THE PURPOSE OF THE STATE TEACHERS COLLEGE

IN THE

EDUCATIONAL PROGRAM OF THE COMMONWEALTH

(Address Delivered at the Dedication of the New Training School)

DR. JAMES N. RULE

Deputy Superintendent of Public Instruction

"This rapid sketch of the State's program for securing and preparing competent teachers for the public schools is of value as indicating three major trends that we do well to note as we project plans for the future development of our teachers colleges:

"1. That teaching is no longer the last resort and refuge of misfits and failures in other lines of work, as was apparently so frequently the case in early days but is a profession that presents a high challenge of service to the best minds, requiring for its successful pursuit a prolonged period of technical preparation.

"2. That the preparation of teachers is a State function to be delegated only to its own institutions and those willing and able to accept the standard which the State sets up for the adequate preparation of teachers.

"3. That as the child is the growing point of society, so our teachers colleges are the growing point of our State system of public schools and must, therefore, be progressively developed along lines that will enable them to meet effectively the development needs of our public schools.

What of the Future?

"In the light of these trends, which are peculiar not to Pennsylvania alone but are general, what of the future of our state teachers colleges?

"1. Studies in the field of the nature and needs of the child point clearly to the requirement of as scientific and as prolonged a program for the preparation of teachers in our elementary schools as is now required of those entering the secondary field. The single salary schedule, granting equal pay for equivalent professional qualifications whether in the elementary or secondary field, is indicative of the growing conviction that in the education process the period of childhood is fully as important as adolescence and must receive the most highly skilled care and attention if maturity is to bear its full fruitage in terms of a competent citizenship and the ideal personality for which we should like to have the term American stand. The best thought and practice now indicate that four years of post high school work should be the minimum requirement for teaching in the elementary field. Our own Board of State Teachers College Presidents at its last meeting petitioned the State Council of Education to set up a requirement, effective in 1935, of four years of post high school professional preparation for elementary school teachers. In my judgment it is a question of but a comparatively short time until such a requirement will be set as the minimum basis for entering the teaching profession in this State. Until such a requirement is exacted, teaching cannot properly be called a profession. In no shorter time can the techniques and knowledge requisite to successful preparation for teaching be secured. As society demands much more of its schools in an age in which it takes but fifteen minutes to raise a bushel of wheat than it did in an age when it required three hours, so correspondingly more is required of those entering the teaching profession today. If and when the increased requirement for the elementary teacher goes into effect, the two-year curriculums leading to the normal certificate will automatically be discontinued and there will be but one standard for graduation, namely, the successful completion of a four-year degree curriculum. The present indicated surplus of certificated teachers which, however, may in some measure be due to the current depression, cutting down the annual turn-over and driving back into teaching as a means of earning a livelihood many former teachers who had gone into other lines of work, suggests the wisdom and the possibility of placing teaching on the minimum four-year post high school level at any early date.

"2. A second development which I foresee in order that the public schools may be more efficient and useful is an extension of the helpful relationship that now exists between the several teachers colleges and their respective service areas. This development will probably proceed along three lines, all of which are now being followed to a greater or less degree:

"a. Acceptance by the college of a larger degree of responsibility for the success of its graduates during the first year of their teaching through a plan of cooperative, follow-up, relationship developed with local school districts.

"b. Provision of extension, in service training for teachers in service whose qualifications are below new State minimums.

"c. Distribution of detailed knowledge of new developments in education and of instruction and demonstration in its use.

"The development of these relationships within the areas served by the several teachers colleges not only will advance the educational efficiency of the school districts concerned but also keep the work of the college dynamic and truly functional in character.

"3. A third development that I foresee is one on which there may very properly be a difference of opinion and which I advanced therefore somewhat cautiously. The existing surplus of certified teachers and the indicated decreasing annual turnover of teachers suggests the wisdom of an early adjustment of the quality and quantity of our teacher preparation facilities to the requirements of fewer but better prospective teachers. Some surplus of teachers over and beyond actual needs is not to be viewed with alarm but rather as a healthful sign, permitting the elimination of the relatively less fit. A concentration of our resources, however, upon fewer candidates would appear to be not only distinctly helpful in view of the demand for a progressively better product, but also inevitable if teachers' salaries are to be maintained on levels commensurate with their advancing qualifications.

"Many other lines of progress might be prophesied if time permitted but the three indicated immediately above seem to be those of immediate importance and incidence, as affecting the State Teachers Colleges, namely:

"1. A uniform four-year requirement for graduation, regardless of the field.

"2. Acceptance by the teachers colleges as the legal service centers of their respective areas of a large degree of responsibility for the continuous professional stimulation and growth of the public schools included therein.

"3. Concentration upon a smaller but more competent product.

A Program of Development

"With these heavy responsibilities resting upon our system of state teachers colleges as the growing point of our system of public education, what measures should be taken by the State to insure the continuous and effective adjustment of their facilities to meet these ever increasing responsibilities?

"Time permits but a brief reference to only the more important and pressing measures. There are three major factors involved in a good teachers college:

"1. A professional program to meet the developing needs of our public schools on the side of the best educational theory and practice.

"2. A staff of teachers competent in personality, and professional preparation to carry out such a program effectively.

"3. Physical plant and equipment that provide the necessary tools.

"The question as to the measures the State should take to make the teachers colleges progressively more useful and efficient in meeting their obligations to the public schools finds its answer in terms of adequate provision for the progressive development of the three factors just mentioned. First, a professional program to meet the developing needs of the public schools can be formulated only upon the basis of accurate and comprehensive data gathered continuously, relative to the specific needs of the public schools for teachers and supervisors in each and all of the several state teachers colleges. These needs must be expressed in terms not only of the number of new teachers and supervisions required in each separate field but in terms also of their specific qualifications. Only on the basis of known State needs can a progressive and differentiated program for the preparation, guidance, and placement of teachers be developed for the several state teachers colleges. Accordingly a highly efficient, technical fact finding unit should be developed in the Department of Public Instruction for the State as a whole and in each teachers college for its separate area, in order to provide dependable data upon which to base a professional program that will adequately and continuously meet the changing and growing needs of the public schools. Second, if a staff of teachers is to be secured competent in personality and preparation to carry out such professional program effectively, the most capable teachers in the profession must be attracted to our teachers colleges. Exceptional preparation and service must be adequately recognized in salary and tenure provisions. Teaching programs must be arranged to permit thorough preparation for the teaching job and continuous professional growth. Third, the physical plant and equipment must be brought into line with the best educational thought and practice. The modern educational log on which sits the teacher and his pupils is not and cannot be the simple affair it was in the days of Mark Hopkins.

"Placing a new type teacher in the schools of today which safeguard individuality and at the same time develop a competent, cooperative type of citizenship is a complex and, let it be said, not an inexpensive job. Yet in terms of blighted, undeveloped lives, nothing is so expensive to the State as an incompetent teacher. We cannot afford not to have good teachers.

"In the dedication of this new unit in this college to be known as the Benjamin Franklin Training School, the State recognizes its obligation to make this and all the other state teachers colleges increasingly more useful and efficient in their service to the public schools of this Commonwealth.

"Finally, it is generally recognized that government by discretion rather than by regulations is rapidly becoming a distinct trend in democracy. Government by discretion rather than by regulations requires a definite outlining of the functions of each separate officer and agencies, but gives such officers and agencies within the field of their assigned responsibilities full authority to develop their own ideas and to be held accountable only for results. Under the leadership of so distinguished an able educator as your president the future of your College is assured, particularly with full discretionary powers granted him within a clearly defined area. Under such a policy and such leadership this College will inevitably rise to ever higher and largest level of achievement."

NEW TRAINING SCHOOL DEDICATED

"The first dream come true" was the manner in which Dr. Francis B. Haas, college president, referred to the dedication of the Benjamin Franklin Training School of the Bloomsburg State Teachers College as one of the features of the greatest Home Coming Day in the history of the institution.

Dr. James N. Rule, Deputy Superintendent of the State Department of Public Instruction, taking the place of his superior, Dr. J. A. Keith, who is recovering from a serious illness, delivered the dedicatory address.

The presentation of the alumni memorial and trophy room, furnished by graduates of the school at a cost of $4,000, was another feature of the program. The presentation was made by R. Bruce Albert, president of the association, and both acceptances were by A. Z. Schoch, president of the Board of Trustees and for 39 years one of its members.

Educators from throughout this section joined with alumni and friends of the institution for the dedication exercises which were held in the college auditorium in Carver Hall. Children of the training school participated by singing a number of songs under the direction of Miss Harriet M. Moore.

Before the dedication and throughout the day except during the football game thousands visited the new building and were delighted with the structure.

While the audience was assembling in the auditorium in Carver Hall the College Symphony Orchestra under the direction of Howard F. Fenstermaker furnished a program of music.

A number of the visiting educators were seated on the platform with the participants of the exercises. Dr. Haas presided, and in opening the program expressed the belief that all present were taking part in a historic occasion. Dr. Harry F. Babcock, pastor of the First Methodist Church, read the Scriptures, selecting a portion of the sixth chapter of Chronicles and a part of the New Testament. Dr. David J. Waller, Jr., President Emeritus of the institution, gave the invocation.

The children of the Training School then added a delightful touch to the program when they sang, "Who Knows?" by John West.

Dr. Rule followed with his fine address on the purpose of the state teachers college in the educational program in which he spoke of its vast importance to the Commonwealth.

Mr. Schoch's Acceptance

Mr. Schoch in his acceptance of the building on behalf of the trustees spoke as follows:

"It is a matter of especial satisfaction to me, that brings us here today, to take a part in the Dedication Exercises of this new Training School Building.

"For a long time I have watched with great interest the steady growth of this school; serving as occasion arose, its practical needs and encouraging its speculative intentions.

"I have had too, the rare privilege of seeing three generations of my family, a daughter, a grand daughter and a great grand daughter, enrolled with the student body.

"But in the 39 years of my Trusteeship, no addition to the equipment of the College has held for me the importance of this latest development.

"Just as perfection in its foundation is absolutely necessary to the strength of a great building, so is the beginning of a child's education of paramount importance to the life and character he or she forms.

"Therefore, it is with exceptional gratification that I accept the trusteeship of this Training School Building in the name of the Board of Trustees of the Bloomsburg State Teachers College for the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania."

How the School Was Named

Dr. Haas said that, in searching for a name for the new building, suggestions had been asked from the faculty and other sources. He said an attempt was made to select a name keeping in mind primarily the children. They had desired a name not only identified with childhood but one that would strike the imagination in every field of learning. The name of Franklin, most generally suggested, was a name of that kind for Franklin has contributed so much to so many phases of human endeavor. Dr. Haas called attention to the inscription over one of the doors of the new building which is Franklin's "Education is the foundation of happiness."

ALUMNI MEMORIAL ROOM

R. Bruce Albert, president of the Alumni Association, in making the presentation of that room to the institution, said that two years ago the graduates had outlined a program of three projects. One was the enlarging of the number of the subscribers to the Alumni Quarterly. He reported this had been tripled and the publication made self supporting.

The second project was the creating of an alumni memorial and trophy room with one aim—the preservation of trophies—many of which have been lost in the past. Another object was to have a place where alumni could mingle in fellowship when they return, and a place that could be used by the college faculty.

"The success of this project is due," Mr. Albert said, "to the courage and tireless effort of Prof. O. H. Bakeless." He also spoke of the cooperation of Dr. Haas, N. T. Englehart and Miss Gray, of the College Art Department, all of whom ably assisted. The third project, the enlarging of the student loan fund, is yet to be taken up, a considerable amount remaining to be paid on the alumni room, furnished at a cost of $4,000.

Mr. Schoch in his acceptance on behalf of the institution, declared that the room was an evidence of the love and devotion of the graduates to their Alma Mater.

Guests Introduced

Dr. Haas then introduced a number of the guests at the exercises, many of whom were seated on the platform. They included: County Superintendent of Schools, W. W. Evans; J. T. Townsend, Secretary of the Board of Trustees; Paul E. Wirt, of the Board of Trustees; Prof. C. H. Albert, a retired member of the faculty; Ricnie Laurie, of the architectural firm of Laurie and Green, Harrisburg, designers of the building; C. H. Dillon, President of the Bloomsburg School Board; William V. Moyer, President of the Bloomsburg Council; David L. Glover, of Mifflinburg, a member of the Board of Trustees; Dr. C. H. Garwood, Superintendent of the Bloomsburg Schools and Superintendent Fred W. Diehl, of the Montour County schools and also a member of the Board of Trustees.

Parent-Teachers Association

Dr. Haas on behalf of the Board of Trustees and the faculty paid tribute to the fine work being carried on by the Parent-Teacher Association. He spoke of the piano which has been presented to the school and is already installed. Mrs. Haas is president of the organization.

He briefly described the new Training School which he believes has some new features that will enable the institution to make contributions to teacher training. All of the building has been completed except the cellar where an indoor playground will be placed.

The program came to an end with the singing of the "Alma Mater," led by Miss Harriet M. Moore.

Dr. Francis B. Haas, who this year is President of the Northeastern Convention District of the Pennsylvania State Education Association, is now at work planning the program for the district convention to be held in Wilkes-Barre on the 6th and 7th of March.

HUNDREDS BACK FOR HOME COMING DAY

Bloomsburg State Teachers College was the centre of activities when the institution was host to hundreds of graduates and friends at the annual Home Coming Day, this year with special features including the dedication of the new Training School and the opening of the Alumni Memorial Room.

The campus buildings and the business section of the town were in gala dress for the day with the Maroon and Gold of Bloomsburg and the Red and Blue of the visiting athletic rivals, Shippensburg, much in evidence.

Boulevard light standards on Main Street and trees on East Street were used to place the decorations in the business section. There was a large welcome sign at the entrance to the college and signs with the message "Welcome Parents—Alumni" were on Waller Hall.

The program throughout was one to delight alumni, with Bloomsburg winning the football game from Shippensburg 13 to 0 and the cross country run by the decisive score of 16 to 39, Bloomsburg having five runners in the first six to finish.

The dedication of the new Training School, to be known as the Benjamin Franklin Training School, opened the day's program with the dedicatory address by Dr. James N. Rule, Deputy Superintendent of Public Instruction. Practically every visitor went through the new building during the day and was delighted with the plant, the first of a proposed series of new buildings.

The Alumni Memorial and Trophy Room was another place that secured much attention and favorable comment. This room was beautifully furnished by alumni at a cost of $4,000. It is located on the first floor of Waller Hall and is an achievement in which graduates of the school can be justly proud.

It is doubtful if a Home Coming Day ever attracted a larger crowd and certainly there was never a better program offered. Students and faculty worked tirelessly to entertain the guests and they were quite successful.

Social events on the program were an informal get-together in the gymnasium following the game and a dance in the evening. The gymnasium was beautifully decorated for the day in Maroon and Gold and Red and Blue. The railing around the orchestra pit was a scene of players benches, some of the players in the Maroon and Gold of Bloomsburg and others in the Red and Blue of Shippensburg, with the scores also announced.

Crepe paper festooning and red, gold and blue balloons added to the attractiveness of the decorative scheme. The Maroon and Gold Orchestra played for the dance and they were at their best. Punch was served.

Day students and members of the faculty, Shippensburg athletics and faculty members and hundreds of alumni enjoyed both lunch and dinner at the school.

All in all, the day was the greatest of the Fall and one of the greatest Home Coming Days Bloomsburg has ever had.

On Tuesday evening, October 28, Dr. and Mrs. Francis B. Haas delightfully entertained at a reception at the President's house on Light Street Road. Educators from throughout this vicinity were in attendance at this event, which is an annual one. The home was beautifully decorated with chrysanthemums and roses, and during the evening the Alexander Trio provided a charming program of music.

The guests included the trustees of the Teachers College, the members of the college faculty, the Bloomsburg School Board and faculty, the Berwick School Board and faculty, and other prominent educators from Bloomsburg's service area.

William John Cooper, United States Commissioner of Education, was the speaker at the chapel exercises Monday, October 25. Mr. Cooper delivered a very fine address on "Teaching as a Profession."

MARK CREASY

TEACHER, EDUCATOR, FRIEND OF YOUTH

The passing of Mark Creasy, January 12, 1930, was briefly noted in the Quarterly at the time. It was the intention then, to give later a more nearly adequate account of his character and work.

No educator or teacher ever received a finer, more tender, and more deserved tribute than did Mr. Creasy in the Chester-town (Md.) High School Reflector of January, 1930. Excerpts from this series of tributes, in brief, are quoted as part of this article.

Mark Creasy was a Columbia County product, born in Mifflin Township, in 1866. His father was Philip Creasy. His mother was Sarah Good. Mr. Rush Creasy, a teacher for many years in this county, was his brother.

He received his early education in the public schools of the county. He taught several years in the public schools of the county. In 1890 he entered the Bloomsburg State Normal School as a student and graduated therefrom with the Class of 1891.

He was always a forceful outstanding member of his class, though quiet and unobtrusive. In the classroom, and outside of it, his clear-thinking, and independent, but cooperative action, when things were right, had to be reckoned with. He was always a favorite in his class—kind, jolly, a friend and helper to every one. His studiousness, earnestness, readiness to participate in the work of the classroom made him a favorite of his teachers.

After his graduation he was elected to a position at Hawley, Wayne County, Pa., where he followed Mr. Kimber Cleaver (Class of '81) as Principal and labored joyously and with rare success for twenty-two years. Here he did for a community and its schools, what few educational leaders are capable of doing.

He was elected to the superintendency of the Chestertown, Md., High School about 1913, where he continued his work until the close of his life, dying in the harness, January 12, 1930.

In all these years his love for his profession, his interest in his work, in child-life and youth, in the cause of education, never wavered. His co-workers, his fellow teachers, his pupils, his directors, his patrons, believed in him, trusted him, relied on his more experienced judgment, took their standards, ideals and educational vision from his helpful teaching. Mark Creasy was always the seer, the leader, the inspiration of his community. His devotion to child-life and youth was Pestalozzian. His leadership and vision akin to that of Horace Mann. His eagerness and enthusiasm to understand the needs and growth of youth were born of Francis W. Parker. His deep seated love for rational teaching, where not distinctively innate, was the direct influence of his contacts with two great teachers whose lives enriched all youth who sat in their class rooms—Prof. John G. Cope and Prof. William Noetting—of blessed memory.

He was married to Miss Phoebe Shew, of Light Street, Pa., in 1895. She also was a very live member of the Class of 1891. It was a marriage of kindred souls, and only Mark knew how the willing sacrifice of her pedagogical career to become his support, co-worker and guide in his career, a home-maker and leader for him, made greater his success and the cause of education wherever they worked together—and they worked together. Beautiful are the tales of their united efforts for the young people with whom they worked; the friendships made; the standards set; the advice and encouragement given and followed to successful careers.

The Alumni of the B. S. T. C. and the Class of 1891 are justly proud of the career of Mark Creasy and his wife Phoebe Shew Creasy. Their old pupils will deepen their breathing and gird their loins for finer effort always at the mention of their names. Unseen to mortal eye, he will live in minds and hearts of those who knew him best, only to urge them on to keener effort, to clearer heights of labor.

It was the privilege of the writer a few summers ago to have Mark in his summer class, as a student, old in years of experience, wise in a continued practice that had made his mind keen, his expression clear, his apprehension quick, he was the humblest, most simple, most helpful pupil in the class. He had so much to give, so kindly a way of giving it, so utterly oblivious of his power that he inspired the recitation.

He had lived much and loved much in his profession and all hung upon his word as he modestly gave his best in the daily discussion.

We wish that Pennsylvania had many great spirits like Mark Creasy—teacher, educator and friend of youth and humanity.

Excerpts from the Chestertown, Md., High School Reflector of January, 1930, Memorial edition—in loving memory of R. MARK CREASY, Principal of Chestertown High School.

The Chestertown High School has lost her most valuable treasure, her best friend, the spirit of all her enterprise. Mr. Creasy was a man of unusual ability, friendliness, and quiet enthusiasm. He was always ready to help the struggling with his abundant store of experience, to urge the struggling on to endeavor, and to cheer the downcast with a good story; keeping at the same time a steady balance with his wholesome common sense and enlivening all with his un-failing sense of humor.

His friendship was extended to every one, from the smallest and most frightened Freshman to the most prominent Senior; from the school's "bad boy" to the most studious and well-behaved scholar. When a person needed a friend, he always found one, ready to sympathize or correct, in Mr. Creasy. Many a time he has pleaded that another chance be given to some wayward boy, and when an evil-doer confessed his guilt like a man, he never failed to honor the courage required for such confession.

* * * *

His hospitality was a proverb. Their (Mr. and Mrs. Creasy's) friends are legions, and those who have not experienced their friendship have missed something sweet, strong and beautiful.

* * * *

Mr. Creasy's ideas of sportmanship meant everything to the school. He could not endure cheap flimsy excuses for failure to win games. He taught the school to admit that the better team won the game and, if its team lost, to grin and bear the defeat. When visiting teams came to the school, he encouraged the boys and girls to be courteous to their visitors. . . . He loved to win a game, but only when it was cleanly and fairly played.

* * * *

There were always plans in his mind for the betterment of the school conditions. He bought more ground for the soccer field, of which he was very proud. . . . There was no department in which he was not profoundly interested. . . . There is no activity in the school that will not suffer from his loss, and he will be remembered as a helpful generous and sympathetic influence.

Our eyes may at length persuade us that he is not here, but our hearts will never admit that he is dead, for he will in them, go on with us in our struggles, giving us in spirit the same wise counsel and friendliness, and helping us to fight for all that is good and worthy in life. So great was his personality, and such was our love for him, that he will not and cannot die so long as we live and labor.

MARION D. BRYON—For His Teachers.

The real measure of the man is to be found in those qualities of mind, heart and character which he manifested to every one who was associated with him.

He believed in the idealism of youth. He labored heroically for the enlightenment and encouragement of the young men and women who came under his supervision and instruction. He believed in the ultimate triumph of right over wrong; worked faithfully in the light of this ideal in education, civics and religious endeavor; sought first the kingdom of God and His righteousness, and died fighting the good fight of faith.

He takes with him into the unseen world, as every man must do, the record of his life lived among his fellows. Mark Creasy has left with us, however, the memory of his unselfish devotion to his duty. Truly he was a man who at all times and everywhere gave his strength to the weak, shared his experience gladly with the young, gave his sympathy to the needy, and unfortunate, gave his substance to worthy causes and gave his heart to God. Surely his labor of love and his life among us shall not have been in vain, for we who follow on shall take renewed devotion from the example which this good man has given us. We shall miss him from our friendly circles, but we shall cherish the rich heritage and precious memories he has left. And we shall carry on, following the gleam of truth, love, and goodness, which shone so beautifully from the life of our good leader of young people in this community.

J. HARRY WRIGHT, Pastor.

* * * *

The Alumni of the Chestertown High School offer their respect, admiration and gratitude for Mr. Creasy's long and untiring service to the High School. A truer friend and more efficient leader could not have been found. To his wise guidance, unusual ability, and untiring efforts can be traced the success of many, many high school undertakings.

Giving most of his time and energy to his work in the Chestertown High School his unselfish and kindly help has gained for him the undying gratitude of us—the Alumni.

ANNA BONWELL, '26

Now that he is with us only in spirit, we shall try to keep up the standards he bequeathed us. To have known him and to have been in daily contact with him has enriched all our lives.

NANCY JEAN USILTON, '30.

Truly in the passing of Mark Creasy the world is poorer in that it has lost a man, a gentleman, a teacher and an educator, a friend of the children—a rare and beautiful character whose influence we fain would not have lost to the world. In these days of superficial hurry, we need his life and his work to ponder on and grow wise in our work as teachers.

Mrs. Chester P. Martindale (Bertha M. Foulke), a member of the faculty of the Bloomsburg State Normal School during the administration of Dr. J. P. Welsh, died at her home in West Chester Thursday, November 27. She is survived by her husband and one daughter, a Senior at Swarthmore College. Mrs. Martindale was a graduate of the West Chester State Normal School, in the Class of 1890, and came to Bloomsburg at the same time that Dr. Welsh left West Chester to take up his duties as Principal at Bloomsburg.

Dr. Charles H. Fisher, former Principal of the Bloomsburg State Normal School, and now President of the State Teachers College at Bellingham, Washington, was in Bloomsburg renewing acquaintances on Thursday, October 30. Dr. Fisher is on the Child Welfare Commission named by President Hoover, as Head of the Teacher Training Division and was on his way to Washington in connection with the work of the commission.

ATHLETICS

The Bloomsburg football team has closed the 1930 season with a record of four victories, two defeats, and one tie.

The first game, played at Kutztown, September 27, resulted in a 19-14 victory for Bloomsburg, which was followed two weeks later by a 19-0 victory over Millersville, at Bloomsburg. The battle with Mansfield State Teachers College, fought on Mt. Olympus field, resulted in a tie, with the score 6-6.

Bloomsburg's prospects were then darkened by the fact that a considerable number of her first line men were more or less seriously injured; another player was declared ineligible because he played last year on the team of another teachers college, and several others were lost because of low scholarship.

The first defeat came when Bloomsburg came out with the small end of a 13-0 score at California State Teachers College, on Saturday, October 25. The week following, Lock Haven, whom Bloomsburg has defeated with ease for the past several years, turned the tables with a vengeance, and won, with the score 20-0. In this game ten of the regular men were absent from the line-up, while Lock Haven was represented by the best team she has had for many years.

In the last two games, the Maroon and Gold team came back with two brilliant victories. The Home Coming Day program on Saturday, November 8, was made a complete success by the victory over Shippensburg. The score was 13-0. Bloomsburg had the upper hand throughout the game, with sixteen first downs to three for Shippensburg.

The season came to a climax with a 13-6 victory over East Stroudsburg Teachers College, the game being the principal feature of East Stroudsburg's Home Coming Day, on Saturday, November 15. The outstanding feature of this game was the aerial attack launched by Bloomsburg, in which nineteen out of thirty forward passes were successful, and gained a total of one hundred fifty-four yards. In the same game East Stroudsburg tried ten forward passes, completed two, with a gain of twenty-two yards, had two passes intercepted, and grounded six.

There is no doubt that, had it not been for the fact that so many men were injured, the 1930 season would have been the most successful one in many years. Under the circumstances, the supporters of Bloomsburg feel that the team gave a splendid account of itself.

Another group of athletes that brought glory to Bloomsburg this fall was the cross-country team. The season was opened at California State Teachers College, when the team went there with the football team. Allen Parr, captain of the team, came in an easy first in the six-mile race, with other Bloomsburg runners taking third, fourth, seventh and eighth places.

