INTRODUCTION

Toward the end of August, Bloomsburg students begin planning for the trek back to school. Dad makes sure the tuition bills have been paid, mom stores home cooked, balanced meals in Tupperware, and the Bloomsburg student says goodbye to old summer friends. Soon Sunday the 28th will arrive and the car will be loaded for the drive to the Susquehanna Valley.

As the college bound traffic moves along the Susquehanna River on Route 11, west and east on Interstate 80, and north through Centralia on Route 42, a sense of nervous excitement fills the air. It's time to crack the books and try for the Dean's List, perhaps for the last time. But the fall semester also brings back old college friends, tailgates, football games, homecoming and the Fair.

As upperclassmen move in, a few familiar faces are recognized but fewer names are remembered. Curious freshmen look on anticipating tough courses, stern professors, no parents, fun-filled activities, fraternity parties, and an occasional hang-over.

Unaware to most new students some alterations have taken place during the summer months. In fact many changes occurred in one night. At 8 a.m., Friday, July 1, 1983 the Carver tower bell tolled and people were saying . . .

Welcome to

BLOOMSBURG UNIVERSITY

THE UNIVERSITY

Bloomsburg State College became Bloomsburg University on July 1, 1983 as part of the new State System of Higher Education (SSHE). It is the sixth name for the institution in its 144-year history.

Bloomsburg and the other 13 state-owned universities were removed from the Department of Education and placed under the independent jurisdiction of a chancellor of higher education and a 16-member board of governors. Act 188 signed by Governor Dick Thornburgh, in November 1982 means greater autonomy for the schools, allowing each institution to make purchases and spend money without going through a maze of regulations and approvals in the department.

Dr. James H. McCormick, former president of BU and interim chancellor of the SSHE was named the first permanent chancellor March 20, 1984 after a nationwide search (see page 76).

Dr. Larry Jones, vice president of academic affairs and provost remains as the acting president until January 1985, when the position is expected to be filled.

Bloomsburg has been a multi-purpose institution of quality programs for most of the past 10 years when the college began to de-emphasize teacher education.

More than 50 percent of the programs offered at the university today did not exist before 1975.

One of the most noticeable changes made with university status was the schools of business, arts and sciences, professional studies, and graduate studies and extended programs are now termed colleges instead of schools.

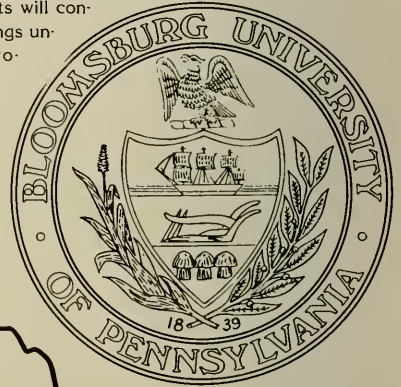

The college of professional studies has been reorganized into the school of education with a teacher education council and the school of health sciences with its health sciences council.

The schools are further broken down into departments and centers.

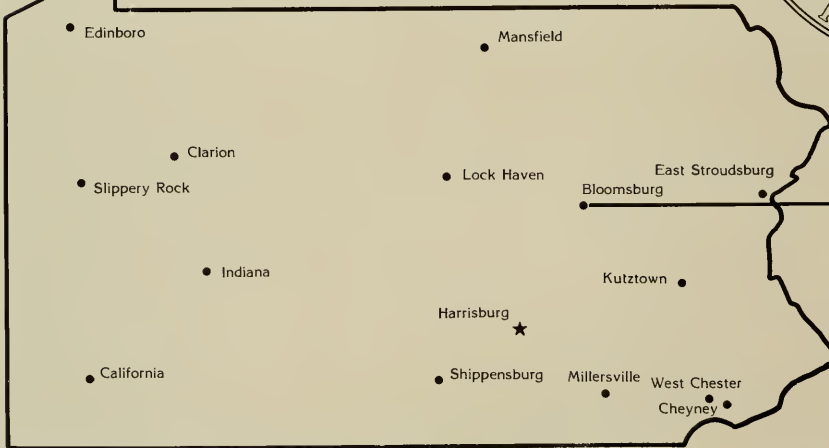

Internally, the colleges of business and arts and sciences remain the same as before the name change.

The university will continue to grant associate, bachelors and masters degrees and graduate level certificates. Efforts will continue to increase offerings under these degree programs.

Bloomsburg University is here and the name is not expected to change again.

Established as an academy "to teach youth the elements of a classical education" in 1839, Bloomsburg continues to serve as a strong, multi-purpose institution. This is reflected by the increasing number of enrollment applications, a high retention rate, the addition of the Human Services Center and plans to continue development of the 173-acre campus.

On the following pages we have tried to capture the life at Bloomsburg University in 1984. However, because opinions differ, each of you will have your own thoughts on the photographs and remarks pertaining to your days "on the hill." To many, BU is the party school . . . a suitcase college . . . purely academic . . . merely a social experience . . . or the best of all worlds.

Perhaps the first building one adjusts to is the residence hall. After apprehensively meeting your R.A. and roommate(s), depending on "how lucky you are," everyone gets an official welcome from the dean and a speech on responsibility. It's tough enough to remember the names of the people you share the bathroom with, yet alone remember the temporary limited visitation hours, the time the doors lock and which floors have the televisions when.

While on-campus living has its limitations, you survived the late night fire drills, noise violations, getting busted, the Commons' food, doing laundry, getting locked out, being pennied in, fighting with your roommate, and all-nighters in the study lounge; and maybe you enjoyed watching the soaps, eating popcorn, spirting, gossiping, carrying your bucket to the shower, and making good friends.

It isn't just a meeting place for off-campus students, but a spot for on-campus students as well. Anyone who has wanted a bite to eat, looked for a quiet place to study, pledged or just needed information has been there. A variety of programs go on that will entertain you or possibly distract you. Without a doubt, it's almost always open and constantly in use.

Located in the center of the residence halls area, the Kehr Union is the "hub of activities." As 8 a.m. draws near the university community awakens to the morning cup of coffee and bagels with cream cheese. The daily newspapers and dozens of magazines circulate via the information desk. But if all the papers are being used one can get the news from the new electronic sign. Provided by the Electronic News Network, Dallas, Texas, the latest news medium keeps everyone up to date on world and national events, sports and human interest headlines.

Near 10:30 lines begin to form at the info desk for racquetball court reservations as the Coffeehouse and Presidents' Lounge fills with opened-book students. It can be difficult to concentrate on the ground floor with the MAC machine beeping, the games room wailing, mailbox doors snapping, the bowling alleys striking, the televisions competing, the artwork inviting, and an occasional distracting piano player.

Upstairs in the Snack Bar lines form for lunch and $1.75 Specials, Huskies, and deli sandwiches. Even with all the activity, committee meetings and busy offices accomplish the work set out with minimal disruptions.

By 11 p.m. the aroma of popcorn and soft pretzels disappears in the mostly silent halls and a distant trash receptacle may be heard making the rounds before the midnight closing of the KUB.

New Class Scheduling Needs Work . . .

Each year a rash of letters appears in The Voice concerning the food served in Scranton Commons'. Someone writes a complaint about its "raunchiness," another cites praises of the same meal. The battle is continuous. Who's right? You may decide. (We can't).

They now machines that do everything from dispensing bread to measuring your early morning Froot Loops or Cap'n Crunch. But why would the commons spend all that money for contraptions that seem to have no apparent purpose except for saving milliseconds of time expended by commons workers. The bread dispenser, though ingenious, (I wonder if its inventor is living in Aruba on the royalties?), dispenses stale bread the bread would have remained semi-fresh if it had been kept in a wrapper. And the cereal dispenser! (Another rich inventor no they realize how much cereal is wasted by the device? ### "Eating" at the Commons

Dear Editor:

It has come again to the time when I can no longer hold back from writing to you concerning the woeful state that our food service system is in. Once again I was faced with the choice of hamburger or sliced, processed, red meat that passes itself off as ham. In passing these disgusting choices in the Commons line, my face could not help but reflect my inner dismay with this 'food'. One of the servers remarked about the enjoyment obtained by faces as they passed before them. To which I am replying - the reason that our faces are pained is because we have stomachs, not toxic waste dumps, and are used to food, (real homemade food), not processed, steamed to death, left-over, undercooked garbage.

Must we continued to contend with chicken served now (Of course only on the third day is it that have gone stale and that them decent meal is to make a salad, a noble gesture if I were a rabbit. How many times have we all eaten meals that require us to close our eyes, hold our noses, and just swallow because the food tastes so bad? Are the facilities to blame? Or is it the food service company that is to blame? Will my presence at a committee meeting change the food service situation at this college?

I realize that I alone may not be able to make the changes necessary to bring better food to this school, but I may provide the impetus towards a change by getting other people involved and concerned about the food that is being put into our stomachs. I look forward to the day when I no longer have to eat in the Commons under Servomation. When that day is at hand my stomach will be very grateful. Servomation you have failed me!!!

Amid all the red brick buildings on campus one small, over-crowded structure is adorned with Tiffany windows. The stained-glass windows, which were once in Noetling and Waller Halls, were preserved and erected in the Harvey A. Andruss Library, a multi-purpose facility used for researching, studying, group project meetings and an occasional nap. Socializing with frustrated friends often breaks the monotony, but usually rows of bowed heads pore over materials ranging from trade publications to microfiche.

The library houses 320,000 bound volumes, 1.1 million microtexts, several thousand periodicals, and the Learning Resources Center, providing access to the university's audio and video equipment. Plans are now underway to either expand or build a larger facility.

