Mid-Year Commencement

"We must control atomic energy with a higher power than physical force," Dr. Donald Hatch Andrews, noted Johns Hopkins University scientist, told the mid-year graduating class of the Bloomsburg State Teachers College in Commencement exercises held Thursday, January 13, in the Carver Auditorium. Dr. Andrews, chairman of the Chemistry Department at Johns Hopkins and director of the Cryogenry Laboratory there, and also a member of a research group aided by the Atomic Scientists Emergency Fund, spoke on the subject, "Atomic Energy and the Faith of a Scientist."

During the exercises, which were well attended, President Harvey A. Andruss awarded degrees to a class of thirty-three seniors, one of the largest January baccalaureate classes in the recent history of the institution. Dr. Thomas P. North, Dean of Instruction, presented the candidates for the degree of Bachelor of Science in Education.

In introducing his subject, Dr. Andrews indicated that the present generation holds more physical power than any other generation preceding it. He said that scientists estimate this at more than a billion horsepower, thousands more than any other previous generation has possessed. "What are we going to do with this power?" he asked.

One solution, he suggested, is to use it in order to turn the world into a wonderful place where the "good life" can be experienced, while another possibility is to use it destructively and force civilization into a war that would destroy it.

Dr. Andrews continued by stating that if atomic power is added to this enormous physical power and directed towards destruction, it could well mean the end of everything. He asked what the chances were of directing it towards good or worthwhile ends.

He said that man had tried to control the power at his fingertips by the "balance of power theory" and adjust matters by balancing forces against each other. This attempt, he in-

A program of unusual musical balance and beauty was presented at the Bloomsburg State Teachers College Tuesday, November 23, by Charles Latterner, gifted young American tenor. Mr. Latterner offered a versatile program which not only tested the fine range of his voice, but revealed a rare smoothness and sweetness and depth of feeling which seemed to make the composer and artist, one in thought and expression. Robert Sheffer, well-known Watsontown pianist and choral director, was the accompanist throughout the program.

dedicated, was hopeless. Another possibility is to control this vast power by using physical force and control it by using a power equal to or greater than it. This, also, is not possible, and there is no hope for the next fifty years unless we use a higher power—a moral force—to achieve the things we think most desirable.

The faculty in academic costumes and the graduating class entered the auditorium in a colorful processional. The invocation was pronounced by Dean Emeritus William B. Sutliff. President Harvey A. Andruss introduced the speaker and indicated that Dr. Andrews was now working with the atomic problem in company of other scientists aided by a fund, of which Dr. Albert Einstein is chairman.

Following Dr. Andrews' address, Ralph Wire, Harrisburg, sang "The Lord's Prayer" by Malotte. He was accompanied at the piano by Miss Delphine Buss, Watsontown.

Howard F. Fenstemaker presided at the console of the organ for the Processional and Recessional while Miss Harriet M. Moore led the assembly in singing the Alma Mater at the close of the exercises.

The list of those who received the Degree of Bachelor of Science in Education follows: Joseph A. Adamonis, Pittson; Edwin M. Allegar, Stillwater; William Benson, Moosic; Mario L.

Study Reveals Graduate Placement

A study of 1,790 of the 1,818 graduates of the Bloomsburg State Teachers College, from the years 1931 to 1948, shows that 93 per cent have been employed—81 per cent teachers and 12 per cent in other occupations. These figures were released by President Harvey A. Andruss, and are based on a study previously made by Mr. Earl N. Rhodes, Director of Placement Service, and his successor, Mr. Joseph R. Bailer, now Professor of English in the American University, Cairo, Egypt.

The eighteen-period is divided into three studies, as follows: Ten-Year Survey 1931—1940; Five-Year Survey 1941—1945; Three-Year Survey 1946—1948.

During this period, salaries of graduates teaching have increased from $1,303 in 1941, to $1,876 in 1945, and to a present salary average of $2,378 in 1948.

While secondary and business teachers earned $200 more than elementary teachers, on the average, in 1941, and $150 more in 1945, salaries are practically the same for all secondary, business and elementary graduates in 1948.

Bloomsburg State Teachers College graduates are not going to other States to teach in as large a number as in former years. During the war years from 1941 to 1945, 25 per cent of the secondary and business graduates either taught outside of Pennsylvania or were employed outside of Pennsylvania, while less than 5 per cent of the elementary graduates went outside the borders of the State.

With the attractiveness of salaries, 12 per cent of the elementary graduates in the last three years have gone outside Pennsylvania to teach, while 23 per cent of the secondary graduates have taught elsewhere, and an additional 8 per cent are employed outside Pennsylvania; 70 per cent of the business graduates are now teaching in Pennsylvania schools, 8 per cent are teaching elsewhere, and 15 per cent have other employment than teaching in Pennsylvania.

Another important trend is noted in addition to the effect of the single salary schedule on graduates in different curriculums, i.e., the salary paid men and women teachers had a difference of $200 in 1945 in the secondary and business curriculums. This has gone to $300 in the secondary curriculum in 1948. However, the number of cases are not large enough in the elementary curriculum to justify a statement to consider it a trend.

Based on the comparisons made in 1940, it is evident that more Bloomsburg graduates are being employed at higher salaries than ever before. The single salary schedule is causing school boards to pay about the same salary to all teachers, reardless of whether they teach in the elementary or secondary school. There are still differences existing between salaries paid men teachers and salaries paid women teachers.

Elementary graduates sent the college more complete information, have a greater number of years of experience, and stayed in Pennsylvania to teach or work in larger numbers than did secondary and business graduates.

These trends will be used in counseling students in the choice of curriculum at the Bloomsburg State Teachers College, and will be given wider publicity through the educational journals to encourage other colleges to carry on similar studies so that comparisons may be made to determine whether the trend existing at the Bloomsburg State Teachers College is common at all other colleges, or peculiar to this one institution.

ALUMNI ORGANIZED IN WASHINGTON

The Alumni living in the Washington, D. C., area, recently organized, held a very successful dinner at the New Colonial Hotel on Saturday evening, January 29.

The College faculty and Alumni Association were represented by President Harvey A. Andruss, Dr. E. H. Nelson, President of the Alumni Association, and H. F. Fenstermaker, Editor of the Alumni Quarterly. Charles Kelchner, '40, served as toastmaster, and Lillian Zimmerman, '15, welcomed the guests.

The officers of the group are Lillian Zimmerman, '15, President; Charles Kelchner, '40; Vice-President; Harriet Kocher, '39, Secretary; Anna Rusk Fitzpatrick, '16, Treasurer.

Alumni who would like to have their names on the mailing list of this group are requested to communicate with the Secretary, Miss Harriet Kocher, New Colonial Hotel, 15th and M Streets, Washington, D. C.

Miss Beverly Cole, Bloomsburg, a student of Bloomsburg State Teachers College, recently represented the College at the Regional N. S. A. Officers Conference which was held at Swarthmore College.

The N.S.A., a national organization, accepts representatives from all accredited colleges and universities in Pennsylvania. As a result of this policy, the noteworthy association is able to count among its members, delegates from many educational centers of the state. In view of this setup, Bloomsburg is justly honored in having one of its students holding a responsible position on the administrative staff of this affiliation. Miss Cole is the secretary of the Pennsylvania branch of the N.S.A.

Margaret A. Taylor, 159 State Street, New London, Connecticut, has informed the Quarterly of the death of Dr. J. C. Taylor, which occurred July 14, 1948.

Asks Teachers Aid Profession

Dr. Thomas P. North, dean of instruction at the Bloomsburg State Teachers College, called upon teachers to make more personal contributions to the profession in an address given Tuesday, January 11, at Hotel Sheraton, Washington, D. C. The plea was based on recommendations of delegates to the middle Atlantic states district conference on teacher education and professional standards. The meetings were under the sponsorship of the National Education Association.

The Bloomsburg educator was one of three speakers at the round-up session of the two-day conference.

Dr. North said that it is essential that teachers show enthusiasm for their work and constantly strive to better their ability if they are to gain many of the benefits sorely needed by the profession.

He said that groups he represented were opposed to emergency certificates but considered them a necessary evil to aid in overcoming the present shortage of tutors. He suggested that such practices be kept at a minimum by adequate salaries and better working conditions.

The college dean also recommended refresher courses for persons reentering the teaching field and the need for administrators to consider reassigning qualified persons from the secondary to elementary fields without demotion as a means of alleviating the critical shortage in the grade schools.

Speaking at the general assembly of the Pennsylvania State Education Association at Harrisburg December 28, Dr. North declared that the days when high school graduates without professional preparation can qualify for teaching in the elementary schools of the state may return in Pennsylvania. He warned of the critical shortage of qualified elementary teachers.

Dr. North, chairman of the State Commission on Teacher Education and Professional Standards, was one of the principal speakers at the assembly. About 2,500 educators packed the auditorium in the second day of the Pennsylvania State Educational Association's annual convention.

In speaking of the work of the commission, Dr. North emphasized the critical shortage of elementary teachers in Pennsylvania, and the seriousness of the situation. "It means," he said, "that many school districts in Pennsylvania will be forced to employ teachers with emergency certificates."

Dr. North also warned the educators of "the backwardness of the situation as it reflects the days prior to Superintendent Finnegan's administration, when high school graduates without professional preparation could qualify for teaching in the elementary schools of the state."

Andruss Awarded Doctorate

The Graduate School of Pennsylvania State College conferred the Degree of Doctor of Education on President Harvey A. Andruss, of the Bloomsburg State Teachers College, on January 31, 1949.

Doctor Andruss came to the Indiana (Pa.) State Teachers College in 1926 from Northwestern University School of Commerce, Chicago, Ill., where he had been an instructor for several years. In 1930 he organized, and became the Director of the Department of Business Education of the Bloomsburg State Teachers College. After having been Dean of Instruction for two years, he became President of the Bloomsburg State Teachers College in 1939, succeeding Dr. Francis B. Haas, who was appointed Superintendent of Public Instruction.

Over the period of the last two decades, Doctor Andruss has taught or lectured at the following Colleges and Universities: University of Oklahoma, Oklahoma A. and M. College, New York University, and Pennsylvania State College.

In 1945 he was given a leave of absence to aid in the organization of the First American Army University, located at Shrivenham, Berkshire, England.

Doctor Andruss holds the degree of Bachelor of Arts, University of Oklahoma, and Master of Business Administration, Northwestern University. He also was awarded the certificate in Public and Private Business at the University of Oklahoma and was Research Reader at the Bodleian Library, University of Oxford, England. His writing, chiefly in the fields of Business Education, include two Workbooks and over fifty magazine articles, monographs, and Yearbook contributions.

Scholarships Awarded

Awards were granted Tuesday, December 14, to four students of the Bloomsburg State Teachers College at special exercises held during the weekly college assembly in Carver Auditorium. Dr. Kimber C. Kuster, chairman of the Faculty Scholarship and Awards Committee presented the students with checks totaling $250, and President Harvey A. Andruss congratulated the winners who were announced by Dr. Kuster.

Miss Lillian Milkvy, daughter of John Milkvy, Lehigh street, Palmerton, was presented the Bruce Albert Memorial Scholarship of $100. Miss Milkvy, who is a sophomore in the Business Education department, has been active in campus activities and husband an excellent scholastic record.

Three awards of $50 each were presented by the General Alumni Association of the College. These awards were given to Miss Barbara Ann Frederick, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Cloyd A. Frederick, Green Street, Mifflinburg; Miss Ruth Shupp, daughter of Mrs. Mona A. Shupp, Cameron Street, Plymouth, and John Klotsko, son of Mrs. Charlotte Klotsko, Water Street, Philadelphia.

Miss Frederick is a sophomore in the Department of Business Education, while Miss Shupp is enrolled as a junior in the field of Secondary Education.

All the awards were made on the basis of scholastic attainment, character, personality, campus activities and professional promise.

A faculty committee made the selections. Prior to the presentation of the Bruce Albert Scholarship to Miss Milkvy, Howard F. Fenstemaker, Sr., told of the work and contribution of the late alumni head in quadrupling the principal of the Alumni Loan Fund. The three Alumni awards were authorized by the governing board of the Alumni Association from interest that has accrued from the fund, while the Bruce Albert Scholarship is an alumni grant memorializing the person who developed the alumni organization to its present status.

Thaddeus Swigonski, Nanticoke, president of the Community Government Association, presided over brief devotional exercises, while President Harvey A. Andruss spoke briefly after the award winners had been presented to the college audience.

Miss Ethel A. Ranson, of the B.S.T.C. faculty, attended a conference of the National Council of Mathematics Teachers held on the campus of Ohio State University, Columbus, Ohio, during the Christmas vacation. Representatives were present from thirty-two states and Canada.

Noetling Hall Renovated

One of the oldest buildings on the campus of the Bloomsburg State Teachers College, Noetling Hall, is now ready for occupancy, following the completion of an extensive program of remodeling and renovation. A sum of $50,000 was spent to complete the work of transforming the old brick structure at the west end of Waller Hall into a well-appointed and modern classroom building.

The first floor of the building contains two large classrooms, the speech and psychology clinics, day women's lounge and kitchen, and two new lavatories. Ceilings of all the rooms have been entirely reconstructed and covered with acoustic tile, while the room walls and corridors have been replastered and painted in pastel colors. Inlaid linoleum with a two-tone tile pattern forms a most attractive floor covering.

Visitors to the day women's lounge have been impressed with the improvements made, and a fully-equipped kitchen, complete with built-in cupboards, sink, refrigerator, and electric range, will provide much-needed accommodations. The lounge is most attractively finished in grey and the woodwork is of a darker shade of grey.

On the second floor is the new visual aids laboratory, which will house the College Film Library, slide-making equipment and projectors used in visual education, a small classroom, six faculty offices, a day men's lounge and two lavatories.

The day men's lounge occupies the large room once used for bookkeeping classes, but remodeling and redecorating has transformed the area into attractive and comfortable quarters for men students who commute to school daily. New furniture has been ordered and will be placed in the lounge as soon as possible. Older graduates will remember this as Prof. Bakeless' room.

Like the first floor, the quarters on the second floor have been completely refinished and have new ceilings of acoustic tile, inlaid floor covering, new plastering and newly-painted walls and woodwork.

In a double ring ceremony performed recently at Laneytown, Md., Edith Nuss, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Nuss, became the bride of Thomas Beyer, son of Mr. and Mrs. Carl Beyer, of Danville. The Rev. Arthur W. Garvin, pastor of the Evangelical Church, performed the ceremony at the parsonage.

Mrs. Beyer was a student at Bloomsburg High School, and the groom is a graduate of Danville High School. He served with the Navy during World War II and is now a senior at Bloomsburg State Teachers College. He is employed part-time at W. T. Grant and Co.

New Library Staff

Miss Catherine Zealberg, of Mahanoy City, Pa., has taken up her duties as librarian. Miss Zealberg received her B.S. from Kutztown S.T.C. and her Masters Degree from the George Peabody College for Teachers. Miss Zealberg is a member of Kappa Delta Pi, the A.A.U.W., and a number of other professional organizations. Last year Miss Zealberg taught library science at Western Illinois State College, Macomb, Ill. She also compiled statistics for Teachers College Libraries which appeared in the July issue of "College and Research Libraries." In addition to her duties as librarian, Miss Zealberg is acting as sponsor of the Poetry Club, is teaching a class in Children's Literature, and assisting Dr. Kehr and Miss Waldron as assistant dean.

The appointment of Miss Mathilda G. Muyskens, Red Bank, N. J., as assistant librarian of the Bloomsburg State Teachers College has been announced by President Harvey A. Andruss. Miss Muyskens comes to Bloomsburg from Coatesville, where she has been serving as librarian of the Scott Senior High School.

The new library assistant is a graduate of the Iowa State University where she received the degree of Bachelor of Arts. She also holds a Bachelor of Science degree from the School of Library Science, Columbia University.

Miss Muyskens has had thirteen years of experience in public school library work, serving in various capacities in a number of school systems throughout the country, including high schools at Strom Lake, Iowa; Oyster Bay, N. Y., and McGehe, Arkansas. Her background also includes twelve years of service in various public and institutional libraries, including county libraries in Ohio and the Veterans' Hospital at Coatesville.

The appointment of Miss Muyskens fills the vacancy created by the resignation of Miss Dorothy Gilmore, whose marriage to J. H. Lovett took place during the past summer. Mrs. Robert B. Redman assisted Miss Katherine Zealberg, College librarian, during the first semester.

COLUMBIA COUNTY ALUMNI

Edward T. De Voe, a member of the Bloomsburg State Teachers College faculty, was elected president of the Columbia County Branch of the Teachers College at a dinner meeting held at the College on Alumni Day. He succeeds Arthur C. Morgan, of Berwick, who had held that office for the past seven years.

Other officers named were Donald Rabb, Benton, vice president; Edward Sharretts, Berwick, secretary; and Paul L. Brun-Stetter, Catawissa, treasurer.

Saucered and Blowed

Bloomsburg Alumni through the length and breadth of our land have an important stake in the affairs and welfare of the College. In the past this fine old school has produced many of the nation's leading citizens, Bakeless, the author; Edwards, the General; Dennis, the Vocational Leader; Griffiths, the Congressman; Waller, the Educator; Oman, the Admiral; Litwhiler, the major league ball player; Kilmer, the Engineer, and many, many others, representing all fields of endeavor.

Years ago Henry W. Grady said in the "Atlantic Constitution":

"The man who kindles the fire on the hearthstone of an honest and righteous home burns the best incense to liberty."

To paraphrase we might say:

"The Alumnus who kindles the fire on the hearthstone of his beloved Alma Mater burns the best incense to increased usefulness for himself and his school."

The product on the hill is summed up in one word "Alumni." This is the month when it might be well for us to ponder carefully the words of Lincoln:

"God bless my mother. All that I am or ever hope to be I owe to her."

Let's pay homage next May 21st. Your active interest, your material help, your presence will be much appreciated.

The Oscar Hugh Bakeless Chapter of the Future Teachers held a formal ceremony for the first time since 1946 in Navy Hall Auditorium.

The officers of the organization, Margaret Suchy, Forest City, chairman of the affair, and Mr. Richard Hallisy stood around an altar on which was placed a bouquet of yellow and white flowers. Candle light provided an appropriate atmosphere.

Miss Suchy presented the purposes of the F.T.A., and Mr. Hallisy, sponsor of the organization, led the group in repeating the pledge and introduced the speaker, Mr. Clair Moser, of the Pennsylvania State Education Association. Mr. Moser's topic was "Professional Responsibilities of Teachers."

Betty Bolig, Richfield, was chairman of the refreshment committee.

An outstanding program of Christmas music was presented by the Women's Chorus and the Men's Glee Club of the Bloomsburg State Teachers College as a feature of the annual Christmas Assembly of the College held in the Carver Auditorium. Miss Harriet M. Moore, director of the two large choral groups, arranged the program.

The Women's Chorus, an organization of one hundred voices, presented two groups of numbers under the direction of Miss Moore. In the first group were "Within the City," "Sleep, Holy Babe," and "We Adore Thee, Lord Jesus." A Ukranian Carol, the familiar "Carol of the Bells," and "Now Let the Heavens Sing" were the final selections sung by the large chorus group.

Making their first appearance of the year, the sixty-five members of the Men's Glee Club made an impression upon their listeners when they presented Beethoven's "Worship God in Nature," "Silent Night," "A-Rockin' All Night," and Reading's "Oh, Come, All Ye Faithful." Baritone soloist for the Glee Club, William Trego, Milton, also sang "O, Holy Night," by Adam. His accompanist was John Reitmeyer, Milton.

Accompanists for the Women's Chorus were Margaret Rose Roberts, Revloc; Anita Webb, Bloomsburg,, and Gloria Dawn Long, Briar Creek. Mrs. June Keller Jacobs, Bloomsburg, was the accompanist for the Men's Glee Club.

President Harvey A. Andruss presided over brief devotional exercises and read the Christmas story as found in the second chapter of the Gospel according to St. Luke. Howard F. Fenstermaker presided at the console of the organ during the exercises.

Wayne Von Stetten, Columbia, editor of the 1949 Obiters, yearbook of the Bloomsburg State Teachers College recently announced his staff for the 1949 edition.

Kay Chapin, Berwick, is associate editor, and Frank Luchnick, Mt. Carmel, is the business manager. Others appointed to key positions are: Muriel Marks, Reading, copy editor; Grace Smith, Mt. Carmel, senior editor; Nancy Swartz, Forty Fort, art editor; Curt Miller, Berwick, sports editor; Robert Walther, Columbia, photography editor; James Boyle, Shamokin, and Robert Williams, Shamokin, advertising managers; and Joseph Sopko, Carbondale, staff secretary.

The editorial staff includes: Joseph Putera, Wilkes-Barre; Charles Moore, J. Eddinger, Barbara Johnson, Berwick; and Paul Slobozien, Johnstown. On the business staff are: Edward Sheehy, Bloomsburg; John Czerniakowski, Plains; Barbara Sherman, Benton; Jean Stewart, Philadelphia; William Miller, Plymouth; Glenn Von Stetten, Columbia; Joan McDonald, Ringtown, and William Homisak, Forest City. Ruth Elder is staff typist, and George Kearney, Shamokin, is a member of the art staff.

The publication, of which Mr. Devoe and Mr. Wilson are the faculty advisers, was scheduled to go to press about February 1.

Margaret Daum, glamorous star of "Album of Familiar Music," which is broadcast over the N. B. C. Network every Sunday night, appeared in a joint song recital with Stephen Kennedy, young American baritone, at the Bloomsburg State Teachers College Friday night, January 7. Miss Daum and Mr. Kennedy are two of the nation's top-flight recitalists, and their appearance in Bloomsburg was welcomed by music lovers of Central Pennsylvania. The recital was a presentation of the College's 1949 Artist Course series.

Miss Daum is one of that small, select group of present-day singing artists who has attained stardom in every field of professional music. After more than four years on the "Album of Familiar Music," Miss Daum's radio voice is literally known to everyone in America. Critics have been lavish in their praise of her as a grand opera, light opera, and concert star.

Stephen Kennedy's rich baritone voice has also won universal acclaim from critics and concert-goers, and his versatile programs have been the hit of the concert stage. The music critic of the New York Herald Tribune said of him: "Mr. Kennedy is a singer of uncommon sensibility, whose voice and lyric style were most advantageously heard in the German lieder and in . . . 'Chansons Villageoises'."

State Honor For B.S.T.C. Athlete

Tom Donan, brilliant tackle and captain of the undefeated and untied Bloomsburg Huskies, has brought outstanding recognition to his team by making a clean sweep of post season honors. Donan has been voted by coaches and writers to a first string tackle post on the Associated Press All-Pennsylvania team, marking the first time a Bloomsburg gridder has been so honored in at least the modern history of the sport here.

Earlier Tom received the highest number of votes cast in the All-Teachers College poll and he was also given honorable mention in the AP's All-Eastern team, being listed among the ten outstanding tackles among all eastern colleges.

Coach Bob Redman says Donan, an honor student, "would be a star player on any team in the country."

Other coaches and writers apparently share Redman's opinion. The Bloomsburg star polled more votes for state honors than previously more publicized stars as Negley Norton, of Penn State, and Mike Bolkovac, of Pitt, who engineered the upset of Penn State.

On the third team, ranking as one of the six best ends in state competition was Elmer Kreiser, stalwart Husky terminal. Donan and Kreiser are both from Columbia and both were mentioned on the all-state selections a year ago.

Joe Apichella, flashy Hazleton back, and Frank Luchnick, guard from Mt. Carmel, drew honorable mention in the balloting as the result of their outstanding play on the Husky eleven.

Donan and Luchnick are seniors but Apichella and Kreiser will help Redman form a nucleus for his 1949 outfit.

Mrs. Edna Patton, of Riverside, died Friday, October 28, at her home, 202 Gearhart Street, after an illness of five years, in which she suffered several strokes. She died without knowing that her youngest son, Allen, had been killed in Germany in 1945.

She was born in Roaring Creek, the daughter of the late Clarence and Mary Cleaver, on December 29, 1883. She was graduated from the Catawissa High School and the Bloomsburg State Teachers College and taught school in Catawissa and Riverside.