The second race was with Shippensburg, over a five-mile course at Bloomsburg. In this race Bloomsburg took first, second, third, fourth, and sixth places. The following week Bloomsburg again met Shippensburg at the latter institution, and again won, taking first, second, third, fourth and seventh places.

Captain Parr added further glory to the Maroon and Gold by taking sixth place in the Berwick Marathon on Thanksgiving Day, coming in ahead of some of the best runners in the country.

The basketball schedule includes 19 games, of which all but four are with State Teachers Colleges. Of those four two are with the leading rival of Bloomsburg, Wyoming Seminary, the opening game is with the fast veteran combination of the Danville Y. M. C. A., and there is one game with college alumni.

There are 12 rival State Teachers College in Pennsylvania and every one of them will be met in basketball with two exceptions, Clarion and Edinboro, two western schools.

If Bloomsburg can go through this schedule without a defeat there will be no question but that they can be undisputed champions of the State in the Teachers College ranks.

The schedule follows:

Saturday, December 6—Danville Y. M. C. A. Home.

Saturday, December 13—Alumni. Home.

Friday, December 19—Indiana S. T. C. Away.

Saturday, December 20—California S. T. C. Away.

Saturday, January 10—Shippensburg S. T. C. Away.

Friday, January 16—East Stroudsburg S. T. C. Away.

Saturday, January 17—Wyoming Seminary. Away.

Friday, January 23—Shippensburg S. T. C. Home.

Saturday, January 24—Kutztown S. T. C. (4:00 P. M.)

Home.

NEW COMMERCIAL COURSE OPENS

With the opening of the first semester in September was inaugurated the department for the training and preparation of teachers of Commercial Subjects at Bloomsburg. Authorization for the opening of this course was given last spring by the Department of Public Instruction.

The object of the course is to prepare commercial teachers for the public schools of Pennsylvania. In accordance with the regulations of the State Council of Education approved December 7, 1928, students graduating from a high school in 1930 cannot prepare for teaching commercial subjects by taking less than a four-year course (or the equivalent) approved by the Department of Public Instruction.

The course offered at Bloomsburg is therefore a four-year course and leads to the degree of Bachelor of Science in Education. The purpose is not to compete with business colleges in preparing students for the business world, but, as stated above, is intended specifically to prepare them to teach commercial subjects in high schools.

About thirty-five students enrolled in the first year of the course this fall. The enrollment is destined to attain large proportions in the next four years, by which time there will be students doing work in all four years of the curriculum.

Professor Harvey A. Andruss, who has been selected as the Director of our new Department of Commercial Teacher Training, comes to us from the State Teachers College, Indiana, Pennsylvania, where through his experience in the training and supervision of commercial teachers he has gained accurate first-hand information as to the secondary school demand for properly trained commercial teachers.

Before coming to the Department at Indiana, Professor Andruss had a wide range of experience as Principal of High Schools at Gotebo, Maramee, and Tipton, Oklahoma; as Head of the Commerce Department of Ponca City High School, Ponca City, Oklahoma; and as an Instructor and Lecturer in the Northwestern University School of Commerce, Chicago, Ill.

Professor Andruss received the degree of Bachelor of Arts and a Certificate in Public and Private Business from the University of Oklahoma in 1924. Prior to that time he had graduated from the Draughon's Practical Business College, Dallas, Texas. He also holds the degree of Business Administration from the Northwestern University School of Commerce, and, in addition, has one year's work toward the degree of Doctor of Philosophy. The quality of his academic preparation is evidenced by his membership in the Phi Beta Kappa—Honorary scholastic fraternity; the Kappa Delta Pi—Honorary educational fraternity; the Beta Gamma Sigma—Honorary commerce fraternity; the Gamma Rho Tau—Honorary and professional business education fraternity; the Pi Omega Pi—Professional Commercial Teacher fraternity; and the Beta Alpha Psi—Professional accounting fraternity.

Professor Andruss has contributed to many business and educational magazines and periodicals. His most recent contribution is a series of three articles dealing with methods of teaching bookkeeping. The first article of this series appeared in The Balance Sheet, a magazine for commercial teachers. As the result of the demand for these articles, they are combined in an educational monograph "How to Use Practice Sets in the Teaching of Bookkeeping."

The Business Problems Committee of the Investment Bankers Association selected Professor Andruss in 1927 to investigate cost accounting practices among its members. For a period of a year he visited a large number of the leading investment banking concerns in the United States studying business conditions and accounting practices. The results of this investigation will be used in formulating a uniform cost accounting system to be used by the members of the Association. A private accounting practice dealing with the Pennsylvania Securities Commission has acquainted Professor Andruss with a knowledge of corporate business practices in this State.

This combination of teaching and business experience coupled with adequate academic preparation fits Professor Andruss to head our new Department for training Commercial Teachers.

NEW HEATING SYSTEM INSTALLED

Work on the new heating system, a project that, with the exception of the new Training School building, is the largest in the past two years, is rapidly nearing completion. When it is completed, every building on the campus, with the exception of the laundry, will be heated from the one plant.

The power house has been enlarged to make room for additional boilers, and new machinery, including a boiler feed water heater and pumps, has been installed. A new stack, 125 feet in height, has been erected to provide additional draught for the furnaces.

The campus has been so cut up with trenches since August, that it made one think of the Western Front. The trenches were dug to make possible the installation of new underground heat transmission service lines. Concrete floors were laid in the trenches before the mains were put in place. The mains have been thoroughly insulated and covered with steel sheeting and concrete. This work has just been completed and, in the words of Henry Ford, "we hope to have the boys out of the trenches by Christmas."

Other projects have been the construction of a paved road from the upper end of the porch on East Second Street to a point beyond North Hall.

The bank along East Second Street, south of the tennis courts, has been cut back eight feet, and a concrete walk laid from the new paved road up to Spruce Street, thus making the new Training School of more easy access. Another walk has been laid to the west entrance of the Training School from the paved road, passing between North Hall and the tennis courts.

A new playground for the Training School children has been laid out just south of the Athletic Field. Considerable grading has also been done at various points on the campus, the grading having been made necessary by the various projects above mentioned.

THE ALUMNI ROOM

At the 1929 meeting of the Alumni Association, a proposal was made to furnish an Alumni Room at the College. This proposal was enthusiastically passed, and Prof. Bakeless was made chairman of a committee to take charge of the furnishing of the room. The classes in reunion that year all made pledges amounting to over $800. The classes in reunion in 1930 were also called upon, and pledged their support.

The room, formerly Room K, has been beautifully furnished, and was dedicated on Home Coming Day, November 8. Professor Bakeless, with the assistance of Miss Gray, of the Art Department, has been working hard for over a year, planning the room and selecting the furnishings. All who visited the room were profuse in their admiration of the fine piece of work that has been done.

A very important piece of work, however, remains to be done. The total cost of furnishing the room will amount to about $4000. Of this amount, about one-fourth has been paid in. A considerable amount on the pledges still remains to be collected. It is hoped, first of all, that all classes which have made pledges to the project will take immediate steps to make good their pledges. It is further hoped that the classes meeting in 1931, 1932, and 1933, will immediately begin to plan to assume their share in the successful completion of the project.

The purpose of this beautifully furnished room is three-fold:

First. To provide comfortable quarters for the fellowship of the Alumni upon returning to their Alma Mater.

Second. To make possible the preservation and proper exhibit of various trophies, and treasures, thus maintaining the cherished traditions of the institution.

Third. To provide a pleasant and comfortable room for the use of the Faculty of the College.

Alumni! Show your loyalty! Get behind Professor Bakeless and his committee. If you have seen the room, tell others about it. If you have not seen it, ask those who have; they will tell you what a fine contribution it is. Send your gift to Professor Bakeless, and appoint yourself a committee of one to stir up enthusiasm among the Alumni of your locality.

Dr. Francis B. Haas has accepted the invitation of Henry P. Fletcher, chairman of the Christmas Seal sale in Pennsylvania, to serve on the Seal Committee again this year.

Prof. and Mrs. F. H. Jenkins are looking forward to celebrating the Fiftieth Anniversary of their wedding at their home, 216 West Fifth Street, Bloomsburg, Pa., on Monday evening, December 22, at 8:00 o'clock.

1877

Margaret N. Richards (Mrs. F. D. Lamb) died January 27, 1929. It was only a short time ago that news of her death was sent to the QUARTERLY by her son, Frederick D. Lamb, Secretary of the Railroad Branch of the Y. M. C. A. at Rochester, N. Y. Mr. Lamb also states that his mother had the distinction of being the first woman to be valedictorian at the Bloomsburg State Normal School.

1892

The home of Miss Martha Robinson, who for many years has been doing a fine piece of missionary work at Higgins, N. C., was completely destroyed by fire at 3:00 o'clock Wednesday morning, October 22. The fire, of unknown origin, had made considerable headway when discovered, and Miss Robison, and a little boy whom she had taken to rear after his parents died, were forced to flee in their night clothing. In addition to "Sunshine Cottage," where Miss Robinson lived, all of the furnishings, including books and clothing, were destroyed. Miss Robinson had a fine library, and an appeal has been sent out to her friends to send her any books which might help her in her work. Miss Robinson has been carrying on her work under the Presbyterian Board of Missions.

1893

Alice Fenner is now living in Allentown, Pa. Her address is 2029 Highland Street.

1899

Charles E. Keefer lives at 517 Washington Avenue, Walla Walla, Washington.

Harry D. Keefer lives at 361 Light Street Road, Bloomsburg.

1901

Miss Mary G. Belig, a member of the Bloomsburg High School faculty, was a member of the class of three hundred which graduated August 15 from Rider College, Trenton, N. J. Miss Belig completed a four-year course, and received the baccalaureate degree in commercial education.

1905

1907

E. Louise Jolly is now living at 1248 Lincoln Avenue, San Jose, California. Miss Jolly is a teacher in the Alameda High School, which has an enrollment of nineteen hundred students, and a faculty of one hundred.

Artemesia Bush is teaching in Patterson, N. J.

Ida M. Dreibelbis (Mrs. William DeLong) lives at 1201 West Front Street, Berwick. Her husband, a member of the Class of 1903, is in the insurance business. They have one daughter, now in the eighth grade.

Nellie Deighmiller (Mrs. C. R. Stecker) lives at 223 West Fourth Street, Bloomsburg. Mr. Stecker, a member of the Class of 1895, is a merchant in Bloomsburg. They have one daughter, who is a member of the Class of 1925.

Carol Krum (Mrs. Frank Buck) lives at 50 Macaris Street, St. Augustine, Florida. Mr. Buck is a civil engineer, and is connected with the Florida East Coast Railroad. She writes: "The weather here is delightful, and I shall be glad to see any classmates coming to Florida this winter." Mr. and Mrs. Buck have two sons, one in sixth grade, and one in the eighth grade.

Class letters sent to Francesco C. L. Petrilli and J. Wesley Sitler have been returned to the committee marked "Moved, no address." This adds two more "lost" classmates to our list. Anyone learning the address of either of these will please communicate with any member of the committee, or with Mr. Jenkins.

Lucretia Christian (Mrs. W. T. Wooters) lives at 601 North Front Street, Harrisburg, Pa.

Joanna Beddall Watkins lives at 1110 Michigan Avenue, Pasadena, California.

1909

George I. Williams has been connected with the Justin Leather Goods Company, of Nocony, Texas, for the past eight years. His travels take him through all the states of the Middle West. His address is Box 1205, Omaha, Nebraska. Mr. Williams would be glad to get in touch with any of his Bloomsburg friends who live in that part of the country.

M. Reinee Potts (Mrs. O. B. Jacob) lives in Folsom, Delaware County, Pa.

Edna Lewis (Mrs. E. J. Robinson) lives at 1547 Farwell Avenue, Milwaukee, Wisconsin.

A clinic for crippled children, sponsored by the Bloomsburg Kiwanis Club, was held in July at the Bloomsburg Hospital. The work was in charge of Dr. Harry Alexander Smith, of Wilkes-Barre, a noted orthopedic specialist. Dr. Smith studied abroad for four years under Sir Robert Jones, of London, at the London Orthopedic Hospital, and is now orthopedist at the General Hospital in Wilkes-Barre, where he holds weekly clinics. He also has charge of the Kiwanis Club Clinic at Nanticoke.

BLOOMSBURG WINS STATE CHAMPIONSHIP

Statistics show clearly the great power of the Bloomsburg State Teachers College basketball team which this year won, clean-cut, the championship of the teachers colleges in the Keystone State. Bloomsburg teams four times in the past decade have had leading claims to the honors but never has a Maroon and Gold team so cleverly dominated the field as the 1930-31 combination.

Winners in 17 of their 18 contests, Bloomsburg compiled a total of 810 points to 515 for opponents. This gave the local boys an average of 45 points per game, 16 points more than opponents were able to gather. Their average was 29 points per game.

The teams met during the season included every state teachers college in the state except Edinboro and Clarion in the west and West Chester in the east. West Chester defeated by both Mansfield and Kutztown, was on the original schedule, but cancelled during the season when Bloomsburg was unable to arrange a suitable date for a game at West Chester as that institution requested.

There was no outstanding star for Bloomsburg. Every man was a star in his position. It was the great passing attack that carried the team through. Opposing clubs had some outstanding long shots, but that kind of a game was not good enough to offset the machine-like passing attack of Bloomsburg.

Captain Wanbaugh, Columbia boy, and the lanky youngster around whom the Bloomsburg offense was started, was high scorer of the team. He had 228 points. These were made up of 97 field goals and 34 foul goals. In foul shooting Wanbaugh proved the most accurate on the club, making 34 of 59 attempts.

Yocabonis, of Mahanoy City, rounding out four years of varsity play at the College, was second in line, with 224 points. Then came Kirker, also of Columbia, with 154 points. Kirker was not in five of the games played. Wilson, who so well handled the duties at forward during Kirker's absence, had 57 points. Rudowski, of Newport, who played at both forward and guard, collected 40 points.

Shepella, of Newport township, with 33 points was next in scoring and then came Golder, of town, back guard, with 32. Others who have contributed to the 810 points were Warman, of Scranton, with 17; Baker, of Columbia, with 10 and Yaretski, of Glen Lyon, with 15. Carr, Luzerne, a Freshman, was the eleventh member of the squad.

The starting combination in the majority of the games was Yocabonis and Kirker at forward, Wanbaugh at center and Golder and Shepella at guards. This was a brilliant team and was the stronger because there was excellent material for reserve duties.

Of the eighteen games, seven of them were away from home and five of these were played early in the season and were consecutive contests. The fourth of these games, that with East Stroudsburg, was the only one lost but when the team returned from the road trip with four decisive victories against the lone setback, it had already established for itself a place with the greatest basketball teams Bloomsburg has ever produced.

Of eleven varsity men, coach T. W. Booth, coaching his second championship five in three years, will lose five by graduation in June. They are Kirker, Golder, Yocabonis, Baker and Wilson. Wanbaugh, of the first stringers, has one more year as does Rudowski while Alex Shepella has two more years ahead. With the six members of the varsity squad remaining together with some fine material from the Junior Varsity, undefeated in 12 games, Bloomsburg appears to have material for another great team.

The team in making the 810 points made 318 field goals and 174 of 344 fouls. The foul shooting average was just over the .50 mark.

The individual scoring of each member of the team, as compiled by Morris Liptzer, of Catawissa, the student manager, follows:

	G.	F. G.	Pts.
Wanbaugh	97	34-59	228
Yocabonis	92	40-73	224
Kirker	55	44-80	154
Wilson	27	3-12	57
Rudowski	12	16-29	40
Shepella	13	7-21	33
Golder	9	14-32	32
Warman	4	9-17	17
Yareski	5	5-13	15
Baker	4	2-8	10
Carr	0	0-0	0
Total	318	174-344	810

The team record follows:

B. S. T. C. 38, Danville Y. M. C. A. 21, at Bloomsburg.
B. S. T. C. 70, Alumni 34, at Bloomsburg.
B. S. T. C. 24, Indiana S. T. C. 23, at Indiana.

Harvey A. Andruss, head of the Commercial Department, spoke at the meeting of the commercial department of the secondary schools at the meeting of the Pennsylvania State Education Association, held at Williamsport, December 31, 1930. At the same meeting, Prof. Andruss was elected vice-president of the commercial section in the state.

Dr. Nell Maupin, of the Department of Social Studies, addressed the Turbotville Parent-Teacher Association at their meeting held Wednesday evening February 25.

MARION M. IMRIE

Artist, Teacher and Social Worker.

Among the many forceful personalities connected with the Bloomsburg State Normal School during its fifty-five years of existence, is that of Miss Marion M. Imrie, who was in charge of the Art Department during the year 1878-9. She was a strong teacher; socially charming; and a cultured woman.

At this time the vivid lessons of the Centennial Exposition at Philadelphia, were still disturbing the American educator, who was only too well aware of the smugness and complacency of the masses of our people in their isolation from world movements. The exposition had given the nation a jolt. It had suggested to our leaders many needs, many changes, ere our place in the world's mart could be assured. The older and richer civilizations of Asia and Europe, as manifested in this great exposition, revealed also our crudeness, our slight development artistically. Their treasures in art, their products in every field of industry, their superior skill, all tended to give us vision and new standards. To many of our workers for the first time came the possibilities of form, color, design, in manufactured and industrial products. Our eyes were opened to the great domain of beauty; new needs appeared; necessities for training, skill, growth, development, became apparent, if our commerce might hope to compete successfully with older nations.

Manufacturers of textiles and other products, saw defects in their work that had been overlooked before. Museums and new schools of design were founded in many cities. Art classes grew. The few art schools in the country caught a new vision and enlarged their fields. Public schools, in the more intelligent centers began to modernize and extend their courses. The truth dawned upon many that art was an every-day subject, touching our common life in intimate relations; that it enchanced commerce, industry and manufacture; that it was a part of even the poor man's daily existence, in his dress, his furnishings, and home life; that with knowledge, right ideals and standards, good taste is as easily cultivated as bad taste, and much pleasanter to dwell with; that power to enhance the quality of a product need not militate against the quantity produced, and would gain a more ready market for that product.

It was just at this time that the Bloomsburg State Normal School, under a change of management, (D. J. Waller had become the young and enthusiastic principal of the budding institution), decided that art courses in the Normal Schools of the State ought to be live, practical courses, so equipping the teachers of the State that they might carry the new message to the children of the masses—vision, taste, appreciation of beauty whether in nature or art. The length of the course then offered in the training schools was only sixteen weeks of drawing and penmanship. The teacher in charge of the work tried in that time to give the candidate for the teacher's profession something of ideals, standards and taste, if not skill, in drawing and writing. The crude pupils were earnest and receptive; and more was done in the brief time than instructors and school authorities knew. The leaven planted silently stirred the mass to life. We have gone far in this field for our children; we still have great laps to go; but our children are slowing coming into their aesthetic inheritance, because of this small and faraway beginning, through the wisdom of discerning educators.

At this opportune time a woman qualified for this work was at hand. Somehow, somewhere, out of the unknown, stepped Miss Marion M. Imrie, a refined and intelligent little Scotch woman, blue-eyed, auburn-haired, awake, active; artist to the finger tips; trained and ready for the task school had set in its new departure for its art department. Miss Imrie assumed her work in the fall of 1878. Her early training she had gained in her native Scotland, ere she cast her lot among us about 1870, in her fifteenth year.

She was a very versatile teacher. She sketched from nature. She instructed in oil and water color. She understood designing, and was creative in that field. She made it a means of opening the eyes of her pupils to the wonders of form and color; of line and surface; of light and shade. She taught them to see, and interpret what they saw in various media. She appreciated good line and arrangement in architecture, and helped her pupils to see and enjoy them. She knew the history of art, and opened that field to her classes. But most of all did she know and understand the principles of design, and how to make this field interesting to her classes, and a never-failing source of pleasure to them in their daily life.

She was one of those rare teachers who believed in the inherent artistic ability of all her students; expected results creditable from all and secured them. She made the most of her time, and her pupils ability, or lack of it. All learned to see, to do, to enjoy their surroundings, because of her charm and a skill as a teacher, and her faith in their inherent ability. The world to every one of them became a richer place to live in; and their usefulness as teachers was enhanced because of her faith in their power to do, and her enthusiasm for this great field she knew so well; loved so wisely. Her pupils revered her. Their best efforts, however poor, were accepted by her with dignified constructive criticism, and a sincerity that enriched their next effort.

Miss Imrie was born at Colmonell, Ayer, Scotland, about 1855. Little is known of her early life and education. She came to America in her early womanhood, as we have already said. An "In Memoriam" card which fell into the hands of the writer, gave the fact that her mother, Marion Jameison, widow of John Barton Imrie, who died at Royal Bank House, Ayer, on the 21st of May 1892, in her sixty-eighth year, was interred in the church-yard at Colmonell.

In the old family Bible, brought from Scotland, are the Psalms in metric form as sung in the Presbyterian service of the Scottish church. Some remnants of poetry, written by her father remain, and suggest where her poetic and artistic temperament is derived. Her family was a religious one. Her love for beauty, for poetry, for all things that stir ones finer nature, no doubt influenced her choice of a profession and her subsequent training and life work.

After leaving Bloomsburg, Miss Imrie took up her residence and work in Ohio where she married Mr. Vernon C. Ward. She lived for sometime in Columbus. Her family later moved to Chicago, where she died August, 1906, leaving a son Vernon C. Jr., and a daughter Elizabeth H. Ward.

Those who knew of her work say that she spent some time in study abroad. The result of this study was a beautiful head of Christ. She was represented at the Paris Exposition by two panels, "The Trossachs," and two other small paintings of Scottish scenery. Her work was also represented at the Columbia Exposition in Chicago, in 1893. One of her paintings "Oranges and Lemons" was a prize-winner at the San Francisco exposition. She had a collection of hand painted china at the Atlanta Exposition that attracted attention, and received complimentary notice in the southern papers at the time. She had an exhibition also at the St. Louis Exposition.

Mrs. Ward sponsored the movement for the single moral standard for both sexes when such ideas were not considered with popular favor. She was the founder of an organization, called the "Order of the Four P's," (Patience, Perseverance, Purity, Prayer), January 1896 at Columbus, Ohio, which was the outgrowth of a religious awakening there among the young people in 1895.

The object of the order was to raise the standard of morals among those with whom we associate, especially youth. There were sixteen character members "Patriots of Purity," all members of her Sunday School Class. The movement had quite a following in other churches at the time.

Mrs. Ward's influence was always inspiring and uplifting, with all young people among whom she worked. She was a woman of high ideals, and forceful character; in vision far ahead of her times. She believed in and advocated prohibition, when as yet it was only a name. She wore among the first, the white ribbon of the W. C. T. U.

She was preeminently an artist and a teacher of art,—a worthy FIRST among the many excellent art teachers who have served "Bloomsburg" during its work in this field for sixty years. She left her impress on our institution. Her memory is a benediction to her pupils as they in their teaching labor on in the cause of truth and beauty. Pennsylvania is better for her work among us.

Dr. C. F. Hoban, Director of Visual Education in the Department of Public Instruction, spoke at the College Assembly Friday morning, January 23. Dr. Hoban stressed the need for greater use of visual aids to education. He drew many illustrations from his recent trip to Europe, and from the point of view of visual education, discussed the technique of teaching in the schools of Europe as compared with those in America.

IRENE GEORGIA KAHLERTeacher and Inspirer of Youth.

Irene Georgia Kahler, teacher of mathematics in the Bloomsburg High School, for sixteen years, died December 26, 1930, after a lingering illness of many months. She was a member of the class of 1908, of the Bloomsburg State Normal School, a very superior student, graduating with honorable mention in both scholarship and teaching ability, in the old days when the dagger stood for superior ability as a teacher on the commencement program, and the star for excellence in scholarship. Miss Kahler always led her group in whatever she did.

Miss Kahler was born September 8, 1890, and was a life long resident of Bloomsburg. She was graduated from the local High School with high honors with the class of 1906 and was historian of her class. She entered the Normal School in the autumn of that year.

After finishing her course in training, she was elected to the North Berwick High School, as assistant principal, and taught there two years. She was then elected to a position as teacher in the public schools of Bloomsburg, teaching in fifth and sixth grades. She joined the high school faculty in 1916 as teacher of mathematics. She was elected to this position because of her superior ability as a teacher, and her tact in dealing with young people.

She was a very excellent teacher, clear in presentation, forceful in instruction and tactful in control; always winsome and kindly in manner. She loved her work, knew her subject matter, and was in thoro rapport with young life.

Two conversations come to the writer that comprise a volume in pedagogy in their brief sentences. To an indifferent, not over brilliant student in her class the question was asked:

"Who is your algebra teacher?"

"Miss Kahler."

"How are you getting along with the subject?"

"Very well. She is so earnest and so kind that you learn her subject whether you have brains or not." (The pupil had brains but avoided using them on general principles).

This later with Miss Kahler:

"Miss K., How does X get along in your algebra class?"

Her face lit up with a gleam of pleasure that was assuring as she answered:

"One of the very best boys I have! He is not so quick of apprehension; but he is so attentive, so willing, so eager to do his best for me that he is an inspiration to me every recitation." This of a boy that was a heavy weight in other classes, and a failure in some. The difference was in the personality of the teacher, the personal touch of one who knew youth and cared to inspire effort.

And so we say rightfully that pupils loved her, and took pains to have her know it; worked for her; were orderly, kind courteous in her presence and in her classes. They mourn her going; they miss her presence; her spirit. A great and benign influence has gone out of their lives. They loved to cheer her last days with flowers and appreciative messages, because her earnest, beautiful life, her untiring effort had enlarged their vision and they had grasped something of her spirit. In touch with her, inspired by her earnestness, they ceased to trifle in the adolescent way, in the spirit of mere play, and began the search for deeper things.

Her spirit of gentleness, earnestness, solicitude and sacrifice will live in their lives, be a part of their standards, and all of us teachers will be measured by the standards she all unwittingly set in their young souls.

She was popular in the true sense of the term, in that she sought ever to be useful and helpful, often to her own inconvenience and detriment. In always putting forward the good of others, she enhanced her power, and influence among her pupils, and become all unconsciously an object of affection among all who knew her, and worked with her.

"Irene" will be missed when her classmates gather. She will be missed among her fellow-teachers. Most of all her pupils miss her guiding steady hand, her encouraging winsome spirit. She will continue to live in the minds and hearts of those who knew her best, as an inspiring and uplifting force. O, for more teachers with the intelligence, the wisdom, the tact, the patience, the sympathy, the vision, and the character of Irene Georgia Kahler!