You couldn't wait "to get off" — despite high rent, deaf landlords, continuous utility bills and fights with AT&T-Mid-Atlantic Bell — Bell of Pennsylvania — What the hell?!. You didn't care that the apartment was small, that the hot water only stayed on for five minutes, that the furniture was from Sal Val, or that the fridge could only hold a case-and-a-half . . . You didn't mind your own cooking, boilin' bags, hiking up the hill to class on a cold, icy morning, or sliding down . . . Nobody cared that the paint was peeling, that the window was cracked, that the kitchen could only handle one person, or that the toilet didn't always flush . . . Though it got tough when the neighbors complained, your name appeared in The Morning Press, your parents visited, and your beloved landlord kept the security deposit.

But you loved it! Because it was home . . . a refuge . . . yours.

Officially the only "town" in Pennsylvania, Bloomsburg is a small and unique place that most students remember fondly. "The typical college town" with red geraniums and white petunias potted on the lampposts along Main Street, Market, and College Hill, is the county seat of Columbia County. This rural, residential community of 11,000 is home for Magee Industries. Once a large manufacturer of household and industrial carpet, Magee now produces carpeting installed in most American automobiles. Not only is it home for the third largest state owned university, but Bloomsburg is also home for Kawneer Architectural Design, Bloomsburg Mills, Bloomsburg Craftsmen, and the infamous Bloomsburg Fair. Nearby companies who employ many area residents include TRW and Geisinger Medical Center in Danville and PPEL's Susquehanna Nuclear Power Plant, Wise Potatoe Chips, and Maier's Bakery in Berwick.

As Centralia, on the southern tip of the county, battles underground mine fires, the revitalization of the Bloomsburg business district has begun to inspire business owners to restore old facades and improve shopping habits along Main Street. New stores are opening and others are expanding or redecorating. We have seen the Small Mall open in the old Racussin's, the Candy Barrel rebuild after a fire, the Country Charm grow and move down Main, the State Store move into a larger, self-serve store at Market Square. The Bloomsburg Bicycle Company take over the vacated liquor store, and Art Ventures move to the store front once occupied by the bicycle shop. Even with these changes, old favorites like the Salvation Army Thrift Store, Que Pasa Boutique, The Studio Shop, and The Record and Jeanswear Company continue to serve the public. Of course for the credit card users Penney's and Sears continue to operate on Main Street.

In every community food establishments are an integral part of a town's physique; and Bloomsburg has many fine restaurants including the Hotel Magee's Smorgasbord upstairs and the Publick House, Russell's Ridgeways, the Lightstreet Hotel, and the Pine Barn Inn next to Geisinger. For the less expensive subs and pizza, students enjoy Berrigan's, Sal's Place, Serrucci's, Luigi's, JP's Deli, and the fast food places on Route 11. When birthdays, exams, or graduations need to be celebrated, students mark the occasion with a party; and the more popular "watering holes" include the newly renovated Lemon's Tavern, Hess' Tavern and Good Ol' Days. (Of course you need to show an I.D.).

Bloomsburg FAIR

Sept. 26th
- Oct. 1st

The Bloomsburg Fair highlights the start of the fall semester each year. Thousands of people are attracted to town by big name entertainment, exhibits, amusements, and varied foods.

This year Mickey Gilley and Sylvia, Donny and Marie Osmond, the Oak Ridge Boys, Tammy Wynette and Billy Craddock, Charley Pride, the Greg Kihn Band and local favorite Hybrid Ice held evening performances at the Grandstand. Rodeos, midget auto races, and the demolition derby were held daily.

Of course the largest fair in Pennsylvania demonstrates the latest growth in agriculture, horticulture, live stock, and education to thousands who come each year starting the third Monday after Labor Day.

Dear Mom & Dad,
Living away from home is great!!

And BU students had the opportunity to prove it.

About 1200 parents joined their sons and daughters for the 13th Annual Parents' Weekend, October 8-9. After registering in the union Saturday morning, parents were able to obtain information on academic programs, student services, and career opportunities. The "State of the University" Address was also given by Dr. Larry W. Jones, acting president, sharing the administration's thoughts with the parents in attendance.

A special pre-game Ox Roast Luncheon prepared by Servomation was held in Nelson Fieldhouse, followed by the PSAC Eastern Division clash with West Chester University. During half-time festivities, the "BU Mom and Dad of the Day" drawing was announced.

Later that evening a buffet dinner was held in the Commons and the Program Board and Community Arts Council co-sponsored the Riverboat Ragtime Revue in Haas Auditorium.

Some parents were here for the day and yet others stayed over to Sunday. Quest offered a canoeing course on the West Branch of the Susquehanna, and in the afternoon a few BU students displayed their talent in the Student Showcase.

Fortunately the weather cooperated for the entire weekend allowing the students to show off their university.

Bloomsburg Salutes "The Vision of Disney"

The first university homecoming celebration with the biggest and most exciting weekend with the theme "The Vision of Disney." The festivities centered around BU's tribute to the various dreams and accomplishments of Walt Disney from Mickey's "Steamboat Willie" to the newly opened, EPCOT center.

The week long celebration began Monday, October 17 when the BSCC presented comedian Steve Landesberg. Landesberg is best known as Lieutenant Dietrich on the ABC television series "Barney Miller." As organizations prepared floats and campus offices decorated for the celebration, residence halls' students were making plans for the dorm decorating contest and the first banner competition. Later in the week, the Marx Brothers' film "A Night at the Opera" was shown along with a few favorite Disney cartoons.

The traditional pep rally Friday evening, October 21, featured the announcements of Karen Slye as the Freshman Sweetheart, and five Homecoming Sweetheart finalists and the winner of the first annual office decorating contest.

Remarks were made by fall athletic team coaches, Acting President Jones and Homecoming Chairman Scott Righter. Following the introduction of the Husky football team and coaches, a replica of the opponent's mascot was put on a large spit and burned over the bon fire. As football captains Dave Pepper, Frank Shepstock and Stan Kucewicz turned the spit and roasted the Cheyney Wolf the crowd got more enthusiastic and the large fireworks display began. As the rockets were fired above the softball field a smokey ground display spelled out BLOOMSBURG UNIVERSITY and the band played the new alma mater. A dance sponsored by the Program Board was held in the Union to top Friday night's activities.

Working with Bloomsburg High School and the town of Bloomsburg, the university sponsored "the largest parade this town has ever seen" Saturday morning. Sixteen floats, nine bands, 28 Sweetheart contestants, and groups ranging from the Mounted Division of the State Police to the Shriners' Motor and Clown Corps. made their way from Bloomsburg High School to the Centennial Gym parking lot honoring Walt Disney's various accomplishments. At the conclusion of the parade, students, staff, faculty, alumni and friends of Bloomsburg University indulged in the Second Annual Ox Roast catered by Hotel Magee in the Nelson Fieldhouse.

At 1:30 p.m. in Redman Stadium the Huskies went up against Cheyney University. In a revenge-filled contest Bloomsburg overpowered the Wolves, 17-13. Halftime entertainment included the Husky band, the crowning of the 1983 Homecoming Sweetheart, the announcement of float, residence hall and banner winners, and the presentation of the Interfraternity Council and Intersorority Council awards.

With alumni celebrating at the Dinner-Dance and other various parties around town, the under-21-crowd had the opportunity to see one of the most heartwarming Disney films ever produced. Bambi was shown with more Disney cartoons Saturday evening.

The weekend activities concluded Sunday afternoon with the Pops Concert by the Women's Choral Ensemble, Husky Singers and Concert Choir. Many Disney favorites were performed. The Choir ended the concert with the number one song of 1983, "Flashdance . . . What a Feeling," and a standing ovation from the large crowd in Haas Auditorium.

“Making the Best of What You Have”

by James Knaub
Peggy Flynn

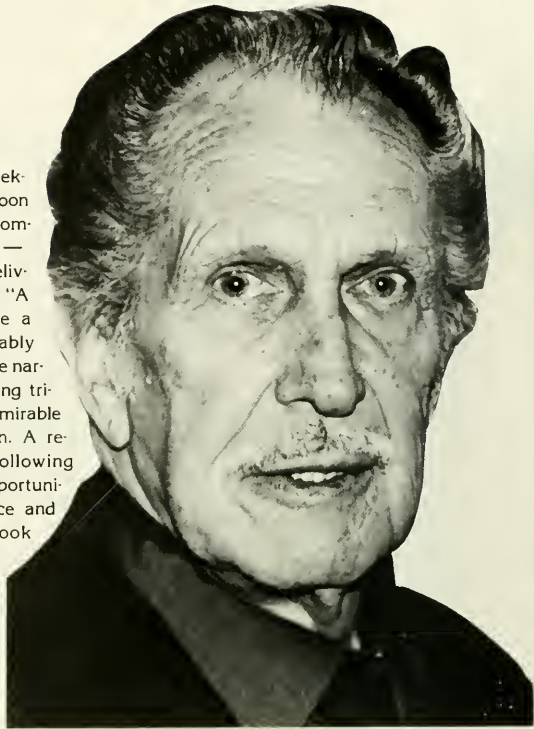

We know him as the murderous villain of Haunted Hill, the “eccentric” mastermind of crime, Egghead of Batman, and most recently the ominous narrator of Michael Jackson’s Thriller.

Vincent Price, the guest author, actor, lecturer, and connoisseur said, “The whole of life is art,” in opening remarks to begin a four-day residency, November 11, 1983. As part of the Cultural Affairs Artist Series, Price presented poetry readings, lectures, and informal discussions to art and theatre classes and the general public.

Friday evening a Vincent Price film festival was held with Price commenting on his years as an actor. A Comedy of Terrors and The Fly were shown, just two of the many popular films of Price’s repertoire.

The climax of the weekend was Sunday afternoon when Vincent Price, accompanied by the university — community orchestra delivered Aaron Copeland’s “A Lincoln Portrait.” Before a full house, Price’s notably rich and thunderous voice narrated the brief but moving tribute to our nation’s admirable leader, Abraham Lincoln. A reception immediately following gave the audience the opportunity to meet Vincent Price and purchase his latest cook book.