She was married to Bruce McCracken in 1925 and, following his death, she married Charles Patton in 1931. He died in 1936. She was a member of St. Peters M. E. Church and taught the Women's Class for twenty years. She was a member of the Order of Eastern Star, Daughters of America and the American Legion Auxiliary.

She is survived by two sons, Ralph and Bruce McCracken, and a brother, Leon Cleaver, of Reading.

Harry P. Gable, of Hamburg, died September 12, of a heart attack. Since his retirement as outside superintendent of the Brookside Colliery, Tower City, he had been operating a service station in Hamburg. He is survived by one daughter, Tina (Mrs. Robert Jacks), of the class of 1924, who lives in Bethlehem. His daughter, Mae (Mrs. William Everson), of the class of 1926, died three years ago.

Mrs. Minnie Prutzman Robinson, of Allentown, died Thursday, August 25, at the Allentown Hospital. She was a member of the Asbury Methodist Church, and for many years had been a director of the Lehigh County Humane Society. She is survived by her husband, two daughters and one grandson.

1903

Elizabeth Hosking (Mrs. C. R. Raup) of Port Arthur, Tex., died January 4, 1949, at her home after a lingering illness.

Surviving Mrs. Raup are her husband, a son, C. R. Raup, Jr., Austin, Texas; one daughter, Mrs. Bradley McCoy, Port Arthur, Texas; two grandchildren, and two sisters.

Mrs. Raup was a former Scranton young woman and had been a teacher in that vicinity for five years before her marriage.

Dr. Gideon L. Howell, 63, a graduate of Bloomsburg Normal School and a man prominently identified with the medical profession in Wyoming Valley for many years, died Thursday, January 13, at his Trucksville home.

Dr. Howell had, after his graduation at Bloomsburg, taught at Kingston Township and was the principal of the school there. He became interested in medicine and went to University of Pennsylvania medical school, from which he was graduated in 1912, and later became a prominent physician.

Surviving are his wife, the former Jessie Boyer; a son, William, of Tampa, Fla., a daughter, Mrs. Robert N. Davenport, of Kunkletown, and a brother, Seth, of Shavertown.

1909

Mrs. Alice G. Burnett lives in New Vernon, New Jersey. Mrs. Burnett is now mourning the loss of her husband, who passed away July 22, 1948.

1911

Dr. E. H. Nelson, of Bloomsburg, is serving this year as Lieutenant-Governor of Kiwanis District No. 9. He is a former president of the Bloomsburg Club.

1913

(From "The Passing Throng" column of The Morning Press, December 10, 1948)

Our attention was directed to an article appearing in "The Scroll," publication of Phi Delta Theta, concerning a native of Bloomsburg, Albert L. Demaree.

He was the son of W. L. Demaree, who many years ago conducted a lumber yard on West Fifth street, and has frequently visited here, being the guest of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Hutchison, of Chestnut avenue.

Mr. Demaree was graduated from the Bloomsburg Normal School with the class of 1913 and taught one year at Grovania before entering Dickinson College. Soon after World War I was declared he enlisted in the Navy, and after the war returned to civilian life and Dickinson for his degree. After trying a hand at business in New York, where he was an assistant purchasing agent, he decided to return to the books and secured his masters degree from Columbia University.

The story follows:

"Dartmouth College is proving the testing ground for a course in the history of sea power which may later become standard for the many thousands of students in the 52 American colleges with NROTC units.

"Back of it are Captain Roger E. Nelson, USN, Professor of Naval Science and Tactics at Dartmouth, and Albert L. Demaree, Dickinson, '23, Ph.D., Professor of History; and the course Naval Science 101 (a), is now being given on an experimental basis at Dartmouth with Captain Nelson and Professor Demaree doing the bulk of the lecturing.

"The intellectual groundwork of the course was planned in Washington recently when nine naval captains met to listen to Captain Nelson expound his educational theory and to outline a course which he believes to be of only desirable but also necessary for all young men who are to receive commissions in the Navy.

"In working out the details and the administration of the course, Captain Nelson availed himself freely of the academic experience of Brother Demaree, who is author of a book called 'Naval Orientation' (1945) now used throughout the United States at NROTC centers. Professor Demaree busies himself in his spare time revising and rewriting this book, which was compiled under pressure during the war when he was stationed in Washington with the rank of Commander. He began re-vamping it last summer and is utilizing experts in the Navy for special chapters. Part of his Christmas vacation he spent working on it in Washington, and he plans to do more on it there during his free week in April and devote next summer to it. By early September it should be in press.

"Professor Demaree's naval experience dates back to 1917 when he began serving as Ensign in the regular navy with four years of duty on destroyers, fleet supply ships, and submarine chasers. He also taught at the Naval Academy, in 1920 he was on the Olympia, Dewey's old flagship, which brought back the Unknown Soldier.

"In World War II Professor Demaree left Dartmouth to enter the Navy as a lieutenant and rose to the rank of Commander with duty in Washington and on the USS Boxer on which he served as training officer for six weeks to get both practical and theoretical experience on which he could draw for his book. When Japan surrendered, he was en route to Guam. After the war the Chief of the Bureau awarded him a commendation for his lectures and writings.

"Now back at Dartmouth on a full schedule, Professor Demaree lectures twice a year at Columbia University to leaders of industry at civilian orientation groups sponsored by the Navy.

"So useful has he proved that the Navy asked him last year to return for two years' further duty in connection with his research and writing, but owing to pressure of work in the Department of History, he declined.

"A Dickinson College graduate, class of 1923, Professor Demaree received his Ph.D. from Columbia in 1940 after writing a dissertation on the American Agricultural Press, 1818-1860."—From Dartmouth Alumni Magazine.

Teacher Shortage Topic of Address

Stanley Wengert, Assistant Director of Pennsylvania Teacher Certification, was guest speaker at a meeting of the F.T.A. held in Navy Hall Auditorium, February 21.

In his address, "Opportunities in the Public Schools," Mr. Wengert stated that the already critical shortage of elementary teachers is becoming increasingly more so. Many of the teachers now in that field are teaching only on emergency certificates, which are not issued if a permanently certified teacher is available. A lack of interest in the elementary field is evidenced by the fact that few students are studying in that field. Bloomsburg has only 19 Juniors in the elementary curriculum at present. Salaries for elementary teachers have been raised to compare with those of the secondary field, however, and it is hoped that this will create a wider interest in the elementary curriculum.

In the secondary field, Mr. Wengert reported that although there are shortages in some subjects, there is no critical dearth of teachers. English and social studies as subject fields nearly reached the saturation point. Business Education subjects are not far behind, although some teachers in those fields hold only temporary certificates. The geography field is comparatively wide open, and there are many opportunities for teachers for the mentally retarded, according to Mr. Wengert. There are also numerous positions available for teachers in the vocational guidance, psychology, deaf and blind, and speech correction fields.

Over 5,000 emergency certificates have been issued in this state, with most of them in the elementary field. Every effort will be made by the Department of Public Instruction to alleviate this situation, according to Mr. Wengert. It may be inferred from this statement that graduates with degrees will be given first choice at teaching positions in the State.

The 1949 Commencement

Harrison Wood, distinguished newspaper correspondent and author, and the Rev. Henry I. Aulenbach, pastor of the St. Andrew Reformed Church, Allentown, will be the speakers at Commencement exercises of the Bloomsburg State Teachers College this month.

They will address members of the 1949 graduating class, expected to be one of the largest classes in the history of the institution.

The Rev. Mr. Aulenbach, pastor of the Allentown Church since 1931, is a former pastor of the First Reformed Church, Berwick. He will deliver the Baccalaureate address in the Carver Auditorium on Sunday afternoon, May 22.

A graduate of the Franklin and Marshall College, the Reverend Aulenbach has had an outstanding career in the Christian ministry. In 1948 he was awarded the Franklin and Marshall College Alumni Medal for meritorious service to his Alma Mater. He is also active in Kiwanis Club affairs, having served as president of the Allentown Club and District Governor of the Pennsylvania District of Kiwanis. At the present time he is an accredited representative of Kiwanis International.

The Rev. Aulenbach has been president of various ministerial groups during his pastorate at Allentown. In 1935 he headed the Minister's League at Allentown, while in 1937 and 1938 he was named to the presidency of the Allentown Community Religious Leadership Training School and taught classes at Muhlenburg College. He later accepted the position of president of the Minister's League of Lehigh county.

During his ministry, the Rev. Aulenbach served as pastor of the First Reformed Church, Berwick, from 1927 to 1931. He is well known in the Columbia county area.

Mr. Wood will deliver the Commencement address on May 23. One of the American Broadcasting Company's ace news analysts and commentators, he will speak on the subject "This Changing World."

A correspondent for over thirty years with great American newspapers and various international press services, Wood will project his address against the background of his long experience and intimate contacts in European and Asiatic affairs. He is the author of "India Tomorrow," "The Orient Looks Ahead," and "China Tomorrow."

Secondary Conference

The annual Secondary Education Conference was held at the Bloomsburg State Teachers College Saturday, March 26, and attracted several hundred high school teachers and principals from the College service area.

Eleven well-known area teachers, administrators and school men participated in the discussion group meetings. On the panel which discussed, "What Are The Urgent Needs of Adolescents?" were Dr. J. L. Hackenburg, superintendent of schools, Shamokin; Mrs. Sarah S. Free, Danville High School, and Mrs. D. Walter Seitz, school board member, Williamsport. Participants in the discussion "What are the Implications of Rapid Technological Advance for the Secondary School Program?" were Ivan G. Stahman, chief, Highway Safety Education, Department of Public Instruction, Harrisburg; George Shanno, assistant principal, Hazleton High School, and Miss Jennie Birth, Berwick High School. Those who took part in the discussion "What Opportunities Can Be Provided for Democratic Action in the Secondary Classroom?" were Robert D. Smink, principal, Curtin Junior High School, Williamsport, and Miss Maree Pensyl, Bloomsburg High School. The leaders for the panel group which discussed "What are Effective Means of Evaluating Adolescent Development?" were Fred W. Diehl, superintendent, Montour County Schools; Miss Margaret C. Fairchild, social studies, Milton Junior High School, and Gerald Hartman, supervising principal, Catawissa.

The discussion groups followed a general meeting of the conference in the Carver Auditorium. During the general session Dr. Ralph R. Fields, Professor of Education, Teachers College, Columbia University, spoke on "Organizing the Secondary Curriculum for Meeting Pupil Needs," and Mr. Stewart C. Huslander, Counselor-Teacher, University of Michigan, discussed "Organizing Guidance Service to Meet Pupil Needs."

Mrs. Zarina Soule Kukde, traveling secretary of the Student Volunteer Movement for Christian Missions, Inc., was a recent guest of the Bloomsburg State Teachers College.

Born in Jubbulpore, Central Provinces, India, and daughter of a Methodist minister, Mrs. Kukde received her education in the Isabella Thoburn College at Lucknow, and at Lady Irwin College, New Delhi, India. Several years ago, she came to Michigan State College in East Lansing, where she received her M. S. in Home Economics.

Mrs. Kukde met students informally in the Alumni Room, answering all their inquiries about her native land and telling them of the church work which is being done there.

Coach Redman Honored

Mr. R. B. Redman, coach of BSTC's undefeated and untied football team, received a notable tribute recently when he was named "Coach of the Year" by the Phi Delta Theta Fraternity.

This organization, one of the largest national social groups in the United States today, has more than 100 chapters scattered through the American college world.

The news of the selection reached Bloomsburg on Sunday, February 6, by a telegram which was sent by Dr. John Davis, Jr., fraternity secretary.

The record of the BSTC Huskies' football team, with which campus students are well acquainted, was the only perfect one among colleges in this state. The Huskies now boast a 12 game streak that extends back into 1947.

Mr. Redman was initiated into the fraternity during his undergraduate days at Swarthmore College. He graduated from that institution in 1930.

The mentor began coaching at the Sayre (Pa.) High School, where he produced four loop championship teams in six years. Moving to Binghamton, N. Y., he coached the North Senior High School there until 1942.

After serving as an administration officer in the Navy for four years during World War II, he joined the faculty of the Triple Cities College for the 1947 term, where he directed the entire athletic program, consisting of four sports.

Mr. Redman began teaching at BSTC in the Summer of 1947, and took over his duties in the Fall of the same year.

Bill Glassford, successful coach at New Hampshire, won the same award last year.

Dr. Harvey A. Andruss, president of the State Teachers Colleg at Bloomsburg, addressed a convocation held Thursday, February 10, at Triple Cities College, a Branch of Syracuse University, Endicott, New York, on the subject of "What Business Men Expect of College Graduates." This convocation was a part of Business Administration Day, which was followed by a Business Show in the afternoon and a dance in the evening.

These arrangements were under the direction of Professor Bertram Broder, Chairman of the Department of Business Administration, who was a member of the Accounting Department in the Shrivenham American (Army) University, located at Shrivenham, Berkshire, England, of which Doctor Andruss was the head during 1945.

"Saucered and Blowed"

E. H. NELSON, '11

As I start writing this page a quick glance at the account book shows that 98 Alumni have sent $167.00 in response to the "Husky" letter mailed out a few days ago. Fine and thank you, but there are about 6200 graduates yet to be heard from. We appreciate very much the messages of loyalty and cheer that some of you included with your contributions. Again thank you most sincerely.

Another thing occurs to me. When the college teams encounter difficult seasons, as far as wins are concerned, there usually comes to me much in the way of criticism and expansive advice. Not as much now, of course, as when I was actively connected with the college athletic program. Would you be surprised to learn that the Husky Fund has not had a single reply from any of those critics? You shouldn't be. Ever try dealing with human nature with thousands involved? Anyway, our gratitude to those who have responded, and our hope that all will keep in mind that YOU can keep Bloomsburg in an enviable position among the Pennsylvania State Teachers Colleges. Will you send your contribution right away. Include a few extra dollars when you renew your membership. In spite of increased costs everywhere, your Alumni dues—including a subscription to the "Quarterly"—have remained $1.00.

We do hope that many of you will visit the college Alumni Day, May 21. Something doing every minute. Renew friendships and enjoy a day on the campus. Arrangements are well underway to show you a good time. A member of the class of 1879 will honor us with her presence. The class of 1899 is on the move. 1904 is planning a wonderful time, even though 1924 graduates say the day is theirs. Every reunion class is busy planning for a real program. A phone call from a member of the 1919 reunion committee gives the information that other classes may talk, but give heed to the fine report they will present at the General Alumni Meeting, showing their true worth and loyalty. Thanks to all of you for the fine spirit being shown.

Sorry that Dean Sutliff won't be with us May 21st but he will be up in Buffalo as a Commissioner from the Northumberland Prebytery attending the Presbyterian General Assembly. But Nevin Englehart will be there—and Prasper Gager and Ida Sitler and Lindley Dennis and Pauline Lattmore Dauden, and General Edwards and the College Cheer Leaders in uniform (mostly girls) and you, too. See you Alumni Day.

Basketball Tournament

The most successful cage tournament in the history of B.S.T.C. was closed March 22 at Centennial Gymnasium, with record crowds attending every game. The tourney was characterized by high scores and spectacular play, definitely the fans' type of basketball. Newport Township High School took top honors by shellacking Mt. Carmel High in the Class A final, 62-46. In the Class B tilt, Swoyerville crushed Shickshinny, 51-26. West Wyoming made it a clean sweep for the Wyoming Valley representatives by taking Class C honors with a hard-fought 46-46 thriller over Freeland M. & M. I. that was not decided until the last second of play.

Highlight of the evening was the presentation of the All-Tournament Award to Stan Pawloski, Newport Township scoring ace, who proved to be the outstanding player in the twenty-second cage tourney. The high school senior's play throughout the tournament left no doubt in the minds of basketball fans as to who would receive the award. His shooting ability was supplemented by a marvelous floor game and a spirit of teamwork. Pawlowski was earlier chosen on the All-Wyoming Valley basketball "dream team." Honors were also bestowed on nine other tourney performers in the form of a B.S.T.C. tournament "dream team." They were 6'5" John Holup, Swoyersville; Leo Welebob, Wilkes-Barre Township, both All-Wyoming Valley sections; Bucky Richards, Berwick, the smallest player in the tourney; George Hughes, St. Mary's High School, of Wilkes-Barre; Danny Bovchuk, Shamokin; Leo Gribbon, St. Edward's High, of Shamokin; Glen Adams, Mt. Carmel; Hugh Fisher, Freeland M. & M. I., and Bloomsburg High School's Steve Trudnak. Fisher was the only Class C competitor to take this honor.

John Hoch, faculty director of the annual event, announced that over 1500 basketball specators witnessed the final games, while about 600 fans had to be turned away from the doors due to lack of adequate seating. The tournament, which started March 7 with a round of Class C qualification games, saw 32 teams participating, 16 of these in Class C, and 8 each in Classes A and B.

Stan Pawlowski led his Newport team in another of their last half rallies to overwhelm Mt. Carmel 62-46. Typical of every other game, they played in the tournament, the up-river team was behind by two points at the half-way mark, coming back strong to take the Class A trophy in a breeze. Stan led his teammates with 28 counters, with his "basketball twin" Danny Crachoski chipping in with 14 points and a fine exhibition of cool playing under pressure. The floor work of the entire Newport club, and especially their fast break and passing attack, were indicative of the brand of ball played throughout the tournament.* Glen Adams was outstanding for the losers, collecting a total of 25 tallies.

In the Class B final, Swoyersville hit the basket consistently from outside the foul circle to take a 51-26 decision from Shickshinny. The losers had the Holup brothers tied up under the basket, so the Wyoming boys just "popped 'em up" from outside. About as fine an exhibition of set shooting as has been witnessed in Centennial Gym in recent years was staged by Joe Veratis (last year's All-State football halfback incidentally) put up six beautiful looping shots from well out, four of them coming consecutively. Four of the winners' team scored in the double digits, with none exceeding 13. Bennet gathered 12 markers in losing causing.

In the most exciting finish of the tournament, Freeland M. & M. I. fell short in a last second rally, losing a 46-45 verdict to West Wyoming High School. Little Jackie Durso, tournament high scorer, put up a long a long one hander as the buzzer ended the contest only to look at the scoreboard to see his team was still on the short end. In the last minute and a half Freeland waived three foul shots and missed two others in an attempt to overtake the winners, who had built up an uncomfortable, but sufficient margin. Durso set the all-tournament scoring record earlier against Factoryville, tallying 45 times, partially as a result of his teammates, who fed him with an eye on the record. Charney and Care led the winners well-balanced attack with 14 and 13 counters, respectively.

Mr. Hoch was ably assisted in the duties as tournament director by Joe Curilla, student director, who presented all awards. The tourney contests were broadcast through the facilities of WISL, Shamokin.

Health problems of a two-county area were discussed Wednesday afternoon, March 9, at a School Health Institute held at Science Hall, Bloomsburg State Teachers College, and attended by doctors, dentists, nurses, school officials and persons from all organizations and agencies in Columbia and Montour counties interested in the health of children.

The conference was held under the joint-sponsorship of the Berwick borough, Montour and Columbia county schools.

Officials of the State Department of Health were present to clarify the procedures to be followed in carrying out the school health programs as provided in acts passed by the General Assembly. Also included were requirements for the employment of school nurses, the establishment of Advisory Health Councils and for medical aid for the needy.

Summer Session Features Workshop

Increasing evidence of the popularity of workshops in the education of in-service teachers is indicated by an announcement made by the Bloomsburg State Teachers College which will again feature Summer Session workshops in the fields of Business, Elementary, and Secondary Education. Dr. Thomas P. North, Dean of Instruction, said that the workshop procedure has been developed to assist mature and experienced teachers, and this summer's workshops will be designed to include group discussions, field trips, lectures by nationally-noted authorities, and observations in the campus laboratory schools.

Dr. North said that the 1949 Summer Sessions would again include a pre-session of three weeks, a regular six-weeks session and a post-session of three weeks. The first three weeks of classes will begin Monday, June sixth, while the regular summer session is scheduled to begin Monday, June twenty-seventh. The final three weeks of classes will start Monday, August eighth, and continue until Friday, August twenty-sixth.

The regular summer session schedule includes the necessary six hours for the certification of teachers in Safety Education. Three semester hours of credit will be given for a new course in "Safety Education," while the course in "Driver Education and Training," which proved popular in the 1948 Summer Session, will again be offered. Dr. North pointed out that "Safety Education" may be used as an elective in the Elementary Education curriculum but either of the two related courses can be used towards making the certificate permanent.

On a stage draped with colorful hand-woven coverlets, and dotted with spinning machines, Mrs. C. R. Beeman, art instructress at the Bloomsburg State Teachers College, spun a yarn of the old-time textile industry, in a recent assembly program in Carver Hall.

Mrs. Beeman demonstrated a number of the machines necessary to the spinning of threads and yarns to be woven into fabrics for clothing and linen. Life, according to Mrs. Beeman, must have been much less expensive for the father of a prospective bride, since the young maid, or spinster ("one who spins"), was required to make her own trousseau, and fill a chest with linens for her new home, out of nothing but a supply of raw flax and wool. The art instructress, who is adept in the almost-lost art, demonstrated several types of spinning wheels, a swift, and a wheel timer. She also explained the process of washing and carding wool, eventually following the method used up to the point of converting the wool fibers into spinning yarns.

Preparing State Manual

Richard F. Hallisy, director of Business Education at Bloomsburg State Teachers College, is a member of a committee which is rewriting a manual for Business Education for Pennsylvania high schools. The committee on which Mr. Hallisy is serving, is one of a number of groups currently engaged in revising the Pennsylvania Secondary School Manual. Dr. D. D. Lessenberry, University of Pittsburgh, and John R. Haubert, Chief, Commercial Education, Department of Public Instruction, are the co-chairmen of the Business Education section.

Tentative outlines of the manual were set up at a recent meeting of the group, and assignments for the development of a Business Education program for the larger high schools were made to teachers and educational leaders throughout the state. These persons will prepare the specific material that will be published in the completed manual.

Mr. Hallisy attended a meeting in Harrisburg to help review the material which had been submitted. The committee planned to begin work on a revised business education curriculum for medium and small high schools.

The Student Handbook and Course of Study Manual in Business Education will contain a chapter on "Objectives and Philosophies of Business Education," by Dr. Harvey A. Andruss, President, Bloomsburg State Teachers College. This publication will go to press during the month of May so as to be available for distribution prior to the beginning of the next school year in September.

This is the first publication by the Department of Public Instruction since 1937, when Bulletin No. 102, bearing the title of "Organization and Administration of Commercial Education in Secondary Schools," was issued through the efforts of a committee of which Doctor Andruss was a member.

Other chapters will be written by prominent educators throughout the State, and several faculty members of the Department of Business of the Bloomsburg State Teachers College will contribute, among them are Mr. Richard Hallisy and Mr. Walter S. Rygiel.

The new publication is being compiled under the direction of Mr. John R. Haubert, Chief of Commercial Education, Department of Public Instruction, Harrisburg, Pennsylvania.

Some worthy Bloomsburg High School student will receive a four-year scholarship to BSTC next Fall, according to final plans made recently by the Woman's Civic Club, of Bloomsburg.

Details of the selection for the new scholarship offered by the club will be announced later.

Dean's List Announced

Dr. Thomas P. North, Dean of Instruction, Bloomsburg State Teachers College, has announced the Dean's Honor List for the first semester, 1948-49.

As announced by Dr. North, forty-eight students attained this high honor. Seniors, with twenty-one students qualifying, dominated the honor list; Freshmen followed, placing twelve students, followed by Juniors with eight students and Sophomores with seven students.

In order to attain this high honor, a student must have a quality point average of 2.5 or better for the semester and a cumulative average of at least 2.0 while in attendance at the College.

The Dean's Honor List, separated by classes follows:

Seniors: Edwin M. Allegar, Stillwater; Verna G. Cope, Berwick; Ruth P. Elder, Berwick, Berwick; Herbert H. Fox, Danville; Grace Alberta Funk, Elysburg; Sara A. Graham, Bloomsburg; Theodore Harwood, Bloomsburg; Donald C. Hauck, Berwick; Donald Maietta, Williamsport; Dale Mantz, Slatington; Alfred J. Marchetti, Tamaqua; John M. Purcell, Shenandoah; Emory S. Alumni Day May 21

President's Scholarship Award

Miss Mary Jane Dorsey, Bloomsburg, and Benjamin Burness, Atlantic City, N. J., were honored at the Bloomsburg State Teachers College when they were named the first recipients of the President's Scholarships. Dr. Harvey A. Andruss, president of the College and donor of the unique awards, presented each winner with a check for fifty dollars. Dr. Kimber C. Kuster, chairman of the Scholarship Committee, presided over the exercises held recently in the Carver Auditorium.

