

Alumni fund drive goes over the top of the goal

Overwhelming response

by Millard C. Ludwig
Alumni Association President

When your Board of Directors first discussed the possibility of the 1974-75 Alumni Fund Drive, there were those among us who had doubts about its success and felt it could not be done; however, everyone was willing to give it his best effort. Our apprehensions were based on false assumptions that alumni of State-supported colleges do not contribute to alumni activities, and since the College is funded by the State, no other funds are needed. That assumption may be correct for some colleges, but we soon learned that Bloomsburg graduates were concerned and wanted their Alumni Association to support various projects for which State funds were inadequate or unavailable.

The response to our appeal was immediate and overwhelming. What we felt would 18 months to achieve was accomplished in 12. It is further gratifying to know that 90 per cent of all pledges have been paid in full. Your Association has already undertaken many of the project promised in the Fund Drive. The architect for Campus Beautification has submitted his plans and the Association has paid $3000 toward his fee. We have another $8000 for trees to be planted this winter and early next spring. Other projects include increased communication with alumni members, recognition and awards to outstanding alumni, local club programs, a search for "lost" members and updating names, addresses, and mailing lists. You will help us in the latter by supplying information which we can use to correct our files.

To all our alumni, friends, and corporations who made gifts to the BSC Alumni Fund in 1974-75, I offer my sincere thanks. I can assure you that the funds will be used wisely and that you can be proud of the work of your Association in support of Bloomsburg State College.

Bloomsburg gratified by direct alumni support

Tribute to alumni leadership

by James H. McCormick
President, Bloomsburg State College

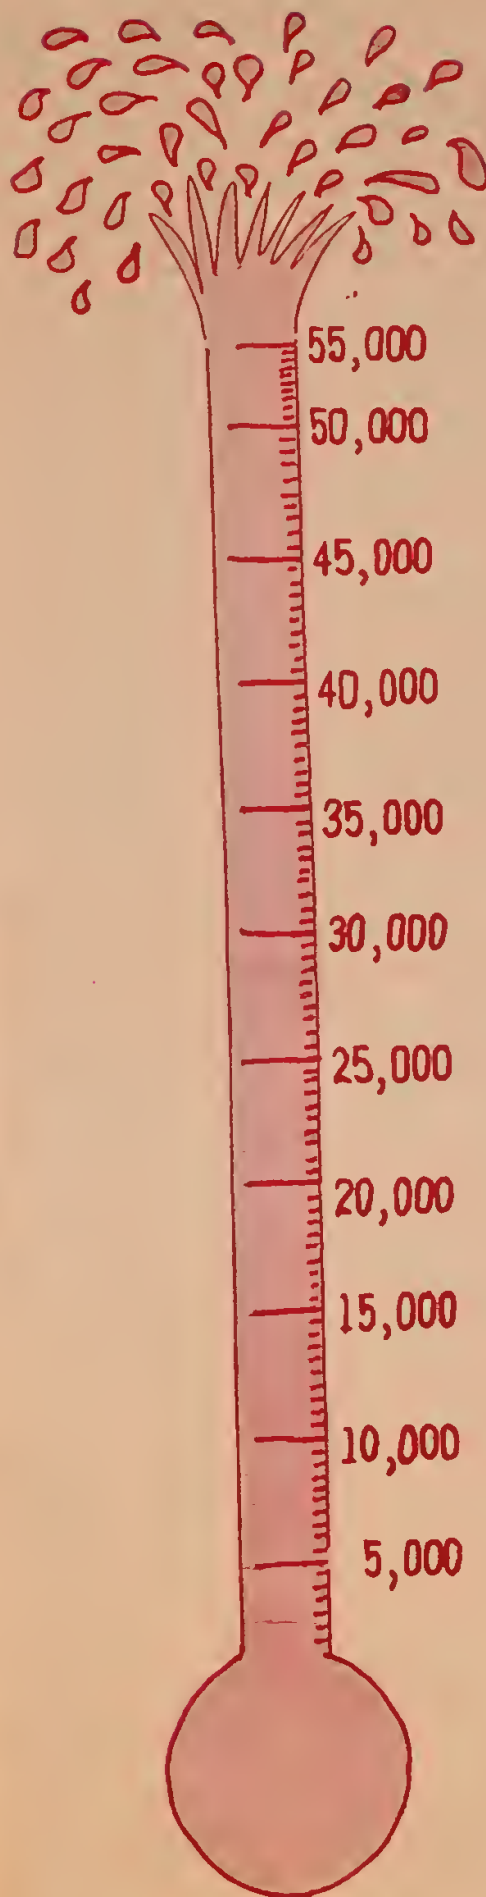

The successful completion of the 1974-75 Alumni Fund Drive in 12 months is a tribute to the leadership of the Bloomsburg State College Alumni Association and to the loyalty of its members. It is gratifying to have such a direct expression of support from our graduate, and it is an assurance that you are proud of your Alma Mater and proud to be counted among her alumni. I am confident it will be the beginning of an annual giving program that will involve an increasing number of alumni.

On behalf of the students, the faculty and staff, the administration, and the Board of Trustees, I thank all who participated in this team effort. Special recognition is due to the Honorary Chairman, Dr. Harvey Andruss, President Emeritus; Howard Fenstermaker '12, General Chairman; Charles Henrie '38, Alumni Assoc.

On behalf of the students, the faculty and staff, the administration, and the Board of Trustees, I thank all who participated in this team effort. Special recognition is due to the Honorary Chairman, Dr. Harvey A. Andruss, President Emeritus; Howard Fenstermaker '12, General Chairman; Charles Henrie '38, Special Gifts Chairman; Dr. Richard Wolfe '60, BSC Family Gifts Chairman; Dr. C. Stuart Edwards '41, General Alumni Chairman; Millard Ludwig '48, Alumni Association President and Chairman of Board of Gifts; and Mrs. Betty Levan, who handled the records, duplicating, and mailing.

It is appropriate to note that, in addition to providing needed financial support, our alumni have been actively involved in other areas of college concerns. Alumni have participated enthusiastically in our long-range planning efforts, work that is already achieving excellent results in strengthening existing academic programs and in establishing new programs. Graduates have assisted our admissions efforts by encouraging potential students to take a look at Bloomsburg.

Your interest and help makes a difference.

Will your company match your gift?

Donald Watts, Executive Director of the Alumni Association, watches as Mrs. Nancy Dersham, area representative of Aetna Life & Casualty Co. presents check to Dr. Charles Carlson, Dean of Graduate Studies. The company matched a $300 gift made by a BSC alumnus who is affiliated with Aetna. More than 700 corporations and business concerns will match gifts made to colleges or alumni associations by their employees. Some even double or triple the amount of the employee's gift.

Koslosky receives distinguished faculty award

Robert Koslosky, Assistant Professor of Art, is one of 21 state college professors awarded a total of $83,000 in prizes in recognition of their distinguished teaching or academic service by the Commonwealth and APSCUF as part of the collective bargaining agreement.

Professor Koslosky was one of nine professors awarded Distinguished Teaching Chairs and $3500. He previously had won $2500 when selected as one of two outstanding teaching professors at BSC.

The Distinguished Teaching Chair was granted Koslosky in recognition of his competencies in teaching art on many different levels ranging from the intellectually superior to the retarded child. His teaching philosophy is based on the theory that the visual image can be used, with the necessary verbal information, to give the student a means of quickly acquiring knowledge. The art experience is used as input rather than the output so frequently associated with art activity. For those students who, by circumstance or biology, are in need of intense perceptual or cognitive activity, art can be the means to becoming a more complete human.

At BSC, Koslosky teaches the mass lecture in Introduction to Art, a class of 450 students. On this level a cultural, chronological sequence is used to explain our visual and cultural heritage. He also teaches the early and later European Art History courses which are in-depth, scholarly approaches to understanding the visual production of our civilization which may be painting, sculpture, architecture, or artifacts.

The area of his teaching which has attracted the most attention is the level of Art for Special Education. He has given talks on the national, state, and local levels and was a participant in two international seminars in Art and Human Behavior. He has been a visiting professor at four other college campuses on the graduate level to explain his theories and research.

Dr. Richard G. Anderson appointed consultant-panelist

Dr. Richard G. Anderson, Associate Professor of History at BSC, has received notification of his appointment as consultant-panelist for the National Endowment for the Humanities. His duties will involve occasional trips to Washington, D.C., where he will assist the Division of Education Programs in reviewing funding requests for higher education proposals in the humanities. He will serve on panels including educators from throughout the United States. This honor is made possible through a Federal Grant.

Long an advocate of the amalgamation of art, architecture, literature and music with historical studies, Dr. Anderson has employed interdisciplinary teaching concepts and has developed comparative approaches to the intercultural history of Europe and the Americas. As a former chairman of the BSC History Conference, he also recruited speakers who engaged in topics within the history-humanities area.

In addition, Dr. Anderson recently received notice of his inclusion within the Dictionary of International Biography (Cambridge, England), a source listing prominent individuals from most nations of the world.

Dr. Carlson & ACBIS

Dr. Charles Carlson, Dean of Graduate Studies, has been commissioned by Academic Collective Bargaining Information Services (ACBIS), Washington, D.C., to initiate a study of the effects of Collective Bargaining on college and university administration. According to ACBIS, "Much has been said about this matter but few definitive studies have been completed."

Dr. Carlson is a nationally recognized authority on collective bargaining in higher educational institutions. He served as college president when the first statewide contract with college faculties was implemented in Pennsylvania and later served as a member of the team which negotiated the second contract with the faculty union (APSCUF). Dr. Carlson's study will require approximately two years of research and writing.

Governor's Review, 1975:

BSC "smells like a rose"

An article in the Morning Press of Bloomsburg on Oct. 24 covered the release of the 1975 Governor's Review with a picture of red roses superimposed over the story. It was dramatic way of visually calling attention to the fact that BSC came through the Review, as the Press said, "smelling like a rose."

The Governor's Review, 1975, is a report prepared by 76 business and industry executives and managers after a four-month study of state agencies and their operation. There were 412 recommendations for improvement and potential annual savings of $359 million plus a one-time savings of $155 million.

The Review concentrated on higher education systems and other institutions. Each agency involved received detailed scrutiny with special attention to developing plans, strategies and accountabilities for implementation of those plans.

Although the Review gave three specific recommendations for BSC, it also gave favorable recognition to the college for having already instituted successful programs which are now being proposed for other institutions. All three are directly related to long-range planning and fiscal management.

The three recommendations which apply to BSC are (1) establish a branch of a local bank on campus; (2) that students be required to register all cars, that they be required to park on campus and a fee of $3 be levied on all registrants—both students and employees; (3) that the Commonwealth sell most of the undeveloped and unused land on the upper campus. The proposal to establish a branch of a local bank on campus was a request of the College three years ago with the request being denied. The other two recommendations will be studied by the College administration before any action is taken.

Miss Hazen and fountain

Many alumni will remember Miss Edna J. Hazen, former member of the BSC faculty and a Bloomsburg resident. She is now a resident of the Bethany Village Retirement Center, Mechanicsburg, Pa., and has given the Center a beautiful fountain to be known as the Hazen Memorial Fountain. It is located on the front campus of Bethany Village and was dedicated at an informal program on Oct. 4.

Campus chaplain to Nat'l Council

The Rev. William M. Richardson, Newman Chaplain at BSC, is one of eight clergymen added to the National Development Council advisory committee at Mt. Saint Mary's College, Emmitsburg, Md., according to the Harry J. Flynn, rector.

Rev. Richardson is a graduate of both St. Mary's College in Kentucky and of Mt. Saint Mary's Seminary, and was ordained in 1972.

Members of the development council, selected by the board of trustees, work to promote understanding and develop support for the college in public relations, student recruiting and finance. They serve in an advisory capacity concerning the overall development of the college.

Alumnus opens Wilkes Barre clinic

A new clinic for the diagnosis and treatment of communication disorders was recently established at 148 Franklin Street, Wilkes-Barre, by Mrs. Melinda Sorber Graham, a BSC graduate in the class of 1963. In addition to her B.S. degree from Bloomsburg, Mrs. Graham has an additional 30 graduate credits in communication disorders from BSC and a M.S. degree in education from Temple University. She is currently an assistant professor in the Department of Communication Disorders at BSC.

Mrs. Graham has two recent BSC graduate associates working with her. One is Linda B. Taub, a resident of Edwardsville who earned her B.A. degree in speech correction and fine arts from Elmira College and her M. Ed. from Bloomsburg in 1975. The other associate is Mrs. Elaine Zarutskie Golazewski, '73, (M. Ed. in 1974) who serves on a part-time basis. Mrs. Graham states that she has fulfilled a long-desired ambition and dream by opening the clinic. The facility has been designated a training site for BSC graduate students in speech pathology.

Bloss '26 publishes book

Marvin Bloss, Class of '26, a retired teacher and a justice of the peace in his hometown of Hobbie, Pa., has published a 52-page book on the History, Legend and Facts of Hobbie, the Switze, and the Dupont Powder Mills, plus the Memoirs of Marvin Bloss.

The book also tells of a proposal to form a new state in Pennsylvania. The proposal, favored by Connecticut settlers, would have named the new state West Moreland. It would have included land north of the junction of Nescopeck Creek and the Susquehanna River. However, the Yankee-Pennamite War settled the dispute in favor of Pennsylvania. The publication is sponsored by the St. James Lutheran Church of Hobbie and contains information about life in the early days in addition to area history.

Mr. Bloss is class representative for the Class of 1926, which will hold its 50th reunion on May 1, 1976.

'National' Convention to be held at BSC

On April 9 and 10, BSC will hold its third simulated national political election convention. Started in 1968, BSC has held two conventions, one Republican and the other Democratic. The purpose of the convention is to give students an opportunity to express their views on current issues through the adoption of a platform, and to nominate the persons they think are best qualified to campaign on the Democratic ticket for President and Vice President. This program is organized similar to the regular Democratic National Convention to be held this summer in New York City. The number of delegates to the BSC Convention will be 1500, which is one half the number of real delegates attending the national convention in New York.

Several distinguished speakers have been invited to attend this year. So far, Senator George McGovern, Democratic nominee for President in 1972, and Senator Lowell Weicker, a member of the Watergate Committee, have consented to appear. McGovern will speak on March 25 at 8 p.m. in Haas Center; Weicker will appear on Apr. 9 in Centennial Gymnasium.

As alumni, you might have had some experience in past BSC conventions. If you or your classes are interested in becoming involved in this Convention, there are still openings for delegations. A fee of $1.50 will be charged per delegate. This entitles each delegate to attend all events of the Convention plus nominating and voting for President and Vice President. If you wish further information, please write to Mr. James Percy, Simulated Democratic National Convention, Political Science Department on the BSC campus.

College receives $1,750 grant

Bloomsgurg State College has received a $1,750 direct grant under Eastman Kodak Company's 1975 Educational Aid Program.

BSC is among 113 four-year publicly supported colleges and universities receiving direct grants from the company this year. The grants are based on the number of graduates from these institutions who joined Kodak within five years after graduation and at $250 per year for each of the first five years with the company. This year, Kodak has awarded $273,250 in direct grants to four-year publicly supported institutions.

Bloomsgurg's $1750 grant was awarded on behalf of two 1970 graduates, Vincent Bianchi and Thomas J. Papaleo. Kodak contributed $1000 in the name of Bianchi for his four years with the company and $750 in the name of Papaleo, who has been with the company three years. The former obtained his degree in accounting and the latter in mathematics.

Dr. James H. McCormick, President of BSC, has indicated that the Kodak grant has been placed in the campus Landscaping account and will be matched by contributing funds from the Alumni Association and Community Government Association on the basis of $2 for every $1 of the grant. These funds will be used towards the current landscaping and beautification project which is about to get underway at the college. The Commonwealth does not have funds available for such projects.

Parent's Weekend held in November

Parents' Weekend on the BSC campus was held Nov. 8 and 9 with a variety of entertainment programs and information about the college offered.

Many departments opened Career Information Stations on Saturday morning in the Multipurpose room of Kehr Union. Parents were invited to learn what fields have the most career opportunities. In addition, each department had an open house where certain classrooms were open for inspection with faculty members on hand to answer questions.

Members of the Planning Commission informed a group of parents and students about the future educational programs and trends for BSC. Dr. Lee Hopple outlined the Commission's history and said that since its beginning in 1973, this was the first attempt to involve parents. Dr. Dayton Pickell discussed the nine program areas of instruction at BSC and stressed new areas such as the nursing program.

One part of the entertainment was a musical concert in Haas Auditorium by the Columbia-Montour Barbershoppers. There was also a Nightclub Show in Kehr Union with candlelight and refreshments and followed by a magic show presented by Josef Smiley and Co. Maynard McKossick and his Orchestra provided music for dancing.

The Weekend was brought to a close on Sunday afternoon with a piano recital by Donna Kroh in Haas Auditorium.

Nursing Department given Nightengale's signature

Ms. Alice Herman, assistant professor of Nursing at BSC, is shown presenting President James H. McCormick with a framed picture, biography and authenticated signatures of Florence Nightengale, the first lady of nursing, as Dr. C. Stuard Edwards, Dean of the School of Professional Studies, looks on. The signatures on partial manuscript, one of which dates back to 1888, were obtained by Mrs. Robert Vanderslice and given as a gift to her sister, Ms. Herman. The signatures come from the Kenneth Randall Galleries of Newton, Mass., which has one of the largest and most diverse stocks of autographs and manuscripts in the world. The picture and signatures will hang on the wall of the Department of Nursing headquarters on Lightstreet Road. Mrs. Vanderslice received both her B.S. and M.A. degrees at BSC and another sister, Stella McCleary, is also a BSC graduate.

Double exposure: history grad students honored

The graduate program in the Department of History received two accolades when one graduate received national recognition for his thesis and a current student received a $400 D.A.C. history award.

Patrick M. Lynch, a native of Mifflinville and a graduate of BSC in 1968 (M.A. '75), had his thesis reviewed in a national journal by one of the country's foremost scholars. Fred Thompson discussed the thesis, "Anthracite: A Forgotten IWW Venture, 1906-1916," in a lengthy and descriptive article in the September issue of Industrial Worker. In view of the fact that very few theses or dissertations ever see the light of publication, it is a double honor to Mr. Lynch and the BSC graduate history program to have a thesis reviewed by such a well known scholar. Indeed, the significance of what Mr. Lynch did is best illustrated by the opening paragraph of Mr. Thompson's review which follows:

"Hard-coal miners tried to improve their lot through the Industrial Workers of the World (IWW) in the years before World War I. So did their children who worked in the silk mills of Hazleton, Pennsylvania in 1913. This story, a story neglected in all the history books, including the IWW's own account, is the subject of a master's thesis by Patrick M. Lynch, 'Pennsylvania Anthracite: A Forgotten IWW Venture, 1906-1916' (Bloomington State College, October 1974, 165 pages)

According to Dr. James Sperry, Thesis Director of the program, Mr. Lynch did far more than was expected of a graduate student as he worked in the Archives of Washington, D.C., traveled to Wayne State University, as well as to most anthracite towns in North East Pennsylvania to pursue his project; however, the bulk of his research was done at BSC. This indicates the great wealth of research materials available on campus for interested scholars.

Mr. Lynch is employed by the Allegheny Public Schools and is enrolled in the University of Pittsburgh Graduate Program, pursuing his Doctor of Philosophy degree in labor history. In order to enter the program, Mr. Lynch had to submit his thesis for examination by the University History Graduate Committee. His present address is Hillvue Lane, Carson, Pittsburgh, Pa. 15237.

Hampton receives award

Patrick Hampton, graduate student in History at BSC, was the recipient of a $400 Pennsylvania State History Award from the State Society of Daughters of the American Colonists. The presentation was made by Mrs. Miller I. Buck, Regent Miquan Chapter D.A.C. and Mrs. John Carl Foster, Jr., State Regent, York, during a luncheon meetings of the chapter at Hotel Berwick on Saturday, Nov. 15. The award was originated in 1959 by Mrs. Robert Jones, State Regent at that time, in memory of her father. Due to other financial needs by D.A.C. the award lapsed for several years until 1974 when David Henry Miller, a graduate student at Millerstown State College, was the recipient.

In accepting the award, Mr. Hampton spoke of ten years of teaching and stated that he was seeking advanced training in history because he felt that history was being downgraded in the schools. He also remarked that he liked the individual attention given graduate students at Bloomington, an ingredient which he found missing at a larger university he previously attended.

Mr. Hampton, a native of Williamsport, received his Bachelor of Arts degree from Lycoming College in 1964 with a major in history and a minor in English. He has taught in the Anne Arundel County Schools for the ten years before entering the graduate program at BSC in 1974. He was appointed graduate assistant in 1975. His area of interest is colonial American history and European history of the comparable period. Mr. Hampton is researching a thesis on "Aspects of American-Century."

Guests at the luncheon honoring Mr. Hampton included Mrs. Foster, Mrs. Robert Wheeler, members of State Historical Award Committee, Dr. Charles Carlson, Dean of the Graduate Studies at BSC and Dr. James Sperry, professor of history and advisor for Mr. Hampton.

The honors received by Mr. Lynch and Mr. Hampton speak well of the quality programs offered in the graduate studies by the History Department.

Patrick Lynch, whose graduate thesis on Anthracite history was awarded national recognition in the September issue of The Industrial Worker.

Woznek co-authors WWII book

A copy of the book Flying Combat Aircraft is now in the BSC library and has been attracting much attention. Dr. William Woznek, Associate Professor of Elementary Education, is one of 20 former fliers who are authors of the volume.

Dr. Woznek, who began flying at age 16, piloted both C-47's and C-46 Commandos in the Pacific theatre of operations. He was awarded 21 citations, the Distinguished Flying Cross and three Air Medals for his work in the South Pacific. He was at Port Moresby for a while and was later stationed at Biak Island, Dutch New Guinea. He said the cargoes of his planes had been war materials, jeeps and "everything imaginable" for delivery to the combat areas with wounded or dead servicemen often carried on the return trips.

According to Dr. Woznek, he and his fellow fliers had liked the C-47's and at first were unhappy when they were replaced with the C-46 Commandoes. Later they realized the Commandoes were excellent planes. One experience which helped Dr. Woznek gain respect for the new plane was when a cylinder in one engine blew out immediately after taking off with a full cargo of fuel, a truck and miscellaneous materials—well above the "legal limit"—and he was able to get back to the strip and make a safe landing.

Unfortunately, very little training in the new planes was provided by the "brass." Although the plane was much different than its predecessor, Dr. Woznek received only two hours instruction in the replacement craft. "Two touch-and-go landings and an engine-out procedure were given each pilot and that was considered sufficient."

Dr. Woznek's interest in flying is reflected in his membership in the Quiet Birdmen (Syracuse Hangar) and the Silver Wings. An inner ear condition now prevents him from piloting a plane, but he still loves to fly with others.

BSC profs on Hispanic Conference program

Dr. A.F. Murphy, Chairman, Foreign Language Department, and Dr. A.E. Tonolo were speakers at the Hispanic Language and Literature Conference at Indiana University of Pennsylvania on Friday, October 24. Dr. Murphy's topic on Latin American Literature was "The Microcuento of Enrique A. Imbert" while Dr. Tonolo's topic on Peninsular Literature was "Angel Ganivet, 110 Anniversary."

Vannan article is published

Dr. Donald A. Vannan, a professor at BSC, had a science education article published in the November issue of "Instructor," a monthly publication for teachers in elementary and middle schools.

The article, "Planes, Wings, and Things," deals with strategies which can be used by the teacher in elementary science units on aviation and space travel, as well as middle school teachers in basic science applications in related units of work.

Concepts and demonstrations which stressed in the article are: the propeller-screw demonstrator, wing-air travel demonstrator, vertical and horizontal stabilizers, aileron-bank demonstrator, wind-tunnel effect demonstrator, wing lift gauge demonstrator, propeller thrust demonstrator, and related activities.

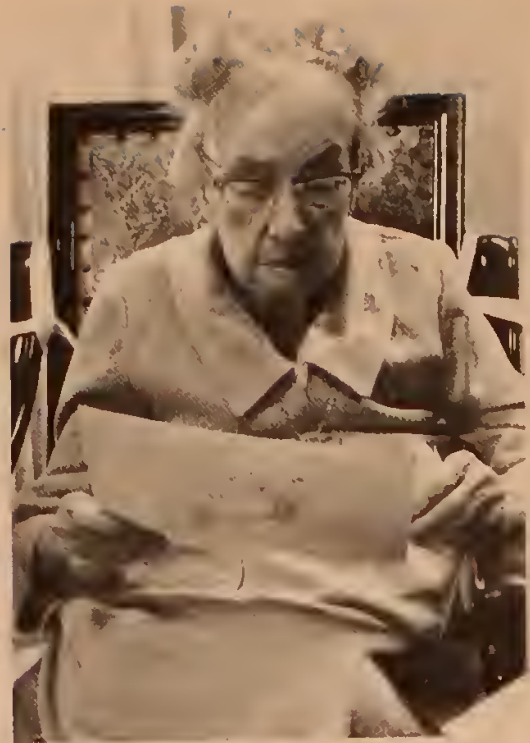

Not only library research went into the article project but also Dr. Vannan's first-hand experience with model airplane flying, flights in commercial jet airplanes, small Piper Cub-type aircraft, and a helicopter ride. As is the case with most of the strategy articles, materials for the demonstrations are inexpensive and easily obtained in the community.

Louis Hunsinger '79 interviews Mrs. Mary Scott '95.

A resident of Buffalo Valley home, Mrs. Mary Scott '95 celebrated her 100th birthday in October.

Mrs. Scott's Centennial

EDITOR'S NOTE: Your Executive Director invited representatives of "The Campus Voice" (BSC student newspaper) to accompany him on a visit with Mrs. Mary Scott '95. The visit followed the observance of Mrs. Scott's 100th birthday and provided an opportunity for the Alumni Association to honor her with small gifts of candy and flowers. The following article was written by Mark Mullen '77 and Louis Hunsinger '79.

(Photographs are by Wayne Palmer '78.)

Eighty years ago a twenty-year-old girl named Marie Mary Ferguson, now Mrs. Mary Scott, graduated from the Bloomsburg State Normal School. In 1895 she walked among men whose names are now honored by campus buildings: Dean Sutliff, Henry Carver and Judge Elwell.

Mrs. Scott has fond but hazy memories of "the school on the hill." A small Normal School nestled in the Susquehanna Valley among mills, dusty streets, livery stables, and general stores; such was the Bloomsburg of the 1890's.

A daughter of a Methodist minister who served as a chaplain in the Civil War, Mrs. Scott learned the teaching profession on a different campus and under extremely different standards. "It was very, very strict back then... you couldn't get away with just anything!" she recalls. Student life then was quite regimented and professors were revered for their knowledge and respected for their positions. During the administration of Grover Cleveland, higher education was for the fortunate few.

Mrs. Scott recalls little of her three years at Bloomsburg.

During class hours things were pretty much the same as they are today, but the evening hours were extremely different. When asked about what she remembers of the night life in Bloomsburg, Mrs. Scott commented with a grin, "Well, I wasn't supposed to know about those things!" She continued, "...they were very strict about things like that... you weren't to be out after dark."

Mrs. Scott is very up on the times. She thinks today's young people are "just great." She is in reasonably good health, wheeling herself to meals in a wheelchair she has needed since breaking a hip three years ago.

Mrs. Scott enjoys watching television but is very selective in her viewing. Her favorite activity is conversation; she enjoys talking about her travels, the past, and many other subjects.

At present Mrs. Scott is a resident of the Buffalo Valley Lutheran Village in Lewisburg, where she has lived since January, 1970. She was born in Lewistown, Pennsylvania Oct. 26, 1875, and is the daughter of the Reverend and Mrs. William G. Ferguson. Her late husband, George, who served as President of the First National Bank of Mt. Carmel, died twenty years ago.

Mrs. Scott is possibly the oldest living alumna of what is presently called Bloomsburg State College. In this year of the Bicentennial and generally increased historic awareness, she is of particular significance to the college and its contemporaries. She celebrated her centennial on Oct. 26 with a reception and party in her honor. Family members who attended the reception include her son and daughter-in-law from Maryland, four grandsons, one granddaughter, and four nephews from New Jersey. She received birthday greetings from such notables as President Gerald Ford and Governor Milton Shapp.

Mrs. Scott has lived a full life, a hundred year's worth. Although she never took advantage of her teacher training, she feels that education is extremely important. She has watched this country grow and expand. She has the unique capacity for looking upon the present as an improvement on the past... oh! may we all be so fortunate.

A WOMAN'S

Eileen Albertson: A Marine Corps career

Lawyer, Prosecutor, Judge, Distinguished Woman of 1974, and Marine Corps Captain are but a few of the experiences of Eileen Albertson, a 1967 BSC graduate (M. Ed. 1969).

This unusual and fascinating career had its beginning about the time Eileen was in seventh grade. "At that time I had the idea that I wanted to be a lawyer," she said, "but I've always been sort of intrigued by the military. So, I decided that it might be a good idea to combine the two into one career."

Eileen enlisted in the Marine Corps during her Junior year at BSC where she was a History major, and was commissioned a Second Lieutenant upon receiving her B.S. degree. She remained on inactive duty the next three years, earning her M. Ed. in History at Bloomsburg in 1969, and a Law Degree from Marshall-Wythe School of Law at William and Mary in 1970. After graduation from Law School and admission to the Virginia Bar, Eileen was ordered to active duty and assigned to Woman Officer Basic School, Marine Corps Base, Quantico, Virginia. Since she had been commissioned a Second Lieutenant upon graduation and was promoted during Law School, she attended WOBC as a First Lieutenant.

Following graduation from Quantico, Lieutenant Albertson spent ten weeks at Naval Justice School in Newport, Rhode Island, where she graduated in December, 1970 and was certified a Judge Advocate in the U. S. Marine Corps. After Newport and a six-month assignment to the Office of the Staff Judge Advocate at Quantico, Eileen was transferred to Camp Smedley D. Butler, Okinawa, where she served a 14-month tour as Foreign Claims Commissioner, Claim Officer, and Trial Counsel (Government Prosecutor). The three assignments were served concurrently.

Eileen's duties as Foreign Commissioner for the Marine Corps in Okinawa dealt with the receipt for, investigation, adjudication and settlement of all claims submitted by foreign nationals against the United States for any incident resulting in damage to property, personal injury, or death due to negligence of a Marine or the Marine Corps. The job entailed responsibility for the administration of approximately one million dollars in claims for which settlements were made for about one-half million dollars.

When Okinawa reverted to Japan on May 15, 1973, the now Captain Albertson became a Liaison between the Marine Corps and the Claims Department of the Government of Japan. In addition, she was designated an official observer for Japanese Courts by the U. S. Ambassador to Japan. This permitted her to represent the United States officially in any court proceedings wherein a U. S. Marine was undergoing criminal action, thus ensuring that the Marine received his full rights under the laws of Japan and the Status of Forces Agreement.

Captain Albertson's Okinawa assignment was followed by a nine-month career course at the United States Army Judge Advocate General's School in Charlottesville, Virginia. The JAG School is a Master's level program with a thesis and orals required. Eileen's thesis was "The Reversion of Okinawa: Its Effect on the International Law of Sovereignty Over Territory."

Next came duty at the Marine Corps Base, Camp Lejeune, North Carolina, as a Trial Counsel. In December, 1973, Eileen was certified as a Military Judge: the second woman in the history of the Marine Corps to be so certified and the first woman to actually serve as the Presiding Judge of Special Courts-Martial; the other person was certified but never served as a Judge. As a Trial Counsel and as Defense Counsel, Eileen dealt with offenses involving unauthorized absence (the single most prevalent offense in any branch of the Service), larceny, robbery, assault, murder, and sex offenses. Before becoming a Judge, she had either tried or defended approximately 500 special courts-martial cases, 50 general courts-martial and 100 Administrative Discharge Boards.

On July 1, 1974 the Commandant of the Marine Corps established a Special Courts-Martial Judicial Activity which removed Military Judges from the authority of Base or Unit Commands, and as of that date

Eileen Albertson

Eileen became Senior Military Judge of the Tri-Command at Camp LeJeune. In that capacity she supervised trial cases for the Marine Base, Force Troop, FMF, Atlantic and Second Marine Division.

