Enrollment dean named

Dr. Tom L. Cooper, former dean of admissions and enrollment management, was named to the new position of Dean of Enrollment Management for the university effective January 2.

The appointment, according to Vice Provost and Assistant Academic Vice President Kalyan Ghosh, was made to bring together all retention related academic support services under one umbrella.

In the same announcement, Bernard Vinovrski, associate dean of admissions, was appointed Director of Admissions.

In addition to Vinovrski, reporting to Dr. Cooper will be the Directors of Records and Registration, Center for Academic Development and Special Services for the Disadvantaged along with the Coordinators of Tutorial Services and Academic Advisement.

Cooper came to the university in June 1970 as Director of Admissions. He is the current president-elect of the Pennsylvania Association of College Admissions Counselors.

Vinovrski came to Bloomsburg in July 1978 as Assistant Director of Admissions and was promoted to Associate Director in the fall of 1980. Last year, he was named Associate Dean of Admissions. In 1982, from

The inauguration of Dr. Harry Ausprich as the university's 16th president will take place at 2:30 p.m. in Mitrani Hall of Haas Center on Saturday, April 5.

An Inaugural Planning Committee, headed by Council of Trustees Chairperson John Dorin, is meeting regularly to complete plans for the inaugural weekend.

Among the events already confirmed is a concert by the internationally famous Fitzwilliam String Quartet on Friday evening, April 4.

Additional details about the inaugural celebration will be announced in future editions of the Communique'.

January through August, he served as Interim Assistant to the President until the current assistant, Susan Hicks, was appointed.

Ghosh notes that these new appointments bring the university to another level of achievement in enrollment management. "It only makes sense that all the activities and offices that directly contribute to the enrollment management and enhance retention be brought under Dr. Cooper's supervision."

Chancellor visits BU

Chancellor James McCormick made Bloomsburg University his first stop on a several-months trek to the 14 state-owned universities to present facts and features on the 1986-87 budget requests for the State System of Higher Education and request support from legislators and members of the university communities.

Accompanying the Chancellor to all-day sessions at Bloomsburg were Vincent Carocci, director of governmental relations for the System, and Janice Fitzgerald, director of communications.

Following a breakfast meeting with the legislators and a tour of McCormick Center, McCormick presided at a press briefing in the University Forum, which was attended by a number of area newspaper, radio and television reporters.

In the afternoon, the Chancellor made presentations, followed by question and answer sessions, to students, faculty and non-instructional representatives.

ALUMNI ASSOCIATION OFFERS $250 AWARD

The BU Alumni Association, in an effort to encourage student research and writing, is offering a $250 award for the best student paper of the 1985-86 academic year. Funded by the Deans' Fund for Academic Excellence, the competition is open to all full-time undergraduate students of the university.

UNITED WAY EXCEEDS GOAL

The 1985 United Way drive for BU went over the goal of $19,600 with a total of $19,812.50. Co-chairpersons Dr. William Jones and Dorothy Sitler and President Harry Ausprich thank the 292 participants for their fine cooperation.

SECOND SEMESTER SCHEDULE

Classes began Monday, Jan. 13, 6 p.m.; Semester break begins Saturday, March 22, 4 p.m.; Classes resume Monday, March 31, 6 p.m.; Second semester classes end Saturday, May 3; Final exams begin Monday, May 5; Second semester ends Saturday, May 10; Spring commencement, Saturday, May 10.

The appropriation request for the entire System for 1986-87 is $290,002,000, an increase of $26 million over last year's operating appropriation. Bloomsburg's share of last year's appropriation was $20,234,772.

The SSHE is also requesting $100,771,000 in capital projects.

Release time assignments

The BU Faculty Professional Development Committee recently made its recommendations for released time assignments for the coming year. Listed below are those faculty who are recipients of these awards.

RESEARCH PROJECTS--Dr. Marjorie Clay, Dept. of Philosophy/Anthropology, "Feminist Criticism: Issues in Literary Theory," Spring 1987; Dr. Steve Cohen, Dept. of Psychology, "A Pharmacological Examination of the Resistance-to-Change Hypothesis of Response Strength: The Role of Stimulus Control," Fall 1986 and Spring 1987 (Funding - $490.00); Dr. Alex Poplawsky, Dept. of Psychology, "Septal-Brain Damage and the Emotional Reactivity to Stress," Spring 1987 (Funding - $375.00); Dr.

Danny Robinson, Dept. of English, "A Critical Edition of the Merrill Diaries, Written at Bradford Female Seminary, 1848-49," Summer Sessions 1986 and Fall 1986 (Funding - $500.00); Dr. Cindy Surmacz, Dept. of Biological and Allied Health Sciences, "Effects of Exercise on Plasma Catecholamine Levels in Rats Exposed to Cigarette Smoke," Summer Session 1986; Dr. Michael Pugh, Dept. of Chemistry, "Chemical Modifications of Active Site Residues of Guanine Aminohydrolase," Summer Session 1986.

CREATIVE ARTS PROJECTS--

Dr. Lawrence B. Fuller, Dept. of English, "Revision of Manuscript Poetry for Submission for Publication," Fall 1986.

COMMUNITY SERVICE PROJECTS--Dr. James Dalton, Dept. of Psychology, "A Training Curriculum for Democratic Leadership in Community Organization," Spring 1987; Dr. Marjorie Clay, Dept. of Philosophy/Anthropology, "Creating a Workshop on Medical Decision-Making in a Revolutionary Age," Summer 1986; Dr. Mary G. Bernath, Dept. of English, "Coordinating the State-Wide EAPSU Conference to be Held in Bloomsburg in October 1986," Fall 1986.

INSTRUCTIONAL PROJECTS--

Dr. Lynne C. Miller, Dept. of Biological and Allied Health Sciences, "Development of a Self-Help Guide to Parasite Life Cycles for Students of Medical Parasitology," Summer 1986 (Funding - $60.00); Dr. William Baillie, Dept. of English, "CAI Invention Routines for Composition I (20.101)," Spring 1987 (Funding - $31.56); Dr. Paul C. ## THETA ZETA PLANS CHARTER CEREMONY

The executive committee of the BU nursing honor society, Theta Zeta, is currently planning its chartering ceremony to Sigma Theta Tau, national honor society, scheduled for March. The local chapter, which fulfills the scholarship and leadership requirements of the national society, will be #196 of 220 chapters internationally.

DANCING AT ITS BEST

The BU Community Arts Council will present "Sweet Saturday Night" at 8 p.m. Feb. 12 in Mitrani Hall. Sponsored by the Campus Wide Committee on Human Relations and the Pennsylvania Council On the Arts, admission is free.

GITTLER PRESENTS LECTURE

Jane Gittler, administrator of Columbia-Montour Home Health, recently presented a special lecture on the topic of "Historical Perspectives of Home Health Care System" to the students in Medical Sociology class. Mrs. Gittler also provided the slide presentation focusing on Columbia-Montour Home Health Services functions.

New appointments

The appointments of three new faculty members and four non-instructional employees were announced at the December quarterly meeting of the Council of Trustees of Bloomsburg University.

Appointed for the 1985-86 academic year were Jon M. Andes as assistant professor of curriculum and foundations; Craig M. Davis, instructor of chemistry and Bernadine Mackey, instructor of nursing.

Non-instructional custodial worker I appointments to the Physical Plant Department include Andrew Shaffer III, Bloomsburg, and Jade Swartwood, Bloomsburg. Receiving an appointment to the Law Enforcement Office was Suzanne Yorty of Bloomsburg as a Clerk Typist I. Robert Felix, Jr. of Berwick was appointed a computer programmer II in the Computer Services Center and Shaila Butasek of Bloomsburg to the Health Services Center as a nurse I.

Retirements

The retirements of four faculty members with a total of 81 years of service at Bloomsburg University and six non-instructional personnel totalling 102 years of service were announced at the December quarterly meeting of the Council of Trustees.

Ben C. Alter of Berwick joined the Department of Languages and Cultures as a Spanish professor in September, 1964. He retired in December, completing 31½ years in the field of education, 20½ of which were at BU.

Dr. Julius R. Kroschewsky, professor of biological and allied health sciences, has been at Bloomsburg since September, 1967. Upon his retirement in May, 1986, he will complete 34 years in education, including 19 at BU.

Dr. David A. Superdock, a native of Freeland, PA, will complete 26 years in the university's Physics Department when he retires at the end of the 1985-86 school year. He will have a total of 30 years in the field of education.

Dr. William Woznek, a professor of curriculum and foundations, joined the faculty in January, 1970, and will have 15½ years at BU when he retires in May. He will have over 31 years in education.

The non-instructional retirees, along with position, effective date of retirement and years of service are: Harold Campbell, electrician, November 8, 1985, eight years, nine months; Kathryn Creasy, computer operator I, March 27, 1986, 18 years; Elmer Hartzell, plumbing supervisor, December 20, 1985, 29 years, two months; Jane Hornberger, custodial worker I, August 25, 1985, 16 years, 10 months; Ralph Remley, Jr., refrigeration mechanic, January 3, 1986, 19 years, nine months; Marian Koons, nurse I, January 3, 1986, nine years, five months.

Scholars Program

Provost and Academic Vice President Larry Jones has invited all faculty members to submit proposals for the teaching of the Fall 1986 Scholars Seminar and related general education course. The intent of the Scholars Program is to enable academically promising students to reach beyond the limits of a traditional college education and become exposed to challenging learning opportunities commensurate with their abilities. The Scholars Program Task Force has proposed a pilot run of the freshman/sophomore Scholars Program in 1986-87. Jones has requested proposals for teaching the seminar and related general education course be submitted jointly by pairs of faculty interested in providing their exceptional students with a valuable first semester scholars program experience. An internal search is currently underway for a Scholar Program Director to serve for a two-year period.

BU notes

Four persons from the Department of Nursing hold prominent positions on state professional nursing associations: Associate Professor Nancy Onuschak, R.N., Ed.D., is president-elect of the Pennsylvania League for Nursing; Assistant Professor Robert Campbell, R.N., M.N., is a director for the Pennsylvania Nurses Association; sophomore Gail Daniels is vice president and junior Carol Duchan is Region D coordinator of the Student Nurses Association.

David E. Greenwald, department of sociology/social welfare, is the author of "Social Structure, Meaning and Master Status," which appeared in the Fall 1985 issue of Sociological Viewpoint.

Thaddeus Piotrowski, director, Learning Resources Center, has been elected chairperson of the Pennsylvania Learning Resources Association's interest group "Instructional Media/Development" for the third consecutive year. The annual conference was held at Lancaster Nov. 23-27. A 15-hour pre-conference workshop on "Project: Technology Catch-Up" was held two of the four days. Piotrowski has been serving on the Board of Directors for the past three years and on this year's program planning committee.

Mary Anne Klemkosky of Orwigsburg is currently serving as vice president of the Alumni Association of BU. The 1955 graduate of Girardville High School received her bachelor of science degree from Bloomsburg State Teachers College in 1959.

Bruce Rockwood, associate professor of finance and business law, presented a paper to the section on Teaching of Law Outside of Law Schools at the annual meeting of the Association of American Law Schools held in New Orleans on January 6. Rockwood, who holds a Doctor of Juris Prudence from the University of Chicago, made his presentation at the panel on "Teaching Dispute Resolution Techniques to Nonlawyers." He joined the BU faculty at the start of the current academic year.

The School of Extended Programs at BU will be offering two mini-courses this spring on Big Band Jazz: one for adult musicians, the other for high school instrumentalists. Both courses are designed for those who enjoy playing big band jazz charts and who would like to join other instrumentalists in forming a jazz band - just for the fun of it! The jazz tastes of the participants will influence the musical repertoire of the group. Each band will practice one evening a week for eight weeks, starting in late February. Brian Victory will serve as the coordinator for both groups. Additional information is available by calling 389-4420.

Ten BU students were among the 106 Scholar in Education Award (SEA) recipients attending State System of Higher Education universities which represented 38% of all SEA students this academic year. The special SEA program, created by the Pennsylvania Higher Education Assistance Agency (PHEAA), makes tough demands on its applicants. The bottom line, attracting high achievers in math and sciences who hold an equally high interest in the teaching profession, is being achieved according to PHEAA officials.

BU will be offering the course entitled "The Business File: An Introduction to Business" over Pennarama, the cable television educational network in Pennsylvania. Beginning the week of Feb. 17, the course may be taken for credit by those wishing to pursue a degree or as a non-credit, continuing education course for those interested in improving their job performance. Information is available in the Office of Extended Programs at 389-4420

The resignation of Jessie H. McCoy, director of university relations at Bloomsburg University, was announced at the December 11 quarterly meeting of the Council of Trustees. Her resignation was effective January 3, 1986, and a national search is underway by the university for her replacement.

Ms. McCoy has accepted the position of Assistant City Manager for the city of Chesapeake, Virginia.

Adrian named BU's head Football coach

The search and screen committee ended its month-long search for a head football coach by naming Pete Adrian, assistant head coach and defensive coordinator at the University of Rhode Island, to the position at a press conference held last Friday in the University Forum.

The 37-year-old native of the Steubenville, Ohio area replaces George Landis who left Bloomsburg recently after four years as the Huskies' mentor to take over the head coaching duties at Bucknell University.

For the past ten years, Adrian has served with head coach Bob Griffin at Rhode Island leading the Rams to consecutive 10-3 records in 1984 and 1985 and appearances in the NCAA Division I-AA national playoffs. Rhode Island has also captured three of the last five Yankee Conference titles winning the crowns in 1981, 1984 and 1985. At the school, Adrian worked specifically with the Rams' linebacking corps while coordinating the defensive schemes. During his tenure at URI, the teams compiled a 58-51-1 record. Also in both 1984 and 1985, Rhode Island won the Lambert/Meadowlands Cup in Division I-AA and will receive that award for this season on February 19 along with the 1985 Bloomsburg unit which captured the honor in Division II. That award symbolizes football supremacy among Eastern schools.

Adrian will take over a program that graduated just 12 seniors and returns 13 players that started in the national semi-final contest against North Alabama.

The newest member of the BU Athletic Department earned his Bachelor of Science degree in Physical Education at West Virginia in 1970 and his Master's degree in Physical Education from Rhode Island in 1971. He will move to the Bloomsburg area in the near future along with his wife Chris and sons Rocco, nine, and Zachary, seven.

Adrian has announced the appointment of Vin Sinagra as the first member of his staff. Sinagra has served as the head coach at Milford Academy, Milford, Connecticut for the past four years.

Sinagra's main responsibilities will be to work with the Bloomsburg offense, and he will be in charge of the Huskies' offensive line. Adrian will name one other full-time assistant coach as well as several part-time coaches.

Study abroad offerings

Three study abroad programs will be conducted by the university this summer. In addition to academic study, all three offer sightseeing and other travel possibilities.

Professors Mary Hill, special education, and Seymour Schwimmer, philosophy and anthropology, will be teaching for the Pennsylvania Consortium for International Education at Oxford University, England from Aug. 4 through Aug. 22. Dr. Hill will teach the course Introduction to Exceptional Individuals and Schwimmer, Contemporary Moral Problems.

Additional information is available from Dr. Hill (389-4072) or Professor Schwimmer (389-4331).

A three-week international study opportunity in Florence, Italy is being offered July 9-31 through the Office of International Education.

Each participant may enroll in one or two of the following courses: European Art II taught by BU's Dr. Christine Sperling; 20th Century Music, instruction by West Chester's Charles Ganzemi; Contemporary Moral Problems (Philosophy), instruction by BU's Dr. Marjorie Clay; and World Politics (Political Science) by BU's Richard Micheri.

All instruction will be in English. For more information, contact Dr. William Carlough, director of international education (389-4332) or any of the above instructors.

The third study abroad is four weeks in Salzburg, Austria, July 1 through 31. Dr. William Carlough, chairman of the philosophy and anthropology department, will be teaching Introduction to Philosophy and Dr. William Decker, music department, is offering an Opera and Music Theatre course.

For additional information, call Dr. Carlough at 389-4332 or Dr. Decker at 389-4284.

Boyne elected to EDSIG office

Patricia M. Boyne, assistant professor in the Computer and Information Systems Department, has recently been elected to the position of Secretary/Treasurer of the Special Interest Group for Education (EDSIG), a division of the international organization, Data Processing Management Association (DPMA). Boyne, a certified data processor, helped to establish EDSIG and serves as a charter member.

According to BU Business College Dean, John Dittrich, DPMA represents 48,000 professionals from industry and education, plus student chapters at most major universities. DPMA is a major influence in sustaining and furthering the knowledge of this rapidly changing field among its very large and varied membership," Dittrich said. He added that DPMA is very active in the guidance it has provided to colleges of business in shaping the curricula in progressive computer and information systems. "We are very pleased that Professor Boyne's energies and expertise have been recognized by this organization through her election to an international office," Dittrich concluded.

In commenting on her election, Boyne said, "No other professional group has the broad-based membership of DPMA, and, therefore, EDSIG has an unparalleled opportunity to construct and help to support patterns of industry/education liaisons which are so needed to cope with the problems of job displacement, retraining, solid educational backgrounds and the general need for computer literacy. I am excited about the opportunities inherent in this position."

Professor Boyne is well known in the state for her contributions to the computer profession. She is a long-time member of the Northeast Pennsylvania Chapter of DPMA, has served as president, director, education chairman and coordinator of student chapters.

Dance marathon for Sunshine Foundation

The Sunshine Foundation, a national organization that grants wishes to terminally ill children, will be the recipient of the proceeds from the 12th Annual Dance Marathon at BU in March. The theme for the event is "Walking on Sunshine."

Last year, the marathon, which is sponsored by the Kehr Union Program Board, raised $7,000 for the Bloomsburg Women's Center. During the past marathons, over $77,000 has been raised for various non-profit organizations.

Again this year, there will be two marathons: a 25-hour marathon from March 7 at 8 p.m. to March 8 at 9 p.m., and a 10-hour mini-marathon starting at 9 a.m. and ending at 7 p.m. on March 8. The mini-marathon will take place during the regular marathon in Centennial Gymnasium. Cash prizes and trophies will be awarded in several categories.

Participants may register at the Kehr Union Information Desk until March 2. A $7 per person registration fee must be paid upon registration. This fee applies to both marathons.

The Sunshine Foundation was established in 1976 by a Philadelphia policeman, William Sample. Since then, it has helped the dreams and wishes of over 3,500 children throughout the world.

The organization does not have many corporate contributors and is supported in large part by everyday people and events such as the Dance Marathon.

Registration material or more information may be obtained from the Kehr Union Information Desk (389-3900), Jimmy Gilliland (389-4344) or one of the members of the Program Board (389-4402).

SSHE enrollment tops 83,000

Official figures for the beginning term of the 1985-86 academic year show 83,168 students enrolled in the State System of Higher Education (SSHE).

The total enrollment for the 1985 Fall semester reflects an increase of 821 students over the previous year. Tallies show 72,061 undergraduate and 7,823 graduate students attending SSHE institutions. There are 3,284 students listed as unclassified.

"These figures indicate that the State System is thriving," said SSHE Chancellor James H. McCormick. "By maintaining our mission of low-cost, high-quality education, we continue to attract students who are looking for affordable higher education."

Ten of the 14 SSHE universities recorded increases in the first semester, while the remaining four posted declines. Bloomsburg's enrollment for 1985 was 6,439, up 250 over 1984.

The Bloomsburg University Studio Band and the Lock Haven University Jazz Band will present a winter jazz concert at 8 p.m. on Saturday, March 8, in Mitrani Hall of Haas Center.

The student big bands will each perform a set of jazz-swing compositions and then combine into one large jazz ensemble for a final set of selections. The ensembles are prepared and directed by professors Florentino J. Caimi of the LHU Department of Music and Stephen C. Wallace, chairperson of the BU Department of Music.

The program, which will include varied styles of jazz, swing and popular songs, is open to the public free of charge.

BU notes

Clinton Oxenrider, department of math and computer science, recently had a research paper published in the journal "Linear Algebra and Its Applications." It was jointly written with Richard Hill of Idaho State University and entitled "On the Matrix Reorderings and .". Oxenrider also attended the Annual Joint Conference of the American Mathematical Society and the Mathematical Association of America in New Orleans from January 8-11. He presented a paper entitled "Relating Dyad and Kronecker Products of Matrices."

From the Department of Curriculum and Foundations: Martin Keller, associate professor, recently attended a conference at Boston University entitled "The Future of Women in Education." Dr. Donald Vannan, professor, recently had two articles published in the educational journal Early Years. The articles were entitled "Use Foil to Wrap Up Super Science Activities" and "Science Made Easy With a Tea Towel." Early Years is a publication for teachers from kindergarten to grade 8. Dr. Donald L. Pratt, assistant professor, has an article entitled "Responsibility for Student Success/Failure and Observed Verbal Behavior Among Secondary Science and Mathematics Teachers" published in the Journal of Research in Science Teaching. Dr. Jon M. Andes, assistant professor, has published an article entitled "Ending Controversial Policies" in a recent issue of the National School Board Journal. He also presented the topic "Termination of Local School Board Policies" at the Graduate Research Conference at the University of Maryland.

Dr. Nancy Gilgannon, associate professor, has published an article entitled "The Holistic Approach: Bridges the Communication Gap Between Special and Vocational Education." It was co-authored by Joseph Youshock of the Department of Special Education and Communication Disorders. The article was published in The Journal For Special Needs Education, Fall, 1985 issue.

Ms. Constance Gaynor has joined the faculty in the Center for Counseling and Human Development for the spring semester. She replaces Ms. Jean Waites who recently resigned.

Earlier this month, BU's veteran wrestling coach Roger Sanders coached the East team in the annual National Wrestling Coaches Assn. East-West Wrestling Classic held at Oklahoma State University. Although Bloomsburg wrestlers have competed in the event, this is the first time a BU coach was so honored.

"It was truly a great honor for me personally and professionally," Sanders said. "To be selected from among so many outstanding coaches in the East makes me proud and helps show what kind of program we have at Bloomsburg. Our program is respected throughout the country and this gave us the opportunity to once again have representation in one of the premier events in college wrestling."

The Communique publishes news of events and about people at Bloomsburg University on the 1st and 15th of each month, except for the summer, at BU. Please send story ideas to The Communique, Office of University Relations, Bloomsburg University, Bloomsburg, PA 17815.

The Department of Curriculum and Foundations is currently searching for two positions with September 2, 1986 starting dates.

The positions are: Early Childhood Education/Supervision and Secondary Education/Supervision. Both require doctorates and teaching experience in their respective areas.

For additional details concerning the positions, contact Dr. Ann Marie Noakes, chairperson of the Search Committee, Department of Curriculum and Foundations, McCormick Human Services Center, phone 389-4623/4500.

We welcome Rolene Wagner who recently joined the BU Department of Health, Physical Education and Athletics as the Assistant Athletic Trainer.

The 29-year-old Hughesville area native moved to Bloomsburg from Passaic Valley High School in Little Falls (NJ) where she served as physical education teacher and head trainer since 1980.

Wagner will assist BU physical therapist and head trainer Art Hopkins in handling the university's physical therapy clinic located in the Nelson Fieldhouse.

Dr. F. David Martin, a professor-emeritus at Bucknell University, recently discussed "How to Experience the Arts" in a program co-sponsored by the program in journalism and the Pennsylvania Humanities Council.

Dr. Martin is the author of three books--"The Humanities Through the Arts" (with Lee A. Jacobus, published by McGraw-Hill, and now in the third edition), "Art and the Religious Experience" and "Sculpture and Enlivened Space: Aesthetics and History."

BU Foundation reactivated

President Harry Ausprich recently announced the reactivation of the Bloomsburg University Foundation and appointed a new Board of Directors.

The Foundation, established to aid the university in achieving its educational objectives through private sector support, held its first meeting on December 10. Ausprich, in naming 14 local and regional leaders to serve on the Foundation Board, said, "We can only achieve the margin of excellence we seek if we can count on strong support from our friends and those we serve."

Elected at the December meeting were Richard Benefield, vice president and managing director of Hotel Magee, as Chair; and Ms. Kathleen Hock, secretary-treasurer of G.M. Hock Construction, Inc., as Vice Chair.

Benefield, in commenting on the Foundation, said, "I am especially proud to be involved in this effort. Bloomsburg University is an outstanding resource for our region, and the Bloomsburg University Foundation provides an excellent vehicle to aid in the university's continued growth and development."

Ausprich's other appointments include: John Dorin, chairman of the Bloomsburg University Council of Trustees and senior buyer of the Williamsport plant of the GTE Corporation; J. Jan Girton, senior vice president and chief administrative officer of Columbia County Farmers National Bank; Herbert Hasson, president and chief executive officer of Milco Industries, Inc.; Richard Laux, chairman of the Board and chief executive officer of United Penn Bank; Mrs. Jane S. Gittler, administrator of Columbia-Montour Home Health Services, Inc.; Dr. C. Stuart Edwards, dean emeritus of the university's College of Professional Studies; William Lank, retired senior vice president and director of the United Penn Bank.

Dr. James R. Lauffer, president of the Association of State College and University Faculties at Bloomsburg University; John L. McDowell III, president of McDowell Oil Service, Inc.; Carl J. Nurick, area vice president of AT&T Information Systems; Louise Mitrani, local philanthropist and community leader; Joseph Nespoli, a former member of the university's Council of Trustees and owner of Nespoli Jewelers in Berwick.

Ausprich, University Vice President for Institutional Advancement John Walker, and Director of Development Anthony Ianiero serve as ex-officio members of the Foundation Board. Ianiero also serves the Foundation as its Executive Director and Secretary, while David Hill, the university's comptroller of Community Activities, serves as the Board's Treasurer.

The renowned American composer, Samuel Adler, will be at BU rehearsing, conducting and lecturing on March 12 and 13, 1986.

The highlight of the first day will be an 8 p.m. recital in Carver Hall of Adler's chamber music, presented by the Bloomsburg University Madrigal Singers, faculty and members of the College Community Orchestra. Professor Adler will present a short "composers perspective" of each composition before it is performed.

The concluding event will take place at 8 p.m., Thursday, March 13, in Mitrani Hall, Haas Center. During this concert, Adler will conduct the University Women's Choral Ensemble, Husky Singers, Concert Choir and Concert Band, as they perform his compositions. Both concerts are open to everyone free of charge.

University scholars program

Beginning with the fall semester, some superior students matriculating at Bloomsburg University will be enrolled in a new University Scholars Program, which will enable them to reach beyond the limits of a traditional college education and participate in challenging learning opportunities commensurate with their abilities.

Eligibility will be based largely upon high school performance. Those students, who have distinguished academic backgrounds and have superior intellectual ability, along with settling high standards for themselves and having a strong desire to pursue a quality education, will be encouraged to apply for entry into the program.

Students selected will be called Presidential Scholars and most will be awarded a scholarship of at least $500, available through a $10,000 gift from the Bloomsburg University Foundation. "There are no need-based restrictions attached to these scholarships," commented Richard Benefield, foundation chairperson. "The foundation board looks forward to supporting this type of academic achievement." The students may have the opportunity to room together and will attend certain courses together taught by designated Scholars Faculty who have distinguished scholarship and outstanding performance records as teachers. The Scholars Faculty will provide the students with a variety of support services including friendship, guidance, inspiration, direction, encouragement and intellectual challenge. The students will also take regular course offerings to satisfy majors, minors and other liberal arts requirements.

"There will be many opportunities for these special scholars to interact with each other as well as with university faculty members on an informal basis," states Dr. James Cole, presently Biological and Allied Health Services department chairperson, who has been selected director of the program.

"It's important to note," says Cole, "Presidential Scholars will be fully integrated into the mainstream of the campus community. They will enjoy the same dimensions of university life that other students experience including residence hall living, a wide variety of socio-cultural activities, campus leadership opportunities, sporting events and other co-curriculum programs. They will have a unique blend of collegiate experiences to enrich life, broaden intellectual horizons and nurture personal development."

The director will be monitoring and evaluating the program closely with a University Scholars Program Advisory Committee comprised of Presidential Scholars, Associate Vice President for Academic Affairs, Arts and Sciences College Dean and faculty representatives from the university's three college schools. Student views will play an important role in the deliberations of this group. Both the director and the advisory committee report directly to the Provost and Academic Vice President of the university.

Upon completion of the program, a student will be designated as a Presidential Scholar on his/her permanent academic record and diploma and will be so honored at Commencement exercises.

RETIREMENT QUESTIONS?

Ms. Kathy Anderson of the Montoursville Field Office of the State Employees' Retirement System will be visiting the Personnel Office of the university on the third Wednesday of each month. Anyone desiring to meet with her should call 1-800-654-9853 in advance so that she will have the needed information for you. If you have any questions, contact Jim Michael at extension 4037.

BOOK SALE

Book Sale - buy old textbooks at 25¢ to 50¢ in the lobby of the University Store through March 15. Proceeds to benefit campus beautification.

SPRING RECESS LIBRARY HOURS SSHE APPROPRIATIONS

Spring Recess begins at 4 p.m. Saturday, March 22, and classes resume at 6 p.m. on Monday, March 31. The library will be closed the weekends of March 22-23 and 29-30. It will be open 8 a.m.-4:30 p.m. March 24-28, regular hours March 31.

Chancellor James McCormick spoke in support of appropriations for the SSHE before the Senate Appropriations Committee on February 24 and the House Committee on February 25.

Winter sports summary

Successful winter sports seasons have come to be expected at Bloomsburg University and the recently completed indoor campaign was no exception.

For the 20th consecutive year, the men's basketball team recorded a winning record by registering a 15-11 mark. The Huskies, under 15th year head coach Charlie Chronister, narrowly missed a berth in the Pennsylvania Conference playoffs and settled for a fourth place finish in the conference's Eastern Division with a 7-7 record. Senior Glenn Noack became only the second BU performer to score more than 1,500 points in a career and ended his four-year performance at Bloomsburg in second place on the all-time scoring list with 1,504 points.