The "President's scholarship," created last year by Dr. Andruss, is given to a student who demonstrates his need and ability during the first semester of the college year and for any other reason is not eligible for the other scholarships offered by the college or the Alumni Association. The grant is based upon the income from a book written by President Andruss titled "Business Law Cases and Tests" and originally published by Prentice-Hall. The text is used in connection with Business Law classes at Bloomsburg and other colleges.

Miss Dorsey, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Dorsey, 708 Berwick Road, Bloomsburg, is a sophomore in the Secondary Education Department, while Burness, son of Mrs. Eva Burness, Atlantic City, N. J., is a freshman in the same department. The former Atlantic City High School football star was a fullback on the undefeated and untied Bloomsburg Teachers eleven during the past season.

Bloomsburg State Teachers College was represented at the annual Intercollegiate State Band Festival held March 24, 25 and 26 at the Indiana State Teachers College. More than 125 musicians representing twenty-two colleges and universities in the state of Pennsylvania attended the three-day session, beginning Thursday, March 24, and continuing until Saturday night, March 26.

Morton Gould, noted New York composer and world-famous authority on band music, was the guest conductor of the All-State Band. Gould, whose most famous composition is "Pavanne," conducted the band in a radio broadcast as well as the Saturday night concert which climaxed three days of intensive practices.

Accompanying Mr. Charles H. Henrie, Band Director, to the annual event were the following Bloomsburg Students: Thomas Bowman, baritone, Bloomsburg; Carlton Ermish, first trombone, Berwick; Anna Belle Russell, second flute, Bedford, and John Reitmyer, second clarinet, Milton.

A regional rehearsal was held on the Bloomsburg campus with musicians from Bucknell University, Susquehanna University and Bloomsburg represented.

Philadelphia Alumni

Almost fifty graduates of the Bloomsburg State Teachers College who now live in the Philadelphia area were present Saturday evening, April 2, at the annual dinner of that branch and enjoyed a novel program in charge of Major Harry S. Barton, the master of ceremonies. The dinner was held at the McAllister, Philadelphia.

Philadelphia Branch, of which Lillie Hortman Irish, of Camden, N. J., is the president, and Mrs. Nora Woodring Kenney, Philadelphia, the secretary-treasurer, is one of the most active. It holds monthly meetings and each Summer has two picnics.

Dr. E. H. Nelson, president of the general alumni body, told of the Alumni Day plans for Saturday, May 21, and of the projects which the graduate body now has underway.

By wire recording Major Barton presented greetings from Dr. Francis B. Haas, President Harvey A. Andruss and Dean W. B. Sutliff and also a program of the College Glee Club. Recordings of many in attendance were made and will be played back for members of the local faculty.

Present: Edwin Wieland Teal, Percy P. Teal, Kathryn M. Spencer, Ralph L. Hart, Margaret E. Hart, Mary Laird, Martha Laird, Kathryn A. Hess, Claire Hedden, Lillian B. Buckalew, Joan S. Andres, H. D. Frantz, Grace F. Frantz, Irene Hortman, J. G. Morris, G. E. Kenney, E. H. Barnard, Grace Kishbach, Miller, Ruth Johnson Garney, Myron Garney, Lena Oman Buckman, George R. Buckman, Adda Brandon Westfield, Stella Shuman Swank, Willie Morgan Stein, Blanche Mertz Bergen, Louella Burdick Surquitt, Marie Cromis, Robert C. Barton.

Mr. and Mrs. Reuel S. Burr, Mr. and Mrs. Paul H. Trescott, Mrs. Mary A. Taubel, Mr. and Mrs. P. R. Rieder, Lillie Hortman Irish, Dr. Elna H. Nelson, Nora Woodring Kenney, Kate Seasholtz Morris.

John J. Crouse, of Plainfield, New Jersey, retired tea and coffee salesman, formerly employed by the Grand Union Tea Company for many years, died Friday, March 25, after a long illness. His age was 90.

Born in Mountain Grove, (Pa.) he was a graduate of the Bloomsburg (Pa.) State Normal School.

Surviving are his widow, Mrs. Ella Davenport Giddes Crouse, and a daughter, Mrs. John J. Krouse, of North Plainfield.

CAMPUS EVENTS

Much favorable attention throughout the United States has been directed towards the Bloomsburg State Teachers College as a result of the publication of an article by Dr. Thomas P. North, Dean of Instruction, of the College, in a recent publication of the National Education Association. The article, "The Selection of Students for Teacher Preparation," appears in a volume titled, "The Education of Teachers," which has been sent to more than ten thousand educators and schoolmen in the nation.

Dr. North, who is chairman of the Pennsylvania Commission on Teacher Education and Professional Standards, states that the selection of students for teacher preparation is a continuous process and is most essential to the adequate education of the child as well as necessary for the functioning of the colleges preparing teachers. His views on the subject are not only timely but interesting to laymen as well as educators.

Criteria for selection, Dr. North states, will be contingent upon the institution's concept of a successful teacher, but various competencies which are needed in the total work of the teacher must be made standards in the selection of teacher material. He lists the following standards: scholastic capacity and competence, physical and mental health, personal and social competence, and vocational and avocational interest.

The complexity of factors demanded in successful teaching, Dr. North declares, requires that a variety of selective procedures be applied at the time of admission. Included in these techniques are reliable and valid tests for initial selection; personal interviews to obtain additional information; and selection and counseling while in preparation.

The article is concluded with a number of recommendations to the National Commission on Teacher Education and Professional Standards which is currently engaged in a long-term program for the improvement of instruction and establishing better and more satisfactory programs for the education of teachers.

A variety program featuring a number of talented student musicians and actors was presented by the Bloomsburg State Teachers College as a feature of assembly programs at the Shamokin High School on Tuesday afternoon, March 29. Joseph Curilla, Shamokin, was the director of the programs which are being given as one of the services of the College's public relations program. Included in the show are production numbers featuring an all-girl chorus and several outstanding musical attractions.

The second edition of the "Stardust Follies," all-college amateur show, was presented to students of the Bloomsburg State Teachers College Thursday, January 27, in the first assembly program of the new semester. Prepared and produced by Charles Edwards, Shamokin, the show was a fast-moving combination of musical talent and side-splitting comedy. Joseph Curilla, Shamokin, opened the program with two baritone solos, "Wagon Wheels" and "Desert Song." He was accompanied on the piano by Delphine Buss, Watsontown. A series of sparkling piano novelties by Ruth Von Bergen, Hazleton, and Dick Wagner, Berwick, featured the "twin pianos" numbers that followed—"Blue Moon" and Morton Gold's "Pavanne" were especially well applauded.

A new musical group, "The Campus Four," made its debut in a series of musical selections including "Behold The Bridegroom Cometh," "Marjorie" and "Jordan." Included in the quartet were Jack Wintersteen, Bloomsburg; Charles Edwards, Tamaqua; Dick Wagner and Emory Rarig, Catawissa. Miss Eleanor McClintock, Nescopeck, was then heard in a series of soprano solos. She chose the ever popular "Strange Music," "Four Leaf Clover" and "None But The Lonely Heart." Her accompanist was Dick Wagner. Miss McClintock was followed by Terry Cierlitsky, Tamaqua, who presented a series of accoridian solos. She played "Jalousie," "Tico Tico" and a medley of popular favorites. The program was brought to a hilarious finish with a cowboy duo featuring Frank Luchnick, Mt. Carmel, and John Trimble, Jersey Shore. Attired in typical hillbilly costume, the two entertainers gave their impressions of a number of currently popular hillbilly and cowboy tunes.

Joe Kulick, Mt. Carmel, presided over brief devotional exercises prior to the presentation of the program.

Miss Edna Hazen, Director of Elementary Education at the Bloomsburg State Teachers College, recently reported in an interview that there is much interest being shown among students concerning a college reading program for freshmen. Whenever college students are found to be failing in the general subjects course, their instructors invariably question their ability to read and study properly. When tests, such as the Iowa Silent Reading Test, or the Ohio State Psychology Examination are administered, it is generally found that the subject is deficient in specific reading abilities and skills. Some colleges encourage the student to enroll in a non-credit course. This instruction improves his reading ability, usually with the result that satisfactory adjustment and achievement in the regular college channel of work is increased.

Miss Hazen, commenting on the semantic approach to reading, said, "We are all accustomed to the use of the radio in our homes, but not many teachers have used the radio in the classroom to aid reading. Mrs. Ruth Weir Miller, University of Pennsylvania radio lecturer, presented ways in which the radio is a road to reading, and proved beyond doubt that 'radio, used with wisdom and intelligence can widen reading horizons.' Miss Hazen further added, "It must be the mission of the school to direct the listener to worthwhile programs and to capitalize on listening for school attainment. Teachers have found that radio-listening increases demand for reading materials, and is a strong incentive for more reading."

Robert B. Redman, of the Bloomsburg State Teachers College, was one of a group of thirty college instructors in Safety Education who attended the Safety Education curriculum held March 24 at Harrisburg. Dr. Henry P. Klonower, Director, Division of Certification, Department of Public Instruction, Harrisburg, and Ivan G. Stahman, Chief, Safety Education, Department of Public Instruction, were in charge of the annual meeting. Most of the Pennsylvania State Teachers Colleges were represented along with faculty members from the University of Pennsylvania, University of Pittsburgh, Bucknell University and Penn State.

Discussion of the 1948 program of Safety Education and Driver Education and Training featured the conference. In addition to discussing problems that arose in planning and presenting Safety Education courses in the colleges and universities last year, the college instructors considered addition of new courses for the Safety Education curriculum. The meeting was not only worthwhile and helpful but was encouraging from the standpoint of interest aroused in this field of study.

Mr. Redman is the instructor in Safety Education and Driver Education and Training. Courses in these two fields will be offered during the 1949 summer session.

The Oscar Hugh Bakeless Chapter of the Future Teachers of American, Bloomsburg State Teachers College, was represented at the first annual convention of the Pennsylvania Future Teachers of America held recently at Millersville. The local College was represented by Miss Nerine Middleswarth, Troxelville; Doyle Johnson, Bloomsburg; Richard Grimes, Harrisburg, and Emory Rarig, Catawissa, and Miss Edna J. Hazen, Director of Elementary Education, Sponsor.

Principal speakers were Mrs. Wilda Faust, National Secretary of the National Education Association, Doctor Eugene Bertin, Assistant Executive Secretary of the Pennsylvania State Education Association, and Doctor Charles E. Swope, President of the State Teachers College at West Chester.

An interested group of about 150 college and high school students from FTA chapters throughout the State of Pennsylvania discussed problems of organization, activities and projects. One of the most interesting topics of discussion was the organization of FTA clubs in high schools. A notable feature was the large number of high school students in attendance, the largest delegation coming from Pittsburgh. Faculty sponsors and student counselors offered valuable suggestions as to methods of arousing enthusiasm in local FTA chapters.

Teachers colleges represented were Shippensburg, West Chester, Clarion, East Stroudsburg and Indiana. Other schools included Albright, Juniata, Ursinus, Franklin and Marshall, Elizabethtown College, Thiel College and Duquesne University.

A varied program of musical entertainment was presented by the Men's Glee Club of the Bloomsburg State Teachers College at an assembly program held March 31 in the Carver Auditorium. Under the direction of Miss Harriet M. Moore, director, the Glee Club made a tremendous hit in its first public appearance of the year. During the program the Campus Four, a newly organized musical group, and the Andy Mack Trio, featuring three boys and an accordin, presented several groups of novelty tunes.

In the Glee Club numbers were included "May Now Thy Spirit," "Roadways," "Aura Lee" and a Fred Waring arrangement of "Battle Hymn of the Republic." They also sang a series of selections from Broadway musicals including "Carousel," "Brigadoon" and "Rio Rita."

An all-day meeting was held at the Bloomsburg State Teachers College, Wednesday, May 4, for the distribution and discussion of the new Elementary Course of Study for Pennsylvania schools.

Edna J. Hazen, Director of Elementary Education, is local chairman and was in charge of arrangements for the meeting.

Greetings were extended by Dr. Harvey A. Andruss, President of the College, at 9:15 a. m. to the superintendents, supervisors, and supervising principals from this service are who were present.

This meeting was one of a series of sixteen being held throughout the state for the specific purpose of launching the new curriculum for elementary schools. Dr. Leversia L. Powers, Chief, Elementary Education, Department of Public Instruction, Harrisburg, is in charge of these meetings throughout the state and brought with her a group of specialists for discussion leaders.

One of America's great plays, "The Late George Apley," was presented by the Bloomsburg Players, the dramatic club of the Bloomsburg State Teachers College, in Carver Auditorium Friday evening, April 8, at 8:15 o'clock. Directed by Miss Alice Johnston, whose work in past productions has achieved sional perfection, "The Late George Apley" is a brilliant portrayal of life and manners in a middle class American family.

Adapted by George S. Kaufman from the best-selling novel by John P. Marquand, the stage version of Marquand's satire on American family life had a long and successful run on Broadway. Under Miss Johnston's direction, the Bloomsburg Players revived its delightful dialogue, intriguing plot, and the colorful stage settings. The result was a production of moving force and dramatic impact.

Madge Fuller, Berwick senior, was chosen May Queen of the Bloomsburg State Teachers College and will preside over the the traditional May Day exercises to be held on the campus Wednesday afternoon, May 11. Miss Fuller, whose twin sister, Marjorie, will be a member of the Queen's Court, is the daughter of Mrs. C. C. Fuller, 341 Mulberry Street, Berwick. She is enrolled in the Business Education Department and is majoring in Sales and English.

Students at Bloomsburg voted for the May Queen and her attendants in a general election, and Miss Fuller won the 1949 honors in a close battle of the ballots. For the first time in the history of the College, a voting machine was used to record the student's choices. The machines, loaned to the College by the Luzerne County Commissioners, was the same one used in the recent Community Government Association elections.

Eight senior women were chosen to serve as attendants to the May Queen. The attendants will be: Jane McCullough, Lewisburg; Martha Jane Sitler, Bloomsburg; Joan McDonald, R. D. 1, Ringtown; Mary Helen Morrow, Towanda; Zita Spangler Cortright, Hummel's Wharf; Marjorie Fuller, Berwick; Doris Gilday, Springfield, and Eloise Noble, Milanville.

This year's ceremonies will be directed by Mrs. Robert B. Redman, who will be assisted by Miss Lucy McCammon and members of the faculty of the Benjamin Franklin School. The theme of the exercises has not yet been announced, but the program is now being planned by Mrs. Redman and her assistants.

The annual Bloomsburg State Teachers College Fashion Show was held this year Friday evening, April 29, at eight o'clock, in Carver Hall Auditorium. Twenty models were selected and were trained during the month. The Fashion Coordinator was Nancy Wesenyak, Duryea, and Chairman of Store Coordinators was Betty Ridall, Town Hill.

Because a number of last year's models had ben graduated or left school for various reasons, new models were chosen on the basis of appearance, personality, poise, size and color of hair. The models were Nancy Swartz, Forty Fort; Mary Ann Stewart, Pittsburgh; Madelyn Schalles, Nescopeck; Helyn Burlingame, Berwick; Barbara Sherman, Benton; Dorothy Thomas, Bloomsburg; Yerdis Ellison, Philadelphia; Margaret Chambers, Bedford; Lois Dzuris, Nanticoke; Norma Lee McCormick, Corapolis; Kathleen Mitchell, Mahanoy City; Susan Dreibelbus, Boomsburg; Geraldine Hess, Catawissa; Mary K. Shoemaker, Bloomsburg; Joyce McDougal, Berwick; Joanne Vanderslice, Boomsburg; Doris Gilday, Springfield; Zita Cortright, Hummel's Wharf; Joan Grazell, Shenandoah; Diane Snyder, Mill Hall; Margaret Kashuba, Berwick; Dorothy Cedar, Berwick; Delphine Buss, Watsontown and Jane McCullough, Lewisburg.

Miss Mercy E. Gotshall, seventy-five, esteemed Columbia county teacher who retired about two years ago, was the victim of a heart attack Saturday, March 19, at the Bloomsburg Hospital.

Miss Gotshall devoted most of her life to teaching in South Side schools. A graduate of the Bloomsburg State Normal School, she was also a graduate of Susquehanna University, Selinsgrove.

She was associated with the Locust and Centralia school systems for several years, but most of her teaching career was spent in service in the Conyngham school district. Miss Gotshall was in charge when that district opened its "one teacher" high school at Aristes.

Her devotion to her profession was best illustrated in her deferment of plans to retire, until faculty members, who were serving in World War II, could return. Hundreds of her former students and associates paid her homage when she formally retired, about January of 1946. Since that time, however, she had offered her services in a substitute capacity as needs arose.

Miss Gotshall was the daughter of the late Henry and Amelia Kostenbauder Gotshall. She was a member of the Catawissa Methodist Church, the Marweda Rebekah Lodge No. 16, Catawissa; and was secretary of the Catawissa WCTU.

Miss Mary Cope, retired teacher and former postmistress of Mount Carmel, died February 13, at the George F. Geisinger Memorial Hospital, Danville. Bronchial pneumonia, resulting from a cardiac failure, was the immediate cause of death.

Miss Cope was born September 12, 1878, in Mahanoy Plane, the daughter of the late George H. and Margaret Evans Cope. She was a young girl when her family moved to Mount Carmel from Centralia. Her father served as County Commissioner and as postmaster of Mount Carmel. Miss Cope left her teaching position to become his assistant postmistress and upon his death served as acting postmistress until his successor was named. She later returned to teaching and retired several years ago.

The Mount Carmel Item had the following comment on Miss Cope's death:

"With Miss Cope's death, the community loses one of its finest woman whose friendship and influence had been felt, not only among her friends, her church, to whose interests she had ben unselfishly devoted, but also by the youngsters, now grown up, who had been her pupils in the grade schools. A retired teacher of the Mount Carmel public schools, she had taught in the fourth grade of the old William Penn Building. She would speak of these children in her quiet gentle way, fondly and kindly, and when reminiscing, seemed to choose to remember them as they were in her classroom, rather than as the young man or woman of today.

"Miss Cope was as fine a woman as one is ever privileged to know, and it is a shock to realize that she is dead. Her kindness, her gentle humor, and her womanly qualities endeared her to all, and made her a welcome guest wherever she chose to call.

"Her church, the First Methodist Church, will miss her influence and good deeds. She belonged to the Ladies' Auxiliary, the Women's Society of Christian Service, and the Gleaner's Bible Class. Her charitable work as welfare secretary of the former Woman's Home Missionary Society and later with the Women's Society of Christian Service, made her known and loved with people of other faiths besides her own."

G. Bernard Vance, 66, well known local resident and former manager of the Berwick Store Company for two years, died Wednesday, February 16, at his home, 338 East Tenth street, Berwick. He had been in ill health several years.

Mr. Vance, who was associated with the Berwick Store Company for 39 years, served as general manager, as book-keeper for 19 years, and credit manager for 18 years.

Mr. Vance throughout most of his life was active in the work of the Berwick YMCA. He served as trustee of that organization for 40 years and during most of that period was secretary of the group.

A graduate of Bloomsburg State Teachers College in 1900, Mr. Vance taught at the college while taking special courses there. He began his teaching here in the Fiester School, Briar Creek.

The local resident was Berwick school director for 18 years and served as recording secretary of the school board for 14 years. He was employed at the ACF during World War II.

Born in Rohrsburg, July 21, 1882, Mr. Vance was a member of the First Presbyterian Church, the IOOF, the Knights of Malta and the Defender Fire Company.

Survivors include his wife, one sister, nieces and a nephew.

1904

Mrs. Ann Challis Thompson is acting chairman of the Health Education Department in one of the New York City Districts, having administrative responsibility for 5,000 students.

1905

J. Lee Tiffany, 67, died in his home on Chestnut Street, Montrose, Thursday, February 10. Mr. Tiffany had been in ill health for some months. In his early life he taught school in a number of communities in Susquehanna county and was also for some years engaged in the retail meat business in Montrose. For a number of years he had been manager of the Lee furniture store. He is survived by his wife.

He was a member of Blue Lodge, Chapter and Commandery of the Masonic Order in Montrose. He sang in the choir of the Presbyterian Church for many years and was also a member of the Symphony Male Chorus.

Mrs. A. K. Naugle (Erma Miller) recently underwent serious surgery in the General Hospital, Elizabeth, New Jersey, but is recovering nicely at her home at 119 Dalton Street, Roselle Park, N. J.

The response for our big reunion day is very gratifying. The following plan to arrive Friday evening, May 20: Mary Emanuel Brown, Mary Strange Driesbach, Marguerite Tonrey Ruane, Bess Winters Maddy, Stella Buckley, Fern Pritchard, Olwen August Hartley, Bertelle Laubaugh Lamont, Edith Jamison Zarr, Elsie Morgan Swank, Catherine Glass Kochler, Irene Fulmer, Martha White, Ruth Hiday, Martha Mrs Kobeschat, Salome Hill Long, Sabilla Shobert Campbell, The Hon. and Mrs. P. W. Griffith, Olive Miller Cook.

Be sure to be ready for that big day, Saturday, May 21, when not one classmate of 1914 will be absent. Anyone desiring room reservations will please write to Dr. Marguerite Kehr, Dean of Women, BSTC, Bloomsburg. Those arriving Friday evening will meet at the College Lounge at 7:00 P. M. However, a notice will be posted on the bulletin board, giving information as to the whereabouts of any Nineteen-Fourteener.

On Saturday morning, as soon as possible, the class of 1914 will meet in the assigned classroom to learn of the schedule of the day's activities. They will then adjourn to the auditorium to attend the general Alumni meeting as a class. Arrangements are underway for a class dinner to be held in the college dining room at 6:00 P. M. During this time, letters from class members unable to attend will be read. Make your plans now to remain for the entire day.

The class is grateful to the following for formulating reunion plans: Malcolm Leonard, acting president; Adah Weyhenmeyer, and Mary Emanuel Brown. Thanks are also due to the members of the correspondence committee, who have written to every member of the class whose address is known.

The following are the members of the committee: Adah Weyhenmeyer, Mary Aston, Fern Pritchard, Malcolm Leonard, Catherine Bone, Olwen August Hartley, Marguerite Tonrey Ruane, Mary Strange Driesbach, Bessie Winters Maddy, Stella Buckley, Edith Jamison Zarr, Bertelle Laubaugh Lamont, Catherine Glass Kochler, Irene Fulmer.

The following addresses are unknown. Anyone knowing the addresses of any on the list are urgently requested to send them to one of the member of the Correspondence Committee. The list follows: Vera Pauline Colvin (Mrs. C. B. Gorham), William J. Conyngham, Osborne Dodson, Hester Eisenhauer (Mrs. Kerst), Sara Elliott (Mrs. Kenneth Cain), Margaret Hill Evans, Lillian Claire Gleason, Frances Harpel (Mrs. Howard Councilman), Charles Hendershott, Daisy Hummel, Russel Keller, Henry Rupert Laub, Harriet O. Mensch, Lawrence L. Ryman, Lavisa Sheard, Charles Smith.

Miss H. Pauline Lloyd, a member of the Stevens Junior High School faculty, died early Saturday morning, February 19, 1949, at her home, 815 Nichols Place, Williamsport.

Miss Lloyd, an instructor in the Williamsport school system since 1914, taught her classes Friday, but has been in ill health for some time.

She was a graduate of Williamsport Dickinson Seminary, class of 1910, and of Bloomsburg State Normal School, 1914. In recent years she also had attended New York University, New York City, for extension courses, compiling 72 credits. She was awarded her supervisors certificate in music in 1928.

Her initial assignment in Williamsport schools was at Jefferson Building. She served for a while at Transeau School and was later at Stevens Grade School, where the Lose Building is now located. When Stevens Junior High School was opened in 1928, Miss Lloyd became a member of the first faculty there.

