DEVELOPING A MASTER PLAN
FOR HIGHER EDUCATION IN PENNSYLVANIA

Over the years, many committees in state, government and educational circles have considered a plan for the future of education in our Commonwealth. Sometimes these plans have comprehended the elementary, secondary, and higher education fields. Other times they have been limited in scope to one or more of these education areas. More than once these plans have been kept "under cover" and securing a copy of the reports has been difficult and, in some cases possible. Thus, the results have not been widely circulated.

Pennsylvania is unique in many ways, one of which is the method of distributing public funds to private colleges and universities. Another feature, which has continued for a generation longer than in other states, was the limitation of the function of State Colleges to the education and training of teachers for the public schools.

Recently a report was made to the State Board of Education of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania titled "Elements of a Master Plan for Higher Education in Pennsylvania." THIS REPORT IS NOT THE MASTER PLAN. However, it gives a great deal of information developed by a panel of experts and consultants, and its effect will be felt for the next generation, either by its being ignored, or by its being put into practice as rapidly as time, money, and personnel become available.

Your reading time and the space available will permit only a few general comments as they regard State Colleges as one group of institutions providing higher educational opportunities for an increasing number of young people of our Commonwealth.

- 1—Pennsylvania is the only State in the Country where there are as many as sixteen private colleges and universities that receive large sums for unrestricted general support from the State. These amounts have increased from $5,000,000 to more than $37,000,000 in the last twenty years.
- 2—The State Colleges in 1951 enrolled 8% of all students in higher education, and in 1965 enrolled twice that number, or 16%.
- 3—The more than 100 private colleges are educating about 40% of the total university population at the present time, and this is the same relative amount that they accommodated a decade and a half ago.
- 4—The colleges and universities receiving financial support, some of whom have been brought into closer relations with the State, such as Temple University, and possibly the University of Pittsburgh, along with Pennsylvania State, will undoubtedly have increased enrollments and greater graduate facilities.

By way of summary, the Academy for Educational Development Report has suggested that State Colleges enrollments be increased during the next ten years from 47,000 students to 110,000, and that in 1985 plans should be made for 150,000.

These figures are not final and are merely one of the many factors that must be considered by the State Board of Education, the Governor, and the Legislature, if Pennsylvania is to provide more higher educational opportunities for its youth in the two decades that lie ahead.

MID-YEAR COMMENCEMENT

Ninety-one seniors and three graduate students at Bloomsburg State College were granted degrees at the annual mid-year Commencement exercises in Centennial Gymnasium on Tuesday, January 25, 1966. The Reverend Lane Kilburn, President of King's College, Wilkes-Barre, addressed the graduating class, their parents and guests on the topic "Armada 1965."

"How are you going to meet the two challenges of the upset uncertain world and the dangerous reaction of youth to it?" the Rev. Lane D. Kilburn, president of King's College, Wilkes-Barre charged the ninety-four graduates at mid-year commencement of Bloomsburg State College held at two o'clock January 25.

The ninety-one candidates for Bachelor of Science degrees in Education and the three candidates for Master of Science degrees in Education were presented by their respective divisional heads to Dr. Harvey A. Andruss, President of BSC, who in turn, presented their diplomas.

The Rev. Fr. Kilburn stated that these two challenges face today's graduates who must decide whether to cease their education and find work or further their education preparing for a future position. "This," he said, "is a most difficult decision to be made against a background whose unforeseeable depths are more enigmatic, more clouded, more shrouded in mystery, in uncertainty and even in fear, than at any other time in the world's history."

He continued by pointing out that in previous times of history, when Shakespeare in his sonnet 107 wrote "The Mortal Moon" and in the early 1940's when the world faced Nazi and Fascist growth, the world's future was uncertain and in a deplorable state. Yet man has pushed ahead and provided himself with weapons of great and destructive power so that now two absolute opposed world powers face each other, each determined to outdo the other. This causes the world to tremble and swirl in uncertainty.

The first challenge of the uncertain world, Father Kilburn noted, is met through a perfecting of the intellect. This can be done by properly acquiring correct knowledge and then using it for the benefit of one's fellow man. "The second challenge, Father Kilburn stated, "is certainly related to the above challenge and is even closer to you." He specified how the uncertainty of today's world picture has resulted in youth reacting in some unpleasant conduct in teenage gangs, immature marriages, etc.

"In meeting the challenge of the dangerous reaction of youth to the uncertain world, you, as college graduates, must meet these conditions by perfecting the will power we have which tells us what to do," he continued. "When we have ability to do what is right, we have a special strength. You have to practice what is right until it becomes second nature. Then you acquire a certain ability or power called virtue.

"You have begun this because you have been schooled in an atmosphere where virtue is the example to follow. Nothing will give it to you but your own practice with God's help. Without virtue you have no defense against the waywardness youth is tempted to follow. But with it you can stand up with your armor of virtue and successfully meet the second challenge."

Father Kilburn concluded his address by saying, "But, now it is up to you to continue to exercise your powers of will and so strengthen virtue, and to continue with hard work to perfect even further your intellect. If you do, some day some sonnet writer may be able to conclude as has Shakespeare,

"Uncertainties now crown themselves assured and peace proclaims olives of endless age.

May the peace of the Lord be upon us."

Mrs. Irene Frantz, R. D. 1, Stillwater graduated magna cum laude in Secondary Education; Mrs. Dazimae Artley Paul, 404 East Fourth street, Bloomsburg, graduated magna cum laude in Secondary Education; James Lewis Johnson, 237 Saint Mary street, Lewisburg, graduated cum laude in Elementary Education.

INSTITUTE ADVANCED STUDY OF GEOGRAPHY

A summer institute for advanced study in geography will be conducted at Bloomsburg State College from June 27 to August 5. The institute will be sponsored by the Department of Geography at BSC with the financial support of the Office of Education, United States Department of Health, Education and Welfare as authorized under Title XI of The National Defense Education Act.

The purpose of this institute is to give geography teachers and teachers of social studies classes, where geography instruction is included, an opportunity to improve academic preparation in geography, to gain competency in the newer phases of modern geography, and to acquaint them with the philosophy of educational materials and teaching techniques most effective in the field.

To be considered for admission to this institute, the applicant must: Have a bachelor's degree from an accredited college or university; be currently teaching geography or social studies where geography is included, or assigned to such a position in the fall semester of 1966; have no more

THE COVER

Architect's sketch of new Science and Classroom Building which will be constructed on the Bloomsburg State College campus between Sutliff Hall and the Benjamin Franklin Elementary Laboratory school.

Designed by von Storch and Burkavage, Architects, Clarks Summit, the building will include eleven science laboratories, fifteen classrooms, eight lecture rooms of varying sizes, fifteen faculty offices, nineteen science honors laboratories, eight rooms for special facilities, and twelve preparation rooms. The cost of construction and land acquisition is $2,000,000.

This is the first classroom building to be constructed on the campus since Sutliff Hall was built in 1958.

than nine semester hours of college geography credits, and be recommended by the participant's school supervisor or administrator.

Each participant will be eligible to receive a stipend of $75 per week plus an allowance of $15 per week for each dependent to defray the cost of books, travel, and living expenses. Tuition and other fees normally required by the college are waived.

Preference in selection of final participants will be given those teaching in the eastern half of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania. Participants will be selected solely on the basis of their ability to benefit from the program of the institute and their capacity to develop professionally. Additional information may be obtained by writing to Dr. Bruce E. Adams, director, N.D.E.A., Summer Institute for Advanced Study in Geography, Bloomsburg State College, Bloomsburg, Pa. 17815.

At the Shippensburg State College, the first Director of Alumni Affairs has recently been appointed. This officer will also serve as assistant to the Director of Admissions. The new position is the result of dividing the duties formerly exercised by the Director of Public Relations, as that increased attention could be given to the growing needs of alumni.

Dr. Edward T. DeVoe '31

Dr. Edward T. DeVoe, fifty-seven, 725 East Third street, Bloomsburg, a member of Bloomsburg State College faculty since 1946, died Wednesday, December 22 in Bloomsburg Hospital.

The well-known educator, a Berwick native, was admitted to the hospital December 4 suffering from pneumonia. When he apparently recovered from that, other physical troubles developed which necessitated surgery.

Dr. DeVoe, who during his score of years at the local college was active and interested in just about every phase of the college program, was a professor of English.

He was chairman of the library committee for many years and for more than fifteen years advisor for the Maroon and Gold, student publication. He served as president of the faculty association and was active in many phases of its program. He was chairman of many faculty and faculty-student committees and throughout his period of service, was usually advisor to the Obiter, the yearbook, as well as the Maroon and Gold.

He was an elder in the First Presbyterian Church, a member of the Masonic Lodge of Williamsport and Caldwell Consistory.

Dr. DeVoe was the son of Arthur and Emma Thomas DeVoe and a graduate of Berwick High School and Bloomsburg State College. He received his masters degree in English at Bucknell and his doctorate from Pennsylvania State University.

He taught in Bloomsburg High School and Thaddeus Stevens High School, Williamsport, before joining the college faculty.

Surviving are his wife, the former Lucille Martz, '29 and '54; a daughter, Miss Louise L. DeVoe, a student at Pennsylvania State University; three sisters, Mrs. Russel Gritman, Enola; Mrs. Oscar Mejia, Medellin, Columbia, South America; Mrs. Norman C. Maurer, Hatboro; and several nieces and nephews.

The following tribute was written by Dr. Cecil Seronsy, former head of the English Department and one-time advisor to the Maroon and Gold:

As all of the faculty and students in our college no doubt already know, Professor Edward T. DeVoe has passed on. At the time of his death he was the oldest member of the English staff in point of service, and as an associate of his, I can attest to the respect which he had earned from colleagues and students alike.

What is of more immediate concern here is that over a period of nearly 20 years, Dr. DeVoe was more actively associated with college student publications than was any other person. For many years he was advisor to all the publications at the same time: Maroon and Gold, Olympian, Obiter. Numerous other publishing responsibilities he undertook most capably—preparation and proof-reading of college brochures, handbooks and catalogues. Up to the time of his death he continued to serve as chairman of the Publications Committee and as advisor of the staff of the yearbook.

It seems fitting that this newspaper, which Dr. DeVoe advised for so many years, before the duty fell to me, then later to Mr. Savage, should pay tribute to one who worked so hard in furthering its growth. One of Dr. DeVoe's admirable traits as advisor was the strictness with which he kept publicity on himself in the background. It is good to recognize that institutions—and a newspaper is one—don't just miraculously appear. They have a continuity that sometimes students fail to sense in their brief stay in college. Dr. DeVoe played an important part in that continuity by bringing from his own newspaper experience a professional touch to our paper. His death is a loss to the whole college community.

Mrs. Ruthe M. VanBuskirk '28

Mrs. Ruthe M. VanBuskirk, formerly of Plymouth, died January 23 in St. Mary's Hospital, Long Beach, Calif. She was the widow of Col. Kenneth E. VanBuskirk who died February 2, 1935, in the Veterans Hospital at Long Beach.

Born in Hazleton, she was the former Ruthe M. Hildebrand, daughter of Mrs. Rachel Hildebrand of Hazleton and the late John H. Hildebrand. She graduated from Bloomsburg Teachers College and taught in Hazleton City schools during the 1928-29 term. She resided in Plymouth from 1929 to 1946 when she located in Munich, Germany, where her husband was U. S. Army liaison officer for Southern Germany. She returned to the States in August 1964 upon the medical retirement of her husband. Prior to entering military service, Col. VanBuskirk was principal of the Vine street school in Plymouth.

Ruth Robbins Creasy '23

Mrs. Ruth Creasy, sixty-two, Briar Creek, died at Hampel Nursing Home in Nescopeck, Monday, January 31, after a lingering illness. She had been a guest two weeks. Mrs. Creasy was born in Lime Ridge, daughter of the late Dicon and Emma Harris Robbine. She was a graduate of Berwick High School in 1919 and of Bloomsburg State Teachers College in 1923. She taught at Briar Creek and Center Township schools.

She was a member of Holy Trinity Lutheran Church, Berwick and Sunday School Class No. 4.

Maree E. Pensyl '21

Maree E. Pensyl, retired Bloomsburg school teacher, long active in the educational, religious and civic life of the community, died at the Bloomsburg Hospital Sunday, February 6.

After her graduation from Bloomsburg, she received her Bachelor's degree at Bucknell University, followed by a Master of Arts degree at New York University in 1935.

She was a member of the Bloomsburg Methodist Church and for years was a member of the choir. She was a member of the Pennsylvania State Education Association, the National Education Association and the American Association of University Women. She was a past president of the Bloomsburg Business and Professional Woman's Club and was a member of the Columbia County Soroptimists.

Arthur J. Kenney '64

The Quarterly has been informed of the recent death of Arthur J. Kenney, son of Mr. and Mrs. William Kenney, 234 West Douglas street, Reading, Pa. Arthur's last teaching assignment was in East Brunswick Township, New Jersey. A graduate in the field of Special Education, he was teaching an educable class at the Rosell Smith School.

Sarah Bond '10

Miss Sarah E. Bond, 83, a guest at the Carpenter Nursing Home, Idetown, died Tuesday, January 11. Born in Trucksville, Miss Bond was a daughter of the late Samuel and Elizabeth Wert Bond. She graduated from Bloomsburg State College. Miss Bond taught in Elmira School, the State of Washington and at schools in Roberts and Pocatello, Idaho, and Scranton and the Back Mountain. She was a member of Lehman Methodist Church.

Frank Bachinger

Frank A. Bachinger, 304 East Eighth street, Bloomsburg, husband of the former Teresa Dailey, died at his home Thursday, January 6, following a brief illness. Death was due to a cerebral hemorrhage. He was formerly of Plymouth and moved to Bloomsburg in 1932. He operated a wholesale fruit business until 1938. Recently he had been with the Valley Sea Foods, Wilkes-Barre. He was a veteran of World War I.

He was a member of St. Columbas Roman Catholic Church, Holy Name Society, Knights of Columbus, American Legion and Veterans of Foreign Wars.

Miss Alice Johnston

Miss Alice Johnson, former head of the speech and drama department of Bloomsburg State College, died Sunday, January 1, in Silver Springs, Md. Miss Johnston retired from BSC about fifteen years ago and resided in Arizona for some time before moving to the Roosevelt Hotel, Washington, D. C. She was a guest in a nursing home in Silver Springs at the time of her death. Memorial services were held in the Warner E. Pumphrey Funeral Home in Silver Springs.

Miss Johnston was born February 14, 1888. She was graduated from the high school in Kansas City, Missouri, received her Bachelor's degree from Park College, Missouri, her Master's degree from Columbia University. She also attended the Central School of Speech in London, England, the Feagan School of Dramatic Art, New York, and the Institute of Speech Correction in New York.

Her teaching positions include the Junior College, Pikeville, Kentucky, High School in Dalton, Mass., the Junior College in Godfrey, Illinois, two years as Supervisor of Speech in the public schools of Racine, Wisconsin, and one year at Hunter College. She came to Bloomsburg in 1924 and retired in 1952.

In addition to her excellent work as a classroom teacher, Miss Johnston will be remembered by many Alumni for the many fine dramatic productions performed under her direction.

WHEN YOU CHANGE YOUR ADDRESS

It costs us ten cents each time you fail to give us your change of address.

One at a time, these changes do not seem to be very much, but multiplied by thousands they make a large sum.

You can save us the expense by notifying the Alumni Office immediately when you change your address.

By so doing, you will assure yourself of receiving all publicity that is sent out from the College.

CHOIR PRESENTS "THE MESSIAH"

The Bloomsburg State College Concert Choir presented Part I of Handel's "Messiah" on December 14, in Carver Hall auditorium. Known as the Advent and Nativity section, Part I contains most of the familiar sections of the work. The famous "Hallelujah Chorus" was also added.

William Decker was the conductor, and Mrs. Thomas Sturgeon was the organist. Soloists were Mrs. William Decker, soprano; Susan Harper and Janet Space, altos; Ralph Miller, tenor and Tim Hoffman, bass. Preceding "The Messiah," the choir sang Palestrina's "Hodie Christus Natus Est" for double chorus; Gibbons' "Hosanna to the Son of David" and Mozart's "Laudate Dominum."

George J. Gellos, assistant professor of biology at BSC received the Doctor of Philosophy degree in biology at recent commencement exercises held at The Pennsylvania State University. The title of his thesis was "The Development Morphology of Phalaris Arundinacea L."

Prior to joining the BSC faculty last September, Dr. Gellos was an assistant in the Department of Botany of The Pennsylvania State University for four years. He also did some graduate teaching for the U. S. Army in preventative medicine.

He received his Bachelor of Science degree from Muhlenberg College in 1951 and his Master of Science degree from Ohio University in 1952.

Graduates of Susquehanna University contributed $73,088 to the university through the 1965 Alumni Loyalty Fund. Total cash contributions to the fund showed an increase of $12,216 or 21 per cent over the $60,872 raised by the 1964 fund.

BSC APPLIES FOR FEDERAL AID TO ASSIST STUDENTS

Bloomsburg State College has filed applications requesting federal funds totaling $265,125 to participate in student financial aid programs for the 1966-67 college year, according to provisions of the Higher Education Act of 1965. The applications were filed with the United States Office of Education of the Department of Health, Education and Welfare.

Of this total, $115,650 will be used for continuing the National Defense Student Loan Program which will aid an estimated 400 BSC students. This amount will be supplemented by $12,850 in local funds contributed from profits of the College Book Store.

Another $128,475 has been designated to support the College Work-Study Program which will aid an additional 255 students. This program will also require allocated funds of $14,275.

The balance of the federal funds requested, totaling $21,000, has been earmarked for the new Educational Opportunity Grants Program which was created by the Higher Education Act. These grants will be awarded during the next academic year to approximately sixty exceptionally needy full-time students who require such financial assistance to complete their college education.

The student aid programs at Bloomsburg State College are administered by Paul S. Riegel, Dean of Students, through the committee on scholarships, grants and loans.

PRESENTATIONS

Service keys, Who's Who Certificates and Lifetime Athletic Passes were presented Tuesday, January 25 to Bloomsburg State College members of the class of 1966 at the annual mid-year commencement exercises in Centennial Gymnasium.

Recipient of the service key, the highest award made to students by Bloomsburg State College in recognition of leadership and service to the college community, was Ruth A. Rimsha of Forest City, Pa.

Four seniors, who had been nominated and selected for inclusion in the 1965 publication of "Who's Who Among Students in American Universities and Colleges", received certificates from Paul Riegel, Dean of Students, after they had been presented by Norman Hilgar, Faculty Class Advisor. The group included: John R. Hinkle, of Weatherly, Pa.; Cecelia M. Mistal, of Hazleton, Pa.; Ruth A. Rimsha, Forest City, Pa. and Sandra Joan Russell, Parkland, Pa.

Lifetime passes to all athletic events at Bloomsburg State College, for athletes who earned four letters in one varsity intercollegiate sport, were presented to two senior athletes. They are: William S. Billett, South Williamsport, swimming; Jan A. Proseda, Milton, track.

BLUEPRINT FOR FUTURE

Bloomsburg State College should plan now to become a state university with an enrollment of not less than 6,000 in 1980, Dr. Harvey A. Andruss, president, told nearly 2,000 members of the BSC community at the first convocation of the second semester of the present academic year.

Stressed was the fact that the College is constantly growing far ahead of the plans, and despite the fact that there has been a continual shortage of space, with only half of the physical plant envisioned to be completed by 1970 expected to be ready for use in 1966.

He spoke of the demand for entrance being far above capacity—with accommodations 1,000 dormitory women could have been entered next fall but there is room for only 275—and of the anticipated growth in demand for entrance in the years ahead. Pointed out was that only a third of this state's high school graduates go to college but that in some states this is fifty per cent and this can be expected here if opportunities are provided in community or state colleges or in other relatively inexpensive institutions of learning.

Since the college now has an enrollment in excess of 3,000 and an instructional staff of 160, attendance was restricted to faculty members, freshmen, sophomores and some juniors.

Dr. Andruss stated that the first plan drawn for Bloomsburg State Teachers College, more than twenty years ago, would have accommodated double the enrollment at that time.

"Less than a decade ago, the figure was raised to 2,000 students, and the target date was set at 1970; subsequently, plans for 3,000 students were out-lined in greater detail. It is estimated that 2,800 full-time students will be enrolled next September, and this figure will reach or exceed the 3,000 mark in 1966—four years earlier than the target date of 1970. This growth has occurred in spite of the fact that only one-half of the buildings, which were supposed to be completed by 1970, will be ready for use by 1966.

"The last proposal made by Superintendent Charles H. Boehm was that Bloomsburg should be planned to accommodate 4,800 students with 3,000 on the present campus and 1,800 on a second campus. The increasing pressure for the enrollment of college students, the great number denied admission because of lack of room and financial support, and the history of the increase in the size of the institution from 1,200 to 2,000 to 3,000 to 4,800 leads President Andruss to believe that Bloomsburg State College should plan in terms of becoming a state university with an enrollment of not less than 6,000 in 1980.

"Plans—past and present—will be devised and developed in relation to the master plan for higher education, which must first be considered by the Council of Higher Education, composed of seven members appointed by Governor Scranton. This master plan will include the 14 state colleges, the one state-supported Pennsylvania State University, and 14 state-aided colleges and universities; consideration will also be given to sixty-nine private colleges and universities and an equal number of professional and—or technical schools.

"No doubt the development of community colleges, planned as two-year institutions giving the associate degree and financed on an equal basis by the student, the school district or sponsoring agency and the state, will need to be given consideration in relation to what will happen to their graduates who need to go on to other colleges and universities for the third and fourth years. This may mean that state colleges will have junior and senior classes larger in number than the freshmen and sophomore classes.

"All these factors indicate quite clearly that a new blueprint must be drawn for the continued development of Bloomsburg State College; these plans must provide for increased enrollments, more buildings, and faculty members who are both better educated and better compensated."

Dr. Andruss continued to point out that more applications are now received earlier in the year and that Bloomsburg had to choose 275 dormitory women to enter in September, 1965, from among 1,000 applications. The enrollment at the end of the first semester was only 1 per cent lower than at the beginning, and the beginning of the second semester for 1964-1965 showed an enrollment larger than the first semester.

"Pressure from parents and other interested adults is being applied to students in a fashion which sometimes interferes with their best efforts. With the admission of better students we are confronted with the question, 'How are faculty members meeting the challenge of being better teachers?' All of these and many other things are evidence of growth and development in the quality of education along with the growth in numbers.

"It is likely that many Pennsylvania high school graduates will not have an opportunity to enroll in college and this number will probably grow from September to September for at least five years. This is graphically demonstrated by statistical reports which show that while only a third of Pennsylvania's high school graduates go on to college the number in some states approaches fifty per cent. It seems to me that fifty per cent more college students can be expected to enroll if opportunities are provided either in community colleges or state colleges or other relatively inexpensive institutions, which students can afford to attend.

Florence Garrison Danforth has taken a segment of American History and recreated one of the most bizarre and disturbing occurrences of America's infancy, the Salem Witchcraft Hysteria of 1692. "New England Witchcraft" by Florence Garrison Danforth has been published by Pageant Press.

Although it lasted only a few months, this episode of fear and hallucination gathered such a momentous force that it swept aside all reason, justice and tolerance.

With the fervor of a partisan and the objectivity of a historian, the author examines the religious and political setting that in a large measure shaped the zealous possessiveness which described the town's relationship with God and Satan, and which went hand in hand with a heavy shroud of superstition that enveloped them, waking and sleeping. Chief protagonists of this factual drama are ten girls from Salem who recklessly, and often with malice, accused innocent persons of having bewitched them.

Florence G. Danforth, author, historian and civic worker, is a direct descendant of eight kings. She was national historian of the Patriots of America. Born in Pennsylvania, she now makes her home in Stanford, where she is busy taking care of three sons and her doctor husband.

Mrs. Danforth lives at 607 Cabrillo Avenue, Stanford University, California. She is listed in Who's Who on the Pacific Coast, Who's Who in the West, Who's Who of American Women. She has been an active member and office-holder in the D.A.R., the PTA, and many other organizations interested in the history of the United States.

Claude E. Miller, identified with the Shickshinny and Northwest school systems for thirty-seven and a half years and one of the best known educators in the area, has resigned his position as chief administrator of the Northwest District effective February 1, due to illness.

Miller, who has a distinguished record as an educator, had been on leave of absence since the start of the current term as the result of a heart condition which sent him to the Geisinger Medical Center on August 12.

He suffered a coronary thrombosis on November 17, 1952, about six weeks after the Northwest Jointure was formed, and at that time was hospitalized six weeks and away from his duties three months.

The educator is a graduate of the Bloomsburg State College, 1928, later earning his Bachelor of Science degree at that institution through attendance at night and summer classes. He received his Master's Degree from the Pennsylvania State University.

A native of Conyngham Township, Luzerne County, his entire career as a teacher and administrator was in the Shickshinny and Northwest schools.

He was named supervising principal of the Shickshinny schools on November 10, 1938, and to the same post when the Northwest jointure was formed. There are 1,800 pupils in Northwest which is currently comprised of Shickshinny and New Columbus Boroughs and the townships of Huntington, Hemlock, Union and Fairmount.

In addition to his work in the schools he has been prominent in the religious and civic life of the Shickshinny area. He withdrew from many of these activities after his heart attack in 1952. He has been active in the Shickshinny Methodist Church, serving for some years as superintendent of the Sunday School and for a longer period in the choir. He is a past master of the Shickshinny Lodge, F. & A.M., and a past president of the Shickshinny Rotary Club.

Miss Dorothy Schmidt is Presbyterian fraternal worker in Japan and a professor in the college department of Meiji Gakuin in Tokyo. Miss Schmidt teaches English, serves as advisor to a group of freshmen and sophomores, and does evangelistic work through the city churches. She is also the representative of Meiji Gakuin in a recent established government institute whose purpose is to teach conversational English to businessmen and give them an opportunity to converse with British and American people.

Miss Schmidt, who is from Scranton, was graduated from Bloomsburg State College and received a master's degree in religious education from Biblical Seminary, New York. At that time, she was appointed by the former Board of Foreign Missions of the Presbyterian Church, U.S.A. for service in Japan. Her first assignment was to Hokusei Gakuen, a church girl's school and junior college in Sapporo.

When the war made it necessary for Miss Schmidt to leave Japan, she was transferred to the Philippines to teach English in Silliman University, Dumaguete. She had taught there for only three weeks when the Pearl Harbor attack made it necessary to flee into the mountains. She was later taken prisoner by the Japanese and spent three years in various internment camps.

As soon as possible after the war she returned to her work at Hokusei Gakuen where she was head of the English and religious education department until 1953, when she was transferred to her present work in Tokyo.

Educational opportunity in the United States surpasses that in any other country, according to a Marple-Newtown High School teacher who has been named Pennsylvania's outstanding science teacher for 1965.

"The climate in our schools today is a tremendous one for everyone—teachers and students," said Dr. James V. Dertose of Kent Road, Springfield.

A graduate of Bloomsburg State College, who received his doctorate from the University of Pennsylvania, Dr. Dertose headed the science department in the Chester School District from 1944 to 1960 before joining the Marple-Newtown faculty.

Author of several textbooks and articles, Dr. Dertose "is optimistic about our children" in today's schools. They are taking advantage of the opportunities being provided by the educational system in this country, he said.

The new approach emphasizes laboratory work.

The educator also has played a role in experimental science curricula for kindergarten to 6th grade which is being used in some Philadelphia schools under the sponsorship of the American Association for the Advancement of Science.

He spent last summer writing material for the new curricula as a science consultant at Michigan State University.

In December, he was a participant in the White House Conference on International Cooperation which dealt with the ways the United States can develop activities in various fields with international cooperation.

DeRose, who is president of the National Science Teachers Association, is married and has three children, James, a student at Lycoming College, and Jeanne and Williams, who attended Springfield schools.

R. Glen Fenstermacher, a native of Lightstreet and son of Mr. and Mrs. Tim Fenstermacher, Old Berwick Road, has been elected president of the Commonwealth Bank and Trust Company, Wellsboro.

Fenstermacher became vice president of the bank on June 1, 1964. He is a graduate of the Scott Township High School and of the Bloomsburg State College class of 1956, with a Bachelor of Science Degree in Business Education.

He took graduate work at the Pennsylvania State University and received his Master Degree in Education Administration at Bucknell in 1960. He also attended the Graduate School of Banking at the University of Wisconsin from which he was graduated in 1963.

After serving three years in the U. S. Coast Guard and the completion of his college education he taught business subjects four years at North Penn Joint High School, Blossburg. He was named principal of that school in February, 1960.

In June of that year he was chosen cashier of the Citizens National Bank, Blossburg, and was elected to the board of directors of that bank in January, 1962. While at Blossburg he assumed active management of the bank and continued to serve in that capacity until he accepted the position at Wellsboro.

He is a past president of Blossburg Rotary Club and has been active in civic affairs. His wife is the former Sara Ann Phillips, Bloomsburg. They are the parents of two children.

George Chaump, head coach of John Harris High School, Harrisburg, owns the enviable distinction of having won or tied for the tough Central Pennsylvania League Championship in all of his four years at that position. Born in Scranton, Coach Chaump played guard and captained the 1952 West Pittston Championship team. He also gained All Conference honors the same year.

A Bloomsburg State College graduate of 1958, Chaump won four varsity letters in football and two in wrestling. Following his under-graduate work, he joined his former high school coach Tom Dean at William Penn High School, Harrisburg, and served as line coach for 1958, '59 and '60. In his first head coaching assignment at Shamokin, 1961, his team won five and lost five while being selected as the surprise team of the coal regions.

Then came Coach Chaump's amazing four year reign at John Harris with the following results: 1962, 11-0 and title; 1963, 8-2 and title; 1964, 8-2 and co-title; 1965, 10-0 and title. During this period of 37 wins and 4 losses he was selected as Central Pennsylvania League "Coach of the Year" for 1962, '63 and '65.

SPRING ARTS FESTIVAL, APRIL 21 THROUGH MAY 1, 1966

The 5th annual Spring Arts Festival at Bloomsburg State will be held from Thursday, April 21, through Sunday, May 1. Since its inception four years ago the Festival has become an important event in the cultural life of the College and community. Each year it brings to the campus, at no cost to students or public, a series of rich and varied programs, featuring outstanding representatives of the performing and creative arts. In addition, the Festival presents programs by the Bloomsburg Players and the Elcomsburg State College Concert Choir. This year's Festival will emphasize art and feature a three day visit by the distinguished young Spanish artist, Vaquero Turcios. Other highlights will be a poetry reading by Richard Eberhart and performances by the Pennsylvania Ballet Company and the Curtis String Quartet. All Festival events will take place in Carver Auditorium, unless otherwise indicated. According to Miss Susan Rusinko, Chairman, all events are open to the public without admission fee.

The Festival will open with the Bloomsburg Players' production of "You Can't Take It With You," under the direction of Mr. James McHale. There will be performances on Thursday, Friday and Saturday, April 21-23, all at 8:15 p. m. This comedy by Moss

Gretna, Pa.

Miss Carol Jeanne Long, Elysburg, was united to Larry Lee Richie, Elysburg, in a recent ceremony at Elysburg Methodist Church. The bride graduated from Southern High School and Harrisburg Polyclinic School of Nursing. Her husband, also a Southern High graduate, received his degree at BSC last January and took graduate work at Bucknell University. Mr. and Mrs. Richie are living in Danville, Pa., where the former is a teacher in the High School.

In a ceremony August 28 at Berwick Bible Church, Miss Ruth Ann Edwards of Berwick R. D. 2 was married to Headley Kenneth Killian, Berwick. The bride graduated from Berwick High School and Wilkes-Barre Business College and is a secretary at Standard Finance, Bloomsburg. Her husband graduated from Berwick High School and BSC and is a teacher of biology at Northwest High School.

Gary and Virginia McCoy Shafer are living at 221 Susquehanna Avenue, Lansdale, Pa. 19446.

Kathleen Kemp lives at 4116 Judith Court, St. Louis, Mo. 63118

Donna Marie Barbaro's address is 304 East Capitol Street, Washington, D. C.

Gary and Virginia McCoy Shafer are now living at 221 Susquehanna Avenue, Lansdale, Pa. 19446.

Hart and George Kaufman, a classic of the American theatre, is currently enjoying a most successful revival in New York.

On Monday evening, April 25, at 8:15, the Pennsylvania Ballet Company of Philadelphia will appear in a program of contemporary ballet. This young company, under the direction of Barbara Weisberger and the guidance of George Balanchine, recently received national recognition as the recipient of a ten-year Ford Foundation grant. It has attracted widespread critical acclaim not only for its enthusiasm, but for beauty of choreography and excellence of style.

The Festival's focus on art will feature Mr. Turcios, who is best known in the U. S. for his murals in the Spanish Pavilion of the recent New York World's Fair. Mr. Turcios will present three lectures: "Five Painters and the Problem of Reality," Tuesday, April 26, at 2:00 p. m.; "Mural Painting"—Tuesday, April 26, at 8:15 p. m.; "A Brief History of Spanish Art"—Wednesday, April 27, at 10:00 A. M. He will also be available for discussion with various student groups.

During the entire Festival a collection of contemporary religious paintings, from the Museum of Modern Art in New York will be on display in the lobby of Waller Hall.

Critical and creative literature will be represented this year by two speakers. On Wednesday, April 27, at 8:15 P. M., Scott Elledge, Professor of English at Cornell University, will present a lecture on E. B. White. On Friday, April 28, at 8:15 P. M., Richard Eberhart, poet and Professor of English at Dartmouth College, will read from his own poetry.

On Thursday, April 28, at 2:00 P. M., the Bruce Cameron Quartet, a student ensemble from Bucknell University, will present a program of jazz. That same night at 8:15 there will be a showing of the Spanish film, "Don Quixote."

One of the most eagerly anticipated events of the Festival is a return engagement of the celebrated Curtis String Quartet, whose appearance here was the highlight of the 1964 Festival. The Quartet will present a concert of Haydn, Schubert, Wolf, and Debussy on Saturday evening, April 30, at 8:15.

The Festival will conclude on Sunday May 1, at 3:00 P. M. with a concert by the Bloomsburg State College Concert Choir, under the direction of Mr. William Decker. In addition to works by Britten, Vaughan, Williams, Stravinsky, Bartok, Ives, Copland and Rochberg, the Choir will present the premiere of a new work, specially commissioned for this concert, by the young Canadian composer Sydney Hodgkinson, now at Ohio University.

The Student Government Association and the Spring Arts Festival Committee cordially invite the public to attend all the events.

WASHINGTON, D. C. ALUMNI

The Washington Branch of the Bloomsburg State College Alumni Association held a luncheon meeting on Saturday, November 20, 1965, in the Blair Mansion Inn, Silver Springs, Maryland. There were 22 in attendance for the luncheon and meeting, of which 20 were Alumni of Bloomsburg State College. The class representation was from 1908 (Miss Sadie Hartmen) to 1964 (Mr. Harold Andrews).

Following the luncheon the President, Mr. Clark Renninger, introduced Mr. James B. Creasy, assistant to the President of the College, who presented to the group the facts of Bloomsburg's growth since 1955 and projected the pattern to 1975. Following the general presentation, he spoke briefly to the group on the buildings, landmarks, and invited all of them to take out five-year memberships in the Alumni Association in order to receive the directory and a copy of the 125th Anniversary Brochure.

This group seemed genuinely interested in the plans for the future. A number of them expressed dismay at the purported size of the institution for fear the character of Bloomsburg

State College would be lost. In an informal question and answer period Mr. Creasy assured them that we here at Bloomsburg are most interested in preserving the character and charm of Bloomsburg State College, but at the same time we are interested in growth to meet the challenge facing institutions of higher education.

The group seemed most interested in the operation of the dining room, the is, dress policy; what buildings were going to be demolished; what happened to the lions or if the lions were still on their pedestals; and the student demonstration in 1964.

Those present were:

Mrs. Charles Hicks (Thalia Barba) '34, Miss Wilhelmina Cerine '32, Lt. Curtis R. English '56, Mrs. Ruth H. Baker (Ruth Haggy) '32, Miss Saida Hartman '08, Mr. Robert H. Hill '38, Mrs. Robert H. Hill (Stella Johnson) '40, Mr. Jack Mertz '42, Mr. Harold Andrews '64, Mrs. Thomas Dalton (Jane Rutledge) '41, Mrs. G. W. Murphy (Harriet McAndrew), Mr. Clark R. Renninger '41, Mrs. Clark R. Renninger (Catherine Oplinger) '41, Mrs. Leon F. Hartley (Muriel Rinard) '40, Mrs. Elizabeth Aurand (Elizabeth Steele) '19, Miss Margaret Steininger '39, Mrs. Lewis H. Thomas (Shirley Henley) '49.

PHILADELPHIA ALUMNI

Eighteen members of the Philadelphia Alumni of Bloomsburg State College attended a surprise gathering on November 21 at the home of Mr. and Mrs. George Buchman, Philadelphia, who left in December for Sarasota, Florida.

Mrs. Buchman, the former Rachael Oman, Orangeville, class of 1924, has been active in the group during 36 years of existence and assisted Mrs. Florence Hess Cool, the associations first president, in organizing the Philadelphia Branch of the Alumni. In recognition and appreciation of her long years of service Mrs. Buckman was presented with a gift.

Mrs. Lillie Hartman Irish, 1906, has served as president and is now honorary president. She lives in Camden. Miss Katharine Spencer, 1918, of Media, is also a past president.

The group met for the annual Christmas meeting on December 11th at Gimbels in the Club Women's Center. Activities and refreshments were appropriate to the Holiday Season.

Mrs. Mary K. Burke, who lives at 2518 South 18th street, Philadelphia, was hostess at the January meeting when a number of the members met at her home on January 8th.

SPRING ARTS FESTIVAL

April 21 to May 1, 1966

All events without charge

ALUMNI
May 7th

Another Alumni Day is drawing near again. The date is Saturday, May 7. The main feature of the day will be the Alumni Luncheon in the College Commons at 12:30, followed by the annual business meeting of the Alumni Association. We hope that this meeting will not last longer than one hour. It will include the reports of the Secretary and Treasurer, the election of five Directors, and the presentation of a Distinguished Service Award.

Inasmuch as the College Administration has discontinued its policy of paying for the luncheon, a charge of $1.50 will be necessary. This will apply to both members and non-members. It is hoped that, if the membership of the Association becomes sufficiently large, it will be possible in the future for the Alumni Association to assume the cost of these luncheons.

Those who expect to spend Friday night in Bloomsburg are urged to make motel or hotel reservations as soon as possible. These places will be very much in demand because of other events that are taking place in Bloomsburg that evening.

The Department of Public Relations of the College will soon send a letter to all graduates of BSC. This letter will inform you of the events of the day, and provide a list of hotels and motels in the Bloomsburg area.

We hope that all of the class reunions will be successful. This will depend on the ground work done by class members who have consented to assume that responsibility.

The Alumni Quarterly

TO MEMBERS OF THE ALUMNI ASSOCIATION:

Itt has been apparent for some years that dues paid by only a fraction of the total number of graduates is insufficient to support Alumni activities, particularly the Quarterly.

This has been true, even though the College, through the Community Activities Association, has supplemented the cost of distributing one copy (generally the June number) of the Alumni Quarterly to all graduates, in addition to those who belong to the Alumni Association.

In order to encourage an annual program of giving on the part of all graduates, and to revive the Branches of our Alumni Association, the President of the College recommended to the Board of Trustees, at their May meeting, that the bequest made in Memory of Thomas D. Dyke by Mrs. Amelia Schwamlein, be used for these purposes, based on a plan which will be mutually agreeable to the Board of Trustees of the College and the Board of Directors of the Alumni Association.

With a file of graduates which exceeds 10,000, and a membership averaging less than 1,500, not including graduating Seniors, it is evident that new approaches need to be developed in the area of Alumni contacts and activities, including financial support.

While the plan in its details will need to be developed, probably the greatest need at the present time is to increase the scholarships at least ten times. Loans are now available through the Federal Government, the State Government, local Banks, and Savings and Loans Association. Many medium-sized high schools now have more scholarships available to students than does our College.

Your understanding of this situation as it exists, and the planning which may be done to meet the scholarship needs, will be appreciated by the Board of Trustees, the Board of Directors of the Alumni Association, and

DR. FRANCIS B. HAAS

Dr. Francis B. Haas, eighty-one, former superintendent of the state department of public instruction and president of Bloomsburg State College from 1927 to 1939, died Monday, February 28, at the Harrisburg Hospital following a heart attack.

He had been in the hospital for the past ten days after undergoing an operation in January. Dr. Haas resided with his wife, Mrs. Miriam R. Haas, at the Riverview Manor Apartments, Harrisburg.

Dr. Haas served as superintendent of the state department for the first term from 1925 to 1927. In the fall of 1927, he was named president of Bloomsburg State College where he served until 1939 when he was reappointed to the state department position.

A native of Philadelphia, Dr. Haas remained as head of the department until 1954 when he retired. He had been retained by former governors James H. Duff, Edward Martin, Arthur H. James and John S. Fine and served sixteen years in succession. His first appointment, in 1925, was by Gov. Gifford Pinchot.

From 1905 to 1920, Dr. Haas taught in Philadelphia public schools, at Kenderdson school of pedagogy, was supervising principal of Philadelphia Brice School and Keyser-Meehan and Benson Schools.

He entered the state department of public instruction in 1920 as assistant director of the bureau of administration and was named superintendent five years later. He earned degrees from Philadelphia School of Pedagogy, Temple University and the University of Pennsylvania.

He had the assignment of guiding the state educational system during World War II.

Survivors, in addition to his wife, are two daughters, Mrs. James B. Hess, Spokane, Wash.; Mrs. James K. Gailey, Harrisburg; a son, Francis

B., Jr., Harrisburg; and seven grandchildren.

Funeral services for Dr. Haas were held Thursday, March 3 at Grace Methodist Church, Harrisburg.

Dr. Haas, who was prominent in many phases of community life while a resident of Bloomsburg, was a Thirty-third Degree Mason from Caldwell Consistory. Locally he was a member of the Scottish Rite Bodies, Orient Conclaves No. 2, Crusade Commandery No. 12 and the Craftsman Club. He was long a trustee of Caldwell Consistory, resigning from that post in recent years.

Dr. Harvey A. Andruss paid the following tribute to Dr. Haas:

The College and the Community of Bloomsburg remember Frank Haas with admiration and respect bordering on reverence for his twelve year tenure as President of what was then the Bloomsburg State Teachers College, after which he was State Superintendent of Public Instruction for a period of sixteen years.

The transition from State Normal School to State Teachers College status was difficult. There were two Presidents in a period of seven years, after which stability was restored through the hands of Dr. Haas, a master administrator.

Having had an opportunity to work with Doctor Haas in organizing the Department of Business and later as Dean of Instruction, the present administration is a prolongation of the sound foundations which were laid during his tenure.

During his years the Benjamin Franklin Laboratory School, the Centennial Gymnasium, the Junior High School now known as Navy Hall, a new Heating Plant, a Maintenance Building, and a Laundry were added to the college plant.

But most of all, the interest of the Alumni in their Alma Mater was quicken so that the Centennial Celebration in 1939 was one of the most memorable in the history of the college.

The name of Francis Buchman Haas will be inscribed along with the name of David Jewett Waller, Jr., as the most outstanding Presidents in the history of our college.

It is worthy of note that these two men also served as Superintendents of Public Instruction. Dr. Haas also had the rare distinction of serving two consecutive terms as President of the Pennsylvania State Education Association in 1932 and 1933.

Bloomsburg State College will do well to note and long remember the contributions of these two great men of Education who were also great human beings and a source of inspiration to all those who look to the future of the "College on the Hill."

The Bloomsburg Morning Press had the following editorial comment:

"Few men in Pennsylvania's history have left a greater impression on its educational system than Dr. Francis B. Haas. His recent death ended long years of service that had continued even after his retirement.

"His years as president of the College here were marked by the beginning of a transition from a one-time Normal School into a full-fledged college, and the groundwork he laid has served well for the virtual expansion explosion which has followed under the capable guidance of Dr. Harvey A. Andruss.

"Then in two terms as head of the Department of Public Instruction, Dr. Haas spread his talents statewide in directing the educational machinery of the Commonwealth into another period of transition, growth and virtual revolution.

"Bloomsburg has cause to remember well his tenure here and his civic work as well."

FROSH CLASS NOT TO BE OVER 900 IN THE FALL

More than 5500 applications for admission for the 1966 fall term have been distributed by Bloomsburg State College, according to John L. Walker, director of admissions. Of that number, over 2,900 applications have been returned to the admissions office by prospective students.

The freshman class of new students at Bloomsburg State College is not expected to exceed the 885 new students who were admitted last fall when the total enrollment rose to a record 2,838 full-time students. However, the total college enrollment will still climb to a new high of approximately 3,000 students. The reason for this is that with today's higher calibre of student, the attrition rate is lower than usual.

The admissions office discontinued sending out applications around January 1 to women who would find it necessary to be housed on campus or in private homes in the town. Early in February, it became impossible to accept any more completed applications from prospective resident women. Walker announced that completed applications will continue to be received from men and women who can commute from their own homes and for men who plan to reside on campus or in approved housing in the town.

'ON THE CAMPUS'

The 1966 Summer Sessions schedule at Bloomsburg State College is as follows: Pre-Session—June 6-June 24; Main-Session—June 27-August 5; Post-Session—August 8-26. Inquiries regarding summer session should be directed by Robert L. Bunge, Registrar.

The thirty-second annual Business Education Contest was held at BSC on Saturday, May 14. Over 250 students from approximately sixty Pennsylvania High Schools participated.

For the fourth time in as many years, first place was won by Berwick High School.

COMMENCEMENT

A graduating class of 314 received their diplomas at the commencement exercises held in Centennial Gymnasium on Sunday afternoon, May 29.

The principal speaker was Dr. Dean F. Berkley, director of the Bureau of Field Service and Professor of School Administration at Indiana University, Bloomington, Indiana. The subject of his address was "Parthenons or Mud Huts?"

John A. Hoch, Dean of Instruction, presented the candidates for undergraduate degrees, after which President Harvey A. Andruss conferred the degree of Bachelor of Science in Education on those who had completed their work in preparation to become teachers.

The diplomas granted to those completing the Business Education Curriculum were presented by Dr. S. Lloyd Toumey, Director of Business Education.

Those completing the work in the Secondary Curriculum received their diplomas from Dr. C. Stuart Edwards, Director of Secondary Education.

The students who had completed the work in the field of Special Education received their diplomas from Dr. Donald F. Maietta, Director of Special Education.

President Andruss then conferred the degree of Bachelor of Arts on the students who had completed their studies in Liberal Arts. The students received their diplomas from Dr. Alden Bucher, Director of Arts and Sciences.

The candidates for the degree of Master of Education were then presented by Dr. Robert C. Miller, Director of Graduate Studies. The degrees were conferred and the diplomas presented by President Andruss.

