SCC swears in new senators

Terry Day
Editor in Chief

The several newly elected and re-elected Student Cooperative Council (SCC) senators were sworn in by SCC Vice President Paul Knappenberger yesterday.

Sixteen new senators were sworn in, while six senators were re-elected.

The new SCC senators are Stephanie Altman, Smith Hall; Christi Bohley, Gross Hall; Chris Bowen, High Hall; Kathleen Brennan, McEntire Hall; Meghan Christianson, Russell Hall; James Crilley, off-campus; and Karen Fruchter, McEntire Hall.

Also, Mabelle Grace, off-campus; Shawn Liddick, McEntire Hall; Dee Niefer, Woolridge Hall; Beth Ann Pennella, Smith Hall; Paul Sherman, High Hall; and Joseph Yalch, off-campus are new SCC senators.

The following SCC senators were re-elected and sworn in: Joan Bayer, Russell Hall; Kelly Beck, McEntire; Deb Cowfer, Gross; and Steve Kennedy, off-campus.

Chuck Kerns (new), McEntire; Donna Mazella (re-elected), off-campus; Pat Patterson, (re-elected) off-campus; Sue Proctor (new), off-campus; Kelly Quin (re-elected), North; and Maureen Williams (new) were elected, but not sworn in for various reasons.

The senators were appointed to both SCC and University committees.

Also, Stacy Bunish was appointed Food Service chairman.

The senate heard from representatives of the Houser Vending Company.

Houser is the company the SCC chose to do the vending for the campus.

Houser wants to be a full line vending company, said its sales representative Bob Gephart.

"It is more than take the money and run," Gephart said.

As far as the changing of the menu of the sandwich machine, a two week cycle is used, according to Gephart.

The sandwiches are pulled every 72 hours, said Gephart.

"We are looking into expanding the menu and added popcorn and microwaves."

Houser's owner Elmer Little said, "We take pride in the service we provide." He added that servicemen are on 24-hour call.

Little introduced the possibility of a contest in which items from the bookstore will given away free of charge, just by a peel off a sticker on the food items.

The senate also agreed to endorse the Hurricane Hugo relief fund.

POLICE BEAT Many thefts occur on campus

By Sharon Brooks
Staff Reporter

Thefts:

Numerous thefts have been reported over the past week from the residence halls, said Lieutenant Dennis Grenninger.

Various amounts of cash ranging from $25 to $250 and a herringbone necklace were reportedly stolen. In each of the incidents the rooms had been left open.

In one case the roommate was sleeping when the theft occurred but the door had been left unlocked, said Grenninger.

A phone was stolen and another damaged at the check out desk at Bentley Dining Hall over the weekend, said Grenninger.

The President's parking sign was stolen from in front of Sullivan Hall. Law Enforcement Officials noticed it missing last Saturday morning at 3:35, said Grenninger.

A staff parking decal was confiscated from a student who claims to have purchased it from another student for personal reasons.

The student claims he did not know the student who sold it to him.

The student may be charged with possession of stolen property and unauthorized use of a parking decal.

Lt. Grenninger wants to remind all students that decals can be obtained at the Law Enforcement building and are free. All students must meet requirements first though.

A brown pizza warmer bag was reported stolen from a Little Caesars employee.

The theft occurred in front of McEntire Hall last Thursday night at 9:30 p.m., according to Grenninger.

Students are reminded that most of the Little Caesars employees are Lock Haven University students. Theft of pizzas and pizza warmer bags come out of the pizza man's pocket. The estimated cost of the stolen pizza warmer bag is $85.

Investigations for all of these cases are still pending.

Citations:

A citation was issued for the hit and run of a vehicle parked in front of High Hall, said Grenninger.

The incident occurred last Thursday night at approximately 11 p.m.. Damages were estimated at $300.

Another citation was issued for reckless driving on Susquehanna Ave., said Grenninger.

The student lost control of his car due to bad weather conditions and speeding.

A third citation was issued to a student for obstructing traffic on Susquehanna Ave., said Grenninger.