On September 1, 1975, after more than 250 Courts-Martials, her assignment as a fulltime Military Judge ended and she became Military Justice Officer for Marine Corps Base, Camp LeJeune. This assignment has a wide variety of duties, including the supervision of trial and defense counsel preparations for trial, research for Staff Judge Advocate (The Commanding General's Legal Advisor) in such areas as racial discrimination, maritime problems, contracts, community relations, and Federal Magistrates' Court. By this time, the Marine Corps had six women lawyers and Eileen had been selected for promotion to Major.

Not everything has been military in Eileen's life. In 1970 she received the William and Mary, Marshall-Wythe School of Law "Moot Competition Award" and the "Leadership Award" from Woman Officer School, Quantico. In 1974 she was named North Carolina's "Outstanding Young Woman of the Year." Her biography and a record of her accomplishments appear in the 1974 Awards Volume of "Outstanding Young Women of America."

What advice does this Bloomsburg native have for young women who are thinking of careers in law or the military? In Eileen's own words: "I believe that, for a woman, or any person, practicing law in the Marine Corps, or any branch of service, is an opportunity that should not be passed over lightly, particularly if she desires trial experience. From my own personal experience, I have found I have been treated as a professional, have received my share of the office burden, have been given equal responsibility with my male counterparts, and have been treated with the utmost respect."

"A woman in the military and particularly a woman lawyer is treated for what she is; if she's a professional, then she's treated as a professional; if she's not a professional, she's not treated as a professional. There are a few, of course, who believe (1) women shouldn't be lawyers and, (2) women shouldn't be in the Marine Corps; but I have found them to be few and far between, and even those have been generally cooperative in my dealings with them. Like civilian life, there are questions concerning women in the field and their ability to handle a situation. However, if you stand on merit and not your sex, those questions that do pop up are generally answered favorably. After talking to my colleagues I find that they like women lawyers in the office. Women provide them with a different perspective on cases and, of course, make a distinct change in the all male atmosphere."

"I have thoroughly enjoyed my years with the U.S. Marine Corps and have been particularly impressed with the professionalism among its young lawyers, most of whom, unfortunately, are not career oriented. You should note that a Marine Corps lawyer is a biprofessional who is faced with the challenge of integrating what in today's society appears to be two diametrically opposed Philosophies in regards to the rights of individuals, i.e., democratic versus autocratic. However, the philosophies are not that divergent because the lawyer in the civilian world is confronted with the rights of the individual citizen versus the rights of society as a whole; whereas the Marine lawyer is confronted with the rights of the individual Marine versus the rights of the Marine Corps and the accomplishment of its mission. The two can be reconciled and for the most part without much difficulty. This reconciliation is the goal of every Marine lawyer."

FAR AWAY PLACES

Carolyn Driedger '75 shows Dr. John A. Enman of the Geography Dept. some treasured mementos from her experiences in Nepal.

Overseas student teaching and "Partners of Americas"

Approximately 50 BSC students have completed their student teaching assignments in foreign countries during the past two and half years in a program coordinated by the Office of International Studies at the college.

Through his contacts with school officials in Latin America and Asia, Dr. Robert Miller, Director of International Studies, has made arrangements for students to teach in American schools in Nepal, India, Colombia, Ecuador and Brazil. The majority of these students have been assigned to Latin America. "Student response has been tremendously satisfying to the college administration," according to Dr. Miller. "The typical comments from returning students is 'This was the greatest experience of my life!'"

"Student teaching overseas offers the opportunity for students to complete their student teaching requirements while experiencing the benefits of traveling and living in another culture. They must deal with people who may well be different from those they have had contact with in their home communities and they are offered opportunities to grow beyond what a comparable situation here in the United States would offer," explains Dr. Miller. "BSC students have gone trekking in the Himalayas, visited the Taj Mahal, had dinner with the Ambassador to India, gone mountain climbing in Ecuador, alligator hunting on the head waters of the Amazon and enjoyed the beaches and market places of Brazil.

"Without exception, every student returning from his overseas assignment has indicated their desire to have another overseas living experience. For instance, five of last year's group are currently teaching in schools in as widely different cultures as there is represented in Ecuador, Bolivia, Brazil and Iran. One other student returned determined to pursue this line of work and is currently with the Peace Corps in Africa."

Students currently doing student teaching in overseas schools are Barbara Auchey and Leda Pope in Cali, Colombia; Susan Smith, Paula Hill, Lorraine Haupt, Debbie Chorba ba, Anne Lauck and Arla Billig in Quito, Ecuador; Deborah Stevens and Nancy Hurley in Recife, Brazil; and Beth Werkheiser and Beverly Fish in Salvador, Brazil.

John James '74, former all-Pennsylvania tackle and elementary education major while at Bloomsburg, is pictured in the 1975 Annual Report of Partners of the Americas. Partners of the Americas is a private nonprofit organization that promotes the economic, social and humanitarian development of the American hemisphere. It works by linking people in a state of the United States with a state, region or country of Latin America, i.e., Kansas-Paraguay or Pennsylvania-Brazil. Once joined in this "Partnership", they work together as volunteers on mutual self-help projects in agriculture, health, education, community development, rehabilitation, business and tourism, sports and cultural exchanges.

John did his student teaching in the American school outside Salvador, Bahia, Brazil. He is a member of the Pennsylvania and Bahia, Brazil "partnership" which is active in educational development. Three Pennsylvania planning specialists (Dr. Richard Wolfe and Dr. Robert Miller from BSC) went to Brazil last year to conduct intensive workshops for Brazilian teachers in method curriculum design and school administration. Several hundred school teachers benefitted from this training. Future exchanges to continue this work are planned.

Carolyn Driedger, '75:

Student teaching in Kathmandu, capital of Nepal

Carolyn Driedger recently visited the campus and spoke to Dr. Enman's geography students about her trek to the Himalayas. We asked that she share her experience in Nepal with our readers. Here is her letter, followed by her story:

Dear Mr. Watts,

"Enclosed is the article concerning my student teaching experience in the country of Nepal I hope you and others will find it interesting and informative.

"Thank you for the opportunity to tell others of this true adventure. Each time I write or talk of Nepal, fond memories return and I seem to live parts of the experience once again."

by Carolyn Driedger

Most college seniors find their student teaching experience a hurried transition into the world of planning classes, marking papers, and developing rapport in classes. However, last January four BSC seniors found these matters secondary to other concerns as they boarded a 747 Jumbo jet for the Himalayan mountain kingdom of Nepal. Our concerns were those basic to our existence in a less developed country halfway around the world! Where would we stay between January and May? Would the students speak English?

Concerns heightened as we stepped off our jet in warm, pre-dawn New Delhi, India. All around us were strange sights and smells, such as sacred cows, burning cow manure, and masses of people everywhere. We out of place with our suitcases of winter clothes and books on "educational objectives." Six days were spent touring India, spending nights on "Common Class" trains and days at numerous attractions in that country.

A flight north eventually lead us to the American School in Kathmandu, capital of tiny, landlocked Nepal. Others taking part in the special student teaching program were Sue Worley, Jane Bihler and Dale Alexander. After a week of travel in India, each of us was more than ready to be placed in the homes of American families living in the city. My first night in a new home, I welcomed a warm meal of Water Buffalo liver on rice!

The ensuing four months bear tales not unlike many of "stateside" student teachers. We planned classes, marked papers, and thoroughly enjoyed getting to know the students of Lincoln School. Our students were son and daughters of employees from twenty different countries. Their parents were employed by government agencies and airlines, as well as by the U.N. and other World organizations.

Most students knew English quite well, though tutoring was necessary for many. Learning English seemed easy for a large number of students as close friendships require a common language. Our school supplies were limited, but satisfactory for most purposes. Limitations did breed creativity which may not have surfaced otherwise. Our small classes (between 15 and pupils) allowed us to become more familiar with each child and to use individualized instruction often.

One of our greatest problems in student teaching was the distraction from school work by the exotic world around us. Visiting Buddhist temples and bicycling in the city bazaar gave us a better understanding of the people with whom we were living. Gracious friends from the city showed us around and helped us learn a great deal about Nepali culture. The coronation of Nepal's new king was a colorful, extra attraction during our stay in the country.

For three months I looked longingly at the Himalayan giants from my science room window. By Easter vacation, several students, Dale and I were ready to take a closer look at the mountains. We flew to a small village in Eastern Nepal and hired a Sherpa guide, cook, and porters to carry our food. We obtained our goal of hiking about 45 miles to and from a small peak, Kala Patar, at the base of Mt. Everest. Those two weeks were a real thrill with tired legs, indescribable mountain beauty, and hushed fireside talks of the ever elusive Yeti.

We returned to the U.S. in early May for graduation ceremonies. However, at least to this one of the four, it seems that graduation occurred twice! I graduated not only from college, but from a limited to a more open state of mind.

"Memories" needed for BSC archives

As you face the new year and the prospect of spring house cleaning, won't you keep your alma mater in mind?

James Watts, college archivist, is anxious to add to the growing collection of "BSC memories" which is currently being housed in Science Center, Room 25. Mr. Watts suggests that if you are "seeking a final resting place for treasured memories," the college archives is the place to consider.

He is particularly anxious to collect memorabilia from the class of 1926 for use during the 50th Reunion this spring. Suggestions include copies of the Obiter, dance programs, letters or other correspondence of interest, photographs, etc. Mr. Watts is also interested in the whereabouts (currently unknown) of a pair of large brass eagles, a gift of the class of 1922, which once graced the entrance to "senior walk." Return of these eagles would be a boon to the archives.

All contributions to the college archives will be gratefully accepted and acknowledged accordingly. Items should be sent to Mr. James Watts, Archives, Room 25, Hartline Science Center for cataloging.

Head football coach resigns Husky squad

Dr. Conrad A. Bautz, chairman of the Department of Health, Physical Education and Athletics at BSC, announced in November that Bill Sproule has asked to be relieved of his assignment as head football coach.

Sproule, head coach for the past five years, will continue to serve on the college faculty as a member of the Health, Physical Education and Athletics Department.

A committee has been appointed to receive and review applications for the assignment as head football coach. Dr. Bautz said that because there are no faculty positions open at this time, the assignment will be filled from within the present faculty or staff of the college.

"My request is made in the interest of the college, the athletes, the department and the football team," Coach Sproule said. "Possibly someone else can turn the program around. The athletes, college and community deserve an opportunity for this to happen."

The Huskies completed the 1975 season with a 1-8 record. In his five years at the helm of the Huskies, Sproule compiled a 15-30-1 record.

Two BSC students enjoy some time off in a booth of Kehr Union's Snack Bar area.

Credibility

The fall issue of the Alumni Quarterly had two omissions which we wish to correct. In the list of honors for the spring convocation the name of Mrs. Boyles Blaker should have been listed as the recipient of the English Department's Award for Outstanding Achievement in the discipline of English. Also under the topic of New Faculty and Staff Appointments, the name of Timothy Wagner '74 was omitted. Tim is Supervisor of the Games Room, Kehr College Union, and has held position since March, 1975.

In a recent letter from Dr. W. Kenneth Riland he states: "My father, H. Walter Riland, a 1903 graduate of Bloomsburg who is now hale and hardy and will celebrate his 94th birthday in February, recently discovered athletic team pictures dating from 1902 and 1903."

"There is a football team picture of 1902, which team, I understand, was rather outstanding, having played the University of Pennsylvania and the Carlisle Indians."

"The point of this letter is to inquire if the school would like to have these pictures to add to your collection."

SCIENCE HALL — 1926

Salute to class of 1926 on Alumni Day agenda

Alumni Day — a time for reliving the experiences and renewing the friendships of the years spent at Bloomsburg.

Although all alumni are cordially invited to return to their Alma Mater on April 30 - May 1, members of the Class of 1926 — the 50-Year Class — are especially urged to come back to the place they knew as the Bloomsburg State Normal School.

Members of the class will be honored guests of the Alumni Association at a banquet in Scranton Commons at 7 p.m. on Friday, April 30.

Reminiscing

Whether one graduated from Bloomsburg in 1905 or 1975, Alumni Day — with its class meetings and social events — provides the setting for reminiscing. It's a time for paging through that sometimes forgotten yearbook to share one's memories.

A look at the Obliter produced by the Class of 1926 does much to recreate life at B.S.N.S. in that year. Not only does the yearbook help to bring memories into focus for members of the class, it reveals the tremendous changes that have altered not only the physical appearance of the campus but college life as well.

To share some of these memories with other alumni — especially those of later decades, The Alumni Quarterly prints excerpts from the 1926 Obliter:

Principal of B.S.N.S. was Dr. G. C. L. Riemer. Other administrators were W. B. Sutliff, Dean of Instruction; Eart N

'Planning effort producing significant impact'

It is always gratifying to see plans become reality. Nearly three years ago, Bloomsburg State College made a serious commitment to a planning effort that is producing a significant impact on our campus through a strengthening of our total academic efforts.

This year more than 50 percent of our undergraduate students are enrolled in either Arts and Science or Business Administration programs. Teacher education continues as a major mission of the college, with emphasis on strengthening the existing quality programs and developing programs in new areas of specialized needs.

In January, the State Board of Nurse Examiners gave initial approval for the Bachelor of Science in Nursing, and a Department of Nursing was formally established in the School of Professional Studies with Dr. Gertrude Flynn as chairperson. Three nursing professors are now on the faculty and a fourth will join the staff in September. In another part of this issue you will find a story detailing the scope of pre-professional studies in the health services field.

A new residence hall is nearing completion, with occupancy scheduled for next Fall. We are preparing plans for a new classroom building, and a project for long-delayed repairs and repainting of the exterior of Carver Hall is expected to be started soon.

Students have made an initial allocation of $30,000 for the campus beautification project, joining the alumni in the long-range landscaping effort. Planning for the project was funded by your Alumni Association, and work on the first phase of implementing your plans will be started as soon as weather permits.

Inadequate funding of the College by the Commonwealth continues to be a major problem as we near the close of the fiscal year. The supplemental appropriation of $3,000,000 passed last November by the Legislature has not been distributed by the Pennsylvania Department of Education, and we have not yet been permitted to withdraw the retrenchment letters we had to mail last September.

I am grateful for the support Alumni have given us in our efforts to obtain adequate and equitable funding for the College, and I urge you to continue efforts to persuade legislators that public higher education in Pennsylvania is worthy of their support.

It is always a pleasure to welcome visitors on our campus, and we look forward with special anticipation to having our graduates return on Alumni Weekend. I am sure you will enjoy the special activities which are being planned, and I urge all who can to come and see at first hand some of the exciting things which are happening at the College.

Again, I thank you for your continued interest and support.

Rhodes, Director of Teacher Training; Claire M. Conway, Dean of Women; Lillian Edmunds, Assistant Dean of Women; George J. Keller, Dean of Men; and C. M. Hausknecht, Business Manager. The faculty and staff numbered 56, including Dr. Riemer.

Samuel L. Wilson served as advisor to the Class of 1926.

The 1926 Obitier was dedicated to Pearl L. Mason, librarian and advisor to several college organizations. The yearbook also contained a three-page tribute to Professor William Brill, head of the Department of History and Civics at B.S.N.S. from 1911 until shortly before his death on June 8, 1925.

Editors of the 1926 Obitier were Edison D. Harris of Edwinstown and James L. Coursen, Larksville. Associate editors were Margaret Evans of Forty Fort and Theodore Keen of Glen Lyon.

Jessie Zimmerman of Berwick was president of Athletic Leaders, organized "to stimulate and develop leadership, to promote a wholesome spirit throughout the school, and to raise the standards of Girls' Athletics as well as physical education in the Normal School.

Lucille Kauffman of Hazleton was president of the Senior Girls' Glee Club, which performed under the direction of Miss Louise Skinner.

Wearers of the "B" included (football) John Rowland, Gilbert Cooper, Theodore Keen, Arthur Jenkins, Edison Harris, William Walsh, William Stoker, Kenneth VanBuskirk; (basketball) Arthur Jenkins, George Sack, Gilbert Cooper, William Walsh, Jimmie Coursen; (baseball) Joseph Kane, Gilbert Cooper, James Jones, Theodore Keen, Arthur Jenkins; (track) John Kanyuck, James Jones, Arthur Jenkins and William Walsh.

"Sport-loving and fun-loving are the students of our B.S.N.S. From the dining room, at six-thirty, streams a long line of well-fed, happy, young people. Where do most of them go? They head for the "gym!" What do they do there? They dance to the time and tune of the latest jazz, properly chaperoned by the Dean, Miss Conway, or the assistant dean, Miss Edmunds. Coming right after dinner, as it does, it is an excellent exercise for some of our "pleasingly plump" prospective school teachers. Last year we enjoyed the privilege until seven o'clock; this year the fun lasts until seven-fifteen."

Alice Yoder of Berwick was president of the year-old Mu Phi Sigma, made up of girls taking the three course. A "B" average was the standard of the sorority.

Activities of the Boys' Dormitory Club, with its home in North Hall, included a seasonal open house. "The dormitory is dressed up in its holiday clothes and its girls came up to see where the men hang out. Often the ladies' rooms are differently decorated the next day; often the men go clamoring for lost neckties, but in vain. It's good 'open house' doesn't come every day as the room would go naked." R. Victor Anskis of Glen Lyon was president of B.D.C.

The Seniors lost what sounded like a rollicking, fun-filled football game which was played in a "sea of mud and a downpour of rain."

The "Double Quartettes" had a repertoire of some forty numbers, including folk songs, popular ballads, sacred music, and excerpts from the operas, which afforded a variety of musical selections to suit the various tastes.

Under the heading of "Progress," the Obitier reported: "During this year the faculty, after deliberation and argumentation, turned the mid-week Chapel period over to the students. The president of each class appointed a committee to consider the advisability of student Chapel from the student viewpoint and to arrange programs for the meetings of Senior and Junior Chapel. The first Chapel period of the second semester had a student as Chapel leader, a student as song leader, and a student at the piano." James Coursen of Larksville was chairman of the Senior Committee.

The B.S.N.S. Symphony Orchestra, organized in 1924, included 10 first violins, eight second violins, cello, piccolo, clarinet, two saxophones, coronet, two trombones, drum and piano.

BSC students help pay for landscaping

Bloomsburg State College students have added $30,000 to the campus beautification fund.

The Alumni Association and the Community Government Association have combined to underwrite the cost of a landscape architect to develop a master plan of beautification for the campus.

The master plan has been accepted and work is now underway in planting trees, shrubs, flowers, etc. Included in the project are plans to plant 1,776 trees and shrubs to commemorate the nation's Bicentennial. The project may require five or six years to be completed.

The $30,000 student allocation was made by the Community Government Association from funds provided by the student activity fees. Work on the "face-lift" projects with high priority include the converting of a central campus parking lot into a recreational area, developing a picnic area adjacent to the Columbia Residence Hall, and connecting the area in front of Haas Center for the Arts into a mall.

Alumni funds, some already earmarked for campus beautification, plus funds to be included in next year's budget, will be used for plantings around Carver Hall and the area facing Penn and Second streets.

The campus beautification project has been in the planning stage for two years.

"With new construction nearly completed, we can now concentrate on restoring some of the natural beauty of our campus," explains Boyd F. Buckingham, vice president for administration. "We have a naturally attractive campus, and the plan we have now will enhance its beauty."

The plan was produced by Derr Carpenter of Smith, Miller and Associates, Camp Hill, a landscape architect commissioned last year to develop the master plan. It calls for elimination of vehicular traffic from central areas of the campus, except for service access to residence halls, classroom buildings and Andrus Library.

"Many of the present roads will be replaced with pedestrian malls and lawns," Thomas Manley, chairman of the campus beautification committee stated. "Traffic and parking will be confined, as much as possible, to the periphery areas. While the work is in progress, there will likely be parking problems, but eventually some 80 to 100 additional parking spaces will be available."

Manley explained that it will take several years to complete the project.

"It will be financed entirely from student and alumni funds and contributions," he said. "No state money will be used. Since we won't get all the money at one time, we will have the work done only as the funds become available."

Manley estimated the total cost will probably be nearly $250,000.

"That looks like a large amount, but when it's spread out over several years, it's not such a difficult goal to meet," he declared. "I've never worked on a committee where there has been the kind of cooperation and enthusiasm I've seen in the development of this project. Some of the money is already in escrow, having been set aside by alumni classes for just this purpose. Our alumni have pride in the college, and they have shown they are ready to do whatever they can to improve it, both academically and aesthetically."

Lycoming Residence Hall, located on the site of old Waller Hall, is expected to be dedicated as part of BSC's

Bicentennial observance later this year. Built at a cost of about $2,250,000, the dormitory was designed to accommodate about 250 students. It should be ready for occupancy by fall.

Dr. McCormick briefs Alumni board

Board of directors of the BSC Alumni Association, in a quarterly meeting on January 24, received a report from Dr. James H. McCormick, college president, which included plans for a master's degree in business administration and a bachelor of science degree in the nursing program.

Dr. McCormick stated a great deal of energy and attention is also given to continuing education, which now has more than 500 enrolled. He said that this year's student enrollment was 200 more than expected because of the very large percentage of students accepting their enrollment offers.

The President also indicated that the work on the new dormitory is on schedule and will be ready for use next September. Plans are underway for a new human services building to be added to the campus, and a badly needed addition to Andrus Library.

Improvements to Carver Hall will include rewiring and restoration of all exterior wood. It is planned to retain Old Science Hall as long as possible.

Other board action included plans for the 1976 annual fund drive. Planning will begin immediately by a committee composed of Dr. C. Stuart Edwards, chairman; Donald A. Watts, executive director; John Thomas, Francis Galinski and Richard Grimes.

A report on the Alumni Association's participation in the campus beautification program was given by Miss Elizabeth Hubler. To date, the association has shared the cost of architectural plans with the Community Government Association, and next year's budget will provide additional funds for this project.

It was reported that student loans have increased during the past year due to economic conditions. However, repayment experiences have been satisfactory with only a few delinquents.

A committee was named by Association President Millard Ludwig to meet with Dr. Conrad Bautz to discuss financial aid to the athletic program and grants-in-aid to needy students.

The board heard reports on campus housing from Robert Norton, dean of student life, and on the "Campus Voice," student publication, by Kenneth Hoffman, director of public relations and publications.

Ludwig reported on a recent meeting of the State Council of Alumni Associations, and Watts outlined alumni tours for 1976.

Dr. Edwards, chairman of last year's fund drive, reported that $51,327.36 had been pledged and $49,252.36 had been received to date. Forms of recognizing various classifications of donors were discussed.

Rev. Oliver Krapf, chairman of the committee to select candidates for the Alumni Association's Distinguished Service Award, offered three names for board consideration. The recipients will be named on Alumni Day, May 1, 1976.

The board received the resignation of Fred W. Diehl as 1909 class representative. Since he is past president of the Alumni Association and a college trustee for 28 years, the board passed a resolution honoring him for his long and devoted service to Bloomsburg State College and his Alumni Association.

Executive Director Watts presented each board member with a framed colored photograph of Carver Hall. The eight-by-ten inch print will be used in the 1976 fund drive which will have a Bicentennial theme.

294 receive degrees at mid-year ceremony

A total of 294 degrees was awarded at Commencement Exercises in Haas Auditorium on December 21, 1975. This number included 240 baccalaureate degrees and 51 masters degrees.

The professional music was provided by William Decker at the organ and the invocation was by Jay Rochelle, Protestant campus minister.

Forty-two degree candidates from the School of Arts and Sciences were introduced by Dean Edson J. Drake, while Emory W. Rarig, Jr., dean of the School of Business, presented 33 candidates for the Bachelor of Science degree in business administration and 15 in business education.

Dr. C. Stuart Edwards, dean of the School of Professional Studies, presented 71 candidates in elementary education, five from public school nursing, 31 in secondary education, 26 in special education, and 12 in communication disorders.

Dr. Charles H. Carlson, dean of the School of Graduate Studies, presented 50 candidates for the Master of Education degree and one candidate for the Master of Science degree in biology.

Dr. James McCormick conferred the degrees and William Zurick, chairman of the Board of Trustees, presented the diplomas.

Dayton S. Pickett, vice president and dean of the faculties, hooded the candidates for the Master's Degree. The benediction was given by William M. Richardson, Catholic campus chaplain.

Members of the Alumni Association hosted a reception for the graduates and their guests in Scranton Commons following the exercises.

Pre-med at BSC?

Many people still think of Bloomsburg State College as a teacher training institution; some even continue to use the once-proud title of Bloomsburg State Teachers College.

Whatever the title, the Bloomsburg of today is a multi-purpose college, and many students complete their pre-med work at BSC.

Although pre-med is only one of the programs in the School of Arts and Sciences, it is interesting to analyze the success of those who applied for admission to professional schools of health science in the past ten years:

- 3 to Walter Reed Army Institute of Nursing for B.S. in nursing;
- 1 to Albright College nursing degree program;
- 2 to Virginia Commonwealth University (Richmond) in physical therapy;
- 1 to Virginia Commonwealth University (Richmond) in occupational therapy;

- 10 to Temple University College of Medicine for M.D. degrees;

- 1 to Bowman Gray Medical School, Winston-Salem, N.C., for M.D. degree;
- 2 to North Carolina State at Raleigh, N.C., for Ph.D. in biology;

- 1 to Pennsylvania State University for Ph.D. in biology;

- 6 to Philadelphia College of Osteopathic Medicine for O.D. degrees;

- 3 to Pennsylvania College of Podiatric Medicine;

- 2 to Hahnemann Medical College for M.D. degrees;

- 3 to Temple University School of Dentistry;

- 2 to Temple University School of Pharmacy;

- 3 to Pennsylvania College of Podiatric Medicine;

- 1 to Downstate Medical Center at Brooklyn;

- 2 to Pennsylvania State University, College of Medicine, Hershey;

- 1 to University of Pittsburgh, School of Dentistry

Seven were accepted in 1975 and two students have been already accepted for medical schools this fall, and three others will enter schools of dentistry.

Better than 90 percent of those recommended in the following professional classifications: four nursing, three in therapy, 31 in medicine, dentistry, or osteopathic medicine; three in optometry; and three in physicians' assistants programs.

The pre-professional advisory committee for health science preparatory studies is responsible for student recommendations to professional schools.

In addition, the committee sponsors six career guidance conferences per year which are attended by representatives from the professional schools, practicing professionals, and students in graduate programs. Visits to local health service institutions also constitute part of the career explorations.

The committee includes Dr. Barrett Benson, chairman of the chemistry department, Dr. Roy Pointer, associate professor of chemistry; John Fletcher, assistant professor of biology; and Stanley Rhodes, assistant professor of biology.

ROSS, ANGELA and CHARLES SCARANTINO

BSC a family affair for 3 Scarantinos

Bloomsburg State College is like a second home to the three Scarantinos of Pittston. These two brothers and a sister — whose parents are Mr. and Mrs. Ross Scarantino of Pittston — acquired a Ph.D., an M.D., and three Master Degrees among them since graduation from BSC.

Charles W. Scarantino majored in Biology at Bloomsburg and received his B.S. Degree in 1964. He continued his graduate studies in cell physiology at St. John's University, New York, where he earned the M.S. Degree in 1966 and the Ph.D. in 1970.

From there he went to Bowman-Gray School of Medicine, Winston-Salem, N.C. After earning the coveted M.D. three years later, he headed for North Carolina Baptist Hospital for a year of internship. He is presently in his second year as resident, radiation oncology at Strong Memorial Hospital, University of Rochester. He is married to the former Mary R. Colarusso, a BSC graduate in the Class of 1966. They have a daughter Nadine.

The second Scarantino to attend Bloomsburg was Ross, who majored in elementary education. He received his B.S. Degree from Bloomsburg in 1967 and his M.S. Degree in elementary education and school administration from the University of Scranton in 1971.

Ross is elementary supervisor in the Pittston Area School District. He married Ann Marie Sobol, and they have two daughters, Tara and Mia.

Angela Scarantino came to Bloomsburg in the fall of 1969 and received her B.S. Degree in elementary education in 1973. This was followed with graduate work in reading at BSC, where she received the M.S. Degree in August 1975. Angela is teaching third grade in the Pittston Area Schools and plans to be married to Albert J. Madden on June 19, 1976.

When the Scarantinos were asked what motivated them to continue their education, the reply was, "Our parents! Any type of honor should be given to our fine parents. Because of their love and sacrifice and their never-ending strength, our education was made possible. We owe a great deal to our parents and we will always be grateful for all they have given to us."

D. C. area alumni meet

Bloomsburg graduates in the greater Washington, D.C. area met at La Trattoria's Restaurant, 5100 Wisconsin Ave. N.W. on Friday evening, February 6 for a BSC get-together.

Forty-five alumni and friends attended the affair hosted by Harriet Kocher '39. Representatives from the campus included Dr. and Mrs. James McCormick, Dr. and Mrs. C. Stuart Edwards, and Mr. and Mrs. Donald Watts.

The Class of 1908 was represented by Saida L. Hartman as the oldest in attendance, while Lanny C. Dietterick of the 1973 class represented the youngest. Jack Mertz '42 took honors as the person with most BSC graduates in his employment — 35 of 42 employees in his department are Bloomsburg graduates.

Ed Mulhern and wife, Peg, were the only parents present who currently have a son or daughter enrolled at BSC.

The college representatives spoke briefly of "happenings on campus and a look at the future." The college banner was conspicuously displayed and colored slides of campus scenes continued to rotate the beauty of the campus in a corner of the room. Bulletins, catalogues and the recent issue of the Alumni Quarterly were available to all who attended.

The following attended and signed the register:

Saida L. Hartman '08, Mr. and Mrs. W. Mason Aucker (Ruth Hutten Aucker '18), Mr. and Mrs. Traina (Bertha Randall Traina '22), Dr. and Mrs. Robert H. Lehman '60 and son, Mr. and Mrs. Edwin Taylor (Anne Sabol Taylor '41), Anne T. '72 and Lanny C. Dietterick '73, Clark and Catherine Renninger '41 (Catherine Oplinger '41), Collin W. Vernoy '42, Edward G. Horvath '72 and sister, Olaf; Jack L. Mertz '42 and sister, Mrs. Eleanor Seward; Mr. and Mrs. Ray L. George '61, Major and Mrs. Steinhart '62, Harriet Kocher '39, Tom and Mary D'Toole '56, Mary and John Ruddy '26, Comdr. and Mrs. Curtis English '56, and Peg and Ed Mulhern '39.

5,711 enroll for semester; a new record

Final enrollment for the spring semester of the 1975-76 college year at Bloomsburg State College reveals that a grand total of 5,711 students are taking courses at the college. This is the largest spring enrollment in BSC history.

Full-time undergraduate enrollment is 4,463, comprised of 1,995 males and 2,468 females. There are another 638 part-time undergraduate students, including 247 men and 391 women.

The 5,711 overall enrollment (2,461 men — 3,250 women) is an increase of 410 students over a year ago. The full-time undergraduate figure is up about 170 for that period of time. Full and part-time graduate figures each show a slight increase.

Seventy-two graduate students, 53 of whom are women, are attending BSC full-time and another 200 men and 338 women are part-time graduate students.

A total of 2,288 students are housed in campus residence halls.

KEVIN M. O'CONNOR

W-B resident new trustee

Kevin M. D' Connor of Wilkes-Barre has been appointed a trustee of Bloomsburg State College by Governor Milton J. Shapp. He will replace William E. Booth, a BSC graduate of 1942.

D' Connor serves as director of non-public school services for Luzerne Intermediate Unit 18. Prior to becoming affiliated with LIU in 1974, he served as regional director of the Pennsylvania Higher Education Assistance Agency, a post in which he helped many students of flood-stricken families to obtain state scholarship grants.

The new trustee received his Bachelor's Degree from King's College and his Master's Degree from the University of Scranton. He is currently pursuing courses for the letter of eligibility in education from Lehigh University.

O'Connor is a board member of the Catholic Youth Organization, Heart Drive, United Way and Children's Museum.

He is married to the former Brigid Murray, and they reside at 10C Alpine Court, Wilkes-Barre.