The assembly was closed by the singing of the Alma Mater.

The organist for the assembly was Mrs. Thomas G. Sturgeon. As a processional she played the "Trumpet Voluntary in D" by Purcell and as a recessional she played "Rigaudon" by Campra.

Heading the academic procession as Honorary Commencement Marshal, and carrying the college mace, was Charles R. Reardin, Chairman of the Department of Mathematics.

BSC HOST TO PAST CGA PRESIDENTS

Twelve past presidents of the Community Government Association and College Council at Bloomsburg State College returned to their alma mater recently as honored guests of the present college council.

Most of the guests arrived before noon, met briefly with student leaders of campus organizations and attended some of the college classes which were in session.

Following a luncheon in the College Commons, the guests were welcomed by Dr. Harvey A. Andruss, president of the college, and Gilbert Glockley, president of the College Council for the 1965-66 school year. John A. Hoch, dean of instruction, introduced each of the guests and their wives.

Dr. Andruss emphasized the importance of student participation in government and thanked those present for the contributions they had made to the college. He noted that many of the forty individuals who had served as presidents since the College Council was created in 1927 have had interesting, varied and productive careers.

Dr. Andruss paid tribute to Dr. Marguerite Kehr, Dean of Women Emeritus, who was the guest of honor.

A list of projects completed by College Council during the past year was described by Glockley. He also presented an analysis and the Community Government Association is spending nearly $170,000 this year.

A tour of the campus, with special emphasis on new buildings and those currently under construction, preceded a brief film of campus events which spanned more than three decades.

The day's activities were concluded with a banquet in the College Commons and attendance at the final production of "Picnic" presented by the Bloomsburg State College Players in Carver Auditorium.

Attending the event and the year they served as College Council president, were: George A. Mathews, Vandergrift, 1928-29; Charles F. Hensley, Wilkes-Barre, 1932-33; John T. Beck, Hershey, 1934-35; Boyd F. Buckingham, Bloomsburg, Sept. 1942-Feb. 1943.

Mrs. Joanna Buckingham, Bloomsburg, Feb. 1943-May 1943; Mrs. Mary Lou John, Bloomsburg, 1944-1945; Harry Reitz, Camp Hill, 1947-48; Thaddeus Swigonski, Nanticoke, 1948-49; J. Richard Wagner, Kutztown, 1949-50; Edward J. Connolly, Allentown, 1954-55; Ronald Romig, Oakhurst, N. J., 1958-59; James Case, Trucksville, 1962-63.

A committee, headed by Susan Harper, a sophomore from Berwyn, was in charge of the planning and arrangements for the day.

ATHLETES HONORED

Bloomsburg State College's new athletic facilities—a proposed $2 million field house-gymnasium with 4,000 seating capacity and a swimming pool and an athletic stadium with accommodations for 5,000 to 6,000—will be located in the former Country Club area, Dr. Harvey A. Andruss, president of the educational institution, revealed at the Ninth Annual Athletic Awards Dinner held in College Commons.

The third revision of the campus plan—its the fourth since the close of World War II and will be adequate for a student body of 5,600—it to be made by John Dickey, of the firm of Price and Dickey, Media, and in it the additional athletic facilities will be placed on the new campus rather than in the previously considered fifteen acre tract, between Chestnut street and Country Club road, adjacent to the main campus.

The gymnasium-field house, for which an appropriation will not be made until the 1967-69 session of the Legislature, will be the first building erected on the second campus but it is anticipated the first structure in that location will be the new athletic field.

It was at the athletic dinner in 1964 that Dr. Andruss announced provision for the new athletic field and there is a $591,000 allocation for this project. The first design was for the placing of the stadium in the area of the residence of the College president. Now with a third revised campus plan to be drawn, the stadium design will have to be changed in accord with the new site. It is believed the appointment to do this will be given the Price and Dickey firm in the immediate future and that it will be ready in a comparatively short time.

A special award, a College blazer, was presented to Dean of Instruction John A. Hoch in appreciation for his contributions to athletics of the College since he joined the faculty in 1946. His first year he took over the varsity football coaching job following the unexpected and untimely death of Alvin J. (Lefty) Danks, just prior to the opening of the season and did an excellent job. He has served as a coach and faculty director of athletics and has always been dedicated to the success of the athletic program. The presentation of the blazer was made by Russell E. Houk, athletic director, and the some 400 or more in the Commons showed their approval with ringing applause. Hoch in accepting admitted that, for the moment, words were difficult to muster but he described the award as one of "the finest things" he has experienced.

Speaker of the evening was Palmar "Pete" Retzlaff, star end of the Philadelphia Eagles, and he got close attention during his talk in which he declared that all are born with some ability and that if there is the correct attitude and dedication "each one can be a winner."

Dr. Andruss said the first plan, in the forties, was for a student body of 1,200. This has been continually revised upward until the present third revision for a student body of 5,600.

The relocation of the intercollegiate stadium and field house in the former Country Club area, it was noted, will release the fifteen acres adjoining the main campus for recreational areas, for intramural sports and physical education classes until such time as it may be needed as the site for additional buildings.

He spoke of the College's request for the new field house which will include a swimming pool. Dressing rooms for varsity teams will be located either in this structure or under the stands of the stadium which is to be constructed on the level section beyond the old country club house.

It was pointed out that, in order to provide access to the new expansion of the campus, it may be necessary to purchase additional land for roads to accommodate not only college students who practice or participate in the games but also the spectators. There will be a need for access highways and parking facilities.

The campus development will require a determination of the kind and type of buildings to be located in the new area. The general plan provides classrooms, libraries and gymnasiums for physical education, be located on the present main campus.

Dean Elton Hunsinger did his usual capable job as master of ceremonies and Dr. Paul S. Riegel, dean of students, gave the invocation. The program closed with the "Alma Mater," Dr. Nelson Miller directing.

Awards to the athletes in the various sports were presented by the coaches immediately after the close of the program.

*MANY STUDENTS GIVE BLOOD

At the annual visit of the Bloodmobile to the BSC campus on Thursday, March 10, over 800 pints of blood were contributed. The first BSC Bloodmobile visit was held in 1951, with 104 pints being collected. In 1965, with 210 pints pledged, 198 pints were collected. It is felt that the outstanding response this year was due to the reaction of the majority of college students to the anti Viet Nam demonstrations. George Stradtman was the Faculty Coordinator of the project.

The Fourth Annual European Culture Tour sponsored by BSC will be conducted this summer from July 11 through 18. Additional information can be obtained from Edson J. Drake, Program Director at Bloomsburg State College.

CLASS REUNIONS

A contribution of $200 to the College library fund was made by the class of 1916, honor class in reunion, during the spring weekend festivities of the graduates of Bloomsburg State College.

The fifty-year class, which opened its busy program with a dinner in College Commons, the general alumni host, and followed with a breakfast at the Hotel Magee on Saturday morning, set a brisk pace for the many classes in reunion.

The class get together, with many special festivities including five dinners in various spots around the community on Saturday evening, were the main features of the observance which blessed with excellent weather and marked by a good attendance. This was the second year for the early May presentation in place of the long accepted date of graduation weekend.

The class of '16, with Mrs. Helen Shaffer Henrie in charge, had 45 at the dinner on Friday evening and 40 at the breakfast.

Representatives of many of the veteran classes were also represented at the Friday evening dinner including Miss Mabel Farley, Milton, a member of the class of 1906 who devoted fifty-three years to work as an educator, forty-five years of that in Hicksville, N. Y., and Dr. Carroll Champlin, 1906, who started his career as a teacher in Hemlock Township and was on the faculties of fifteen colleges and universities in a career of over a half century. Dr. William Bittner III, New York state educator and alumni director, presided at the dinner.

Class of 1906

The sixty-year class had six members back, most of them joining in the dinner on Friday evening and then continuing in the activities on Alumni Day. Registered:

Laura Aurand Witmer, Collegeville; Amy Levan, Ethel Henry Nattuss, Sunbury; Edith Shuman Grimes, Catawissa; Dr. Carroll Champlin; Mabel Farley, Milton.

Class of 1910

Although this was not a reunion year, a sizeable group of the class of 1910 joined in the festivities on Alumni Day.

Class of 1911

The class of 1911, with Mrs. Fred Diehl, Danville, in charge, had an excellent turnout with twenty-seven in attendance. They came from five states—Pennsylvania, New Hampshire, New York, New Jersey and Kansas—and opened their program with a dinner in College Commons on Friday evening.

Class of 1913

The class of 1913 was not one of the reunion classes but had eight members back for a busy and enjoyed weekend.

Class of 1921

The fifty-five year class reported thirty-seven in attendance for a memorable day on the hill; including participation in the general activities and a happy period of reminiscing in an assigned room at the College.

Class of 1926

The forty-year class reported forty in attendance for an active and memorable day on the hill.

Class of 1931

The class of 1931 reported twenty-one back for its thirty-fifth year reunion with members having a day that in the years ahead will reward further happy memories.

Class of 1936

The class of 1936 had a wonderful time, participating in the numerous activities on the hill and then climaxing an active day with a get together, followed by a dinner, at the Elks Club.

Class of 1941

The twenty-five year class had a splendid time and a fine attendance. The arrangements were in charge of Charles Robbins, Bloomsburg, and the climaxing feature was a dinner at the Bloomsburg Legion on Saturday evening at which Mr. and Mrs. Walter Rygiel of the College faculty were guests.

Classes of 1944-45-46

Classes of '44, '45 and '46 enjoyed a smorgasbord at the Hotel Magee on Saturday. Walter McCloskey, Danville, was the master of ceremonies. The group was entertained by the Madrigal Singers. Dr. Kimber Kuster, Class Advisor, and the man to whom the 1946 Obitar was dedicated, was the pace-setter for the memories of the three classes.

Prizes were awarded to the person married longest, Ralph McCracken, Riverside; the person married shortest time, Marjorie Stover Murray, Williamsport; person with the most children, Violet Weller Owens, Turbotville; person with most grandchildren, Dr. Kuster, Bloomsburg; the person with the smallest waistline, Ella Schargo Zinzerella, Coatesville; person with the least hair, Ralph McCracken, Riverside.

The committee included Mrs. Poletime Demetrikopoulos, '44; Mrs. Mary Lou John and Mrs. Julia Driskell, '45, and Mrs. Ann Trowbridge and Mrs. Jacqueline Creasy, '46.

Registering from the class of 1951 were Paul L. Keener, Plattsburgh, N.

Y; Dr. Russell C. Davis, Jr., Grahamsville, N. Y.

The class of 1956 reported seventy-five members and guests at their reunion dinner held at the Moose home on Saturday evening as the concluding feature of an outstanding day.

Harrison Morson, Roselle, N. J., gave the invocation at the dinner with Dr. William Bitner, Glen Falls, N. Y., presiding. Dr. Harvey A. Andruss, BSC president, told of the value of a strong alumni to a growing college. Introduced was Mrs. E. T. DeVoe, widow of one of the class advisors. Dr. C. C. Soronsy, an advisor, spoke. Mike Homick, Camp Hill, presented information on the class.

Awards went to Margaret Duttinger Hartley, West Milton, Ohio, coming the farthest; and being parent of the youngest child, two months; Ronald Girton, Boyertown and Mary Hoffecker Coughlin, Yeadon, most children, four each; Harry Weist, Gordon, gained most weight. Door prizes were also distributed.

The class of 1961 reported almost a hundred members and guests present for its fifty year reunion dinner held on Saturday evening at the WHLM building, with arrangements in charge of Edwin Kuser.

Recent Classes

Others registered on the campus were: Class of 1962—Marjorie Morgan Pomicker, Newton, N. J.; class of 1963—James E. Siple, Harrisburg; 1964—Ronald Rife, Mannsville, N. Y.; 1965—James F. Eisenhart, Jr., Woodbury, N. J.; Jerome Panert, Monticello, N. Y.; Anne Borove, Nicholson; Jean Weisenfluh, Staten Island, N. Y.

Dr. Wei Kang Liang, a native of Shantung Province, China, has been appointed Associate Professor of Economics at Bloomsburg State College and joined the faculty at the beginning of the second semester. Dr. Liang received his elementary education in Shantung Province, and attended high school in Peiping, China. He was awarded his Bachelor of Arts degree in economics at National Peking University, Peiping, China in 1940. His Master of Business Administration degree was granted by the Wharton School of Commerce and Finance, University of Pennsylvania, and his Doctor of Philosophy degree in economics was earned at the University of Pennsylvania in the years 1946 and 1965, respectively.

Mary E. Frances (Mrs. Gilbert H. Gendall, Sr.) has been reported as deceased.

The Studio Band has completed one of its most active and successful years. Under the direction of Dr. Charles H. Carlson, the organization has performed before audiences both on and off campus.

Visits to area high schools to perform before the assembly program student-body continued throughout the year. Among the many local schools visited were Northwest, Berwick, Bloomsburg and Lake-Lehman. Assisting the Studio Band on these programs were such outstandingly talented students as Ralph Miller, Susan Harper, Jane Ellen Ternigan, Rebekah Ward, Carla Overheiser, Bobbie Tharp, Iva Klingaman and Ed Austin.

On April 18, 1966 a Video-Taping of the Studio Band took place at WNEP-TV in Scranton. Under the general supervision of Mr. Hal Berg of the WNEP-TV staff, a thirty minute program was recorded presenting a variety of college talent.

The Studio Band was honored by being selected as the official band for the Miss Eastern Pennsylvania Pageant held in Bloomsburg on April 23, 1966. Playing music secured from the National Pageant in Atlantic City, this group conducted themselves as professionals throughout the entire time of preparation and performance. Adding to the thrill of this final performance was the crowning of Miss Jane Ellen Ternigan, a BSC student, as queen.

On campus performances in the Husky Lounge provided entertainment to an enthusiastic, informal student audience. Presenting a wide variety of talent, similar to the high school visitation programs, the students were most appreciative of the performers' efforts.

Represented here is an extremely active year and one of which the Studio Band can be proud. At this time, the Studio Band and its director wishes to thank the many alumni who have so strongly supported the activities of this musical organization during the past years.

BACCALAUREATE

The Right Reverend Rembert G. Weakland, O.S.B., D.D., Coadjutor Archabbot, St. Vincent Archabbat, Latrobe, Pa., delivered the Baccalaureate address at the Bloomsburg State College at an assembly held in the Centennial Gymnasium, Sunday morning, May 29.

The faculty and graduating class entered the gymnasium to the music of the processional "Marche Religieuse" by Jongen. Following the invocation by the Right Reverend Dr. Weakland, the audience sang the hymn "Praise to the Lord, the Almighty." President Andruss read the scripture, and then presented the baccalaureate speaker.

Following the address Mrs. Mary Y. Decker sang "Draw Near to Me," by Bach. Following the benediction by the Right Reverend Dr. Weakland,

ALUMNI DAY

If Bloomsburg State College in its rapidly expanding program can "continue to develop minds, an appreciation of good manners and the practice of a high standard of morals then this project will be worthwhile," Dr. Harvey A. Andruss, president, told returning alumni at the annual luncheon and meeting held in College Commons on Saturday afternoon and attended by around 400.

Mrs. Katherine Little Bakeless, Seymour, Conn., a graduate of 1915, received the Meritorious Service Award of the Alumni Association, with the presentation by Dr. Kimber C. Kuster, retired faculty member and also holder of the award.

The citation to Mrs. Bakeless, whose husband, John Bakeless, was similarly honored in 1953, noted the recipient is an "internationally famous biographer of histories of national songs and co-author, with her husband, of books on American history, inspiring teacher of music in public schools and private studios, research assistant, critic, traveler, housewife and gracious hostess."

The association placed in the hands of its directors the question of whether to change its format of organization so that it will include all graduates, whether dues paying members at the time or not, and add in its program the solicitation of the entire graduate body yearly for financial support of some project that is of need at the college.

Reelected to the board of directors were Millard Ludwig, Millville, class of 1948; Mrs. Grace Foote Conner, Bloomsburg, 1934; Dr. Kimber C. Kuster, Bloomsburg, 1913; John Thomas, Harrisburg, 1947 and Howard Tomlinson Westfield, N. J., 1941. The slate was presented by Clayton H. Hinkel and unanimously endorsed.

The board at its reorganization later named Howard F. Fenstermaker, 1912, president; Dr. Frank Furgele, 1952, Southampton, Pa., vice president; Mrs. Elmer J. McKechnie, 1935, Berwick, secretary; Earl A. Gehrig, 1937, treasurer.

Gehrig in his report of the various funds noted the association during the coming week will award eight scholarships and grants in a total amount of $1,000—the largest to date—with this provided from the earnings of a fund of $41,000.

The Mary McNinch Loan Fund totals $141,000 with $46,000 now out in student loans and the balance in trust and savings accounts.

Tony Cerza, president of the class of 1966, presented a check covering a year's dues for all members of the class who were voted into membership.

Bloomsburg has requested $33 millions from the state for a six-year building program to start next year and this will be in addition to $24 millions in physical improvements now or to be completed, Dr. Andruss told the alumni.

He spoke of the study to develop campuses on either side of the Lightstreet road and said one of the immediate problems is the handling of traffic should a stadium and field house be erected on the site of the former Bloomsburg Country Club, as now planned. He said the stadium would have a capacity of 6,000 or so and the problem which will arise when crowds travel to and from that area. He said this will be a problem even if Lightstreet road should become one of four lanes in the future.

What the future holds, he said, depends on what Pennsylvania wants for Bloomsburg State. Present plans call for almost doubling the present enrollment to 5,600 and this may go higher for since the end of World War II plans have continually been changed, before completion, to higher goals.

The educator said the populace is impressed by buildings and campus, but if the institution is to be successful in its program in the years ahead, it must be more than large; "it must produce the type of people who are seated before me now."

Education today, he continued, is mental discipline and the ability to suspend judgment until all of the facts are in, and not just passing the classroom requirements and graduating.

"An educated man," said Dr. Andruss, "is one with the ability to meet any man on his own level without necessarily descending to it."

With regard to morals, mention was made that it is necessary to combat those things which cause deterioration but he reminded that "young people today have more problems than when we were of that age and we have to look on the current scene with understanding."

Boyd F. Buckingham, an alumnus and director of public relations at the College, said that in the expanding of the field of service of the institution it is also necessary the graduate organization adjust its program to meet the needs.

He mentioned that at Kutztown, Shippensburg and West Chester the graduate bodies have made annual appeals to the alumni for funds for definite projects. Shippensburg, he said, has been especially successful in this program, with $10,000 or more raised annually.

The matter of future operation plans was placed in the hands of the board of directors.

Mrs. Bakeless in her brief response spoke of her gratitude for the recognition paid her by the alumni.

The recipient is a native of Bloomsburg and a daughter of the late Judge and Mrs. Robert R. Little. She graduated from the then Bloomsburg Normal School in 1915, got a music diploma here the following year and then studied at Peabody Conservatory, 1917-20 and under a number of prominent teachers including Berta Jahn-Beer, professor of piano, Vienna Conservatory at Salsburg.

She has taught piano in several schools and has written a number of books including those on great composers, "Birth of a Nation's Song" which deals with the history of The Star Spangled Banner and "Glory Hallelujah," the story of the "Battle Hymn of the Republic."

Mrs. Bakeless has traveled in most of Europe and chauffeured her husband on his 18,500 mile Lewis and Clark research trip. She has enjoyed canoeing in the wilder parts of Canada with her husband and small groups and has worked with her husband in a number of writings. At present they are teamed in the preparation of a book for young people on "Signers of the Declaration of Independence."

The oldest class representatives at the dinner were Mrs. J. S. John, of Bloomsburg, class of 1895, and Miss Elsie Hicks, Espy, class of 1898.

Representations reported at the luncheon were: 1911-27; 1916-45; 1921-37; 1926-40; 1931-21; 1936-4; 1941-10; 1945 and 1946-9; 1956-40; 1961-50.

An excellent array of talent was presented during the Fifth Annual Spring Arts Festival at Bloomsburg State College held April 21 through May 1. As in the past, the Festival is being brought to the campus with the purpose of stimulating interest and participation in the creative arts with the students and faculty members as well as the area community residents. All events were open to the public with no charge for admission. Activities got under way April 21, through the 23rd, with the Bloomsburg Players presenting "You Can't Take It With You."

Robert R. Solenberger attended the meetings of the Association for Asian Studies held in New York April 4-6, and the meetings of the American Ethnological Society of America's oldest anthropological organization held at Temple University April 8-9.

Dr. Ellen L. Lensing has been asked by Dr. Wyman Walker of Wisconsin State University to represent that institution at the inauguration of President Arthur L. Schultz, of Albright College in Reading.

The Bloomsburg Morning Press had the following editorial comment regarding the late Ray M. Cole:

It is questionable if Columbia County ever had a son more dedicated and more admired than the late Ray M. Cole, former superintendent of Columbia County Schools, whose life tragically ended Friday night.

One, too, questions if there was a resident more willing and more capable of accepting a call to community service, for it seems in retrospect that should a group be considering some one to head this or that committee the name "Ray M. Cole" popped foremost in their minds.

Ray was a sincere work horse for all that was good for the area. A native of Orangeville, his entire life was one devoted to helping others. He never learned to say no, and that contributed to his stature. Of course many felt he carried far too much responsibility for his own good, but that was the type of man Ray always was.

The greatness of this man will linger on in the minds of his legion of friends. It should prove an incentive and challenge for others following in fields of community service.

At the College Assembly on Thursday, May 12, we had the great pleasure of presenting Alumni scholarships to the following students:

The Harold B. Hartley Award: to Darlene Wroblewski.

The Lucy McCammon Scholarship: to Connie Rohr.

The Earl N. Rhodes Scholarship: to Thomas Free.

The Columbia County Scholarship: to Deanna Woolcock.

Class of 1950 Scholarship: to Rosemary B. Lubinski.

The Anna Lowrie Wells Scholarship: to Roberta Williams.

All of the above named scholarships were derived from specific gifts, and were named after the donors. In addition, the following scholarships came from the income of the General Scholarship Fund:

The Bruce Albert Memorial Scholarship: to Judith Ann DeFant.

The O. H. Bakeless Scholarship: to Suzy Holmes.

The William B. Sutliff Scholarship: to Mary Steffen.

The scholarships total $1225. For an institution as large as BSC, and an Alumni of almost 10,000, this amount is not very imposing. Increases in the amount of scholarships and grants will have to depend on the generosity of the Alumni, and an increase in the active membership. We hope that more graduates will pay their dues, and add additional amounts, large or small, over and above the cost of the annual dues.

It was disappointing to see the small representation of some of the classes at the Alumni luncheon and annual meeting. Several of these classes had large groups in attendance at the reunions which they held Saturday evening at various places in Bloomsburg.

-----
There are twelve county branches of the Alumni Association. Only three of these held meetings during the past year. These branches were originally set up to serve as channels to aid the Alumni Association and the College. It should not be necessary for the officers of your association to prod these groups into action; action should come from the groups themselves. We hope that we can report a renewal of activities during the coming year.

The following classes will be in reunion in May, 1967: Classes prior to 1900, '02, '07, '12, '17, '22, '27, '32, '37, '42, '47, '52, '57 and '62. Now is the time to start making preparations. The Alumni Office will supply class lists, assist in publicity, and give any needed information. Let's go!

1966 PROGRAM OF GIVING AT BLOOMSBURG

For nearly a decade, your alma mater has been expanding its facilities to accommodate the increasing number of young people applying for admission to college. This program of expansion will continue during the next decade as the enrollment grows from approximately 3,000 undergraduate students in September, 1966 to 5,600-6,000 students by 1975.

In his remarks to alumni on May 7, President Andruss indicated that it takes more than land, buildings, and faculty to give the college community the vitality and resources needed to provide a program of quality and variety for more students.

The Alumni Association, until recently, has been able to make loans and scholarships available to a limited number of students. But the growth of the college has made it necessary for the Association to revise and expand its program and services. This can be done in several ways with the interest and help of more of our graduates.

Several of our sister institutions have made annual appeals to all their graduates during the past three or four years, and have raised $10,000 or more each year for specific projects such as scholarships, loans, and library books. Letters, requesting contribution, are mailed to all alumni as many as four times each year.

If your Alumni Association adopts this method of annual giving in place of dues, a designated amount could be set aside for operating expenses and the remainder earmarked as a "loyalty fund" to underwrite alumni projects to support the development of the college.

Please use the coupon below to express your loyalty to your alumni association and your alma mater.

BUILDING A BIGGER BLOOMSBURG

When you return to the campus this Fall for Homecoming you will find that the New Library has been completed. Located on Mt. Olympus it provides stack space for 200,000 volumes and seating space for 750 students. The Bakeless (Stained Glass) Windows have been installed in the windows facing Spruce Street entrance to the Library. This is the first building specifically constructed for Library use.

While the New Auditorium, seating 2,000, will have its exterior brick work completed by Homecoming time, it is hoped this building will be available for Mid-Year Commencement. A series of meetings open to the public as well as to students, faculty and friends of the College are scheduled for March, 1967. We have invited the Vice President and other Educational and Political figures of national importance. All of these are planned to be a part of the continuing Dedication Ceremonies of the second auditorium erected in the last 100 years.

The construction of South Hall, a dormitory for 300 men, on the site of the original North Hall, is now in process. This building is erected near the College Commons (dining room) coming down the hill from the Benjamin Franklin School. It is expected that it will be completed in time to be used a year from now, in September, 1967.

Another dormitory to accommodate 672 men will occupy the two grass plots on either side of Wood Street, which will be closed, to furnish the site for a seven story building. This dormitory should be ready for occupancy in two years from now, in September, 1968.

A Science and Classroom Building has been planned and contracts will shortly be sent out for bids, to replace Science Hall, constructed in 1906. This building includes 11 laboratories, 34 classrooms, and 4 large lecture rooms, and will be erected in the area surrounded by the corner of Second and Spruce Streets. The six residences will be removed to provide adequate building space.

Plans are being made for a Dining Hall and Kitchen to accommodate 1,000 students with a Student Center adjoining. Additional land has been acquired in the area adjacent to the Country Club. Utilities will have to be extended to cost more than $1,000,000.

Moneywise $5,000,000 has been expended so far in completed construction, and $14,000,000 has been appropriated, with Design money for construction in excess of $5,000,000, which brings the total construction cost to in excess of $24,000,000, to accommodate a student-body which in time will be 6,000.

We are now building a Bigger Bloomsburg, but the challenge is to have the Alumni help us to make it a Better Bloomsburg.

$10.8 MILLION APPROPRIATED FOR BLOOMSBURG STATE

All of the items for expansion and improvement which Bloomsburg State hoped to get finances for from the State were included in the GSA bill approved by the Senate and the House concurrence committee and sent to the Governor for his signature. The total in the bill for BSC is $10.8 million.

The approval comes about a month and a half later than expected, being held up for a time in the House where a committee proposed that some of the items in the Senate GSA bill be handled through private financing. The committee could not get support for this proposal in the House and that body then went along with the GSA bill which was pared down some from the version originally approved by the Senate.

There are seven projects for Bloomsburg State in the main portion of the bill, four in that devoted to the division for planning and designing for essential buildings, and two for development funds for construction.

The local projects in the main part of the bill provide $2,420,664 for a science classroom building and acquisition of some six residences along East Second street between the Commons and Sutliff Hall; $1,672,780 for one men's dormitory and $2,077,066 for another; $2,075,992 for construction of a dining hall and kitchen; $1,513,147 for expansion of utilities; $63,833 for an additional parking area, and $3,721 for land acquisition as part of an athletic field.

The dormitories will be constructed as one on plots of the College opposite "Long Porch" with the street between the plots to be closed. The combined structure will accommodate 652 men and will be seven stories tall.

The land to be acquired is owned by John Mitchell. It is needed for the new athletic field. The House last month passed a bill approving $3,500 for its purchase but that item is now back in the GSA bill at $3,721.

The amount listed for the dining hall is believed to be large enough to handle the cost of razing part of Waller Hill in the vicinity of the College Commons, and where the main floor is now used as a library.

The parking area to be developed is land in or immediately adjacent to the old athletic field and in the area that was known as "right field" when the tract was used for athletic purposes.

Student Center

The section list providing development funds for construction, with land acquisitions in some cases at the various State Colleges includes $578,097 for a student center at Bloomsburg, with the base cost $450,000 and $53,157 for the acquisition of a twenty-one acre Magee tract, immediately adjacent to the Bloomsburg Country Club, earlier purchased by the state, with the base cost estimated at $50,000.

In the section devoted to planning and design there is money provided for the planning of four buildings. For a women's dormitory with a base cost of $1,800,000 the bill provides $120,466 for planning; for a gymnasium to cost $1,875,000 it provides $124,352 for planning; for a classroom building with a base construction cost estimated at $1,500,000 it provides $99,763 for a combined maintenance building and garage, at an estimated construction cost of $252,000, the bill provides $26,498 for planning.

DEAN RECEIVES

DOCTOR'S DEGREE

Paul S. Riegel, Dean of Students at BSC, has received his Ed. D. degree from Teachers College, Columbia University, New York City. His special field of study is the administration of higher education.

He took his undergraduate degree at Middlebury College, Vt., and graduate work at Teachers College, Columbia. He has served as financial aid counselor and administrator at Teachers College, Columbia University, and as assistant registrar for special projects at that institution.

There were 1,017 undergraduates and graduate students registered for the three-week summer school pre-session at Bloomsburg State College.

ON THE COVER

Alumni of BSC may take a farewell look at North Hall, one of the familiar landmarks of the campus. This building will, in the near future, be torn down and replaced by a modern dormitory for men students.

SUMMER COMMENCEMENT

The largest number to receive Master of Education Degrees in the history of Bloomsburg State College—thirty-three—was among a class of 114 graduated from BSC at summer commencement exercises. Also awarded at the exercises were seventy-eight Bachelor of Science and three Bachelor of Arts degrees.

Dr. Marvin A. Rapp, president of Onondaga College, Syracuse, N. Y., and formerly vice president and executive dean, Nassau Community College, Garden City, N. Y., delivered the address. His theme was "The People of Tomorrow."

Born in Buffalo, N. Y., Dr. Rapp was graduated from Colgate University with a Bachelor of Arts degree. He earned both his Master's and Doctor's degrees at Duke University.

Dr. Rapp became associated with the State University College for Teachers, Buffalo, N. Y., in 1946. He took a leave of absence in 1954 and held the dual positions of Port Director, Niagara Frontier Port Authority, Buffalo, N. Y., and Adjunct Professor of Transportation at the University of Buffalo until 1957.

Six members of the class of 1966 of Bloomsburg State College graduated with honors during the Commencement Convocation. Dr. Dean F. Berkley, director, Bureau of Field Services, Indiana University, Bloomington, Ind., addressed the 314 graduating seniors. The class was presented by John A. Hoch, dean of instruction, with the degrees conferred by Dr. Harvey A. Andruss.

One senior maintained an average between 3.75 and 4.00 (summa cum laude), two had averages of 3.60 to 3.74 (magna cum laude), and three had averages of 3.50 and 3.59 (cum laude).

Graduating summa cum laude was Jean A. Zenke, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Albert C. Zenke, Scranton, secondary education.

Graduating magna cum laude were Ann Marie Rapella, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Carl Rapella, Forest City, business education and Lois Ann Moyer, Pottsville R. D. 1, elementary education.

Three other seniors who graduated cum laude were: Edith A. Capp, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. August Capp, West Pittston; Jill A. Schneider, daughter of Mrs. Edward Schneider, Milford R. D. 6; and John R. Witcoski, son of Mrs. Anna Witcoski, Shenandoah.

The Right Reverend Remoert G. Weakland, O.S.B., D.D., Coadjutor Archbishop, St. Vincent Archabbey, Latrobe, delivered the baccalaureate address.

The Columbus Boy Choir of Princeton, N. J., presented the final concert of the Bloomsburg Civic Music Association on April 13, at 8:15 in Carver Auditorium.

PHILADELPHIA ALUMNI

The thirty-sixth annual dinner meeting of the Philadelphia Alumni was held Saturday, April 23. Thirty-seven members and guests were present.

Dr. Ralph Hart '18, Philadelphia dentist, acted as Master of Ceremonies. Judge Bernard Kelley '13, member of the Board of Trustees of the College, spoke concerning the progress on the campus. Mrs. Verna Jones '36, member of the Board of Trustees of the Alumni Association, extended the greetings of the Association.

Miss Peggy Lamison, Spring City, of the class of 1969, was a guest of the group, and spoke about the present-day life of college students. Miss Lamison was the recipient of a gift of money which the Philadelphia Alumni award each year. Presentation was by Esther Dagnell '34, Treasurer of the group.

Mrs. Mary K. Burke, Philadelphia and Mrs. Emma Sheley, Washington, D. C., were honored, as they represented the oldest class in attendance, the class of 1905.

On Saturday, June 25, the group met for a picnic at the home of Mrs. Charlotte F. Coulston, of the class of 1923. Fourteen persons were present.

The Philadelphia group meets on the second Saturday of each month from October to May at the Women's Club Center, Gimble Brothers store. Members of the BSC Alumni who are located in the Philadelphia area are cordially invited to join the group.

LUCILE BAKER RETIRES AFTER LONG CAREER

A teaching career which has spanned the U. S. and five decades has come to a close for Mrs. Lucile Johnstone Baker, formerly of Bloomsburg, who has retired from her teaching duties in the Los Angeles County district of Los Nietos, California.

She began her career in 1915 as a kindergarten teacher in Colorado. For the past ten years she has been teaching first grades at Los Nietos after retiring as assistant professor of education at BSC in 1956, after thirty years service here.

As a feature of the BSC Evening Entertainment Series, The National Players of Washington, D. C., presented Moliere's famous play, "The Miser," on the stage of Carver Hall auditorium.

HEAD LIBRARIAN IS APPOINTED AT COLLEGE

James Baker Watts has been appointed head librarian at BSC. The present library staff now consists of nine members, with five more to be added. During the coming college year, additional appointments will be made to complete the staff needed in the new library building.

Completed at a cost in excess of $1,000,000, the new library will provide facilities for 750 student readers, shelves for approximately 200,000 volumes and periodicals, several classrooms, special areas for audio-visual education, a treasure room, and an archives room. The new structure will be completely air-conditioned.

A native of Chipley, Fla., Watts received his elementary and secondary education in the schools of that community and later graduated from Campbell Business College, Dothan, Alabama. He earned his Bachelor of Arts degree from Birmingham-Southern College, Birmingham, Ala., in 1944. His Master of Arts degree (major in library science) was awarded by the George Peabody College for Teachers, Nashville, Tenn., in 1951. Additional graduate work, in mass communications, has been taken by him at the University of Illinois.

Prior to being appointed at Bloomsburg State College, he was director of library services and instructional material, Clearwater College—St. Petersburg Junior College. Other previous positions held by Watts were: Chief, technical processing division, Long Beach Public Library, Long Beach, Calif.; bibliographer, acquisition department, University of Illinois; assistant, catalog department, at both the University of Illinois Library and the Tennessee State Library, Nashville, Tenn.; director, Carnegie Public Library, Sumter, S. C.; manager, College Book Store, Birmingham-Southern College, Birmingham, Ala., and deputy city clerk, Chipley, Fla.

ANNUAL PICNIC

The Rural Group of the class of 1923 held their annual picnic June 18 at the home of Dr. Elma Major of Dallas, Pa. At graduation time there were 12 in the group. Two of these have passed on, Rachel Benson Mitchell and Cletus Merrill. One can not be located. Of the ten remaining, four were present: Mrs. Leona Williams Moore, Simsbury, Conn.; Mrs. Ruth Gary Beagle, Danville, R. D.; Mrs. Rachael Evans Kline, Orangeville and Dr. Elma Major, Dallas.

Letters and messages were read from Miss Emily Craig, Catawissa, Pa.; Mrs. Ann Bronson Seely, Drums, Pa., and Mrs. Mary Kline Johnson, Millville R. D., Pa.

Elie Able, NBC correspondent, London office, spoke on the topic "NATO—End of the Beginning or Beginning of the End" at an assembly program at BSC during the pre-session.

30 AT INSTITUTE IN ENGLISH AT BSC

Thirty teachers of English representing thirty high schools from Eastern Pennsylvania have been attending the 1966 NDEA Institute in English at Bloomsburg State College. The institute was conducted by the Department of English at BSC for the six-week summer period.

The teachers were engaged in a program financed by the United States Office of Education to improve and up-date their training and their teaching methods.

Dr. Louis F. Thompson, chairman of the BSC English Department, served as director of the Institute.

GRANT FOR NEEDY COLLEGE STUDENTS

Bloomsburg State College has received a $21,000 Educational Opportunities Grant from the federal department of health, education and welfare, according to Dr. Paul S. Riegel, dean of students and chairman of the committee on student aid at the college.

As a result of this grant, BSC will begin an exploratory program to determine qualified high school graduates who, for financial reasons, might be denied the opportunities of a higher education and could be awarded scholarship grants. Full time students at BSC will also be able to qualify for the scholarship grants.

The following have recently received advanced degrees at Rutgers University:

Edward R. Adams, Souderton Gardens, Souderton, Pa., (BS in Ed. '59), Ed.M.; Carl J. Braun, Jr., 53 Cooks Rd., Denville, N. J. (BS in Ed. '59), Ed.M.; Allan Ray Campbell, 23 N. Washington St., Canton, Pa., (BS '62), M.L.S.; Louis B. Casari, 442 Valleycrest Ave., Scotch Plains, N. J. (BS '61), Ed.M.; Harry Robert Dickinson, 83 Walnut St., Toms River, N. J. (BS in Ed. '60), Ed.M.; Glenn H. Reed, R. D. 1, Box 143B, Shamokin, Pa., (BS '59), M.L.S.

Clayton H. Hinkel was chairman of the Bookkeeping Sectional Meeting of the Pennsylvania Education Association spring conference at York, Pa., on April 16th. He has been appointed program chairman for the P.B.E.A. Conference to be held in Allentown, April 8, 1967. Mr. Hinkel also participated in the Office Practice meeting during the Sixty-Ninth Annual Convention of the Eastern Business Teachers Association held during the Easter vacation at the New York Hilton Hotel.

Garrick Utley, NBC news correspondent and former bureau chief in Saigon, South Vietnam, addressed the assembly at BSC recently. His talk covered recent developments in South Viet Nam.

PURCHASE MORE HOMES

The construction of a two million dollar science and class room building at Bloomsburg State College moved a step forward recently with the purchase by the General State Authority of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania.

Three properties are located in the 600 block of East Second Street and were previously owned by Mrs. Marguerite Ritchie, Kenneth L. Walburn, Dr. Royce O. Johnson and William Nast. Others to be removed were owned by Daniel W. Litwhiler and C. M. Hausknecht. They are located on Spruce street and East Second street, respectively. All six lots are needed to provide the site for the new building. When completed, the structure will play a vital part in the ability of the college to keep pace with its increasing enrollment and to provide modern facilities for the expanding curriculum.

Included in the facilities of the new science and classroom building, which will be located between Sutliff Hall and the Benjamin Franklin Building, are twenty-two classrooms, eight lecture rooms, four seminar rooms, a lecture hall for 292 students, three lecture halls seating 98 students in each, ten general laboratories with preparation and storage areas, eight special science rooms, six honor laboratories, one special laboratory and twenty-six faculty offices.

NEW DIRECTOR OF PLACEMENT

John S. Scrimgeour, Jr., a member of the Bloomsburg State College faculty since 1959, has been appointed director of placement and financial aid. Scrimgeour, who began his new duties recently, had been an assistant professor of mathematics. Scrimgeour will work directly with the office of Dr. Paul S. Riegel, dean of students, in directing the many phases of financial aid to students.

Scrimgeour is married to the former Jeananne Evans of Hanover Township who was graduated from BSC in 1954 with a Bachelor of Science degree in Elementary Education. They have three children, twin daughters, age six, and a younger daughter, age two.

Ray T. Sunderland of the Benjamin Franklin Laboratory School of the Bloomsburg State College has resigned to accept an elementary supervisor position at Kutztown State College. Sunderland has been a member of the Laboratory School faculty and the Elementary Education Department of the college for the past four years.

The thirty-second annual High School Business Education Contest, sponsored by the Bloomsburg State College, was held on Saturday, May 14 in Sutliff Hall.

COLLEGE TO OFFER EVENING COURSES

Beginning in September, Bloomsburg State College offered a program of evening college courses for part-time students at the undergraduate level. The program of evening courses was initiated during the 1965-66 college year and was well-received by area residents.

The courses are intended for high school graduates who wish to broaden their interests, add to their knowledge of specific subjects, or review certain skills. Public school nurses and dental hygienists, who are currently enrolled in special degree programs offered by the college, are also eligible to enroll in the evening classes.

EVALUATION CHECK IS MADE AT BSC

A team of twenty-two selected staff members from Pennsylvania colleges and universities recently made an evaluation check at Bloomsburg State College. Appointed by the State Department of Public Instruction, the team evaluated the teacher education programs for "program approval."

Reduced to its simplest terms, "program approval" will mean automatic certification for graduates of BSC who have completed an approved program of studies leading to a degree in teacher education and have also earned the recommendation of the college.

Gilbert Gockley, president of the College Community Government Association installed the new CGA president, Morgan S. Boston, Minneapolis, Minn. Boston then installed the following new CGA officers: vice president, Hugh J. Bracken, Jr., Drexel Hill; recording secretary, Sally Ertwine, Levittown; corresponding secretary, Ruth Ann McGinley, Ashland; treasurer, John Ondish, of Freeland.

Kenneth Wilson, assistant professor of art on the Bloomsburg State College faculty, had two paintings accepted in the Associated Artists of Pittsburgh's 56th annual show. The jurors chose work from 1,156 entries of the tri-state area to hang in the Carnegie Museum March 4-April 10.

OPEN BIDS FOR MEN'S DORM

Another landmark is to be removed from the campus of Bloomsburg State College—Old North Hall. Bids were opened in Harrisburg on June 15 for the construction of a four-story dormitory on that site that will accommodate 300 men on campus.

The structure will also occupy the site of the old potato cellar, used for storage, and part of the play and parking areas of the Benjamin Franklin school.

There are now 515 men housed on campus, 315 of those in the men's quarters of Waller Hall and 200 in New North Hall.

NAME HOUK TO U. S. OLYMPIC COMMITTEES

Russell E. Houk, director of athletics and head coach of varsity football and wrestling at Bloomsburg State College, has been named to serve on the United States Olympic Games Committees.

Coach Houk is a member of the NAIA Wrestling Coaches Association, and during three of the past four years, has been named "Wrestling Coach of the Year" by the NAIA.

The function of the games committees is that of cooperating with representatives from other national organizations to select the athletes and administer the program in their respective sports for participation in the Olympic and Pan-American Games.

Coach Houk is one of thirty-seven individuals representing the NAIA on fifteen Olympic Games committees. His appointment will continue through the 1968 Olympic Games. Houk attended the meeting of the Games Committee which was held concurrently with the U. S. Quadrennial Olympic meeting in Washington, D. C. Since joining the staff of Bloomsburg in 1957, as wrestling coach, Houk has directed the Husky grapplers to three NAIA team championships, five team championships in the Pennsylvania State College Athletic Conference, and a team championship in the Wilkes College open tournament. In dual meets, his squads have won 80 contests, lost 8, and tied 1. During his eight years, his charges have enjoyed three undefeated seasons.

Irvin Zablocky, Bloomsburg State College distance runner finished 35th April 19 in the 70th annual running of the Boston AA Marathon in the commendable time of 2:40:55 for the 26-mile 385-yard run. He was awarded a medal for his finish in the field of 415 runners.

Richard (Dick) Mentzer, baseball coach and assistant football coach at BSC for the past three years, is leaving the local institution at the close of the present academic year to take charge of the athletic and physical education programs on the new Baltimore campus of the University of Maryland.

George E. Willwohl, former coach at BSC, has been appointed to the coaching staff of Susquehanna University. He joined the staff of BSC in January, 1963 and left in 1965 to pursue his doctoral studies as a teaching fellow at Temple University.

EARL VOSS NAMED AS BASKETBALL COACH

Earl Voss, assistant professor of health and physical education and freshman basketball coach, has been appointed varsity basketball coach, beginning with the 1966-67 college year. Coach Voss will assume the duties now being handled by Robert Norton and his assistant, Thomas Davies.

The change in the basketball coaching assignment was necessitated by the growth in enrollment of students in the Division of Secondary Education. Both Norton and Davies are supervisors of seniors who are doing practice teaching in an increasing number of student teaching centers. The change in coaching assignments will make it possible for Norton and Davies to devote full time to their professional responsibilities in the supervision of student teachers.

College officials stated, in considering this change, that they have been pleased with the high calibre of the varsity and freshman basketball programs directed by Norton and Davies during the past three years.

A graduate of West Chester State College, Voss was an outstanding athlete in both college basketball and baseball. He received his Master's degree from Temple University where he has continued his graduate studies.

Prior to joining the faculty of Wilmington, Del., High School in 1960, he taught for six years at Claymont High School, Del. Voss was head coach of basketball and baseball at both Wilmington and Claymont High Schools, has been a co-director of Athletic Games, Inc., and has participated in the National Basketball Clinic as a co-director with Jack Ramsey, St. Joseph's College, Philadelphia.

BSC WRESTLERS LEAD AT WEST POINT

Tested in keen competition of an AAU meet at West Point in November, the Bloomsburg State wrestlers did a fine job. Sixteen of the charges of Russ Houk competed in the event, some of them going on the mat as much as six times, and if there had been a team score the Huskies would have triumphed with New York Athletic Slug second and U. S. Military Academy third.

Three of the Huskies won in their weights—Grant Stevens, Gettysburg, junior, 115; Keith Taylor, Hughesville, sophomore, 125; Jim Rolley, Clearfield, senior, 145. Each of these athletes received handsome medals from the AAU.

The fine showing of the Huskies, Houk asserted, was due to the work of Gerald Maurey, assistant coach. Most of the squad—Joe Gerst who played on the football team being an exception—have been working out under Maurey for six weeks. Houk, busy with football, left the wrestling duties entirely in the hands of Maurey until football was completed.

BSC WILL RECEIVE $179,731 IN GRANTS

A total of $179,731 in grants from three divisions of the Federal Government has been approved for Bloomsburg State College. The first of these grants was initiated during the 1964-65 college year and the balance extends through the 66-67 year.

The three Federal Government divisions issuing the grants are the U. S. Office of Education of the Department of Health, Education, and Welfare (amount $88,800), the National Science Foundation (amount $17,030), and the National Defense Education Act Institutes (amount $73,901.68).

Two Bloomsburg State College graduates are currently serving in the two highest offices of the Pennsylvania State Education Association. Roy W. Brandau, New Holland, class of 1949, was elected President and William E. Zeiss, Clarks Summit, a 1937 graduate, was elected President of the Department of Classroom Teachers.

Jane Ellen Ternigan, eighteen year old BSC freshman from Allentown was crowned Miss Eastern Pennsylvania of 1966, at the third annual pageant on Saturday, April 23. As Miss Eastern Pennsylvania, Jane will participate in state competition for the title of Miss Pennsylvania in the Civic Auditorium, Philadelphia, in July.