THE ALUMNI RECEPTION ROOM

"Trophy Room"

The Alumni Reception Room, ("Trophy Room"), is now a reality. It was permanently opened November 8, 1931, (Home Coming Day), and sufficiently equipped to be used with comfort, pride, and satisfaction by any alumni who return to the college on a visit.

Following is a statement of the subscriptions made and the amounts still outstanding. We need the money to settle our obligations, and save interest charges. We hope the members of the various classes, who have endorsed the movement, will note the figures, and respond at once with their quota.

Send your check to the treasurer of the fund and he will acknowledge it by receipt. Whether your class has been solicited or not, up to this time, anything contributed to the project will be credited to the person and class from which it comes. Do not let your dilatory good intentions delay the work. Send in your check now.

Yours for service and growth,

O. H. BAKELESS, Treasurer.

A. BRUCE BLACK

Death at 5:00 o'clock, Monday morning, March 16, suddenly ended the career of A. Bruce Black, for 15 years head of the penmanship department of the Bloomsburg State Teachers College and nationally recognized as a Shakespearean authority. The end came at his home on East Street about two hours after he was stricken with an attack of indigestion, and was due principally to heart disease. He was aged 57 years.

Mr. Black at the time of his death was court crier of Columbia County courts, to which he was appointed May 3, 1930.

Throughout his life he was a keen student of Shakespeare and a lover of books. His collection of books was one of the finest to be found in this section of the country, and his library included copies of books which were most rare. Many of these were disposed of only a few years ago.

He had written a number of books, most of them based on Shakespeare, and his latest work, a pamphlet containing 60 allusions and parallels, compiled in collaboration with Dr. Robert M. Smith, professor of English at Lehigh University, came out only a few weeks ago.

Concerning the pamphlet the New York Times carried the following dispatch under a Bethlehem date line:

"An original collection of sixty allusions and parallels has been compiled in a publication of the Institute of Research of Lehigh University largely as the result of exhaustive study for thirty-five years of an invalid in his home at Bloomsburg, Pa. The man is A. Bruce Black who is co-author with Dr. Robert M. Smith, Professor of English at Lehigh.

"The pamphlet, covering a period from 1599 to 1701 and illustrating the influence which Shakespeare has upon the literature of the seventeenth century, is composed of allusions and parallels selected from almost 600 passages submitted by Mr.

Black. They are the fruit of intensive reading and research and were discovered largely as a result of his remarkable associate memory."

His work attracted wide interest in literary circles.

An evidence of this was that only last Friday, Mr. Black received a letter from the president of the Encyclopedia Britannica from London congratulating him on his work and asking that he send him a copy of his drama "William Shakespeare, Gentleman," which Mr. Black wrote some years ago but never published.

Word of his death came as a profound shock to his legion of friends and acquaintances throughout this section. He had been in failing health for some years and about five years ago had to undergo operations for the amputation of both legs. He showed remarkable grit in rallying from this misfortune and in learning to walk with artificial limbs. Throughout this illness he continued his work and studies.

The son of the late Sheriff and Mrs. William W. Black, Mr. Black was born September 20, 1873, at Rohrsburg, Greenwood Township. As a youth he attended school in that locality and at Dickinson Seminary and in the high school at York, Pa. He continued his studies at Michael University, Logansport, Ind., graduating from that institution in the spring of 1896, and then he took a special course in penmanship at the Zanerian Art College, Columbus, Ohio, graduating in the fall of that year.

Returning to Bloomsburg, he became deputy sheriff under his father in 1897 and served during the three years of his term, continuing as deputy under Sheriff Knorr and then remaining as deputy through his father's second term. For the next three years he was clerk to the county commissioners, completing twelve years of service in the court house when he left that position.

For a short time he taught in the summer school at Benton and then in 1909 he accepted the position of instructor in penmanship at the Bloomsburg State Teachers College, at that time the Bloomsburg Normal School. He continued a valued member of that faculty for about 15 years.

During his service at that institution he twice visited Europe, once in 1911 and again in 1914. During these visits he spent much time in the British Isles, visiting the home of Shakespeare and continuing his studies. He was in Europe at the time of the outbreak of the World War and had a thrilling experience in getting back to America, being forced to stand in water for some hours after the vessel in which he was a passenger had been shelled for refusal to stop so that it could be searched for draft evaders. Some years later Mr. Black continued his travels with a trip to the Pacific coast.

His first published literary work was in 1900 and was entitled "Like Expressions." This was later revised and enlarged and printed in two good sized volumes. The work was intended to do away with parallelism arguments, especially in the Bacon-Shakespearean controversy. He also published a novel, "A Random Shaft."

For some years Mr. Black was also interested in writing the words of songs, a number of which were published. He was always a lover of fine books and during the past summer was congratulated by Senators and Congressmen for his part in securing for the United States from Germany a number of valuable books which are a real addition to the Library of Congress at Washington.

His last literary efforts were devoted to working with Prof. Smith in the publishing of the allusions and parallels to the words of Shakespeare and at the time of his death was continuing work in this field. Only a few weeks before his death, he stated that Lehigh University was anxious that he complete this work and he said he was eager to do it but was doubtful whether his life would be prolonged over the necessary period.

Mr. Black was nationally recognized as an authority on Shakespeare and frequently addressed clubs on that subject in New York and Philadelphia. Only a few months ago he delivered a lecture on Shakespeare at the Ben Franklin Hotel in Philadelphia and he appeared several times before the Yale Club of New York City.

Through his work at the Teachers College and in the literary field, Mr. Black was widely known and had a legion of friends throughout the country.

On February 23, 1907, Mr. Black married Miss Helen Williams, of Bloomsburg, who passed away August 30, 1910. About 12 years ago he married Miss Lois Brunstetter, of Orangeville, who survives him, as does one son by the first marriage, Lessing Black, a chemist working in New York. The son was home to visit his father only a week ago. Also surviving are three nephews, Bruce Mather, of Benton; Ray Mather, of Boston University, and Dr. Clayton Mather, of Strausburg.

Mr. Black was a member of the Methodist Church and of the Sons of Veterans while that organization was active. In politics he was a Democrat and in 1928 was the Democratic nominee for member of the General Assembly.

WILLIAM H. HOUSEL

William H. Housel, for many years steward at the Bloomsburg State Normal School, died in Philadelphia Friday, February 20. He was found dead in his bed. News of his death came as a shock to his relatives and friends, as he had visited Bloomsburg two weeks before his death, and at that time was apparently in the best of health. At the time of his death, Mr. Housel was sixty-nine years of age.

A native of Lock Haven, Mr. Housel was born in 1861. As a young man he came to Bloomsburg and resided here for many years. For about twenty years he was steward at the Bloomsburg State Normal School. Later he held a similar position at the Elks' Club. At another time he had a music store in Bloomsburg. For the past five years he had lived in Philadelphia, where he was employed as night watchman for the Market Street Title and Trust Company.

Although not many are aware of the fact, Mr. Housel left behind him a monument that people look at many times a day. We refer to the clock on the tower of Carver Hall. In the December, 1928, issue of the QUARTERLY, we printed an article by Dean Sutliff, relative to placing the clock in the tower. We take the liberty to quote this article in part:

"Among other improvements in the late 90's, the trustees decided to remodel the front of Carver Hall. The present imposing front facing the town, including the clock tower, was erected. But no clock was available—or, in other words, there was no cash on hand to provide the clock. The circular windows were boarded up, blind eyes to a beautiful tower.

"At that time William Housel was the efficient steward at the Normal School. He saw the need of a clock and made the proposition to the trustees to secure it without cost to the institution. His plan was briefly this: The large eating stand at the Fair Grounds could be rented and dinner served to the crowds at a fair profit. He decided to try renting this building and serving a turkey dinner each day during the Fair.

"The students and faculty of the school were enlisted in the project. Volunteer waiters were secured. Some donations were made by dealers from whom regular supplies were purchased, and the plan went forward with great enthusiasm. Good weather prevailed and large crowds were in attendance. It was a successful project from every standpoint.

"Mr. Housel then went to New York, and with about seven hundred dollars as his assets from the plan, bought the clock and had it installed without cost to the school."

Dean Sutliff closed his article with the following: "Here's hoping that someone will remember the date and place a little marker upon the clock and give a few details of its origin, and credit to whom credit is due." We wonder if this is not the time for the suggestion to be carried out. It would be a worthy project for the Alumni Association.

ANNUAL COLLEGE NIGHT A SUCCESS

The annual college night of the service clubs of Bloomsburg—one of the outstanding events of each year's program—provided a treat Thursday evening, January 8, in the appearance of Dr. John L. Davis, of New York, a humorist extraordinary, and one who declared his mission of the evening was to drive away depression.

From the march of the orchestra as the more than 400 guests entered the college hall to the close of the good night dance in the auditorium, the program of the evening was one that held the closest attention of every guest, and every part of it was unqualifiedly good.

President R. G. Buckalew, of the Kiwanis Club, and president H. Mont. Smith of the Rotary Club, jointly presided and Miss Harriet Moore led in spirited singing. The college orchestra under the direction of Howard Fenstermaker, provided a delightful program of music.

At the close of the program in the dining room, students of the college and others presented music and one act plays in the auditorium follows:

KAPPA DELTA PI ORGANIZED AT BLOOMSBURG

Dr. Alfred L. Hall-Quest, educator, author, and editor of the Kadelphian Review, installed the Gamma Beta Chapter of Kappa Delta Pi at the College Saturday afternoon, February 21. Alumni, juniors, and seniors were initiated as charter members at that time.

The initiation exercises were followed by a banquet in the college dining room for the fraternity and special guests.

Kappa Delta Pi is a national honorary educational fraternity. Its purpose is to foster high professional and scholarship standards during the period of preparation for teaching, and to recognize outstanding service in the field of education. To this it maintains the highest educational ideals and fosters fellowship, scholarship, and achievement in educational work. Membership consists of juniors and seniors, both men and women, with general scholarship requirements of a grade in the upper quarter of the enrollment, and the completion of at least six hours in education for juniors and twelve for seniors. It is both a graduate and an undergraduate fraternity and has the unique distinction of a Laureate Chapter composed of outstanding educators throughout the world, the intention being to make this in essence an Academy of Education similar to the Academy of Science or the Academy of Letters. To date the number of laureates is nearly twenty-five, and there are seventy-four active chapters.

A convocation of the fraternity meets biennially. A quarterly, the Kadelphian Review, is published at Menasha, Wisconsin. The key is a scroll and stylus.

Kappa Delta Pi grew out of a local society, the Illinois Education Club, founded at the University of Illinois in 1909. Later, June 8, 1911, it was incorporated under the laws of the State of Illinois as the honorary educational fraternity Kappa Delta Pi.

There are chapters throughout the East and West. Some of the colleges in this section where chapters have been established are: State Teachers College, Indiana, Pa., State Teachers College, Mansfield, Pa., William and Mary College, Teachers College, Columbia University, University of Cincinnati, and West Virginia University.

The organization of the chapter of Kappa Delta Pi is of interest to every student of the College, for it shows that the requirements of high scholarship at Bloomsburg compare favorably with other colleges and universities.

The faculty committee on fraternities and sororities which has been instrumental in securing a chapter of Kappa Delta Pi is of interest to every student of the College, for it shows that the requirements of high scholarship at Bloomsburg compare favorably with other colleges and universities.

The faculty committee on fraternities and sororities which has been instrumental in securing a chapter of Kappa Delta Pi at Bloomsburg is composed of Prof. S. L. Wilson, Dr. H. H. Russell, Miss Ethel A. Ranson, Miss Edna J. Hazen, and Dr. Nell Maupin, Chairman.

In the business meeting following the installation, the following officers were elected and installed: President, Chester Zimolzak; Vice President, Martin Sekulski; Recording Secretary, Miss Lorna Gillow; Corresponding Secretary, Miss Elizabeth Bowman; Treasurer, Frank Perch; Historian, Laura Shultz.

The members of the Bloomsburg Chapter are:

Graduates: Margaretta Bone, Llewellyn Edmunds, Anna

Elizabeth Erwin, Edward Jacob Ferber, Gilbert Gould, Karleen Hoffman, Josephine Holuba, Charles John, Norma Knoll, Edgar Richards, Thursabert Schuyler, Nevin Sponseller, Blanche Fahringer, Leroy Baer, Earl Farley, Margaret Swartz, Luther Bitler, Myra Sharpless, Lawrence Creasy, Roy Haring, Mary A. Laird, Alice Pennington, Thomas Welsko, Francis McHugh, Martha A. Laird, Marjorie Orr, Nicholas Polaneczky, Helen Stackhouse, Arthur Jenkins, Dorothy Schmidt.

Seniors: Edward Devoe, Esther Yeager, Emily A. Park, Clarence Wolever, Elizabeth Bowman, Thomas Henry, Helen Maynard, Marian Meixwell, Martin Sekulski, William Weaver, Chester Zimolzack, and Dorothy Kisner.

Juniors: Grace Callendar, Lois Demott, Lorna Gillow, Ezra Harris, Gerald Hartman, James J. Johns, Frank Perch, Ivor Robbins, Laura Shultz, Lottie Zebrowski, and Frank Dushanko.

Faculty Members: Nell Maupin, Edna J. Hazen, Ethel A. Ranson, H. H. Russel, S. L. Wilson, and Rachel Turner.

Honorary Members: President Emeritus David J. Waller, Jr. and President Francis B. Haas.

PROF. AND MRS. JENKINS CELEBRATE GOLDEN WEDDING

Fifty years of married life, most of it intimately connected with the educational institution where they met as pupils, were rounded out Monday, December 22, by Prof. and Mrs. F. H. Jenkins, of West Fifth Street, and that evening at their home they were hosts to a number of friends.

In addition there were many telegrams and letters of congratulation from friends who could not attend. The home was a bower of flowers sent by friends, and the couple also received many handsome gifts.

Few Bloomsburg residents are better known than they. Prof. Jenkins came in contact with thousands of students during his more than forty years of service at the Normal School, and Mrs. Jenkins has for many years been one of the most active members of St. Matthew Lutheran Church.

Mrs. Jenkins was formerly Miss Anna Bittenbender, of town, and Prof. Jenkins came here as a student from Chittenango, N. Y.

During the observance that evening at the home, Mrs. W. B. Sutliff played the "Venetian Love Song," by Ethelbert Nevin.

Miss Harriet Moore sang delightfully, "When You and I Were Young, Maggie," and also sang an original song for which Prof. W. B. Sutliff had written the words and music.

Mrs. William Fortner read "The Golden Milestone" by Longfellow, and Mr. Fenstermaker played a medley of songs that were popular a half century ago.

Prof. Jenkins came to the Normal in the fall of 1873 to prepare for college and graduated in 1876 when the school still was in its infancy. He then entered Amherst college and from 1880 to 1884 was principal of the public schools at Eaton, N. Y.

He returned to Bloomsburg in August, 1884, to be teacher of English at the Normal School, continuing in that position until 1895 when he was made registrar and business manager of the school, a position he filled capably for thirty years until his retirement in August, 1925. In that capacity he came in contact with all of the thousands of students during those three decades. Altogether he was at the school for forty-one years in addition to the years spent there as student.

Mr. and Mrs. Jenkins were married in St. Matthew Lutheran Church by Rev. O. D. S. Marclay, who was the pastor at that time. One of the guests at the wedding, Mrs. Dora Fritz, of Pottstown, was able to attend the golden wedding.

They have one daughter, Mrs. R. A. McCachran, and two grandsons, Robert and Russell McCachran.

DR. HAAS WRITES NEW COLLEGE SONG

Dr. Francis B. Haas, president of the Teachers College, has entered the ranks of the composers.

At the college night of the service clubs on Thursday evening, January 8, there was sung for the first time "The Maroon and Gold," which was written by Dr. Haas recently.

Inquiry as to the writing of the words and melody brought the information that Dr. Haas had the tune in mind for some time and when he hummed it, Prof. Howard Fenstemaker of the college faculty, set down the words.

The words of the song follows:

In the days to come when others boast
And College tales are told
To the glad refrain add a joyful strain
A cheer for Maroon and Gold
And be not weak in praise nor slow to honor.

Refrain

Keep the colors proudly flying
Raise them high, Maroon and Gold
Colors royal for the loyal
And a cheer for the brave and bold
Fling a challenge to the honest foe
And the colors bravely hold
Sound the noble cry with courage high
Hurrah! Hurrah! Maroon and Gold!

The children of Bloomsburg and vicinity who are patients at the Clinic for Crippled Children, conducted by Dr. Merrill at the Geisinger Hospital, in Danville, were the guests of the girls of Waller Hall at a Christmas party held in the college gymnasium Saturday afternoon, December 14.

THE 1930-31 ARTIST'S COURSE

The Artist's Course, as outlined for this year, has been attracting large audiences, and has been well received. The course opened October 17, with "The Violin Maker of Cremona." Friday evening, November 21, Charles Naegele, pianist, who played here several years ago, played a return engagement, and again delighted his hearers. Friday evening, December 19, the attraction was John Bockewitz, Dramatic Cartoonist. Mr. Bockewitz also presented his program in the afternoon to all the children who are part of the training school system. A program of high artistic quality was presented Friday evening, January 30 by the Durrell String Quartette, assisted by Reginald Boardman, pianist, and John Percival, baritone. The program given March 6, was presented by the Boston Male Choir. This was the third engagement of the Choir in Bloomsburg, and their popularity was well indicated by the applause they received. The last number of the course was the drama "Old Nobody," presented by the Matheson, Kennedy, Gage Players. This was also a return engagement, as this party played "The Chastening" here two years ago. Charles Rann Kennedy, a member of this company, won fame as the author of "The Servant in the House." If the increase in attendance is any indication, the Artist's Course is growing more popular every year.

The faculty of the Bloomsburg State Teachers College held another of the much enjoyed "family night" parties Tuesday evening, February 24, the affair opening with a dinner at the dining room of the First Methodist Church, and being concluded with cards at the home of Dr. and Mrs. Francis B. Haas.

TWELVE STUDENTS COMPLETE WORK

With the close of the first semester at the Bloomsburg State Teachers' College Saturday noon, twelve girl students, all of them working in the primary and intermediate fields, completed their college work. They will return at the end of the second semester to take part in the commencement exercises.

Students who have completed their work are:

Intermediate—Dobrowolski, Stella F., 821 Foot Ave., Duryea.

Intermediate—Dunn, Florence Louise, 427 Main St., Jermyn.

Intermediate—Gitlovitz, Dora, Box 78, R. D. 1, Wilkes-Barre.

Rural—Harrison, Ada F., Huntington Mills.

Intermediate—Kasaczun, Alice H., 609 Cherry St., Scranton.

Primary—Kazunas, Milda R., 38 S. Jardin St., Shenandoah.

Primary—Liddell, Mildred E., 535 E. Center St., Mahanoy City.

Intermediate—Mann, Lillian E., Coxton Y. M. C. A., Pittston.

Primary—Roberts, Jeanette, 3505 Odell Ave., Scranton.

Intermediate—Rosser, Helen C., 920 Pine St., Scranton.

Primary—Solonski, Anna A., 729 Poplar St., Bloomsburg.

Intermediate—Wolfe, Genevieve G., R. D. 1, Alderson.

Francis T. Brown, of Wilkes-Barre, was the successful bidder for the installation of a clock and bell system to be installed in the Benjamin Franklin Training School at the College.

ATTENTION, PHILADELPHIA ALUMNI

The Philadelphia Alumni are planning a dinner, to be held during the latter part of April. The date has not yet been definitely fixed. Members of the old Faculty will be invited, and a cordial invitation is extended to all Alumni living in and near Philadelphia. Those interested should communicate with Mrs. Florence Hess Cool, 112 North 50th Street, West Philadelphia.

ALUMNI DAY, SATURDAY, MAY 23

The following classes will hold reunions: 1871, 1876, 1881, 1886, 1891, 1896, 1901, 1906, 1911, 1916, 1921, 1926, and 1929. Plan now to make this the greatest Alumni Day in the history of the College.

A special supplement to the QUARTERLY will soon be mailed to all Bloomsburg graduates. It will contain a complete announcement of the day's program. Watch for it.

SOUND PICTURE DEMONSTRATION

Students of the College were given a fine demonstration of the possibilities of the sound picture as an aid to teaching by a program presented Monday, February 9, through the courtesy of the Electrical Research Products, Incorporated, a branch of the Western Electric. The program began with the regular chapel exercises at 10 A. M., and ran continuously until 4:30. The following films were shown: "The Play of Imagination in Geometry," by Eugene Smith, Professor Emeritus of Mathematics, Teachers College Columbia University; "Fundamentals of Football"; The Symphony Orchestra Series; "Woodwind Choir," "Brass Choir," "Percussion Group," and "String Choir"; "Acoustic Principles," by Dr. Harvey Fletcher, of the Bell Telephone Laboratories; "Finding His Voice," an animated cartoon explaining "What Makes the Movies Talk"; "Our Government at Work," "The Testing of Child Intelligence," as demonstrated by Mrs. Ina C. Sartorius, Assistant Principal of the Horace Mann Elementary School; "The Study of Infant Behavior," by Dr. Arnold Gesell, Director of the Yale Psycho Clinic; "The Creative Approach to Education," by Hughes Mearns, Professor of Education at New York University; and "Accomplishment Tests for Babies," by Dr. Charlotte Buhler, of the Psychology Institute of Vienna.

ADD TEACHER IN COMMERCIAL DEPARTMENT

Miss Marguerite Murphy has been added to the faculty of the commercial department to assist H. A. Andruss, head of this department, which was opened last Fall. The department has proved very popular with the students with over forty having taken the work during the past semester. The college offers in this field a four year course leading to a bachelor's degree in commercial education.

Miss Murphy is a graduate of the Illinois State Normal University, Normal, Ill., attended the Gregg School, Chicago, Ill., and Teachers College, Columbia University, receiving her B. S. degree in February, 1929, and her M. A. degree in December of that year at Columbia.

Miss Murphy has taught at Granville and Chillicothe, Ill., and since October, 1929, has been principal of the Sherman's Business School, Mount Vernon, New York.

LEGISLATORS OF DISTRICT GUESTS

Members of the legislature from the area served by the Bloomsburg State Teachers' College were guests at the institution on Monday, December 22nd, as the board of trustees held its regular meeting, and the students enjoyed their annual Christmas dinner party.

Senators and representatives from throughout the service area had been invited to the school for the day and during the afternoon they were shown the college as it was at work by the members of the board of trustees and the president, Dr. Francis B. Haas.

Mrs. Haas served tea to the ladies in the new alumni room and dinner was enjoyed in the dining room where the students enjoyed a turkey dinner. During the dinner there was spirited group singing and a number of selections by the double quartet and the boys' glee club of the college.

A Christmas dance was enjoyed in the gymnasium following dinner.

The guests were Senator and Mrs. Benjamin Apple, of Sunbury; Mr. and Mrs. Frank McArran, of Danville; Sterling Post, of Northumberland; Benjamin Jones and son, of Wilkes-Barre; W. W. Shutt, of Bloomsburg; Mrs. John G. Harman, of Bloomsburg; the Misses Llewellyn, of Elysburg; Miss Elizabeth Waller, Dr. D. J. Waller, Jr., Mr. and Mrs. Joseph L. Townsend, Mrs. A. W. Duy, Jr., A. W. Duy, Paul E. Wirt, Miss Sara Wirt, of Bloomsburg; Mr. and Mrs. Fred W. Diehl, of Danville, and Dr. and Mrs. Francis B. Haas.

E. A. Reams of the Department of Social Studies, spoke Wednesday, January 14 to the Garden Club of Millville. Mr. Reams spoke on current events of national and international interest.

COLLEGE BAND ORGANIZED

One of the most active of the under graduate organizations on the hill is the newly formed band of the Bloomsburg State Teachers College. This band made its first public appearance at the Rotary-Kiwanis College Night early in the year and has been a success from the start.

Howard Fenstemaker, of the department of modern languages, is the director of the band which has 30 men in its personnel. The institution has equipped the organization with white duck trousers and black sweaters and they make a natty appearance.

They have been playing for basketball games recently and have added much to the enjoyment of the spectators.

Of the present members only about five will be lost through graduation. This number should be recruited from the incoming class. In addition there are several students at the school who will probably be recruited for the band next year.

The need of a band has been long felt at the school and in recent years attempts have been made to form one but they have met with little success. Now it appears that the college is to have a band and a good one.

During the holidays, Bloomsburg attracted many visitors who came to see the beautiful Christmas illumination. One of the features of the holiday decoration was that of the dome of Carver Hall. The electrically lighted dome was visible for miles, giving the effect of a huge bell, worked out in red lights. Below it, and facing College Hill, the letters "B. S. T. C." were worked out in brilliant colors, while a panel of colored lights surrounded the entire base of the dome. Still lower, the front of the building was outlined in red lights, and the entrance in green lights. At the front of the building the fountain and its base were beautifully decorated with Christmas greens. The credit for the whole project goes to Nevin B. Englehart, Superintendent of Buildings and Grounds, and his corps of assistants.

Prof. C. H. Albert, spoke three times during the two day program of the Monroe County School Directors' Association which was held at Stroudsburg Wednesday and Thursday, January 14 and 15. Speaking before the directors Wednesday morning, Mr. Albert delivered an address on "Some Rightful Demands of Parents, Pupils and Teachers." His subject that afternoon was "The Three Fold Nature of the Child." Thursday morning he spoke on "Some Real Tasks for School Directors."

Miss Ethel A. Ranson, of the College faculty is having a home built on East Second Street, above the college property. Miss Ranson will be the latest addition to the "faculty colony" which is growing up in that locality, homes having already been built there by Prof. S. L. Wilson, Business Manager C. M. Hausknecht, Prof. F. A. Reams, and Prof. E. H. Nelson.

An audience that almost completely filled the college auditorium Friday evening, December 12, was carried back to the days of the Civil War and lived with the characters of the tragedy "The Copperhead" the many trials and tribulations of the war time spy.

Members of the Alpha Psi Omega Dramatic Fraternity presented the play under the auspices of the Senior class and no college production in recent years has been any better handled.

An exceptionally strong cast under the capable direction of Miss Alice Johnston had undivided attention throughout the evening. The character roles were enacted in such a way that there was nothing left to be desired.

