Faculty Committee Releases Report On E.S.T.C. Extracurricular Activities

The Faculty Committee on Student Organizations made public its report to the President last week. This committee was appointed by Dr. Van Houten to investigate extra-curricular activities on the Edinboro campus and to recommend such changes as might be necessary for a stronger and more active program.

The committee found that 291 students, or approximately 41% of the student body, participate in no organized extra-curricular activity. The number of individuals who belong to no organization was broken down into major curriculum headings, with the following results: Art, 50 students, or 30%; Secondary and Elementary Education, 112 students, or 36%; Penn State Assignees, 131 students, or 56%.

In order to improve our student activity set-up, the faculty committee submitted nine suggestions.

1. Student organizations should be maintained through student initiative rather than faculty push and coercion.

2. Limit the number of social activities and emphasize in the fields of contemporary affairs, philosophy, religion, and study.

3. More intramural affairs, sports and lessen the emphasis on inter-collegiate games.

4. Revise and republish regulations governing student activities.

5. A guidance plan on the campus in which each student will have a faculty sponsor in order that students who do not belong to any organization may be directed into social activity as well as guided in academic work.

6. Revive or build up morale activities. Revive and make the SeaRab costume ball one of the highlights of the year to which tradition could be attached and school spirit fostered. A costume ball at Hallowe'en, Snowball, Junior Prom and Sweetheart Ball should be made the highlights of the social year.

7. Include dues of class organizations in an increased activity fee.

8. Less dependence on faculty members for the initiative, direction, and maturation of student activities.

9. Control of leadership in student organizations. Allow a

Wives Of Students Form Social Club

The wives of Edinboro students organized themselves into a club at a meeting in the home of Dr. Johnson on Thursday evening, April 10. As a title for their organization, the girls adopted the name WEDS, which signifies Wives of Edinboro State Teachers College Students.

Mrs. Howard Newsom, a former Edinboro student, was elected president of the new organization. Mrs. Benjamin Knopp, at present a student in the Art Education curriculum, was elected vice president and social chairman. Mrs. Gale Boak, a Penn State graduate and an Army veteran who takes a course in Spanish just to "keep her hand in," is the secretary-treasurer of the group.

Mrs. Robert Turner served as general chairman for the business meeting, at which the new officers were elected. Hostesses were Mrs. Howard Newsom, Mrs. Robert Skelton, Mrs. Benjamin Knopp, and Mrs. Charles Patton.

The next meeting of the club will be held tomorrow evening in the home of Dr. Johnson.

News Briefs

The Church of the Covenant choir from Erie will present a choral program in the college auditorium on May 13th, according to an announcement by Mrs. Campbell. The program will consist of sacred music, arranged in an interesting and different fashion. The basis of the program will be quotations from the Apostles' Creed.

The Newman Club is currently planning a social function for all of its members on May 5. Angeline Vitale, secretary, is the chairman in charge of the affair; John Weixel is in charge of hiring an orchestra. Father O'Dwyer will continue his discussion of marriage at the meeting of the Club tomorrow night.

The Haven girls will sponsor a sing in front of Haven Hall on the first warm evening in May. All members of the student body will be invited to the sing, which will be held after dinner.

Dr. Offner will speak before the P.S.E.A. group at Union City one week from tonight. He spoke before a similar group at Summit Township on Monday of this week.

The Choir will hold its Spring Concert on May 6. The program will consist of numbers sung both by the entire Choir and by small groups.

Miss Baron announced last week that Alumni Day at Edinboro has been set for Saturday, May 22. Miss Baron is the Executive Secretary for the Edinboro Alumni Association and is chairman of the committee which is planning this year's affair. A full-length article on Association activities will appear in the next issue of The Spectator.

Student Designers "Dream Up" Homes

Plywood houses with cork chimneys, sponge shrubbery, twig trees, and plaster stucco are the results of the handiwork of Miss Skinner's class in Interior Design. These model homes may be seen in the window of Cooper's now and all through the duration of the Art Conference this week-end.