If it’s true that versatility is the mark of an accomplished performer, then Vincent Price is a forerunner in modern entertainment. A man who has co-starred with Helen Hayes on Broadway, dazzled the silver screen, appeared in 7-Eleven commercials and collaborated with Michael Jackson on the hottest album of the decade can justly be deemed versatile. But isn’t it a “step down” to have worked with a pop singer after working in film and live theatre? “It’s entertainment . . . It’s all the same thing.” In fact, Price sees his Thriller narration as a great honor to be associated with the kind of success that Jackson enjoys.

Vincent Price’s passion for the arts touched those who witnessed his expertise that rainy November weekend. His hope is that he may be an instrument in getting others to appreciate all the art that is around them. “Do your thing where you are. Take advantage of what there is in Bloomsburg, and when you leave, all that you take with you will be art.”

Pre-Convention Speaker

From Beverly Hills to Juniata County Nancy Kulp is Making a New Name

A Broadway and Hollywood star appeared on the Carver stage Wednesday, March 30, 1984. But this long-time Pennsylvanian did not come to entertain, she came to speak on "Women in Politics."

Nancy Kulp, better known as Jane Hathaway on the television comedy series "The Beverly Hillbillies," was the pre-mock convention speaker. She is now making a new name in state politics as the Democratic candidate for the Ninth Congressional District of Pennsylvania.

According to Kulp, being a candidate has changed her life dramatically. "It's exhausting," she said, "but when I decided to run, I also decided to work hard and be as honest as possible."

When questioned as to whether she had found any opposition running as a woman she replied with a glint of humor, "None as of yet, but what else would I run as, an elephant?"

"It won't kill or destroy me if I don't win this election. As far as running for Congress to be in the spotlight, I don't need it!" She says. "Things have just 'happened' to me all my life; people fall at my feet. So I said okay, I'm going to take this step and do something of my own volition."

To Kulp, politics is a very serious business because you are dealing with peoples' lives. "People want to know that there is going to be bread on their tables at night, and that their children are going to continue to attend school."

She urged everyone to get active in the political game. "You young people have to join the battle. It's gonna effect you a hell of a lot more than it's gonna effect me. 'It's your world.'"

Controversial Mock Convention Supports Hart-Jackson Nomination

Call them Democrats, Republicans, Socialists, Liberals, Conservatives, Fascist, just call them delegates! Amid the political learning experience was cheering, roaring, chaos, and partying. It was the fifth quadrennial Mock Presidential Convention held in Centennial Gym. This year the Democratic Convention convened "as the party not in the White House."

The delegates from 14 high schools, eight colleges and Bloomsburg University began debate on the platform issues Friday evening, April 6, 1984. During the first night excitement John Anderson, former republican senator from Illinois and Independent, Presidential candidate in 1980 addressed the crowd. As the distinguished lecturer, Anderson spoke on behalf of a new political party — the National Unity Party. Traveling the nation to gather support, Anderson says that the current two party system is no longer effective and the people should be offered an alternative. "We no longer have good choices for the presidency and a third party would give us that alternative," said Anderson.

Anderson's speech was brief. Perhaps it was because many of the delegates were loud and oblivious to his presence, but the public address system was not functioning properly and Anderson could not be heard throughout parts of the convention hall.

When the vote on the proposed Equal Rights Amendment was introduced the crowd was "almost out of control," according to a convention official. It was defeated, and then on Saturday rules were suspended, and a roll call vote on the motion won overwhelmingly. Efforts to delete federally funded abortion from the platform also failed. The proposed Platform for the Democratic Party ultimately reflected a liberal view.

On Saturday, a few additional amendments were debated, and then the delegates listened as Joe Biden, U.S. Senator from Delaware, delivered a most controversial Keynote Address.

The first portion of his speech was received poorly by the delegates as Biden made such remarks as "Bloomsburg isn't my idea of paradise," and "I don't have to be here, I could be out campaigning." He also said, "You're going to ask yourself 'Where were you when Joe Biden was speaking in Bloomsburg?'" Biden eventually left the stage stating that delegates, "obviously didn't care enough about what he was saying, and he himself cared too much to continue."

After some dynamic protests from the floor, Biden, targeted by some political correspondents as a potential presidential candidate in 1988, returned to finish his address to a more receptive audience.

The highlight of the convention began as the delegates nominated candidates for the presidency. There were several candidates nominated for President and in the first roll call vote, some of those receiving votes were George O'Brien, Frank Sinatra, Jack Daniels, Buckwheat, Forrest Rohn (a BU student), A. Barney Rubble representing Anybody But Reagan, as well as main contenders Gary Hart, Walter Mondale and Jesse Jackson. The second roll call vote saw Hart come out on top with a majority of votes needed to win the nomination.

In the vote for Vice President, Jackson won the nomination. He overcame opposition which included John Glenn, Bill Bradley (NJ), Jack Daniels, ABR, and a local favorite, James Percey.

Tammy Clewell, chairperson of the convention sounded the final gavel at 3:30 p.m. as the convention directed by James Percey, associate professor of Political Science, came to a close.

Jello Wrestling highlights Jamboree

In conjunction with the town of Bloomsburg, the university cosponsored the seventh annual spring Renaissance Jamboree. Main Street was closed from Iron to Market Square, Saturday, April 28. Local craftsmen, and organizations provided arts, crafts, food, and entertainment attracting nearly 6,000 people.

Stages set up at Iron Street and the Courthouse featured several performers, including BU's sign language group

IMAGE, the Madrigal Singers' barber shop quartet, Dave and Jerry from Dakota, an Airbands competition, and a spellbinding group of breakdancers from Philadelphia.

The big crowd pleaser for the second year was Jello wrestling. Blue gelatin flew everywhere as men and women vied for the 1984 championship at the Square.

Interim Chancellor McCormick named to permanent post

By Betsy Wollam

It was a year of budget reviews and appointments with university presidents and the Board of Governors. It was months of campus visits, four-hour commutes, and sick days spent working over the phone. And it could only be a year as Interim Chancellor of the Pennsylvania State System of Higher Education.

But that was 1983. And 1984.

The 1984-85 school year will find Dr. James H. McCormick in the position of Chancellor — a post he accepted March 20, 1984, the day it was announced.

McCormick assumed the position of Interim Chancellor July 1, 1983, when the long-awaited University Bill went into effect. Expecting his return after his proposed one-year term, well-wishers and supporters sent him off with a t-shirt which read "DUE BACK 7-1-84."

It would have been a bittersweet moment when McCormick folded that t-shirt away, along with its hope for his return.

Though he claimed he had "done nothing to be a pro-active candidate (for Chancellor)" in November 1983, it was evident well before the official announcement that McCormick was a favorite for the position.

"McCormick Rumored to be New University System Chief" and "McCormick Mum on Post" read local newspaper headlines days before. "There was Never a Doubt" stated the title of an editorial on the subject.

"When I came down to Harrisburg, I never intended to do anything but return to Bloomsburg," McCormick insisted to the Press Enterprise. "I didn't even apply for the position."

But it was clear that McCormick liked the taste of Chancellorship during his year in the interim slot.

"I'm enjoying the challenge of the new system," he smiled over lunch with visitors from BU at Harrisburg's Gazebo Room. "But there's a lot of frustration and worry. There's so much to do with limited resources, yet I want to do a good job. It's a maturation process. There's a tremendous growth period starting. The word 'university' symbolizes what has been and is, horizontal growth — increased diversity and maturity."

"But like a famous young heroine once said, 'There's no place like home.'"

"It's the substantive contacts and relationships with administration, faculty, staff, students, and the community," during his 10 years as president that McCormick misses most in his new job. "It's the growth, and the helping in formulating solutions to problems. Here, removed from the real life of the campus, the reason to exist is more abstract."

So, to make his Harrisburg office a bit more cozy, five BU representatives set out one November day with a gift from "home."

Dr. John S. Mulka, dean of student development, Chris Hardinger, Community Government Association president, Patrick J.

Murphy, senior photographer, Stephanie Richardson, editor of The Voice, and Betsy Wollam, staff writer for The Obiter, presented to McCormick a set of three montages, replicas of those hanging in the University Room at the Hotel Magee. Captured in these montages is a photographic history of the university, and a rather personal documentation of the faces and events which make Bloomsburg what it is.

And, at the time of delivery, they appeared to be just what the doctor ordered. Nestled in the Register of Historical Rebuilding, in the center of Harrisburg's restoration area, McCormick was free to indulge in his own philosophy of management — surrounded only by bare, freshly-painted walls.

But his location was intended to be symbolic. A block away from both the Capitol grounds and the Department of Education building, the Register is not only conveniently close to both, but satisfyingly distant from the bureaucracy and red tape he anticipated had he shared quarters with the Department of Education. By physically removing his office from those surroundings, McCormick felt he projected a better image and would accomplish more.

"I'm trying to alleviate some of the problems I suffered during my presidency at Bloomsburg," he explained. "I sense a feeling of excitement as an administrator. There's more immediacy of action for program proposals this way."

What McCormick feels he has done to alleviate much of the red tape is to create a more efficient system. The top two-and-a-half floors SSHE leases in the eight-story Register are occupied by a large amount of high-tech equipment and a low number of employees. And McCormick couldn't stop boasting of his workers' motivation, dedication, and excitement.

"I sense that many people want to make this system go," he said. "There's a feeling of support and a willingness to be helpful."

"I consult with presidents of every campus about major decisions involved with the new system, rather than practice an authoritarian style of action. There are 14 presidents working together. That's collegiality in practice."

