Council Discusses Need For Rec Room

The need for a recreation center on the Edinboro campus was the chief topic of discussion at the meeting of the Student-Faculty Council last Thursday evening.

Dr. Van Houten declared that the basement of Recreation Hall provides ample room for such a center, but he pointed out that certain renovations would be necessary. The cost of these necessary repairs would be too great to make them feasible under the current budget. However, Art Jarvis and Jeanne Simoni were selected to investigate the matter thoroughly and to report their findings to the group.

Several committees were appointed to carry on the work of the Council for the rest of the year. Bob Bloom, Ann Markham, and Harold Graham were directed to arrange for the assembly program at which the new president of the Council will be elected. An Ethics Commission consisting of Tom Brown, Art Jarvis, and Bob Rosequist was also set up. This group will consider the over-all ethical problems of E. S. T. C. and evolve a workable code for the guidance of all students.

Mrs. Miller was appointed chairman of the committee which will edit and publish the handbook for next year. Wilma Jean Steadman and Harold Graham will assist her.

Finally, two members of the student body, Dona Flower and Gene Carnahan, were named to the student-faculty committee which will select the assembly programs for next year.

Student Producers Hold Rehearsals

Curtain going up! Rehearsals are in full swing for the grand openings in March of nine plays, each produced and directed by one of the students in Miss Ludgate's play-production class. The class consists of Marjorie Boney, Joan Finnefrock, Allan Heffler, Paul Graf, Kathryn Magoon, Twila McCall, Edna Morrison, Evelyn White, and Robert Wallace.

Each of these students is completely responsible for producing a one-act play for credit in the course. About seventy students are cooperating with these "producers" by taking parts in the plays. Faculty and students are invited to attend the performances on the evenings of March 18 and April 13, 14, 15, and 16, in the Auditorium.

The first to be presented on March 18 is Bob Wallace's production of a musical show about a soldier and his South Pacific sweetheart. The play, called "Trials and Tribulations," is an original script written by Art Jarvis, with musical arrangements under the direction of Jim Fordenbacher. It includes a cast of thirty-five, with Lee Davis and Jeanne Himrod in the leading roles.

Beginning on April 13 two plays will be presented on each of four successive evenings. The first of this series will be Evelyn White's production of "Beauty and the Jacobins," a drama of the French Revolution, which has in its cast George Freeland, Lou Deli, Norma Skeel, Robert Stone, and Biata Hawkins, an Edinboro High School student. On the same night will be "The Fourth Mrs. Phillips," a comedy about the unsettled life of an actor, produced by Allan Heffler. Its cast includes Virginia Hall, (Continued on page 3)

Annual Junior-Senior Prom To Feature Music Of Neil Charles' Orchestra

Choir To Sponsor Informal Dance

The college choir will sponsor an informal dance from 8-11:30 on March 12 in Crawford Gymnasium. In a Mexican nightclub setting, a floorshow, by members of the choir and outside talent, will be featured. The affair will be open to the public.

Clea Johnson is acting as general chairman. Members of the decorations committee are: Marjorie Perkins (chairman), Luella Whitney, Dorothy Miller, Helga Aho, Bob Rosequist, Marjorie Campbell, and Bill Buchanan. Music is in charge of Phyllis Dunton (chairman), John Offner, Ronald Krape, and Nelson Bogue. The refreshment committee consists of Nancy Coates (chairman), John Allegretti, Norma Hamel, Stewart Smith, and Jeanne Kennedy.

Lighting is under the direction of Ross Steadman, assisted by Lee Davis, Ken Harvey, and Bill Holdren. On the advertising committee are Audregene Nicely, Martha Murdock, Ruth Campbell, Jean-adair Knopp, and Norma Lalley. Elouise Powers is in charge of the ticket committee, assisted by Irene Cristea, Katherine Bartoo, and Lois Hendrickson.