Of special interest is the house that Joe Baird "built around a tree." The strikingly modern house designed by Bud Chadderdon also has aroused considerable comment. However, each of the budding architects managed to express his own individuality in his design in some striking way.

The scene depicted above, snapped by our ever-present Bob Murray, is rather typical of the goings-on in the basement rooms of Normal Hall these evenings. Jeanne Simoni can be seen peeking over an escort's shoulder. Bob Carlson and "Pocahontas" Martucci are enjoying a dance, as are Jack Lees and Shirley Hazlewood.

Council To Buy Athletic Awards

The principal business of the Student-Faculty Council meeting last Tuesday evening was the approval of a proposal to purchase sweaters for those two-year athletes who are not members of the E-Club.

It was decided unanimously to purchase sweaters for the four eligible athletes: Jack Weixel, Leonard Karsznia, Joe LaSlavic, and Art Warren. The first three men have earned two letters in wrestling; Warren captained the swimming team in his second year of varsity competition. Total cost of the sweaters will be approximately fifty dollars. It was pointed out that next year all varsity athletes will be eligible for membership in the E-Club and that all sweaters will be purchased through that organization.

Art Jarvis, Junior Class member, inquired whether it would be possible to purchase new scenery for the Dramatic Club, in light of the fact that the group will not present a Spring production and consequently will not spend all of its allotted funds. He pointed out that if the Council would purchase the necessary materials, several members of the Club could build the sets at a considerable saving. Art was appointed to investigate the cost of such a project and to report back to the Council at its next meeting.

President Harold Graham stated that Dr. Hoshauer, treasurer for the Student Activity Fund, will have a complete financial statement ready for presentation at the next Council meeting, to be held next Tuesday evening.

Photogs Sponsor Snapshot Contest

The Camera Club is sponsoring a photo contest on the subject "Springtime," open to all Edinboro students. Cash prizes will be awarded for the best three photographs submitted.

Photographs may be of any size and color scheme. Pictures, marked with the name of the contestant, are to be placed in a box which will be placed near the Camera Club bulletin board in Normal

Auditorium, Scene Of Music Contest

The Training School, in conjunction with E.S.T.C., will be host to the Erie County Secondary School Music Festival this Friday, April 23, according to Mr. Ellenberger, Supervising Principal.

The afternoon program will be presented by choruses from thirteen Erie County high schools. The evening program will consist of numbers presented by an all-county band and by an all-county orchestra. Students chosen from all of the high schools will make up the band and orchestra units.

Admission will be free for the afternoon events; there will be a small charge for the evening program. All events will be held in the college auditorium.

The following high schools are expected to participate in the festival: Albion, Edinboro, Fairview, Girard, Harborecreek, Lawrence Park, Middleboro-McKean, Millcreek, North East, Springfield, Union City, Venango-Wattsburg, and Wesleyville.

P.S.E.A. To Hold Guidance Clinic

On May 1, E.S.T.C. will be the host for a guidance conference sponsored by the Guidance Section of the Northwestern Convention District of the P.S.E.A. Mr. Lawrence Helsel of Cochranton is the Chairman for the Section.

Mrs. Miller, who is in charge of making all arrangements for the affair, announced that the program will center around current guidance practices, such as counseling, testing, and holding pre-school clinics. Mr. Joseph Kazemek, Director of the Guidance Center in Erie, will be the principal speaker. The program will also include a panel discussion.

The day's activities will be divided into morning and afternoon sessions. The group will eat luncheon in the college dining room.

Hall. The contest will close on May 10.

Members of the faculty will act as judges for the contest. The prize winning photo will appear in the May 19 issue of The Spectator.

Conferees To Hear Artists, Teachers

Mr. Haller, Art Conference Chairman, has announced a slight change in plans for the third annual Northwestern Pennsylvania Art Conference, to be held on this Friday and Saturday. General sessions and commercial exhibitions will be held in the Edinboro High School auditorium instead of in the college auditorium, as previously planned.