Husky fund benefits students

Students at Bloomsburg State College — and the campus community as a whole — continue to benefit from profits of the college bookstore and unused student activities fees which have accumulated through a number of years, according to John J. Trathen, assistant director of student activities and the Kehr College Union.

Now known as the Husky Contingency Fund, the money has accumulated since the days of former BSC President Harvey A. Andruss and has been invested to yield interest until it is used.

A substantial amount of the money has been used in recent years to equip the new Kehr College Union with furnishings and facilities not funded by the state.

The most recent report of the state auditor general's office, for the year ending June 30, 1974, showed a balance in the Husky Contingency Fund of $340,701.

But the current balance, according to Trathen, is about $250,000 in as-yet uncommitted funds.

During 1975 the student governing body recommended — and President James H. McCormick approved — the expenditure of $7,500 for two station wagons for use by campus organizations and $10,000 to equip the campus radio station.

Two additional vans have been ordered at a cost of about $12,000, bringing the number of vehicles to six. It has been decided to place $100,000 in an escrow account with interest to be used for periodic replacement of the vehicles.

In addition, the students have contributed $30,000 from the fund to help finance campus beautification projects. It is expected they will donate more money later for this same purpose.

Other projects which would benefit the college community are also being considered by student leaders with the guidance of college officials.

Trathen notes the only source of growth in the Husky Contingency Fund at this point comes from interest.

Leftover funds in the Community Government Association's budget are now applied to the next year's budget, instead of being placed in the contingency fund.

Likewise, profits from the bookstore are transferred to the Kehr College Union to cover the costs of programs and projects such as dances, folk festivals, and other activities. Some bookstore profits, of course, must be used to replace the inventory.

If excess money remains after the needs of the Kehr Union's program are met and inventory is replaced, the funds are returned indirectly to students by lowering prices on educational items in the bookstore.

Boyd F. Buckingham, vice president for administration, noted the college has been cited as a good example for other colleges in its management of funds through an investment portfolio.

He emphasized that money in the college store, student union and contingency funds belongs strictly to the students and is locally controlled.

associate professor of nursing; Dr. Gertrude E. Flynn, chairperson of the nursing department; Alice Herman, assistant professor of nursing; and Dr. C. Stuart Edwards, dean of the School of Professional Studies.

Nursing program takes another step

The baccalaureate degree program in nursing at Bloomsburg State College has received initial approval by the State Board of Nurse Examiners. Dr. C. Stuart Edwards, dean of the School of Professional Studies, has announced.

The Pennsylvania Department of Education had put its stamp of approval on the program earlier in the 1975-76 college year, pending an on-site review of the program.

Sixty students, selected from nearly 300 applicants for admission to the program, were accepted in the curriculum in September, 1975, pending this approval. These students will be awarded their degrees in 1979.

The original concept for a nursing program at BSC was conceived in 1968, and formal planning was begun by the presidential long-range planning commission of the college over two years ago.

Dr. Gertrude E. Flynn was appointed to direct the planning and development of the program and began her work at the start of the 1974-75 academic year.

The Bloomsburg and Berwick Hospitals, the Geisinger Medical Center in Danville, and many other community health agencies are cooperating with the college in the nursing program. These facilities will be used to provide clinical experience for nursing degree candidates, while the college will be responsible for administering the nursing program and providing the academic instruction.

Two professors of nursing, Dr. Lauretta Pierce and Professor Alice Herman, have been added as faculty members.

Dr. James H. McCormick, president of BSC, views this new program offering as a vital step forward in the diversification of curriculum offerings for the residents of the Commonwealth served by the college.

"The fact that the college has had a substantial number of applicants for the nursing program is a strong indication of its need and popularity," he said. "We plan this to be one of the many new curriculum offerings, resulting from the efforts of our long-range planning commission."

"We also greatly appreciate the cooperation of area health institutions necessary in making this degree program possible. The three members of the nursing department bring a wealth of experience to the program."

Dr. Flynn, chairperson of the nursing department, has been a prominent personality in psychiatric nursing. She received her degrees from Carney Hospital School of Nursing in Boston, University of Rochester, University of Buffalo, and Boston University.

Prior to her appointment at Bloomsburg, she was a visiting professor at the University of Massachusetts Division of Nursing. She previously was a professor and clinical nursing chief at the University of Rochester School of Nursing, in charge of the Bachelor of Science program for psychiatric nursing.

Dr. Flynn also served on the faculty of the University of New York, Buffalo, where she initiated the Bachelor of Science and Master of Science curricula for psychiatric nursing.

Professor Herman received her nursing diploma from Geisinger Medical Center and her midwifery certificate from the Frontier Graduate School of Midwifery in Kentucky.

Her Bachelor of Science and Master of Science degrees were earned at Case Western Reserve University and the University of Kentucky. She has served as an assistant instructor of nursing arts at Geisinger Medical Center and has had a wide experience in public health nursing.

She came to Bloomsburg from the University of Kentucky, where she was assistant professor in the college of nursing.

Dr. Lauretta Pierce, the most recent appointee, had been an assistant professor of nursing in the department of nursing at the Pennsylvania State University. She previously was associated with the school of nursing at the University of Pennsylvania and Jefferson Medical College and Hospital.

Additional associations include the Memorial Hospital School of Nursing, Wilmington, Delaware, and the two outstanding hospitals of Harrisburg Polyclinic and Philadelphia General. Her degrees were received from Temple University and Jefferson Medical College.

Author's talent was evident as undergrad

Robert Baylor, a graduate of Bloomsburg State College in the Class of 1950, is the author of four novels and several textbooks — some in their second and third editions.

Little did Baylor realize his future as he graduated from Danville High School in 1943 and for the next three years served in the U.S. Navy aboard an LST in the Pacific Theatre and the China Sea.

Following his Navy service, he enrolled at BSC and was awarded his B.S. degree in secondary education in 1950.

After one year as teacher of English and line coach in football at Newark Valley Central School in New York and another two years at Waverly (N.Y.) High School with similar duties, Baylor moved to California.

During the 1954-55 school year, he taught English at Poly High in Riverside and then moved to Mt. San Antonio College — a two-year community college — where he has remained to the present as instructor of journalism, writing, modern American literature, types of literature, mass media and composition.

Baylor's flare for writing was first recognized at BSC when he wrote a feature story on John Bakeless, a prominent graduate and outstanding author. It was written for The Maroon and Gold, the student newspaper, but later appeared in The Morning Press and the Alumni Quarterly.

To Sting a Child, Baylor's first novel, was published in 1964 by Bobbs-Merrill Publishing Company. This was followed by two unpublished novels, Long Live Death in 1966 and Calamity Maverick Chance in 1968.

Certainly, Baylor acknowledged the source and inspiration of his writing when he dedicated Detail and Pattern, a writing textbook, to Samuel L. Wilson, instructor of English at BSC for many years. This textbook was published by McGraw-Hill Company in 1969 and went into the second edition in 1972.

James Moore and Baylor co-authored In the Presence of This Continent: American Themes and Ideas, an anthology of contemporary American short stories, plays, poems and essays, published in 1971 by Holt, Rinehart and Winston.

Likewise, Baylor collaborated with Brenda Stokes, a colleague at Mt. San Antonio College, for an anthology of poetry called Fine Frenzy. This book, intended for college use, was published by McGraw-Hill in 1972 and is now in preparation for a second edition to be published in January, 1977.

There is another novel on its way to the printer from Robert Baylor's typewriter. The story of a big-time football coach, it is tentatively titled, Jack Hyde.

Baylor and his wife, the former Mary Shultz of Danville, have traveled and lived in Europe while enjoying sabbatical leaves in 1963-64 and again in 1972-73.

During the first visit to the continent, they lived in Paris for five months, in London for two months, and then traveled for six months in a Volkswagen for a total of 15,000 miles. They sailed to Europe on the final voyage of the SS America and returned on the final voyage of the SS United States.

The Baylors' second trip to Europe was in 1972-73, when they lived in London for eight months while studying contemporary English, Irish and Scottish poetry. Again, they toured by VW for four months through Scotland, Wales, England, Holland, Belgium, France, Spain, Germany, and Denmark.

They returned home by going around the world via Greece, Turkey, Lebanon, Iran, Thailand, Singapore, Hong Kong, Taiwan, Japan and Hawaii.

Mary and Bob Baylor still call Danville their home town, but for the present they reside at 246 East Arrow Highway, Claremont, Calif. 91711.

The YWCA Uke Club made its first appearance at the Japanese Bazaar. It proved such a success that it was engaged to play at the B.D.C. dance, and later it entertained at Junior Chapel Program.

The staff of The Maroon and Gold, student newspaper, was completely reorganized. The names of those who wished to help in the publication of the weekly paper were put in the mail box of the staff office. They were approved by a faculty committee and voted on by the student body. Twelve of that number were elected and from among them one was chosen as editor.

The Bloomsburg Players, dramatics club of B.S.N.S., finished its second year of life. Jack Rowlands of Plains was president, and Miss Alice Johnston of the faculty was director. In addition to an annual production, the group kept busy doing plays each week for members only.

Athletic team captains in 1926 included Jack Rowlands of Plains, football; Art Jenkins of Wanamie, basketball; Joe Kane of Wilkes-Barre, baseball; and John Kanyuck of Nanticoke, track.

The football team was 3-8 that year (Fall, 1925), defeating Freehold M & M, Lock Haven and Mansfield.

Recording a winning season (7-6), the cagers beat West Chester, Shippensburg, Lock Haven (2), Indiana (2), and Dickinson.

The track team defeated Newport, Susquehanna and Dickinson as they recorded a 3-4 season.

The track team did well in its second season, with strong showings in the several contests in which they competed.

Coach of all four teams was A. K. Jackson, director of athletics.

The Debating Club organized in January of 1926 under the management of Miss Alice Johnston, oral expression teacher.

Charlotte Morgan of Edwardsville was president of Women's Student Government. Officers included five "floor supervisors" for the dormitory.

Kathryn Monroe of Hazleton was president of Zeta Chapter of Alpha Delta Zeta Sorority, founded in May, 1925. It endeavored "to secure greater permanency and efficiency of effort in literature and debate; to promote intellectual, moral and social improvement; to bind the students of Normal Schools and Teachers' Colleges closer together in their work."

The "Japanese Bazaar" of the YWCA was a success socially and financially. "Geisha maidens tripped about their dainty booths, selling their charming wooden and china ware." Edith Morris of Wanamie was president of the group.

The Rural Club — a group of students working for the interests of the boys and girls of the country as well as for themselves — was headed by William Jones of Wilkes-Barre. "Weenie roasts" and sleighing parties were held in order "to relieve the strain of study."

Many members of the class helped with filming of "Cinderella," a Junior High School production under the direction of George J. Keller. Taking two months to film, the project required about 6,000 feet of film which cost over $1,000. In addition to the story which was filmed on campus and in Bloomsburg homes, the film also showed work on the scenery, costume designing, printing of tickets and posters, and all other projects leading up to the production.

The first play ever to be made at B.S.N.S. for the motion pictures, it was described as "the biggest thing of its kind ever attempted here or at any other school circles."

Located in the back of the 1926 Ohlter are nine pages of humor about students and faculty of the B.S.N.S. Many of the jokes are still funny after 50 years, even to "outsiders."

Shapp, Mead on EEA program

Nobel Laureates Leontief and Arrow, Margaret Mead, and Gov. Milton Shapp will participate in the Second Annual Convention of the Eastern Economic Association which will be hosted by BSC on April 15-17.

Over 800 persons are included on the program, including economists, sociologists, social workers, philosophers, medics, psychologists, psychiatrists, clergymen and other professionals.

The convention program represents an interdisciplinary approach to human problems.

For further information, contact T. S. Saini, Secretary-Treasurer, Eastern Economic Association, Bloomsburg State College, Bloomsburg, Pa. 17815.

A lovely rarity

Holly Chmil, left, and Karin Orrico, former back-to-back homecoming queens at Bridgewater-Raritan High School East (New Jersey), are both attending Bloomsburg State College. A sophomore in arts and sciences, Holly is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs.

Julian Chmil, 427 Foothill Road, Somerville, N.J. She is a 1974 Bridgewater-Raritan graduate. Karin, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Sabbott Orrico, Blossom Drive, Basking Ridge, graduated from Bridgewater-Raritan in 1975. She is a BSC freshman enrolled in arts and sciences.

Talented Lorah sisters serve fellow man in Peru

Teacher, preacher, missionary, social worker, and linguist — all these terms apply equally to the Lorah sisters of West Pittston.

Both were born and raised in the family home at 511 Delaware avenue, where Louneta still lives. Her sister, Mabel, resides at Box 170, R.D. 1, Pittston.

Both attended the West Pittston elementary schools, graduated from the West Pittston High School, and Bloomsburg Normal School — Mabel in the Class of 1919 and Louneta in 1926 and 1944. There are two other sisters living — one of them has taught music in private schools for more than 50 years.

When Mabel graduated from Bloomsburg, she returned to West Pittston and taught in the primary grades for a number of years before enrolling at Pennsylvania State University where she majored in home economics.

She then returned to West Pittston to teach that subject in the high school. Altogether, she completed 33 years of teaching in the West Pittston system.

A year in Peru

It was in 1950 — during a year of sabbatical leave — that Mabel Lorah went to Peru to teach in a missionary school for girls because the school had no home economics teacher that year. It was the custom in many foreign countries that only the boys were educated, and it was through missionary schools that girls were given formal schooling.

Before leaving for her assignment in Peru, she received orientation for her missionary duties at Scarrett College, Nashville, Tenn.

She certainly had no plans to return to South America, so at the end of the year she toured much of the continent on the way home.

"I thought I would never go back, so I saw as much of South America as I could on my way home," she related.

After one and a half years at home, and learning there was still no permanent home economics teacher in the Peruvian school, she decided to go back for good and was commissioned a missionary by the Methodist Church at Purdue University.

A woman's work

After 87 years packed with activity, she's still

*Time comes and fastly goes
I'm slow but still on my toes
Kinda forgetful at times and slow but you will understand, I know*

So writes Mrs. Agnes Wallace Rees '07 from her home in Livermore, California. But these lines do not tell the story of the moving force this person has been for the past 87 years.

As she wrote to us while sitting in her "Lazy Boy" chair, her thoughts and stories ranged from her "wonderful teachers at my beloved BSNS" to her new 1975 Buick Skylark which she drives.

Her letters were interrupted on two occasions — one for an evening of bridge and again when guests arrived. (The guests included a great-grandniece whose grandmother — Agnes's sister Carolyn Wallace Harmon '06 — grandfather, and great grandfather were all BSNS graduates.)

Last spring, Agnes Rees was honored by the district and state Federated Women's Clubs of California for the longest active membership in the organization — 63 years in the state and 64 years in the district. Over the years, she has been an organizer and charter member of more than a dozen organizations.

In addition, she has been honored for more than 40 years of teaching and once received a citation from the U.S. Veterans Administration.

"I have enjoyed being active and alert through the many years allowed me and sharing my talents learned at BSNS. My teaching years were appreciated and recognized.

"My community service included volunteer hospital service, American Legion Auxiliary, Children's Hospital, retarded children's needs, city politics, church work, historical findings and writing, etc., etc., in addition to being a wife and mother. As I look over my 'source,' I can relate my several conversations with Dr. Cope, Florence Piper Tuttle, Dr. Albert and Professor Sutliff (I especially think of him).

"Then there was an English teacher — the name won't come to me right now, but she encouraged me to speak, and to her I owe my ability to talk without fear, place, or crowd.

"Because of this I went far through clubs and educational affairs. Miss — oh, what was her name? — would say, 'Agnes, I like your way with the use of adjectives and adverbs — good!' To me, she gave courage and the desire to achieve."

(Ed. note: Written on the back of the envelope were the words "English teacher, Mary Prentiss.")

Agnes Wallace Rees graduated from BSNS in 1907 and took her first teaching assignment in a country school near Harvey's Lake. There were thirty pupils in eight grades, and she taught all grades and was her own janitor for the sum of $45 per month.

However, the next year she moved to California and for two years taught in a one-room school at $75 per month and "boarded around" at $25 per month for room and board.

During the next four years Agnes taught sixth, seventh and eighth grades in the Livermore Public Schools. But when she was married in 1915, she was required to give up her job. She was allowed to substitute for $3 per day, even after her son was born in December, 1916.

In 1918, Agnes' husband went to war, leaving her with a two-year-old son and a blind mother. However, these dependents were never a burden to her. She immediately became involved in starting a Red Cross group and was chairman of the Home Nursing Class which graduated 28 nurses capable of attending flu patients, new mothers, and others needing care.

Following the war, Mrs. Rees became a charter member of the American Legion Auxiliary and its hospital chairman. The following year (1923), she was district president of the auxiliary, followed by first vice president of the Department of California in 1924. During her term as first vice president, the president became ill and Mrs. Rees found herself conducting the state convention at Susanville, California. Although she returned to teaching after the war, many things were happening at the same time in the busy life of Agnes Rees.

In 1911, she started the Livermore P.T.A. and represented Southern Alameda County Children's Home Society. In 1924, construction began on the Livermore Veterans Hospital and Agnes Rees spoke at its dedication as the official representative of the California Department of American Legion.

Then 50 years later — in 1975 — she represented the Legion Auxiliary as a guest of honor and speaker at ceremonies of re-dedication following addition and alteration to the hospital.

She personally gathered trees, shrubs, bulbs, etc., for the original landscaping from all western states, for which she received a citation from Major General Hines, head of the U.S. Veterans Administration.

Mrs. Rees continued her education by taking night courses at the University of California and Stanford. She also spent her summer vacations taking six-week courses at Swopes Teacher Classes in Santa Cruz, where she had a seaside home. In addition to her regular teaching assignments, she conducted special classes for adults with foreign languages who were preparing for citizenship.

In May, 1975, Agnes Rees was honored with an award as being the oldest active member of the district and state Federated Women's Clubs and for helping to organize the club in 1911.

In addition, she is a charter member of the B and P Club, Livermore Valley Historical Society, and the Alameda County Soroptimist Club. She is a deacon of the Presbyterian Church and a Sunday School teacher.

Many interesting events have occurred in her life. She recalls the night when she was asked to respond to a speaker at a professional women's meeting and said, "The only Louise Jolly (the speaker) I ever knew graduated from Bloomsburg State Normal School with me."

The speaker jumped up and said, "So did I! Who are you?"

She was Dr. Louise Jolly '07, who was very well known in educational circles. The meeting started a renewed friendship until Dr. Jolly's death several years later.

Peru, Japan

Thus began Mabel Lorah's 13 years at the Colegio Maria Alvarado in Lima, Peru, later known as Lima High School

Getting ready

Since the people of Peru speak Spanish, Miss Lorah went to Middlebury College to study the language in order to be an effective teacher. She also took additional courses in home economics at Cornell University.

During her years in Peru, she also helped with social centers in Lima in addition to her teaching duties.

"We tried to get the girls from the school to help in the social centers, so quite often I would take a group along with the purpose of having them help their own people," she recalled.

"We taught crafts and sewing to the youngsters around the center, and child care, home nursing and some cooking to a group of older women. Of course, all the social center work was done after school hours."

During her last four years in Peru, she was also in charge of food services at the school. Of the 600 girls who were enrolled, 36 were boarding students.

The cafeteria served 125 day students, while the dining room served the boarding students, 10 faculty members, and 11 servants who did not know one word of English. Both the cafeteria and the dining room were served by one kitchen, but the purchase of quality food was a difficult problem.

"Until the last four years, I refused to take on the job of food services because I felt I could not teach and do that also. I felt I wanted to be with the girls."

"It was only after I was able to manage the language better and was given a reduced teaching load that I became responsible for the food service."

Looking back, she remembered that she always praised the "Point Four People" from the United States who taught the Peruvians how to raise livestock and poultry better than they had ever known before. She recalled that the Peruvians once had "the skinniest chickens you could imagine."

Conditions improved greatly, she remembers, but it was all done at an agricultural university.

"After I took over the food service, I would take the school bus to the University, where I'd get about 200 pounds of meat at a time. We'd bring it back and store it in our deep freeze. Needless to say, we enjoyed better meat than ever before."

Greatest satisfaction

Mabel Lorah returned to the United States in 1966 after completing 13 years of service in missionary work on top of 33 years of service in West Pittston.

When asked about her greatest satisfaction in her very interesting career, she replied, "Knowing and loving the people and having their response has enriched my life."

Then she added, "Sharing other people's problems is rewarding and enriches each other's lives. In the mountain regions, where sanitation was lacking, it was satisfying to teach girls the need of sanitation and the values of a Christian home."

"To see these same girls later raising their children in accord with the standards you taught them fulfilled one's expectations. Many of them still write and tell me of the wonderful things they are doing."

Service in Japan

Louneta Lorah, after leaving Bloomsburg Normal School in 1926, went to Dennison Twp where she taught fifth and sixth grades for one year. At the end of a year, she was invited to teach in West Pittston, where she subsequently served for 27½ years before making her decision to go to Japan.

How did Louneta become involved in missionary work?

"Well, I had always wanted to be a missionary, if I could," she explained. "After Mabel had her sabbatical, the principal came to me and told me if I wanted a sabbatical anytime, I should make my wishes known. He knew I was interested in church work and children's work and recommended that I be granted a sabbatical for 1953-54."

"I went to Japan and spent the year at Fukuoka in the Jo Gakuin School, teaching and meeting the Japanese and making friends with them."

At the end of that year, she returned to her teaching duties in West Pittston.

However, a taste of Japan and a realization of the great need in that country for Christian teachers compelled Louneta to resign in January, 1956, to accept a commission at the mission conference of the Methodist Church held at Buck Hill Falls. Like Mabel, she studied at Scarrett College for her role as a missionary.

Over 20 years of service

She returned to Japan in 1956 for a five-year assignment. She overcame the language barrier by studying intensive courses in Japanese for two years and by constant use of the language in conversation and writing.

At the end of five years, she returned to the United States on a one-year furlough for additional study. She then returned to Japan to complete 20 years and three months of service.

"My first assignment was in a girls' school," she recalled. "Since Japan had the same idea about girls not needing formal education, schools for girls were set up by the missionaries."

Her next assignment was in Yakihamu, where she studied at a YMCA language school and taught English. After two years at Yakihamu, she was assigned to Ona Bichi for evangelistic and church work. This assignment included five churches — one of which was way up in the mountain over all kinds of roads.

In addition to the evangelistic work, the mission needed someone to do social work in Hiroshima, so Louneta went there for two years and worked with the Buraku people — descendants of slaves to the feudal lords who were treated with animosity and prejudice.

After that, she went to Tokyo where she served as a social worker in an area similar to the lower East Side of New York City.

Varied assignments

Relating some of her experiences, Louneta observed, "I should speak about the last 12 years in Japan, for I did three different kinds of work. During that time I was at the Kyo Ai Kan, 'The Love Center,' which was mainly a nursery school."

Wrestlers advance to Tucson

Three Bloomsburg State College wrestlers - Andy Cappelli, 167, Steve Scheib, 177, and heavyweight Tino DiMarco participated in the NCAA Division I championships at Tucson, Arizona, on March 11-13.

Results of their efforts were not available at press time.

Scheib and DiMarco finished second in their respective weight classes at the first annual Eastern Wrestling League Tournament at Penn State on the last weekend in February.

Cappelli fought off a loss in the semifinals to gain third place and won a "wild card" selection made by the coaches.

Team totals at Penn State were as follows: Penn State, 93½ points; Clarion, 68½; Pitt, 57; Lock Haven, 35½; BSC, 34; and Buffalo, 28½.

Conference champ

In the Pennsylvania Conference Championships held at BSC, Scheib was the 177-pound champion, while the team finished in a third-place tie with East Stroudsburg. Clarion and Slippery Rock were one and two.

Other Huskies who placed were DiMarco, second; Dan Lechner, 150, third; Cappelli, fourth; Chris Poff, 158, fifth; and Brian Weigle, 190, fifth.

Bob Rohm new coach at Central

Robert Rohm '60 and '70 has been named head football coach at Central Columbia High School following the resignation of Don Engle in January. Rohm served as assistant to Coach Engle during the 1975 season.

Rohm, who joined the Central faculty in September, 1974, began his coaching career in 1960 when he became head coach at Montgomery High School. He continued at Montgomery until 1963, when he took over the reins at Bloomsburg High School and served as head coach until 1967.

He resigned the coaching position in order to complete work on his Master's Degree at BSC. He returned to coaching at Bloomsburg as an assistant coach under Stan Reeder from 1969 to 1974. He has also been assistant wrestling coach at BSC for the past two years.

When Rohm joined the Central Columbia faculty, he served as assistant coach to the freshmen team until he moved up as Engle's top aide for the 1975 season.

He and his wife, the former Merlim Bleber, and their two daughters, Denise, 15, and Tera, 14, live at 2306 Old Berwick Road, Bloomsburg, Pa. 17815.

Four swimmers at nationals

Four Husky swimmers represented BSC at the NCAA Division II championships at Springfield, Mass., on March 17-20.

Competing were Wayne Richards, who captured the 100-yard butterfly title at the Pennsylvania Conference championships; Gary Oberly, Steve Price and Keith Torok. The latter trio earned the trip to nationals by better qualifying times.

Results of the competition were not available at press time.

Puhl will coach Husky '11'

RONALD PUHL

The appointment of Ronald Puhl as head football coach at Bloomsburg State College was announced by Dr. Conrad A. Bautz, chairman of the department of health, physical education and athletics.

Puhl will replace William Sproule, who resigned his coaching assignment November 24 after five years as head football coach. Sproule will remain on the health and physical education department staff.

Puhl, a member of the college staff since 1966, was recommended by the search and screening committee headed by Dr. Louis Mingrone, a member of the BSC biology department and head soccer coach.

The new grid coach has been head track coach at the college for the past nine years and served as cross country coach last fall. He also served as assistant football coach under Russ Houk from 1966 through 1967 and under Jerry Denstorff from 1968 through 1970.

Puhl's track teams since 1970 have established an overall record of 76 wins and 8 losses, while his 1975 cross country team posted eight wins against three losses. He will continue as head track coach for the coming season.

A native of Pottstown, Puhl was a three-letter winner in football, track and field, and swimming at Lock Haven State College between 1957 and 1961. He was named to the NAIA "Little All-American Team" in 1960 for football and was a Pennsylvania State College champion in the 200-yard low hurdles in 1961.

Puhl received his M.Ed. degree from West Chester State College in 1966 and has served as swim club manager, gymnastics instructor, lifeguard, and camp counselor.

He is married to the former Georgetta Simmons, who is also a health and physical education graduate of Lock Haven State College in 1961. The Puhls live on Country Club Drive, Bloomsburg.

Alumni cagers edged in final seconds

(From The Morning Press)

Tom Kelsh's two free throws with 19 seconds left on the clock carried Bloomsburg State College's basketball team to a 96-95 victory over the Alumni squad at Nelson Fieldhouse on February 14.

The combination of Husky varsity and junior varsity performers battled back from a 56-45 halftime deficit to take the lead with just over seven minutes left in the game on a field goal by Kevin Crouse.

The Alumni had a final shot at winning when Tony DaRe, assistant cage coach at Central Columbia High School, sent a 20-footer through the hoop, but officials ruled the shot was taken after the buzzer had sounded.

The Husky Alumni gave the varsity all it could handle. The ex-BSC performers combined their inside power game, built around the work of Jim Platukis, Howard Johnson, Gary Tyler, and Mark Yanchak, with the driving play of Paul Kuhn, Bob Snyder, and Rick Fertig, along with front court leadership provided by Art Luptowski, DaRe, Mike Ognosky and Gary Choyka.

Yanchak, the game's leading scorer with 22 points, sparked the Alumni to an early lead. He tallied 19 points in the first 20 minutes of action as the former BSC players jumped out to an eight-point lead and extended the margin to as much as 14 points before settling for the 56-45 half-time edge.

Yanchak netted 10 field goals and was 2-4 at the charity stripe for his game-high effort.

Other Alumni players scoring in double figures were Platukis, 14; Johnson, 13, and Snyder, 10.

BSC was led by Rick Joseph with 11 markers. Jerry Radocha and Miles Reinouner added 10 each.

Head coach Charles Chronister, in the role of spectator as he left the coaching to his assistants, remarked after the game, "not only are they (the Alumni) a group of excellent players, they are also super as persons and it gives one a sense of pride to be associated with people of their caliber."

One of the fans made a post-game comment that "with a little conditioning, the Alumni could win the league."

(Editor's Note: Our apologies to the Alumni players, their wives and members of the Husky Club for not having the photographs we promised. It seems there was no film in the camera. Sorry, we goofed!)

Houk given prestigious FILA medal

Russ Houk, former wrestling coach, football coach and athletic director at Bloomsburg State College, was recently presented with one of the highest awards given in international sports competition.

While at the World Cup Wrestling Matches in Toledo, Ohio, he was awarded the Amateur Federation of International Lutte Medal in recognition of his efforts in promoting international sports (Lutte is a French term for wrestling.)

Houk, chairman of the U.S. Olympic Wrestling Committee, has led U.S. wrestling teams on goodwill tours through Poland and Russia. He was also instrumental in bringing the Soviet free-style team to BSC last spring. The Polish Greco-style team competed at BSC the previous year.

In a few weeks, he will open the camp for the U.S. wrestling team that will vie in the 1976 Olympic Games in Montreal, Canada.

His ambition is to develop the '76 team into the same quality unit that was the surprise of the 1972 games in Munich. The Americans won six medals at Munich, including three gold.

Houk is still on the BSC faculty and resides in Bloomsburg.

Consortium operates marine science bases

AN INTEGRAL resource of the marine science consortium is the 90-foot research vessel, "An-nandale. It has an operating radius of 6,000 nautical miles at cruising speed. It has sleeping accommodations for 15 and an operating crew of three to seven, depending on type and length of operation.

Programs in marine and environmental sciences have been available to BSC students since 1969. The idea of a cooperative effort by Pennsylvania State Colleges to operate a marine station originated in the science department of Millersville State College.

By December, 1968, seven colleges had signed a letter of agreement to operate a marine science consortium. In 1975, membership consisted of eleven of the state colleges in Pennsylvania, Pennsylvania State University, American University, Catholic University, Alderson Broaddus College, West Virginia University, Catonsville Community College and Washington Technical Institute.

The purpose of the consortium is to promote teaching and research in the marine and environmental sciences. This is achieved by operating several programs in two year-around field stations: the Delaware Bay Marine Center at Lewes, Delaware, and the Wallops Island Marine Science Center, Wallops Island, Virginia, where a full time staff of 25, several research vessels, classrooms, labs, dorms and dining halls are available to serve over 200 students at any time. A third station, the Lake Erie Marine Science Center was opened in 1975.

The consortium offers a variety of programs to meet the needs of students from high schools as well as graduate students:

(1) The College Fieldtrip Program is offered during the spring and fall, providing the required marine experience to undergraduates enrolled in courses at inland institutions. More than 1,200 were enrolled in 1975.

(2) The College Summer Program offers about 30 undergraduate and graduate marine science courses and research cruises lasting three weeks each. Enrollment has grown from 144 in the summer of 1969 to 470 in 1975.

(3) The Pre-College Oceanography Program presents three-day intensive mini-sessions during week days in spring and fall. This year, more than 3000 high school students took part in this program.

(4) Special programs include the ten-week spring "Quarter on the Shore" of Penn State University, involving 50 undergraduates; several one-week offshore research cruises for advanced students, including marine biology and geological research and studies of the effect of marine waste disposal; in-service programs, seminars and various coastal and offshore research projects.

Emphasis is on field-work in estuaries, wetlands, and on the open sea. The cost for food, board and operations last year varied from $200 for one three-week session to $180 per session for three or more sessions.

When Bloomsburg students first entered this program in 1969, there were 3,181 students in the program from the seven original colleges. Last year there were 24,380 enrolled.

Students interested in more information about marine science at BSC should write to Professor Lavere McCure, Bloomsburg State College, Bloomsburg, Pa. 17815.