Forum To Discuss Housing Problems

Contemporary housing problems will be the topic for the Forum Club's second program of the semester, according to an announcement by Anna Johnson, director of the program. The meeting will be held in the Auditorium next Thursday evening at 7:00 p. m.

Three-minute speeches by five students will set the stage for a pragmatic approach to the problem; a period for audience participation will then round out the program. Copies of all the speeches will be available at the door for interested students.

The key speeches will be delivered as follows: Byron Masters, the moderator, will give the landlord's point of view; Mrs. Juliana Hanson will show the needs for housing improvements; Anne Willson, former Wave, will approach the subject from the veteran's viewpoint; Robert Connors will discuss government control; and Howard Newson will give the contractor's ideas.

The Junior Class has announced that the annual Junior-Senior Prom will be held on the evening of May 15 in the Edinboro High School gymnasium. Neil Charles and his orchestra, an Erie Combo, will furnish the music. This aggregation made a big hit at the recent Sophomore Snow Ball.

Invitations to the dance will be restricted to members of the Junior and Senior classes, their guests, and members of the faculty. A highlight of the gala event will be the crowning of a prom king and queen, chosen from the Senior Class.

Dona Flower and Marjorie Campbell are the co-chairmen in charge of arrangements for one of the final social events of the year. Assisting them are: decorations, Barbara Buckley; tickets, Jeanne Kennedy and Tom Brown; programs, Florence Weyrauch and Gloria Dennis; refreshments, Betty Phillips and Marian Dean; gifts, Eileen Vose and Jane Twichell; orchestra, Jim Fordenbacher; king and queen, Marjorie Perkins and Mary Alice Armagost. All members of the Junior Class will take part in cleaning up after the dance.

Delta Phi Hold Formal Initiation

The Chi Chapter of Delta Phi Delta, national honorary art fraternity, held a formal initiation for Mr. Ralph Bruce, faculty member of the art department, and Ted Lynch, junior art student, last Wednesday evening.

The impressive candlelight service was held in the library of Loveland Hall and was followed by a tea in the Exhibition Room. Clyde Snyder, president of the local chapter, conducted the initiation. Cake and coffee were served to the guests after the ceremony. Gretchen Haughton and Marilyn Patton laid aside their art smocks

Student Body To Elect New Council President At March 17 Assembly

News Briefs

At the bi-monthly meeting of the Y.W.C.A., the following officers were elected: president, Mary Ann Hebert; vice-president, Nancy Coates; program chairman, Dorothy Edwards; secretary, Kathryn Magoon; treasurer, Florence Freeman; music chairman, Ruth Campbell; song leader, Lois McCartney; publicity, Mary Jane Rozelle; and hostess, Mary Alice Noxon.

The next meeting of the group will be held next Wednesday evening in the Haven Hall parlors. The meeting will be open for both men and women.

The Conneauttean went to press yesterday at the Ashby Printing Company of Erie, according to Editor Marie Hall. The yearbooks will be distributed to students on May 16.

At the regular meeting of the Camera Club last week the following officers were elected: president, John Gaut; and secretary-treasurer, Kathryn Magoon.

Dr. and Mrs. Johnson have invited all the wives of married students to come to an informal get-together in the form of a dessert party at 7:30 p. m. on March 16 at the Johnson home. Each guest has been asked to bring her favorite quick-and-easy recipe.

Mrs. Miller has announced a (Continued on page 3)

"Y" Leader Visits Edinboro Campus

Dr. Helen Mosier, Director of the National Student Y.W.C.A. in the Middle Atlantic Region, visited the Edinboro campus last Wednesday and Thursday.

On Wednesday evening Dr. Mosier, also regional secretary for the Student Christian Movement, conducted an informal meeting of all students interested in furthering a Christian Program on the campus for both men and women.

Dr. Mosier feels that students here have a limited opportunity to participate in church organizations or social groups. Her visits to other campuses seem to indicate that these are national problems, but she feels that with proper guidance considerable progress could be made. She stressed that the purpose of her visit was to help students organize and that there would be no outside interference with student programs.