The cast of characters for the first epoch follows: Joey Shanks, Nicholas Jaffin; Grandma Perley, Luella Krug; Mrs. Shanks, Miss Elizabeth VanBusKirk; Captain Hardy, John Hall; Milt Shanks, Maynard J. Pennington; Mrs. Bates, Miss Dorothy Levere; Sue Perley, Miss Mary Davies; Lem Tollard, Thomas Kirker; Newt Gillespie, Robert G. Sutliff; Andrews, George Breuchman; Elsie, Miss Ruth Emma Fortner. Additional characters playing in the second epoch were: Madeline King, Miss Millie Rabb; Philip Manning, Arthur McKenzie; Mrs. Manning, Elizabeth Bowman; Dr. Randall, David Baker.

Dr. Haas was one of the speakers on the eighteenth annual Schoolmen's Week program, held at Philadelphia from March 18 to 21, under the auspices of the University of Pennsylvania. Dr. Haas, who is a member of the General Committee of Schoolmen's Week, spoke on "Financing a Teacher-Training Program for the State of Pennsylvania," at the session held Friday morning, March 20, in Houston Hall, on the University Campus.

Faculty and Alumni of the Bloomsburg State Teachers College played a prominent part in the sixth annual convention of the Northeastern Convention District of the Pennsylvania State Education Association, held in the Elmer L. Meyers High School, Wilkes-Barre, March 6 and 7. Dr. Francis B. Haas, was president of the district, and presided at the general sessions. John C. Koch, Dean of Men, was a member of the Committee on Resolutions, while George J. Keller, of the Art Department, was a member of the Legislative Committee. Earl N. Rhodes, Director of Teacher Training, presided at the meeting of the Department of College and Teacher Training. Dr. Nell Maupin, of the Department of Social Studies, spoke at the Social Science Section, her subject being "Development of Attitudes and Abilities in Social Studies." H. F. Fenstermaker, of the Department of Foreign Languages, spoke at the Latin Section on "Vergil and the Modern Reader." May T. Haden, Director of Primary Education, led a discussion at the meeting of the primary teachers. Dr. Thomas P. North, of the Department of Education, spoke at the Agriculture Section of the Anthracite Arts Association; his subject was "Social Problems of the Supervisor of Agriculture." Many alumni also had prominent parts on the program.

Mrs. Emma Harman, wife of the late Prof. David A. Harman, formerly Superintendent of the Hazleton schools, died on November 19, 1930, at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Robert Bazley, in Pottsville. Funeral services were held Friday, November 21, in the Lutheran Church at Hazleton.

Ernest W. Young, '80, of Saint Paul, Minnesota, send us the following tribute to Lorena G. Evans, for many years a teacher in the schools of Harrisburg, Pa. The article appeared on the editorial page of the Harrisburg Telegraph, of Saturday, January 10, 1931.

An Able Teacher.

A little note in the Telegraph tells of the 80th birthday of Miss Lorena G. Evans. Miss Evans writes from her New York home that she has received many cards and other tokens of remembrance from those who recall her teaching days in the Harrisburg High School. Which is at it should be, for the city never had a better or more devoted teacher than Miss Evans. Of stern demeanor she was yet kind of heart and considerate of those of her pupils who really tried. There are many men and women once under her tuition who will readily admit that the training they received at her hands in logical deduction and the discipline of mind and conduct on which she insisted have been outstanding factors in whatever degree of success they have enjoyed. It has been many years since Miss Evans presided over classes here. That she is still so well and affectionately remembered is a tribute to the quality of her teaching and her personal influence for good.

Samuel Henderson, one of Montgomery's most prominent citizens, died at his home Monday, November 24, 1930. He had been in ill health for several years, but was confined to his bed only a few days before his death. He was president of the Lycoming Upholstery Company, and was very prominent in Freemasonry. He is survived by his wife, formerly Miss Jean Wells, of Bloomsburg, and by three sons and a daughter.

After years of exacting toil wresting from abbreviated Latin the meanings in the philosophy of a man dead nearly 600 years, T. Bruce Birch, Ph. D., D. D., professor of philosophy at Wittenberg College, begins to enjoy the pleasant fruits of scholarly authorship.

His new book is a translation of William of Ockham's "De Sacramento Altaris," and has been immediately accepted by critics in universities, seminaries and colleges as a monumental contribution to knowledge.

Having been available for purchase only a short time ago, this book has been placed in 110 American universities and colleges and seminaries, and in three European universities, according to the publishers, who regard these orders as only the beginning of a demand.

Even from the County of Surrey, England, where Ockham was born, comes a letter from Mary, Countess of Lovelace, who lives in Ockham Park, Surrey, in gratitude to the author for making a translation so that many may enjoy the philosophical, psychological and theological teachings of "our famous inhabitant."

Dr. Birch's new text is based upon manuscripts now treasured in Balliol college and Merton College and at the University of Rouen, and modern photography made it possible for Dr. Birch to get copies of the pages so that he could complete his work without leaving American soil and his classes at Wittenberg College where he has taught since 1908.

Dr. Birch began this work more than 20 years ago, as a graduate student at Pennsylvania University, and since then, in person or through agents has searched libraries of two continents for original or manuscripts. As a result he has made available an authoritative Latin text, and his translation has made the writing immediately accessible to those who, unlike a few scattered scholars, have found abbreviated Latin too difficult.

Because "De Sacramento Altaris" is one of those of Ockham's writings which exercised great influence upon Martin Luther, the translation will be of much use to students of theology. In this connection the Rev. Prof. M. Reu, D. D., Lit. D., of Wartburg Seminary, Dubuque, Ia., editor of Kirchliche Zeitschrift, writes: "This is a book of which our Lutheran Church may be justly proud. It is, indeed, no easy task to publish a text of the fourteenth century."

The following is quoted from the Gettysburg College Alumni News Notes:

"In person or through agents he has searched the libraries of two continents for original editions and manuscripts. As a result he has made available an authoritative Latin text and at the same time has given it to those hampered by classical limitations. By this book Professor Birch has written his name permanently in the annals of scholarly endeavor."

Dr. Birch is also president of the City Zoning Board in Springfield, Ohio, his home city. The Board was recently appointed by the mayor of that city to adjust matters arising from the enforcement of the city's new zoning ordinance.

The following is clipped from the Johnstown, Pa., Democrat, of Monday, March 2, 1931:

Mrs. Mary Kintner Harris, twin sister of Attorney J. J. Kintner, of 203 Fayette Street, Westmont, and widow of Charles S. Harris, died at 6:40 o'clock Saturday evening at the Kintner home where she had been bedfast since Christmas Eve. She was born in Wyoming County and was a daughter of the late Col. J. C. Kintner and Mary Ann Jennings Kintner.

Mrs. Harris was a graduate of the Bloomsburg

State Teachers College and taught school for a number of years before her marriage to Charles S. Harris in Renovo in 1898. From Renovo Mr. and Mrs. Harris moved to Oil City and later to Chicago, where Mr. Harris' death occurred seven years ago. Last fall Mrs. Harris came to reside with the Kintner family and became ill Christmas Eve. She was a woman of exceptional ability and was known for her kind and generous acts in behalf of less fortunate persons.

Mrs. Harris is survived by one daughter, Ruth Cecelia Harris, of Chicago, at present with the Kintner family; a sister, Mrs. Ruth C. Parrack, Pittsburgh, and one brother, Attorney Kintner.

Concerning the death of one of Bloomsburg's most distinguished alumni, we quote the following from the Syracuse, N. Y., "Post-Standard" of January 2:

Dr. Tennyson L. Deavor, 61, founder of Onondaga General Hospital and nationally known goiter expert, died last night at his home, 677 West Onondaga Street. He had been ill for six weeks.

Dr. Deavor founded Onandaga General Hospital in 1918 and fostered its growth until a new and completely equipped building was erected in 1928. He was chief of staff, surgeon in chief and a member of the Board of Directors of the institution.

His fame as a goiter expert was national, and leading surgeons recognized his ability. While he practiced general surgery he specialized in goiter and sufferers came to Syracuse for treatment by him from all sections of the country.

Born January 10, 1869, in Dublin, Pa., a son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Adam Deavor, he graduated from McConnellsburg Preparatory School, Bloomsburg State Normal, Carlisle College and the College of Medicine, Syracuse University.

After his graduation at Syracuse University in 1898 he began his practice in Syracuse and always remained here. Before founding Onondaga General Hospital he was a member of the Hospital of the Good Shepherd staff.

Dr. Deavor was a fellow of the American College of Surgeons and a member of the Syracuse Academy of Medicine, American Medical Association, New York State Medical Association, and the Onondaga Medical Association.

He was a 32nd Degree Mason, a member of Zyra Temple Shrine, Utica; Central City Commandery, Knights Templar, Phi Beta Pi, national medical fraternity and the Chamber of Commerce.

Surviving are his wife, Mrs. Grace L. Deavor, whom he married in Berwick, Pa., in 1898; a brother, J. D. W. Deavor, of Harrisburg, Pa., and a sister, Mrs. William McClain, of Robertsdale, Pa.

Funeral services will take place at 8:30 o'clock tomorrow evening at the home. Fairchild & Meech, undertakers, will send the body to Berwick, Pa., where burial will be conducted Monday.

The sympathy of all friends and classmates of William W. Evans, Superintendent of the Schools of Columbia County, is extended to Mr. Evans for the death of Mrs. Evans, who passed away at her home in Bloomsburg, November 16, 1930, following a stroke of apoplexy. Mrs. Evans was one of the most esteemed women in Bloomsburg, and news of her death came as a shock to the entire community. She was a member of the First Presbyterian Church of Bloomsburg, and was very active in the Order of Eastern Star and the Bloomsburg Chapter of Delphians. Mrs. Evans was fifty-five years of age, and was a native of Dickson City. She spent most of her girlhood in Taylor, and for ten years was one of Lackawanna County's most efficient teachers. She is survived by her husband, four daughters, one grand-daughter, and one sister.

For twenty years, Nathan W. Bloss, principal of the Conyngham Township Schools in Luzerne County, has not missed a day because of illness, and in addition, never missed a day from that cause while he attended the public schools, and later, the Bloomsburg State Normal School. Since his graduation, Mr. Bloss has taught in Hollenback Slocum, and Conyngham Townships.

1896

The classmates and friends of Mrs. Edward Purcell (Tillie Casey) extend to her their sympathy for the recent death of her husband. The Morning Press of December 29, 1930, had the following concerning Mr. Purcell's death:

A telegram received yesterday by Henry J. Casey of town announced the sudden death of his brother-in-law, Edward Purcell, a native of Centralia, at his home in Bartow, Florida. Death was due to a heart attack.

Mr. Purcell, who was very well known in Bloomsburg, where he resided during the time he was engaged in building the Susquehanna, Bloomsburg & Berwick Railroad, had a career in which adventure played a real part.

He was sent to China a few years ago by the W. F. Carey Company of New York, with whom he was associated for years, to build a railroad.

He had work well underway when he and a companion were taken captives by Chinese bandits and held for ransom. Their capture attracted world-wide attention for a time because the Boxer uprising had a part in it.

They were separated and kept captive for weeks. Mr. Purcell was kept on the march for weeks and a new pair of high top boots which he had started to wear just before his capture was in shreds by the time he had made his escape.

Once before he had attempted an escape during the dead of the night, but was at once covered with a half dozen guns. He realized then he had small chance to escape.

During the course of their wanderings and when bandits and prisoners alike were nearly dead for lack of water, the party came upon a pool of water covered with a green scum. One of the bandits who could make himself understood in English, cautioned Mr. Purcell not to drink the water; that it killed all who drank it.

The prisoner saw in it a chance to escape. He got down on his hands and knees, pretended to take great swallows of the water, and to like it. All his captors left him with the exception of the one who could speak English. They figured that he would soon be dead, and their chance of securing ransom money had passed. But, Mr. Purcell had drunk none of the water. He bribed the lone Chinaman and set him up in a store business, the latter aiding him to get back to country with which he was familiar. Ransom money was paid for the release of his companion.

In recent years, Mr. Purcell and his family have resided in Florida, where the W. F. Carey Company had extensive interests. Christmas greetings to the relatives here indicated that he was then in good health.

He was well along in his fifties and is survived by his wife, formerly Miss Tillie Casey, whom he met when he was located in Bloomsburg on the S. B. & B. contract; by three children, Edward, married and living in Bartow, and Margaret and Jack, at home. Two sisters, Mary and Catherine, reside in Philadelphia.

We are indebted to Laura Morgan (Mrs. V. C. Stein) 3816 Locust Street, Philadelphia, for the following items:

Joseph Shovlin's address is Kulpmont, Pa., in care of the County Superintendent's office.

Wesley Sitler's address is 1915 North Catalina Avenue, Los Angeles, California. We thank Arvilla Kitchen Eunson, '07, for locating this lost classmate for us, and sending in his address.

Martha James had a very interesting trip to Europe this summer. She says "I never enjoyed anything quite so much, and have enough to think about for the rest of my life. There were forty-six in our party, and they were all very congenial. Both conductors were Frenchmen, and I think it would have been hard to find better ones."

William Watkins was in St. Augustine, Florida, in January and did not know where Carol Krum lived. A letter from Bill states: "I wish I had had Carol's address. I thought it was Jacksonville, but I see from the last Quarterly that it is St. Augustine. We paid no attention to looking up "Crummy" there. We are just as sorry about it as we can be." Moral: Keep your class list in a place where you can refer to it in case you make a trip.

Mrs. Ethel Henrie Stevens lives at 733 Broadway, McKees Rocks, Pa. Mrs. Stevens has two sons, ages fifteen and five, respectively.

Charles L. Maurer, dean of the college department of the South Jersey Law School, and a member of the faculty of the Camden High School, has received the degree of Doctor of Education at Temple University. He holds degrees of B. Pd. from Bloomsburg State Teachers College; A. B. from Ursinus College, and A. M. from University of Pennsylvania.

Mr. Maurer's thesis was "Week-day Schools of the Lutheran Church in Pennsylvania in the Eighteenth Century." Doctors' dissertations are published at the expense of the recipients of the degree. However, the Pennsylvania German Society heard of Maurer's thesis and asked to be permitted to publish it in their journal without any cost to him. His thesis was declared by Dean Walk to be a "notably fine thesis." It will be published in book form next December. It will be illustrated with cuts and plates of old schoolhouses, a few of which are still standing; name plates of books and catechisms, specimens of penmanship by the schoolmasters, and other material. He obtained much of the material for his thesis by translating the original church records which are in German.

Before coming to Camden in 1915, Mr. Maurer taught in the public schools of Pennsylvania. He was supervising principal of Plymouth Township schools, Montgomery County, and vice-head-master of Conway Hall, Carlisle. Since coming to Camden, he has been active in educational affairs, having been chairman of the Camden Teachers' Council, and president of the Teachers' Association. He originated "Teachers' Association Topics," and edited it for three years.

He was chairman of the American history section of the State Department of Education to prepare a syllabus for the social studies. He served on the Collingswood Board of Education one term. He has also been active in Y. M. C. A. activities, church and Sunday school work, being assistant superintendent of the Collingswood Presbyterian Sunday school, one of the largest Sunday schools in South Jersey.

Mr. Maurer helped to organize the college department of the South Jersey Law School, and has served as dean and professor of economics since its inception.

Miss Mary Bevan and Benjamin Souders, of Hazleton, were married recently in the Diamond M. E. Church, of that city.

1912

Charlotte Peacock Holmes and son Billy left in January for California, where they are now living with Mrs. Holmes' sister.

1918

A wedding of interest was that of Miss Mary Powell and Dr. J. Stewart Wiant, which was solemnized in Forty Fort June 28, 1930. Mrs. Wiant, prior to her marriage, was a teacher in the Junior High School in Forty Fort. Dr. Wiant graduated from Bloomsburg and is also a graduate of Penn State. He received his doctor's degree at Cornell University. Mr. and Mrs. Wiant are living at 515 Lewis Street, Laramie, Wyoming, where Dr. Wiant is employed as plant pathologist at the University of Wyoming.

Mr. and Mrs. C. A. Weigand, of 406 North Fourth Street, Sunbury, Pa., have announced the engagement of their daughter, Kathleen, to Ralph G. Shuman, son of Samuel T. Shuman, of Mainville.

Miss Weigand is one of Sunbury's most esteemed young ladies and a graduate of Sunbury High School in the class of 1927.

Mr. Shuman graduated from Main Township High School, Bloomsburg Teachers College, class of 1921, and also the Pennsylvania State College in 1926. He has been principal of the Mifflinville High School for three years, also the principal of the Spring Garden Junior High School, of York, for two years. At present he is engaged in teaching mathematics and serving as Dean of Boys in the Thomas Ranken Patton Masonic Institution for Boys at Elizabethtown, Pa.

The announcement that Dr. H. K. Hartline has been elected a member of the British Astronomical Association has just been received by his father, D. S. Hartline of the Bloomsburg State Teachers College, through Credentials and Association publications.

Dr. Hartline will be remembered by the Bloomsburg students of the early twenties as an ardent Boy Scout in the days when that now thriving county institution was struggling for reorganization; as president of his class of 1921 in the B. S. N. S.; as a graduate of Lafayette College, class of 1923, Phi Beta Kappa honors; as a student going through a four year course at Johns Hopkins Medical School for his medical degree, which was awarded as were also election to the Sigma Chi Honorary fraternity and the prize for his paper in medical research.

Since that time he has been doing two years of research work in Johns Hopkins University under a National Research Council Fellowship and taking post-graduate courses in physics and mathematics. Along with Biological Research he gave laboratory and lecture courses during Summer Sessions as instructor in the Woods Hall Biological Laboratory. He was awarded a fellowship in Medical Research by the Johnson Foundation of the University of Pennsylvania which gave him opportunity to carry his studies forward in the Universities of Leipzig, and Munich, Germany, where he is now.

Among the many happy contacts of the German University student during his Wanderjahr, he had invitation as a member of the Physikalisches Institut die Universitat zu Leipzig to attend the Einstein lecture at the University of Berlin where he met Einstein under these favorable auspices.

His return from Germany is due in April, 1931, when he will join the faculty of the School of Medical Research of the University of Pennsylvania as Fellow in Medical Research.

In his Johns Hopkins post-graduate years he became associated through his work in the Department of Physics with a member of the Medical School Faculty, who previously had been an Astronomer in the Greenwich Observatory, and with him made some interesting original observations on Mars. This led to an invitation to join an Eclipse Expedition to the Philippine Islands which he could not accept. This association, however, resulted in visits to the Greenwich and Heidelberg astronomical observatories and attendance at the meeting of the British Astronomical Association and his election to membership of which announcement has just been received.

Miss Bessie Singer and John Shaffer, Jr., both of Williamsport, were married August 20, 1930, at the home of the bride's parents, 714 Locust Street. Mrs. Shaffer, for two years prior to her marriage, taught in the Curtin Junior High School, Williamsport. Mr. Shaffer is assistant superintendent of the Trojan Composition Corporation, in Trenton, N. J., where he and Mrs. Shaffer are now living.

Anna Ingleman Barnes lives at 206 Fox Hill Place, West Pittston, Pa.

Mr. and Mrs. Benjamin Hollingshead, of Catawissa, have announced the engagement of their daughter, Florence, to Edward Schuyler, of Bloomsburg. Miss Hollingshead is one of Catawissa's most esteemed young women, and is a graduate of the Catawissa High School. Mr. Schuyler has for the past six years been employed as reporter for the Morning Press. He is also the very efficient secretary of the Alumni Association.

1927

Announcement has been made of the marriage of Lillian Wagner Chamberlain, of Bloomsburg, and John Vought, of Berwick. The marriage took place Thursday, February 26.

Mrs. Vought is a former teacher in the Nescopeck schools.

In a quiet ceremony performed at the parsonage of the First Methodist Church of Bloomsburg, Wednesday, February 25, Miss Pearl E. Long, of Bloomsburg, became the bride of Dr. Elvin Axt, prominent dentist of Millburn, N. J. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. Harry F. Babcock. The couple was attended by Max E. Long, of Chester, and Miss Kathryn Fritz, of Bloomsburg. Members of the immediate family witnessed the ceremony.

Since her graduation from Bloomsburg, Mrs. Axt has been secretary to Prof. Earl N. Rhodes, Director of Teacher Training at the College. Dr. Axt is a graduate of the University of Pennsylvania. Mr. and Mrs. Axt are now living at 15 South Mountain Road, Millburn, New Jersey.

Doris Palsgrove is teaching in Frackville, Pa. Her address is 117 North Lehigh Avenue.

In a pretty wedding in St. John's Lutheran Church of Espy at 9:00 o'clock on Christmas morning, Miss Glovene Fausey, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Phineas Fausey, became the bride of Harold Hidlay, son of Mr. and Mrs. John F. Hidlay, also of Espy.

Both bride and groom are highly esteemed Espy young people. The groom is a graduate of the Bloomsburg State Teachers College and is now teaching in the high school at Espy.

Esther Wright, of Berwick, who is teaching this year in the schools of Mayberry Township, Montour County, was severely injured Sunday evening, December 7, when she was struck by a car as she stepped from a bus near her boarding house near Elysburg. She was returning to Elysburg after spending the week-end with her mother.

TRAINING SCHOOL CHILDREN PRESENT OPERETTA

On Wednesday, March 11, children of the intermediate grades of the Benjamin Franklin Training School of the College delighted two audiences in the College auditorium with the presentation of the operetta "Hansel and Gretel." The production was simplified from Humperdinck's opera by the same name and the children did splendid work. It was given in the morning before college students and in the afternoon before intermediate students of the town school.

Those heading the cast were Sara Hemingway as Gretel; Billy Hagenbuch as Hansel; Leo Conner as the father; Marjory Dillon as the mother and Martha Force as the head witch.

Girls of the fourth grade gave the angel pantomime during which a dull blue light was thrown on the stage and this was one of the most beautiful numbers of the operetta. A colorful feature was the number put on by the "cookie" chorus.

Children of the training school not in the cast were grouped around the front of the auditorium as an orchestra would be grouped and they were a singing orchestra for the production. Their work added much to the entertainment.

A large number of the members of the college faculty and student teachers assisted in the production and even mothers assisted in the making of costumes. This effort was reflected in the fine way in which the children gave the operetta.

Miss Edna Hazen supervised the work and Miss Elizabeth VanBusKirk was the stage manager. Miss Lucy McCammon had charge of the dances and Miss Harriet M. Moore directed the singing. Gerald Hartman was the accompanist.

The stage settings were worked out under the direction of George J. Keller, of the college Art Department. Children worked out the stage setting plans according to their own ideas and these were developed under the direction of Mr. Keller.

ALUMNI MEETING

If there was one thing needed Saturday to make this year's Alumni Day at the Bloomsburg State Teachers' College the finest in the history of the institution, it was provided at the opening of the general meeting when the entire graduating class, attired in caps and gowns, marched into the auditorium and formally presented three checks, one of $218 for class subscriptions to the Alumni Quarterly, one for $300 as a Class Memorial to the Alumni Trophy Room Fund and $150 as a Class Memorial to the Worthy Student Fund.

The day had opened at 9:00 o'clock with record breaking attendances at all class reunions and with an exceptionally fine spirit, but it was the new feature and wonderful spirit provided by the graduating class which assured a record breaking day.

As the classes assembled for the meeting, and they were in such large number that they filled the main floor of the auditorium and overflowed to the balcony, Alexander's Orchestra furnished a fine program of music.

A. Bruce Albert, President of the Association, presided, and Rev. C. C. Bailey, of Baltimore, Md., gave the invocation. Then the graduating class marched in and massed at the front of the auditorium, alumni standing during the processional. In addition to the graduating class it was estimated that 800 alumni were in the auditorium.

The president remarked that it was the first time in history that the graduating class had attended the meeting. He welcomed them into the association and was sure that they would help to maintain the ideals and standards of the association and the institution. The class was unanimously admitted to membership.

James Davis, of Ringtown, president of the class, presented the check for dues in the Alumni Association, a check for $218. Edward Devoe, of Berwick, editor-in-chief of the Obiter, presented the $300 for the Alumni Room Fund, and Thomas Kirker, of Columbia, treasurer of the class, presented the $150 for the Worthy Student Fund. Mr. Albert said he did not see how the graduating class could have come through with a finer expression of loyalty. Miss Harriet M. Moore, class advisor, led in singing the Alma Mater and the graduates then marched out of the auditorium and to the dining hall where they enjoyed an early dinner.

The report of F. H. Jenkins, treasurer, submitted by D. D. Wright, showed almost 1200 subscribers to The Quarterly and a balance on hand of $775.11, $400.00 of which is invested. Mr. Wright then reported as treasurer of the Student Loan Fund which totalled $2881.82, but which later in the day was considerably increased. Mr. Albert told of the splendid piece of work Mr. Wright was doing. P. L. Drum, Esq., of Wilkes-Barre, formally presented to the alumni $100.00 given the fund by the late E. J. Drum. The response was by O. H. Bakeless, rapidly recovering from a serious illness, and who was given a warm reception by alumni during the day. H. F. Fenstemaker, editor of the Quarterly, told of the work and urged that subscriptions be continued from year to year.

O. H. Bakeless, the man who, in the words of the president, did 99.98 per cent. of the work to make the alumni room possible, made his report showing liabilities of $2122. This was considerably reduced by subscriptions during the day, many of them cash.

H. Mont Smith, Esq., who volunteered his services as attorney for the incorporation of the association, told of the work of the committee and a resolution was passed giving the executive officers power to incorporate.

The officers were re-nominated by a committee composed of W. B. Sutliff, D. S. Hartline and H. F. Fenstemaker and were unanimously elected. The officers are: President, R. Bruce Albert, class 1906; Vice-President, Dr. D. J. Waller, Jr., 1867, and O. H. Bakeless, 1879; Treasurer, F. H. Jenkins, 1876; Secretary, Edward F. Schuyler, 1924; Executive Committee—Fred W. Diehl, 1909, chairman; Mrs. C. W. Funston, 1885; Harriet Carpenter, 1896; Maurice Houck, 1910; Daniel J. Mahoney, 1909 and D. D. Wright, 1911.

Mrs. Florence Cool, of Philadelphia, the woman at the head of the recent organization of the Bloomsburg Alumni of Philadelphia area, which opened its program with a banquet attended by over 200, was introduced and responded briefly.

The president then introduced the Trustees and former faculty members seated on the platform. They were: Prof. F. H. Jenkins, Prof. O. H. Bakeless, George E. Elwell, for 18 years a member of the Board of Trustees and for 11 years president of the Alumni Association; Mrs. Philip Drum, a former teacher in the music school; Miss Margaret Bogenrief, former teacher in the Physical Education Department; Miss Enola Guie, Mrs. W. B. Sutliff and Mrs. Myrtle Swartz VanWie, former faculty members; Fred W. Diehl, trustee and former alumni president; David L. Glover, trustee; Miss Bess Hinckley, former teacher and Dr.