Coach Sue Hibbs' women's basketball team made an appearance in the PC playoffs for the second time in three years. Although only 9-12 overall, the Huskies ended in a four-way tie for the top spot in the Eastern Division. The tie-breaking system placed BU third and a trip to West Chester ended the season with a 64-58 loss. Senior Jean Millen ended up as the school's all-time leading scorer (1,113), becoming the first female basketball player to score more than 1,000 points, and also is BU's all-time top rebounder with 940.

A youthful men's swimming and diving unit experienced some difficulties but gained valuable experience on the way to a 4-8 record under first-year head coach Mary Gardner. The coach ran the Huskies' dual program, combining the men's and women's team for the first time. BU placed ninth in the PC Championships.

Gardner's other squad continues to be one of the top teams in the conference and placed second to powerful Clarion for the fifth consecutive year. The women chalked up an 8-2 record this season and have a 42-5 combined slate over the past five seasons. Senior Kelly Knaus was the most outstanding performer, capturing three PC titles. She won the 200 yard backstroke and the 200 and 400 yard individual medleys. Freshman Joan Wojtowicz capped a great first-year with the program by winning the PC's 500 yard freestyle race. The duo, along with four other performers, will represent Bloomsburg at the NCAA Division II Championships later this month.

Five national qualifiers is the highlight of the Huskies' wrestling season. Eastern Wrestling League champion Rick Bonomo, along with EWL runnerups Rocky Bonomo and Bruce Wallace, will make the trip to the NCAA Division I Championships as will "wild card" selections Dave Morgan and Darrin Evans. Rick Bonomo will seek his second straight national title at 118 lbs. Bloomsburg finished third in the EWL race and also recorded a second place showing in the Pennsylvania Conference. Coach Roger Sanders' team had a 12-5 dual match record and won three in-season tournament titles.

Ayittey's views widely published

Dr. George Ayittey, economics department, has become nationally known for his views on numerous problems of his native Africa. Born in Ghana, Ayittey earned his bachelor's degree from the University of Ghana, his master's degree from University of Western Ontario and his doctorate from the University of Manitoba, Canada.

His most recent articles include: Famine in Africa: The Real Cause, appearing in the December 1985-January 1986 issue of Economic Affairs; a letter to the editor entitled African Rights in Policy Review; and Black Africa is a Disgrace in Journal of Defense and Diplomacy. He was quoted last fall by Barbara Amiel in her article entitled A Simple Case of Moral Hypocrisy appearing in McClean's.

Calder is a 1975 business and economics graduate of Hofstra University where he was a standout in lacrosse and football. He earned a master of science degree in sports administration from the University of Ohio in 1978.

CCFNB makes contribution

A $10,000 unrestricted gift to the Bloomsburg University Foundation has been made by the Columbia County Farmers National Bank of Bloomsburg.

In making the announcement, Bank President Paul Reichard said, "Bloomsburg University is a vital academic and economic force in our community. As a new institution in Bloomsburg, we are pleased to help contribute to its continued success. Bloomsburg is already recognized as one of the outstanding academic institutions in Northeastern Pennsylvania. We hope contributions like this will help the university attain even greater recognition."

The $10,000 has been pledged to the foundation at the rate of $2,000 a year over the next five years, according to Jan Girton, senior vice president of the bank. President Harry Ausprich recently reactivated the foundation which is used to aid the university in achieving its educational objectives through private sector support.

Responding to the gift, Ausprich commented, "We're excited that the Columbia County Farmers National Bank has accepted leadership as the first local institution to join the University Foundation's Presidential Club. This support will enable us the opportunity to continue to enhance the many fine programs and services available at Bloomsburg University."

New center created

A Center for Instructional Systems Development, funded by the Ben Franklin Advanced Technology Partnership Program, has been created at BU to improve and extend both on-and off-campus teaching through emerging technologies.

The purpose of the center is threefold: to support the design and development of computer-based interactive videodisc courseware for interested Bloomsburg University faculty; to serve as a vehicle for partnership by seeking and supporting interactive videodisc projects for private sector entities through grants and sponsorships; and to coordinate and cooperate with the College of Graduate Studies and Extended Programs in supporting human resource development in the Instructional Technology Master's Degree Program and Extended Educational Programs for corporate business sector training.

The initial award of $66,131 from the Ben Franklin Partnership Program is for the university to work cooperatively with the Geisinger Medical Management Corporation to develop courseware for the training and retraining of nurses and physicians in critical care medicine.

The center has also received an Education for Economic Security Act grant of $40,000 to develop an individualized interactive videodisc model for teacher training in diagnostic/prescriptive mathematics.

The center has selected several faculty members to serve as subject matter experts in the development of interactive videodisc lessons. The projects are developed with the cooperative effort of faculty, the center staff and graduate students completing thesis requirements in the Instructional Technology Program.

Current projects include a chemistry lab lesson for first-year college chemistry students, teaching signed English to potential teachers of the hearing impaired and redesigning five courses in the Art Department whereby 50,000 art slides may be accessed via optical laser disc.

Additional information can be obtained from Harold J.

Annual reading confab slated

Bloomsburg University's 22nd Annual Reading Conference for teachers, reading specialists, school supervisors and administrators from Pennsylvania and surrounding states will be held Thursday and Friday May 1-2.

Following last year's revised format, the Sheraton Danville Inn will function as the conference headquarters with some sessions also scheduled for the adjacent Best Western motel. Approximately 950 were in attendance last year.

Five featured speakers include: Dr. Patricia Cunningham, Wake Forest University; Dr. Dale Jordan, Jordan Diagnostic Center, Oklahoma City; Dr. Samuel Kirk, University of Arizona; Patricia Olsen, West St. Paul, Minnesota and Dr. Samuel Sebeata, University of Washington.

In addition to the above presentations, more than 50 other sessions, conducted by reading and education specialists from institutions of higher learning and secondary and elementary schools, will take place. Books and other educational materials will be on exhibit throughout the conference.

Additional information can be obtained by contacting Dr. Poostay, Navy Hall, Bloomsburg University, telephone (717) 389-4092.

Old house restoration

Persons with an appreciation for historical preservation, and residential restoration in particular, may be interested in an "Old House Restoration" mini-course being offered April 12, 19 and 26 in McCormick University Forum.

The second in a series of restoration courses, classes discussions will focus on the types, methods of installation and maintenance and the appropriate use of roofing/gutters/downspouts, siding, doors and windows. House masonry and masonry restoration will also be covered.

Restoration specialists James and Elizabeth Facinelli of Elizabethville, PA, will teach the course.

Additional information is available through the School of Extended Programs in Waller Administration Building, phone 389-4420.

Clinical specialty option added

A third clinical specialty option entitled "Adult Health and Illness" has been added to the Master of Science in Nursing Program at BU.

According to department chairperson Dorette Welk, the focus of the new option is to produce clinical nurse specialists in adult health and illness who can assume leadership positions in a variety of health care settings. Nursing students will apply advanced knowledge of theories and skills in providing adult health care. They will be capable of functioning both independently and collaboratively with clients and other professionals to improve the quality of adult health care delivery.

Adult Health and Illness joins the the two previous options in the master's program, Psychiatric Community Mental Health and Community Health Nursing.

Dr. Larry Jones, provost and academic vice president, has been appointed to the Northeast Tier Ben Franklin Partnership Advisory Board by Dr. Peter Likens, president of Lehigh University. The Board advises the Northeast Tier Advanced Technology Center with regards to its directions for future research and development, education and training, entrepreneurial and technical assistance, service delivery to new firms and outreach to the consortium and the public.

A Human Relations Retreat weekend for 20 majority and minority students and faculty is scheduled for the boy scout Camp Lavine area on April 4-6. Sponsored by Quest, it will be an opportunity to utilize the outdoors for group involvement. The cost is free and the program is under the guidance of Bill Proudman, Quest director.

Quest is also conducting whitewater rafting in the upper gorge of the Lehigh River on April 5, 6 and 7. For additional information, call 389-4323.

An article co-authored by Dr. Michael W. Gaynor, psychology department, and Dr. James R. Slagle entitled "A Decision Support System for Fire Support Command and Control" was selected for inclusion in High Technology Initiatives in C31, edited by Dr. Stephan J. Andriole, to be published by the Armed Forces Communications and Electronics Association (AFCEA) International Press.

In addition to teaching, Professor Gaynor continues to pursue consulting and research on the application of Artificial Intelligence for enhancement of human decision making, effective Human-Computer-Interaction, and Computer Enhanced Education. As a Visiting Scientist at the Navy Center for Applied Research in Artificial Intelligence, he worked closely with Dr. Slagle and co-authored six articles with him. Dr. Gaynor's current research includes human fault analysis in concept formation to provide timely feedback for effective education, and an artificially intelligent statistics advisor for applied statistical analysis. In addition, he is an active consultant to business and industry for Artificial Intelligence applications.

Jean K. Kalat, nursing department, has been invited to participate in a series of workshops and lectures relating to "The Clues of Depression and Suicide of the Adolescent and Young Adult." Local schools and counseling programs have invited these presentations as well as some groups on campus. She will make a presentation at the Women's Conference in April.

She helped staff "Call-line Volunteers" in Union/Snyder Counties on March 4. The Columbia-Montour Mental Health Association has sponsored these series upon request as a prevention program as well as a program dealing with the environment after suicide.

Earlier this year, Bruce Rockwood, J.D., finance and business law, presented a paper "Getting to This: Rules Versus Problem Solving in Teaching Undergraduates" to the section Teaching of Law Outside of Law Schools at the annual meeting of the Assn. of American Law Schools held in New Orleans. He recently attended a session entitled "Banking Law: Current Issues in a Deregulated Environment," sponsored by the Seton Hall University School of Law Legislative Bureau and the National Community Bank of New Jersey.

BU's mini-course "Pets 'n People," featuring local veterinarian George Leighow, received national exposure in the March issue of Dog World. An interesting article by local writer Sherry Carpenter entitled "A Vet in the Classroom" described Leighow's approach to some of the problems facing every pet owner. It also mentioned the outstanding guest lecturers that participate in the annual course.

Dr. Larry Jones has been invited to be the distinguished guest speaker at the Annual Initiation Ceremony of Phi Kappa Phi National Interdisciplinary Honor Society at 6 p.m. on April 6, in Scranton Commons.

SPRING HAS ARRIVED

A note to all faculty and staff who have been asked to fill out Husky Ambassador recommendations. An error was made and the applications are not due March 22. However, please return them as soon after that date as possible to Doug Hippenstiel, Alumni House. Thank you.

Inauguration this Saturday

Over 100 representatives from colleges and universities across the country will join with Bloomsburg University faculty and administrators in the procession for the inauguration of Harry Ausprich as the 16th president of the university, scheduled for 2:30 p.m. on April 5 in Mitrani Hall of Haas Center for the Arts.

Included in the representatives will be 10 college and university presidents and 14 dignitaries representing learned societies and professional associations. The procession will begin promptly at 2:10 p.m. at Centennial Gymnasium and proceed down campus to Haas Center.

Allan W. Ostar, president of the American Association of State Colleges and Universities, will be the guest speaker. Greetings will be extended by the presidents of the Student Government Association, Alumni Association and the Association of Pennsylvania State College and University Faculties, along with Chancellor James H. McCormick of the State System of Higher Education and a representative from Bloomsburg Mayor Daniel Bauman.

Council of Trustees Chairman John Dorin will present Ausprich for the ceremony. Investiture will be by McCormick and installation by James L. Larson, member of the Board of Governors of SSHE.

Dorin will make the medallion presentation and Grand Marshall Gilbert Selders, the Mace presentation, which will be followed by remarks from Ausprich.

Musical selections will be rendered by the Madrigal Singers and Brass Quintet. Catholic campus minister Chester Snyder will deliver the invocation and Protestant campus minister Gregory Osterberg, the benediction.

A reception will follow the inauguration ceremony immediately in the vicinity of Haas Center. All members of the college community and the public are cordially invited to both events.

Joseph named TV director

Tom Joseph, manager of Video Communications Services of Southern States Cooperative, Inc., Richmond, Virginia, has been appointed Director of Television Programs and Services at BU according to an announcement by Kalyan Ghosh, vice provost and associate vice president for academic affairs.

Joseph was responsible for building Video Communications Services, a 279-unit corporate video network, from scratch and became the first manager.

He previously served as a consultant and later Video/Media Development Coordinator of The Raymond Corporation of Greene, New York. He also was an instructor in video production methods at Broome Community College, Binghamton, New York.

Joseph earned a bachelor of science degree in secondary education from Penn State and a master of science degree in telecommunications from Syracuse University.

The new director has been active in the International Television Association, serving as a member of the Central New York Chapter and later as president of the Richmond Chapter.

Joseph and his family will reside at 385 River-view Drive, Bloomsburg.

FEES

The administration of the university has determined that for the upcoming summer semester, fees must be paid the day of registration. Deferral of fees for financial aid will be possible, but only financial aid will be deferred.

FASHION SHOW

The BU Women's Club will sponsor a fashion show and luncheon at 12 noon on Saturday, April 12, in the Coffeehouse of Kehr Union. Cost is $5.00. For reservations, call Abha Ghosh at 4491 or Kathy Mulka at 4058 by April 10.

$1 million in grants for BU

BU has received $1 million in grants for research and training this year.

The money comes from a number of state, federal and private sources.

A Ben Franklin Partnership grant of $22,100 will provide for the continuation of the Business Assistance and Incubator Centers, implemented jointly by the university, the Bloomsburg Area Chamber of Commerce and the Bloomsburg Area Industrial Development Association.

A link between higher education and the business community has been formed through the university's cooperative education program. Students are given an opportunity to obtain job experience related to their career goals through short-term employment in businesses and industries. The program is partially supported through a grant of $11,258 from the U.S. Department of Education.

The university is responding to the needs of unemployed, economically disadvantaged people through classroom training and internships in area businesses. A total of $89,380 is being provided through the Job Training Partnership Act. The university has been awarded $160,794 by the federal Education Department for continuation of its successful Upward Bound program.

The Department of Business Education and Office Administration has received $6,000 in vocational education funding through the Penn State Center to conduct a series of workshops for secondary and post-secondary teachers. The workshops will focus on the impact of current technology on the business education and office administration curricula.

A continuation grant of $67,200 has been awarded to the Department of Communication Disorders and Special Education by the federal Education Department to assist the university with its master of science program in audiology, speech-language pathology and education of the hearing impaired.

The department will also provide interpreter training services for hearing impaired students through a $4,000 contract with Gallaudet College in Washington. In addition, a grant of $18,900 from the state Department of Education will help train vocational educators to work with handicapped students.

Disadvantaged students experiencing difficulty in making the adjustment from high school to college benefit from a grant of $96,600 from the state Education Department. The Center for Academic Development offers instructional services in reading, writing, mathematics, speech communications and counseling to 215 students.

Grants for cultural affairs programs include $5,000 from the Pennsylvania Council on the Arts to support the Community Arts Council artist lecture series and $1,000 from the Mid-Atlantic States Arts Consortium to provide partial funding for the "Sweet Saturday Night Dance Review," a celebration black street and social dance.

Other grants include $2,000 from the Shell Companies Foundation, designated for use by the accounting department for faculty professional development and student scholarships. Modifications to the heating and lighting system in Andruss Library will be made with the assistance of a $7,152 Energy Conservation Measures grant from the Governor's Energy Council.

LARRY GERBER TO DISCUSS NEWSPAPERS

Larry Gerber, wire editor of the Press-Enterprise, will discuss newspaper design and color at 10 a.m. Wednesday, April 9, in Room 105 of BU's Bakeless Hall. Sponsored by the Program in Journalism, the public is invited.

COLE PORTER NIGHT

A Night of Cole Porter, a Theatre Program fundraiser/gala is slotted for April 25-26 at 8 p.m. in Carver Hall. Enjoy an evening of night club entertainment with stage direction by Marci Woodruff and music directed by Bill Decker. Admission is $5.00.

REMINDER

The internationally famous Fitzwilliam String Quartet will perform in concert at 8:30 p.m. this Friday, April 4, in Mitrani Hall of Haas Center. The public is invited and admission is free.

The Pennsylvania Green Thumb program continues to offer temporary part-time employment for 25-30 low-income older workers on campus. Approximately $125,000 is made possible through Title V of the Older Americans Act.

Elton Hunsinger, 72, who served as a BU administrator for 18 years and a trustee since 1981, died at his home in Aristes on March 25.

Hunsinger retired from BU in 1979 as administrator for federal grants and associate vice president. He previously held positions of dean of men, dean of students, associate vice president for student affairs, director of placement and food service administrator.

He received his bachelor's degree in health and physical education from East Stroudsburg State College and his master's degree in administration from Bucknell University.

Born in Geneva, NY, Hunsinger was a long-time high school teacher and coach before coming to BU in 1961. He coached all varsity sports at Conyngham Township High School from 1936-1948. He taught and served as basketball coach at Ashland High School from 1948 to 1961, winning 80% of his games.

Hunsinger also officiated basketball and football games in Central Pennsylvania and at one time was the only official in the state who officiated for five different college sports. From 1946-48, he worked as a professional baseball umpire.

In 1967, he was appointed by Governor Shafer to serve as the first advisor to the Senate Committee on Education, a position he held for two years. In 1977, he received the Outstanding Service Award from the Pennsylvania Basketball Coaches Assn. In 1981, he was inducted into the Jerry Wolman Chapter of the Pennsylvania Hall of Fame. In 1982, a basketball scholarship was named in his honor at BU for his overall support of athletics, particularly Husky basketball.

Vinovrski resigns search underway

Bernie Vinovrski, admissions director and a member of the successful admissions team since 1975, has resigned effective July 18, 1986, to accept a similar position at Wilkes College.

A new director is being sought. The advertised request is as follows:

Nominations and applications are invited for this directorship, which reports to the Dean of Enrollment Management. The university is seeking an individual who can maintain and improve upon a very positive enrollment history.

Minimum qualifications: master's degree, five years of total admissions experience with some supervisory experience of professional staff, proven record of leadership, excellent communication skills, working knowledge of financial aid programs, statistical skills and institutional marketing knowledge.

Salary commensurate with knowledge and experience.

Resume and three letters of professional reference must be submitted by April 30, 1986 to: Director of Admissions Search Committee, c/o John Stockalis, Benjamin Franklin Hall, Bloomsburg University, Bloomsburg, PA 17815.

An affirmative action, equal opportunity employer. Women and minorities are encouraged to apply.

Summer opera music course

The university will offer its Opera and Music Theatre course this summer in Salzburg, Austria, birthplace of Mozart and home of the internationally known Salzburg Summer Festival. Dr. William Decker, who has taught a similar course to adults and college students for many years, will be the professor for the course to be held July 1-31.

Enrollment is open to college students and other adults. The latter may receive credit through the university's continuing education program. Certain high school students may be accepted for advance placement credit and would be eligible to apply for the course.

The course will focus on the great works of the lyric stage, approached through recordings, readings and films. Arrangements will be made to attend performances and rehearsals as well. A strong background in music or theatre is not necessary for this course, which is basically history and appreciation. Participants will live in Austrian homes, as well as having opportunity for weekend excursions to such places as Vienna, Switzerland, Budapest and Bavaria.

Dr. Decker and his wife lived in Paris during 1983 and have visited Austria on two different occasions. They also plan to spend several months studying in Vienna next year.

Interested persons should contact Dr. Decker at (717) 389-4284 for additional information. The cost of the program is surprisingly low, and a few scholarships are available to gifted students. The Salzburg Program is sponsored by the Pennsylvania Consortium for International Education and has been successfully operating for several years.

BU notes

Dr. Ariane Foureman, department of Languages and Cultures, spoke about the value of foreign languages in our modern world on March 20 at the Career Day of St. Cyril Academy, Danville.

Jesse Bryan, director of the Center for Academic Development, and Tom Cooper, dean of Admissions and Enrollment Management, were among the representatives from 74 Pennsylvania colleges and universities and state legislators and other dignitaries attending an "Act 101 Works" reception held recently in Harrisburg. The reception honored eight outstanding Act 101 alumni--four each from the program's eastern and western regions.

Eli McLaughlin, former BU men's swimming and diving coach, was honored by fellow coaches of the Pennsylvania Conference at the recent championships held at Clarion University. A "Coaches Award" plaque in appreciation of McLaughlin's 23 years of contributions to the conference swimming and diving program was presented to Stanley Rakowsky, who represented McLaughlin at the meet. McLaughlin was ill at the time and requested Rakowsky, a former team manager and currently a BU trustee, accept the award on his behalf. It was only the second time in the history of the conference that this award was given. Ed Norris, former West Chester University coach, received it in 1979. McLaughlin retired from coaching in September 1985, requesting to return to full-time teaching.

The students in the Sociology of Aging class, as a part of institutional observation, recently toured Berwick Retirement Village Nursing Home. Mrs. Ann Fletcher, administrator of the nursing home, introduced the institution's objectives and programs. Mrs. Cheryl Rowsla, Social Service and Utilization Review Coordinator, conducted a tour of the facility.

Nurick to be commencement speaker

Carl J. Nurick, vice president, PennDel Area of AT&T Information Systems, will be the principal speaker at the Bloomsburg University spring commencement exercises scheduled for 2:15 p.m. on May 10 at the Bloomsburg Fair Grounds. Nearly 780 undergraduate and approximately 48 graduate students will receive their degrees.

Bloomsburg University is no stranger to the Montgomery County native as he has been a visiting executive and serves as a member of the School of Business Advisory Board and a director of the Bloomsburg University Foundation.

Nurick was awarded his undergraduate degree with a major in labor economics, commerce and political science from Penn State in 1955. He has taken graduate studies at Wilkes and King's Colleges and Columbia and Michigan State Universities.

As a former U.S. Navy Lieutenant (S.G.), Nurick served in various capacities aboard surface vessels in the Atlantic and Mediterranean fleets.

Nurick began working as a management assistant with Bell of Pennsylvania in 1957. During the next nine years, he held approximately 17 different positions in the operations, financial and marketing departments with Bell of Pennsylvania. He became associated with AT&T in 1966 and prior to his present position, was appointed Assistant Vice President of Marketing in 1974 and General Manager of Marketing with Pennsylvania and Delaware operations responsibilities in 1978.

Nurick has been both a chairman and an advisory council member with the United Fund and has served in prominent capacities with the Philadelphia area American Cancer Society. He has been active in both the Philadelphia and Main Line Chambers of Commerce. Associated with the Pennsylvania Bar Association since 1979, he has been a member of the Professional Responsibility Committee and a board member of the Pennsylvania Bar Foundation. He serves as a member of the Advisory Board of the American Association of the Advancement of Science and the President's Advisory Board of Wilson College.

BU given nearly $5 million in 1985

Last Fall, Bloomsburg University president Harry Ausprich stated that public universities need private support to spell the difference between an adequate and a great institution of higher learning.

If 1985 is an indication, Bloomsburg University is well on its way to becoming a superior school. During the calendar year, monetary, scholarship and equipment gifts to the university and its Alumni Association amounted to nearly $5 million.

"Such support," states Ausprich, "will help Bloomsburg recruit and retain outstanding faculty, develop its professional staff, acquire advanced research and teaching equipment, along with improving learning facilities and enriching cultural activities. This all leads to the university's excellent reputation in the world of higher education. Equally important is how many of these gifts help students--tomorrow's leaders--develop to the fullest of their potentials through academic scholarships and access to the best of resources."

The largest gift, according to Development Director Anthony Ianiero, was $3 million from the estate of late Shenandoah businessman Fred G. Smith. It will provide scholarships through the years for students from five high schools in the nearby anthracite coal region.

Bloomsburg philanthropists Marco and Louise Mitrani gave $500,000 to be put in a trust for academic scholarships. A $5,500 contribution by Berwick Forge and Fabrication Corp. enriched the General Scholarship Fund.

The university was fortunate to receive a number of outstanding equipment gifts. AT&T donated $255,000 in new computer equipment to be utilized in the scientific research area and by the College of Business. Shared Medical Systems gave $7,000 in computer equipment for the second consecutive year. IBM and Tandy Corporation donated computer equipment totalling $4,000. A $2,000 video printer was received from Polaroid. The first half of a $19,200 pledge to assist in renovations of the computer center was received from Air Products and Chemicals Co.

Alumni of the university support alumni programs, projects and the recently acquired Alumni House to the tune of nearly a quarter million dollars. Other cash gifts to the university totalled $40,000 and in-kind gifts, another $32,000. The Bloomsburg Foundation was the recipient of gifts in December totalling $22,000.

Nearly $80,000 was raised by Husky Club donors and others for athletic scholarships while a $3,000 donation was made to the athletic scholarship campaign by McDowell Oil Co.

"All of these gifts and contributions are greatly appreciated by the entire university community," Ianiero commented. "They provide a great incentive for us to continue our efforts to increase the academic status of Bloomsburg University throughout 1986 and future years."

Employee health and benefits fair

The Employee Health and Benefits Fair is scheduled for Tuesday, April 22, and Wednesday morning, April 23, in the Kehr Union Building. The purpose of the fair is to help employees become more aware of their benefit package and to provide free selected health services and information.

Presentations will be conducted in the Presidents' Lounge on Tuesday from 9 a.m. to 5:30 p.m. and on Wednesday morning from 9 a.m. to 12 noon.

Among the topics for presentations are Geisinger HMO; Blue Cross/Blue Shield/Major Medical; Social Security; Exercise and Fitness, Financial Services; Nutrition for Preventive Health; Retirement; TIAA-CREF (Teachers Insurance and Annuity Association, College Retirement Equities Fund); and Health Promotion/Wellness. Some will be conducted by Bloomsburg University staff or faculty, others by off-campus representatives.

Information tables will be set up in Multi-Purpose Room A from 9:30 a.m. to 6 p.m. on Tuesday and from 9:30 a.m. to 12 noon on Wednesday.

Representatives will be available at the information tables to answer questions on employee benefits and on health (directed towards a "wellness concept"). Also available at the tables will be brochures and forms related to group health insurance; credit unions, fee waiver; Campus Child Center; campus facilities and activities available to employees; discounts; and more. Representatives from Blue Cross, TIAA-CREF, American Red Cross, American Cancer Society, both credit unions, Bloomsburg Hospital, and the Geisinger HMO, as well as Bloomsburg University staff, faculty and nursing students will be available to answer questions.

All employees (staff and faculty) and spouses are encouraged to attend the Benefits Fair.

Forensics here

Approximately 1,100 students and coaches representing 100 colleges and students from 35 states will compete in the National Forensic Association's 16th Annual Championships in individual speaking events to be held here April 24-28.

It will be the first time this national event has been held in Pennsylvania, according to Harry Strine, BU director of forensics.

Competition will consist of four preliminary rounds plus quarters, semis and finals in nine events. Included will be informative speaking, persuasive speaking, after dinner speaking, extemporaneous speaking, impromptu speaking, prose interpretation, poetry interpretation, dramatic duo interpretation and rhetorical criticism.

Additional information is available from Professor Strine by calling 389-4184 or 389-4576.

Family retreat programs

Family Retreat Programs at the Marine Science Consortium, Wallops Island, Virginia, are available to BU employees this year through the university's membership in the Consortium.

The Family Retreat Programs offer a few days among the marshes, forests and beaches of the barrier islands of the Eastern Shore at affordable rates. The events and activities are designed for family members of all ages.

Each program offers activities in outdoor recreation, nature study and evening events planned by the Marine Science Consortium staff. Activities may include: boat cruise (6 yrs. and up), critter lab, forest walk, swimming, pony hunt, dune walk, bird hike, clam bake, marsh mucking, volleyball, beach combing and sunbathing. Interested persons can contact Dr. James Lauffer, geography and earth science, at 389-4141 or Dr. Joseph Vaughan, biology and allied health sciences, at 389-4120.

Concert Choir in pre-tour concert

The BU Concert Choir Spring Concert in Carver Auditorium will be special in that local audiences will hear the program the choir will sing for their East Coast Tour. The concert in Bloomsburg will be at 8 p.m. Thursday evening, April 24, and the public is invited free of charge.

During the Florida tour, the choir, under their director William Decker, will perform in Portsmouth (VA), Savannah (GA), Daytona Beach (FL), St. Petersburg (FL) and Walt Disney World in Orlando (FL).

The program will consist of choral classics as well as lighter choral literature. Selections will include "Haec Dies" by Palestrina, three selections from Leonard Bernstein's MASS, two madrigals and "Uv'shofar Gadol" by Samuel Adler, the "Regina Coeli" from the opera Cavalleria Rusticana, several spirituals and selections from the Broadway musical Cats. The varied program is designed to appeal to people of all musical interests.

Funds promote SSHE faculty development

The Faculty Professional Development Program (FPD) of the State System of Higher Education (SSHE) recently moved into its second phase, almost $86,000 richer.

Coupled with a supportive matching grant of $43,000 from the System's Board of Governors, the monies received by the Program originated from an earlier faculty development program known as the Pennsylvania State College Educational Services Trust Fund.

Trust Fund Chairman William F. Bogart, an associate professor from Mansfield University, presented SSHE Chancellor James H. McCormick with a check for $43,000 to close out the former program.

"The fine faculty of the State System expect, and rightfully so, that the Office of the Chancellor and the Board of Governors mutually support their efforts in this new and appropriate venture," Dr. McCormick said.

"For 11 years, the Educational Services Trust Fund labored to provide faculty development programs. Now, the framework and cooperative support are in place, and we have the opportunity to be creative in shaping a first-rate program," the Chancellor added.