BSC alumnus selected for freedom medal

William P. Vannan '63, a native of Danville now teaching in Delaware, has been named a recipient of a 1975 award of the Freedom's Foundation at Valley Forge.

His citation was based on an essay he wrote on the ideals of freedom he tries to instill in his students and on letters of recommendation. A date for presentation of the award has not been set.

Vannan graduated cum laude from BSC and earned his master's degree from the University of Delaware. He is presently working on his doctorate.

He heads the social studies department at the Glasgow High School in Newark, Delaware.

Since 1949, Freedom's Foundation has annually recognized individuals and organizations for their words and actions supporting American principles, for contributing to good citizenship, and for offering solutions to national problems.

Summer '76: Something for everyone

Over 300 undergraduate and graduate courses will be offered by Bloomsburg State College during its seven summer sessions for 1976.

Sessions scheduled for undergraduates, graduates and continuing education students include three six-week sessions and four three-week sessions.

The dates of the sessions are as follows:

Session I — June 1 to July 9; Session II — June 21 to July 30; Session III — July 12 to August 20; Session IV — June 1 to June 18; Session V — June 21 to July 9; Session VI — July 12 to July 30; and Session VII — August 2 to August 20.

Special programs

The majority of the offerings at both the graduate and undergraduate levels are for three semester hours of credit. Special programs are available in art, biology, communications disorders, educational studies and services, English, history, special education, sociology and anthropology.

A workshop is planned for teachers of the trainable mentally retarded.

Two study-abroad programs will be offered. The first is the seventh summer program, Bloomsburg in Spain, scheduled for June 28 through August 3 for undergraduates and from June 28 through August 17 for graduate students. The academic program will be conducted at Madrid University.

The second is a summer study in Europe, available through the Pennsylvania Consortium for International Pennsylvania.

Summer theatre

The ninth summer theatre program will feature two major productions, one during each six-week period, featuring a star guest artist from the professional theatre. All students are invited to participate in the theatre program.

The program of undergraduate courses of the 1976 summer sessions strives to provide the following educational opportunities:

— Full-time students may accelerate their programs;

MABEL AND LOUNETA LORAH

Lorah sisters

"Of course, the children were all of pre-school age, and at times we had up to 330 enrolled. We had 21 Japanese teachers, and I was the only foreigner."

"All of my teaching was done in Japanese, and I also preached in Japanese. At one time, I had five churches where I preached — one in a very remote mountain area. These churches were reached by public bus, and I must say the Japanese transportation was excellent."

"I also taught Bible classes, made home visitations, and worked with one convicted murderer for 9½ years while he served a prison sentence."

"The only way one can visit a prisoner in Japan is to have a direct relationship. Since the prisoner's child was in our school, I was granted permission to visit during the 9½ years."

"I helped him study the Bible and often wrote four and five pages to him in Japanese in order to answer one of his questions."

"The reward came when he was released from prison and began a new life as a free person and happy family man."

Louneta Lorah returned to the United States in 1974, after 20 years and three months of missionary work and 27½ years in the West Pittston schools. She returned to the same house in which she was born and reared and which she had maintained during all her years abroad.

What was the highlight of her years in Japan or what brought the greatest satisfaction?

"I would say that I was given the power and ability to learn the language," she replied. "Because of this, I was able to communicate with people. I am still receiving letters from people who I know would not try to write to a foreigner if they felt I didn't know their language well enough to read their letters."

Mrs. Rees has been a collector of rare china, silver, lace and rugs. She is a recognized authority on these items as well as California history and human interest stories of local people and why they came to California before 1900.

In her most recent letter to Edwin Barton, a classmate at BSNS, Mrs. Rees stated her desire to return for the 69th or 70th class reunion.

"The persecution of Christians in both North and South Korea is very much on my heart," she exclaimed as the interview closed. "Missionaries are being accused of spying against the South Korean government and are given long prison terms."

Many lives touched

In "A Woman's World," we know that many lives have been touched by the love and devotion of Mabel and Louneta Lorah in their work as teachers, preachers, missionaries, linguists and social workers.

Address Correction Requested

'Call to return was strong'

As an ex-GI returning to the campus of (then) Bloomsburg State Teachers College in September of 1946, I found that there was something which had drawn me back to the school I had left three years before when my education had been interrupted.

I could have entered other post-secondary schools, for I had no responsibilities and a rather lucrative GI educational benefit. But the call to return to Bloomsburg was strong. There was a spirit about Bloomsburg that had been retained over that three-year gap.

I have never been sorry that I returned to Bloomsburg to finish my education. The educational areas I pursued, the instructors I experienced, the activities in which I engaged, and the general small college atmosphere were all conducive to a maturing process that involved a happy life.

Did you have an experience similar to that when you attended Bloomsburg? How many times have you thought that you were happy you attended Bloomsburg State?

Many of you have repaid Bloomsburg many times and in many ways. In our recent annual-giving campaign during which the first leg of that program was completed, many who had never contributed to the Alumni fund did so at that time. And we are so appreciative of your giving.

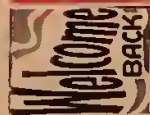

But many have said to me that they had not given as yet, but there really wasn't any excuse. And they promised that this would be accomplished. In addition, we must have continued giving if we desire to continue to provide the services that we are now providing: more frequent and better publications; aid in beautifying the campus; aid to athletics, and many, many other areas.

You can help Bloomsburg realize many wonderful things if you begin or continue an annual giving program. Keep the spirit that has been Bloomsburg the kind of thing you'll always revere

Over 250 return for Alumni weekend

Presentation of two Distinguished Service Awards, unofficial kickoff of the 1976 fund drive, and election of seven directors highlighted the annual Alumni Day luncheon on May 1 which attracted about 250 alumni and friends, representing classes covering a span of 71 years.

Recipients of the two Distinguished Service Awards for 1976 were Earl A. Gehrig '37 and Frank J. Golder '31, both residents of Bloomsburg. (See separate story in this issue.)

Only 10 percent gave

Executive Director Donald A. Watts announced the beginning of the 1976 fund drive to provide the $50,000 necessary to continue services to alumni, students, and the college in general.

He noted that although last year's goal of $50,000 was realized, $10,000 of that amount went to the professional fundraising organization that directed the campaign.

As of May 1, all but $1,400 of the balance had been expended on various items in the association's budget, including an $8,000 donation to the campus beautification project, preparation of publications, and employment of a full-time executive director.

Watts pointed out that less than 10 percent of the 20,000 living alumni contributed to last year's fund drive. If each of the 20,000 alumni gave at least five dollars a year, he noted, the association would have twice as much money as it hopes to raise in the 1976 fund drive.

Classes recognized

The executive director displayed three banners: one to recognize the Class of 1935 for the highest percentage of members participating in the 1975 drive; one giving credit to the Class of 1952 for contributing the most money; and another to the Class of 1972 for having the greatest number of contributors. They are on display in the alumni office and will be replaced as necessary.

Watts reported that an eight-by-ten-inch color photograph of Carver Hall, suitable for framing, will be given to anyone who contributes at least $17.76 to the Bicentennial fund drive. (See separate article in this issue for details of the current giving campaign.)

Directors elected

Re-elected to the board of directors for three-year terms ending on Alumni Day, 1979, were the following:

Earl A. Gehrig '37, Dr. Frank J. Furgele '52, Dr. Alex J. McKechnie, Jr., '39, Dr. C. Stuart Edwards '41, Poletime Demetrikopoulos '44, and Richard Grimes '49.

Elected as a new director was Richard Lloyd '62, replacing Col. Elwood Wagner, who declined another term because of other commitments.

Members of the nominating committee were John Trathen, chairman; Douglas Hippenstiel, Kenneth Roberts, Mary Lou John, and Elmer Robinson.

Alumni's important role

Dr. James H. McCormick, president of the college, acknowledged the important role played by the alumni association in the growth and development of BSC.

He cited, for example, the association's financial support of the campus beautification effort now underway. He said the appearance of the campus helps create good first-impressions on prospective students.

As a result, they request more information about the college, giving admissions staff and other personnel an opportunity to tell them about BSC's other strong points.

Dr. McCormick reported there are about 4,000 applicants for 1,100 openings in next year's freshman class, even though many other colleges — private and state-supported — have been troubled with declining enrollments. He said enrollments are running about six percent ahead of 1975, while transfers from other schools are up about 18 percent.

He credited the alumni with helping to maintain a strong enrollment

$50,000 needed for service-packed budget

The Annual Fund Drive for 1976 officially got underway on May 17 when more than 17,000 letters were mailed to alumni and friends of BSC asking for their continued support.

This year a budget of approximately $50,000 will be needed to continue the services of a full-time executive director, campus beautification, student loans, grants-in-aid to athletes, assistance in admissions and placement, the strengthening of legislative contacts for adequate support of public higher education, publication of The Alumni Quarterly and support of college projects not funded by the state.

More 'givers' needed

The 1976 Annual Fund Drive will concentrate on increasing the number of alumni contributing. Last year, only 1,653 (less than 10 percent) of eligible members gave to the drive.

The leadership of the association and the committee members hope that all alumni on our mailing list will be dues-paying members with a contribution of at least five dollars.

Anyone contributing $17.76 or more will receive an eight-by-ten-inch colored picture of Carver Hall as a Bicentennial bonus. However, there are many categories of giving, with payments through December. These gift categories include:

$5,000 will provide an Annual Living Scholarship in your name;

$2,500 will provide a Bi-Annual Living Scholarship in your name;

$1,000 or more — Membership in the Golden Circle;

$600 to $999 — Membership in the Maroon Circle;

$300 to $599 — Membership in the BSC Club;

$100 to $299 — Membership in Century Associates,

$60 to $99 — Sponsor;

$17.76 to $59 — Supporting Member.

The theme of the year's fund drive is "For 137 Years — BSC Alumni and Friends have supported The Spirit of '76 and the Annual Fund Drive."

That's the spirit!

The 1976 fund drive is off to a good start. By the end of just three days, the alumni office has already received $2,755 from 65 donors.

Highlights of May 1 board meeting

Highlights of the BSC Alumni Association Board of Directors' meeting on Saturday, May 1, included the following:

— Executive Director Donald A. Watts outlined plans for the 1976 fund-raising drive. He challenged the board of directors with a goal of $5,000 as their total contributions. The goal set for the two-year drive was $2,500; thirteen directors contributed $3,885, while two directors contributed nothing.

— Earl Gehrig, treasurer, presented the 1976-77 budget, calling it the "initial proposal." He emphasized the fact that the association could lose its tax status with this budget, since a certain percentage must be allocated for worthy projects in order for members to list their gifts as tax deductible. The finance committee will consider this matter.

— The largest amount ever has been granted in loans to students.

— It was emphasized that there must be increased financial participation by alumni. If each alumnus would give only five or ten dollars annually, the association would be in a very sound financial position.

— Col. Elwood Wagner of the property committee proposed creation of a Founder's Club to raise funds for an Alumni House. He suggested asking for pledges of $1,839 (year BSC was founded) to be paid over a period of five or six years. He said it is possible to get 10 people to start this fund. Money would then be available when the time is right to purchase an Alumni House.

The only concern expressed was that this appeal might divert much-needed operating funds from the association. The executive committee and the finance committee were requested to consider this proposal.

— It was suggested that the county alumni associations be reactivated. Some attempts are being made.

— Clayton Hinkle, secretary, reported that the association's publications are helping to improve alumni relations. He said he has contacted a number of alumni to ask for news. Directors are requested to provide items for publication.

At publication time, there were still a few seats available for the Romania-Black Sea Resort tour. The travel agency has advised the Alumni Office that this tour is so popular that the second plane is nearly filled.

Departure has been rescheduled from August 16 to August 17, and the return flight will be one day later — August 31 instead of August 30.

The cost is $359 plus 15 percent for tax and service charges. A deposit of $100 per person is required with the reservation.

Ludwig is busy man

In addition to his responsibilities as president of the Bloomsburg State College Alumni Association, he also serves in the following capacities in his profession and his community:

— Administrative assistant in the Millville School District.

— Athletic director for the school district.

ONE-YEAR APPOINTMENT

Miss Randa J. Gossin, President of Class of 1976, 1850 Harfman Dr., Woodlyn, PA 19094. (215) TR4-6788.

'We're in awe of you,' Wambach tells grads

"More I cannot wish you, than that you patiently perceive the pleasures which are yours in Pennsylvania — or your own adopted paradise — and that you add those experiences to the foundation of life which you have begun building at Bloomsburg."

Those were the sentiments of Peter C. (Pete) Wambach, public relations director of the state Bureau of Travel Development, when he spoke May 16 at the Bloomsburg State College Commencement Convocation at the Bloomsburg Fairgrounds.

BSC President James H. McCormick conferred baccalaureate degrees on 628 candidates, and William Zurick, president of the board of trustees, presented diplomas to representatives of the various schools.

Introducing the candidates were Dr. Edson J. Drake, dean of the School of Arts and Sciences; Dr. Emory W. Rarig, Jr., dean of the School of Business; and Dr. C. Stuart Edwards, dean of the School of Professional Studies.

Accepting diplomas on behalf of their respective schools were Marjorie E. Weiss, Arts and Sciences; Gregory W. Myers, Business; and Karin I. Hotzler, Professional Studies.

Candidates for Masters Degrees were introduced by Dr. Charles H. Carlson, dean of the School of Graduate Studies, and were hooded by Dr. Dayton S. Pickett, vice president and dean of the faculties, who also presided during the degree ceremony.

Randa J. Gossin, president of the Class of 1976, presented special remarks on behalf of the class.

'In awe of you'

Wambach told the audience that all Pennsylvanians are proud of the accomplishments of the graduates.

"There are some of us — I among them — who are in awe of you," Wambach said, "those of us to whom 'He who enters a university walks on hallowed ground.'"

Wambach said he was named press secretary to the late Gov. David Lawrence in 1959 and indicated both he and Lawrence had not graduated from college.

"We were both . . . aware that we lacked something which you have gained today," he said.

"He would agree, I am sure, that 'educated men are as much superior to uneducated men as the living are to the dead.'"

But Wambach explained that Lawrence was educated from the "school of life."

"He was an authority in certain fields: government, politics, history, sports, people, Pittsburgh, Pennsylvania. He could converse with authority on these subjects and did — one wrote no speeches for him in these areas."

"He had won his doctorate in humanity in a 70-year curriculum of experience of life — the experience of living."

"Without experience, education is as lifeless as a copper wire without current, as a seedling without soil," Wambach advised the students.

McCormick's comments

Dr. McCormick, in his welcoming remarks, complimented the graduates for their diligent work in achieving academic success. He referred to their significant contributions to the college, participating in student organizations, the arts, student government, athletics, service on committees, as well as service to the local community.

He offered a special word of congratulations and commendation to the graduate students for continuing their interest in furthering their education and for their willingness to make personal sacrifices to attain this goal.

Turning to the college itself, he said, "We will continue our efforts to be of service to the people of this area and responsive to the educational needs of the citizens of the Commonwealth. We want this campus to be not only an academic center, but a focal point for cultural, recreational, continuing education, and other programs as well."

In concluding, he praised the parents and families for their personal dedication in providing their sons and daughters with a college education. He indicated he felt the graduates would prove worthy of those sacrifices made.

He told the graduating class that more than half of the cost of their education had been assumed by the citizens of our Commonwealth in the form of fiscal support for the college.

"As alumni, I sincerely hope you will

CAROLINE CLARK MYERS '05

A graduate of Bloomsburg State Normal School in 1905, an active educator, author, and magazine publisher, was one of seven people to receive a special Freedoms Foundation award on February 21 at Valley Forge, Pennsylvania.

Mrs. Caroline Clark Myers, co-founder and managing editor of "Highlights for Children," was recognized for furthering two basic elements of America: a fundamental belief in God and the idea that the constitutional government was devised to serve the people.

Alumni award

The prestigious award is still another in a series of many to come to the woman who has devoted her life to teaching and writing. Mrs. Myers was the recipient of the Bloomsburg State College Alumni Association's Distinguished Service Award in 1950.

One of the first rewarding experiences in her life, according to Mrs. Myers, came in 1930 when she received a Rockefeller Foundation grant for a year of study in child education and child development at the Merrill-Palmer School in Detroit and Columbia University.

'Highlights' founded

A native of Boyds Mills in Wayne County, Mrs. Myers taught at a number of colleges and universities, including Western Reserve University.

She and her late husband, Dr. Garry C. Myers, first edited "Children's Activities" before moving to Honesdale in 1946 and subsequently founding "Highlights." They also authored a number of scientific articles and several books.

Mrs. Myers continues to manage operations of the magazine from the editorial offices on Church Street in Honesdale.

The Freedoms Foundation awards jury noted that under her guidance, "Highlights" has become "an effective blend of games, fact, and realistic fiction which since 1949 has helped children grow into sensitive, reasoning, and patriotic adults."

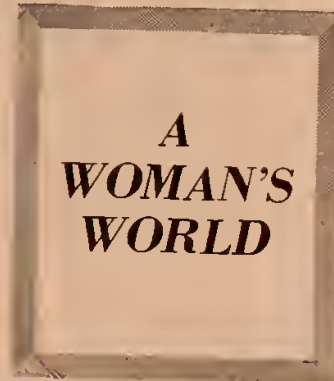

The jury observed that through her unceasing work and duty to her goal, Mrs. Myers has "motivated children to high ideals and a constructive life."

Select company

Mrs. Myers was nominated for the special award by the Honesdale Women's Club. Other National Recognition Award winners have included Gen. Lyman Lemnitzer, Gen. Omar Bradley, John Wayne, Kate Smith, Art Linkletter, Red Skelton, Anita Bryant and Bob Hope.

Mrs. Myers attended the ceremony at the Sheraton-Valley Forge Hotel at King of Prussia with her daughter, Elizabeth Myers Brown, an associate editor of "Highlights," and son-in-law, Dr. Kent Brown, Jr., an assistant editor of the children's periodical that holds an audience of more than one million subscribers.

Mrs. Myers and her late husband also received the B'Nai Brith of Honesdale special citizenship award in 1971, citing their community contributions.

Good days will follow bad, says MS mother

When the bad days come for Sylvia Mattis Pultyniewicz '63, she doesn't worry because the good days are bound to follow.

She worked out that philosophy after she got over the shock of learning in January, 1972, that she had multiple sclerosis.

Because of this outlook on life, Sylvia, who resides in the Pocono Trailer Court, Wilkes-Barre, was named "MS Hope Mother 1976" for the annual Hope Chest appeal of the Multiple Sclerosis Society in Luzerne County. The drive climaxed on Mother's Day, May 9.

Mother of two

After graduating from BSC in 1963, the young woman from Shamokin taught school for three years before her marriage to Raymond Pultyniewicz and one year after. Then she taught part-time as a substitute.

When it appeared they would have no children, Sylvia and Ray adopted Michael, a husky five-year-old who first came to them as a foster child.

Sylvia always loved gardening, but in the spring of 1971 her legs gave out. She became stangely tired from doing familiar work; she stumbled and fell.

Eventually, the family doctor sent her to the hospital, where her condition was diagnosed in January, 1972, as M.S.

"I was very depressed for quite a while," she admits. She soon gave up substitute teaching because the effort was too much. Being able to do less and less as time went by, depression became harder to fight.

Then came a big surprise — a son, Alan, who is now 14 months old.

"I never expected to have a baby. I could hardly believe it when I was told he was on the way," she recalls. "I haven't been depressed since he was born, and I feel stronger. We're all happier. I have hope now. I know those good days will follow the bad."

(This story is based on an article which appeared in the May 9 edition of The Sunday Independent, Wilkes-Barre.)

STRICKEN with multiple sclerosis, Sylvia Mattis Pultyniewicz, a 1965 graduate from Shamokin, has overcome the initial depression with the help of her family. She was selected as "MS Hope Mother" for Luzerne County in recognition of the way she has coped with this disease. Shown with her are her husband Raymond and sons Alan (left) and Michael.

'Life has been good,' reflects '06 alumna

Mary Witman Ryder '06 couldn't attend the Alumni Day festivities, but she responded with a beautiful "thank you" note to Executive Director Donald A. Watts after she received a certificate marking the occasion.

Impressed by the philosophy toward life of the BSNS' alumna, Watts received permission from Mrs. Ryder to print the letter, along with the photograph modestly forwarded with the observation that "picture taking is my favorite aversion."

Mrs. Ryder writes:

"I thought long and seriously about that Alumni Day, April 30, but it conflicted with my 89th birthday, and that involved several days of celebration by my family.

"I just can't believe that I am now starting on the shady side of my ninetieth year. Life has been good to me — almost perfect health, a 'fair to middlin' mind, enough of this world's goods to keep me more than comfortable, and a devoted family.

"I have run the whole gamut of experiences — from the horrendous to the sublimely beautiful. I have been robbed, mugged by a villain, stabbed, sent to Lankenau with a punctured lung, survived, went to the other extreme, had the fun of being crowned Queen for the Day on board the ship "Sea Venture" on a trip to Bermuda.

"I have revelled in the beauty of a lovely home and beautiful surroundings; recall with joy the fact that I started Dr. Keffer Hartline on his career in biology (Nobel Prize winner). This occurred while I was teaching in the "model school" at B.S.N.S. And, of course, my greatest joy was that of my married life and my children.

"Perhaps you were fortunate that all we octogenarians did not descend on you on April 30 — we are quite tottery and need a great deal of attention. How I should have enjoyed seeing my classmates! Thank you for sharing the reunion with me."

Mrs. Ryder's address is 5204 Overbrook Avenue, Philadelphia, PA 19131.

Husky Club hosts athletes at banquet

Nearly 50 outstanding men and women athletes of Bloomsburg State College were honored in April during the third annual "Day of Champions Banquet" sponsored by the Town and Gown Husky Club at Scranton Commons.

The annual banquet is given by the local support club to recognize the men and women athletes, including team captains, who brought acclaim to the college and greater Bloomsburg area during the past year.

$1,000 contribution

A highlight of the evening was the presentation of a $1,000 check by Harry Evert, president of the club, to Dr. Conrad A. Bautz, athletic director. In the previous two years, the club contributed $4,000 to the general athletic scholarship fund of the college and another to the scholarship fund for specific sports.

Fr. Petrina honored

Another feature of the evening was the honoring of the founder and first president of the club, Father Bernard Petrina, former BSC Catholic minister who now is in charge of three Harrisburg diocese programs. "The Padre" was presented a life-time membership award by Pat Haggerty, vice president.

During the course of the program, Housenick suggested establishing a BSC athletic hall of fame which would honor those BSC performers who have gained outstanding achievement at the national level. Input for the idea was requested.

Retired Professor John A. Hoch, a long-time enthusiast of Husky sports and former coach, was master of ceremonies. He introduced the coaches who then introduced their respective athletes.

Athletes recognized

Coaches and athletes recognized during the program included:

Football — Bill Sproule, coach; Steve Debuski, captain, Dave Hower, co-captain; Lou Sannutti, Bruce Smith, and Tom Brennan.

ATTENDING the Town and Gown Husky Club's "Day of Champions," honoring BSC athletes, were (from left) John Hoch, master of ceremonies; Al Bush, club treasurer and co-chairman of the fete; Robert Norton, vice president and co-chairman of the banquet; Harry Evert, president; Dr. Conrad A. Bautz, chairman of the Department of Health, Physical Education and Athletics; Father Bernard Petrina, first president of the organization; Pat Haggerty, vice president; Tina de Vries, Jerry Radocha, and Wayne Richards, BSC athletes; and Charles "Nick" Housenick, member of the banquet committee.

Alumnus sparked interest in wrestling

Glenn Rupert '65 can well be the envy of would-be great coaches. His story of coaching is one of "rags to riches" for wrestling in a school where interest in the sport did not exist. But with persistence and hard work over a period of ten years, wrestling matches now are sold out days in advance with crowds of over 1,000.

A graduate of Bloomsburg High School in 1961 and BSC in 1965 with a major in biology, Rupert began his teaching career in Clark Junior High School, Waterford, Conn.

That was the same year that Waterford High School started a wrestling program. At the end of the first year, Rupert was asked by the athletic director to coach the team, a responsibility he immediately accepted. It seems that the first-year coach knew nothing about wrestling and had only taken the job so Waterford could have a team.

Took many lumps

Rupert was surprised to learn that Waterford and Ledyard High School were the only teams in Southeastern Connecticut, and that the only places in the state where the sport was established was in Hartford and Southwestern Connecticut.

Consequently, these were the teams that gave Rupert's matmen many lumps the first three years. But with the philosophy that strength is earned through tough competition, the Waterford High School team has developed one of the top wrestling teams in the state. Their overall record is 74 wins, 62 losses, and two ties, but the story is better after the bruises of the first three years — the last six years have produced a record of 61-25-2.

Under Rupert's guidance, meets were changed from afternoons to evenings; white uniforms that looked like "long johns" were replaced with uniforms in school colors of blue with white trim; admission was charged, and wrestling at Waterford was on its way to becoming a major sport.

GLENN RUPERT '65

Klembara new coach at Hazleton

Mike "Gish" Klembara '63 has been named head football coach at Hazleton High School. He has been head coach at Lourdes Regional High School, Shamokin, for the past nine years.

A native of Pottsville, Klembara lettered in track and football at BSC. He graduated with a B.S. degree in secondard education with a major in mathematics.

His record at Lourdes included 67 wins, 23 losses and two ties. He had unbeaten teams in 1972 and 1974, and the latter team won the Eastern Conference Southern Division crown and tied West Scranton, 14-14, in the title playoff.

Two of his teams finished 9-1, and another had an 8-2 record. Lourdes won 23 straight from 1971-1973 before losing to Pottsville, 15-14.

He was on the 1975 Big 33 coaching staff.

During those first three years, spectators numbered from 15 to 25, but the increased interest in wrestling has resulted in Connecticut's first sell-out crowd for any wrestling match.

It happened this year when Waterford met Ledyard (state champs in four of the last five years) before a crowd of 1,000. All tickets were sold two days before the meet.

Although the Rupert-men came out on the short end of the meet by a score of 30 to 21, they continue to be perennial runners-up for the Eastern Connecticut Conference. Spectators now average 700 for each wrestling meet at Waterford.

It must be most gratifying to Rupert, whose love of wrestling was cut short in high school by a shoulder injury, that wrestling is now a major sport in the state, and that Waterford now supports a varsity-junior varsity program of 50 boys, plus a freshman program that included three meets this year.

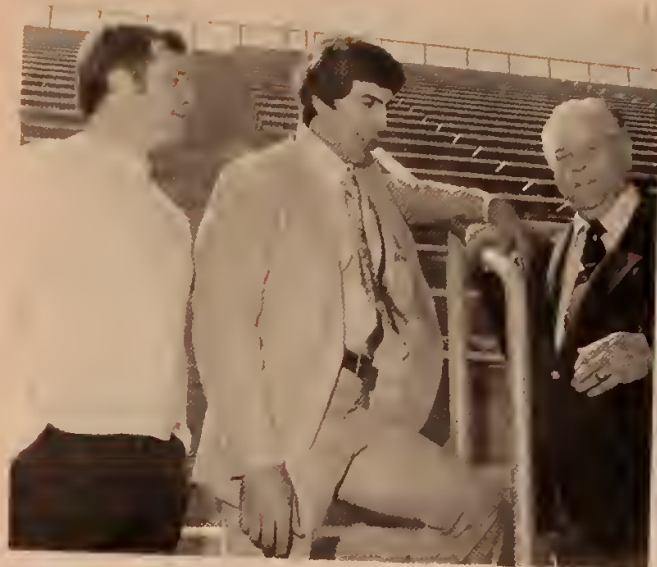

Glenn's mother, Emily Edwards Rupert, is a BSC graduate in the Class of 1926, and his wife, Nancy Kuhen Rupert, is a graduate of Keene State College and teaches home economics in Waterford High School. They live at 66 Seacrest Avenue, Niantic, Conn. 06357.

Two BSC netmen win championships

Senior Jim Overbaugh and Sophomore Jim Hollister captured individual titles May 1 in the Pennsylvania Conference tennis championships at Shippensburg State College. Their championships helped BSC capture second place in the race for the team crown, behind East Stroudsburg.

Reaching the finals was Mike Pichola, while Drew Hostetter and Phil Christman advanced to the semifinals.

Alumni luncheon

BOB TUCKER '68, tight end for the New York Giants, stopped at the BSC campus this spring and had a chance to see the new Redman Stadium. With Tucker on the tour were Ron Puhl (left), new head football coach of the Huskies, and Elton Hunsinger, veteran college administrator and sports enthusiast who was dean of men when Tucker was an undergraduate.

Lost class rings at alumni office

Several Bloomsburg State College class rings have been turned in to the alumni office. The lost rings may be claimed by contacting the alumni office and describing them

All-America honors

Wayne Richards '79, captain of the Bloomsburg State College swimming and diving team, earned All-America honors March 20 when he finished eighth in the 200-yard butterfly at the NCAA Division II championships at Springfield, Mass.

Richards finished third in his heat during the time trials (9th among the top 12 qualifiers) with a time of 1:59.025, then claimed eighth place in the consolation finals with a clocking of 1:58.019.

Head Coach Eli McLaughlin said Richards was in the fastest heat during the time trials.

BSC performers competed in two other events, but failed to qualify for the consolations or championship finals. They were Keith Torok, an All-America swimmer last year, in the 100-yard freestyle, and Steve Price, Gary Oberly, Richards and Torok in the 400-yard freestyle relay.

Pointer elected by BSC Assembly

Dr. Roy D. Pointer, associate professor of chemistry, was elected presiding officer of the B.S.C. Representative Assembly at the organizational meeting of the college's new internal governance organization.

Dr. Pointer, who joined the faculty in 1969, was elected unanimously by the 92 members of the Assembly who represent nearly 6,000 students and the 625 college employees.

The Assembly replaces the College Senate and differs from the Senate in that all constituencies of the college community are represented.

Membership includes 35 students and approximately the same number of faculty, in addition to administrative officers and representatives of the faculty and support staff unions.

The function of the Representative Assembly is to serve as a forum for the discussion of college matters, a framework for the maintenance of a coordinated committee system, and an organization to recommend college policies. The major focus will be on educational policy.

President James H. McCormick, noting the implementation of the Assembly, said he believes strongly that "the various constituencies in an academic community can and must participate significantly in the process of internal campus governance."

situation by promoting the college by what they say about their alma mater and by the success of their own careers.

"You have distinguished yourselves as graduates who are building a reputation for Bloomsburg as a quality institution that cares about students," he observed.

McCormick also acknowledged the assistance provided by alumni in the placement of Bloomsburg graduates in a difficult job market.

He expressed appreciation for the support of alumni in helping to resolve the retrenchment issue which threatened to force a layoff of employees and curtail the overall program of the college.

Reminding the alumni that their association is the only permanent phase of the college, Dr. McCormick said the alumni have been represented in the long-range planning of BSC's future growth and development.

He noted, too, that the association's $65,000 student loan fund helps many students who would otherwise find it difficult to raise the $10,000 it now costs for four years at Bloomsburg.

Contributions announced

During the roll call of the reunion classes, the 60-year Class of 1916 and the 50-year Class of 1926 announced contributions of $470 and $57 respectively to the campus beautification fund.

In addition, Donald K. Bechtel, treasurer of the Class of 1976, presented a check for $500 on behalf of the graduating class and said the class plans to purchase three flag poles as part of the beautification project.

Oldest member present

Mrs. Vera Housenick '05, Bloomsburg, was the oldest person attending the annual luncheon. Other alumni of classes prior to 1911 in attendance were Edwin Barton '07 and Julia Gregg Brill '10.

All three were also recognized as past recipients of the Distinguished Service Award. Other recipients present, and recognized, were Dr. Harvey A. Andruss, Howard F. Fenstermaker '12, Col. Elwood Wagner '43, Boyd F. Buckingham '43, and Commander Curtis English '53. Two other recipients — Alfaretta Stark Wilner '12 and Judge John Lavelle '41 — were at the Friday night event.

Reunion classes had the following representation at the luncheon: 1911 — 3; 1916 — 9; 1921 — 9; 1926 — 35; 1931 — 22; 1936 — 3; 1941 — 12; 1946 — none; 1951 — 6; 1956 — 2; 1961 — 5; 1966 — 2; 1971 — none.