The student argued with Law Enforcement Officials and refused to leave the roadway.

Alcohol Violations:

Law Enforcement Officials observed four students drinking at the mini park (adjacent to Thrifty Swifty) on Friday night, said Grenninger.

The students fled upon the arrival of Law Enforcement officials. Two students were caught but no citations were issued.

Other:

A suspicious white male was reportedly seen wandering aimlessly around McEntire Hall last Friday night at approximately 11:00 p.m., said Grenninger.

The suspect had no apparent reason for being in the dorm and caused discomfort for many.

For the safety of all, Lt. Grenninger asks that if students see any strangers lingering around the residence halls to please report them to Law Enforcement.

Memorial service for Bilski scheduled for Tuesday

A memorial service to honor the late John P. Bilski III, a Lock Haven University associate professor who passed away September 3, 1989, will take place Tuesday October 3.

The 4 p.m. service will be held in the University's Hall of Flags in Robinson Hall.

University employees, associates, students, and members of the community are asked to join the memorial service.

Bilski will be remembered as a popular professor who joined the University 22 years ago. He is noted as having aided in obtaining funding for the University's first foreign exchange program.

Bilski graduated cumme laude from Farleigh Dickinson University, and earned both his master's and doctorate equivalency degrees from New York University. He taught at Farleigh Dickinson and Seton Hall University before coming the LHU in 1967.

Bilski had resided in Lock Haven along with his wife, Joan.

OPINION/EDITORIAL

Concerts are tricky

By Kelly Beck
SCC Social Committee Chairperson

At the end of every school year, the Student Cooperative Council and its Social Committee, have a very important decision to make. Should we have a rock concert the following year? We do not have to sponsor a concert, but it's an opportunity and privilege that we think the students would enjoy.

Because of financial limitations, the S.C.C.'s Social Committee cannot afford to bring in the more popular groups. Space is also a problem. Thomas Field House can hold a maximum of 3,000 people for a concert, most musical groups will not perform in a place that doesn't hold at least 5,000 people. Sure, it would be great to bring in Richard Marx, but he wants $32,000 and will only sing in places that hold a minimum of 5,000 people. Milli Vanilli would have been great too, but they are not sure when they are touring.

In choosing a group, the S.C.C. and the Social Committee do several things. This past summer we surveyed the summer school students. They were asked to pick five groups, out of a list of 100, who they would like to see in concert here at L.H.U. In the top five were Richard Marx, Meatloaf, Milli Vanilli, and the Hooters. Another way we find out who the students would like to see in concert is we have the S.C.C. Senators and Social Committee members poll their classmates, this was recently done last month.

Then choosing a rock group, time is extremely important. If you wait weeks to decide who you want, the group will probably be booked already--somewhere else.

Coming to a final decision on a group is difficult. You want to try to please as many students you can, but you realize that you will regretfully not be able to please everyone.

You take chances in having a concert. Last year the S.C.C. lost money on Pat Benatar. The year before that with the Lisa Lisa Cult Jam and Expose concert, the S.C.C. would have lost money but they didn't. The only reason for this is because the S.C.C. didn't have to pay Expose because they canceled out at the last minute.

As you can see, it is a very difficult process in picking a group for a concert. If you would like to help the S.C.C. plan activities, you are urged to join a committee or come to Senate meetings.

In defense of Meatloaf...

Not everyone has the taste in music

Dear Editor:

This letter is in response to Joseph Jefferson's letter in the September 22 Eagle Eye.

I realized that Mr. Jefferson, as well as other people on this campus prefer dance music, however, I also enjoy other types of music. The issue here is that not everyone has the same tastes. I, for one, am looking forward to the Meatloaf playing at LHU.

Lock Haven and the outlining area is composed of people who have a variety of tastes and styles. It seems that the SCC has tried not to cater to the opinions of one group of people. Two years ago, Lisa Lisa was here for those who enjoy dance music. (By the way, I also attended that concert.) Pat Benatar was here last year for those that enjoy soft rock. And now for those who like to kick back and listen to the "classics"- Meatloaf is on the way!