BU notes

Bernadine T. Markey, nursing, will present her research entitled "Evaluative Study of Medication Discharge Planning for the Elderly with Congestive Heart Failure in an Acute Care Medical Center" at the 12th Annual Nursing Research Symposium at the National Institutes of Health in Bethesda (MD) on May 5.

John S. Baird, Jr., psychology, presented a paper entitled "Partial Invalidation of the MMPI" at the 21st Annual Symposium on Recent Developments in the Use of the MMPI. The conference was sponsored by the University of Minnesota.

Dr. Donald A Vannan, curriculum and foundations, has had a science education article published in the May/June, 1986 issue of The Mailbox, Intermediate Edition, the idea magazine for elementary teachers. The article, "Soda Pop Science," deals with three demonstrations for elementary school children emphasizing the discovery-type approach versus just "telling" or "spoon-feeding."

William S. O'Bruba, chairman, department of curriculum and foundations, has published an article "The Black Child, His Dialect, and His Reading," in the Spring 1986 issue of the educational journal Reading Horizons. The latter is published by Western Michigan University for all those professionals involved in reading instruction.

Leo Barrile, Sociology/Social Welfare, recently presented two papers. One was titled "Status, Motives, and Violence in Television's Heroes, Villains, and Victims," at the Eastern Sociological Society annual meeting in April; and the other titled "Athletes and Drugs: A Survey of Public Attitudes," at the annual meeting of the Academy of Criminal Justice Sciences in March.

At the request of Dr. Saleem M. Khan, economics, Dr. J.V. Ordenes of the International Monetary Fund, Washington, DC, delivered a lecture on "World Trade and Debt Crisis" on April 2 in Bakeless Room 207. The Department of Economics, in cooperation with the Economics Club and Omicron Delta Epsilon, sponsored the lecture.

James H. Huber, sociology/social welfare, presented a colloquium session on "A Faculty Union in the Aftermath of a Strike" at the 56th Annual Meeting of the Eastern Sociological Society meeting held in New York recently.

Chang Shub Roh, sociology/social welfare, attended the annual meeting of the Association for Asian Studies in Chicago recently. He also presented a colloquium session on "Dying and Death in Korean and American Perspectives," at the Eastern Sociological Society meeting held in New York, April 4-6.

Penny Britt, admissions, and Ronald DiGiondomenico, academic advisement, gave a presentation entitled "Ten Simple Steps to an Effective Mentor Program" at the recent National Academic Advising Association conference held at State College (PA).

Benefield to receive medallion

Richard A. Benefield, prominent Bloomsburg businessman, will be the third recipient of a University Medallion at the BU Commencement scheduled for 2:15 p.m., Saturday, May 10, at the Bloomsburg Fair Grounds. The first University Medallions were presented to local philanthropists, Marco and Louise Mitrani, at the December, 1983 commencement exercises.

Benefield has been a friend and ardent supporter of the university for many years. His close association was officially and publicly noted in May, 1980, when he was appointed a member of the College of Business Advisory Board of which he currently serves as Vice Chairman. He received the University's Certificate of Appreciation for outstanding service in 1982, and in February of this year, was named Chairman of the newly reorganized Bloomsburg University Foundation.

Benefield is a charter member of the Husky Club Board of Governors and during the 1985 Spring semester was a member of the Search and Screen Committee for the position of Dean of the College of Business at Bloomsburg. His latest honor occurred on April 9, 1986, when he was confirmed as the newest member of the 16-member Board of Governors of the State System of Higher Education.

Benefield has been associated with the popular Hotel Magee since 1954, and currently serves as its Vice President and General Manager. He also is the Vice President and General Manager of Operations for M.I.E. Hospitality, a Bloomsburg-based company which owns and operates 15 Arthur Treacher Fish and Chips restaurants in central and northeastern Pennsylvania.

A 1948 graduate of Penn State University with a Bachelor of Science degree in Hotel Administration, Benefield also completed graduate work in Business Administration and Institutional Administration at Penn State while pursuing his career in restaurant management.

Benefield served as Captain in the United States Army during World War II, seeing active duty in the Phillipines and the South Pacific Theatre. While in the military, Benefield earned a certificate in Basic Engineering from North Carolina State University and a certificate in Civil Engineering from Penn State.

Benefield was recently named the Outstanding Citizen of the Year by the Bloomsburg Area Chamber of Commerce. He has served as Drive Chairman for the Columbia County United Way and Moderator of the Northumberland Presbytery. As a Rotarian, Benefield has been president of the Bloomsburg chapter and a District Governor.

At the Hotel Magee, Benefield is responsible for its national reputation and distinction in fine dining and lodging. He is a past president of various hotel and restaurant associations and a past chairman (three terms) of the Smaller Hotels Committee of the American Hotel-Motel Association. He is also a director of the Executive Committee of the American Hotel-Motel Association.

Benefield has received numerous awards as an outstanding alumnus of Penn State.

Benefield, 60, and his wife, Elinor Anne Vinson, are the parents of four daughters and the grandparents of nine.

COMMENCEMENT

Faculty and administrators are urged to participate in commencement exercises on Saturday, May 10, at the Bloomsburg Fairgrounds. The procession moves promptly at 2:15 p.m. AT&T Vice President Carl J. Nurick is the speaker.

FACULTY & STAFF DECALS

Law Enforcement Chief Ken Weaver would like to inform all faculty and staff that the red and white decals will be extended indefinitely. Notice of new decals arrival will be published later.

Funds sought for Roberts' memorial

Dear Colleague:

Before his death in 1984, Percival R. Roberts, III, was professor and former chairperson of the Department of Art at Bloomsburg University; he joined the faculty in 1968. A native of Delaware, Roberts held bachelor and master degrees from the University of Delaware and a doctoral in art from Illinois State University. Artist, poet, teacher and friend; Professor Roberts was widely respected and loved by his students and colleagues for his intense creativity, his deep humanity and his warm geniality. He was named a Commonwealth Teaching Fellow for 1974-75 in recognition of his exemplary teaching, and he won a Commonwealth Service Award in 1976.

Recognition of his extraordinarily fruitful life extended far beyond the campus and even the Commonwealth. In 1963, he was named the ninth Poet Laureate of Delaware and in 1967, he was chosen as an Outstanding Young man of America. Among his other honors with a Litt. D. degree from L'Libre Universite' Asie and the American Poets' Gold Cup Award.

At its June, 1985 meeting, the Council of Trustees of Bloomsburg University moved to establish the area southwest of the McCormick Center and southeast of Bakeless Center as the "Percival R. Roberts III Memorial Sculpture Garden."

The university is now proceeding to acquire pieces of sculpture that reflect a profound love for the best humanity has to offer. The collection will not only symbolize the university's regard for excellence, but also exemplify the precious experience of the beauty in life.

As in the case of all meaningful collections, the process of acquisitions will continue in perpetuity. Because of the importance of these ideals, the university is ambitiously seeking contributions to this new and exciting endeavor.

On behalf of Bob's family, friends and Bloomsburg University, I ask your support for this worthy project. Your contribution to the "Percival R. Roberts, III Sculpture Garden" will ensure a permanent collection of fine sculpture.

Karl Beamer
Assistant Professor

Professor Beamer is using the above method to reach all BU employees. Contributions may be made through the Art Department (389-4195) or the Development Office (389-4128).

New degree in social welfare

The degree program of Bachelor of Arts in Social Welfare has been approved for the university by the Board of Governors of the State System of Higher Education. The BU Council of Trustees previously approved the program.

The BA in Social Welfare will be offered through the Department of Sociology and Social Welfare. According to Arts and Sciences Dean G. Alfred Forsyth, a growing number of Social Welfare students who would normally get their degree as an option in Sociology can now graduate with a Bachelor of Arts in Social Welfare as early as 1988.

In September, 1985, Sociology majors numbered 141, a 47% increase over the previous fall semester. Eighty-four of these majors are Social Welfare option students, a 62% increase over the previous year.

Graduates of the program are qualified to work in mental health/mental retardation programs, children and youth agencies, drug/alcohol treatment or recreation programs.

DAY OF CHAMPIONS

Over 100 BU varsity athletes, representing over 500 team members, will attend the 12th Annual Husky Club Day of Champions Awards Banquet on May 3 at 6 p.m. in the Scranton Commons. Should you have any questions, feel free to contact the Husky Club Office at (717) 389-4663.

HOMECOMING THEME

The Homecoming theme for this year's October 18-20 celebration is "America From Sea to Shining Sea." The parade, beginning at 10 a.m., will be in conjunction with Bloomsburg High School.

SUMMER ORIENTATION

Summer Orientation dates have been set as follows: June 15-16, summer freshmen; June 22-23-24, fall freshmen; June 29-30-July 1, fall freshmen; July 13-14, transfers; July 20-21-22, fall freshmen; July 27-28-29, fall freshmen (including those admitted through the Center for Academic Development).

Research and Planning reorganized

In an administrative reorganization, the Office of Institutional Research and Information Management and the Office of Institutional Planning will become the Office of Institutional Planning, Research and Information Management. The physical location of the office will be in Waller Hall in the space currently occupied by the Office of Institutional Research on the second floor.

Dr. Hugh McFadden, who has been the Director of Institutional Research, will begin his responsibilities as Director of the Office of Planning, Research and Information Management on May 12.

Appreciation has been extended to Dr. Ray Babineau by President Ausprich and other administrators for his devotion and outstanding contributions as Director of Institutional Planning for the past three years. Babineau will return to his full-time professorship in the Department of Curriculum and Foundations. Sharon Swank, Babineau's secretary, becomes secretary of the Office of Planning, Research and Information Management.

Dr. McFadden will continue

Retirements and Faculty Emeriti

The retirements of three faculty members with a total of 67 years of service, the conferring of Faculty Emeritus Status upon six upon six retirees, and the retirements of four non-instructional employees were announced at the April quarterly meeting of the Council of Trustees.

Joanne E. McComb, associate professor in the Department of Health, Physical Education and Athletics since 1960, will retire June 20, 1986. She will complete 26 years at BU and 32 years in the field of education. In addition to her teaching assignments, for a number of years the Avonmore (PA) native coached BU's women's basketball team and earlier served as advisor to the cheerleading squad. Ms. McComb's current assignment has been associate director of athletics. She is the only qualified instructor to certify advanced lifeguard students.

Dr. Robert C. Miller, professor of curriculum and foundations, has been at BU since September 1961. Upon retiring in December 1985, he completed 24½ years at the university and 31½ years in the field of education. Miller came to Bloomsburg as director of student teaching. He consequently served as chairman, Department of Education and Psychology, dean of Graduate Studies, assistant dean of Academic Affairs, director of Federal Program Development and professor, Department of Educational Studies and Services. He served as a member of the President's Committee on Employment of the Handicapped in Washington, DC.

Dr. Matthew Zoppetti, professor of curriculum and foundations, will complete 17 years at BU and 30 years in education upon his retirement on June 14. Zoppetti came to the university in September 1969 as an associate professor of education. He has been a professor of educational media in the department of Educational Studies and Services and, more recently, a professor of instructional technology in the department of Curriculum and Foundations.

In addition to Miller, Faculty Emeritus Status has been conferred on five previously announced retirees. The names and retirement dates are: Ben C. Alter, December 1985; Dr. Julius R. Kroschewsky, May 1986;

Dr. John P. Master, June 1986; Dr. David A. Superdock, May 1986; and Dr. William S. Woznek, May 1986. Also, the honor was conferred on A.J. McDonnell, Jr., posthumously, effective November 1985.

Non-instructional retirees, their position, length of service and effective date were: Frank E. Billman, electrician, 17 yrs. 5 months, March 14, 1986; Fred C. Michael, utility plant operator II, 9 yrs. one month, March 28, 1986; Robert B. Stradling, utility plant operator I, 7 yrs. 10 months, March 28, 1986; and Charles E. Tyson, carpenter foreman I, 18 yrs. two months, January 17, 1986.

New faculty appointments

The appointments of new faculty members for the current semester at BU and for the start of the 1986-87 school year were announced at the April meeting of the Council of Trustees.

Appointed for the current semester were Mary Ann Cegielsky and Elaine K. Francis, instructors of nursing; Juan Jose Liebana, instructor of languages and cultures; and Constance C. Gaynor, instructor serving in the capacity of psychological counselor in the Center for Counseling and Human Development.

Five faculty members appointed for the 1986-87 academic year were: A. Alejandro Bernal, assistant professor of languages and cultures; Carol B. Burns, assistant professor of art; Edward D. Huthnance, associate professor of mathematics and computer science;

Mark R. Jelinek, assistant professor of music; and Lucille S. Rosholt, instructor of music.

Non-instructional appointments

New non-instructional appointments of area persons were announced at the BU quarterly meeting of the Council of Trustees on April 16.

Appointed were: Sheryl A. Eyer, Millville, clerk typist I in the College of Business; Jane C. Harrison, Bloomsburg, clerk typist I in Academic Affairs secretarial pool; Richard R. Bankes, Nescopeck, steam-fitter in Physical Plant Department; Drue H. Billig, Bloomsburg, custodial worker I in Physical Plant Department; William M. Flick, Bloomsburg, electrician in Physical Plant Department.

Neal K. Karns, Berwick, messenger in University Mail Room; Thomas E. Messinger, Watsontown, institutional maintenance superintendent II in Physical Plant Department; Georgia S. Ortman, Bloomsburg, switchboard operator in Communications Center; Sallie A. Samsel, Berwick, clerk I in Office of the Director of Physical Plant; Jere L. Vietz, Mifflinville, refrigeration mechanic in Physical Plant Department; Lucinda Harris, Orangeville, and Delores Hranitz, Danville, both as nurse I in Health Services Center.

Appointments of persons from outside of the greater Bloomsburg area include: Glenn A. Bieber, Salem (CT), computer systems analyst IV in Computer Services Center; Steven M. Boatman, Avis (PA), computer operator I in Computer Services Center; Janice L. Kirby, New Holland (PA), computer programmer II, Computer Services Center; and Rolene J. Wagner, Denville (NJ), physical therapist aid II in Health Services Center.

Lockwood, J.D., finance and business law, attended the Middle Atlantic Regional Business Law Association meeting in Pittsburgh on April 3-4 and presented a paper to one of their panels on educational issues on Friday, April 4, entitled "Getting Their Attention: Dispute Resolution in the Business Law Curriculum."

Key Camplese, associate professor and director of Counseling and Student Health Services, recently presented a lecture discussion entitled "Treatment Modalities for Students with Eating Disorders" at the Association of Counseling Center Faculty of the Pennsylvania State System of Higher Education. Also attending the annual meeting were psychological counselors Shell Lundahl (assistant professor) and Constance Gaynor (instructor) from the BU Counseling Center.

Bim Angst, English Department instructor, has articles forthcoming in three popular magazines. A humorous piece, "How to Survive This Wedding," will be published in Modern Bride. "Fitting a Maternity or Nursing Bra" is a service piece forthcoming in American Baby. If you like beans, or if you're sure you don't, look for Angst's "Gasless Beans" recipes in Women's Circle Home Cooking. The Schuylkill County Transportation System will feature one of Angst's poems on an illustrated placard this summer on its rural buses. Angst is also editing a cookbook.

Maintenance Center dedicated

Boyd F. Buckingham, vice president emeritus of Bloomsburg University, was honored on Saturday, June 7, when the university's campus maintenance center was dedicated as the Boyd F. Buckingham Campus Maintenance Center.

The structure was completed in April 1970 at a cost of $275,000. It is the headquarters for the Physical Plant Department, which has been involved in all aspects of the physical expansion of the campus and the maintenance and general appearance of the complete physical plant of the university. It also houses a computerized energy management system that achieves an annual cost avoidance of more than $300,000 a year.

The University Council of Trustees voted unanimously at the September 1985 quarterly meeting to name the building in Buckingham's honor. During the program, remarks concerning Buckingham were given by John Dorin, chairman, Council of Trustees; Nick Dietterick, director of public information;

Dr. C. Stuart Edwards, dean emeritus; Richard Benefield, president of Hotel Magee, Inc. and MIE Hospitality, Inc.; and Edward G. Edwards, executive vice president of Bloomsburg Area Chamber of Commerce.

Institutional Advancement Vice President John Walker presided at the ceremony. President Ausprich gave welcoming remarks and Protestant Campus Minister Greg Osterberg, the invocation.

Buckingham, a 1943 graduate of Bloomsburg State Teachers College gave his alma mater 28½ years of outstanding service in teaching, public relations, development, and fiscal administration.

Buckingham served as a member of the university's Department of Speech faculty from 1953 to 1955, as director of public relations from 1955 to 1965, director of development from 1965 to 1970, associate vice president for development and external relations from 1970 to 1974, and vice president for administration from 1974 until his until his retirement in December 1981.

From 1965 to 1974, when Buckingham served as director of development and associate vice president for development and external relations, he directed the most extensive physical plant expansion in the history of the university. Nineteen new buildings and other projects were added to the campus during this period at a cost of approximately $21 million. Buckingham's dedicated leadership during this expansion, resulted in the Bloomsburg University campus being recognized as one of the most attractive and best maintained in the State System of Higher Education.

In the community, Buckingham has served as president and board member of the Bloomsburg Area Chamber of Commerce; vice president and board member of the Bloomsburg Area Industrial Development Association; chairman and member of the Bloomsburg Town Planning Commission; and member of the Columbia County Housing and Redevelopment authorities.

Buckingham is a 33rd Degree Mason, affiliated with the Scottish and York Rite Masonic bodies, and has served as commander-in-chief of the Caldwell Consistory.

He was a 1974 recipient of the distinguished service award of the university Alumni Association and in 1980 received the Outstanding Citizen Award from the Bloomsburg Area Chamber of Commerce.

University Relations head named

Sheryl R. Bryson of the Public Affairs Office, East-West Center, Honolulu, Hawaii, is the new Director of University Relations at the university.

Following a national search, Bryson was appointed in mid-April and reported to her new position June 2. She replaces Jessie McCoy, who resigned in December to become assistant city planner at Chesapeake, Virginia.

"Sheryl Bryson is an excellent choice," comments BU president Harry Ausprich. "Not only is she well-qualified in general public relations endeavors, but she has special skills in writing, editing, management, teaching and research. She'll be a great asset to our Institutional Advancement team."

Bryson joined the East-West Center in July 1979 and became a senior editor in the Publications Office in 1982. In that capacity, she was in charge of publications for the Environment and Policy Institute and the Resource Systems Institute, along with supervising four other editors. In early 1985, she became head of the Publications Section in the Public Affairs Office. She has been supervising and directing the publications that describe the East-West Center and its work to a variety of audiences.

In addition to her duties at the East-West Center, from July 1979 to July 1980 she was associated with the University of Hawaii as an editor and writer with the Publications and Information Office. From 1982 through spring 1986, she lectured and taught a newswriting course each semester at the university.

After receiving her bachelor of arts degree in journalism from Drake University in Des Moines, Iowa, in 1967, Bryson earned her master of science degree in journalism and mass communication from Iowa State University in 1977 with a prize-winning thesis concerning readership of a special interest magazine.

From February 1968 to July 1970, she held positions as an assistant editor with Adhesives Age magazine in New York and as an editor with the Register and Tribune Syndicate of Des Moines.

Bryson was associated with Iowa State University for the next nine years. She started as an editor and proofreader with the institution's University Press and then joined the Department of Journalism and Mass Communication as a part-time instructor. She later became a graduate teaching assistant and later a full-time instructor. In her last year at Iowa State, she was associate editor and information specialist with the Iowa Agriculture and Home Economics Experiment Station.

In recent years, Bryson has been involved in several professional activities pertaining to her field and has published a variety of articles.

THANKS

Forensic Director Harry Strine expresses appreciation for the outstanding cooperation of the entire university community during the recent National Individual Speaking Championships hosted by BU.

CAMPUS CHILD CENTER

The Campus Child Center is presently accepting registrations for summer enrollment for the children of BU faculty, staff and students. Children between the ages of 2 and 10 are accepted for care. For information, contact the center at 389-4547.

LIKE PENNSYLVANIA --

SSHE students are more likely to remain in Pennsylvania after graduation. A Department of Education study indicates a 75% retention rate, contrasted by much lower percentages for other sectors.

In commenting on the appointment, President Harry Ausprich said, "George Mitchell brings excellent administrative and managerial skills to the position, as well as a strong commitment to the university's philosophy of providing equal educational and employment opportunity."

The 1970 Lycoming College sociology graduate has had a variety of positions in human resources management. He also has worked as a therapist and social worker and as an affirmative action specialist and awareness trainer with the Pennsylvania Power and Light Company.

Mitchell has experience writing and updating affirmative action programs; administering human relations and managerial training programs; offering advice relative to careers, jobs, housing and supervisor/supervisee conflicts; and participating in affirmative action grievance issues.

At Bloomsburg University, Mitchell monitors the affirmative action program as well as the university's compliance with the Rehabilitation Act of 1973.

Alumni Association honors five

Bloomsburg University's food service ambassador, Dominic Anthony Cusatis, alias "Tony the Baker," was honored along with four university alumni at the annual luncheon of the Alumni Association held in Scranton Commons June 7. Prior to the luncheon, the Alumni House was dedicated.

Cusatis was given an honorary alumnus award while Dr. Lee R. Beaumont, class of 1943, and Richard F. Laux, class of 1953, received Distinguished Service Awards and Dr. Robert E. Boose, class of 1968, and Jane E. Elmes, class of 1972, received Young Alumni of the Year awards.

Since coming to the campus over 25 years ago, Cusatis has survived three or four food service changes and has become a much-loved campus figure, not just for his culinary artist. The latter resulted his being called by everyone as "Tony the Baker."

Tony, who commutes from his home in Hazleton every day, loves telling people his feelings about BU. He has been active in university events. In the 1960's, he performed as the university's mascot and in 1978, he was Grand Marshall of the homecoming parade.

Beaumont served as an officer in the U.S. Army for 20 years. During that time, he wrote a textbook, "Military Typewriting," which was used by the Army to train thousands of typists.

Beaumont also worked as a professor at the University of Pittsburgh and at Indiana University of Pennsylvania and as a personnel officer for the Department of the Army in the Pentagon.

Laux, a resident of Dallas, PA, is chairman of the board and chief executive director officer at United Penn Bank in Wilkes-Barre.

He began his finance career as an assistant cashier with the Fort Lauderdale National Bank in 1956 and worked his way up from there.

Laux serves as director of the Bloomsburg University Foundation and as director and secretary of BU's College of Business Advisory board.

Boose, of Trenton, NJ, is deputy director of the New Jersey School Boards Association. He was Mercer County Superintendent of Schools and commissioner of the Maine Department of Educational and Cultural Services. Boose has appeared on the television program "60 Minutes."

Elmes, of Wilkes-Barre, is an assistant professor of speech, communication and theatre at Wilkes College. She was previously a teaching assistant and forensics coach at Ohio State University and was chairman of the department of speech, communication and theatre at Clarion State College.

On Saturday morning, the Alumni Association's Alumni House was dedicated. The house, bought by the association in April 1985, was the home of the late Dorothy John Dillon (class of 1924) and is located on Lightstreet Road, just east of the BU campus. The building houses the offices of the alumni association.

BU notes

Mary Lynn Kudey, Forty Fort, was appointed assistant registrar at the university effective May 27. Kudey had served as registrar at College Misericordia since August 1982 after earning her bachelor of science degree in business administration from King's College. She is a 1978 graduate of Bishop O'Reilly High School in Kingston.

G. Alfred Forsyth, Arts and Sciences dean, chaired a paper session entitled "Perception" at the recent annual meeting of the Eastern Psychological Association held in New York City. Presenting papers from the psychology department were: Eileen Astor-Stetson, "The Effects of Age and Brightness Contrast on Perception of the Wundt-Hering Illusion;" John S. Baird, Jr., "Faculty, Student and Administrator Attitudes on Student Evaluation of University Teaching;" Steven L. Cohen, "A Pharmacological Examination of the Resistance-to-Change Hypothesis of Response Strength: Manipulation of Rate of Reinforcement;" Alex Poplawsky, "Positive Conditioned Suppression Following Lateral, Medial, or Complete Septal Lesions in the Rat;" and Connie Schick, "Discriminant Analysis of the Ai3 Anality Scale: Beliefs Underlying the Type A Behavior Pattern."

George E. Stetson, assistant professor of Geography, has been elected to serve a three-year term on the Executive Council of the Pennsylvania Geographical Society. He was appointed at a recent joint meeting of the Pennsylvania Geographical Society, the Middle States Division of the Association of American Geographers, and the Delaware Valley Geographical Association held at East Stroudsburg University.

Michael Stenko, caseworker at the Area Agency on Aging, gave a presentation on the agency's functions to the students in Dr. Chang Shub Roh's Sociology of Aging class in the latter part of April. Stenko spoke to the the students on the various social services provided for senior citizens in the community.

Robert Watts, associate professor of Marketing, was honored recently at the American Marketing Association's National Student Convention in Chicago by receiving an Honorable Mention in the national competition for Faculty Advisor of the Year. More than 200 student chapters of the AMA may nominate their advisors. The first place winner was the University of Illinois and Professor Watts was the only recipient in the north-eastern part of the United States. As advisor to BU AMA, Professor Watts has been active since the chapter's inception in 1978.

Ten students, juniors and seniors, were inducted in the Tau Chapter of the International Economics Honor Society, Omicron Delta Epsilon (ODE) held during its April 23 induction ceremony in the Pennsylvania Room of Scranton Commons. BU President Harry Ausprich presented prizes and scrolls. Complementing the inductees on this occasion, Dr. Ausprich noted that Bloomsburg University and he personally stand committed to quality education. He advised them to continue to strive for excellence in their careers as well. This was the second induction ceremony during the current academic year; 16 students were inducted during the Fall semester. Drs. Ujagar Bawa and Saleem Khan are the faculty advisors to the ODE.

Dorin re-elected

John Dorin, mayor of Montoursville and an official of GTE Corporation, was re-elected chairman of the Council of Trustees of Bloomsburg University at the quarterly meeting on June 11.

Dorin was appointed a trustee by Governor Thornburgh in December 1983 and will be serving his third consecutive term as chairman. He is a senior buyer in purchasing management with the William-sport plant of GTE Corp.'s electronic component division. He has been employed at GTE since 1963. The Temple University graduate is also the mayor of Montoursville.

Stanley Rakowsky, superintendent of Clearfield High School, was re-elected vice chairman of the council and Ramona Alley of Berwick was re-elected secretary. Both were appointed trustees in 1983.

BBCT gives arts funds

The Bloomsburg Bank-Columbia Trust Co. has presented a gift of $10,000 to the Bloomsburg University Foundation toward a $250,000 Endowment for the Arts for the university's Celebrity Artist Series.

"We were particularly interested in supporting the university in this way because it is a very important cultural and economic resource to the region," bank president Edward Healy said.

"The Celebrity Artist program is of obvious benefit to the university and its students, the community and the region," he said, "because it brings to them fare that would not otherwise be available. It is an outstanding program with broad appeal for the community."

STEAM/ELEC. SHUTDOWNS

The total campus electrical shutdown is scheduled for Sunday, Aug. 24. The main switchgear will be repaired at this time.

The annual summer steam shutdown is scheduled to begin on first shift Sunday, Aug. 17, with a return to service during third shift Friday, Aug. 22.

DID YOU KNOW ...

The only groups who feel lonelier than college students are women high school seniors; low-income, single, adolescent mothers; and alcoholics. A study spanning 20 years found that college freshmen feel lonelier than almost any other group, reports the University of Nebraska at Lincoln. (From AASCU)

SERS OFFICE HOURS

The State Employees' Retirement System Montoursville office will no longer be open on Tuesday and Thursday evenings. Office hours now are Monday through Friday 8 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. Evening hour appointments may still be arranged by calling 1-800-654-9853 or 717-363-8655.

Assistant development director named

Susan M. Mitchell, an employee of the Berwick Hospital Corporation since 1982, has been appointed to the new position of assistant director of development. She will begin her new duties in August.

Mitchell has been program director of healthworks for Berwick Hospital Corp. since March 1986. She previously served as coordinator of industrial services for more than two years and was a public relations assistant for nearly a year and a half.

In making the announcement of the appointment, BU Development Director Anthony Ianiero said, "The experience Ms. Mitchell has had over the past four years has given her a broad background in public relations and development. We'll be able to utilize her many talents to help attain both our short range and long range goals in development for the university."

Mitchell, a New Jersey native, graduated from BU in 1982 with a business education degree in office administration. During the past three years, she has attended numerous seminars pertaining to her position with the Berwick Hospital Corporation.

Her professional associations include National Center for Health Education, National Wellness Association, the American Association of University Women, and the Berwick Hospital Corp. Federal Credit Union (president 1985-86, vice president 1983-84).

Courses merge to form mass comm. department

Courses from two existing departments have been merged to form a new department of mass communications here. The move combines journalism courses from the department of English with mass communications courses from the department of communication studies.

The seven-member faculty elected John Maittlen-Harris chairman of the new department, which began formally July 1. Maittlen-Harris, an Australian, joined BU's department of English in September last year after four years at Southwest Texas State University in San Marcos, Texas, as a visiting professor in international journalism.

The new department will limit enrollments to 225 mass communications majors but also will provide all required service courses in mass communications to other departments, Maittlen-Harris said.

The department will offer three major sequences in mass communications: journalism, telecommunications/film, and public relations/advertising.

The university foundation was reactivated by Ausprich in 1986 to secure private funds for the university to enhance its capabilities as an institution of higher learning and as a resource to the community and the region. Richard Benefield, vice president and general manager of the Hotel Magee, is chairman of the BU Foundation.

METERED MAIL

Effective July 1, all mail to be metered by the university post office must have a five-digit cost center in the upper left corner of the envelope. This cost center is used to store usage records. All mail submitted for postage without cost center information will be opened and returned to the sender.