1966 PROGRAM OF GIVING AT BLOOMSBURG

For nearly a decade, your alma mater has been expanding its facilities to accommodate the increasing number of young people applying for admission to college. This program of expansion will continue during the next decade as the enrollment grows from approximately 3,000 undergraduate students in September, 1966 to 5,600-6,000 students by 1975.

In his remarks to alumni on May 7, President Andruss indicated that it takes more than land, buildings, and faculty to give the college community the vitality and resources needed to provide a program of quality and variety for more students.

The Alumni Association, until recently, has been able to make loans and scholarships available to a limited number of students. But the growth of the college has made it necessary for the Association to revise and expand its program and services. This can be done in several ways with the interest and help of more of our graduates.

Several of our sister institutions have made annual appeals to all their graduates during the past three or four years, and have raised $10,000 or more each year for specific projects such as scholarships, loans, and library books. Letters, requesting contribution, are mailed to all alumni as many as four times each year.

If your Alumni Association adopts this method of annual giving in place of dues, a designated amount could be set aside for operating expenses and the remainder earmarked as a "loyalty fund" to underwrite alumni projects to support the development of the college.

Please use the coupon below to express your loyalty to your alumni association and your alma mater.

LOYALTY FUND PROJECT

During recent years, several of our sister institutions have been engaged in drives to secure greater support from their Alumni. At Kutztown and Shippensburg, for example, they have succeeded in raising to a considerable extent the amount of annual contributions of their graduates.

After deducting an amount sufficient to cover operational expenses, the Alumni Associations of these colleges have had sufficient funds to turn over large amounts to their Loyalty Fund, to be used for projects such as libraries, special equipment, and scholarships.

Your Board of Directors has been studying this matter for some time, and is now ready to proceed. A letter will be sent in October to all graduates of BSC, giving full details of the Loyalty Fund projects. It is hoped that this will lead to increased loyalty on the part of the Alumni, and that every BSC graduate will make an annual contribution, however small. A contribution of only one dollar a year by every Alumnus will result in an income of $10,000 every year.

This is a program of annual giving, not once in five years, which unfortunately has been the case with a great proportion of our Alumni. If you wish your Alumni Association to keep up with the rapid expansion of your Alma Mater, we know that you will respond regularly and generously.

HOMECOMING -- 1966

Mild weather and sunny skies set the stage for another successful Homecoming celebration. Eighteen floats and five bands were featured in the Thirty-Ninth Annual Homecoming Parade on Saturday, October 22.

The climax of the day's activities was the football game with Millersville, played at Athletic Park. The Bloomsburg Huskies, who had previously been defeated by Shippensburg and West Chester, and had defeated Lock Haven and Mansfield, edged out a 20-19 victory over Millersville in a game that held a large crowd in their seats until the end of the game.

Homecoming weekend got underway Friday evening with the Big Name Committee of the Community Government Association presenting the High-waymen in concert in Centennial Gymnasium. The name of Cheryl Goodman, a Freshman from Hawley, Pa., was announced as the 1966 Homecoming Queen. Miss Goodman had been chosen from a field of seventeen candidates.

Registration of Alumni took place during the day in Waller and Noetling Halls. A luncheon for Alumni and visitors was held in the College Commons at noon.

Following the football game, a get-together of Alumni, parents, students, and friends was held in the Waller Lounge area. A special dinner for Alumni was served in the College Commons.

The day's festivities came to a close with an informal dance held in Centennial Gymnasium, with the music of Mel Wynn's Rhythm Aces.

DOCTORATE IS AWARDED TO JOHN A. HOCH

John A. Hoch, dean of instruction at Bloomsburg State College since 1955, was awarded the degree of Doctor of Education by the Pennsylvania State University during Summer Commencement exercises held at University Park on Sunday, September 4. More than one thousand degrees were conferred upon graduates of the ten undergraduate colleges and the graduate school of the university by Dr. Eric Walker, president of the University.

Dean Hoch completed his doctoral program in the area of Secondary Education. His thesis topic was "Student Opinion Regarding the Effectiveness of Instruction in Classes Preparing Secondary Teachers." Based on two surveys of student opinion concerning the effectiveness of college teaching at Bloomsburg State College, the study concluded that students preparing for careers in the field of secondary education consider their instruction at Bloomsburg to be more effective than ineffective.

The Bloomsburg dean, who came to the local college in 1946 as an assistant football coach, has served as dean of men, director of public relations, and director of athletics during his twenty-year tenure. He was also head football coach in 1946 following the death of Alden J. "Lefty" Danks, with whom he worked in Milton High School and at BSC. The 1946 Huskies had a record of 4-3-1 in the first year of competition following the war years and launched a revival of interest in the fall sport at the local institution.

Dean Hoch graduated from the Milton High School and received the degree of Bachelor of Arts with honors from the Pennsylvania State University and the Master of Arts degree from Bucknell University. He taught in the Milton schools from 1934 until 1946 when he resigned in order to accept a position at Bloomsburg State College.

During the first semester of the college year 1966-1967, beginning September 10, he will serve as acting president of the college while Dr. Harvey A. Andruss, College President, is travelling around the world. Dean Hoch served in a similar capacity several years ago while Dr. Andruss was travelling in the Far East.

1962

Glen H. Gruber, 182 Market street, Highspire, Pa., received the degree of Master of Education, with a major in Social Studies, at the spring commencement at Shippensburg State College.

The death of Miss Ann (Nan) M. Hourigan, of 210 North Main street, Wilkes-Barre, well-known retired school teacher, occurred unexpectedly Tuesday, August 30 following a heart seizure at her home. She was the last member of a prominent family of 11 children.

Miss Hourigan was born in Wilkes-Barre and resided at the family homestead at 361 North Main street until last year. She was the daughter of the late Patrick and Bridget Hourigan. Her father, a Civil War veteran, was held prisoner at Andersonville by the Confederate Army for eight months. She devoted her career to teaching in several Wilkes-Barre schools until her retirement about a dozen years ago.

Miss Hourigan was one of a family which gave Wyoming Valley men and women prominent in education, law, banking, newspaper publishing and the church. She was a member of St. John's Church.

A tribute appearing on the editorial page of the Wilkes-Barre Times Leader included the following:

Quiet and unassuming, Miss Hourigan was a dedicated teacher, her service going far beyond the classroom and concerning itself with the personal lives of the children who turned to her for counsel and help with family problems.

Not only was she a stimulating example, but she instilled in her charges a sense of values, furnishing the motivation and desire for a better way of life through their studies. Many a man and woman has her to thank for a successful career.

No reference to Miss Hourigan would be complete without mention of her devotion to her church. That and her family and friends rounded a useful and inspiring life.

Mrs. Rebecca Nye Lowry, of 15 East Third street, Watonsontown, one of the oldest residents of the northern end of Northumberland County, who observed her 99th birthday anniversary on May 7, died unexpectedly Sunday, May 8 at the Leader Nursing Center at Camp Hill. For a number of years she had resided with her son-in-law and late daughter, Mr. and

Mrs. J. Y. Shambach, at Camp Hill. After the recent death of her daughter she had been at the nursing center. Born May 7, 1867, in Delaware Township, Northumberland County, she was the widow of Joseph Durham Lowry, who was a member of the first graduating class of three members from Watonsontown High School. She was preceded in death by her husband, a son and her daughter. A graduate of Bloomsburg Normal School with the class of 1887, Mrs. Lowry taught in the public schools of Delaware Township before her marriage.

Mrs. Lowry was an active member of the First Presbyterian Church at Watonsontown for many years and also was a member and officer of the Watonsontown WCTU for a long period of time.

She received her bachelor of science degree in elementary education from Bloomsburg State College, and her master's degree from Lehigh University. She was a veteran of World War II, serving in the WAC. She was a member of First Welsh Presbyterian Church, American Legion Post 132, and Pennsylvania State Education Association.

An illness resulted in the death on Tuesday, May 24 of Mrs. Mary E. Dew at her home, 134 State street, Nanticoke. She resided in Nanticoke a number of years. Mrs. Dew was a graduate of Edwardsville High School and Bloomsburg State College. She was a member of Nanticoke Women of Kiwanis, and was past president of Nanticoke Visiting Nurse Association. Mrs. Dew was a member of St. Francis Church.

She taught school in Warrior Run for a number of years. Her husband, Robert, who died in 1964, was assistant county superintendent of schools.

The death of Mrs. John A. Hourigan, Sr., of 182 South Franklin street, Wilkes-Barre, occurred in August in Mercy Hospital following a heart seizure. The widow of the chairman of the board of the Wilkes-Barre Publishing Company and publisher of The Evening News, she would have observed her 89th birthday anniversary September 12. The former Miss Caroline Henderson, Mrs. Hourigan was born in Plymouth September 12, 1877, a daughter of John Parish and Mary Elizabeth Goble Henderson.

For six years she taught in the borough, resigning at the time of her marriage to Mr. Hourigan January 17, 1905. The ceremony was performed in St. Vincent's Church by Rev. T. J. Donahue.

Mrs. Hourigan had widespread interests in the community. She was active in the Community Welfare Federation, a forerunner of the Wyoming Valley United Fund. She was a director of the Visiting Nurses Association, a member of the Friends of Shut-ins and president of Mercy Hospital Auxiliary.

In 1956, she received the annual award of the Friends of St. Michael's School, in which she had been interested for years. On that occasion, she was the recipient of a plaque from Dr. J. C. Kacyan, chairman, who paid her a tribute for her extensive charity work with her husband. Mrs. Hourigan was a member of St. Mary's Church. While she was a resident of North Wilkes-Barre, she was affiliated, for a time, with St. John's Church.

Mrs. Mildred Johnson Coyne '26

OK PLANS FOR NEW DINING HALL TO SEAT 1,000

Sketches for a new dining hall-kitchen at Bloomsburg State College, costing $1,645,000 were approved during a meeting at the General State Authority Building in Harrisburg. The sketches were approved and signed by Dr. Harvey A. Andruss, president of the College; John Mowery, director of the Bureau of State Colleges, Harrisburg; Dr. Florence Taylor, consultant; and Linden Gruver, of the General State Authority.

The site plans as presented by the architects, Peters and Riggi, Scranton, indicate that the building will occupy the open area now bounded by Waller Hall, Noetting Hall, Carver Hall and Second street.

The scope of the project, according to Boyd F. Buckingham, director of development, includes seating for 1,000 persons, kitchen facilities to prepare food for 2,000, a loading dock and receiving area, storage areas, a service elevator, mechanical and electrical areas, built-in refrigerators for meat, vegetables and dairy products, a faculty dining room, an employees dining room, and offices for food service management.

Construction is expected in begin during the early summer of 1967, and the project is expected to be completed for use prior to the opening of the college year opening in September, 1968.

The main floor of the dining hall features four dining areas accommodating 250 students each. These areas will be air-conditioned as will be the offices and the dining rooms for faculty and other employees.

Prior to the beginning of construction, the preparation of the site will require the demolition of Noetting Hall. The present Husky Lounge and Waller Hall Dormitory will remain until space is needed to prove a site for the new student center and a dormitory to house 300 women.

3,473 STUDENTS ATTEND SUMMER SESSIONS

The total enrollment of the 1966 summer sessions at Bloomsburg State College reached an all time high of 3,473 students, according to Robert L. Bunge, Registrar. This is a 292 student increase over the 1965 summer sessions enrollment of 3,181, and a 722 increase over the 1964 summer sessions total of 2,751.

The post session, which began August 8 and terminated on August 25, had a total of 902 students, including 446 men and 456 women. This is 144 more than the number of students who attended the 1965 post session. The greatest increase in enrollment this summer was experienced during the main session, held from June 27 to August 5, when the 1,495 students represented an increase of 156 over the same period in 1965.

This year's pre-session, conducted from June 6 to June 24, showed a slight increase of 30 students over the previous year in its total enrollment of 1,076 students. At both the main and the pre-sessions the men outnumbered the women, 787 to 708 and 561 to 515 respectively.

The summer student body is composed of BSC students working under an accelerated program or making up deficiencies, summer trial freshmen, speech and hearing therapy students under the Bureau of Vocational Rehabilitation program, in-service teachers and transients from other colleges. The steady increase of enrollment at Bloomsburg State College is reflected in the overall expansion of the college in all phases to help meet the growing educational needs of the Commonwealth.

RECORD 3,110 ENROLL AT BLOOMSBURG STATE

A total of 3,110 students completed registration for the fall semester at Bloomsburg State College, according to Robert L. Bunge, registrar. This is the largest enrollment in the history of the college. There are 1,465 women and 1,645 men.

Of that total, 857 were freshmen, 50 were transfers from other colleges and 32 were students who have returned after an interruption of their education.

Diana Mengel, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Allen W. Mengel, West Lawn, has been accepted as a volunteer for one year of service with the Volunteers in Service to America (VISTA) project supervised by the Economic Opportunity Council.

A sophomore student at Bloomsburg State College, she is concentrating in special education for the mentally retarded. As a participant in this project, she will take a one-year leave of absence from the college and fulfill an assignment in an underprivileged area of the nation.

In accordance with authority given to your Board of Directors at the annual meeting of the Alumni Association on Alumni Day, 1966, the cost of a Life Membership has been raised to One Hundred Dollars, effective November 1, 1966. Half of the amount will go to the Loyalty Fund, and the other half will be put in reserve for operational expenses.

Three-year and five-year memberships have been eliminated. Those who now hold such memberships will retain their memberships until the expiration date indicated on their membership cards.

CONFERENCE BREAKS RECORDS

The Twentieth Annual Conference for Teachers and Administrators, held at BSC October 7 and 8, proved to be the most successful in its history. Arrangements for the conference were in the hands of a committee consisting of Dr. C. Stuart Edwards, chairman; Dr. William Jones, Dr. Royce Johnson and Dr. S. Lloyd Toumey.

Friday evening, October 7, was a general session, at which the speaker was John R. Rackley, Superintendent of Public Instruction, Commonwealth of Pennsylvania. The conference opened with group meetings in the fields of Special Education, Business Education, Elementary Education and Secondary Education.

The conferences on Secondary Education were set up on the basis of the various areas of subject matter. Members of the BSC faculty and teachers in the area discussed topics of interest in the subject matter areas.

The conferences in Special Education were centered about the fields of Mental Retardation and Speech Pathology and Audiology. The speaker in the field of Mental Retardation was Dr. Burton Blatt, Professor and Chairman of the Special Education Department of the Boston University School of Education. The speaker in the field of Speech Pathology and Audiology was Dr. Louis M. DiCarlo, Professor in the Department of Audiology and Speech Pathology at Syracuse University.

At the conference on Business Education, the speakers were Dr. John W. Struck, State Director of Vocational Education, Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, and Dr. Leonard J. West, Associate Professor of Educational Research, the City University of New York.

At the Conference on Elementary Education, the speaker at the first session was Dr. B. Frank Brown, Principal of the Melbourne School, Melbourne, Florida. The second session was devoted to discussions-in-depth workshops. There were fourteen groups, in each of which a topic was presented by a speaker.

The conference closed with a general session, at which the speaker was Dr. B. Frank Brown and with a luncheon in the College Commons.

WALTER R. BLAIR GOES TO WEST CHESTER

Walter R. Blair, a member of the BSC faculty since 1955 and head football coach from 1957 through 1963, has been appointed to the Department of Health and Physical Education at West Chester State College, his alma mater. Blair will have the rank of assistant professor at West Chester.

DR. AND MRS. SERFF ARE TRAVELING IN EUROPE

Dr. John J. Serff, professor of history at BSC, and Mrs. Serff embarked at New York City in September on the liner Bremen. Dr. Serff, who joined the Bloomsburg State College faculty in September, 1955, has been granted a sabbatical leave of absence by trustees for the first semester of the 1966-67 college term.

During the early part of their trip to Europe, the Serffs visited Germany, The Netherlands, Belgium, Switzerland, Austria, Italy, Spain and France. Dr. Serff also plans to interview members of the History departments at the University of Heidelberg and the University of Munich.

Following their departure from the continent, the Serffs will spend the remainder of their time in England where Dr. Serff will do reading and research in the Bodleian Library at Oxford University and at the British Museum Library in London. The Serffs will return to the United States during December.

THREE VOYAGES ON WORLD TOUR

The world tour of Dr. and Mrs. Harvey A. Andruss will involve three voyages.

Dr. and Mrs. Andreas embarked on the Columbus Line vessel Cap Vilano, September 9, from Brooklyn, N. Y., and sailed to Sydney, Australia via the Panama Canal, arriving "Down Under" October 10. The second leg of their tour was on the Galileo, ship of the Lloyd Triestina Line, which left Sydney on November 11. The Galileo made calls at the following ports: November 26—Singapore, Malaysia; December 1—Bombay, India; 4—Crater, Aden; 8—Port Said, Egypt; 10—Napoli, Italy; 12—Genoa, Italy.

Details for the final stage of the tour have not been completed. The return to New York is being planned by the American President Lines.

Dr. Andruss, president of the College for the past twenty-seven years, has been granted a sabbatical leave for the first semester of the 1966-67 college year by the trustees.

1965

Miss Elaine Louise Laycock, of Bloomsburg R. D. 4, became the bride of Joseph Allan Wolf, Lock Haven, in a ceremony performed September 3, in Church of the Nazarene, Bloomsburg. The bride graduated from Central High School in 1962 and from Harrisburg Polyclinic School of Nursing in 1965. She is employed at Lock Haven Hospital.

The bridegroom, graduate of Pottstown Senior High School and the Bloomsburg State College, is employed by Piper Aircraft, Lock Haven. He served four years in the U. S. Marines. They reside at 810-12 E. Walter street, Apt. 5, Lock Haven.

MOVE 100,000 VOLUMES TO NEW LIBRARY

Approximately one week was required to move the 100,000 volumes of books, magazines, periodicals, furniture and miscellaneous material from the library in Waller Hall to the new $1,000,000.00 library on the campus of Bloomsburg State College, according to James B. Watts, head librarian. The 100,000 volumes represent one-half of the total 200,000 volumes which will eventually be shelved in the new library.

The services of Fisher and Brother, New York City, were secured to make the move before the start of the 1966-1967 college year this September. A dozen men from the Fisher organization arrived, set up headquarters in a tractor trailer unit directly behind Waller Hall where the library was located, and immediately began tagging books. Work areas were set up in both the old and the new libraries.

Construction of the new library began in November, 1964, and the building was completed for occupancy on August 1. Architectural plans were designed by John Dickey, Price and Dickey, Architects, Media, Pa., and the general contractor was Boyd H. Kline, Bloomsburg.

For many years until 1969, the library was located on the second floor of Waller Hall, which is now occupied by academic offices for department heads. In 1958, when the dining hall, located on the first floor of Waller Hall, was moved to the present College Commons, the former area was redecorated to house the library which was in use until the present move to the new library.

A study is being made of the library area now being vacated in Waller Hall, to determine its use until Waller Hall is demolished to make way for a new women's dormitory.

FACULTY UNIT OF 14 SC's MEET AT BSC

The executive board of the Association of Pennsylvania State College Faculties held a two-day meeting on the Bloomsburg campus in September. Attending was one delegate and one alternate from each of the member colleges. This is the first time that the executive board has met on the Bloomsburg State College campus.

The executive board represents nearly 3,000 faculty members of the 12 state colleges and Indiana University of Pennsylvania and acts as a lobbyist in the state legislature on behalf of higher education. The board also acts as a liaison between faculty members and the Board of Presidents of the Pennsylvania State Colleges. It is concerned chiefly with higher education, professional standards and matters of academic freedom.

Miss Barbara Baluta, now a member of the Peace Corps, stationed at Addis Abbaba, Ethiopia, wrote to her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Chester Baluta, of a chilling and tragedy-stricken experience. She had almost drowned and about an hour after her rescue the man who saved her had been eaten by a giant crocodile.

The victim was Henry Olson, 25, of Spencer, N. Y., also in the Peace Corps. The incident occurred on April 14, at Gambela, in Ethiopia. Miss Baluta said that six Peace Corps people had been swimming in a stream. She became caught in a rough current. Olsen's life was taken not long after, she writes, when he was eaten by a crocodile which measured thirteen feet. Miss Baluta is a teacher of business in the University of Addis Abbaba, as part of her Peace Corps duties. She had been there for the past year.

She is a graduate of Northwest High School, also receiving her degree from Bloomsburg State College. She took additional subjects at University of Utah, prior to joining the Peace Corps, and formerly taught at New Brunswick, N. J. Despite her near-tragedy, she said that she likes her Peace Corps work.

1966—Judith Morin, Mrs. Edward

M. Crossley.

By the time you receive this issue of the QUARTERLY, you will have received a letter outlining the details of the Loyalty Fund Drive, a program set up to provide more funds for scholarships. We hope that you have read the letter carefully, so that you may understand the procedure.

We have frequently been asked why we are calling upon the Alumni for increased contributions, when we already have about $200,000 in the Loan Fund. The answer is, that by the terms of the McNinch will, the principal and income must be used for loans, and loans only. There is an increasing demand for loans, and the Treasurer's report, presented on Alumni Day, shows over $45,000 outstanding in loans.

-----

What we are asking from the Alumni is very modest, when compared with the requests made to the Alumni of many other colleges. A contribution of at least five dollars EACH YEAR from every BSC graduate will make it possible for us to help a great number of worthy students who might not, for financial reasons, obtain a college education. Our schools need good teachers and that is the kind that the Bloomsburg State College produces.

WE ARE COUNTING ON YOU!

A TIME FOR DECISIONS

The organization and control of State (Teachers) Colleges, has changed very little in the last two decades. My doctoral dissertation, titled "The Development of Pennsylvania State Teachers Colleges as Institutions of Higher Education (1927-1948)," shows the time for change was then, twenty years ago, long overdue. The direct political control of the Boards of Trustees, whose members are appointed by the Governor of the Commonwealth for overlapping terms, did not give the amount of autonomy necessary for the individual institutions to grow, develop, and expand to meet the needs of the youth who were the sons and daughters of the taxpayers of Pennsylvania.

In the present session of the Legislature, two bills will be introduced to amend (1) the Administrative Code to provide for the appointment of one Board of Trustees for all State Colleges, and (2) the School Code to provide for a Board of Advisors for each college.

In our advancing stage of growth and development, the proposed legislation will give greater authority to the Presidents of the several colleges who will be responsible for the carrying out of general policies developed by the Board of State College Trustees with the advice and counsel of their local Board of Advisors.

When the total full-time enrollment of the fourteen institutions, then known as State Teachers Colleges, was 10,000 students, the three part-time administrators in the Department of Public Instruction, namely: the Superintendent of Public Instruction, the Director of Teacher Education and Certification, and a staff member in the Plant Division, were only barely adequate to meet the needs of the institutions which were expanding slowly in the areas of plant, personnel, enrollments, and new educational programs.

Enrollments are now well in excess of 50,000 students, and a goal of at least 70,000 (to 110,000) students has been established for the next decade. The administrative staff at the state level must be expanded to take care of the growth of the institutions which will continue to absorb larger numbers of new students in new programs. These patterns of growth were never envisioned by those educators who predicted great things for the State Teachers Colleges, even in their wildest flights of fancy.

The State Superintendent of Public Instruction is appointed for a four-year term by the Governor of the Commonwealth with the advice and consent of the Senate. There are those who feel that the chief school officer of the State must always give attention to the effect of any decisions he makes regarding the State Colleges in relation to his continuance in office. As a cabinet member, the State Superintendent has the authority to transmit and recommend Budget Requests for higher education to the Governor. However, there is a feeling that the general policies should be developed by a single Board of Trustees whose first and prime responsibility is to the colleges, the students enrolled therein, the faculty, and alumni.

There are still others who insist that as long as appointments are made by the Governor and confirmed by the Senate, even though the appointments are for overlapping terms, party politics will continue to play as large a part in education as ever, no matter if the power of developing policies is given to one Board of Trustees or if it is lodged in one man, such as the Superintendent of Public Instruction.

The local Boards of Trustees, which have been extant since the beginning of these institutions as State (owned) Normal Schools, have always been appointed by the Governor. Appointees have been of the same party that was in power at the time vacancies were filled. In more recent times, there has been a feeling that the county chairman of the particular party in power at the time the appointment was made, has too much to say regarding the appointment of trustees.

On the other hand, because of the geographic location of the fourteen State institutions, it was thought that the local Boards of Trustees and colleges should be responsive to needs of the particular region of their location. Otherwise, a type of administration, responsible only to a bureau in Harrisburg, could have been organized and operated, giving little thought or attention to local conditions within a hundred mile area around the college.

It should, however, be remembered that these institutions are State institutions. They are no longer regional institutions with a service area of three or four counties of which the college is the center. Most of the colleges now enroll students from 45 to 50 of the 67 counties of the Commonwealth.

Your letters to or conferences with members of the Legislature will be helpful to them in making up their minds as to how they shall vote on current legislation. You are invited not to assume that what has gone on in the past should necessarily be continued, or that the new proposals are in themselves a better solution to the problems facing the only state-owned and state-operated colleges in the Commonwealth.

This message is being sent to the Alumni so that they will be conversant with the facts that this is a "Time For Decisions"—decisions which will affect the future of the institutions now known as State Colleges, if they are in time to become State Universities.

You are invited to write to

Mid-Year Commencement

Eighty-one students received the degree of Bachelor of Science in Education, and five received the degree of Bachelor of Arts at the Mid-Year Commencement Convocation held in Carver Auditorium Tuesday, January 24.

The speaker was Dr. Charles H. Watts, President of Bucknell University. Dr. John A. Hoch, Dean of Instruction and Acting President of the College, presided at the convocation and awarded the degree to the graduates. The diplomas were presented by Dr. S. Lloyd Toumey, Director of Business Education; Dr. Royce O. Johnson, Director of Elementary Education; Dr. C. Stuart Edwards, Director of Secondary Education and Dr. William L. Jones, Acting Director of Special Education. Those graduated with the degree of Bachelor of Arts received their diplomas from Dr. Alden Bucher, Director of Arts and Sciences. The candidates for the degree of Master of Education were presented by Dr. Robert C. Miller, Director of Graduate Studies.

The organist and choir director was William Decker, of the Music Department, and the Commencement Marshal was James B. Creasy, Assistant to the President.

Honor Graduates

Six January graduates were honored for their high academic records. Leatrice K. Sunaoka, Kaneohe, Hawaii, was graduated Summa Cum Laude. Joyce A. Studlick, Frackville, and Emma Jane K. Pellen, Wind Gap, were graduated Magna Cum Laude; Ellen Tyson Kishbaugh, Berwick, and Alan C. Bartlett, Honesdale, were graduated Cum Laude.

Receive Master's Degrees

BSC graduates who received master's degrees in Business Education were Harry J. Bertsch '49, Thomas E. Concavage '59, Patricia A. Plowfield '62, and Gail L. Sorce '62. The degree of Master of Science in Elementary Education was granted to Lee T. Frederick '64 and Lynne L. Raker '58.

Service keys, the highest awards presented by Bloomsburg State College to its students, were awarded to six graduating seniors. Receiving the keys were: Alan Clinton Bartlett, Honesdale; Samuel Ronald Bashore, Port Royal; Cecelia Josephine Flaherty, Shenandoah; Corey Forrest Perrin, Roslyn; Ray Harrison Shirk III, Milton, and Leatrice Kimie Sunaoka, Kaneohe, Hawaii.

Five Bloomsburg State College students of the class have been selected for inclusion in the 1967 publication of Who's Who Among Students in American Universities and Colleges, according to a recent announcement by that publication.

The students receiving these certificates were Alan Clinton Bartlett; Samuel Ronald Bashore; Cecelia Josephine Flaherty; Marlene K. Laughlin, Muncy; Anna Marie Soley, Andreas, Penna.

Life-time athletic passes to all BSC athletic events were presented to athletes who earned four consecutive letters in a varsity inter-collegiate sport. They were: Girard Doto, Upper Darby, football; Richard Steidel, Pottsville, swimming; Thomas Vargo, Danville, wrestling; Irwin Zablocky, Bloomsburg, track.

The Redman trophy, given each year to the most outstanding athlete by the class of 1950 in honor of the late Robert Redman, former football coach, was presented to Thomas Vargo.

NEW COLLEGE BUILDING IS APPROVED

The General State Authority in Harrisburg advertised for bids to construct a new science classroom building at Bloomsburg State College.

A total of $1,896,000 has been allocated for construction. The structure will occupy the site of six former residences across Spruce street from the Ben Franklin School and west of new Sutliff Hall. It will face both Spruce and Second streets.

Bids on four phases of the project are scheduled for March. They are general construction; heating, ventilating and air conditioning; plumbing, and electrical.

The air-conditioned structure will contain science laboratories, lecture rooms, class rooms, faculty offices and auxiliary areas. It is expected to be ready for use by the beginning of the fall term in 1968. Completion date of all contracts is December, 1968.

It will be the first classroom built on campus since Sutliff Hall was completed in August of 1960. Three of the large lecture rooms will seat ninety-six students each and a fourth will hold 292.

The project is another in a long-range program to modernize the college. The new building will be located in what is known as the learning area of the campus. A new library there is now in use, and an auditorium at the north-end of Spruce street will be completed in May of this year.

Architect's plans are presently being worked up for another classroom building to cost in the area of $1,500,000. If these progress as scheduled, it should be completed by September, 1969. This one would be located between the library and auditorium.

The fifth annual "Toys for Tots" dance, sponsored by the Men's Residence Council of Bloomsburg State College, was held in Centennial Gymnasium on Tuesday, December 6.

BSC BEN FRANKLIN TO TERMINATE IN JUNE

The familiar sight of children making their way up College Hill to the elementary laboratory school will no longer be a part of the campus scene after, June 1967.

The laboratory school, located in the Benjamin Franklin Building on the campus of Bloomsburg State College since 1930, will terminate its operations at the end of the 1966-1967 college year.

Although the campus laboratory school has played an important role in the preparation of teachers in elementary education, the college has been aware for several years that the facilities of the laboratory school were no longer sufficiently adequate for instruction, research, and experimentation in elementary education.

The decision to discontinue this phase of the college program was made early in 1965, following a meeting with representatives of the Bloomsburg Area School Board. In order to minimize inconvenience and hardship for the public schools in the area, college authorities planned a phasing out process which would begin with the termination of the kindergarten and first grade in September, 1965, and end in June, 1968. Letters were mailed to the parents of all students in March, 1965, listing the date when each of the grades would be discontinued. Indications were also given that the laboratory school might be closed at a date earlier than June, 1968, if the number of children dropped below a desirable level.

Enrollment Drops

According to Dr. Royce O. Johnson, director of Elementary Education at BSC, student enrollment during the current year dropped to a total of 67 in grades 3, 4, 5 and 6. One of the reasons for this decrease in enrollment was caused by parents who had children in other elementary school buildings and wanted to reduce their transportation problems. The projected enrollment for 1967-1968 would have totalled 35-45 for grades 4, 5 and 6. It was felt that this would not provide the proper social and academic environment for the children, and it would be difficult to justify the cost of operation for this number.

In recent years, the expanding college enrollment has led to the opening of additional student teaching centers in communities in central and southeastern Pennsylvania. Along with those already in existence, the centers have provided an opportunity for student teachers to observe and absorb experimentation in elementary education.

Space Critically Needed

The phasing out of the laboratory school has also made available space which is critically needed to accommodate the increasing number of college students and faculty members. Parts of the Benjamin Franklin building are now being used for college classrooms, the day women's lounge, the data processing center, the Obitier office, the admissions office, and faculty offices.

The smiling faces and the playful antics of the laboratory school children will be missed by all members of the college community. It is interesting to note that since the beginning of the phasing out process in September, 1965, an increasing number of college students are now taking college classes in the same rooms where they had at one time learned reading, writing and arithmetic.

ANDERSON IS NAMED PURCHASING AGENT

Lloyd H. Anderson, Carroll Park, has been appointed purchasing agent of Bloomsburg State College, the board of trustees has announced.

Renovations are currently being made to the former Boyer property, located at 409 Lightstreet Road, near Penn Street, which will house the office of the purchasing agent. This property, which was recently leased by the State Department of Property and Supplies, acting on behalf of the college, will also include the receiving department and the mail room. These functions and storeroom, located in the basement of the College Commons, will be under the direction of Anderson, who will be under the supervision of Paul Martin, College business manager.

A native of Hibbling, Minn., Anderson attended the elementary and secondary schools of that community. He is a graduate of the Hursh Business College of Duluth, Minn.

NEW MEMBERS OF FACULTY

SPRING ARTS FESTIVAL

The sixth annual Spring Arts Festival at Bloomsburg State College, April 20-30, will once again bring to the campus outstanding figures in literature, music, painting, and the dramatics.

A feature of this year's Festival is the arrangement whereby most of the noted personalities will be on campus for at least an entire day and some for several days, making themselves available to students for consultation and for panel discussions. In the past the guest speakers and performers have been limited nearly always to a single appearance.

Highlighting the list of celebrated guests invited to the Festival are the following:

—Richard Wilbur, one of the two or three great poets in America today, whose poetry has won international recognition and earned such awards as the Prix de Rome, Pulitzer Prize, and National Book Award. Mr. Wilbur's translations from the French of several plays by Moliere have become the most successful and popular translations in English, and a Wilbur translation of one of Moliere's comedies will furnish the text for a Bloomsburg Players' production during the Festival.

—Stanley Kauffman, one of the nation's most outstanding drama and film critics, who is also a writer for The New Republic, the author of a book on movies, A World on Film, and the writer and producer of an educational TV series, "The Art of the Film," which won a New York "Emmy" Award in 1965. For many years a drama critic for The New York Times, Mr. Kauffman is now drama critic for New York's educational TV Channel 13.

—Douglas Watson, prominent actor who has had major roles in many successful Broadway and off-Broadway productions, and was a featured player in the Shakespeare Theatre at Stratford, Connecticut. Mr. Watson has also appeared in major roles in two Hollywood movies, "Sayorara" and "Julius Caesar." Winner of the Variety acting award and the Derwent acting award, Douglas Watson has given notable performances in such successful Broadway plays as Man For All Seasons, Desire Under the Elms, Confidential Clerk (in which he had the leading role) and Anthony and Cleopatra.

—Jean Erdman, choreographer and modern dancer, who performed several years as a soloist for the Martha Graham Dance Company. She left to form a company and school of her own, which has brought her international recognition. In recent seasons she has adapted, choreographed, directed, and performed in The Coach With Six Insides, a prize-winning show that toured colleges and universities for three years. This winter she did the choreography for Yerma, presented at the Lincoln Center in New York. She is now head of the Dance Theatre at New York University.

—Soulima Stravinsky, concert pianist, whose concert engagements have covered most European countries, South America, and the United States. Born in Lausanne, Switzerland and the son of the great composer Igor Stravinsky, he came to this country in 1948 and has appeared with major orchestras and given numerous recitals here and in Canada.

In addition there will be four outstanding painters from Pennsylvania State University and Lock Haven and Lycoming colleges, who will hold an exhibition of their paintings and participate in panel and group discussions.

Bloomsburg State College's own contribution to the Festival will be a dramatic production of a play by Moliere (based on a translation by the poet Richard Wilbur) and a performance by the BSC Concert Choir of Honegger's "King David," which will climax the Festival on Sunday afternoon, April 30.

Two well-known and critically acclaimed foreign films—No Exit (French) and Don Quixote (Russian) will also be shown during the Festival.

3,407 ARE SIGNED FOR SECOND SEMESTER

Officials of Bloomsburg State College reported 3,407 students completed registration for the second semester of the present term.

Of the total, 3,063 are undergraduates and approximately 40 per cent are part-time students.

The total also includes 90 who registered for the evening adult classes, 1775 graduate students and 55 nurses who enrolled in a special degree program in public school nursing.

The 3,063 undergraduate group includes 25 new freshmen, 84 freshmen who participated in the 1966 summer program, 30 former BSC students who had interrupted their program of studies and 19 transfers from other colleges and universities.

Dr. Ellen L. Lensing, associate professor of business education, and Dr. Lloyd S. Toumey, director of business education, BSC, attended the annual convention of the Eastern Business Education Association at the Sheraton-Boston Hotel, Boston, Mass. The theme of the convention was "Business Jobs for Youth."

"The Second Shepherd's Play," a Medieval Morality play from the famous Wakesfield Cycle, was presented by the Bloomsburg Players on December 3.

DR. DONALD F. MAIETTA TENDERS RESIGNATION

Dr. Donald F. Mietta, professor and director of special education at Bloomsburg State College, has resigned to accepted a position as associate professor of special education at Boston University. He plans to devote his time to research, teaching and professional writing.

The local educator terminated eleven years of service at Bloomsburg State College. During his tenure the Division of Special Education was created for the development of curriculums in preparation of specialists in the special fields of mental retardation and speech pathology. As the first director of special education, Dr. Maietta developed, with the cooperation of his faculty, curricular programs acknowledged by teams of federal and state educators to be among the finest in Pennsylvania and the nation.

RUSSEL E. HOUK ATTENDS OLYMPIC MEETING

Russel E. Houk, athletic director, head coach of wrestling and football at Bloomsburg State College, recently attended a five-day meeting of the U. S. Olympic Wrestling committee at Phoenix, Arizona.

The Olympic Wrestling committee is made up of forty members representing the NCAA, NAIA, YMCA, Armed Forces, Jewish AA, AAU, and the National High School Association. Houk is one of six members who serves on the executive committee.

For the past three summers Russ Houk's wrestling camp has been used for a period of 7-10 days by the Olympic committee for training potential Olympic wrestlers. The camp is located in the beautiful Endless Mountains of Pennsylvania.

HONOR PROFESSOR

Just prior to the start of the holiday vacation at BSC, members of the advanced shorthand class of Walter S. Rygiel, professor of business education, presented him with a trophy in appreciation of his instruction in typing and shorthand and also in recognition of his influence on the students for good citizenship and clean living.

The inscription on the trophy, presented by Richard Keefe, Plymouth, president of the Business Education Club, reads: "Walter S. Rygiel 'Our Teacher of the Year', presented by Advanced Shorthand Class, 1966, Bloomsburg State College."

Herbert Reichard, associate professor of physics, attended the regional meeting of the National Science Teachers Association at the Penn Sheraton Hotel, Pittsburgh. He was a participant on a panel dealing with "Problems in Training Science Teachers."

MEET YOUR DIRECTORS

Earl A. Gehrig, Treasurer of the Alumni Association, is a native of Schuylkill Haven. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. J. Frank Gehrig, Danvills. His father was executive secretary-treasurer of the Montour County Trust Company until its merger with the First National Bank of Danville.

Mr. Gehrig, public accountant and well known resident of the community, has been elected to the board of directors of the First National Bank of Bloomsburg. He attended the Danville schools, received his Bachelor of Science degree at the Bloomsburg State College and holds a M.B.A. degree from Northwestern University, Evanston, Ill. He also took additional graduate work at the Pennsylvania State University.

He was a member of the Danville High School faculty from 1937 to 1944 and served on the faculty of BSC, instructing in accounting and tax courses in Department of Business Education from 1943 until 1956 when he entered into full time practice of public accounting. He has served as instructor for various courses offered in the evening program of the American Institute of Banking.

He is serving as treasurer of St. Matthew Lutheran Church, an office he has held since 1951. Since 1953 he has been treasurer of the BSC Alumni Association.

He is a member of the National and Pennsylvania Societies of Public Accountants and the National Association of Accountants.

Fraternally he is a member of Danville Lodge 224, F. and A. M., Caldwell Consistory and the Bloomsburg

NEWS NOTES OF BSC FACULTY

Dr. Margaret Lefevre attended the national convention of the National Society for Crippled Children and Adults in Pittsburgh November 11-12.

Dr. Margaret Lefevre, Frank DiSimoni, John Eberhart, Virginia Gilmore, and 19 students majoring in Speech Correction attended the national convention of the American Speech and Hearing Association in Washington, D. C. Miss Gilmore and Dr. Lefevre each took one of the short courses offered at the convention, and Dr. Lefevre also attended an organizational meeting of the Subsection on Speech Pathology and Audiology of the American Association on Mental Deficiency prior to the opening of the convention.

Gerald H. Strauss, Dr. Charles Kopp, and Dr. Margaret Lefevre are representing Bloomsburg State College at meeting of the A.P.S.C.U.F. and P.S.E.A. in Philadelphia.

Mordecai Treblow gave a talk recently at the University of Scranton before the Intercollegiate Chemical Society composed of student chemists' clubs from six colleges in northeastern Pennsylvania including BSC. The topic was "Steroids: Structure and Stereochemistry." Treblow also attended an American Chemical Society short course in Syracuse, New York, for three days (Nov. 17-19). The title of the course was "Chemical Bonding in Organometallic Compounds"; it was taught by Professors Robert West and Paul Treichel, both from the University of Wisconsin.

Gwendolyn Reams attended the fifty-second Conference of Eastern College Librarians at Columbia University in New York on Saturday, November 26.

Dr. C. Whitney Carpenter, II attended a meeting of the American Association of Teachers of German at Muhlenburg College in Allentown on Saturday, November 5. Emphasis of the discussion was on the German Language Laboratories.

Richard C. Scherpereel was awarded the degree of Doctor of Art Education at George Peabody College for Teachers in Nashville, Tennessee. He received a B.F.A. from the University of Notre Dame, a M.Ed. from McMurry College and a M.F.A. from the University of Notre Dame.

Dr. E. Paul Wagner, Professor of Psychology, attended the 31st Educational Conference sponsored by the Educational Records Bureau at the Hotel Roosevelt, New York. The theme of the conference was "Teacher Education: The Emerging Future."

Lodge of Elks.

His wife is the former Anna Jean Laubach, Berwick, and they are parents of two children, Mrs. Jeffrey Garrison, and a son, Frank.

CLASSES IN REUNION

Saturday, April 29, 1967, is the day set aside for Alumni Day. The following classes will be in reunion:

All classes prior to 1900; 1902*, 1907, 1912, 1917, 1922*, 1927*, 1932*, 1937*, 1942, 1947*, 1952*, 1957*, 1962.

In the case of the classes marked with an asterisk, we have as yet been unable to find anyone to act as class representative and make arrangements for their reunions.

On Alumni Day, there will be College events for those interested. The Spring Arts Festival will end its week of events on that day. There will be a baseball game with Lock Haven, a golf match with Mansfield and a tennis match with Millersville.

Several classes have savings accounts in local banks. It is recommended that these classes decide to turn over these accounts to the Loyalty Fund. These funds, along with all individual contributions, will be credited to the class.

Don't forget to bring your membership card. This will admit you to the Alumni Luncheon on Saturday, where we shall be the guests of the College.

We hope that your reunion will be the best ever.

Class Representative: Vera Hemingway Housenick, 503 Market Street, Bloomsburg, Pa. 17815

Ida Smith (Mrs. Henry S. Conrey), 239 Market Street, Bloomsburg, is a graduate in music in 1905, and from the Teachers' Course in 1910. Mrs.

Conrey has the following to say about the work in the Music Department in 1905: "In 1905 the Music Department consisted of two piano teachers, one voice and violin teacher. To graduate, we had to have 1 1-2 years of Harmony, one year of History of Music and Theory of Music. There were three recitals in Carver Hall. There were five of us who received diplomas from the Bloomsburg Literary Institute."

Ethel M. MacAlpine (Mrs. William C. Spargo), Mt. Rern, Dover, N. J., recently suffered a stroke and is in a nursing home.

The following is an extract of an article that appeared in the Centre Daily Times in the issue of Tuesday,

August 9, 1966:

"I hope to put the finishing touches on my autobiography following one more trip to Europe and Hawaii during the next few months," Dr. Carroll D. Champlin of State College, veteran teacher, author, speaker, religious leader, world traveler, told this reporter today.

A keen observer of current trends who keeps himself versed on world activities, Dr. Champlin has been sharing his up-to-date observations with high school and college students, Parent-Teacher Associations, church, and civic groups, commencement exercises, both at home and abroad.

August 18 to 26 Dr. and Mrs. Champlin served as official delegates to World Methodist Conferences in London, having been appointed by Bishop Newell Booth.

They also visited several Methodist and Presbyterian historic shrines in England and Scotland, adding to the 900 churches Dr. Champlin has visited in 50 countries since 1900. This was Dr. Champlin's 10th European tour.

Following their stay in Europe, the Champlins plan to go to Hawaii, where his daughter Carolyn and family have lived since 1947; and then their next trip will be another Caribbean cruise to visit Latin American countries—the eighth time for Dr. Champlin since 1932.

Prior to the development of scientific ways of counseling, Dr. Champlin conducted extension courses in guidance at numerous schools and institutions throughout Pennsylvania, Ohio and Puerto Rico.

Dr. Champlin retired from Penn State in 1953 after having served as professor of education, giving courses primarily in psychology, philosophy of education and comparative education since 1924.

Since retirement, he has taught at San Jose State, University of Puerto Rico, Inter-American University, Oneonta State College and Ohio Northern in Ada, Ohio.

During the past 10 years, he taught two full academic years and nine summer sessions at ONU, serving also as acting head of philosophy and religion in 1956 and 1957, and acting-head of teacher education and placement in 1957-58.

A teacher of the Men's Brotherhood Class of St. Paul's Methodist Church, State College, Dr. Champlin says he interpreted the lesson for that group of from 50 to more than 100 members each Sunday, a total of 650 times since 1928.

The author of several hundred articles, abstracts, reviews, editorials, columns, brochures, courses of study, this forceful and dynamic personality has given more than 2,200 off-campus addresses since 1920.

They have been given chiefly to Rotary, Kiwanis, women's groups, church groups or just a gathering of people who wanted to be enlightened on world affairs, of The Bible, the cold war, Russia today and tomorrow, meaning peace, church bells ringing, reasons for believing in immortality, interview with Tito, David Lord George, etc.

Much of Dr. Champlin's background scholarship has come from the 2,000 books gracing the walls of his large library in his home at 627 W. Fairmount Ave.

As the days draw near for this professor-emeritus of education to add the final chapter to his full-life of giving to others, he has been busy packing and sending some of his books where they will do the most good.

Many of them have gone to the Ohio Northern University, a school of 2,600 students, where they will help many needy persons, while others are being given to public schools and libraries, especially in Puerto Rico.

Among the books in his library are 50 rare volumes on religion, music, philosophy and general literature.

Born in Michigan, Mr. Champlin received his BA and MA degrees from Haverford College and his PhD from the University of Pittsburgh in 1925. He is affiliated with many professional societies and civic organization and is the recipient of several citations, including a distinguished alumnus award from Bloomsburg State College in 1951.

The following is an extract of an article appearing in the Philadelphia Evening Bulletin in its issue of October 20:

Dr. James DeRose, head of the science department of Marple Newtown Senior High School and supervisor of science in the secondary schools of the district, has been granted a leave of absence during the month of October to serve as consultant for the government of the Philippine Islands and the Ford Foundation in the development of a new science curriculum for the public schools of the Philippine Islands. He has served in a similar capacity for the government of India and in various school districts throughout the United States, including the city of Philadelphia and the Yeadon Public Schools.

