3.

Sean Perry scored on a pass from Erik Wilhelm in the first half to give the Bald Eagle a 1-0 lead. The game stayed that way nearly thirty minutes into the second half, even though the Bald Eagles were getting many shots on goal. The twelfth ranked Bald Eagles should have put Edinboro away much earlier.

Keith Betts provided some spark for the team by assisting on a Kevin York goal 29 minutes into the second half and following up three minutes later with one of his own on an assist from Terry Flynn. That's the way it ended.

The Bald Eagles did not play as well as expected against an inferior club. Head Coach Lenny Long said, "we did not play well against Edinboro. We can't play like that against to win a lot of games." He also added that the team did not need to concentrate as much against a team like Edinboro, as they would have to against stiffer competition, so that might have had something to do with the team's performance.

The Bald Eagles will face Ithaca at home on Wednesday, and they will have to perform better.

Long added, "I felt we played better in our loss to FIU than we did Saturday." The Bald Eagles had all of last week off following their trip to Michigan last weekend.

When asked if the week off affected the teams performance. Long said, "We needed the week off to get things together." The Bald Eagles will be swinging into a tough part of their schedule so they need that.

All three LHU victories this year have been by shutout. Wednesday's game will begin at 3:00 p.m.

Murgia champ at IUP tournament

By Karen Merlie

Six of the top tennis teams came together at Indiana University of Pennsylvania on Saturday as IUP hosted Edinboro, Shippensburg, Slippery Rock, West Chester, and our Lady Eagles.

Each match was broken down by seeds. Number one to number six in singles, and number one to three in doubles action.

Lock Haven's champ was Roxanne Murgia. She won the number three singles by scores of (6-3, 6-1), and (6-3, 7-6). Murgia won in the finals over Angela Towel of Shippensburg.

Roxanne also won in the number two doubles pairings with partner Edna Roth. They won in straight sets in three matches.

Bad luck hit Lock Haven in the number one pairings. Freshman Autumn Swisher turned her ankle going after a drop shot. Swisher couldn't continue action and had to default. This knocked her and doubles partner Holly Reitzel out of their matches.

Swisher will be having extensive tests on her ankle this week.

Reitzel had a fine showing for Lock Haven in the number two seedings. She won her first two rounds by the scores of (6-1, 6-2) and (6-4, 1-6, 7-6). Holly came up one match short, losing to Mez Chilcott in the finals.

Edna Roth, the number four singles player, had a fair day in singles play. She won her first match easily, (6-2, 6-0). Roth then fell to defeat in the second round (6-4, 6-0) to Sue Smidlein.

Kelly Piatt and Denise Torelli lost first round singles matches and teamed up in doubles losing in their first match.

Lock Haven didn't repeat as the tourney champions but they did have a fine showing. Results of team standings were not reported.

Coach Carol Ritter and the ladies will continue season play today against Shippensburg, at 3:00 p.m.

Marshall: Budget tight but college alright financially

By John H. Furnish

The college is not in any financial trouble, but the budget is rather tight, according to George Marshall, vice-president for administration.

As one of the fourteen public institutions of higher education in the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, Lock Haven (LHU) receives funds from the State for its operational costs. According to Marshall, this money is allocated to the Universities in one large fund by the Pennsylvania State Legislature. It is then divided among the schools according to a formula which provides schools like Indiana State University, Slippery Rock and Kutztown with 10% of the entire budget, and LHU with only 5.5% ($18,607,000 yearly). "The formula is not perfect, "The formula is not perfect," said Marshall. "How it works is another article in itself."

For instance, according to John Gallagher of the Purchasing department, Indiana St. U. has a ten-story dorm. High Hall of LHU has three stories, yet it costs the same amount to maintain either building. It is similar with the entire campuses. While LHU is somewhat smaller than Indiana St. U., it needs the same funds to operate as the latter.

While this school can operate efficiently with its present budget, there has been a number of projects that have been deferred, such as re-roofing one campus building.

However, no major projects have ever been deferred because of funding.

"Most of our major projects come through separate appropriation," said Marshall.

One drain on funds is the massive (and growing) insurance cost, particularly the workman's insurance fund, which rose in cost by $100,000 last year. This is because of a rate increase some years ago from 5% to 6.25% in employee contribution. Every union in the Commonwealth opposed this. Thus, the schools had to pick up the tab. Part of the problem is that LHU is prohibited from soliciting private insurance by law.

"Last year, the total fee (on Workman's Insurance Fund) was $110,000, which is not unreasonable for a school this size," said Marshall. "This year it went up to $216,000. It's a figure we have no control of at all. The rate is set by the Department of Labor."

"It is based on your risk. In other words, how many workman's compensation claims you have. If you operate a coal mine, you pay a very high premium. If you run a normal office, you'll pay a very low premium. College fall somewhere above a normal office."

"The school district (of Lock Haven) pays a little bit less than we paid last year because they have a private insurer. But the State Workman's Insurance Fund sets its rate and notifies us of what the rate will be. And that is the only notice we get. We have no advance warning.

"Right now, the Board of Presidents and the Chancellor's Office are trying to get that either reversed or get permission to buy our own insurance," continued Marshall.

"By the time you get through paying salaries (which rose 5% this year) and premiums, you don't have a helluva lot left. And we still have, in operating expenses, another $4,130,000."

Another comforting item is the amount of legislative support lent to LHU by State Senator Doyle Corman (of the Penn State area) and Representative Russell P. Letterman, both of whom Marshall says are "totally supportive" of the institution, leaving it well represented in the Pennsylvania State Legislature. Because of the hard work of Representative Letterman, Thomas Field House was renovated at a cost of $3,000,000.