The members of the class of 1914 express their deep sympathy to the family of Pauline Henrietta Lloyd, 815 Nicholas Place, Williamsport, who passed away February 19, 1949. Death was due to a heart condition that was known, but not considered serious.

According to information received, Pauline taught school on Friday, February 18, and was felling well. She passed away during the early hours of a Saturday morning. The following has been submitted in memory of Miss Lloyd:

UNTIL THOU WAKEST

Chester Allen Holt

Come, faint and weary traveler, lie down.
Hands that have loved thee have prepared thy bed.
Find here a kindly pillow for thy head,
Until thou wakest and receive thy crown.

This dust shall be a cover, and the stars
Thy myriad candles burning in the night;
No cry shall trouble, and no cruel sight
Inform thee of earth's labors and its wars.

Grief cannot touch thee here, no any hurtful things
Distress thy quiet heart, nor make afraid.
The marble of our love is o'er thee laid;
Above thee greater love spreads forth his wing.

Thy course is finished, and the race is run.
God fold thee in the bosom whence thou came;
Inscribe thy legend and thy secret name.
Thou art His child, and child "Thou has well done."

1923

Christine E. Smith, of Catawissa, received her master's degree at the mid-winter graduation exercises held Saturday, January 29, at Bucknell University.

1927

Victoria Smith Bundens, of Bloomsburg, received her master's degree at the mid-winter graduation exercises held Saturday, January 29, at Bucknell University.

1947

William W. Hummel, of Espy, was a candidate for the degree of Master of Arts at Bucknell University's annual mid-winter Commencement exercises Saturday, January 29.

Mr. Hummel, who holds a Bachelor of Science degree from Bloomsburg State Teachers College, was one of eleven candidates for advanced degrees at Bucknell.

A daughter was born Monday, January 17, to Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Linville, of Berwick.

Commencement

"We are on the path to peace provided we remain solvent spiritually and economically," Harrison Wood, correspondent, commentator and author, told one hundred eighty-six members of the Bloomsburg State Teachers College graduating class at the Commencement exercises held before an overflow audience in Carver Hall.

Speaking on "The Changing World," Wood observed that the world is on its way to the desired peace and predicted that when it comes it can be kept. He observed that the overthrow of the present Russian government will come "in our time" and that a new group of Russian leaders will make its appearance and will "play ball" with the U. N. "The world is not suffering from Communism as an ideology, but from Kremlinism as a fact," the speaker declared.

The class entered the auditorium, filled with relatives and friends of the members, to the processional "March," by John S. Camp. Fred W. Diehl, of Danville, vice president of the board of trustees of the College, gave the invocation.

Following the address and an organ selection, "Andantino," Dean of Instruction Dr. Thomas P. North presented the class, largest ever to receive degrees at a commencement here, to Dr. Harvey B. Andruss, president of the College, who conferred the degrees. The program concluded with "Alma Mater" and the recessional, "Postlude in C."

Speaking in a manner that commanded full attention throughout, he opened his talk by saying that there is a great change occurring all over the world, a change from nationalism, in the old sense, to a world nationalism but not to a world government.

He divided his address into three parts, "Where we are?" "How did we get where we are?" and "Where are we going?"

As to where we are he declared we are in another chapter of a global war between us and the Soviet Union. "We must win this war as a coalition of nations or face another 'shooting war.' There is no change of heart in the masters of the Kremlin, only a change of tactics. The lifting of the Berlin blockade was evidence of this change of strategy. There was no real change of heart or desire for peace.

"This is a third chapter of the global war. We have never been at peace since 1914. Both the 'shooting wars' were unnecessary. We have no peace today. At least, following 1914-18, we did have the Versailles Treaty.

"We can get this desired peace. We're well on our way. When it comes it can be kept, but for a while force through the U. N. will be necessary." Reemphasizing that we are in a "cold war," Wood spoke of it as "a cold, coalition war. That is where we are today."

Turning his attention to how we got to where we are he declared "Yalta was the turning point of modern world history." No reporters were allowed at Yalta, but Wood said he got all the facts right after the session, at a resort spot only thirty miles from Yalta, by one who was there.

He declared "We were sold down the river by Stalin" and then added that "Roosevelt, with his great heart and trusting faith in man, took the word of Stalin that Russia would be our ally in peace as well as in war." George Marshall and Churchill both warned Roosevelt that Stalin could not be trusted that his word was not reliable nor could his signature be honored, Wood continued, but FDR took Stalin's word. "That was the start of coalition No. 1—Russia and her satellites," he said.

Speaking of the United Nations charter and of the San Francisco meeting, he said Molotov came to San Francisco only because President Truman telephoned and insisted to Stalin that he send Molotov. Wood observed that, "As Molotov signed the U. N. charter, he knew that Russia would not live up to one iota of its charter commitments.

"Our hope that U. N. would lead to peace therefore faced its first Russian blockade. That's how we got there. We trusted our Russian allies whose definition of diplomacy is 'best diplomat is the biggest liar'."

Posing the question "What did Stalin want?" he answered that it was all the industrial area of Europe and Manchuria for this would enable Russia to become the world's greatest industrial power. "It was then we determined to out-coalition Stalin. The answer was the Marshall Plan which was set up to first aid Europe to get on its economic feet and then stand erect politically."

"We are trying to create a great political power, thereby, in Europe so Russia will have to give up. We're winning. We're well on our way."

Wood stressed that Russia is dominated by Stalin and the thirteen other members of the Politburo, graphically describing the little which the Russian people have to say about affairs in the Soviet Union. He observed that Communism died a long time ago, but that in the "handful who have the power in Russia we find the threat to world peace."

Wood said that Stalin's plans are to kill the Marshall Plan at any cost and that lifting of the Berlin blockade gave the men in the Kremlin a "new face of peace." The speaker observed that even Stalin's mother called her son "an evil man," but the speaker warned that he is the second smartest man in Europe today. Wood classified Churchill as the smartest.

The North Atlantic pact was America's answer to Stalin's plans for future aggression and Wood said, "Stalin's howls over it convicted himself of aggressive ambitions." Other pacts similar to the Atlantic Treaty are pending, such as Mediterranean and Pacific pacts. These pacts, he said, are entirely unnecessary but were forced on us by the present Russian government.

Looking forward to the day when he believes Russia will have leaders who will "play ball" with the U. N., he predicted a peace that will last, a disarmament race and the last time for rearming, provided "we keep on our present policy of setting up regional pacts to confine Communism. He defined Kremlinism as "pure, simple military aggression."

As a "Where we are going?" he declared it is "right back to the United Nations without the Marshall Plan, the Atlantic Charter and the other regional pacts if we in the United States remain solvent and strong. Our government, however, has to continue to put first things first. One-half of our national income is now being spent to 'pay for peace.' When peace finally comes, then we can turn to the lesser important domestic problems and other less pressing affairs of state."

He made an appeal for financial and spiritual solvency and indicated that the rest of the world looks to us for spiritual leadership. Wood asserted that we must teach the youth of the country to put first things first for the world looks to us to continue to provide spiritually in both growth and development.

In his brief message to the class prior to conferring degrees, Dr. Andruss used Henry VanDyke's, "To The Unknown Teacher." It follows:

"I sing the praises of the Unknown Teacher. Great generals win campaigns, but it is the Unknown Soldier who wins the war. Famous educators plan new systems of pedagogy, but it is the Unknown Teacher who delivers and guides the young. He lives in obscurity and contends with hardship. For him no trumpets blare, no chariots wait, no golden decorations are decreed. He keeps the watch along the borders of darkness, and makes the attack on the trenches of ignorance and folly. Patient in his duty, he strives to conquer the evil powers which are enemies of youth. He awakens sleeping spirits. He quickens the indolent, encourages the eager, and steadies the unstable. He communicates his own joy in learning and shares with boys and girls the best treasures of his mind. He lights many candles, which in later years, will shine back to cheer him. This is his reward.

"Knowledge may be gained from books but the love of knowledge is transmitted only by personal contact. No one has deserved better of the Republic than the Unknown Teacher. No one is more worthy to be enrolled in a Democratic Aristocracy, 'King of himself and servant of mankind'."

President Harvey A. Andruss, of the Bloomsburg State Teachers College, has received plans and specifications for Project No. 831 drawn through the Department of Property and Supplies covering roof repairs; repairs to President's residence; replacement of long porch on Waller Hall. The architect is Mr. John A. Schell, 200 West Main street, Bloomsburg, Pa., and the bids were opened on this project May 18, 1949.

The chief exterior addition to the appearance of the college is in the construction of a porch connecting the two wings of Waller Hall and extending within the present court. This construction will consist of fifteen brick archways facing Second Street and seven brick archways extending in the Court. The roof of the new porch will be slate with copper gutters and spouting, and wooden cornice. The columns will be brick with metal banisters and quarry tile floor. Access to Second Street will be by means of two sets of steps at the end of a platform leading to the street level instead of the present broad stairs. Five of the archway spaces extending in the court will be covered with leaded plate glass. The present long porch, of wood construction, is approximately fifty years old and has been a characteristic landmark used by all those coming to the college administrative offices. The new porch is more in keeping with architecture of Waller Hall.

Roof repairs and repairs to spouting and gutters will be made on Navy Hall, Waller Hall, Old Gymnasium, Carver Hall and Laundry. This includes the recovering of the deck on the clock tower, removal of the dormer window on Waller Hall and other repairs that have accumulated. There will also be repairs to the President's residence.

Bloomsburg State Teachers College was represented at the regional conference of the National Student Association held recently in Philadelphia. Students from most Pennsylvania colleges and universities attended the sessions which were planned to consider problems that college students have faced during the past year.

Attending from the local college were: Richard Wagner, Nescopeck; Bernard Zelinski, Mt. Carmel; Audrey Terrel, Waymart; Lois Dzuris, Nanticoke, and Norman Kline, McClure.

Baccalaureate Sermon

An appeal only to not accept the Golden Rule, the Commandments, the Beatitudes, and the principle of the Brotherhood of man, but to really put them into practice, was made by the Rev. Henry I. Aulenbach, pastor of the St. Andrew Reformed Church, Allentown, at the baccalaureate service at the College.

The clergyman observed that "there are still great areas in which you can do some real pioneering" and asserted "We know how to make and manipulate the most intricate mechanical devices but we still have not earned the art of living together."

The service, attended by a large number, opened with the Prelude "Prayer," Alfred Hollings, and the processional, "Ancient of Days." The Rev. Mr. Aulenbach gave the invocation and following the hymn, "Faith of Our Father," President Harvey A. Andruss, of the College, read the scripture. The minister chose for his theme, "The Great Adventure" and used for his text "speak to the children of Israel that they go forward," Exodus 14:15.

Miss Eleanor McClintock, accompanied by Richard Wagner, sang "To a Hill Top." The Rev. Mr. Aulenbach pronounced the benediction and the recessional was "Awake My Soul," with the postlude, "Allegro," E. R. Kreoger.

In his message the Rev. Mr. Aulenbach spoke in part as follows:

"Referring to an incident in the history of the Hebrew people when they were persuaded by Moses to throw off their bondage to Egypt and become a free people, it was not long after they had started out to make a place for themselves in the world before they came to the Red Sea, a seemingly impassable barrier before them and the pursuing Egyptian army behind them. It was then that God instructed Moses to 'speak to the Children of Israel that they should go forward.'

"So likewise, young men and women, graduating from our institutions of learning and going out into the world to make a place for themselves, will soon face impassable barriers—Red Seas. To you, the challenge of God, of your teachers and of the world is that you go forward. But how go forward? With so many inventions and discoveries, there seems to be little possibility of advance along this line. All this is part of that Red Sea which confronts you. Still the challenge comes to you becomes a part of that great Modern Advance.

"Some of you will go out into the world and soon be absorbed by the world. The result will be that the world will remain in its present disturbed turmoil. Some of you will take such a concerted step forward that the world will feel the impact of your efforts and become a much better place to live in. There are still great areas in which you can do some real pioneering. Maybe we have come to the saturation point in the invention and discovery of material things. But the field is still wide open in the field of social sciences—sociology, psychology and psychiatry. Man knows so much about the things about him but so little about himself. We know how to make and manipulate the most intricate mechanical devices but we still have not learned the art of living together. Back in Colonial days, the idea of a United States of America was but a dream of our forefathers. They went forward to make that dream a reality. Today, the idea of a whole world at peace—a United Nations—is but a dream. If the young people of today advance together, that dream can be made into a reality.

“Perhaps the sphere in which the greatest opportunities for pioneering still exists today lies in the area of the spirit. It is an accepted fact that spiritual progress always lags behind our scientific and material progress. Too long, we have placidly accepted the Golden Rule; the Two Great Commandments; the Beatitudes; and the principle of the Brotherhood of all mankind. But we must do more than just accept them, we must really put them into practice.

“Winston Churchill in his recent visit to America to sign the Atlantic Charter, addressed some 14,000 people in the Boston Garden at the Massachusetts Institute of Technology Mid-Century Convocation and his closing words were ‘let us then move forward together in the discharge of our mission and our duty, fearing God and nothing else.’ That is the challenge that comes to you graduates and the world.”

Another Bloomsburg State Teachers College “First” was recorded this year when the first all-college magazine, “The Olympian,” was issued. According to Editor William A. Stimeling, Berwick, the initial issue of the new publication met with the overwhelming sales approval of students and faculty. The magazine, the first of its kind on the campus, contained short stories, literary and feature articles, poetry and cartoons.

Members of the staff include: Junior L. Eddinger and Robert C. Canouse, Berwick, associate editors; Eleanor Todaro, Hazleton, business manager; Howard Hartzell, Danville, art editor; Robert Hiney, Berwick, and Nancy Powel, Scranton, humor editors; Ruth Shupp, Plymouth, Joyce MacDougall, Berwick, and Gloria Dawn Long, Briar Creek, advertising staff; Shirley Walters, Factoryville, Joseph Curilla, Shamokin, and George Chebro, Beach Haven, sales staff and Richard Harner, Berwick, typist. Dr. J. Almus Russell is the faculty adviser.

Alumni Meeting

Miss Ida Sitler, of town, professor emeritus of biology, Hollins College, Va., and Dr. Lindley H. Dennis, of Washington, D. C., executive secretary of the American Vocational Association, were honored by fellow alumni of the Bloomsburg Teachers College when they were presented with certificates for meritorious service.

The presentation to Miss Sitler was made by Mrs. Gary C. Myers, Boyd's Mills, a classmate, who told of Miss Sitler's great contributions in the field of education and of her great interest in persons.

The following is Miss Sitler's citation:

In recognition of her scholarship, distinguished services as teacher of biology and related sciences, and her inspiration to American youths in high ideals of scientific pursuits and useful living.

Howard F. Fetterolf, of Harrisburg, made the presentation to Dr. Dennis, a member of the fifty year class in reunion, observing that the present system of vocational education of Pennsylvania was set up by Dr. Dennis.

Dr. Dennis's citation read as follows:

THE CITATION

Great as a Vocational Leader and Organizer; his counsel is sought by Education from every part of the Continent.

Mrs. Ellen Allen Bond, of town, who graduated from the institution seventy years ago, won the hearts of all the alumni in her gracious response to the fifty dollars presented to her.

Mrs. Bond, still young in spirit, observed that she taught fifty-seven years and wishes she could return to the classroom, "although I am hardly young enough now."

Dr. E. H. Nelson, president of the alumni, who presided at the general meeting in Carver Hall during the morning, made the presentation to Mrs. Bond, on behalf of the association, as he returned to her the certificates she had been awarded almost three quarters of a century ago.

President Harvey A. Andruss, president of the College, extended welcome and said that the year just concluded was the biggest in the history of the institution. He also stated that preparatory work here in special fields is recognized by other institutions of learning.

Referring to the General State Authority, he spoke of the manner in which such funds would aid in the repairing and rebuilding of the College plant. A survey has shown that a larger percentage of graduates in recent years is going into teaching and he spoke of the higher salaries now being offered educators.

Fred W. Diehl, superintendent of the Montour county schools and a member of the board of directors of the Alumni Association, has served the College for a longer period as trustee than any other person, President Andruss stated.

The session opened with the invocation by the Rev. Dr. G. H. Hemingway who had participated in the baccalaureate service of the class of 1899. Reports of various officials were given. Renamed to the board of directors for three-year terms were Mrs. Ruth Speary Griffiths, Wilkes-Barre, and Miss Harriet Carpenter and Edward F. Schuyler, of town.

Robert Redman, coach of the undefeated College football and baseball teams of the term now closing, was introduced and given a warm round of applause. The Luzerne County Branch of the Alumni Association presented fifty dollars to the Husky Fund.

The alumni, without dissenting voice, voted to raise the dues, except for members of the graduating class, and with the additional revenue to go into the alumni athletic scholarship fund.

The roll call of the classes followed, with each reporting on some of its activities. A luncheon in the dining hall at noon, reunions during the afternoon, the baseball game and the dance were other features.

Collingdale High School took first place honors and the winner's bronze plaque in the Seventeenth Annual Business Education Contest of the Bloomsburg State Teachers College on Saturday, April 30.

Danville was co-runner-up in the team rating with Sunbury. Berwick placed fourth. Bloomsburg, contest winner of last year, placed fifth, and Nescopeck, ninth.

Individual winners were:

Bookkeeping—Frances Jacobs, York; second, Harris Laverne, Berwick, and Marie Rebinski, Plymouth.

Business mathematics—Betty Hoover, Millersburg; John Finnegan, Collingdale; Betty Ruth Keller, Bloomsburg.

Shortland—Lois Thompson, Sunbury; Leah Wilsey, Tunkhannock; Marie Brehun, North Union.

Typewriting—Eleanor Noe, Collingdale; Mary Kauffman, Juniata Point; Janet Funk, Collingdale.

Thirty-two schools were represented by 117 high school students and teachers. Gold, silver and bronze stars were awarded to students who ranked first, second and third respectively in each of the four divisions of the contest.

 HONOR AWARD RECIPIENTS AND THEIR SPONSORS

SENIOR BANQUET

The annual ball and banquet of the graduating Seniors of Bloomsburg State Teachers College was held in Hotel Sterling, Wilkes-Barre, as the concluding feature of Senior Day.

William Tiddy, master of ceremonies, introduced the guests of the evening: Dr. and Mrs. Harvey A. Andruss, Dr. Marguerite W. Kehr, Mr. and Mrs. Walter S. Rygiel, Mr. and Mrs. Earl A. Gehrig, Mr. and Mrs. Peter R. Wisher and Mr. and Mrs. Edward T. DeVoe.

After addresses by Dr. Andruss and Dr. North, Miss Eleanor McClintock, Nescopeck, sang several soprano solos, accompanied by Dick Wagner. Group singing followed, under the leadership of the general chairman of the ball and banquet, Phillip Joseph.

Al Anderson and his Orchestra, of Wilkes-Barre, provided music for dancing and listening pleasure.

The following committees were active in making the affair a success: Chairman of banquet, Ernest Olson; chairman of ball, Charles Boyer; dance programs, Pauline Kokolias, Dale Mantz, Vincent Friday; decorations, Richard Grimes, Joan McDonald, Stewart Bechtal, Norman Hawk; host and hostess, Gladys Kuster, Robert LeVan; invitation, Angelo Albano, Ruth Elder, Edwin Keiser, Charles Kazmerovicz; orchestra, George Paternoster, Louise Garard; publicity, Shirley Henley, Santa Prete; refreshments, Zita Cortright, June Jacobs, Michael Spanich; tickets, Lois Datesman, Thomas Bowman, Frank Radice; transportation, James Hantjis, Eloise Noble, Richard Keyser, Gloria Galow.

The Senior Class is composed of around 200 members. Class officers are: Alfred Lampman, president; John Purcell, vice president; Mary Fox, secretary, and Leonard Lipski, treasurer. Earl A. Gehrig is the class advisor, and Walter S. Rygiel chairman of commencement activities.

Miss Christine A. Peters, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Peters, of Berwick R. D. 1, became the bride of Earl H. Blake, Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Earl H. Blake, of East Front street, Berwick, in a ceremony at ten o'clock Saturday, June 11, at St. Mary's Church, of Wanamie. The Rev. V. A. Simkoniss, pastor, officiated at the double-ring ceremony.

The bride is a graduate of Berwick High School, class of 1945, and is a senior at Pennsylvania State College. The groom, a graduate of 1944 at Berwick High School, is a junior at B.S.T.C.

— o —

When the 1949 Bloomsburg State Teachers College baseball team wrote an undefeated season into the record books by blasting out its twelfth straight victory, it equaled the record of the 1935 Huskies who won twelve and lost one. Most prominent member of that outfit was Danny Litwhiler, who is now playing with the Cincinnati Reds.

May Day

Before 2,000 spectators on the Waller Hall terrace, Misses Midge and Madge Fuller, Berwick seniors, were crowned Queens of the May to open the Bloomsburg State Teachers College Spring festival. Sunny skies smiled down on the merrymakers in marked contrast to last year's program which was plagued by rain and cold weather.

The two queens, elected by popular vote of the student body, were crowned with daisy wreaths in traditional ceremonies by Thaddeus Swigonski, Nanticoke, College Council president, and Alfred Lampman, Kingston, president of the senior class. They presided over the colorful festivities from a throne platform decorated with evergreen.

The program presented in honor of the Queens and their court was entitled, "Inside Our U.S.A." and included dances and games presented by Benjamin Franklin School pupils, accordion music by Andrew Maceiko, Wilkes-Barre, and concluded with the traditional winding of the Maypoles by Benjamin Franklin School pupils and College women.

The May Day ceremonies were directed by Mrs. Robert B. Redman, who was assisted by the faculty of the Benjamin Franklin School. Howard F. Fenstemaker directed the Maroon and Gold Band which provided music for the processional and a short concert prior to the ceremonies.

Eight attendants of the May Queen's court, dressed in pastel gowns of pink, yellow, blue and lavender and carrying bouquets of Spring flowers, preceded the queens in the colorful procession. Flower girls from the second grade of the Ben Franklin School dropped petals of Spring flowers along the way. The queens were dressed in picturesque gowns of white organdy and carried arm bouquets of varicolored Spring blossoms.

Members of the court were Zita Spangler Cortright, Hummel's Wharf; Louise Garard, Lewisburg; Doris Gilady, Springfield; James McCullough, Lewisburg; Joan McDonald, Ringtown; Mary Helen Morrow, Towanda; Eloise Noble, Milanville, and Martha Jane Sitler, Bloomsburg.

During the program, flags were pinned to a large map of the U. S. as each part of the country was depicted in dances. Kindergarten pupils, taught by Miss Grace Woolworth, opened the festivities with New England Maypole rhythms. Boys and girls of the fourth grade, Mrs. Anna G. Scott, teacher, brought back memories of New York with a spritely dance, "Sidewalks of New York."

Third grade pupils, taught by Miss Marcella Stickler, were dressed in Indian costumes and presented a wild west number as Andy Maceiko played "Deep in the Heart of Texas." Girls of the fourth grade in purple ballet costumes and flower hoops danced to the number, "Missouri Waltz."

Pupils of the first grade taught by Mrs. Lucile J. Baker made a big hit in their amusing blackface costumes as they performed a lively southern number. Fifth graders followed with a Virginia Reel.

Miss Iva Mae Van Scoyoc's second graders presented a novelty dance with skipping ropes in interpreting "School Days." During the number, Andy Maceiko played "California Here I Come." A cleverly conceived routine was performed by boys of the sixth grade taught by Miss Edna J. Barnes who gave a well-enacted pantomime in uniform of "Take Me Out to the Ball Game." The concluding number was a waltz by sixth grade girls to "Beautiful Ohio" which was an old fashioned costume and colorful umbrellas.

The May fete closed with the colorful winding of the May poles with grade school pupils and College women participating. The ending of the program was the signal for some fifty to sixty amateur photographers to surround the May queens and their court to take hundreds of pictures of the colorful scene.