New answers

In brief remarks, President Emeritus Harvey A. Andruss said it is necessary to seek new answers to old questions, and that the alumni association and the college are doing just that. He commended Alumni President Millard Ludwig, Executive Director Watts, and President McCormick for their leadership.

'Come back in October'

Boyd Buckingham, vice president for administration, reported on the campus beautification plan and indicated it may take five or ten years to implement.

He invited all alumni to return in October, however, to see the first fruits of what the committee has been doing with money from the alumni association and the Community Government Association.

Four specific projects will be finished first: a mall between Scranton Commons and Kehr Union, which will be started as soon as work is completed on Lycoming Residence Hall; a fountain and plaza in front of Haas Auditorium; a picnic and parking area near Columbia Residence Hall; and the start of a project to move parking areas to the periphery of the campus.

First appearance

Attending his first Alumni Day festivities since being appointed executive director of the alumni association, Donald Watts promised to uphold the standards of those who have guided the association in the past — usually on a volunteer basis along with other full-time employment.

President Ludwig presided during the business meeting, while the Rev. Oliver Krapf offered the invocation and presented the Distinguished-Service Awards as chairman of the selection committee.

Program approved for M.B.A.

Bloomsburg State College has received approval from the Pennsylvania Department of Education to offer a graduate program leading to the degree of Master of Business Administration. Students will be enrolled to begin studies in September.

With the addition of the M.B.A. program, the college now offers 85 different degree programs in business, liberal arts and teacher education.

It is the second major academic program to be approved as a result of the work of the Presidential Long-range Planning Commission. A Bachelor of Science in nursing program received initial approval by the Department of Education last September, with approval by the State Board of Nurse Examiners following in January. First-year nursing students began studies at the beginning of the current academic year.

A certification program in early childhood education was also approved in September and is being offered by the Department of Elementary Education. Since the addition of the certification program gives the department a dual major purpose, the board of trustees has approved a change in the name of the department to Department of Elementary and Early Childhood Education.

Supervision program

The college has also received permission to develop a proposal for a graduate certification program in public school supervision. The post-Masters degree program in supervision is the first of its kind to be proposed in the Commonwealth. Instruction in the program will involve six departments of the college.

Permission to develop the supervision program was included in a Department of Education response to the 1975-78 Three-Year Action Plan submitted by BSC a year ago.

Under permission received a year ago, the college is developing for evaluation and possible approval baccalaureate degree programs in computer science, social administration, rural-urban affairs, and environmental studies. Masters degree programs in mathematics and economics, and a certification program in environmental education are also being developed.

Of the new programs outlined in the 1975-78 plan, six were listed by the Department of Education as approvable, with the college being permitted to develop further the degree proposals.

In addition to the nursing and supervision programs, these proposals include a baccalaureate degree program in international business, a certification program in special education, a Master's degree program in early childhood education, and a five-year program in engineering to be offered in conjunction with another institution.

INSTRUMENTAL in developing the Master of Business Administration degree program recently approved were (from left) Dr. James B. Creasy, professor of business; Robert P. Yori, chairman, Department of Business Administration; Dr. James H. McCormick, BSC president; Dr. Harvey A.

Andruss, BSC president emeritus; Dr. Emory W. Rarig, Jr., dean, School of Business; and Dr. Charles H. Carlson, dean, School of Graduate Studies.

Business: a long tradition at BSC

Editor's Note: Bloomsburg State College has come a long way in the field of business, long considered a specialty of the college. The following article traces some of the developments from the earliest days to the present-day offering of a Master of Business Administration degree.

The tradition of Bloomsburg State College in the field of business extends back more than a century. At that time the identifying title "Commercial Institute" was used.

The curriculum represented subjects to be used in business, not teaching, and included bookkeeping, shorthand, and typewriting. In 1884 penmanship was added to the curriculum and in 1888 instruction began in commercial law.

In 1904, the name was changed from Department of Stenography and Typewriting to the Commercial Department. In addition to stenography and typewriting, the curriculum offered bookkeeping, penmanship, commercial law, commercial geography, and commercial arithmetic.

Two curricular options were available to students. A first option was a three-year course for Normal School students preparing to teach, while the other was designed to meet the needs of special students preparing to devote themselves exclusively to work in the business world. In about 1910, courses in business practice and office methods were introduced.

Enter Dr. Andruss

In 1930, approval was received to establish a department for the training and preparation of teachers in commercial subjects at Bloomsburg. The director of the department was Harvey A. Andruss, who had come from Indiana State Teachers College in Indiana, Pa.

The program was called "Commercial Teachers Training Curriculum" and was announced in the spring of the year in a special bulletin. At that time, a total of two instructors taught all business subjects. The newly-created Department of Commerce proudly announced it had enrolled 50 students in its curriculum.

In 1933, the title, "Department of Business Education" was approved.

The undergraduate curriculum required a total of 136 credits, and in May, 1933, six students were graduated.

Options increase

With the offering of further options by 1938, a student could choose among concentrations in bookkeeping, stenography, retail selling, or a combined commercial sequence.

In February of 1947, the first Retail Sales Training Conference was held and continued until 1962. Its purpose was to provide a practical and inspirational program for businessmen, to foster better relationships between the college and business, and to give students in the sales sequence opportunity to organize and administer community activities.

Building completed

In 1960 Sutliff Hall was completed and occupied by the current School of Business. This new facility provided a well-designed facility in which business activities could foster and grow. The School of Business remains in that location today, and many alumni will recall taking classes in this building.

In the summer of 1961, the Master of Education degree in Business Education was inaugurated. In August, 1967, the college was authorized to start a Bachelor of Science in Business Administration degree, and the first class was admitted in the spring of 1968.

By this time, the School of Business had been created and subdivided into a Department of Business Education and

Biology workshop

Over 100 high school students and their teachers, representing 36 high schools from Pennsylvania, New York and New Jersey, attended the seventh annual biology workshop held at Bloomsburg State College on April 10.

Student-organized and student-presented, the workshop was held in cooperation with the biology department faculty.

Through this experience, it is hoped the students discovered things about college work that will help them make decisions about future college study. If they found the work interesting, challenging, and rewarding, they may choose BSC for their collegiate careers.

a Department of Business Administration. The faculty has grown from two in 1930 to 25 at present, 18 of which are in the Department of Business Administration.

Real pride

The letter received from the Secretary of Education authorizing Bloomsburg State College to inaugurate a Master of Business Administration degree program is another milestone in the long and respected tradition the college holds in the development of programs to prepare students to work in the business world.

The excellence which has characterized this area in the past will be reflected in the students who are graduated from the Master of Business Administration program in the future. It is with great pride that the college makes this announcement to its alumni.

A. K. Naugle '11, in a letter to Dr. McCormick, writes as follows: "I feel I owe BSC for an education, fond memories, many friends and a wonderful wife. I married a classmate, Irma C. Miller in 1913, and we had 57 happy years together and raised a fine family — two boys and two girls — all of whom are married." He also included brief mention of his four grandsons and four granddaughters and some of their accomplishments. He said he feels good despite being in and out of eight different hospitals in four different states. He noted he was glad to hear the alumni fund drive went over the top. He is residing at 546 Ryders Lane, East Brunswick, N.J.

1914

Lt. Gen. Idwal H. Edwards (Ret.) '14 is residing at 2401 South Meade Street, Arlington, Virginia 22202. Although unable to attend Alumni Day ceremonies, he extends his regards to his old friends and former classmates.

Dorothy Newman Abramson '26, unable to attend the 50-year reunion of her class, writes to Executive Director Watts, thanking the association for the Alumni Certificate sent to her in observance of Alumni Day: "I retired from teaching in the Baltimore School system three years ago and am now studying art under one of the well-known artists in this city. I work in all mediums — pencil, pastels, watercolor and oil. I derive a great deal of pleasure from my work — in fact, a whole new world has opened up for me. This certainly is just what one needs at my age." Her address is 6230 Blackstone Avenue, Baltimore, Md. 21209.

Dr. Margaret Bittner Parke '26 was unable to attend the 50th Year Class Reunion on Alumni Day because she was traveling in Iran, Kuwait and Turkey from April 26 to May 10. She is planning to participate in the Alumni Association group tour to Romania and the Black Sea in August. She is residing at 1655 Flatbush Ave., Apt. 1810-A, Brooklyn, N.Y. 11210.

Ruth Laude Hughes '26 was unable to attend her 50-year class reunion because of deaths and illnesses in her family. A little over a year ago, she "smashed" her hip and broke several other bones in a fall. She subsequently contracted pneumonia and a serious leg infection. She is now walking again — a little slower — with a steel ball and socket as a hip joint and a ten-inch steel spindle in her thigh bone. She and her husband are hoping to attend the 55-year reunion in 1981.

Lydia Rauch Fortner '31 is now Mrs. Hank Butler. They are residing at 215 First Avenue, Waverly, Ohio 45690.

Isabel Eshleman '31 has been married to Myron Heckman. Their address is Martzville Road, Berwick, Pa. 18603.

Charles F. Hensley '33, principal of Coughlin High School in Wilkes-Barre since 1967, is retiring after more than 40 years as an educator in the Wilkes-Barre Area School District. He earned his Master of Science degree in education at Bucknell University and obtained additional credits at Pennsylvania State University. He has long been active in various community and church activities.

John A. Early '33 has retired after a 20-year teaching career, the last eight of which have been in the Millville Area School District. A 22-year veteran of the U.S. Army, he retired as a full colonel. At one time or another, he taught every grade level from first through fourth year of college.

Robert A. Hawk '34 is retiring in June as elementary supervisor of the Danville Area School District. He began his teaching career in a one-room school in rural Luzerne County and subsequently held teaching and administrative posts at Conyngham and South Williamsport before moving to Danville in 1955. At that time, the district still had five one-room schools in use. At the beginning of the current school term, the Danville district began using a new "sophisticated one-room country school" which utilizes the open space concept.

C. Richard Gearhart '51, Catawissa, and a student organization he started, were recognized this spring by the Southside Lions Club for their contributions to the community. Gearhart was instrumental in the creation of the Southern Area Earthsavers, which carries out ecology-oriented projects such as planting flowers and trees. Gearhart is a teacher in the Southern Columbia Area School District.

Dr. Kenneth R. Smith '57 is assistant professor of zoology at the Lima campus of the Ohio State University. His areas of academic expertise are in aquatic ecology and general limnology. In addition to private consulting, he has been a consultant to the Center for Lake Erie Area Research, the Maumee River Basin Study, and the Federal Environmental Protection Agency, Chicago. Among advance courses he has taken was one at Purdue University which was taught by Al Chison, a 1954 Bloomsburg State College graduate. He presented a research project this spring at the North American Benthological Society at the University of Wisconsin.

MARY SIEGEL TYSON '16, Pine Grove, author of a book, "The Miners," was recognized at the Alumni Day luncheon for her accomplishment. Executive Director Donald Watts and Mrs. Tyson are shown with one of the bookcovers which arrived just prior to May 1. Her material for the book, which relates to the middle anthracite coal fields from the Civil War years through the turn of the Century, was originally written during the 1950's while Mrs. Tyson was serving as a housemother at Wagner College, Staten Island, N.Y. At that time she was in contact with Charles Angof and Paul Zindel, both playwrights and Broadway critics, who wanted her to publish at that time. What started out as a family history, with stories collected for 70 years, turned out to have social and historical significance.

Sgt. Thomas Fleck '59 was honor graduate of a two-week Nuclear-Biological-Chemical Defense School held at Fort Meade, Md., in April. A member of Company A, 3rd Battalion, 109th Infantry, he is on the training staff at the Lewisburg Armory. He is employed as a teacher at Danville Junior High School and is president of the Danville Area Education Association.

Robert C. Warkomski '59, of the Pennsylvania Department of Education's Division of Special Education, was honored at the Pennsylvania Speech and Hearing Association's 17th annual convention in Harrisburg. The award, the highest given a member of the association, cited Warkomski's outstanding service to the association in both appointed and elected positions; his leadership in speech, language, and hearing programs in the Commonwealth as state director of speech, language and hearing; and his knowledge, skills, and talents that have "benefitted countless numbers of communicatively impaired individuals."

Mark Goldman '68, in a letter from Israel, provides a glimpse of his experiences in that "Ancient New Country" since he went there last October:

"So how does a city-raised, BSC-educated person like me end up living and working in the Negev Desert in Israel? Suffice to say that after seven years of teaching in the same school, I found that I needed a change. I'm sure others of you have had the same feeling.

"Rather than just dream about it, I took some action and arrived in Israel in October, 1975, as a new immigrant under the Law of Return. Believe me, it's not an easy thing to do. Fortunately, more than any other country in the world, Israel is geared to the absorption of immigrants, and in spite of the difficulties I encountered (which could fill a book), I've received a phenomenal amount of help.

"Scratch the surface of the Israeli bureaucracy and you find a great number of sincerely helpful people.

"If I had to pick the one thing that is the most striking difference between Israel and the States, it is the over-present, visible security in the form of armed soldiers and civil guardsmen.

"In a country surrounded by neighbors that would like to see it wiped off the map, it is only natural to place survival foremost. After a short time in the country, you grow accustomed to seeing people carrying M-1's, M-16's Uzis, and other weapons, to being frisked when entering department stores, movie theaters, etc., to having your bus routinely stopped and searched while enroute from one place to another, and soon.

"When I first arrived, I wasn't sure how I'd take to a situation like that, but two weeks after settling in Arad, I joined the local civil guard, received my training in the use of the M-1, and now this former full-time pacifist can be seen on occasion patrolling the streets of Arad between midnight and 3 a.m., M-1 slung on my shoulder and walkie-talkie in hand."

Closing with "Shalom, shalom," Mark notes that "Israel is an experience you shouldn't miss — you don't have to be Jewish to love Israel."

Ed. Note: Born and reared in Brooklyn, N.Y., Mark graduated from BSC with a Bachelor of Arts degree in English in 1968. During seven years of teaching high school English and remedial reading in Newburgh, N.Y., he worked on curriculum development including a N.Y. Lest you be reported deceased . . .

Opening recent issues of The Alumni Quarterly, two alumni were surprised (to say the least) to find their names in the obituary column.

Most recently, Mrs. C. H. Carls '29, the former Pearl Schell, was reported deceased on the basis of information received from postal authorities in the town where she once lived.

We received a letter from Mrs. Carls, however, in which she confirmed that she is very much alive. She is residing at 338 1/2 Samuels Ave., Hazleton, Pa. 18201.

We regret errors of this kind because they can be upsetting experiences for the alumni involved.

These errors point to the need, however, for all alumni to report changes of address to the alumni office. This can be done by filling out a change of address card at the same time you notify other publications and correspondents of your new address.

It is important that your alumni office maintain a current address for each of the nearly 17,000 alumni of the college.

Meet the newest alumni of BSC

Retrenchment cancelled

Retrenchment of personnel at Bloomsburg State College and the 13 other state-owned schools was cancelled in March by Secretary of Education John C. Pittenger.

At the same time, the state agreed to give faculty members at the 14 institutions a 7.83 per cent raise over two years.

BSC President James H. McCormick, commenting on Secretary Pittenger's order, said the action resolved the most difficult problem he had faced since he became president about three years ago.

"Withdrawing the retrenchment letters was a great pleasure," he noted. "It was a relief for all of us, but most especially for those who have been directly affected."

"I am only sorry that we had to become involved in planning personnel layoffs, particularly with the enrollment situation being as strong as it is at Bloomsburg."

"It's good to be able to put it behind us and get on with the important work of providing quality education for our students."

"I am deeply grateful for the help we've had during the crisis from trustees, area legislators, students, alumni, faculty and staff, and the many interested and concerned people of our community."

"If there is a positive aspect to our experience of the eleven-month period, it is that many people have worked together to persuade responsible Commonwealth officials that Bloomsburg State College will be able to manage its fiscal affairs without incurring a deficit if the college receives an equitable share of regular state funding," he concluded.

Millard Ludwig, Alumni president, concurred with Dr. McCormick's comments and pointed to the concerted and cooperative endeavor which helped lead to the withdrawal of the retrenchment letters.

Repairs to Carver underway

The sketch of Carver Hall on the front cover was made by Mrs. Ralph Herre, Bloomsburg.

Work began July 19 on the renovation of Carver Hall, one of the Bloomsburg region's best-known historic landmarks.

Funds were recently appropriated by the State legislature in the amount of $104,764 for exterior repairs of the building, located at the "front door" of the campus.

General contractor is Glinada Enterprises, Inc., Hummelstown, Pa., with a bid of $102,000, while Spaizel, Inc., of Highspire, Pa., is the electrical contractor with a bid of $2,764.

Constructed in 1867 at a cost of $24,000, including furniture, Carver Hall was originally named "Institute Hall." The name was later changed to Carver Hall in honor of Professor Henry Carver, the first principal of the Literary Institute.

Over the years from the transitions from State Normal School in 1867, State Teachers College in 1921, to State College in 1960, a number of changes have taken place in both the inside and outside appearance of the 110-year-old

(The following letter was received from Ed E. Hippensteel '11, who now resides at 1505 Park Lake Street, Orlando, Florida 32803.)

"Any notice from BSC brings vividly to mind my first year of teaching upon graduating in 1911. Thirty-seven pupils in a one-room schoolhouse with the outside temperature dipping to zero or lower and a gusty wind rattling all the windows on a winter day.

"The old-fashioned pot-bellied stove in the center of the room going full blast with armloads of cut wood being shoved in regularly was an appreciated attraction. The crackle of the burning wood and the sound of the winter wind piling snow on the window panes as I listened to three fourth graders reciting their lessons from a long bench in the front of the room is still a great memory.

"But then, even without closing my eyes, I see vividly the thirty-three remaining pupils seated at their desks busy preparing their work or listening intently to the answers given by the fourth graders.

"I taught only this first year in Almedia because an official in Scranton came to see me and persuaded me to go to his school. Then Uncle Sam called me to help win World War I. Discharged from the army, I did not have time to get home and see my folks until a department head from Atlantic City, N.J., offered me a position teaching commercial subjects in the Atlantic City High School. Here the Boardwalk and the Atlantic Ocean and the great school with all its extra activities held me for 42 years.

"And now I am busy with pen engrossing and illuminating of resolutions, awards, diplomas, etc. This activity caused, no doubt, by a letter from the college to my father soon after I entered BSC that teachers could not read my handwriting. My father saw to it that I took special lessons. And so I graduated in 1911."

'Don't lose heart'

(The following letter was received from Martin E. Kleiner '73, 941 Mount Zion Road, Lebanon, PA 17042.)

"I am writing you as an interested party and in hopes others who could not find jobs they desired do not lose heart.

"My wife Karen (Higgins) and I, both graduates in the Class of 1973, could not find jobs teaching after graduation. We took the first things we could get — I was a cook and she was a waitress.

"At the same time, she was raising a quarter horse that was a 4-H prize and starting him as a pleasure horse. As a present for me, we purchased a grade (unregistered horse) for me and began training the mare for me.

"Well, things went along great and both horses won at many shows. Not owning a farm, we boarded our horses at the Cabin Run Farms where we first met Jim and Maryann McCormick.

"Karen and I finally found some what better jobs: Karen as a sales clerk at Ritter's Office Supply and I as a sales clerk at the Nichols Department Store.

"In June of 1975, Karen once again met Mrs. McCormick and this was a turning point for us — the good luck had begun.

"Mrs. McCormick asked Karen if she would like to ride and show the McCormicks' registered Arabian A M Selfas Sun. To make a long story longer Selfas and Karen hit it off well and things began to happen.

"Selfas placed well in the five shows Karen took him to, finishing with a reserve championship at the Hitching Post two-day show.

"Suddenly, I was offered a management position with Nichols in Lebanon and we moved rather quickly. After the transfer, we showed Selfas once more and that was it (or so we thought).

"We corresponded with the McCormicks infrequently, but one night we got a call from Mrs. McCormick saying she was ill and had decided to sell Selfas.

"Needless to say, we were overjoyed. We purchased A. M. Selfas Sun in May and since then have continued our winning ways.

"Today, Karen is a professional trainer and horseshow judge; she gives riding lessons and public demonstrations. "All this has happened by turning a hobby into a business.

"I am now an assistant store manager at Nichols Discount City in Lebanon, and Karen is the office manager of Moores in Cleona.

"In closing, we did not give up in our job hunt even though we did not find teaching positions. We love what we are doing.

"Finally, we owe much to the encouragement and moral support of Maryann and Jim McCormick, who went out of their way to make two people very happy and to help them find a new dimension to their lives."

'Gift of love'

(The following letter, written by parents of a former BSC student, is reprinted from Cross and Crescent, an educational journal of Lambda Chi Alpha Fraternity.)

"We would like to have you know that what the Lambda Chi Alpha fraternity of Bloomsburg State College has done for our son, Donald A. Horn, was the most wonderful gift of Love that could be done for another Brother of the Fraternity.

"Donald was stricken by a tumor of the liver in July. Hemorrhage started in October, and he died December 21, 1975. He was given 28 blood transfusions and the boys at Bloomsburg donated 96 pints of blood, without the request of the family.

"We have read many of your articles in the Cross and Crescent magazine and we believe that this 'Gift of Love' to another member of the Fraternity is something Lambda Chi Alpha should be proud of.

"We think it was the 'Ideals' of the Fraternity and the power of love of Lambda Chi that helped to keep his Faith during his crucial illness. Donald thought that some day soon there would be a cure for cancer. He was working the day he went to the doctor to see what was wrong, because he didn't have any pep. They treated him for five weeks for hepatitis, but in July they operated and found he had a tumor of the liver.

"After the operation, they sent him to Hershey Medical Center for chemotherapy treatments, but it was too far advanced and he was readmitted to the Williamsport hospital three times after his hemorrhage started.

"During his stay in the hospital, even when he was in the intensive care unit and special care, he showed his fraternity and understanding to all his doctors and nurses and appreciated everything they did for him. We think his Power of Love that his Lambda Chi Alpha teaches was uplifting to many of his nurses.

(The following letter was written by Mary S. Tyson '16, R.D. 2, Pine Grove, PA 17663.)

Dear Mr. Watts,

Imagine my surprise when upon opening a carton of accumulated mail I found a packet of Bloomsburg Alumni Quarterly and the beautiful picture of Carver Hall!

I've always thought that Carver Hall was the heart of the campus. That is where we worshipped, listened to lectures and enjoyed entertainments.

Girls were instructed there by Miss McBride on the niceties of campus and dormitory life; and sometimes "boy met girl" there, as my husband and I did.

I've just returned from a long stay in the hospital because of phlebitis and a weak heart. With a "Heparin Lock" in my right hand and legs bogged down in warm compresses, I was not able to continue work on "The Miners." My job is to authenticate facts I recorded many years ago.

We appreciate the publicity you have given us in the Quarterly. Requests for the book have come from alumni, and you shall be one of the first to receive a copy. Thank you for your interest.

Dr. RICHARD O. WOLFE

E. BUREL GUM

Wolfe acting vice president

Dr. Richard O. Wolfe, dean of the School of Extended Programs at BSC, has been appointed acting vice president for academic affairs.

He will fill the position until a college-wide ad hoc search and screening committee completes recruitment of a permanent replacement for Dr. Dayton S. Pickett, who resigned to accept a position with an advertising firm in Nebraska.

E. Burel Gum will serve as acting dean of the School of Extended Programs on an interim basis.

BSC alumnus

Wolfe joined the BSC faculty in 1967 as an associate professor of education and was promoted to the rank of full professor in 1972.

Prior to his appointment as dean, he served as acting director of continuing education and summer sessions for the 1973-74 year.

During the 1972-73 academic year, he served as a visiting professor to the School of Education, Gonzaga University, Spokane, Washington, while on leave from BSC.

A 1960 graduate of BSC, he taught in the public schools of Pennsylvania and New Jersey and served as assistant director of student teaching and placement at Trenton State College before joining the BSC teaching faculty.

He earned his Master's degree in educational administration at Rutgers University and his doctorate at the University of Pennsylvania.

He has had several articles printed in national publications on middle school education and teaching strategies. A year ago he was appointed to the Consultant Task Force on Competency-Based Education in the State of Pennsylvania.

West Virginia native

A native of Cass, West Virginia, Gum received a B.S. degree from BSC in 1966 after serving with the U.S. Navy. He earned his M.S. degree in business administration at Bucknell University in 1967 and is completing his dissertation in a doctoral program at the University of Pittsburgh.

He became associate director of admissions at BSC in 1970.

Placement record good

Seventy-four per cent of BSC's 1975 graduates are employed, attending graduate school, or in the armed forces, according to the college's annual placement report.

The report is based on information received from 1,059 of the 1,094 graduates. Thirteen said they were not available for employment because of marriage, health, or other personal reasons. Thirty-five could not be contacted and were excluded from the report.

The survey further reveals that 287 are teaching in Pennsylvania and 63 are out-of-state, while 309 found positions in industries, 109 have gone on to graduate school, and seven are serving in the armed forces.

"Actual employment is much higher than the report indicates," Thomas A. Davies, Jr., director of the Career Development and Placement Center at BSC, points out.

"The majority of the 271 graduates who are listed as 'unemployed' have temporary full or part-time jobs. For report purposes, we consider them unemployed if they are not engaged in career-type positions."

The School of Business leads the three schools of the college with 81.3 per cent of its graduates placed. The School of Professional Studies and the School of Arts and Sciences both registered approximately 69 percent.

1,300 frosh visit campus

Over 1,300 new freshmen came to the campus during the summer to attend classes or one of four orientation sessions.

Prior to the start of classes, they participated in orientation sessions involving testing, academic development, career development, financial aid, and study skills labs, along with a variety of other activities designed to familiarize the students with the campus.

Some of these students will return to campus in September to continue their schooling, while others will be returning for the second semester in January.

President McCormick addressed the new students and their parents at a convocation on the afternoon of each arrival date.

The students completed their scheduling for the fall semester before leaving campus. They also participated in the entrance classification testing, a requirement of all new students.

The students also had the opportunity to meet informally with faculty and students to obtain information about the variety of extracurricular and service activities of the college.

Robert G. Norton, dean of student life, directed the orientation program and was assisted by Anne French and Pierce Atwater, student coordinators, along with John Scrimgeour of the counseling center.

Programs receive tentative approval

Graduate teacher education programs at BSC have been granted initial approval by the Bureau of Academic Programs of the state Department of Education in the following areas:

Supervisor business, supervisor communication, supervisor early childhood, supervisor elementary education, supervisor foreign languages, supervisor mathematics, supervisor school health services, supervisor science, supervisor social studies, and supervisor special education.

Initial approval status carries with it the agreement that the Department of Education will issue certificates to graduates of these programs on the recommendation of the college. Initial approval requires annual visits, and the period of extension depends upon the development of the program.

Applicants sought

Bloomsburg State College is now receiving applications for the new Master of Business Administration degree program.

CRITERIA

Selection of program students will be based upon the following: (1) Graduate Management Admissions Test (GMAT) scores; (2) Undergraduate records; (3) Two references; (4) Job experience in business or industry. A limited number of students will be accepted. Early application is desirable.

Application forms may be obtained by writing or calling Office of Graduate Studies, Bloomsburg State College, Bloomsburg, PA 17815 — (717) 389-3814 or 389-3815.

Nominations invited for alumni awards

Do you know someone worthy of recognition by the Alumni Association of Bloomsburg State College?

You are invited to nominate that person for the 1977 Distinguished Service Awards to be presented at Alumni Day next spring.

The selection committee, chaired by the Rev. Oliver H. Krapf '32, hopes to have a nice group of nominees from which to choose the recipients.

Please send your nominations to: DSA Nominations, Alumni Association, Bloomsburg State College, Bloomsburg, PA 17815.

Forensic Society earns high ranking

Members of the Bloomsburg State College Forensic Society returned from the Sixth Annual National Championship Tournament held in Los Angeles, Calif., with a nationally-ranked speaker and a high national ranking.

Anne Otto of BSC earned a national ranking of ninth in Informative speaking. She reached the semi-final round by competing against a field of 254 informative speakers.

The BSC team returned with a national ranking of 36th in the nation. The ranking includes large universities like Penn State, Ohio State, and U.C.L.A. If BSC were compared only with colleges its own size, the ranking in the nation would be much higher. The society's position means that it is in the top 29 percent of all forensic societies in the nation.

The society participated in 12 tournaments during the 1975-76 academic year and won over 35 trophies, one-third of which were first place awards. The society also hosted four tournaments in addition to the other 12 tournaments.

Harry C. Strine III, director of forensics, said the excellent showing must be credited to the students' desire to do well when representing the college and to the outstanding coaching they received from Virginia Doerflinger, Janice Youse, Richard Alderfer, Erich Frohman — all members of the Speech, Communication and Theatre Arts Department — and Karen Welker, graduate assistant. He also acknowledged the support of Dr. Melville Hopkins, department chairman, and the Community Government Association.

Mother, daughter receive degrees

A mother and daughter were in the Class of 1976 which received degrees at commencement exercises in May.

Mrs. Harry R. Fritz and her daughter Denise, both of Muncy, received Bachelor of Science degrees in education on May 16, which was also Mrs. Fritz's birthday.

The latter, a registered dental hygienist, graduated in 1952 from the School of Oral Hygiene at Temple University.

A Woman's World: Emma Harrison Burrus

Author, teacher, businesswoman, housewife, civic leader, and world traveler are but a few of the words which describe the activities of Emma Harrison Burrus '16.

Mrs. Burrus was born Emma Harrison in Fork, Pennsylvania, where her father operated a country store and sold everything from plow shares to groceries and clothing. The business has continued to the present and is managed by the third generation with a hardware store in Benton and a full line of farm equipment at the Forks location.

Emma Harrison graduated from Bloomsburg State Normal School in 1916 and began her first year of teaching in the Centre Township High School, located on a back road between Lightstreet and Berwick. The school has long since been closed and is now the meeting place for the Latter Day Saints Congregation.

The period after graduation until 1924 was described as "unsettled years," according to Emma, who explained that it was the end of World War I and the adjustments from war to times of peace, the return of the servicemen, and general hard times.

In March, 1918, Emma married Ralph Myers, who had just completed 12 years in the Army. By this time, she had completed two years of teaching and she and Ralph moved to Bridgeton, New Jersey, where Ralph opened an advertising specialty business.

Emma continued her teaching in the Bridgeton Schools and soon became supervisor of handwriting for the district. This position continued until 1944, during which time she served a two-year term as president of the Department of Handwriting in the New Jersey Education Association. It was during this time that Emma began her first travels which were to increase over the years and include many trips to Europe, the Orient, the Near East, and most of the United States. Into an already busy schedule she found time to take special courses in Philadelphia and to earn her B.S. degree in education at Rutgers University.

In 1944 Emma opened her own studio, The Pen-Art Studio, in Bridgeton, for her specialty of engrossing and illuminating (the art of Roman and Old English lettering with color, as used on diplomas, etc.) She was president of the Cumberland County Soroptimist Club and, on a visit to Bloomsburg, helped organize the Columbia County Club.

At about the same time, her husband became ill and died in November, 1948. During his illness, Emma helped with his business and, following his death, continued the business for another year.

With the closing of the Pen-Art Studio, Emma became a handwriting consultant for Zaner-Bloser, a company specializing in handwriting skills and supplies. For two summers she taught handwriting courses at Illinois State Normal School in Bloomington, Ill., and was consultant for the Zaner-Bloser Company from Virginia to New England, in the Pacific Northwest, and Hawaii.

Although this position continued from 1950 to 1958, Emma took a year's leave of absence in 1953-54 and earned her Master of Arts degree at the University of Iowa. She married Russell Burrus in July, 1958.

The Burruses moved to College Park, Maryland, where Mr. Burrus was employed in the wool division of the U.S. Department of Agriculture. Emma did Docent Work (volunteer guide service) for the National Art Gallery and became active in the University Methodist Church. She became president of the W.S.C.S., chairman of the Commission on

Conard, Davis, Dodson in new posts

Paul Conard, assistant business manager of BSC for the past 12 years, has been assigned the responsibilities of business manager in one of three administrative changes announced by the College.