Last year, he served as president of The National Science Teachers Association, an organization of some 40,000 science educators throughout the United States. Last August he attended The World Conference of the Teaching Profession at Korea as an official delegate from the U. S.

Dr. DeRose, who teaches chemistry in the Marple Newtown High School, earned his doctorate at the University of Pennsylvania in Science Education. He is recognized as one of the authors in the development of The Chemical Bond Approach (CBA in teaching chemistry) and has served as a professor of science, teaching the concept of the new approach in science education during summer months at the University of Maryland, Northwestern University and Brown University.

During the past six years, as supervisor of science in the Marple Newtown schools, he has brought a significant improvement in the instruction of science in the senior high school through the CBA teaching in chemistry, PSSC approach to teaching physics and BSSC approach in teaching biology.

In 1961, he was one of seven candidates nominated as National Teacher of the Year. He was a member of the Pennsylvania Department of Public Instruction, a science curriculum committee of the Pennsylvania Three Year Curriculum Study Program and was recently included in the 34th Edition of Who's Who in America.

William Robert Sickinger, 503 Aldine Street, Chicago, Illinois, 06675, has been nationally recognized for the work he is doing as Director of the Hull House Theatre in Chicago. He served with U. S. Armed Forces and was discharged in 1946. He then came to BSC, where he was prominent in many campus activities. Following his graduation, he served for a time as a teacher in the Philadelphia area. While still in the teaching profession, he founded four theatre groups in Philadelphia: the Abbet Playhouse, Circle in the City, the "Plumsock Foundation," and the Philadelphia Civic Theatre.

He became Director of the Hull House Theatre in 1963. He has also worked in television and motion pictures, both as director and actor.

In 1965, Richard Christiansen, feature writer for The Chicago Daily News, included Mr. Sickinger's name in the list of the sixty-two "best" people in Chicago. Mr. Christiansen said in this connection: "We picked the word 'best' because it is a handy word for summarizing all of the many and various personal qualities and professional abilities we admired, respected, and enjoyed . . . All of them were seekers after excellence in their life's work and in their city . . . Take them all away, and what a dull, drab, uninteresting place this town would become!"

He was also the recipient of the Chicago Junior Association of Commerce and Industry plaque. These plaques were awarded to ten Chicago citizens, for outstanding services in various fields of community life in Chicago. Mr. Sickinger is married, and has two children.

Mrs. Anna M. Knight

Mrs. Anna M. Knight, secretary to the president of Bloomsburg State College, died Tuesday, January 3, in Savage, Minn. Mrs. Knight was stricken just as she was preparing to return to Bloomsburg following a Christmas visit at the home of her son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Myles G. Iverson, 12724 Overbrook Road, Savage, Minn.

Mrs. Knight began her career at the college in September, 1927, when she was appointed secretary to C. M. Hausknecht, then business manager. In April, 1933, she was appointed secretary to Dr. Francis B. Haas, president of the College. Since August, 1939, when Dr. Haas left the college to accept an appointment as Superintendent of Public Instruction for the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, she had served as secretary to Dr. Andruss who succeeded Dr. Haas. Prof. W. Bradford Sterling, member of the BSC faculty, was engaged in experiments in the ice fields at the foot of Mount Logan in the Mt. St. Elias range last summer. His work was sponsored by the National Science Foundation. He has spoken interestingly of his experiments and told of meeting scientists from throughout the world.

Three BSC graduates received their Master's degrees at the 88th Founder's Day Exercises held at Lehigh University on Sunday, October 9, 1966. They were: Janet F. Bohnstedt '64, Allentown; Robert F. Eifert, '65, Bethlehem; Robert Thear, '59, Nesquehoning.

The total enrollment of the 1966 summer sessions at Bloomsburg State College reached an all time high of 3,473 students, according to Robert L. Bunge, Registrar. This is a 292 student increase over the 1965 summer sessions enrollment of 3,181 and a 722 increase over the 1964 summer sessions total of 2,751.

One of the greatest of classical Greek dramas, "The Trojan Women," by Euripides, was staged by the Bloomsburg Players at Carver Hall auditorium, BSC on January 12, 13 and 14. Michael J. McHale was director.

Graduates of Susquehanna University contributed $80,197 to the university through the 1966 Alumni Loyalty Fund. 1,169 or 23 per cent of the university's 5,023 alumni contributed to the Loyalty Fund.

Your Alumni officers are highly gratified by your response to our appeal for contributions to the Loyalty Fund. We have been pleased to hear from so many Alumni whose names have been in the inactive file. We had not heard from some of you for ten years or more.

We have had several inquiries about the purpose of the Loyalty Fund. Apparently these people had not received our October letter. In order that all of you may be reminded of what we are trying to do, I shall repeat the information contained in the October letter.

The first $2.00 contributed in any one year will entitle you to full membership privileges in the Alumni Association for one year; any amount in excess of $2.00 will be credited to the Loyalty Fund for student scholarships and other projects to be determined by the Board of Directors of the Alumni Association. Contributions are tax deductible. Active members will continue to be admitted free to the Alumni Luncheon on Alumni Day, on presentation of their membership cards.

Those classes who are making plans for a dinner meeting are requested to inform us of the time and place of the meeting. We request that no meetings be scheduled for Saturday noon, April 29, as we should like as large an attendance possible at the Alumni Luncheon.

Soon after you receive this issue of the Quarterly, you will receive a letter from the College administration, announcing the program of activities on Alumni Day.

We hope that you will come to the campus on Alumni Day. You will enjoy meeting your old friends, and seeing what is going on here on the BSC campus. It's really something!

Howard F. Fenstemaker

President, Alumni Association

THANK YOU!

The Alumni Quarterly

ber of the class of 1939. Shown are (from left) Mrs. Roy D. Snyder, who presented the award to Mrs. Ancker; Mrs. Ancker; standing—Dr. Kimber C. Kuster, who made the presentation to Dr. DeRose; Mr. Ancker and Dr. DeRose. (Morning Press Photo)

Student Center For Four Thousand Students

To Friends and Graduates of Bloomsburg:

You may recall that the inside cover of the December, 1936 Alumni Quarterly detailed the construction program for our college as of July, 1966, totalling in excess of $23,000,000.

There was a building known as a STUDENT CENTER to cost $450,000. Originally, the Student Center was planned as a part of a Dining Room, Kitchen, and Student Center Unit, but for some reason, unknown to the administration of the college, this project was divided into two projects. The resulting amount for the Student Center was wholly inadequate. Five other colleges were authorized to design buildings to cost in excess of one million dollars each. Even the planning of the Student Center in two phases, one to cost one-half million dollars and the other to cost $800,000, does not seem to meet with favor.

For these reasons, we have requested the State Superintendent, and he has agreed, in turn, to request the Secretary of the Administration Budget to add $800,000 to the Capital Budget, since it became apparent, when the architect began to study the project, that the original sum of $450,000 was not adequate even for the present student body of over 3,000. By the time the structure is completed, there will be 4,000 or more students on the original or lower campus.

If you want to help the students at your Alma Mater, will you please write to your legislators (Representatives and Senators) and request that this General State Authority Project No. 401-19, STUDENT CENTER, proposed amount of $450,000 be increased to $1,250,000. Thus, the 2,000 dormitory students, 1,000 day or commuting students, and 1,000 students living in the Town of Bloomsburg or other towns in which they are student teaching, will have accommodations for food service, recreation, lounging areas, and room where day and dormitory students may mingle together, so that the college family, faculty, students, and visitors may be more unified than at the present time.

When you write to your legislator, will you be kind enough to send a carbon copy of your letter to

Harvey A. Andruss, President

P. S. Do it right away, please!

Many Enjoy 1967 Alumni Day

Bloomsburg State College in its first year of operation of the Loyalty Fund has increased its income three times and has brought its enrollment to the highest point in its history, Howard F. Fenstermaker, president of the graduate organization, informed some 400 at the annual luncheon and meeting held in College Commons on April 29.

But, the president emphasized, while the progress in the initial year has been gratifying, the surface has been but scratched and there is a great potential which must be developed.

At the present time there are some 22,000 members but there are around 10,000 graduates.

Fenstermaker also pointed out that while it is the older members who turn out in the largest number for the alumni festivities, the greatest support for the Loyalty Fund has come from the younger classes. In the past year the largest number contributing of any of the classes was that of 1966, with 1965 and 1964 close behind them. He said this applies both as to number of contributors and to amount. "We must recognize these young people for their loyalty to Bloomsburg."

Finances

Earl A. Gehrig, treasurer, reported receipts of around $8,400 with $4,400 going into the general fund where there was a deficit for the year of $858.73, and $4,000 into the Loyalty Fund, half to be used for scholarships and the other half for general operating expenses and projects.

The alumni has $41,000 invested with the income going to scholarships and with $1,200 in grants to be awarded students this month.

There is $148,572.26 in the alumni loan fund created by a bequest of Miss Mary McNinch. There is $78,000 invested, with $36,000 now out in loans, a decrease of $10,000 from last year. Gehrig said the reduction in loans is attributed partly to a better collection system and partly to a lessening of demand because of availability of loans from other sources. He anticipates a growing demand in the coming year. Income from the fund was $2,034.63, some of which will be applied to operating expenses.

There were 928 who contributed to the Loyalty Fund in the past year.

Senior Class Joins

The class of 1967 joined the association with Thomas Lemon, president, presenting a check for $552.

Directors reelected for three-year terms were Fenstermaker; Dr. Frank Furgele, Levittown; Mrs. Elmer McKechnie, Berwick; Earl A. Gehrig, Bloomsburg and Glenn A. Oman, Scranton. The board later reorganized by renaming Fenstermaker, president; Dr. Furgele, vice president; Mrs. McKechnie, secretary and Gehrig, treasurer.

President's Message

Dr. Harvey A. Andruss, president of the College, extended greetings and called attention to the fact that the College now has $16 million in buildings under construction or being designed. He said education, above all, has to do with people. The present plans call for an institution that can accommodate a student body of 6,000 with the probability that the goal will be raised.

He spoke of the lack of space for expansion at "the College on the hill" where there is a main campus of sixty acres. Sixty-eight additional acres were acquired from the former Bloomsburg Country Club.

Attention was called to the fact that this particular area has not been growing in population as some parts of the state as a whole and that the state is not increasing as some states. He told of the current trend to attend college close to residence, with reluctance to go more than a hundred miles to school. However, BSC has students from more than forty-five of the sixty-seven counties.

There are three groups composing the student body, those who reside in the community, live on campus and commute. He said the response to the Loyalty Fund has been encouraging.

Report of Classes

The two oldest alumnae on the campus for the festivities were Mrs. Eva Faus McKelvy, Montoursville, class of 1892, and Mrs. J. S. John, the former May Evans, class of 1895. Both were presented.

Some of the classes did not have full representations at the meeting as their special activities were scheduled for Saturday evening. Some of the reports included those attendances as well as those at the general session and were: 1902-2; 1907-8; 1912-20; 1917-40; 1922-30; 1927-76; 1932-7; 1937-35; 1942-12; 1947-85; 1957-70; 1962-60.

FEDERAL GRANT OF $49,800 TO AID 119 AT BSC

The Department of Health, Education and Welfare in Washington has approved an educational opportunity grant of $49,800 to Bloomsburg State College to aid 119 needy students.

The grants are intended to help students who might otherwise not go to college. The educational opportunity grant package has the federal government furnishing one-half the funds with the state giving one-fourth and one-fourth from such sources as part-time employment, or a loan, or a grant from a service club, or a combination of sources.

BSC GRADUATES ARE HONORED

A woman who has gained wide recognition in the field of art and a man who received acclaim for distinguished leadership in the science teaching field were the recipients of the Meritorious Service Award of the Bloomsburg State College Alumni Association, presented during the annual luncheon and meeting in College Commons.

They are Ruth Hutton Ancker, native of Bloomsburg and a member of the class of 1918 who now resides in Washington, D. C., and Dr. James V. DeRose, Newtown Square, a member of the class of 1939.

The ward to Mrs. Ancker was presented by a classmate, Mrs. Roy D. Snyder, the former Ida Wilson, of Bloomsburg, and that to Dr. DeRose by Dr. Kimber C. Kuster, retired member of the BSC faculty and who was a teacher of the recipient.

The certificates enumerate many of their accomplishments.

Mrs. Ancker

Mrs. Ancker is a graduate of "Old Normal" and received her degree from Columbia University. She studied art at the Philadelphia Museum School; Parsons School of Design, New York; University of New Mexico and Cincinnati Art Academy.

It was in the field of sculpture she attained much of her success and in that art form was a student of the late Oronzio Maldarelli, New York; Ferenc Varga, Detroit; Antonucci Volti, Paris and Allesandro Monteleone, Rome.

Mrs. Anker taught art at Cooper Union, New York; Pratt Institute, Brooklyn; University of Alabama and the University of Cincinnati.

She has had a number of exhibitions of her sculpture, including two individual shows in New York and one each in Paris and Rome.

Her capability was aptly expressed by Enrico Contradi in the Voce Del Sud, Rome, Italy where he observed: "We find ourselves in the presence of a consummate artist, a master of form and material."

The Acceptance

In her acceptance Mrs. Ancker asserted: "The longer I live, the more I appreciate the privilege of having received my early education in this lovely hill, here in the world's most beautiful countryside."

"The Model School, in particular, helped me for life in many important ways. We children were encouraged to develop our imaginations, to think independently, to use and discipline our minds, to apply ourselves."

"And very important to me, personally, is the fact that here my interest in art was first recognized and nurtured.

"Time has brought many changes to College Hill, and I can't say I like all of them. It distresses me that the Model School will end with the phasing out of the training program.

"And I know that countless of my fellow alumni will mourn with me the disappearance of the grove. But we must bow to progress. We cannot allow our sentiments, however deep, to stand in the way of a better educational opportunity for the younger generations.

"I know that you all share my confidence that these young people will go forth from Bloomsburg State College prepared to cope with—and help solve—the problems of an increasingly complex world."

Dr. DeRose

Dr. DeRose is the holder of the Macalister Award for distinguished leadership in the science teaching field and is president of the 30,000 member professional association of science teachers.

He graduated from BSC in 1939, received his Master's Degree from the University of Pennsylvania in 1947 and his Doctor's Degree from the same institution in '62. He headed the science department at Chester, Pa., High School before being named science department director at Marple-Newton Senior High School in 1960. He has served as a science consultant to a summer institute in India for chemistry teachers and, in 1961, was selected as one of the nation's top nine teachers by the U. S. Office of Education, the Council of Chief State School Officers and Look magazine.

Dr. DeRose has held key posts in establishing science curricula at national and state levels. He is a life member of the National Association, the Pennsylvania State Education Association, the American Chemical Society, Division of Chemical Education and American Association for the Advancement of Science.

Dr. DeRose's Reply

In his acceptance he expressed his appreciation for what Bloomsburg State College has done for him and paid tribute to Dr. Kuster who started his successful career as a member of the BSC faculty in 1935, the year DeRose arrived on the campus as a freshman. He spoke of the retired educator as one who was vigorous in his demands and who established high standards for his students.

The Steuben County, New York, Business Teacher's Association, is under the leadership of Bloomsburg State College graduates. The current slate of officers includes:

President—Dean Morgan, class of '61, Haverling Central School; Vice-President—Bob Sarviss, class of '62, Prattsburg Central School and Secretary-Treasurer—Joe Kegolis, class of '63, Troupsburg.

... CLASS REUNIONS ...

Class reunions, as usual, provided many of the highlights of the annual spring festivities of the Bloomsburg State College Alumni Association over the weekend, with the functions opening on Friday evening, April 28 and continuing throughout Saturday.

Individual class functions on the big day were centered in breakfasts and evening get-togethers and dinners, with the latter especially numerous.

Most of the reunion classes had special functions, and those that did not had reunions during the afternoon in assigned rooms on the campus.

There were a number of special entertainment features to which the alumni were welcome, including a varied program by students in Carver auditorium during the morning and a program by Richard Wilbur, poet, translator and lecturer, in that auditorium during the evening.

Among the most popular features were the open house in residence halls in late afternoon and tours of the campus. The get-together in the Waller Hall lobby in the morning also drew a good attendance.

Veteran Alumni

Among those in attendance at the functions were Mrs. Eva Faus McKelvy, Montoursville, 1892; Mrs. May Evans John, Bloomsburg, 1895; Mrs. Eleanor Gay Northrup, of Mehoopany and Mrs. Blanche Austin Gibbons, of Wilkes-Barre, 1902; Mrs. Nellie Schweppenheiser Worman, Danville, 1903; Miss Amy Levan, Sunbury, 1906; Mrs. Ethel Henry Nattress, of Sunbury.

Class of 1907

There were nine members of the class of 1907, about half residents of New Jersey, who returned for a delightful sixtieth anniversary program. The class joined with 1917 for a dinner in the College Commons on Friday evening and had breakfast at the Hotel Magee on Saturday morning as well as participating in all the functions of the general body.

Class of 1912

The class of 1912 had twenty back for its fifty-fifth reunion, one coming from California. This class joined with 1917 for the dinner at the College Commons on Friday evening and joined with the class of 1907 for a breakfast at the Hotel Magee on Saturday morning. Members were active in many phases of the general program on the campus through the weekend. The class gave $214 to the Loyalty Fund.

Class of 1917

Thirty-three members of the class of 1917, honor class in the reunion, were guests of the general Alumni Association at a dinner in the College

Commons on Friday evening and had a breakfast at the Hotel Magee on Saturday morning.

Members of the class came back for the golden anniversary reunion from many parts of Pennsylvania and from Ohio, Wisconsin, New Jersey, New York and the District of Columbia.

Allen L. Cromis, class chairman of the reunion, reported at the general meeting that the class had given a memorial of a greenhouse, still on the campus, at the time of its graduation and "believing in practical things for our college" had purchased a microfilm reader for the library at a cost of $640 and had given more than $100 additional to the Loyalty Fund as fiftieth anniversary gifts.

Class of 1927

The class of 1927 gave $100 to the Dr. E. H. Nelson Memorial Fund, had a busy Saturday on campus and concluded with a dinner attended by seventy.

Class of 1932

The class of 1932 had an informal and enjoyed program. Seven members registered at the Alumni desk.

Class of 1937

The class of 1937 had around forty in attendance at a class dinner and get-together held at the Leiby restaurant on Saturday evening as the highlight of a delightful thirty-year reunion.

Class of 1942

The class of 1942 concluded a busy day with a reunion dinner on Saturday evening at the Briar Heights Lodge. There was a good attendance for the climaxing event.

Class of 1947

The class of 1947 concluded a delightful day with a dinner at the Hotel Magee on Saturday evening with around eighty-five attending. Those who registered on campus were John W. Thomberger Rhodes, Elysburg; William W. Hummel, Reading and Robert L. Bunge, Bloomsburg.

Class of 1952

The class of 1952 had no special program but a number were back to participate in the festivities of the day.

Class of 1957

The class of 1957 reported seventy present for a smorgasbord at the American Legion home on Saturday evening. A few of the class arrived in time to participate in the general program on campus through Saturday.

Class of 1962

The class of 1962, youngest class in reunion, had a good turnout for a busy day on campus and a much enjoyed reunion dinner at the Elks on Saturday evening.

World Travel and World Affairs

(Appeared originally in "The Berwick Enterprise")

Dr. Harvey A. Andruss, President, Bloomsburg State College

(A keen observer of world affairs, Dr. Andruss, accompanied by Mrs. Andruss, returned in January, 1967 from a world tour taken while on sabbatical leave during the first semester of the 1966-67 college year. The following are six articles reflecting his personal views and observations of several world situations.)

Can Britain Continue To Be A World Power Without Its Colonies?

Throughout the years the colonial policy of the British Empire has passed through a series of four stages.

During the first stage, when Sir Francis Drake directed the defeat of the Spanish Armada and Captain Cook recorded his famous exploits in the Pacific area, the English navy roamed the seas of the world. In this period of exploration information was brought back to the British merchants which enabled them to set up trade relations with native populations in almost every port of the globe.

The second stage, that of expansion, followed with the formation of companies of venturers or adventurers such as the Virginia Company, the Massachusetts Company, the British East India, and the Hudson's Bay Company. Some of these companies settled lands with people who were looking for better opportunities in the New World or with those who wished to escape from religious persecution. Transplanting these people resulted in a rise of trade in tobacco, rum, tea, and furs. This second stage of expansion was chiefly an era of trading by individuals, including nobles and even monarchs, who had taken shares for development of new and unexplored lands. However, England was not committed to defend these new settlements.

Once these two stages, expansion and exploration, were completed, the third stage, exploitation, began. This was characterized, chiefly, by trade between the colonies and the Island Kingdom; raw materials were shipped to England, manufactured into finished goods, and then transported into various world markets.

With the passage of time, a fourth and more recent stage developed which probably could be classified as the period of explosion. This resulted in some native governments, feeling the rising tide of nationalism, insisting on a greater degree of independence and less control of their foreign or overseas trade.

While there have been too many colonies to examine in the light of these four periods of British colonial development, two in particular, Singapore and Aden, present unique situations.

Singapore is a city island republic of almost two million people with approximately eighty thousand of these citizens currently unemployed. It was originally fortified by the British against attack by sea on the general assumption that no one would attack it by land. However, the Japanese did attack by land and Singapore fell early in World War II.

Following the war, the final breaking away from being part of Malaysia and later Indonesia has left Singapore a "sitting duck" for anyone who wants to come along and take it over. It is the fourth largest port in the world for freight, being the center of trade both in Southeast Asia and the New Zealand-Australia area. If Singapore becomes a part of the government of the mainland now known as Malaysia, it may control the trade outlets for the whole peninsula, but it is facing an unemployment problem which may affect its basic prosperity.

Aden is an entirely different situation. It is the largest oil supply port for vessels in the world. Situated on the Suez Canal at the entrance of the Red Sea, it is now in a state of police control by the British. However, next year the British have indicated that due to the difficulty of maintaining order, they will remove fourteen thousand soldiers who are presently protecting such properties as the British Petroleum Company.

The Suez Canal carries four times as much tonnage as the Panama Canal and is controlled by Egypt. Nasser expects to overcome the resistance in Yemen, located just above Aden, in time to seize control of Aden through its nationalists who are now in a stage of revolt. Newspapers carry stories every week of some five to twenty-five people who are killed by either bombs or submachine guns while patrolling the streets. Visitors are warned not to go beyond the waterfronts. British civil servants and employees of petroleum companies, many of whom have spacious apartments along the waterfront, are leaving Aden. Many of these people are going to Australia. The situation for Europeans, particularly the British after 1968, will be untenable in Aden, a melting pot of mixed population.

So it would seem by looking at Singapore and Aden as examples of colonies, the British are now unable to keep large numbers of troops all over the world to maintain their economic interests. Nearby nations who observe this probably will be affected with a new feeling of nationalism. Since Indonesia has moved away from Communist influence, it appears that Singapore has a breathing spell.

Increased pressure being placed on Nasser by Jordan and Saudi Arabia, one time members of the Arab League, means violence can be expected in Aden before the general position of the country progresses beyond that of martial law. It has been said that if the nationalists prevail in Aden, ships will probably be loaded with oil at other points on the Red Sea. This sounds very much like the argument that the Egyptians could not operate the Suez Canal at the time when Nasser seized it. It seems all the more likely that since Britain is powerless to prevent it, Aden, the rich plum, will fall in someone else's lap.

If Charles de Gaulle Continues

During and after the recent elections in France, a question arose not only in the minds of the French but also in the minds of Americans and the rest of the Western European people. Can Charles de Gaulle continue as the embodiment, both physical and political, of the France of which he dreams?

We find evidences of such questions in some very unlikely places if we only look for them. One of the things which strikes the eye is the amount of yellow gold worn by women and displayed in the shops of France. Probably no other place in the world has as much heavy gold appearing in jewelry and ornaments.

This practice exists today among the women in Venezuela and Hong Kong; it has been a part of the pattern of life among certain tribes in Africa and India where women were ornamented with silver as a sort of family bank. This fact bespeaks a deep rooted custom of the peasants who have long been addicted to the general habit of hiding gold rather than depositing it in the bank. The French are uncertain as to the value of the franc and, therefore, keep gold on hand in case some morning they wake up and find that a new franc is worth ten old francs. This reflects a basic fear of the devaluation of money.

Another interesting observation is the 20% discount offered in almost all the shops in Paris for American Travelers Checks. These checks become the basis for allowing France to acquire American gold from Fort Knox, thus permitting France to accumulate more and more of the world gold supply. The French believe that there will be an eventual devaluation of the American dollar; the gold which they have accumulated will then buy more American dollars, and France will become richer through the manipulation of currencies.

Charles de Gaulle, who is one of the last remaining leaders of World War II, was not considered by President Roosevelt and Prime Minister Churchill to be the leader of the French nation in revolt against the Vichy government. However, through a combination of circumstances during the American liberation of France, de Gaulle somehow created the general impression that he had saved Paris from being burned.

The French colonial empire has gradually disintegrated. Some think that de Gaulle's conciliatory attitude towards Vietnam, a former French colony, is an outright criticism of American intervention there. However, one of the motives is to preserve French investments in that area from being taken over by the Vietnamese government.

De Gaulle, who has unified French parties into something resembling a strong central government, believes he will go down in French history as a sort of male Joan of Arc. When de Gaulle eventually leaves the political scene, the power struggle will undoubtedly be a disorderly contest to establish a successor to this great leader. Some think that de Gaulle is currently trying to play the old "balance of power" game, acting as a middle man between Russia and the United States (the East and the West) in their ideological and military conflicts.

In the near future, we shall probably know the answer to several questions. "Why did de Gaulle use the government radio and television to harangue the French people after the campaign was over, but before the voting in the election? Was he running scared in the elections? Is Charles de Gaulle to continue? If so, how long?"

Will India Always Be A Beggar?

Will India ever be able to operate as a nation without calling upon other nations of the world for aid?

Its population is hungry; sacred cows are wandering about the streets while human beings lie down because they are too weak to stand up. These observations leave a "scar" in the minds and memories of those who visit India. This country, really a sub-continent with almost a half billion people of many races, many religions, and many languages, is a puzzle to anyone who travels its vast distances by oxcarts, pony-driven carriages, decrepit taxis, streetcars, railroads, or airplanes.

The rupee, the monetary unit in India, is an unstable currency. In fact, you can travel in India with American dollars and never use rupees at all except for tipping. The rupee is listed officially at one rate to the dollar, but on the black market you can get almost twice as much. If you take the Indian money out of the country, you are likely to have trouble exchanging rupees to other currency.

Almost universal answers to the question, "Do you like India?" are: "I'll be glad when I can go home"; "I'm looking forward to the next two years after which I hope to be reassigned"; "I would go home, but after all, my family and home are in East Germany".

Teenage girls and young women carrying babies on their hips are begging in the streets. Some of the babies are deformed and covered with many sores. Still other beggars, chiefly men, wander about in strange costumes or pose as "holy men", all asking for alms. If a beggar receives a coin, the tourist is immediately besieged by a crowd of beggars. Sometimes it takes the police to restore order.

It was interesting to observe a demonstration of textile workers before the office building of their company. Although this demonstration was orderly, there was loud shouting and a display of placards and banners. It continued until the police formed around the entrance of the building to keep the demonstrators from entering. The group was colorful; some of the women were attired in saris, the colorful garment which is one piece of cloth wound around to form an attractive costume.

These workers, who earn an average monthly paycheck of about 20 American dollars, were striking for higher wages. While this amount seemed low, living costs are much cheaper in India as there is no heavy clothing worn or heat required for the climate. The diet is also limited with rice being the main food. There wasn't time to go into a study of the merits of the demonstrators' case, since the chief interest of the bystander was to get away from the scene as soon as possible. Afterwards, one could not help but think what effect the raising of wages would have on the cost of cloth exported in competition with similar products made in other countries.

Mrs. Indira Ghandi, the Prime Minister, is the representative or "front" for a coalition of five or six other party leaders, according to American sources. She has ability and bears a famous name, but recent elections indicated that her days may be numbered as titular leader of India. Other leaders, like Krishna Menon, with strong communist leanings, are being relegated to the background.

Responsible American sources report that wheat sent to the starving has been sold and the money used to buy other things from other countries, including Russia. The United States is distributing an excess of six billion dollars worth of food to many starving places in the world but, by far, the largest amount goes to India. However, this cannot continue as American food surpluses are being reduced to the vanishing point. Everywhere populations are increasing, and we cannot help those who do not try to help themselves.

India is an enigma. Its size is stupendous. Its future is frustrating to think about. One knows little about it but will long remember this nation which is becoming the biggest beggar in the world.

The Floods of Florence

In October, 1966, the whole world read or heard news reports of the flood waters of the Arno River covering the historic city of Florence, Italy, to a height of three to six feet.

There had been high waters in the Arno River before, but a combination of events produced this mighty flood. Heavy fall rains made it necessary to open the flood gates of reservoir dams in the mountains to prevent them from collapsing. Flowing down the mountainsides, these waters uprooted huge trees which were carried downstream and eventually became lodged between the arches of the bridges spanning the Arno River. Thus, new dams were formed backing up the waters flowing towards the sea. Of the nine bridges over the Arno, the first three met the full rush of the flood waters and raised the water level until Florence, located above the Ponte Vecchio Bridge, was six feet under water. The upper half of the bridge meeting the full rush of water was badly damaged along with surrounding shops which eventually had to be completely rebuilt.

As the waters rushed down the Arno through Florence and past Pisa to the ocean, they encountered ocean waves which were lashing against the shore because of high winds from the Ligurian Sea. Therefore, the flood waters could not flow into the ocean as rapidly as they normally would, thus backing up the water.

One of the freaks of the flood occurred in an art gallery when a column of water came up through the floor like a geyser, breaking the mosaic floor to bits. (Similar pressures build up in the Mississippi River when sandbags are used to control flooding waters). The water soaked the paintings that had hung on the walls for 200 or more years. Some of the paintings will be repaired, others were lost completely.

Two months later, visitors to Florence were disappointed to find the cathedral and many of the museums and art galleries closed to visitors, while other buildings were opened on a very limited time schedule. Unless the high water mark on the buildings was pointed out, or one passed through streets where parked automobiles had been covered with sludge and oily wastes, it was hard to believe that such a beautiful city could have been cleaned up in such a short time. Some transients were even disappointed in not being able to view more of the flood damage. Yet, inside the art galleries there were scores of famous paintings from 300-500 years old in the process of being dried out or repaired. Some of the panels of the Ghiberti doors were missing, and many of the bronze plaques had been removed for safekeeping.

Florence today is cleaner than it has ever been before and probably ever will be again. Every basement and low-lying ground or first floor had to be emptied of the contents, fumigated, cleaned, and in some cases painted, before business could be resumed.

Hundreds of thousands of dollars have been contributed by people all over the world to repair the flood damage. The efforts of American art students residing in Florence were praised by authorities for their contributions during the time of the flooding and the period of repair. An Italian crew on a ship traveling from Australia to Genoa contributed one day's wages to the restoration of Florence.

There is a shrine in Leghorn where written testimonials with silver hearts in frames hung along the walls. After the floods, it was discovered that the church had permitted the melting down of the silver hearts in large numbers so funds could be provided for the relief of Florence.

These are just a few of the many sacrifices that were typical, not only of the Italian people, but of people all over the world. So it would seem there has been a rebirth of concern for the art treasures of the Renaissance, since the floods of Florence touched the heartstrings and purse-strings of the whole world.

Is Britain Becoming Americanized?

When the Chrysler Motor Company was alleged to have acquired control of one of the large British manufacturers of automobiles, we were reminded that both General Motors and Ford had already made similar acquisitions. These developments give rise to the question, "Is Britain gradually becoming Americanized?"

On the other side of the coin, where did we get the long-haired Beatle? Who invented or promoted the miniskirt? These were certainly British importations to America.

Let us look for a moment at what is happening in this cross-fertilization of ideas, ideals, and more easy manners. What effects are American ways having on Britain? Do we still look upon imported goods, particularly those from Britain, as being superior to our own? Do we think more of Scotch Whiskey than the American brands? Do we prefer British Briar pipes rather than our own? Do we believe that the British Tweeds are the best in the world?

Certainly, Americans are becoming more aware of the fact that the sun does set on portions of the British Empire as its course of light is traced around the world. The British Colonies and Commonwealths, once a source of military, naval, and air power, have become a loose confederation. At one time, their trade was scrupulously supervised or controlled, resulting in Britain's becoming a great world power. This was accomplished by having raw materials shipped to the Island Kingdom, manufactured into finished goods, and then transported to markets throughout the world.

In this process, what has been the effect of the development of the United States, once a colony of Britain, on the Motherland and its former colonies?

Everywhere you go around the world, you will see a Coca Cola sign. Expensive American cigarettes are preferred over the native brands. Even in Egypt, once a British possession, we see these evidences. In a Mohammedan Mosque in Cairo, the attendants, who provide covers for shoes in order that you may walk on oriental carpets, continually chant as you are leaving "Cigarette, please; cigarette, please, American cigarette, please." This is done, not only because they like or can sell American cigarettes at a high price, but because they know that, according to their religion, they are not allowed to accept gratuities or tips.

There have been great investments of American capital in British industries, not only in the Island Kingdom, but in Scotland and Northern Ireland as well. Even though the labor force hired is not American, the management and know-how must come from the source which provides the invested capital. Probably the effect of the American way of life, be it wholesome or not, is best seen in Australia and New Zealand, two of the former colonies or commonwealths of England.

Australia, located at the farther end of the earth from Great Britain, has had to face the constant threat of Oriental immigration and, as in the case with the Japanese in World War II, possible invasion. At that time, it was evident that the commitments of Britain to the Empire were so great that the British would not have been able to actually land troops, supplies, and armaments to help defend the Australians if they were attacked. Since the Americans, under the command of General MacArthur, did go to Australia in large numbers, did stay until the war was over, and did demonstrate concern over the Far East, the Australian, on the whole, respects and likes the American.

Immigration in Australia, since the last World War, amounting to more than two million persons, has given Australia a total population of slightly over twelve million in an area approximately the size of the United States. This has developed a situation which is somewhat different from that before 1940. In the 1930's, practically all of those immigrating to Australia came from Canada, England, Ireland, or Scotland, with a smaller number coming from Germany and Italy. Since 1940, the largest number of immigrants is still made up of those who speak the English language, but there is an increasing number of Italians as well. In fact, they are coming in such large numbers that one of the large steamship lines now has two vessels regularly carrying from 1,500 to 2,000 passengers between Australia and Italy, most of whom are accommodated in the tourist class.

The Australian is not impressed with the Britisher who comes into his country with pre-conceived ideas of how it should resemble his homeland. There was a time when deportees from Britain, including convicts who were to receive the death penalty, were sent or escaped to America. But when the American colonies gained their independence, Australia became the place where British people, convicted of minor crimes with serious penalties, were sent. In the 1700's, there were over 200 crimes for which a person could be put to death; some of these crimes were as inconsequential as letting the water out of dams or stealing anything of value of one pound which was then equal to $5.00.

The Australians are sensitive about their early origin and have the feeling that the Britisher who comes to Australia is constantly aware of a kind of class distinction that has grown out of inequitable criminal laws. The fact remains that the Australian has become more Americanized than the Britain in his home island.

On the other hand, New Zealand, with its green fields and abundance of sheep, is more English than England. It is more isolated than Australia and under more strict controls as to currency regulations and the importation of goods. The climate lends itself to the wearing of British tweeds. The currency, if taken out of New Zealand, cannot be exchanged into other currencies and, therefore, is worthless. If you wish to buy a new car, you have to wait until the import quota of the dealer is large enough to include it.

The rate of Americanization in Britain and its colonies and commonwealths varies in relation to the distance between countries, but it is inexorably taking place.

The Expansion of Egypt Toward The Red Sea

Certainly a visitor who leaves his ship at a port somewhere in the Red Sea, travels overland to see the Pyramids and other sights in Cairo, and returns to Port Said, is hardly in a position to speak with authority on Nasser and his prospects for the future.

On the other hand, anyone who goes ashore at Aden and is surrounded by two kinds of police in various types of uniforms, carrying submachine guns at the "ready," is impressed with the fact that violence may erupt at any time in this lower portion of the Arabian peninsula.

The average person living in the Western World has rather vague ideas of Egypt, except in terms of the Pyramids and the Sphinx, mummies, the Nile, bulrushes, Moses, and the Suez Canal.

Since Nasser was unable to get the financing for the Aswan Dam from the Americans and had to turn to the Russians and other countries for financial aid, he has had difficulty in paying the interest on these debts. Even though the Suez Canal, contrary to past predictions, is making a profit of more than thirty millions of dollars a year, this amount is too small to pay for the construction of the Aswan Dam which is to be 17 pyramids high. At the present time, construction is up to only the 14th pyramid level, and it will be some time before it will be completed.

There are those who, upon visiting Cairo and riding about the city, are impressed with the great number of barracks and soldiers. They are told that Cairo has a total population of four million, and out of this number there are one million soldiers. At the present time, Egypt has conquered only half of Yemen since the Nationalists, with aid from Saudi Arabia, are holed up in the mountains and cannot be forced from their lairs. If Nasser is able to control Yemen, an oil-rich country, he will then be in a position to effect a "takeover" of Aden in 1968 when the British police force of fourteen thousand men leaves this British protectorate. Thus, he will have one of the largest oil supply points for ships in the world.

The waterway through the Red Sea and the Suez Canal northward to the Mediterranean Sea is filled with four times the shipping which passes through the Panama Canal. If this shipping is interrupted or detained, the normal flow of commerce and trade of the world will be affected. Larger and larger tankers are now being constructed; these may go around the southern tip of Africa rather than to the Mediterranean Sea, through the Suez Canal and Red Sea.

The British Petroleum Company in Aden has huge investments which will need to be protected. With the anticipated violence, many of its employees are either taking early retirement or leaving for Australia, other commonwealths or colonies. Few of them want to return to Britain because of the heavy taxes and lack of employment. In spite of the heavy police guard, clashes occur each week between the different factions which sometimes result in from five to twenty people being killed.

The drilling for oil in the Red Sea is continuing. Nasser hopes to tap this valuable natural resource as the former members of the Arab League have done. Egypt, supported by Syria, now stands almost alone as the so-called United Arab Republic. Israel is still denied the use of the Suez Canal; Jordan and Saudi Arabia are arrayed against Egypt. So, the Middle East is still a hotbed of intrigue, civil war, and violence; as a result the standard of living drops lower and lower and results in more starvation and less honesty.

The best example of the latter is in the shops of Cairo. After selling an article to a foreign customer, the shopkeeper will call his attention to another article in the shop while he wraps up damaged items in the place of those originally purchased. This is true even in government supervised shops. The general practice of trying to beat the shopkeeper down in price is an accepted trade habit of this section of the world.

Over-population and inadequate food supplies in Egypt are problems almost as far advanced and difficult as those in India. The Egyptian pound is so unstable that the pursers of ships will not make any exchange of foreign money for Egyptian money. The traveler in Egypt would do well to carry American currency since it is readily accepted. This eliminates problems that result with the variations of an unstable and sometimes nearly worthless currency. It is particularly true with shopkeepers who cannot be depended upon to maintain a rate of exchange which is comparable to those quoted daily by banking institutions.

Since the time of the Pharaohs, Egypt has had the problem of being a desert country depending upon the Nile River for water for irrigation in order to keep an increasing population alive. Even with a favorable climate, the population is out-running the food-stuffs and other articles necessary to make life bearable. In time, the Aswan Dam will produce great water power for a variety of purposes which will alleviate some of the serious problems.

Nasser has not been able to make good all of his promises since he took control of the country from King Farouk. He has attempted to divert the attention of the people at home by promoting war in other areas such as the Arabian peninsula.

How long he will continue and whether his successor will be better able to maintain order is a question open to as many opinions as there are people.

The Red Sea area poses a problem in the modern world just as it did in the time of Moses. Changes, violence, insurrection, and general unrest are very likely to continue in the foreseeable future.

PLANS APPROVED FOR RESIDENCE HALL

Preliminary plans have been approved by Dr. Harvey A. Andruss, president of Bloomsburg State College, for a nine-story residence hall to accommodate 400 women on the college campus. The structure will be erected on the site behind North Hall and west of the New Auditorium at a cost of $1,800,000 and is expected to be ready for occupancy during the 1969-1970 college year.

In addition to rooms for 400 resident women, the building also includes four counselor's suites, four lounges, four study rooms, offices for student personnel staff members, a reception and lounge area, a recreation room, a manager's apartment, a guest room, a project room, and two television viewing rooms.

In those cases where two members of the family are receiving two copies of the Quarterly, we have received many requests to send only one copy. In order to comply with this request, we would have to pull all those plates from the mailing machine and replace them after each mailing. The cost and time involved in doing so would not justify this procedure.

We ask that you give your extra copy to a prospective student or place it in your local library.

Thank You!

The following is a continuation of the list of contributors to the Loyalty Fund. Contributions received after May 1 will be recognized in the next issue of the Quarterly.

Bertha M. Brobst '10

Miss Bertha M. Brobst, 301 East Fourth Street, Berwick, died March 2 at Geisinger Medical Center. She was born in Lime Ridge and lived most of her life in Berwick. A teacher for forty-four years, she retired thirteen years ago.

She was a member of First Methodist Church, Berwick, where she was a member of the official board, Sunday School teacher, superintendent of junior department. She was a member of WSCS, Unity Mission Board, Daughters of American Colonists, County Retired Teachers Association, treasurer of United Church Women and secretary of WCTU.

Oscar Whitesell '12

Oscar Whitesell, whose death was reported in the March issue of the Quarterly, was an outstanding person, an inspiration to all who ever came into contact with him. Endowed with a charming personality, a high degree of intelligence, great musical talent, great interest in athletics, he stands out as one of the most unusual students who ever attended Bloomsburg.

Oscar was blind. He had lost his sight at a very early age, and the way in which he overcame this handicap made other misfortunes seem infinitesimal by comparison. As far as we know, he was the only blind person ever to be graduated from Bloomsburg.

These words of tribute were inspired by a tribute sent to us by A. K. Naugle, Roselle Park, New Jersey, a member of the class of 1911. We quote Mr. Naugle's letter herewith:

"We were saddened to hear of our friend Oscar Whitesell's death, and we feel that we and the community have lost a true and loyal friend.

As a long-time friend and schoolmate, I would like to pay tribute to his memory. While we did not graduate in the same class, he and I studied Algebra together in his room at Bloomsburg, as his Braille books were too heavy to carry from class to class. His mind was so keen and alert that he detected every little mistake I'd make in reading a problem, but I never found him making such mistakes.

His cousin, Floyd Tubbs, used to take him from class to class on the campus, not that he could not find his own way, but to keep other students from bumping into him. His sense of direction and distance was unbelievable.

He was an avid sports fan. He attended all athletic games, following all the plays accurately and with great pleasure.

He thoroughly enjoyed music and often entertained us in the recreation room by playing on the piano. One evening after dinner, I sat there reading, when a student came in, sat down at the piano and started to play. He struck a few chords, sensed something wrong, and left the piano. Oscar went to the piano, struck a few notes, sensed something wrong, pushed back the stool, got down on his knees, took off the front panel, found the trouble, repaired it, and proceeded to give us some fine music. This was the way he met all challenges.

He has left us, but all who knew and loved him will remember his loyalty to his family and friends, and his determination to succeed and complete every task at hand. Such was Oscar Whitesell, a dedicated worker, a scholar, a loyal friend and a Christian gentleman."

Nell Dilcer Tetrault '13

Mrs. Nell (Dilcer) Tetrault died at her residence at 23 Chase Street, Hyannis, Mass., December 8 after a long illness. Formerly of Washington, she was born in Forty Fort, Pa. She was administrative assistant of the information service section of the Bureau of Internal Revenue, Washington, retiring in 1951. Prior to her position with Internal Revenue, she was a school teacher. She was a member of the Hyannis Senior Citizens Club, the National Association of Civil Service Employees, and the Hyannis Federated Church.

Mildred Kline Sidwell '19

Mrs. Ernest Sidwell, Fayetteville, Ark., died March 14. She was a native of Sunbury. She was a teacher for several years in the Sunbury elementary schools prior to her marriage to Robert Bartholomew, now deceased. Following the death of Mr. Bartholomew she married Mr. Sidwell.

Gertrude H. Splain '23

Word has been received of the death of Miss Gertrude H. Splain, of Olean, N. Y., on April 5 in Olean General Hospital. She was born in Bloomsburg and had resided in Olean since 1912. She was a grade school teacher for four years in Emporium and thirty-six years in Olean. She retired in 1965.

Harold C. Morgan '23

Harold C. Morgan, Plymouth, active in sports since his student days, died in February in the Wyoming Valley Hospital where he had been a patient. Principal of the Vine Street School, Plymouth, at the time of his death, he had been a teacher and principal in the Plymouth district for thirty-four years and also served for a number of years in the Plymouth Township schools.

He was a basketball star at Nanticoke High School during the coaching years of mentor Jake Leary in the twenties. At BSC he was on the football team and a member of one of the finest basketball teams in the school's history, then a Normal School. George Meade was the coach.

Born in Nanticoke on November 9, 1902, Morgan had resided in Plymouth for the last 39 years. He was a member of the First Methodist Church, Nanticoke; Nanticoke Lodge 541, F&AM; the Craftsman's Club in Nanticoke; Pennsylvania State Education Association and the Vine Street PTA, affiliated with the National Congress of Parents and Teachers.

Frank V. Birch '24

Frank V. Birch, sixty-two, 113 Mulberry Street, Williamsport, a native of Bloomsburg, died April 4 at the Geisinger Memorial Hospital, Danville. He was a graduate of Bloomsburg High School and Normal School, and obtained his Bachelor of Science Degree in Education at Wittenberg University, Springfield, Ohio.

During his teaching career he taught in the Camp Hill and Williamsport areas and for a short period was a teacher in the Williamsport Technical School. For sixteen years he was a chemical engineer for the Sylvania Corporation, Mill Hall. In recent years he was in semi-retirement due to his health. He was a member of St. Paul's Lutheran Church, Williamsport.

Mrs. Faye Blud Saqui '29

Mrs. Faye Blud Saqui, Pitman, N. J., a native of Northumberland, died February 9 at her home following an extended period of illness. She was 58 years of age. The late Mrs. Saqui taught first grade in Northumberland and at the Second Street School for a number of years. For the past 20 years she had taught in the New Jersey elementary schools.

Robert R. Williams '38

Robert R. Williams, forty-nine, 130 Knight's Drive, Sherwood Village, died of a coronary occlusion Sunday, April 2 at his home. His parents, Mr. and Mrs. Robert R. Williams, Scranton, had arrived for a visit only a few minutes before he was stricken.

For nineteen years he was general manager of WHLM radio in Bloomsburg. From 1948 to 1955 he was teacher of business education in Bloomsburg High School and, prior to that, taught business education and instrumental music at Troy High School.