The conference will feature three guest speakers: Mr. George T. Miller, Mr. Arthur Lismer, and Mr. Ernest Thurn. Mr. Miller is the Director of Art Education for the Pennsylvania Department of Public Instruction. He formerly taught in the Pittsburgh high schools and at Slippery Rock State Teachers College.

Mr. Lismer is well known both in Canada and in this country. His work in the museums of Montreal has demonstrated the importance of creative arts in the growth and development of children. In addition to being recognized as a teacher, he is considered to be one of Canada's most prominent painters.

Mr. Thurn, of Columbus, Ohio, is a distinguished painter and is a teacher of painting and composition.

Bowery Brawl Date Set For April 29

At its meeting last Tuesday evening, the Student-Faculty Council voted to sponsor the annual Bowery Brawl. The big reverse-English affair will be held on Friday evening, April 30, in Crawford Gymnasium.

A "Sadie Hawkins Day" theme, similar to that of last year's Brawl, was suggested as a backdrop for the affair. At the 1947 version of the Brawl, the girls performed all the social niceties usually reserved for the men. The girls picked up their dates at the boys' residences, presented them with corsages, and escorted them to the dance. Most of the men insisted on being treated at the down-town ice cream emporiums after the dance.

The corsages presented last year are worthy of separate mention. Most of them were weird combinations of bric-a-brac, ranging from grizzly bear teeth and new roses to wallpaper with a carrot-leaf background. The men came garbed in short, baggy trousers, bright suspenders, plaid shirts, and bow ties. The girls were arrayed in tight slit-skirts, gaudy sweaters, high heels, plenty of make-up, flowers in their hair, and scads of jewelry.

Jeanne Simoni is chairman for the Brawl. She will be assisted by Wilma Jean Steadman and Camillo Bonomi.

TRANSFERRING VETS TO HOLD MEETING

Dr. Offner announced last week that a meeting will be held in Normal Hall next Monday afternoon, April 26, for all veterans who plan to attend another college next fall.

The purpose of the meeting will be to file forms requesting a Supplementary Certificate from the Veterans Administration. All graduating seniors who still have time remaining under the G. I. Bill of Rights are urged to attend the meeting also. If they wish to do graduate work at some future time, they must have a Supplemental Certificate.

A representative of the Veterans Administration will be present at the meeting.

As It Looks From Here

The impact of the recently released report by the Faculty Committee on Extra-curricular Activities, found elsewhere in this issue of The Spectator, may come as something of a shock to some individuals, but it is no surprise to any critical observer.

The surprising fact is that 59% of our students do participate in those activities which never appear on an "A" card. We cannot help lifting an eyebrow at that figure, for it fails to indicate in any fashion the amount of participation. For instance, thirty-three students are listed as members of The Spectator staff; actually fewer than half of that number have contributed to any great extent to the success of the paper, such as it may be. We wonder how many organizations have the same situation.

Particularly disturbing is the fact that 56% of the Penn State assignees have participated in no extra-curricular activity this year. Although many have made notable scholastic records and some few have contributed materially to college life, we still believe that this a matter of some concern. For example, the Penn Staters apparently steamrollered their own candidates into every office of the Freshman Class; yet the majority of the fellows are manifestly unwilling to contribute materially to the cultural life of the college. Perhaps the fine record set by last year's Penn State group spoiled us somewhat in this regard. Incidentally, fellows, they lived in Cambridge Springs, too.

However, the Penn Staters need not be particularly ashamed of their record, as if they would. The regular Edinboro students have little to be proud of in this respect. It is a sad commentary that 36% of our future teachers are receiving little practical experience in social living and in leadership.

It is obvious that no amount of faculty recommendations will alone bring the desired results. If an extra-curricular program is to be successful, the students must participate eagerly and wholeheartedly. The only other alternative is direct administrative action. In other words, every student would be required to belong to at least one organization. A system of assigning points could be set up, with so many points necessary for graduation.