Top on the list for the year's accomplishments was a set of ideal goals and objectives for the university system, some of which were implemented during the year, and others which hold priority for the following term.

McCormick is also proud of his staff of "competent individuals with diverse backgrounds," and the building of cooperative relationships among his workers.

He has established an "effective and efficient cash management program," which features the transferral of system funds into a secure investment plan, leaving them untouched to gain interest until needed.

Keeping informed about what's happening within the system, McCormick visited all 14 campuses during his interim year. He plans to visit one institution each week, keeping him on the road as much as his daily four-hour commute did this year. But Buckalew Place won't house McCormick and his family. They're moving to the Harrisburg area and will settle with a larger responsibility.

Even though McCormick is leaving Bloomsburg, most people feel confident that he will tackle the new situation, make changes and improve all the universities much like he accomplished here at Bloomsburg.

TO THE CLASS OF 1984

WARM AND SINCERE CONGRATULATIONS ARE OFFERED TO THE MEN AND WOMEN OF THE BLOOMSBURG UNIVERSITY OF PENNSYLVANIA CLASS OF 1984.

YOU GRADUATE AT A TIME IN HISTORY WHEN THE INNOVATIONS OF TECHNOLOGY AND THE APPRECIATION OF THE ARTS ARE AT THEIR HEIGHT. IT IS A TIME RICH IN DISCOVERY AND STEEPED IN THE WONDER OF EXPLORATION OF THE SELF AND WHAT LIES BEYOND EARTHLY LIMITS. IT IS A GOOD TIME. IT IS AN EXCITING TIME.

COLLEGES AND UNIVERSITIES LIKE BLOOMSBURG HAVE BEEN CALLED "ACRES OF DIAMONDS" BY SOME. RICH IN QUALITY AND SERVICE, THE STATE SYSTEM OF HIGHER EDUCATION REPRESENTS 14 UNIVERSITIES AMONG THOSE MANY. BECAUSE BLOOMSBURG WILL FOREVER BE A PART OF YOU, IT WILL PROBABLY OUTSHINE ALL THE OTHERS. REMEMBER, ONLY YOUR PERSONAL AND PROFESSIONAL ACCOMPLISHMENTS AS ALUMNI WILL MAINTAIN BLOOMSBURG'S LIVING LUSTRE.

I BELIEVE IT IS IMPORTANT FOR YOU TO APPRECIATE THAT YOUR ALMA MATER IS PART OF THE LARGEST "UNIVERSITY" IN PENNSYLVANIA. THE INSTITUTIONS WHICH COMPRISE THE STATE SYSTEM HAVE A COMBINED STUDENT POPULATION IN EXCESS OF 81,000 AND A LIVING ALUMNI GROUP OF OVER 350,000. YOUR "UNIVERSITY" IS SO LARGE THAT IT SPANS 3,000 ACRES ACROSS THE COMMONWEALTH OF PENNSYLVANIA. BE ASSURED, HOWEVER, THAT IN THE MONTHS AND YEARS AHEAD, THE STATE SYSTEM WILL MAINTAIN ITS COMMITMENT TO PRESERVE THE INDIVIDUAL CHARACTER AND INTEGRITY OF THE BLOOMSBURG THAT YOU KNOW AND LOVE.

THE EXPERIENCES WHICH YOU HAVE HAD AT BLOOMSBURG UNIVERSITY WILL PROVE TO BE AMONG THE MOST TREASURED OF YOUR LIFETIME. I AM TRULY HONORED TO HAVE HAD A PART IN YOUR GROWTH HERE. I AM PRIVILEGED TO WISH YOU WELL ON BEHALF OF BOTH THE STATE SYSTEM OF HIGHER EDUCATION AND BLOOMSBURG UNIVERSITY.

SINCERELY,

JAMES H. MCCORMICK

Bloomsburg, Pennsylvania 17815

Office of the President

(717) 389-4526
PANET - 472-4526

To The Class Of 1984:

Congratulations to each of you as members of the first spring graduating class from Bloomsburg University. The trustees, faculty, and staff join me in extending our best wishes to you. Working together with you in many capacities has been our pleasure.

Four years ago you joined the "Bloomsburg University Family" as freshmen. Some of you came later as transfers. The decision to attend this institution and to participate in its academic and extracurricular programs afforded you an opportunity to achieve your educational goals. Now as graduates you join more than 28,000 others as members of the Bloomsburg University Alumni Association.

Through this new relationship you will be able to maintain your contacts with friends and to keep abreast of events at the university. Your continued interest shows your concern that Bloomsburg remain a vital institution dedicated to meeting the needs of the many classes which will follow you.

As alumni, each of you serves as an ambassador for Bloomsburg University. We hope you will share with others the positive experiences you enjoyed here.

We also ask that you keep in touch with us because we want to know of your progress. Your comments to us and your support of the university are important in contributing to the enhancement of quality at Bloomsburg.

On behalf of the "Bloomsburg University Family," please accept our warmest wishes as you go forward to meet new challenges.

Sincerely,

New Coach is Hopeful with More Experience

Under first-year head coach Dennis Grace, the BU soccer team did not have the winning season they expected. The young Huskies, with only seven upperclassmen on the 25-member squad, gained valuable experience in learning Grace's new system while compiling a 4-11-1 mark.

The Husky booters recorded wins over Lycoming, Juniata, Lehigh in overtime, and upset Maryland/Baltimore County.

Sophomore Ricardo Lopes led the team in scoring with five goals and three assists. Senior Prosper Osei-Wusu tallied three goals and three assists, and sophomore Eric Quan had three goals and one assist.

Goalie Bo Jones recorded 85 saves and two shutouts, while Andy Gasper added 44 saves.

Gridders Mark First Non-losing Season in 5

Improvement was what Bloomsburg wanted when George Landis was hired before the 1982 football season began, and that is exactly what the school has gotten over the past two campaigns. The young Huskies posted the school's first non-losing record since 1978 by going 5-5. The huskies even had a shot at a chance to play in the Pennsylvania Conference Championship Game, but a first-ever Eastern Division title slipped away with a 13-7 loss to East Stroudsburg. As it was, Landis' squad went 4-2 in the PC East including surprising victories over West Chester (25-24) and Millersville (22-14).

A better running game, despite the loss of standout Vernon Rochester, balanced the Bloomsburg attack this season and saw freshman Jeff Flickner gain 800 yards, the most by a BU runningback since 1979. Flickner was one of the 11 freshmen who saw starting roles at some time during the season. All-American candidate linebacker Frank Sheptock led a stingy defense that kept Bloomsburg in every game (of the five losses, four were by 11 points or less).

Sheptock and center Mike Jupina were named to the PC East First Team, while offensive tackle Doug DeLambo, Flickner, and defensive tackle Dave Pepper were selected to the second team.

Sheptock was also a unanimous pick for the second straight year and joined East Stroudsburg linebacker Mike Reichenbach as the only two players to receive all votes.

Huskies Win State and National Crown

The field hockey team met Lock Haven on November 12, 1982, for the right to be called NCAA Division II National Champions. A year ago, the two teams met for the same stakes with Lock Haven posting a 4-1 victory. But this time it was different. A goal by senior Deb Long at 21:33 of the second half proved to be all the scoring in the game as the Huskies and head coach Jan Hutchison claimed a 1-0 win. It was Bloomsburg's second national title in three years as they also won the AIAW division III crown in 1981.

The Huskies had beaten Keene State (NH) 2-1 in the national semi-finals as Karen Hertzler and Karen Nilson scored goals to lift the Huskies. Senior goalie Laurie Snyder recorded five saves in the Keene State game and added three while recording her twelfth shutout of the year in the championship game.

Hutchinson's squad also claimed the Pennsylvania Conference title by defeating West Chester 1-0 in the title game. It was a Long tally in the second half of that game that lifted Bloomsburg to the PC title.

Huskies averaged an early-season loss to Kutztown by defeating the Bears 3-2 in a strokeoff after regulation play and three overtimes.

Junior Deb Minskey was Bloomsburg's leading scorer with ten goals and four assists on the season. Hertzler, a sophomore, recorded ten goals and three assists, while senior Lynette Kyle tallied eight goals and three assists.

Defensively, Snyder allowed only nine goals on the year and recorded 36 saves.

Young Men's Team Improves Record

Newcomer Dean Feinhauer led a young team composed of nine freshmen to an improved record for the men's cross country team under second year coach Carl Hinkle. Feinhauer was a bright spot for the 2-10 harriers, collecting three first places and two course records for the team which upped its mark from 1-7 last year. Individually, he placed 39th in the PC Championships where the team placed 12th, and Feinhauer also collected a 62nd in the NCAA Regionals.

Women Win Despite Limited Meets

The women's cross country team finished at 3-0 in a limited dual meet slate and ninth in the PSAC Championships. Senior Lori Pingitore headed the team in five duals and was instrumental in a BU first-place finish in the Binghamton Invitational and a second at the Bloomsburg Invitational. Sophomore Karen Henseler also turned in some good performances throughout the season along with Sabrina McChesney.

Although competing with as many as six freshmen in the lineup at one time the wrestling team had a fine season piling up 14 wins against just four losses. A string of 12 straight dual match victories and the PSAC Championship highlighted the season.

Mansfield Upsets Huskies in Hershey

The men's basketball team was considered out of everything in late January losing four straight games to fall to 5-9. But the Huskies captured 14 of its last 16 contests, including 12 consecutive games, and for the fourth year in a row reached the Pennsylvania Conference championship game.