Other changes involving the staff of Boyd F. Buckingham, vice president for administration, include the appointment of Dr. Frank S. Davis, director of computer services, as acting assistant vice president for administration, and Doyle G. Dodson as acting director of the computer center.

The changes were made following the retirement on July 15 of Paul G. Martin, college business manager for 26 years. He had also served as assistant vice president for the past two years.

BSC graduate

Conard, a 1964 graduate of BSC, was previously associated with the Bloomsburg Lincoln-Mercury Corporation for seven years and with the Watstown Philco Ford for three years.

A native of the Turbotville area, Conard served as a sergeant in the U.S. Marine Corps during the Korean Conflict.

He has been extremely active in civic affairs of the greater Bloomsburg area, currently serving as president of the Bloomsburg Kiwanis Club. He is a past president of the Bloomsburg Jaycees and had the distinction of being that organization's Outstanding Young Man of the Year in two different years.

Conard has also been active in the United Fund, Columbia-Montour Boy Scout Council, Bloomsburg Red Cross Chapter, Northcentral Pennsylvania Heart Association, Bloomsburg Area PTA and Band Parents Association, and the Columbia-Montour Home Health Services.

He has been a registered PIAA baseball official for 23 years and a member of the Eastern College and University Business Officials Association.

He is married to the former Elizabeth Ann Menges of Turbotville. They reside on Country Club Drive in Bloomsburg with their three daughters, Holly, Paula, and Molly.

Joined faculty in 1966

Davis joined the BSC faculty in September, 1966, and was named director of computer services in September, 1969. He was promoted to full professor status in September, 1974.

He received his B.S. and M.Ed. degrees in business education from Shippensburg State College. He earned a doctorate in business education/computer science from the University of Pittsburgh.

Dr. Davis has served on numerous committees and task forces at the college. He has been a vice president of the State College System's Council, a member of the Advisory Council Educational Computing Activities (serving on its State-wide Long-Range Advisory Committee), and chairman of the ACECA Resource Sharing Committee. He has also been a state college representative on the Basic Education Data System's Council.

The Harrisburg native and his wife Sandra reside at Bloomsburg R.D. 4 with their son Jeffrey, 10, and daughter Suzanne, six.

Orangeville native

Dodson, an assistant professor of business, joined the faculty in 1967. He has been assigned to the computer center on a part-time basis and had been serving as assistant director of computer services.

A native of Orangeville, Dodson received both his B.S. and M.Ed. degrees from BSC. Prior to coming to Bloomsburg, he had taught at the Hughesville High School, Williamsport School of Commerce, and the Loyalsock Township School District.

Dodson is married to the former Barbara R. Stackhouse of Hughesville. The Dodsons, with their son and two daughters, live on Country Club Drive.

administration, respectively. Looking on is Doyle Dodson, acting director of computer services.

BSC allocation up $882,543

Bloomsburg State College has been allocated $11,529,227 of the $169 million in general appropriations for the 14 state institutions.

A spokesman in the state Department of Education said the allocation is $882,543 more than the previous year and gives recognition to Bloomsburg's excellent credit productivity and enrollment increases.

In another action recognizing Bloomsburg's growth and development, the Department of Education assigned the college eight new positions in a redistribution of 42 positions among the 14 state colleges and university.

In announcing the allocation of the new positions, which were filled at the July meeting of the college board of trustees, President McCormick explained that the action by the state provides needed support for plans developed by the college's long-range planning commission.

"These new positions come to us as a direct result of the splendid work our planning commission has done," he said. "The department has recognized the excellence of that planning, and the allocation of these positions to Bloomsburg is evidence of their support of the college's missions and programs."

"Because our planning was done well, we were able to justify our needs when we submitted our requests. It is encouraging for all of us at Bloomsburg — students, faculty, alumni, trustees, and the community."

Six of the new positions are in academic or student life areas and the other two are additions to the maintenance staff, providing custodians for Lycoming Hall, the new residence hall which will open this semester.

Members of the Pre-professional Advisory Committee at BSC are John R. Fletcher, assistant professor of biology; Stanley A. Rhodes, associate professor of biology, chairman; Dr. Roy D. Pointer, associate professor of chemistry; Dr. Barrett W. Benson, professor and chairman, Department of Chemistry; Dr. Judith P. Downing, assistant professor of biology; and Robert G. Sagar, associate professor of biology.

This committee, along with the Student Pre-professional Committee, arranges several public career guidance program presentations each academic year in order to provide realistic health career information from former students now in professional schools or practice, and from faculty members and administrative officers of such schools.

Dr. Edson J. Drake is Dean of the BSC School of Arts and Sciences, in which pre-medical, pre-dental, pre-veterinary and pre-optometry students are generally enrolled.

Mrs. Doerflinger in retirement

Mrs. Virginia C. Doerflinger, an assistant professor of speech at BSC, has retired after 40 years of teaching.

Mrs. Doerflinger joined the BSC faculty in September, 1968, and served as coach of oral interpretation in addition to her teaching duties.

She earned her Bachelor of Science degree at New York University and her Master of Arts degree at Columbia University.

Dr. Melville Hopkins, chairman of the BSC speech department, noted that Mrs. Doerflinger was an outstanding teacher and coach of oral interpretation.

"She produced numerous champions in the years she was associated with the college," he stated.

Mrs. Doerflinger and her husband reside in Espy, near Bloomsburg, where Mr. Doerflinger operates a retail winery.

Meet your friends in Bloomsburg for Homecoming

If you want to have an especially good time at Homecoming on October 16, contact some friends from college years now and make plans to meet them in Bloomsburg.

It's disappointing to return to your Alma Mater and find few, if any, of those good friends from your years at Bloomsburg.

A telephone call or letter now could mean a good time on Homecoming Day.

Catholic campus minister named

Father Thomas F. Langan of the Oblates of Saint Francis de Sales has been named Catholic campus minister at BSC by the Most Rev. Joseph T. Daley, D.D., Bishop of the Harrisburg Diocese.

Father Langan succeeds the Rev. William M. Richardson, who held the Bloomsburg assignment for one year and has been appointed director of the office of planning of the diocese.

Father Langan was ordained in 1959 and has taught at Father Judge High School, Philadelphia, and Bishop McDevitt High School, Harrisburg.

He served as rector of Brissson Seminary, Allentown, and has been campus minister at Allentown College since 1972.

In new position

Dr. FRANCIS M. FENNELL, who received his Master's degree at BSC, has accepted a position on the faculty of Western Maryland College. He received his Bachelor's degree from Lock Haven State College in 1966, and his Ph.D. in elementary education from Penn State in 1972.

structure. The current estimate for replacing such a building is approximately two million dollars.

President McCormick notes that "the current renovation is indeed significant in this bicentennial year. Carver Hall has always been an attractive building and will continue to provide a pleasant sight, particularly approaching campus from downtown Bloomsburg."

The president's office and other administrative offices, along with the auditorium which seats approximately 900 people, are located in Carver Hall. Until the construction of Haas Auditorium in 1966, Carver Auditorium was the focus point for campus cultural events. A number of activities are still scheduled each year for the stage of Carver Auditorium.

4,017 attend summer sessions

Preliminary enrollment figures for the summer sessions at BSC reveal that 4,017 persons took courses, including 2,451 undergraduates and 1,566 graduates.

The total number includes duplications, since a number of students took courses in more than one session.

BSC is 'family affair' for DeRose clan

This month's BSC family includes four brothers, three of their wives, three children and their spouses.

The story has its beginning in Italy shortly after the turn of the century when Martin DeRose and his wife Mary left their native country to seek a new life in America.

Like many immigrants, they settled in the mining area of Pennsylvania. It was in Peckville, Lackawanna County, that the four sons were born. They were named James V., Peter, Joseph and Martin. The three older boys were graduated from Blakely High School and Martin from Bloomsburg High.

The parents had always dreamed of owning their own farm where their children and grandchildren could work and play, but it was not until 1950 that they purchased their home on R.D. 3, Bloomsburg.

James was first

By then, James had graduated from BSC in the Class of 1939, where he was president of his class in both the junior and senior years. James began his teaching in Easton High School, Easton, Maryland, and soon became head of the science department.

He held that position until 1960 when he moved to Marple Newtown Schools, Newtown Square, Pa., to be science supervisor. In the interim, he had earned his Master's degree from the University of Pennsylvania in 1947 and had spent eight summers as supervisor of science students at Temple University (1950-58), lecturer in chemistry at Brown University (1960 and 1961), director and member of staff at NSF-ISCIS Institute, Eastern Nazarene College (1969-1970); and coordinator of an NSF-ISCIS Institute at Penn State (1971-73).

He also served as adjunct professor at Florida State University from 1970 to 1972 and associate director of Energy-Environmental Materials Project in 1974. In 1962, James received his Ed.D. from the University of Pennsylvania.

Many accomplishments

James DeRose has served in many special assignments for educational organizations, the Ford Foundation, American Chemical Society, National Science Foundation, and for the United States government both in this country and in foreign countries.

The international assignments have taken him to India, the Philippines, Korea, and work with the United States National Commission for UNESCO (appointed by Secretary of State William T. Rogers for two three-year terms in 1970-72 and 1973-75).

In addition, James DeRose has to his credit more than a score of publications dating from 1959 to 1975. These publications cover a wide range of science material, methods of teaching, independent study, etc., and have appeared in the leading professional magazines, newsletters, and textbooks.

Many local, state and national honors have been bestowed on James DeRose, including the BSC Distinguished Alumni Award presented in 1967. Other honors include the National Science Teacher Award (NSTA) in 1960, 1968, and 1969;

The National Teacher of the Year Honor Roll (1961); Phi Delta Kappa Award as outstanding graduate of the University of Pennsylvania School of Education (1962-63); Commissioned by Governor Breathitt as Kentucky Colonel, (1965); Outstanding Teacher Award, Pennsylvania Science Teachers Association (1965); Macalaster Award for Distinguished Leadership in Science Teaching (1966);

Who's Who in America, Volume 34; Fellow, American Association for Advancement of Science (1966);

Centennial Award in Science Education; Centennial Science Teachers Conference, Toronto, Canada (1967); Leaders in Education (listed in 4th and 5th editions);

1970 recipient of James Bryant Conant Award in High School Chemistry Teaching ($1,000 plus certificate) by E. I. duPont de Nemours Co.; Leader in Secondary Education (listed in 1971 and 1972 editions); 1971 recipient of Benjamin Rush Award for Excellence in High School Chemistry Teaching ($500 award and bronze medallion) by Manufacturing Chemists Association; 1972 recipient of National Science Teachers Association for Distinguished Service to Science Education.

James and Peter DeRose married sisters who lived next door: James Andruss Library at BSC. They reside at Bloomsburg R.D. 3.

They are the parents of a son, David Peter, whose story follows later.

1958 graduate

Joseph DeRose graduated from BSC in January, 1958, with a B.S. degree in communication disorders and received a Master of Science degree from Penn State University in 1961. He has continued his studies at Bucknell University and at the State University of New York at Buffalo.

He is now associate professor and chairman of the communication disorders department at SUNY at Buffalo and director of speech and hearing services at that college.

Prior to his present position, he was employed at Geneseo (N.Y.) State College.

He married Rosemarie Rodesky, facets of real estate sales and development. He is president of F.C.I. Construction, Inc., director and secretary of First Investors General, Inc., and owner of Heritage Realty, Roseden Realty and Investment Realty, all of York.

Martin married Joann Heston, formerly of Wyoming, Pa. Joann, also a BSC graduate in 1959, taught mathematics in the Red Lion Area Schools, Red Lion, Pa., from 1959 to 1964.

She is now a full-time housewife and mother to children Marta, 11, and Matthew, seven. They reside at 847 Moonlight Drive, York, Pa.

Second generation

Our story of the DeRose family now enters the second generation — the children of James V. and Peter are also graduates of BSC.

THE DeROSE FAMILY — Frances Fay DeRose, David DeRose, Peter DeRose, Joseph DeRose, JoAnn Heston DeRose, Martin

DeRose, Jeanne Ellen DeRose Richards, James DeRose, and William DeRose. Peter, Joseph, Martin and James are sons of Mary DeRose, Bloomsburg R.D. 3, and the late Martin DeRose. See accompanying story about this BSC family.

married Anna Cicilliani, and Peter married Clara. James and Anna are parents of James Martin, Jeanne Ellen, and William Robert DeRose. James Martin is a graduate of Lycoming College with a Master's degree from Temple University.

War interrupted Peter

Peter DeRose, the second oldest, enrolled at BSC and completed three and a half years before joining the Army Air Force in September of 1941. After four years of service in the United States and the European Theatre, Peter completed his B.S. degree in business administration at the University of Scranton and received the degree in June, 1947.

Peter managed various district offices of the Pennsylvania Gas and Water Company until 1958, when he became a social worker in the social services department of Danville State Hospital. He retired on May 6, 1976.

In the meantime, he had married Clara, who is currently on the staff of the Learning Resources Center of who also attended BSC before transferring to the University of Rochester, where she received a Bachelor's degree. She earned her Master's degree from SUNY at Buffalo and is employed as assistant professor in psychodynamic nursing at D'Youville College, Buffalo.

They have a son, Donald, who graduated from SUNY at Buffalo and is self-employed as a manufacturer of stained glass lamps and windows.

In real estate

The fourth son, Martin, graduated from BSC in 1959 with a B.S. in speech therapy and was employed by the York County Public Schools as speech therapist between 1959 and 1966. During that same period, he completed the M.S. degree in educational psychology at Bucknell University and the real estate broker's license at Penn State University.

For one year, Martin was personnel manager for Flinchbaugh Products, Inc., in Red Lion, Pa. Since 1967, however, he has been involved in all

As we mentioned earlier, Mr. and Mrs. James DeRose had two children, Jeanne Ellen and William. Jeanne received her B.S. degree in elementary education from BSC in May of 1972 and her M.S. degree from West Chester State College in 1975. She has taught first, second or third grade in the Chester-Upland School District since leaving Bloomsburg.

In 1973, Jeanne Ellen married Guy E. Richards, Jr., formerly of Catawissa, who attended BSC for two years before transferring to Temple University in 1969. He is an occupational therapist at Friends Hospital in Philadelphia.

Although the Richards live at 304 Ivy Rock Lane, Havertown, Pa., they have spent their summers in travel to Nova Scotia, Colorado and points south. (Guy served as official photographer for the photo accompanying this story, which explains his absence from the picture.)

Thinclads were 13-1

The BSC thinclads posted a 13-1 record this past spring to give retiring coach Ron Puhl nine consecutive winning seasons. Puhl relinquished his track and field coaching duties at the end of the season in order to devote full time to his new assignment as head football coach.

His career coaching record at the college stands at 100-19.

This year's Husky aggregation placed third in the Pennsylvania Conference Championships and fourth in the Delaware State Invitational. The team also placed second in the unofficial standings at the Gallaudet Relays, and the M&G mile relay team was fourth among PC schools in the Penn Relays.

New BSC records were set in the triple jump, javelin, decathlon, two-mile relay, and the four-mile relay. The Huskies' individual three-mile record was tied.

Sophomore Tony Montouth, York, was the PC triple jump champion with a leap of 49-1 $\frac{1}{4}$. He set the BSC record of 49-1 $\frac{1}{2}$ prior to the PC event.

Stan Kita, a sophomore from Philadelphia, threw the javelin 226-10 at the IC4A's event to highlight his season.

Senior Dave Shoemaker, Mt. Bethel, scored 5,729 points to place him fifth in the PC in the decathlon. The point total established a BSC record in this new event for the college.

Two other team records were established this season. The two-mile relay team of Larry Kirkessner of York, Jim O'Brien of Ambler, Aaron Johnson of Willow Grove, and Gary Patterson of West Chester had a time of 7:55.9.

The four-mile relay team of Steve Eachus of West Chester, Jeff Brandt of Hershey, Mark Bond of Lafayette Hill, and Bob Kantner of Springfield, set the team mark of 17:52.

Eachus, the Huskies' top long-distance runner, tied the three-minute mile record of 14:18 set by Jan Prosseda in 1965.

Eachus, Jay Wohlgemuth of King-of-Prussia, and Mike Keiper of Columbia, were second place winners in the PC. Their respective events were the six-mile run, 440-yard intermediate hurdles, and high jump.

The other Huskies placing were:

Long jump, Barry Staton of Woodbury, N.J., fourth; Tony Montouth, fifth; and Larry Dietrich of Bernville, sixth;

Triple jump, Jeff Carruthers of Newtown Square, fourth; javelin, Stan Kita, third; steeplechase, Garry Lausch of Reading, sixth; 120-yard high hurdles, Ken Curcio of Norristown, third; shot put, Gary Coldren of Port Clinton, sixth; 100-yard dash, Barry Staton, sixth.

The 440-yard relay team was fourth, and the mile team was sixth.

"Our third place PC finish was the result of a great team effort," Puhl remarked. "BSC should have high expectations for next year's season, and the 1977-78 squad should be excellent."

"BSC can be proud of its track program and facilities. The eight-lane track and field event facilities are among the best in the east. With these fine facilities and the college's academic tradition, good quality athletes are attracted to the school and its track and field program," Puhl added.

"I am proud to have been associated with such fine athletes and students. In addition, we had a good spirit of cooperation from families of the athletes, staff members, and the other people on campus," he noted.

New coach meets team

Ron Puhl, new head football coach at BSC, met with candidates for the team prior to the opening of drills on August 20. The opener is September 11 at Shipensburg.

Assistant grid coaches named

Three former BSC assistant gridiron coaches have been named to assist Ron Puhl in his initial year at the helm of the Huskies.

Returning from last year's staff are Carl Hinkle, who will be in charge of defensive backs and receivers, and Joseph DeMelfi, defensive coordinator.

Dick Haupt, who served for two years at the College in the late 1960s, will be directing the defensive and offensive linemen.

Hinkle has been an assistant coach since joining the faculty in 1971.

DeMelfi begins his third year as a member of the staff. He was recently appointed to the student life faculty as a resident advisor.

Haupt was an end coach in 1968 and freshman coach in 1969. His frosh team posted a 4-1 record, one of the best in recent years at the College.

Women's sports growing

The women's varsity athletic program at BSC has taken great strides in recent years.

From its inception of basketball and field hockey with limited schedules in 1962, the program was expanded in 1972 to include swimming and tennis along with increased schedules.

There is a possibility of additional sports being added, and an expansion of the coaching staff taking place in the near future.

The 1975-76 women's varsity program was successful with the four teams posting an overall 26-20-2 record. However, the coming year appears to offer bright prospects for compiling the best record in the history of the college.

Of the four sports, probably the basketball team will find it the most difficult to show a marked improvement. The Huskiettes had an 11-2 record and participated in post-season tournament action.

Coach Joanne McComb, who returns after a year of sabbatical leave, has ten varsity team members eligible to return for competition.

Coach Mary Gardner has a number of veterans back from her young field hockey team which shows promise for improvement on a 4-5-4 record.

Houk at reception at White House

Russ Houk, a member of the BSC faculty and chairman of the United States Olympic Wrestling Committee, attended a reception at the White House for U.S. athletes following the Summer Olympics in Montreal.

Houk was present for the ceremony in which Jesse Owens was presented the American Freedom Medal.

Great year for tennis

The 1975-76 men's tennis team had an outstanding year in compiling a 19-4 dual match record. During the fall season they were 5-0 with a third place finish in their own invitational and a third place finish in the E.C.A.C. tournament in which 39 East Coast schools participated.

Among the fall victories was a 5-4 decision over Mercyhurst, the N.A.I.A. national champions, as well as wins over three Division I schools.

The spring saw the team take a southern trip for the first time. They defeated Hamden/Sydney, East Carolina and had an unofficial win over Ferrum Junior College, while absorbing losses from Navy and North Carolina State. They also were rained out halfway through their match with Hampton Institute, the N.C.A.A. Division II national champs.

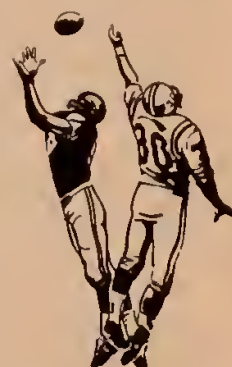

During the rest of the season they defeated Temple, the East Coast Conference champion, Haverford, and West Chester, who are also perennial powers, while losing to Penn State and East Stroudsburg, the only non-Division I loss for the year.

The team finished second to East Stroudsburg in the conference tournament and completed its season with a fourth place finish at Eastern Intercollegiate behind Notre Dame, Penn State and Colgate. Twenty-six teams competed in this tournament.

The team has lost what has probably been the most outstanding group of seniors to play at BSC: Drew Hostetter, No. 1 player for four years; Phil Christman, No. 2 player; Bob Rosics, No. 3 player; and Jim Overbaugh, No. 5 player.

Returning in the fall will be Jim Hollister, No. 4; Bill Lantz, Mike Lenz, and several others. In addition, it appears that several freshmen will be counted on to strengthen the lineup, led by Rob Vance, Phoenixville; Nate Levine, State College; Jamie Showers, Manheim; Mark Raynes, Palmyra; Rick Willders, Garden Spot; and Ken West, Wissahickon.

Burt Reese coached the tennis team to its excellent record.

Boler new X-country coach for '76

The appointment of Rodrick Clark Boler as cross country coach at BSC has been announced by Dr. Conrad A. Bautz, chairman of the Department of Health, Physical Education and Athletics.

Boler, who joined the BSC staff in September, 1968, replaces Ron Puhl, who has been appointed head football coach.

As head baseball coach for eight years at BSC, Boler's teams have won 58 games, lost 95, and tied one. He served as defensive coordinator in football for six seasons and was offensive coordinator for the past two seasons.

A native of Northport, Alabama, Boler received his Bachelor and Master's degrees from the University of Alabama, where he was a member of the 1961 national championship football team and was a relief pitcher on the baseball team.

He is an associate professor in the Department of Health, Physical Education, and Athletics.

CARL HINKLE

Carl Hinkle track coach

Carl Hinkle is the new head track coach at BSC, replacing Ron Puhl, who relinquished that assignment to become head coach of the Husky football team.

Hinkle joined the BSC faculty and coaching staff in September of 1971, coming from the State University of New York at Cortland, where he served as assistant coach in track and football.

In addition to his teaching assignments in health and physical education at BSC, he also served as assistant coach in both track and football for five years.

A native of Berwick, Hinkle attended Montana State University as a scholarship athlete in 1961, participating in football and wrestling. During his stay at Montana, the Bobcats posted Big Sky conference honors in football and the Pacific Coast championship in the 1964 NCAA Camellia Bowl at Sacramento, California.

Possessing a diverse background in teaching and coaching athletics at all educational levels, Hinkle joined the faculty of SUNY at Cortland in 1970 with an involvement in the teacher preparation program in physical education and coaching duties in track and football.

Hinkle, his wife Patricia, and son Jonathan reside on Lightstreet Road, Bloomsburg.

Dr. Chu gets post-doctoral fellowship

Dr. Margaret M. L. Chu, a member of the BSC chemistry department since September, 1973, has been awarded a 12-month post-doctoral fellowship by the National Institute of Health.

The fellowship is to be used for studies in the modification of blood chemistry. Dr. Chu will do her investigation in conjunction with Professor Charles E. Castro at the University of California at Riverside.

Dr. Chu has requested and has been granted a leave of absence without pay for the 1976-77 academic year in order to accept this award. She is believed to be the first BSC faculty member to receive a NIH post-doctoral award.

Dr. Chu's major teaching responsibilities at BSC are in the bio-organic and bio-chemistry areas. She received an Associate of Art degree from Sacramento City College in 1966, a B.A. degree from California State University at Sacramento in 1969, and her Ph.D. degree in biochemistry at the University of California at Davis in 1974.

The department of chemistry at BSC received national recognition two years ago by being named to the American Chemical Society's listing of approved departments.

Placement of departmental majors in graduate schools, secondary education, and other teaching positions has been one hundred per cent during the past seven years.

Dr. Chu is the fourth member of the chemistry department in recent years to receive external financial support for research activities.

Student's account of 'Big Fire of 1875' at L

By Helen Arment

One might say it all happened back in the plush era when I went to the Literary Institute. The boys and girls were pretty young then to be going away to school. All the freshmen suffered from bad cases of hero worship. My idol was Wilmer of the Senior Class, hero of the field and track — the social lion of the campus. My one ambition was to walk, talk and look like Wilmer Blaksley.

This victim of my youthful worship wore a mustache of goodly proportions. It gave him a worldliness which was impossible to imitate. His clothes were of a sartorial splendor that contrasted strongly with his bosom friend, Job Minner, that down at the heel, hulk of a fellow.

This friendship was a thing that other students never became quite reconciled to, even though the two were inseparable. In fact, I rather under-estimated Wilmer's rather scheming mind. Here was the perfect foil, and also a rock upon which to lean especially at graduation time when the finals were due. In fact, Wilmer leaned on Job through his entire school career, but many of us did not know this.

Job waited on tables and other odd jobs. In those days, all the students who didn't need to work were a nasty bunch of snobs, including myself. Often times it took a lot of scraping to get through the two and a half years. We practiced many small economies known only to ourselves.

Job had brains, the best in the Institute, and could study rings around us all. It was because he was up in the dormitory doing just that, when we went off on a Saturday afternoon picnic in '75, or we never would have had a change of opinion. Poor Job, he never seemed to get a chance at any fun.

This Saturday I mention was clear and warm. A crowd was gathered around four carriages. Two were for the girls, and two for the men. They were to take us down to the river boating. It was quite a spree for us in those days.

The girls were all dressed up in white dresses and had large flower-trimmed hats. I forget their names, all except Lydia's, because she happened to be very pretty and was voted the belle of the school.

Everyone knew Wilmer had a crush on her and almost any evening they could be seen out under the trees before dark. We would sit along the edge of the terraces on cushions since the town was forbidden to the girls after 5:30.

Miss Pinkhurst was in charge of the girls. She certainly was all dressed up and carried a lacy parasol to shade her sour features. It was whispered around she was never without it, as it came in handy to clout any erring student over the head in case he came too near one of "her girls."

We boys were afraid of her, and of her acid tongue. The girls fairly shriveled under her glares, and they were often. So, they pretended we weren't there in the next carriage but preened themselves and giggled a lot among themselves. It was getting past the time to start, and Wilmer hadn't put in an appearance.

Just as the impatient horses were ready to gallop off, Wilmer sauntered out of the boys' dorm, and the girls began to flutter. Miss Pinkhurst gave them a frowning shake of the head and a withering glare.

There was silence as Wilmer stepped into the first carriage after making an impressive bow to the ladies, replacing his straw hat with its gay ribbon band on his wavy blond head. He had outdone himself this time in his attire. His white flannel trousers held as sharp as a razor. His maroon blazer held the eye as well as his complete with stick pin.

The girls were thrilled at this manliness. They had seen also his mandolin tucked under one arm — be music on the water. Perhaps, Miss Pinkhurst would forget herself and separate in twos or threes.

The trip down was short. It would take these days about five minutes. The pace of the horses prolonged the arrival at the river's bank, we immersed about selecting boats.

In no time we were all out on the water. Miss Pinkhurst remarked it looked like a "regatta," and as we had never seen before were sure it must. The girls laughed at the boys and listened to them sing. Wilmer was above them all.

No one gave Job a thought — we were in the moment and forgot our cares. The water was nice and cool. The shad fishery was in full swing, only a faint fishy smell pervaded the air.

Some of the boys started shouting and splashing gently with the oars to hear the squeal from their boats. It was all so tranquil.

Then things suddenly began to change. Someone shouted, "Look!"

Every head turned as one of the boats sped toward the top of the hill. The Institute was against the sky, and above it a small, dark smoke rose and spread. In the few minutes watched, it grew thicker.

The faint shrill whistle of the fire alarm blew! It was on fire. The Institute was burning!

Here we were, helplessly stranded on the river while our clothes and our boats were burning! Someone shouted, "Get ashore!"

Miss Pinkhurst became excited and her parasol to make her girls row faster. A good few minutes' pull until we were ashore and scrambled up the bank in confusion.

Picnic baskets were dumped from the carriages as Wilmer took charge. The carriages started off, with the girls straining at their harnesses, doing their best to hurry. It took a full half hour to get to the bottom of the hill.

People in the town were running in the direction of the fire. The students followed them, but they didn't know what had happened. It was torture riding up the hill, so the girls got out and ran. The girls in the front forgot themselves. Skirts were lifted, shoe tops, disgracefully showed, stockings. It was all quite shocking. The dignified future school marm's ruin was before children. Pompadours fell down, and "rats" that padded them to slip rats ears and eyes. Hats were dragged off drunkenly at outrageous angles. The girls sprinted ahead unhampered by their fashions.

On the campus, crowds were being kept back behind ropes tied to trees. Policemen of the town's force were facing the crowd from shouting and exertion.

The bucket brigade was busily slopping pails of water to be thrown on the flames. Students and town folk swarmed, panting, but it was a losing game.

About the writer

Earlier this year, Executive Director Watts found a box of pictures and memorabilia in a storage closet in the Alumni Office. Among the items in the box was a photo of the Bloomington Literary Institute taken the day after the "Great Fire" of September 5, 1875. With the photo was an article written by Helen Arment, entitled "The Literary Institute's Big Fire of 1875."

With the help of Edwin Barton '07, local historian long associated with the college,

Watts was able to trace Miss Arment to Rockport, Mass. In response to a letter asking for permission to print the article in The Alumni Quarterly, Miss Arment wrote as follows (letter quoted in part):

"(The article) is based on fact, but the story characters and theme are all fiction. Miss Helen Barton John was the person who told me all about the fire. She was 13 or 14 at the time, and Mr. Barton's first cousin.

"It was done for a professor who in 1945 or 1946 had early classes in Science Hall. I've forgotten his name, sorry to say. He asked me for it as he thought he could use it in the alumni magazine.

"It was my only year at the college under the G.I. Bill before I transferred to Kutztown for art studies. I went in the Army at 38 years of age and came out in June of 1945. So it was when I was 42 years of age that I wrote it.

"My early years were spent in the "model school," which makes me very familiar with the school. I can remember how strict it was then. The girls couldn't dance with boys. So boys danced with boys, and girls danced with girls. Unbelievable now! I wonder what a psychologist would say about it today."

The girls' dormitory was pretty well gutted by this time. The Winona fire company had one two-wheeled cart with fifty feet of hose. The men pumped the feeble stream of water through the first floor windows where the blaze was strongest to little avail. Just as a billow of smoke would clear, a shout would go up from the crowd.

Then a head would appear at a window. It was Job, with blackened face, throwing things into the crowd below. Suitcases tumbled to the ground, spilling their contents everywhere. Anything he could lay hands on came hurtling down. Clothes, shoes and a chair or two.

The flames kept mounting, but he kept shouting orders and directing the firemen. Finally, a ladder was put up and he came down with a girl slung over one shoulder. The crowd surged forward and sent up a cheer.

He placed her on the ground just as Miss Pinkhurst came pushing through gaping people. She took charge then, waving her lacy parasol. She made a path for herself and the girl.

The other girls sat on boxes and broken pieces of furniture, but she'd gathered her entire brood in one dejected group like an ancient and distracted hen. Everything the girls owned was gone, all they had was on their backs. They were a pathetic sight.

Wilmer had made a dash for the ladder to play his usual heroic role, but Job waved him away. The wall was going. It was too late to do anything now — all that could be done was done. The fire would burn itself out. The bucket brigade had saved the other buildings.

Wilmer was a cowed man. He couldn't be a hero here — his place had been taken by that big, clumsy Job Minner.

The next day the town was still in a state of excitement. People talked of nothing else for days. Job Minner's name was on everyone's lips.

The townspeople on the hill opened their homes to the unlucky students who had no place to lay their heads. Someone volunteered to open a dining room. The students enjoyed this freedom. Proctors and proctresses didn't have much weight anymore.

We enjoyed those last months of school. Our meals were at long tables, which overflowed from the dining room into the parlor of the home it occupied. Girls sat side by side with boys. What fun we had!