As for Meatloaf not having a hit in "God knows how long," that is what makes Meatloaf's music classic. In over ten years his music is still being listened to, and the same for Lisa Lisa in ten years?

For one last fact, Meatloaf does not "scream his head off." "Heaven Can Wait" is just one example of a beautiful ballad. If Mr. Jefferson would like to hear the proof, I will gladly play a Meatloaf tape for him. Which, incidentally, can be found mixed in with my Aldo Nova, The Cure, Ready for the world, Bon Jovi, and Bobby Brown tapes.

Sincerely,
Tammy Weber

Brigadier General Arnold visits ROTC and LHU

Brigadier General Wallace Arnold visited with several members of the Reserve Officer Training Corp (ROTC), Tuesday.

As part of his duties at Fort Bragg, Brig. Gen. Arnold inspects the ROTC programs at colleges across the Northern United States.

Currently, LHU has 160 cadets enrolled in its program.

"To have 160 cadets from this University is fantastic," Brig. Gen. Arnold said.

"I am very excited about what I see here today."

This past summer 15 LHU cadets attended an advance camp at Fort Bragg, according to Brig. Gen. Arnold. He said the grading system utilizes outstanding, excellent, and satisfactory marks.

"Fifty percent received the top two grades there, which is not an easy feat," said Brig. Gen. Arnold.

Brig. Gen. said one reason for the success of the program is the quality of the staff and cadets in the leadership positions.

Another reason for the success of the program is due to the support of University President Dr. Craig Dean Willis and the chancellor commended Brig. Gen. Arnold.

The ROTC program is an extension of the program at Penn State University.

Coltrane's works accepted by journals

Robert M. Coltrane, assistant professor of English at Lock Haven University, recently has had two studies range from Yeats to Ezra Pound and T.S. Eliot.

His Yeats work concerns itself with an analysis of the Celtic and biographical elements in William Butler Yeats' poem, "The Cap and the Bells." This analysis will be published in the 1990 "Yeats Annual."

Coltrane's study of the imagist relationship between Ezra Pound's "Les Millwin" and T.S. Eliot's "Morning at the Window," has been accepted by "Paideuma—a journal devoted to Ezra Pound and published by the University of Maine.

Coltrane is currently working with professor Stephan Jones of the University of Connecticut on an edition of two biographical sketches about Noank, CT, written by Theodore Dreiser. This booklet, to be published by the Noank Historical Society, is the result of Coltrane's research for his Ph. D. dissertation on Dreiser.

Coltrane's most recent work is an analysis of Ernest Hemingway's "The Torrents of Spring," which appears in a collection entitled, "Hemingway's Neglected Fiction: New Perspectives." The collection was published in August 1989 by U.M.I. Research Press.

Residing in Lock Haven, Coltrane joined the faculty in 1969 as Director of Public Relations. He took the position of assistant professor of English in 1983.

Foreman elected to Board of Directors of PADE

John Foreman, Director of the Upward Bound Project at Lock Haven University, was elected to the Board of Directors of the Pennsylvania Association for Developmental Educators (PADE).

PADE enhances developmental education for college students in Pennsylvania. Members of the group form various committees for planning.

Foreman represents all four-year public institutions in the State, regarding problems or concerns they want the Board of Directors to handle.

As Director for Upward Bound, Foreman oversees the program.

It is designed to assist low income and disadvantaged high school students in Clinton, Lycoming, and Potter counties.

He said upward bound is a tutorial prep program that intensifies academic, career, and personal skills. It also allows students to be exposed to a variety of cultural events.

Foreman arrived at the University in April 1989.

He came from St. Francis College in Loretto, PA where he was Director of the Act 101 program. He resides in State College.

Hybels receives grant

Sandra Hybels, Ph. D., a journalism professor at Lock Haven University and Dr. Krzysztof J. Brozi, a professor of anthropology and philosophy at Marie Curie Skłodowska University in Lublin, Poland, have received a grant from the Barbara Plasecka Johnson Foundation. The grant enables Brozi to come to LHU for a year beginning February 1990 to work with Hybels in their research on cross-cultural communication.