At the time of his death, he was on the faculty of Pennsylvania State College. He was born at Blakely, April 14, 1917, and graduated from Blakely High School. He received his BS degree in business education from Bloomsburg State College in 1938 and joined the faculty of Troy High School. He received his MS degree in administration and supervision at Bucknell University.

During his ten-year tenure at Troy High School, he was teacher of business subjects and also directed the high school band, junior band and drum corps.

Between 1943 and 1946, he served in the U. S. Navy, entering as a seaman apprentice. He was commissioned Ensign in July, 1944, and took specialized training at Princeton University. He was assigned to the USS West Point and later promoted to Lt. (jg).

He held the rank of Commander in the Naval Reserve at the time of his death and was commanding officer of the Surface Division in Williamsport. His unit was recently awarded the Fourth Naval District Trophy and commended for being the First Place Division in the District.

He was a member of Olyphant Welsh Baptist Church; F&AM, Troy and Bloomsburg Consistory. He was a past president and life member of the Pennsylvania Broadcasters Association.

He was a past president of Bloomsburg Chamber of Commerce, past director of Bloomsburg Kiwanis Club and a member of Valley of Bloomsburg Post 273, American Legion. He is survived by his wife, Louise; two daughters, Linda and Janelle, both at home; his parents; one sister, Mrs. Joseph H. Bainbridge, Honesdale, and several nieces and nephews.

William V. Moyer '07

William Vance Moyer, seventy-seven, Bloomsburg, former town mayor and active in the business, civic and religious life of the community for more than a half century, died at the Bloomsburg Hospital on April 20.

A man of many interests, he took a leading role in number of phases of community life. He was a lifelong member of the First Presbyterian Church and for his dedication had been made a life elder. He was for years a Sunday school teacher and at one time Sunday school superintendent of that congregation.

He was a veteran of World War I, serving as a sergeant in the Medical Corps and was one of the first of the local men in uniform to cross the Atlantic. He was a past commander of the Valley of Bloomsburg Post No. 273, American Legion and manager of the post drum corps in its early and busiest years. He served as a member of the Columbia County Selective Service Board seventeen years.

He was a graduate, class of 1913, of the Philadelphia College of Pharmacy. He had also attended Penn State and in 1915 taught chemistry at the then Bloomsburg Normal School.

Through most of his life he was actively identified with the family firm of Moyer Brothers, Inc., established in 1868 and for many years the oldest business establishment in the area under one family. He served as president of Moyer Brothers, Inc., until February of this year and of the Fox Pharmacy, Catawissa, through 1966.

He was the oldest past president of the Bloomsburg Rotary Club and was a charter member and first president of the Bloomsburg Volunteer Firemen's Ambulance Association. He was a member of Washington Lodge F. and A.M., Caldwell Consistory, life member of Elks, Columbia County Historical Society and life member and former president of the Rescue Fire Company.

Elsie E. Hicks '98

Miss Elsie Ethel Hicks, 2643 Old Berwick Road, Bloomsburg, died at Bloomsburg Hospital recently. She was graduated from the then Bloomsburg Normal School in music at the age of fifteen, and two years later the faculty of the school gave a benefit concert for her so she could further her education at the New England Conservatory of Music, Boston, Mass.

On returning home she became organist and choir director of Mahoning Presbyterian Church, Danville, resigning after three years to become organist and choir director of the First Presbyterian Church, Bloomsburg, where she had been assistant organist at the age of sixteen.

While serving in that position she took a vacation trip to Colorado and was offered the position as organist of the First Presbyterian Church, Colorado Springs, which she accepted.

Miss Hicks was the first woman to be on the examining board of the American Federation of Musicians, Local 154. During the years she spent in Colorado Springs she was organist at the First Presbyterian, First Baptist, Unitarian, First Methodist and the First Church of Christ Scientist.

She was a member of the Huguenot Society of Pennsylvania, the Susquehanna Chapter, Daughters of the American Revolution, and the Columbia County Historical Society.

Miss Mary E. Riley '24 and '50

A patient one week, Miss Mary E. Riley, of Wilkes-Barre, died February 9 in the University of Pennsylvania Hospital, Philadelphia. She was born in Wilkes-Barre and was a member of St. Aloysius Church and its societies. Miss Riley was graduated from Bloomsburg State College and received her bachelor of science degree there. She was a teacher in Wilkes-Barre City schools many years and was currently a teacher at the Hoyt elementary school.

She previously was an instructor on the Wilkes-Barre City playgrounds for many years. She was a member of Wilkes-Barre Education Association and Pennsylvania State Education Association.

Kate Evans Miller

Mrs. Kate Miller, of 85 Short Street, Edwardsville, died February 10 in Nesbitt Memorial Hospital. A well known educator, she taught school more than a half century and retired four years ago after serving 37 years as principal of Russell Street Elementary School, Edwardsville. Mrs. Miller was born July 19, 1893, in Edwardsville. She was graduated from Edwardsville High School, Wyoming Seminary, Bloomsburg State College and Temple University, Philadelphia. She taught in Edwardsville 52 years.

Mrs. Miller was a member of Immanuel Baptist Church, Edwardsville, and taught Sunday School 25 years. She was a member of the Retired Teachers' Association.

FEDERAL GRANT FOR LIBRARY

A check for $341,296, representing the major portion of a Federal Grant for the construction of a new library at Bloomsburg State College has been received by Dr. Harvey A. Andruss, president of the College.

The library, constructed at a cost which exceeded $1,000,000, was completed in August, 1966, and opened to members of the College community at the beginning of the first semester of the current college year.

Early in 1965, an application for a grant of $372,350 was prepared and was carried to completion by Boyd F. Buckingham, director of development, and was submitted to the Pennsylvania State Commission on March 31, 1965. Final approval and a grant agreement between the United States Commissioner of Education and the College was executed on June 25, 1965. Funds for the grant were made available under Title I of the Higher Education Facilities Act of 1963 P.L. 88-204.

Volume LXVIII, Number 2 — July, 1967

Mrs. Edward Inman Wolfe, the former Anna Jenetta Bloss, a native of Berwick and a graduate in 1886 of the now Bloomsburg State College, observed the hundredth anniversary of her birth April 1.

Insofar as is known she is the first graduate of the local institution of learning (it started in 1839 as the Bloomsburg Literary Institute) to achieve the century mark.

Mrs. Wolfe, who now resides with Mrs. Ralph W. James, 516 Charles Street, Luzerne, was presented with a plaque by the Luzerne County Medical Association.

Dr. Harvey A. Andruss, president of BSC, sent her a letter of greeting and best wishes from her alma mater. She is the widow of Prof. Wolfe of the Wyoming Seminary faculty at Kingston. After teaching for five years in the Berwick schools she went to Wyoming Valley as a bride and has remained there since.

She survives her three sons who were all physicians and members of the staff of Wilkes-Barre General Hospital.

Among her family are ten grandchildren, eighteen great grandchildren, and one great, great grandchild. Several relatives reside in the Berwick area.

The following is quoted from the Harrisburg PATRIOT NEWS, dated March 26, 1967:

Miss Nora Geise, Northumberland R. D. 1, has been a teacher all her life. And despite retiring from public school teaching in 1957 after 42 years of service in the borough schools, she has taught in other fields continually since and will continue to do so, she says.

The oldest volunteer at the Selinsgrove State School and Hospital in point of service—eight years—she was honored this month when "The Chat-terbox," the school's activities publi-cation, devoted its cover to her, for meritorious service.

While Miss Geise does not teach reading, writing and arithmetic at the State School, she teaches the youngsters love and kindness and understanding. She devotes two days a week, Tuesday and Wednesday, to this work, working with the children one at a time for an hour each, for four hours a day.

Miss Geise started her teaching career in what once was known as the No. 3 School near Lithia Springs. She also taught in the No. 4 School, near the county bridge, Point Township, between Northumberland and Dan-ville.

After three years teaching in the rural schools, she moved into the borough schools and worked in a building on Second Street, Northum-berland, now torn down, but which was both an elementary and high school building.

Miss Geise was moved from the elementary grades to junior high school, teaching mathematics, a position she held until her retirement.

Shortly before that time the students of Northumberland High School dedi-cated their year book to Miss Geise.

Miss Geise has been an active mem-ber of the Sunbury-Northumberland Society for Crippled Children and Adults for years. She is a member of the Sunbury Business and Profes-sional Women and Delta Kappa Gam-ma, an honorary teachers' organiza-tion. She is still active in the North-umberland Grange 218 and the Retir-ed Teachers Assn., of Northumber-land County. She always has been active in Trinity Lutheran Church, Point Township, and teaches Sunday School.

An article recently appeared on the editorial page of the Leavittown Cour-ier Times which concerns itself with a retired teacher from Morrisville, Miss Myra Arms. The editorial cap-tures and puts into print a feeling toward educating pupils that is seldom accomplished. It follows:

MYRA ARMS DEDICATED TEACHER

Back in 1923, a young woman not long out of college stepped up in front of her first class in the Morrisville school system to begin a 40 year career as a teacher there.

That woman, Myra Arms, died Sunday, December 5, 1965, and there is none who knew her who is not grievously sorry today.

Miss Arms was one of twins who have made the interests, and ambi-tions and the educations of Morris-ville youngsters their careers, their avocations and their lives. She and her sister, Mildred, who followed her into Morrisville schools in 1925, taught there until their retirement two years ago. They wrought wonders with their teaching as they revealed the world and the future of their pupils and as they stimulated and excited and interested them into a quest for further knowledge and further per-sonal expansion and achievement.

The teaching profession prides it-self on its dedication. Today, as those who knew her, mourn Myra Arms, they can find some consolation in the fact that the profession has known few if any greater examples of such true dedication.

Miss Arms was a respected teach-er. Rarely does one find a more dedi-cated individual. She was dedicated to her profession of teaching and to the children in her charge. She had a philosophy of life which was emu-lated by many pupils. A methodical individual, she followed the routine of teaching that made the presentation of academic ideas; instilling of good health and social habits; and the dev-elopment of good citizenship mean-ingful and enjoyable for her pupils. The children loved her because she was fair with them. She rarely missed a day of teaching and was always proud of her profession. We need people like Myra Arms. We will miss her.

The Arms twins had a great sense of humor. In our class they were serious and sincere about their work and the life of the party in recreation.

The following is quoted from an article appearing in the Allentown MORNING CALL, dated March 21, 1967:

Mau Mau rumbles, sleepless nights throbbing with the sound of tribal drums, the rage of African insects, barbaric tribal customs: dusty, dry, endless back roads—Renee Paul, African missionary and Allentown school teacher, could tell many a tale of these and more.

But she prefers to talk of the constant fight against prejudice, the help and harm of western influence on underdeveloped nations, the misinformation and misunderstanding of the culturally deprived in Africa . . . and in Allentown.

A native of Schuylkill County, Miss Paul received training at Bloomsburg State College, Lehigh University, University of Pennsylvania and Wheaton (Ill.) College, emphasizing guidance counseling, psychology, social work, anthropology and Bible studies. She taught in the Allentown school district for a decade before she joined an African safari with a friend, then decided to represent Allentown's Trinity Evangelical Congregational Church, to spend her allotted sabbatical year in the Congo teaching missionary children.

Although other workers were evacuated from the Congo during the dangerous revolution following its independence, she continued work for the given year, then returned to Allentown as a guidance counselor at Central Junior High School. But when the mission asked her to return to aid at a project in Kenya, she said, "The mission was in desperate need for teachers. I felt I couldn't say no . . ."

This time, the teacher helped train African nationals, now accustomed to independence and anxious to take up the fight for national self-respect.

Throughout her career, Miss Paul's working conditions have varied from well-equipped new schools to grass huts to crude cinder block missions. Today, her activity centers in a large plain room of the school district's Special Services building, 28 N. 17th St. Her title is, "community services coordinator;" her job, much the same as before, is battling prejudice. But this time she is fighting the prejudice society levies against the "problem child."

Leatrice received the three highest honors at Bloomsburg State College. She graduated summa cum laude with a 3.78 average and was awarded a service key, the highest award given to students at BSC. She was also selected for inclusion in the 1967 publication of Who's Who Among Students in American Universities and Colleges.

Her activities while attending Bloomsburg State College include—member of the Association of Resident Women Governing Board; a member of Kappa Delta Pi; a member of the Forensic Society; Vice President of the International Relations Club; a member of the English Club; a member of the German Club; Chairman of the editorial board of the Olympian.

Miss Sunaoka came to Bloomsburg State College in September of 1963 when she indicated a desire to attend that institution as it rated high on the college competitive level in Guides to Colleges, coupled with the fact that she would be less apt to be lost in the masses that are sometimes experienced at a larger college. She was also anxious to enjoy the change of environment from the relaxed Hawaiian way of life to the more hustle-bustle atmosphere of Eastern United States.

During her three and one half years at Bloomsburg State College, she spent two summer periods abroad: in 1964, she visited England and parts of Europe; in 1965, she studied at the University of Mainz in Germany. Last summer she returned to her home state to study at the University of Hawaii. While at Bloomsburg State College, Miss Sunaoka was the recipient of an annual $1,400 scholarship sponsored by the Community Government Association.

She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Bert S. Sunaoka, 45-1136 Makamae Street, Kaneohe, Hawaii.

NAMED TO STUDENT PERSONNEL STAFF

The appointment of two new members of the student personnel staff at Bloomsburg State College has been announced by Dr. Harvey A. Andruss, president. Richard P. Wettstone has been named assistant to the dean of men and Mrs. Frances Lawson has accepted the position of assistant to the dean of women. They will be in charge of students residing in town.

In his capacity as assistant to Elton Hunsinger, dean of men, Wettstone has assumed the duties of supervising the 565 male students residing in student accommodations off the campus.

Wettstone is a native of Bellefonte, and attended the junior and senior high schools at State College. He earned both his Bachelor of Science degree in psychology and his Master of Education degree in student personnel administration at the Pennsylvania State University. While doing graduate work, he also acted as a resident counselor for Penn State and is familiar with the many responsibilities of downtown housing and counseling. Wettstone holds membership in the American Personnel and Guidance Association.

Mrs. Frances Lawson assisting Miss Ellamae Jackson, dean of women, will be in charge of housing and counseling for women students living in the town. She is a native of Altoona, and attended the Miller Elementary School in Altoona and the Franklin Elementary School in Carlisle. After completing part of her secondary education at the Carlisle High School, she graduated from Mechanicsburg High School, and attended Lycoming College, Williamsport.

Mrs. Lawson has been active in youth fellowship group work, Brownie and Girl Scout work, and has been a playground director and camp counselor.

192 ON FACULTY

The appointment of four additional members to the instructional staff at Bloomsburg State College raised the total complement of faculty members to 192 for the second semester of the college year. These faculty members are Andrew L. Wallace, associate professor of history; Scott E. Miller, Jr., assistant reference librarian; Richard M. Smith, instructor of speech correction; Henry Cecil Tuberville, Jr., assistant professor of physical education.

Two faculty members, Dr. Ralph S. Herre, professor of history and assistant to the dean of men and Norman L. Hilgar, assistant professor of business education, were on sabbatical leave of absence during the past semester.

269 ARE PRACTICE TEACHING IN 83 REGION SCHOOLS

Two hundred sixty-nine Bloomsburg State College seniors have been doing their student teaching in eighty-three schools located in Eastern Pennsylvania.

In order to receive a Bachelor of Science Degree in one of the four teacher education curriculums at Bloomsburg State, a student must complete 12 credits in teaching during his senior year. Although the Pennsylvania Department of Public Instruction requires a minimum of six credit hours of student teaching in a senior year, the 13 Pennsylvania State Colleges and Indiana University of Pennsylvania require 12 credit hours, which involves 30 clock hours a week with a cooperative teacher in the public schools. Each semester is divided into two nine-week periods for student teaching. The future teachers were on their nine-week assignments until March when they were assigned to other schools for their second nine-week period.

The secondary education curriculum has the largest number of student teachers with 101; the elementary education division has 93; the business education division has 60; the special education has 15. The Bloomsburg Memorial Elementary School which currently accommodates 21 student teachers, has the largest number, followed by the Berwick Senior High School with ten.

Two hundred of the 269 seniors were awarded their Bachelor of Science degrees at the May 28 commencement exercises and 69 will be presented diplomas at the August commencement exercises.

Russell Schleicher, a former member of the BSC faculty, is one of approximately 200 nominated as the outstanding elementary teacher of science in a served by the "Grade Teacher" magazine.

Schleicher, who moved to Maryland following his retirement as a teacher at the local college, is now a fifth grade teacher at Hickory Elementary School, Bel Air, Md. He taught at BSC from 1950 to 1962.

The current issue of the magazine contains a special editorial section summarizing the teaching techniques used by these some 200 teachers in bringing science or mathematics to the classroom. From the 200 the editors selected a dozen to be prominently featured.

SUMMER THEATRE STARS PROFESSIONAL ACTORS

Summer theatre comes to the Bloomsburg area when Bloomsburg State College opens its summer theatre program in the six-weeks summer session of 1967. Two major productions will be presented with selected stars from the professional stage.

The two plays will be one part of a double barrelled program of theatre this summer, the other being a Theatre Arts Program of courses for credit given in the Speech Department.

Staff for this combined effort will be members of the Department of Speech; stage directors, Robert Rich-ey and Michael McHale and technical director, James McCubbin. Each will work on the summer plays and each will teach a course in the Theatre Arts Program.

The theatre resources of the College will be augmented with the comple- tion of the new auditorium which will have a professional sized stage and equipment with a modern, fully equipped scene shop. A special fea- ture will be an electronic pre-set switchboard which will provide the latest in lighting equipment and con- trol.

By combining the resources of Bloomsburg State College's physical plant and student body with the com- munity and with the professional stage will give the area a major regional theatre. Negotiations are underway for the engagement of a star perform- er for a leading role in each of the two major productions.

A second phase of theatre at Bloomsburg in the summer of 1967 is a Theatre Arts curriculum offered in the main session, June 27 through August 5. Three theatre courses of 3 credits each will be taught by the theatre staff: Directing, Children's Theatre, and Play Production. The courses will be open to graduates and undergraduates of Bloomsburg and other colleges. Students in these courses may take part in the two major productions in the Summer Theatre Program.

SHORTHAND CLASS CONTEST WINNERS

The Bloomsburg State College short- hand class of Prof. Walter S. Rygiel won first place in the International Order of Gregg Artists Shorthand Contest, collegiate division, sponsored by the Gregg Publishing Company. First prize trophy cup has been awarded to the winning team and a U. S. Savings Bond to the instructor, Professor Rygiel.

The British Isles, Asia, many of the islands, and North and South America are only a few of the many areas rep- resented in the international contest. There were approximately 25,000 contestants competing. A team had to have a minimum of fifteen stud- ents. There were almost 1300 teams in the contest. The Bloomsburg State College team had twenty-eight mem- bers and all received a Certificate of Merit.

Prior to entering the International OGA Shorthand Contest, Prof. Rygiel's shorthand students won first prize for three years in succession in the Na- tional Shorthand Contest. His stu- dents also earned third place three times and second place last year in the world wide competition. In two separate years, two of his students ranked first and second in the individ- ual group.

In accordance with authority given by your Board of Direc- tors at the annual meeting of the Alumni Association on Alumni Day, 1966, the cost of a Life Membership has been raised to One Hundred Dollars, effective November 1, 1966. Half of the amount will go to the Loyalty Fund, and the other half will be put in reserve for operational expenses.

Three-year and five-year memberships have been eliminated. Those who now hold such memberships will retain their mem- berships until the expiration date indicated on their membership cards.

The 1937 edition of Alumni Day proved to be very successful. The attendance was good, and the attendance at the Alumni luncheon was much better than last year. The success of the reunion was due to the work done by those who had consented to act as class chairmen and make the necessary arrangements for their class meetings. One or two classes had no special program because no one would accept the responsibility.

The classes of the years ending in 3 and 8 will hold their reunions on Alumni Day, April 27, 1938. In a short time the Alumni office will send letters to selected persons, asking them to act as chairmen for their reunions next year. We hope that either they will accept or give us the name of someone who would be willing to take the job. You should begin at once to check class lists and try to locate those persons whose addresses are unknown. The Alumni office can supply these lists.

---

At the meeting of the Board of Directors on Alumni Day, the board voted to liberalize the loan policy. It is now possible for a student to borrow up to $500 in any one year, and borrow up to $2000 during the four years spent in college. The source of these loans is the McNinch Fund, the total equities of which now amount to $148,572.26, as reported by Treasurer Earl Gehrig at the Alumni meeting.

---

Six scholarships were presented by the Alumni Association at a college assembly held in Centennial Gymnasium on Wednesday, May 10. As a result of the Loyalty Fund campaign, more funds will be available during the next college year. We have made a fine start, and we hope that our goal of $10,000 will be reached every year. Large contributions will not be necessary if the great majority of BSC Alumni will continue to respond. Let us keep going!

NINE STORIED DORMITORY FOR 400 WOMEN TO BE LOCATED NORTH OF NEW NORTH HALL

Three Thousand (3,000) By 1970

This was the plan.

Ten years ago, our enrollment was 1,187 full-time students. The figure of 3,000 seemed to be overly large, and many thought it exaggerated. At that time, some said the 60 acres was too small an area for such a number. (Last year we had more than 3,000 students, four years before the target date of 1970. This does not count the part-time, summer sessions, and graduate students.)

Even though Pennsylvania has definitely outlined its program for the expansion of its state colleges, it is evident that they will grow even larger in the future—greater numbers of students, more curricular offerings, along with expanded campus area.

We expect to dedicate the new auditorium (seating 2,000) and the new library in the month of October. Students will occupy a new dormitory for 300 men in September. An additional men's dormitory to house 672 and a science and classroom building are in the process of construction.

At present, the Legislature is still in session, and the increase of enrollments may have to be curtailed to some extent because of a decrease in appropriations requested, and a lag in the construction program.

These are the prospects for the college year as seen by

Ben Franklin School Is Discontinued

Editor's Note: In accordance with a program announced some time ago, Ben Franklin School on the campus of the Bloomsburg State College was discontinued at the close of the last term so the building might be used for the college student program. This closes a century of instruction of children on campus. The following article presents the history of this phase of the program that has had a marked influence on several generations of youngsters who spent their youth in Bloomsburg and vicinity.)

By KENNETH A. ROBERTS

Associate Professor
Assistant Director
Student Teaching

The roots of both the education of children and provisions for student teaching on the campus of Bloomsburg State College reach back a full century.

The First Elementary School

The first elementary school for children erected on the campus was a one-story, white clapboard building known as Hemlock Hall. The school in repeatedly described in the catalogues year after year as a "one-story building seventy-two feet long by twenty-four feet wide and well arranged for the purposes of this department of the school." George J. Vanderslice, a well known senior resident of Bloomsburg, remembers well the school in detail. He describes the building as being located about seventy-five feet north of Carver Hall running parallel with Penn Street, and situated on a portion of the present site of West Hall, a dormitory for resident women.

Just when this building was built, cannot be exactly determined. The catalogue for the Bloomsburg Literary Institute for the year 1867-1868 mentions a primary department, but it is not clear whether this refers to children or to students of the Institute who were preparing to teach primary children. And furthermore, there is no mention of the name "Model School" as it was familiarly called, for this particular year.

However, the catalogue for the coming year does describe the "Model School" and states its objectives, and the 1868-1869 catalogues states that the "Model School" course was designed to accomplish two objectives—"first, to afford those attending it as pupils, the very best instruction; secondly, to place before the normals (students) correct models of methods of instruction and school management as was practicable."

Thus it would appear this one-story building regularly described in the catalogues for many years was built in 1867 or 1868.

From a description stated in the catalogue, the "Model School" was divided into two departments, the primary and the common school. In the primary, children were admitted from six to ten years of age, and the instruction was by means of object and oral lessons; special attention was paid to physical culture, vocal and instrumental music. In the common school department, object and oral lessons were continued with orthography, reading and elocution, penmanship, drawing, mental and written arithmetic, physical and political geography, grammar, composition, and vocal music.

It was during the 1868-1869 school year that Professor F. M. Bates was appointed as the first head of the campus school for children. This new position carried the title of Superintendent of the Model School, as well as teaching geography, history and bookkeeping. It is evident that the new superintendent was fully aware of the revolutionary reforms regarding education, especially the Oswego Movement.

He may well have been a disciple of Dr. Edward Sheldon, who was influential in shifting the emphasis in teaching from the mere acquisition of knowledge to the stimulation of observation and inquiry.

So successful were his efforts, the Board of Education of Oswego, New York, dignified the work he was doing by creating a city normal school to train teachers in the new methods for the schools of the city. In essence, the object of this plan is not so much to just impart information, but to educate the senses, arouse, quicken, and develop the perceptive and conceptive faculties, teach the children to observe, and to awaken a spirit of inquiry.

In 1871 and 1872, Lizzie Schuyler was appointed as the superintendent, followed by Laura E. Harris in 1873. It was during this academic year that the title of superintendent was changed to "Principal." In 1874 Miss Harris married H. E. Barrett, a professor of Latin, Greek and methods. She continued, however, as principal of the Model School until the close of the 1875-1876 school year.

In the fall of 1876, William Noetling became the instructor of elocution, theory and practice of teaching and as such was the administrative head of the Model School and continued in this capacity until 1900. It was during this period that he completed and had published the "Notes on the Science and Art of Education", a book of methods and suggestions for prospective teachers.

Noetling Hall

The Model School continues to appear in the catalogues until the school year of 1885-1886, when for the first time "Normal Hall", or what is now known as Noetling Hall, is described as a handsome, two-story brick building seventy-nine feet by eighty-nine feet, containing twenty-six rooms. Twenty of these were designed as recitation rooms in which members of the senior class taught. The one-room building labeled the Model School does not appear in the catalogue for the year 1886-1887. It was torn down about 1890. Apparently both Normal (Noetling) Hall and Hemlock Hall were used for student teaching purposes for the next year or two before the latter structure was removed. Sometime during this period until it was razed, the original "Model School" was renovated to "house the servants" who had been living in the dormitory. These "servants" referred to the women who worked in the kitchen and dining room, and did general cleaning about the dormitory.

Bids had been received in October, 1885, to erect Noetling Hall, described in the contract, also, as the "Model School Building". The bid of Charles Fenez, "to erect a building in accordance with the specifications of the architect as to materials . . .", for $13,485 was accepted. The contractor agreed to complete the building by July, 1886.

William B. Sutliff, who for many years served the college at both instructional and administrative levels, described the building as "containing many small classrooms which accommodated not more than five or six children, the student teacher and an observer." Continuing he said, "It never seemed to occur to the faculty or Trustees that student teaching in a regular classroom under normal conditions may have been a better plan. However, the plan for many small classes seemed to be the usual one. We were spared one feature which I noticed in visiting other Normal Schools. A number of the schools used the same plan of tiny rooms but had a glass covered peep hole cut in each door for stealthy observation."

"The new building had several classrooms for regular classes of Normal School students. At the end of each classroom was a raised platform for the instructor's chair and desk. Thus the instructor was placed upon a pedestal physically, whether his place in the minds of the students was correspondingly high or not."

T. R. Croswell succeeded William Noetling and was in charge of the campus school for two years, or until the beginning of the school year 1903, when he was, in turn, succeeded by O. H. Bakeless.

On April 12, 1908, the Normal

School purchased the plot of ground between the old tennis courts (now occupied by the College Commons) and Spruce Street, from the J. L. Dillon Estate. A portion of this tract is now occupied by the Benjamin Franklin Building.

In 1920, Roxanna A. Steele was appointed director of the Training School. Dr. Fisher, principal of the Normal School, in 1921, made arrangements with the directors of the Bloomsburg School District to use three rooms, grades four, five and six in the old Fifth Street Elementary School for practice teaching. Miss Steele was responsible for the supervision of the student teachers in these grades. It is interesting to note that with the appointment of Miss Steele, the title of head administrator likewise changed from Principal to that of Director.

Miss Steele was succeeded by Earl N. Rhodes in 1923 who held this position until his retirement in 1943.

The Ben Franklin

Due to visible manifestations of growth and a need for change in the development and implementation of a modern curriculum in elementary education, plans were being made for a new Campus Laboratory School. Excerpts of the president's agenda from the minutes of the board of trustees of the Bloomsburg State Teachers College read: April 16, 1928—... "We have been informed through newspapers that an allocation has been made for six training school buildings in other institutions to cost approximately $125,000 each . . ."; June 28, 1928—A letter from Dr. J. A. Keith, Superintendent of Public Instruction . . . "I am hereby allocating to Bloomsburg State Normal School, the sum of $125,000 for the erection of the first unit of the training school, and also the sum of $25,000 for the erection of a laundry . . ."; July 19, 1928—A letter from Dr. Keith . . . "We recommend that the contract contemplated under the proposal be awarded to Lawrie and Green, Harrisburg, Pa." March 25, 1929—(Dr. Haas) "I am pleased to advise that complete approval of all plans and specifications has been given by the state departments concerned and that advertisements for bids are appearing today, and that bids will be opened in the office of the principal, April 15 at 2:00 P. M.") April 22, 1929—"Bids were formally opened for the training school, $132,155; general contract—Berwick Lumber and Supply Co., $105,900; heating and ventilation—C. H. Sherry, Hazleton, $15,011; plumbing and heating—Herrc Brothers, Harrisburg, $6,428; electric wiring I. A. Rockafeller Co., Mt. Carmel, $4,816.

October 28, 1929—"Resolved that the president, Dr. Haas, be authorized to grant to the Berwick Lumber Company such extension of time for the finishing of the work on the new training school as in his judgment seems best."; February 24, 1930—"training school and laundry are brought very near to completion, and we are working on the lighting fixtures and equipment . . ."; May 27, 1930—"The training school building is now complete . . . resolved that the new building be occupied for the first time at the opening of the fall semester, and that the dedicatory exercises, if possible, be arranged to coincide with our Homecoming Day, scheduled for November 1, 1930."

In 1930, when names were being selected for the training school, the following were considered: James P. Wickersham, Andrew G. Curtin, Albert Gallatin, Thomas H. Burrows, Benjamin Franklin, Martin G. Brumbaugh, Nathan C. Schaeffer, Senator Charles R. Buckalew, Judge William Elwell, William Brill, Samuel Breck, Judson Perry Welsh, Professor Wilbur.

During the twenty years of service to the institution, E. N. Rhodes was active in several other capacities. He was director of placement, director of secondary education, and instructor in courses in education and psychology. He wrote numerous articles in educational publications and contributed a chapter "Evaluating Teacher Effectiveness" in a college textbook authored by Dr. Harvey A. Andruss, president of Bloomsburg State College.

The Faculty

There are many who still recall the faculty associated with elementary education in Noetling Hall either as a supervisor, directing teacher, or instructor during the years from 1921 to 1930: Aroos Azadin, Sara Baldwin, Mabel Moyer, Marion Kirk, Helen Carpenter, Florence Besse, Ina Jenkins, Jane Roberts, Dora Wilson, Ruth Tempest, Dr. Rose Wesley, Elsie Greathead, Dr. Charlotte Alexander, Nell Moore, David Robbins, May Hayden, Maude Campbell, May Duncan, Enna Pigg, Lucille Baker, Elsie Lorenz, Agnes Bryan, Bertha Rich, Anna Garrison, Edna Hazen, Iva Bailey, Avis Smith, Etta Keller, Edna Barnes, Ruth Berry, Blanche Cathcart, Mildred Patton, Cora Martin and Orpha McPherson.

The years from 1930 to 1940 saw a number of changes in personnel in the elementary department: Ermine Stanton, Helen Carpenter, Lucille Baker, Anna Garrison Scott, May Hayden, Edna Hazen, Etta Keller, Mabel Moyer, David Robbins, Grace Woolworth, Edna Barnes, Vivian Johnson, Mary Merritt, Margaret Squires and Lillian Schmehl.

A list of the cooperating teachers during the thirties in the Bloomsburg Third and Fifth Street Elementary Schools included Evelyn Bomboy, Ina Brinton, Lillian Buckalew, Pauline Harper, Mary Kline, Miriam Lawson, Elsie Lewis, Annie Mausteller, Minnie Penman, Ruth Pooley, Lois Remaley, Ethel Searles, Helen Vanderslice, Anna Wendell and Helen Wolf.

Cooperating teachers in Berwick were Edna Blaine, Grace Brandon, Caroline Elder, Ruth Harris, Lela Lehman, Amy Smethers, Anna Schwenneheiser, Jessie Zimmerman.

At the retirement of Professor Rhodes in 1943, Edna J. Hazen assumed the position of director of elementary education. Miss Hazen had been a member of the faculty since 1928 and was former director of Intermediate and Rural Education, instructor in geography, education and related subjects.

During the war years of the forties and until 1950, the faculty consisted of Caroline Welch, Grace Woolworth, Anna Garrison Scott, Vivian Johnson, Mabel Moyer, Lucille Baker, Edna Barnes, Etta Keller, Iva Mae Van Scoyoc, Elma Major, Thelma Shirk, Amanda Thomas, Harriet Moore, Lorraine Snyder and Harry Gasser.

Among the faculty who served all or part of the period from 1950 until the retirement of Miss Hazen in May of 1958 were Lucille Baker, Edna Barnes, Harry Gasser, Anna Garrison Scott, Iva Mae Beckley, Marcella Stickler, Marjorie Stover, Grace Woolworth, Russell Schleicher, Warren Johnson, Fae Deisroad, Mary Kramer, Dr. John O'Donnell, Beatrice Englehart, Jean McCue and Deborah Griffith.

In September of 1958, Dr. Royce O. Johnson succeeded Miss Hazen as director of elementary education. Dr. Johnson continues to serve in this capacity. Members of the faculty who were or are currently associated with the elementary department at the college since 1958 are Beatrice Englehart, Deborah Griffith, Dorothy Andrysick, Iva Mae Beckley, Jean McCue, Ann Marie Noakes, Marcella Stickler, Warren Johnson, Dr. Donald Vannan, Nerine Middleswarth, Mary Kramer, Edward Mayer, Ray Sunderland, Mrs. Eda Bessie Edwards and Kenneth Roberts.

GETS GRANT IN NATURAL HISTORY

Professor Thomas R. Manley, Department of Biology, Bloomsburg State College, received a Yale University, Peabody Museum of Natural History, research grant for the summer of 1967. He served as a research associate in entomology, collaborating with Dr. Charles L. Remington in studies in insect geography, taxonomy, and evolution.

Professor Manley spent the summer mapping and defining "suture zones" in the Edwards Plateau and Trans-Pecos regions of Western Texas.

This is the fifth season of a proposed 8 year survey being conducted by Profs. Remington and Manley of the "suture zones" of North America. The arcas east of the Mississippi River were completed during the summers of 1962-66.

Professor Manley returned in August to teaching during the post session at BSC.

11 New Buildings Under Construction or Design

Eleven buildings and three auxiliary projects totaling nearly $16,000,000 are currently under construction or in the design stage to be started in late 1967 or early 1968 at Bloomsburg State College, according to Boyd F. Buckingham, director of development.

Of the above total, four buildings—a new auditorium, two men's dormitories, and a science and classroom building—plus an extension of utilities are under construction on the lower campus at a cost of $6,594,278.

An air conditioned auditorium to seat 2,000 located on the north side of the campus on part of the old Mt. Olympus field, is slated for completion soon at a cost of $1,268,978. A dormitory for 300 men, tentatively called South Hall, is being constructed in the center of the campus on the site of old North Hall and is scheduled for completion in September, 1967, for the sum of $1,322,000.

Ready in Fall of '68

Another dormitory to house 672 men, rising seven stories on the south side of East Second Street opposite Waller Hall, will be ready for occupancy in September, 1968, and will cost $1,646,000. Laboratories and classrooms will be provided in a $1,875,000 science and classroom building to be located on the north side of East Second street, east of the Benjamin Franklin Laboratory, tentatively scheduled for completion in September, 1968. The present extension of utilities on the lower campus will cost $481,300.

Under Design

The seven buildings and two projects under design total $9,367,000. Five buildings and one project are scheduled for the lower campus, with two buildings and one project being designed for the upper campus. The latter will be the first construction on the upper campus which was formerly the 68 acres of the Bloomsburg Golf Course.

Scheduled for construction on the ground adjacent to the south side of Waller and Noetling Halls is the dining hall and kitchen to seat 1,000 and feed 2,000 at a cost of $1,645,000. A student center (to cost $450,000) will be erected on the site between the Husky Lounge and East Hall. A dormitory for 400 women will be constructed in the area north of new North Hall and west of the new auditorium building, at a cost of $1,800,000.

Thirty-six classrooms and offices for sixty-six faculty members will be provided in an air-conditioned classroom building adjacent to the new auditorium and library at a cost of $1,500,000.

Completing the projects under design for the lower campus are a $252,- 000 maintenance building-garage and a parking lot for 350 cars ($50,000).

An athletic field, originally scheduled for the east end of the lower campus, will be constructed at the crest of the upper campus and will cost $591,000. A gymnasium field-house will be located a short distance from the athletic field and will include facilities for most of the varsity sports and recreational facilities for students and faculty, along with office space. This structure will cost $1,875,000. Another $1,204,000 will be used in an extension of utilities on the upper campus.

All projects and buildings now under construction or in the design stage are expected to be completed by September, 1969, when the full-time undergraduate enrollment will approximate 4,000 students.

PROF. RYGIEL HONORED AT BSC DINNER

Walter S. Rygiel, Associate Professor of Business Education at Bloomsburg State College, was honored at a testimonial dinner May 4 at the College Commons.

A portrait of the educator, painted by John S. Jones, Plymouth, was presented to the college and will be hung in Sutliff Hall where the Division of Business Education is located.

The presentation was made to Dr. Harvey A. Andruss, college president, by Richard Keefe, president of Phi Beta Lambda, the Business Education Club. He presented the portrait on behalf of Phi Beta Lambda, Pi Omega Pi, Business Education Alumni of BSC and faculty members.

Former Student

Speaker of the evening was Paul P. Plevyak, supervisor of business education for Baltimore County, Towson, Md., who graduated from BSC in 1950. He paid tribute to Mr. Rygiel as a "master teacher who has devoted his life to the service of others." "Mr. Rygiel," he said, "loves to teach as a painter loves to paint and as a musician loves to play. To be a good teacher, you must be able to awaken the young mind, and for me, Mr. Rygiel has done this."

Dr. Andruss spoke of Mr. Rygiel's important contribution to business education at BSC and noted that five members of the present faculty are his former students. "I am grateful that I can pay my personal tribute to one of the greatest teachers this college has ever had," he concluded.

Frank Taylor, principal at Berwick High School, served as master of ceremonies. He is a former student of Mr. Rygiel. Taylor read letters and telegrams of congratulations from former students and associates from all parts of the county. Clayton Hinkel gave the invocation.

To Continue Teaching

Dr. S. Lloyd Toumey, Director of Business Education at BSC, expressed his appreciation for his association with Mr. Rygiel over the past five years. He was happy, he said, that Mr. Rygiel was not retiring and that more students will be able to enjoy his teaching skills.

Expressing thanks for the dinner and for the portrait Mr. Rygiel also mentioned the many who had come long distances to attend the dinner. Throughout his teaching career, he said, he has always strived to do his best and will continue to do so.

Enumerated on the printed dinner program were the many honors which students of Mr. Rygiel have attained in the business field. His students won first place in the International Shorthand contest this year. He has also been the recipient of many personal awards.

TO CHECK FOR ROTC UNIT

A team of two U. S. Army officials visited the Bloomsburg State College campus recently to inspect the physical facilities of the college and to provide assistance in completing an official application for the establishment of a college level Reserve Officers Training Corps at Bloomsburg.

The Army, according to word received by Dr. Harvey A. Andruss, has announced plans to increase the number of college level ROTC units during fiscal years 1968 and 1969. Up to fifteen new units may be established during each of these years. These are the first units to be added to the college level program since 1952.

At present, the Army ROTC program is conducted on 247 college and university campuses in all fifty states, the District of Columbia and Puerto Rico.

The basic criteria for selection are: The institution must be an accredited four-year degree granting college or university; institutional officials must agree to establish a Department of Military Science as an integral part of the institution, and to provide adequate classroom, offices, storage space and other required facilities. These factors, considered in conjunction with the institution's potential to produce officers both qualitatively and quantitatively, and the need to achieve wide geographic distribution of units will form the basis for final selection.

The purpose of the college level ROTC program is to provide military training which will qualify interested students for an officer's commission in either the Regular Army or the Army Reserve upon graduation from college.

HONOR 36 GRADUATES AT CONVOCATION

Dr. Harvey A. Andruss, president of Bloomsburg State College, was presented with a presidential silver medallion replica of the College seal by William A. Lank, president of the board of trustees as a climax of the BSC Senior Honors Convocation at which service keys, Who's Who certificates, lifetime athletic passes and Maroon and Gold and Studio Band and individual awards were presented to thirty-six of the graduating class.

The medallion, approximately four inches in diameter attached to a 16 gauge sterling silver chain, symbolizes the vested power and authority of the college president, and will be worn by him at all important functions. In making the presentation, Lank compared Bloomsburg State College with its 657 students in 1939 when Dr. Andruss became president, to the 3,100 full-time students now enrolled at the institution which Dr. Andruss has headed for the past 28 years. The president of the trustees stated that the presentation of the medallion, which is customary in many institutions of higher learning, was long overdue.

Service Keys

Nominees for the Service Key awards were presented by the class faculty advisor, Gerrold Hart, and the presentations were made by Dr. Andruss. The keys are given "for outstanding service, to 10 per cent or less of the senior class who accumulate a minimum of 25 points for participation in various activities during their four years of college."

Recipients of the keys were: Robert Jon Ackley, Sayre; Linda E. Bartish, Cornwell Heights; Morgan S. Boston, III, Warminster; Katherine A. Dean, Wynnewood; Janice R. Feimster, Ringtown; William J. Gering, Berwick; Daniel G. Guydish, West Hazleton; William J. Howells, Scranton; Ronald R. Jackson, Andalusia; Marlin G. Kester, Danville; Robert T. Lemon, Presidential Arms, Lansdale; Gerald P. McBride, Cinnaminson, New Jersey.

In Student Who's Who

Twenty-two seniors, selected for inclusion in the 1968 publication of "Who's Who Among Students in American Universities and Colleges," received certificates from Miss Ellamae Jackson, dean of women, and Robert Norton, assistant dean of men, after they were presented by Paul S. Riegel, dean of students. Norton acted in behalf of Elton Hunsinger, dean of men, who was unable to be present.

ALUMNI SCHOLARSHIPS PRESENTED, CGA OFFICERS ARE INSTALLED

A total of $3,250 in scholarships and grants were presented and the Community Government Association officers of BSC for the 1967-68 academic year were installed at a combined assembly in the Centennial Gymnasium on May 10.

Awards

Dr. Paul S. Riegel, dean of students, introduced Howard F. Fenstermaker, president of the Alumni Association, who spoke briefly on behalf of the alumni and presented the following alumni scholarships:

Bruce Albert Memorial Scholarship—Nancy L. Alling, daughter of W. C. Alling, Pittston, a freshman in elementary education; Earl N. Rhodes Scholarship—Kenneth A. Mattfield, son of Mrs. Melvin Quigel, Montoursville, a junior in secondary education; E. H. Nelson Scholarship—Marcella A. Ziemba, daughter of T. P. Ziemba, Simpson, a freshman in secondary education; Francis B. Haas Scholarship—Joyce A. Hubler, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Hubler, Gordon, a junior in secondary education; O. H. Bakeless Scholarship—Robert Noone, son of M. M. Noone, Pittston, a sophomore in secondary education.

Dean Riegel then introduced President Harvey A. Andruss, who, after congratulating Steven Boston on the past year of the CGC administration and extending his best wishes to the new CGA officers, presented the following scholarships: Alpha Phi Omega Scholarship—Charles F. Boland, son of Charles Boland, Philadelphia, a sophomore in secondary education; Campus Nook Restaurant Scholarship—Susan Harper, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Harper, Berwyn, a junior in secondary education.

Clyde S. Shuman Sportsmanship Award—Robert J. Gible, son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Gible, Reading, a junior in business education; Community Government Association Scholarship—Thomas W. Free, son of Mr. and Mrs. William Free, Kinterville, a junior in secondary education; Day Men's Scholarships—Robert T. Hauck, son of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Hauck, Mifflinville, a sophomore in business education.

John J. Trathen, son of J. J. Trathen, Bloomsburg, a junior in business education; Robert J. Volciak, son of Mrs. Mary Volciak, West Hazleton, a junior in secondary education; Day Women's Scholarships—JoAnne Davis, daughter of Mrs. Eleanor Davis, Berwick, a sophomore in science; Jane G. Faust, daughter of Mrs. Bertha Griesel and wife of Harvey Faust, Gordon, a freshman in elementary education; Virginia E. Lesevich, daughter of S. Lesevich, Catawissa, a sophomore in elementary education; Evelyn K. Shingara, daughter of R. I. Shingara, Gowen City, a freshman in elementary education.

Bloomsburg State College Faculty Association Scholarship—Sharon L. Bergeron, daughter of Mr. Joseph Bergeron, Hazleton, a junior in secondary education; President's Scholarship—Douglas Freeby, son of Mrs. Anna Freeby, Lehigh, a junior in business education; Resident Men's Scholarship—Robert Matusza, son of A. C. Matusza, Morrisville, a sophomore in secondary education; Alan J. Szymanski, Jessup, a sophomore in special education.

Resident Women's Scholarship—Janine Brunner, daughter of Walter Brunner, Allentown, a junior in arts and science; SPSEA Scholarship—Dolores A. Slavik, daughter of Mr. M. J. Slavik, West Hazleton, a sophomore in elementary education; Walter S. Rygiel Award—Carol Kopp, daughter of Mrs. Clair Copp, St. Clair, a junior in business education.

Dr. Andruss concluded the program with a brief interpretation of the scholarships and an explanation of the loans available at BSC through the office of John Scrimgeour, director of financial aid and placement.

Installation

Edward A. Zwiebel '17

Edward A. Zwiebel, Pottsville, former Clerk of the Courts of Schuylkill County, veteran newspaperman, and well known in political circles, was pronounced dead on arrival at Pottsville Hospital.

Born in Pottsville on April 7, 1894, Mr. Zwiebel was a son of the late Edward A. and Mary Schramm Zwiebel. His father had operated a brass foundry, machine shop and plumbing establishment at 5th and W. Arch Streets for many years.

He was educated in the public schools of Pottsville, Bloomsburg State Teachers College and attended the Pulitzer School of Journalism of Columbia University.

A newspaperman practically all of his life, Mr. Zwiebel was a dean of reporters of Schuylkill County. He took time out to manage an automobile sales financing. Each time he returned to his first love—the newspaper.

He started his newspaper career as a "cub" on the old Pottsville Evening Chronicle.

Subsequently he joined the staffs of the Pottsville Journal and Pottsville Republican, becoming sports editor of the latter.