Francis B. Haas, president of the institution. Each was given a warm welcome as he or she acknowledged the introduction.

Roll Call of Classes.

F. H. Jenkins, responding for the class of 1876, reported that of 27 graduates 11 were living and three were present. They had subscribed $10 to the Trophy Room and expected to do better.

Dr. H. V. Hower, of Berwick, responded for the class of 1881 with $120 cash contributions to the Trophy Room Fund. The class had 41 members, of whom 14 are dead and 11 were present.

Mr. Sanner, of Pittsburgh, reported for the class of 1886 which after 45 years had 30 of the 64 members back. More than 50 are living. Members came from Wyoming, Washington and Kansas for the reunion, the speaker declaring the school was very dear to the entire class.

James Costello, Hazleton attorney, reported for 1891 which had 7 of its 87 members back. W. H. Jones, of Scranton, reported for the 14 members back of the 1896 class. Mrs. Arthur Lowry, Port Washington, L. I., N. Y., reported for the 15 members of the class of 1901. Elwell Dietrick, of Scranton, told of a $100 pledge of the class of 1906 with 31 members back. Of the class of 40, 12 have passed away.

Donald Ikeler, Peekskill, N. Y., reported for the 41 members of the class of 1911. There were 156 members of the class. Counting wives, husbands and children there were 65 back for the reunion and $120 had been subscribed in cash with the amount expected to reach $200. Seven states were represented by returning members, one traveling from Milwaukee.

F. J. Meehan reported for the class of 1916 which had 40 members back. There were 189 in the class and $25.00 was subscribed.

M. T. Shaffer, Wilkes-Barre, reported for 1921 which had 50 back. They gave their treasury balance of $122 to the Worthy Student Fund and $30 to the Alumni Room Fund. The class totalled 163 of whom two have passed away.

Theodore Keen, Wilkes-Barre, reported 55 of the 1926 class back and Theodore Davis, Englewood, N. J., reported 60 of the 1929 class back, with $35 cash given to the Alumni Room Fund.

ALUMNI BANQUET

More than 700 Bloomsburg Alumni, not including the 235 members of the graduating class, packed the large College dining hall for the Alumni Day luncheon, always a feature of the day's program, and heard John Shambach, Superintendent of the Sunbury schools and a member of the class of 1906, in a short address tell of the fine spirit such events are creating among the alumni.

Amplifiers, recently installed as the Memorial of the class of 1925, added immeasurably to the success of the dinner, for no longer were guests forced to leave their tables and crowd forward to hear the program.

The College orchestra, under the direction of H. F. Fenstermaker, furnished a program of music while the classes were marching into the room and also during the serving of a delicious dinner.

Each class in reunion was supplied with a banner bearing the class numerals. Classes marched from the auditorium to the dining hall and the banners aided greatly in keeping the classes together.

Rev. Carroll C. Bailey, of Baltimore, was in charge of the singing and there was something doing every minute. R. Bruce Albert, president of the Association, presided.

During the dinner he announced that contributions to the Worthy Student Fund by the late E. J. Drum, of town, by the class of 1931 and of the graduating class, had increased that fund to $3,153. He also announced that Northumberland County Alumni were getting ready to follow in the footsteps of Philadelphia Alumni. They have already appointed members of a committee to arrange a banquet with the committee headed by John Shambach, Sunbury.

Dr. D. J. Waller and George E. Elwell, members of the class of 1867, were introduced as the entire class of that year and were given a big hand. Dr. Waller is president emeritus of the institution and Mr. Elwell has served along periods as a member of the Board of Trustees and as president of the Alumni Association.

Fred W. Diehl, a member of the Board of Trustees, former president of the Alumni Association, and a member of the class of 1909, spoke a word of greeting on behalf of the trustees, declaring that he knew that such interest and enthusiasm as displayed by the Alumni make Bloomsburg shine in the future as in the past.

Prof. C. H. Albert, long a valued member of the faculty, and not present at the general meeting, was introduced and given a warm welcome.

Dr. Waller declared that the meeting of the graduates drawing to a conclusion was the largest in the history of the institution. He said that was highly gratifying for it was the highest guarantee of the condition of the institution and he congratulated all who were responsible for such a happy state of affairs.

Mr. Shambach Speaks.

Mr. Shambach spoke of the paramount things in the minds of Alumni of different periods and referred to the class just leaving the institution. They are now on the starting line and they are going out to spread ideas that when they mature will give a new era, he said.

He paid tribute, on behalf of the Alumni, to Dr. Haas, the faculty, trustees and student body for the splendid arrangements made for the graduates and for the outstanding work of the institution.

He said the class of 1931, sharing advantages some of the previous classes had not, should have instilled in them the qualities which will make them fine representatives of the spirit of the age.

He declared all graduates proud of Bloomsburg and its work and he was confident that with the support of the Alumni by talking up the institution and contributing to financial projects, the institution could go far. He urged that each graduate make some contribution to his or her Alma Mater, for that tie-up with the school will be of much value to the graduate, and will create a real feeling in the heart for the old school.

Dr. Haas Introduced.

Introduced by President Albert as the man who brought about the spirit of unity and good will between Alumni and school and also as giving such fine service that under his direction the institution can go only one way—forward, Dr. Francis B. Haas, president of the institution, was given a standing ovation.

It was his opinion that on Alumni Day it was the duty of the institution to produce the goods and not to talk. He spoke to Alumni and told of securing amplifiers for the auditorium, the class of 1925 voting to use the $600 originally placed in an organ fund for this purpose.

Dr. Haas spoke of the first banquet held by Philadelphia Alumni and of the fine work of the Alumni president, R. Bruce Albert, of the treasurer of the Student Loan Fund, D. D. Wright, and other Alumni officials. He spoke of the fine piece of work carried on by the Worthy Student Fund and mentioned the fact that a penny had never been lost during the years the fund has loaned money to students. In closing he said the institution was happy to have the assistance of its graduates and hoped that it would continue to merit the confidence of the graduates.

PHILADELPHIA ALUMNI ORGANIZE

The first annual banquet of the Philadelphia Alumni Association of Bloomsburg State Teachers College held in the Gold Room at Adams, 13th and Spring Garden Streets, Philadelphia, on the night of May 9th, with J. Howard Patterson acting as toast-master, was truly a representative Bloomsburg gathering. It was one of the most successful affairs ever held by any group of the Alumni Association, and numbered close to 200.

Men and women, prominent in the affairs of Philadelphia today, laid aside the cares of the day and became boys and girls again that night. Indeed there were no old people in the gathering—age records did not mean a thing—every heart of the vintage of '71 or '31 was young. Their thoughts reverted to their school days at the College on the hill—or dear old Normal—as you will.

Mr. J. Edward Durham, '74, the records say, is the oldest Philadelphia Alumnus, a man active as the head of one of the largest Insurance Companies in the city, was with us and gave a very interesting talk. It was a real joy to have him with us, and hear the voice of our beloved Dr. Waller. How much we did appreciate his coming, and the message he brought us! His tribute to the ability and character of Bruce Albert, the President of the Parent Association, found a warm response in our hearts.

Dr. Haas, the capable, efficient, and much-loved head of the now Teachers College, gave a very able and enlightening address. Our Alma Mater is in most excellent hands under Dr. Haas' leadership, with his efficient corps of teachers.

Dean Sutliff gave a most interesting talk, and we were impressed with the real interest those wonderful teachers have in the great student body.

Mrs. Mintie Sharpless Wilson, '67, so well known in Bloomsburg, gave a short but interesting talk of the school when it was known as the Literary Institute.

C. Edward Houseknecht, '00, head of the Music Department at West Chester State Teachers College, led the group singing in his inimitable style.

Maxwell Noack, '16, sang his class song, which he composed.

Elsie Hess Pulker (sister of Florence Hess Cool) '88, rendered two delightful soprano solos. She was accompanied on the piano by Katherine O'Boyle, daughter of Hannah Reese O'Boyle, '88.

Lack of time prevented our calling upon a number of others who no doubt would have had something of interest to tell us, as we had with us Dr. George Pfahler, '94, noted Philadelphia X-Ray surgeon; Dr. J. F. McDonnell, '94, Dr. Everett Barnard, Dr. Fred Sutliff, '94, prominent Philadelphia physicians; Dr. James Maurer, '86, Dr. J. P. Echternach, '99, Dr. Ralph Hart, '18, well-known Dentists; Dr. Leslie B. Seeley, '02, a very well-known educator in the Philadelphia Public Schools; F. Herman Fritz, '99, Superintendent of Pottstown Schools; Anna E. Roxby, '79, Supervising Principal of the Linwood Public Schools; Thomas Francis, '08, County Superintendent of Lackawanna; Judge William Broughall, of Wilmington, Del., son of Adele Shafer, '86; Annie Miller Melick, outstanding in womens' club work, both political and social; Nina Tague Frantz, '95, President of W. C. T. U. of New Jersey.

Willie Morgan Stein and Jennie Yoder Foley, '06, gave very valuable assistance in arranging for the banquet and in bringing out the largest representation of any class.

Mary Detwiler Bader, '95, brought out a fine representation of the Class of '95.

We could go on down the list of those present and tell how each one in his or her way contributed much to the success of this gathering but space limits our mentioning all.

We regretted the enforced absence of Professors Albert, Bakeless, Jenkins and Hartline. We would have loved to have had all of them with us at this time, the initial banquet.

A permanent organization was effected by the election of the following officers:

President	-----	Florence Hess Cool, '88
Vice-President	-----	Willie Morgan Stein, '08
Secretary	-----	Jennie Yoder Foley, '08
Treasurer	-----	Julia Sharpless Fagely, '95

The Secretary would appreciate the name and address of any Alumnus or students living in Philadelphia or near by.

BACCALAUREATE SERMON

The greatest thing in the world is love, Rev. Edward J. Radcliffe, pastor of the First Baptist Church, told members of the graduating class of the Bloomsburg State Teachers College in delivering the baccalaureate sermon in the College auditorium at a short and impressive service Sunday afternoon, May 24.

Basing his remarks on the words of St. Paul, "The Greatest of These is Love," the minister said the policy of building a life on love is not just idealistic but workable, and declared that with love in international relations things could be accomplished which force can never hope to do. The minister said the present age could be characterized as one of many noises and one must be careful in selecting the right sound to follow.

The class, numbering 235, and attired in black caps and gowns, marched into the auditorium at the opening of the service to occupy a reserved section in the front. Marching at the head of the class were members of the Board of Trustees and of the faculty, the latter attired also in caps and gowns. Trustees and faculty members were seated on the platform. As usual the class entered singing the processional hymn, "Ancient of Days."

Rev. Radcliffe was introduced by Dr. Francis B. Haas and gave the invocation. The audience sang "From All That Dwell Below the Skies," and Dr. Haas read the Scripture lesson taken from the 13th Chapter of I Corinthians.

Following the sermon a double quartet of Senior men, accompanied by Miss Emily Park, sang "Peace I Leave With You," by Robert. The impressive service, lasting only about 45 minutes, concluded with the Benediction by Rev. Radcliffe and the recessional of the graduates.

IVY DAY

Black skies and frequent showers dampened the sylvan scenes that have made Ivy Day at the State Teachers College the most picturesque of commencement week events, but did not prevent the presentation of an interesting program in the auditorium at 6:00 o'clock when the campus was bathed in rain.

A fair-sized crowd attended the exercises. Folk dances, arranged for a feature at the pergola in the grove, were given in the somewhat cramped space of the stage, which prevented the freedom of action permitted in the open.

As the program opened, Miss Esther Bower, presiding, called on Dr. Haas, president of the school, at the request of the class, for a brief address.

Dr. Haas said that Ivy Day is traditionally a memory day program as the ivy perpetuates memories of departing classes. A recent survey had shown that 14 of the 35 ivy plants set out in exercises of the classes had ceased to exist, but the school had arranged to replace all of them and would replace those in the future which fail to grow.

In closing he told the class that in their class night program they should feel free to go as far as they liked in their comments on the faculty, as he believed that at least once in their school careers they should have the freedom of saying what they thought.

The class song, written by Lydia Smith with music by Samuel W. Kurtz, was sung by the class.

Arthur C. McKenzie presented the Ivy Day oration, speaking as follows:

"Once more we are gathered here, a group of neophytes, who are about to be initiated into the great fraternity of character formers whom we know professionally as teachers. Through a varied period of years we have toiled, played, laughed and sorrowed together as we learned the art of teaching children.

"By our very presence here we denote a response to the calling which is second to none, that of guiding—through the medium of our instruction—the future destiny of our nation, whose fate rests in the hands of the generation we will be called upon to teach.

"A few more precious hours and we will begin a journey that will lead us, we know not where. As for our preparation for that journey, the opportunity is past. How well we have individually attuned ourselves to the melody of successful teaching, remains to be seen.

"But there is something far more important to each one of us than any of these. It is the attitude which we have assumed toward our life's activity.

"God has provided for each one of us a niche which He expects us to fill. There remains for us the work of using the talents we possess in such a way that the most good will be realized both to ourselves and to society in general.

"As we leave these surroundings tonight, let us remember that no matter what else may intervene, we can always strive to do our best in whatever we undertake.

"In closing, let us, like the ivy, ever strive to climb higher and reach for larger things in life. It is an ambition worthy of the noblest, one which, if always carried out, will cause us to reap rich harvests and achieve great reward.

"A few years ago we made a decision which has led us here tonight. Tonight let us make a decision which will lead us to paths of success and happiness in years to come. The power is in your hands. Time only can tell how, through each of us, it will be used. Therefore, let us make an individual resolve that when there comes a time for accounting, it can be said of us, 'Well done, thou good and faithful servant,' enter into joy and reward."

Miss Miriam Hartt read the class poem, which she had written, and girls of the class presented the folk dances which had been arranged as the artistic feature of the outdoor program.

Officers and a committee handled the planting of the ivy at Science Hall between showers. The spade, in school colors, was presented to Henry Warman, the Junior President, and the program closed with the Alma Mater.

CLASS NIGHT

Opportunity was offered Monday evening, May 25, for the crystallizing of those things in college life which mean more with the passing of each year, and the Seniors of the State Teachers College made the most of it at their class night exercises in the College auditorium.

Several hundred relatives and friends of the graduates joined the class to enjoy the evening, but the program was principally for the class and, of course, they reaped the most from it as the forerunners of the commencement program closed and all was made ready for the graduating.

The exercises were much on the order of those in past years, but the class managed to get a realism into the familiar scenes that made them more effective. By a series of rapidly changing scenes, with attention to the little details that have such a prominent place in memory's treasures, the class reviewed its College career for registration to Alumni Day some time in the future.

Then in climaxing the program, James Davis, the President, presented to Dr. Francis B. Haas, President of the institution, $25.00 as a class memorial to the College Community Chest, this addition to $300 for the Alumni Trophy Room Fund, $150 to the Worthy Student Fund and $218 for dues of the class in the Alumni Association, which were presented at the alumni meeting.

Dr. Haas, in his acceptance, thanked the class for the gifts and spoke of the class night program as both interesting and instructive. The program closed with the Alma Mater.

The class introduced a new feature, that of singing popular numbers between the scenes of the program. Included in these songs was "The Maroon and Gold," a most popular number on the hill and one written during the College year by Dr. Haas.

About two score of the class were in the program and everything was worked out even to, as the movies term it, the love interest. This was handled by Misses Dolores Keating and Mildred Rabb and David Baker.

Seniors tore a page from memory's book which most dignified Seniors choose to forget, when they emphasized "Frosh greenness" in the registration day scene, the first of the evening.

Then came a class room scene in which Chester Zimolzack did a clever piece of work in impersonating a number of the College professors. Roars of appreciation from the student body told just how good those impersonations were.

Then came the kid party and following that a pep meeting in which Sam Kurtz was the leader with William Weaver impersonating Coach Booth and Bob Sutliff imitating Zimolzack, assistant coach.

"Cases" were scored in the characteristic manner of class night programs in the Waller Hall scene which was nothing if not realistic. Then came scenes from the Junior Prom, one during play rehearsal and one of alumni day.

The committee in charge of the program were: Chester Zimolzack, chairman; Maynard Pennington, Doris Sechrist, Elizabeth Bowman, Arthur McKenzie and Dorothy Levers.

COMMENCEMENT

"Much of what we are and are going to be, will be what we write deep into the souls of the boys and girls," Dr. John W. Withers, dean of the School of Education of the University of New York, told 235 graduates of the Bloomsburg State Teachers College at the 62nd annual commencement of the institution in the College auditorium.

Talking to the class on the profession of their choice and making no attempt at oratory, Dr. Withers held their closest attention as he told of the public school as an institution which must cope with the problems of the day and therefore must be different from what it was 25 or 30 years ago.

Forty-six of the class completed the four year course for the degree of bachelor of science in education, and in the two years course, 83 completed work in the intermediate field, 69 in the primary course and 37 in the rural course. Of those receiving degrees, two completed the elementary course and the others the junior high school course.

Members of the class stood as their names were read by Dr. Francis B. Haas, President of the institution, who received the lists from Dean of Instruction W. B. Sutliff. When the names of the candidates for degrees were read Mr. Sutliff presented each with his or her diploma. One of the successful candidates was his son, Robert Sutliff.

The College orchestra furnished a fine program of music for the exercises and played as the processional, "War March of the Priests from 'Athalia'," Mendelssohn. The procession was headed by the speaker of the day, Dr. Haas, members of the Board of Trustees and faculty. They occupied chairs on the platform with the class in a reserved section in the front of the auditorium. All but the trustees were attired in caps and gowns.

Dr. David J. Waller, Jr., President emeritus of the College gave the invocation and Dr. Withers then delivered his address. Robert E. Clark, of the College faculty, accompanied by H. F. Fenstermaker, sang most beautifully, "De Glory Road," by Jacques Wolfe.

Then came the conferring of degrees and a brief word of parting by Doctor Haas. The president, on behalf of the trustees, faculty, the parents of the class and their friends, congratulated them and wished them success.

He said that he hoped they had secured a solid background upon which to earn a livelihood in the profession of their choosing. He also hoped that they had learned that in this world we must work together, for there is no such thing as the individual. He also hoped that they knew spiritual values and the value of work. There is no substitute for hard work and common sense. The individual may fool himself regarding that but he will never fool the work. In closing, he wished the class good luck and God speed.

Dr. Withers' Address.

Dr. Withers, in opening his address, congratulated the class on past achievements and present accomplishments and on the outlook for the future. He told the class that they were entering the greatest enterprise in the world today and spoke of the two billions spent annually on elementary education, an amount so vast that if the entire wealth of the German nation were invested at five per cent. it would be just great enough to allow the expenditure of that sum each year.

He spoke of the huge cost of education in Pennsylvania, which he termed a progressive state and he spoke of death removing each year an educational investment of around $45,000,000, so that part of the money allotted to education each year is to replace that civilization which is lost through death and to keep the standard of civilized life on the basis to which it has been brought.

He spoke of the amount which is used in replacements and expansion of buildings and then of the fitting of teachers of whom 7,500 leave the ranks in the State each year. Teachers represent a State investment of 50 millions.

He spoke of the necessity of re-education of adults who in their school days have failed to get that which they need in life. It is necessary that this work be done in order that those who want a high type of civilization may continue to have it.

Education is looked upon differently than it used to be, but there are some today who feel that education should be the same as it was 25 or 30 years ago when the three R's formed the basis of schooling. The teacher today needs to know life and education and its relation to the people of today and the part it should play. Education today is not just teaching. "You are students of modern life in all its phases and it is your business to find what part the elementary and high school should play in the life of the state and what interest it should hold," he told the class. How shall the school take its place and play its part in the life of people as a whole, is a problem for the teachers. Dr. Withers continued.

He spoke of the characteristics of the western civilization. There is a tendency to emphasize research and to use scientific methods in the investigations. One man in a book on achievements said that there were 15 prior to the 19th century and 24 during that century. Certainly the 20th century is doing even greater things and excelling past achievements. This characteristic has a great influence on education if the people are to keep up with the present movement.

There is a tendency for education to move up and it must extend to cope with present day problems. There is a tendency to apply knowledge as quickly and fully as possible for human advancement and this means that if we are to apply what we know we must have education to do it.

There is emphasis placed on specialization. Professions are being diversified. Medicine which used to have but two classes now has 25 or 30 distinct ones and each required much preparation. We are building up skilled trades to put them on a semi-professional basis. More and more emphasis is being placed on high grade preparation for the problems of life. Great importance is being placed on elementary and high school education.

There is a tendency to enlarge and expand the fundamental principles of democracy. This was first extended when the negro was freed and was further extended when the adult women were given the right to franchise. Now we are coming to recognize that the adolescent boy and girl has a right to self expression within the limits of his or her ability. They make mistakes once in a while but so do adults.

The young people in the public schools are being recognized as persons and that makes for different school life. The only way to be a democrat in a democracy is to learn it in the early days of life. The problems of importance are those which have factors that cannot be worked out with education alone. He urged that no time be wasted in friction and declared what we must learn how to live in a democracy by early teaching. The lesson of how to work with others is more and more that of the school.

He likened the individual unto an iceberg which has four-fifths of its body submerged. Much of what we are and are going to be, will be what we write deep into the souls of the boys and girls, he said.

There is something more to education than the solving of problems through education. In closing, he asked the class to treat the achievement just as Commencement. The progress of the American nation and its fate rests largely in the hands of the teachers, and there is great need for the progressive teacher. He wished them God speed and congratulated the class.

CAMPUS IMPROVEMENTS

Work is rapidly nearing completion on an active Spring campaign at the Bloomsburg State Teachers College which will add much to the beauty of the school plant. N. T. Englehart, superintendent of buildings, has had the regular force of the College and 17 additional men at work on a number of projects, many of them now complete.

The projects have been underway for the past month or two and the additional help required has meant much to the employment situation in town. Work was rushed so that the College plant would look its best for the Commencement season.

The dome and tower of Carver Hall and all the exterior wood work on the building have been painted. A considerable amount of shrubbery and trees have been planted at the new Benjamin Franklin Training School.

Hand rails have been erected at four sets of concrete steps which were erected last year. Underground drains have been placed at a number of points on the campus.

Concrete walks have been placed from the gymnasium to North Hall, from Waller Hall to North Hall and from Waller Hall to the Training School. Parking space with a curb has been created at the rear of Waller Hall and re-grading and re-sodding of some parts of the campus are under way.

Paths on the campus affected by the installation of the new heating system have been re-graded by the Coxe Stoker Engineering Company.

Part of the campus adjacent to the boiler house has been resurfaced and automatic stack damper regulators have been placed. Both of these jobs were done by the heating contracting firm, Herre Brothers.

A very noticeable improvement is that on the lower side of the tennis courts which face East Second Street. A limestone wall has been erected and a rock garden on top of the wall is nearing completion. It is now being planted with several kinds being planted with several kinds of suitable shrubbery.

The field house on the athletic field has been moved to the rear of the back stop, greatly improving the appearance of the field and the training school play grounds.

Flower beds have been made at the fountain in front of Carver Hall and at various places on the campus. Petunias, geraniums, alyssum and colia have been used to good effect.

The electric clock and bell system together with telephone system for the new training school have been completed by Francis T. Brown, of Wilkes-Barre, the contractor.

ATHLETIC BANQUET

A standard for athletic dinners was set at the State Teachers College Friday evening, May 15, when the first annual affair of the kind was held and when more than 700 guests enjoyed a marvelous program and heard Dr. Wallace G. Petty, a Baptist clergyman from Pittsburgh, who was introduced as "a preacher, teacher and counsellor of youth" and who proved himself as well a humorist and philosopher ranking with the best on the platform today. It is seldom—very seldom—that one hears his equal.

The program from first to last held the close interest of the guests. It reflected the wide participation of the student body in sports as well as the increasing part which they are to play in life of the student body in the years to come.

Dr. Petty spoke on "The Straight Shooter" and he used Knute Rockne, a personal friend, to illustrate the point. Dr. Petty could talk in the language of the athlete, for he was one—a football player for years and a football coach for years. It was a beautiful tribute he paid Rockne, who to him typified the drama of America—the America of opportunity. The finest compliment the speaker paid him was that he was a gentleman, and one who had sense of direction. In America, he said, "there is too much going but never getting there."

Touchdowns are not made by accident. They are made by those who see things, who see through things and who see things through. That's the way it is with those who make a success of their lives.

There must be a sense of direction; there must be a sense of decency—"and it is harder to be decent today than at any time since the Roman era."

He urged the young people before him not to be cheap and tawdry, but to be "loyal to the royal in yourself." He would have them keep their sense of direction, their decency and have a destiny.

R. Bruce Albert, president of the Alumni Association, presided most happily as toastmaster.

The invocation was offered by Dr. David J. Waller, Jr., president emeritus.

During the serving of the delicious menu, the College Symphony Orchestra, under the direction of H. F. Fenstermaker, rendered a musical program.

There were a number of guests at the dinner, including trustees and members of the faculty and their wives, college day students and many former college and varsity athletes.

Former lettermen of the school attending were: Herman Fowler, Robert Dew, Ray Hawkins, William Swinehart, Leslie Zimmerman, Gerald Fitzpatrick, William Partridge, Veryl Mowrer, Harold Hidlay, J. W. Jones, George Mathews, Nicholas Van-Buskirk, Arch Austin, William Felcamp.

One of the spirited renditions of the evening was the singing of "Maroon and Gold," composed by Dr. Haas, under the direction of Miss Harriet Moore.

Keys and Chevrons Presented.

Under the rules of the athletic department, girl students receiving 300 points are eligible to wear numerals. To receive a letter 600 points are required and for each 300 points additional chevrons are awarded. Two students received their fourth chevrons: Miss Beatrice Bowman with 1910 points and Miss Ila Ivey with 1847 points. Miss Ruth Sonner received her first and second chevrons.

The presentation of chevrons to these girls and to a number of others who received their first chevron and of the keys to men of varsity athletic teams was by Dr. Haas.

Varsity certificate and charms were presented to the following men:

David G. Baker, basketball, tennis manager; Lewis L. Creveling, baseball; Frank V. Faus, tennis; Frank J. Golder, basketball and baseball; Nicholas E. Jaffin, football, wrestling and track; Thomas J. Kirker, football, basketball, baseball and track; Arthur C. McKenzie, football, wrestling and baseball manager; Maynard J. Pennington, football; Martin Sekulski, baseball; Robert G. Sutliff, football and tennis; Earl H. Vandine, baseball manager; Robert C. Wilson, basketball and baseball; Joseph J. Yockabonis, football, basketball, baseball and track; and Chester Zimolzak, football and basketball.

