EDINBORO STATE TEACHERS COLLEGE, EDINBORO, PA., WEDNESDAY, FEBRUARY 3, 1937

Mr LaBounty Resigns, No Successor Named

Mr. F. L. LaBounty, professor of English and Social Studies, resigned his position at the close of the first semester to take up commercial work.

Students were surprised that when they arrived for the second semester Mr. LaBounty was no longer a member of the faculty. Although no official announcement was made at the opening of the third quarter, LaBounty's name did not appear on the schedule of classes, and his work was divided among Mr. Mallory, Mr. Zahner and Dr. Mudge.

Mr. LaBounty first came to Edinboro as a teacher in 1911, and served the old Normal School for several years until wartime, when he resigned to enter Red Cross work. Following the war he entered commercial work with the Genesee Pure Foods company as advertising manager. He was very prominent in advertising work during his seven years with that company. When the Genesee company merged with the General Foods Inc. he resigned as advertising manager.

For two years he was secretary of the Alumni association of Allegheny College at Meadville.

LaBounty returned to the campus of Edinboro State Teachers College in 1931, having taught here since then.

Mr. LaBounty's new position is in advertising and sales work; he is well

13 Freshmen Enroll

The mid-year freshman class, one of the largest in the past few years, numbered 13 on Monday afternoon, and there was promise that the group might be enlarged by a few late arrivals.

The registration of the college was also enlarged when six former students, who have been out of school for a few semesters, returned.

The freshmen are James Brown, Corry; Buelah Burch, Warren; Cora Geist, Erie; Billie Gillespie, Erie; Daniel Kusner, Springboro; Myrtle Lane, Erie; Milton Luxenberg, Elwood City; Philip Mahoney, Saegertown; Mary Margaret Moorhead, Erie; Ruth Skelton, Edinboro; Julia Sullivan, Erie; F. Morse Walker, Cambridge Springs; Bernard Welman Union City.

The returning upper-classmen are: Howard Jenness, West Springfield; Marian True, Erie; Stephanie Urban, Erie; Arden Davies, Johnsonsburg; Fred Case, Edinboro; Robert Billings, Edinboro.

Watch out for the ditches.

WPA Workmen Descend On Campus

Our campus this week presents the appearance of war-torn Spain as a miniature army of workmen are busily engaged in digging long trenches in which they will lay water mains.

With the Works Progress Administration providing the finances, extensive plans have been made to set up five fire hydrants on the campus and to install four inch water mains in every building. About eleven hundred feet of six-inch line is to be set in the earth at the depth of four feet and about nine hundred linear feet of four-inch pipe will connect the buildings. The major water main will connect with the town water main directly across the road from Recitation Hall.

These improvements will greatly reduce the dangers of fire and should rate a favorable notice from the state. Although none of us want a fire we must recognize that there is the possibility of one and therefore it is best that we be prepared.

Along with the installation of these mains a number of men are working at the landscape project. The trees which were badly damaged by the storm are being removed and holes have already been dug in which young trees are to be planted. A semi-circular row of trees will grace the front lawn of Haven Hall and the lawn in front of Loveland will be similarly decorated. Three young trees are to be set out between the main walk and Reeder Hall. Over the rest of the grounds there will be planted suitable types of shade trees.

When completed, these two projects will not only make the campus a spot of beauty and afford pleasure for all, but will aid in a practical way. Slowly but surely Edinboro College is obtaining much needed improvements and perhaps in the not too distant future will be granted the gymnasium that is really a necessity. Much credit for securing these advancements should be given to the efforts of Doctor Ross, for, by his tireless labors he has gained many grants that have bettered both the own and the college.

STUDENTS LEAVE

Several students did not return to college after the close of the first semester. Among them were Norman Erickson, of Warren, and Bob Hill, of Edinboro. Henry Kirschner, who at the close of the first semester had not planned to return, registered on Monday.

Rockwell Kent, Artist, Author, Lecturer, To Speak Here

Raiders Lose To Thiel 35-30

Greenville, Pa., Jan. 30—(Special)—The Crimson and White court men of Edinboro lost their fifth straight game in a hotly-contested battle with Thiel cagers who broke a 27-27 tie midway in the second half to gain the lead and to score a 35-30 victory.

The last half which furnished the majority of thrills proved to be a nip-and-tuck battle with the lead changing hands many times. Finally Thiel gained the lead on Clare's field goal. Vesper, Thiel forward, sank another basket to add to the lead which Thiel held until the final whistle.