DID YOU KNOW ...

There is a severe shortage of business-school faculty members, according to a recent survey by the American Assembly of Collegiate Schools of Business. The shortage is caused by a surging demand for business education and an increase in the number of professors retiring or taking jobs outside academe. (From AASCU)

Between 1974 and 1984, the percentage of part-time students, minorities, and adult students enrolled in higher education nationally increased considerably, and Bloomsburg University showed even greater gains in these areas. The enrollment of women in higher education nationally increased at a rate nine times greater than that of men; at BU, the increase in women was less than the national figures, while the increase in men was higher. The chart here shows the percentage increases among different categories of students nationally and for BU for the 1974-84 period.

National data by race and age are derived from the U.S. Census Bureau Series P-20, No. 404. Other national statistics are from the fall enrollment surveys of the Department of Education's Center for Statistics. BU statistics were compiled in the Office of Institutional Planning, Research and Information Management.

In addition to her coaching responsibilities, Gardner has been the university's Director of Aquatics, handling the direction of both the Nelson Fieldhouse natatorium as well as the Centennial Gymnasium pool and Bloomsburg's extensive recreational swimming and diving activities. For the past four years, she has been the Director of Equal Opportunity in Sports (DEOS) at the university.

A native of Hatboro, Penna., she received both her bachelor of science and master of education degrees at East Stroudsburg University.

DID YOU KNOW ...

The total cost of attending a public college rose 34.1 percent between the 1981-82 and the 1985-86 academic year, according to the Student Loan Marketing Association's "Sallie Mae Report." The total cost rose from an average $3,987 in 1981-82 to $5,346 in 1985-86. Total costs for private colleges rose 39.3 percent from $7,471 to $10,410. The increases generally surpassed the rise in consumer prices by two to one. (From AASCU)

ART PROGRAM EXHIBIT

An exhibition from BU's summer art program students will be shown until July 31 in the presidents' lounge of Kehr Union. Coordinator for the exhibition is Professor Kenneth Wilson, Jr., instructor of painting and drawing in the BU art department.

Pollard, Bloomsburg, has been promoted from police officer I to police officer II supervisory.

Karen L. Henrie, Berwick, has been hired as a clerk stenographer I in the University Relations Office for the period June 25-Oct. 2, 1986 to fill a position vacated by an employee on leave.

SUMMER HONORS HERE

Thirty students, sponsored by all 14 universities in the State System of Higher Education, arrived on campus July 6 to begin six weeks of study on the theme "Cultures in Conflict: An Examination of Arab-Israli Relations." This special Summer Honors Program includes courses, workshops, trips, cultural activities, and seminars.

DID YOU KNOW ...

High school seniors used college publications more than any other source of information to decide on a college, according to a Carnegie Foundation for Advancement of Teaching survey. Of the 1,000 students surveyed, 95 percent reported using college publications, but only 37 percent thought they were important.

Students felt the campus visit was the most useful in helping them decide on a college. (From the American Association of State Colleges and Universities)

McComb retires

Joanne McComb ended 26 years of service to BU when she retired as associate athletic director June 20.

McComb joined the university's Health and Physical Education staff in September 1960 and served in numerous capacities prior to succeeding Eleanor Wray as the athletic department's associate director in 1977.

She oversaw the eight varsity programs for women and assisted Athletic Director Roger Sanders in administering the budget for the 18 varsity sports.

McComb was the Huskies' first varsity women's basketball coach beginning in 1970 and served in that capacity for six seasons. She was one of the leaders in the formation of a women's varsity athletic program in the late 1960's.

McComb also served as the cheerleading adviser for seven years; adviser to the "B" club, a women's varsity organization; and as a faculty representative to the Community Government Association.

McComb, who played professional baseball in 1950 in the All-American Women's Professional Baseball League, was instrumental in the formation of the current Pennsylvania Conference Softball Championship.

She is a 1954 graduate of Slippery Rock and received her Master's Degree in 1966 from Penn State University.

Black freshmen enrollment up

First-time enrollment of black college freshmen was up by five at BU during the 1985-86 academic year, according to the Pennsylvania State System of Higher Education (SSHE). Officials reported a 17 percent increase for the 13 predominantly white universities in the system, from 721 in 1984-85 to 843 in 1985-86. Freshmen enrollment increases were reported at all but three of the 13 universities, ranging from four to 48 new students; decreases were from three to 14 students.

"The commitment to develop even better recruitment strategies among the state-owned universities is genuine," said

James H. McCormick, SSHE chancellor. "Every effort within our means is being undertaken to attract black students to our 14 universities."

System officials note that the total population of Hispanic students increased from 353 in 1984-85 to 377 in 1985-86.

Softball all-stars named

Four members of the 1986 Bloomsburg University women's softball team were named recently to the All-Pennsylvania Conference All-Star Team. First baseman Jean Millen (Whitehall), third baseman Kathy Berry (Port Royal), right fielder Suzanne Luna (Kendall Park, N.J.) and Susan Kocher (Camp Hill) were all selected.

BANK IN BU STORE

Starting with the fall semester, Commonwealth Bank and Trust Company of WilliamSPORT will open a new branch inside the university store-- offering complete banking service with the exception of safe deposit boxes. Included in the new branch will be three teller windows and a desk area to handle new accounts and loan requests. Scheduled to be open from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m. Monday through Friday, the branch bank is expected to have at least two people in the office daily. However, during busy times at the university, such as during class registration periods, up to four people will be working in the book store branch bank.

Personnel post to Cunningham

J. David Cunningham of Washington, D.C., has been named director of personnel and labor relations, effective Aug. 1, according to Robert Parrish, vice president for administration.

Cunningham is currently director of the academic collective bargaining information service, Labor Studies

Center, and associate professor at the University of the District of Columbia, Washington, D.C.

He gained his personnel experience when he served as assistant to the vice president for administration and finance in the personnel services office at the University of Oregon, Eugene, Ore.

He was an assistant professor and chairman of the Division of Social Science and Fine Arts at Central Oregon Community College, Bend, Ore., and an instructor and chairman of the department of social science and history at Mount Angel College, Mount Angel, Ore.

He is a labor relations consultant and has authored numerous publications and research studies.

Cunningham received his bachelor's and master's degrees from the University of South Dakota and his Ph.D. from the University of Oregon.

In addition to his practical capabilities in the personnel administration discipline, Cunningham brings a fresh perspective to this function as a result of his years of faculty experience, Parrish said.

Huskies active even in summer

Although this is the off-season for all BU sports, coaches are still busy training athletes in the finer aspects of their respective sports. No, Bloomsburg is not doing anything illegal. Instead of coaching teams, BU coaches have been working with athletes from "Husky Camps."

More than 450 youths have already attended nine camps and close to 1,000 are expected to take advantage of the other 15, which run throughout Aug. 13.

Three tennis camps, under the direction of head coach Burt Reese, took place in June and early July, with a junior tennis tournament to be held from July 13 to 16. Thirty competitors are expected to compete in the four-day tournament.

Four wrestling camps have also been completed, including the annual father-son camp. A fifth camp will take place July 21-25. Under the direction of wrestling coach Roger Sanders, the junior wrestlers received training from several collegiate coaches and wrestlers. Olympic champion Bobby Weaver (1984) also was a guest clinician.

University of North Carolina basketball star Jeff Lebo was a guest lecturer at one of two already completed basketball camps. Lebo demonstrated ball handling skills to the more than 100 campers. Another basketball camp will take place from July 20 to 25.

Soccer coach Steve Goodwin will greet over 90 participants for two weeks of instruction. Camps will be July 20-25 and July 27-Aug. 1.

The Husky football camp, under the direction of new head football coach Pete Adrian, will take place July 27-31. The camp will be run by Adrian and the rest of the new coaching staff and a few guests.

Although the field hockey camp is not scheduled to begin until Aug. 3, it is already filled. Two hundred campers will spend four days under coach Jan Hutchinson, who has led Bloomsburg to state and national titles.

Hutchinson will also be in charge of a softball camp being held July 13-17.

Other sports camps will include: swimming, diving, and track and field. Other camps will be offered in drill team and cheerleading. There will also be a day camp from July 21 to July 25.

SSHE BOG MEMBERS REAPPOINTED

Four members of the Board of Governors for the Pennsylvania State System of Higher Education have been reappointed. to serve a second term on the governing board of the commonwealth's 14 publicly owned universities. Their terms will expire on December 31, 1988.

Miss Rebecca F. Gross, Lock Haven; Mr. Floyd M. Mains, Shippensburg; Mrs. Eve Y. Murphy, Erie; and Mr. J. Edwards Smith III, Lancaster, all have received confirmation

GIFT TO TOWN

For the tenth consecutive year, BU has made a contribution of $9,600 to the Town of Bloomsburg to be used to amortize bonds or other indebtedness incurred in purchasing the aerial ladder truck used in fire fighting or rescue operations in high-rise buildings on campus.

Retirees' service totals 144 years

The retirements of five faculty members and a non-instructional employee with a total of 144 years of service were announced at the quarterly meeting of the Council of Trustees in June.

Completing 26 years at BU at his retirement date in May was James B. Creasy, professor of accounting and a former assistant to the president.

Margaret J. Long, associate professor of business education and office administration, joined the staff in September, 1961 and completed 25 years of service, retiring May 9.

Eli McLaughlin's effective retirement day was June 20. The associate professor of health, physical education, and athletics also coached men's swimming and previously was an assistant football coach. He completed 25 years at BU.

Dr. Joseph P. Vaughn, professor of biological and allied health services, completed 19 years of service at the university in May.

Robert G. Davenport retired May 24 as an associate professor and counselor in the Center for Counseling and Human Development and Health Services. He completed 25 years at BU.

The retirement of non-instructional employee A. Patricia Mosier, library assistant I, was effective March 21. She completed 24 years and one month service at the university.

NOTES

Dale L. Sultzbaugh, A.C.S.W., assistant professor of Sociology/Social Welfare, recently presented three community in-service-training workshops: "Structural Family Therapy" for the staff of the Columbia-Sullivan County Head Start Program; and "Confidentiality Issues and Case Recording Effectiveness" for the staff of the Northumberland County Area Agency on Aging in Shamokin.

Bill Adams, a member of the BU baseball team, was selected recently to the NCAA Division II Eastern Regional second team.

An article by Riley B. Smith, associate professor of English, entitled "Standard and Disparate Varieties of English in the United States: Educational and Sociopolitical Implications" (co-authored with Donald M. Lance, University of Missouri, Columbia), was reprinted in January in a textbook collection of articles edited by Harold B. Allen and Michael D. Linn, both of the University of Minnesota. The book, titled "Dialect and Language Variation," is published by Academic Press, Orlando, Fla. (1986).

Outreach specialist Pat Deibert of the Educational Opportunity Center, was recently honored for academic achievement and for her involvement in extra-curricular activities at BU. She received the Service Key Award and a Who's Who Certificate at a luncheon held to honor her and other student award winners. Pat graduated magna cum laude in May.

Iva Mae and Bill Beckley would like to inform all of their friends of their recent move to 2100 Indian Creek Boulevard E, Apartment A223, Vero Beach, FL 32960. Friends are welcome to drop them a line or stop in to see them.

FOOD SERVICE REQUESTS

Donald E. Hock, director of Budget and Administrative Services, reminds all departments to submit food service requests for every event, including refreshments for a meeting, luncheons, banquets, or candidates being taken to lunch. Please submit the paperwork to insure that the service is approved and payment can be made on a timely basis. Any department that has not submitted a food service request and has returned its food service receipt form to the Budget Office will be charged. Those who have followed the procedures will not be penalized.

Business leaders honored

Two local business leaders were among 24 from throughout the Commonwealth who were recognized recently by the Pennsylvania State System of Higher Education (SSHE) for their contributions to higher education.

James Magee, Magee Industrial Enterprises, and Herbert Hasson, Milco Industries, Inc., both of Bloomsburg, were honored.

Clifford L. Jones, president of the Pennsylvania Chamber of Commerce, addressed the group which included the businessmen, university presidents, and legislators from the university districts. Jones reviewed problems currently being experienced by manufacturers in the state and suggested areas in which the State System could assist in solving those problems.

Pantaleo named interim provost, VP; Jones to SSHE

Daniel C. Pantaleo, dean of the College of Graduate Studies and Extended programs, is the interim provost and vice president for academic affairs effective Aug. 1. The appointment is effective through the 1986-87 academic year. Pantaleo replaced Larry Jones, who relinquished the position to begin a special administrative assignment with the State System of Higher Education.

President Harry Ausprich said: "Dr. Pantaleo is a fine academician and has served Bloomsburg University with distinction for nearly 10 years. His accomplishments reflect the strong faculty and administrative staff we are fortunate to have at Bloomsburg. His credentials are excellent and his leadership skills exceptional. I look forward to working with him in this capacity in the coming year."

Pantaleo will serve as provost and academic vice president while a national search is conducted.

Pantaleo came to Bloomsburg in 1977 as an

GRANT WILL HELP MATH, SCIENCE TEACHER TRAINING

The College of Professional Studies at Bloomsburg University recently received an $84,000 grant from the Pennsylvania Department of Education to retrain secondary teachers for certification in mathematics and science.

Howard Macauley, dean of the college of professional studies, said the project will enable teachers who presently hold certification in other areas to retrain as math and science teachers.

College Sampler brings talented blacks to BU

Thirty-two students from eastern and central Pennsylvania and Delaware attended the third annual College Sampler Program here in July.

The program gives academically talented black students who have completed their junior year in high school and plan to attend college a one-week sampler of college experiences on the Bloomsburg campus.

Sampler students, invited because of their impressive

PSAT scores as juniors in high school, experience a variety of college activities. They take such courses as fine arts experience and intercultural communications that are taught by outstanding professors. They also learn about dormitory life, jobs after graduation, finding the right college, financing their education, human genetics managing their time, the capitalistic system and more.

assistant professor of chemistry. In August of 1980, he was appointed dean of the School of Extended Programs and has been dean of extended programs and graduate studies since 1982. He served as acting associate vice president for academic affairs during the 1984-85 academic year.

Prior to coming to Bloomsburg, he was a Fulbright lecturer attached to the Science Education Center at the University of Philippines for six months. From 1970 to 1976, he was a chemistry professor at Floyd Junior College in the University System of Georgia, Rome, Ga.

Pantaleo received his bachelor of science degree in chemistry from Manhattan College, New York City, in June 1966. He received his doctorate in chemistry from Emory University, Atlanta, Ga., in 1970. He has completed post-doctoral courses along with research projects at Georgia State University and Louisiana State University.

He has served as an institutional representative to the National University Continuing Education Association and to the Center for the Advancement of Experiential Learning. His professional associations include membership in the Pennsylvania Association of Deans of Continuing Education of which he was vice president in 1981-82 and president 1982-83.

His writings have appeared in publications throughout the state and nation. He has attended a variety of meetings and conferences pertaining to his field, many at which he presented papers.

Among the many contributions he has made to the management and academics in graduate studies and extended programs over the past six years were the implementation of the first courses-by-television offered by the institution and the acquisition of a $26,000 state grant for a model project in rural adult basic education.

Over the past 10 years, he has made more than 380 presentations to educational, civic, and community groups on subjects including continuing education, astronomy, and chemistry.

SMS GIVES COMPUTER

For the third consecutive year, Shared Medical Systems of Malvern, Pa., has given Bloomsburg University an IBM PC XT personal computer system with a graphic printer and color monitor valued at nearly $7000. SMS is a world-wide leading supplier of information processing systems for the medical health care industry.

The two previous gifts have been used by students, faculty, and staff members of the university's computer center. This year's equipment will be shared jointly by the office of career development and placement and the office of cooperative education.

For the first time in the history of BU, the bachelor of science degree in interpreter training and the master of science degree in nursing will be awarded to Elizabeth H. Antram, Lock Haven, and Loreen G. Comstock, R.D.#5, Bloomsburg, respectively.

Sojka, a native of Cedar Rapids, Iowa, received his bachelor's degree in 1962 from Coe College, Iowa, where he was a George W. Bryant Scholar. He earned both his master's and doctoral degrees in microbiology at Purdue University.

Sojka assumed the presidency of Bucknell University in August 1984.

E-Z COME, E-Z GO

The six new E-Z Go utility carts buzzing around campus these days were leased this summer to replace five golf carts that were traded in according to Don McCulloch, director of the physical plant and energy management. The vehicles are being used by Physical Plant and the Athletic Department personnel, with the Athletic Department paying the lease fees for two of the carts during the sports season when they use them for hauling equipment. Physical plant personnel using the carts include the locksmith, a preventative maintenance person, the grounds crews and plumbers, McCulloch said.

Abell to serve as acting dean of college

John H. Abell, assistant dean of extended programs at Bloomsburg University, will serve as acting dean of the College of Graduate Studies and Extended Programs until July 1987. The announcement was made by Daniel C. Pantaleo, interim provost and vice president for academic affairs.

Abell is filling Pantaleo's former position while a national search is being conducted for a new provost and academic vice president. The position of assistant dean for extended programs, temporarily vacated by Abell, will be filled through an internal search.

In his new position, Abell will be assisted in academic matters related to the graduate area by Charles Carlson, assistant vice president for academic affairs. "This arrangement allows maximum continuity, minimizes disruption during the interim period, and builds upon Mr. Abell's present duties in both the graduate and extended programs areas," Pantaleo said.

Abell came to the university as director of housing in August 1973 and was promoted to assistant dean of extended programs in July 1982. Since 1978 he has been director of conferences on campus.

He earned both his bachelor of arts degree in history and government and his master of education degree in counseling and student personnel from St. Lawrence University (N.Y.). He has taken additional graduate courses at Bucknell University and is currently enrolled in a doctoral program at Temple University.

Abell has served on numerous college and university committees and town boards and committees.

During the past three years, Abell has participated in a number of national conferences, seminars, and workshops pertaining to his field of continuing education. His most recent activity was attendance at the May 1986 National Conference on the Adult Learner at the University of South Carolina where he presented a paper in conjunction with BU deans G. Alfred Forsyth of the College of Arts and Sciences and Pantaleo.

Wanzie leaves BU for SSHE job

Mary A. Wanzie, acting director of personnel here from August 1985 to July 31, 1986, has transferred to the Human Resources Division of the State System of Higher Education in Harrisburg.

In her new position as labor relations coordinator, Wanzie will be involved in faculty third-step grievance processing, contract interpretation, and assisting in arbitration.

Wanzie came to BU in 1970 and held stenographer positions in the vice president offices for academic affairs and administration before going to the personnel office in May 1974. She has served as a personnel assistant II and personnel analyst I and II. She previously was acting director of personnel from August 1982 to June 1983.

We wish Mary the very best in her new endeavor.

STUDENT SICKNESS POLICY

Effective July 21, 1986, the Health Center is now in charge of the accident and sickness policy for university students. Questions about insurance should be directed to the office in McCormick Human Services Center, according to Gerald Griffis, vice president for student life.

Buckalew will get new siding

Bloomsburg University this month will begin the exterior renovation of Buckalew Place, home to nine BU presidents since 1903.

Buckalew is the oldest structure on the campus and predates even Carver Hall, which was constructed in 1867. The residence, built originally by Pennsylvania and U.S. Sen. Charles R. Buckalew between 1850 and 1860, is soon to be nominated for placement on the Pennsylvania Inventory and the National Register of Historic Places, according to Robert J. Parrish, vice president for administration.

The renovation will include the replacement of the 130-year-old German-style wood siding. Parrish said the new siding will be a reproduction of the original to preserve the architectural integrity of the building. The siding replacement will allow for insulation to be placed in the sidewalls, making the building more energy efficient, he said. Energy costs will be reduced by as much as 20 percent, Parrish estimates.

The $24,600 project is expected to be completed by late August.

This restoration phase follows the 1985 restoration, which included interior decorating, painting and carpeting. The university's Council of Trustees initiated that project in anticipation of President Harry Ausprich's arrival last July.

Schwimmer dies

Bloomsburg University associate professor Seymore Schwimmer died unexpectedly July 16 at Presbyterian University of Pennsylvania Hospital in Philadelphia while awaiting heart tests.

He taught philosophy at BU for 21 years. "He was one of our most caring faculty," said G. Alfred Forsyth, dean of the College of Arts and Sciences. Forsyth described Professor Schwimmer as "a probing, question-asking person who always wanted to uncover the underlying logic behind things."

Mr. Schwimmer was co-author of "The Economic Almanac 1958" and he co-authored scholarly papers in both philosophy and mathematics.

At his death, he was chairing his department's program evaluation.

He is survived by his widow, Ruth, and two sons.

TV BULLETIN BOARD NEEDS INFO.

A "Bulletin Board" announcing events and programs on the Bloomsburg University campus will be aired on channel 13, cable TV, as part of the programming arranged by the university's television services department and Service Electric Cable Co. of Bloomsburg.

Please send notices about upcoming events and programs of interest to the community, to the University Relations office, where the information will be compiled for TV services. Notice of date or time changes or cancellations should be forwarded to University Relations as soon as possible.

Brasch, Ulloth publish book

BU associate professors Walter Brasch and Dana Ulloth are co-authors of "The Press and the State: Sociohistorical and Contemporary Interpretations," published by the University Press of America, Inc. The text traces the relationship between media and the state from the controversial thoughts of King Urukagina in the 24th century, B.C., to the present.

The 800-page book, due out this month, contains in-depth examinations of many state-press issues, including shield laws, the Freedom of Information Act, obscenity, censorship, sedition, libel, licensing, print/broadcast differences, classification of information, conflicts between free press and fair trial, defamation, and governmentally imposed access. Parts of the book contain specially commissioned articles from some of the profession's leading scholars, government officials, and journalists.

Rider named director of swimming, diving

David Rider, head swimming and diving coach at Norwin (Pa.) High School for the past eight years, has been named director of aquatics at Bloomsburg University.

The 39-year-old resident of Greensburg replaces Mary Gardner, who resigned the position recently to assume the duties of associate athletic director at BU.

Rider will serve as head coach of the Huskies men's and women's swimming and diving programs as well as oversee the daily operations of the university's two pool facilities.

While at Norwin, he served as both the men's and women's coach and established a combined dual meet record of 159-63-3. His 1982 women's squad captured the Pennsylvania Interscholastic Athletic Association (PIAA) state championship, and his men's unit was the PIAA runnerup in 1984. During Rider's tenure, 61 performers earned All-State honors and 16 competitors gained All-American status.

Previously, he taught in the North Allegheny (Pa.) School District, where he developed and administered the community's aquatic program. Rider was the school's men's swimming coach for two seasons from 1977 to 1978, compiling a 20-2 mark while handling 15 All-State and two All-American swimmers. He was the founder and coach of the Allegheny North Swim Club.

From 1972 to 1974, he was on the staff at the Sewickley (Pa.) YMCA and served with the Peace Corps in Morocco from 1968 to 1971.

Rider received his bachelor's degree in Near Eastern archaeology from the University of Chicago in 1968. He was a member of the school's varsity swimming and water polo teams. His physical education certification was awarded in 1973 at Slippery Rock and his master of science degree in sports sciences at Indiana University of Pennsylvania in 1986.

BU '86 SOFTBALL IN FINAL FOUR

A quick glance at the final NCAA Division II softball statistics shows why BU was so successful in 1986. The Huskies posted a school-record mark of 42-5, won their fourth straight Pennsylvania Conference and made a first-ever appearance in the national "final four" this past season. In the statistics, which were released in the July 16 edition of The NCAA News, Coach Jan Hutchinson's team appeared among the leaders in 10 of the 13 categories.

Vienna Choir Boys, Sept. 2 thru Oct. 10; Chorus Line, Oct. 13 thru 22; Hal Holbrook, Oct. 23 thru Nov. 5; San Francisco Opera, Oct. 23 thru Nov. 11.

Tickets must be picked up by the card holder.

Christy is new admissions director

James P. Christy, director of admissions at Gannon University, is the new director of admissions at Bloomsburg University.

Christy assumed his new position July 21, replacing Bernard J. Vinovrski, who resigned to accept a similar position at Wilkes College.

One of Christy's prime responsibilities is to supervise the university's student marketing program that includes every facet of student recruitment and selection.

"We're fortunate to have attracted a person with Mr. Christy's strong admissions background," said Tom L. Cooper, dean of enrollment management. "I am optimistic our admissions program will continue to flourish under his leadership."

After receiving his bachelor's degree in psychology from Wheeling (W. Va.) College in 1974, Christy earned his master's degree in counseling in higher education from Kutztown University in August 1976.

He was appointed admissions director at Gannon in July 1983. The three previous years, he was director of admissions at Mount Saint Mary College in Newburgh, N.Y. He also had served as an admissions counselor at Temple University and Allentown College of St. Francis de Sales.

Christy was named one of the Outstanding Young Men of America in 1981. In 1983, he was again nominated for the honor.

He holds memberships in a number of national, state and regional associations pertaining to his field of admissions and counseling.

SUTLIFF CONTRACT COMING

BU administrators hope to have a contract in place by early October for the renovations of Sutliff Hall, according to Don McCulloch, director of the physical plant. "We're trying to move as quickly as possible," he says.

Work on the building, which will house the College of Business, will include replacing the windows and roof, rewiring, and installing a new phone system, heating, and air conditioning. An elevator also will be added.

The first floor will house classrooms and labs, and the second floor will contain 50 offices. The state capital budget approved by the governor this summer includes $55,000 for equipment and furniture for the renovated building. Sutliff should be ready for use by fall 1987, McCulloch says.

BU NOTES

Peggy Bailey, BU grants director and project director for one of the largest Green Thumb Programs in Pennsylvania, has been cited for her leadership in gaining national publicity for America's older workers by developing a special television documentary, "Rural America: Coming of Age."

Bailey also has been named chairman of the Pennsylvania Green Thumb Advisory Committee, representing over 1,000 older workers in rural communities across the state.

Colleen J. Marks and Judith M. Hirshfeld, both of the department of communication disorders and special education, had an article published recently in The Journal of the Pennsylvania Speech-Language-Hearing Association. The article was titled "Issues and Concerns of Pennsylvania Educators of the Hearing Impaired."

Barbara Behr, department of finance and business law, served as volume editor of the "1986 American Business Law Association District One Proceedings," which was recently published under the auspices of Bloomsburg University and the Mid-Atlantic Business Law Association.

John Trathen, director of student activities and Kehr Union, had an article titled "Undergraduate Assistant Managers: Bloomsburg University Internships Providing Expert Assistance" published in the August 1986 issue of College Services Administration journal.

Hank Bailey, director of the center for instructional systems development, recently made three presentations: "A University Model for Developing Interactive Videodisc Courseware" for the Macademia '86 at Princeton University, "Developmental Partnership Between the University and Medical Center" at the University of Tennessee, and "Developing a Unique Education and Training Model Using Interactive Videodisc Learning Systems" at the University of Heidelberg, Germany. The latter paper was co-authored with Kalyan Ghosh, vice provost and associate vice president for academic affairs.

Dale L. Sultzbaugh, A.C.S.W., assistant professor of sociology/social welfare, recently presented three community in-service training workshops: "Structural Family Therapy" for the staff of the Family Counseling Agency in Bloomsburg; "A Problem-Solving Approach to Federal Budget Cuts" for the staff of the Columbia-Sullivan County Head Start Program; and "Confidentiality Issues and Case Recording Effectiveness" for the staff of the Northumberland County Area Agency on Aging in Shamokin.

OLD SCIENCE RENOVATION

Bids should be let in late spring and a contract signed early next summer for the renovation of Science Hall, according to Don McCulloch, director of the physical plant and energy management. Architectural submissions are currently being reviewed, he said.

The one-year project will include total renovation of the building, using some existing walls. The building will house offices for art, history, music, and language faculty plus classrooms, labs, and large lecture rooms.

LYONS ON CHANNEL 16

Financial Aid Director Tom Lyons will be a guest on "Viewpoint" on WNEP, Channel 16, Sunday, Aug. 17 from 12:30 p.m. to 1:30 p.m. Lyons will discuss financial aid.

New appointments announced

President Harry Ausprich has announced the following appointments for the 1986-87 academic year: Wallace S. Woodard, Ph.D., was named psychological counselor in the center for counseling and human development with the rank of associate professor. For the past 14 years he has held a similar position at Florida State University. He earned his B.S. degree in music at West Virginia State College, his M.A. degree in guidance from Western Michigan University and his doctorate in counselor education at Ohio State University.

Karl E. Havens, III, was appointed assistant professor of biological and allied health sciences. During the past year he has been a visiting assistant professor at West Virginia University. He earned his B.A. degree in biology at State University of New York at Buffalo and both his M.S. and Ph.D. degrees in biology from West Virginia University.

Gary Kreisler, Berwick, will be a computer programmer II in the computer services center. This is a temporary appointment effective through Oct. 2, 1987.

Gail Berwick, Berwick, has been appointed a clerk-stenographer I in the office of institutional planning, research and information management. She replaces Sharon Swank who is transferring to the nursing department.

Janet Hutchinson was re-appointed head field hockey and head softball coach.

Appointed as full-time assistant football coaches were Vincent Sinagra and Joseph Viadella, Jr. Raymond Ricketts, III, was re-appointed as full-time assistant basketball coach. Part-time assistant football coach appointments include David Fortunato and Frank Williams. Denise Whitfield was named head cheerleading coach and Tina Souders assistant softball coach. James Padglick will be both assistant cross country coach and assistant track and field coach.

Lucille Ruckle will serve as a clerk-typist I in the office of the vice President for administration through Jan. 30, 1987, while Evanna Nolte is on maternity leave.

Janice Phillips has been transferred from temporary to permanent computer programmer II in the computer services center.