Presentation of the 1925 class memorial by Miss Emily Park followed and the orchestra played "Rakoczy March," Berlioz-Liszt. Dr. Petty's address was followed by group singing led by the College Chorus.

Mrs. Kathryn L. Sutliff and Miss Lucy McCammon presented the letters and numerals, respectively, to the girls.

The orchestra delighted with "Czardas," Gungl, and Coach T. W. Booth presented the football and basketball awards. School cheers were directed by Daniel Thomas, and dean of men John C. Koch, also coach of the tennis team, presented the baseball, track and tennis awards.

S. I. Shortess, chairman of the faculty committee on athletics, made the announcement of the captains and told of the school's athletic policy. The program closed with the Alma Mater.

MAY DAY

No May Day in recent years, if ever, has surpassed in beauty that was staged by over 500 children of the training school and College Seniors on the College athletic field Monday, May 18, to the enjoyment of an audience of townspeople that more than filled the bleachers especially placed for the program.

From the time the program opened with the processional, headed by Miss Sara Hemingway, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. R. F. Hemingway, of West Fourth Street, as Queen of the May, until the climax, two hours later, when 16 vari-colored May poles were simultaneously wound by the children and College students, the entertainment provided feature after feature of outstanding beauty.

With the Queen at the head of the procession, were Jack Shortess as Prince Charming; Virginia Reams, Marjory Dillon, June Nicewinter and Clara Fausey, as ladies in waiting; Frank Haas, Jr., and Douglas Dillon, as pages; Patsy Moyer, as flower girl and Thomas North and Howard Fenstermaker, Jr., as attendants to the Prince.

On the throne covered with leaves, the Queen reviewed the processional of all the participants.

Then followed dances by children and students. Each was very well given and showed very careful training. Children as butterflies, flowers and bees, all in costume, gave a number of much enjoyed features. All of the children of the training school, with the exception of the fifth and sixth grade boys, were in the dances and those boys joined with the other students in singing a number of songs under the direction of Miss Harriet M. Moore. These songs interspersed the program of dances and added much to the program.

The splendid work was under the direction of Miss Lucy McCammon, of the physical education department, with Mrs. Kathryn Sutliff, also of that department, giving splendid assistance in preparing the dances.

The College Orchestra, under the direction of H. F. Fenstermaker, played for the processional and for the winding of the May pole. The accompanist for many of the dances was Gerald Hartman.

Properties were supplied by a force of men in charge of N. T. Englehart and they certainly furnished a fine setting for the pageantry.

College students worked out their own dances and for the most part made their own costumes which added greatly to the effectiveness of the dances. Over 300 College girls participated.

The training school teachers opened their program with "Portland Fancy." The costumes were yellow with black bodice and a black band around the skirts.

Then followed the English dance "Bocastle" with the participants wearing white dresses, pink sashes and hair ribbons and those taking the part of boys wearing pink overalls.

The girls' costumes for "Gathering Peascods" were on the order of those of Bo-Peep. The boys wore blue costumes with tassels on their hats. Then came the farmer dance "Strawfoot" and that provided some comedy. The participants ended their number with a clog dance.

A French number, the "Vineyard Dance," found those taking part attired in blue trousers, smocks and tams, with white collars. Knickers, dark coats and tams for one group and varied-colored attire for the other group were the costumes used by them in the number "Bean Setting."

Another farmer dance, "Dancing On The Green," had the girls in farmer costume with sunbonnets and aprons and the boys in overalls. Boys wore overalls, and small aprons added a touch to the girls' costumes in "Green Mountain Volunteers."

For "Firetur" the girls wore costumes with black bodice and varied-colored skirts and the boys wore tan caps with red tassels and black suits. Then came the always popular sailor number "Horn Pipe" with the costumes appropriate.

"Fandango," a Spanish number, was next. The boys wore black suits with sashes and large Spanish hats. Girls wore crepe paper dresses which shaded from a light yellow to a deep orange. Shawls were used to set off the dresses.

"Pirates" found the participants dressing the part and carrying daggers. This was a popular number as was "French Reel" in which the girls wore tight waists and full skirts with high collars and red ribbons around their heads. The boys' costumes were light blue trousers, blouses and tams.

Old fashioned Colonial costumes were used in that age old favorite "The Minuet" with the girls doing a fine piece of work. Nine clowns ended the dancing with "Grotesque."

The winding of the May poles brought the colorful spectacle to a fitting close.

April 29 was the 92nd birthday of Russell McHenry and he spent the day as usual—pushing a lawn mower over the College campus.

He was all decked out with a new lawn mower in honor of the occasion, and the day was marked by nothing more unusual than a nine-hour day's work.

The elderly man is enjoying good health and he expects to put in the summer working on the campus, as he has put in many summers previously.

The number of years he has been working at the institution is not definitely known. Nevin Englehart, superintendent of buildings and grounds, asserts that it is so long "that the memory of man runneth not to the contrary."

McHenry tells of aiding in the excavating for some of the buildings that now comprise the college plant—and they were buildings erected when the college was a young institution. He hasn't been employed without interruption at the school, but has returned after brief intervals.

PLAY TOURNAMENT

"The Stoker," by Harold Brighthouse, was awarded first place in the fifth annual play tourney of the College Dramatic Club which was held in the College auditorium before a good-sized crowd Friday evening, May 1.

The play, built around the conflicting viewpoints of natives of the East and West, was expertly presented by the College students who were directed by Miss Elizabeth Bowman, also a student.

The other plays given were "Cooks and Cardinals," by Winifred Hawkbridge, and "Thursday Evening," by Christopher Morley. Miss Doris Sechrist, of town, directed "Cooks and Cardinals" and Miss Harriet Sutliff directed the other play. All three student directors are town students, while a large number of those taking part were Bloomsburg students.

The work of every one connected with the tourney was exceptionally fine and the task of the judges was difficult. In making the first award to the cast of "The Stoker," the judges gave honorable mention to Miss Mildred Rabb, of Danville, in the cast of "Cooks and Cardinals" and to Miss Grace Foote, of town, playing in "Thursday Evening." The judges were Mrs. W. Clair Hiday and Mrs. Allen Rarig, of town, and Miss Rachel Turner of the College faculty.

"Cooks and Cardinals," a comedy, was presented first with the members of the cast as follows: Katie, Miss Mildred Rabb; Teddy, Lee Hippensteel; Mrs. Connelly, Miss Mary Betterly; Father Anslem, Thomas Coursen; Monsieur Le Beau, Thomas Kirker; Cardinal Wheeler, William Thompson.

Those in the cast of "Thursday Evening" were: Gordon Johns, David Baker; Laura, Mrs. Gordon Johns; Miss Grace Foote; Mrs. Sheffield, Laura's Mother, Miss Elizabeth Cochrane; Mrs. Johns, Gordon's Mother, Miss Elizabeth VanBuskirk.

The prize winning cast of "The Stoker" was: Peter Howard, Aldwin Jones; the captain, Robert Sutliff; Mrs. Leighton, Miss Dorothy Faust, and the stoker, Maynard Pennington.

The Dramatic Club is known as the Bloomsburg Players and the officers are: President, Arthur McKenzie; Vice-President, Miss Esther Jones; Treasurer, James Davis; Director, Miss Alice Johnston.

Members of the Tournament Committee were: Misses Jessie Laird, Lorna Billow, Helen Keller, Alma White, Grace Feather and Ida Arcus and John Shellenberger, Nick Jaffin and Morris DeHaven.

SENIOR BANQUET

Another Commencement program opened at the Bloomsburg State Teachers College Thursday evening, May 21, when the annual Senior Banquet was held. Every member of the class of 235 members was present at the affair which is the only Commencement program in which only the class and faculty members who have been in close contact with them during their college courses, are in attendance.

James Davis, of Ringtown, class president, happily presided as toastmaster and a splendid program of music was furnished by the College orchestra under the direction of H. F. Fenstermaker.

The affair was one which will bring back many happy memories in years to come. A large basket of flowers adorned the speakers' table and decorations at all tables were sweet peas and yellow candles.

A committee composed of Thomas L. Henry, Miss Cora Wagner, Miss Edna Mae Derrick, William Weaver and Keith Witheridge was in charge of the successful affair.

During the evening among those responding to toasts were Miss Jessie Patterson, Freshman advisor; H. F. Fenstermaker, Sophomore and Junior advisor; Miss Harriet Moore, Senior advisor; Dr. Francis B. Haas, president of the College, and Dean of Instruction William B. Sutliff. There were some much enjoyed selections by the Senior Girls' Chorus and the Senior Male Chorus and the program closed with the Alma Mater.

The Girls' Glee Club of the College under the direction of Miss Jessie Patterson, made a real contribution to Bloomsburg's Music Week program, on Friday evening, May 8, when they very ably presented the cantata "Pan on a Summer Day" to a large and appreciative audience in the College auditorium.

The chorus of 50 voices showed careful training and the chorus and solo work was exceptionally well given. It was one of the finest pieces of work of that type that the College has ever presented. Mrs. J. K. Miller, of the Music School, was the accompanist.

Another feature which added to the program was provided by the College Symphony Orchestra under the direction of H. F. Fenstermaker.

COLLEGE SONG

The words of the Class Song of the College graduating class were written by Miss Lydia Smith and the music by Samuel Kurtz, of Milton.

The song follows:

Hail to our college dear, our alma mater fair,
Whose ivy-covered walls enclose so much that we hold dear!
Let every heart and voice unite to sing her praise,
With one accord to chant of our College days.
The past so full of glory joins with present day;
The future calls us onward as our College points the way.
Yet through the years to come our thoughts will oft be here
For time cannot destroy the memories of Bloomsburg dear.

The Junior Class of the State Teachers College delighted Friday evening, May 17 with their presentation of the comedy "Skidding," by Aurania Rouverol. Miss Alice Johnston directed the play, and each member of the cast gave fine interpretations of their parts.

The plot centered around the election of Judge Hardy, a part played by Henry Warman, to the bench. In securing reelection he is aided by his daughter who herself is nominated for the Legislature. The daughter was played by Miss Ruth Wagner, of town. With both father and daughter in public life complications came thick and fast but the usual happy ending closed the play.

Others in the cast were: Wayne Trent, Jack Hall; Andy, Daniel Thomas; Grandpa Hardy, Seymour Stere; Mrs. Hardy, Laura Shultz; Aunt Milly, Lois Demitt; Estelle, Minnie Howeth; Stubbins, James Johns.

1931 OBITER

The 1931 Obiter of which Edward DeVoe, of Berwick, was editor-in-chief, was dedicated to Prof. S. L. Wilson, head of the English Department of the institution, and one who is always willing to assist in student activities. Ever since he became associated with the faculty eight years ago, Mr. Wilson has been particularly active in assisting with student publications and has acted as faculty advisor of most of them and edited much of the Maroon and Gold and year book copy during that period. He is one of the most popular of the faculty members.

The book is outstanding in content and workmanship. It is handsomely bound in a blue leather cover. "The Gleeman" is the theme of the book and is carried throughout in arrangement and illustrations. Anglo-Saxon terms of the Medieval period are used in department headings.

Among the outstanding features of the volume are pencil sketches by Katherine Hayes Baum, of Berwick, of Dr. Francis B. Haas, president of the institution, and of members of the staff. The book contains photographs of the 235 members of the class but instead of the write-ups which were used in past years the book lists only activities, a form used by the majority of the colleges.

The members of the capable staff are: Edward T. DeVoe, Berwick, editor-in-chief; Miss Elizabeth H. Huber, Gordon, business manager; associates—Catherine Hayes Baum, Berwick; Miss Alice MacMullen, Shenandoah; Miss Emily Park, Berwick; Miss Dorothy Frick, West Pittston; Miss Esther Yeager, Philadelphia; Miss Helen Gibbons, Benton; David Baker, Columbia; Beatrice Bowman, Orangeville; Miss Helen Cunningham, Kingston; Arthur McKenzie and Miss Miriam Hartt, Bloomsburg.

CLASS OF 1886—ALUMNI DAY, 1931

THE ALUMNI

1871

Dr. A. W. Shelley lives at Port Royal, Pa.

1876

March 30 was the 25th anniversary of Judge Charles C. Evans' appointment to the Common Pleas bench of Columbia and Montour Counties.

The Judge, still hale and hearty, has been four times commissioned as president judge of the 26th district, twice following appointment and twice following election.

The first commission was issued in April, 1906, by Governor Pennypacker, after appointment following the death of Hon. Robert R. Little. He was again commissioned by the same governor following his election in November of the same year.

His third commission was issued by Governor Pinchot, after appointment, following the death of Hon. John G. Harman, and the commission was issued early in the Fall of 1925. His latest commission, following his election for the current term, was issued by Governor John F. Fisher, following his election in 1927.

In the past quarter century Judge Evans has presided over the courts of the judicial district 17 years and three months. His first appointment was for nine months. Then he was elected for a term of 11 years, the length of term being changed at that time. His second appointment was for two years and three months and he has served three years and three months of the ten year term for which he was elected in November, 1927.

Of the class of 1876, oldest in reunion, Prof. F. H. Jenkins Judge C. C. Evans and George Tustin were three of the 11 living members attending.

Anna E. Roxby is supervising principal of the Swarthmore schools. Her address is 112 Cornell Avenue, Swarthmore.

1880

Alice H. Fisher, who has retired from teaching, lives at 50 Cadbury Street, Pottsville, Pa. Miss Fisher served as a foreign missionary in South America from 1893 to 1919. From 1921 to 1927, she was in charge of the Art Department of Genesee Wesleyan Seminary, Lima, New York.

1881

A half century of time was pushed aside Friday evening, May 22, and temporarily forgotten by eight members of the class of 1881 of the Bloomsburg State Teachers College, as eight members of that class, their wives and husbands and some guests, gathered at the home of Mrs. May Wells Creasy, of East Fifth Street, for a delicious dinner and a memorable evening.

A feature of the night that made it all the finer was the presence of Dr. D. J. Waller, Jr., president emeritus of the institution, and principal of the school when the class of 1881 completed its work.

Those of the class present were: Myron E. Simons, of Honesdale; Dr. H. V. Hower and James L. Evans, Esq., of Berwick; the Misses Enola and Claudia Guie, of Catawissa; Miss Dora Marr, Mrs. Abigail Robbins Hartman and the hostess, Mrs. Creasy, of town. They were joined later by T. B. Harrison, of Town Line; Henry L. Morgan, of Scranton, and Mrs. Lizzie Laudig, also of that city. The class numbered 41.

Dr. Waller spoke of the changes and wonderful improvements that have marked the past 50 years. In the years when the class of 1881 was at the institution funds were very scarce and even the purchase of so small an article as a map had to be carefully considered. He spoke of the changed conditions as they regarded support to Normal School, now Teachers College, which came about in 1920 when Dr. Finnegan headed the State Department of Public Instruction. Since that time the necessary amount for the operations of the colleges has been forthcoming. He spoke very highly of the members of the 50 year class.

The class is interested in doing its part toward the College Memorial Fund and they received a letter from Miss Anna Wier, Plymouth, with a $10 check enclosed.

Since the graduation of the class, 15 members have passed away, seven members of the class could not be located and another has not replied to letters sent out by Mrs. Creasy, who took the initiative in planning the reunion.

During the evening the family of Mrs. Creasy was introduced and Mrs. Earl John, a daughter, accompanied another daughter, Miss Martha Creasy, while she delighted with two beautiful solos. Miss Jean Creasy, a third daughter, pleased with two piano solos.

Guests at the dinner in addition to the members of the class were: Mrs. Myron E. Simons, of Honesdale; Mrs. H. V. Hower and Mrs. James L. Evans, of Berwick, and Mrs. Jenny Wells Henderson, of Montgomery, and Rev. W. H. Hartman, of town.

Dr. Heister V. Hower lives in Berwick, Pa., where he has a very successful practice.

Anna Weir lives in Plymouth, Pa.

Myron E. Simons is a lawyer, located at Honesdale, Pa.

Claudia B. Guie has retired from teaching, and is living in Catawissa, Pa.

1882

Emilie Ayres (Mrs. Charles Palmateer) lives at 1514 Seventh Avenue, Neptune, N. J. Mrs. Palmateer is mourning the loss of her husband, who died suddenly January 21, 1931. Mr. and Mrs. Palmateer had gone south for the winter, when the former's death occurred in Raleigh, N. C.

Carrie C. Rogers (Mrs. D. J. Peck) died at her home in Susquehanna, Pa., on February 5, 1931, after a few days' illness.

1885

Annie Miller (Mrs. Elmer E. Melick) is President of the Delaware County Federation of Women's Clubs. This organization consists of thirty-two clubs in the county, and has a total membership of over three thousand. Mrs. Melick's address is South Haven Inn, Swarthmore, Pa.

1886

On Alumni Day the class of '86 held one of its most successful reunions, which is saying much. Their festivities have always covered two days. This year they began on Friday afternoon with a tea at the home of Elizabeth Low, Lime Ridge, who is one of the members of the class. Among those present in addition to the members, many of whom had their wives or husbands, were: Dr. and Miss Waller, Mrs. Frank Cully, Mrs. W. B. Sutcliffe, Mrs. F. P. Purcell, Mrs. Harry Barton, Prof. and Mrs. Albert, Mrs. Nuss, Mrs. Dr. Haas, Miss Martha Connelly, and Mr. A. Z. Schock. Miss Low is an ideal entertainer, and spared no pains to make the occasion the great success it proved to be.

After greetings and refreshments the party was taken in automobiles to the home of William Snyder, on East Fifth Street, where it was entertained by another member of the class, Mrs. Anna Snyder Mausteller. Prof. and Mrs. Jenkins, among others, joined the party here, where a delightful evening was spent. At this time twenty-six members of the class were reported present.

Saturday morning the class met in its appointed place, where two more members were announced as present. After the transaction of some business the class adjourned to meet at the close of the Alumni Dinner, at which time reports were had from those present and letters read from the absent ones. Ida Bell Preston was reported in a letter from her husband to be helpless and unconscious from a stroke she suffered sixteen months ago.

The class adjourned at 5:30 to the home of Melle Long Dickson, in Berwick, where the hostess served an elaborate buffet luncheon, and the evening was spent in reminiscing and singing.

This was not an unusual reunion, for a similar program had been carried out each time the class met in the past. A wonderful class spirit prevails and a corresponding loyalty to the old school. The success of the reunions has been due largely to the interest and enthusiasm of a group of Bloomsburg girls, members of the class, aided and abetted by Miss Low and Mrs. Dickson.

The members of the class who were present were: D. L. Glover, Mifflinburg; James Maurer, N. G. Cool and Belle Monic Jones, all of Philadelphia; Mame Schoch McKelvy, Ida Bernhard, Stella Lowenburg, Lucetta Moyer White, and Anna Snyder Mausteller, all of Bloomsburg; Elfreda Barnes Gottschall, and Emma Fisher Thomas, both of Harrisburg; Maggie Brennan, Shenandoah; Nan Silvia Coughlin, and Grace A. Leacock, both of Kingston; Alice Donley, Wilkes-Barre; J. O. Felker, of Lewistown; Ellen Geiser Seip, Easton; Hattie Hoffa Ruhl, Lewisburg; Flora Jones Fetterolf, Pottsville; M. A. Kline, Cheyenne, Wyoming; William R. Lewis, Scranton; Melle Long Dickson, of Berwick; Elizabeth A. Low, Lime Ridge; Emma Patton Connelly, Spokane, Washington; Jeremiah Reeder, Shamokin; N. H.

Sanner, Pittsburgh; Adelle Shaffer Broughall, Reading; George A. Spangler, Milroy; Emma Witmer Felty, Abilene, Kansas.

Allie Donley is a teacher in the Wilkes-Barre schools. Her address is 187 Stanton Street.

Jere Reeder has retired, and is now living in Shamokin, Pa.

Elfreda Barnes (Mrs. Edwin H. Gottschall) lives at 647 South 29th Street, Harrisburg, Pa.

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas B. Main (Emma W. Murphy), whose winter home is in Tryon, North Carolina, expects to spend the summer in California and some of the National Parks.

W. L. Williams is still capably filling his position as County Superintendent of Schools, and lives in Madera, California.

J. O. Felker is in the real estate and insurance business in Lewistown, Pa. His address is Room 9, Houck Building.

Emma M. Sites is a grade teacher in Harrisburg, Pa. Her address is 720 North Sixth Street.

Flora B. Jones (Mrs. L. M. Fetterolf) lives at 903 West Market Street, Pottsville, Pa. Mrs. Fetterolf's husband is Pastor of one of the Reformed churches in that city.

Mrs. Isabella Monie Jones lives at 735 Concord Avenue, Drexel Hill, Pa.

1888

Margaret Petty (Mrs. Herbery D. Beatty) lives in Hackettstown, New Jersey.

Harvey I. Crow is Pastor of the Bethany Reformed Church at Bethlehem, Pa.

1890

Jennie D. Kline is head of the English Department in the high school at Mahanoy City, Pa. Her address is 301 West Mahanoy Avenue.

Eleanor Hayman is Librarian and teacher of Latin, French, Biology and English History in the Turbotville Vocational School. She has returned four times to Bloomsburg for post-graduate work, and has also taken courses at Penn State, Susquehanna University, and Cornell University. Miss Hayman's address is Box 169, Turbotville, Pa.

1891

The class of 1891 had seven of its members back in reunion and they had a splendid time. Members were: Edward J. Gormley, Hazleton; Frank A. McGuigan, Wilkes-Barre; J. P. Costello, Hazleton; Elizabeth Dimmich, Mt. Carmel; W. B. Sutliff, Jennie M. Sheep, Bloomsburg; Margaret Sullivan Meyers, Lewistown.

Frank A. McGuigan is practicing law in Wilkes-Barre, Pa.

Miss Alice Fenner, who lives at 2029 Highland Street, Allentown, Pa., has just returned to her home after spending the winter in Florida.

Martha Powell is secretary of the White Milling Company, Bloomsburg, Pa.

J. Howard Patterson is practicing law in Philadelphia, Pa. His address is the Real Estate Building in that city.

Louis L. Ansart, Counselor at Law, specializing in patent and trade-mark cases, announces the removal of his offices to the Chrysler Building, 405 Lexington Avenue, New York City.

Mildred D. Birton (Mrs. John Vought) is teacher of the primary grades at Mainville, Pa.

Harry G. Dechant passed away February 9, 1931, after an operation. After graduation from Bloomsburg, he attended Princeton University, and was graduated from that institution. Later he became Vice-President of the Monroe Calculating Machine Company. About ten years ago, he left that company, and was very successful in building up the Health Production Corporation. He was a resident of Maplewood, New Jersey, at the time of his death.

1895

Nina Tague (Mrs. H. A. Frantz) lives in Moorestown, N. J. Mrs. Frantz is State President of the Woman's Christian Temperance Union of the State of New Jersey.

E. P. Heckert has been Supervising Principal of the schools of Mauch Chunk for the past sixteen years. Mr. Heckert writes that the following teachers in Mauch Chunk are Bloomsburg graduates and that they are giving excellent service: Mary F. Bevan, '09; Laura Smith, '00; Charles W. Keller, '10, and Elizabeth Ransom, '23.

The class of 1896, holding its 35th year reunion, had 14 of its members back and they renewed school day acquaintances and told of members unable to return to the reunion. Present were: G. J. Thomas, Clark's Green, Pa.; Gertrude Morse, Mary Coxe, Mt. Carmel; Jennie Rossar, East Orange, N. J.; Myrtle Swartz VanWie, Burdett, N. Y.; Millie Seely Thomas, Berwick; Mabel Yost Hall, Pittston; Elizabeth McKane Campbell, Wyoming; Vida Bowman Drum, Kingston; Harriet F. Carpenter and Helen F. Carpenter, Bloomsburg; Bertha Kelly, Scranton.

Eleanor L. Quick (Mrs. H. A. Walters) lives in Gallup,

New Mexico. Mrs. Walters is principal of the school at Gibson, near her home.

Florence A. Lins (Mrs D. W. Ardt) lives at 202 Madison Avenue, Lock Haven, Pa. Mrs. Arndt states: "Memories of the days spent at B. S. N. S. back in 1895-1896 are some of my most pleasant ones."

Dr. J. Warren Shuman is a successful physician at Jersey Shore, Pa.

A. R. McHenry holds a responsible position as General Purchasing Agent for the firm by whom he is employed. His address is 295 Voorhees Avenue, Buffalo, N. Y.

Anna Sandoe Hake is a teacher in the sixth grade in the schools of Atlantic City. Her address is 149 St. James Place.

Edward F. Brent is Postmaster at Lewistown, Pa.

Blanche Letson (Mrs. H. C. MacAmis), a former member of the Bloomsburg faculty, lives in Greeneville, Tennessee. Mrs. MacAmis assists her husband, who is Assistant Treasurer of Tusculum College, located in Greeneville.

B. B. Kuhns is Secretary of the Milton Trust and Safe Deposit Company. He lives in West Milton, Pa.

There were 15 members of the class of 1901 back for their 30th year reunion and they had a great time throughout the day, many of the members being on hand for the opening of the program at 9:00 o'clock.

Those attending were: Miss Augusta B. Henkelman, Mount Rainier, Md.; Miss Harriet A. Bittenbender, Berwick; Adele Altmiller, Burkhardt, Hazleton; Mrs. J. R. Kohr, Richland; Mary Thomas Joseph, Wilkes-Barre; Miss Hadassa F. Balliet, Williamsport; Mrs. Alice Roderick, Wilkes-Barre; Mrs. Mary Shoemaker Valentine, Wilkes-Barre; Adele G. Altmiller, Hazleton; Arthur Lowry, Port Washington, L. I.; J. H. Maust, Bloomsburg; Miss Genevieve L. Bubbs, Williamsport; Lela S. Madsen, Plainfield, N. J.; Dr. A. E. Fagan, Hazleton; Blanche P. Balliet, Williamsport; Mrs. M. J. Reddington, Wilkes-Barre; Mrs. John M. Miles, Kingston; Mrs. Joseph V. Donnelly, Wilkes-Barre.

Harriet A. Bittenbender is teacher of first grade in Berwick. Her address is 1308 Market Street.

Mary M. MacFarlane is teaching in Hazleton, Pa. Her address is 57 South Laurel Street.

Lela M. Shultz (Mrs. Ingfred T. Madsen) lives at 1046 Hillside Avenue, Plainfield, N. J.