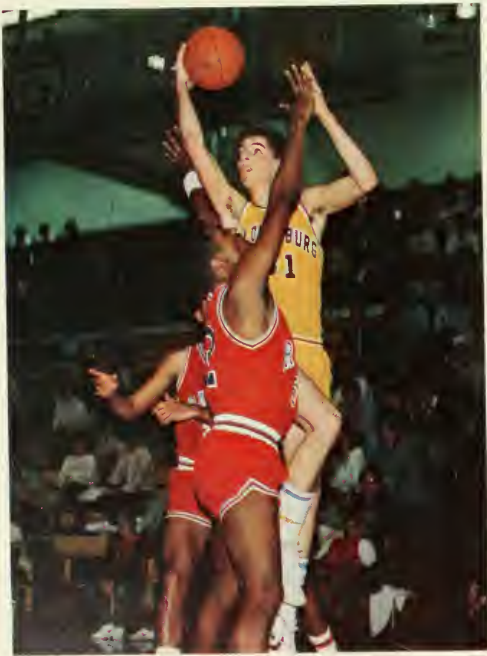

Although BU fell 61-54 to Mansfield in the PSAC title game and missed in its attempt at another trip to the NCAA Division II Tournament, the Huskies did post a 19-11 mark, the school's 18th consecutive winning season.

Senior captain Barry Francisco was selected for PSAC Eastern Division and NABC East District first team honors and has an excellent chance of becoming an All-American performer.

Women reach Playoffs

For the first time in eight years, the women's basketball team reached post-season action. Coach Sue Hibbs' squad qualified for the conference playoffs where the Huskies fell to eventual Pennsylvania Conference champion Millersville 77-66 in a preliminary round contest.

Despite an 11-14 overall record, Bloomsburg came out even (6-6) in the Eastern Division and finished in fourth place. Sophomore Jean Millen continued her assault on the record books as she was among the national leaders in scoring (20.7 ppg.) and rebounding (15.6/game) as well as being the top rebounder in the PC.

Cressman Leads National Qualifiers to a Second Place PC Finish

For the third straight year, the women's swimming and diving team recorded a 9-1 mark with their only loss coming to NCAA Division II National Champion Clarion. Head coach Mary Gardner's squad also placed second in the conference championships to the same Golden Eagles for the fourth year in a row.

Junior Gwen Cressman was BU's lone All-American finishing ninth in the nation in the 100 yard backstroke (1:01.85) at the NCAA Division II Championships. This is the third straight year that the Orlando, Florida native secured All-American honors. Cressman nearly gained All-American status in the 200 yard individual medley, but her time of 2:19.95 was 1/100th of a second short of qualifying her but was good for 13th place. She also competed in the 200 yard backstroke where she claimed 16th place (2:14.59).

Other national qualifiers on the team included Kelly Knaus, Sue Boyer, Patty Boyle, Kelly Reimert, Dana Grubb, and Marcy Lesko.

'Berwick Huskies' Win PC Title — Again

Without notification, construction involving the softball fields on the lower campus began during the spring recess and Jan Hutchinson's team was without a field. Because of poor planning by the administration and lack of communication, the 1983 Pennsylvania Conference champions moved practice drills and home games to Berwick's Ber-Vaughn Park.

After a 25-2 regular season the Huskies faced Slippery Rock, Edinboro and Shippensburg for the second straight Pennsylvania Conference title. BU dominated the three opponents as All-American Tina Souders pitched all three games allowing just one run and striking out 25 hitters. For the second year in a row, the Huskies were shipped to Bridgeport, Connecticut for the NCAA Division II Eastern Regional where an eventual meeting with Sacred Heart was inevitable. Meet they did, as BU and their hosts opened with a 23-inning marathon, which began Friday but was completed Saturday, won by the Pioneers with a single

Disappointing Season Hits Huskies Again

Second year head coach Sharon O'Keefe's main problem was defense as the Huskies allowed 13 or more goals in all eight games during the season. ## West Chester Halts State Title Streak

For the first time in six years, the men's tennis team didn't win the Pennsylvania Conference title, but the Huskies weren't far away when it was over. Coach Burt Reese, faced with the loss of All-Americans Dave Superdock and Marty Coyne, used a line up that, at times, included three freshmen. Over the past several seasons, BC had built a 33-match win streak in the conference, which ended abruptly one week before the PC tournament with a 6-3 loss to West Chester, the team that would also capture the title. Although the Huskies didn't win a PC singles crown, the doubles teams of Rob Lario/Scott Gibbs and Tim Mitchell/Steve Augustine kept BC's streak of having a PC champion every year since 1975.

Landis Represents Women in Nationals

The Pennsylvania Conference #1 singles champion, BU junior Justine Landis, received an invitation to compete in the NCAA Division II Championships in Chattanooga, Tennessee in mid-May. Landis had defeated Shippensburg's Lynn Miller in the PC finals, 1-6, 7-5, 6-3 to earn the state crown and took a 17-2 record into a first round national bout with Judy Kniffen of Abilene Christian. Landis fell 6-1, 6-2 but has a 42-10 career mark.

In the PC championships Landis also combined with sophomore Kathy Masch to record a 9-2 doubles mark. The duo reached the conference semi-finals where they were beaten by the Edinboro team of Karen Morgan and Mez Chicott.

Masch also reached the semi-finals in #2 singles, but she was defeated by Morgan, 6-2, 6-3. Masch was 8-5 on the season.

Senior Linda Becker and junior Marge Gillespie were finalists in the #2 doubles where they were beaten by Judy O'Connell and Janice Weisgerber of Shippensburg, 7-5, 7-5.

The same thing that proved to be the men's team strength was the downfall of Dick Daymont's women's team. Faced with his smallest squad since coming to Bloomsburg, Daymont had to depend on a few individual performers to try to carry the load. A ninth place showing in the Pennsylvania Conference Championships was aided by Vicki Amici, Cindy Graby, and Marianne Fidishin, who were the Huskies' placewinners. Amici placed third and sixth in the 800 and 1500 meters, and Fidishin was sixth at 400 meters. ## Huskies Don't Connect, Optimistic Year Turns

What most felt would be a solid year for the Huskies turned sour as BU couldn't seem to put the bats and arms together at the same time. When Steve Bresett's team scored runs, the pitchers were ineffective; and when one of the mound staff had a good effort, the Huskies couldn't cross the plate. "Big Brother is watching you" warned an editorial in the first 1984 issue of The Voice. Professors' seating charts, schedule changing procedures, and strict dormitory policies, like sign-ins and the prohibition of alcohol, were some of the incidents trying to prove the above statement.

But is Orwell's 1984 really here?

By Betsy Wollam

As the 1984 era grew closer, documentaries and intellectual studies sprung up everywhere, probing that question; and seven BU faculty members posed questions concerning "1984 — Big Brother is Watching You," during a panel discussion one February evening.

George Orwell, who wrote the novel in 1949, was almost considered a prophet, as many found his story of a totalitarian society coming true. Winston Smith, the main character, lived a life of hiding from the viewing camera's vision range, drinking the government's one brand of generic liquor and smoking it's one brand of generic cigarettes, and having forbidden sex with a woman he could actually love, and not just make babies with, like a mate he might be matched with by members of the "Inner Party."

With the rise in technology and its capabilities, there may be reason for the public to fear its privacy as Smith did. Direct marketers and store merchants watch our buying habits with mailing lists and hidden cameras, but for different reasons — one group wants us to buy, the other hopes we don't steal. The government also watches us, asking for a citation of every cent we earn and buy with, so it can get some of it, too. Even on campus, with a punch of the computer, almost anyone can find out our phone number, grades, and personal data.

Orwell also introduced us to the concept of newspeak — a method of writing which took the truth and made it somewhat deceptive, somewhat political, somewhat corrupt — which amounted to not much more than euphemisms and propaganda. We call it double-speak.

Advertisers have ways around spilling the truth by calling us "full-figured" or "queen-sized" instead of "fat," some of the panalists pointed out. Garbagemen are known as "sanitation engineers" or "combustible truck loaders," and the government calls it's tax collectors the Internal Revenue Service. Even Adolf Hitler's holocaust was conveniently termed "the final solution."

"If (the language) was more clear, it would make us think more," says Marion Petriollo, instructor of English. "Governments don't want us to do that."

Which seems to be a popular belief of most governments — if the people can think, they may understand. And if they understand, they may revolt. But this wasn't so in 1984. Smith himself was a Newspeak writer. Later, after it was discovered that he and his lover, Julia, were having an affair, both were tortured by the Party until they betrayed the other, then became party members themselves. Speakeasys buzzed about Party practices, and posters everywhere reminded the masses that Big Brother was watching them. But the totalitarianism remained.

Dr. Thomas Bonomo, assistant professor of sociology and social welfare, noted that the United States, even with its high standard of living, is made up of people who do not seek to improve their surroundings — who are apathetic. And the U.S.S.R., with its 100 percent literate population, stays passive under its strong government, noted Martin Gildea, associate professor of political science.

And what of the surveillance? Are the computerization and improved technology with which we live a valid threat to our privacy?

"The Department of Agriculture has the most number of phone taps a year," said Dr. James Moser, assistant professor of physics. "The U.S. government often tells us what's good for us, like they do when they say air bags in our cars are more effective than seat belts, which is a movement toward totalitarianism."

During the domestic spy era in the 1970's, explained Dr. Bonomo, training programs for the militarization of police and SWAT teams included a Civil Disturbance Orientation Course. A training manual which supplemented the course material outlined at one point the justification for violence by troops, "... whether in fact it is democracy is irrelevant . . ."

So maybe it's here. But maybe not.

"The smotherings of the totalitarian state in 1984 cannot be compared to the corruptions and failings of the free state," says Gildea. Taking something that one person doesn't like, such as a classroom seating chart, and assuming it's something everyone dislikes does not make a valid claim that 1984 exists on campus. One man's oppression may be another's freedom.

"The technology (for 1984 to occur) is there, but the will to use it isn't," Gildea continues. "It may come in the future. But right now, there is no tradition to encourage leaders to make it happen."