BU to be on cable television

BU's television services department has finalized an agreement with Service Electric Cable Co. in Bloomsburg to provide programming two hours a week in one-hour time slots on cable channel 13, according to Tom Joseph, director of BU's TV services. The first programming will be a replay of the summer graduation exercises Aug. 14 to air Sept. 9 from 1 p.m. to 2 p.m. and Sept. 10 from 9 p.m. to 10 p.m. University-produced programs will fill those time slots every week after that, Joseph said.

Other programming by the university will include student productions from class projects and a campus bulletin board containing BU event information and notices, he said.

BU HELPS CONSERVE ENERGY

Bloomsburg University is helping two schools in the Danville School District conserve energy by monitoring and regulating their heating, ventilating and air condition equipment by computerization.

Equipment in the Mahoning Cooper and F.W. Diehl schools is hooked into BU's highly sophisticated Powers 600 Energy Management System and is then monitored and regulated to supply energy necessary during high and low periods of school operations and functions, said Donald McCulloch, director of Physical Plant and Energy Management.

Five capital projects for BU okayed by governor

Five capital projects for BU passed by the legislature and approved by the governor this summer include:

- $1.4 million for a new boiler that can handle the university's needs in the summer and act as a supplementary unit in the winter.

- $840,000 to complete the second phase of a project to assure access for the handicapped.

- $221,000 for safety improvements to the rigging and electrical system in Mitrani Hall in the Haas Center for the Arts.

- $961,000 to install elevators in Carver Hall,

Haas, Navy Hall, and the Ben Franklin Building.

- $55,000 for furniture and other equipment for Sutliff Hall.

Two projects passed by the legislature but cut by Gov. Dick Thornburgh were $316,000 for storm sewers to relieve longstanding drainage problems in streets and properties below campus and $3.7 million to renovate Centennial Gymnasium. BU's single biggest request, a $7.87 million expansion of Harvey Andruss Library, was cut by the legislature before the budget reached the governor's desk.

High placement of grads continues

Bloomsburg University continues its high placement rate of graduates, Thomas Davies, director of the career development center, reports. For the seventh consecutive year, over 80 percent of our yearly graduates have been placed in either meaningful and/or professional positions," he said. Davies' most recent report covers 1104 graduates in the December 1984 and May and August 1985 classes, 20 graduates were not available, and of the 1084 questioned, 883 were placed for 81.4 percent.

One hundred eleven are continuing their education in graduate school on a full-time basis while 23 have entered the armed forces.

"There were 41 for which we had no information," Davies said. "If they were deleted from the report, the placement percentage would rise to 84.6 percent."

The College of Business had the largest number of graduates, with 456, and 390 were placed for 86 percent. "We're fortunate in having several nationally and internationally known companies that employ our business graduates year after year," Davies noted.

The College of Professional Studies graduated 330, with 250 or 78.6 percent being placed. The College of Arts and Sciences had 243 placed of its 318 graduates for 77.6 percent.

Carlson, Abell fill new posts

Charles Carlson, assistant vice president for academic affairs, and John Abell, assistant dean of extended programs, have agreed to a realignment of responsibilities previously assigned to them, Daniel Pantaleo, interim provost and vice president for academic affairs, has announced. Carlson will serve as acting dean of the School of Graduate Studies, and Abell will be acting dean of the School of Extended Programs. They will serve in their new capacities until July 1987.

Carlson and Abell are filling the combined deanship formerly held by Pantaleo. A national search is being conducted for a new provost and academic vice president.

Carlson joined the music faculty of the university in 1959 and was elevated to full professorship in 1962. In 1966, he was named acting director of graduate studies and director in 1968. From 1970 to 1972, he was dean of graduate studies and in 1972 served as interim president of the Bloomsburg State College for one year. In 1974, he

Forsyth takes VP position at Millersville

G. Alfred Forsyth, dean of the College of Arts and Sciences at BU, has been named provost and vice president for academic affairs at Millersville University, effective Sept. 2. Psychology Professor John Baird will be interim dean of the College of Arts and Sciences through June 30, 1987, while a national search for Forsyth's replacement is conducted.

One of Forsyth's prime accomplishments in his eight years at BU was working closely with the faculty to revise and strengthen the general education program. He also initiated an honors program, developed multi-disciplinary packages of courses for entering freshmen, and organized a pre-professional and career concentration advisory program.

"If these and several other accomplishments that we were fortunate to initiate have a lasting impact on Bloomsburg University, it will be because the faculty was so deeply involved in their development," Forsyth said.

Bressi named women's basketball coach

Joe Bressi, head women's basketball coach at Bishop McDevitt High School in Harrisburg for the past 10 years, has been named head coach of the women's basketball program at Bloomsburg University. He replaces Sue Hibbs, who resigned the position to return to full-time teaching duties in the university's department of health and physical education.

As head coach at Bishop McDevitt, Bressi built a 237-43 record, which included seven league titles and five district crowns. His teams won four championships in the former South Central Penn League and three titles in the Mid-Penn League's Division I.

In post-season action, Bishop McDevitt captured three District Three Class AA championships and two Class AAA titles. His units appeared in four consecutive PIAA Eastern finals, winning twice and advancing to the state championship contest in those seasons. Bressi's best season was in 1983-84 when his team posted a 36-1 record, losing the lone game in the state AAA final to Pittsburgh's North Catholic.

The 39-year-old native of Kulpmont has boasted dominant teams in the Harrisburg area for several years and entering this past season's action his squads had won 91 of 92 regular-season contests. Last season, the club had a 22-8 record and lost in district playoffs.

Bloomsburg recorded a 9-13 mark last season, including an 8-5 record in the Pennsylvania Conference Eastern Division. The Huskies dropped a first-round decision to West Chester in the conference playoffs.

Bressi is a 1971 graduate of East Stroudsburg University and has served as director of students at Bishop McDevitt.

FOUR COPIES NEEDED

The procedure for requesting work from the maintenance department includes submitting all four (4) copies of the Maintenance Work Order to the Physical Plant. All four copies are needed so maintenance can respond to you if work cannot be completed within two weeks of the request, according to Don McCulloch, director of the physical plant.

Army ROTC has full-time staff here

Army ROTC has taken on a new look at Bloomsburg University this fall. The military science department will become an extension center of Bucknell University, which means that a full-time staff will be located on campus to better serve students and the Army ROTC program.

The cadre, composed of Major George Venesky and SFC James Kelley, look forward to an exciting year.

The military science department is located in the rear of Elwell Hall. Adjacent to the tri-level parking garage. They can be contacted by telephone at (717) 389-2123.

JONES TO MOREHEAD STATE

Larry Jones, provost and vice president for academic affairs here until Aug. 1, has been named dean of the college of professional studies at Morehead State University, Morehead, Ky. Announcement of his appointment, effective Oct. 1, was made by Roberta

Anderson, MSU vice president for academic affairs. Jones was to have begun a special administrative assignment with the Pennsylvania State System of Higher Education in August. He joined the staff at BU in 1981, serving as provost and vice president for academic affairs and then as interim president until the arrival of President Harry Ausprich in July 1985.

Jelinek to direct univ.-community orchestra

New members are needed for the Bloomsburg University-Community Orchestra that begins its 16th season with the first rehearsal in Haas Center Sept. 8.

Mark R. Jelinek of Tempe, Ariz. has been named director, replacing John P. Master who retired June 29. Committed to providing a rich cultural experience for its performers and audiences, the popular symphony orchestra was started by Master when he joined the music faculty in September 1971.

Jelinek's degrees include a bachelor of music education and a master of arts from Eastern New Mexico University. He earned a doctor of musical arts in instrumental music from Arizona State University.

A native of New Mexico, Jelinek conducted high school orchestras in Texas, New Mexico and Arizona. In 1984, his organization won the New Mexico All-State Honor Orchestra award.

Jelinek has performed with the Texas orchestra of Abilene (principal cellist), El Paso, San Angelo and Midland-Odessa; Los Cruces and Roswell in New Mexico and the Continental Orchestra of Thousand Oaks, Calif.

A wide variety of repertoire is performed by the 70-80 member University-Community Orchestra ranging from the serious classics to popular tunes with featured soloists. Membership is open to capable musicians from the entire university community as well as area communities.

A fall concert of serious classics is scheduled for 2:30 p.m. Sunday, Nov. 16, in Mitrani Hall of Haas Center. The orchestra also will perform at the President's Ball in March and at a children's concert in April. Rehearsals are held Mondays 7 p.m. to 9 p.m. in room 116 Haas Center.

Interested musicians can call Jelinek at 389-4284 or stop in his office at 116 Haas Center.

Quest trip open

Interested in observing wildlife, plant life and natural beauty while canoeing? It's all possible on a weekend canoe trip to Maryland's Assateague Island, Sept. 12-14, offered by Quest, Bloomsburg University's outdoor education program.

Quest will provide transportation, leadership, canoes, other outdoor equipment and food for this unique three-day experience. No previous canoeing experience is necessary as Quest will provide instruction.

The trip is open to everyone on a first come, first serve basis. Cost for the weekend is $65. Interested persons can sign up by calling the Quest program at 389-4323 or registering at the Quest office located on the ground floor of Simon building.

NEW PROGRAMS OFFERED

Two academic-oriented programs for students interested in studio audio recording are being offered this fall for the first time. The programs in audio recording techniques are available either as a minor in music in the department of music or as a career concentration in a cross-discipline academic and skill emphasis.

The Communique' publishes news of events and about people at Bloomsburg University on the 1st and 15th of each month, except for the summer, at BU. Please send story ideas to The Communique', Office of University Relations, Bloomsburg University, Bloomsburg, PA 17815

Carlson, Abell to head grad, extended programs

was named dean of the schools of graduate studies, serving in that capacity until his assistant academic vice president appointment in 1982.

He is also a former chairman of the music department and a former director of the maroon and gold and studio bands.

Carlson earned his bachelor of arts degree from San Jose State University and both his master of arts degree and his doctor of education degree at Columbia University.

Abell came to the university as director of housing in August 1973 and was promoted to assistant dean of extended programs in July 1982. Since 1978 he has also been director of conferences on campus.

He earned both his bachelor of arts degree in history and government and his master of education degree in counseling and student personnel from St. Lawrence University (N.Y.). He has taken additional graduate courses at Bucknell University and is currently enrolled in a doctoral program at Temple University.

Baird to replace Forsyth for '86-87

Following the announcement of Baird's appointment by Interim Provost and Academic Vice President Daniel Pantaleo, Baird commented, "I'm looking forward to the challenge of the deanship and working closely with faculty, students, and other administrators for a productive year."

Baird came to the university's psychology department as an assistant professor in 1971. He was elevated to associate professor in 1974 and to full professorship in 1979. He served as chairperson of the psychology department from 1977 to 1980.

Since 1978, he has been a consulting psychologist with Pennsylvania Power and Light Co. and in 1980 was a visiting research associate at the Institute of Behavioral Science, University of Colorado. Baird also has done consulting and evaluating for Bechtel Power Corp., Lewisburg Federal Penitentiary, and Bloomsburg's Family Mental Health Clinic.

Parking regs issued

The new issue of the campus parking map and motor vehicle regulations, effective Aug. 20, reflects tighter enforcement efforts by the university law enforcement office.

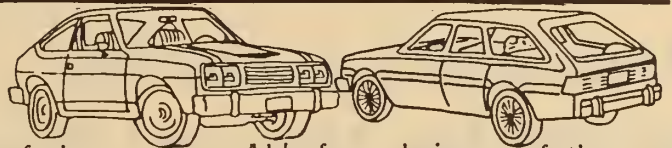

This year, each qualified vehicle operators will be issued only a single permit decal. If drivers must use another car for a day, they must put a note on the dash giving the name of the operator, the campus destination, and the date. If drivers must use another car for more than a day, they must go to the Law Enforcement Office to get a temporary parking permit.

The new regulations also outline specific boundaries around the campus for commuting students. Richard Alderfer, chairman of the traffic committee, and Ken Weaver, chief of the university law enforcement office, will meet with student groups early in the school year to explain the new regulations.

Vehicle permit decals will be issued in early September, according to Weaver.

BARN PHOTOS IN EXHIBIT

Some 40 matted color photographs of American barns from Maine to California are on exhibit through Sept. 26 in the presidents' lounge of Kehr Union. Viewing hours are 9 a.m. to 10 p.m. daily.

The exhibit, "Portraits of Wayside Barns," is by

'87-88 sabbaticals announced

President Harry Ausprich has recently approved 17 sabbatical leaves for the 1987-88 academic year.

John S. Baird, professor of psychology, will spend the year completing a post-doctoral internship in professional psychology.

Leo G. Barrile, associate professor of sociology and social welfare, will spend the spring semester of 1988 conducting research on family structure and television viewing patterns.

Barbara E. Behr, professor of finance and business law, will spend the year engaged in legal research, reading, reflection and writing and developing new teaching materials.

Peter H. Bohling, professor of economics, will spend the spring semester of 1988 developing a set of materials for teaching statistics to concrete operational thinkers as well as formal operational thinkers.

Walter M. Brasch, associate professor of mass communications, will spend the year doing research, writing, observing, and working in a number of mass communication media.

Steven Cohen, professor of psychology, will spend the year doing research in psychopharmacology and updating reading in experimental psychology.

James Dalton, associate professor of psychology, will spend the spring semester of 1988 conducting research on citizen participation in community groups and updating his knowledge of community psychology.

Roger Fromm, reference librarian and archivist at Andruss Library, will develop additional expertise in the various functions of archival work during the fall semester of the 1987-88 year.

Francis Gallagher, associate professor of marketing and management, will spend the spring semester at the Institut Commercial de Nancy in Nancy, France, expanding the internship opportunities for Bloomsburg students in the BU-Nancy student exchange program, finalizing the establishment of a BU-Nancy faculty exchange program, investigating European firms' methods of absenteeism control, and

University receives grant for Upward Bound

Bloomsburg University has received a $167,226 federal grant to continue a counseling program for youngsters who want to be the first in their families to attend college, U.S. Rep. Paul E. Kanjorski, D-Nanticoke, has announced.

Upward Bound, in its ninth year at BU, has received a total of $1,257,720 in federal grants. The program recruits high school sophomores from Columbia, Montour and Northumberland counties who could become the first members of their families to go to college.

At BU, Upward Bound begins with an intensive summer session, during which students live on campus while studying personal development. Instructors meet weekly with about 80 students during the year. By spring, the students receive extensive academic instruction, career guidance, and advice on choosing a suitable college.

TWO NAMED ALL-AMERICAN

Bloomsburg University seniors Wes Cook and Kevin Grande have been named to the NCAA Division II pre-season All-American team, according to The Football News. The duo was among a group of 10 Pennsylvania Conference performers selected to the squad.

QUEST COURSES AVAILABLE

Twenty-five courses in activities such as hiking, tubing, biking, caving, and creek stomping are available this fall through Quest, the outdoor education program. Most courses occur on weekends.

For registration forms and additional information,

teaching a human resource management module at Nancy.

William Jones, professor of communication disorders and special education, will spend the summer of 1987 and 1988 developing a system for assisting students majoring in special education to recognize outstanding teacher characteristics and to develop such characteristics in themselves.

Saleem Kahn, associate professor of economics, will spend the fall of 1987 doing research on the economic gains from trade, economic assistance, and investments to the United States and the South Asian countries.

Gerald Powers, assistant chairman and professor of communication disorders and special education, will spend the summers of 1987 and 1988 adapting and constructing and then assessing and revising a preservice clinical perceiver instrument for communication disorders.

Robert Reeder, associate professor of philosophy and anthropology will spend the spring of 1988 as a visiting scholar at Yerkes Regional Primate Center working with staff primatologists and doing basic research of primate behavior and primate evolution.

Robert Rosholt, chairman and professor of political science, will spend the summer of 1987 and 1988 doing a holistic study of the U.S. Congress.

Constance Schick, professor of psychology, will spend the 1987-88 year attending graduate courses related to prevention of physical illnesses and promotion of wellness and working with nationally known experts in these areas.

Riley Smith, associate professor of English, will spend the fall semester of 1987 studying methods and goals of privately operated dialect eradication schools in Georgia.

Anne Wilson, associate professor of sociology and social welfare, will spend the spring semester of 1988 working with institutions outside of regular academic settings that have developed expertise in facilitating group functioning.

Sperrylink is here

Sperrylink, the electronic process that greatly improves interoffice communications and enhances individual office operation, has arrived at the university.

Computer services director Doyle Dodson, assisted by Sperrylink coordinator Karlene Wright, conducted a series of meetings this summer to explain what Sperrylink is, what it can do for an administrative office, and add users to available terminals.

By using computer terminals through the main frame, Sperrylink can transmit electronic mail, schedule meetings, set calendars, record telephone messages, serve as a reminder, list directories and mailing lists, and much more, according to Dodson.

There are 114 computer stations available for Sperrylink throughout the campus. The vice-presidents' offices have been on Sperrylink for some time. Twenty-nine additional administrative offices were added this summer. In the fall, the system will be offered to the offices of chairpersons.

BU NOTES

George B.N. Ayittey, assistant professor of economics, has recently had a number of articles published: "The Real Foreign Debt Problem," in the Wall Street Journal (to be reprinted in two textbooks, Macroeconomics, and Economics in America), "To End Hunger, Set the (African) Peasants Free" in The Times of London (reprinted in The Australian), "African Suffering: Elites and Folly Caused the Crisis" in Canada's Globe and Mail (reprinted in The Daily Mail of London), and "Zaire: The Epitome of African Kleptocracy" in the Journal of Defense and Diplomacy. He also was the guest speaker on the political situation in Black Africa at Morgan State University in Baltimore, Md., presented a paper by special invitation at the CATO Institute in Washington, D.C., and testified before a Congressional Committee on a House bill on the foreign investment and reciprocity Act. Ayittey also was recently quoted in Warren Brooke's column "Africa Economic Disaster" in the Washington Times.

Donald L. Pratt, assistant professor of curriculum and foundations, had an article titled A Model as a Starting Point for Teaching Problem Solving in the "1986 Yearbook" of the Pennsylvania Council of Teachers of Mathematics. At the past Association for Developing Computer-Based Instructional Systems International Conference, he served on the elementary, secondary, junior college and math SIG editorial board. He will also be presenting a session on teaching educational computing with SuperPILOT at the annual School Science and Mathematics Association meeting in Lexington, Ky., in November.

Walt Brasch, associate professor of mass communications, is author of a 1500-word satire, Traded for Two Rookies, an Editorial Clerk, and a Future Draft Choice, appearing in "Arete," the journal of sports literature. "Arete" is published by the San Diego State University Press.

Donald A. Vannan, curriculum and foundations, recently visited three science facilities in New York and Maryland. The first was "The Discovery Center," a science "Hands-On" development in downtown Syracuse used by local schools and University of Syracuse science methods students. He also visited the National Aquarium and the Maryland Science Center in Baltimore.

William S. O'Bruba, chairperson and professor of curriculum and foundations, has been selected to serve on the publications committee of the Association for Childhood Education International.

John R. Hranitz, assistant chairperson and professor of curriculum and foundations, has recently presented a program "Preparing Your Child for Kindergarten: A Case for Good Sense" to parent associations of the Stroudsburg-Snyderville areas in Pennsylvania. He also has received the Pennsylvania Department of Corrections Annual Award for Outstanding Volunteer for 1985-86.

NEW SCOREBOARD

A new scoreboard will appear at the north end of Redman Stadium when the 1986 Bloomsburg University home football season opens Sept. 20. The old scoreboard was lost in a high wind storm in the spring. "It was destroyed when it was blown right off the two metal uprights," says athletic director Roger Sanders.

The BU Development Office and Sanders worked together to find two sponsors for a new Nevco 24-by-8 foot scoreboard, and it will be in place by early September.

Weller Vending, which services snack and drink machines on campus, and Hairport Family Salon/University Cuts by Hairport are sponsoring the new scoreboard. Their corporate advertisements will appear on it.

Football game themes, sked announced

Bloomsburg University has announced the special themes for its five 1986 home football contests.

The defending Pennsylvania Conference champion Husky team kicks off the home slate on Saturday, Sept. 20, in a 1:30 p.m. game against Interstate 80 rival Lock Haven. It will be a highlight of the 16th annual Parents' Weekend activities on the campus.

University Family Day is scheduled for Oct. 4 at 1:30 p.m. when the Huskies host East Stroudsburg in a PC Eastern Division game. It is a day set aside to recognize the faculty and staff, the Council of Trustees, non-instructional alumni, the alumni board, the Foundation Board, the College of Business Advisory Board, the Husky Club Board of Governors, faculty emeriti and the APSCUF Executive Board.

The 59th annual Homecoming celebration takes place on Oct. 18 when Mansfield visits Robert B. Redman Stadium for a 1:30 p.m. game. Many of the alumni and friends of BU will return for the weekend.

When Slippery Rock comes to Bloomsburg for a 1 p.m. contest on Nov. 1, it will be Communities Appreciation Day, acknowledging six area communities of Benton, Berwick, Bloomsburg, Catawissa, Danville, and Millville.

The final home game of the season, with Kutztown on Nov. 8 at 1 p.m., will be Maroon and Gold Day. This special day is in recognition of those individuals who have donated to the university in the past year's giving campaign.

STUDENTS RETURN

Bloomsburg University students returned to campus over the weekend for the fall semester of the 1986-87 academic year. Classes were scheduled to begin Tuesday, Sept. 2.

Approximately 5547 full-time and part-time degree undergraduates are enrolled. Around 2500 students will be housed on campus, with the balance either residing in the town of Bloomsburg or commuting from other areas.

Additional $200,000 to acad. affairs

The university administration has increased the operating budget for academic affairs by $200,000 this year, President Harry Ausprich announced during a meeting with faculty Sept. 2.

Daniel Pantaleo, provost and vice president for academic affairs, says $70,500 of the funds will go directly or indirectly to academic departments.

Based on recommendations from a meeting of the deans council, he said, money will go to departments that are presently underfunded, those with special needs, and "areas where we could directly support faculty otherwise supported by the department." An example is faculty travel to visit students on internships, he said.

Another $50,000 will go to the library for book purchases. Pantaleo pointed out that the library budget hasn't been increased in four years. These funds, he said, "allow us to make up for inflation over that period and add to holdings in some critical curriculum areas."

Academic microcomputer software will be purchased with another $43,000 to better implement computer hardware purchased in recent years, Pantaleo said.

An equipment repair pool of funds amounting to $15,000 will allow departments to free up some funds previously committed to equipment maintenance contracts. This plan is being developed by the deans and will be discussed by department chairpersons, Pantaleo said.

Projects and services needing faculty and program support will receive a total of $10,000 during the year, and the University Scholar's Program will get $6,500 from the funds.

Five thousand dollars will go toward a new initiative coming from Pantaleo's office to encourage pairs or groups of faculty to work together to initiate research projects.

Amin named to planning post

M. Ruhul Amin, chair of the social sciences division at the University of Wisconsin Barron County Center, has been named assistant director for planning and analysis in BU's Office of Institutional Planning, Research and Information Management. Amin assumed his new position Aug. 11.

Amin's prime responsibility is to coordinate the university's institutional planning process. Amin is currently working with the Strategic Issues Group in their attempt to fully implement a strategic planning process for the university. In addition, he will be working with Karen L. Futoma, assistant director for institutional studies, in providing detailed analyses of many of the studies and reports prepared by this office.

RETIREMENT SEMINAR SCHEDULED

Joseph Giorgio and Scott Baker of Giorgio Associates of Lancaster, Pa., will conduct a seminar on preresirement planning to be held in the Coffeehouse of Kehr Union, Thursday, Sept. 25, at 11 a.m. and 7 p.m. The seminar includes an indepth explanation of the options available under the Pennsylvania State Retirement System, as well as options outside the state system.

The seminar will assist employees covered by the State Retirement System in obtaining the maximum benefits from their retirement plans. In addition, participants will discuss how to shelter other income, tax sheltered annuities, and the new tax proposals as it pertains to planning.

The seminar is sponsored by BUFA/APSCUF.

Grants awarded for physics research

Grants totaling $60,690 will enable the physics department to conduct a two-year research project on the influences of atmospheric water vapor and lightning on electrical properties of the upper atmosphere.

The reseachers, led by principal investigator James Moser, will use new sophisticated radio equipment, a computer, and an extremely accurate electronic oscillator.

An initial grant of $30,345 has been awarded to the university by the National Science Foundation to begin the research this September. Matching funds from the state of Pennsylvania will carry the research program over the next two years.

The research program will address two separate scientific problems, according to Moser, associate professor of physics.

"The first problem concerns the influence of water vapor on the electrical properties of the atmosphere at very high altitudes," he said.

"Rockets such as the Saturn V launch vehicle expell up to one ton of water vapor per second as they climb toward orbit. Since long-distance radio communications depend upon the electrical properties of the upper atmosphere, scientists are interested in knowing the effects of water vapor on these electrical properties.

"The second problem concerns the influence of lightning, a lower atmosphere phenomenon, on the electrical properties of the upper atmosphere, 35 miles or more above the ground. Recent research suggests that large lightning strikes emit strong radio signals, which travel into outer space and interact with charge particles trapped in the Van Allen belts thousands of miles above the earth. Some of the charged particles are released to fall toward the earth, where they alter the electrical properties of the upper atmosphere," Moser said.

Student-written play is BP season opener

The Bloomsburg Players' season opener, a world premier production of "The Landing" written by T. Andrew Wright is a bit-bittersweet drama about the interwoven lives of several tenants in a New York City apartment building. The play is the first student-written, full-length main stage production at Bloomsburg University.

T. Andrew Wright is a non-traditional student with junior standing. A theater major, Wright is by specialty a lighting designer/technician.

Wright plans to continue to work in Theater and hopes for success as a Broadway playwright.

"The Landing" will be performed Sept. 17, 18, 19, and 20 at 8 p.m. at Haas Center for the Arts. Reservations will be available for performances Wednesday through Friday and can be made by calling the Players' Box Office at 389-4287. General admission seating is available for Saturday night. Tickets will be on hand in the lobby one hour before show time. Adult admission is $3. Tickets for senior citizens and children under 13 are $1.50.

"The Landing" is sponsored by the Community Government Association.

THEME ANNOUNCED

America--From Sea to Shining Sea is the theme for this year's homecoming, the Student Activities Office has announced.

Activities and events start with the Sept. 24 deadline for the Sweetheart registration and end Oct. 19 with a Pops Concert with the Husky Singers, Women's Chorale and Concert Choir.

The homecoming parade at 10 a.m. Oct. 18 will be a combined one with the university and Bloomsburg High School participating.

The homecoming football game against Mansfield starts at 1:30 p.m. Oct. 18.

SPRUCE TREES REPLACED

Two aged spruce trees have been removed from the front step area of Centennial Gym and replaced with a group planting. A drawing of the latter was submitted by the maintenance department and approved by the campus beautification committee.

Cochrane named assistant dean

Donna J. Cochrane, a full-time temporary assistant professor of business education at Bloomsburg University for four years, has been named assistant dean of extended programs, effective Sept. 15. Her appointment follows an internal search conducted to fill the post vacated by John Abell when he was named interim dean of extended programs for the 1986-87 fiscal year.

In announcing the appointment, Abell pointed out that Cochrane has been co-coordinator of BU's Summer Conference Program for three summers, has had four years' experience in business, and has taught high school and college for 16 years.

"We are pleased to be able to appoint someone with not only outstanding experience and qualifications required for the job, but someone who has worked with extended programs and is familiar with our non-credit programs and services," he said.

Cochrane has bachelor's and master's degrees in business education from the State University of New York at Albany and is preparing her dissertation as a doctoral candidate at Temple University in Philadelphia.

She has taught numerous courses and seminars in the fields of sales, business, and communications, and she is a member of several professional organizations and associations.

BU NOTES

Howard N. Schreier, associate professor of communication studies, will make a video/paper presentation at the Speech Communication Association convention, Nov. 13, 1986, in Chicago. The video/paper, "Mass Media Images of Vigilantism," is a rhetorical criticism of the positive manner in which vigilante activities are portrayed in contemporary films and television programs.

Ralph Smiley, professor of history and adjunct professor of mass communications, spent the second half of his summer sabbatical pursuing film studies in various seminars of the American Film Institute National Education Program for college teachers: Archaeology of Early Cinema: Film Before Griffith," at American University in Washington, D.C., July 7-11; "Beyond Structuralism: Contemporary Film and Television Theory" at the AFI campus, Los Angeles, Calif., Aug. 4-8 with the British semiotician Thomas Elsaesser; and the Hollywood Workshop of the Directors Guild of America in Los Angeles, Aug. 8-15.

Carol Ann Ellis, instructor in the English department, presented a paper in August at the Basic Skills Conference at State College titled Defining Folk Speech: A Confidence-Building Assignment. As illustration she used (with permission) a paper written by one of her BU freshmen on "Booba Hubbas."

Ted Shanoski, associate professor of history and director of cultural affairs, was awarded Keizai Koho Fellowship this past July. This grant permitted Shanoski, along with other educators from the United States and Canada, to travel extensively in Japan. The project, designed to enhance global perspectives, was conducted in cooperation with the Ministry of Foreign Affairs, the Ministry of Education, Science and Culture and the National Council for the Social Studies.

Amin named

of Dr. Amin's caliber to this position," said Hugh J. McFadden, director of institutional planning, research, and information management. "I am quite confident that our future planning efforts will be most effective under his direction."

Amin received a bachelor's degree in political science and a master's degree in public administration from the University of Dhaka, Bangladesh. In addition he holds an M.A. in political science and diploma in public administration in organizational behavior from Carleton University, Ontario, Canada, and an M.A. in urban studies and a Ph.D. in organizational behavior/complex organization from the University of Akron.