The game opened up fast. Alternate scores by each team kept the lead changing hands often as the teams moved up and down the floor. Neither team could gain a substantial margin until late in the period when Thiel staged a run of baskets to obtain a six point lead over Edinboro, 18-12, as the half ended.

Nick Volitich led the Edinboro attack in this period with four goals from the field.

Extra Curricular Program Revised

In assembly, January 27, Dr. Ross introduced the new extra-curricular program, which becomes effective at once. This long needed revision of Edinboro's extra-curriculars represents the result of nearly two years' investigation by a very able committee, consisting of Dr. Mudge, Miss Kunkel, Miss Ludgate and Miss Virginia Jones. Copies of their plan were distributed to the students at this assembly.

Their work can be divided into three parts: (1) classification, (2) scheduling, and (3) government.

They classified extra-curriculars in four groups. In the first group were placed organizations which are purely professional in nature. These are clubs to which everyone must become a member.

In group B they placed organizations which aim to develop natural talent in dramatics and music. Membership to these organizations is voluntary.

In group C we find organizations aiming at the development of the spiritual life of the student. Membership to this organization is, of course, voluntary.

Rockwell Kent, famous artist, author, lecturer, will speak here on Monday evening, February 15, as a substitute speaker for the late Lorado Taft.

The talk should be of special interest to the art group, as Mr. Kent is one of the most versatile artists of the present day. Mr. Kent can play, and play easily, a great variety of roles in the theatre of art—watercolor, illustrations, painting, engraving and writing. But what is extraordinary is that in all of these media his product has been of the most important order; so important that it belongs beside the best work of the best men who confine themselves to a single art.

Kent was born in Tarrytown Heights, New York, in 1882. He began his career in art in the field of architecture at Columbia. Following this he studied art under Chase, Henri, Hayes, Miller and Thayer. His pictures hang in such famous museums as the Metropolitan and the Brooklyn. Some of his works are in such private collections as the Frick, which was recently given to the city of New York.

He is one of the country's most sought after lecturers. He is unexcelled as a woodcutter, boat-builder, navigator or historian. His versatility has listed him in the same class with Michael Angelo and Leonardo. Rockwell Kent, whose appearance on the lecture-entertainment course was scheduled after the death of Lorado Taft, should prove to be one of the most educational, entertaining, and interesting numbers of the entire course.

Attractive Assembly Programs Planned

The assembly committee has released the assembly program schedule for February and March, which will include many student conducted programs.

The musical organizations will present a part of their work next week, February 10. The following week the Reeder Hall boys plan a presentation.

The newly-organized peace unit of the Y organizations on the campus is scheduled for February 23, when a program in connection with the nation-wide school peace campaign will be the feature.

March 3 will be given over to the Chi Deltas, and March 10 to the sophomores. An outside speaker will be featured on March 17, and the last two Wednesdays will be filled in the near future.

EDITORIALS

The college lost a valuable man when Mr. LaBounty resigned recently, and the Spectator was not the least to suffer. During the past few years, ever since this sheet was originated, Mr. LaBounty has given much of his valuable time and effort in order that this paper would be a success. His timely comments which were made to improve the quality and the interest of the paper were such that they were of great importance to the paper. No college paper can run without some supervision; but too much of a brake on the student opinion can ruin a school paper and render it ineffective. Mr. LaBounty was neither too lenient nor too strict. He often let us publish things that hurt the feelings of students and teachers, but most of these were really not injurious to the persons toward whom they pointed. On the other hand, he sometimes put he skids under a story which would have been injurious to the school or some of its parts. His judgement in these things was better than the judgement of the staff, and we gladly governed ourselves by it.

We, of the staff, are sorry to lose Mr. LaBounty as a member of our official family. However, our loss is someone else's gain. The people for whom he works in his return to commercial work will be benefited by his addition to the staff of their business.

But in the same breath in which we regret losing Mr. LaBounty as our adviser, we welcome the addition of Mr. Zahniser to our staff. Mr. Zahniser will do all that he can to make the paper better, and many little odds and ends that have missed our attention in the past may be caught by him and may make us more efficient. Good-bye Mr. LaBounty—Hello Mr. Zahniser.

COMPULSORY EXTRA-CURRICULARS

The element of compulsion, which has entered into the assembly programs in the past few years, now enters into the extra-curricular program. The program has been run on a basis of student choice in the past, but now it is necessary for every student to be an active member of at least one organization.

When a program of this sort becomes compulsory, it ceases to become extra-curricular. If each student must belong to at least one of the organizations in group A, the professional organizations, it becomes a regular part of the curriculum of that student. There is, however, a way in which a student may get out of being a member of a group A organization—that is, by taking an active part in two activities in group B, a group in which only selected students may belong. This means that all students whose talents do not run in the direction of either dramatics or music must join some club in the professional group—a club, perhaps, that holds no special interest for most of the students.