Hybels and Brozi began working together in the Spring of 1987 while Hybels was an exchange professor in Lublin. Their first work together was a comparison of attitudes and values held by North Americans and Polish factory workers.

Aside from completing an article based on this study, Hybels and Brozi plan to translate Brozi's books about Bronislaw Malinowsky, a Polish anthropologist, and to expand on Malinowsky's theory of culture. They also plan to work in the field of cross-cultural communication.

Hybels has written several texts in the field of communication and journalism, had two National Endowment for the Humanities grants and in 1988-1989 was a Fulbright lecturer in the Federated States of Micronesia. She joined the University in 1976 and resides in Castanea, PA.

Brozi has written several books and many articles and has developed a curriculum for teaching philosophy which is used in all high schools in Poland.

Although the universities have had an exchange program for both professors and students for 14 years, this is the first grant to support research between two scholars of both universities.

Meeting for Health and PE majors

All Health and Physical Education Majors planning to student teach during the Spring 1990 semester are to report to a special placement meeting on Friday, October 6, 1989 at 10:00 AM in Zimmerli Building, Room 7.

If you have a conflict, a second meeting will be held on Monday, October 9 at 6:30 PM in Zimmerli, room 7. If you cannot make either meeting, please call Mr. Leroy Straley at 2099 for a special appointment.

This is a very important meeting that begins the placement process for Spring 1990 Health and Physical Education student teaching.

Making the grade for your peak performance: Overcoming the gottas

By Robert J. Kriegel, Ph.D.

Editor's note: Robert J. Kriegel, Ph.D.-- best selling author, former All-American athlete, and mental coach for Olympic and world class athletes-- lectures and consults with major corporations worldwide on peak performance, leadership and strategies for dealing with changes. Kriegel recently took part in a national tour of college campuses sponsored by Nuprin Pain Reliever.

To remind you how to be a peak performance thinker, Kriegel and the makers of Nuprin have developed a "pocket coach" of tips for combating pressure and pain. For a free copy of the Nuprin Pain Relief Guide, write Nuprin, P.O. Box 14160, Baltimore, MD 21268.

The alarm sounds. "6 a.m. I've really gotta hustle. I've gotta finish that outline, talk to Professor Jones, stop by the lab, read 100 pages for my noon psych class and be at work at 3 p.m."

Today's college campuses are pressure cookers. In fact, the Nuprin Pain Report, the first national study on pain in America, documented that more people 18-24 suffer from stress and pain than any adult age group.

As I've toured the country visiting college campuses, students tell me the most common causes of their stress are: too much to do, too little time; exams; money; relationships; interviews; family and career choices. So, get rid of stress. Right? Wrong.

Stress is neither good nor bad. How you handle it can be. Learning to make stress work for you can help you concentrate better and think more clearly under pressure, have more energy, be more creative and make college more enjoyable.

But many of us handle stress poorly.

Some people panic and work too fast under stress. Others procrastinate. Neither response is productive and both are caused by what I call "sabotage thinking"-- common reactions to stressful situations that work against rather than for you.

Two common types of sabotage thinking are: "the gottas" and "the can'ts."

Let's look at the gottas and methods to overcome them.

The gottas usually occur when you think you have too much to do and too little time to do it: "I gotta study for two exams...I gotta read two chapters...I gotta call financial aid about my loan...I gotta get a date for Friday night..."

The gottas make everything seem harder than it really is. You get into the panic zone, rushing to get it all done. You walk too fast, talk too fast, think too fast, write too fast, eat too fast. You can't concentrate or think clearly. You make careless mistakes, blank out on exams and forget things you already know. Everything seems like a life or death proposition.

I was talking to a junior at U-C Berkeley who had a bad case of the gottas about a forthcoming exam. "I gotta let an A," he said. I asked what would happen if he didn't.

"If I don't get an A, I won't keep up my 4.0 average. Then I'll never get into a really good graduate school, and then I won't get a top job, and then I'll never make a lot of money..."