The concept of 1984 must be kept in perspective. Although the basis for such a world to develop may be here, the reasoning is not. The government and other personnel may use the computer to learn about people, but they don't persecute them afterwards for "thought crimes" or the like. While a wide-view mirror regulates our behavior somewhat, so does a policeman, and he's been around a lot longer than Orwell's book.

"1984 is not a prophecy, but a warning," says Petrillo. "It shows us what could happen if technology ran wild."

Maybe an answer to that problem is what we should ask ourselves.

Mondale, Hart and Jackson battle for the Democratic Presidential Nomination

By Marianne Wingard

A field of eight Democrats began the quest for the Democratic Presidential Nomination. Their numbers quickly dwindled. The casualties included Rueben Askew, Ernest Hollings, Alan Cranston, George McGovern and John Glenn. At graduation, three candidates remained, Jesse Jackson, Gary Hart and Walter Mondale. Following the Pennsylvania primary April 11th, Walter Mondale, having taken 45 percent of the popular vote and a majority of the delegates at stake, appeared to be the clear front-runner. However, the race continued as Jesse Jackson and Gary Hart gained strong support among voters that are disillusioned with the traditional Democratic candidate.

Jackson, 43, has been a visible activist in American politics for the past 20 years. He worked closely with Dr. Martin Luther King, Jr. in the Civil Rights protests of the 1960's and later founded Operation Push, and other organizations attempting to motivate black youths to achieve positive self concepts and higher standards of education. With Jackson's campaigning and "inspiration," blacks have registered to vote in record numbers. The base of Jackson's support comes from the nation's black churches and the "Rainbow Coalition."

Representing another alternative for Democrats, Hart seemingly came out of nowhere to win the New Hampshire primary and several other key states. The 47-year-old, has been politically active for years, previously master minding the Presidential campaign for George McGovern. The senator from Colorado advocates a new approach to liberalism. He contends that the traditional ideas of the Democratic party have outlived their usefulness. Hart supported many feminist principles, a reduction of nuclear arsenals and a drastic military reform of our conventional forces. Although Hart has continually tried to emphasize that he is the candidate that embodies new ideas for a new generation many people complain that he still remains a mystery to them.

The more experienced Mondale entered the political scene as a protegee of the late former Vice President, Hubert Humphrey. Mondale served as a Minnesota senator and later as vice president under Jimmy Carter. He has strongly supported the nuclear freeze movement. A traditional democrat from the old school of thinking, Mondale enjoys the backing of many labor unions and other special interest groups across the United States. Although Mondale lead the race, some democrats fear that he will not have the ability to defeat Ronald Reagan in the general election because of his connections with President Carter and his lack of charisma on television.

Many people contend that at the summer convention in San Francisco, the campaign's bitter overtones may take their toll on the Democratic party. By the time a candidate is chosen for the nomination the party may be too divided to reunite for the fall campaign. Polls have placed Gary Hart ahead of Ronald Reagan if a general election were held now (in May), even so, Ronald Reagan still appears to have the brightest future in the November election because he has been spared the rigors of the primary campaign.

Six new athletic fields developed on upper campus

It's not because Bloomsburg became a university on July 1, 1983 that earth moving equipment went into operation on the upper campus the same day.

It's just that some of the recreational and parking problems should be eliminated by the fall, thanks to the cooperation of the Bloomsburg Hospital and the support of the university's Community Government Association.

On July 1, bulldozers began stripping off 80,000 cubic yards of dirt to start leveling most of 15 acres of land east of Nelson Fieldhouse, leased from the Bloomsburg Hospital, for the construction of nine practice fields for the university's varsity athletic and recreation programs.

CGA is providing the money to build the fields and the University is leasing the land for 15 years, renewable for another 15 years.

"We have had a real jigsaw puzzle in recent years trying to schedule practices for athletic teams and times for the areas to be used for intramurals and recreation purposes," said Jack Mulka, dean of student development.

"Also, some of the varsity game fields were used for these purposes, which left them in poor condition for contests against scheduled opponents."

How will the completion of the new fields also affect parking?

"All I can say is, 'tremendously,'" said Robert Parrish, vice president for administration.

"Our plans are to convert a larger portion of the current practice and recreation area behind Nelson into a huge parking lot for spectators attending athletic or other events in the fieldhouse and Redman Stadium. This should go a long way to alleviate the complaints concerning limited parking adjacent to the two facilities." "We'll probably start parking cars on grass like Penn State does," he continued. "Whether or not we'll ever have funds to eventually pave the area remains to be seen. Also, we have to take drainage problems into consideration."

Athletic Director Roger Sanders said, "The coaches of football, soccer, softball,

University celebrates new name as Bloomsburg students return

The Bloomsburg University community celebrated its new status as a university at a convocation held Sunday, September 11, 1983, in Haas Center. It is the sixth name change for the institution since its establishment in 1839.

Participating in the presentation was James H. McCormick, BU president, on a leave of absence as interim chancellor of the State System of Higher Education, Acting President Larry W. Jones, and John L. Walker, vice president of institutional advancement.

Various graduates of Bloomsburg presented student government president Chris Hardinger with artifacts from each period in the history of the institution. The artifacts were sealed in a time capsule that will be placed in the James H. McCormick Center for Human Services.

The ceremony included an academic procession of faculty and administrators, the presentation of the first university medallion to Acting President Jones by Robert Buehner, chairman of the council of trustees, and the ringing of the Carver Hall bell, commemorating 144 years of service.

baseball, field hockey and lacrosse affected by the additional practice areas are elated. They all echo the sentiments that they will now be able to conduct practice sessions more conducive to game situations and won't have to be hurried by a time schedule."

"What it all boils down to," Sanders said, "is our goal of upholding Bloomsburg's fine reputation in athletics and recreation and making the university a recognized leader in these areas under the new state system."

Old alma mater is back

After an absence of about 14 years, the alma mater sung by students between 1911 and 1970 has been reinstated, with minor changes.

The action was prompted by the transition from Bloomsburg State College to Bloomsburg University of Pennsylvania on July 1.

Earlier in the year, college president James H. McCormick asked the Alumni Association board of directors to give him a recommendation addressing the effect of the transition on the alma mater.

Board president John W. Thomas '47 appointed an ad hoc committee to study the issue and make a recommendation to the full board. Included on the committee were members of the Alumni Board, alumni, and representatives of the Music and English departments.

The committee identified four alternatives: retain the current alma mater (written by Donald Messimer '70) and make appropriate changes in the lyrics; reinstate the former alma mater (written by professor Joseph H. Dennis in 1911) and make minor changes in the lyrics; write an entirely new alma mater; or do nothing at all.

The committee noted in its discussions that many pre-1970 alumni were unhappy when the alma mater was changed and would be pleased by its reinstatement. Most of these alumni learned the words to the familiar tune (Annie Lyle) as students and have never forgotten them.

Adoption of the alma mater written by Messimer coincided with the end of compulsory assembly programs at which the alma mater was often taught and sung. As a result, students since 1970 generally were not taught the alma mater until rehearsal for commencement.

The committee noted sadly that many alumni failed to recognize the alma mater when it was played at public events.

Given the strong sentiment for the old alma mater, the committee decided to recommend its reinstatement with minor changes in the first verse and chorus. The committee further recommended that the old second and third verse be replaced by a new second verse which would be a combination of the two.

When the recommendation came to the full board, the reinstatement was strongly supported. The board was divided, however, on the revised second verse.

After considerable discussion at two board meetings, the directors finally agreed to recommend reinstatement of the old second and third verse.

Acting university president Larry W. Jones has concurred with the recommendation of the alumni board, and the new-old alma mater has been sung once again at convocations, athletic events and other university programs.

Rochester fights back following football injury

After being hurt in a September 10th game against Mansfield, Vernon Rochester, a sophomore tailback, was flown immediately to Geisinger Medical Center in Danville, where an operation was performed to repair a damaged spinal cord.

After almost a week at Geisinger, he was flown to Jefferson University Hospital in Philadelphia, where he went through rehabilitative therapy in the hospital's spinal cord injury center.

For Rochester the fight goes on.

He continues to receive therapy and works toward walking again, having been partially paralyzed by the spinal cord injury.

Suspicious fires hit dorm

A suspicious early morning fire in a residence hall Wednesday, October 6, caused the evacuation of 400 residents.

Two chairs were destroyed in the fourth floor study lounge of Columbia Hall, and smoke damage was extensive in the 2:57 a.m. blaze.

Fire Chief Ralph Magill said that he is convinced the fire was intentionally set since two other fires occurred in the same hall.

Three shower curtains in a third floor bathroom were also set on fire Wednesday morning and a chair in the first floor lounge was set ablaze September 26.

The residents, evacuated to Haas Auditorium, returned to their rooms at about 5.30 a.m.

LCB and town police raid pre-finals parties

On the last day of classes and right before fall semester final exams, 11 BU students were arrested for illegal liquor sales. Sixteen agents of the state liquor control board and nine Bloomsburg police officers took part in a series of raids on Friday, December 9, involving two fraternities and several other student homes. Eight other students had citations issued to them for under-aged drinking.

The people of Bloomsburg had been up in arms over the loud parties and a petition was filed with the police chief to combat the problem. This three hour raid was the largest such action ever conducted in the town's history.

Class of '84 contributes to Husky Mascot statue

From an article in The Alumni Quarterly
by Patrick J. Murphy

After eight years of false starts, Bloomsburg will soon boast a statue depicting the University's mascot — the Husky.

The larger-than-life-size bronze sculpture will be located on the southwest lawn of Carver Hall, with the unveiling expected on Homecoming Day, October 27, 1984.

The idea of commissioning an artist to create a mascot statue that would embody the University's ideas has been talked about since 1976, but not until last December did the idea move toward reality.