A former reporter for New York City and Philadelphia newspapers, Mr. Zwiebel also worked on newspapers in Bloomsburg, Newark, N. J., Elizabeth, N. J., and Sayville, L. I. Former editor of the "Mahanoy City Record" and "Ashland Telegram," he had specialized in police and court reporting. He represented a number of regional papers as court house reporter in the 1950s.

In 1916 he served with the United Press in Mexico during the Pancho Villa uprising.

At one time he was recognized as an authority on boxing and had served as a member of the first boxing commission ever to exist in the state. Licensed as a judge by the Pennsylvania Athletic Commission, he officiated at a number of important bouts in that capacity throughout Pennsylvania. He was one of the judges of the world's championship crown between Tommy Loughran and Pete Latzo.

When the late F. Pierce Mortimer was mayor of Pottsville, he named Mr. Zwiebel a member of the commission that was responsible for the cleaning up of boxing in Pottsville. He had judged more than 600 amateur and professional bouts.

In politics for over 30 years he received his early political education under the late William S. Leib and Paul W. Houck.

When G. Harold Watkins became county GOP chairman, he was named executive secretary of the Schuylkill County Republican Committee and placed in charge of Republican headquarters in Pottsville. He successfully managed the campaigns of the Republican party there.

Mr. Zwiebel's first political appointment was that of deputy Register of Wills. Later he was named secretary to then District Attorney C. A. Whitehouse, and was named to the same post by District Attorney Robert M. Harris. He held the office of Clerk of the Courts for two terms.

DR. EDSON J. DRAKE AWARDED PH. D.

Edson J. Drake, associate professor of history at Bloomsburg State College since June, 1964, was awarded his Doctor of Philosophy Degree in history at the recent commencement exercises of Georgetown University, Washington, D. C. The title of his dissertation was "Bulgaria at the Paris Peace Conference: A Diplomatic History of the Treaty of Neuilly-sur-Seine."

Prior to joining the faculty at Bloomsburg State College, Dr. Drake was chairman of the Department of Social Studies, Wheaton High School, Wheaton, Md. A native of Philadelphia, N. Y., he received his elementary and secondary education in the schools of that community. He earned his Bachelor of Arts degree at the University of Notre Dame and his Master of Arts degree at Georgetown University. Additional graduate work towards his doctorate was taken at Johns Hopkins University, University School of Advance International Studies, University of Minnesota, and the St. Lawrence University.

Dr. Drake holds memberships in the American Historical Society, Phi Alpha Theta, and the National Education Association.

For the second consecutive summer Dr. Drake conducted a European Culture Study Tour for BSC and other college students during the month of July and part of the month of August. Mrs. Drake accompanied him on the tour.

MAIN SUMMER SESSION ENROLLMENT

The total enrollment of the main summer session at Bloomsburg State College was 1673. This total set a new record for the main summer session topping last year's total by 201 students.

The enrollment includes 1278 undergraduate students attending 114 courses and 395 graduate students enrolled in 57 courses. The undergraduate figure of 1278 was comprised of 917 BSC regular students and 361 students from other colleges, teachers-in-service, and transfer students. Included in the 917 BSC regular students were 106 new freshmen enrolled in a special summer program, twenty-one participating in the European Culture Study Tour, and eighteen participating in the Study Project in Mexico.

In addition to the 1673 total, there were 25 students enrolled in the speech and therapy program sponsored by the Bureau of Vocational Rehabilitation. One hundred and twenty-five faculty members and administrative personnel were on duty during this session.

The male-female ratio breakdown for the various groups follows: undergraduates—678 men, 600 women; graduate students—215 men, 180 women. This gave a total of 893 male students and 780 female students attending classes. Two hundred ninety-four men and 225 women were housed in resident halls on campus.

DR. STUART EDWARDS COMMENCEMENT SPEAKER

"The first essential in your life is honesty, and the youth who is honest builds at the ground level the very foundation of our homes, our schools, and our very national life," Dr. Stuart Edwards, director of the division of Secondary Education at Bloomsburg State College told the graduating seniors during commencement exercises at Nescopeck High School.

In opening his address, Dr. Edwards noted that since Nescopeck has joined the Berwick area school district this would be the last class to graduate from Nescopeck High School.

Basing his speech on two important essentials of life, he continued his stress on honesty by pointing out what important people in our lives would be like without honesty.

"Honesty in the common things builds up habits of action that automatically rescue us when the uncommon comes along. But more important, be honest with yourself. Sit here this evening and assess your performance with candor and honesty. Confess if you have not made the ultimate effort; give yourself an "A" for a job well done," he said.

TO GRADUATE WITH HONORS

Sixteen members of the 1967 class of BSC graduated with honors during the commencement convocation in Centennial Gymnasium.

Dr. John Ralph Rackley, State Superintendent of Public Instruction, addressed the 383 graduating seniors. The class was presented by Dr. John A. Hoch, Dean of Instruction. Graduating magna cum laude were Harold A. Swigart, McClure R. D. 2; Allen W. Handwerk, Coplay R. D. 1; Mary L. Cuff, Mt. Carmel.

Graduating cum laude were Margaret M. Laudig, Ringtown R. D. 1; Melaine Geiser, Sunbury R. D. 3; Charles H. Hurley, Danville R. D. 4; Adrian Callender, Berwick; Laird D. Shively, formerly of Mifflinburg; Frank J. Karwacki, Mt. Carmel; Suzanne R. Reiff, Skippack and Gregory D. Schirm, Havertown.

ON FACULTY AT COLLEGE

Stanley Dubelle, assistant principal at Trinity High School, Washington, has been appointed associate professor of Education at Bloomsburg State College.

A native of Washington, Dubelle received his elementary and secondary education in schools in that community. He received his Bachelor of Arts degree from Franklin and Marshall College in 1954 and his Master of Arts degree from West Virginia University in 1965. He has taken additional graduate study at California State College, West Virginia University and The Pennsylvania State University.

Prior to his present position at Trinity High School, he taught French and social studies at that institution for a period of ten years. He was also engaged in coaching the wrestling and football teams during that period of time. From 1954 to 1956 he served in the United States Army both in this country and in Europe.

Dubelle is a member of the National Education Association and the Pennsylvania State Education Association. He has been advisor of the National Honor Society at Trinity High School.

TWO BSC MEN GET BUCKNELL STUDY GRANTS

Two area young men, who were graduated this May from Bloomsburg State College, have received grants from Bucknell University for the 1967-68 academic year.

Eugene Miller, son of Mr. and Mrs. Carl C. Miller, Elysburg R. D. 1, has been awarded a graduate scholarship in an amount sufficient to cover tuition and fees. Miller graduated from Southern Columbia Area High School in 1963 and is currently majoring in physics in the secondary curriculum. He has been active in the Science, Amateur Radio and Physics Clubs.

Richard A. Foster, son of Mrs. Ruth Foster and husband of Mrs. Joan A. Foster, Berwick, has been admitted to the graduate program and granted a teaching assistantship in the department of physics. Foster, who graduated from Berwick High School in 1962, is currently enrolled in the secondary education curriculum majoring in physics. He will receive a salary which includes a stipend of $2,000 per annum and a scholarship in an amount sufficient to cover tuition and fees. Foster has been active in Radio Club, president two years; and Science and Physics Clubs while at BSC.

DR. JOHN R. RACKLEY COMMENCEMENT SPEAKER

"An educated person is an assessor of ideas; an inheritant of the past and a contributor to the future," Dr. John R. Rackley, State Superintendent of Public Instruction, told 399 graduates of the Bloomsburg State College, at commencement exercises held in Centennial Gymnasium.

An overflow audience of relatives and friends of the class witnessed the awarding of sixteen Master's and 383 Bachelor Degrees.

Dr. Rackley, who has returned to his position as provost at the Pennsylvania State University but is also serving in the state superintendent's office until a successor is named, spoke of education as a "synthesis of human experience" and summarized the tremendous growth of elementary, secondary and higher education in the Commonwealth in terms of both the number of students and the funds which must be provided for the support of these educational programs.

The educator noted that in California and some other states, public higher education has been commonplace for a number of years. "Pennsylvania is now working towards a similar arrangement through the development of a master plan in higher education."

The enrollment of students in higher education will double in the next fifteen years and this, Dr. Rackley stated, "will necessitate both a broadening and an expansion of the curriculum."

With regard to responsibilities of an educated person, the noted educator pointed out that an "educated person is less free than the uneducated persons in many respects. As he comes more and more to accept his obligations, he finds an increase in his responsibilities accompanied by a limited freedom of choice.

"The educated person must make proper choices, do those things which are ideal for the young people he will lead, and also do those things which are best for our national destiny.

"We have a culture of change and we live with the tensions that come with change. We must have people who can cope with and assess change properly and constructively."

Dr. Rackley charged the graduates to read critically, to communicate effectively with the authors whose works they read and to translate carefully for people with whom they live and work.

"You have developed a creativity to live in various communities as individuals" he told the class, "therefore make your education worthwhile and begin to assume the responsibility generated by your academic success."

JUST TO REMIND YOU . . .

The Loyalty Fund has made excellent progress. We are within $1000 of the annual goal of $10,000. However, we are still waiting to hear from two-thirds of the Alumni. How about it?

1. Letters are mailed to all alumni from time to time requesting contributions. You may contribute in any amount, and as often as you wish, during the year. The first $2.00 contributed by a graduate in any one year will entitle the graduate to full membership privileges in the Alumni Association for one year; any amount in excess of the $2.00 will be put into the "Loyalty Fund" for student scholarships or other projects, to be determined by the Alumni Association Board of Directors and the College. Contributions are tax deductible.
2. Active members of the Alumni Association will be admitted free to the Alumni Luncheon on Alumni Day on presentation of their paid-up membership card.
3. Contributions for Loyalty Fund projects or operational expenses will be adequate only if every graduate makes an effort to express his loyalty to his Alma Mater and the generations of new students who want and need a college education.
4. We hope that you will show your loyalty to your Alma Mater by making generous contributions every year. Please make your checks payable to B.S.C. Alumni Association and return with coupon below. Your contribution will be acknowledged.
5. Please inform us immediately of any change of address or marital status.

Sincerely yours,

Howard F. Fenstermaker

BSC GYMNASIUM—FIELD HOUSE. This structure, which will be located on the upper campus, is estimated to cost $1,875,000. The project will include a gymnasium with seating for 2,500 (this can be expanded to approximately 4,000); a swimming pool, handball courts, a weight room, offices, locker rooms, storage and supply issue rooms, concession area, ticket booths, a lobby, cloakrooms, four classrooms, a conference room, a wrestling practice room, an exercise room, general storage areas, a booth for press, radio, and television, and an indoor track. A tentative completion date has been indicated for September, 1969.

Naming of College Buildings

ADDRESS BY DR. HARVEY A. ANDRUSS AT DEDICATION CEREMONIES
OCTOBER 12, 1937

Before 1927, the designation or naming of the buildings on the campus of what is now the Bloomsburg State College was rather informal. Buildings were named in terms of their function or use. For instance, Institute (now Carver) Hall was so named because it was the first building at the end of Main or Second Street, constructed under terms of the Charter of the Bloomsburg Literary Institute. Then came a dormitory which burned down in 1875 and was replaced shortly thereafter. Around 1886, the Model School for elementary pupils was constructed and the dormitory building was connected with it, onto which was built the old gymnasium. These buildings, along with Science Hall, so named in 1906, constituted the old, red brick, campus group.

A quarter of a century later, 1930, a second training school for children in the elementary grades was occupied, and formally named the Benjamin Franklin Training School.

About 1927, a committee authorized by the Trustees designated the dormitory building as Waller Hall, the old Model School as Voelting Hall; the first building known as Institute Hall was rechristened Carver Hall in honor of the first principal, and the old gymnasium retained its original functional name.

A decade later, under the first General State Authority program, during the administration of Dr. Francis B. Haas, a gymnasium, a junior high school, a laundry, and a maintenance building were constructed. The Centennial Gymnasium was so designated to observe the first century of education which began in the Bloomsburg Academy in 1839. Dedication ceremonies included addresses by Governor Arthur H. James and Superintendent of Public Instruction, Francis B. Haas, formerly President of the Bloomsburg State College from 1927 to 1939. If there had not been an indication by Dr. Haas of his conviction that the buildings should not be named for those now living, the Centennial Gymnasium would have borne his name.

The Junior High School building was not occupied until the early 1940's, and then it was used by the Navy war programs for training aviators and deck officers. Thus, Navy Hall was designated during World War II by common usage, and the name has continued. Bloomsburg probably trained more World War II Armed Forces personnel than any college of its size in America.

College planning began in 1941 with the provision for 1200 students, using only 45 acres limited by Chestnut Street—the number to be reached at an indefinite future date. Then, the steady increase during the last decade involved a series of plans providing for 2,000, 3,000, 3,600, 5,600, and so on, until now 6,000 students in the 1950's seems to be a possible future prospect.

The completion of four dormitories with a fifth in the process of construction, along with these changes in campus planning, has led to a policy of designating, rather than naming, these buildings, until a revised or finalized plan has been developed. In fact, the dormitory now being constructed over a closed portion of Wood Street will accommodate 672 students, a number which equals or exceeds the average enrollment of the first twenty years of the Bloomsburg State Teachers College.

There is a limit to names in terms of the cardinal points of the compass: north, east, south, and west, so the present dormitory being constructed will probably be called, the Wood Street Dormitory, until such a time as the Board of Trustees considers the total campus plan and its implications.

Some institutions have named dormitories after the counties of Pennsylvania which they serve, and others have used the names of trees.

However, major new structures, such as an Auditorium and a Library, cannot and need not go unnamed awaiting the finalizing of campus plans.

We are here today for the purpose of dedicating these structures.

So, it is my honor and pleasure to announce the name of this structure in which we are now assembled. This building will bear the name adopted by the Board of Trustees to commemorate the name of one who served five Governors of Pennsylvania as Superintendent of Public Instruction . . . Serving as President of this college when it was in its swaddling clothes of moving, during the depression, to four year curriculums leading to the Bachelor's degree. A most difficult task. Twice elected President of the Pennsylvania State Teachers Association; piloting Pennsylvania public education during the World War II years, holder of honorary degrees from several of our Commonwealth's leading colleges and universities—are only a few of many honors borne by this wise, modest, sagacious, dependable, responsible, and altogether unusual and respected leader in Pennsylvania public and educational life.

It was my privilege to once dedicate a book to him in these words:

"To Francis B. Haas, Educational Mentor and Friend."

and it is now my coveted honor to have this opportunity in the name of the Board of Trustees of Bloomsburg to designate and dedicate this structure as,

THE FRANCIS B. HAAS AUDITORIUM

BSC ALUMNUS IS AWARDED NOBEL PRIZE

Haldan Keffer Hartline, son of the late Prof. and Mrs. D. S. Hartline, was one of three persons awarded a Nobel Prize for their discoveries on how the human eye works.

Dr. Hartline of New York's Rockefeller Institute, George Ward of Harvard University and Ragnar Granit of Sweden shared the prize for physiology or medicine for their work on "the primary chemical and physiological visual processes in the eye."

The prize, awarded by Sweden's Royal Caroline Institute medical faculty, amounts to $62,000 to be shared equally among the three.

Presented Service Award

On one of his most recent visits to Bloomsburg, May 8, 1965, Dr. Hartline was presented with the Distinguished Service Award of the Bloomsburg State College Alumni Association.

At the time of his recognition at BSC he asserted in his acceptance that science is one of the great contributing factors in society. "It is neither good nor evil; it is whatever we make of it and here is where the role of the teacher becomes one of prime importance," he said.

Dr. Hartline, who was accompanied here by his wife, said the things most difficult to teach are the fundamentals and the bulwark of teaching is shouldered by those who teach the young.

The Citation

The BSC citation presented to him by Dr. Kimber C. Kuster, retired faculty member, noted that it was presented to "Haldan Keffer Hartline, D. Sc., M.D., member of Rockefeller Institute and professor of biophysics science since 1953; recognized for his contributions in pure and applied research in physiology, especially noteworthy investigations on sense organs of animals and for classical discoveries in the physics and biology and visual perception."

Dr. Hartline, who strongly resembles his late father in appearance and both parents in his modest, friendly manner, started his education in what was then the Model School of Bloomsburg Normal School. Like his father he continued his studies at Lafayette, receiving his degree of Bachelor of Science at Lafayette in 1923, a Doctor of Medicine degree at Johns Hopkins University, Baltimore, in 1927, and a Doctor of Science degree at Lafayette in 1959.

He held a National Residence Council Fellowship in medical science at Johns Hopkins from 1927 to 1929; was a Johnson traveling scholar from Pennsylvania to Leipsig and Munich, Germany, 1929-31, and held a Johnson Foundation Fellowship in medical physics from 1931 to 1936.

He was an assistant professor of biophysics from 1936 to 1940, associate professor of physiology in the Cornell Medical College, 1940-41, assistant professor in biophysics under the Johnson Foundation at Pennsylvania, 1941-42, and an associate professor from 1942 to 1948 and a professor in 1949.

Received Howell Award

Dr. Hartline served as professor and chairman of the department at Johns Hopkins from 1949 to 1953 and he has been a member and professor at Rockefeller Center since 1953. He received the Howell award in 1927 and the Warren medal from the National Academy in 1948. He holds membership in numerous scientific societies.

Dr. Hartline was a member of the old Space Science Board, which preceded the National Aeronautics and Space Agency. He was credited with influencing the formation of NASA and establishing its lines of biological research.

He was born December 22, 1903, at Bloomsburg, Pa. Both of his parents were esteemed members of the BSNS faculty, his father one of Normal School's "Old Guard." Dr. and Mrs. Hartline have three sons: Daniel Keffer Hartline, Peter Halden Hartline and Frederick Flanders Hartline.

HOMEcoming DAY IS HUGE SUCCESS

Bloomsburg State College observed its 40th annual Homecoming Weekend with a series of festivities that made it a very eventful part of the college year.

Thursday, October 12, The Francis Buchman Haas Auditorium and the Harvey A. Andruss Library were dedicated with appropriate ceremonies.

Friday evening, October 13, the Big Name Entertainment Committee of the Community Government Association, sponsored a concert in Centennial Gymnasium by Dionne Warwick, vocalist.

Bloomsburg State College students gave the town its most spectacular parade within the memory of most residents and its largest procession in recent years as it opened the program of the concluding day of the 40th annual homecoming weekend with a presentation that took over an hour to move by a given point.

There were more than a score of floats, all attractive and some breathtaking in their beauty; considerable comedy relief and queens galore.

There was a goodly amount of fine music by Bloomsburg, Northwest, Danville and North Schuylkill High School bands, the string band of Irem Temple, Berwick Hi-Hats and the BSC musical unit.

The floats were for the most part the creation of BSC fraternities and organizations although the town support in this regard was the best to date and included a beautiful creation by the Bloomsburg Jaycees. Riding in that float was Miss Rebecca Ward, Milton, BSC coed, who is Miss Eastern Pennsylvania.

Heading the procession were the color guards of the Red Rock Air Base and State Police, the latter mounted, College administrators, including President Andruss, as well as the Community Government Association officers, rode in convertibles. The queens, all most attractive and regal in their demeanor, traveled in similar conveyances.

The annual clash between BSC and its rival, the highly rated team from West Chester, was witnessed by a crowd that filled Bloomsburg Athletic Park to capacity. BSC and West Chester had previously been undefeated, and the game proved to be hard fought and extremely exciting. It was nip and tuck between the two teams until the last quarter, when West Chester predominated, and the final score was 50-28, in favor of West Chester.

Following the game, the students and graduates returned to the Husky Lounge for the Homecoming get-together.

The Homecoming festivities closed with a dance in Centennial Gymnasium, with music by Mel Wynn's Rhythm Aces.

TWO BUILDINGS ARE DEDICATED

A former and the present president of Bloomsburg State College were honored for their contributions to the progress of the local institution of learning when two buildings, representing a state investment in higher education of over two and a half million dollars, were named for them on October 12 as the Frances B. Haas Auditorium and the Harvey A. Andruss Library were dedicated at ceremonies held in the auditorium. The program opened the 1967 homecoming festivities.

Dr. Haas, president of the College from 1927 to 1939, was twice State Superintendent of Public Instruction, coming to Bloomsburg following his first tenure and then leaving the local administrative position to return to that state cabinet post where he served from 1939 until his retirement in 1955 under four governors—James, Martin, Duff, and Fine.

Dr. Andruss came to Bloomsburg in September, 1930, to set up the now nationally known Division of Business Education; became dean of instruction in 1937 upon the retirement of the late Dean William B. Sutliff, and was named active president in 1939 and soon afterward as president for the longest continuous tenure in the history of the college which marked its centennial in 1939.

The buildings dedicated were named by action of the board of trustees.

Robert L. Kunzig, director of the General State Authority, was the principal speaker and outlined the part played by the General State Authority in providing the physical plants necessary for the Higher Education program of Governor Raymond P. Shafer for Pennsylvania students.

The dedication of the two buildings, built by the GSA at a total financial construction cost of $2,742,875, was a part of the college's Fall Convocation.

Kunzig also gave a short resume of GSA construction at the Bloomsburg institution stressing the General State Authority theme of, "building better, faster, and less expensively."

Tribute to Dr. Haas

In naming the new auditorium, Dr. Andruss traced the development and naming of prior existing buildings on campus, stating that four recently completed dormitories and one under construction would not be named until such a time as the board of trustees considers the total campus plan and its implications.

Referring to the new auditorium, he said, "This building will bear the name adopted by the board of trustees to commemorate the name of one who served five Governors of Pennsylvania as Superintendent of Public Instruction. Serving as president of this college during a depression when it was in its swaddling clothes of moving to four year curriculums leading to the Bachelor's degree was a most difficult task.

"Twice elected president of Pennsylvania State Teachers Association; piloted Pennsylvania public education during the World War II years; holder of honorary degrees from several of our Commonwealth's leading colleges and universities—these are only a few of many honors borne by this wise, modest, sagacious, dependable, responsible, and altogether unusual and respected leader in Pennsylvania public life and educational life.

"It is now my coveted honor to have this opportunity in the name of the Board of Trustees of Bloomsburg to designate and dedicate this structure as The Francis B. Haas Auditorium."

Tribute to Dr. Andruss

Prior to naming the library, William A. Lank, President, Board of Trustees, gave a brief history of the establishment of libraries and pointed out their importance to colleges and universities today.

"Members of today's college community can point with pride to the library which was constructed at a cost in excess of $1,000,000. In addition to its modern facilities, the architectural style of the building adds to the aesthetic environment in the learning area." He noted that nearly one-third of the cost of constructing the library was provided by Federal funds made available by the Higher Education Facilities Act of 1963.

He said, "The person we have chosen to honor has contributed more to the growth of Bloomsburg State College than any other one person during its long history. He has seen the faculty grow from approximately forty to over 200; he has seen the student body grow from a few hundred to over 3,400; he has seen our annual operating budget grow to over $5,000,000 and buildings projects in the tens of millions.

"To honor a man who has done so much for our college and by virtue of the authority placed in me by the Board of Trustees it is with great pleasure that I dedicate the Harvey A. Andruss library."

The Program

During the program State Senator Preston B. Davis asserted that the master plan for higher education calls for the State College, in the years ahead, to be the backbone of the entire structure and he pledged his full support to the further development of the College to fulfill its ultimate destiny.

Dr. Carleton L. Krathwohl, director of the Bureau of Institution Studies and Service, DPI, declared the two essentials of any good program in an institution of higher learning are a fine library and adequate auditorium.

Mayor C. Martin Lutz, Bloomsburg, spoke of the fine contribution of the College to the community and entire area and of the fine relationship between the College and the town.

Howard F. Fenstermaker, president of the general BSC Alumni Association and a retired member of the faculty, named the eighteen buildings added to the campus complex since he joined the teaching staff in 1926 and pledged the Alumni Association to an increasingly active and substantial program of support in the further projection of the College development.

John J. Ondish, Freeland, president of the Community Government Association asserted "It is my hope that the kind of planning and development which made these buildings available will be continued for the benefit of future generations."

John M. Dickey, of Price and Dickey, Media, architects for both buildings and the campus plans presented the keys to the auditorium and library to Dr. Andruss. The president gave the keys to Boyd F. Buckingham, director of development, who in turn gave them to President Lank of the trustees.

Buckingham presented the speaker of the day and in his remarks Kunzig challenged the entire college community to take a more active part in politics as well as other civic and personal affairs. He told them "Instead of criticizing and asking how to get started, volunteer your services in any way you can. This is the beginning."

SUMMER COMMENCEMENT

"Our major challenge is to help others in their pursuit of education higher for them and this is human stewardship of the highest order," Dr. Chester T. Mc Nerney, president of Edinboro State College, told the summer graduating class at Bloomsburg State College.

Speaking on the theme "The American Student in an Age of Expression," the educator asserted "certainly the over-riding purpose of offering or acquiring a liberal and technical education is the development of a base for reflection and if this is not so, there can be no choice making."

Forty-three Master of Education degrees, ninety-four Bachelor of Science degrees, and nine Bachelor of Arts degrees were conferred by Dr. John A. Hoch, BSC dean of instruction during the convocation. Dr. Harvey A. Andruss, president, was in Harrisburg for an important conference.

Helen M. Loreman

Mrs. Helen M. Loreman, sixty-seven, Elysburg, died recently in the Hollie Peace House for Convalescents, Selinsgrove R. D. She had been a guest there since she became ill in May, 1964.

She was born at Bloomsburg R. D. 1 October 10, 1899, daughter of the late W. Lloyd and Elizabeth Sterling Moore. For years she was employed as an executive housekeeper at BSC. She was also a former manager and cook for Elysburg Schools and worked during the summer for many years at Knoebel's Grove.

In her early life, she was a teacher in West Hemlock township, Montour county. She was married in 1934 to Fred Loreman, who died in 1949. She was a graduate of Jerseytown High School and attended Bloomsburg Normal School.

Francis H. Shaughnessy '24

Francis H. Shaughnessy died unexpectedly recently at his home in Tunkhannock, from a heart attack.

Shaughnessy, who took a prominent role in alumni activities at BSC, especially as they related to his class, had retired as a teacher but was instructing as a substitute on the day he was stricken.

Born in Nanticoke November 26, 1900, he was a member of Tunkhannock Methodist Church and Free and Accepted Masons of Waverly, N. Y. He was a member of Retired Teachers Association of Tunkhannock and a trustee of Sunnyside cemetery, Tunkhannock.

For years he was a district sales representative and civic campaign director, working in a territory comprised of a number of states.

James H. Kreisher '64

James H. Kreisher, Shamokin, died August 4 as a result of an automobile accident. He was born March 31, 1942, in Shamokin. He graduated from Coal Township High School in 1960 and from Bloomsburg State College in 1964.

Kreisher, a physics teacher in the senior high school at Milton, had been in the school district there for three years.

He was a member of the Church of the Transfiguration in Shamokin, the Ukrainian Brotherhood, Bloomsburg Alumni Association, Shamokin Home Association, and the Mt. Carmel Civic Club.

Roy C. Kindig '15

Roy C. Kindig Sr., seventy-five, of Clearfield, died August 1. He was born September 17, 1891 in Berwick and was educated in Fishing Creek elementary and high school. He taught school in Fishingcreek, Clearfield and Oxford before enlisting in the U. S. Army in 1917.

He was a registered professional engineer and employed by the borough of Clearfield for nearly forty years. He was a member of the state executive board of the Pennsylvania State Association of Boroughs, Trinity Methodist Church, Clearfield Lodge 314 F and AM and Williamsport Consistory.

Dr. Archer L. Smethers '96

Dr. Archer L. Smethers, Anderson, South Carolina died Monday, June 26. He was 92 years old at the time of his death. The following has been clipped from the "Independent Anderson":

Few individuals in Anderson's history have contributed so much to this city and county as Dr. Archer LeRoy Smethers. Sixty of his 92 years were spent in Anderson, where he became the beloved patriarch of physicians in addition to assuming burdens of leadership in untold number of civic and religious undertakings.

Dr. Smethers was born in Pennsylvania October 12, 1874, and received his first education in the rural schools near Wilkes-Barre. Turning point of his life came when he enrolled at Bloomsburg State Normal School, where he met another student, Miss Roy Nance, daughter of Judge and Mrs. Robert Nance of Anderson. They were married in 1902.

Shortly thereafter, Dr. Smethers enrolled for medical training at the University of Michigan. He obtained his degree in 1906. The young couple returned to his wife's home town, where Dr. Smethers began the practice of medicine in 1907.

Later, in 1919, with assistance of other civic-minded citizens, Dr. Smethers established the University Sanatorium on Main Street. Since Anderson Hospital had only 75 beds at that time, Dr. Smethers' institution met a vital need during that period.

Dr. Smethers also provided yeoman leadership during a crucial period for Anderson College. Under weight of the 1930 depression, the college was just about to go under, as were hundreds of similar colleges throughout the nation. As chairman of the Board of Trustees, Dr. Smethers headed a $60,000 campaign in 1936 to pay off the college's bonded indebtedness. The money was raised and the college was saved. Smethers Field is named in his honor.

As a life trustee and long-time chairman of the trustee board, Dr. Smethers deserved credit for placing the college back on its feet. Had it not been for his devoted efforts, and those of Dr. Annie D. Denmark and a dedicated faculty, the college would not have survived and been prepared to enjoy the progress of more recent years.

Listing his civic and religious activities would require far more space than available. He was active in the Chamber of Commerce for decades, held charter membership in the Kiwanis Club, took a leading role in Red Cross work, the Boy Scouts and, of course, was active in the Anderson County Medical Society and state and national medical associations throughout his career.

He became a member of the First Baptist Church shortly after coming to Anderson. In the years since he had served his church in practically every leadership capacity, along with his devoted wife. He was the sole Life Deacon of this great church.

William LeRoy White '09

William LeRoy White, seventy-five, Clifton, N. J., died July 24 while on vacation with his family in Maine. He was born in 1891, son of the late Mr. and Mrs. W. L. White, Bloomsburg, and resided in Bloomsburg during his early life. He graduated from Bloomsburg Normal School and Pennsylvania State University.

He was employed as a chemist by Manhattan Rubber Company in New Jersey for many years and was retired. He was on the board of directors of YMCA, active in the Presbyterian Church of Clifton and a member of Rotary International.

Blanche O. Schultz '24

Miss Blanche O. Schultz, sixty, teacher in Leonardtown, Md., died at Bloomsburg Hospital July 20. She had been hospitalized since June 17 as the result of a heart attack.

She was a graduate of Bloomsburg High School, class of 1924, and of Bloomsburg Normal School in 1926. She did graduate work at Bloomsburg State Teachers College where she received her BS degree.

She was a member of Iola Methodist Church, a member of National Teachers Association and Maryland State Teachers Association.

Max Arcus '41

Max Arcus, forty-nine, Bloomsburg, World War II veteran and widely known town businessman who was active in many phases of civic endeavor, died Sunday, July 23 at the Geisinger Medical Center. He had been in ill health for the past several months.

During World War II he served as a technical sergeant with the U. S. Army in the Pacific Theatre.

He was a graduate of Bloomsburg High School and Bloomsburg State College, class of 1941 and was a member of Beth Israel congregation.

Shirley Search Williams '55

Mrs. Cary Williams, the (former Shirley Search), 35, of Bloomsburg R. D. 4, died in July at a Danville hospital after being hospitalized for several years.

Mrs. Williams was born in Shick-shinny but moved to Berwick at an early age and spent most of her life in that community where she was widely known.

She was graduated from Berwick High School and Bloomsburg State College and from 1959 to 1964 was a teacher at Memorial Elementary School, Bloomsburg.

Maurice Liptzer '33

Maurice Liptzer, a native of Catawissa and a widely known mid-western businessman with stores in Pontiac and Utica, Mich., died in his sleep July 26 at his home in Detroit from a heart attack.

Liptzer, who spent his early life in Catawissa, graduated at the high school there and at Bloomsburg State College. He had resided in Detroit and vicinity for around thirty years.

He was affiliated with the Kiwanis Club in Pontiac. Throughout his life he was active in sports promotion and was especially interested in the Detroit Lions, many of the members of the team being close friends.

Rev. G. Edgar Laurenson '57

The Rev. G. Edgar Laurenson, of 715 Poplar Street, York, was fatally stricken at his home on Saturday, September 5. He was a former Unityville R. D. 1 resident and was serving as pastor of St. Paul's EUB Church, York. He was born June 13, 1907, in Sullivan County. He was a teacher in the public schools in Lycoming and Sullivan counties for thirteen years, starting at the age of eighteen.

In 1955 he became a minister in the EUB Church. His first assignment was in Mount Pleasant Mills, 1955 to 1957; Enola from 1957 to 1962, and in 1962 he was assigned to the York pastorate.

Leo J. Hoffman '11

Leo Joseph Hoffman, seventy-seven, Almedia, died at his residence recently. He had a heart condition for many years. A lifelong resident of Almedia, he had been a coal dredger for most of his lifetime. He was a member of the Bloomsburg Methodist Church, Bloomsburg Elks and the Almedia Social club. He was a graduate of the Bloomsburg Normal School.

Stephen A. Fraind '60

Steven A. Fraind, thirty, Beach Haven, died at the Berwick Hospital on October 13 after an illness of one year. He was born in and resided in the Berwick area his entire lifetime. He was a graduate of the Berwick High School class of 1955, the Bloomsburg State College in 1960 where he received his masters degree in 1966. He was employed as a school teacher by the Northwest Area School District and was also a PIAA basketball official. He attended the Free Methodist Church at Nescopeck and was a member of the Young Adult Bible Class.

Ario Sweppenhiser '17

Ario Sweppenhiser, Bloomsburg R. D. 3, retired school teacher, died of a heart seizure at his home October 9. He was born and lived his entire life in the Mifflin township area. He attended Bucknell and taught forty-two years at the Mifflin township and Central Jointure School system. He had retired four years ago.

775 FRESHMEN

Seven hundred and seventy-five freshmen students arrived on the campus of Bloomsburg State College on Tuesday, September 5, to spend four and a half days completing registration and attending orientation sessions prior to the start of the 1967-68 college year.

Dr. H. Harrison Russell, former member of the BSC faculty, is now living at 111 North First Street, Peotone, Illinois. 60468.

Alumni who have books they would like to present to the college library are requested to submit lists of books and materials to Mr. J. B. Watts, Head Librarian. In a recent communication Mr. Watts says: "What we need is not quantity but quality—specific books to support our various curricula, especially those at the graduate level."

DR. SERONSY HAS BOOK PUBLISHED

Dr. Cecil Seronsy, professor of English at Bloomsburg State College for the past fourteen years, is the author of a book "Samuel Daniel" which has just been published.

In this volume, issued by Twayne Publishers of New York, Dr. Seronsy has made a critical and biographical study of Samuel Daniel (1562-1619), a renaissance English poet, critic, and historian, and a contemporary of Shakespeare and Spenser. Daniel, a man of modest and retiring nature, was nevertheless an important innovator in literary forms and ideas, and undoubtedly influenced Shakespeare and others, was a literary man of high prestige in his own day and has since then held a respectable place as writer down to our own times.

What Dr. Seronsy has done is to examine and appraise Daniel's development as an artist, as an innovator in English literature, and as a philosopher, historian, and critic. The study of Daniel has long interested Dr. Seronsy, who has discovered a variety of Daniel manuscripts and other materials which make important changes in understanding of the poet.

Much of the research and writing of this book was done by Dr. Seronsy during the academic year 1963-64, when he was on sabbatical leave from Bloomsburg State College. He then worked in the libraries of Harvard University, the British Museum, the Bodleian at Oxford University, and Huntington in California.

Dr. Seronsy is the author of some forty articles, notes, and reviews. These include not only the work on Daniel but also on Shakespeare, Swith, Jane Austen, Coleridge, and Keats. At the moment he is doing some investigation into what he calls "a few minor problems in the texts of the Shakespeare plays." He is also working on materials for a book on Shakespeare's comedies. The new book is available in local book stores.

DR. RABB NAMED TO TEST COMMITTEE

Dr. Donald D. Rabb, chairman, Department of Biology, Bloomsburg State College, has been appointed as a member of the Test Construction Committee of the Biological Sciences Curriculum Study (BSCS) for 1967-68. The six-member committee, consisting of two secondary school teachers and four college biologists, is charged with the responsibility of revising all of the existing BSCS tests and writing new tests for several of the newer BSCS programs. The tests will have national and international distribution.

The BSCS program has had considerable impact on the teaching of modern secondary school biology in both the United States and numerous foreign countries since its inception

The BSCS textbooks, commonly known as the Blue, Green, and Yellow versions were first published in the fall of 1963. Revised editions will be available for the 1968-69 school year. New unit, quarterly, and final examinations will be prepared by the committee for use with the revised textbooks as well as tests for several other projects of the program.

The committee met for nearly four weeks this past summer on the campus of the University of Colorado, headquarters for the BSCS program. Meetings are planned during each of the holiday periods of the 1967-68 college year and will be held in California, and Louisiana.

Dr. J. Almus Russell, retired member of the BSC faculty, is serving this year as Governor of District 737, Rotary International.

THANK YOU!

We wish to acknowledge contributions from the following, not previously reported, during the period ending October 1. This ends the first year of the Loyalty Fund Campaign, and we have gone well beyond the goal of $10,000. The Directors of the Alumni Association wish to express their appreciation for the loyalty that has been shown, and hope that the drive during the coming year will be just as successful.

To date, the contributions have made possible the awarding of six scholarships of $200 each, the co-sponsoring of radio broadcasts of all the football games of the 1957 season, and several other worthy projects, which will be described at a later date. Funds are now available to increase the number of scholarships during the current college year.

LOYALTY FUND . . . SECOND YEAR

As a result of the generosity of the Alumni, the amount contributed in the Loyalty Fund campaign during the year beginning October 1, 1966, and ending September 30, 1967, amounted to $10,223.00, thus exceeding our goal of $10,000.00. At the meeting of your Board of Directors on Homecoming Day, it was decided to set our goal for the coming year at $15,000.00. Last Spring we gave six scholarships of $200.00 each, and we hope to increase both the amount and the number of scholarships this year. Part of the funds received are being used to sponsor the broadcast of the football and basketball games, and the wrestling matches. We sincerely hope that you will respond even more generously than you did last year.

1. Letters are mailed to all alumni from time to time requesting contributions. You may contribute in any amount, and as often as you wish, during the year. The first $2.00 contributed by a graduate in any one year will entitle the graduate to full membership privileges in the Alumni Association for one year; any amount in excess of the $2.00 will be put into the "Loyalty Fund" for student scholarships or other projects, to be determined by the Alumni Association Board of Directors and the College. Contributions are tax deductible.
2. Active members of the Alumni Association will be admitted free to the Alumni Luncheon on Alumni Day on presentation of their paid-up membership card.
3. Contributions for Loyalty Fund projects or operational expenses will be adequate only if every graduate makes an effort to express his loyalty to his Alma Mater and the generations of new students who want and need a college education.
4. We hope that you will show your loyalty to your Alma Mater by making generous contributions every year. Please make your checks payable to B.S.C. Alumni Association and return with coupon below. Your contribution will be acknowledged.
5. Please inform us immediately of any change of address or marital status.

Sincerely yours,

Howard F. Fenstemaker

CLASSROOM BUILDING

A Trustee Looks At His Responsibility

Education is one of the largest enterprises in America today. Annual expenditures of elementary and secondary schools, colleges and universities exceed $34 billion. Education is also one of the most rapidly growing uses of national resources. We have visual evidence of these facts at Bloomsburg State College where our enrollment has expanded to in excess of 3,400 students; our enrollment and staff have doubled in less than ten years; we have an annual budget in excess of $5,000,000; and we are engaged in a multi-million dollar building program.

In view of the magnitude of the above statistics, a college trustee stops short and says to himself, "Where do I fit in this picture and what are my responsibilities?"

The School Laws of Pennsylvania grant rather general responsibility to the trustees and say, in part:

"The Boards of Trustees of the several State Colleges . . . shall have general direction and control of the property and management of their respective institutions."

This seems to be a rather awesome responsibility to be granted to individuals who are able to give but a limited amount of time to the supervision of a major enterprise. Fortunately, the law grants the trustees the right to elect a President to administer the affairs of the institution. Due to the absentee relationship of the trustees, it is imperative that they, as the governing body, entrust the administration of the college to the president. The president, as chief executive and planning officer, should administer the affairs of the college and delegate authority to administrative officers and members of the faculty. The president, of necessity, is the educational leader of the college and the trustees, looking upon him as the executive officer, must rely upon him for leadership. The trustees, at all times, realizing their ultimate responsibility, should insist upon adequate information, background material, and reports concerning the status of the overall operation and progress of college functions.

The trustee should stand ready to give advice and counsel to the president and others connected with the college. The trustee, as a rule, is not a qualified educator (although in the case of BSC, two members do qualify) but usually is a person of good business or legal background. With such experience, the trustee can be an excellent sounding board for the trained educator and is able to render invaluable aid. Bloomsburg State College is fortunate in having a well-balanced board (several of whom are alumni), which consists of educators, members of the judiciary, bankers, and experienced businessmen. Even though it is desirable to delegate authority to capable administrators, trustees must recognize that they have a responsibility to see that the purposes of the institution are successfully fulfilled.

The trustee can serve as a valuable liaison with the community. He often has a better feel of community relations and can better promote cooperation between the college and the local community. This is of great value during our expanding enrollment and crowded conditions as we must depend upon our townspeople for much-needed housing facilities. The trustee is often the buffer between the administration and a student or family situation. At this point, it is worthy to note that proposals are before the State Legislature that would practically eliminate Boards of Trustees of State Colleges, who would be replaced by advisory boards. Proposed legislation would place previous powers held by local trustees in the hands of a Board of Regents or Board of State College Trustees and control would be at the State level. This would remove the local "flavor" and largely eliminate the personal attention given by boards as they now exist. This proposal is a part of the Master Plan for Higher Education and is being sponsored by Governor Shafer.

Curriculum is primarily the responsibility of the trained educator, who is a specialist in his field. Under the State College system, the Board of Presidents of State Colleges is charged with the responsibility of formulating educational policies "subject to any master plan for higher education in Pennsylvania insofar as such master plan bears on the educational policies of individual colleges." However, the trustee should voice his opinion and endeavor to see that the educational program is planned to serve the best interests of society. Certainly the trustee should have the privilege of suggesting changes in curricula in keeping with the needs of an expanding economy.

Another area that might need further development is the relationship between the trustees and the alumni. The alumni are a valuable source of information and support. The alumni can be our most vocal support in attaining aid at the State level in seeing that our State Colleges are provided with adequate funds to provide the best in education. The alumni can be of invaluable help to the trustees through reflecting the feelings representative of the grass roots level.

I have spoken as an individual trustee and my remarks and views are not intended to be representative of my fellow trustees. However, there is a possibility some of my views are shared by them. We have a hard-working and dedicated Board of Trustees, men who have given generously of their time and talents, and who are sincerely interested in Bloomsburg State College.

I feel it is a truism that whether we are Trustees, Alumni, Faculty, or Administration, we are all striving for one thing—to see that Bloomsburg State College attains a goal of excellence in the field of education and the proper development of our youth.

William A. Lank, President
Board of Trustees

MID-YEAR COMMENCEMENT

"Many interesting changes will take place during the next dozen years, and practically all of these changes will require or involve a high degree of control by man over his environment and his resources; one of our most precious resources is man himself," John K. Tabor, Secretary of Internal Affairs, told the graduating class at commencement exercises held Thursday, January 25.

Degrees were conferred on 114 seniors and eleven graduate students by President Andruss. During the ceremonies Dr. Paul R. Riegel, Dean of Students, presented service awards to six students.

For the first time, commencement exercises were held in the new Francis B. Haas Auditorium, dedicated last October and named for the former President of BSC who served from 1927 to 1939. Tabor was introduced by William A. Lank, President of the Board of Trustees.

In addressing the class, Tabor spoke in terms of today and a dozen years from today when there will be another class very much like the one which was present today waiting for the speeches to end and their careers to begin, but probably under much different surroundings. He pointed out future classes will be larger because college enrollments will increase sixty per cent and classes will consist of more students from large cities since, by 1980, ninety-five per cent of the new-born population and between eighty and eighty-five per cent of the total population will live in urban areas.

Enrollments Up

Referring to school enrollments twelve years from now, the secretary said total enrollments are expected to be over 64 million.

Secretary Tabor concluded his remarks with the admonition, "People make things happen, and it will be your job as educators, to safeguard our most precious resource, man himself, and to develop that resource in much the same way we do with minerals, trees, and water."

Service Awards

The Service Key, highest award to the college community BSC can bestow went to: James W. Worth, son of Mr. and Mrs. James Worth, Noxen R. D. 1; Frank F. Arlotto, son of Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Arlotto, Hazleton.

Listed in Who's Who Among Students in American Universities and Colleges were Sherrell A. Fruit, Danville; Stanley A. Kucharski, Archbald; and James W. Worth, Noxen R. D. 1. Worth also received the Student Band Award for seven semesters of participation in the college band.

A lifetime athletic pass was awarded to the following for earning national recognition for contributions to the sport of football: Robert L. Tucker, Hazleton, and Stanley A. Kucharski, Archbald.

ON THE COVER

The classroom building pictured on the cover page will be located on a site between the Andruss Library and Haas Auditorium. The architectural design of the building is intended to blend with the architectural design of the adjacent buildings.

When completed, the building will provide 24 classrooms, 3 seminar rooms, 9 large lecture rooms, offices for 66 faculty members, a faculty lounge, and an area for exhibiting paintings.

The completion date for the project has been tentatively established as September, 1969.

The architectural firm of Milton Schwartz Associates, Philadelphia, is designing the building.

7th Annual Spring Arts Festival

The seventh annual Spring Arts Festival at Bloomsburg State College is scheduled to begin on April 4 and continue through May 4. Because of constant suggestions from the many friends of the Festival, the committee this year has tried to scatter the dates so that a person wishing to attend all events may do so without the inconvenience of being out every evening.

Though a relative newcomer, the Festival is a growing force in the cultural life of the College and the community, for it brings to the campus, a series of rich and varied programs which feature outstanding representatives of the creative and performing arts. In addition to these, the Bloomsburg Players and the College Concert Choir contribute to the musical and dramatic presentations. This year attention will be focused on the writing arts—poetry, fiction, drama and criticism—ably exemplified in the persons of Stanley Kunitz, Peter Taylor, and Maurice Valency. Other programs of interest will be a gallery talk by Joseph Smith of Pratt Institute, a concert by the New York PRO MUSICA, and a dance concert by a student group from East Stroudsburg State College. All events will be held in Haas Auditorium at 8:15 p.m., except a lecture by Maurice Valency and a poetry reading by Stanley Kunitz, both of which will be in Carver Auditorium. Miss Rusinko, Chairman of the Festival Committee, indicates that, as a slight departure from former procedure, there will be a charge this year of $1.00 for the New York PRO MUSICA concert. Other events will be free.