By the end of his discourse, not getting an A on this test was akin to his life being ruined.

When he stopped and thought about what he'd just said--that if he didn't ace this test his life would be down the tubes-- he started laughing, "I must be crazy."

He was not crazy, just not thinking clearly or realistically. Many of us get that way under pressure. This type of desperation thinking makes us overreact and causes panic. The cure is to shift from irrational to rational thinking. Do a reality check. When you get the gottas take a deep breath, exhale slowly and ask yourself, "What is the worst thing that could possibly happen?" and "How likely is that to happen?"

This type of reality thinking puts the gottas in perspective. Sure, not getting an A would be a drag, but it wouldn't be the end of the world nor would it land this A student in the ranks of the homeless.

Looking at past wins helps, too. After all, he already had a 4.0 average, and had done well on difficult exams before. Reminding himself of his past success on similar exams helped him relax and restored his confidence.

Gaining control of your thinking will help to turn desperation reactions into peak performance actions. Learning this early in life will be invaluable in the future, because no matter what you do or where you do it, there's always going to be things you gotta do.

Confessions of a dangerous mind...

Dating differs from college and the real world

By Steven Infanti
Features Columnist

MARS NEEDS WOMEN, and so do I. I'm not desperate, it's my family. They're dead set on having me married off by the time I'm 30. It seems I'm the last bachelor left in the family, and my dad wants to get all this wedding stuff out of the way before his ulcer does the same to him.

No, I'm not asking for sympathy dates. I'm willing to pay cash.

I've tried it all: flowers, dinners, small unmarked bills, and a cologne that smells like money. I still get that "knowing look": No I won't go out with you. No, I don't want you to call me. No, I don't want any candy...

The odds of getting a decent date dean in the favor of the men at this University.

The sex ratio at this campus is 54 percent women, 44 percent men, and two percent undecided. That makes me feel better. I'm getting to that point where I'll have to move out of state just to find more women to reject me.

Dating in college is a lot different than what I've experienced in the real world. In the real world, dates expect you to spend money. A dinner date doesn't mean meeting for "all-you-can-eat" at Chateau Bentley.

A night on the town doesn't mean just going wherever a validated ID gets you in for free, and a show isn't a belching competition at a party.

On a real date you have to cleverly steer your date into keeping the evening within your budget.

For example, Infanti Dinner Date #137.

Dinner date: "I think I'll have the surf-and-turf." (I realize after eating here, some of you may think "surf-and-turf" is tuna fish on a hamburger, but, in a real restaurant, it's lobster and steak.)

Me: "Think again, Hefty. How about the $4.95 diet platter?"

Dating isn't the problem. It's where dating is supposed to lead that gives me the headaches. You know, either you're reviewed on the "Love Connection," or love, marriage and the baby carriage. My family says I don't take dating seriously enough because I'm afraid of commitment.

My parents warn, "You'll never get married with your attitude."

Why buy the cow if the milk is free? Besides, I'm not spending $5,000 a year at this school to find a mate. I could stay at home and find one for about $250.

"One day you'll fall in love, and then you'll get married."

All my life I've heard people tell me love makes you stupid. I'd rather fool around a lot. That way my mind stays sharp.

"What about kids?"

I've seen children. I've gone to places where there were children. I've seen some of my nephews and nieces. Ever wonder why some animals eat their young? I know how I behaved as a child. Those fond memories were enough to cause me to preach safe sex, and join a "Condom-of-the-Month-Club."

"Relationships take time. You have to nurture them like a plant."

Plants are easier to throw out when they're dead, and you never lose an argument to a plant (well, almost never).

"A relationship has to age like a fine wine."

Just what I need, another date who has to be locked in the cellar.

"What about AIDS?"

AIDS is just like marriage: preventable.

Freshman Perspective

A freshman's sociological viewpoint of Bentley Dining Hall

By Karen Fruchter
Eagle Eye Features Columnist

I guess I can attribute this week's column to my sociology professor. She used Bentley Dining Hall to illustrate a point she was trying to make. And I guess she got me thinking about Bentley Dining Hall.