We boys were all scattered now, and cliques were broken up. Wilmer and I shared a room. A week ago it would have filled me with the greatest pride, now it didn't interest me at all.

Job was the center of everything. Gossip didn't get around so fast, but we got to know how things stood. Job was sure to be class president next year, his senior year.

Wilmer was talking of a college career. His old prestige was gone, so he tried to impress us

Paul Martin retires after 26 years at BSC

Paul G. Martin, assistant vice president for administration and former business manager of the College, retired July 15 after 26 years with the College.

After a short fishing trip to Canada, Martin plans to spend some time in Coco, Florida, helping his brother develop a new marina. He and his wife Betty will spend their winters in Florida, but as a retired naval officer with 28 years of reserve status, he plans to do considerable traveling under the "space available" provision.

Martin earned his B.S. degree in business education at Bloomsburg in 1938 and worked at the Farmers National Bank in Bloomsburg as a teller and bookkeeper before entering military service.

He spent four years on active duty with the U.S. Navy during World War II, first as a storekeeper and later as a commissioned officer. After his return from the Pacific theater of operations, he remained in the reserve and served with the U.S. Air Force Selective Service for 20 years. He retired from the reserve in 1971.

In August of 1946, Martin married

Betty Kuster and they established residence in Catawissa. He was a bank examiner for the Pennsylvania Department of Banking for three years before moving to the College as business manager.

In this capacity, Martin played a key role in the development of the new campus and the transition from a small teachers' college to an all-purpose college of more than 5,000 students.

He served under four college presidents and saw the budgets increase from a half million dollars to over $18 million annually. During the same period, the faculty increased from 70 to 630.

In his 26 years at BSC, he earned the respect and confidence of the faculty, staff, students and alumni.

Boyd F. Buckingham, vice president for administration, in speaking of Martin, said, "During his years of service to the College, he has capably executed the duties of business manager and has commanded the respect of his associates, fellow business managers, and representatives of other Commonwealth agencies. We are grateful to Mr. Martin for his many years of outstanding service to his Alma Mater. We all join in wishing him a long, happy and active retirement."

The Martins are parents of three children: Mrs. Sandra Ungard, a graduate of Kutztown State College and an art teacher in the Montoursville School District; John, who is an electrician at BSC; and Richard, a student at BSC after serving four years in the U.S. Air Force. They have one grandson, three-year-old Jesse Ungard.

Martin has been active in civic and fraternal organizations, including the Catawissa Masonic Lodge, Caldwell Consistory, Irem Temple, BPOE Lodge, Retired Officers Association, American Legion, and the Friendship and North Mountain fire companies.

He is a former director of the Bloomsburg Area Chamber of Commerce and the Columbia-Montour Boy Scout Council. He has also participated in many United Fund campaign drives.

The Martins are active members of the Wesley United Methodist Church, Bloomsburg, where Paul has served as a board member and Sunday School teacher. He is currently teacher of the Men's Wesley Brotherhood Bible Class.

His retirement plans include time to enjoy his hobbies of golfing, fishing, hunting, bowling and active membership in the Saddle Rod and Gun Club of Central.

manager; Dr. Harvey A. Andruss, president emeritus; Paul Conard, director of administrative services and master of ceremonies; Mrs. Martin;

Important notice for Class of '71

A report is due on the questionnaire which was sent to all members of the Class of 1971. My apologies for the late mailing which rendered the information on Alumni Day activities useless, but all addressing was done by hand and a delay in receiving the printing copy was experienced.

A total of 119 questionnaires was returned and are being analyzed for use during Symposium '76 in November. I would like to sincerely thank all those people who returned their forms.

The question of enthusiasm for a class reunion and banquet received 51 positive responses and 68 negative ones. Due to the small percentage of interested people, no plans will be made for this year.

Again, my apologies to those 51 who were interested, but the overall response does not justify the expense of time and money it would take to organize a banquet.

I hope that many of the Class of 1971 will come to Homecoming on October 16 to participate in the activities of that day and will become more involved in the campus activities.

DeRose

William DeRose is the youngest member of the DeRose clan to attend BSC, graduating in May, 1974, with a B.S. in education, majoring in earth science. In June he began graduate studies in that field at Penn State.

He has taught in Harford County, Maryland, since September, 1974, with assignments in both seventh grade life science and eighth grade physical science. He hopes to continue with the seventh grade assignment this fall.

Single, he maintains his address at his parents' home at 238 Kent Road, Springfield, Delaware County, Pa.

David DeRose, son of Clara and Peter, was featured in the last issue of The Alumni Quarterly when he graduated from the Pennsylvania College of Optometry with a degree of Doctor of Optometry. He earned his B.S. in mathematics at BSC in 1968. In September, he will open an optometric practice in Bloomsburg.

David married the former Frances Fay of Hazleton, who attended BSC between 1970 and 1972 before transferring to West Chester State College, where she graduated in 1974 with a B.S. degree in speech pathology. She received her M.S. degree in education at BSC in August. She is employed by the Central Susquehanna Intermediate Unit 16 as a speech pathologist. They reside at Bloomsburg R.D. 3.

with talk of Princeton and Yale. It was just talk though, and he and Job were as thick as ever.

One night they were talking in the room with me. The lamp was between us so I couldn't see their faces. Job told Wilmer he and Lydia were engaged. He thought Wilmer should be the first to know.

There was a deep silence for a few minutes. I was terribly embarrassed for Wilmer for a minute. I needn't have been, for he jumped up and gave Job a resounding whack on the back.

"I'm glad to hear that!" he shouted in a sincere voice.

Right then and there I decided he was all right — a good loser after all.

When they weren't looking, I gave a quick look at my upper lip in the mirror to see if the mustache I'd been cultivating had shown any new signs of development.

It was a good thing that it hadn't been sacrificed in my first disappointment in Wilmer. I'd seen little change in that brief glimpse, but I would give it another chance. Perhaps when I was a senior I too might be a hero.

Missions, and taught in the Methodist Conference summer schools for four years.

In addition to the church work, which took her to mission schools in Japan and Korea, Emma Burrus was a visiting instructor at the University of Hawaii for one summer, completed and published her book, "Whys and Hows of Teaching Handwriting," co-authored three series of instructional materials in handwriting for Zaner-Bloser Company, and increased her travels to include a trip around the world in 1961, two weeks in Hawaii in 1963, Europe in 1964, Japan and Korea in 1966, and the Holy Land in 1968.

In 1964 the Burruses retired and moved from College Park to Forks, where Emma continued her church and civic work in Bloomsburg. She has served as president of W.S.C.S. in the Wesley Methodist Church, part-time Sunday School teacher, president of the Columbia County Soroptimist Club, and regent of the Miquon Chapter of D.A.C.

Even so, travel was still a part of her life. There were trips to Florida, Arizona, Missouri, Germany, and Nova Scotia.

In November of 1970, Russell Burrus died. In August, 1972, Emma moved to 338 Jefferson Street in Bloomsburg, where she was within walking distance of her church, shopping areas, and many friends.

During the next year, there were trips to New Orleans, Canada, Nassau, and Scandinavia. There was also the beginning of a series of feature articles written for The Morning Press, Bloomsburg, plus a growing interest in the Columbia County Historical Society.

From April 1974 to April 1976, she was president of the historical group but managed to serve as class representative of her college class, to serve on the boards of directors of the BSC Alumni Association, AARP, and the County Historical Society.

It was two years ago that she started taking golf lessons and now golfs when time permits. Last year there were trips to Mackinac Island, Seattle and Florida, plus the International Convention of Soroptimist Clubs in Sheffield, England, and a side trip to Scotland. The convention was attended by members of clubs from 50 countries.

Her latest ventures are more feature articles and writing a book which tells the story of her father as a country merchant.

When asked to summarize her interests, Emma replied, "I enjoy lectures, musicals, and dramas at BSC, Susquehanna University, and occasionally at Bucknell University. I read two daily and one weekly newspapers, subscribe to several magazines, have many books waiting for me to read someday, and have done quite a little sewing in the last few years."

Oh, yes, there was also a trip to Florida earlier this spring and the preparation of arrangements for the 60th reunion of her college class on April 30.

Such is the busy life of Emma Burrus, BSC's representative for the Class of 1916.

College justifies need for increasing budget

BSC's budget request for 1977-78 is based on three years of college-community planning efforts and is needed to continue implementation of planned missions, President McCormick told Pennsylvania Department of Education officials and members of the Board of State Colleges and University Directors at a budget hearing in Harrisburg this fall.

The college is requesting an operating budget of $21,695,914, a 12.3 per cent increase over this fiscal year's $19,303,412. To provide this amount, the college is requesting an appropriation from the Commonwealth of $13,919,914, or 20 per cent more than the appropriation for the current year. Student fees and other local income are expected to total $7,776,500.

"Our budgeting is tied directly with long-range planning that began in 1973," President McCormick pointed out. "We are seeking an appropriation needed to provide adequate funding for the approved new and expanding missions in nursing, business administration, and continuing education, and for strengthening programs in the arts and sciences and in professional studies."

President McCormick said the faculty-student ratio at BSC remains one of the highest in the state college system, even though the college has received eight new positions and authority to replace faculty who had been granted leaves.

He said the total employee complement of the college has increased by only 3.4 per cent over last year, and that a minimum of 22 new positions would be needed to provide effective support for the new and expanding programs and to reduce the faculty-student ratio.

The budget presentation also included a capital budget request for three major campus projects, including a $4,317,300 addition to the Harvey A. Andruss Library, replacement of worn electrical cables, and renovation of Sutcliffe Hall.

Boyd F. Buckingham, vice president for administration, and Richard O. Wolfe, acting vice president for academic affairs, presented information concerning the need for additional shelf space in the library.

It was pointed out that when the Andruss Library was built in 1966, it contained shelf space for 200,000 volumes, while present holdings are close to 250,000. To make space for additional shelving, seating has been reduced from 750 to 499.

In addition to the bound volumes, the library has approximately a half million microfilm units.

The vice presidents said library holdings are essential to the educational programs, and that unless additional shelving space is made available, it will not be possible to add the books needed to support new programs.

BSC complies with review

BSC is complying with the basic intent of the Governor's Review of 1975, and it most likely will not be necessary to sell presently unused land on the upper campus. College officials have been told by Edward M. King, Jr., secretary of the Governor's Review.

King visited the campus with E. H. Alkire, manager of marketing planning for the Industrial Gas Division of Air Products and Chemicals, Inc., Allentown. Alkire conducted the review study at BSC last year.

Their visit in early October was to determine to what extent BSC has implemented the recommendations, which included:

- Establishing a branch of a local bank on campus;
- Requiring that students register cars and park them on campus;
- Selling most of the unused acreage belonging to the College.

Boyd F. Buckingham, vice president for administration, reported that the first recommendation has been fully implemented. The Bloomsburg Bank-Columbia Trust Co. has been operating the branch bank on campus since the beginning of the current academic year.

Rental income of $4,800 a year exceeds the $3,000 estimated in the recommendation. It was pointed out that the review recommendation helped the College's efforts to obtain necessary approval by state agencies.

Retired, senior faculty have contributed much

(Editor's Note: An item often mentioned on the Alumni Review 1976 questionnaires recently returned to our office was the request for information about faculty members, whether still teaching or retired. In this issue, we honor those requests by featuring two members who were most often mentioned in the replies — Howard F. Fenstemaker (retired) and Clayton H. Hinkel, the senior member of the BSC faculty. Both are graduates of BSC.)

By DONALD A. WATTS
Executive Director

Howard F. Fenstemaker — teacher, parent, musician, editor, churchman, humanitarian, and 32nd Degree Mason — is one of Bloomsburg State College's most respected faculty members. In his 37 years at BSC, he was probably known by more students than any other instructor, partly because of his teaching and musical activities, but more on the basis on his warm, friendly concern for young people.

Howard was born in Berwick, and softly smiles as he reminds his listeners, "That would make me 83 years of age, but I have a sister who is 96!"

It was in Berwick High School that Howard developed an intense interest in languages and completed four years of Latin, two years of German, and one year of French. Later, in college, he took German, French, Spanish and Latin. But even before his interest in languages was known, Howard had developed an interest in music and began piano lessons in 1903, when he was 10 years old. After high school, he attended Bloomsburg Normal School from 1910 through 1912, where he continued his musical interests and played with a dance orchestra.

After graduation from BSC in 1912, Howard took his first teaching assignment in Dallas Twp. for the 1912-1913 term at a salary of $50 per month.

"From that salary I paid $3 per week for room and board, I bought my clothes, and was able to save some money," Howard remembers.

There were three teachers in the school, which he describes as one of the first consolidated schools in the state. Children were transported to school from outlying areas in horse-drawn "buses." The three teachers were each assigned three classes, and Howard was given the seventh, eighth and ninth grades.

After one year at Dallas Twp., he moved to the Chestnut Street School in Berwick, where he as teacher-principal for two terms at a salary of $65 per month for nine months.

His musical interests continued as he played the piano with the Methodist Sunday School Orchestra. He also played with an orchestra for silent movies at the Opera House for $1 per night.

In the summer of 1914 he took organ lessons at the University School of Music in Ann Arbor, Michigan. This was the inspiration that led to Howard's decision to return to Ann Arbor the following year.

In the summer of 1915, Howard left for the University of Michigan, where he continued his studies and graduated

As this edition of THE ALUMNI QUARTERLY went to press, the BSC Alumni Fund Drive for 1976 had reached 70 per cent of the $50,000 goal.

Contributions and pledges at that time totalled $35,092.89.

With only a few weeks left in the calendar year, we urge all Alumni who have not yet responded to the appeal to make their contributions in time to include them as 1976 tax deductions.

So far, only a small percentage of the 20,000 living Alumni of BSC have shown an interest in their Alma Mater by making a contribution.

If only HALF of those 20,000 Alumni would annually pay their $5 membership fee, it wouldn't be necessary to conduct a formal fund raising drive.

But, unfortunately, too many Alumni rely on somebody else to be in the "giving half."

We invite YOU to be a caring and sharing member of YOUR Alumni Association. Please let us hear from you soon.

The names of all contributors will be included in the next QUARTERLY.

McCormick stresses dual role of education

In the past three years, I have commented a number of times on the major issues and goals of Bloomsburg State College. The long-range planning effort of the college, the new and expanded program offerings, the necessity for accountability, the public service mission of the college, and the effort to provide a cultural and educational center for the Bloomsburg area have been the subject of comment in the past.

While we, as an institution, continue to be intensely committed to these goals, I would like to comment on an objective more basic and, perhaps, more important than those listed above.

Much has been written and considerable public debate has taken place regarding the apparent conflict between career education and liberal education. Scholars, government officials, school administrators, and the general public have engaged in formal and informal discussion on the subject for many years.

The decade of the seventies, with its job market crisis, and the apparent decrease in opportunities for college graduates have intensified these discussions and caused this issue to be painfully real in the lives of college students, prospective college students, parents, and educators.

However, in attempting to address the question, it is a serious error to conclude that career education or liberal education alone can adequately address the needs of college students.

Alfred North Whitehead, famous British philosopher, was a firm advocate of dual educational goals. In his Aims of Education, he said that, "

... Education should turn out the pupil with something he knows well and something he can do well. This intimate union of practice and theory aids both."

We at Bloomsburg share Whitehead's commitment to educational programs which educate the student for a means of living and an understanding of and appreciation for the meaning of life. We believe both in the ideals of liberal education and in the objective of public service.

While we continue to be sensitive to the changing educational needs of society, we will not abandon the liberal arts. Only by accepting this dual responsibility will we be able to continue to provide quality educational programs.

We invite you to join us in this important undertaking.

Academic climate examined in Symposium

Faculty and students joined forces November 9 and 10 for Symposium '76 to explore methods for making undergraduate instruction at the college more meaningful and effective.

With the theme, "Exposure to Innovations," the Symposium was intended to complement the work of the Presidential Long-range Planning Commission by seeking to identify the instructional challenges of a state college in a period of change.

Dr. John Silber, president of Boston University, in discussing "Motivations for Excellence," advocated the principle of natural aristocracy in education.

Silber espoused the philosophies of John Locke, Thomas Jefferson and John Adams in claiming that although everyone is entitled to equal opportunities, not all of mankind is created with equal abilities in fulfilling the potentials guaranteed by the Declaration of Independence and the Constitution.

"There is nothing wrong with elitism," said Silber in his defense of control by an aristocracy consisting of those with naturally superior abilities. "It is a principle of civilized society ... institutions such as government and universities should be run by those most qualified to run them."

"As long as intelligence is better than stupidity, and knowledge is better than ignorance, the natural aristocracy — those with more innate ability and more qualified opinions — should be in control," he continued.

Silber further emphasized the difference between having the right to personal opinions and the right to claim that all opinions are equally valid.

experiences. There is an intangible quality unique to each college that can be called its 'expectation.'

"New students are quick to sense the 'expectation' of the college, adapt themselves to it, and, in turn, pass it on to those who follow them."

"A college cannot revolutionize its climate in a month or perhaps even in a year, but a vision of the desired 'expectation' can promote an ultimate transformation."

"We acknowledge the fact that academic climate is composed of many ingredients. Properly combined, they are a powerful force for positive change, improperly combined, the result is apathy."

"In a sense then, Symposium '76 is an attack on apathy. It is a people-inspired, people-powered effort to take a serious look at the educational process at Bloomsburg State College and, at the same time, consider alternatives for improvement of our programs."

"We are committed to the concept of participatory governance for this college. In this spirit of collegiality and common consent, we have established a pattern of working together to face our concerns and solve our problems. Symposium '76 is an extension of this cooperative effort in a creative new way."

"I commend the faculty and student leaders for their vision in planning the Symposium. Their work is evidence of their sincere interest in BSC, its programs, its students, its role in the world of today and tomorrow."

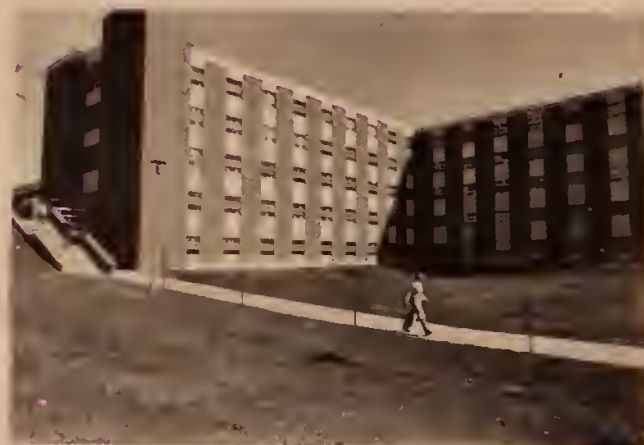

"Their cooperative efforts have produced an excellent program, a diverse agenda of new and challenging ideas, a program designed to address many different needs and expectations — a program defined as an effort to make a good college better."

McCormick's remarks

Dr. James H. McCormick, BSC president, in remarks at the opening session, said the Symposium was conceived as a means of confronting a problem identified by the members of the campus community — a problem by no means unique to Bloomsburg State College.

"It was felt that there was a need to improve the 'intellectual climate' and ultimately, of course, the total educational program of the college," he said. "Symposium '76 is one response to this need."

"We recognize that a college educates as much by its intellectual and cultural climate as by its classroom lectures and laboratory

trustees; and Boyd F. Buckingham, vice president for administration. Upper photo of new residence hall was taken from Kehr Union, which is located in the center of the campus living area. Lycoming Hall was built on the site of old Waller Hall — which housed thousands of BSC alumni during its long years as a campus landmark — and completes construction of on-campus residence halls for the foreseeable future.

College lagging behind in physical facilities

Compared to other institutions in the state college system, Bloomsburg is lagging behind in physical facilities.

These and other salient points were disclosed in a Harrisburg budget hearing at which President James McCormick and other local college officials presented arguments favoring a 20 per cent funding increase from the state.

Part of the presentation included issuance of a "Fact Sheet" labeled, "Public Misconceptions about Higher Education and the Facts at Bloomsburg State College."

It follows:

1. Misconception: Enrollments at the colleges are declining.

Fact: A year ago, we projected our enrollment for September, 1976. That target has been reached, but we have also managed to stay within the two per cent limit. As of September 23, the head count was 6,096 — an increase of 133; the full time equivalent is 5,260 — an increase of 107. Applications were 3½ per cent ahead of a year ago (4,100); SAT scores improved by 11 points, and remained above the national mean. While several hundred qualified students were denied admission, others were accommodated by beginning their studies during the 1976 summer sessions and returning to continue their studies in January, 1977.

2. Misconception: Colleges have not reduced enrollments in teacher education in light of current demands.

Fact: (A) At Bloomsburg, in 1967, 90.2 per cent of our graduates earned degrees in teacher education; in 1972, this had dropped to 76.8 per cent; in 1976, the percentage had dropped to 55 per cent. The percentage would have dropped even more if there had not been a continuing interest in graduates in communication disorders and special education.

(B) During this year, less than 30 per cent of the entering freshmen indicated a preference for teacher education.

3. Misconception: Colleges are not responding to new needs.

Fact: (A) In two years, we have gone from 0 to 135 students enrolled in our nursing degree program.

(B) Additionally, there are 125 students enrolled in medical technology and dental hygiene; other health care programs are being planned.

(C) Five years ago, eleven per cent of our degrees were granted in business administration. That percentage is now 18 per cent. Currently, 25 per cent of our students are enrolled in business administration; In September, 1976, 60 students enrolled in the MBA program, the first year of its implementation.

(D) Over a three-year span, the number of students enrolled in continuing education has more than doubled — from 260 to 525.

4. Misconception: Faculty-Student ratios are better.

Fact: Last year, our student-faculty ratio was 20.5. This year it has decreased very slightly to 20.2. Although we held our F.T.E. enrollment increase within the two per cent limit, the tight control of complement precluded any significant improvement in the student-faculty ratio. Our ratio remains among the highest in the system.

5. Misconception: Physical facilities construction is more than adequate.

Fact: Our space situation is extremely critical. Early in 1971, a major Capital Project, 401-31 was cancelled, eliminating 66 faculty offices from our master plan. In January, 1969, GSA Project 401-13 was completed, the last building containing faculty offices and classrooms to be constructed on our campus. Our enrollment was then 3,561 students. In September, 1975, our enrollment had grown to 5,153.

Obviously, the number of faculty has grown almost proportionately, but no office space for faculty has been added since January, 1969. Currently, among the 14 state-owned colleges and university, BSC is fifth in enrollment, eighth in the number of faculty offices, tenth in number of classrooms, eleventh in number of buildings, and 14th in classroom square footage per full time equivalent student.

The library was built in 1966 when enrollment was 3,370. Shelf space would accommodate an estimated 200,000 volumes and a seating capacity of 750 students. Current volumes now number 252,000. In ten years, the number of pieces of microfilm have increased from 9,000 to 587,000. The number of seats has been reduced to 499 to provide more shelf space. This is a ratio of 1:12 as contrasted to the desired minimum of 1:4.

6. Misconception: State Colleges are inefficient in operations.

Fact: Bloomsburg State College had a per student F.T.E. cost in 1974-75 of $2,841, compared with the average cost for all higher education in Pennsylvania of $4,653, and approximately $200 per student less than the average of the state-owned institutions.

7. Misconception: Colleges can move into new programs by reallocating human and other resources alone.

Fact: During the past three years, as retirements have occurred, positions have been reallocated to either nursing or business administration. Several faculty members are also being retrained. However, this is not sufficient to meet the minimum needs of new and expanding programs. The specialized nature of these programs requires expertise that is not available on this campus; hence, the need for the additional positions requested for 1977-78.

8. Misconception: Undue emphasis is placed on recruiting students for whom no jobs are available following graduation.

Fact: At Bloomsburg, the placement record in teacher education and the arts and sciences for 1974-75 shows that 70 per cent were placed; in business administration, 81 per cent were placed, 100 per cent were employed in the health sciences in areas where degrees were granted. Our placement effort really begins during a student's first year through our career counselling program.

Karen Besley, left, a senior business education major from Peckville, was crowned Homecoming Sweetheart during a windy ceremony at Redman Stadium on Homecoming Day. Sandy Risner, the 1975 Sweetheart, returned to campus to take part in the half-time highlight.

Dr. Percival R. Roberts III, chairman of the BSC art department, was one of six faculty members of the state-owned colleges who was given a $6,000 Commonwealth Distinguished Faculty Award at an October ceremony in Harrisburg.

Dr. Roberts was one of four professors honored at the local college level with certificates of exceptional academic service. The others, who were also in competition for the $6,000 awards, were William A. Acierno, professor of speech and president of the BSC chapter of the Association of State College and University Faculties (APSCUF); Dr. Andrew J. Karpinski, chairman and professor, department of special education; Dr. Tej Saini, chairman and professor, department of economics.

Recipients of distinguished teaching awards at BSC were Thomas R. Manley, professor of biology; Dr. William F. O'Bruba, professor of elementary education; and Dr. Gerald W. Powers, professor of communication disorders and director of teaching the hearing-impaired.

Manley and O'Bruba also received cash awards of $2,500, along with certificates denoting them as Commonwealth Teaching Fellows. They were also in state-wide competition for one of ten $3,500 Commonwealth Teaching Chair awards.

The recognition program grew out of the 1974 collective bargaining agreement between APSCUF and the Commonwealth.

Dedication planned for Alumni Day

Dedication of campus areas beautified by Alumni funds will be a highlight of Alumni Day on April 30, 1977.

Many more events are still in the planning stage and will be announced later.

Mark the date on your calendar today, and start planning to be part of the annual observance. Write or call your friends to meet you in Bloomsburg on April 30.

A 9-cent postcard can save us 25¢

It only costs pennies to mail The Alumni Quarterly to you, but it now costs the Alumni Association 25 cents for each address correction by the U.S. Postal Service.

Several thousand BSC Alumni have lost touch with their Alumni Association by not notifying us of address changes.

Obviously, we no longer can afford to request address corrections on every Quarterly and other piece of mail sent to Alumni. For every 1,000 "returns," it would cost the Association $250.

More than ever before, we must rely on all Alumni to keep us informed of address changes.

We would like to keep in touch with you. Thank you for helping.

Alumni are reminded that they are entitled to use the Harvey A. Andruss Library, just another benefit of an Alumni Association Membership.

Use of the facility includes borrowing privileges.

Woman's World: Margaret Jenkins MacCachran

(Editor's Note: Margaret Jenkins MacCachran '04 & '06 and her family was long associated with Bloomsburg State College. In the letter that follows, she talks about the role her parents and grandfather played in the development of the College.)

I was pleased to receive your letter of May 4, along with the certificate in recognition of my 70th reunion. While I am in excellent health, I am beginning to curtail going very far from home. I have been living in a very fine retirement village, called Bethany Village, for 11 years, and feel very fortunate.

It is always good to be in touch with BSC. I recently received a Quarterly and read it all, looking for familiar names and finding a few: Fenstermaker, Hemingway, Mary Ryder, etc. My real reason for writing is to ask you to send me a picture of Carver Hall — my check is enclosed.

Seeing Carver Hall, reading the Quarterly, and finding May Whitman's picture, etc., have all taken me back. May I take the liberty of going WAY back?

It happened that my family from the very beginning was involved, and for many, many years connected with first the Normal School and then the State Teacher's College until my father's retirement in 1927.

My grandfather, Calvin Bittenbender, was one of a group of men (it may have been the first board of directors) who raised the money to build Carver Hall, the beginning of the Normal School. And it still stands as a symbol of what has come to be a great institution. When Carver Hall was built, my mother, Anna, entered the school the first day it was opened. A young woman then, she wanted the music course and was graduated in music.

Some years later (I wish I had the dates), a young man from New York State heard of the Normal School and came to Bloomsburg to continue his education. His name was Francis Jenkins and he enrolled in the college preparatory course to prepare for Amherst College.

He met Anna Bittenbender; they fell in love and became engaged to be married. He graduated from the Normal School and entered Amherst College. In his senior year he became very ill with typhoid fever; he was a position he held until his retirement in 1927.

As I grew older and was ready for the model school, our walking back and forth to the School began — and lasted for a good many years, which is a addressing the Quarterlies in their home. Following her death in 1939, when I saw those files being carried out of our home, I knew that this was really the end of a long era of our association with Bloomsburg State Teachers brought back to Bloomsburg and cared for by his Anna in her home. He did recover, and they were married.

THE WRITER AS YOUNG WOMAN

ANNA B. JENKINS

My father was offered a position as teacher of English, and he and my mother lived in the dormitory at the School. In addition to teaching, he found time to do some studying and was able to receive his degree from Gettysburg College (which he had not been able to receive at Amherst).

My parents then moved to a house in town, and I was born in 1887. My father continued to teach for some years, and then was made registrar of the College, pleasant memory for me. I was graduated in music in 1904, and in the teacher's course in 1906.

At that time, the lady who had been working at the "front desk" retired; I was available and was asked to take over. I enjoyed it so much that I stayed for 12 years until I was married in 1918.

Our home, those many years, always welcomed students, as well as our many faculty friends.

After my father's retirement, he became the Alumni treasurer until his death in 1933. My mother was busy at that time, too, with the Alumni list and

College, from which we had been so enriched for so long

Now, that is all, except to say that our two sons attended the Ben Franklin School during the 1930s, completing a four-generation connection with BSC. I had no idea of taking so much space; it has amounted to more of a project than I expected. I thought our story might be of interest to you, and that our long association might be unique.

Perhaps some of what I have written will be of help when a "history" of the College is compiled.

Psychology department offers a strong major

By Dr. MICHAEL GAYNOR
Chairman, Psychology Dept.

The psychology department at BSC has changed over the past six years from a support department to one which also offers a strong arts and sciences major. This change came slowly and steadily.

Currently, there are 12 faculty members in the department, with 11 holding the doctorate degree.

Each member of the psychology faculty holds an area of special expertise, as well as the capability to teach beginning level courses.

Naturally, curriculum changes come with faculty changes. We now offer 28 different courses in five general areas: developmental and psychodynamic psychology; social and applied psychology; psychological methodology and research; advanced general psychology; and history and systems in psychology.

This infusion of talented faculty and modern course offerings has attracted a new breed of student. The psychology major, we feel, is above average in talent and above the average in motivation.

Our students do three things with their major in psychology. The top one-third tend to go on to graduate school. In fact, the greatest proportion of arts and sciences graduates who do go to graduate school are psychology majors.

The middle one-third tend to obtain positions in the mental health or helping skills job market. Our psychological practicum course helps our students gain valuable experience in a work situation while earning course credit. This enhances their employability in mental health settings.

The lower one-third face stiff competition in the job market; as a result, they tend to be employed in any position they can find. Indeed, some find it extremely difficult to get a job.

Our students have been well-received by graduate schools and do very well.

Our working majors report to such employers as child welfare agencies, rehabilitation services, community mental health centers, mental health/mental retardation agencies, state mental hospital settings, industrial and personnel settings, and sales positions. The working world also views the BSC psychology major as a valuable asset.

The psychology department is on the verge of providing new degree programs in the future. We are currently working on a psychology degree in mental health to provide our graduating majors with more specific skills to bring to the mental health service market. Longer range plans include a master's degree program in the same area.

Alumni, stop by and see our new facilities on your next visit to the campus. We will show you the statistics laboratory equipped 20 desktop computers; our undergraduate experimental psychology laboratory, where each major learns basic research skills culminating in behavior change of the white rat; the advanced experimental laboratory and animal room, where undergraduate independent research and faculty research is carried on; and the brand-new social psychology laboratory replete with remotely-operated video cameras and television studio console.

Our faculty continues their research and publication: Dr. Connie Schick, in experimental psychology; Dr. Michael Levine, experimental social psychology; Dr. Richard Larcom, developmental psychology; Dr. John Baird, political and social psychology; Dr. Steven Cohen, operant conditioning; Dr. Alex Poplawsky, physiological psychology; and the chairman, in learning.

Dr. Martin Satz continues his contributions to clinical psychology; Donald Bashore, his valuable consultation to state agencies; Dr. Donald Campese, writing and preparation of educational psychological behavioral competencies; Dr. Hessert, his development of mastery teaching in child psychology; and Dr. Calvin Walker, his programmed basic statistics course.