The Festival will open with an art exhibit in the Upper Lobby of Haas Auditorium on April 4 and will continue through May 4. In conjunction with the exhibit, Mr. Joseph Smith of Pratt Institute will deliver a gallery talk on Friday, April 19 at 8:15 p.m. also in the Upper Lobby of Haas Auditorium.

On Monday, April 22 at 8:15 p.m. Mr. Maurice Valency, scholar, playwright, and drama critic will lecture in Carver Auditorium. Originally Mr. Valency was a lawyer, but he is now a member of the faculty of Columbia University, where, since 1954, he has been Professor of Comparative Literature.

On Wednesday, April 14 at 8:15 p.m., Mr. Peter Taylor, fiction writer, will present an informal talk on a work now in progress. He usually writes about the changing South and is presently working on a trilogy of novels having a Tennessee setting.

On Thursday, Friday and Saturday, April 25, 26, and 27 at 8:15 p.m. the Bloomsburg Players and the College Concert Choir will stage a joint musical-dramatic performance in Haas Auditorium.

Musical will be represented this year by the famed New York PRO MUSICA in concert on Tuesday evening, April 30, at 8:15 p.m. This group performs Medieval, Renaissance, and Baroque music, both vocal and instrumental, using instruments from those periods.

The Festival will conclude on Friday, May 3, with a dance concert in Haas Auditorium at 8:15 p.m. by members of the Modern Dance Course and the Contemporary Dance Club from East Stroudsburg State College.

The Community Government Association and the Spring Arts Festival Committee extend a cordial welcome to everyone to attend all events.

The Prints of Masuo Ikeda, an exhibition organized for circulation by The Museum of Modern Art, New York, were on view in Haas Auditorium through January 25. Selected by William S. Leiber, Director of the Department of Drawings and Prints, the exhibition consists of 24 prints executed in Tokyo from 1961 through 1965.

32 GRID RECORDS SET DURING 1967 SEASON AT BSC

Thirty-two new Bloomsburg State College football team records were established by its 1967 Husky team that posted a 6-3 season — the first winning season since 1960. In addition three players, quarterback Dick Lichtel, tight end Bob Tucker and split end Stan Kucharski have received national ratings in NCAA and NAIA weekly reports.

Lichtel completed the season with a total of 198 completions in 370 attempts (51 per cent) for 2771 yards, 26 TD's, 23 interceptions, and a 307.8 yard per game average. In the latest NAIA report, the talented quarterback leads in individual passing, which was good enough to give BSC the lead in team passing offense, he is listed third in total offense with a 273.7 yard per game average.

Tucker, with 77 receptions for 1325 yards, 13 TD's, and a 147.2 yard per game average, established three new NAIA marks including total yardage, individual game yard average, and total receptions. In addition to his 13 touchdowns, he has kicked 14 PAT's, 1 field goal, and caught 3 conversion passes for 101 points; this gives him a fifth place in NAIA individual scoring.

Kucharski, prior to his knee injury that sidelined him for the balance of the season, had caught in three games 28 passes for 485 yards, 10 TD's, and 2 conversion passes. At that time on both the NCAA and the NAIA ratings Kucharski was first in pass receiving and individual scoring. Kucharski, who is also a fine defensive back, would have probably remained among the leaders in those two categories.

Lichtel played the last five games with a broken thumb on his passing hand and still connected for 106 passes out of 237 attempts for 8 TD's and 5 conversions. Tucker, in playing the last three games with a back injury, was limited to 17 total receptions for 285 yards and 2 TD's in those contests.

Dr. Harvey A. Andruss, president of Bloomsburg State College, is chairman of the Susquehanna Valley area of the Northcentral Heart Association for the 1968 Heart Fund Campaign which includes Columbia, Montour, Northumberland, Snyder, and Union Counties.

Lafayette College's second Nobel Prize-winning alumnus, Dr. H. Keffer Hartline, Bloomsburg native, and his undergraduate teacher, Dr. Beverly
W. Kunkle, were honored by the college's board of trustees at a dinner at the Waldorf-Astoria in New York City on January 12.

The main speaker was Dr. Detlev
W. Bronk, president of The Rockefeller University where Dr. Hartline is now professor of biophysics. Dr.
Bronk is a renowned scientist and educator who has been associated with Dr. Hartline for more than thirty years.

"Because Dr. Hartline and I have been intimately associated for so many years, I have had a unique opportunity to see his beautiful work and appreciate his fine mind which mark him as one of the truly great scientists of this time," Dr. Bronk said.

Dr. Hartline is a 1923 graduate of Lafayette who received the Nobel Prize in Medicine jointly with two other professors. They earned the Prize for their research into the fundamental problems of vision.

Dr. Hartline, son of the late Prof. and Mrs. D. S. Hartline, earned his M. D. Degree at Johns Hopkins University after graduation from Lafayette. He was associated with the Johnson Research Foundation for Medical Physics for nine years before he joined the faculty at the University of Pennsylvania.

In 1949 he became professor and chairman of the Jenkins department of biophysics at Johns Hopkins. He joined the staff of Rockefeller University in 1953.

Dr. Hartline is the author of more than 50 articles and has won many honors and awards for his scientific contributions, including an honorary Doctor of Science degree from Lafayette in 1959. He has served on many committees on science and was a member of the Space Science Board, a forerunner of the National Aeronautics and Space Administration.

In 1965, Dr. Hartline, a member of the class of 1920, was awarded the Distinguished Service Award by the Alumni Association.

Two annotated teachers' editions have been received by Bloomsburg State College from an alumnus, Dr. Henry (Hank) J. Warman, professor of geography and secretary of the Graduate School of Geography, Clark University, Worcester, Mass. The two editions entitled "Man and His Changing Culture" and "Our Changing Nation and Its Neighbors" were recently presented to Dr. Harvey A. Andruss, president of the College, who in turn had them placed in the college library.

Dr. Warman is co-author of the two editions and also is the author of a professional paper titled "Changing Emphasis in Geographic Education" which was previously included in the library collection. James B. Watts, director of library services, stated, "The college community is delighted to have the two additional titles from such a distinguished alumnus whose personal inscriptions add more meaning."

Dr. Warman is well known as the director of summer workshops which he has offered at the University of Southern California, Northwestern University and Clark University summer sessions. While attending Bloomsburg State College he majored in geography and mathematics, graduating in 1932. He received his Master of Science degree from Temple University and his Doctor of Philosophy degree in Geography at Clark University. For ten years, Prof. Warman was a teacher of geography, mathematics, and civics in the Secondary School of Norristown.

Dr. Warman has served the National Council for Geographic Education in many capacities. He has read many thought-provoking papers at national meetings, provided leadership in numerous committees, and served as president of that organization.

Warman holds the Distinguished Service Award of the BSC Alumni Association.

Wallace E. Derr, assistant superintendent of the Columbia County schools for the past two years, has been unanimously appointed to a similar position in the Luzerne County schools. Derr was a member of the Luzerne County superintendent's staff for five months when he resigned that position to come to Columbia County.

Derr, who is a member of the Bloomsburg Kiwanis Club, is a native of Madison Township. He graduated at Millville High School, received his BS degree at Bloomsburg State College and his MS degree in social studies and education at Temple University. He has done graduate work at the University of Pennsylvania.

He started his teaching career with a year at the Dutch Hill School in Madison and later taught in the elementary schools and high school at Hatboro.

He served as principal at Madison Junior High School, Jerseytown, and then became a teacher and later principal at Millville High before going to Northwest High School as principal for five years. From Northwest he went to the Luzerne County superintendent's office and then to the assistant superintendency of the Columbia County schools.

In his educational career he has served on numerous evaluating committees and as chairman for the Middle States Association of Colleges and Secondary Schools.

He is a past president of the Luzerne County Secondary Principals Association and the Columbia County Branch of the Bloomsburg State College Alumni Association.

Active in church and community affairs, he is currently vice president of the Susquehanna Valley Board of Yokefellows.

Dr. and Mrs. Benjamin C. Duke, Jr., and daughter, Noriko Susan, have left Berwick to return to their home in Tokyo, Japan. The former Berwick couple has been visiting with their parents, Mr. and Mrs. Benjamin C. Duke, Sr., and Mr. and Mrs. Boyd Smith, North Berwick, since September.

Dr. Duke is Associate Professor of Comparative Education at the International Christian University in Tokyo serving on that faculty since 1959. He is now Director of the University's summer programs as well as a teaching faculty member in the Graduate School of Education.

During these last four months away from Japan, Dr. Duke completed a book entitled "Japanese Education in the Postwar Era," expected to be published in 1968 by the Holt, Rinehart, and Winston Publishing Company. This publication, the only book in English devoted entirely to this subject, concerns the controversies engulfing Japanese society and education as a result of World War II and the American Occupation of Japan. This work is a culmination of a series of twenty articles published in journals in the six counties of Japan, America, England, Germany, Malaysia and India on this subject.

In October, Dr. Duke traveled to London where he enrolled as a Ph.D. candidate at the University of London where he previously studied for one year. He plans to return to England for the 1968-69 academic year to complete the doctoral thesis on "Nikyoso: The Japan Teachers Union."

Mr. and Mrs. Duke are natives of Berwick and were graduated from the Berwick High School in 1949. In 1953 Mr. Duke was graduated from the Bloomsburg State College. He received the Ph.D. from Penn State in 1959 after serving with the United States Army and teaching in Hershey.

In 1965 the Dukes adopted a Japanese baby girl, whom they named Noriko Susan, and who is now in the process of becoming an American citizen. Upon return to Japan in January, they are planning to adopt a second Japanese baby girl. With a short stopover with friends in Hawaii, Professor Duke will resume his duties at the International Christian University, in Tokyo.

SCIENCE CONSULTANT FOR ELEMENTARY SCHOOLS

A new Elementary Science Consultant Service (ESCS) began at Bloomsburg State College. In keeping with its fine community relationship and services, BSC offers this voluntary service to elementary science teachers in service area of the college.

Dr. Donald A. Vannan, associate professor of education, is the director of the program and is donating his time and effort to the project.

The need for this type of service was pointed out by Dr. Paul Blackwood, specialist for elementary science at the U. S. Office of Education, in a recently completed survey entitled "Science Teaching in the Elementary School: A Survey of Practices." The survey involved a representative sample of 87,000 public elementary schools and showed that the number one problem ("Barriers to Effective Science Teaching . . .") listed in the "All Schools" category was "lack of consultant services."

ALUMNI RECEIVE ADVANCED DEGREES

The following BSC graduates received advanced degrees at the 89th Founder's Day exercises at Lehigh University on October 8, 1967:

Master of Education, with Major in Counselling: Samuel W. Haupt, Jr., Sunbury; Kathleen Nadia Miller, Atlas.

Major in Educational Administration: Sandra Smith Kleppinger, Allentown; Vernon F. Sinn, Lansdale.

Major in Reading: Rosemary T. Mistal, Allentown.

Master of Arts, with Major in Education: Arlene S. Burgess, McAdoo.

APPROVE FOUR-YEAR PROGRESS REPORT

The four-year progress report on the arts and sciences curriculum at Bloomsburg State College was recently approved by the Middle States Association of Colleges and Secondary Schools under the Commission of Institutions of Higher Education. This is the second of three stages required under the Commission of Institutions of Higher Education for the establishment of a curriculum.

The initial step was the approval of a preliminary report four years ago, and the final step will be in March, 1969 when the committee from the Middle States Association visits the campus to review the curriculum for general approval. At that time, the committee will also investigate some of the courses offered in the BSC graduate studies program. Dr. Alden Buker serves as chairman of the Division of Arts and Sciences at BSC.

BSC GETS $60,000 UNDER EOA ACT

Under provisions of the college work and study program of the Economic Opportunity Act, Bloomsburg State College will receive $60,000 for 250 students, according to information received from Congressman Daniel J. Flood.

The Federal government provides eighty-five per cent of the student payroll, with the college providing the remaining fifteen.

Approval came from the Office of Education of the Department of Health and Welfare.

ELEMENTARY SCHOOL HEALTH, PHYSICAL 'ED'

The Department of Health and Physical Education at Bloomsburg State College has been authorized by the Department of Public Instruction of Pennsylvania to offer an area of interest in elementary school health and physical education. This program is selected within the major of elementary education and prepares a student to plan, teach, and evaluate health and physical education programs at the elementary level. This training will also enable a teacher to serve as a consultant for planning health and physical education programs within an elementary school.

The area of interest contains 18-24 semester hours of course and work and includes: elementary school physical education activities; first aid and safety; health for elementary school children; adapted physical education; the teaching of elementary school health and physical education; playground the recreation activities; planning and evaluating programs of elementary school health and physical education. Courses in the area of interest are also offered during the summer months for teachers seeking additional preparation.

TO SPONSOR SUMMER STUDY, MEXICAN TRAVEL

The second annual Bloomsburg in Mexico study project sponsored by Bloomsburg State College will be conducted this summer from June 10 through August 3. Pen C. Alter, a member of the faculty of the Foreign Language Department, is program director.

The program has been planned with two primary objectives in mind—improvement of spoken Spanish and an understanding of Mexican history and culture through personal contact.

The eight-week program for both undergraduate and graduate students will consist of one week of orientation, six weeks of study at the Universidad Ibero-Americana in Mexico City, and one week of travel around west-central Mexico following classes.

The marriage of Miss Margaret Ann Jack to Robert Samuel Hykes, took place November 18 in the Natrona Methodist Church. The bride, a graduate of Har-Brack High School received a Bachelor of Science degree from Indiana State University of Pennsylvania and a Master of Education degree from The Pennsylvania State University. She is an assistant professor in business education at Bloomsburg State College and a member of several educational organizations.

ADD AREAS IN MUSIC AT BLOOMSBURG STATE COLLEGE

The approval for an area of interest in music for elementary majors at Bloomsburg State College was received from the Department of Public Instruction, Commonwealth of Pennsylvania.

Under this program, any elementary major may select the area of interest in music subject to the approval of the department chairman.

Students under this program must take at least one course in the following areas: Music Theory, Music History and Literature, Methods and Materials, and Applied Music. The Department of Music currently offers fourteen required and elective courses including all of the above areas. The total number of credits, including required and elective courses, equal 21 credits.

FELLOWSHIPS AWARDED

Three graduate fellowships in the area of speech correction and five senior traineeships in the area of teaching of the mentally retarded have been awarded at Bloomsburg State College for the 1967-68 college year, according to Dr. William L. Jones, Director of the Division of Special Education.

The graduate fellowships have been awarded to Gary W. Jones, Scranton; Mrs. Julie Jones, Middleburg, and Mrs. Kathleen Shanoski, Bloomsburg. This grant offers a cash stipend of $2,000 to each student plus $600 for each dependent.

The senior trainee recipients are Nancy Bricker, Ambler; Patricia Elliot, Harrisburg; Nan Good, Manchester; John Moyer, Danville, and Leahetta Taylor, York.

BSC DEBATE TEAM TAKES HONORS

Bloomsburg State College varsity debaters won third place in the Bloomsburg Invitational Debate Tournament, with Alan Szymanski getting the second individual award.

At East Stroudsburg, Timothy Shannon placed first and the BSC team won second in the varsity competition. They accumulated the highest speaker points in their division and placed third in the Sweepstake Award.

Coach Erich F. Frohman was nominated at that meeting to serve on the constitutional committee of the newly-formed Collegiate Forensic Association.

ADDRESS CHANGE

Edward J. Laubach, 2368 Old Berwick Road, Bloomsburg, Pa. 17815

Saturday, April 27, the Alumni of the classes ending in 3 and 8 will come back to the campus for their reunions. Class representatives of these classes have been busy since the beginning of the college year making the necessary arrangements.

On Friday evening, April 26, the members of the Class of 1918, the Fifty Year Class, together with the holders of the Distinguished Service Award, will be the guests of the Alumni Association.

We are hoping that there will be a large attendance at the Alumni Meeting on Saturday noon, in the College Commons. We have been greatly disappointed in the past, because some of the classes having reunion dinners in the evening were very poorly represented at the Alumni meeting. We also hope that none of the classes will plan reunion meetings at the noon hour.

If you are planning to attend the Alumni luncheon, we request that you send in your reservation by April 15. In the past it has been very difficult to estimate the number that would be present, and on some occasions there has been a wide gap between the number of meals prepared and the number of meals served. Last year we asked for reservations, and the estimate was very close.

We hope that you will come to the campus on Alumni Day. Even if your class is not in reunion, there will be plenty of activities to make the day a pleasant one. You will receive a letter from the College, informing you of the program of activities, and there will be a coupon which you can use in making your reservation.

LOYALTY FUND . . SECOND YEAR

As a result of the generosity of the Alumni, the amount contributed in the Loyalty Fund campaign during the year beginning October 1, 1966, and ending December 31, 1967, amounted to $11,035.12, thus exceeding our goal of $10,000.00. At the meeting of your Board of Directors on Homecoming Day, it was decided to set our goal for the coming year at $15,000.00. Last Spring we gave six scholarships of $200.00 each, and we hope to increase both the amount and the number of scholarships this year. Part of the funds received are being used to sponsor the broadcast of the football and basketball games, and the wrestling matches. We sincerely hope that you will respond even more generously than you did last year.

1. Letters are mailed to all alumni from time to time requesting contributions. You may contribute in any amount, and as often as you wish, during the year. The first $2.00 contributed by a graduate in any one year will entitle the graduate to full membership privileges in the Alumni Association for one year; any amount in excess of the $2.00 will be put into the "Loyalty Fund" for student scholarships or other projects, to be determined by the Alumni Association Board of Directors and the College. Contributions are tax deductible.
2. Active members of the Alumni Association will be admitted free to the Alumni Luncheon on Alumni Day on presentation of their paid-up membership card.
3. Contributions for Loyalty Fund projects or operational expenses will be adequate only if every graduate makes an effort to express his loyalty to his Alma Mater and the generations of new students who want and need a college education.
4. We hope that you will show your loyalty to your Alma Mater by making generous contributions every year. Please make your checks payable to B.S.C. Alumni Association and return with coupon below. Your contribution will be acknowledged.
5. Please inform us immediately or any change of address or marital status.

Sincerely yours,

Howard F. Fenstermaker

A CENTURY OF EDUCATION FOR TEACHERS AT BLOOMSBURG (1869-1969)

On February 19, 1869, the visiting committee from Harrisburg came to Bloomsburg to see if the Literary Institute was to become a Normal School. Having reached a decision, the resolution was approved three days later.

Occupying a building constructed two years earlier, the Institute had classrooms on the first floor and an assembly room above. There was also a dormitory whose lighted windows attracted the attention of a passenger on a railroad train looking up from the river toward the hilltop. This man was the Superintendent of Public Instruction, James P. Wickersham, who was seeking new sites for schools to train teachers.

Thus began a century of education for teachers. First the curriculum was only two years long, then three, then four, and now five.

Thirty years before, an academy was organized in Bloomsburg and in 1856 the charter for the Literary Institute was granted by the County Court.

Four years after the Civil War, the Bloomsburg Literary Institute and State Normal School (of the Sixth District) was in full operation.

Now a century later, we look back over the route which has been traveled. Then there were no high schools, except in the large cities, so some students enrolled for two years and others for three.

Not until about 1920 was high school graduation required for admission to the normal schools. By this time the Commonwealth had purchased thirteen institutions; and they became State Normal Schools, even though they had been receiving state subsidy in some form for many years.

Seven years later in 1927, the name of the fourteen institutions was changed to State Teachers College, and the curriculum limited to the specific function of teacher education.

In 1960 Bloomsburg became a State College and courses leading to the Bachelor of Arts degree were approved two years later.

Now Bloomsburg faces a major reorganization in administration of three curriculums on the undergraduate level: Arts and Sciences, Education, and Business Administration—beyond this base, a graduate school offering Master's Degrees.

In time the Bachelor of Arts, Bachelor of Science, and the Bachelors of Science in both Business Administration and Education will be offered. A graduate school will offer courses leading to the Master of Arts and Master of Science, as well as the Master of Education Degree.

The college is making some preparation for the observance of a century of existence as an institution primarily devoted to the development of teachers for the public school.

We invite the Alumni Association and all graduates and friends of Bloomsburg State College to join us in this venture, marking an important historical milestone.

MANY ATTEND SUCCESSFUL ALUMNI DAY

An Air Force Colonel, Elwood M. Wagner, class of 1943, and a Purdue University scientist, in plant genetics, Dr. J. Alfred Chiscon, class of 1954, were presented with the Bloomsburg State College Alumni Association Distinguished Service Awards at the annual luncheon and program in College Commons on Saturday, April 27.

The presentation to Col. Wagner was made by John Thomas, Hamburg, class of 1947, and that to Dr. Chiscon by Dr. Kimber C. Kuster, retired member of the BSC faculty and himself an earlier recipient of the award.

The fast moving program was about an hour and a half, following a luncheon, saw considerable business transacted and the expressed hope by Howard F. Fenstermaker, alumni president, that by October of this year the Loyalty Fund contributions will exceed $15,000 for a twelve month period.

Thus far this fund has provided over $20,000 in the some two and a half years it has been operative. In a partial year ending March 31, 1966, the amount received was $3,843.01. The following year it was $8,405.23 and during the year ending March 31, 1968, $8,346.92. It is hoped in the twelve months span closing the first of October the $15,000 goal will be reached. There has been $6,000 contributed since last fall.

Named Director

Chosen directors of the association for three-year terms were Mrs. Verna Jones, 1936, Wayne; Dr. William Bittner III, 1968, Glen Falls, N. Y.; Miss Elizabeth Hubler, 1931, Gordon; James H. Deily, 1941, Lancaster, and Col. Wagner, now in Germany but soon to be transferred to the military staff at the Pennsylvania State University. Clayton H. Hinkel, a member of the BSC faculty, was named to a one-year term. Kenneth Roberts, BSC faculty, and chairman of the nominating committee, presented the slate.

Thomas Free, Kintnersville, president of the graduating class, presented a check for $613 to the association for dues of the 113 graduated in January and the 500 who will be awarded degrees in May.

V-12 Plan Reunion

It was announced that the men in the Navy V-12 program at BSC during World War II plan a twenty-five year reunion here over Independence Day week and Capt. Doucette, in charge of arrangements, was present.

Earl A. Gehrig, treasurer, announced that there is $41,000 in the alumni scholarship fund with earnings of $1,700 presented in scholarships during the present academic year.

There were twenty-three new loans and fourteen temporary loans to students negotiated from the alumni's Mary McNinch Fund of $150,000, with some of that money in trust fund at the present. He pointed out that owing to the availability of other loan funds there are at the present time only 170 loans from that fund for a total of $34,600. Gehrig said that one of the principal needs of the association at the present is more funds for granting scholarships and thus money that can be invested to provide those funds.

Thomas praised the accomplishments of Col. Wagner. He graduated at BSC in 1943, was commissioned a lieutenant in the Army Air Corps in May, 1944, and from December, 1945, flew 444 combat missions in the China-Burma-India Theatre. During a brief return to civilian life he worked on his Master's Degree in Education at the University of Pennsylvania.

He was commissioned a regular officer in the U.S. Air Force in 1947 and as a captain completed his MS Degree studies at Penn.

He has served in many parts of this country and in many foreign lands. During his year, 1964, at the Industrial College of the Armed Forces, Washington, D. C., he earned a Master of Science in Business Education Degree in Business Administration at George Washington University.

In January, 1966, he was promoted to full colonel and became commander of the 7135th Schools Group and director of Dependent's Education, USAF Headquarters in Europe, with the responsibility for the operation of 100 schools in eight countries that had 2,000 teachers and 45,000 students.

When the Army took over the schools Col. Wagner became assistant to the director of the Command Post which is the focal point of command and control of the USAF in Europe and is now completing his three-year European tour as director of plans and programs in the European headquarters of the intelligence department of the Air Force. His wife is the former Catherine Jones, Shickshinny, also a BSC graduate, and a son, Kurt, is completing his freshman year in Switzerland.

In his acceptance the officer, who holds the Distinguished Flying Cross, Air Medal and Air Force Commendation Medal, all with clusters, said he was proud to defend his country but that he held the alumni award of equal importance to the awards presented by the government.

Dr. Chiscon holds an MS in 1956 and a Ph.D., 1961, in genetics from Purdue. This year is being spent as a Carnegie Fellow at Carnegie Institution of Terrestrial Magnetism, Washington, D. C.

Dr. Kuster in his presentation told how the scientist had worked on his own time in the laboratory at BSC and in that period wrote an article on his experiences which earned him a Purdue scholarship. He was placed in charge of the laboratory there and immediately set up a course that was approved. He was an instructor in Purdue's Department of Biological Sciences in 1961, an assistant professor in 1962 and an associate professor since 1967.

In 1963 he served as a visiting investigator at the Roscoe B. Jackson Laboratory, Bar Harbor, Me., working plant cancer research with Philip White. He has been visiting professor at Miles College, Birmingham, Ala., and served on the Dartmouth project committee on materials and methods identification, and worked in library research and consultation, at Woods Hole, Mass., Marine Biological Station. He has written many articles in his field.

Dr. Chiscon in his acceptance asserted: "Bloomsburg has always given me more than I bargained for. I don't know yet why I found Bloomsburg but when I got here many found me.

"This honor is cherished but even more cherished is the assistance given me by the man who introduced me."

CLASSES IN REUNION

With practically all of the five year classes in reunion having special events and with many others present the annual spring activities of Bloomsburg State College graduates was marked by a large attendance and an excellent program with many general events on the campus.

Mrs. J. S. John, Bloomsburg, a member of the class of 1895 and believed to be the oldest living graduate of the institution, attended the luncheon.

The class of 1898 was represented by two at its seventieth reunion, Mrs. W. R. Anthony, Nanticoke, and Charles H. Weaver, Wilkes-Barre.

Mrs. S. K. Warman, Danville, class of 1903, was in attendance with her son, Frederick, Hagerstown, Md., class of 1941.

Mrs. David Sloan, Williamsport, 1904, and Mrs. Vera Housenick, of Bloomsburg, and Mrs. Blanche Miller Grimer, Harrisburg, represented 1905. The classes of 1906 and 1908 were also represented at the luncheon.

1913

The oldest class in reunion with a program was 1913. They had 13 back for a splendid program which started with a dinner in College Commons on Friday evening.

The honor class in reunion, 1918, had forty-one members back for a gala weekend which opened with a dinner in the College Commons on Friday evening, when they were hosted by the general alumni body. Members were in attendance from Florida, Delaware, New York, New Jersey, California, Washington, D. C., and from throughout Pennsylvania.

The invocation was given by J. Claire Patterson. Howard F. Fenstermaker, President of the Alumni Association, acted as Master of Ceremonies. He presented Mr. Patterson, who spoke for the class. He also presented Dr. Harvey A. Andruss, President of the college. Judge Bernard Kelley, Philadelphia, spoke for the class of 1913, which joined the class of 1918 at the dinner.

The forty-five year class, 1923, had a busy and enjoyable day, participating in the general events on the campus and then finishing off with a dinner in the evening at the Hotel Magee and a get together at the home of Mrs. Kathryn Brace Laidacker, Bloomsburg. There were ninety-seven at the dinner.

1928

The class of 1928 had many of its members at the general meeting and forty at the class get together and dinner at the Ent restaurant on Saturday evening.

1933

The thirty-five year class had sixty-eight at its dinner at the Elks home, following a day of reunions and rem-iniscences on the hill.

More than a score of the members of the class of 1938, back for their thirtieth year reunion, had a happy time on campus throughout the day and in the evening enjoyed a get together and dinner at the Hotel Magee to continue the happy recollections of college days.

1943

The class of 1943 had nine at the luncheon and sixty-five at the get together and dinner at Briar Heights Lodge.

1948

The class of 1948 in twentieth year reunion had no formal program but a number of members were back and had an enjoyed time on campus.

1953

The class of 1953 climaxed a memorable day with a get together and dinner on Saturday evening at the Legion home here.

1958

The class of 1958 had ten in attendance at the luncheon and then provided a fine climax of a delightful day with a dinner and dance at the Briar Heights Lodge on Saturday evening with seventy-seven in attendance.

1963

The youngest class in reunion, 1963, had a fine representation at its reunion dinner held at the Holiday Inn, Shamokin Dam. Many of the class came to Bloomsburg early in the day and participated in the events on campus.

PROMOTE 20 BSC FACULTY

MOCK CONVENTION NAMES ROCKEFELLER

New York's liberal Gov. Nelson Rockefeller, with California's conservative Gov. Ronald Reagan as a running mate, were the selections of BSC students and those of a dozen other institutions of learning during the highly successful mock GOP convention in Centennial Gymnasium on the campus on March 16.

Five prominent Republican figures participated in the Mock Republican Convention. Leading this fine array of speakers was the Honorable Gerald R. Ford, Minority Leader of the United States House of Representatives.

Mr. Ford, who addressed the convention at approximately 10 a.m. on Saturday morning, has been a dynamic figure in Republican politics since his election in 1948.

Mr. John C. Jordan, Chairman, Republican State Committee of Pennsylvania, introduced Representative Ford. Jordan, a comparative newcomer to politics, was recipient of the 1962 Man-of-the-Year Award from New Castle, Pa., and was also selected Pennsylvania's Outstanding Young Man by Pennsylvania Jaycees in 1963. He was selected by the United States Secretary of Commerce, John Connors, as a member of the National Advisory Committee on Economic Development.

When the convention proceedings actually got underway on Friday, March 15 at 4:00 p.m. with a seminar titled "Republican Prospects in 1968," some of the delegates and other participants were addressed by Mr. E. John Bucci, Political Analyst to the Republican City Committee of Philadelphia and the Republican State Committee, and by Mr. James Reichley, former legislative assistant to Governor Scranton and editor of Fortune magazine.

At a pre-convention rally held Friday evening, Mr. Craig Truax, legislative assistant to the majority leader to the House of Representatives, Harrisburg and a former State Republican Chairman and Secretary of the Commonwealth, addressed the gathering.

In a recent letter to President Andrus, Dr. Keffer Hartline, who recently was awarded the Nobel Prize in Medicine, writes as follows:

"As you may guess, I received many notes from former students of my father and mother, some of them my teachers in the Model School. Quite in addition to the teaching and influence of my father, Bloomsburg gave me a great deal. It had breadth that I am glad to see returning to it in its wider responsibility as a State College. I am especially proud of having received its Alumni Award—before my Nobel Prize!"

Dr. Hartline was honored also by the Lafayette College board of trustees at a dinner held at the Waldorf-Astoria in New York City.

Clayton H. Hinkel, a member of the BSC faculty, at a luncheon at the College on Saturday, April 6, received the Pennsylvania Business Education Association award as "business teacher of the year."

The award was made at the concluding session of the Eastern Regional Conference which was held on the campus and attended by upwards to 500 of whom 250 were present at the luncheon.

Hinkel is the third member of the BSC faculty to receive the award. The others are Dr. Harvey A. Andrus, long president at BSC and first head of the Department of Business Education, and Walter Rygiel, who retired at the end of the first semester of the present academic term. Both Dr. Andrus and Prof. Rygiel were instructors of Hinkel when he was attending class here.

The presentation to the local educator was made by Dr. Elsie Leffingwell, president of PBEA and assistant head of business and resource management, Carnegie-Mellon Institute of Technology, Pittsburgh. The plaque presented to Hinkel bears this inscription: "This award is presented to Clayton H. Hinkel in recognition of outstanding leadership in business education by the Pennsylvania Business Education Association, April 6, 1968."

Beulah Beltz Hewitt, R. D. 3, Catawissa, Pa., a teacher in the R.C.V. Elementary School, is the author of an article appearing in the March, 1968, issue of the Instructor Magazine. ## PROF. RYGIEL RETIREES

Walter S. Rygiel, associate professor of business education and a member of the faculty at Bloomsburg State College for the past 30 years, retired from teaching at the end of the semester, January 27.

In announcing his retirement following an outstanding career of 42 1-2 years of teacher service, the noted educator stated, "In retrospect, I have a feeling of satisfaction and pleasure of achieving the goals which were attained. My teaching career has been a rich and rewarding experience."

Praised by Trustees

At a recent meeting, trustees of BSC unanimously adopted a resolution noting that "the Board of trustees wishes to note the retirement of Mr. Walter S. Rygiel, whose period of service at Bloomsburg State College has spread over a period of more than three decades. He has demonstrated his ability as a writer of textbooks and is recognized as one of the best and most beloved members of the College teaching staff. The accomplishments of his students in the field of shorthand have been recognized both nationally and internationally.

"The Board of Trustees and the President of the College, while regretting the retirement of such a valued faculty member, wish to record their appreciation for the inspiration of this great teacher and a copy of this resolution be spread upon the minutes of the board and a copy of it forwarded to Mr. and Mrs. Walter S. Rygiel as a testimonial of (the board and president), sincere appreciation of his usefulness not only as a faculty member, but also as a great inspirer of youth."

Rygiel was previously cited by the BSC board in May 1967 for his long tenure and outstanding service as a member of the faculty.

Wyoming Valley Native

A native of Wyoming, Pa., Rygiel received his Bachelor of Science degree in Commercial Education and his Master of Science degree in Education at Temple University. He also completed the academic requirements towards his doctor's degree at The Pennsylvania State University.

Prior to joining the faculty of Bloomsburg State College, he was head of the Business Education Department at Wyoming, Pa. Memorial High School for 12 1-2 years. He was also high school directing teacher of two colleges whose students did their student teaching under his direction and supervision. During six years of that period he taught and supervised adult education and evening classes held in the high school.

Over the years at BSC, Prof. Rygiel has taught 34 subjects at the undergraduate level and three subjects at the graduate level. He has also been a supervisor of student teachers.

Fruits of His Talent

He recently received outstanding recognition when his 1967 shorthand students won first place in the worldwide shorthand contest sponsored by the Gregg Publishing Company. His 1966 shorthand students won second place in the international shorthand contest, also sponsored by Gregg.

For three years in succession, 1956-58, his students placed first in the national shorthand contest sponsored by the Esterbrook Pen Co. Two BSC students held second place standings in the individual divisions of the international shorthand contest in 1962 and 1964.

Prof. Rygiel was awarded the "Teacher of the Year" plaque by the Pennsylvania Business Educators Association in April, 1961, and was a nominee for the John Robert Gregg award in business education in 1954.

Many Activities

He has been extremely active in many facets of college activity, having served as class advisor on numerous occasions and as chairman of senior commencement week activities for 22 years. His other committee chairmanships included public relations committee, cheerleader and booster committee, high school visitation committee, and college canteen. His individual counseling has been appreciated by thousands of students over the years.

An active participant in civic affairs, he has served as a member of the Bloomsburg Hospital Corporation, the United Fund, the executive board of the Bloomsburg Red Cross, and director of the Bloomsburg Industrial Building and Loan Association from 1962 to the present. He is a past president of Bloomsburg Rotary Club and was chairman of that organization's 50th anniversary celebration.

Writings

His professional research and writings include being a co-author of a high school typewriting text, preparing the law section for Bulletin 271 of the business education manual for the State of Pennsylvania, and assisting in preparation of the Shorthand Bulletin for the Department of Public Instruction in 1967. Three articles written by Rygiel are "Incentives and Motivating Devices for Typewriting," "My Students' Present and Future Needs in Typewriting," and "Banking in High School." He has participated in numerous project survey studies and research projects and has prepared and administered examinations for the business education contests at BSC for 28 years.

A past vice president of the Pennsylvania Business Educators Association, he has been in demand as a speaker and discussion leader at conferences, workshops, panel discussions, institutes, and demonstrations.

The educator holds memberships in the Pennsylvania State Education Association, National Education Association, Eastern Business Typing Association, Pennsylvania Business Educators Association, and in the fraternities of Delta Pi Epsilon and Pi Omega Pi (co-sponsor.)

The entire college community will miss the many contributions made by Mr. Rygiel and extends to him sincere thanks and best wishes for the future.

410 DONATE BLOOD AT BSC

A total of 410 donors reported to Centennial gym at Bloomsburg State College campus on Thursday, March 21 for the second visit of the year of the American Red Cross bloodmobile unit.

The visit was sponsored by the college with Lester Jones, chapter chairman; Mrs. Etta Adams, executive director; Mrs. Marco Mittrani, day chairman; Dr. H. R. Delp, was physician in charge. George Stradtman was faculty coordinator.

DOING GRADUATE STUDY

The Pennsylvania State University reports that the following BSC graduates are now engaged in graduate study at the University:

Robert J. Cohen '67, 162 S. Pine Street, Hazleton, Pa., Counselor education.

Neil A. Mercando, 66 Shoemaker Street, Forty Fort, Pa., Zoology.

Carl P. Sheran, R. D. 3, Bellefonte, Pa., Physics.

James E. Wagner, 808 West Main, Valley View, Pa., Business Education.

Dr. W. Deming Lewis, president of Lehigh University, was one of the speakers when Pennsylvania's business educators convened at Bloomsburg State College on Saturday, April 6, for the annual educational meeting sponsored by the Pennsylvania Business Education Association. Hundreds of business educators from secondary public, parochial, and private schools as well as community colleges and colleges of the Commonwealth attended the conference. The conference theme was "Business Education in the Technological Age."

COLLEGE PAYROLL NEAR $4,000,000 MARK ANNUALLY

The year 1968 will find Bloomsburg State College continuing its outstanding progress in the field of education. This progress will not only have a tremendous effect on the college community and physical aspects of the campus but will greatly enhance the financial picture of the greater Bloomsburg area. The latter is brought into sharper focus with the fact that the operation of the college and expenditures by students, faculty, and visitors will bring more than $5,300,000 to Bloomsburg and the surrounding area this year.

This amount will be brought into the town of Bloomsburg and the surrounding area by salaries, wages, and expenditures of the college community of nearly 3,700 individuals for the period July 1, 1967 to June 30, 1968. This figure breaks down yearly to a college payroll of $4,000,000 paid to faculty, non-instructional personnel, part-time students, college store and snack bar employees, community activities, office personnel, and A.R.A. Slater Dining Service personnel. The remaining $1,300,000 will be spent by students attending classes for the 48-week period which includes the 12-week summer session.

Surveys indicate that of the latter amount $693,900 will be spent by the 775 students residing in private homes and apartments in Bloomsburg; $352,296 will be spent by those students residing on campus or in college designated residences; the 899 commuting students will spend another $161,820; the remaining $92,400 will be spent by students attending the 12 week summer session. The numerous events taking place on campus during the year attract thousands of visitors and parents of students bringing an indeterminable amount of money into the area.

Progress Report

Progress was apparent during 1967 in all phases of the living, learning, and recreation aspects at BSC. The Admissions Office distributed over 6,300 applications for admission during the year with more than 3,500 candidates initiating application procedures at the college. Slightly over 1,000 students were enrolled for the first time during 1967. The fall enrollment of 3,214 undergraduate students was the largest enrollment in the history of the college. At the same time the number of faculty members was increased by approximately 20 to bring the total to 208, while the number of non-instructional employees mounted to 192.

Application materials have been distributed at a steady pace over the past few months and indications are that there will be an increase in the number of applications in 1968. The college is aiming toward an enrollment of approximately 3,700 students for the fall of 1968, with a faculty of slightly over 275 members.

on campus, 944 students are residing in private homes in the town of Bloomsburg or in off campus student teaching centers, and 899 students commute from their own homes. Another 163 students are attending either graduate classes or adult evening classes on a part-time basis. With the completion of additional dormitory space during 1968, 1764 students of the 3,700 anticipated fall enrollment will reside in the town of Bloomsburg or in student teaching centers and 950 will commute from their own homes.

Building Program

In order to keep abreast of present and future enrollments, the building program at the college continues at a remarkable pace. Three projects—the Francis B. Haas Auditorium, South Hall Dormitory and an extension of utilities on the lower campus were completed in 1967. Ground was broken for two more buildings, the Wood Street Dormitory for 612 men and the Science Classroom building, both scheduled for completion during 1968. During this year, ground will be broken for dining hall—kitchen facilities to seat 1,000 and feed 2,000; a dormitory for 400 women; a general classroom building; a maintenance building-garage; a parking area; an athletic field and stadium; and an extension of utilities for the upper campus. Architect's sketches for an administration building and student center will be submitted during 1968 while at the same time additional land acquisitions are planned to provide areas for roads and parking. Nearly $19,000,000 in construction funds is involved in these 15 projects.

Alert to the changes dictated by an increasing complex society and the needs of students, the Academic Affairs Committee of the faculty has had under consideration a number of new courses which will lend interest to the present programs. The faculty committee is also considering the deletion of a number of courses in all curriculums which are no longer considered to be an important part of the four year college program. The attention of the faculty has been directed towards planning for a visit of a committee of the Middle States Association of Colleges and Secondary Schools and the National Council for Accreditation of Teacher Education; this has been arranged for the spring semester of 1969.

An interesting sidelight has been the addition of students to committees of the faculty. These representatives of the student body have proven to be most valuable in deliberations concerning curriculums and curricular matters. Although the college cannot make an announcement of all new programs of study which will be made available to BSC students in the next few years, applicants for admission in 1968 have been advised of the availability of a four year program of studies leading to the degree of Bachelor of Science in Business Administration which was approved by the Department of Public Instruction in August, 1967.

Graduate Program

The graduate studies program at the college, which began with a total of 100 students in its initial summer in 1961 and has now grown to approximately 1,200 students, was supplemented with a new degree program in the foreign language areas of French, German, and Spanish in the fall semester of 1967. Plans, which were laid to implement a graduate degree program in the field of speech, may soon become a reality. The number of graduate assistants has continued to grow. Nine students served in this capacity during the fall semester of 1967, and this number will be increased by several during the first semester of 1968.

Although some limitations were experienced in practice facilities, the sports program of the nine varsity teams at the college continued on the upswing, with attendance records being recorded in several sports. The calibre of the participation not only on BSC teams, but of opponents as well, showed a marked improvement. In general, most of the varsity squads had winning seasons with the football team and several of its members receiving national recognition in small college ratings. Indications are the overall sports program will continue to produce Maroon and Gold teams that will be a credit to the college.

There has, indeed, been marked progress at Bloomsburg State College during 1967, and this progress should continue at the same rate during 1968 and future years. Bloomsburg State College is proud of the service it contributes to the residents of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania and pledges a continuation of improved service and progress in 1968.

BSC GRADUATE, FACULTY MEMBER NAMED IN BOOK

A former Bloomsburg graduate, Dr. James DeRose, science teacher at Marple-Newtown Square High School, Newtown Square, Pennsylvania, and Thomas R. Manley, associate professor of Biological Science at Bloomsburg State College, are mentioned in the recently published book, "Not For Glory," by William Jeremiah Burke. Burke serves as a member of a committee to select the teacher in the United States to receive the National Teacher of the Year Award.

"Not For Glory" deals with the interview by Burke of candidates for the award starting with 1961. It was during that year that Dr. DeRose, who was on the faculty of Marple-Newton High School, was a runnerup in the competition for National Teacher of the Year.

Manley was a runnerup in the competition in the year 1964 when he taught biology at Selinsgrove High School. Manley joined the faculty at Bloomsburg State College in the fall of 1964.

Alumni Day, April 27, proved to be up to the standards of previous years. The Alumni Luncheon was well attended, and most of the classes had very successful reunions off campus. The success of these reunions was due to the willingness of someone to assume the responsibility of making the necessary preparations.

The classes ending in 4 and 9 will be holding their reunions next year. The date of Alumni Day 1969, has not been officially set, but presumably will fall on the last Saturday in April. Class representatives should get in contact with the Alumni Office very soon, in order that class lists may be brought up to date.

There must be quite a number of Alumni who would be able to make generous provisions for the Alumni Association in their wills. We hope that such persons will give this matter serious consideration. Why not talk to your lawyer about it?

---

The Loyalty Fund campaign is coming along very well. We are confident that we will reach our goal of $15,000 by October 1. If you have not yet made your contribution, please send us your check soon.

Howard F. Fenstermaker

LOYALTY FUND . . SECOND YEAR

As a result of the generosity of the Alumni, the amount contributed in the Loyalty Fund campaign during the period beginning October 1, 1966, and ending April 20, 1968, amounted to $15,622.85. At the meeting of your Board of Directors on Alumni Day, it was decided to set our goal for this year at $15,000.00. Last Spring we gave six scholarships of $200.00 each, and we hope to increase both the amount and the number of scholarships this year. Part of the funds received are being used to sponsor the broadcast of football and basketball games, and the wrestling matches. We sincerely hope that you will respond more generously than you did last year.

1. Letters are mailed to all alumni from time to time requesting contributions. You may contribute in any amount, and as often as you wish during the year. The first $2.00 contributed by a graduate in any one year will entitle the graduate to full membership privileges in the Alumni Association for one year; any amount in excess of the $2.00 will be put into the "Loyalty Fund" for student scholarships or other projects, to be determined by the Alumni Association Board of Directors and the College. Contributions are tax deductible.
2. Active members of the Alumni Association will be admitted free to the Alumni Luncheon on Alumni Day on presentation of their paid-up membership card.
3. Contributions for Loyalty Fund projects or operational expenses will be adequate only if every graduate makes an effort to express his loyalty to his Alma Mater and the generations of new students who want and need a college education.
4. We hope that you will show your loyalty to your Alma Mater by making generous contributions every year. Please make your checks payable to B.S.C. Alumni Association and return with coupon below. Your contribution will be acknowledged.
5. Please inform us immediately of any change of address or marital status.

Sincerely yours,

Howard F. Fenstemaker

NEW MAINTENANCE BUILDING AND GARAGE

Something Seems To Happen Every Seven Years

We are about to celebrate One Hundred Years of Teacher Education at Bloomsburg. The Normal School was approved by the Chartering Committee on February 19, 1869.

Let us look back a bit and see some of the significant dates that are milestones along the way. Maybe we are playing a number game but, at any rate, it will serve to sharpen our awareness of the signposts of progress.

In 1911 Pennsylvania decided it should bring all its School Laws together in one volume and for the first time we had what is known as The School Code. Among the provisions of this new document was a section which provided that the State could purchase the Normal Schools to which annual appropriations had been made for many years. This was a significant document and dates the beginning of support by the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania for public higher education.