Athletics, the real extra-curricular activity of the college, and the one which affords the maximum benefits to the competitors and the maximum enjoyment to the competitors and spectators alike, is not given a place in either of the groups. Participation in two of the sports should be equal to two of the activities in group B—the values derived from them are just as great.

The committee that worked out the new program probably looked at it from all angles, but they overlooked that athletic angle. Possibly a provision could be added to the effect that athletics be given a definite place on the program.

MISS KUNKEL HONORED

Miss Florence Kunkel, Dean of Women of the college, attended a meeting of the National Society of Teachers in Service at the Bellevue Stratford Hotel in Philadelphia during mid-semester vacation.

The society, which is national, is being organized this year in Pennsylvania. Miss Kunkel was honored by being made one of the twelve State Founders.

Beauty—The power by which a woman charms a lover and terrifies a husband.

We're safe from chaos so long as everybody expects it.

Reeder Snooze

A good quantity of water has gone gone over the dam since anything about Reeder has appeared in print. The truth of the matter is that too much water has gone over. Not only are there floods along the Ohio but the writer is flooded with things about which to write. We have a mighty active group of boys in the dorm this semester. Some are even too active, especially at night. A few things are puzzling every one; who were the fearless four (or was it three) who broke into Reeder at two-thirty a. m.; who bellows through a megaphone out of a window every once in a while; who tried to smoke Arden Davies from his new room on third floor; who awakened Dutch Luxemburg for breakfast at 3 a. m.? Numerous pranks have been pulled this semester. Some are humorous but some have endangered others. Enough said.

The boys are now planning for their program for assembly, to be presented a couple of weeks from now. At a meeting the other night numerous suggestions were offered, but no definite decisions were reached. Dar Miller (proctor to us) was made producer. It is rumored that a new song has been written for the occasion, too.

"Lights Out" is the new theme song of the Hall. It is usually sung around eleven o'clock by a voice that is foreign to Reeder. The tune is familiar but the words are simply not understood.

Picked up here and there . . . New to Reeder are Milton Luxemburg from Elwood City and Lee Beck from Wade Manor . . . I hear that Denison and Erickson have left . . . The new recreation rooms in the basement are still unused. Hope they can be opened for next fall . . . If anyone knows how to make a tadpole change into a frog please address your contribution to "Tadpole", in Reeder Hall and it will be appreciated . . . "Worry, worry, worry," says Ray Van Slyke, Mike Zahorchak and John Shepley, Reeder's contribution to the student teachers in the secondary field . . . Yes, candy is still being sold by the Junior class in room 48 on third floor.

WILL WHEATLEY HONORED

Will Wheatley, oldest son of Mr. Wheatley, Dean of Instruction of the college, who is chief test pilot for an aircraft manufacturing company in the West, recently flew one of the twelve U. S. Navy fighting planes, which his company built, from California to Honolulu.

Wheatley was the first man to fly each of the planes, and was given the task of doing part of the piloting on the flight from the coast to Hawaii. On the return trip, he was aboard the China Clipper, and was to be given an opportunity to pilot that ship on part of the homeward journey.

A mind as unstable as jelly.

On Our Campus

By Richard Micacchion

Well, fellow seniors, we are now ready to turn our institution into a kindergarten. The number of eligibilities has increased.

Many inquisitive freshmen have asked what Rhodabarger carries in those sacks above and below her eyelids. Those, Cherubs, are points of discretion.

When Dick Wagner eventually publishes his piece, some college men will know that they'll never make students; but there is a compensation, for some college professors will never be teachers.

Wouldn't it be a perfect plan if each Havenite were attached with a string to "central". At 21 and 22 and 23, women are such novices and—and so naive.

What false arrogance some people have acquired. What a piety. If they only knew that those people whom they wish to annihilate are always two jumps ahead. To live in ignorance lessens the power to explore pleasurable obsessions. Maybe it's folly to be wise.

Challenges have not been spared lately. When one person endeavors to impress a new young lady and another fringes, can't you see the inevitable conflagration? Why aren't some people just "themselves"?

It really must be convenient to live in the same town in which a college is located. In "grading" it's not how much you know; it's where you live. Of course, if one is extremely stupid, a "C" must suffice.

South of Edinboro lives a Roger g'rl who wishes to learn Italian. What say, Dr. Spenilli, can you add another protegee to your list?