Gertrude M. Follmer (Mrs. Arthur T. Lowry) lives at 10 Madison Avenue, Port Washington, Long Island, New York. Mrs. Lowry sends us the following item, which shows how Bloomsburg alumni keep old friendships alive: "Mrs. Jesse Y. Glenn (Mary Albert), of 55 Park Avenue, Bloomfield, N. J., entertained at luncheon and bridge April 18, 1931: Miss Edith Curtis, '99, Westfield, N. J.; Miss Ada Harrison, '02, Newark, N. J.; Lela Shultz (Mrs. I. T. Madsen), '01, Plainfield, N. J., and Gertrude Follmer (Mrs. A. T. Lowry), '01 and '03, Port Washington, Long Island. These five loyal alumnae meet several times during the year, usually for luncheon and a show in New York."

Genevieve L. Bubbs is teacher of Art in the Stevens Junior High School, Williamsport, Pa.

Alice Melvin (Mrs. B. Eichholzer) lives in Forest City, Pa.

H. Walter Riland is Executive Secretary of the Bedford Y. M. C. A. His address is 1280 Pacific Street, Brooklyn, N. Y.

Dr. A. K. Aldinger is Director of Health Education in the schools of New York City. His address is 157 East 67th Street. Dr. Aldinger is recalled by many as the coach of many successful athletic teams developed by him during the thirteen years that he spent at Bloomsburg.

W. Ray Helwig lives at 3709 Pillsbury Avenue, Minneapolis, Minn. Mr. Helwig writes: "If any of my old friends happen through Minneapolis, I wish they would call Colfax 6171. While I am away from home a big part of the time, it might be possible that I could get in touch with them."

H. E. Rawlinson is President of the Institute of Musical Education, with headquarters at 715 South Park View Street, Los Angeles, California. This information has, besides the main conservatory, thirty-two branches in Los Angeles, a hundred in other cities and towns in California, one branch in Alaska, five in Arizona, one in Colorado, five in Oregon, six in Washington, one in Hawaii, and two in Japan. Mr. Rawlinson writes: "If you know of any Alumni in California, we might have a reunion here." Inasmuch as the successful meeting in Philadelphia has already furnished the inspiration for the formation of other local organizations, this would be a good time for any Alumni living in California, or any knowing of any other Alumni living in that state, to communicate with Mr. Rawlinson.

The class of 1906, holding its silver reunion, has 41 members back for a wonderful day. As in all class reunions, the class meeting in which members told of what they had been doing, was an outstanding feature. Among those attending were: Ellie Dietrick, Anne L. Evans, Maude Evans, Adeline Williams, Nora Gaffney, Mary Mitchel Beau, Lu Breddinger Mershon, R. Bruce Albert, Grace Bonham, Aleta Bomboy Englehart, John E. Shambach, W. R. Girton, Anna Barr Schuioll, Laura Weiser, Cottie Meiser, Laura Aurand Witmer, Clara Coughlin Roselle, Amy Levan, Ethel Maxwell, Hazel B. Allen, Marion Groff Spangler, John Shambach and Myrtle Longenberger Messersmith.

Myrtle Longenberger (Mrs. C. P. Messersmith) lives at 1813 Pennsylvania Street, Allentown, Pa.

Laura Aurand (Mrs. M. W. Witmer) lives at 178 Main Street, Trappe, Pa.

Honora M. Gaffney lives in Steelton, Pa., where she is employed as a supervising clerk.

Elwell P. Dietrick is Secretary of the Penn Electrical Engineering Company, Scranton, Pa.

Maude Evans is teaching in Taylor, Pa. Her address is 109 West Taylor Street.

W. Raymond Girton is Assistant Superintendent of the International Salt Company, and is located at 111 East Fall Street, Ithaca, N. Y.

Adeline Williams is teacher of eighth grade in Scranton, Pa.

Blanche Westbrook (Mrs. Newton C. Fetter) lives at 335 Harvard Street, Cambridge, Mass. Her husband, a Baptist Minister, is charged with the welfare of the Baptist students in Greater Boston. Mr. and Mrs. Fetter have two children: Emily, a Junior in the Cambridge High and Latin School and Edmund W., in the seventh grade.

Sadie Rush Moyer (Mrs. John R. MacCulloch) lives at 178 Main Street, Lodi, New Jersey. Mrs. MacCulloch writes the following, which we pass on to her classmates: "Let us start now to plan for our reunion next year. Where is our secretary? Let us show our Alma Mater some of the loyalty we tried to show years ago."

E. Louise Jolly is a teacher in the high school at Alameda, California.

Helen Wardell (Mrs. A. B. Eister) lives at 409 Union Street, Warsaw, Indiana.

1908

The class of 1908 was well represented at the Philadelphia Bloomsburg State Teachers College Alumni meeting, by the following members, some of whom hadn't seen each other for 23 years, thus making it a very real reunion to them: Dariom Maurer, Charles Maurer, Tom Francis, Carrie Gray Hurley, Flora Miller Anderson, Bill Rarich, Martha Herring Bragg, Olive Major, Willie Morgan Stein, Agnes Burke Kinney, Jennie Yoder Foley.

Tom Francis helped wonderfully by having all the letters and songs mimeographed for us, which was a big undertaking and the Philadelphia organization feels deeply grateful to him for this service.

Every member of the '08 class living in and around Philadelphia with the exception of Florence Beddall, attended the banquet. Florence would have liked to have been with us but it was impossible this year. However, we are hoping she can be with us next year.

Class songs written in 1908 by Agnes Burke Kinney and James Cummings were on the song sheet. Mrs. Foley wrote and revised several of the other songs.

Willie Morgan Stein was elected Vice-President of the organization. Jennie Yoder Foley was elected Secretary.

Following is an excerpt from a letter from Jennie Klein Sitler, of 1907, with news of interest about herself and her husband, J. Wessley Sitler, 1908:

"Mr. Sitler graduated at the University of Michigan, 1914. He practiced forestry until 1920. He then returned to teaching and taught two years at Yuma, Arizona, three years at Flagstaff, Arizona and has been in Hollywood for six years. He is following the line you would expect—Biology. He likes his work here very much. Los Angeles schools are very progressive and Hollywood is a most ideal location. The school has an enrollment of about 2000 at present I think. He still loves all the out-door sports and goes hunting and camping quite often. The high school boys are just crazy to go out with him.

I finished a degree (A. B.) at the University of Southern California and am about to complete a M. A. I've been teaching Social Science in the Junior High School in Los Angeles for seven years."

Mr. and Mrs. Sitler's address is 1915 Catalina Street, Los Angeles, California.

Mary Louise Moore says, "I am always glad to receive the Quarterly and wish to keep up my dues."

Mary's address is 1029 Munroe Avenue, Scranton, Pa.

A letter from James E. Cummings states:

"I do not deserve to be 'discovered,' but you have been so persistent in learning my whereabouts that I believe your efforts should be rewarded, so here I am:

James E. Cummings,
Department of Education
National Catholic Welfare Conference
Washington, D. C.

I should like very much to receive any information you may have about former classmates and especially those who are living in or near Washington. I hope to be able to attend our next class reunion.

Thanking you for discovering me, I am,

Sincerely yours,

JAMES E. CUMMINGS,

Statistician.

Three members of the 1908 class who are celebrating the twenty-fifth anniversary of their own high school graduation have sons who will finish their high school courses this month.

Hazel Row Creasy, a 1906 graduate of the Bloomsburg High School, has a son Edwin Row Creasy graduating from the same school this June.

Jennie Yoder Foley, a 1906 graduate of Mt. Carmel High School, has a son, Edward L. Foley, graduating from the Frankford High School, Philadelphia, on June 23rd.

Willie Morgan Stein who graduated from Bloomsburg High School in 1906, has a son Vincil G. Stein, Jr., who finishes his high school course at the West Philadelphia High School this month also.

Mrs. Willie Morgan Stein,
Chairman Reunion Committee.
Per Jennie Yoder Foley.

In the March issue of the QUARTERLY, we had an item regarding Charles Maurer, who was recently awarded the degree of Doctor of Education at Temple University. It was stated that Mr. Maurer was a member of the class of 1909. We immediately received protests from members of the class of 1908, saying that he was a member of their class. On consulting the records, we find that Mr. Maurer was graduated from the Regular Normal Course in 1908, and from the College Preparatory Course in 1909. It therefore seems that both classes share in the honors.

Geraldine Hess (Mrs. George E. Follmer) is teacher of grades one and two in the Sugarloaf Consolidated School, Columbia County. Her address is Benton, Pa., R. D. 4.

Dr. Scott R. Fisher is Assistant Surgeon in the Crouse Irving Hospital, Syracuse, N. Y.

In a recent issue of the QUARTERLY we printed an announcement of the marriage of Mary F. Bevan. We have been informed by a friend of Miss Bevan's that this event did not take place; we therefore apologize for the error. Miss Bevan's name is mentioned elsewhere in this issue as being a successful teacher in the schools of Mauch Chunk, Pa.

John Sweir, Attorney-at-Law, is located at McAdoo, Pa.

Louella S. Burdick (Mrs. L. H. Siquett) lives at 208 Crown Point Road, Westville, New Jersey. In renewing her subscription to the QUARTERLY, Mrs. Siquett makes the following comment: "What has happened to the class of 1910, that they are rarely mentioned in the QUARTERLY? Is it because they haven't made good their pledges for the Trophy Room? Come on, classmates—Let's go!"

H. C. Fetterolf is State Director of Agricultural Education in the Pennsylvania State Department of Public Instruction. His address is 40 North 27th Street, Camp Hill, Pa.

Sara F. Lewis is teacher of first grade in Forty Fort, Pa. Her address in Forty Fort is 26 East Pettebone Street.

Thirty-three members of the class of 1911 of the Bloomsburg State Teachers College, many of them accompanied by wives or husbands not members of the class so that the group totalled 50, met in reunion at the Wimodausis Club where a delicious dinner was served.

It was the second time that the class has met in reunion the night before College Alumni Day. They met for the first at such a dinner five years ago.

One member of the class, Mrs. Ethel Fairchild, of Elmira, New York, had her daughter as a guest and 16 members were accompanied by their husbands or wives. Two other classes were represented at the reunion. Fred W. Diehl, of 1909, whose wife was formerly Miss Pearl Fitch, of '11; the former Miss Ethel Creasy, of '09, whose husband, D. D. Wright, is a member of the reunion class and the former Miss Georgia McHenry, '10, whose husband, Abe Sharadin, of Ford City, is a member of the 1911 class.

One member of the class, Jennie Harrison Keefer, of Wilkes-Barre, reported that her father, T. B. Harrison of Town Hall, would attend the 50th reunion.

The invocation was given by Mrs. May Chamberlain Sherman, an ordained minister of the gospel who conducted an evangelist campaign in Berwick last year. Mrs. Sherman resides in Scranton.

The evening was spent in brief talks, each member telling of his or her life since graduating. Each married member reported the number of children, with honors in that department going to Sharadin who is the father of eight.

The following men in attendance, not members of the class, responded: Earl Cortright, Arthur Fairchild, Dayton Ranck, Fred W. Diehl, Karl E. Keefer, John S. Helt and Mr. Rarich. Twenty members of the class have already contributed to the Alumni Room Fund.

Dr. Francis B. Haas, president of the College and a firm friend of Alumni, dropped in and extended a hearty welcome.

Those attending the dinner were: Mrs. Anna Kline Kocher, Espy; Mr. and Mrs. Karl E. Keefer, Wilkes-Barre; Mrs. Elizabeth Ferguson Lanterman, Mrs. Mathilda Bush White, Bloomsburg; Dr. and Mrs. H. F. Baker, Muncy; Mr. and Mrs. George B. Landis, Rock Glen; Mr. and Mrs. Fred W. Diehl, Dr. and Mrs. D. B. McHenry, Danville; Mr. and Mrs. C. M. Foust, Sunbury; Mrs. Irene Campbell Getty, Muncy; Mrs. Mae Chamberlain Sherman, Scranton; Miss Elizabeth A. White, Bloomsburg; Mrs. Edna Lewis Robinson, Milwaukee; Mr. and Mrs. Earl Cortright, Shickshinny; Mr. and Mrs. John S. Helt, Berwick; Mr. and Mrs. George H. Ferris, Bridgeport, Conn.; Mrs. Myrtle Rice Singley, Mr. and Mrs. Dayton Ranck, Mrs. Anette Osborn Frantz, Luzerne; Mr. and Mrs. Rarich, Miss Jennie Barklie, Ashley; Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Sharadin, Ford City; Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Fairchild and daughter, Elmira, New York; Mr. and Mrs. C. K. McDonald, Mrs. Pauline Harper, Bloomsburg; Miss Lydia Koehler, Scranton; Mrs. Margaret Yost, Hazleton; Miss Ethel Paisley, Mrs. Laura Treweek Watkins, Nesquehoning; Ralph H. Smoyer, Bloomsburg; Miss Ruth Harris, Berwick; Mrs. Elsie Winter Stevens, Tunkhannock; Donald Ikeler, Peekskill, New York; Mr. and Mrs. D. D. Wright, Bloomsburg.

Eighteen hours after death claimed Joseph H. Fitch, father of Mrs. Fred W. Diehl, of Danville, Mr. Diehl's father, Alfred Diehl, passed away. Mr. Diehl was aged 80 years, Mr. Fitch 71 and both made their home with Superintendent of Schools and Mrs. Fred W. Diehl.

The class of 1911, opening with a dinner, had their number augmented some and in all 41 members of the class were back for the reunion. This class was one of the first to hold a dinner on the night preceding Alumni Day, adding that feature to their reunion in 1926. Those attending were:

Bessie Ashe Naunas, Matilda Bush White, Bloomsburg; Harold F. Baker, M. D., Muncy; C. Merrill Boust, Sunbury; Jennie Barklie, Ashley; Rev. C. Carroll Bailey, Baltimore, Md.; Rev. Mae Chamberlain Sherman, Scranton; Irene Campbell Getty, Muncy; Dr. Carlton Creasy, Wilkes-Barre; Edith DeLong Tyson, Millersburg; J. Frank Dennis, Kingston; Elizabeth Ferguson Lanterman, Miriam Hess McDonald, Bloomsburg; Pearl Fitch Diehl, Danville; Mary Ferris, Dickson City; George H. Ferris, Jr., Bridgeport, Conn.; Jennie Harrison Keefer, Wilkes-Barre; Louisa Hartman Cortright, Shickshinny; Ethel Hower Fairchilds, Elmira, N. Y.; Ruth Harris, Berwick; Donald Ikeler, Peekskill, N. Y.; Anna Kline Kocher, Espy; Lydia Koehler, Scranton; George B. Landis, Rock Glen; Edna Lewis Robinson, Milwaukee, Wis.; D. B. McHenry, M. D., Danville; Elverta I. Miller, Niagara Falls, N. Y.; Bruce Mather, Benton; Annette Osborn Frantz, Luzerne; Ethel Paisley, Nesquehoning; Myrtle Rice Singley, Irene Snyder Rauch, Lewisburg; Katherine Stunz Rarich, Berwick; A. J. John Bakeless, son of Prof. and Mrs. O. H. Bakeless of town, has just had his third book published. Its title is "Magazine Making."

The book deals with the whole process of magazine making as the author has seen it through ten years of experience on the leading weeklies and monthlies, especially the Living Age, of which he was successively literary editor, managing editor, and editor; the Independent, for which he was literary "scout;" and the Forum, of which he was managing editor. It is based on lectures dealing with magazine making, which he began in 1928, at the request of the late James Melvin Lee, Director of the Department of Journalism at New York University. It describes the work of the editor, the relation of editor and author, the economics and finances of magazine making, the problems of the publisher, the problems of the printer as the editor must know them, methods of promoting magazine circulation, and the magazine editor's dealing with newspapers. This last is based on the author's own newspaper experience and his experience in directing the publicity campaigns of the Forum magazine for two years. There are many amusing anecdotes.

The book has some 300 pages, including illustrations, diagrams, type tables and an appendix. It is published by the Viking Press, New York, who also published "The Origin of the Next War," in 1926. The price is $3.00.

The writer has had the collaboration of many distinguished authorities and famous publications, including Professor H. B. Rathbone, chairman of the Department of Journalism, New York University, and members of the staffs of the Atlantic Monthly, Forum, Conde Nast publications, Outlook, New Republic, Harper's, the Curtis publications, the London Times Literary Supplement, the New York Times, the New Yorker, the New York Nation, the Ullstein Verlag, of Berlin, Germany and the Quinzaine Critique, of Paris.

It is dedicated to Dean LeBaron Russell Briggs, of Harvard.

It is the author's third book. His first, the Economic Causes of Modern War was published in 1921, under the auspices of the Department of Political Science, Williams College, where it was awarded the $500 David A. Wells prize.

"The Origin of the Next War" was published by the Viking Press, New York and Jonathan Cape, London, in 1926.

The book is not written in a technical style. It is designed to interest the general reader, the high school or college student, the high school or college teacher in charge of amateur publications, as well as the professional journalist.

It is the first book ever written on magazine production.

NEW CURRICULA ADOPTED

New curricula for the State Normal Schools and Teachers' Colleges of Pennsylvania have been recommended by the Board of Presidents, and will go into effect September 1, 1931. The new curricula are four years in length, and will eventually replace all of the former two-year curricula. The revision of the curricula of the teacher-training institutions of Pennsylvania, is a part of a movement going on all over the country, resulting in a lengthening of the period of teacher preparation.

Several years ago, four-year curricula were adopted as the standard of preparation for teachers in secondary schools, and teachers of special subjects, such as Commercial subjects, Health Education, Public School Music, and Home Economics. Up to this time, the curricula preparing for teachers in elementary schools have been two years in length. The addition of two more years to these curricula is a recognition of the fact that the preparation of teachers in the elementary grades should be as good as that of high school teachers.

The certification requirements in Pennsylvania, for teachers of elementary schools still demand two years of post-high-school preparation, and therefore, for the time being, adjustments will be made, whereby it will be possible for students to attend a teacher-training institution for two years, and be allowed to teach.

The present policy will be to encourage students to take four years of work before they begin their teaching, and to provide the facilities whereby the four years of preparation may be obtained.

The present surplus of teachers in Pennsylvania is a factor which will encourage many students to remain at the institution for two more years, thus giving them a better chance to secure a position after they have graduated.

All of the curricula will carry with them the degree of Bachelor of Science in Education, which the student will receive at the successful completion of the four-year course.

All students must be graduates of an approved four-year high school before they will be admitted to begin their college work. All of the work is entirely on the college level. No provision is made by the institution for making up of deficiencies in the student's high school course. These deficiencies must be made up before the student will be admitted.

The raising of standards of teacher-preparation will undoubtedly result in better public schools, and it will aid greatly in elevating the teaching profession, so that it may take its place by the side of other recognized professions, such as law and medicine.

Some minor revisions in the new curricula will be made this fall. When the curricula have arrived at their permanent form, they will be published in the Quarterly.

SUMMER SCHOOL NOTES

One of the most successful summer sessions in several years came to a close Friday, July 31. The enrollment for the summer was 401, which number was 84 more than the enrollment last year. The increase in enrollment, which came as a surprise to the authorities at the institution, was paralleled in most of the other summer schools in the state.

Reports received in the Department of Public Instruction show that approximately 31 per cent. of all teachers employed in the public schools of the Commonwealth were enrolled in summer courses at accredited colleges, universities and State Teacher Training institutions in the Commonwealth.

The enrollment of 18,367 teachers in these courses indicates that 3300 more teachers than last year sought additional preparation. In view of the industrial depression, State Superintendent James N. Rule said that this manifestation of professional zeal on the part of the teachers was the finest display of loyalty to public education in the history of Pennsylvania.

The demand for better prepared teachers and the desire on the part of the teachers to secure higher forms of licenses have brought about this large enrollment, it is believed.

After September 1, 1932, all new entrants into the teaching service in the secondary field will be required to have four years of post high school preparation. While this requirement is not retroactive and does not affect teachers now in service, many of the teachers now in service who have not reached this level of preparation are making every attempt to meet the new level which will be required of beginning teachers.

While the State does not require four years of professional preparation for teachers in the elementary field, hundreds of teachers have returned to the State Teachers' Colleges to continue their preparation to this new level.

Beginning teachers of art, music, home economics, commercial and physical education, after September 1, 1932, will be required to complete approved four-year curriculums. Teachers of these special subjects now in service are continuing their preparation to the college level to equal the requirements to become effective September 1, 1932, although the revised certification regulations do not require it.

Six members of the faculty were on leave of absence with pay during the summer. Five took work in institutions in this country and abroad and one spent the summer traveling.

Howard F. Fenstermaker, of the department of foreign languages, attended the Inter-Session and Summer Session at New York University.

Mrs. Etta H. Keller, training teacher of grade six, took a trip conducted under the auspices of Clark University. Her travels took her across the Continent to the Pacific Coast, up to Alaska, through the Panama Canal to Cuba, and home.

John C. Koch, Dean of Men and Director of Secondary Education, spent the summer at New York University. Mr. Koch and his family had an apartment at Freeport, Long Island.

Miss Ethel E. Shaw, of the English department, took work at Oxford University.

Miss Alice Johnston, teacher of oral expression, attended the Summer Session of the University of Michigan.

Mrs. Kathryn Loose Sutliff, of the department of Health Education, studied at New York University.

* * * *

Mrs. W. Clair Hidlay, of Bloomsburg, taught oral expression, taking the place of Miss Alice Johnston.

L. P. Gilmore, of the Bloomsburg Junior High School Faculty, acted as Dean of Men in the absence of Dean Koch.

* * * *

A reception and dance for the students of the Summer Session was held Thursday evening, June 25, in the college gymnasium.

The Boston Male Choir appeared Monday evening, July 6, in a recital which delighted a large audience. This was the fifth appearance of the Choir in Bloomsburg in the last three years.

* * * *

V. L. Granville, celebrated English actor, appeared in "Dramatic Interludes" Friday evening, July 24. This was Mr. Granville's second appearance in Bloomsburg. His program consisted of selections from several great works of dramatic literature, presented with striking costumes, make-up, and lighting effects.

Four education forums, led by superintendents of schools in the vicinity of Bloomsburg, were held during the Summer Session.

The first was held Tuesday morning, June 30, and was led by Carl L. Millward, superintendent of the Milton schools. The subject of the discussion was "Personalities."

On Tuesday, July 7, J. Andrew Morrow, of Towanda, superintendent of the Bradford County schools, spoke on "A Larger Unit of School Administration."

"What Values Teachers Should Realize From Supervision" was the subject discussed by A. D. Thomas, superintendent of the Hazleton schools, at the meeting held Tuesday morning, July 14.

The last of the four meetings, held July 21, had as its leader Paul Witmeyer, superintendent of the Shamokin schools. The subject was "The Schools and the Public."

Athletics played an important part on the program of student activities carried on during the Summer Session. Two baseball teams were organized: the "Whiffers," under the leadership of Nicholas Rudowski, and the "Breezers," captained by Edward Yarashefski. A series of six games was played, four of which were won by the "Whiffers." The rewards of victory came in the form of a chicken and waffle dinner, served at the Kocher Hotel, Light Street, Tuesday evening, July 28, at which time the "Whiffers" were the guests of the "Breezers."

Joseph Yacabonis, of Mahanoy City; Harold Miller, of Bloomsburg, and Miss Gladys Dildine, of Orangeville, received their diplomas for the successful completion of the four year course for a degree as Bachelor of Science in Education, at the close of this year's Summer Session.

The presentation of the diplomas was made by Dean of Instruction W. B. Sutliff, during a brief program which followed a dinner in the school dining hall Thursday evening, July 30, at which members of the Board of Trustees, the faculty and day students were guests of the College. Mr. Sutliff also read the names of 12 students who have completed the two year course.

E. H. Nelson had charge of the program for the dinner which was a fine closing feature of the Summer Session.

During the serving of a fine dinner there was group singing under the direction of E. A. Reams. L. P. Gilmore, dean of men, and Miss Bernice, dean of women during the Summer Session, were introduced.

Dr. Haas, president of the College, gave a farewell talk to the largest number of students to attend Summer School here in several years.

Students heartily approved the plan of having classes during the term an hour and a half long with no classes on Saturday mornings. They also commented very favorably on the plan of having a dinner at the close of the term.

The faculty quartet, composed of L. P. Gilmore, S. I. Shortess, E. A. Reams and H. A. Andruss, sang some enjoyed numbers.

Following the dinner dancing was enjoyed in the gymnasium with the Maroon and Gold orchestra furnishing the music.

EXTENSIVE IMPROVEMENTS COMPLETED

An extensive program of improvements to the college buildings and campus will be completed in time for the opening of the college on September 8. The principal projects are the following:

The old Manual Training rooms in the basement of Noetling Hall have been completely refinished with new floors, replastered, and equipped with new lighting fixtures and new furniture, to provide a place for the social activities of the various student groups.

The Domestic Science rooms in the basement of Science Hall have been refinished in the same manner, to provide additional facilities for the various social activities of the college, especially for the faculty.

Room A, on the first floor of Carver Hall, has been equipped to take care of the men day students. For many years they have had inadequate and unsanitary quarters in the basement near the gymnasium. The new room is well provided with comfortable furniture, and will provide a pleasant place for the men to go between classes.

Room G, the former third grade room in Noetling Hall, has been refinished for the use of the woman day students. A new floor has been laid, and this will be covered with linoleum. The little room to the east will be furnished as a kitchenette, and lunch tables will be provided. The little room to the west will be furnished as an office for Miss Ethel Ranson, Dean of Women Day Students.

The largest project has been the completion of the improvements in Waller Hall and North Hall. This project was begun several years ago. New wood floors have been laid in all of the rooms and corridors. Linoleum has been laid throughout both buildings. All of the rooms and corridors have been redecorated. One floor has been completely refurnished each year. New furniture has arrived, to equip about one-third of North Hall.

Rugs will be placed in all of the dormitory rooms, and in most of the administrative offices.

The space formerly used as a playground, lying between Noetling Hall and Science Hall, on the east side of the walk, has received a covering of top soil, has been seeded, and restored to campus.

Many other parts of the campus have been graded, and improved by the installation of an adequate drainage system. A large sum has been expended in concrete walks, steps, and curbing.

The vacant lots on the south side of Second Street, opposite the long porch, have also been graded, and will furnish a pleasing addition to the campus.

Another project, carried on by the town of Bloomsburg, is worthy of mention. East Second Street, running along the entire south side of the campus, has been resurfaced as a fine highway leading to the new training school building, and the rapidly growing "faculty colony" extending two blocks farther to the east.