Mrs. Redman expressed thanks to all those who helped make the production a complete success. Miss Lucy McCammon had charge of the Queens and their Court. College May poles and properties were under the direction of Nevin T. Englehart, Edward D. Sharretts, Mrs. Charles Beeman, and pupils of the special grade taught by Mrs. Eleanor Mart'n

The costumes were made by mothers of the children participating in the dances and flowers were furnished by Dillon's Greenhouses. Accompanists were Miss Marcella Stickler and Miss Mary Shoemaker. The sound system was supervised by Joseph Curilla, Shamokin. The Bloomsburg American Legion furnished the baseball uniforms used by the sixth grade. Coordinator for the Benjamin Franklin School and student teachers assisting in the production was Miss Edna J. Hazen, director of elementary education.

Miss Patricia J. Mercer, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert H. Mercer, of West Third street, Bloomsburg, became the bride of K. Rodney Morgans, son of Mrs. Amanda Morgans, of Williamsport, in a ceremony April 18 in the rectory of St. Columba's Catholic Church.

The bride, a graduate of Bloomsburg High School with the class of 1947, is employed in the laboratories of Bloomsburg Mills, Inc. The groom is a junior at B.S.T.C., majoring in secondary education. A Marine during World War II, Mr. Morgans served thirty-two months in the South Pacific with a radar division.

'Saucered and Blowed'

Out of this number there were nine contributions of $50.00 or more, and these names will appear on the bronze plaque, with one exception. This donor wishes to remain anonymous. The others are as follows:

Class of 1924. (The first class to be listed on the plaque.)

L. H. Dennis—1899.

Dr. Scott Fisher—1909.

Mrs. Mae E. John—(In memory of her late husband, Dr. J. S. John.)

Luzerne County Branch—Sponsor of Donald Jenkins.

Harry L. Magee—Sponsor of James Harman.

Montour County Branch—Sponsor of Allen McCracken.

Thursabert Schuyler—(In memory of her sister, Mary, whose name is listed as making the supreme sacrifice.)

Our sincere thanks to every one of the contributors. You show your interest in the school, and that is what counts.

WE NOTED THAT:

1. Harry O. Hine, '85, had a wonderful time.
2. Mrs. Annie S. Nuss, '88, is always doing her part to make Alumni Day a success.
3. Mrs. Bond was attending church and Sunday School the morning after Alumni Day when we called to in-previous had been too fatiguing. What a pleasure to present that dear lady with an orchid!
4. Eddie Schuyler did a real job in promoting the 1924 reunion.
5. The Class of 1894 had a fine group present.
6. Miss Patterson was back to meet with a class she served as advisor.
7. Harold Moyer enjoyed having 1909 "down on the farm."
8. Dr. Hemingway was with the Class of 1899 on the platform and gave the invocation as he did when the class was graduated 50 years ago. Match that one! At the time he was pastor of the First Presbyterian Church in Bloomsburg. Our thanks to him for coming up from Florida two weeks early to be with the class for the occasion.
10. The College administration did everything possible to provide for the comfort and pleasure of the returning alumni.
11. Ann Challis Thompson, '04, works hard to promote the reunion of her class, and did a fine job.
12. Bob Redman finished up the baseball season with an undefeated team. He did the same thing in football. The Alumni are proud of the teams and the coaches.
13. Miss Ida Sitler was the first woman to receive the meritorious service award. She was ably presented by Mrs. Carrie Clark Myers, a classmate.
14. Nevin Englehart has stopped counting the reunion days he has worked so hard to make possible, as pleasant occasions. You know he is the genial Superintendent of Buildings and Grounds. Arrangements don't just happen.
15. Editor Fenstemaker says this column is already too long, but we would like to say more about many of you. You made it a great day. Sincere thanks again.

Coach Robert B. Redman, who tutored the unbeaten and untied Bloomsburg State Teachers College gridders during the 1948 season, posted another perfect season during the past baseball campaign. His Husky diamond crew won twelve straight decisions over intercollegiate rivals.

New Members of the Faculty

Dr. Ernest H. Englehart has been appointed director of secondary education at the Bloomsburg State Teachers College. He will have charge of student teaching in the secondary schools of Danville, Bloomsburg and Berwick, the direction of the placement service, and a limited teaching assignment in the field of secondary education. The appointment, made by the board of trustees, was announced by Dr. Harvey A. Andruss. Dr. Englehart holds the A. B. and M. A. degrees from Bucknell University, and the Degree of Doctor of Education from the University of Pittsburgh.

For the last thirteen years he has been supervising principal of the Muncy public schools, and before that time was a high school teacher in the same system.

He is the author of "Objective Tests in Literature," Oxford Book Company, 1936, and "Workbooks in Grammar," Williamsport Printing and Binding Company, 1938.

He is a member of Rotary, and has been active in the affairs of the Pennsylvania State Education Association on both the county and state levels.

Doctor Englehart holds the high school principals, elementary principals, and supervising principals certificate, and also a letter of eligibility for the superintendent's commission. He replaces Harry F. Garner, who has resigned his position to accept a position at Temple.

Dr. Ted J. Satterfield, Bala-Cynwyd, former West Chester star athlete, has been named to the faculty of the Bloomsburg State Teachers College according to announcement made by President Harvey A. Andruss. Dr. Satterfield, who has been teaching physical education and hygiene in the Lower Merion Schools, will assist Coach Robert B. Redman with the Bloomsburg football squad and help coach other intercollegiate sports.

Satterfield, who graduated from West Chester in 1935, received his Master of Science degree from Temple University in 1938. This June he was granted the degree of Doctor of Education in Educational Administration and Health and Physical Education by Temple University. At that time he was honored with the Phi Delta Kappa award for research. His dissertation was a thorough-going study of tort liability in the public schools.

A former star gridder for Coach Glen Killinger at West Chester State Teachers College, Dr. Satterfield taught at Clifton Heights High School after graduation from college. At Clifton Heights he coached football, basketball and track, but in 1939, he transferred to Lower Merion where he coached football and track. He is a well-known National Board football and basketball official.

The new Bloomsburg faculty member is a veteran of World War II, having served as a degaussing officer in the United States Navy from June, 1942, to November, 1945. His work was based on magnetics and concerned with under-water demolition.

Dr. Satterfield will begin his duties with the beginning of pre-season grid drills Wednesday, August 31.

Harold S. Shelley, director of physical education and athletics at Wilmington College, Wilmington, Ohio, has been named head basketball coach at the Bloomsburg State Teachers College, according to an announcement made by President Harvey A. Andruss. Mr. Shelley, who coached basketball and track teams at the Ohio school, will also handle the varsity soccer and track teams, Dr. Andruss stated.

The new Husky cage mentor replaces Peter R. Wisher, who coached Bloomsburg basketball teams for the past three seasons. Wisher will become a member of the faculty at Slippery Rock State Teachers College in September.

Before accepting the Wilmington College position, Mr. Shelley was head basketball coach at Withrow High School in Cincinnati, where his schoolboy teams compiled brilliant records. In four years at Withrow his clubs were runners-up for the city championship two years. Withrow High School is a high school of 3600 students and is regarded as the finest school in the city.

Mr. Shelley also coached Milford (Ohio) High School where he tutored outstanding basketball teams. Milford reached the district tournament each of the six years he coached there, winning four county titles without losing a single game. His clubs were runners-up in county competition in the other two years.

Shelley is a graduate of Ohio Northern University where he starred in football, basketball and track. He received his Master of Arts degree in Physical Education at the University of Michigan. His experience includes twelve years of public school teaching and three and a half years of college teaching and coaching.

His assignment at Bloomsburg will begin with the opening of College, September 12.

Bloomsburg State Teachers College undefeated football team, the only perfect-record team in college football last season, was the only grid aggregation in the history of the college to write a perfect season into the record books.

Athletics

Varsity athletes of the College, who have earned keys for outstanding participation in varsity athletics, are now being awarded lifetime passes by the College for all athletic events.

This courtesy was reported at the alumni meeting. Holders of the pass are known as members of the Key Club. One side of the card holds the athletic record of the bearer.

John "Bloody" Sircovics, of Berwick, four years varsity center in pre-war days, was present to receive his card. Other recipients will have them mailed out immediately, with the Alumni Association to handle this matter.

Others members are Daniel H. Bonham, Sterling Banta, Robert A. Brown, Frank Koniecko, Frank Golder, Daniel Hausknecht, Kenneth Hippensteel, Frederick, L. Hauck, Fred Jaffin, William G. Kerchusky, Leo J. Lehman, Danny Litwhiler, Norma Maza, Robert H. Parker, Irving Ruckle, Malcyn P. Smethers, Daniel F. Thomas, Frank M. VanDevender, Henry J. Warman, Walter Withka, Walter W. Yaretski, Adolph Zalonis, William Reed, Samuel Cohen, Charles Blackburn, Bernard Cobb, Sam Krauss, Joseph Dixon, Ernest Line, Woodrow Litwhiler, Mervin Mericle, Walter Moleski, Edward Phillips, Frank Rompalo, Frances Sell, Walter Washeleski.

Those who have been observing Bloomsburg State Teachers College sports through the years had a host of memories revived when the list was read.

Only one of these men, John (Bloody) Sircovics, a sixty minute center and a captain in World War II, was on hand to get his award personally. "Bloody" carries a much better upholstery job now than he did in his playing days at Berwick High and the College but he was a durable lad and playing with a broken nose was something that Sircovics expected. It never slowed his game. He played in the days when there weren't many more fellows in school than were on the undefeated squad last fall, and the group was so small that the fellows were kept on the job just about all of the time.

Kenny Hippensteel, a native of Scott and now teaching in Georgia, is one of the three sport men holding a key. Kenny was on the cross-country team in '36 and '37. He was a member of some of the greatest track and field teams in Husky history which George C. Buchheit turned out. Those were in the springs from 1936 through 1939. He also made his letter in soccer in 1938 and 1939.

Walter Moleski was a Coal Township product and better known as "Whitey." He played all four years on the football team, 1932 through 1936. He played on the varsity basketball team in 1933-34 and on the baseball team from 1934 through 1936, being on the undefeated nine of 1935. He later played with the Bloomsburg club.

Walter Yaretski was a Newport township product. He was on the football team in 1930 and was three years on the basketball team and captain, 1932-33. He played baseball in 1931 and 1932 and got his fourth varsity letter as track manager in '32 and '33.

The only man who won varsity letters in all four sports who is on the current list of key holders is Bernard Cobb. While in school he was known as Bernie Kafchinsky. He was on the football team of 1930 and the basketball team of 1930-31. He played baseball in 1931, 1935 and 1936 and won a letter in track in 1931 and 1934. Cobb did well in the high brackets of pro baseball for a number of years, later coached at Shickshinny and is now in the Wilkes-Barre area.

William K. Kerchusky was a Ringtown contribution to the Husky cause. He played football in 1939 and 1940, basketball in '38-'39, '39-'40 and '40-'41 and was one of the outstanding centers in Bloomsburg history. In baseball he handled the first base job in 1940 and 1941.

Fred Jaffin, of Berwick, played football three years, 1930, 1931 and 1932. He was on the baseball team of '30 and '33 and on the track team of '32 and '33.

Before leaving the three sport men we don't want to overlook Frank VanDevender, present Shamokin High basketball coach. Now considerably heavier than in college days, Frank is still the same genial individual. He played football for the late Austie Tate in '38. He was on the basketball team of 1937-38 and 1938-39 and on the track teams from 1936 through 1939, being an ace sprinter and broad jumper.

Holders of the key for performance in football alone include Joe Dixon, of Hazleton, '32 through '35; Mervin "Rip" Mericle, of town, a bear cat of a center, '32 through '36, and Leo J. Lehman, a steady performer, '38 through '41.

Tennis isn't on the varsity sports program now but in the thirties we had some standouts on the courts.

These included Robert A. Brown, '30 through '33 and captain his last year; Adolph Zalonis, '35 through '38; Sam Krauss, a local product, '32 through '35 and captain the last year.

Walter Withka was on the tennis team in '36 and '37 and on the basketball squad in 1935-36, 1936-37 and 1937-38. Sam Cohen doubled in track and tennis for a busy spring. He won track letters in 1932 through '36 and was on the tennis team in '35 and '36.

Macelyn P. Smethers, a Berwick boy, played on the basketball teams, 1935-36, through 1938-39 and was on the tennis teams from '36 through '39.

Going back to track for a moment, you will find Robert H Parker, of Kulpmont, was on the cross-country team of '37 and '38 and on the track team from 1936 through 1939.

Frederick "Feg" Houck, of Catawissa, was the star first sacker on the baseball club '36 through '39 and soccer captain in 1938. Francis Sell, who later developed Penn State's great Gerald Carver, was cross-country letter winner in 1931 through 1933 and a member of the track team from 1932 through 1935, setting the 880 mark during that time.

Four of the list won letters in both football and baseball. One of those was Woody Litwhiler, a brother of Danny, who was a star end in football, 1932 through 1935, and a pitcher-outfielder on the baseball team, 1934 through 1936.

Another was Don Housknecht, football in 1938 and 1939 and baseball in 1938 through 1940. Frank Koniecko played football in 1939 and was on the baseball team from 1937 through 1940, the Nanticoke boy doing a fine job at second base. Frank Rompalo, of Cumbolo, near Pottsville, who with Woody Litwhiler used to entertain with those accordian-trumpet duets, played football 1933 through 1935 and was on the baseball team, 1934 through 1936.

Sterling Banta, of Luzerne, was on the basketball team and the baseball team throughout his four years, graduating in 1939.

Frank Golder, builder of champion basketball and baseball teams at Bloomsburg High these days, played basketball from 1928-29 through 1930-31, being one of the top guards in Husky history, and was a slugging outfielder throughout his collegiate career and captain in 1929. Walter Washaleski, of Simpson, was on the basketball team through years 1932-33 through 1934-36 and on the baseball team in '34 and '35, being an outfielder-first baseman. Charles Blackburn, now in Williamsport and well known as a sports official, played basketball from 1931-32 through 1934-35, being captain the last year, and was the baseball teams of '32, '34 and '35.

Dan Bonham, of Forty Fort, the field ace on the track team, played basketball three years and was on the championship track team four years prior to his graduation in 1941. Edward (Edge) Phillips, of the class of '36, played basketball four years and so did Irving (Junie) Ruckle, the latter of the class of 1938. Both were from Newport township.

The lifetime passes for the key holders was the idea of Danny Litwhiler, of Cincinnati Reds, holder of an Alumni Meritorious Award. He was football manager in '37 and on the baseball team 1935 through 1938. Ernest Line was on the football team three years and the track team two, graduating in 1935. Bill Reed, now on our Bloomsburg High School faculty, and a Shamokin product, played basketball four years and football one, prior to graduating in 1935. Henry (Hank) Worman, of Scranton, four years in football and basketball and one year in track. He joins the three sport groups, Daniel E. (Dinty) Thomas, Edwardsville, was four years in football and four in track, being captain of track in '32, the year he graduated. Norman Maza, of Nanticoke, a star hurler, was on the baseball team four years, graduating in 1940.

Graduation days up on College Hill bring back memories of outstanding feats on the athletic field, basketball court, baseball diamond, and track, especially when a large number of seniors, who receive their degrees are listed in the records in the athletic office as varsity letter winners. The present graduating class lists no less than twenty-three persons who have been awarded their varsity monograms for participation in the inter-collegiate athletic program of the College. Two other seniors are amateur boxers who did some fancy work in the ring during the college days.

Football, as luck would have it, takes the biggest beating. Fifteen letter winners are slated to get their sheepskins in the Carver auditorium. One of the fifteen is the senior manager, Al Lampman, a Kingston High School grad, and president of the senior class.

Eight of the remaining fourteen gridders, however, did not compete with the Huskies last season when the Redman crew rolled along to an undefeated season—the first in the history of the College. The list includes Herb Sowers, Williamsport; Eugene Snyder, Danville; Donald Snyder, Milton; James Sampsell, Milton; William Miller, Trucksville; Matt Maley, Pottsville; James Cain, Kingston, and Billy Dugan, Milton.

Sampsell, a former Lenoir Rhyne varsity performer, was ineligible because he had used up his four years of competition. Matt Maley, who starred for Lebanon Valley in pre-war days, was also ineligible, but he assisted Coach Redman with the Husky backs. Billy Dugan ran afoul some scheduling difficulties, while the two Snyders, Sowers, Cain and Miller were involved in practice teaching.

The remaining six seniors, however, saw considerable action with the Redman juggernaut, and two of them earned All-State Teachers College honors with their outstanding play in an outstanding campaign. Heading the pack of Maroon and Gold gridders who will depart from the "Friendly College on the Hill" is Tommy Donan, the greatest tackle ever to wear the Maroon and Gold. An All-Pennsylvania selection and a Little All-American, Donan has already signed a contract to perform for the Pittsburgh Steelers in the National Professional League. In addition, he expects to do graduate work at the University of Pittsburgh.

Another potential Steeler star is big Frank Luchnick, the Mt. Carmel strongboy, who was an All-State Teachers nominee and All-State honorable mention. Luchnick also hopes to do graduate work before entering the public teaching ranks. He was awarded a College service key at the senior assembly recently. He has been very active in the affairs of the Community Government Association.

Other graduating regulars are Georgie Paternoster, the flashy pass receiver from Hazleton; Larry Mussoline, the clever little guard from Hazleton; Charley Kazmerovicz, burly blocking back from Plains who was handicapped during the greater part of the 1948 season because of a shoulder separation, and Angelo Albano, powerful quarterback from McAdoo.

These four gridders won varsity posts in 1946 when the late "Lefty" Danks laid the foundations for the rebuilding of Husky grid fortunes, and they all played leading roles in the resurgence of the Husky grid machine in 1947 and 1948. Their places will be tough to fill. All are considering teaching positions in area high schools.

If football suffered the most from graduation losses, basketball was the least hard hit. Only sharpshooting Charley Boyer, the Pottsville ace, departs with the class of 1949. The popular curly-haired southpaw has led the Husky scoring machine during the past three years, and his departure creates a problem for the Huskies next season. However, a host of returning veterans will make the task a lot easier than Coach Redman faces in rebuilding the Husky football eleven. Nick Panzetta, senior cage manager from Hazleton, will also receive his degree when the diplomas are handed out.

Coach Bob Redman's undefeated baseball team, the first perfect-record team in the diamond sport since 1935, loses only one man by graduation. Bob Thomas, a veteran of three straight seasons, will not be present next March when the personable Husky mentor issues his call for baseball candidates. Thomas had sparkled at shortstop for Husky nines in 1947 and 1948 and this season he enjoyed his best year since winning a varsity position. Thomas, like the other graduating seniors, expects to teach next September.

Two trackmen will receive their degrees with this year's graduating class—Charles Schiefer, a hurdler from Steelton, and Tommy Smigel, two-miler from Courtdale. Neither ran this season for Coach Pete Wisher's thinclads, but both won varsity letters for service during the 1948 campaign. Smigel, a pint-sized distance runner, surprised Husky fans with his performance in the two-mile event, while Schiefer was a consistent performer in the high hurdles.

Soccer also loses two standout competitors by graduation. Buddy Hartman, the stocky Benton veteran, and his fellow townsman, Royal Conrad, will not be available when the Husky booters report in September. Hartman lost a season of eligibility when he transferred here from Penn State, but Conrad was a three-year veteran who never failed to turn in a creditable performance. Both will be sorely missed when the 1949 season gets under way.

Although the College does not have a boxing team, it does have two graduating seniors who can throw the leather with the best of them. Harry Bertsch, a Pottsville slugger, and Frank Radice, of Wilkes-Barre, are amateur leather pushers who could have represented the Huskies in the squared ring. Both kept in good shape during their college days, and Bertsch helped the Pottsville Y.M.C.A. ringmen in regular season bouts.

Because of the fact that school boards do not ordinarily name their new teachers until later in the summer, few of the graduating athletes have secured definite teaching positions. However, Jimmy Cain, the Kingston halfback, is reported to have landed a high school coaching job at Marietta. Other Husky letter winners can be expected to be found in strategic positions throughout the state when the school bells ring next fall.

Sixth in State Teachers College Meet at Shippensburg, May 7.

Temple University is on both the basketball and baseball schedules of the Bloomsburg State Teachers College Huskies next year. The Owl quintet, which opened athletic relations with the Huskies during the 1947-48 baseball season with a game here, will play in Bloomsburg next winter. The nine will play in Philadelphia and hopes to add another Philadelphia school to the list for a two-day trip into the Quaker City area.

University of Scranton is also expected to be on the baseball schedule next spring. The contract with Susquehanna continues in baseball as the Huskies add more opponents from liberal arts schools.

Football drills for the Bloomsburg State Teachers College Huskies will get underway Wednesday, August 31, Coach Robert B. Redman announced. The Huskies, the only unbeaten and untied college football team in Pennsylvania last season, will launch their preparations on the campus with two-a-day drills until the opening of school September 12.

Missing from the powerful Maroon and Gold club that rocked and socked nine intercollegiate rivals to pile up nine straight verdicts during the 1948 campaign will be no fewer than six veteran performers. Toughest assignment faced by Coach Redman and his staff of assistants will be to fill the shoes of Tommy Donan, All-State tackle from Columbia, and Frank Luchnick, Mt. Carmel, who won a guard spot on the 1948 All-Teachers eleven. Both Huskies will be playing for pay this fall with the Pittsburgh Steelers.

Other varsity line vacancies were created when George Paternoster, the agile Hazleton end, and Larry Mussoline, another former Hazleton schoolby star, departed from the scene via the diploma route. Major backfield losses included Angelo Albano, McAdoo veteran, and Charley Kazmerovicz, burly Plains senior. Both received their sheepskins with this year's graduating class.

The Huskies open their 1949 season at Wilkes-Barre Saturday night, September 17, against the powerful Wilkes College Colonels, while home fans will get their chance to see the Redman crew in action closer to home Saturday night, September 24, when the Berwick Lions Club will present its annual Sight Conservation Fund tilt at Crispin Field. Berwick Mansfield Teachers and the Huskies will tangle that night in a game that should go far in determining the Huskies' chances to repeat as Teachers College champs.

Sixteen members of the Bloomsburg State Teachers College's undefeated baseball team have been awarded varsity letters.

The unbeaten Huskies, who were coached by Robert B. Redman, matched the record of the Husky football team that compiled the only perfect record in Pennsylvania football last season. Included among the ten victims of the power-laden Husky diamond crew were the mighty Second Army nine from Fort George Meade, Susquehanna University, Wilkes College, King's College and several State Teachers College rivals.

Those men who received the varsity monogram for their record-smashing performance were: Robert Mowry, George Lambrinos, Robert Thomas, Edward Piestrak, Paul Slobozien, Owen Diehle, Clair Mensinger, William Byham, Richard Hummel, Stanley LeVan, Henry Marek, Michael Evans, Donald Butler, Henry Brunn, John Czerntakowski and John Buynak.

DR. NORTH NAMED COUNSELOR

Dr. Thomas P. North, dean of instruction, Teachers College, was named counselor for the White Mountain Conference of the National Education Association held at Durham, New Hampshire, from June 28 to July 2. This year's meeting was based on the theme, "Dynamics of Professional Growth," and dealt largely with problems of educating in-service teachers.

Dr. North, who served as counselor for the 1948 conference held at Bowling Green, Ohio, and the 1947 sessions at Oxford, Ohio, advised and consulted with a group which will deal with the use of resources of institutions of higher learning for teachers-in-service. As a result of last year's conference at Bowling Green, the Bloomsburg Dean wrote a chapter in the newly-published NEA handbook, "The Education of Teachers."

Announcement of Dr. North's appointment is an honor for the local College and has also brought it favorable nationwide publicity. Attendance at the 1949 conference is limited to 400 selected educators and representatives of ranking, national professional organizations and 25 national lay organizations, including the National Congress of Parents and Teachers and the Associated Women's Clubs.

At the present time, Dr. North is chairman of the Pennsylvania Commission of Teachers Educational and Professional Standards.

The Bloomsburg State Teachers College will not be able to accommodate students assigned for the freshman year of the Liberal Arts curriculum by the Pennsylvania State College.

During the past three years, two sections of seventy-five students, who have matriculated at Pennsylvania State College in the field of Liberal Arts, have attended the Bloomsburg State Teachers College for the first year of instruction. It was evident by the middle of July that the Pennsylvania State College would meet its quota of students for the local Teachers College. Because of this fact, and in view of the increasing number of prospective teacher-education candidates for admission, the Teachers College officials have canceled their existing arrangements with the Pennsylvania State College. In place of the liberal arts students, the Teachers College will accept an additional section of approximately forty students for preparation for teaching in the high schools.