Like many visitors, Dr. Mosier was visibly impressed by the friendly attitude of both the townspeople and the college students.

for aprons in order to provide the cake.

After the tea, plans for the coming art exhibition, to be held in early April, were discussed.

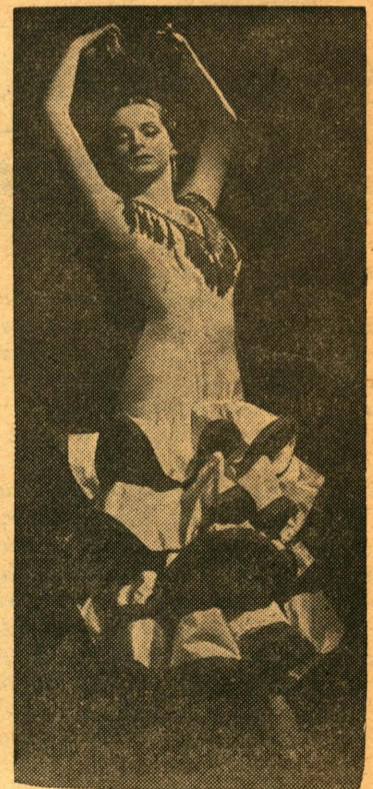

A special assembly program will be held during the third period on Wednesday, March 17, for the election of a new president of the Student-Faculty Co-operative Government.

The procedure for nominating candidates is specified in the Student Handbook. Dorothy Davies, president of the Junior Class, will appoint a committee of three students who will nominate not fewer than two students for the office. Candidates can also be placed on the ballot by the presentation of a petition signed by not fewer than twenty-five students from any class. Such petitions must be presented to Dolly Johnson, secretary of the Council, at least 48 hours before the election is to be held. The names of all candidates must be published on the bulletin boards at least 24 hours before the election.

The Handbook also specifies the qualifications of the candidates. Every candidate must be a member of the present Junior Class and must have a scholastic standing of at least a "C" average.

At the March 17 assembly program, each candidate will be introduced and will be given an opportunity to express his aims or plans regarding the Student-Faculty Co-operative Government. The voting will take place immediately after the completion of the presentations and speeches.

Dancer To Present Evening Program

Ana Ricarda, star of both classical ballet and the traditional Spanish dance, will present a program of colorful, exciting dancing in the Auditorium next Wednesday evening.

Miss Ricarda is a native-born American, but she has spent most of her life abroad studying under European artists and performing on continental stages. Inspired at an early age by attending a performance given by the great Pavlova, Miss Ricarda studied and worked until she approached the brilliance of her idol.

In 1935 she turned to Spanish dancing as a further artistic outlet. Argentina, most famous interpreter of the traditional Spanish dance, made an exception to her declaration of never taking a pupil. Since the death of her teacher, Miss Ricarda is regarded as one of the top artists in the Spanish field of the dance.

An Ounce Of Prevention

If The Spectator followed the policy of many metropolitan newspapers in listing the improvements needed most in the community, there can be little doubt as to what deficiency would rank first: a recreation center. That this need is rather obvious is witnessed by the fact that the Student-Faculty Council, a faculty committee, and the administration of the college are all currently seeking to find a solution to this problem.

At the present time there is no suitable place on or off the campus where students of both sexes can gather for purely friendly social recreation. Partially because of the crowded housing conditions and the inexcusable conduct of a few individuals, the men are no longer urged to grace the Haven Hall parlors. Both the Country Club and the Canoe Club are out of bounds for the girls. On the face of it, this latter interdiction is rather puzzling since many prominent individuals in the community belong to the Country Club and since the Canoe Club is owned and operated by a member of the teaching profession.

All of us are aware of the facts as stated above. But are all of us aware of the possible consequences? Apparently not, since an elemental knowledge of psychology should lead one to believe that such a situation is fraught with serious social dangers. We all know that if adequate recreational opportunities for young people are not provided, they will seek some means of satisfying natural social impulses.