However, such a program would be highly totalitarian in nature. Certainly if the American colleges are the grassroots of liberalism in this country, then college students are capable of conducting their organizations in a democratic fashion, of sharing the responsibilities as well as the benefits.

A Budding Project

Since Spring is the traditional time of the year for flowers and optimism, we'd like to hand out a bouquet to those individuals using the recreation rooms and to give forth with a few cheerful words about the future of the rec center.

The conduct of the students has been such that one faculty chaperone remarked that he felt "like a fifth wheel." Everyone has cooperated extremely well with the Administration's few simple rules concerning the use of the rooms. Incidentally, the faculty members deserve a nosegay of their own for their unselfish, nightly efforts as chaperones.

Inasmuch as we of the E. S. T. C. family have demonstrated that we can conduct and operate a recreation center in an exemplary manner, and inasmuch as funds undoubtedly will be available next year, there can be little or no question about our having a fine and permanent rec center very soon.

Artifacts

by JOHN WINDAHL

Spring is here (???) and the birds and bees are busily hummin' along and the art students are trying their utmost to get outside to "sketch" . . . last Friday Mr. Bates let his fledglings try their new spring wings in oils and as for the results of said labor . . . to quote Mr. Bates, "Them that wasn't blown away in the breeze was scattered in the ensuing shower." (I lost a crease or two in my dungarees myself.)

If youse peepul drop in Miss Skinner's stompin' grounds these days, you'll probably see no fewer than three Clyde Snyders! (And Loveland Hall with the Laley boys yet!) One of the Clydes will be looking at the second, appearing in a large mirror, while the third is taking shape on canvas . . . It looks pretty good from here.

The "Tracin' Boys and Gels" of Commercial Art (First Year) are now preserving their three-dimensional ads for posterity by photogin' 'em . . . some nice work there . . . Jim Hamilton's "Iron City" (The bottle's empty . . . we know), and Marilynn Haight's "Jantzen" are among the best so far.

The long-awaited unveiling has taken place in Mr. Bruce's room with Fred Grubbs finishing off his Fort Franklin mural . . . Nice goin', "Pop."

Dick McFadden has creamed a swell composition for Mr. Bruce and the Composition and Drawing Class . . . from here it looks like Mr. Bruce got into the picture . . . He says it ain't so . . . What do you think? Mary "Lu Lu" Reader has put the finishing touches and signature on a composition too . . . Modern art, she says.

Hey! Some of the "foreigners" (Non-art students) have been infiltratin' the old hall with the assistance of Mr. Bruce for Art Appreciation purposes. All-over designs and now clay modeling seem to be their meat . . . modern critics call it primitive art . . . You know what I say . . . It's not bad at all. Have you people considered switching to a good course?