During his tenure at the University of Wisconsin Barron County Center, he served as director of the Center for Social and Behavioral Research, chair of the student issues and life interest committee, and as a member of the steering committee, the budget committee, the recruitment and retention committee, the charter revision committee, and the grants committee. He holds memberships in a number of national, state, and regional professional associations pertaining to the fields of planning, sociology, and organizational behavior.

TO MONITOR PANET CALLS

Effective Sept. 1, long distance calls on the PANET telephone system are for official activities necessary to carry out the basic education and research missions of the university, according to Robert Parrish, vice president for administration.

The PANET service is now available only from 8:30 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. Monday through Friday, he said.

Departments must budget for conference calls and for credit cards they wish to supply to staff.

A monitoring device to be installed this month will allow for departments to receive detailed reports on calls placed from the department.

Faculty appointments made

Nineteen new faculty appointments for the 1986-87 academic year have been announced.

Four appointees to the department of curriculum and foundations are Maurice Collins, Ph.D., Gary, Ind., associate professor; Bonita Franks, Ph.D., Schaumburg, Ill., associate professor; Lorraine Shanoski, Bloomsburg, assistant professor; and Carol White, Ph.D., Columbus, Ohio, associate professor.

The department of biological and allied health sciences hired Joseph P. Andizzi, Houston, Texas; Karl E. Havens III, Morgantown, W. Va.; and David D. Zeigler, Denton, Texas. All have their Ph.D.s and were named assistant professors.

Communication disorders and special education added two instructors to the department. They are Joanne Jackowski, Syracuse, N.Y., and Loline J. Saras, Hazleton.

The accounting department employed Frank R. Cajthaml, Liverpool, N.Y., assistant professor; Paul A. Shoemaker, State College, associate professor; and Gideon J. Wray, Riverside, instructor.

Single department appointments include Ronald D. Clemson, Jr., Harrisburg, instructor of mathematics and computer science; Roger W. Ellis, Ph.D., Emporia, Kan., associate professor of business education and office administration; Mary Tod Gray, Pocono Lake, instructor of nursing; David A. Harvey, White Haven, instructor of communication studies; Gunther Lothar Lange, Ph.D., Silver Springs, Md., assistant professor of physics; Robert W. Liddell III, Ph.D., Park Ridge, N.J., associate professor of computer and information systems; and David R. Rider, Greensburg, instructor of health, physical education and athletics. Rider is also director of aquatics at BU.

In the student life area, Wallace S. Woodward, Ph.D., Tallahassee, Fla., is serving in the capacity of psychological counselor in the center for counseling and human development.

One semester appointments for the 1986-87 academic year include J. Peter Hurst, Ph.D., Athens, Ga., assistant professor of business education and office administration for the first semester, and Richard L. Baker, Ph.D., West Chester, professor of accounting, second semester.

Donations provide for BTE tickets

The BU Community Government Association and Bloomsburg University are donating $5,000 for the university's students to attend Bloomsburg Theater Ensemble productions free of charge during the 1986-87 academic year.

CGA is giving $2,500 and the university has allocated $2,500 from unrestricted private gift money to provide $5,000 requested by the BTE's board of trustees in a letter to BU President Harry Ausprich.

Students will be presented one free ticket for each production on presenting their university I.D. with a valid sticker. Tickets can be reserved in advance of each show. BTE will actively work with any professor or student group to encourage attendance at the performances.

PLANNING COMMISSION MEETINGS SCHEDULED

The Planning Commission will meet during the remainder of the fall semester as follows:
Thursday, Oct. 9, 1986, 3:30 p.m., University Forum, MCHS; Thursday, Nov. 13, 1986, 3:30 p.m., University Forum, MCHS;

Thursday, Dec. 11, 1986, 3:30 p.m., University Forum, MCHS.

EASILY RECOGNIZABLE

The law enforcement and maintenance departments are in the process of standardizing some campus traffic and parking signs to conform more closely to PennDot signs.

New campus street signs complementing other maroon, gold, and white signs were erected this summer.

Retirements, emeriti faculty announced

Three retirements and two faculty emeriti were announced at the Sept. 10 quarterly meeting of BU's Council of Trustees.

James R. Whitmer, associate professor of history, is retiring from the faculty at the end of fall semester. Whitmer came to Bloomsburg in September 1964. He will complete 29½ years in education, 23½ of which were at BU.

Recent retirements of non-instructional employees David S. Ruckle and Carol Dawalt also were announced. Ruckle, police officer II supervisory, retired July 4, completing 19 1/3 years of service at BU. Dawalt, clerk steno III in the nursing department, completed seven years and seven months on her retirement June 7.

May retirees James B. Creasy, accounting, and Joseph Vaughan, biological and allied health sciences, were granted faculty emeritis status. Creasy completed 26 years of service at BU and Vaughan completed 19 years.

Course open to movie buffs

History professor Ralph Smiley is again conducting his cinema 115 course in cinema appreciation this fall semester.

Smiley says movie buffs among the faculty, students, and staff, who enjoy seeing the old goodies are invited to view the 12 films remaining on the schedule. Showings are on Tuesday afternoon from 3:30 p.m. to 5:30 p.m. in Andruss Library projection room (L-35).

The balance of the schedule includes:

- 9/23 - The Great Dictator,
- 9/30 - The Sea Hawk.

- 10/7 - The Maltese Falcon,
- 10/14 - Arsenic and Old Lace,
- 10/21 - The Private Life of Henry VIII,
- 10/28 - Stage Door.

- 11/4 - Death Takes A Holiday,
- Gorgo,
- 11/11 - Red River,
- 11/18 - Breathless,
- 11/25 - A Raisin In The Sun.
- 12/2 - The Haunting,
- 12/9 - Repulsion.

Non-instructional employees join BU

The appointments of an admissions counselor, two resident directors and seven non-instructional employees were announced at the September quarterly meeting of the Council of Trustees.

Joseph DeMelfi, Berwick, who has been an acting admissions counselor since December 1985, has permanent status in the position. He joined the student life staff as a resident director in August 1976. DeMelfi is a state university administrator II in his current capacity in academic affairs.

State university administrator I, Gretchen Erb, Danville, and Edwin Valovage Jr., Mocanaqua, have been appointed residence directors in student life.

Non-instructional employee appointments include Beth Ann Norton, Berwick, library assistant I, Andruss Library; Thomas Bucher, Catawissa, messenger in university mail room; Cheryl John, Bloomsburg, custodial worker I; Gary B. Kreischer, Berwick, computer programmer II; Michael Krolikowski, Nescopeck, police officer I; Barbara Sowel, Shamokin, computer programmer II, and Gail Berbick, Berwick, clerk steno I in institutional planning, research and information management.

Participation high for Parents' Weekend

More than 2300 parents attended Parents' Weekend Sept. 20-21 making it one of the most successful in the history of BU.

Congratulations for the success go to student chairperson Kim Warfield, her committee of Lynn Casey, Gwenda Dunkelberger, Julie Lecuona, Sue Stenson, and Laura Wisnosky, and advisors Jimmy Gilliland and Laurie Reed.

A special thanks is noted from the committee to faculty members and administrators who manned the information tables in Kehr Union for nearly two hours Saturday morning.

"Cuckoo's Nest" to be staged by BU Players

"One Flew Over the Cuckoo's Nest," the Broadway play made into a hit movie starring Jack Nicholson, will be staged Oct. 8-11 at 8 p.m. by the Bloomsburg University Players in Haas Center for the Arts.

Playright Dale Wasserman's adaptation of Ken Kesey's novel will be under the direction of Hitoshi Sato, BU director of theater. The play portrays life in the world of a mental hospital.

One of the main characters is Chief Bromden portrayed by Stephen Sundulin, a senior from Cogan Station. Bromden, a mental patient, has convinced everyone he has been deaf for years. His life is greatly affected by McMurphy, a loud raucous ex-convict, played by graduate student Larry Murphy. McMurphy's domineering "takeover" attitude revolutionizes the ward's sterile, monotonous atmosphere. Nurse Ratchett, played by freshman Jennifer Cary, has complete control over the patients before McMurphy's arrival.

McMurphy's presence acting as a catalyst helps Chief Bromden regain his confidence and pride.

Tickets are available to persons holding a valid I.D. sticker. For others, $3.00 for adults and $1.50 for children and senior citizens. Call 389-4287.

FAMILY DAY OCT. 4

On Oct. 4, 1986, Bloomsburg University will be celebrating "University Family Day." Each year this day is set aside to honor the faculty and staff who deliver the high quality of education for which Bloomsburg University is recognized.

Free admission to the football game against East Stroudsburg is being provided by the Community Government Association. Faculty and staff must present university I.D. cards at the entrance gate. Family members must also be present to receive free admission.

GET MADRIGAL TICKETS OCT. 14

Tickets for the Madrigal Singers Christmas Banquet-Concert go on sale Oct. 14 in Haas Center Office 114. The price is $15 for the event, which will be at 7:30 p.m. Dec. 10-13 in the Scranton Commons. This year's theme is "A Christmas Cruise."

Staff, faculty help needed in UR projects

The university relations office has several projects underway for which faculty and staff cooperation is needed. The projects are a sourcebook of experts, a speakers bureau, an update of biodata files on faculty and administrative staff, and a "beat system" of covering news of university departments and offices.

Two questionnaires will be sent to all faculty and administrative staff to gather information for the sourcebook of experts, the speakers bureau booklet, and the biodata files.

The sourcebook of experts will be given to news media reporters for use when they need local expert comment on issues of regional, national, or international significance.

Area organizations, clubs, and societies frequently contact the university relations office for names of persons who can provide programs for their meetings, and the speakers bureau brochure will allow the university to offer this service to the public in a coordinated way.

The biodata files are used when the university relations office is asked to provide information about university employees for news releases or at the request of the news media.

The "beat system" of covering university departments and program offices is an effort to systematically gather and report on news of departments and to obtain ideas for feature stories that may be developed and placed with specialized media. Two mass communications interns are working in the university relations office to assist with this project.

Students John McDevette and Michelle Yannes will be contacting departments regularly seeking leads and information on possible stories.

Store takes part in literacy campaign

The university store is participating in a campaign to support literacy programs in the United States and Canada. The program called Give the Gift of Literacy, is a project of book sellers in the two countries.

William Bailey, manager of the university store, said the campaign is to raise $1 million each year for the next three years includes placing coin boxes at cash registers, distributing fact brochures, and hanging posters in bookstores. These efforts are to increase public awareness of the problem and give bookstore customers the opportunity to support the program financially.

Bailey said that the U.S. Department of Education estimates that in the United States as many as 27 million adults are functionally illiterate.

PHONE DIRECTORIES COMING SOON

The BU faculty/staff 1986-87 telephone directories are expected to be in the mail to everyone by late October.

The University Relations Office extends its appreciation to all faculty and staff who returned their questionnaire for the telephone directory.

BU TEAMS RANKED

Bloomsburg University's football team, off to a 2-0 start after the first two games of the season, was ranked ninth last week in the first NCAA Division II national ratings.

The Bloomsburg University field hockey team was ranked second last week in the season's initial NCAA Division III ratings.

DO YOU HAVE YOUR DECAL?

If you haven't picked up your parking permit decal yet, you probably have received a notice or a ticket on your windshield. The decals came in two weeks ago, and to receive a new one, you must register your car with the university law enforcement office located in the lower level of the University Store.

Official enrollment figures show slight increases

Official enrollment figures for the fall semester show that BU enrollment increased by 318 students over last year's fall enrollment, to 6,757 for this academic year. A report prepared by the office of institutional planning, research, and information management also shows that enrollment climbed by 250 between the fall of 1984 and fall 1985. Daniel Pantaleo, provost and vice president for academic affairs, said the increased numbers are the result of several factors.

Undergraduate numbers are up because BU planned to admit 50 more freshman than were in last fall's freshman class, retention was better this year due to increased efforts in that area, and an expected drop in retention due to federal regulations for financial aid did not occur. Graduate student numbers continued to climb this year because of recruitment efforts begun three years ago.

STUDENTS TO AIR NEWSCASTS

Students in Associate Professor Dana Ulloth's broadcast news class in the mass communications department will air a local newscast every Friday on cable channel 13 beginning Oct. 10. The half-hour program will begin at 6:30. It will be the only strictly local newscast in the area, Ulloth said. The program will have the potential to reach some 11,000 homes, he said.

The project is part of an agreement between Bloomsburg University's television services department and Service Electric Cable, Inc. of Bloomsburg.

Bloomsburg University is committed to Affirmative Action/Equal Opportunity, and minorities, women, and other protected class members are urged to pursue education and employment opportunities at BU.

BU NOTES

Marci Woodruff, assistant professor of theater in the communication studies department, recently attended the "International Child Drama Symposium: Drama as Meaning" at Rutgers University. She presented the principle response to psychologist Jon Klimo's paper, "The Lucid and the Ludic: Toward a Metaphysics of Drama Meaning Making."

Woodruff also participated in the National American Educational Theatre Conference at New York University in August. She chaired a panel entitled, "Marketing Theatre for Young Audiences" and presented a paper on "Past, Present, and Future Trends in Child Drama." Woodruff is the executive secretary of the American Association of Theatre for Youth.

Bruce C. "Nick" Dieterick, director of public information, has been inducted into the Berwick Sports Hall of Fame, primarily for his basketball achievements and service as Berwick's football field announcer at Crispin Field for 32 years.

Joan Auten, associate professor of health, physical education, and athletics had an article published in the summer issue of "The Pennsylvania Journal of Health, Physical Education, Recreation, and Dance." The title of the article was Developing and Coordinating a Program of Physical, Educational, Recreational, and Cultural Activities for Senior Citizens - A Public Service Project. It was based upon her experiences with the release-time project she conducted during the summer of 1985.

Barbara Bonham, development mathematics instructor for the Center for Academic Development, recently conducted a one-day workshop on a newly field tested third year mathematics course for a group of high school students. Bonham is co-author of the third year course, and serves as a member of the Math Curriculum Task Force and Program Development Committee of the Pennsylvania Department of Education.

The faculty of the Center for Academic Development (James Mullen, Virgie Bryan, Vincent DeMelfi, Barbara Bonham, Harold Ackerman, and Carol Venuto), will attend the Pennsylvania Association for Developmental Education Conference on

United Way campaign begins

Tom Davies, BU's director of career development, is this year's chairman of the United Way Campaign for Columbia County.

Kickoff for the campaign will be televised tonight at 9 p.m. live on cable television from the studios in the McCormick Center for Human Services.

Area agencies have asked for $265,000 for next year, and the allocations committee has recommended funding at least $233,000 of the requests. Final allocations will be made after the campaign is concluded.

In 1985, more than $215,000 was contributed to the county United Way, according to John C. Thomas, executive director.

OFF-CAMPUS HOUSING SURVEY CONDUCTED

Donald Young, new coordinator of off-campus housing in the residence life office, is conducting a survey of some 160 landlords in Bloomsburg who rent to students. The survey is part of an effort to deal with the landlords' concerns and to educate BU students about living off campus, he said.

Young said that any faculty or staff who have concerns or problems with off-campus rentals may contact him in his Montour Hall office at extension 4328. The office also serves as a resource for information and advice about off-campus housing.

The Communique' publishes news of events and about people at Bloomsburg University on the 1st and 15th of each month, except for the summer, at BU. Please send story ideas to The Communique', Office of University Relations, Bloomsburg University, Bloomsburg, PA 17815

Friday, Oct. 3, on Bloomsburg's campus. Barbara Bonham has been elected as the four-year college representative to the PADE organization. She also recently attended the National Association for Developmental Education Conference held in Chicago, Ill. She is a member of the committee in charge of planning for the NADE conferences.

Jesse Bryan, director of the Center for Academic Development, has been elected chairman of the advisory committee for the Pennsylvania Luzerne Community College, president of the board of directors for the Educational Opportunity Center of Northeastern Pennsylvania, and Central Subregion Representative for Act 101.

Irvin Wright, assistant director of the CAD, has been reelected treasurer for the Pennsylvania Black Conference on Higher Education.

Thomas Bonomo, assistant professor of sociology, presented two papers at national meetings this past August/September and also had an article accepted for publication in a forthcoming issue of Humanity and Society.

The papers and the article are based upon an interrelated set of research made possible by a past faculty professional development grant. As a whole, they seek to analyze economic and criminal justice policies of the Reagan Administration as well as popular reactions to those policies.

The first paper titled "Reaganism and the Transformation of the Dangerous Class: An Analysis of Repression in an Era of Economic Decline," was presented at the 1986 Annual Meetings of the Society for the Study of Social Problems, New York, N.Y. The second paper, "Reaganomics: An Analysis of State Sponsored Profitability in an Era of Economic Decline," was presented at the 1986 Annual Meeting of the American Sociological Association, New York, N.Y. The article: "Working Class Movements in the Current Era of Economic Decline: The Potential for Progressive Change," is based upon the latter paper and was accepted for publication in the February or May 1987 issue of Humanity and Society.

BU Foundation funds several projects

The Bloomsburg University Foundation approved proposals totaling $34,000 for projects during the first three quarters of 1986.

Approved for this year's third quarter were $4,000 for a campus wide scholars symposium (part of the presidential scholars program arranging for top international speakers); $5,000 for an IBM AT for the math/computer science area; and $1,000 to support the high school bowl in mid November.

During the first quarter $10,000 was approved for the presidential scholars program. and in the second quarter $14,000 went to faculty development.

Guidelines for submitting proposals to the Foundation

DON'T TOSS IT!

University Archivist Roger Fromm requests that office files not be disposed of without contacting him for appraisal of the file material. He can be contacted at 4210 from 10 a.m. to noon in the archives during the week. His other number in the library is 4204.

DID YOU KNOW . . .

Research shows that when you encourage dissenting opinions, you get more productive meetings.

The reason: "Dissent appears to free people to express their authentic differences with the majority view. It makes the majority think and forces them to formulate and reevaluate their beliefs," according to a University of California (Berkeley) psychologist. (Source: Charlan Jeanne Nemeth, cited in World Magazine).

CAD instructors plan workshops

James Mullen, CAD reading coordinator, will be presenting a workshop in Berwick this semester on how to take tests and also one in Drums for the Job Corp Center. The workshop in Berwick is sponsored by the Educational Opportunity Center and will be held at the Berwick High School on Oct. 22 from 6:30 p.m. to 8:30 p.m.

Virgie Bryan, CAD reading instructor, will present a study skills workshop this semester in Danville. The workshop, sponsored by the Educational Opportunity Center, will be held Oct. 16 in the Danville High School from 7 p.m. to 9 p.m.

Occasionally, students request exemptions from class attendance and other university obligations to observe religious holidays. Most members of university faculty and staff are willing to approve such requests. This list, prepared by the Affirmative Action office, specifies those holy days of the major world religions for which observance may require a need for a student to depart from his/her normal routine at the University.

AGENCY GUIDES AVAILABLE

The first three in a series of federal agency guides are now available in the Grants Office, according to Peggy Bailey, grants director. These guides to research and education programs cover the U.S. Department of Energy, the U.S. Department of Defense, and the National Science Foundation. Other agency guides will be issued in the future, Bailey said.

Each guide contains information on all programs (research, fellowships, and institutional support) administered by a given agency that might support activities at colleges and universities.

Interested faculty may call the Grants Office, 4129, to review the guides.

National, BU student aid figures compared

FINANCIAL AID AWARDED, NATIONAL
1985-86

An estimated $21 billion was awarded nationally to students for financial assistance in academic year 1985-86, and the breakdown of types of assistance shows that half of all student aid nationally comes in forms of loans. A comparison between national figures and those showing sources of student aid used at Bloomsburg University shows that BU students have an even greater reliance on student loans, less grant aid than nationally, and significantly more aid in work-study wages.

FINANCIAL AID AWARDED, BU

The national figures come from the Washington, D.C., office of the College Board, and the Bloomsburg University figures come from the university's office of institutional planning, research, and information management. Karen Futoma, assistant director for institutional studies, prepared the charts.

QUEST offers courses for women

Hiking, backpacking, rope climbing, and mountain biking are four courses for women 18 years of age or older offered during October and early November by QUEST, Bloomsburg University's outdoor education program.

The courses are for women only and are designed with a first-time experience in mind. They provide recreation, personal growth, and fun experience, according to William Proudman, QUEST director.

The dates are hiking, Oct. 4; backpacking, Oct. 10-12; rock climbing, Oct. 19; and mountain biking, Nov. 1.

Interested women can register for these and other courses offered this fall by calling the QUEST office at 389-4323.

WANT TO GO RAFTING?

There is still time to enjoy a weekend of white water rafting on the Youghiogheny River in southwestern Pennsylvania offered Oct. 3-5 by BU's outdoor education program, QUEST. The Youghiogheny River provides a 12-mile stretch of some of the most exciting white water in the eastern part of the nation.

The course is open to anyone age 18 or older. Participants depart from Bloomsburg at 4:30 p.m. Friday and return Sunday evening. All essentials are covered in the $75 course fee. Call 389-4323 to register.

CORRECTION

The September 15 Communique' erroneously reported that James R. Whitmer, associate professor of history, is retiring at the end of this semester. Whitmer is actually retiring at the end of the fall semester of 1987. We apologize for the error.

Forensics team makes top 100 list

Bloomsburg University is one of only two Pennsylvania schools to place in the top 100 of the 1985-86 season's national collegiate forensics sweepstakes champions.

The results appeared in the recently published Intercollegiate Forensics Tournament Results Book for 1985-86. The Huskies of forensics director Harry Strine placed 74th, while Penn State, the other Pennsylvania school, was listed 93rd out of 820 high education schools that have active forensics programs.

Some tickets still available for CA series

Tickets to Bloomsburg University's Celebrity Artist Series are selling rapidly, according to Ted Shanoski, director of cultural affairs at BU, but individual tickets are still available for three of the four fall programs.

Patron subscriptions to the eight-performance series are no longer available, he said.

General admission tickets are still available for the Vienna Choir Boys, and reserved and general admission tickets are available for the Hal Holbrook program and the Western Opera Theater production of La Boheme. Tickets are $10 for general admission and $12 for reserved seats. Ticket information is available from the cultural affairs office at 389-4409 and the Kehr Union information desk at 389-3900.

Homecoming activities announced, office contest boasts prize

This year's Homecoming Weekend Oct. 17-19, boasts the theme "America - From Sea to Shining Sea." The weekend includes spirit week activities, a pep rally, residence hall and banner decorating, and the combined BU and Bloomsburg Area High School Homecoming parade.

A new twist has been added to this year's competition. The winning office receives a plaque and a four-foot hoagie donated by Berrigans. Office personnel are encouraged to get involved in the "Salute to America." Deadline for registration is Friday Oct. 10, at the information desk, KUB.

The Husky mascot waves to fans during the first home football game, against Lock Haven Sept. 20. He will be greeting fans and cheering the Huskies this Saturday and during the homecoming game against Mansfield Oct. 18.

Grants nearing $1 million mark for year

For the second consecutive year, research and training grants to Bloomsburg University are expected to total $1 million for academic and public service projects. Funding decisions on several grants are still pending, and other proposals are expected to be submitted during the year, according to Peggy Bailey, grants director.

Awards from the U.S. Department of Education total $452,804 and include funding for two cooperative education grants to administer a program that provides students an opportunity to gain practical job experience related to their career or professional goals. Ruben Britt, director of cooperative education, job location development, and internship placement, is in charge of the project.

Continuation grants include assistance for the department of communication disorders and special education to strengthen the university's master of science program in audiology, speech-language pathology, and education of the hearing impaired. Professor Gerald Powers is the project director.

The Upward Bound project, headed by Ruth Ann Bond, also received a continuation grant. The program identifies disadvantaged high school stu-

ENGLISH FACULTY TO MEET

English faculty from the 14 universities in the State System of Higher Education will gather in Bloomsburg Oct. 24 and 25 for the sixth annual conference of the English Association of the Pennsylvania State Universities (EAPSU).

Highlighting the program will be an appearance by poet Robert Creeley, sessions on literature, writing instruction, folklore, linguistics, teacher preparation, and grant applications, as well as the recognition of outstanding English majors from each institution.

Mary G. Bernath of the BU English department is coordinating the conference.

dents who have academic potential and assist them in their pursuit of post-secondary education.

PDE's Division of Child Nutrition has provided $7,815 for food service for participants in the Upward Bound summer program.

The Educational Opportunity Center consortium (six area colleges and universities) also received funds to continue two projects to assist low- and moderate-income residents who apply for admission and financial aid for college and to provide counseling and testing for career choices. An educational program of instruction, counseling, and motivation activities headed by Peter Walters, director of special services, also received a continuation grant. The program was designed to retain and graduate low-income, first generation, and physically disabled college students.

A research grant of $30,345 from the National Science Foundation to the Department of Physics, in collaborative effort with Pennsylvania State University, will permit James Moser to further investigate the effects of water vapor and lightening on radio signals in the atmosphere.

A second-year grant of $7,500 from the American Chemical Society to the Department of Geography and Earth Sciences will be used to test the use of secular changes in geomagnetic declinations for correlation of ice margins across the Appalachian Plateau. Duane Braun, professor of geography and earth sciences, is the project director.

Grants from state agencies include $75,784 for phase II of a Ben Franklin Partnership Challenge Grant from the Pennsylvania Department of Commerce to continue with the design and production of computer-based interactive videodisc materials in health care industries. Harold Bailey, professor of instructional systems development, is project director. In addition, $20,000 will be contributed by the Geisinger Medical Management Corporation, and software valued at $11,300.

Three vocational education grants for $40,026 from the Pennsylvania Department of Education and through the Penn State Center have been targeted to conduct a series of workshops for secondary and post-secondary teachers. The workshops will focus on the impact of current technology in the business education and office administration curricula.

The project is directed by John Olivo. Grant funds have been provided for consulting services project to vocational institutions and high schools regarding vocational education of handicapped students. Andrew Karpinski, professor of communication disorders and special education, is project director.

The Center for Academic Development, directed by Jesse Bryan, has been awarded $98,800 from PDE to offer instructional services in reading, writing, mathematics, and speech communications to aid students in their transition from high school to college.

Grants from the Pennsylvania Council on the Arts include $6,000 to support the Celebrity Artists Series and $5,000 for a performance by the Northeastern Pennsylvania Philharmonic. Ted Shanoski is cultural affairs director.

Through the Job Training Partnership Act, a total of $94,860 will provide training to area citizens who are experiencing difficulties in the job market to prepare them for occupations in office technology and the hospitality industry. John Olivo, assistant professor of business education and office administration, is directing that program. The

H.S. BOWL SCHEDULED

Invitations have been extended to 23 area high schools to participate in the fourth annual High School Bowl competition on Saturday, Nov. 15, at BU. The event is co-sponsored by the university and the Press-Enterprise.

For the first time, this year's semi-finals and final matches will be taped by the university's television center for later airing on cable channel 13 by Bloomsburg's Service Electric Cable TV.

Based on the same concepts as the popular "College Bowl" program, the High School Bowl is an academic quiz game designed to recognize outstanding scholarship.

WHY I TEACH

Bloomsburg University has an abundance of outstanding, caring faculty who provide students with excellent educational experiences in the classroom and in co-curricular activities. Why do people choose to teach? Why do they stick with it? What do they like about it? This issue of the Communique' begins a new series in which BU faculty will be featured answering the question: Why do you teach?" Faculty members asked to take part in this series are chosen randomly.

William K. Decker, professor of music:

"I guess I'm a teacher because I like to work with students. As a musician and a conductor, I am used to working with large groups of people, and it's particularly fun to work with young people.

"The young people at this institution are particularly exciting to work with, have a lot of energy, and they really care about what they are doing. That's what makes teaching exciting."

Decker

Slike

Samuel Slike, assistant professor of communication disorders and special education

"Some of the people have affected my life the most dramatically were teachers. I have also been fascinated by the process of learning and the place of education in our society. My life as an educator is truly fulfilling.

"I believe, as a trainer, I am able to have a positive impact on the lives of future teachers and inadvertently on the lives of the hearing impaired students that they teach.

"I teach because I get a great deal of satisfaction out of knowing that I may have a positive effect on the lives of my students in much the same way that my teachers influenced me."

Approximately $125,000 through Title V of the Older Americans Act and the Pennsylvania Green Thumb Program will provide temporary part-time employment for 25-30 low-income older workers on campus.

POSITIONS VACANT

Position vacancies announced in the personnel office include: clerk typist I in the philosophy and anthropology department (temporary part-time), clerk typist II in the languages and cultures department (temporary part-time).

FALL BACKPACKING OFFERED

A weekend of introductory backpacking along the scenic Black Forest Trail is being offered Oct. 24-26 by QUEST, BU's outdoor adventure program.

The trip has been planned to coincide with the last weekend of October when the fall color is at its peak, said QUEST Director William Proudman. The $45 fee covers transportation, equipment, and food. Register by calling 389-4323 or by stopping at the QUEST office in the Simon building on campus.

BU NOTES

Sue Jackson, assistant professor of sociology and social welfare, presented a workshop Sept. 16 on "Burnout" for the CMSU Mental Health and Mental Retardation Program at the Country Cupboard Best Western Hotel in Lewisburg. The participants were individuals who work in Group Living Arrangement Facilities for individuals who have been discharged from facilities for the mentally ill and the developmentally disabled.

Walter Brasch, associate professor of mass communications, was the guest speaker for the Espy Women's Civic Club Oct. 8. He told the 75 members and guests about the history of Columbia County, and the many techniques to research local history. Brasch's book, "Columbia County Place Names" was recently described by the American Name Society as "a model for similar studies (and) a work of significant substance."

Roger W. Fromm, university archivist and associate professor in the library department, has had an article accepted for publication in an issue of the 1987-88 volume of "Pennsylvania Folklife." His article is titled The Migration and Settlement of Pennsylvania Germans in Maryland, Virginia, and North Carolina and the Effects on the Landscape.