Jean Barr (Mrs. Daniel Newhart) is now living at 323 S. White Oak Street, Kutztown, Pa. Her husband, the Rev. D. F. Newhart, recently resigned the pastorate of Christ Lutheran Church, Conyngham, Pa., and is now pastor of the Maxatawny Lutheran Parish.

Dauphin-Cumberland Branch

On Tuesday evening, May 10, the Dauphin-Cumberland County Alumni held a dinner meeting in Harrisburg. Miss Mae Berger, president, of the organization, presided at the much-enjoyed affair.

The speakers were Dr. Francis B. Haas, State Superintendent of Public Instruction; Dr. Harvey A. Andruss, President of the Bloomsburg State Teachers College, and Dr. E. H. Nelson, President of the Alumni Association. Mrs. Haas, Mrs. Andruss and Mrs. Edgar A. Shelly, of Washington, D. C., were guests at the dinner.

MONTOUR COUNTY ALUMNI

The annual banquet of the Montour County Alumni of the Bloomsburg State Teachers College was held May 16 in St. Peter's Methodist Church, Riverside. Addresses were given by Dr. E. H. Nelson, president of the College Alumni Association, and Dr. Harvey A. Andruss, president of the college.

Miss Harriet Moore led in group singing with Howard Fenstermaker as pianist. Ralph McCracken, president of the Montour County Group, was in charge of the program.

Brief memorial services were held honoring three of the group who died during the past year. They were Honora Dennen Barr, Isobel Everhart Kirkner and A. Cameron Bobb.

The group presented a check for $50 to Dr. Nelson to be used as a memorial scholarship in honor of Allen McCracken, member of the group, who lost his life in World War II.

Faculty members presented were H. F. Fenstermaker, Miss Harriet Moore, Earl Gehrig, Miss Edna Hazen, Thomas P. North, Harry Gasser and Mrs. Lucille Baker.

Attending were Mr. and Mrs. Jack Eble, Jr., Mr. and Mrs. Thomas H. Beagle, Stuart L. Hartman, Rebecca Appleman, Sara Pritchard, Alice Guest, Harriet Fry, Julia M. Warner, Winifred McVey, Alice W. 1882

The body of Miss Winifred Evans, eighty-one, retired Danville School teacher, was found in the cellar of her home on Thursday, June 16.

C. D. Jenkins, supervising principal of the borough schools, who is a relative of Miss Evans, happened by her home and noticed the papers were still on the porch.

He went to the rear of the house and found the door unlocked. He entered to inquire about her and discovered her body near the furnace, with indications that death had occurred some time before.

It seemed probable that she had been placing food for her cat when she was stricken. Dr. B. Schneider was called and stated that death had occurred probably from a heart attack.

She was born in Danville, the daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Thomas A. Evans. She was graduated from the Bloomsburg Normal School in 1882 and taught for almost half a century.

Since the death of her sister, about five years ago, she had resided alone in the family homestead and was the last of her immediate family.

Miss Evans was a member of St. Paul's Methodist Church, Danville Chapter No. 182, Order Eastern Star and the White Shrine.

1885

W. S. Conner lives at 120 Cypress, Madera, California. He states that he is still doing some public service as treasurer of the Community Chest.

1886

Norman G. Cool has recently been very ill in the hospital in Culver City, California. Mr. and Mrs. Cool have been in California for some time. Their address is P. O. Box 225, Culver City.

Miss Grace Leacock died last April at the home of her sister, Mrs. Edgar Mininger, in Roanoke, Virginia. Miss Leacock had spent most of her life in the Wyoming Valley. She taught for several years, and always retained her interest in Bloomsburg, and was always present at her class reunions.

J. O. Felker lives at 112 East Market Street, Lewistown, Pennsylvania. In a recent letter, he says that he is in good health, and send his best wishes to his classmates and former friends at Bloomsburg.

Emma J. Witmer (Mrs. H. B. Felty), of Abilene, Kansas, passed away October 25, 1948.

1894

The following was received from Bridgett Quinn Keough, who lives at St. Xavier, Montana:

Dear Classmates of '94:

Deeply regret being unable to meet with you for our 55th reunion. God willing, we shall all meet for our 60th. To paraphrase my class poem:

"There's something in this greeting hour
That thrills an aging heart,
When classmates, teachers, friends of yore
Are fated now to meet once more.

"Yet this we know, old Father Time
Has prest it on the mind,
The palm has not by us been gained
Without the dust of labor's grind."

1892

The Quarterly has been informed of the deaths of Mary E. Booth (Mrs. B. F. Wragg) and Miss Nellie O'Hara.

1893

Mr. and Mrs. John C. Hart, of 538 Carey Avenue, Wilkes-Barre, observed their golden wedding anniversary on April 27. They have lived in Wilkes-Barre most of their married lives and are charter members of Firwood Methodist Church. The couple was married in Wapwallopen by the late Rev. Mr. Jarrett. Mrs. Hart is the former Loveda Craver. Mr. Hart is a retired educator, starting his teaching career in Hollenback Township in 1893. At the time of his retirement in 1940 he was an instructor at Meyers High School. They have four daughters and two sons: Mrs. Carl N. Brown, Kingston; Mrs. Henry Mingo, Monroeton; Mrs. Leonore Beers, Wilkes-Barre; Mrs. Wilson Maury, Kunkle; Paul K., Philadelphia, and Jay C. York. There also are seven grandchildren, Paul Beers, Philadelphia; John Mingo, Monroeton; Suzanne and Robert Hart, Philadelphia; Linda and Richard Hart, York; Kathie Maury, Kunkle.

Both Mr. and Mrs. Hart are enjoying good health and on Saturday, April 30, at 3:00 P. M. renewed their vows in Firwood Methodist Church with Rev. George Savige officiating. Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Hart, of Berwick, the maid of honor and best man at the wedding 50 years ago, attended them. A reception for relatives and friends followed in the church parlors.

The class of 1894 in fifty-fifth year reunion had a remarkable attendance for a delightful weekend. Present: Mrs. Oscar C. Kunze, Newark, N. J.; W. K. Beagle, Williamsport; Mrs. Mary Frymire Keils, Watsontown; Bertha B. Espy, Towanda; Mrs. Minnie G. Hehl Buck, Bloomsburg; Mrs. B. F. Biale, Duncannon; Dr. George E. Pfahler, Mrs. Hannah Dalton, Margaret W. Palmer, Mary Espy Stehle, Blanche Davenport, Lulu Appleman Brunstetter, Anna Sraw Smith, Florence Warren Daniels, J. Curtis Yocum, Minnie L. Gernon, John P. Dieffenderfer.

1896

The Rev. Dr. J. F. Knittle, seventy-one, Catawissa native who focused national attention on a Manheim church's rent of "one red rose" a year, died in the town of his birth Monday, May 30.

Death followed a stroke about midnight while he and his wife were visiting at the home of his sisters, the Misses Ella and Clara Knittle.

Pastor emeritus of the Zion Lutheran Church of Manheim, he had retired from the active pastorate of that church last July 1. He remained pastor of the Salem Lutheran Church, Kissel, Pa., and had often occupied the Catawissa pulpit since the removal of the former pastor, the Rev. Grant Harvey, to a pastorate in Nevada.

Death ended a ministerial span of forty-five years. The Manheim Church which he served since 1911, was his second charge. He had previously served the Church of the Redeemer in Williamsport. He was chaplain in the Senate chamber during the past session of the state legislature.

During his latter pastorate he became an authority on Baron Henry William Stiegel, eighteenth century glass maker and iron master whose works are regarded without peer. It was Stiegel, founder and benefactor of the 189-year-old church, who exacted in provisions of his will that his heirs receive a rental fee of "one red rose" in return for a land grant.

The minister was prominently featured when he took exception to the character portrayal of Stiegel in the best seller, "One Red Rose Forever," by Mildred Jordan. He challenged Miss Jordan to prove that Stiegel was an immoral man.

During his pastorate he preached nearly 5,000 sermons, married about 250 couples, welcomed some 850 persons into church fellowship, and paid about 14,000 pastoral calls.

The son of the late Joseph and Rebecca Berninger Knittle, he was graduated from the Catawissa High School in 1895. The following year he was graduated from the Bloomsburg State Normal School. In 1900 he was graduated from Gettysburg College and in 1903, the Gettysburg Theological Seminary.

At the University of Indiana in 1929, he received his Ph.D. degree. Subject material for his thesis on archeology was derived from a trip through Egypt and the Holy Land. In 1943, Gettysburg College conferred the degree of Doctor of Divinity on Dr. Knittle.

Amy B. Thomas lives at 820 N. New St., Bethlehem, Pa.

Daniel John Snyder, seventy-four, died Friday, June 3, at seven o'clock at his Bradford, Pa., home. Born in Hickory Corners, he was the son of the late Henry M. and Heddy Zartman. He was the brother of the late Harlan R. Snyder, of Catawissa.

He was graduated by the State Normal School in Bloomsburg in 1897, and taught school in Hickory Corners, Mifflinville, Orangeville, the Benton Summer School in 1906-07, the Kinzwa schools and last the Bradford High School where he taught for thirty-one years.

Mrs. Dora Huber Ely, retired Hazleton school teacher, died at her home, 588 North Vine Street, Hazleton, at 5:30 o'clock Sunday morning, May 1.

Mrs. Ely, a member of one of Hazleton's pioneer families, was one of the best known and most active teachers in the local system for 30 years. After several years in the elementary school and in Green Street Junior High School, she organized and taught the first Opportunity School in the Walnut street school building. She continued as the teacher when the group was transferred to the Arthur street school where it operates today.

Her wholesome influence on the pupils she taught continued after they left school and until her death, through a voluminous correspondence with them and through their visits to her home to seek advice.

Other school systems contemplating similar classes benefited from her experience by sending teachers to observe the work in operation in Mrs. Ely's classes. She spoke frequently to teacher groups in other cities.

Although she retired in May, 1944, Mrs. Ely's interest in children continued at the Trinity Lutheran Church of which she was a member. In addition to teaching a Sunday School class, she had charge of the "Children of the Church" Saturday morning classes, and organized the Daily Vacation Bible School two years ago and served as its superintendent. Her plans for the coming summer's Bible School were already under way. She was also a member of Ladies' Aid Society of the church.

Miss Elizabeth Foresman died suddenly October 9, 1948, at her home in Montgomery, Pennsylvania. Miss Foresman had a continuous record of service as a teacher from the time of her graduation until she retired in 1937. From 1920 to 1937 she taught in the upper primary grades in Lewisburg.

Miss Foresman had a fine professional sense, and was greatly loved by her associates. She was present at the fifty-year reunion of her class in Bloomsburg in 1948. She is survived by two sisters and a brother.

Sarah H. Russell lives at 16 East Third Street, Watsontown, Pa.

CLASS OF 1899

The "Old Normal" class of 1899 returned to College Hill after fifteen years to lead three other alumni groups, classes of 1909, 1919 and 1924 in pre-Alumni Day dinner parties.

Members of the oldest returning class were guests of the college at a luncheon in the college dining hall. Thirty-six attended the luncheon and a meeting in the college social rooms which followed. Among those present were Lindley Dennis, executive secretary of the National Vocational Society, Washington, D. C.; Dr. G. H. Hemingway, of Daytona Beach, Fla., who addressed the class at baccalaureate services 50 years ago, and Mr. and Mrs. B. C. Severance, who journeyed here from Los Angeles, California.

Attending were Gertrude E. Morris, New York City; Mae H. Brandon West Pittston; Elizabeth H. O'Brien, New Haven, Conn.; Elizabeth P. Gregory, West Pittston; B. F. Burns, Northumberland; Mr. and Mrs. L. H. Dennis, Washington, D. C.; Eugene K. Richard, Cora J. Richard, Elysburg; Mr. and Mrs. Emory I. Bowman, Washington, D. C.

Mrs. Jennie Smith Guillot, Bushskill; Harry O. Hine, Washington, D. C.; Mrs. Jane Guillot Notz, Lake Mohawk, N. J.; Dr. and Mrs. Elna H. Nelson, Mr. and Mrs. John C. Redline, L. W. Hart, Rush Shaffer, Lulu Miller Hower, Burton Fortner, Edna Welliver Fortner, Elsie Hicks, Lillian Hidlay Scott, Charles W. Creasy.

Mrs. Charles W. Creasy, John Shuman Hower, G. H. Hemingway, Daytona Beach, Fla.; Mrs. C. C. Housenick, Bloomsburg; Gertrude Rinker, Prospect Park; Mabel Moyer, Bessie Creveling, Bloomsburg; Mrs. Burton Severance, B. C. Severance, Los Angeles Calif.

Diplomas that were copies of those awarded upon graduation a half century earlier were presented to members of the class of 1899 during the general alumni session when the fifty-year class enjoyed places of honor on the platform in Carver Hall. E. F. Gager, Allendale, N. J., R. D. 1, made the response for the class which had opened its reunion with a dinner at the College on Friday evening as guests of the Alumni Association.

Class members who continued reunion festivities on the campus were Mrs. Clinton W. Guillot, Bushkill; Mr. and Mrs. John C. Redline, Bloomsburg, R. D.; Eugene K. Richard, Elysburg; E. P. Gager, Minnie Harrison Gager, Allendale, N. J.; Gertrude E. Morris; Elizabeth H. O'Brien, New Haven, Conn.; B. F. Burns, Northumberland; Laura Hughes Lewis, Scranton; Mary E. Smith Slusser, Nescopeck, R. D. 1; L. W. Hart, Berwick; Emma Robert Sebanco, Los Angeles, Calif.; Edward Bowman, Washington, D. C.; James A. Dyke, Bloomsburg; Russh Shaffer, Danville; Edna Welliver Fortner, town; Elsie Hicks, Espy; Mr. and Mrs. L. H. Dennis, Washington, D. C.; Bess Creveling, town; Mae Hankae Brandon, West Pittston.

CLASS OF 1904

The class of 1904 at its forty-fifth reunion had the largest and most enjoyable reunion of its existence. The credit for this is due Ann Challis Thompson, who spent much time and labor on the preparations. She was assisted by our president, Aaron Kilmer, and Dr. Nelson.

After the usual get together in the auditorium and luncheon in the college dining room, the class met in room K for an afternoon of reminiscing. Many pictures of forty-five years ago were shown and enjoyed.

Our president, Aaron Kilmer, called the roll from a class day program. Emma Berry Matter acted as secretary. Members responded, giving the highlights of their own forty-five years, and gave information of absent ones.

Those reported deceased since the 40th reunion were Dr. G. L. Howell, John Boyer and Maud Davies Pentecost. Dr. Howell being treasurer, and Maud Pentecost secretary, the president appointed Leona Kester Lawton as secretary-treasurer.

Dr. Harold Cryder and Thomas Carl spoke fittingly of the useful life and work of Dr. Howell. Dr. and Mrs. Howell and John Boyer attended all reunions and were greatly missed this year. Ann Challis Thompson read greetings from Ruth Turner

Martin, June White Dreibelbis, Jesse Boyer Howell, Daisy Andres MacBean, Kinker Knorr, Anna Goyituey Canfield, Guy Rentschler, Pearl Brandon, Besse Goodale Thielman, Tilly Riley Tigue.

It is the aim of the class to keep a complete mailing list, so please send changes of address and news items to the secretary. Most of the class motored to the Char-Mund for a banquet. We had a grand time.

Present at one or both events were:

Lucy Baldy Rody, Catawissa. widow, teaching.

Emma Berry Matter flew east from Seattle, Wash., widow, mother of fine family.

Matilda Black, teacher in Williamsport, Pa.

Lillian Buckalew, teaching in Ardmore, Pa.

CLASS OF 1924

One hundred seventeen members of the class of 1924, coming from four states and the District of Columbia, attended the twenty-fifth year class luncheon at the Elks on Saturday afternoon as one of the many features of the weekend.

The attendance was the largest of any class in reunion and festivities opened Friday evening when around sixty members and guests were delightfully entertained by Mr. and Mrs. Harold P. Dillon, Light Street Road.

The class, headed by a band of high school boys, paraded in the auditorium during the general alumni meeting. Carl D. Blose, Bethlehem, was the marshal and carried a banner proclaiming "The achievement supreme for ever more, the glorious class of '24." Louis Lerda, of Cranford, N. J., made the class response.

At the luncheon, at which Francis H. Shaughnessy, Tunkhannock, presided, the class gave fifty dollars to the Husky Club, the first class to place its numerals on the roll. In recognition of his work in arranging the weekend event, Harold P. Dillon, Jr., was elected an honorary member of the class.

Guests at the luncheon were Miss Harriet M. Moore, Mr. and Mrs. S. L. Wilson, Mr. and Mrs. S. I. Shortess, Miss Matilda Muyskens, R S. Herre, of the College, and Miss Jessie Patterson, now of the University of Virginia and a former member of the faculty. Tribute was paid to the memory of twenty-seven who have passed away. Members reported for themselves or classmates as the roll was called during a program that held interest despite the fact that it was four hours in duration. Carnations favors at the luncheon were the gift of Mr. and Mrs. Dillon.

Campus Gossip

ELEMENTARY CONFERENCE

The largest group of area educators ever to assemble on the Bloomsburg State Teachers College campus for a conference on elementary education met May 4 in morning and afternoon sessions to distribute, review and discuss the new elementary course of study. Dr. Harvey A. Andruss extended greetings from the college.

Miss Edna J. Hazen, of the college faculty, the local chairman in charge, said that by unofficial estimate there were over three hundred in attendance.

The meeting was under the direction of Dr. Laversia L. Powers, chief, elementary education, Department of Public Instruction, Harrisburg. The session was one of sixteen similar area meetings being held throughout the Commonwealth. Dr. Powers launched this project in 1946 and has steered it to its successful completion this year.

The building of the course of study was a cooperative effort and the plan will be continued through a five-year period devoted to a further development of the program.

Assisting Dr. Powers in the morning sessions were six experts from the Department of Public Instruction, Orren Wagner, advisor, elementary education; Lester N. Myers, chief, special education; Mis Gladys Fish, advisor, special education; and George T. Miller, chief, art education; Claude Rosenbery, chief, music education and Dr. Frederick L. Pond, advisor, secondary curriculum.

Luncheon was served in the College dining hall. Nearly 200 were in attendance. The afternoon meeting was given over to group conferences in each of the elementary subject fields.

SUMMER SESSION

With an enrollment of 560, the 1949 summer session almost equalled the high enrollment of the 1948 session.

This is considered excellent in view that most colleges are reporting enrollment decreases of from ten to fifteen per cent.

Classes of the Summer session convened Tuesday, June 28. Of the total, 248 were veterans while 299 were non-veterans. Quartered in the college dormitories were 108 men and ninety-four women.

Many in-service teachers were among those enrolled in the large elementary workshop class. That course was based on the new Pennsylvania elementary school curriculum recently released by the department of public instruction.

Also on the campus was the driver-training school of the Atlantic Refining Company. Several dual control cars and in-interesting test equipment were used.

The summer session concluded on August 5.

A brilliant concert by two of America's youngest soloists, Jacqueline Bazinet and Edgar Viens, featured the regular weekly assembly of the Bloomsburg State Teachers College held July 28 in the Carver Auditorium. The young artists, whose recent concerts in Boston and New York have been hailed by music lovers, displayed all the artistry and musicianship that have won for them the unanimous acclaim of metropolitan music critics.

As a part of their program, the two young singers presented "The Telephone" by Menotti, a short opera written especially for television and radio. Both Miss Bazinet and Mr. Viens displayed rare talent for comedy drama in the sketch which told the story of how bothersome and helpful a telephone can be in the serious matter of making love. Accompanying the two artists at the piano was Mrs. Anna G. Fiore.

The marriage of Mrs. Maudemae Edwards Danks, widow of Alden J. Danks, and daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank P. Edwards, of Bloomsburg, to Howard Franklin Eldridge, son of Mr. and Mrs. G. Franklin Eldridge, of South Main Street, Highstown, N. J., took place Friday, June 17, in the First Presbyterian Church at Princeton, N. J.

The ceremony was performed by Dr. Frank S. Niles. A reception was given at the Nassau Tavern.

The bride was graduated from State Teachers College, Bloomsburg, and attended the University of Colorado. She was a member of the faculty at Princeton High School.

Mr. Eldridge is a graduate of The Peddie School and Princeton University. He is a member of Dial Lodge and Sigma XI, honorary scientific society. He is a veteran of World War II having served in the Army Air Corps as a pilot attached to the First Air Command Group in the China, Burma, India theatre.

Dr. Harvey A. Andruss, president of the Bloomsburg State Teachers College, has returned to Bloomsburg after an extended tour of the West. Dr. Andruss delivered a series of six lectures in the Graduate School of Oklahoma A. and M. College, Stillwater, Oklahoma, where he had previously lectured on two previous occasions.

While in Oklahoma, President Andruss represented the Twenty-five Year Class at the Fiftieth Anniversary of the Alumni Association of the University of Oklahoma at Norman, Oklahoma. During his stay there, he broadcast for the Class of 1924 over Station WNAD, University of Oklahoma.

Dr. Andruss also interviewed prospective candidates for teaching positions in St. Louis, Indianapolis and Oklahoma City.

He was accompanied on the trip by his son, Harvey A. Andruss, Jr.

A PRELIMINARY STATEMENT OF POLICY GOVERNING GUIDANCE AND COUNSELING ACTIVITIES (1949-1950)

Coordinator of Guidance and Counseling Activities

The coordination of the guidance and counseling activities in a Teachers College is of such character that the responsibility should be delegated to one person. The purpose of such an arrangement is not necessarily to develop new activities, but to relate existing activities so as to make everyone in the college community aware of what is being done so that living and learning at Bloomsburg will consist of meaningful and developmental opportunities for growth.

These experiences may be divided, for descriptive purposes, into three groups, as follows:

1. Admission experiences.
2. Progress experiences.
3. Graduate, Placement, and Alumni experiences.

All of these are part of a public relations program wherein we define good public relations as good private relations publicly understood and acknowledged.

The responsibility for the coordination of the guidance and counseling program in the college is the part-time responsibility of the Assistant Dean of Dormitory Women.

Administrative Council

In order that the administrative relationships may be reviewed from time to time, an administrative council, composed of the Dean of Instruction, the Dean of Women, the Dean of Men, Coordinator of Guidance and Counseling, and the Directors of Business, Elementary, and Secondary Education, will meet monthly to:

- a—Outline the areas to be studied and coordinated.
- b—Review the study of these areas as it progresses.
- c—Evaluate the progress made from time to time.
- d—Study cases of students on strict probation.

During the year 1949-1950 the Administrative Council will be charged with the responsibility for developing general policies leading to a visit from the Evaluating Committee of the

E. H. NELSON, '11 BUSINESS MANAGER

Middle States Association of Colleges and Secondary Schools. The relationship of the Guidance Coordinator to the Administrative Council is provided through the membership of the Assistant Dean of Dormitory Women.

Admission Policy

From our admission experiences, we shall continue the off-campus recruitment program, under the direction of the Director of Public Relations, while the on-campus interviews and relations contacts will be the responsibility of the Guidance Coordinator, with interviewing of prospective athletes handled by the Coach of the respective sport and those men on the campus interested in intercollegiate athletics.

Progress Policy

Progress experiences are those which usually occur during the four years of a student's contact with the college. During the first semester it is hoped that the Guidance Director can interview each new student in the light of the material collected in the personnel blanks in the office of the Dean of Instruction. This cannot proceed until the placement results are made available by the Chairman of the Testing Committee. The Guidance Director will consider the information on the entrance blanks, and any other data which may have been accumulated. This probably means that new students will be interviewed only where difficulty arises during the first nine weeks. At the end of the first reporting period new students' grades should be carefully studied, and those in difficulty interviewed, after which routine interviews for each new student may proceed.

If additional information seems to be necessary for guidance purposes, the coordinator may develop a form for faculty members to report briefly about the strong and weak points of all new students. This may cover such points as reading ability, spelling, use of English, penmanship, posture in walking, voice and laugh, dress and grooming, manners, sportsmanship, attitude toward study, cultural interest, character traits, emotional difficulties, etc.