It is with considerable regret that we must admit that we have no answer for the problem. We know that the groups which are investigating the matter have not as yet been able to arrive at a solution satisfactory to everyone concerned.

The only suggestion we have to offer is this: perhaps it would be wise to meet the problem with some not-altogether-satisfactory solution now, rather than to evolve an exceptionally fine plan to be put into effect a year from now.

—Harold Graham.

Simmons Suggests . . . .

For the past eight issues, we have wondered if the editorial column of The Spectator ever got more than the briefest scanning. Apparently it has; at least, a suggestion has been offered for combatting the effects of inflation on college students, as set forth in a recent editorial.

Joe Simmons, Edinboro's man-of-the-world sophomore, reasons that one of the major items of expense for our students is incurred by the purchase of increasingly expensive textbooks. He has an idea which would materially decrease the overall book expense. It sounds good to us.

Joe would establish a book pool where students could deposit those texts for which they have no immediate use. For every book deposited, each student would be permitted to withdraw one book. Thus, after finishing a semester, the student could exchange those textbooks used that term for those he would need for the succeeding semester. Each book would be marked in such a way that eventually the owner could retrieve his own volumes. A small service fee of ten cents or so would be charged to cover the cost of handling the books and to keep the proper records.

Without a doubt the plan has some rough spots. For instance, upperclassmen carrying several electives would not be helped too much; certainly the wear and tear on books would be considerable; there would be some difficulties involved in getting books back to the proper owners; and undoubtedly there would be some inequalities of distribution.

However, Joe's plan is certainly worthy of consideration. It very easily could be the starting point for working out some type of reciprocating plan based on the principle he presents. Most certainly it is in keeping with one of the marked trends of our generation: cooperative living.

Letters To The Editor

Lately several indignant individuals have bounced members of The Spectator staff with the question: "Why wasn't my letter to the editor published?" The insinuation usually is to the effect that we're "afraid" to print such contributions.

Actually three main reasons cause such letters to end up in our floor-file: the letter is unsigned; the letter is in poor taste; or lack of space does not permit publication. The Spectator, in conforming to accepted newspaper policy, will not publish any unsigned letter, although the names of contributors will be withheld upon request.

When space permits, we will endeavor to publish any letter properly signed and in good taste. If any letter touches on a particularly timely topic, we will find space for it.

A Novel Dime

by MR. FIDE

Betts McConnell and Bill Horosz were flat broke one evening and were very sad indeed about the whole situation as they trudged dejectedly "down street" to gaze wistfully through the windows of various brightly lighted eating places frequented by the moneyed folk. It seemed like a hopeless predicament until Betts unexpectedly announced that she had found a dime, a whole dime!

"We're rich!" cried the elated Bill, "We can buy two cupsa coffee!" And straightway the exuberant pair dashed for a booth at Hutch's and proceeded to order the java duet. Not many minutes elapsed before two of Bill's valuable henchmen arrived, and in the course of the ensuing conversation, pilfered the check for two coffees. This was a most welcome turn of events, for it left Betty and Bill warmed and comforted not only by the steaming beverage but also by the fact that they still had a dime.

The next afternoon found Betts and Bill once more sipping coffee at Hutch's, and once more a kind friend insisted upon paying the check. Then evening came, smiling upon the couple as they sat enjoying more coffee at Hutch's. Were they now at last to part with the prolific dime? Ah no; friendship again proved generous. What luck, you say; but wait, the story ends not yet!

After classes the following afternoon, Betts and Bill retraced their well-worn footsteps to Hutch's for still more coffee. This time they were prepared to forfeit the dime. Then the waitress exclaimed that the refrigerator was out of order. At once Bill offered his excellent services as a repair man and was duly rewarded for his efforts — with two big hamburgers complete with ketchup and onions, plus coffee for two — all free!