John Trathen, director of student activities and the Kehr Union, published an article titled Borrow a Cup of Ideas from the Store Next Door in the August/September issue of "The College Store Journal." University Store manager Bill Bailey was pictured on the cover of that issue.

Alumni-student mixer scheduled

Interaction between Bloomsburg University alumni and students is the goal of the first annual Alumni-Student Mixer on Friday, Oct. 17, the day before homecoming.

Suggested by alumni board member Steve Andrejack '74, this program is designed to give BU students an opportunity to meet informally with alumni engaged in a variety of professions and occupations. The program will begin at 2 p.m. in the Forum of the McCormick Human Services Center. Each alumni participant will be introduced and given two or three minutes to describe his or her career path. The rest of the informal program will give students an opportunity to seek out the alumni with whom they would like to speak -- over punch and cookies. The program should conclude by 4 p.m.

Faculty and staff are invited to attend.

DEANS' FUND DOLLARS AVAILABLE NOW

The Deans' Fund for Academic Excellence, a program of the Alumni Association, is accepting requests and suggestions for the use of the funds in four areas: Student research projects, the alumni-fellow-in-residence program, prizes for student papers, and aid to bring alumni back to BU to meet with students and faculty.

Faculty are asked to encourage students to apply for the research funding, to submit names of nominees for the alumni-in-residence program, to submit student papers, and to request funding to bring alumni for departmental visits.

Details are available in the alumni office, 389-4058.

Shuttle buses to ease parking woes for CA Series

Shuttle buses, both on and off campus, will be running during the evenings of the three remaining fall performances of the Celebrity Artist Series for 1986. The next performance is "A Chorus Line at 8 p.m. Oct. 22 in Mitrani Hall of Haas Center for the Arts.

"Since these three performances are all scheduled on week nights when students are attending classes, parking on the lower campus is at a premium," says Ted Shanoski, director of cultural affairs. "We're hoping to encourage people to use shuttle bus service to and from the upper campus, or to and from the town of Bloomsburg to avoid a great deal of congestion."

The shuttle bus schedule from the town and nearby areas is as follows: leave Market Square at 6:45, 7:10 and 7:30 p.m., with pickups at Magee Hotel, the hospital parking lot, Inn at Turkey Hill, Ridgeways, and on to the university.

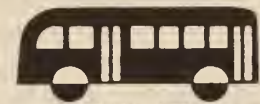

For those who park near Nelson Fieldhouse on the upper campus, buses will run to Haas Center every five minutes from 6:45 p.m. to 7:45 p.m. Pickup will be at the fieldhouse southwest parking lot.

A 15-passenger van will be available to transport anyone who has to leave before the end of the program to any of the pickup points.

There will be limited parking for the handicapped on Laubach Drive, formerly Spruce St., leading into the front of Haas Center from Second Street. Call 389-4201 to request a special parking permit.

The same schedules will be in effect during the other two 1986 performances, "Hal Holbrook in Mark Twain Tonight" on Nov. 5, and Western Opera Theater performing "LaBoheme" on Nov. 11.

More holy days recognized

The accompanying lists of religious holidays for the Protestant Christian and Roman Catholic faiths show holy days for which observance may require a student to depart from his/her normal routine at the university. These lists are in addition to the lists published in the Oct. 1 Communique' for the Byzantine Catholic Christian, Jewish, Muslim, and Orthodox Christian religions. These lists were prepared by the BU Affirmative Action Office.

Homecoming weekend
loaded with activities

"America -- From Sea to Shining Sea" is the theme of the 59th annual homecoming at Bloomsburg University Oct. 17-19.

The weekend activities include a pep rally and fireworks, homecoming parade, crowning of the homecoming and freshman sweethearts, Mansfield vs. BU football game, alumni dinner dance, and the Pops Concert.

Other activities are the induction of Robert Rohm into the BU Athletic Hall of Fame, a soccer game, a roast beef buffet luncheon, alumni reunions, and awards for best floats, banners, residence halls and office decorations, and interfraternity and intersorority awards.

Diane O'Conner, a senior special education major from Hughesville, is the homecoming committee chairperson. Friday Oct. 17, the traditional pep rally starts at 7 p.m. on the parking lot adjacent to Waller Administration Building. It will be followed by a bonfire and fireworks. During the pep rally, the freshman sweetheart and the five homecoming sweetheart finalists will be announced. The Husky football team also will be introduced.

Saturday starting at 8:45 a.m., six decorated residence halls and many campus office decorations will be judged.

This year the homecoming parade will be a combined effort with Bloomsburg High School. The parade will leave the Bloomsburg High School at 10 a.m., travel up Market Street to Main Street, east on Main, then up College Hill, and Second Street to Centennial Gym. The parade grand marshal is retired Bloomsburg High School principal Frank Golder, BU '31.

Music will be provided by the BU Maroon and Gold Band, BU Alumni Band, Pioneer Ancient Fife and Drum Corps, Keystone Ancient Drum and Bugle Corps, and the area high school bands of Millville, Bloomsburg, Central Columbia, Southern Columbia, Northwest, Berwick, and Benton.

The parade also features eight floats, the homecoming sweetheart contestants, local dignitaries, a multiple Irem Temple unit, and the Army/Air Force ROTC color guard.

After the parade, students, staff, faculty, alumni, and friends will head to Nelson Fieldhouse for the third annual "ox roast." Proceeds benefit the BU athletic department. Luncheon tickets must be reserved in advance by contacting the Alumni Office at 389-4058.

The Husky soccer team will entertain Cheyney University at 12 noon on the upper campus field.

The Mansfield Mounties will invade Redman Stadium at 1:30 p.m. for a homecoming football game with the Huskies. Halftime entertainment will feature band performances, the crowning of the 1986 homecoming sweetheart, awards for floats, residence halls decorations and office decorations, banners and academic accomplishments by the interfraternity and intersorority councils.

COMEDY

The National Touring Company of Second City, originators and leaders of ensemble comedy, will appear at 8 p.m. Monday, Oct. 27 in Mitrani Hall. Admission is free with university I.D. and a community activities sticker, $3 to all others. Tickets are available at Kehr Union information desk.

The Communique' publishes news of events and about people at Bloomsburg University on the 1st and 15th of each month, except for the summer, at BU. Please send story ideas to The Communique', Office of University Relations, Bloomsburg University, Bloomsburg, PA 17815

Bloomsburg Univeristy is committed to Affirmative Action/Equal Opportunity, and minorities, women, and other protected class members are urged to pursue education and employment opportunities at BU.

Coach to Hall of Fame

An added attraction will be the induction of Central Columbia High School football coach Robert Rohm into the BU Hall of Fame by Ira Gensemer, Husky club president, and university president Harry Ausprich. Rohm, a 1960 BU graduate, participated in three sports and won 12 varsity letters during his collegiate career.

At 6:30 p.m., a homecoming buffet will be held at the Sheraton Inn in Danville followed by a dance at 9 p.m. The classes of '61, '66, '71, '76, and '81 will celebrate their reunions during the affair.

Performing groups for the annual Pops Concert at 2:30 p.m. on Sunday in the Mitrani Hall include the Women's Choral Ensemble, directed by Wendy Miller, and the Concert Choir and Husky Singers, both directed by William Decker.

The public is invited to participate in the weekend of homecoming events.

 Pops concert is full of fun

The Women's Choral Ensemble, Concert Choir, and Husky Singers of Bloomsburg University's department of music will perform their annual Homecoming Pops Concert at 2:30 p.m. Oct. 19 in Mitrani Hall of Haas Center. The concert is free of charge.

The groups will perform music appropriate for the homecoming theme, "America from Sea to Shining Sea."

The Women's Choral Ensemble, directed by Wendy Miller, will open the concert. Their portion of the program, titled, "The American Way--Dancin' and Romancin'," will include "Varsity Drag," "At the Hop," "Forever," "It's Raining Men" and "Last Dance."

The Husky Singers will open with Irving Berlin's "God Bless America," continue with the favorites "Cherish" and "Mandy" and add two of their specialty numbers using choreography and the typical Husky fun, "A Whale of a Tale," and "Jailhouse Rock." A barbershop octet will complete the men's portion of the program.

The Concert Choir begins with "God Bless the U.S.A." and concludes with a special medley of George M. Cohan favorites. In between will be solos and dances and choral versions of "St. Elmo's Fire," "Birdland" and "Give Me Your Tired, Your Poor." In the last selection, the choir will be joined by 40 Concert Choir alumni who look forward each year to returning to Bloomsburg and participating in this concert. Both the Choir and the Singers are directed by William Decker.

The Concert Choir will perform again Oct. 25 with the famed Pittsburgh Symphony in a special benefit concert at Millersville University. The Husky Singers will travel to Fairfield University Nov. 15 for a concert with the FU Women's Choir. The Women's Ensemble will sing Nov. 15 during campus visitation day, and will be featured Dec. 13 at the all-campus midnight Christmas mass.

DID YOU KNOW. . .

Public universities are moving aggressively into fund raising. Ohio State University has a $350 million campaign underway, more than twice the amount any public university has raised in a single drive, reports The New York Times. Universities of Indiana,

Illinois, Michigan, Minnesota, Georgia Tech, and Berkeley each have launched campaigns of $100 million or more, with funds in most cases going to increase academic quality rather than for new construction. The number of state-supported development officers on the 64 campuses of the State University of New York has risen from zero to 50 in the last six years, and private gifts have grown from $15 million to $50 million a year.

ROTC agreement signed

An agreement to have a full extension center of the Bucknell Reserve Officer Training Corps established at Bloomsburg University has been signed by Bucknell President Gary Sojka and Bloomsburg President Harry Ausprich.

Two full-time Army ROTC instructors from the Bucknell unit will teach military science courses to the approximately 60 ROTC cadets enrolled at BU. Previously, Bucknell offered military science courses at Bloomsburg only on a cross-enrolled basis.

"Vocational preparation and scholarship benefits, along with military training, are attracting students to the program," says Major George Venesky, ROTC representative assigned to the Bloomsburg campus. Four-year ROTC cadets can graduate as second lieutenants, earning a minimum salary of approximately $22,000, he said. Scholarship students also receive full-tuition benefits, a monthly stipend, and reimbursement for textbooks. In return, they serve four years active duty and four years in the Army reserves.

Strategic Issues Group moves toward new mission statement

With the work of the last of its three task forces nearly complete, Bloomsburg University's Strategic Issues Group is moving toward its goal of turning over a draft mission statement to the Planning Commission by the end of this semester.

Chaired by Interim Provost and Vice President for Academic Affairs Dan Pantaleo, the Strategic Issues Group has reviewed final reports of the task forces on institutional strengths and weaknesses and on environmental analysis.

Pantaleo said the Strategic Issues Group is drafting goals and objectives for the university based on the task force reports.

When the final report of the future directions task force is ready, the Strategic Issues Group will compare its lists of goals and objectives with the future directions report "to reinforce the goals and objectives already synthesized and possibly to identify new ones," Pantaleo said.

The Strategic Issues Group will then draft a mission statement based on the goals and objectives and forward the entire package to the Planning Commission. The target deadline for presenting this information to the Planning Commission is the end of this semester.

In the meantime, as the committee completes its work, the Strategic Issues Group will be forwarding copies of the task force reports to the department chairpeople and members of the administration for their information.

Vote on governance document, BUCC change slated

A faculty vote Dec. 3-4 will decide the fate of the final governance document prepared by a governance committee appointed by President Harry Ausprich last year. The committee disbanded once it had completed its task early this semester, according to Dan Pantaleo, interim provost and vice president for academic affairs.

The new document provides for five committees to advise the four vice presidents and to address the future planning of allocation of resources to programs of the university. These committees are: a Curriculum Committee, a Planning and Budget Committee, and committees for general administration, institutional advancement, and student life. Each committee would have 12-15 members.

The Curriculum Committee, of the same composition as the current Bloomsburg University Curriculum Committee (BUCC), was inserted by BUCC in the new document to replace an Academic Affairs Committee that was part of an earlier draft. The Planning and Budget Committee would replace the current Planning Commission.

BUCC has also altered some of its by-laws, and therefore that section of the document involving the Curriculum Committee must also be presented to local meet and discuss if the document is approved by the faculty.

Hence, the faculty vote will address both the new governance document and the changes in BUCC's by-laws. The voting will take place in the APSCUF Office in the Waller Administration Building.

The faculty will receive a copy of the governance document and a ballot from Lauffer and Pantaleo in the very near future.

STEAM LINES NEED WORK

Bids were due to be opened by the Department of General Services in Harrisburg in late October for replacement of deteriorating underground steam condensate lines in several locations on the BU campus. Work on the job, which has been estimated at $559,000, will be done next summer. Locations for the work include the Waller parking lot and driveway and parking areas near Haas Center for the Arts and Luzerne Hall.

HOW MANY TREES?

One hundred twenty new trees have been planted over the past three years, according to Robert Parrish, vice president for administration. The new plantings include those on the library mall, near the softball field, and in front of Centennial Gym.

WHY I TEACH

Bloomsburg University has an abundance of outstanding, caring faculty who provide students with excellent educational experiences in the classroom and in co-curricular activities. Why do people choose to teach? Why do they stick with it? What do they like about it? In this Communique series, BU faculty are featured answering the question: "Why do you teach?" Faculty members asked to take part in this series are chosen randomly, but, if you would like to be part of it, please call the University Relations Office at 389-4112.

Anne K. Wilson, associate professor of sociology and social welfare:

"Basically, I enjoy the freedom and autonomy of the profession as well as the opportunity for a lot of social interaction. Studying sociology had a big impact on me, and I hope to pass on some of this. I enjoy doing research on the topics that I consider to be important, rather than on those that government or private industry has decided to push."

BU Players' children's drama perfect for Halloween

Do murky swamps with snakes and hanging moss, choking vines, pools of quicksand and humans transformed into alligators and bats sound terrifying? Add to that picture one young boy bravely trying to conquer his fears, and you have "Wiley and the Hairy Man," the Bloomsburg University Players' fall children's drama.

The production is scheduled for 8 p.m. Nov. 5 through Nov. 8 in Carver Auditorium, with a 2 p.m. matinee, Nov. 8.

The play is set in the swamps of a Louisiana bayou exploring the earthly environment in all its richness and detail. The plot revolves around the humor and poignancy of Wiley's battle with his fear of the Hairy Man.

An unusual feature is a voice and movement chorus composed of four actors who create all of the sounds and physical images of the swamp. Hand-painted costumes and fog machines add to the world of Wiley, Mammy, the Dog, and the Hairy Man.

General admission tickets ($3 for adults and $1.50 for children) will be available at the door. For additional information, call 389-4287.

MADRIGAL TICKETS AVAILABLE

Tickets are still available for the Bloomsburg University's Madrigal Singers' annual Christmas banquet at 7:30 p.m. Dec. 10 through Dec. 13 in the Scranton Commons. This year's theme is "A Christmas Cruise," featuring seasonal music by the singers and the BU Studio Band.

NOTABLE

Gifts and pledges to the BU Foundation for the Arts Endowment have reached $130,000, according to Tony Ianiero, director of development. The goal is $250,000.

BUCC, Planning Commission to hear about outcomes assessment

The University Planning Commission and the B.U. Curriculum Committee will hear presentations on outcomes assessment needs and possible future directions in November and December meetings, respectively.

Dan Pantaleo, interim provost and vice president for academic affairs, describes outcomes assessment as one way to determine what kind of value is added to a student's life as a result of a college education. While both the Middle States Association body and the SSHE now require a plan for measurement of outcomes, the university has the opportunity to structure its assessment plans to benefit its students and academic programs, he said. The initial focus of assessment efforts at Bloomsburg will be on the general education program. Such an activity can assist in future efforts to fine tune the general education program, Pantaleo said. He said a faculty committee will look at external testing instruments to find the best one for B.U. to evaluate the value added to its graduates as a result of the general education component.

The value added in a student's major is already partly assessed via the program reviews which are conducted every five years, he said.

"Outcomes assessment is something we can do to get quantifiable information on the quality of the education our students receive," Pantaleo said. "Such information can assist us in recruiting highly qualified students, strengthening our curricula, supporting the faculty, and improving our retention of students."

Governor names Pursel to Council of Trustees

Bloomsburg Attorney Charles B. "Cardy" Pursel was recently appointed to the Council of Trustees at Bloomsburg University by Governor Richard Thornburgh. He replaces long-time trustee Elton Hunsinger, who died earlier this year.

Pursel attended Bloomsburg public schools and graduated from Haverford College in 1959. He received his law degree from the University of Pennsylvania in 1962.

From 1962 to 1980, he served in the U.S. Coast Guard Reserve, attaining the rank of lieutenant. Pursel has been in general law practice in Bloomsburg since 1963 and is currently a partner of the law firm of Derr, Pursel, and Luschas. He holds membership in the American, Pennsylvania, and Columbia-Montour Bar Associations.

He is a member and lay moderator of the First English Baptist Church and is a director of the Bloomsburg Bank-Columbia Trust Company. His other memberships include: Bloomsburg Tennis Club, Elks Club, local Masonic bodies, BU Husky Club and Bloomsburg Area Chamber of Commerce.

Pursel is married to the former Elizabeth (Betty) Cotner of Danville. They have three children: Leslie Jane, 18; Tom, 16; and Brad, 14. The family resides at 398 Market Street, Bloomsburg.

NEW HEAD AT TIAA-CREF

TIAA-CREF has named Clifton R. Wharton, Jr., chancellor of the State University of New York, to become Chairman and Chief Executive Officer effective Feb. 1, 1987. He will succeed James G. MacDonald upon his retirement after 30 years of service.

SAVE A LIFE, GIVE BLOOD

The Red Cross is sponsoring a Bloodmobile Wednesday and Thursday, Nov. 12-13 at 10:30 a.m.-4:30 p.m. in the Kehr Union Building.

FOR THOSE WITH TYPING NEEDS ...

The word processing center in McCormick Human Services Center, Room 1210, is open to complete all faculty typing needs. The center is open from 8 a.m. to 4:30 p.m., Monday through Friday.

Seven area banks give foundation support

Seven area banks recently have contributed and pledged a total of nearly $50,000 to the Bloomsburg University Foundation, Development Director Anthony Ianiero has announced.

The contributions are earmarked for either the Arts Endowment Fund or the Unrestricted University Fund, Ianiero noted. "We are greatly appreciative of the generosity of these local banking institutions and their interest in Bloomsburg University," he said. "Their contributions help immensely to expand a number of university activities that benefit our students and area residents."

Four banks gave $10,000 each. They are Bloomsburg Bank-Columbia Trust Co., Columbia County Farmers National Bank, Commonwealth Bank and Trust Co., N.A. of Williamsport, and First National Bank of Berwick.

First Federal Savings and Loan of Bloomsburg and Hazleton contributed $4,000, and First Eastern Bank and United Penn Bank, both of Bloomsburg with headquarters in Wilkes-Barre, contributed $2,500 each.

United Way co-chairs to start BU campaign

BU President Harry Ausprich has been joined by Rosemary McGrady, supervisor of mail services, and Linda Zyla, assistant director of residence life, to co-chair the 1986 SECA/United Way campaign for Bloomsburg University.

The three have set a goal of 50 percent participation and $19,300 for the university. Colleagues in all departments and offices will contact each university employee this month to distribute pledge cards and answer questions about the United Way.

BU AND APPLE SIGN AGREEMENT

Bloomsburg University has signed an agreement with Apple Computers for the purchase of MacIntosh computers at discount prices. This pertains to all full-time faculty, staff, and students at BU. More information about this program, which is for one academic year, may be obtained from the Office of Vice Provost, Kalyan Ghosh.

COUCH RECITAL SLATED

Pianist John H. Couch, associate professor of music, will present a faculty recital at 8 p.m. Tuesday, Nov. 18, in the Carver Hall Auditorium. Admission is free.

SYSTEM NOTES

●SSHE has requested a $1 million line item appropriation for fiscal 1987-88 for a proposed Pennsylvania Academy for the Profession of Teaching. In introducing the concept of the academy, Chancellor James H. McCormick noted: "Teacher education has been put back on the 'front burner' in Pennsylvania. Through this system initiative, it is our intention to keep it there."

The academy, to be launched by the SSHE this year, will put school and university leaders in partnership to strengthen teacher preparation programs and the development of teachers at all levels. "For the State System of Higher Education, ours is a mission of service--to be the state's regional social, intellectual, and cultural centers," McCormick said.

●The SSHE Board of Governors has recently approved an educational and general appropriation request of $308,580,000, an increase of more than $29 million over the 1986-87 fiscal year appropriation. The increase represents an effort to hold the line on tuition costs and to meet the system's mandatory and inflationary cost increases for the next fiscal year.

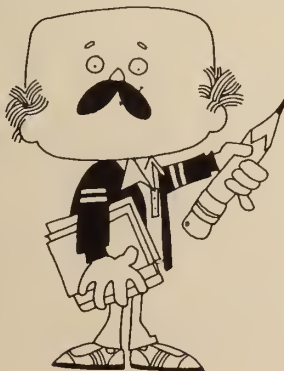

The state appropriation represents 62.2 percent of the total E and G budget of the SSHE, therefore, the requested increase amounts to only 6.5 percent in new revenue, according to SSHE Vice Chancellor for Finance and Administration Wayne G. Failor.

●Capital projects totalling more than $247 million were approved recently by the SSHE Board of Governors for the SSHE 1987-88 capital appropriation request.

BU projects on the list include $333,500 for furniture and equipment for Old Science, $1.191 million for a steam system replacement, $3.885 million for the renovation of Centennial Gym, $3.208 million to renovate Ben Franklin Hall, $10.2 million for the library, and $491,000 for parking facilities.

ORDER CAPS, GOWNS FOR DECEMBER

Faculty and staff members wishing to rent a cap and gown for the December commencement ceremonies should complete an order form and return it to the University Store by Friday, Nov. 14. Forms are available in department offices, or call 389-4180.

The Provost's Office will support the cost of rental of academic regalia for faculty who do not own these garments and do not wish to make a personal expenditure for rentals. Requests should be sent to the Provost's Office by Friday, Nov. 7.

Faculty will be seated on stage during the December commencement and will be asked to rise when the graduates are awarded their degrees.

B.S. in adult health approved by SSHE board

A new degree program, Bachelor of Science in Adult Health, has been approved for Bloomsburg University by the Board of Governors for the State System of Higher Education.

The new degree emphasizes sound studies of the physical, psychological, and intellectual potential of the human being at various adult phases. The program has been added to the university's Department of Health, Physical Education, and Athletics with very little cost, according to Jerry Medlock, chairman of the department.

All but two of the required courses currently are taught on campus, and no additional faculty will be needed for the program for several years, Medlock said. "Students in the program have the opportunity to take a wide spectrum of courses in general education and liberal arts, which will be advantageous in assisting older people," he said.

The need for the new degree program grew from the gradual increase in the mean age of the general population and the great increase in the elderly population, along with the programs that deal with adulthood and aging, Medlock said.

BU cable shows feature schools, H.S. bowl, holiday special

Bloomsburg University's regularly scheduled cablecast on channel 13 will feature a program called "United for Excellence" Nov. 18 (1 p.m.), Nov. 19 (9 p.m.), and Dec. 3 (9 p.m.). The program was shot by Bloomsburg High School students and features various aspects of the entire Bloomsburg School District, according to Tom Joseph, BU director of TV programming and services.

Other special shows to be aired on the cablecast include the final rounds of the High School Bowl sponsored by BU and the Press-Enterprise (Nov. 25 and 26) and "A Bloomsburg Christmas," a special of holiday greetings from BU (Dec. 10 and 16).

NELSON ROOF, HEAT RECOVERY WORK STARTED

Work began in late October to reroof the Nelson Fieldhouse. The project, to cost an estimated $230,000, should be completed by winter.

A project to install a dehumidification and heat recovery system in the Nelson Fieldhouse pool areas has been awarded to the successful bidder, and work will begin soon. The system to be installed takes moisture out of the air and puts it back into the pool and will keep the pool water at 81°, the air temperature at 82°, and the humidity at 50 percent, according to Don McCulloch, director of the physical plant and energy management. Energy-saving advantages of the system are that warm, moist air will not have to be expelled, and the pool water will not have to be heated, he said.

BU NOTES

Quest director Bill Proudman presented two workshops at the Association for College Unions-International Region 4 conference at IUP Oct. 25. Proudman presented sessions titled Liability, Safety and Insurance, and Student Development through Outdoor Experience.

On Nov. 4, Proudman will again present a session on Student Development through Outdoor Experience at the East Coast Region conference of the National Association for Campus Activities in Lancaster.

Proudman has been invited to attend the National Conference on Outdoor Recreation to be held at the University of California, Davis, from Nov. 6-9. He will serve as a panel member for a session entitled Future Trends in Outdoor Recreation.

Chang Shub Roh, professor of sociology and social welfare, served as a chair of the session on Social Welfare and Industrial Development at the annual meeting of the Association for Advancement of Policy, Research, and Development in the Third World in Berkeley, Calif., recently.

He also presented a paper on "Indigenization of Social Work Practice in Industrializing Societies" at the meeting.

Four QUEST staff members recently attended the annual conference of the Association for Experiential Education held Sept. 25-28, in Moodus, Conn.

Director Bill Proudman, program director Gina Onushco, logistics coordinator Mark Yerkes and staffing coordinator Janet Willie attended the gathering that attracted more than 700 experiential educators from North America.

Proudman is currently the president of the Association for Experiential Education. The AEE, with headquarters in Boulder, Colo., consists of over 1000 individual and institutional members who are committed to adventure-based experiential learning.

Harry C. Strine III, associate professor of communication studies, attended the Speech Communication Association of Pennsylvania's 47th annual convention in Pittsburgh Oct. 9-11. He was a panelist on the program entitled: A Look at How Judges See Collegiate Forensics - A Chance to Compare.

He was also elected to the position of Chairperson-Elect for the Forensic Interest Council.

Leo G. Barrile, associate professor of sociology, presented a paper Oct. 9 on "Television Viewing and Retributive Attitudes about Athlete Drug Users" in Philadelphia at the Hotel Hershey. It was at the Sixth International Conference on Culture and Communication.

James R. Lauffer, associate professor of geography and earth science, will present a paper titled "A Hydrochemical Model of the Shallow Ground-Water System Peripheral to Rehoboth Bay" at the 99th annual meeting and exposition of the Geological Society of America in San Antonio, Texas, Nov. 10-13, 1986. Lauffer also will take a short course on the Introduction to the Geologic Use of Micro-computers prior to the meeting.

SUMMER SESSION ALTERNATIVE

Faculty members whose advisees have experienced difficulty in scheduling general education classes in math, English composition, C.I.S., general psychology, business, communications, and speech during the regular school year, are reminded that sections of these high-demand courses are offered on a guaranteed basis during the university's Summer Sessions Program.

Continuing their studies in the summertime is an attractive alternative for many students for whom easier access to high demand courses and the relaxed atmosphere of the summer season is a welcome relief from the hectic pace of the fall and spring semesters. Summer sessions course catalogs should be released in February.

Tax planning seminar could help you now

APSCUF and the Accounting Department of the College of Business will jointly sponsor a tax planning seminar on Wednesday, Nov. 5, 1986, from 4 p.m. to 5 p.m. in the Forum of the McCormick Center for Human Services. The purpose of this seminar is to learn how to take advantage of the provisions of the old law before it slips away.

Waiting until December to plan your financial decisions may not allow enough time to carry them through, says Robert P. Yori, chairman of the department of accounting.

Tax law changes that will affect everyone will be included in the program. Topics will be:

- o Will you be in a higher or lower tax bracket next year?

- o Will your retirement contribution be taxed next year?

- o How will the elimination of sales tax and interest expense deductions next year affect your tax bill this year?

- o Under what conditions would it be better to sell a profitable investment now, while there is still a favorable capital gains tax rate available?

- o Is real estate still a good investment for tax purposes?

Seminar participants will include Bob Yori, CPA; Charles Bayler, CPA; Terry Jones, CPA, CMA; Richard McClellan, CPA; and Paul Shoemaker, CPA.

PICTURE TAKEN

Professional portraits of all faculty, administration, and management employees will be taken in the Gold Room of the Kehr Union Nov. 4-5 between the hours of 9 a.m. and 4:30 p.m. The pictures will be used in the Obiter, the BU yearbook, and they will be kept on file in the University Relations Office.

The goal is to have a good, up-to-date photograph of each faculty member and administrative and management employee for use by the Obiter or by other media who request photos.

Please stop by and have your picture taken anytime during the two days the professional photographers are here.

Symposium on Mid-East conflict, peace process brings top-notch speakers

William B. Quandt, acting director of the foreign policy studies program, The Brookings Institute, Washington, D.C., will be the keynote speaker at a symposium titled The Arab-Israeli Conflict: The Search for Peace Nov. 17 through Nov. 20 at Bloomsburg University. Eight other prominent Middle-East experts fill out the program.

The symposium is sponsored by the BU Scholars Program with support from the BU Foundation and the Dean's Fund for Academic Excellence. The Scholars Program, which began this fall, enables academically promising students to reach beyond the limits of a traditional college education and become exposed to challenging learning opportunities commensurate with their abilities. All sessions are open to the public.

Quandt, a senior staff member of the National Security Council during the Carter Administration, was the key person in drafting the Camp David Accords. He has just published a book "Camp David: Peacemaking and Politics." The former University of Pennsylvania political science professor has been a senior fellow with the Brookings Institute since 1979.