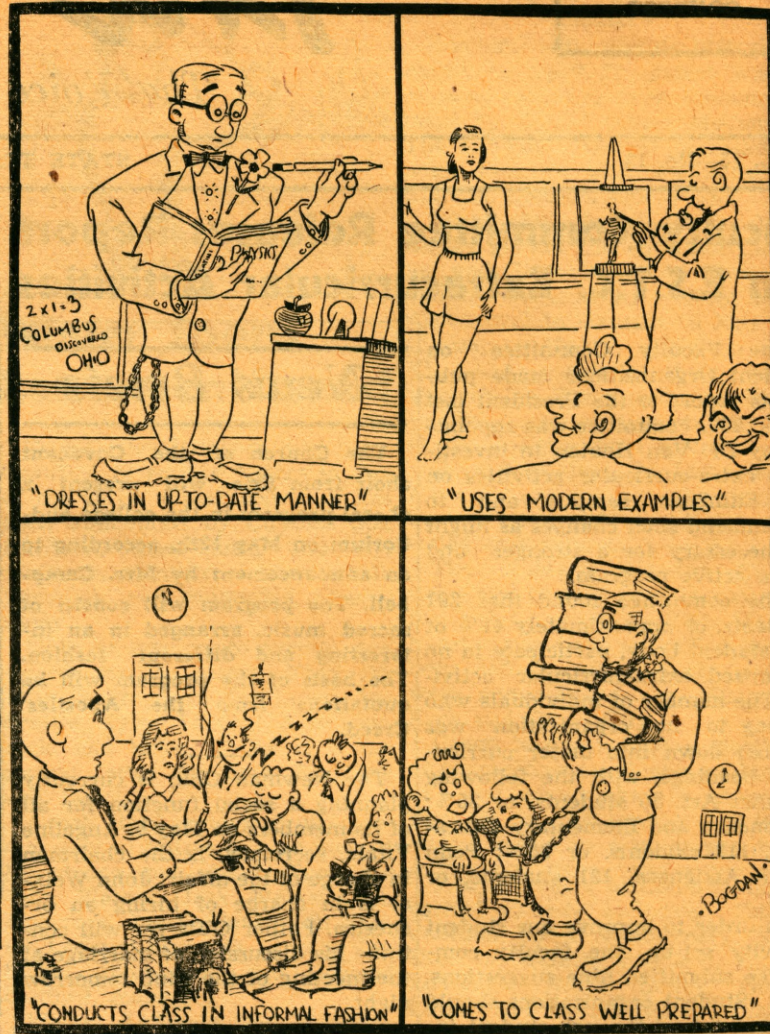

The Advertising Design class has taken the walls away from the Photog class in the exhibition room, supplanting the good pics with some reet, neet work . . . paste and lawn mowers are in the spotlight there.

"Motorbike" Mustoe and Pete Gstalder have joined the throngs at the "Rec" room at the ping-pong tables . . . some mad games are going on there nightly . . . in all three rooms if you've ever chased the flying gnip-gnop balls. We want to give a cheer for whoever is setting up that place . . . swell job!

Here's a hot tip for you art people: Check this guy Thurn when he gives his demonstration at the Art Conference Saturday the 24th. It'd cost you beaucoup dinero to view this smooth smoe at his summer art sessions in New England, and from what we hear, his work is one thing that's worth this day's inflated costs.

Well, I've gotta go and practice my salutin' now . . . the draft and U. M. T. bill, you know . . . next question: Will it or won't it be good for my morals?

Ideal Prof, According To Loyola Expert

Inquiring Reporter

by NANCY ANDERSON

Since we printed in the last issue of The Spectator the results of a nationwide survey on the qualities of the ideal college professor, we decided to ask a few E.S.T.C. students to point out some of the things they like about our own professors. Here are the results of our admittedly cursory sampling:

"Pug" Sarachine: admires Mr. Bruce for his friendliness.

Bob Chavern: likes Mr. Bate's frankness.

Louis Aquilino: admires Miss McDonnell's attractive way of dressing.

John Patterson: thinks that Miss Skinner has a good method of scolding her students—(whatever that may be).

Ivor Davis: appreciates Mr. Neel's ability to express himself clearly, and his informal manner of conducting classes.

Dolly Johnson and Terry Malinowski: both like Mr. Lowder's puns.

Marie Kostal: likes Mr. Wozniak's ability to give information thoroughly, his good lectures, and the fact that it is impossible to cheat on his tests.

George Gall: enjoys Miss Morton's golf stories.

Louis Garde: believes that no matter how much you try to avoid knowledge in Mr. Neel's classes, a little bit is bound to sink in.

Emil Krzan: likes Miss Ketcham's pleasant smile.

Ronald Bloch: gets a kick out of Mr. Bates' good sense of humor.

Bernice Boehmer: likes the way Mr. Mallory organizes his work so that you know how to plan for classes.

"Chet" Heneskey: admires Mr. Earley's understanding attitude and willingness to do all he can to help his students.

Paul Crossman: goes for Mr. Mallory's fish stories.

Lilian Krampholz: admires Dr. Johnson for his impartiality and his thorough knowledge of his subject.