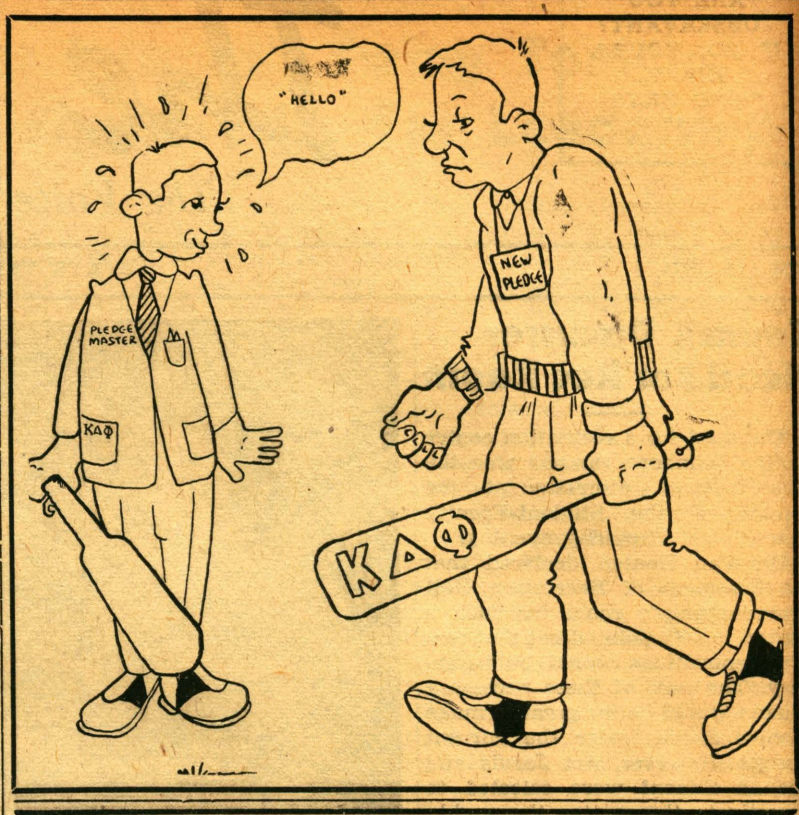

If you're wondering what finally happened to the dime, it was swallowed by a pin ball machine and has not been heard of since.

Scuttlebutt

by PIP and SQUEEK

After investigating all the nooks and crevices located about campus, we finally discovered some choice tidbits. For example —

John Walters, former freshman from Erie, is now going to law school in Washington, D. C., and Jack Millward plans to go to Syracuse University for further studies after completing his commercial art courses this semester.

Marie Kostal will celebrate her birthday tomorrow, and Angie Vitale's birthday will be on March 9.

Frank McLean's definition of a physics book is — "organized confusion."

Congratulations to George Sammons, who since coming to school as a freshman in September, has met and become engaged to Olive Lee of Corry, Pa. Congrats also to Ben Herr upon his engagement to Helen Kuhlber, a girl of Allison Park, Pa., Ben's hometown.

Mary Conrath recently had a lot of fun showing her Erie visitor, Marge Dahlquist, around campus.

It seems that Miss Ketcham has been giving her geography class assignments of looking up mountains. Walt Gratson says they can't find Sierra Madre but they have found the treasure.

Kay Snyder and Hazel Kimmel, former roommates, are now tearfully separated. Hazel is with the girls at Hahn's, and Kay is at the McChesney home.

We hear that last week Jeff Douville suffered some scratches on his head, which wound came from trying to part his hair in the middle for the Phi Sig initiation.

According to Andy Paykos, he has been dating his "cousin" Ann from Erie. Anyway his cousin is a mighty nice looking blonde.

Orchids to the four fellows (names withheld by request) who donated their blood to Richard Schlessinger, who is still very ill in St. Vincent's Hospital in Erie.

Grace Kelley, Dorothy Miller,

Shirley Campbell, Mary Ann Maloy, and Terry Jackovic are just a few of the girls who can always be found before lunch in the Rec Room playing cards.

We're sorry to hear that Phyllis Kinsley is leaving us sometime this week.