Let's get the obvious fact out of the way. We all know the food isn't perfect. Sure, mom's cooking, even when it's burned, has to taste better than Bentley cuisine.

At first, I was among the silent minority who thought the food was pretty good and was happy at the notion of not starving. However, I now possess enough food in my room to open a general store.

To play devil's advocate for a second, the students do have a say in the food Bentley serves. Instead, we choose to be apathetic and complain rather than do something about it, myself included.

Bentley is also a social gathering place. How many times have you gone to Bentley when you just weren't hungry? Come on, be truthful, I know there's a few of you out there. I know I have. Why would we walk down one hill and 108 steps to sit at a dirty table in a room filled with hundreds of students, in order to spend time with people we can see any other time of the day? Well, to use a fact I learned in good 'ole sociology, we're social animals, and we love to be social.

Just because I prefer a quiet setting, in a clean environment, with various comforts (such as clean silverware) doesn't make me right.

Another purpose Bentley serves is for public relations of any sort. I saw various signs advertising the fraternity/sorority's rush parties, and a Havenscope sign (that is, before some utterly rude person deemed it necessary to tear it down).

Why do clubs and organizations put things up in Bentley? Well, it's obvious! We are forced to go there if we choose not to starve, or spend all our money on pizza. Therefore, there is no doubt we will see their sign.

I guess I'll have to think twice before I knock Bentley food, or just the building itself.

Ok, I thought about it. Being logical just isn't registering. Maybe it's too much sociology, or Bentley food is finally getting to me.

Sports Chat... The USA - UK soccer connection

By Lenny Long
Guest Sports Columnist

Rob Yoegel (Eagle Eye Sports Editor) presented me with questions that are frequently asked about our British players.

1 - How did the British connection begin?
2 - How do you continue to recruit British players?

3- What kind of impact do they have on the team and Lock Haven University?

I believe the first contact with British players took place in the fall of 1973.

A group of students in an exchange from Trent Polytechnic Institute in Nottingham, England arrived to study at LHU.

One of these students was a lad by the name of Barry Johnson.

Barry was on a third team from Trent, perhaps something like a sub-varsity.

He went out for our soccer team and scored 18 goals in 15 games and made Regional All-American.

I would venture to say that Barry was our first British player at LHU.

For the next few years, we had a few more exchange students try out for the team but no one had quite the same effect as Barry.

Then, with the use of tuition waivers through our International Education Office, coach Mike Parker was able to go to his native country of England and draw one or two players annually on what is now called our tuition waiver program.

The answer to question number two is quite simple.

The British players already enrolled, tell us of friends who can fulfill the requirements needed to study at LHU.

It is more than the ability to play soccer.

They have to be very strong academically and have the courage to pick up and leave their family, home, and country for six or seven months at a time with their only contact being by phone or letter.

The British players have to be able to fit into our system of play as well as our system of people and how we interact as a team.

Another way of recruiting the British contingent is through contacts that we have made in England.

We have had two or three British coaches work our summer soccer camp.

From this experience, they know the kinds of players that would succeed at LHU's level. These gentlemen are very strong resources for us.

We will also make a trip every other year to keep contacts open and see and visit players at their homes to keep up the on going process of recruitment.

Our main drawing card is the fact that we provide a very nice environment for the British players.

We have proven time and time again that a British player who is commuted to study in the United States and to playing soccer, can have a very worthwhile experience at Lock Haven University.

The town of Lock Haven provides congeniality that I think makes everyone feel that this is a "home away from home."

I believe the University enjoys our British players because of their outgoing personalities.

It is safe for me to say that the majority of British players that I have known at LHU have been a very extroverted and enjoyable group.

I have had many professors tell me that some of their best students in class have been our British soccer players.

Their success continues beyond LHU both academically and athletically.

We have had no fewer than seven British players go on to receive their Master's Degree and gain employment in very reputable positions both in soccer and outside the sport.