Other officials addressing the symposium include: Albert J. Planagan, director, Office of Near East, U.S. Department of Commerce; Antony Sullivan, director, Near East Support Services; Clovis Maksoud, ambassador, Arab League; Thomas Naff, director, Middle East Research Institute, University of Pennsylvania; David Ben-Dov, Consulate General of Israel; Mark Rosenblum, Peace Now; Farouk Helmy, minister, Egyptian Embassy, Washington, D.C. and George Turner, BU professor specializing in Middle East history.

Alumni fund transferred to BU Foundation

An agreement signed Oct. 17 will allow for the Alumni Annual Fund to be coordinated and administered by the Development Office in conjunction with the Bloomsburg University Foundation starting Jan. 1, 1987.

BU NOTES

Nancy Onuschak, professor of nursing and interim director, University Scholars Program, recently reviewed the BSN program at Oakland University in Rochester, Michigan as an accreditation site visitor for the Council of Baccalaureate and Higher Degree Programs of the National League for Nursing (NLN). The primary purpose of accreditation of programs in nursing is to foster continuous development and improvement in the quality of educational programs throughout the United States and thus promote improvement of nursing services in health care delivery.

John Maittlen-Harris, chairman of the department of Mass Communications, has co-authored an article on the value of use of computers in writing news copy. His co-author is Dr. Paula Renfro of Southwest Texas State University. The article is published in the winter edition of "Journalism Educator," 1986. (Vol. 41. No. 3) of the University Professors of English held in York, England, during the first week in September.

Terry Oxley, assistant professor of music, published an article in the October, 1986 issue of "The Wisconsin School Musician" titled Rediscover a New Composer. The article discusses the preservation and performance of unpublished band works from 1925 to 1955, dealing specifically with Midwestern composer J. Henry Spencer.

Elise M. Brenner, assistant professor of anthropology, has two recent publications: Archaeological Investigations at a Massachusetts Praying Town, published in the "Bulletin of the Massachusetts Archaeological Society" 1986, volume 47; and Sociopolitical Implications of Mortuary Ritual Remains in Seventeenth-Century Native Southern New England, to be published in early 1987 in an edited volume titled, The Recovery of Meaning in Historical Archaeology, edited by Mark P. Leone and Parker B. Potter, published by Smithsonian Institution Press. Dr. Brenner will also be presenting an invited paper at the American Anthropological Association annual meetings in December; the paper is titled, Responses to Subsistence Stress Among Fur-Trading Algonkians.

William Acierno, associate professor of mass communications, was video producer of the American Cancer Society's Telethon of Hope on Sunday, Nov. 2. The 12-hour telethon was presented from two locations, Troiani's Restaurant, Berwick and the studios in McCormick Center. This was the first time a telethon has been simulcast from two locations in this area.

Assisting Acierno were Dana Ulloth, associate professor of mass communications, Tom Joseph and Terry Hoover of TV services, and numerous telecommunication students.

The telethon was seen in six counties and carried by three cable TV companies. A total of $22,600 plus was raised, which was 50% beyond the telethon goal.

Glenn Sadler, assistant professor of English, will give a paper titled George MacDonald and Robert Browning as Makers of Myth at a joint meeting of the George MacDonald and Robert Browning Societies in London in December. In

He will also chair a panel on Communitarianism and Utopianism for the 1987 Popular Culture Association/American Culture Association meeting to be held in Montreal, March 25-29, 1987.

Danny Robinson, assistant professor of English, will chair a meeting on Hawthorne during the annual Modern Language Association conference to be held in New York City, Dec. 27-29. As part of that meeting, he will present a paper titled "The Romancer's Revenge: Hawthorne's Influence Over Early Biographers."

Phillip A. Farber, professor of biological and allied health sciences, attended the annual meetings of the American Society of Human Genetics, which were held in Philadelphia Nov. 2-5. Workshops focused on diagnosis of gene defects, chromosomal errors and genetic counseling.

Andruss Library librarians Marilou Zeller, Janet Olsen, and Director William Ryan hosted a Fall Catalogers' meeting of the Pennsylvania Library Network (PALINET) on campus Oct. 24. Librarians and library staff members from six academic libraries and Geisinger Medical Center attended the day-long conference on the anticipated changes in the OCLC (Online Computer Library Center) online system. Interested representatives visited Andruss Library for a demonstration of the OCLC cataloging microenhancer software and the library's bar coding practices.

of the university. The foundation was reactivated by President Harry Ausprich in January 1986 and has raised more than a half million dollars in gifts and pledges since that time.

As part of the agreement, the Alumni Association will have a guaranteed annual budget from the foundation, with a percentage increase each year to fund traditional alumni programs and provide new services.

In a letter to alumni, Mary Anne Klemkosky, president of the Alumni Association, said, "We look forward to your continued support of an investment in the Bloomsburg University Alumni Association so that we may increase our services to you and all alumni."

The merging of the two funds will allow for the BU Development Office to serve as the coordinating body for all university fundraising activities and programs to optimize fundraising efforts, according to Tony Ianiero, director of development.

Bad-weather policy announced

Vice President for Administration Robert Parrish has announced a policy on notification about class cancellations due to weather conditions. Information on school closing or class cancellations will be aired on selected radio and television stations, he said.

The radio stations include: WCNR (Bloomsburg) - 930 AM; WHLM (Bloomsburg) - 550 AM, 106.5 FM; WILQ (Williamsport) - 105 FM; WLYC (Williamsport) - 1050 AM; WPGM (Danville) - 1570 AM, 96.7 FM; WKOK (Sunbury) - 1070 AM; and WBRX (Berwick) - 1280 AM.

The television stations are: WYOU (Scranton) - Channel 22; WBRE (Wilkes-Barre) - Channel

28; WNEP (Avoca) - Channel 16; and WOLF (Hazleton) - Channel 38.

There are several procedures to be followed when the university is not officially closed.

When classes are maintained under snow conditions where commuting students may face hazardous driving conditions, it should be clearly understood that those students should be excused from attendance without academic penalty, according to the policy.

Where outlying faculty face hazardous driving conditions to get to campus, they should phone the Law Enforcement Office (389-4168) in ample time to allow their class can-cancellations to be announced, so that students do not face the elements to come to class which will not meet.

Off-campus classes and evening class meetings under snow conditions are left to the discretion of the individual faculty members. The law enforcement cancellations call procedure should be followed; for off-campus classes, it is hoped that the faculty member will make a special effort to phone their students, the policy states. The university will reimburse faculty members for any long distance charges incurred.

WRESTLING TICKETS AVAILABLE

Tickets for the Bloomsburg-Iowa State wrestling match Nov. 28 in Nelson Fieldhouse are now on sale at two locations on the campus.

General admission seats are available for $5 at the Kehr Union information desk as well as the Athletic Office in the fieldhouse. Reserved seat tickets may be purchased for $8 and $12 at the fieldhouse only.

The specially scheduled match is an athletic fund-raising event; no passes will be accepted.

NTS WEEK

The Student Organization of Adult Resources (SOAR) at Bloomsburg University announces that Non-Traditional Student (NTS) Week will be observed at the university Nov. 17 through 21.

You can start making phone book changes now

Now that the faculty-staff phone books are out, the University Relations Office is receiving information about changes or incorrect entries. As they are brought to our attention, we will publish them in the Communique in a form that will allow phone book users to cut out the changes and insert them into the phone books.

Six new faculty positions authorized

BU President Harry Ausprich has authorized the addition of a complement of six faculty for the 1987-88 academic year, provost and vice president for academic affairs Dan Pantaleo has announced. The six will become part of the permanent complement in academic affairs, he said.

The academic deans will meet with the provost soon to determine priorities for the new positions, particularly as they apply to the emphasis areas arising from the analysis currently being done by the BU Strategic Issues Group, Pantaleo said.

STUDY TOUR OF THE USSR

BU will be offering a study tour of the USSR over the spring break, March 14-23. This tour will include visits to Moscow and Leningrad and will be preceded by lectures on Russian/Soviet history since 1860. The participants will also be instructed in the Russian language to permit them to do some independent travel in the cities being visited during the tour. Participants who enroll for the interdisciplinary course (history and politics of the USSR) will receive three credits. The cost of the tour is approximately $1,050.

For further information, please contact A. Sylvester, History Department, 389-4161.

The show, Mountains of North America, will be at 8:15 p.m. in Kuster Auditorium of Hartline Science Center.*

Noninstructional alumni day brings 35 retirees

BU's non instructional retirees were honored Nov. 1 at the third annual day dedicated to the former employees. They were welcomed back by President Harry Ausprich and Vice President Robert Parrish. Thirty-five employees with a total of 503 years of service attended the event, which included a tour of the Alumni House and the university campus, lunch, and the Slippery Rock vs. Bloomsburg football game.

Mary Haggerty, a retired secretary from the Maintenance Department, had the longest period of service with 32 years. Other retirees who attended were: Arlene C. Barton, clerk stenographer, vice president of administration;

Aldama Brusseau, utility plant; Jay Crawford, utility plant; Kathryn Creasy, computer center; Thelma K. Dieterick, custodial; Marian M. Downs, switchboard; June K. Edwards, housemother; Harold E. Fisher, custodial; Lamoine K. Fritz, clerk stenographer, special education; Hazel M. Frye, clerk stenographer, English; W. Hanley Gassert, carpenter; Russell Haines, police officer; C. Donald Housenick, computer center; G. Wesley Houseweart, custodial; J. Don Hower, locksmith; Stella E. Kalbach, data recording machine operator, purchasing; Harold F. Kapp, custodial; Elizabeth (Brooking) Keiser, clerical supervisor, personnel; Robert R. Knapp, custodial; Eleanor B. Knorr, clerk, post office; Stanley Lizardi, custodial; David I. Llewellyn, utility plant; Bernette M. Pegg, custodial; Frances M. Petak, clerk typist, business office; Ralph Remley, refrigeration mechanic; Hubert Rescorla, equipment operator; Max M. Roeder, utility plant; David S. Ruckle, police officer; Eleanor P. Shamis, descriptive statistician, institutional research; Eldora Stephens, library assistant; Carl E. Viets, custodial; Alice E. Yorty, custodial; Edward F. Zablocky, custodial; and Claude W. Zehner, equipment operator.

GOOD RESPONSE

The response has been good to the University Relations Office request for faculty and administration to fill out forms for biodata updates and speakers bureau and expert source booklets. There is still time for any people who haven't sent the forms in to do so, however.

The University Relations Office will begin compiling the data for the booklets this month. The sourcebook of experts will be given to news media reporters for use when they need local expert comment on issues of regional, national, or international significance. Area organizations, clubs, and societies will make use of the speakers bureau brochure to obtain university speakers for their programs.

Grants workshop gives advice

Dr. Gerald Stacy, associate dean for research at Indiana University of Pennsylvania, explained the procedures in obtaining federal grants and foundation funding to approximately 85 faculty and administrators and grants and development officers at a grants workshop held recently in the Forum of the McCormick Human Services Center. Representatives attended from universities in the State System of Higher Education, Penn State-Hazleton campus, and community agencies.

"Grant proposals should be written as though one is writing for a peer reviewer and not agency people," Stacy said. "Review panels cover many proposals in a comparatively short period of time, so it is mandatory that writing be clear and concise."

Stacy believes a grant proposal should include transition sentences from the previous paragraph, a topic sentence, a limiting or restrictive sentence, and specific details. A needs statement should also accompany such grant requests.

Soc. department conducts drug testing survey

A study on drug testing in the workplace is being conducted by mail beginning Nov. 13 in the greater Bloomsburg area by members of the sociology department at Bloomsburg University. The proposed respondents are selected at random and are being sent a letter and a questionnaire. The basic information sought by the sociology department is what the respondents think about testing workers for illegal drugs and what the respondents think ought to be done to those workers who are found to be taking drugs. It is pointed out there are no "right" or "wrong" answers for the questions, just the respondent's particular opinion. Associate Professor Leo Barrile, who heads the study, stresses the point that no names will appear anywhere on the answer sheet or the results, and that there is no way to identify a respondent with any answers he or she may give.

WE CAN ONLY APOLOGIZE

The University Relations Office apologizes for the poor timing of the last issue of the Communique. The issue was to have been published and distributed Nov. 3, but most of you did not receive it until Nov. 6 or Nov. 7. There were several articles of a timely nature in the issue, and we apologize for any inconvenience caused. The issue was delayed due to a number of circumstances beyond our control. We hope the situation will not occur again.

NO FOOD, DRINKS

Food, drink, and tobacco are permitted only in the lower level lobby of Andruss Library. The library staff is very concerned since library materials have been damaged when soft drinks were spilled on them.

Antigone to be presented in French

Antigone, a one-act tragedy by Jean Anouilh, will be presented in the French language in its entirety at 1 p.m. and 8 p.m. Nov. 20 and 21 and at 8 p.m. on Nov. 22 in the forum room of McCormick Center on the Bloomsburg University campus.

The play, sponsored by the BU French Club and Bloomsburg Players, is being presented primarily for area high school, college and university students enrolled in French language courses. The public is also welcome.

French foreign exchange students, as well as university students, will have parts in the play. The production is under the direction of Professor Hitoshi Sato.

Antigone evolves around a political struggle for power and a fight between honor, religious tradition and family devotion in France in 1939 at the eve of World War II.

In the somber world of the play, against the background of so many sudden deaths and the dark mystery of the divine dispensation, courage and steadfastness are a sparkle of light.

Tickets ($2 adults and $1 students) will be available at the door.

WHY I TEACH

Bloomsburg University has an abundance of outstanding, caring faculty who provide students with excellent educational experiences in the classroom and in co-curricular activities. Why do people choose to teach? Why do they stick with it? What do they like about it? In this Communique series, BU faculty are featured answering the question: "Why do you teach?" Faculty members asked to take part in this series are chosen randomly, but, if you would like to be part of it, please call the University Relations Office at 389-4112.

Anthony Sylvester, Associate Professor of History:

Above all, I enjoy the interaction with the students. They are usually a source of great satisfaction to me. Few things compare, for me, to the sight of a student being "turned on" by a subject, being attracted (or repelled) by an idea, or beginning to think independently. Some of my greatest rewards come from those times when students develop intelligent criticisms of some of my interpretations of historical events. To help develop in students the belief that they can and should think for themselves and think critically is one of the major reasons why I teach.

Search begins for provost and academic affairs vice president

Bloomsburg University is inviting applications and nominations for the position of Provost and Vice President for Academic Affairs. The position is currently held on an interim basis by Daniel Pantaleo. Irvin Wright, assistant director of the center for academic development, is chairman of the search and screen committee.

The provost is the chief academic officer and second-ranking executive officer of the university, reporting directly to the president and assuming the president's duties in his absence. The provost leads the deans of the Colleges of Arts and Sciences, Business, Professional Studies, Graduate and Extended Programs, and their faculties to attain the academic missions of the university. The provost plans and coordinates academic programs, assembles and administers the academic budget, coordinates academic policies and planning, and plays an active role in faculty recruitment, retention, and development.

Candidates must have an earned doctorate, preferably in an academic discipline, from an accredited institution, documented evidence of outstanding teaching and scholarly and professional achievement commensurate with the rank of full professor, demonstrated effective, interpersonal skills, creative academic leadership, a record of progressive academic administration, commitment to faculty and student participation in academic governance and to affirmative action, and ability to articulate the mission and needs of the university to its constituencies.

Applications must be postmarked by Jan. 31, 1987. Applicants should include a curriculum vita, academic transcripts, and three letters of recommendation in their submissions.

BU plans asbestos management program

Bloomsburg University has announced plans to begin a $221,800 asbestos management program at the end of the spring semester in 1987, according to Don McCulloch, director of the physical plant and energy management at the university.

McCulloch said the action will be taken based on the results of an asbestos assessment survey conducted at 10 of the State System of Higher Education universities this year. The survey, conducted by the firm of Spotts, Stevens, and McCoy, Inc. (SSM), was completed in September.

McCulloch said that although "Bloomsburg doesn't have any serious hazards now," the university will remove asbestos from the buildings that were given the highest rankings as "potential hazards," according to SSM's report.

"We don't have the abundance of sprayed-on ceilings containing asbestos that many other places have, he said, noting that all of the asbestos at Bloomsburg is well-managed by encapsulating it in vinyl or canvas wrappers or with special paint made for that purpose. "One of our steamfitters has been sent to a school for asbestos management so that we have someone on staff with knowledge of the proper techniques for handling the material," he said.

The most serious potential hazard at Bloomsburg is in the basement of Centennial Gymnasium, in a canoe storage area, where at the time of the survey some asbestos around pipes had been knocked loose, McCulloch said. The damage has now been repaired, and the asbestos around the pipes is encapsulated, he said. The Centennial Gymnasium basement was the only location on the BU campus that received a potential hazard ranking of 6, the highest. The report estimates the cost to remove and replace the asbestos in Centennial to be about $16,400.

Other buildings with 4 or 5 rankings, the locations of the asbestos, and the estimated costs to replace it are:

Carver Hall basement, ranked 5, $11,600

Navy Hall basement, Room 13, ranked 5, $122,500

Simon Hall basement, Quest Office, ranked 5, $12,900

The Carpenter Shop, first floor shop room, ranked 4, $4,900

Centennial Gym, basement canoe storage room, ranked 4, $32,400

CHRISTMAS CONCERT SET

The Bloomsburg University Concert Choir, directed by William Decker, will present its annual "Joy of Christmas" concert at 8 p.m., Friday, Dec. 5, and at 2:30 p.m., Sunday, Dec. 7. Both presentations are in the Carver Hall Auditorium and are open to the public free of charge.

LOTS OF FANS

Bloomsburg University's five 1986 home football games were viewed by 19,603 spectators, according to figures released by the university's department of athletics. That figure exceeds the 16,887 fans that attended the Huskies' five regular-season home contests a year ago.

Former nursing faculty member wills scholarship fund

A $20,000 scholarship fund for students pursuing an undergraduate degree in nursing at BU has been provided in the will of a former faculty member Helene Robertson.

Robertson, who died Nov. 5, 1985, was a member of the BU nursing faculty from 1981 to 1985 when she taught the senior-level nursing course in community health.

Two $500 scholarships from the fund will be awarded for the first time this spring to two baccalaureate nursing students. Applicants for the scholarships must be entering the junior or senior year in the nursing program, have an overall grade point average of at least 3.00 on the 4.00 scale, and demonstrate financial need.

BU NOTES

Librarian Roger W. Fromm is one of three academic librarians recently appointed to be a part of the Pennsylvania Interlibrary Loan Code Revision Committee.

Raymond E. Babineau, professor of education in the department of curriculum and foundations, has been elected to the editorial board of the "Journal of the Council of Education Facilities Planners International" for a three-year term.

Gary F. Clark, assistant professor of art, presented a lecture and workshop at the fourth National Meeting of Children's Oncology Camps of America, Nov. 14-16 in Fort Worth, Texas. The lecture was titled Art with Critically Ill Children, Implications, Methods, and Materials. The workshop participants had hands-on experience with various materials.

Sociology/Social Welfare faculty members Thomas A. Bonomo, David E. Greenwald and Sue Jackson participated in a workshop at the 11th Annual Conference for the Association for Humanist Sociology in Philadelphia on Nov. 7. Greenwald delivered a paper titled Naturalistic Explanations as Theodicy. Jackson's paper was Moving Beyond Polarization on the Abortion Issue: A Humanist Response. Bonomo was the co-organizer and discussant at the session at which the papers were delivered.

Steven L. Cohen, professor of psychology, recently presented a paper at the annual meeting of the Neuroscience Society in Washington, D.C. The paper was titled Cholecystokinin Agonist and Antagonist Analogs and was co-authored with M. Knight and T.R. Burke from Peptide Technologies Corporation, Washington, D.C. Knight and Burke produced variations of cholecystokinin, and Cohen examined their behavioral effects.

The Communique' publishes news of events and about people at Bloomsburg University. Please send story ideas to The Communique', Office of University Relations, Bloomsburg University, Bloomsburg, PA 17815.

The Communique' is published on the 1st and 15th of each month, except for the summer, by the Office of University Relations at BU. Sheryl Bryson is the office director, Nick Dietterick is the public information director, Jim Hollister heads the sports information area, and Winnie Krisanda and Chris Gaudreau are the secretaries. Chris Gaudreau does the typesetting and assists with production of The Communique'. The Communique' is printed by BU Duplicating Services, headed by Tom Pataconi.

BU is committed to providing equal educational and employment opportunities for all persons without regard to race, color, religion, sex, age, national origin, ancestry, life style, affectional or sexual preference, handicap, Vietnam era status as veterans, or union membership. The university is additionally committed to affirmative action and will take positive steps to provide such educational and employment opportunities.

MARTIN HONORED

Bloomsburg University runningback Tom Martin has been selected to appear on the GTE Academic All-American national ballot in voting by Sports Information Directors in the NCAA's District Two. The nomination gives Martin the opportunity to earn Academic All-American honors based on his performance in the classroom as well as on the football field.

NEXT ISSUE LATE DEC.

Because of Thanksgiving break and Christmas vacation, the next issue of the Communique will be at the end of December. After that time, the University Relations Office plans to publish it weekly.

END-OF-SEMESTER RECITAL

Preparations are being made for an end-of-semester recital to be presented at 8 p.m. Tuesday, Dec. 2, in Carver Auditorium. Admission is free. Sixteen Bloomsburg University students, who are taking lessons in the art of singing, playing the piano, clarinet, cello, or violin, will be involved.

New number codes for campus buildings

Recently, the Physical Plant has updated the Bloomsburg campus map and has renumbered all existing buildings and structures. The intent was to modify the old system to include some new structures and to establish a simpler, consecutive numbering of our buildings. Some new maps have been distributed to various administrators around campus.

Shortly, the Maintenance Center will be computerizing the work order system, and the use of these numbers on current and all future maintenance work orders will greatly aid the processing and record keeping of all campus maintenance work.

which is effective immediately, is as follows:

- 1 Carver Hall
- 2 Heating Plant
- 3 Tri-level Parking
- 4 Elwell Hall
- 5 Scranton Commons
- 6 Schuylkill Hall
- 7 Old Science Hall
- 8 Lycoming Hall
- 9 Kehr Student Union
- 10 Montour Hall
- 11 Greenhouse
- 12 Carpenter Shop
- 13 Simon Hall
- 14 May Building
- 15 Bookstore
- 16 Luzerne Hall
- 17 Northumberland Hall

- 18 Columbia Hall
- 19 Ben Franklin
- 20 Navy Hall
- 21 Haas Center (Mitrani Hall)
- 22 Hartline Science Center
- 23 Andruss Library
- 24 Bakeless Center
- 25 Sutliff Hall
- 26 Centennial Gymnasium
- 27 McCormick Human Services Center
- 28 Waller Administration Bldg.
- 29 President's Residence
- 30 Health and Physical Education
- 31 Maintenance Center
- 32 Alumni House
- 33 Nelson Fieldhouse
- 34 Redman Stadium
- 35 Geodesic Dome

SUMMER COURSE IN IRELAND

This coming summer, Bloomsburg University will offer a course in Ireland Aug. 3 to Aug. 22. "Government and Politics of Ireland" will trace the economic, political, and religious factors that have led to the current violence in Ireland and explore its relationship to international terrorism.

Students will be housed at Trinity College, Dublin, founded in 1592. The cost of $1,350 includes three undergraduate credits, roundtrip airfare, and accommodations.

GRADUATION SPEAKER NAMED

Sondra Myers, president of the National Federation of State Humanities Councils, will be the speaker at BU commencement ceremonies Dec. 21, the administration has announced.

Myers, of Scranton, Pa., is also founding president and past president of Citizens for the Arts in Pennsylvania and numerous other national, state, regional, local activities and affiliations concerned with the arts and humanities.

WHY I TEACH

Bloomsburg University has an abundance of outstanding, caring faculty who provide students with excellent educational experiences in the classroom and in co-curricular activities. Why do people choose to teach? Why do they stick with it? What do they like about it? In this Communique series, BU faculty are featured answering the question: "Why do you teach?" Faculty members asked to take part in this series are chosen randomly, but, if you would like to be part of it, please call the University Relations Office at 389-4112.

Patricia Boyne, assistant professor of computer and information systems:

"At this point in the term, I am not sure that I can respond to this question. Late November is a time of madness. Students, faculty, and staff seem to be wondering why they are here, and no one has a good answer. How can I be the exception to this rule? There is too much to do and too little time in which to do it. If I had more energy, I might also devote some time to wondering and worrying why I have been chosen to be the spokesperson for this time of confusion.

"On another day, I would tell you that I got 'hooked' into teaching. I originally entered the field to obtain a teaching certificate which I would have for insurance in later times. After the certificate was obtained, I would then be free to expand my computer consulting activity and even get a 'real' job. So much for five-year plans.

"I had no idea that the process of learning for me and my students would be so compelling. Minds on the track of solutions are endlessly fascinating. There is something new everyday. Students are always giving me an additional perspective on material. Nothing is static, and I am always involved in personal growth. Colleagues also expand my horizons. I only hope that I am doing my best to return the favor. Feedback is difficult to identify. One time a student told me that I had taught him more about COBOL than he cared to know. I can live with that."

Teacher scholarships available

To encourage outstanding high school graduates to pursue careers in elementary and secondary education, a federal program titled the Congressional Teacher Scholarship Program is being administered for the first time this year by the Pennsylvania Higher Education Assistance Agency (PHEAA).

The new program offers awards of up to $5,000 per year to students who are pursuing a course of study leading to certification as a teacher at the elementary or secondary level. The students must be willing to enter into a signed agreement with PHEAA that obligates them for each year they receive a Congressional Teacher Scholarship to teach two years in an elementary or secondary school or one year in a school for predominately handicapped or disadvantaged

Eligibility requires students to be in the top 10 percent of their high school graduating class, be enrolled or plan to enroll in a program pursuing certification to teach at the elementary or secondary level, be enrolled in a baccalaureate program, and be residents of Pennsylvania.

The application deadline for the 1986-1987 academic year is Dec. 15, 1986.

Applications and further details are available through the office of Dean Howard Macauley, Room 3106, McCormick Human Services Center, Bloomsburg University.

HANNAH VISITS BU

Emily Hannah, SSHE vice chancellor for academic affairs, was on campus Nov. 19 to discuss development of academic programs and other initiatives being undertaken at BU.

At her meetings with deans and faculty, she received an update on the health physics curriculum proposal and she heard about BU's initiatives under the System's proposed Pennsylvania Academy for the Profession of Teaching, initiatives under the Rural Outreach projects, and the university's technology initiatives, according to BU Provost and Vice President for Academic Affairs Daniel Pantaleo.

Hannah also heard reports on BU's Strategic Issues Group, institutional planning, and outcomes assessment.

Students produce town magazine

Area residents and the university community can soon read how the Town of Bloomsburg's top official moved away from his hometown and returned to make good and how a nearby police chief returned to active duty after being forced into disability retirement.

These stories, along with other articles and features, will be found in a new community magazine titled SPECTRUM to be published by Walter Brasch's journalism seminar course at Bloomsburg University. SPECTRUM will be published once each semester, with the first issue dated January 1987, coming out in December. The newsstand price is $1.

According to Brasch, this is a first-time effort of this nature by the university and is not being undertaken to compete with any area publications. "Our main objective is to give journalism

Asbestos work

Funds for the abatement work in the highest ranking areas will come from the reserve as funds become available, McCulloch said. The university has no plans at this time to do abatement work on the areas with a 3 or 2 ranking, he said.

A copy of the full SSM asbestos assessment report on Bloomsburg University will be available in the Andruss Library at the circulation desk, McCulloch said. The 2-inch-thick report contains information on all sample locations, how much of an area is involved, details of the composition of the material sampled, and descriptions on levels of deterioration of the material.

SUMMER COURSE IN ITALY

Italy will be the setting for a course being offered by BU June 10-30, 1986. "European Art II" will emphasize Renaissance art and its development through the High Renaissance and Baroque periods. Featured artists include Michelangelo, Leonardo da Vinci, Raphael, and others. Visits to Siena, Lucca, and Pisa are also planned.

Christine Sperling of the art department is instructor. She earned a Ph.D. in Italian Renaissance art from Brown University and has spent more than two years in Italy on a Fulbright scholarship and speaks Italian.

A villa in Florence will accommodate students. The cost is $1,660 and includes round trip airfare, transportation to Florence, meals, matriculation and fee for three college credits, and public bus pass in Florence.

L. Carlough, Office of International Education, or phone 389-4332.

Student-produced SPECTRUM magazine to hit stands in December

students valuable experience," he said. "They are learning about design and typography, editorial decision-making, advanced feature writing, administration, business, circulation, and advertising. Their final project is their work on producing the magazine. They will be graded on their production work, their writing, and a take-home exam, which is a series of case problems in ethics."

Financing for the magazine is coming almost entirely from advertising and circulation revenues, according to Brasch. "I believe," he said, "that students must realize that in a capitalist society, even the best ideas and writing must have a strong financial base. We don't seek subsidies but are working closely with area merchants for advertising."

"We have enough different assignments to keep everyone in the course busy," Brasch said. "All typesetting is being done on campus using a computer and laserprinter, plus a Compugraphic MCS system for special heads. All paste-up, typesetting, and design is being done by students. Although the actual printing of the publication will be done by a local printer, the folding, gathering, stitching, and trimming will be done by students."

Brasch, who is editor-in-chief, expects the students to be in a high-stress, extensive lab experience but notes they are having a lot of fun in the venture. "We have important roles for everyone, so we are giving titles to everyone," he said. "We're an equal opportunity employer," he said with a smile.

A number of students writing stories also have had summer media experience. Brasch noted that there will be an around-town section and articles on historical preservation, economic impact, strategic planning, co-op education, town-gown relations, and more.

"We have all been putting in very long days on the project, but the students really seem to be challenged and are thoroughly enjoying it." Brasch said.