We must pity the lady who will marry Hunter. He recites Shakespeare like some professors who think they know philosophy; he is easily divorced, and he tries to explain philosophical problems.

Besides myself, two other people know what person invaded Haven basement and "creased" the pair of pants he had on. Art students, there is color scheme in those "Short".

Try to recollect. What freshman informed Mr. Offner that teaching was the easiest profession to follow. I wonder if he knows who Mr. Offner is?

Consensus of opinion indicates that those professors who are intolerant toward tardy students are repeatedly late themselves. (A freshman has me informed that "Absent-mindedness and professorship are synonymous".)

MISS BARON RETURNS

Miss Justina Baron, who has been on a leave of absence for the past two semesters, returned to her duties as librarian Monday.

Miss Baron left at the conclusion of the first semester last year to continue her study at the University of Michigan, and will now resume her work.

Raiders Drop To California

The Red Raiders, after leading 4-3 at the end of the first quarter, succumbed in later periods to a consistent and hard-fighting California team, losing their first league home game by a 31-37 score.

A disastrous second quarter, in which Edinboro was outscored 15-7, gave the invading team a half-time lead 18-11, which the Raiders never topped throughout the remainder of the game. Don Remaley, forward, and Kuzna, guard, each contributed a trio of field goals to California's attack in this period.

Don Reichel, Edinboro forward, led the scorers with four field goals and a pair of fouls for a total of ten points. Fred Case broke into the Raider lineup in the second half to score seven points.

Mussioux, flashy California guard, led his teammates with nine points.

Y. W. C. A.

On January 13, 1937, the Y. W. C. A. met in Music 2. Devotions were led by Helen Sylvander, after which were discussed "Resolutions for the New Year". The resolutions were of four kinds: spiritual, mental, social and physical. Spiritual resolutions were discussed by Marjorie Oliver, mental resolutions by Anne Forrest, social resolutions by Marian Peterson and physical resolutions by Betty Samkowski.

After the discussion, the election of officers for the new year was held. The new officers include President, Vergie Fuller; Vice President, Marian Davies; Program Chairman, Opal Murphy; Social Chairman, Marjorie Oliver; Advertising Chairman, Helen Sylvander; Devotional Chairman, Virginia Neale; Secretary and Treasurer, Irene Smith.

The secret was hushed about from place to place.

Staff Changes

The Spectator announces some additions and subtractions in the personell of the staff. Robert Hill, art editor, dropped out of college for the semester, and therefore will not continue in that capacity. Becky Bell, society editor, finished the two-year course last semester, and leaves a tough spot to fill.

One of the main additions to the staff this half is Neil Peiffer who finished a term on the student council last week. Neil worked on the paper last year, and since he is no longer a member of the legislative body of the college, his return to the paper is welcome. It just seems that the paper and the council don't mix, since the main enjoyment of the staff is to rib the council. Bob Scarpitti will write the dramatic news for the paper from now on.

There are still some positions on the paper open—anyone interested and willing to work should apply for these openings immediately.

Bride—A woman with a fine prospect of happiness behind her.

Your Sports Editor

Much has been written about the hardships that a newspaper man must go through so that you may read the news. This has never been applied to sports writing to a very great extent. But Walter Nissen, sports editor for the Spectator, surely had no easy time in getting a story of the Thiel game on Saturday.

The school activities fund makes no provision for transporting the sports writers to the out of town games, but that did not stop Walter. Leaving Edinboro on Saturday afternoon, Walter rode his thumb to Greenville, getting there in plenty of time for the game. But getting back was another story. Hitch-hiking, as you probably know, is a sport in itself, but it is played better in the daytime when the motorists can see the participant. Well, on the way back, Walter had a little trouble in picking up rides, and after several hitches, none of which amounted to very much, and some hiking, he arrived in Meadville.

By this time it was a little late to start for Edinboro, so Walter spent the remainder of the night as a special and honored guest of the Erie Railroad company at their hotel (?) in the zipper city. Resuming his Odyssey in the morning, our reporter arrived in Edinboro at about 10:00 a. m.

That is the news behind the news that appears in your latest edition of the Spectator.

Campus Change

Digging, blasting, trees uprooted, holes, trenches—Is this the Edinboro campus or a scene at the bombardment of Madrid? The answer—improvement, replacement. It is the confusion that is expected to precede better things.

The trenches are for new water-mains; the uprooted trees are those damaged by last summer's storm, their remains now being dug out and hauled away by workmen.

The holes are for youngsters, saplings that are expected to some day supplant the veterans, but it will be some time before they can fill the places left vacant against the sky by those giant elms and thick-leaved maples.

