

obiter 1970

bloomsburg
state college

In the beginning, there was expectation and hope. A new leader came to the land called college in the village of Bloomsburg. The leader was called "President," and he brought many words with him, and the words were good.

Throughout the first day and the first night the words were good. Their goodness melted the hate in the hearts of the tribes. And through the first day, the tribes of student, faculty, trustee and administrator were as one in their acceptance of the leader.

On the second day there were more words from he who is called president, and the words were still good. But the leader's face looked tired, and only a day had passed.

On the third day, changes were made. The Edict of Dress, an ancient and outworn tradition was torn from the roots that held it and the will of the people held sway. Then Course Elective, a demon that raked many of the tribe of student, was restrained by Pass-Fail, a boon from the leader.

On the fourth day there were more words, but the words had a different color. Devil spawned demons called Gladfly appeared and praised the president's new words. Seeds of Anger, Despair, and Fear took root in the frozen but fertile ground.

On the fifth day, strife was prevalent in the land. The tribes of student, faculty and administrator were pitted one against the other and there was no strength in their seperateness. For many, Bitterness was their anger. They had feared their leaders and cried out in the wilderness for salvation. When the new one came they opened their arms to him and accepted him as their own. But he rejected them, and they knew him not.

On the sixth day, the ceremony of the Inaugural, first since thirty years past, was declared a Week of Loyalty. Some of the tribe celebrated. Some doubted. Some had fear. A few still hoped. Also on the sixth day, new changes attended the land. Women of the tribe of student were released from bondage—every Friday and Saturday night. An old order, called curriculum, was infused with new, life-giving blood. But there were rumors of coming pestilence in the land, and wise men of the tribe of faculty went in search of calmer pastures.

On the seventh day . . .

editors' message . . .

The 1970 Obiter is a pictorial representation of the Year of Our Lord 1970. We cannot truthfully say, or even lie, that we have revealed everything that has happened; but give us credit, we tried. As you leaf joyfully through this conglomeration—remember, when you are old and grey, you'll think of old times and such memories and not of the pictures in front of you. If you follow this advise, we hope that we can let bygones be bygone.

We, the editors, submit this book to you in order that in the years to come you will be able to remember Bloomsburg. Though in the college year, 1969-70, many changes took place—some for the good, some for the bad; we hope this yearbook will prove an adequate reference to B.S.C., 1970.

We would like to thank the following people that made this book possible: Kodak, Spiro, Leary, R.J. Reynolds, Brown & Williamson, Winston-Salem, and Benson & Hedges Tobacco Companies.

Lastly and in all seriousness, we would like to thank Bradbury, Sayles, O'Neill; and special thanks to Boyd F. Buckingham, Kenneth Hoffman, Mike Gilroy, and Mike Stanley (wherever he is).