Virginia Rice: likes Mr. Mallory's fairness and the way he treats each student as an individual.

Gale Boak: likes Dr. Butterfield because he practices what he teaches.

Charles Junker: thinks Mr. Neel adds a great deal to his classes with numerous illustrations and personal experiences.

Clyde Snyder: finds Miss Skinner an interesting person who manages to instill in her students her own tremendous enthusiasm for her subject.

Jean Himrod: gets some solid material from Mr. Schlessinger's classes instead of a lot of unimportant and technical details.

Helen DeFlavio: appreciates Dr. Hendricks' interesting lectures, which are spiced by his sense of humor and by the outside material he brings to class.

Ruth Knapp: likes the explicit manner in which Mr. Griffin assigns his work.

Chuck Schlosser: is inspired by Mr. McNees' sincere interest in his students and by his practical application of scientific theory.

Mary Alice Armagost: enjoys Mr. Doucette's classes because he is a friend both in and outside of the classroom.

Training School Notes

All of the student teachers are now aiming at May 21 as "the" date: last day of teaching. Those lucky stiffs who have senior classes will be finished with one class a week earlier, since the seniors finish sooner than other classes.

Olive Lee will join Mary Artello in the Harmonsburg school system. Olive will teach the first grade. Incidentally, Olive was maid of honor at the wedding of Mary Livingstone Jamison during the Easter vacation. Mary's husband is a junior at Thiel, majoring in social studies and English. He hopes to join Mary in the teaching profession.

When Carol Carr Spence speaks of teaching by the project method, she knows whereof she speaks. Carol recently used the project method in her fifth grade class. The youngsters got together material for four projects on Colonial life on a plantation, and life in the backwoods.

The fifth, sixth, seventh, and eighth grades journeyed to Fairview last Friday for the County Elementary Music Festival. Nancy Parker, LeVieve Obert, and Olive Lee accompanied the group. Nancy has recovered from her recent illness, but she's lost a few pounds. The Training School will be closed this Friday afternoon for the County Music Festival; but if the recent Forensic is an example, the student teachers will enjoy no vacation. Most of the plebes worked all day for the Forensic, and Tom Quirk even labored into the night.

With six-weeks grades due this week, all of the student teachers have had an opportunity to view grades from the other side of the fence. Viewed from any angle, assigning marks is a major headache, it seems.

Incidentally, the Edinboro Mixed Octet won top honors at the Forensic. The group is composed of Phoebe Waldo, Dorothy Harris, Beata Hawkins, Lorene Lodge, Andrew Sheets, Fred Skelton, Frank Walker, and Chuck Campbell. They will next compete in the state meet.

With the advent of Spring and vacation, the old bugaboo of motivation becomes more and more important. It's mighty difficult to interest high school people in Shelley and Keats when the birds are singing and the trout are biting. Friday afternoons are so-o-o-o long! Ah well, five weeks to go.

FACULTY COMMITTEE

student to be president of only one organization and to be on not more than two councils during the course of a semester."

So that greater opportunities will be opened for extra-curricular participation by all members of the student body, the committee recommended that the following organizations be formed:

- "1. Rifle club with facilities in the old gymnasium.
- "2. Winter sports club including skating, skiing, and tobogganing.
- "3. Field and Stream Club.
- "4. Secondary Teachers Club, Elementary Teachers Club, or affiliates of F. T. A. and A. C. E.
- "5. Penn State Club.
- "6. Debating Team.
- "7. Professional sororities and fraternities.
- "8. Athletic activities in baseball, tennis, boxing, fencing, handball, volleyball, and badminton.
- "9. That immediate action be taken by the administration relative to the request for a dramatic club."

The faculty members who served on the committee and who drew up the report are: Dr. Butterfield, chairman; Mr. Schlessinger; Mr. Doucette; Miss Whitney; Dr. Hoshauser; Dr. Koenig; and Mr. Wozniak.

Former Rutgers Prof Joins E.S.T.C. Faculty

The E.S.T.C. faculty was recently augmented by the addition of a new physics instructor, Dr. George Winchester, formerly head of the department of physics at Rutgers University.