Lets hope the youngsters will make good.

Y. M. C. A. Plans Busy Semester

Working under the newly organized extra curricular activity program, the Young Mens Christian association of the college has planned a very busy and helpful course of action for the coming four months.

At the first meeting, to be held February 3, a new president is to be elected because, under the new regulations no college student can hold two major offices and the present president, Martin Schweller, is thus affected. Also at this meeting there will be a very interesting speaker and other entertainment. All men students are urged to attend and the new freshmen are especially invited.

At the second meeting, to be held on February 17, the club will dedicate its new rooms in the basement of Reeder Hall. This is an event which has long been awaited and will long be remembered. The entire student body, the members of the faculty and their wives and the Y. W. C. A. are invited. Besides the dedication ceremonies, a well-known speaker from out of town will talk on the subject of "World Peace". To conclude the evening refreshments will be served and there will be a general get-together.

Beta Xi News

The Beta Xi fraternity has issued invitations to selected men about the campus to attend a smoker to be given on Wednesday evening, February 3. These men will be given invitations to become pledges to the fraternity. They have been selected by the frat for their scholarship, perseverance, cleanliness, sportsmanship and leading ability. Careful consideration will be given to all candidates in the interests of the promotion of higher standards of good fellowship.

Plans are already under way for the annual formal party to be held sometime this spring. Every man in the fraternity is cooperating toward making this a bigger event than ever.

Chi Delt News

The Chi Delt were the guests of Professor and Mrs. Mallory at their home last Monday evening. After a get to gether a lunch was served. Tuesday evening the fraternity entertained the freshman boys who have been chosen as pledges. After a short speech of welcome by President Wilkins, five hundred and bridge made up the entertainment for the evening. A light lunch was then served by the fraternity.

Last Friday the Chi Delt defeated the Commuters 37-34, remaining undefeated in the intra-mural basketball league. Several games have been scheduled with Allegheny fraternity teams and out of town independent teams.

Raiders Lose To Thiel

An Edinboro scoring drive brought the score up to 20-19 early in the second half. From this point on Edinboro trailed by a narrow margin until Case and Volotich sank a basket apiece to tie the score at 25-25. Next Thiel registered from the field as did Wolfe to tie the score up at 27-27. Then Clare, Thiel guard, sank a basket to give Thiel the lead which they held to the final whistle.

Volitich led the scorers with seven field goals for a total of fourteen points. Breckenridge was high for Thiel, adding five fouls to a pair of field goals for a total of nine points. John Wolfe scored eight points for Edinboro. Thiel was unusually good at the foul line sinking eleven of sixteen tries.

fitted for the position, and he has had several opportunities in the past to retire from teaching to enter the commercial world. He has preferred, however, to remain in the teaching field until now, when he decided to accept an offer that will mean a larger salary.

For the past six years he has been one of the most popular and most valuable teachers on the campus. His classroom has always been interesting and his classes instructive.

He was active in extra-curricular activities as well as classroom work. He served as faculty member of the Student-Faculty council, and was faculty adviser to the Spectator.

TWO HOME GAMES

The Red Raiders play two court games on their home floor within the next few days. On Saturday, February 6, Fredonia, New York, Normal School will play here and on Tuesday, February 9, Thiel College will invade the local court. On the thirteenth the team will go to Cleveland to play a return game with The Ohio College of Chiropody.

FROSH DANCE

The Freshmen are sponsoring a Valentine's Day dance on the night of February twelfth. Eddie Lloyd's band from Erie will furnish music for dancing from 9 to 12.

The groundhog saw his shadow yesterday. Six more weeks of winter. We hope they are as good as the last.

PROGRAM REVISED

In the fourth group they placed the people holding major offices. Such persons theoretically need all their time in preparing their work and it is unfair to burden them with extra work. They are not required to participate in any extra-curricular activity.

A tentative schedule has been drawn up which places the required activities in the first group on Monday night from 7:30 to 9:00. This scheduling has caused a great deal of discussion among the commuters who are supporting themselves from work outside of school. The fraternities are to follow their present schedule. Other organizations are scheduled very much as at present.

Six semesters of one extra-curricular activity are required by each student. More than one activity may be chosen if the student's scholastic record warrants it. No one can hold more than one major office. Six semesters of this work are required; yet if a student's record in participation and scholastic work is not satisfactory, he may be dropped from any organization.

The organization within the clubs is practically the same as it was two years ago when we had active clubs on the campus. Anyone who was not present at this assembly should get a copy of the new set-up from the President's office.