Our sympathy to Dolly Johnson's younger brother, David, who was accidentally shot in the eye while on an Eagle Scouting expedition. The seriousness of his injury has not been fully determined as yet.

Play Class

On the evening of April 14 will be Edna Morrison's production of "The Advantages of Being Shy," a romantic farce about a "shy" young man, with the cast including Irene Kellogg, Jim Curry, Charlotte Delay, Jeanne McCallister, Betty McConnell, and Marian Eades. The other play will be "The Valiant," the dramatic story of a convicted criminal about to be hanged for murder, produced by Marjorie Boney in cooperation with the cast of Nick Muto, Mary Alice Noxon, Joseph Koshute, John Mogle, and two undecided minor roles.

On the night of April 15 will be Paul Graf's production of "Dust on the Road," an allegory of the characters of Christ and Judas, with the cast of Lois Karger, John Palmer, Richard Spence, and one undecided part. The other production will be Joan Finnefrock's "Undertow," a tense drama about a jealous woman and her attempts to get rid of her half-sister. The cast includes Margaret Funk, Nancy Coates, Twila McCall, Pat Hamilton, Betty McConnell, Jean Himrod, Helen DeFlavio, Doris Gill and Jane Whittaker.

On the fourth night, April 16, Kathryn Magoon will present her production of "The Trap," a comedy about the labors of Cupid. In the cast are Mary Ann Hebert, Phyllis Dunton, Edwin Kwiatkowski, and Ted Davenport. The other play will be Twila McCall's production of "Smokescreen," a suspense-filled murder mystery. The cast includes Jeanne Tyson, Tom Tyson, and Drew Hare.

meeting of all women students who wish to have a room reserved in Haven Hall for the fall semester. The group will meet in the Auditorium the third period on Friday, March 12.

The art library has been moved from Loveland Hall to the south side of the main library. New portfolios dealing with water colors, fashions, jewelry designs, and stage settings have been added to the art section.

The latest report available on Mr. Schlessinger's youngster is that he remains on the critical list. Several blood transfusions have been necessary and more may be needed. Any student with type "O" blood and who did not serve in the Pacific could be a donor in an emergency. Several male students have already generously donated blood to Dickie, gamely fighting a hard battle against severe injuries and serious complications.

The Alpha Delt rush party has been postponed from February 23 to this evening. The prospective pledges will be entertained in the sorority room in Music Hall from 7:30 p. m. until 10:30 p. m.

Immortalization comes early to Druth McClure, the second sifter for the hard-working tyros of the ScaRab portraiture classes. Several fine paintings of her are now shaping up, one of the best efforts to date being Marian Eades' interpretation.

The Laley brothers (who can tell one from the other?) are moving in on Jim "Hambone" Hamilton's thunder in the commercial-design class with a couple of "sharp" automobile designs . . . Have a look at them when you're in Mr. Bruce's room next time. (Have a look-see at Jim's too; they have something special in their own right.)

The guys and gals of composition and drawing class are now blowing their collective tops in designs depicting their favorite sports . . . Can this be "true" art? . . . Doris Gill, a newcomer this semester, and Fred Grubbs have handed in two really colorful ones.

Some of the "From-Kittanning" boys (as they are called around here) have tried their new courses in Art Ed for some time now, switching from Commercial Art at the mid-term . . . likewise Pete Gstalder. (Vice-versa, that is.) . . . How do you like the new surroundings, fellows?

When Marian "Pochontas" Martucci dabbles in her art work, she really dabbles . . . That paint, charcoal, and pastel on her "sultry provocative" face easily testify to the energy that she imparts to her pictures.

Mr. Bruce's French "Vino" bottles have been doing their post-mortem stint posing for paintings of La Morie Vie. (That's "still life" to youse unfrenchified peepul.) Miss Skinner's is the guiding hand in this work going on in her room; while at the other end of the hall, Mr. Haller is holding the whip over a bunch of talent focusing its attention on the same line of action.