In response to the third question, it is evident that what the British player gives back to LHU and the community is extraordinary.

They have been actively involved in community soccer programs and have served as speakers in numerous civic and educational settings.

Their contributions on the field are evident by watching us play.

Lock Haven soccer has been ranked among the top teams in the nation for the last 12 years, and the international connection has not hurt that effort.

Our International Office deserves much credit for their support of our program.

As a part of the athletic program, we will continue to work toward the goal of being exemplary representatives of Lock Haven University.

Ed. Note - Lenny Long serves as the head men's soccer coach at LHU. There are currently three players on the soccer team from England. They are Steve Eagleton, Gary Ross, and Craig Shale.

'Sports chat' is a weekly special that features guest columns by LHU athletes or coaches. All athletes and coaches are welcome to participate.

Soccer team dumps Cortland

Tibi Kobolak scored two goals while adding an assist as the soccer team defeated visiting Cortland State, 4-0 on Tuesday.

Kobolak scored one goal in the first and the other in the second half of play as the Bald Eagles improved their record to 5-2-2.

Cortland State fell to their first lost in eight tries this season.

Lock Haven dominated play throughout the game as Cortland State managed one shot on goal.

LHU managed to keep Cortland State goal keeper Scott English busy as the Bald Eagles posted 16 shots of their own.

Butch Williamson scored the first goal of the contest when he took a feed from Gary Ross and fired the ball from 25 yards out for a 1-0 advantage.

Later in the game, the Red Dragons had trouble clearing the ball when Kobolak intercepted a pass in front of English and netted the first of his two goals of the day.

Kobalak's goal put the Haven up, 2-0 with 31 minutes gone in the game.

Kobolak scored the second of his two goals in the second half when Williamson cleared the Cortland State defense with a corner kick. Kobolak snuck behind the defense and booted the ball past English for a 3-0 lead.

Derek D'Avignon put the match out of reach when he took an assist from Kobolak to complete the scoring for the Bald Eagles.

Field hockey team defeats Bucknell, 3-1

BUCKNELL - The winning streak has continued for the field hockey team.

The spectacular team effort took place on Tuesday, as the Lady Eagles defeated the Lady Bison of Bucknell by the score of 3-1.

After dominating most of the first half, the Lady Eagles who have won four straight games, were set back for a brief moment as the Lady Bison snuck in their first and only score of the game at the 31:53 mark.

At the end of the first half, Bucknell led 1-0.

The Lady Eagles continued to play well into the second half as sophomore Gia Sgrignoli put the Lady Eagles on the board at the 7:55 mark.

LHU kept on the move as they put the game out of reach when Sgrignoli added the final two goals to complete her hat trick for the day.

Teammates Tara Egolf and Michelle Smith lent a helping hand as they each recorded an assist of their own.

The Lady Eagles outshot the Lady Bison 41-11 in the contest.

Lock Haven goalkeeper Dot Schmidt had 11 saves and has a season high of 82 saves and only seven goals allowed in six outings.

Although it took almost 53 minutes for the Lady Eagles to score, they didn't panic, said head coach Sharon Taylor.

According to Taylor the team maintained their poise and played very well. "We deserved this win," she said.

"Missy Carman totally controlled the midfield both ways," Taylor said.

The field hockey team heads to Virginia this weekend to take on James Madison and Longwood.

"We have to be able to keep doing what we've been doing to overcome the combined pressure of the (artificial) turf and two strong teams," said senior captain Dawn Zipay Therrell.

The next home game is slated for October 7 against Slippery Rock University.

Tennis team loses to Bloom and Clarion

By Rob Yoegel
Eagle Eye Sports Editor

The women's tennis team came up short handed twice this week losing to Bloomsburg 7-2, and Clarion, 9-0.

The Lady Eagles (1-5) hosted Bloom on Monday and got victories from their number one ranked singles player, sophomore Jen Jacobs along with their number two singles player.

Jacobs was victorious over Cindy Hooper 7-5, 6-1, and LHU's number two singles player defeated Lindsay McNeal 6-4, 6-3.