"People have wanted it for at least 10 years," said

Scott Righter, chairman of the CGA investment and statue committees, but no one really sat down and put in the time to see the project through to completion."

After reviewing proposals and models submitted by several artists, in response to a national search, the statue committee of students, faculty, administrators and alumni voted to accept the entry by E. Richard Bonham. Bonham, of nearby Catawissa and an art instructor at Bloomsburg High School, also designed the new University Medallion worn by the president of the university during academic convocations.

Funding of the $15,000 project has been provided by 10 classes and coordinated with the Community Government Association and the Alumni Association. As a class gift to the University the Class of 1984 has contributed $2,000 toward the sculpture.

The gold foil embossed design on the cover, and the sketch appearing on the front endsheet and the dividers throughout the yearbook are a reminder of our contribution to the Husky Mascot sculpture.

President emeritus Harvey A. Andruss dies

Dr. Harvey A. Andruss, Sr. died Thursday, February 9 at the age of 81. Serving as president of Bloomsburg State Teachers College and Bloomsburg State College from 1939 until 1969, Dr. Andruss provided guidance through 30 years of important growth of the institution — development of diverse curriculums and construction of new facilities.

The Harvey A. Andruss Library serves as a reminder of the outstanding contributions that the former president made toward the betterment of public higher education.

Sal faces charges for "pizza connection"

The owner/operator of Sal's Place restaurant, Salvatore Salamone, was arrested in connection with a $1.65 million drug dealing ring. Salamone spent one week in Lackawanna County prison. He later gained his release on a $225,000 property bond. Sal faces criminal charges of conspiracy in New York Federal Court. He is one of 35 people that were arrested in this case that required a five year investigation. The "pizza connection" stretched throughout the world with dealings in Spain, Italy, Switzerland and the U.S.

Pre-registration shows much needed improvement?

The first-day registration for classes, that many will remember as less than streamlined, was replaced by a new procedure.

Instead of filing into a crowded Centennial Gymnasium to fill out biographical data cards, get class schedule cards stamped and to pick up calendars, students completed the majority of the paperwork through the mail and attended classes on the first day of the semester.

Last fall, students either picked up class schedules at their residence hall or received them at home one week before the start of classes. This aspect of the process will be modified in the future when those students living off campus or commuting will receive schedules through campus mailboxes.

The change was the result of more than a year of careful planning by the registrar's office as well as the business, Community Activities and Residence Life offices.

The new system also involved the payment of fees approximately three weeks before the semester began. Students who did not meet the deadlines had their class schedule dropped and registration was invalid.

Although the new system eliminated lines in August, pre-registration/class scheduling for the spring semester was worse.

Long lines of underclassmen formed from the Coffeehouse in Kehr Union and extended across the top floor. At times the line weaved downstairs to the ground level.

With a few bugs experienced in the new system, time slots for underclassmen were expanded in the spring semester for fall '84 scheduling/pre-registration. Of course it was too much time and scheduling seemed to go on forever. Never-the-less Bloom made progress.

He continued to serve as advisor for the yearbook and the student handbook.

Dr. Rabb, a 1946 Bloomsburg graduate, completed 37 years as an educator, 26 of which were at Bloomsburg.

He served as chairman of the biology department from 1965 to 1973 and was instrumental in initiating a successful program in medical technology. Later he became curriculum coordinator for the program.

Dr. Webber came to Bloomsburg in 1968 and completed 15 years at BU and 21 years in education.

When Dr. Warren came to Bloomsburg in 1964, he started a new job and founded the Social Improvement Organization (SIO). At that time social fraternities were not permitted on the Bloomsburg State College campus.

Through hard work and determination, SIO became officially recognized as Sigma Iota Omega, Bloomsburg's first social fraternity.

His guidance has helped SIO become Bloomsburg's largest and most financially stable fraternity while serving on numerous campus committees and as the chairman of the history department.

Ft. Lauderdale Bound

From an article in The Voice by Alison Krasner

The entire week consists of happy hours, long lines at Burger King and McDonalds, northern coeds soaking up the Florida sun, musclemen and the bikini clad; gifted women parading along the shoreline showing off their assets. The meat market overflows from the white sandy beaches to the hotel pools where daily bellyflopping, beer chugging, relay racing, limbo dancing and wet t-shirt contests are held. Pitchers of beer make their way to eager viewers (and drinkers) of these poolside affairs by beautifully tanned natives in figleaf bikinis.

This is SPRING BREAK; and for many college students from the cold north, the sunshine state serves as the perfect escape. The most popular of the resort cities, Ft. Lauderdale, is buzzing with "college kids" from mid-February through Easter. Sunny days are spent on the beach or by the pool, but as the tanning index drops, it's time to shower, doctor the sunburn and prepare for the gala night-time events.

The Button, Summers, Penrods and the Elbow Room were among the favored night "hot" spots swarmed by hordes of vacationers in 1984.

Happy hours from 6-9 p.m. featured all drinks at 50 cents, ringing everyone's bells. The pedestrians, who seemed to be oblivious to the fact that the signs said "Don't Walk," put cars at a standstill honoring the "right of way" to them.

Dressed in OP, Sundex and mini-skirts the year's most popular clothing was displayed by the fashion experts; the college crowd. The meat marketeers hung from automobile sunroofs, open windows, doors, hatchbacks and convertibles to absorb the spectacular views.

Each college had the opportunity to display their true ingredients. Some BU students chose The Button to show Ft. Lauderdale (especially Catholic U) all of our honesty, 'every square inch of it,' in a competitive, sportsmanlike manner.

Vacations take so long to arrive and then slip so fast away from view. You have to be there to believe it!

McCormick stays on in Harrisburg to head SSHE

A long time friend of Bloomsburg, James H. McCormick has been named chancellor of the new State System of Higher Education. A 16-member board of governors reviewed 67 applications in a nationwide search for a suitable person for this position. Chairman F. Eugene Dixon, Jr. said, "We have found a 'diamond' in our own backyard."

McCormick had taken a leave of absence from the Bloomsburg presidency to fill the interim chancellor position for one year.

The announcement of Dr. McCormick's appointment came on March 20. The three-year contract will be effective July 1, 1984 (See story on page 74).

Two short operas staged in Carver

The Bloomsburg Players, in conjunction with the Department of Music, performed two short operas April 13-14 in Carver Hall.

"Dido and Aeneas," by Henry Purcell, unfolds a story of love between Dido, Queen of Carthage and Aeneas, Prince of Troy. But it ends in tragedy when they become separated.

"Mahagonny," by Kurt Weill and Bertold Brecht, deals with thieves, prostitutes and gamblers who attempt to form the ideal city where the only sin will be a lack of money.

Both productions were choreographed by New York dancer and choreographer Buddy Teijelo and directed and conducted by Dr. William Decker, professor of music.

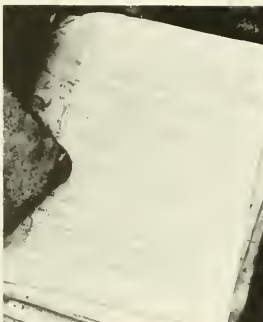

BU junior dies

Blaze engulfs students' home

A fire in a home housing 12 students claimed the life of a BU junior and left the others homeless. The blaze at 601-603 East Third Streets started at 3:25 a.m., Saturday, March 24 and quickly engulfed the home trapping Dominic Murtin, 20 of Pennsauken, New Jersey. The house was owned by Dr. Donald Camplese, professor of psychology and owner of many student dwellings.

This fire has since raised serious questions in the community about the safety of student housing in Bloomsburg. Off-campus students have been rudely awakened to the dangers that may exist in their homes.

Students have been urged to make sure that they have smoke alarms, fire extinguishers, and an escape route from second story rooms. Hopefully, these precautions will help to prevent such a tragedy from happening again.

Clash on campus?

The only area appearance of the rock group, The Clash, will be at Bloomsburg University in Nelson Fieldhouse on Sunday, April 15, at 8:00 p.m. The performance is sponsored by the university's Student Concert Committee.

Tickets are on sale daily at the Information Desk in Kehr Union and can be purchased for $9.00 with an activities sticker or $13.00 without.

First woman to command Air Force ROTC

By Shane Steck

She's the girl next door; friendly, cute and fun to be around. A BU senior in business education/marketing, she attended class during the day, and worked evenings and weekends tending bar at Good Old Days at 5th and East Streets. In spite of her affable and down-to-earth manner, she's more than just another small town girl working her way through school. Valerie Brittain was the Cadet Commander of Detachment 752 of the Air Force ROTC Cadet Squadron at Bloomsburg. Brittain is the first woman to be appointed and to serve as cadet commander in the four-year history of the BU attachment.

As the Cadet Commander, Brittain was in charge of all cadets, the cabinet, consisting of nine divisions which include public relations, recruitment, and administration and personnel, and she was responsible for weekly Leadership Labs, class briefings and new Air Force cadet orientation.

Now that her semester-long reign has drawn to a close, Brittain has only good things to say about her staff, and their accomplishments.

"It was tough — a lot harder than I thought it would be," she admits, "It was a learning experience for me and the others. I had an excellent staff of hardworking people who really pulled together and that's what made the program a success."

ROTC did not come easy for Brittain, nor did it get easier along the road. When she first enlisted in the Air Force ROTC program more than a year and a half ago, Brittain and fellow student, Stephanie Jonas, were the only two women enrolled in the Professional Officers' Course.

"There were other girls," recalls Brittain, "but they were GMC's (General Military Course). A lot of them dropped out when they couldn't get the slots that they wanted." Stephanie will be the first girl to get commissioned in August, then Patty Ingel and I will commission in May of 1985."

Ingel, Brittain's roommate, was the biggest factor in her decision to enlist in the ROTC program.