The Media and Techniques crowd in Mr. Bates' baliwick are at present amazing the master with some fast pen-and-ink sketching . . . Drop in and see some "solid" work being done there.

Bill Frazier is also spending time in Mr. Bates' room these days . . . Colorful chalk renderings of flowers, trees, and assorted gifts of Mother Nature adorn the boards where he works.

Anybody here hear a pounding and hammering? . . . That's the bookbinding of the elementary arts class . . . We've had enough . . . Good Bye!

Bob Wallace, director-producer of "Trials and Tribulations," is shown above talking to three members of the cast. Bill Horosz, Jean Himrod, and Gene Carnahan are getting tips from the old master. Bob had better be an old master, since the play is his project for the play-production class.

Training School Notes

All of the student teachers have now moved from the shallow water of observation into the depths of practice teaching. So far there have been no nervous breakdowns, tear-filled handkerchiefs, or displays of temperament.

Shortly before they began active work, Mr. Ellenberger conducted the group on a tour of the training school. Many of the individual classrooms were visited. While observing the first grade reading lesson, several of the tourists noticed that one little boy had worked his lesson out far in advance. He looked up at his kibitzers and said solemnly, "I got anxious."

Carol Carr almost burst with pride when the group visited "her" fifth-graders. Mary Artelo came away from her first session with the fifth-graders convinced that they all were "little angels." A couple of days later she wasn't quite so sure.

Anne Willson fears she's going to develop some mighty big leg muscles before the semester is over; since she teaches in both the secondary and elementary levels, she spends considerable time running up and down the stairs. Hubby Lucia was rather apprehensive of one of his classes for a couple of days. Some of the students towered over teacher!

Hubby was almost convinced that he should teach the first grade.

Olive Lee is the real eager-beaver of the student teachers. The gal has so many lesson plans worked up she could wallpaper the conference room. Mr. Reynolds, the social studies critic teachers, has his proteges constantly on tenterhooks. They never can be sure when he's kidding and when he's serious!

The student teachers who attended the high school pep rally last Wednesday would be willing to wager that any one class in the training school could out-yell the whole college. And they boost their teams, win or lose.

What Would Happen

If J. D. Curry would appear at a dance or other social function in a conservative suit sans fluorescent accessories?

If one "C-" student would freely admit that the instructor in a course gave him a square deal?

If the lollygaggers who make themselves obnoxious in Haven Hall and about campus would ever grow up?

If Mr. Neel failed to find at least six synonyms for a two-syllable word?

If the Ex-Marines on campus would forget it?

If the seniors would quit passing out free and unsolicited advice to the lower classmen?

If Bob Bloom would act as self-assured with Janie as he does in his one freshman-dominated class?

If a class could sit through a period in Recitation Hall without half of the group dozing off?

If some honest soul would admit to Dean Reed that he had cut the assembly period in order to sack in and that he had not been confined to bed by the symptoms of bubonic plague?

If Mike Talko ever really threw a ball in the direction he's looking?

If individual cubicles were erected in the library, forcing the men to place their attention on the books?

If people who read this knew who wrote it?

Delts Clinch Swimming Title Over Phi Ducks

The Delt Mermaids annexed the W.A.A. swimming title over the Phis recently by a 27-18 score, to break the tie of two previous contests.

Mary Lou Handley was first in the swimming events stressing form and technique, and Mary Bowen, a freshman Delt, won the diving events.

Phi team captain Mary Lou Reader won the 40-yard freestyle event in 27.3 with Marilyn Patton coming in a close second. Delt Sally Sechler won the 40-yard racing backstroke as the result of Jean Webster's disqualification because of an illegal turn. The time was 36.7.

JUNIORS COP CHAMPIONSHIP

In the interclass meets held last Thursday afternoon, the juniors became school champions for the third year in a row by overcoming the seniors by a half point. The juniors, paced by Captain Jane Twichell, nosed out the seniors, 32-31½. Mary Lou Reader's sophomores followed closely in third place with 28½ markers, while the frosh, led by Yvonne Fish, came in last.