On Wednesday, the tennis team traveled to Clarion to play the defending Pennsylvania State Athletic Conference (PSAC) team champion Golden Eagles as well as many individual PSAC top players.

Clarion shut out LHU, not allowing our ladies to win one set.

Jacobs was defeated by Lisa Worren 6-1, 6-0. LHU's Rebecca Chase lost to Amanda Bell 6-1, 6-2.

Lady Eagle's Peggy Buckmaster and Kenna Werkiser lost their singles matches 6-1, 6-1 and 6-3, 6-0 respectively.

Rounding out the singles competition was Lock Haven's Karen Johnson who was defeated by Clarion's Carolyn Vallecorsa, 6-2, 6-4.

In doubles action, Jacobs and Buckmaster were dumped by Clarion's Worren and Tammy Myers, 6-4, 6-1.

LHU's number two doubles team was dropped by the Golden Eagle's Marriane Martin and Lori Berk, 6-3, 6-2.

And finishing the shut out for Clarion was Amanda Bell and Darcy Ingham who beat LHU's Werkiser and Johnson, 6-4, 6-4.

The Lady Eagle tennis team have the weekend off and are in action again on October 4 when they host Millersville.

Football Preview

Bald Eagles visit the Rock

By Herb Samuels
Eagle Eye Sports Reporter

The football team travel route 80 west this weekend to take on the Rockets of Slippery Rock University Saturday afternoon.

This is a rematch of what most people thought was the best effort by the Bald Eagles last year.

In 1988 the LHU came back time after time to keep pace with the Rock. They showed heart, guts, determination and most of all an attitude that did not quit.

When the smoke cleared and the dust settled the Bald Eagles tied the Rock 21-21.

Many faces have changed on both sides of the field from last year to this one, but the action is expected to be of the same caliber this year.

On offense the Bald Eagles (0-4) will start Jimmy Broadway this week over last weeks starer Kevin Harney.

"Jimmy Broadway gets the nod this week," said head coach Tom Jones. "We worked both (Broadway and Harney) about equally."

"That is what we really want to do. If one takes off and can move this team, then we can go with that person."

If Broadway can not move the offense Jones will not hesitate to bring in Harney.

This could be a good move because pressure from the bench can make a quarterback better.

The Rock (2-1) features a "50" front or a 5-2.

This means there are five down linemen and two interior linebackers. The two defensive ends act as outsides linebackers as well as linemen.

"They run a standard defense," Jones said. "Sometimes they blitz the cornerback and the safety but mostly they just play at home (do not blitz)."

Slippery Rock have some new people on defense but Jones thinks that does not matter.

"They been playing together for a few games now and they will be ready for their homecoming," he said.

On offense the Rock features an I-formation.

"They still feature the run but they pass decent enough to be well balanced. They lost the big back from last year," continued Jones.

That back was Greg Paterra who gathered over 180-yards against the Bald Eagles last year.

LHU is coming off a 10-0 loss to California University of Pennsylvania last week.

The Rock won last Saturday against Clarion University 16-10 with a score late in the game.

What will the Bald Eagles have to do to win?

First of all, they will have to have another terrific day from running back Guy Wade. Wade had a great game (127-yards rushing) last week and the Bald Eagles could use another.

Jimmy Broadway will have to have a solid effort also. The Bald Eagles may have to throw due to the probable weather break.

The defense played the best game of the year last week.

California's offense walked down the field on them the first two drives and then was silent for most of the game.

The Bald Eagle defense needs to play the run this week.

The last two weeks they were playing against teams that throw often. This week it's much different.

Prediction: I truly feel the Bald Eagles can win this week. They have shown that the defense has more continuity and the offense may have a nice day to run all their speed plays.

Look for a trick play this week. Last week Dave Laudeman ran a fake punt for a first down. For the last two weeks, LHU hasn't run a reverse or a tail back pass. Two plays that Jones loves to run.

Kickoff is scheduled for 1:30 p.m. at Slippery Rock University.