1913—This is the date when the purchase of the several Normal Schools began. All of them were not purchased in the same year. Bloomsburg, coming along in the train of the seven-year period, was purchased in 1916 and finally in 1920—all of the present institutions became the property of the State and, for the first time, applicants for admission were required to be high school graduates. Curriculums were required to be similar if not uniform and for seven years this continued until in 1927—the names of the Normal Schools were changed to State Teachers Colleges. Four-year curriculums leading to the degree of Bachelor of Science in Education were inaugurated; however, the two-year and later the three-year curriculums were continued for seven years and were not terminated until 1934—In this year the two-year and three-year certificate holders walked in the commencement procession for the last time with the four-year graduates who received degrees. This period of transition from a State Teachers College (in name) to a State Teachers College (in fact) continued until

1941—when America went to war and many of the colleges were rapidly denuded of their male population. Replacing those who were in the Armed Services were many men in uniform. At Bloomsburg a thousand people learned to fly along with the training of deck officers and other military personnel. After World War II and its final conclusion in 1946, a new post-war period was in full swing by

1948—the returning G. I.'s came to the State Teachers Colleges in large numbers since the G. I. Bill provided educational advantages and low tuition was attractive. At this time, freshmen admitted to Pennsylvania State College in the field of liberal arts attended classes for one year at Bloomsburg and then went on to the mother institution. This was a seven-year period of experimentation and transition. Then

1955—marked a milestone in the attitude of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania toward its State Teachers Colleges. Construction since 1925 consisted mainly of renovating old buildings and the addition of a few other necessary buildings, such as campus laboratory schools. In this year, the State seemed to reach the decision it must expand its own public higher institutions and the second General State Authority program began. This period of expansion in plant was followed in 1962—by the change in name from State Teachers College to State College (1960) and with the beginning of graduate programs leading to the Master's degree and the admission of students who, at the end of four years, would receive the Bachelor of Arts degree. With these seven-year periods marking significant events, we now reach the year of 1969—What can we expect of this year? Certainly the Alumni of any State College can, in the not too distant future, envision the change in name to that of a State University. However, it is not likely that the change in name itself would explain the steps necessary to achieve this new status, and we must consider the possibility of the following:

1. The general organization and administration of State Colleges must be overhauled since it has been following the present pattern since 1930.
2. The influx of students from Junior and Community Colleges to State Colleges will probably cause the junior and senior classes of the undergraduate curriculums to be larger than the freshman and sophomore classes.
3. The graduate programs will be expanded into almost every field in which the college confers undergraduate degrees.
4. Pre-professional courses leading to degrees in Engineering, Law, Medicine, Journalism, and Business will undoubtedly develop in some, if not all, of the institutions.

If time and space permitted, many areas for development and expansion could be delineated, but it is significant that after one century the State Colleges of Pennsylvania are now the only institutions of public higher education supported by the Commonwealth and they look forward to making a contribution commensurate with the needs of the young people of our great Commonwealth.

PRESIDENT

1968 Commencement and Baccalaureate

"The now must be upheld but one must move beyond legal concerns in interpreting the underlying significances and the underlying causes of student unrest," Dr. Mark R. Shedd, superintendent of the public schools of Philadelphia, told 515 graduates of the Bloomsburg State College at commencement exercises held in Haas Auditorium before a capacity audience of parents and friends.

There were 497 Bachelor and eighteen Master degrees conferred by Dr. Harvey A. Andruss, president. The class was presented by Dr. John A. Hoch, dean of instruction.

Greatest Challenge

"The greatest challenge we all face as educators is how to redefine the role of teachers and students in the process of education—those roles and processes which enable responsible but relevant and creative participation of students in shaping the institution—particularly the educational institutions—which in turn shapes their environment and lives," Dr. Shedd said.

Dr. Shedd stated, "Like most phenomenon, today's student unrest, as exhibited in the streets of Paris, the president's office at Columbia, and high schools around the country, can be analyzed from many points of view, and many of them valid.

"The easiest and most tempting is to peer at student disturbance through the eye-glasses of the law. It is clear that laws are being violated, and it is clear that this country cannot survive without law.

"But if the analysis is limited to a legalistic one, we would justly be accused of peering through the wrong end of a telescope. The trick is to uphold the law but to move beyond legal concerns in interpreting the underlying significances — and the underlying causes — of student unrest.

Must Confront Basic Changes

"I believe that to do so, is to confront basic changes in the nature of our society today—changes which have a large implication for education and students in the process of education."

In referring to the challenge facing all educators today, the Philadelphia educator said, "If we are unable to meet this challenge, the malaise which is incumbent in so many of our schools will grow, not only in schools, but beyond.

Must See Total System

"In trying to look below the surface and beyond the legalities and proprieties involved, all of us concerned in education must look at the total system: the curriculum, the relationship of teacher and supervisor, administrative arrangements, and finally at the relationship of schools to those responsible for financing education.

"It is perfectly clear that the schools in this commonwealth and certainly in the big cities are suffering from years of financial deprivation.

"Unless the state begins to give education the priority it demands, that deprivation will continue. For while money alone will not produce the qualitative changes students and parents are demanding, it is equally certain that without money the changes cannot be produced."

BACCALAUREATE

"Truth reveals that man's finest powers are love and faith," the Rev. Dr. James M. Singer, pastor, Luther Place Memorial Church, Washington, D. C., and former pastor of St. Matthew Lutheran Church, here, told the graduating class of the Bloomsburg State College at baccalaureate services held in Haas auditorium Sunday, May 26.

Speaking on the topic "How About This Business of Truth?" the clergyman asserted "Know the truth and it will make you free. These words have inspired man ever since Christ spoke them."

The Rev. Mr. Singer continued by saying, "Ours is a day when the hurts and hatreds of life will not behave subserviently to the structures of life. They will not stay hidden any longer. In all sorts of angry ways they are rising in rebellion against the institutions of life: the state, the school, the church.

"For some people this is a day for despair. Many others live in hopes and thus prove that they are not timid friends of truth. They know the power of truth. They know that when truth is trusted it will expose man for what he is. The light of truth shows that man is an eternal spirit and not a hunk of dust that will disintegrate and die.

"From Caesars to Monarchs to Democracy, truth has led man to freedom and the march is not over. The way has been plagued with dark years, demoniac powers and tragic people who have tried to twist truth into their own pathetic lies. Despite the forces against it, truth has ever triumphed and always shall.

"Truth rises above the deceptions, the degradations and the half truths, and proves over and over again that men are eternal spirits whose greatest powers are and ever shall be to love and to believe in a better day for all people."

BSC GRANTS TOTAL $3000

Three thousand dollars in scholarships and grants were presented on May 16 at a scholarship assembly in Carver Hall auditorium that also featured the installation of the Community Government Association officers for the coming academic year.

The alumni awards, presented by John Scrimgeour, alumnus who is on the faculty, were:

Bruce Albert Memorial Scholarships, $300, Carol A. Sturgin, Catawissa, freshman in elementary education; Earl N. Rhodes Scholarship, $200, Robert J. Bennett, Williamsport, junior in elementary education; Lucy McCommon Scholarship, $200, Kathleen E. Jarrard, Shickshinny, junior in elementary education; O. H. Bakeless Scholarship, $300, Thomas P. Fleischauer, Elizabeth, sophomore in special education; Anna Lourie Welles Scholarship, $100, Deborah Rhoads, Shamokin, freshman in arts and sciences.

V-12 25TH REUNION

Over 150 men, women, and children attended the 25th reunion of BSC Navy V-12 veterans on Thursday, July 4 through Sunday, July 7 at the college. Of the above number, 43 were veterans who completed military training at the college during World War II.

George Stradtman, BSC faculty member, was the college's coordinator of the program and worked with the following V-12 veteran committee: Michael Holesh, Charlotte, N. C.—chairman of arrangements; George Brandon, Pittsburgh, Pa.—treasurer; Captain F. H. "Duke" Doucette, U. S. Navy, Washington, D. C.; "Chief" Cotton Franklin, Dallas, Texas; Wilmer Gruelich, Wynnewood, Pa.—former commanding officer of the BSC V-12 unit; Thomas Everett, Nashville, N. C.—executive officer who assisted Gruelich.

The veterans and their families were housed in the Waller Hall dormitory area while on campus. During the 1960 reunion, this group was the first to occupy North Hall which was completed that year. This fall, Waller Hall is scheduled to be converted into faculty and administrative offices, which will eliminate the dormitory space in that building.

A three-day schedule of events, which kept the veterans and their families on the move, included such activities as swimming, dancing, dining, picnicing, hiking, sight-seeing, and participation in sports and games. All meals during the reunion, except a picnic lunch, were served in the College Commons by ARA Slater Food Service.

Hartline Building Is Nearing Completion

The Hartline Building, a $2,385,122 structure being erected on the BSC campus to house facilities for study and research in the sciences, was reported fifty-eight per cent completed on June 20 and the contract calls for the work to be finished by December 18. It is being constructed by the General State Authority.

Announcement was made to the BSC alumni at their get together this spring that the building will named for Prof. D. S. Hartline, a member of the "old guard" of Bloomsburg Norman and a dedicated educator; for his wife, who was also a valued member of the faculty for some time; and their son, Dr. Harlon Keffer Hartline, a graduate of the school and a Nobel prize winner during the past year.

It is believed that once the building is completed and in operation it will become known as the Hartline Science Center.

Modern Laboratories

This new building will provide modern science laboratories in several branches of the sciences, plus classrooms and lecture rooms for instruction in these sciences as well as in other fields. To meet these requirements, the structure is divided into three articulate wings; one for the science laboratories, another for classrooms and small lecture rooms, and a third made up of three 100-seat lecture halls and a 300-seat amphitheatre.

Twelve laboratories will serve courses in botany, microbiology, general physics, advanced physics, zoology, earth sciences, organic chemistry, analytical chemistry, general chemistry, and radioisotopes. Each laboratory will have specialized equipment and facilities for the science it serves. There will be preparation rooms adjacent to each laboratory for use of the instructor, along with storage space for standard laboratory equipment.

In addition to the major laboratories, Student Honors laboratories also will be provided. These are smaller units where students doing special research may carry on their projects over extended periods of time without being disturbed. Six such laboratories will be available for botany, physics, zoology, and chemistry research.

Twenty-three faculty offices and three secretarial areas will serve the science faculty and instructors in other fields. Classrooms and lecture rooms in three basic sizes will accommodate student groupings. Lecture rooms will have the additional facility of a science demonstration table fitted with hot and cold water, gas and compressed air for experiments.

Amphitheatre Wing

The amphitheatre wing will be air conditioned and will include a main lobby and exhibition space in addition to the three lecture halls and the theatre itself. The exhibition space will meet an urgent need for a centrally located, easily accessible settings for science, traveling art, student work and topical exhibits of current interest to the student body. There will be facilities for wall and floor mounted displays, with track mounted spot lighting for all type of exhibit.

The amphitheatre will have sound control elements to allow for better acoustics, an electrically operated "periodic chart" of the elements, an electrically operated projection screen with dimmer controlled lighting and a stepped floor providing an unobstructed view of the demonstration table.

Concrete telescope mounting pads will be located within a protected area on the roof for the study of astronomy and outer space. Anemometers and other weather instruments on the roof will have remote recording equipment in the laboratory area.

Minor accommodations in the building include a radiation counting room, a spectrometer room, a photographic darkroom, a radioisotope vault, a micro-techniques room, a chemical balance room, an animal room, and a walk-in refrigerator.

Entrance on Five Levels

Because of the unique hillside site for the building, it has been designed with entrances on five levels. The main entrance will open onto the newly developing academic quadrangle on campus, while other entrances will be arranged at various ground levels on the hillside to allow the convenient access from any direction of approach.

Although the amphitheatre wing appears as a single story as it is viewed from the quadrangle, other portions of the structure rise to a height of four stories.

The exterior is characterized by high narrow windows, with heat absorbing glass, set in vertical recesses between broad brick piers. Ventilating grills are integrated into the exterior in such a manner that they become a design feature in the building facade. The building will harmonize with neighboring structures on the campus in color and texture and yet will express through its design, the college's contemporary approach to the teaching of science.

TRUSTEES RENAME OFFICERS

Trustees of the Bloomsburg State College renamed officers at its annual meeting. William A. Lank, Bloomsburg, continues as president; Judge Harold L. Paul, Pottsville, vice president, and J. Howard Deily, Bloomsburg, secretary-treasurer. Other members of the board are Judge Bernard Kelly, Philadelphia; Gerald Bierschmidt, Mount Carmel; Guy Bangs, Millville; William Booth, Danville; Howard S. Fernsler, Pottsville and Edgar A. Fenstermacher, Berwick.

Rev. Peter Freas Fritz '02

The Rev. Peter Freas Fritz, of 6301 Robin Hill Road, Nashville, Tenn., a Church of God minister for more than 50 years, died in May at his residence at the age of 95.

At the age of 74, he retired from the active ministry, but continued to speak in churches on various occasions.

Besides Illinois, he had held Church of God pastorates in most of the Southeast states.

GIVES NAMES TO BUILDINGS

The large men's dormitory of the Bloomsburg State College, now being completed on East Main Street at Pine, across from "long porch", will be named for the Elwell family, and the science-classroom building, to be completed in December, will be named for the Hartline family. Dr. Harvey A. Andruss, president of the institution of higher education, told the alumni at a luncheon in College Commons.

In announcing that the dormitory will be come "Elwell Hall," the educator mentioned that Judge William Elwell served as a trustee of the school from 1868 to 1887 and was responsible for bringing the late Dr. David J. Waller, Jr., to the principalship for his first distinguished tenure. Dr. Waller served first as principal for thirteen years and later for a period of fourteen years. Judge Elwell's son, George E. Elwell, served as trustee from 1887 to 1896 and was president of the board for a time, and the judge's grandson, G. Edward Elwell, Jr., was instructor of French at BSC from 1913 to 1920.

Whether the science building will be "Hartline Hall" or "Hartline Science Center" is yet to be determined. Prof. D. S. Hartline, one of the beloved "Old Guard" of Bloomsburg Normal and State Teachers College days, served on the faculty from 1897 to 1935 and for part of that period his wife was also on the faculty. Their son, Dr. H. Keffer Hartline, is a graduate of Bloomsburg and a Nobel prize winner of the past year. The latter is also a holder of the BSC Alumni Distinguished Service Award.

The dormitory, accommodating 672 men, was completed in July and occupied in September. The nine-story structure is the first high-rise building to be completed on the campus. In addition to rooms for students and counselors, the dormitory includes an apartment for the members of the student personnel staff, recreation rooms, lounges, a TV room and storage areas. Elevators and stairways are designed to provide a smooth flow of traffic throughout the building. The science-classroom building is scheduled for completion in December and contains laboratories, classrooms, seminar rooms, several large lecture rooms, faculty offices, storage areas and facilities for the Data Processing Center. The building will be completely air-conditioned to improve campus accommodations for classes which are held during all seasons of the year.

Dr. Andruss said that as the college grows there will be more names required for buildings and mentioned that among those now on campus there are "North, South, East and West Halls" and that in shifts of the future at least one dormitory now occupied by men will be turned over to the use of women students. "If you have any suggestion for names turn them over to your president, Howard F. Fenstermaker," he told the graduates.

Dr. Andruss asserted that "Pennsylvania has a problem in its tax structure and until that is settled we will not receive the kind of representative appropriations that we need." The present lack of funds has required the increasing of the tuition by $100 for the academic year opening in September.

Despite that he said there are many more seeking entrance than can be accommodated for of 3,000 applications returned only 800 can be admitted in the fall.

"Until the state decides that the State Colleges are more important than some of the other institutions we will not have as fast a growth as we have experienced in the past."

He mentioned that three of the classes in reunion, 1928, 1933 and 1938, were there under the administration of the late Dr. Francis B. Haas for whom the new auditorium has been named. The College will be happy if these and other classes of that period provide funds so that the name of the building can be placed on the structure in aluminum letters. "The purse strings of the state budget have been drawn tightly at this time and there are no funds for placing the name on the building," he said.

He congratulated the graduates and their leaders for establishing the Loyalty Fund and said the plan is better than that of charging a small dues fee.

Mrs. Lulu Appleman Brunstetter became the second recipient in history of the Award of Distinction of Lycoming College, Williamsport, Pa. Presentation of the bronze medal was made at the annual faculty-directors' dinner of the College. The only other person to receive Lycoming's Award of Distinction was Bishop Fred P. Carson, former head of world Methodism.

Mrs. Brunstetter, who resides in Atlanta, Georgia, with her daughter, Mrs. Edward Collins, retired in 1957 after three decades of service on the Williamsport college campus. She observed her 91st birthday March 7. Mrs. Brunstetter came to the Methodist campus in 1925. For the first five years she taught grades one to four at Dickinson Seminary, as the institution was then known, and later taught sixth grade in what was the junior school. She was affiliated with the staff of the junior college where she taught English to Spanish students from Cuba and Central America.

A native of Orangeville, Pa., Mrs. Brunstetter is an alumna of Bloomsburg State College. She studied library science at the Pennsylvania State University and at the time of her retirement was assistant librarian with the rank of professor in the College's John W. Long Library.

Before her marriage Mrs. Brunstetter taught in New Jersey. Her husband, the late Rev. Frank H. Brunstetter, at one time served as pastor of Calvary Methodist Church in Williamsport. The only break in her years of service on the Lycoming College campus came in 1943 during World War II. She returned to the city as acting librarian at the Williamsport College.

1895

A letter from William G. Mundy, P. O. Box 131, West Pittston, Pa., informs us that his mother, Mrs. Genevieve Gallagher Mundy, has been hospitalized since June 2, 1967 as a terminal patient. It is believed that she is the oldest living female pharmacist in the United States. Mr. Mundy enclosed checks to the amount of $50.00 as a memorial to his mother. These checks have been deposited in the Loyalty Fund and earmarked for the purchase of an oil portrait of the late Dr. Francis B. Hass. This portrait is to be hung in the lobby of the Francis B. Haas Auditorium.

The following note has been received from Dorothy L. Schmidt DSA, 7-7 Minami 4-Chome, Kudar, Chiyodaku, Tokyo, Japan:

In April I transferred from Meiji Gakuin University to a small college with an enrollment of 1800 girls. The Tokyo Woman's Christian College was started in 1918 under the leadership of Christian teachers from Japan, Canada, and the U.S.A. During the fifty years of the college's existence, the school has gained a reputation for having a high educational standard and has therefore attracted girls of quality and scholarship ability. There are seven cooperating denominations which support the school financially and with missionary personnel: The American Baptist Convention, The Disciples of Christ, The Lutheran Church in America, The Methodist Church, The Reformed Church in America, The United Church of Canada, and the United Presbyterian Church in the U. S. A.

The marriage of Miss B. Marie Posey, Orangeville R. D. 1, to David A. Roberts, Bloomsburg, R. D. 4, was solemnized Sunday, May 26 at the Orangeville United Church of Christ.

The bridegroom will be employed by NASA at Hampton, Va., and the couple will make their home in that area.

Miss Myrna Ivette Robles, Jackson Heights, N. Y., became the bride of Richard Paul Conner, of Bloomsburg, in a double-ring ceremony June 22 at St. Mary's Church, Woodside, N. Y. The bride graduated from Washington Irving High School and Fashion Institute and was employed by Amalgamated Bank of New York. The groom graduated from Bloomsburg High School in 1964, BSC in 1968 and is employed by his father at Joseph C. Conner Printing.

Bill Kerstetter, a graduating senior, has accepted a graduate teaching-assistantship at the University of Alaska in Fairbanks. While at the University, Kerstetter will pursue an area of study for a Master of Fine Arts degree in English with a speech minor. He will also engage in private research involving the study and analysis of the native Eskimo dialect.

As part of his duties as a teaching assistant, he will assist in undergraduate classroom instruction.

In a ceremony Saturday, June 15, in St. Paul's Episcopal Church, Bloomsburg, Miss Katherine Matzko, Berwick, was united in marriage to John S. Mulka, of Taylor.

The bride received her BS degree in elementary education at BSC and will teach in Berwick schools. The bridegroom received his BS degree in elementary education from BSC in 1963 and his Master's Degree in Student Personnel in Higher Education from Ohio University in 1967. He is an assistant professor of education at BSC.

Millville Methodist Church was the setting Saturday, June 22, for the wedding of Miss Judy Ann Bowman, Millville, to David Breece Zeisloft.

The bride graduated from Millville High School and Bloomsburg State College. She will teach in Elizabethtown. Her husband, a graduate of Millville High School, attended the Bloomsburg State College and University of the Americas, Mexico. He was also a graduate student at BSC. He teaches Spanish at Elizabethtown schools.

In a ceremony on June 1 in Millville Methodist Church, Miss Susan Kathleen Slusser was married to C. David Shivery. The bride graduated from S. Horace Scott High School, Coatesville, and from BSC this spring. She will teach secondary English in Coatesville Area Schools this fall.

The bridegroom, a graduate of Octorara Area High School, Atglen R. D. 1, served in the U. S. Army for two years. He is employed as coordinator at Luken Steel Co., Coatesville. The couple reside in Gap.

Miss Diane Marie Spielman, of Lewisburg was married to David Richard Schnaars, 3rd, R. D. 1, Bloomsburg, in a ceremony Saturday, June 15 at two in Christ's Evangelical Lutheran Church, Lewisburg.

The bride graduated from Lewisburg High School and BSC where she was a member of Alpha Psi Omega. She will teach school this fall. Her husband, a graduate of Millville High School and BSC, is also a member of Alpha Psi Omega. He is a teacher in Pennsbury Schools, Fairless Hills, Pa. Mr. and Mrs. Schnaars are living at 17 East Afton Avenue, Yardley, Pa.

Benton Christian Church was the setting May 4 for the marriage of Miss Dorothy Ann Rabb, Benton, to Ben R. Pollock 2nd, Benton.

The bride graduated from Benton High School and is a senior at BSC. Her husband, also a graduate of Benton High School, teaches in the

NAMED DEAN OF STUDENTS

Elton Hunsinger, Dean of Men at Bloomsburg State College for the past eight years, is the new Dean of Students at BSC.

He was chosen acting holder of that position for the summer session and will continue as education advisor to State Senator Preston B. Davis, chairman of the Senate Education Committee, for the balance of this session. He succeeded Dr. Paul Riegel, who resigned his post at BSC, to take a position at the University of Illinois.

Professor Hunsinger plays an important role in administration at Bloomsburg State College serving as Dean of Men. In addition to his duties at the college, he has also been extremely active in speaking engagements and athletic officiating. Up until the summer of 1955, Dean Hunsinger also served as Director of Placement.

Increase in enrollment and mounting problems in the area of student affairs has made it necessary for Professor Hunsinger to devote full time to his duties as Dean of Men. In counseling and administering the affairs of 1600 men students at BSC Dean Hunsinger heads a staff of five employees.

A native of Geneva, New York, he attended the elementary schools at Geneva, New York and Hazleton, prior to his graduation at Conyngham Township High School at Aristes, 1932. He received his Bachelor of Arts degree from East Stroudsburg State College in 1936 majoring in health and physical education and social studies. He earned his Master of Arts degree from Bucknell University in 1952.

Following his graduation from East Stroudsburg State College, he was a teacher-coach at Conyngham Township High School for twelve years coaching soccer, basketball and baseball. During his tenure at Conyngham Township High School his teams won eleven county championships. In 1948 he was appointed to the Ashland High School faculty and served as athletic director, basketball coach, baseball coach and track coach. In his twenty-five years of coaching, his teams never had a losing season, and in his thirteen years in Class "A" competition in the North Schuylkill League his teams won 254 games and lost 78.

In addition to being an active participant in sports, he is a qualified professional baseball umpire, covering games in the United States and Canada. He has been a PIAA basketball, football, tracks, soccer, and baseball official since 1932. He still remains active in officiating.

In addition to being active in civic and fraternal affairs, Professor Hunsinger not only has the reputation of being one of the most inspirational speakers in Pennsylvania but one of the most humorous. He has spoken to over eighty different audiences during the past year. He is listed in Who's Who in American Education and is a member of the National Association of Student Personnel and Administration.

Problems of the State Colleges

The following appeared recently in "The PASSING THROG" column of The Morning Press:

By State law the 13 state colleges and one state university—Indiana—charge no tuition to Pennsylvania residents (99 per cent of their enrollment). This is supposed to be borne by the Commonwealth out of taxes.

Instead, however, the students pay "fees" as high as $250 a year, which has been raised to $350 here and elsewhere in September; plus the fee for extra-curricular activities.

Since 1934 state appropriations have gone up about 134 per cent, but enrollments increased by more than 40 per cent. Nearly half of the operating budget of the 14 schools is supported by student "fees."

Another example of the state's peculiar handling of its state colleges is seen in the construction of buildings. When the state completes a science laboratory, student recreation center or dormitory for a state-aided college or university, it is turned over to the private school lock, stock, and barrel.

At the state-owned colleges, however, student "fees" are upped to pay for the new facilities, and the students begin paying years before the ground has ever been turned for construction.

All state college students jammed into antiquated dormitories several years ago began paying more than $100 a year "dormitory fee" to help finance construction, and at one college the students thus far have paid more than a half million dollars into the state treasury for a dormitory they will never see except at "homecoming" years hence!

Then there is the problem of state purchasing procedures, costing the taxpayers hundreds of thousands of thousands of dollars and frustrating every effort of the state colleges to provide the facilities they are expected to maintain as accredited institutions of higher learning.

Red tape is not the only obstacle the colleges must overcome.

The college presidents, presumably appointed because of their special skill in directing the colleges, are often overruled by anonymous budget planners in Harrisburg who can and do arbitrarily set the academic course of the colleges by deciding what will and will not be purchased, what courses may and may not be offered and even what professional associations the colleges and their facilities will and will not belong to.

The Council of Alumni Associations of the State Colleges—representing 100,000 graduates in the state—some time ago made an impressive drive to compile these facts and presented them to the State Council on Higher Education.

Dr. Ralph Heiges, president of Shippensburg State College, has pointed out that the state colleges are the only colleges wholly owned by the state and subject to state control.

He added:

"These state colleges must be assisted in achieving more self-determination, especially where budgetary and professional decisions are involved. The state has a distinct duty to see that public higher education is available at such a reasonable cost that all the deserving youth of Pennsylvania has an opportunity for it."

LOYALTY FUND . . SECOND YEAR

As a result of the generosity of the Alumni, the amount contributed in the Loyalty Fund campaign during the period beginning October 1, 1966, and ending April 20, 1968, amounted to $15,622.85. At the meeting of your Board of Directors on Alumni Day, it was decided to set our goal for this year at $15,000.00. Last Spring we gave six scholarships. Part of the funds received are being used to sponsor the broadcast of football and basketball games, and the wrestling matches. We sincerely hope that you will respond more generously than you did last year.

1. Letters are mailed to all alumni from time to time requesting contributions. You may contribute in any amount, and as often as you wish during the year. The first $2.00 contributed by a graduate in any one year will entitle the graduate to full membership privileges in the Alumni Association for one year; any amount in excess of the $2.00 will be put into the "Loyalty Fund" for student scholarships or other projects, to be determined by the Alumni Association Board of Directors and the College. Contributions are tax deductible.
2. Active members of the Alumni Association will be admitted free to the Alumni Luncheon on Alumni Day on presentation of their paid-up membership card.
3. Contributions for Loyalty Fund projects or operational expenses will be adequate only if every graduate makes an effort to express his loyalty to his Alma Mater and the generations of new students who want and need a college education.
4. We hope that you will show your loyalty to your Alma Mater by making generous contributions every year. Please make your checks payable to B.S.C. Alumni Association and return with coupon below. Your contribution will be acknowledged.
5. Please inform us immediately of any change of address or marital status.

Sincerely yours,

Howard F. Fenstemaker

COMMUNICATION IN THE COLLEGE COMMUNITY

When any educational, business, or church organization increases in size six or seven times in twice as many years, the lines of communication become thin. Those who are living, learning, and working together depend to a greater extent on chance comments, opinions, and unverified rumors which lead to the formation of opinions and attitudes.

The College Community is composed of students, faculty, administrators, a Board of Trustees, a body of Alumni, and other groups such as parents and taxpayers in a State-supported institution. A great part of the student unrest grows out of a lack of communication among members of the College Community.

Too often, students do not go to the point where the information is available on the campus; chiefly, the administrators charged with the responsibility of activities in certain areas. Students are advised to be careful whose advice they take and to make sure that the advisor knows more about the problem than the one who seeks advice; and above all, if there is to be some change proposed, either on an individual or group basis, contact should be made with an individual who can make the change possible. We still have a great many people who act upon chance comments, opinions, and unverified rumors without evaluating the source or validity of the facts behind them.

A College Community of 3,800 students and 500 employees and faculty members will soon grow to be equal to one-half of the total population of the Town of Bloomsburg. While approximately one-half of the students live on campus in dormitories and more than one-half eat in the College dining room, there are still three groups whose contact with the College is neither as continuous nor immediate as campus residents. Some eight or nine hundred live in the Town of Bloomsburg or in the towns in which they are doing student teaching, and about an equal number commute daily from their homes. Of a faculty of 250, approximately one-half have been on the Bloomsburg campus three years or less.

There are several hundred more part-time students, some undergraduates, who are employed in part-time occupations which permit them to complete the work of one academic year over a period of a calendar year, while still others commute to the campus for graduate courses after the school day is over.

In an effort to give more college information, certain issues of the Alumni Quarterly are being sent to all graduates, and the Alumni Association has pledged $5,000 toward the proposed FM Radio Station to be located in Hartline Science Center. Faculty Newsletters and daily bulletins of college events help to fill the gap left by the lack of weekly assemblies of college students.

Recently, the Board of Trustees have met with committees of the faculty, and, for the first time, they have met with the College (student) Council composed of twenty-one students and six faculty members. This is an effort to learn first hand from student representatives of the proposals for changes in student living, and in some cases, classroom procedures.

With the offering of new graduate and undergraduate classes, students are attracted from more than fifty of the sixty-seven counties in Pennsylvania which means a statewide, rather than a regional, representation on campus.

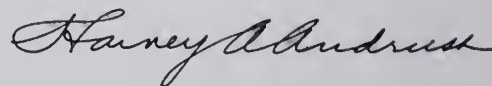

At least eighty per cent of the graduates from Bloomsburg State College are still in the field of teacher education. The transition to a multi-purpose institution, which will in time become a university, cannot be carried out overnight.

Millions of dollars for new buildings, increased salaries for faculty, and greater library and laboratory facilities are important, but colleges exist for the education of students who attend them. Therefore, communication is a necessity and to the extent that facts are not available to those who are engaged in decision making, the College Community will continue to have trouble, unrest, and confusion.

Such times as these must have existed in the mind of the poet who wrote, "New occasions teach new duties; Time makes ancient good uncouth." If change is the order of the day, and we do not confuse it with progress, better communication between all members of the College Community is an absolute necessity.

It is hoped that new channels of understanding can be developed in an orderly and effective fashion.

Sincerely yours,

PRESIDENT

OVER MILLION ANNUALLY IN STUDENT AID

Approximately 1,500 or nearly one-half of all undergraduate students at Bloomsburg State College received some form of financial loan, amounting to a total of $1,037,121, during the 1967-68 college year, according to John Scrimgeour, director of financial aid.

Loans which include National Defense Loans, Alumni Loans, and State Guaranty Loans, accounted for the largest percentage of the financial assistance with a total of $518,318. There were 251 recipients receiving a total of $114,800 in National Defense Loans for an average of $475 per student; 39 students received Alumni Loans amounting to a total of $13,295 or a per-student average of $341. State Guaranty Loans, which are not obtained through the college but by the student himself, totaled $390,223 for 461 recipients or an average student loan of $846.

$321,900 in Grants

The next largest amount of financial aid was the scholarships and grants area which amounted to $321,900. Of this total, $256,850 in Pennsylvania State Scholarships, administered by the Pennsylvania Higher Education Assistance Agency, was awarded to 518 students for an average of $496 per student.

Educational Opportunity Grants totaled $49,200 for 101 students at an average of $487; another $49,200 was available in EO Grants through matching funds from the Pennsylvania Higher Education Assistance Agency, student employment, and private outside sources. BSC Alumni Scholarships awarded in the Spring of '67 for use during '67-68 totaled $3,225 for 23 individuals or a $140 per student average.

Student Employment

Employment was available in three areas for Bloomsburg State College students and this amounted to a total of $196,903, broken down as follows: Pennsylvania State Student Employment program—$100,467 for 296 students for a $339 average; work study—$80,723 for 296 students for a $300 average; graduate assistants—$15,713 for 21 recipients for a $747 average.

Approximately $33,000, not included in the above figures, was paid to student help by ARA Food Services in the operation of the College Commons. This form of financial assistance is available to all interested students but is not administered through the office of Scrimgeour.

The latter stated that all the above figures indicate a little less than one-half of the under-graduate enrollment of Bloomsburg State College has received some kind of financial assistance in obtaining a college education. He further indicated that the amounts of financial aid and the number of recipients would be increased during the 1968-69 college year in proportion with the increase in enrollment.

SUMMER COMMENCEMENT

One hundred and seventy-five were awarded degrees at the summer commencement held in Haas auditorium on the campus recently. Dr. Wade R. Wilson, acting president of Cheyney State College, delivered the address. Dr. Harvey A. Andruss, president of BSC, conferred the degrees.

There were 117 undergraduate students who were awarded Bachelor's degrees and fifty-eight Master's degrees.

Of the 117 undergraduate students, fifteen received degrees in business education, thirty-three in elementary education, forty-two in secondary education, fourteen in special education, twelve in arts and sciences and two in public school nursing.

Miss Miriam Davis Wagner, Gordon, with a cumulative average of 3.75, in secondary education, was graduated summa cum laude, and Mrs. Linda Beyer, wife of Jon Beyer, Danville, with a cumulative average of 3.55 in elementary education, was graduated cum laude.

ENROLLMENT RECORD 3696

Three thousand four hundred sixty-two undergraduate students completed registration for the 1968-69 college year at Bloomsburg State College, according to Robert Bunge, registrar. In addition, 234 graduate students are enrolled at the college, which gives a grand total of 3,696 students, which is the largest enrollment in the history of the college.

Of the 3,462 undergraduate students, 1,792 are men and 1,670 are women. The graduate student total of 234 breaks down into 109 men and 125 women.

ELINOR KEEFER RETIRES

Miss Elinor Keefer has retired after being a member of the Bloomsburg State College faculty for the past 17 years. She joined the faculty in 1951 and was head librarian for 15 years and head of acquisitions for the past two years.

A native of Mt. Lebanon, Pa., she received her early education in the schools of that community. She earned her Bachelor of Arts degree from Muskingum College, New Concord, Ohio, and was awarded her Master of Library Letters from the University of Pittsburgh. Her library degree was received from George Peabody College, Nashville, Tenn.

Library Tripled Size

Prior to coming to Bloomsburg, she taught in the secondary and elementary schools in the Pittsburgh area. During her fifteen years as head librarian at Bloomsburg State College, the holdings of the library were tripled as well as the staff, and commended as well as the staff, and services to the college and community were greatly expanded. During that time, three new library quarters were organized including the juvenile library in the Benjamin Franklin building.

Prior to the appointment of James B. Watts as head librarian in June 1966, Miss Keefer had requested to be relieved of her duties as head librarian in order to devote full time to her responsibilities as acquisitions librarian. During that summer the new Andruss Library was completed and occupied.

In commenting on Miss Keefer's retirement, Watts stated, "A person as competent as Miss Keefer in library work will be greatly missed, not only by her library associates, but by the entire college community."

FACULTY PROMOTIONS

Promotions in rank for sixteen members of the Bloomsburg State College faculty have been approved by the board of trustees and became effective at the beginning of the 1968-69 college year.

Four associate professors were advanced to full professor status: Dr. Edson J. Drake and Dr. Hans Karl Gunther, history; Dr. Andrew J. Karpinski, special education; and Dr. Donald A. Vannan education.

Ten assistant professors advanced to associate professors: M. Dale Anderson and William D. Eisenberg, English; Dr. George J. Gellos, biological science; Lee C. Hopple, geography; Laverne W. McClure, geography; Ronald W. Novak, mathematics; Dr. W. Benjamin Powell, history; Dr. Jordan P. Richman, English; Robert R. Solenberger, social science and J. Calvin Walker, psychology.

Doyle G. Dodson, business education, and Scott E. Miller, library, were promoted from instructors to assistant professors.

HOMECOMING 1968

After weeks of beautiful autumn weather, the festivities of Homecoming Day were marred by a steady rain. This undoubtedly reduced the number of visitors to the campus.

The Homecoming parade, with many beautiful floats built around the theme "Peace Through Understanding" was to have been held in the morning, but was postponed until after the game. The rain had stopped by this time.

In a way, the parade was an anticlimax because the BSC Huskies had been defeated by the Millersville Marauders by the score of 21-13. There were only around 1500 at Athletic Park for the contest, which started in a light rain that increased for a brief period in the first half and then halted for the rest of the afternoon.

Two dances, one for the younger group, and one for the older group, were well attended in the evening.

Elizabeth Schweppenheiser Hicks '13

Mrs. Clyde F. Hicks, Sr., of Berwick, died July 26 in Berwick Hospital where she had been a patient for three months.

A person with a variety of interests Mrs. Hicks had been active in many phases of community life. She was well known for her fine presentation of book reviews and topics for club and church programs. She had attended the New York Herald Tribune forums for many years before they were discontinued in the 1950s. She had been a teacher in the Berwick Elementary schools for a number of years and principal of the Fourteenth Street Building for several of those years.

She had served as president of the Columbia County Federation of Women's Clubs and was a charter member of the Evan Owen Delta Society of which she had been president several times. An active member of the Twentieth Century Club she had also served as its president.

Lois Johnson Kitchen '39

Mrs. G. Richard Kitchen, fifty, 7 Woodhall Lane (Fisher's Ferry), Rexford, N. Y., died June 29 at her home after a long illness. She was born in Jerseytown, August 14, 1917, a daughter of the late Paul and Martha Kreamer Johnson. She was a graduate of Bloomsburg High School and Bloomsburg State College. She was an active member of the Presbyterian church while here.

She had taught at Lock Haven High School and Carson Long Military Academy, New Bloomfield. Lately she was secretary at the Nisayuna Reformed Church, Troy Road, Schenectady, N. Y., of which she was a member.

Mary Kirkendall Hagenbuch '05

Mrs. Mary E. Hagenbuch, eighty-four, 10 East Eighth street, Pottstown, widow of the late Pierce Hagenbuch, and former county resident, died recently at Coventry Manor nursing home, Pottstown.

She had been a guest there two years and in ill health four years. A native of Bloomsburg, she was the daughter of William and Martha Conner Kirkendall and resided in this area until removing to Pottstown in 1941.

Mrs. Hagenbuch was a graduate of the Bloomsburg State College, class of '05, and taught in the Hilday and Rupert schools in this county and in Luzerne County fifteen years. Mrs. Hagenbuch was a member of Transfiguration Lutheran Church, Pottstown, and for many years taught the Seneker Bible Class. While in this county she was active in Hilday Lutheran Church. Her husband died in 1963.

He graduated from Bloomsburg State College and was an instructor in the Milton Area High School for several years. He had also been an apprentice pharmacist at Moyer Brothers. A veteran of the Korean War, he also served with the U. S. Army Signal Corp in Germany.

Clara Mae Swank '98

Miss Clara Mae Swank, eighty-nine, Wapwallopen, died recently in the Geisinger Medical Center. She had been a patient there for four weeks, following a fall suffered in her home.

She was born in Hollenbach Township, October 17, 1879 and was a daughter of the late Reuben and Mary Weiss Swank. Miss Swank taught in the Conyngham Township Schools for four years and then turned to nursing as her second profession. She graduated from the Pennsylvania Hospital School of Nursing in 1905 and following this she took a post-graduate course for institutional nursing. Miss Swank served as superintendent of the Harrisburg Hospital from 1908 to 1913. She attended Columbia University, N. Y. City and received a degree in hospital management. From 1914 to 1919 she served as superintendent of St. Luke's Hospital, Cedar Rapids, Ohio, and during this time she served as a member of the State Examining Board for nurses. She was superintendent of nurses at Decatur and Mason County Hospital, Decatur, Ill., for four years. From 1912 to 1950 Miss Swank was superintendent of nurses at Lake County Hospital in Danville, Ill. From 1933 to 1936 she was nursing superintendent and educational director of Bryn Mawr hospital. She retired in 1938 and has made her home in Wapwallopen since 1938.

Nellie Hahn '93

Nellie Hahn, 94, of Allentown, a native of Schuylkill County who taught 44 years in Allentown schools, died in June at her home in Pottsville. Miss Hahn was born on a farm in Ringtown Valley, near Zion Grove, a daughter of the later Aaron R. and Sarah (Wanamaker) Hahn. She taught at Zion Grove four years before going to Allentown.

She retired six months before the start of World War II having been an English teacher and librarian. Allentown School District, at its 100th anniversary dinner in 1966, honored her as its oldest former teacher, and Gov. William Scranton gave her a service-to-youth plaque.

Miss Hahn recalled that when she went to Allentown in 1897, they "kept telling me I couldn't teach in Allentown because I couldn't speak Dutch." She admitted, "I could speak Dutch, but I thought it more important that the children learned English."

She was graduated from Bloomsburg Normal School (now college) and received a degree at Muhlenberg College.

Miss Hahn's first teaching job was in a one-room schoolhouse at Zion Grove in 1893. Normally, she recalled, the class numbered 20-25, but after harvest on the farms it would swell to 50-60.

"I was strict. I was very strict, but I never had to strike them," she recalled of her early pupils. "I guess it was my voice used to scare them."

One of her students at Allentown, was Gustave W. Weber, who rose to become president of Susquehanna University.

Mrs. Mildred (Fornwald) Amey

Mrs. Mildred F. Amey, sixty-five, Sunbury, former Bloomsburg resident, died August 27 in the Geisinger

Medical Center following a lengthy illness.

She was born in Bloomsburg January 12, 1903, a daughter of the late George (Pop) and Crissie M. Foley Fornwald and was a well-known retired teacher in the Shikellamy school system.

One of the originators of the kindergarten program, she taught for nineteen years in the various elementary schools in Sunbury.

She was an active member of St. John's Methodist Church, Sunbury, serving on the education board, and also taught a Sunday School class in the church. She was a member of the National Retired Teachers' Association; National Education Association; Pennsylvania State Education Association; Shikellamy chapter of PSEA; and Mary Derr Rockefeller Auxiliary of Sunbury Community Hospital.

Mary Elliott Jones '27

Mary Elliott Jones, 632 North Main Avenue, Scranton, Pa., died in the Moses Taylor Hospital, Scranton, on March 17. She was the science and mathematics consultant in the public schools of Tenaflly, N. J.

Born in the city of Scranton, Miss Jones was a daughter of the late Professor and Mrs. John T. Jones, both of whom had been graduated from Bloomsburg Normal School in 1888. She received her early education in the Scranton Public Schools and was the salutatorian of her class in Central High School of that city. She was graduated from Bloomsburg State Teachers College and later received her Bachelor of Science degree in the field of elementary school science at Columbia University. She also received her Master of Arts degree in the field of secondary school science from Columbia and was later granted a professional diploma by Teachers' College, Columbia University, in recognition of further advanced work in the field of sciences.

Prior to her position as science consultant in the Tenaflly Public Schools, Miss Jones taught in the Scranton Public Schools and later in the public schools of Montgomery County, Maryland. As a teacher in the Scranton schools she was especially recognized for her innovation of a modern science program in the second grade of Charles Sumner School of West Scranton. More recently she has received recognition as an author of scientific studies and as a speaker at conventions of science educators. She has currently served as chairman of the elementary division of the New Jersey Science Teachers Association and was an active member of the Tenaflly Nature Center.

She was a member of the National Educational Association, the National Science Teachers' Association, the National Science Supervisors' Association, the American Museum of Natural History, the National Council of Teachers of Mathematics, the Scranton City Chapter of the Daughters of the American Revolution and the Trinity Congregational Church of Scranton.

Over one hundred books and other materials from the personal library of Miss Jones have been donated by surviving members of the family to the Andruss Library of Bloomsburg State College.

A copy was also received of Miss Jones's "Study of the Possible Learnings Resulting from Science Experimentation by a Class of First Grade Children," reprinted from Science Education, October, 1959.

This outstanding collection of books was donated by surviving sisters of Miss Jones who are also graduates of Bloomsburg State College. They are: Martha Y. Jones, class of 1922, Margaret J. Jones, class of 1924, and Dorothy K. (Jones) Chase, class of 1931. After receiving their degrees at Bloomsburg State, all of the sisters attended Teachers College, Columbia University. This outstanding family of BSC graduates certainly should stimulate present day students at BSC to "keep up with the Joneses."

According to James B. Watts, Director of Library Services, after the books are processed and available for use in the library, they should serve as tangible evidence of the meaningful continuity of the educational process from one generation to the next.

Edwin M. Vastine '43

Edwin Mettler Vastine, Bloomsburg R. D. 2, died while coaching junior high intramural football at Danville on October 7.

Born in Danville, March 13, 1922, he was a son of the late H. Spencer and Sara Mettler Vastine. He attended Rush Township public schools and graduated from Danville High School in 1939. He earned his Bachelor of Science degree at BSC and his Master of Science degree at Bucknell University.

After completing three years in the Army Air Force, he began his public school teaching career in 1946. During World War II he was a pilot, flying cargo in the China-Burma-India theatre of war.

He was a member of Danville Elks and American Legion, and was assistant football coach at Danville High School. He also coached the Giants of the 6, 7 and 8 grades at junior high school.

At the time of his death he was guidance counselor at the Danville Junior High School, and was a life-long member of the Grove Presbyterian Church.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Hagenbaugh (Linda Chilson) are living at 42 Michael Place, Orangewood Park Apartments, Levittown, Pa.

Edward Hippensteel, an outstanding penman and teacher and graduate of the Bloomsburg Normal School, now Bloomsburg State College, in 1911, has presented two handwriting portfolios to the Bloomsburg State College library.

The two portfolios, containing the history and examples of handwriting from both oriental and western culture, were purchased by Hippensteel in 1925. These "classics" will be available as reference material to Bloomsburg State College students.

After graduating from BSC, Hippensteel taught at the Scranton Business College, before serving in World War I. Following the conflict, he taught at Atlantic City High School for forty-six years before his retirement.

In addition to teaching commercial subjects in handwriting at that eastern seaboard city, he served as swimming coach and directed Atlantic City to three international scholastic championships.

Hippensteel, who resides in Orlando, Fla., is the current president of the International Association of Master Penmen and Teachers of Handwriting.

LOYALTY FUND--THIRD YEAR

As a result of the loyalty of the Alumni, the amount contributed during the first two years of the Loyalty Fund Campaign was $20,382.70. Your Board of Directors had set $15,000 as the goal for the second year — a goal which was not achieved. The goal for the third year is still $15,000. If those who have not yet contributed will join with us, and if those who have been contributing continue their good work, we can easily reach the goal this year.

The money received during the second year made possible the granting of six scholarships, the broadcasting of athletic events, and lettering to be placed on the new buildings. An oil portrait of Dr. Francis B. Haas will be placed in the new Haas Auditorium. Funds have also been set aside to provide for the installation of an FM radio station on campus. Also, a tree-planting project is underway, to provide for the planting of trees and shrubery where new buildings have been completed.

The first $2.00 contributed by a graduate in any one year will entitle the graduate to full membership privileges in the Alumni Association for one year; any amount in excess of the $2.00 will be put into the Loyalty Fund for projects approved by the Board of Directors.

Active members of the Alumni Association will be admitted free to the Alumni Luncheon on Alumni Day, on presentation of their paid-up membership card.

Please make your checks payable to the B.S.C. Alumni Association and return with the coupon below. Your contribution will be acknowledged.

Sincerely yours,

Howard F. Fenstemaker