Grapplers At Lock Haven Friday For Teachers College Tourney

The Edinboro wrestling squad, with a record of four wins and two losses, including a 19-11 decision over the Indiana Teachers Saturday in the season's finale, will participate in the State Teachers College Tournament at Lock Haven on Friday and Saturday of this week.

Raider Swimmers Drop Two; Last Match Saturday

The Raider Ducks dropped a home meet, 42-22, against Allegheny last Thursday and journeyed to Carnegie Tech Saturday for the Penn-Ohio meet, in which six colleges of Western Pennsylvania and Ohio took part, and returned with fifth place in the meet. The Ducks will polish off their season Saturday at home against Grove City.

The following placed at Carnegie: Art Warren, 2nd, 150-yard backstroke; Ned Holdren, 4th, 440-yard freestyle; John Palmer, 5th, diving; Gene Latini, 5th, 50-yard freestyle; George Freeland, 5th, 220-yard freestyle.

At Thursday's event in the Crawford tank only three firsts were won by Edinboro swimmers, all of them setting school records for the events. Art Warren set two in winning the 140-yard backstroke and the 60-yard freestyle, and Ned Holdren set a new mark for the third time in the 440-yard freestyle.

The Edinboro winners in the S. T. C. tourney will travel to the Case School of Applied Science, Cleveland, for the 11th Annual Inter-State Invitational Wrestling Tournament, to be held on March 12 and 13. In the Pennsylvania teachers college matches last year Jack Weixel won a championship in the 128-pound class, while Dewey Davis and Joe LaSlavic took a second and a third place, respectively, in their classes.

Edinboro 31	Clarion 3
Edinboro 18	Bowling Green 13
Edinboro 31	Clarion 5
Edinboro 19	Indiana 11

Nearly matching the score of an earlier win over Clarion, the Raiders had too much class for their visitors in the return engagement a week ago Saturday, winning by a 31-5 margin. The local grapplers captured all events except the 165-pound affair, in which Spike Karsznia was pinned. John Walker, Weixel, Bob Malarky and LaSlavic took decisions.

In Saturday's match Walker and Malarky pinned their men, and Weixel, Santel, and Lees took decisions. Linc Van Sickle was pinned, and LaSlavic and Karsznia lost by decisions.

coming before March 9, intercollegiate sports in Edinboro will be at a minimum, with track being left on the list. Coach Arthur McComb Saturday posted a call for men wanting to try out for the track team, and quite a few were on hand in his office Monday afternoon to sign up.

A number of girls have taken advantage of cut-rate bowling prices in conjunction with the W.A.A. bowling program. Counteracting the few who have beginners' luck, there are also many E.S.T.C. "gutter-ball queens," according to W.A.A. Reporter Druth McClure.

Indiana And Slippery Rock Teams Top ESTC Cagers In Weekend Games

With losses to Indiana Teachers, 62-55, Friday and Slippery Rock, 73-60, Saturday, the Red Raider cagers go into the final stretch of the season in the near future when both victorious teachers colleges return the visit. Indiana will invade the local court Saturday night, and Slippery Rock will come here next Tuesday.

The recent ankle injury of starting forward John Peckham prevented him from seeing extensive action in the weekend games. Al Babcock amassed 32 markers to pace the Raider scoring attack in games that were much closer than the relatively close final scores indicate.

Edinboro led by small margins at the end of every period in the Indiana game and had a three-point margin, 39-36, at the end of the third stanza before Indiana rallied to tally 27 markers in the final period. Art Lloyd led the scoring with 16 points, while Myron LaMont threw in 15 and Babcock 14.

After overcoming an early deficit late in the third quarter at Slippery Rock, the tricky Rockets battered ahead in the final stanza to win the game. Phillips and Harper each sank 21 points for the winners. Babcock tallied 18, while Mike Talko and Lloyd scored 10 apiece.