Alumni sponsors tour to Spain

Bloomsburg State College Alumni Association will sponsor two group tours for members and friends during the summer of 1977. Details are now available on the tour to Spain, June 14 through June 25.

The second tour is still under study and will be announced later.

The tour of Spain will be directed by Dr. Alfred E. Tonolo, professor of foreign languages at BSC, who will provide a choice of three itineraries. The price will range from $589 to $609, depending on the itinerary chosen for the two-week period.

Request your brochure for the tour of Spain from: Alumni Office, Bloomsburg State College, Bloomsburg, Pa. 17815. Telephone (717) 389-3613.

BSC popular with Yeany family

We are happy to introduce the Yeany Family as our Bloomsburg State College Family for this issue. The father, Norman Yeany, although not a graduate of BSC, was a cooperating teacher for business subjects at Bloomsburg High School for nearly ten years, when most student teaching had to be done at Bloomsburg, Berwick or Danville.

Norman had two daughters and one son who graduated from BSC, as well as a son who left BSC to enter the service. Vivian Yeany Nachod graduated in 1933 in the first class of prospective business teachers. She is now deceased.

Louise C. Yeany Bittenbender graduated in 1935 and worked for the United States Navy during World War II. She now lives with her husband at The Hamilton 1207, 631 O'Farrell St., San Francisco, Calif. 94109.

Austin Yeany enrolled at BSC in the business education program, but left in 1942 to enter the armed services. He now lives at 970 Calle Nogal, Thousand Oaks, Calif. 91360, where he works for the U.S. Postal Service. He is married to the former Doris Hanna, and they are the parents of two children.

Philip R. Yeany received his B.S. in 1943 with a major in business education and a minor in social studies. After serving as a bomber pilot in World War II, he received his M.S. in education at the University of Pennsylvania in 1947.

For 14 years, Philip operated a grain brokerage business and was administrative assistant for the Center for Community Studies at Temple University for five years.

He is now associate director of the Philadelphia Center for Older People, located at Broad and Lombard Streets. This is a social agency for retired people and the third largest of its kind in the United States.

It was while a student at BSC that Philip met Florence Faust, who was later to become his wife. Florence received her B.S. in business education in 1944 and taught in West Reading and Collegeville-Trappe before "retiring" to raise their family of a daughter, Louise A., and sons Henry M., Bruce A., and Philip.

Florence Yeany returned to the classroom eight years ago at Upper Merland High School, where four of the seven business teachers are BSC graduates.

Philip's hobby is woodworking, and Florence loves to sew and knit. They live at 1000 Butler Ave., Ambler, Pa. 19002.

Their daughter Louise, a member of the Class of 1973 at BSC, met David Pool '73 at BSC, and they are now married. Louise teaches first grade at Madison Elementary School in Madison, North Carolina, and David is a salesman for DAP throughout North Carolina.

David's B.S. was in business administration, while Louise's degree was in elementary education. They reside at 206-G Yester Oaks East, Greensboro, N.C. 27420.

Henry M. Yeany '74 earned his B.S. degree in accounting. He is a cost accountant for Selmens, Inc., a German-owned firm. The division Henry works for makes computer testing equipment and is located in Cherry Hill, N.J. His rather forced hobby is studying German. He is residing with his parents.

Son Philip, the only member of the Yeany family who did not attend BSC, is doing research in law at Bonn, West Germany. The Yeany's gave up their family hobby of camping this past summer in order to visit Philip and to tour Europe.

Bruce, the youngest son, is a student at BSC and will graduate next May. He plans to be a high school science teacher.

You can be assured that next year the Yeany family will be camping again, but one important weekend will include a visit to the BSC campus for Bruce's graduation and for renewing many friendships with faculty and classmates.

streets adjacent to the campus, Buckingham noted that extensive efforts are being made to deal with problem, but the ultimate solution is not yet at hand.

Dr. Jerrold A. Griffis, vice president for student life, cited a number of steps the College has taken to deal with the parking problem, and with other problems involving relations between the College and the community.

He said John Abell, a member of his staff, has been given a major assignment in the area of college-community relations.

"We have taken a fresh look at the whole problem, trying to find ways of solving it," he said. "There is no single solution, but we are trying to do what we can.

"Students who have PHEAA scholarships cannot have cars without obtaining special permission. We have initiated a more stringent policy regarding those students, cancelling the grants of any such student found to have a car here.

"We are meeting with concerned townspeople and are working closely with town police. We are trying to persuade students to use upper campus parking areas."

King commented that the intent of the parking recommendation was to have the College deal with the problem, and he indicated he was satisfied the College was making that effort.

Commenting on the third recommendation relating to the sale of unused College land, President McCormick told King and Alkire that he hoped they would reconsider the recommendation in view of the plans the College has for using most of the acreage on the upper campus.

The Nelson Fieldhouse, Redman Stadium, and the Litwiler Baseball Field, along with practice fields and parking areas, are in the center of the 100-acre tract. The land was purchased by the Commonwealth from several different owners in the 1960s, at a time when the sports complex and several other buildings were being planned to meet an anticipated need for expansion.

President McCormick pointed out that the leveling off of enrollments has eliminated the need for the planned buildings, but that the purchase of the land was a good investment for other reasons.

Dr. Lee C. Hopple, director of institutional planning for the College, outlined plans of the Long-Range Planning Commission for use of the land for educational and recreational purposes. Included are proposals for additional athletic fields to meet requirements of women's sports and intramurals, development of a natural environmental study area to support educational programs, installation of a wildlife trail, expansion of facilities for Quest and ROTC programs, and recreational areas for students.

"The comprehensive upper campus plan included in the Three-Year Action Plan, 1976-79, indicates that by 1980 there will be no unused land on the upper campus," Hopple concluded.

King responded by pointing out again that it was the intent of the recommendation to have the College make a good land study and develop land use plans. He said that if the Department of Education is receptive to the plan, he will not press for further implementation of the recommendation.

"We took a look at three colleges that had land not presently in use," he said. "Our intention was to have the colleges decide whether the land they had was needed. This could be done, as you have done, by study and planning. In so doing, you have complied with the basic intent of the review recommendation."

"The Way We Were," a special exhibition of nostalgic BSC photos and other memorabilia prepared by James Watts, Andrus Library archivist, was a big hit with alumni and current students as well during the Homecoming period. Looking at one of the historic photos are Margaret A. Kelly, assistant professor of library science, and William V. Ryan, director of library services.

Fenstemaker, Hinkel have served BSC well

magna cum laude with an A.B. degree in 1918. He became a member of the Michigan chapter of Phi Beta Kappa.

Howard's musical activities were equally interesting to this high academic achievement at the University. In his own words, "I played occasionally at two movie houses and with Mr. Nitter at the Tea Room at noon and a cafeteria in the evening. I also played with Ake Fisher's Orchestra; many times he would send me to play alone at sorority houses in Ann Arbor and Ypsilanti.

"There was also a quartet of Bloomsburg graduates that I played and sang with. There were Carroll Bailey '11, first tenor and violin; George Wilner '11, reader and second tenor; Paul Womelsdorf '12, bass; and me, baritone, piano and guitar. We performed in concerts at Big Beaver and Warren, Michigan; Dyberry and Stewartstown, York County, Pennsylvania."

Following graduation from the University of Michigan, Howard found a teaching position in Highland Park, Michigan, which lasted one semester before he was drafted into the Army. His war duty included seven months in Paris, France, as a censor of soldiers' mail written in foreign languages.

While in France, he played for dances at Versailles for a group of officers attached to General Bliss' staff. After the war, Howard returned to Highland Park High School and Junior College, where he taught French and Spanish until the fall of 1926.

In July, 1919, Howard married a Bloomsburg classmate, the former Ruth Nuss. Eventually, a son and daughter were born to the couple. Howard, Jr., is now a feature editor with the Chicago Daily News and Mary Lou (John) is associate professor of French at BSC. Ruth died in 1945.

The eight years in Highland Park were busy, but Howard's musical activities continued to grow in popularity with no end to the requests for performances. He now played with George Matthews (violin) and Truman Cummings (violin) at Exchange Club meetings. He also played with an orchestra at Trinity Methodist Church, and later became the director of that group.

Howard often substituted as organist at Highland Park Presbyterian Church and accompanied their choir in concert at Mt. Clemens, Michigan. Again there were silent movies, and Howard found himself playing for them in the Highland Park High School, as well as playing for dancing at the night school. A group from the H. P. Exchange Club presented a radio program on WJZ, and you know who played the piano for that group — Howard Fenstemaker. There was also a need for a pianist for Sunday afternoon meetings at the YMCA, and Howard filled that need.

As we mentioned, the Fenstemakers returned to Bloomsburg in the fall of 1926. When asked what prompted him to return to his Alma Mater, Howard replied, "Jack Nelson. Jack had graduated from BSNS in 1911 and had gone to Michigan. When I went there in 1914 and again in 1915, I lived with Jack. He later moved to Highland Park and then to Bethlehem, Pa., before coming to the College. In 1926, when it was known that the Normal School would become a Teachers College, there was a need for someone to teach languages, and Jack Nelson suggested I consider a move to Bloomsburg.

"At BSTC, I first taught Latin and French. But when World War II came, Latin was dropped and Spanish was added. During my years at BSC, I have taught almost everything in the catalogue at one time or another.

"It was common practice to give me any classes that were not covered by other instructors. In many ways, this was interesting, and it provided me with more opportunities to know the students. I never minded the assignments."

In 1947, Howard married Mary Edwards, a long-time friend of the family who had just completed a tour of duty with the WACs in World War II. She had served in Italy and North Africa during some of the heaviest fighting of the war. Howard and Mary live in a comfortable two-story home at 242 Central Road, Espy.

We must not overlook the fact that during all these years Howard did graduate work at the University of Pennsylvania, but eventually received his M.A. from N.Y.U. in 1933. From 1961 to 1963, he was chairman of the foreign language department at BSC.

When we attempted to describe the many musical activities of Howard Fenstemaker at BSC, we decided to simply enumerate them as follows:

Director of the Maroon and Gold Orchestra and the Maroon and Gold Band; organist for 30 commencements (May and mid-year); organist and choir director for the First Baptist Church since 1927; organist at Caldwell Consistory, Bloomsburg from 1935 to 1963; accompanist for Caldwell Chanters, 1929 to 1940; accompanist for Bloomsburg Civic Chorus for "The Mascot," "Chimes of Normandy," "Mikado," "Messiah"; organist for York Rite Masonic Bodies since 1930; pianist for Bloomsburg Kiwanis Club since 1927.

Most alumni will remember Howard as editor of The Alumni Quarterly for nearly a half century, from 1926 to 1971, a total of 45 years. When he retired as editor of the Quarterly, he said, "Actually, this is my second retirement — the first was from the BSC faculty."

At that time, Howard was president of the Alumni Association, a capacity he served in from 1962 to 1973. It is from Howard that we learned the Quarterly had its start in the 1880s, by the College, but was discontinued in 1921.

The Alumni Association members missed the Quarterly, and decided in 1926 to sponsor its publication. The Association's first edition of the Quarterly was printed in December of that year with Howard Fenstemaker as editor-in-chief and Professor F. H. Jenkins '76 as business manager.

This was the same year that Howard came to the College as a language instructor. He was asked to be editor, he accepted, and as he comments, "It stuck!"

"A great deal of mail was received from Alumni — a fact much appreciated — but the unpleasant part of putting out an alumni publication is handling the substantial number of obituaries," he noted.

What does a person who has been so active for so many years do upon retirement? Most people would "climb the walls," but not Howard. His many musical, church, club and lodge activities continue to occupy much of his time. In addition, there are one-day auto trips to neighboring towns for summer theatre, college activities, plus visits to Mrs. Fenstemaker's relatives in Maine and New Hampshire a few times each year, and an occasional trip to Illinois to visit his son's family.

On January 23, 1973, Howard was honored by the First English Baptist Church of Bloomsburg upon the completion of 45 years as organist. In addition, he has served many years as deacon and still teaches the adult Bible class, which he began in 1926.

Many other honors have been bestowed upon Howard, including one from the Kiwanis Club in 1973 for his long and faithful membership and as pianist for the club since 1927.

In 1962, Mrs. Ralph Herre, noted local artist, finished a portrait of Howard, and in 1972, when the language laboratories in Bakeless Center were dedicated and named "The Howard Fenstemaker Language Labs," Mrs. Herre's painting was moved from the Alumni Office to Bakeless Hall.

In addition to playing the piano at the weekly Kiwanis meetings, Howard continues to play the organ for various Caldwell Consistory affairs and the Order of Scottish Rite functions.

Asked what he does in his spare time, Howard replied, "Well, I do a lot of reading; I'm a Philly baseball fan; I work crossword puzzles, keep a garden, and serve as a handyman at 242 Central Road, Espy."

And what does Mrs. Fenstemaker do? Her answer: "What can you do that will permit housewives to retire?"

Her extra activities, according to Howard, include volunteer work at Danville State Hospital, serving "Meals on Wheels," church work, and sending birthday cards to every one of her hundreds of friends and acquaintances.

Howard's remark as we prepared to leave following the interview was, "Don't forget, I also have a grandson. His is Edward John, an auditor for the company which operates the interstate truck stops along I-80."

Howard has volunteered to help us catalog old College pictures and to identify people in those photographs — just another of his many activities, but then who is better qualified? No one!

Clayton H. Hinkel '40 is the senior member of the BSC faculty, but his association with the College is better described by one of many graduates who asked in the alumni questionnaire that we "feature faculty members, especially Clayton Hinkel." The comments made by one person was, "Why not feature a dedicated teacher, humanitarian, and friend to thousands of students, Clayton Hinkel?"

SEVEN past or present BSC educators have been honored as "Compatriots in Education" by Kappa Delta Pi, National Honorary Society. They are (seated, from left) Ted Shanoski, chapter counselor and associate professor in the BSC history department; Edwin Barton, former member of the BSC faculty and a key member of the Columbia County Historical Society honors educators

By GENE W. WALTERS
Graduate Student

Seven educators from Bloomsburg State College were honored by the student awards committee of the national education society, Kappa Delta Pi, in a bicentennial ceremony at the college in October.

Those honored by the society were Ted Shanoski, for 12 years of service as counselor to Kappa Delta Pi; Edwin Barton, for his work in the Columbia County Historical Society and for publishing the book, Columbia County 200 Years Ago; John Serff, for excellence in the teaching of history at BSC; Charlotte Hess, for her work displaying excellence in elementary education; Robert Koslosky, BSC faculty member and Commonwealth Teaching Fellow, for his work in art for the handicapped; James McCormick, BSC president, for leadership displayed after the administrative change of presidents; and John Hoch, formerly vice president of academic affairs, for 29 years of service to BSC.

The awards were presented by Kappa Delta Pi on the basis of certain criteria established, by making outstanding contributions in the field of education, including excellence in teaching, leadership in higher education, community service, and excellence in research.

Student award committees in each chapter of Kappa Delta Pi select those individuals in the campus and community at large who meet criteria established. Those selected are awarded a certificate attesting to the winner being a "Compatriot in Education — 1976."

Woman's World: Blanche Hoppe Chisholm

Editor's Note: Featured in "Woman's World" for this issue of The Alumni Quarterly is Blanche Hoppe Chisholm '07. At our invitation, Mrs. Chisholm tells the story of her long and active life in her own words.

Dear Bloomsburg Friends,
I've been asked to write a brief article for The Alumni Quarterly, being sure to stress some of my hobbies. Since letter-writing has become a hobby for me in my old age (I was 93 in August), here is the letter.

Being brief is a problem. My daughter says "Mom's letters usually turn into books!" So if this becomes a book, Mr. Editor, you may cut it down to size.

I asked Eddie what HE thought of the idea. He says it would be fine to have 1907 represented. By the way, "Eddie" is Mr. Edwin Barton, a member of my class of whom we're very proud!

You all know Eddie. I think I was the oldest of the class, and I know he was the youngest — a real child prodigy!

Concerning this letter, I have never done a thing interesting enough to write about. When I read the letters in the Quarterly, I'm ashamed to even try.

I was born back in 1883 on a Susquehanna County dairy farm in Lenox Township, Pa. I had two brothers, and we had a very happy home life. I learned to run races and play ball with them. That's probably the reason I'm a devoted baseball fan today. My church group has learned that I'll not be at the meeting if "my Mets" are playing.

My early education began in a one-room, one-teacher schoolroom on the corner of my father's farm. Even the pot-bellied stove was there! When it came time to go to high school, we went to Nicholson in Wyoming County. I was graduated in 1901, took the teacher's examinations, and taught in another one-teacher school that autumn.

I finally taught four years before deciding it was what I wanted to make my life's work. After all, where could a girl earn $26 a month and have five months vacation easier than in a schoolroom?

I knew I needed a bit more education, so in the spring of 1905 I entered Bloomsburg Normal School. I finished the junior year that spring, returned for "middler" (as it was called then), and finally finished in 1907. I went back to Lenox Township and began once more teaching in a one-teacher school. After three years, Anna Chamberlin and I went to Uniondale, just above Scranton, and taught two years together in a three-room school.

Since better wages were being paid in New Jersey, we decided to try there and in 1912 we came down here to Springfield where I now live. I hadn't known of Anna's death until I saw it in the last Quarterly.

Anna didn't like New Jersey and went back to Pennsylvania after one year. But I decided to stay and was promoted from fifth and sixth to seventh and eighth grades. I taught there two years, enjoying the move very much. I still have some wonderful friends among my pupils.

In the meantime, I'd become interested in the young people of the Methodist Church, especially three teenagers — a girl and two boys. Their mother died the first year I was in Springfield.

Later, I met the father and two years later I married him, gave up teaching, and settled down to make a home for all of us.

We were happy together, but two years later World War I came and both boys enlisted. In the meantime, we had had a baby boy who was made most welcome by his brothers and sister.

The younger son, Raymond, was killed in the Battle of the Argonne. All that we gained in the war was just not worth the life of such a boy. He was given the Distinguished Service Cross posthumously, and a school was built and named for him — the Raymond Chisholm School.

Before the war ended, we had a little daughter, Wanda. Raymond's last letter said how anxious he was to see his little sister.

In the meantime, Marian, the older daughter, took a position as secretary to a lawyer in Summit, N.J., and later married. She is now the secretary in our church and very handy for me — she types my letters!

Having been brought up on a farm, I couldn't see any other place to bring up my children. "Dad" loved the country also, so we went back to Nicholson. Remember the town, folks. It's where that big concrete bridge was built — one end of it being on my grandmother's property.

We bought an old colonial house — ten rooms — about two miles out of town. I'll never forget painting and papering all those rooms. And there we brought up our little folks.

By then, two more had come — Ellis and Joyce. The also loved the old house. They all graduated from Nicholson High. But once again, war stepped in.

All the children were married, and both boys and the two girls' husbands volunteered. The big house was too big for two old people, so we finally sold it and came back to Springfield. Dad found work at a place in town and I did private nursing.

Fortunately, our boys came back safely this time. Wanda's husband decided to stay in permanently and, after 25 years, retired as a lieutenant colonel. He was a bomber pilot and was awarded the Distinguished Flying Cross.

Now, after all those years, I have six children, 17 grandchildren, 15 great-grandchildren, and six great-great-grandchildren.

An active life? Rather, and I haven't told you a thing about Bloomsburg. My years there were truly happy ones. We had some wonderful teachers. I especially enjoyed Mr. Hartline. I'll never forget the trips we took.

Mr. Albert, the geography teacher, was one of my favorites. He travelled a lot to lecture, and I used to draw maps for him to use, the "catch" being that he'd leave me to teach his classes while he travelled. Mr. Cope was also a favorite — we both liked to ice skate and play tennis.

Dr. Waller, our principal, meant a lot to me. We had 15 minutes of chapel every day, which we had to attend. The first five minutes he gave etiquette lessons. We learned more from him than we ever did from Emily Post.

Eddie says not to forget to say that I was a whiz in the carpenter shop and made that lovely tall bookcase all by myself. (In fact, it was so big we had trouble getting it home.)

One more comment, and that's all. At a faculty meeting one evening, Mr. Hartline remarked that for the first time in his life he had given a pupil 100 per cent on a term paper. Everyone asked who it was.

"Miss Hoppe from Hop Bottom," he said.

The Latin teacher almost shouted, "You couldn't possibly! She's the stupidest pupil I ever had in a Latin class!"

"She COULD have been studying snakes instead of Latin," Mr. Hartline replied.

I forgot to say that my husband has been gone over 20 years. I'm alone in my small apartment and, believe it or not, I'm custodian (they call me housekeeper) of our church, where people are most kind. The year I was 90, they gave me a surprise party with a gorgeous money tree. About 200 people were present.

Now, they help will all the hard tasks because I'm "Grandma Chisholm" to them — no longer Blanche Hoppe from Hop Bottom.

In closing, I must tell you of the letter we started our last day at Bloomsburg. I suggested the idea to a group of friends to keep us in touch. I took the names and addresses of 18 girls. I wrote the first letter to Number Two, she sent my letter and one of her own to Number Three, and so on to Number 18. It came to me — 18 letters! And so it has gone on for 70 years. Now, there are just three of us living — Edna Brundage Pentacost, Ella Best and myself.

My best wishes to you all.

To you, Fellow Alumni — Blanche Hoppe Chisholm '07

Hinkel: senior faculty member

Clayton Hinkel came to Bloomsburg 40 years ago as a freshman and enrolled in the business education program. His four years at BSC were independently financed by his part-time employment and without scholarships or grants.

One of Clayton's first acts, even before arriving in Bloomsburg, was to place an ad in The Morning Press for part-time work. The ad was successful, and he was able to secure a home in Town where he earned his room and board during his first year.

His many activities during his four years at BSC included membership in Pi Omega Pi, Kappa Delta Pi, and the Business Education Club. He served as treasurer of the latter and was on the staff of the Obiter and the Maroon and Gold newspaper. Clayton also taught Sunday School and was active in young people's organizations at St. Matthew Lutheran Church in Bloomsburg.

Clayton did his student teaching at Bloomsburg High School under the guidance of J. Wesley Knorr, one of the first graduates of BSC's business education program.

Following graduation, Clayton started his teaching career in his home town of Easton during the summer of 1940. It was at the Easton High School where he taught 20 hours of classes per week at 60 cents an hour. That winter he was a full-time substitute for the first semester at Shull Jr. High School. The second semester he was assigned to the March School, a combination elementary-junior high school where he taught reading, spelling, English and literature.

It was at a Christian Endeavor conference that Clayton met Kathleen Myers, a graduate of Liberty High, Bethlehem, and Bethlehem Business College. Kathleen was an instructor at the latter school.

They were married in December, 1945. They have two children — Lee and Anne.

Lee served four years in the Air Force, including a year in Viet Nam. He now lives in Riverton, Wyoming, his wife's native area. Lee is a sports enthusiast and an avid big game hunter. He is employed in drilling for oil and gas. In addition, he and his family raise and train appaloosa horses on their small ranch. Their horses have won a number of awards, and one is a state champion in its class. The Hinkels look forward to annual visits to Wyoming with their son, their daughter-in-law, and two grandchildren.

Their daughter, Anne Rohrbach, is a graduate of Indiana University of Pennsylvania. She had been a home economist with the Penn State University Extension Service in Monroe and Lancaster Counties, but more recently she was an assistant personnel director in Sibley's, the largest department store in Rochester, N.Y. She and her husband now reside in State College, where he is serving as a landscape architect on the staff of PSU.

Let's go back to Clayton's move to BSC. After four and a half years at Easton High School as director of business education and placement, and as an evening instructor at Churchman Business College, Clayton and Kathleen moved to Bloomsburg, where at various times he has since taught all of the undergraduate business education courses and seven graduate courses. He will complete 30 years at BSC at the end of the current semester. He has also been a part-time instructor at Temple University and a summer and evening instructor for PSU.

In addition to all of his teaching, Clayton has had a wealth of practical business experience, including 15 years of part-time work with the Bloomsburg offices of the First Eastern Bank.

His list of college activities is equally impressive. For five years he was chairman of the graduate studies committee, which conducted two extensive surveys and prepared the formal application for approval of the master's degree in education.

Other activities: he served as vice president, treasurer and secretary, at various times, for the BSC Faculty Association; he initiated and supervised for six years the sixth grade typing class and personal typing program for faculty and students; he served as faculty sponsor of the Student Christian Association for 18 years; and he was faculty sponsor of the College Canteen for a number of years. The latter provided at least $1,000 a year to help finance the College yearbook.

Clayton Hinkel has devoted his time and talents to BSC Alumni Association for many years. At one time he served as vice president and for the past two years has been secretary of the association.

But there have also been many professional activities and honors for him. He was designated "The Outstanding Business Educator of the Year" in 1968 by the Pennsylvania Business Education Association; he was recipient of the Institute of Life Insurance Scholarship to the Wharton School, University of Pennsylvania, and the Danforth Scholarship to Union Theological Seminary, Columbia University; and recipient of the Foundation for Economic Education Fellowship from Sears, Roebuck and Co.

In addition, he has participated in a number of high school career conferences and college night programs. He is an active member of national and state professional organizations and author of a number of magazine articles.

For 15 years, he has been advisor to the Lutheran Student Association, and active in the YMCA, having served as local finance chairman and as a member of the State Student Committee. In the past, he has been a member of the Church Council and Sunday School superintendent at St. Matthew Lutheran Church.

When Clayton Hinkel, senior member of the BSC faculty, was asked how he looked upon his 40-year association with Bloomsburg State College, he smiled and said, "I consider myself the most fortunate graduate of Bloomsburg State College because President Emeritus Harvey A. Andruss was one of my teachers and because he invited me back to teach here 30 years ago. I am also grateful to William C. Forney and Walter S. Rygiel, two other teachers who are now faculty emeriti. I am equally proud of the fact that 12 of my former students are now members of the BSC faculty and administrative staff."

In addition to those annual trips to Wyoming to visit with their son and his family, the Hinkels have traveled in many states of our country, Canada, Mexico, Europe, and Scandinavia.

A most recent change in the lives of Clayton and Kathleen Hinkel was a move from their flood-prone home on Leonard Street in Bloomsburg to an apartment at 418 Jefferson Street. Clayton describes the new location as having two additional advantages — a shorter walk to meet his College classes, and complete freedom from mowing the lawn and shoveling snow.

Heywood Hale Broun, well-known sportscaster, writer and actor, was the featured speaker at the seventh annual Journalism Institute for high school students, sponsored by the Institute and the BSC Arts Council. From left are Tom Mulhern, Community Government Association president; Mary Lou John, director of the Arts Council; Broun; Ed Hauck, sports editor of the Campus Voice; Dr. Lawrence Fuller, director of the Journalism Institute; and Dale Myers, editor of the Campus Voice.

Faculty news

Ben C. Alter, professor of foreign languages at BSC, has begun his term as president of the Pennsylvania State Modern Language Association.

In presiding over the opening session of a conference held in Pittsburgh, Alter said: "At the beginning of this decade there was a marked decline in the interest in the study of foreign languages. I feel this negative trend has been reversed, but it is up to the individual language teacher to sustain this positive momentum by promoting language study not only for its cultural value, but also for its invaluable practicality in the field of commerce and human services."

The Research Grant Committee at BSC has recommended the awarding of funds for the 1976-77 fiscal year to support research projects of the following members of the faculty:

Dr. Christopher Armstrong, sociology/anthropology, "Comparative Study of Traditional and Progressive Private Schools";

Dr. Wendelin R. Frantz, geography and earth science, "Hydrologic Analysis of Green Creek, Columbia County, Pennsylvania";

Dr. Lawrence B. Fuller, English, "William Milligan Sloane — The American Man of Letters and the Modern Myth of Manhood";

Dr. Robert L. Rosholt, political science, "Comprehensive Local Government Reorganization: The English Experience, 1974-77"; and

Dr. David E. Washburn, ethnic heritage studies center, "Ethnic Studies in the United States: Higher Education."

Professor JoAnne S. Gowney has been appointed acting director of institutional planning for the spring semester, 1977. Dr. Lee Hopple, director, will be on sabbatical during that period.

Richard J. Stanislaw, associate professor of music at BSC, was granted the Doctor of Musical Arts degree this fall at the University of Illinois in Champaign-Urbana. His dissertation dealt with "Choral Performance Practice in the Four-Shape Literature of the American Frontier Singing Schools."

Dr. Stanislaw directs the Women's Choral Ensemble and Madrigal Singers at BSC, and works with the local chapter of Inter-Varsity Christian Fellowship.

Editor's Note: Because of the great wealth of information received in the nearly 5,000 questionnaires returned to the Alumni office, we are including marriages not previously reported regardless of when they occurred, children and their ages, along with addresses reported to us. We attempt to pass along to classmates the information submitted to us, but that information is sometimes incomplete or unclear. Also included are some comments which have appeared on questionnaires.

Rosa John Pursel '04 resides with her daughter, Mrs. Jean Loomis, who furnished the following letter: "My mother, Rosa John Pursel, widow of Frank E. Pursel, was 92 years of age on June 27, 1976. She is enjoying good health and is very alert. She resides with her only child, Jean, wife of Davis S. Loomis. She has two granddaughters, Doria and Darla, and one great-granddaughter, Shana Rose. Her address is Box 15, R.D. 1, Elverson, Pa. 19520."

Mrs. Margaret Jenkins MacCachran '04 & '06 is featured in a separate article in this issue of The Quarterly.

Mrs. Rhea (Williams) Bassell '08 writes from the Murray Tufts Garret Manor, a Methodist home in Narrowsburg, N.Y. 12764, that she would enjoy more news of the Class of 1908. She writes, "I always look for news of the Class of 1908 but never find anything in quantity."

Mrs. James E. Reagan (Anna Deeths) '08 writes: "I look forward to reading about my former classmates and also changes on the campus. I moved to Colorado five years ago to be near my family. I keep active in the Women's Club and Literary Guild. I am planning to come to my 70th reunion in 1978 and am looking forward to becoming re-acquainted with members of the Classes of '07, '08 and '09. I have one daughter, five grandchildren and two great-grandchildren." Mrs. Reagan's address is 2021 Hermosa Dr., Boulder, Colo. 80302.

Mr. and Mrs. J. F. Wetzel '13 recently observed their 60th wedding anniversary. In a letter to the executive director, Mr. Wetzel writes: "We had a lovely party and both of us were so happy all of our immediate family, plus a few close friends, could attend. So pleased we were able to attend our 50th and 55th class reunions, but sorry we missed our sixtieth in 1973. We enjoyed the fellowship of old classmates and seeing the changes of our good old Alma Mater — all for the better, thus continuing the forward look for a better educational institution, which I like to think was always characteristic of Bloomsburg State College. Both of us are enjoying reasonably good health for our years. I am still able to drive my car which means we can still participate — at our ages of 85 and 81 — in the many fine activities available here. I have continued an interest in the educational programs offered to the children of our itinerant workers in the lettuce and melon fields at Peoria, adjacent to Sun City. These children require very little motivation for teaching. They want to learn. They have come to realize that if they have a command of the English language, some expertise in math, and can acquire some skill in the vocational set-up, they are able to offer their acquired skill and secure employment. Pardon me for getting carried away with an interest dear to my heart. My best wishes to you for continuing success in your work and an ever-expanding and better Bloomsburg State College." The Wetzels live at 11801 Balboa Dr., Sun City, Arizona 85351.

Ruth (Guntton) Farrell '15 offers an inexpensive way to improve campus beautification: "Eliminate the parking lot in front of the College entrance. For years, the approach to the College was beautiful; now we see the trunks of cars. Surely the six or seven VIPs who park there could find a reserved space in the parking garage. The circle of shrubbery, and in summer blooming plants, could be beautiful — now it is very ugly. I think campus beautification could begin without any cost, just eliminate the parked cars. My sentiments are shared by many." Mrs. Farrell's address is 805 South George St., York, Pa. 17403.

1918

Mr. and Mrs. William Mason Ancker (Ruth Hutton) both '18 now reside at 6641 Wakefield Drive, Alexandria, Va. 22307. This is truly a family that has strong ties with Bloomsburg State College. Her great-grandparent gave land for the school in 1839.

1919