During the second semester, attention should be centered upon students who need further interviewing and follow-up so that at the end of the year recommendations may be made to the administration for a change of course, probationary status, or dropping from college, on the basis of both personal and classroom abilities.

Graduation, Placement, and Alumni Policy

The meeting of the graduation requirements is a responsibility of the Dean of Instruction. The Guidance Coordinator will act in an advisory capacity. The responsibility for placement is in the hands of the Director of Secondary Education who will, with the aid of the Guidance Coordinator, make such studies from time to time as will be helpful in planning future changes and developments in the relations of graduates with their Alma Mater.

Due to the unusual opportunity which the Guidance Coordinator has to know students as individuals from time to time it will be the responsibility of the Coordinator to address certain Alumni Groups as part of our public relations program.

Social Guidance—Project for 1949-1950

Certain general problems of social guidance are to be given specific attention by everyone in the college on the assumption that living is as important as learning in a college community. This means that table service, leading to a knowledge of proper etiquette; dress on the campus, in the dormitory, in the dining room; thoughtfulness; general politeness and demeanor; are to receive an increasing amount of attention. It shall be the responsibility of the Guidance Coordinator and the Deans of Men and Dean of Women to select the points of attack, and then we shall enlist the aid of all college classroom instructors and employees to the end that social adaptability as an important facet of personality can be encouraged to a degree never heretofore attained at our college.

Recognition should be given to all present efforts being successfully used to develop poise and social graces, such as the training of models for the Annual Fashion Show, and dramatic productions which serve to develop social graces and self-confidence.

We shall attempt to build upon what we have so that by amplifying and supplementing our present efforts we may improve our ability to live together. Inauguration of table service on a limited basis has progressed to an extent that we can say that some progress has been made while this statement was in the process of being prepared and reviewed by various administrative officers.

As a result of an ever-increasing effort to widen the scope of its services to in-service teachers, the Bloomsburg State Teachers College is now offering an extensive program of Saturday morning classes on the campus.

At the present time the College is offering Saturday morning classes to teacher-in-service in the following courses: Ethics, Evolution of the American Public School, Visual Education, Educational Measurements, American Government, and School Law. The classes are being taught by regular members of the College faculty, including Ted J. Satterfield, Miss Harriet M. Moore, Dr. H. Harrison Russell, John J. Fisher, Dr. Nell Maupin and William B. Sterling.

THE 1949 FOOTBALL SEASON

(From the Maroon and Gold)

The 1949 Bloomsburg State Teachers College football season, if not the most successful in the school's history, was surely the most colorful and thrilling. Winning eight and losing only one, the opener, the power-laden Huskies combined a newly-established aerial assault with an already institutional ground attack.

The Maroon and Gold had to come from behind in four contests this season, but nevertheless ended the year with a second consecutive claim to the Teachers College crown. The defense, although not as effective as in '48, held opponents to a scant 90 points, while the offense rolled up one of the State's highest totals, 229.

In the season's opener at Plymouth, the Husky forces lost their first football contest since the Shippensburg fray during the 1947 season. The Wilkes gridders, taking advantage of Husky miscues, were outscored in statistics, but triumphed in the scoring column, 20-7. An intercepted pass set up the first Wilkes tally, and another interception was run the distance to put the winners out in front 14-0. Kriss ended a sustained march by reversing for the only Bloomsburg score, and Tavalisky kicked the extra point to make the score stand 14-7. Wilkes clinched the upset by scoring at the end of the contest on a 60 yard pass play.

An aroused and improved Husky machine pushed Mansfield all over Berwick's Crispin Field as the Bloomsburgers hit winning ways once again with a decisive 26-0 win. Reedy sneaked across the line for the initial score, followed by Lichty's plunge for a tally, and Kriss' famed reverse. The last TD was added on a pass between reserves Stefanik and Dietz. Tavalisky converted twice.

Passing for ninety yards with less than two minutes remaining, and with the score standing at 14-13 in favor of Lock Haven, George Lambrinos set up the winning tally and then watched a plunge bring victory to home plate. A 60 yard pass to Kriss was the outstanding play in the desperation drive. Kriss had earlier scored on a 59 yard jaunt to a touchdown. The winning 6-pointer was scored with the clock reading one minute, ten seconds remaining, and the score 20-14. Ten seconds later Lambrinos made the score 26-14 with an intercepted pass resulting in a Husky touchdown.

Doing everything the way it should be done, the Huskies added win number four against a supposedly-strong Millersville cub. The issue was never in doubt as Bob Lang led the Huskies to a 22 first-down splurge and 32-7 decision. Lang galloped 83 yards to paydirt for one tally, and scored a second time on a line plunge. Jake Lichty and Danny Parrell scored on line bucks, while Maturani returned a pass interception for a Bloomsburg 6-counter. The Marauders scored on a series of passes.

A 14-13 victory over the Shippensburg Red Raiders was logged in the Husky record book on Homecoming Day as Ed Taval-sky converted successfully following Jim Reedy's tying quarter-back sneak in the final period. Kriss' pass interception set up the winning tally while the first local touchdown came on a Lambrinos-to-Kriss pass that was good for 27 yards. A 65 yard runback of a Bloomsburg punt gave Shippensburg its first tally Ed Gerlock made it 13-0 with a 2' yard off-tackle scamper in the second period, only to have the Huskies come from behind for their fifth straight win.

Previously undefeated Kutztown was toppled by a determined Bloomsburg football team at the Berks County school to the satisfying tune of 27-14. Rolling up 19 first downs to nine, the Huskies were in command during the entire contest. With Kriss going around end, Parrell through the middle, Bob Lang legging a reverse, and DePaul cashing in on a lateral, the Maroon and Goldsters swept to an easy win. Taval-sky converted three times.

The Huskies, tuning up for the finale against East Stroudsburg, drubbed Lycoming College, at Williamsport, for their seventh straight victory and 48 more points on the record. Lycoming failed to chalk up a tally.

The climax of the season came in the game with East Stroudsburg when, by a score of 28-22, the Huskies won their twentieth victory out of the twenty-one games. For the fourth time this season, B.S.T.C. was forced to come from behind to win. In a game marked by rough, hard play, twelve seniors played their last college game.

The Redman aggregation was effective on the ground, rolling up 264 yards by this method, compared to 66 yards thus gained by East Stroudsburg. East Stroudsburg advanced 183 by air, while the Huskies passed to gain 90 yards. Bloomsburg had nineteen first downs, while East Stroudsburg gained eleven.

The 1949 season thus takes its place with that of 1948, to occupy a permanent place in athletic history at Bloomsburg.

The Bloomsburg State Teachers College presented Litia Namoura, exotic solo dancer, and Alfred Patten, young American pianist, as the featured artists in the first number of the 1949-50 Artists Course series Monday evening, September 19, in the Carver Auditorium. Namoura, in her first Central Pennsylvania appearance, brought an authentic background to the dance creations which are featured on her program.

SQUAD LOSES TWELVE SENIORS

Like the undefeated 1948 Husky football eleven, the 1949 B.S.T.C. football team is now history. Twelve seniors, all of whom have made Bloomsburg football power what it is, played their last game for the Maroon and Gold cause.

The deeds of these Husky gridders are almost legendary. Missing from next year's gridiron warfare will be Steve Kriss, Jim Reedy, Bob Leshinski, Joe Apichella, Paul Slobozien, John Maturani, Berni DePaul, Lou Gabriel, Willis Swales, Dick Wilford, Rodney Morgans and Ed Jones. All told, four backs, three centers, three guards, one tackle and one end have played their last for Bloomsburg.

Steve Kriss, a Berwick product, is one of the finest backs ever to play for the Huskies. A former Marine, Steve performed at wingback, specializing on wide reverses. He took his turn at passing and receiving tosses. Steve played a consistent game every time he took the field, and this year has made his bid for conference honors.

Jim Reedy followed Left Danks from Milton in 1946 and has been a Husky standout ever since. A fullback for his first three years in college ranks, Jim switched to blocking back and signal caller this year when Coach Redman was short on quarterbackbacks. The Husky offense really rolled when Jim called signals.

Apichella, a tailback from Hazleton, was hampered this season with a pair of sore legs, but saw limited action as safety man on the defense. His worth was shown in his brilliant performances last year as a scatback and passer.

Leshinski transferred from Mansfield State where he performed for Ted Casey. Leshinski was the regular safety man in Coach Redman's defense. His punt returns have aided the Husky cause all season. Bob was injured in the final game with Stroudsburg and had been hampered by leg injuries all season. He is a Plains product.

Paul Slobozien is one of the finest all-around athletes ever to attend Bloomsburg. Also a basketball and baseball stalwart, Paul played center, backing up the line on the defense. The four-year man is from Johnstown.

John Maturani was the second half of the Bloomsburg pivot punch. John shared offense duties with Slobozien and DePaul, and was one of the most terrific line backers ever to play football for B.S.T.C. John also came from Milton in 1946.

Bernie DePaul rounded out the center staff for the past four years. Despite his small size, Bernie has played outstanding football, particularly on the offense, as was evidenced by the first touchdown of his college career at Kutztown during the past season. A Berwick product, Bernie was the lightest Husky lineman in 1949.

Lou Gabriel, Hazleton guard, came into his own as an ofensive guard this year when he played a vital role in Coach Redman's forward wall. Lou weighed in at a hefty 235 pounds and rolled over all opposition.

Gone also will be Willis Swales, South Williamsport guard, who made up for lack of weight in good Husky fight and spirit. One of the fastest guards on the squad, "Bill" started many a game for the Maroon and Gold, and this year was used extensively in the "kicking off" platoon because of his speed.

Dick Wolford, another slight but rugged guard, played his last game against Stroudsburg. The Milton stalwart is also one of Lefty Danks' boys. Dick shared the kicking-off duties during the past season.

Rod Morgans has been rated as one of the smartest defensive tackles in S.T.C. football. It is almost impossible to take him completely out of a play. A big, rugged ball player, Rod hails from South Williamsport. Rod weighs 213 and has been a starter for the past three campaigns.

Ed Jones, another Milton boy, has performed for the Huskies for four years also, coming with the other Danks' players. The towering terminal saw only limited action in 1949 because of an ankle injury but has won his share of varsity letters. Ed is also a basketball performer.

Three additional Huskies, not yet seniors have played their last game for Bloomsburg. Because of eligibility reasons, Elmer Kreiser, Henry Marek and Dick Jarman will be missed when the 1950 grid season rolls around.

Kreiser, tall Columbia end, has been a standout performer for the past three years, earning All-Conference honors in 1948.

He has played a vital role as reserve end for the past three seasons. He is from Dupont. Jarman played at B.S.T.C. for two seasons, gaining a starting role during the past season. A transfer student, the Plymouth footballer had played at Dickinson College.

Charles H. Henrie, retail selling instructor at Bloomsburg State Teachers College, is the author of an article entitled, "Some Techniques for Staging the Retail Fashion Show" in the October, 1949, issue of the "Business Education World."

Mr. Henrie annually presents a fashion show each Spring at the College in connection with the Business Education Contest and with the cooperation of the local merchants. Mr. Henrie has also staged fashion shows in Lancaster and York. The article presents the technique of staging the show in the school and includes instructions for stage settings, merchandise protection, selecting and training the models, and show production.

By E. H. NELSON, '11

It is a real pleasure to write this column today. First of all, our active membership list is 300 above that of last year. Thank you all. Then again our football team was tops. Did you see the boys in action this season? What a squad and how proud we are of the whole group, from coaching staff to water boy! The record is published elsewhere in this issue.

It has been some years now since we have had a real live mascot on the campus. Eddie Schuyler, '24, and one or two others say something will be done about it, so our next Alumni Day you will have the opportunity to become acquainted with a beautiful Husky Dog, wearing the colors of the grand old school.

About 6 or 8 more names are being added to the Husky Plaque. What could be finer than to walk in the old gymnasium some day and see your name in bronze along with other loyal supporters of their Alma Mater? One graduate told me he was as proud to see his name there as he was to receive his diploma. Come to think of it, what have we really done in a material way to say "thank you" for what that diploma has meant to us through the years? That diploma may be in a trunk, it may be in a frame in the attic, it may be rolled up in a cupboard, but its worth is evidenced by the position we occupy today. Let's do something more than say "it's a grand old school." Sentiment never aids progress when used in pure form. Its chief value is that of a catalyst, with a "river winding" in the background.

Glad to note that Florence Hess Price, '18, has been elected to the Presidency of the New Jersey Education Association for a term of two years.

Congratulations to Florence and to New Jersey. Before next Alumni Day there will be a Bloomsburg get-together in the Greater New York area. Plenty of loyal graduates living in them thar woods.

Dave Moses, '10, writes in from Oregon that the memory of the Normal excursion trip to Washington, D. C., is of real worth. Serves as a sort of analgesic to joints that begin to creak.

Our Editor, H. F. Fenstemaker, '12, was honored at the November Reunion of Caldwell Consistory when he was presented with the Meritorious Service Award for faithful service through the many years he has served as organist for the Scottish Rite. A well deserved recognition to a hard worker in church—in school—and all phases of community betterment. And the "Quarterly" will be as good as you help him make it.

Basketball Season Underway

With the end of the football season, the Bloomsburg State Teachers College cagers began formal drills under the direction of Coach Harold Shelly. More than thirty hopefuls reported for initial workouts in the Centennial Gymnasium.

The Huskies face a tough nineteen-game schedule, including twelve tilts with State Teachers College rivals. Standout home attraction was a contest here Wednesday night, December 14, when Coach Josh Cody brought his powerful Temple Owls to Bloomsburg for the second time in a three-year period.

Coach Shelly came to Bloomsburg this year from Wilmington College in Ohio where his teams were uniformly successful. Prior to his stay at the small Ohio college, he produced outstanding basketball clubs at Wetherill High School in Cincinnati, O.

The Huskies' complete schedule follows:

Miss Edna J. Hazen, director, Elementary Education, and Miss Honora Noyes, of the Department of Business Education, Bloomsburg State Teachers College, recently participated in a series of workshops for teachers in Allentown. Miss Hazen acted as consultant for Elementary Teachers while Miss Noyes served as a consultant for the Commercial Department of the Allentown High School. The workshops are an annual activity of the in-service education program of the Allentown Public Schools.

Survey of 1949 Graduates

The annual survey letter has been sent to 225 graduates of the Class of 1949 of the Bloomsburg State Teachers College to determine the numbers in teaching, graduate work, business and other gainful occupations.

The Placement Service has already accumulated information on 187 of the 225 graduates. Of the number reporting to date, 79 per cent are engaged in teaching, 10 per cent are in graduate schools, and slightly over 10 per cent are gainfully employed in business. It is expected that when the remaining 32 students are reached the ratio of 8 out of every 10 graduates placed in teaching positions may be affected.

In the light of previous studies made by President Harvey A. Andruss and members of the staff, this rate of placement is very encouraging considering the large number of graduates and the general shortage of elementary teachers and an over-supply of secondary school teachers of English and Social Studies.

Business teachers who are able to teach Shorthand and Typewriting are still in demand. However, the positions for teaching, 35 of 69 secondary school graduates are teaching.

Of the 52 graduates in the elementary curriculum, 50 are teaching! 35 of 69 secondary school graduates are teaching, while 55 of the 104 business graduates are teaching, and 21 are engaged in business. Business placement to date is about 70 per cent.

Viewed in the light of the over-all surveys made of over a thousand graduates for the ten years prior to 1940, which showed 77 per cent placement in teaching, and a five-year survey of over 500 graduates in the period between 1941 and 1945, which showed an 80 per cent placement, and a three-year survey of slightly less than 300 students made late in 1948, which showed an 83 per cent placement, it would seem that the very favorable placement record of the Bloomsburg State Teachers College in the past is being maintained. However, the figures quoted were based upon surveys made after much longer periods of time had lapsed, therefore, it is expected that three years from now, or five years from now, or ten years from now, the record of employment would grow and become increasingly favorable.

Three hundred thirty-four students were enrolled for the three-week summer school post session at the Bloomsburg State Teachers College, according to figures released by college authorities. Veterans numbering 155, again accounted for nearly half of the total enrollment. There were 179 non-veterans enrolled and about a hundred were occupying dormitory quarters on the campus.

Washington Alumni Have Picnic

The Washington Branch of the Bloomsburg Alumni met in Rock Creek Park on the afternoon of August 6. Everyone thoroughly enjoyed the get-together which began with a softball and quoit pitching and was followed by a picnic supper served buffet style.

Charles Kelchner, '40, the Vice President of the group presided and had each alumnus present introduce themselves and their friends. The Picnic Committee—Martha Wright Moe, '39, Dorothy and Ray Zimmerman, '39, Emma Cartwright Shelly, '05, and Clara Oman, '15—did a wonderful job and were responsible for a highly successful picnic.

Those present were:

Harriet Kocher, '39, Washington; Mr. and Mrs. Charles Kelchner, '40, and daughter, Washington; Mr. and Mrs. Robert Hill, '41, (Stella Johnson) and daughter, Falls Church, Va.; Lillian Yeager, '40, and Ray Sanger and daughter, Arlington, Va.; Mrs. Emma Shelly, '05, and daughter, Dorothy, Washington; Mildred Sidler, '16, Washington; Clara Oman, '15, and guest, Washington; Mrs. Dowden, '92, and guest, Washington; Mr. Broadbent, '98, Washington; Mr. and Mrs. Bernard Lavins, (Nora Clancy, '09), Washington; Peg Steininger, '39, Washington; Marie and Tom Davison, '38, (Marie Davis, '37), and son, Arlington, Va.; Cathleen Oplinger, '41, and Clark Renninger, Arlington, Va.; Mrs. Mattie Lynch, '22, and four guests, Laurel, Md.; Mr. and Mrs. William Forsyth, '40, and three children, Green Belt, Md.; Mr. and Mrs. Robert Zimmerman, '40, Silver Springs, Md.; Martha Wright, '39, and Lucas Moe, Silver Springs, Md.; Dorothy Englehart, '39, and Ray Zimmerman, '39, and two daughters, Bethesda, Md.; Mr. and Mrs. Albert Bonan, '29, (Esther Delekosia, '29), and four children, Silver Springs, Md.

In a double-ring ceremony performed at three o'clock Saturday, August 27, in Our Lady of Mercy Church, Roaring Creek, Miss Marie Ann Zinda, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles L. Zinda, of Catawissa, and Albert C. Eremich, son of Mrs. Eva Eremich, of Mt. Carmel, were united in marriage.

The nuptials were conducted by the Rev. Vincent Brozy's, pastor of the church.

The bride is a graduate of Catawissa High School in 1947. The groom, a graduate of Mt. Carmel High School in 1943, served three years in the U. S. Navy with overseas service in the E.T.O. and Asiatic Pacific theaters. He is a sophomore at Bloomsburg State Teachers College.

1876

The death of Miss Martha E. Schlicker, one of the oldest residents in Beaver township, occurred Tuesday, September 13, at her home.

Infirmities contributed to her death at the age of ninety-five.

Miss Schlicker was born in Beaver township and spent most of her life in that township. Until 1919 she taught school in Beaver township and was a member of the Reformed Church of Mountain Grove. She was also active in the Democratic party, having been a committeewoman for many years. She was always ready to offer counsel to residents of the area.

1881

Mrs. May Wells Creasy, eighty-four, widow of the late S. C. Creasy, died Monday, October 3, about one-twelve o'clock at her home on Fifth street, Bloomsburg. Death was attributed to complications.

She was born in Muncy, Feruarby 5. 1865, and lived in Corry before moving to Bloomsburg, where she spent most of her lifetime. She was an honor student in the class of 1881. Bloomsburg State Normal School, and was married at the school where her father, the late Edward Clark Wells, was bursar.

Her husband was the founder of Creasy and Wells Lumber Company and the first president of the Pennsylvania Lumberman's Association.

Mrs. Creasy had been an active member of the Methodist Church, was president of the Foreign Missionary Society and the Ladies Aid and was a member of the Home Missionary Society of the church. She was Past Regent and a charter member of the Fort McClure Chapter. Daughters of the American Revolution. Mrs. Creasy was also a charter member of the Century Club and president of the board of management of the Bloomsburg Public Library, an institution she served for a number of years. She was also a member of the Hospital Auxiliary.

Surviving are five daughters: Mrs. Earl F. John; Martha S. Creasy; Mrs. Dennis D. Wright, and Jean Creasy, of Bloomsburg; Mrs. Luther P. Creasy, of Catawissa R. D.. Six grandchildren and two great grandchildren, also survive. A son, Edward C. Creasy, formerly of Bloomsburg, died in 1936. Mrs. Joseph G. Wells, of Mauch Chunk, and formerly of Bloomsburg, is a sister-in-law.

Mrs. Elizabeth Hughes Raser, wife of George Raser, died at her home in Orangeville Wednesday, November 2.

Born in Philadelphia, Mrs. Raser was the daughter of the late Dr. and Mrs. Mason Beoch Hughes. Her girlhood was spent in Shickshinny. After finishing high school she entered the Bloomsburg State Normal School from which institution she graduated with honors. She later was called back to become a member of the faculty, a position she held until Dr. D. J. Waller, Jr., was appointed State Superintendent of Public Instruction.

Mrs. Raser later entered Vassar College and was a member of the Pittsburgh Branch of the Associate Alumni of Vassar. Later she was principal of the Shickshinny public schools for a number of years, after which she taught in the Pittsburgh public schools for eight years.

On November 9, 1911, she was married to George B. Raser and for 25 years they lived in Pittsburgh. She was a member of the Third Presbyterian Church, Pittsburgh, giving herself wholeheartedly to the cause of missions. She served for many years as president of the Home and Foreign Missionary Society of the Third Presbyterian Church. For eight years she served as president of the Home Missionary Society of the Presbytery of the Pittsburgh Presbyterian Church. She also served as a Synodical officer.

The deceased since 1940 made her home in Orangeville, where she was a member of the Orangeville Presbyterian Church.

Martha Berninger (Mrs. Thomas W. Kydd), of Bloomsburg, served a number of years as a teacher in a mission school at Yokahoma, Japan.

1890

Miss Adda Hayman, eighty-two, well-known resident of Turbotville, died Wednesday, September 1, at the Evangelical Hospital, Lewisburg, where she had been a patient since sustaining a fall several weeks previous.

She was born September 16, 1867, in Catawissa, the daughter of Randolph and Mary Hayman. She lived most of her life in the Turbotville vicinity. She was a member of St. James Lutheran Church, Turbotville, for fifty-one years and was also a member of the missionary society of that church. She was active in the W.C.T.U.

She was graduated from the Bloomsburg Normal School in 1890 and received a bachelor of science degree in 1920 from Bucknell University. She was a teacher in a number of Pennsylvania high schools, including Danville and Pottsgrove, during her thirty years of teaching.

Mrs. Mable Huff, 79, died suddenly at her Town Hill home Monday, August 20. Death followed an illness of only a few days.

Born July 16, 1870, at White Haven, Mrs. Huff was the daughter of the late Robert and Elizabeth Pettebone Westover. She attended school at White Haven and the New Columbus Academy. She was a graduate of the Bloomsburg Normal School, class of 1892.

Mrs. Huff taught school at Town Hill and Southdale and also at the Nanticoke and Vineland, New Jersey, High Schools.

She was a member of the Town Hill Methodist Church and the WSCS of the church. Her husband, T. Ralph Huff, preceded her in death in 1941.

Sue Creveling (Mrs. George W. Miller, Jr.) lives at 315 Second Street, Weatherly. Her daughter, Mrs. Dorothy Miller Brower, of the class of 1917, is living with her mother and is teaching in the schools of Weatherly.

On Friday, September 23, 1949, at the First Presbyterian Church of Bloomsburg, there was held a service to honor the memory of Miss Martha Powell. The service included the dedication of memorial communion vessels presented by Mr. Emerson F. Davis, a nephew of Miss Powell. The printed program of the service contains the following biographical note:

Martha Powell was born in Bloomsburg, Pennsylvania, October 10, 1863, the daughter of John D. Powell and Jane Davies Powell. Her parents were born in Wales. They came to the United States as children, and lived in Bloomsburg most of their lives, until their deaths at advanced ages. Miss Powell was one of six children who attained maturity, five of whom lived in Bloomsburg many years.