"I knew a lot of people enrolled in the program through Patty. She was always telling me about it and never had anything bad to say," she says. "I started asking around and everyone in it (Air Force ROTC) was excited about it. That was the real reason I decided to go into ROTC with the Air Force. The people really impressed me."

Brittain's parents support the move, and have backed her ever since she suggested enrolling in the ROTC program. ROTC was her own idea. Proudly, Brittain says, "They (her parents) think it's an excellent career move; with all the opportunity for advancement, the job security, and the pay. They think I made the right choice."

Brittain believes that being a woman, cast into a role, traditionally held by males, hasn't hurt or lessened her femininity in any way. In fact, she feels the Air Force program has heightened her awareness of being a woman. "You don't lose your identity when you go into the Air Force. It's the same as in any other job," she says. "If anything, it accentuates the fact that you are a female. You're called 'ma'am,' instead of 'sir.' You're treated like a lady. They respect you for what you are. They respect you even more for having the courage to be going into a 'man's army.' I don't think it has lessened anything. It's made me aware that you can be both a woman and an equal. They aren't two conflicting things."

Brittain says she has never felt any undertones of discrimination or favoritism during the time she served as Cadet Commander. She was expected to pull her weight as a Cadet, regardless of her sex. She says, "I got a lot of kidding, but everyone gets teased. It was never anything derogatory or abusive — just in fun."

Applicants for Cadet Commander are taken each semester. Cadets must be academically sound, show considerable leadership ability, and be in their junior year of college. Applicants are preliminarily screened, and later presented to Lt. Col. Robert Cafazzo, head of the ROTC program in the Wilkes-Barre area, for the final decision.

Brittain was the only female to apply for such a position at BU. She considers herself somewhat of a pioneer, and is glad that she sought the position. Brittain claims that she was never intimidated by the position, since she was unsure about its responsibilities.

"I feel that I've shown other cadets that being a female is no hinderance in the ROTC program. I was the first one to stick my neck out, and go for the position, and my colleagues respect that, and have told me so," she says. "My breaking the ice will make it easier for others to go after key positions in the ROTC organization."

There was a lot of pressure thrust on her once she got the position and realized her responsibilities.

"I walked into it blindly, and the corps could have fallen apart. Then I would have gotten the blame for it," recalled Brittain. "People would have said it was because I was female."

But that wasn't the case, and at the end of the semester, Brittain's list of achievements include an ROTC command in the best financial shape of its history, the establishment of the Arnold Air Society, a fraternal organization designed to serve the social needs of ROTC cadets, and a well-prepared sophomore class, ready to embark on summer field training exercises.

"Serving as Cadet Commander has taught me how to shoulder responsibility, and better delegate authority," she says. "I've learned how to deal with people, and how to work with a staff to produce results." "That's really been the key to making this thing work — the people and the staff that supported me. They did the real work."

Rain shower interrupts May commencement exercises

A sudden cloud burst couldn't dampen the spirits of the BU graduates who gathered at the Bloomsburg Fairgrounds for the 1984 May Commencement Convocation.

Approximately 750 graduating seniors, 70 graduate degree candidates and over 4,000 family members and friends were present at 3 p.m., Saturday, May 12 to witness the exercises and hear the principal speaker, John Heinz, Senior Republican Senator of Pennsylvania, on what had been a comfortable, mostly sunny afternoon.

However during the invocation, dark clouds started rolling in and by the time Acting President Jones welcomed the assembly, the wind picked up and the shower came. Dr. Carroll Redfern, presiding officer, encouraged the seniors seated on the track to move closer to the covered stage, out of the rain. The damage was done and after the brief down pour, the skies cleared and Senator Heinz was able to give his long, wearily, political speech.

"In recognition of his educational accomplishments and his noteworthy contributions and service to the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania and the nation during his eight years in the United States Senate and his previous five years in the U.S. House of Representatives," the BU Council of Trustees awarded an Honorary Doctor of Laws degree to Senator Heinz.

Following the hooding of masters degree candidates and the introduction of candidates for the baccalaureate degrees by Dean Forsyth, Dean Rarig, and Associate Vice President Ghosh for Dean Macauley, CGA President Chris Hardinger and Bob Kenney, class president congratulated the graduates. The benediction was preceded by the singing of the Alma Mater and the recessional led to a reception in the Arts and Crafts building for the graduates and guests.

Follow your dream . . . take one step at a time and don't settle for less,
just continue to climb.

Follow your dream . . . if you stumble,
don't stop and lose sight of your goal,
press on to the top.

For only on top can we see the whole view, can we see what we've done and what we can do,
can we then have the vision to seek something new . . . Press on, and follow your dream.

— Amanda Bradley

To the reader:

Obiter, the title of this annual, is derived from the latin phrase "obiter dictum;" as defined it is an incidental opinion, a passing remark, something said by the way. This book marks the 68th edition at Bloomsburg.

I hope you have enjoyed the photographs and 'remarks' recorded in this — the 1984 Obiter. In addition, I hope that the bound memories will be a lasting remembrance of the fine years spent on the hill at BU.

After two years at the helm, I thought that producing the 1984 Obiter would be rather easy . . . It was the most difficult. I wanted to improve coverage over past books, in an effective manner and yet maintain interest in the events of the 1983-84 academic year. It was important to the staff and I believe we were successful, despite some trying times.

Plagued with old fashion 'senioritis' or 'too much work, not enough time' and an acute touch of procrastination, it was difficult for the staff (new and old) and myself to complete deadlines; but the work was done and the presses rolled.

It is impossible to adequately thank all who contributed to this yearbook, but I am grateful to all who "came through for me." I especially appreciate the efforts by Merin Studios for outstanding service and a great portrait photographer; two advisors, Mr. Kenneth Hoffman, who retired in December and who opened the door to a prospective career in public relations for me and Doug Hippenstiel, the rookie, who brought an enthusiastic outlook on the future of yearbooking and Bloomsburg University, have been very supportive and have allowed us complete freedom and judgement in producing a large journalistic piece. I am deeply indebted to my special friends at Herff Jones — Tom, Jan, Joe, John, Don and especially Mike and Barb Gilroy for their empathy, encouragement, and enthusiasm throughout the year(s).

Finally, of utmost importance, I bow to Kevin Lynch and Kerry Boll for working many long hours, suggesting design and story ideas, looking for consistency, pointing out discrepancies, clarifying facts, and contributing to the spectacular completion of this — our third and last yearbook together.

Alumni Association

Bloomsburg University, Bloomsburg, PA 17815, (717) 389-4058

Welcome to the largest branch of the Bloomsburg University family—the Alumni Association, with over 28,000 members in all 50 states and over 25 other countries.

I hope you will be an active, caring member of the Association. You can demonstrate that care in a number of ways: By encouraging family members and friends to attend Bloomsburg; by sharing your career experiences with the University Career Development Center; by reflecting the quality of education you received at Bloomsburg in your work; and by joining over 10,000 other alumni who have been contributing members of the Alumni Association.

I am proud of the many ways in which alumni contributions have made the University a better place. I would like to cite just two examples: During the past 10 years the Alumni Association has provided over $68,000 for scholarships (over $13,000 in 1984-1985) and nearly $17,000 since 1976 to improve and maintain the very attractive appearance of the campus. In addition, over $15,000 is spent annually for alumni publications to keep you informed about what's happening at the University and in the lives of your classmates. There are many other ways in which alumni have helped to provide "the margin of excellence."

I also draw your attention to an interesting publication, PROFILE OF THE PAST, A LIVING LEGACY, a history of the University from 1839 to 1979. I am sure that as a graduate, you will want to know as much as possible about the history of your Alma Mater. This book, written by an alumna and illustrated with many photographs, is very readable, and I recommend it highly.

I invite you to participate in alumni chapter meetings held in your area, and I hope you will return to Bloomsburg from time to time, especially for special occasions like Alumni Weekend in the spring and Homecoming in the fall.

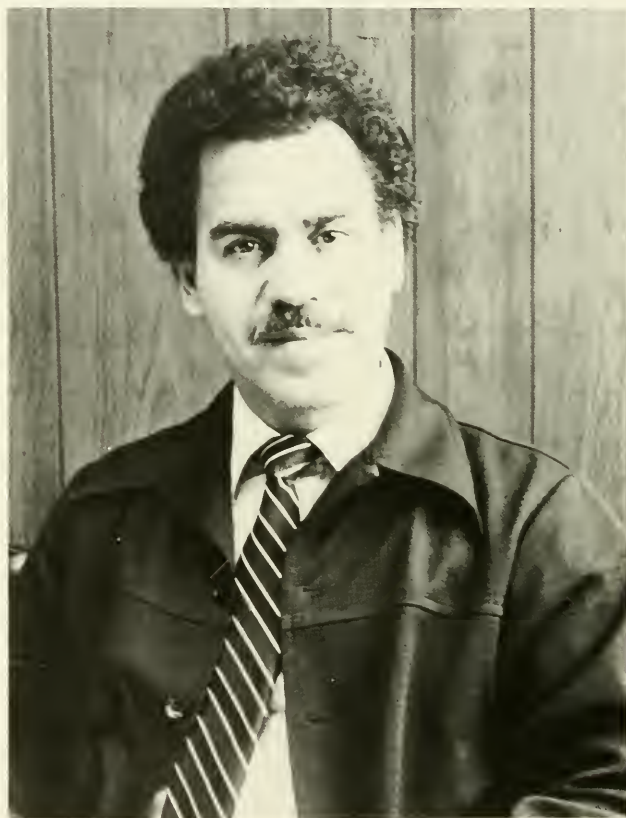

Best wishes to you for success and happiness in your career and in your personal life.

Sincerely,

Douglas C. Hippenstiel
Director of Alumni Affairs