The placing of permanent bleachers on the west side of the gymnasium at the State Teachers College, similar to those placed on the east side three years ago, together with the improvement of the men and women's dressing rooms and the offices of the teachers of physical education will take place within the present year.

To place seats on the east side, the building was extended in that direction so that the size of the gymnasium floor was not decreased. A similar plan will be followed in placing the seats on the other side although the plans for that and improvements to the offices and dressing rooms have not been worked out in detail.

The whole plant, inside and outside, is now in a condition to cause the alumni, students, and faculty to be proud of the institution.

O

HOME-COMING DAY, NOVEMBER 14

Alumni! Do not forget the big home-coming celebration to be held November 14! This is your one big chance to come back and see the college year in full swing. When you come back to your class reunion in June, most of the students are gone, and you miss one side of the picture. The whole student body will be there to welcome you, and town and campus will be all dressed up in your honor.

In the afternoon there will be a big football game with East Stroudsburg. Two years ago, we defeated them, in one of the finest exhibitions of football seen here in many a day. Come and see us do it again!

The football game will be followed by a reception in the gymnasium, and there will be a dance in the evening. Everything has been well planned to give you a royal time.

Full particulars as to the plans for the day will be sent out in a few weeks. These will not be sent to all members of the Alumni Association, but an effort will be made to reach every community in the vicinity of Bloomsburg. If you get an announcement, pass the word along; if you fail to receive one, consider yourself invited anyhow.

The Committee hopes to make this the biggest Home-Coming Day that we have ever had. Help them to make it so by coming yourself, and bringing as many others as you can!

VIRGINIA DICKERSON

Miss Virginia Dickerson, teacher of Latin at the Bloomsburg State Normal School for twenty-eight years, died Thursday morning, June 4, 1931, at the home of Mrs. E. G. Pickering, Maple Street, Montrose, where she had been living for several years. Miss Dickerson had been suffering from heart trouble, and for about three weeks prior to her death had been confined to her bed.

Miss Dickerson was born in Springville Township and her early life was spent there. She attended the Soldiers' Orphan School at Harford, until she was sixteen years of age, and then attended the Mansfield State Normal School, from which she was graduated in the class of 1886. She taught in the Springville school, and then came to Bloomsburg, where she rendered twenty-eight years of faithful and efficient service.

Following her retirement, she spent most of her time in Montrose, where she was living at the time of her death. She would have been sixty-eight years of age had she lived until July 12. Hundreds of Bloomsburg graduates have set in her classes, and will be grieved to hear of her death.

PROF. AND MRS. ALBERT CELEBRATE GOLDEN WEDDING

With all of their children and two of the bridesmaids as guests, Prof. and Mrs. C. H. Albert observed their golden wedding anniversary at their home on Sunday, July 26.

Not only were the children present for the delightful affair, but also in attendance were their wives and children and three grand children. The bridesmaids who were at the happy event were Mrs. Edward E. Duck, sister of Prof. Albert, and Mrs. Charles Herman.

Prof. Albert has long been identified with the educational activities of this section and for years was one of the members of the faculty of the Bloomsburg State Teachers' College. Both during that period and since, he has been in close touch with Tuskegee Institute, Alabama, and visits that noted institute for negroes each year to give lectures. Since his retirement from the Teachers' College he has been very active on the institute program and as a speaker for the Anti-Saloon League. His institute work has carried him into 22 states and his friends and those of Mrs. Albert are legion.

The happy couple received over 200 telegrams, letters and cards of congratulations and there were many beautiful bouquets and other gifts, as well as a purse of gold from their children, Mrs. Jesse Y. Glenn, of Bloomfield, N. J.; Mrs. Dallas C. Baer, of Selinsgrove; Keller B. Albert, of Reading; Charles L. Albert, of Dallas, and R. Bruce Albert, of Bloomsburg.

A delicious anniversary dinner was served at the Hotel Magee with the following attending:

Prof. and Mrs. Charles H. Albert, Mr. and Mrs. Keller A. Albert, of Reading; Mr. and Mrs. Charles L. Albert and children, Charles, Jr., and Mary Elizabeth, of Dallas; Mr. and Mrs. Jesse Y. Glenn, of Bloomfield, N. J.; Mr. and Mrs. R. Bruce Albert, of Bloomsburg; Rev. and Mrs. Dallas C. Baer and daughter, Mary Annabell, and Mrs. William Noetling, Selinsgrove; Mr. and Mrs. E. E. Duck, Mr. and Mrs. Roy Duck, of Williamsport; Mrs. John Fasold, Mifflinburg; Mrs. J. G. Cope, of Bloomsburg.

1931-1932 CALENDAR

The 1931-32 term at the Teachers College will open on Tuesday, September 8th, and will close with Commencement May 24th, 1932, it is announced in the 1931-32 catalogue which is now being sent out by the institution.

The catalogue is exceptionally complete, giving full details concerning the courses of study offered. All phases of College life are well handled in the volume which has a number of fine illustrations of campus scenes and of College organizations.

Classes will begin this fall the day following the registration and will continue to the Thanksgiving recess which extends from noon Wednesday, November 25th, until noon Monday, November 30th. The Christmas recess starts Wednesday, December 23rd, and ends at noon Monday, January 4th, with the first semester closing on the 16th of that month.

The second semester starts Monday, January 18th. The only vacation during the second semester will be during Easter and extends from Thursday, March 24th, to noon on Monday, April 4th. Class work ends on Friday, May 20th.

Alumni Day will be Saturday, May 21st, with the baccalaureate sermon the following day. Senior Day will be Monday, May 23rd and Commencement Tuesday, May 24th.

TROPHY ROOM STATEMENT

To the Alumni:

The classes that have held reunions during the years of 1929-30-31 have subscribed to the Trophy Room Project a total of $2336.00. Of this there has been paid in $1755.00. The balance unpaid is $581.00. The amount expended on the room thus far is $3050.59.

The following statement shows what classes are delinquent in the payment of their pledges and how much. The committee in charge of the work would be glad to have this money in their hands to meet their obligations. The Alumni, by their enthusiasm shown at their class reunions, are heart and soul behind this movement. Some members, busy with many things, easily overlook this obligation. The project is still unknown to many of the members of classes that were not able to get to the reunions. Each member of every class should be reached by special letter, explaining the work we are doing. Let all get busy, that each member of every class may get into action at once. The movement must succeed. It will.

O. H. BAKELESS,
Custodian and Treasurer.

Miss Margaret Waller, who has been engaged in library work in New York City for several years, left early in August for the American College, Peking, China, where she will be engaged in library work. Miss Waller sailed from Vancouver, and visited Korea and Japan before entering China to begin her work.

DR. WALLER ILL

Dr. D. J. Waller, Jr., President Emeritus of the College, was very ill for several weeks this summer, as the result of an accident sustained while on his way to Indiana, Pa., to visit his son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. James Mack. He was struck in the eye by a sharp stone that was thrown from the road by the wheel of a passing car. The accident occurred June 5.

His condition improved slowly until June 19, when he suffered an embolism, which caused the members of his family to be gravely concerned about his condition.

Two days before his relapse, he celebrated his eighty-fifth birthday, and was able to join heartily in a dinner given in his honor.

His daughter, Elizabeth Waller, was with him during his illness, and his son Robert was called from Boston.

After the effects of the embolism were removed, he continued to improve, and is now well on his way to recovery.

THE FACULTY

Dr. Mary E. Roe, of Texas, a medical doctor, will be a member of the faculty during the coming year, taking the place of Miss Rachel Turner, assistant dean of women, who is on a leave of absence.

Dr. Roe has been experienced in the field of physical education and teaching and will devote her work in those fields and will not practice medicine.

The new faculty member comes highly recommended and the institution believes that a woman of her accomplishments will be worthwhile addition to the faculty.

She graduated from the medical college of the University of Texas in 1917 and in addition had a year's work at Texas Presbyterian College and a year and a summer at the University of Texas. She served her internship at the New York Infirmary for Women and Children.

She taught in public schools from 1911 to 1913. She was an interne in the New York Hospital the following year and for the next two years was a member of the faculty at the University of Texas, the first year as an instructor in bacteriology and hygiene and the second year as instructor in clinical medicine and diagnosis.

During the college year of 1921-22 Dr. Roe was pathologist at the John Sealy Hospital, Galveston, Texas, and from 1922 to 1925 was physician for women at the University of Texas. During the summer of 1923 she served as assistant resident physician in the Women's Medical College Hospital, Philadelphia, and from October, 1926 until September, 1930, was engaged in private practice in Austine, Texas. Last year she took a temporary position as college physician at the State Normal School, Ypsilanti, Mich.

A new member of the Department of Health Education is Miss Lillian B. Murray, elected to take the place of Mrs. Kathryn Loose Sutliff, who has resigned. Miss Murray is a graduate of Morningside College, Sioux City, Iowa, where she specialized in Biology, Psychology and Physical Education. She also has the degree of Master of Arts from New York University, where she specialized in Physical Education. Her previous experience includes one year at the Central High School, Duluth, Minnesota, and three years as head of the Department of Physical Education at Morningside College.

Miss Alice Johnston, instructor in oral expression and dramatics, will be on leave of absence during the first semester. Her place will be taken by Miss Marjorie Stackhouse, of Bloomsburg. Miss Stackhouse is a graduate of the Emerson School of Expression, in Boston, and has also taken work at the College of Industrial Arts, in Texas, and the University of Iowa. Her teaching experience includes several years at the College of Industrial Arts, in Texas, and Hood College, Frederick, Maryland.

* * * *

Miss Ida M. Gray, a member of the faculty in the Art Department, has asked for her release so that she may continue her work in another institution, and her resignation will be recommended to the Board as soon as a suitable successor is secured.

* * * *

Miss Grace H. Woolworth has been appointed kindergarten teacher at the Ben Franklin Training School, succeeding Mrs. Norman Hoffman, formerly Miss Schmehl.

Miss Woolworth this past June received her Master's Degree at Teachers College, Columbia University and has been teaching in the State College for Women, Greensboro, North Carolina. She has had a wide and varied experience in public school and kindergarten work.

The Department of Commerce, instituted last year, is rapidly becoming one of the most popular at the College. The enrollment of first year students is limited to thirty-five, and almost that many have already registered.

It was necessary to add an additional member to the faculty at the close of the first semester last year and a fourth member, Lewis B. Clark, is joining the faculty at the opening of the fall term. H. A. Andruss is director of the department.

The department offers a four year course with a degree in bachelor of science in education. In addition to the first year class there will be about 50 in the upper classes in the department this year, some of them having started the course last year and others transferring their work to Bloomsburg.

Mr. Clark received his A. B. and M. A. degrees from the University of Maine and has completed a year of work toward his degree as Doctor of Education at Rutgers University. He is a member of Phi Beta Kappa fraternity and was formerly head of the commercial department of Altoona High School.

For three years he was a member of the faculty of the State Normal School, Plattsburg, N. Y., and in addition has had a number of years of public school teaching experience in Maine, New Hampshire, and Pennsylvania.

Thornley W. Booth, coach of the athletic teams, and member of the Physical Education faculty, was a member of the Summer School faculty at the State Teachers College at Clarion, Pa.

E. H. Nelson, Director of Health Education, has returned to Bloomsburg, after a year's leave of absence, during which time he studied for his Doctor's degree at New York University. He resumed his duties at the college at the beginning of the Summer Session.

1875

Mrs. Annie Morris Sayre, of Hampton, Virginia, with her son, who is an Episcopal Rector, at Williamsport, spent Wednesday, August 26, with Prof. and Mrs. F. H. Jenkins. Mrs. Sayre was a classmate of Mrs. Jenkins.

1881

At the 50th reunion of the class in June, it was felt by the members of the class that the time was insufficient for all to give a complete account of their activities since graduation. It was therefore decided that as many as possible should write a brief account of these activities, for publication in the QUARTERLY.

It is impossible, because of lack of space, to print all of these histories in this issue; they will appear in subsequent issues until all of them have been published.

May Wells (Creasy)

Taught the Ungraded School at Rupert one year. Second grade in the Catawissa School one year. The following year was assistant to Miss Brewster in the Model School, which was the Training School for old Normal. In July, 1884, was married to S. Clifton Creasy—one of the Normal boys—who had established a wholesale and retail lumber yard in Bloomsburg. We had six children. Anna married Earl F. John; Martha, at home; Edward married Lydia Andres; Ethel married Dennis D. Wright; Ruth, who announced her engagement to Luther P. Creasy June 23, 1931; Jean, at home, teaching Music. I have six grandchildren—Kathryn John and Louise Creasy, who will enter the senior class at High School in the Fall; Martha Wright, Ninth Grade Junior High; Clifton Wright, Seventh Grade Junior High; Helen May Wright, who will enter First Grade and Anne Wright, 4 years old. Since the passing away of Mr. Creasy in 1923, the lumber business of Creasy and Wells has been carried on by my son and sons-in-law. I have been active in the different organizations of the First Methodist Church; was the first president of the Board of Directors of our Public Library, holding that office for several years; I am a member of the Century Club, the Eastern Star and one of the charter members of our local Chapter D. A. R.

Enola B. Guie

After graduating from the State Normal School in June, 1881, I taught as assistant in the Catawissa High School for three years. In the meantime, I took a special course in Expression in the Summer School of S. S. Hamill in Chicago. In the autumn of 1884 I entered the Bloomsburg State Normal School as teacher of Elocution and Calisthenics, remaining in that capacity for seven years.

In September, 1891, I took the position of teacher of English and Expression in the Wilkes-Barre High School. I was head of the Department of Expression during the last two years. I retired the summer of 1919.

Abigail Robbins (Hartman)

First year taught at Plymouth at $32.00 a month and eight months term. Second year started at Plymouth for one month; then went to Nanticoke at $50.00 a month and nine months term.

Third year I took a school of one. In $6\frac{1}{2}$ years had an addition of four. In nine years, two more added to the family. I have three boys and three girls. Also six grandchildren to bless the home.

After being in the home for sixteen years, I began to realize that the four eldest children would all be ready for college at once, being near of an age. But being a minister's family, there were insufficient funds, so the only thing to do was make myself fit for the teaching profession again. So I attended summer terms at State College and Industrial Art School of Philadelphia, after which I taught five years. Then it was considered by the school board that my school should be given to a younger teacher, as the preacher was capable of supporting his wife. Five years being the limit in one place, I had four years yet to remain without a school, so I studied china painting and firing of china.

I took instructions from Campana of Chicago by correspondence, having studied painting previously. As I was the only person having a kiln in the county, I fired china for all the artists of Clearfield County. I made more than by teaching.

The next place we moved I had no place to install my kiln, so I taught drawing and color theory in the grades. Through my teaching and demonstration of combination of colors on the color wheel at institute, my county superintendent and principal recommended me to Governor Sproul for a three year scholarship at Industrial Art School at Philadelphia. This was sent me on my sixtieth birthday. I have always been sorry that I could not take it up, as I could not be there for that length of time, which was a requirement of the school.

The next place, no art was ever taught in the schools, so I taught five more years in the grades, after which I had a request from my sister to come home and help care for an invalid mother. That not being job enough, I boarded high school teachers. But having lost practice in the culinary arts, I decided to take a two years course in Domestic Science and Art, which I took by correspondence with the Scranton Schools, and practiced on my boarders.

It was through loving sacrifice that I saw all my six children through Colleges, Universities and Business Courses. Three had scholarships, which helped out some.

They are all happily married, and have married their equals in education. All are living but the second daughter, who has been in the Spirit World for about twelve years.

I expect to spend the balance of my time in a less strenuous life, helping to care for those of the home older than myself.

My eldest grandchild is only twelve years old. It will be a great pleasure to see my six grandchildren through college, which is the right start for life's work.

The children and in-laws are:—two are lawyers, three are music teachers, two have business courses, one is a mechanical engineer, one domestic science, one physical culture, one merchant, one mechanical draftsman.

1882

Gertrude LaShelle (Mrs. W. E. Wagner) lives in Gordon, Pa. She has sent us a very interesting clipping from the Ashland Daily News, giving an account of a recital given at her home by her daughter, Miss Margaret M. Wagner. Miss Wagner is a very successful music teacher, with studios in Gordon and Ashland, and has fifty-two pupils. Mr. and Mrs. Wagner have three other children: Ralph L., a minister in the Lutheran Church; Evalyn D., now Mrs. L. R. Grover, and Helen E., at home.

Miss Laura M. Helman, of Catasaqua, Pa., died at her home Saturday, June 6, her death following as the result of a heart attack.

Miss Helman was a daughter of the late Abram and Mary M. (nee Drum), Helman, and was a native of Drums. Her parents located at Catasaqua over forty years ago and the family was well and favorably known.

In 1884 Miss Helman became a teacher in the grade schools of Catasaqua and continued in the service of the local school district until 1906, when she resigned. She continued her interest in education up to the time of her death, however.

She was a genealogist of note and took great interest in family histories. During her career she compiled three books on family histories that have had wide circulation.

Miss Helman was a member of the Lehigh County Historical Society, the Huguenot Society and Liberty Bell Chapter of the Daughters of the American Revolution. She was very active in the affairs of all of these organizations and for a number of years served as historian of Liberty Bell Chapter.

A devoted member of the First Presbyterian Church, she was a teacher in the infant department for many years, and was prominent in the Ladies' Aid Society and the Woman's Missionary Society. She was held in high esteem by a host of friends.

Sophie E. Glover, a teacher for many years in Philadelphia and New York, died in June, at her home in Shenandoah, after a long illness.

Mary A. Good (1897 and 1903) who is now teaching in the High School at New Castle, Pa., where she has been for the past ten years, called on some of her Bloomsburg friends August 22. She is looking fine and says she enjoys her work very much. She was a former teacher in chemistry at the State Teachers College.

1898

Flora B. Bentzel is teaching in Harrisburg, Pa.

1899

Lindley H. Dennis, Deputy Superintendent of Public Instruction, was a member of the faculty of the University of Wisconsin, during this year's summer session. On the way home, Mr. Dennis and his family were the victims of a serious automobile accident near Plymouth, Indiana. Mrs. Dennis (Geraldine Conner, '96) suffered severe injuries to her back. Mr. Dennis, his son, and the son of a neighbor, escaped with minor injuries. Mrs. Dennis was brought by train to her home in Camp Hill, Pa., where she is recovering from the effects of the accident.

1900

George W. Carl is Principal of the Fountain Springs School, Schuylkill County, Pa.

Claude L. Moss has been advanced from principal of the high school at North Tonawanda, N. Y., to superintendent of schools. Mr. Moss is a graduate of Syracuse University, and at the time of his graduation from that institution was elected to Phi Beta Kappa. He was principal for two years at Sherburne, N. Y., nine years at Chatham, N. Y., and eleven years at North Tonawanda.

Louise M. Larabee, of Honolulu, spent the summer at the University of Washington. Miss Larabee is a teacher of Science in the Senior High School at Honolulu, is sponsor for the local chapter of the National Honor Society and advisor to the Junior Class.

Robert B. Leighow is a member of the faculty of the Carnegie Institute of Technology, Pittsburgh, Pa.

1905

Madge Bennett (Mrs. Herman L. Johnson) of Willow Grange Farm, Trucksville, Pa., died in March at the Wilkes-Barre General Hospital. Mrs. Johnson was for many years a resident of Wilkes-Barre, where her husband is assistant manager of the district office of the F. W. Woolworth Company. She was prominently identified with the musical life of Wilkes-Barre and was for many years affiliated with the Century Club. She was a member of Central M. E. Church, Wilkes-Barre, and was active in the various church activities. She is survived by her husband and two children, Miss Lorene Johnson, a student at the Eastman School of Music, and Herman L. Johnson, Jr., a student at Wyoming Seminary. Funeral services were held at her late home and the body was taken to Willow Grove Cemetery, Clifford, Pa., for burial.

1906

Catherine Hartline, sister of Prof. D. S. Hartline, of the Bloomsburg faculty, died May 19, 1931, at the Presbyterian Hospital, Philadelphia, Pa.

1907

Margaret C. Brooke served this summer as a member of the staff of the Colorado Psychopathic Hospital. The hospital is connected with the Colorado School of Medicine. Miss Brooke was in Denver during July and August.

Margaret O'Brien Henseler lives at 300 Thirteenth Street, West New York, N. J.

The address of Joanna Bedall (Mrs. J. M. Watkins) has been changed to 2011 Galbreth Road, Pasadena, Cal.

The following item, clipped from the Mount Carmel "Item" for June 6, will be of interest to the friends and classmates of Jennie Yoder Foley, who lives at 8134 Hennig Street, Fox Chase, Philadelphia, Pa.:—

Edward L. Foley, of Fox Chase, Philadelphia, son of Mr. and Mrs. E. A. Foley, former residents of Mount Carmel, will be graduated with distinguished mention at the annual commencement exercises of Frankford High School on Tuesday, June 23. The young man is the valedictorian of a class of 284 students.

The honor of being the leader of his class is nothing new for young Mr. Foley. Four years ago he was graduated by the Fox Chase schools with the highest scholastic averages.

His valedictory address will be, "An Unbiased View of the Five Year Plan in Russia."

His father was at one time a member of the Item staff and also a former city editor of the Shamokin Daily News and Philadelphia North American, now Publicity Director of Keystone Automobile Club.

His mother was formerly a school teacher in this borough, a graduate of Mount Carmel High and of the Bloomsburg State Teachers College. She was elected vice-president of the Class of 1908 at the College. At the first annual meeting of the Philadelphia B. S. T. C. Alumni Association, she was elected secretary of that organization.

James E. Cummings, '08, is on the staff of the National Catholic Welfare Conference, Department of Education, Washington, D. C.

The following summary of Mr. Cummings' activities since leaving Bloomsburg has been prepared at the request of his classmates to whom he has been "lost" for over twenty years.

After graduating from B. S. N. S. Mr. Cummings taught for several years in his home town of Shenandoah. He then became principal of the public school at Clifton Heights, Pa. He is credited with starting the first Junior High School in Delaware County. While at Clifton Heights, Mr. Cummings continued his education at the University of Pennsylvania.

At the outbreak of the World War Mr. Cummings discontinued his school work to become identified with the welfare activities of the Knights of Columbus. His services covered all of the war and post-war period and extended up until the time when all of the work for the education of veterans was completed.

When he first entered upon this work, Mr. Cummings undertook the field service in connection with the organization of all the evening schools conducted by the K. of C. in the Southeastern States. Over a period of five years he traveled, as educational supervisor, through North Carolina, South Carolina, Florida, Georgia, Alabama, Louisiana, Mississippi, Tennessee and Arkansas, in all of which he is well known.

Following this, Mr. Cummings went to the headquarters of the K. of C. in New Haven, where he was assistant educational director in direct charge of all the instructors in correspondence work. In the course of the five years during which he held this office, Mr. Cummings was the author of "Beginning English for Adults" and "Applied Arithmetic," books which were used in the courses he supervised and which have gained wide popularity.

Mr. Cummings' work with the N. C. W. C. Department of Education includes the compilation of statistical data for the Directory of Catholic Colleges and Schools, the preparation of bulletins dealing with the administrative phases of Catholic education, and field studies in connection with surveys.

Mr. Cummings was one of the Parochial School representatives at the White House Conference on Child Birth and Protection. He is a frequent contributor to the Catholic Educational Review, The Catholic School Journal and the N. C. W. C. Review.

Since coming to Washington Mr. Cummings has continued his college course at George Washington University from which he will graduate next February.

Mr. Cummings has three children, two girls, one six years old and one seven years old; one boy, six months old.

Thomas Francis, Superintendent of Lackawanna County Schools, seems to have been spending his vacation fishing. A local paper states: "Prof. Francis, of 1707 Pine Street, County Superintendent of Schools, is proving himself a championship fisherman. The educator has been busy telling of his catch of two brown trout at Wallenpaupack. One measured $24\frac{1}{2}$ inches and weighed five pounds, while the other measured exactly 24 and one-eighth inches and tipped the scale at four pounds."

Hazel Row (Mrs. J. C. Creasy) had the great distinction of seeing a sister and a son graduate in the same class at the Bloomsburg High School last June. Her sister, Betty, who is seventeen, was valedictorian of her class. Her son, Edwin Row Creasy, who is only sixteen, finished his high school work in the same class as his aunt—a coincidence which happens very seldom, we feel sure. To add greater interest to the occasion, Mrs. Creasy attended her twenty-fifth high school reunion and banquet with her son and sister.

Sadie L. Hartman is Secretary of the Industrial Department of the Y. W. C. A. in Washington, D. C. "The Capital Outlook" for May, 1931, contains a picture of Miss Hartman, together with a description of her work. Following are excerpts from this booklet:

“Somewhat similar to the work of the Business and Professional Department, but concerned with a different type of girls and women, the Industrial Department plays an important part in the work of the Young Women’s Christian Association. The work of the Washington Department is entrusted to Miss Sadie L. Hartman, the secretary. Miss Hartman has been connected with industrial departments of the Y. W. C. A. in St. Louis, Illinois, Harrisburg, Pa., and for the past six years in our Association.

“The Industrial Department may be said to be divided into two main sections: trade union groups and the foreign and immigration groups. Through the painstaking care and interest of the National Board of the Y. W. C. A., a cordial welcome is extended to many newcomers to America. Each day there pass across the desk of the industrial secretaries in the various cities letters from the Department of Immigration, and Foreign Communications of the National Board, announcing the forthcoming arrival in the secretary’s city of girls or women who have recently landed in America. For such people our Industrial Department attempts to make Washington seem less strange and unfriendly.

“Soon after the new arrival reached Washington, a representative from the Industrial Department calls on her, to become acquainted, and to see that living accommodations are satisfactory. A special effort is made to introduce her and to help her make friends with others of her own nationality.

“For most of the strangers, it is possible to arrange classes at the Americanization School of the District of Columbia. For some, however, this is not possible, and to meet the needs of these persons there is conducted under the auspices of the Industrial Department, a special Americanization class. A teacher from the Americanization school comes to the headquarters of the Association to conduct classes in Citizenship and English.

"There is another phase of the Industrial Department work which is noteworthy. According to a law of the United States, immigrants receiving aid from a public charity within five years after their arrival in this country are subject to deportation. Thus, if the father of a family is taken sick or dies, the mother cannot accept public assistance or apply for mother's pension even though her children are American-born. To meet these emergencies the various foreign groups keep in touch with immigrant families. They work through the Industrial Department of the Y. W. C. A.

"To many people, the scope of this work will come as a surprise, for it is carried on in a quiet, unselfish spirit. The Department is growing larger, the field is broadening, and all those connected with it look forward to new and great opportunities."