Miss Powell attended the public schools in Bloomsburg and graduated from the Bloomsburg State Normal School (now Bloomsburg State Teachers College) in 1893. Early in her adult years she had ambitions to be a foreign missionary, but abandoned the idea. Prepared to teach, she nevertheless immediately after graduation entered upon a business career. Employed in a secretarial capacity by Mr. Hiester V. White, then and for many years a lawyer and business man in Bloomsburg, she continued in business association with Mr. White most of her life. In 1900 she became Secretary of The White Milling Co., a flour milling enterprise in Bloomsburg of which Mr. White was President, and retired in 1939, when the mill was destroyed by fire and the business discontinued. She was a successful business woman in the years when women less frequently than now engaged in such a career.

Miss Powell's interest in the First Presbyterian Church of Bloomsburg and its various organizations developed very clearly in her life. At a very early age she began attendance at Sunday School, and in 1893 she was received into the Church. Continuously thereafter, until her death, she was active in the Church and the work of its organizations. In these religious associations she was much like Mr. White, who was a lifelong member, officer and leader of the Church and many of its organizations.

Miss Powell was a devoted teacher in the Sunday School as early as 1895 and continued as such until 1943. She was almost perfect in attendance at Sunday School for a period of fifty years, and by reason thereof received unusual recognition from the Sunday School in 1943, shortly before her death.

She became Financial Secretary of the Church in 1897, and held that office until her death. For many years she was interested and active in the Young People's Society of Christian Endeavor, the Columbia County Sabbath School Union, and the Mary Neal Auxiliary. Regular in attendance upon all Church services and organization meetings, she gave most of her free time to the furtherance of the worship and activities of the Church and its affiliated and sponsored organizations.

Her pleasure was in Christian service, and her activity was terminated only by death on June 16, 1943, after a short illness. The Church never had a more devoted servant. She found her joy in the Lord's work.

The memorial to Miss Powell this day dedicated to the Church is a recognition that her supreme interest in the Church should not be considered as terminated, even though she is no longer with us.

Among the many words of tribute printed in the program were the following:

Martha Powell was a life-long member of the First Presbyterian Church in Bloomsburg. Her active participation in every church project or work could be counted upon in advance.

If faithful effort and unflinching attendance to duty has its rewards in the hearts and memory of a long list of friends, the life and work of Martha Powell in this church will remain as her most precious memorial.

William B. Sutliff

From the time I was a little girl, I remember Miss Martha Powell as a member of the First Presbyterian Church of Bloomsburg, Pennsylvania. No matter when the church was open, she was always there in her accustomed place. Whether it was Sabbath School, Christian Endeavor, Worship Service or Missionary Meeting, one could always be sure "Miss Martha" would be there. No doubt she is the only member of the church who was an honorary member of both the Girl and Boy Scouts of our church troops. So for her steadfast faithfulness and tireless work for her church she was a powerful example for all of us who called her "friend."

"I had three wonderful years, but I am really glad to be back home in the United States," says Harold J. Miller, son of Mr. and Mrs. Howard Miller, of Church street, Catawissa, who returned home only recently after a three-year teaching assignment at Robert College, Istanbul, Turkey.

The English teacher is a graduate of Catawissa High School and B.S.T.C. and taught two years at Phillipsburg, Pa., before leaving for his foreign assignment. He considers the years in the East as three very interesting and educational years.

Robert College has an enrollment of 900 student with very few English students. The faculty included thirty-five American teachers and a large number of teachers from many foreign countries, he said.

The students enter the school at twelve years of age. They are given two years of English instruction and the next three years of their study correspond to high school work in this country. It prepares them for the college course. All students enrolled pay tuition.

There were no music classes in the school as musical instruments are very hard to secure in that part of the world. Soccer which they call "football," is the main sport of the boys. Basketball has recently been introduced at Robert College.

Miller had much to say about the country in which he lived. Native meals are planned around rice, mutton, oil and fruit. Turkey "plumbing" is still in the primitive form. Deep ditches are dug in each side of the street and water pumped in once a day. This is used for bathing or household needs. Housewives are allowed to wash clothes only once a week. Water is also pumped into homes into wells in the basement.

As for drinking water, that is bought from push carts which travel the streets daily.

The temperature of Turkey is approximately that of New York City, Miller says, for during the three years he was in that country, temperatures never went higher than 90 degrees and there were only two frosts. The country has much rainfall especially during the winter months.

During his vacations, Miller visited France, Italy, England, Switzerland, Greece, Egypt, Syria, Lebanon, Iraq and Iran. He left India traveling east on a Dutch freighter for the trip home in order to see that part of the world in a leisurely fashion. The freighter stopped at Singapore, the Malay States, Manila and other points of interest in the Philippines. The trip from India to California took fifty days. His sightseeing did not stop at the west coast, for he made the cross country trip by bus stopping off at many points along the way.

In a ceremony Thursday, July 28, in St. Joseph's Catholic Church, Milton, Miss Rose Marie Maturani, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Tony Maturani, Milton, was united in marriage to James Reedy, son of Mr. and Mrs. James A. Reedy, also of Milton. The Rev. Frank Pohl, pastor, officiated, using the double ring service.

Both are graduates of Milton High School. The bride has been employed in the office of the Milton Steel and Supply Company. Her husband is attending Bloomsburg State Teachers College, where he is a member of the senior class.

Dr. Harry Garner, a former member of the faculty, is now Assistant Professor in Secondary Education at Temple University. Dr. Garner received his B. A. at the University of Pittsburgh, where he later received the degree of Master of Education. He holds the degree of Doctor of Education from Columbia University.

HOMECOMING DAY

Alumni and friends of the Bloomsburg State Teachers College returning for the Twenty-Second Annual Homecoming Day celebration Saturday, October 22, received a warm welcome. Plans had been completed to make this year's Homecoming a "Happy Homecoming," and students and faculty spared nothing to make the day's program full of interesting things.

President Harvey A. Andruss served as host for the gala occasion and welcomed home a large crowd of alumni. Since Homecoming is the high spot of the calendar year, the Board of Trustees, the faculty, and the student body made every effort to offer the visitors every opportunity to enjoy a memorable day at the "Friendly College."

The activities unofficially got under way Thursday morning, October 20, in the Centennial Gymnasium when a pep rally was staged. The Maroon and Gold Band, under the direction of Charles H. Henrie, and the cheerleaders planned an unusually interesting series of pep features. Ben Burness, Havertown, served as master of ceremonies, Coach Bob Redman introduced the members of the varsity football squad, and Coach Harold Shelly spoke for the soccer team.

Curtain raiser for the official Homecoming Day program was the annual Homecoming Day assembly in the Carver Auditorium on Saturday morning at which a group of students presented a talent program. Those taking part were Ben Burness, Bebe Reese, Lila Savage, Richard Wagner, Emory Rarig, Charles Edwards and Jack Wintersteen.

A cafeteria luncheon was served alumni and visitors in the College dining room at 11:30 o'clock. Miss Della M. Thayer, College dietician, planned and executed colorful and unusual decorations for the dining room, which has recently been redecorated.

Of course, the annual Homecoming Day football game was the focal point of sports interest at two o'clock when the once-beaten eleven of Coach Bob Redman tangled with the Shippensburg football team on Mt. Olympus. The Maroon and Gold grid-ers were seeking their fifth straight victory of the season at the expense of the Red Raiders who had yet to win their first game.

Following the football game, a Get-Together was held in the Waller Hall Lounge and Recreation Room. Refreshments were served, and visitors had an opportunity to renew old acquaintances and relive memories of their college days.

Climax of the day's activities was the annual Homecoming Day dance in the Centennial Gymnasium. Dancing was enjoyed from nine o'clock until midnight to the music of Arnie Day and his orchestra, of Wilkes-Barre.

CAMPUS IMPROVEMENTS

In the year just past the Bloomsburg State Teachers College improved its plant and purchased equipment and machinery to the amount of $102,997. A major renovation of Noetling Hall to transform a sixty-year model school into a modern classroom building was one of the major contracts completed. The other major contract is in the process under the direction of the William F. Schimmel Company, of Nanticoke. This involves the replacement of the well-known "long porch" by a new brick and tile structure, repairs to the roofs and rain gutters on Waller and North Halls and repairs to the President's residence. This contract, let in May, 1949, represents an expenditure of approximately $35,000.

Library equipment, books, microscopes, classroom equipment, furniture and fixtures have been purchased to the amount of $17,000. This amount does not include war surplus materials assigned to the College or books and equipment distributed from the area college centers.

At no time in the last decade has such progress been made in plant and equipment. It has only been equalled by the three war years of 1943, 1944 and 1945, when over $100,000 were expended on the plant.

While the Board of Trustees has authorized plans to make other important changes in the form of renovation, repairs and improvements during the college year of 1949-50, a contract for the replacement of existing sidewalks and curbs was awarded to Harry W. Sterner on Wednesday, July 27, for the sum of $3,675. This is the first step in a series of small projects which when completed will "lift the face" of the Bloomsburg State Teachers College plant.

Recent class elections at the Bloomsburg State Teachers College have named two Shamokin young men as class presidents. Donald Butcofsky was chosen president of the senior class, and Thomas Anthony was chosen sophomore class president. Mr. Butcofsky fills a vacancy that has existed since the spring semester when an unusual development in the regular senior class election forced College officials to declare the office vacant until a special election could be held early in the 1949-50 term.

Mr. Anthony was elected to fill the vacancy created by the withdrawal of Richard Hollis, Columbia, who was elected head of the sophomore class last spring.

The new president of the senior class has been very active in college publications for the past three years. At the present time he is serving as a member of the editorial board of the Maroon and Gold. He is also associate editor of the 1950 Obiter. He is also an outstanding student, having been on every Dean's Honor List since entering Bloomsburg.

Mr. Anthony, also an honor student, is active in dramatics, having played the lead role in "The Late George Appley" presented last spring by the Bloomsburg Players. He is also one of the student managers of the Bloomsburg Huskies football team.

Mr. Richard Chase, eminent folklorist, author, and editor entertained about 125 children of the third, fourth, fifth and sixth grades of the Benjamin Franklin School in the demonstration room recently. These grades are taught by Miss Marcella Stickler, Mrs. Anna Scott, Mr. Harry Gasser and Miss Edna J. Barnes.

Mr. Chase used stories, songs, musical instruments (the harmonica and obsolete recorder), riddles, and games to transmit traditional American folklore. The program, done in the distinctive Richard Chase Style, greatly amused the pupil audience. They joined with him in repetitive choruses in the folk songs and games, and in the story of "Jack and the Robbers," an edited folktale in Mr. Chase's book, "The Jack Tales." Other books written by him are "The Grandfather Tales" and "Hullabaloo," a book of folk games. Mr. Chase explained that he collects his folk material by listening to stories far into the night in the mountainous regions of Virginia.

During his two-day stay on the campus, Mr. Chase taught a number of college classes the traditional American folk dances and songs. He was also guest speaker during an all-college assembly program.

Dr. Ted J. Satterfield, a member of the faculty of the Bloomsburg State Teachers College, received the 1948-49 Phi Delta Kappa award for educational research at Temple University Thursday, October 6. The award, consisting of a gold medal and a certificate, is given annually by the national honorary education fraternity to the graduate student who completes the finest piece of educational research that year.

Dr. Satterfield recently completed a research problem in tort liability in public schools. The work, legal in nature, covers the situation as it exists today in the whole of the United States, the District of Columbia, and the territories of Alaska and Hawaii. The entire study is based on constitutional and statutory provisions and judicial decisions.

Phi Delta Kappa, a nation wide organization for graduate students, sponsors educational research. It has Pennsylvania chapters at University of Pennsylvania, Penn State, University of Pittsburgh and Temple University.

An unusual exhibit of children's books was held at the Bloomsburg State Teachers College on Thursday and Friday, October 20 and 21. This exhibit was staged in the Navy Hall Auditorium under the direction of Mrs. Ruth Tooze, children's book consultant and director of The Children's Bookshelf, Michigan City, Indiana.

Mrs. Tooze displayed a carefully selected collection of about 800 children's books, ranging from pre-school through junior high. The books were chosen by Mrs. Tooze in consultation with the children's editors who produce the books, and the teachers, parents and children who use the books. No text books were included. The books came from approximately forty publishers of children's books and represented the best authors who are writing for children at the present time.

Classes from both the Benjamin Franklin and the Bloomsburg schools visited the Book Exhibit during the two days, and Mrs. Tooze held story telling periods for the groups.

The Bloomsburg State Teachers College is again offering extension courses to teachers-in-service in its service area. Continuing a successful program of in-service education launched several years ago, the local college is this year maintaining extension centers in Wilkes-Barre and Hazleton.

An elementary workshop program has attracted considerable attention at the Hazleton center held in the Green Street School where courses in Physical Science I and II and the Curriculum in Elementary Science are now being offered. The workshop is under the direction of George A. Shanno, vice principal of Hazleton Senior High School. Dr. Ernest H. Englehardt, director, Secondary Education, said that a course may be offered in Mental Hygiene if the enrollment justifies the offering.

In Wilkes-Barre, a social studies workshop is being offered every Tuesday evening at 4:30 o'clock in the James M. Coughlin Senior High School. Courses in United States History and the History of Pennsylvania feature the workshop program. The instructor, Elfred Jones, principal of the Dodson Elementary School.

The Annual Elementary Education Conference was held at the State Teachers College, Bloomsburg, Saturday, December 3, 1949.

The theme "The School is For the Children" was uppermost in the thoughts of teachers throughout the day.

At 9:30 o'clock members of the teaching staff of the Benjamin Franklin laboratory school taught lessons directly related to the theme. They represented wide areas of the new Pennsylvania Elementary Course of Study. This included such areas as Language Arts, Social Living, Health and Classroom Living. There was a brief period for discussion of these lessons and materials following the teaching period.

At 11 o'clock in Carver Hall Auditorium Mrs. Gertrude Speed Stokes, Temple University, addressed the teachers on the subject of the conference theme, "The School is for the Children."

Following the address those in attendance at the conference were invited to Waller Hall Dining Room for luncheon. There was an informal social time, during which the group was entertained with special musical selections, and a brief greeting from Dr. Harvey A. Andruss, president of the State Teachers College.

Public school teachers of Northeastern Pennsylvania were told always to present themselves in their "best professional light" if they want their gains of the past few years "to be consolidated and secure."

Dr. Thomas P. North, dean of instruction, Bloomsburg State Teachers College, gave this advice to more than one hundred teachers and supervisors from eleven counties who attended the Northeastern Pennsylvania teacher training session of the Pennsylvania State Education Association held in October in West Scranton High School. Dr. North, who is chairman of the PSEA commission on teacher education and professional standards, explained the part Pennsylvania is playing in the improvement of teachers on a state and country-wide basis. He also pointed out the strides being made by his commission to improve standards of in-service and pre-service leaders.

Dr. Harvey A. Andruss, President, Bloomsburg State Teachers College, attended the sessions and participated in a group conference concerned with the problem of "Responsibilities of the Teaching Profession in Adequately Supplying Competent Candidates."

Dr. Thomas P. North represented the Commission on Teacher Education and Professional Standards at the Mid-Western Convention District meeting of the Pennsylvania State Education Association at New Castle Friday, October 7. Dean North, who is the chairman of the state-wide commission, served as consultant to the group discussing the problem of raising the standards for entrance into the teaching profession.

Enrollment at the Bloomsburg State Teachers College now stands at 829 as of September 16, according to an announcement made by College officials. Although this figure is slightly below last year's total, the number of teach-education students is higher than in 1948 because the local college this year did not accept freshmen liberal arts students assigned to Penn State.

Men out-number women in the registration figures by a ratio of more than two to one. There are 560 men who have completed their registration requirements, while 269 women are now enrolled. Included in the present enrollment figures are 302 veterans of World War II but the G.I.'s are outnumbered by the non-veteran students.

Dormitory residents total 376, and for the first time there are more men than women residing in the College dormitories. Figures show that there are 201 men housed in the Waller Hall annex and North Hall, while 175 women are living in Waller Hall.

Adele Neff, personable young dramatist, appeared at the Bloomsburg State Teachers College in the first assembly program of the new college year, Thursday morning, September 22. Her inimitable program "Ladies, Women and Females," is one of the outstanding presentations in the field of one-woman theatre. Her experience over the past fifteen years, coupled with her gift of artistic writing, have produced a program which is full of depth and beauty, and which veers from pathos and drama to broad comedy.

Miss Neff is a New Englander, and some of her sketches reflect the women of that part of the country—others portray the more sophisticated women of New York and California.

In addition to her extensive appearances over the country in her own show, Miss Neff has found time for several stage shows, one under the direction of Max Reinhardt. She has done many shows for radio, one of which—"House Party"—was on the air for a year. She wrote the scripts which the Yankee Network used for six consecutive years, dramatizing business situations, sponsored by the Better Business Bureau. Lately, television has discovered her talents and last year she appeared on several programs, particularly on "The Wren's Nest."

In a candlelight ceremony performed in the Zion Lutheran Church on Wednesday evening, August 17, Miss Jacqueline Alice Miller, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Paul I. Miller, of Turbotville, became the bride of James M. Hulsizer, Turbotville R. D. The Rev. R. A. Flower performed the double ring ceremony.

The bride was graduated from Turbotville-Lewis High School in 1948 and has been employed as secretary by the ACF in Milton. Mr. Hulsizer is a graduate of the same school with the class of 1946. He served two years with the U. S. Marines. He was a student at B.S.T.C. for one year and plans to enter Texas Christian University at Fort Worth, Texas., as a sophomore in the Fall.

The Bloomsburg Players acted as hosts to delegates from twenty-three colleges in Eastern Pennsylvania when they met on the campus Saturday and Sunday, October 15 and 16. This was the second annual meeting of the Eastern Pennsylvania College Theatre and Radio Conference. The E.P.C.T.R.C. proposes to reawaken public love of the theatre and thereby fulfill the cultural needs of our communities; to provide means of experimentation in the theatre; and to foster the exchange of ideas, consequently aiding members in all possible ways.

Registration began at 10 o'clock, followed by a short business meeting in the morning. The main purpose of this conference was to adopt the constitution which was drawn up by the former chairman, Marvin Walters, of Wilkes College. Another highlight of the conference was a social gathering scheduled for late Saturday afternoon or evening, depending on the length of the business meeting. The final business meeting was held on Sunday morning.

Temporary chairman of the conference was Robert Sickinger, Philadelphia. Mr. Sickinger also served as a delegate of the western district in the Eastern Region, on the planning committee which met at Bloomsburg earlier this fall. The planning committee studied the proposed constitution, and made some changes before presenting it to the annual conference.

Although this conference was chiefly concerned with the business of adopting the constitution, the dramatic directors of some of the clubs have been asked to speak to the group. Three discussion groups were formed, to discuss various phases of the theatre. These were led by Professor Axel R. Kleinsorg, Susquehanna University; Professor Alfred Groh, Wilkes College, and Professor H. Barret Davis, Lehigh University.

Three BSTC football stars of recent vintage have accepted teaching and coaching positions. Charles Kazmerovicz, a blocking back with last season's unbeaten team until he had to quit because of a shoulder injury, is at West Pottsgrove Township High School in Montgomery county. Another is Don Snyder, a back, here in 1946 and 1947, who is teaching social studies and assisting with the football team at Matawan, N. J. High. Kazmerovicz is from Plains, while Snyder played at Milton High under the late Alden J. "Lefty" Danks.

The third new coach is popular Frank Luchnick, the Mt. Carmel powerhouse who played guard for the Huskies last year. Luchnik, after flirting with the professional game, has accepted a job at Elizabethtown.

Special award jackets were presented to eighteen members of the undefeated baseball team of the Bloomsburg State Teachers College in appropriate ceremonies held recently in the Carver Auditorium. Dr. Harvey A. Andruss, president of the College, presided over the exercises, and Coach Robert B. Redman presented the awards to seventeen letter winners and the student manager.

The Huskies turned back all twelve opponents during the 1949 baseball season to record the first unbeaten campaign since the halcyon days of Danny Litwhiler. Included in the Huskies' victorious sweep were victories over Lock Haven, Shippensburg, Millersville, Mansfield, Susquehanna University and the powerful Second Army nine from Fort George Meade. An exhibition game with the highly-regarded Danville State Hospital nine brought the Huskies their thirteenth win of an abbreviated season.

The jackets, made of maroon wool with gold trim, were presented to Henry Brunn, Nanticoke; Donald Butler, Wilkes-Barre; John Buynak, Wilkes-Barre; William Byham, Kane; John Czerniakowski, Plains; Owen Diehle, Philadelphia; Richard Hummel, Northumberland; George Lambrinos, Endicott, N. Y.; Stanley Levan, Bloomsburg; Clair Mensinger, Mifflinville; Henry Marek, Dupont; Paul Mowry, Meshoppen; Edward Piestrak, Danville; Paul Slobozien, Johnstown; Robert Thomas, Danville; Donald Kearns, Lewistown, and Henry Murray, Shenandoah.

The six-weeks' Junior-Senior High School Summer Session at the Scott Township Consolidated School came to a close Friday, August 5.

Forty-two students were enrolled and included residents from Columbia, Luzerne and Montour counties and Washington, D. C., all of whom were either taking advanced courses or completing work from the previous school year.

The experienced teachers were Mrs. Leah M. Rarig, of the Locust Township faculty; Elbert L. Stamm, of the Danville High School faculty; Miss Bertha Graff, of the Kulpmont faculty, and Robert J. Luckenbill, of the Freeland faculty.

These teachers were supplied by the Bloomsburg State Teachers College through the office of Harry Garner who was in charge of secondary teacher training at the local college. They have been enrolled during the past Summer session at the College.

For the past three years, there have been, each year, about seventy-five Penn State freshmen. In order that more room might be made for future teachers, the Penn State program has been greatly reduced. There are now only eight Penn State freshmen on the campus. In spite of this reduction, the total enrollment of the College is almost as large as it was last year.

Miss Mary E. Macdonald has been appointed as Assistant Dean of Women and Coordinator of Guidance and Personnel Service of the Bloomsburg State Teachers College.

Miss Macdonald, a resident of Berwick, is a graduate of the University of Michigan with the degree of Bachelor of Arts, with majors in Latin and French, and Columbia University, with the degree of Master of Arts, with a major in Personnel Administration.

Her experience includes the teaching of languages in the Harter High School at West Nanticoke, Pa., and Berwick, Pa.; head of McLaurin Hall, Winthrop College, Rock Hill, S. C., and president elect of the South Carolina State Association of the American Association of University Women; assistant to head of Hartley Hall, Columbia University, New York City; member of the first training class for Wave officers at the United States Naval Training Station, Northampton, Mass.; Naval service in Waves as assistant to the officer in charge of publications stock section, Pearl Harbor, T. H.; officer in charge of mess and club, Terminal Island, California; battalion commander, U. S. Naval Training School, Stillwater, Oklahoma; and since her naval service has been director of Residence Halls, Barnard College, Columbia University, New York City.

"Long porch," landmark at the Bloomsburg State Teachers College, is now in the process of a construction "face-lifting" that is part of several projects now underway at the institution.

In addition to the porch project, the William F. Schmill firm, Nanticoke construction company, is also engaged in roofing repair work on the laundry building and North, Waller, Carver and Navy Halls.

When completed, the porch will have fifteen brick archways. The walk, which will be roofed, will be of tile. Glass will be inserted on the inner court side of the structure. The front will have a wrought iron railing.

Provisions also include exits from the building-enclosed fire towers, in such a manner that outside steps will be fewer.

In a ceremony Saturday morning, July 23 at the rectory of St. Columba's Catholic Church, Bloomsburg, Miss Jean Frances Fetterman, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Fetterman, of Pine street, Catawissa, became the bride of Francis Raymond Johnson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Johnson, of town. The bride is employed as secretary in the office of Russel Achy, of Bloomsburg. She is a graduate of Catawissa High School. The bridegroom is a student at B.S.T.C.. A veteran of World War II, he is an announcer for radio station WCNR.