For a college professor Dr. Winchester has a unique background: he never attended high school or prep school. He first became interested in the phenomena of physics while a youth on his father's farm in Elmore, Illinois. His interest was so intense that he studied "Abraham Lincoln style" until 1903, when he passed the entrance examinations for the University of Chicago. After graduating in 1906, he continued his studies in the same university and received his Ph. D. in 1909 for work in the field of photo-electricity. He began his teaching career as a professor of physics at Washington and Jefferson College.

When World War I broke out, Dr. Winchester entered the Army, where he served as a first lieutenant. As a signalman in the air corps he used many secret signaling instruments used also in World War II. Dr. Winchester helped improve the observation balloons used in signaling by reducing the chances of lightning striking them. This was accomplished through the use of materials other than those originally used.

After the war, he served one year as acting professor of physics at the University of Washington. Following this he did research work for the Standard Oil Company of New Jersey until 1921, when he became head of the department of physics at Rutgers University. He served in that capacity for twenty-five years.

Dr. Winchester plans to continue his research work in the field of science by solving problems of materials in the solid state. He expects to publish a paper soon on "The Variation in Cross-Section of the Aluminum Atom With Change in Structure of Metal." Research for this paper, which deals with the bombardment of a sheet of aluminum with electrons, was done at Rutgers University.

Besides his activities in the field of science, it is understood that Dr. Winchester is something of a sporting individual, too. At least two things he brought along were a tennis racket and a set of golf clubs. It might be added that he has been making cautious inquiry about the local trout streams.

ART CONFERENCE

tion. He has studied at Munich and Paris and is distinctly of the modern school. Mr. Thurn conducts summer classes in painting at Gloucester, Massachusetts, and has had his own art school in Boston.

Edinboro students will provide musical entertainment as a part of the program. On Friday afternoon the Ensemble will sing several selections. On Friday evening Bill Buchanan and Howard Kreitz will sing vocal solos. On Saturday morning the vocal soloist will be Lee Davis. Mrs. Campbell will be the accompanist for all of the numbers.

Watercolors painted by an advanced class last summer will be exhibited in Miss Skinner's studio during the conference. Delta Phi Delta is sponsoring an all-school exhibition, to be held in Haven Hall.

Scuttlebutt

by SNOOP and SCOOP

Well, spring is here again and even the automobiles are holding fenders, as we have heard it said by one Bob Hope. Jerry Sheehan, like many others this spring, decided to do a bit of fishing and be-took himself down to the lake last Saturday morning. He had gone well prepared with a large box of elaborate and assorted flies. When he returned to display his catch of two trout, each all-1-1-1-most a foot long, Swede Johnson asked him which one of the flies he had used. Barbara Buckley, who had been admiring the fish, replied before Jerry had a chance to assert his own version, "Oh, he didn't use a fly. He caught them with a wor-r-r-m!"

Gretchen Haughton — and all the girls on first floor — were pretty lucky last Friday when Gretchen's mother brought her a huge angel-food cake and plenty of ice cream to go with it.

Did you know that Pat Hamilton is a bass fiddle player? Well, nobody else believed it either until she proved it by playing the bass at the square dance in the high school gym on April 10.

One night not long ago Lucille Bowen was called away from the dinner table to receive a telephone call. When she finally resumed her place at the table, she read us a little poetry, which was the composition of the man at the other end of the line. Some conversationalist at the table remarked that the caller must be a lover of poetry. "Oh no," said Lucille, "he's a lover of Lucille!"

Three of our Edinboro girls made a trip to Penn State College last week-end. Nancy Coates went down to attend a big fraternity dance with Jack Skehan. Nancy had been packing to go to Penn State for two weeks before the actual day of departure; but Jean Allen (perhaps we should call her "The Flash") decided to go along, and packed in ten minutes flat. "Wick" Carpenter also went down to see her fiance, Bill Schildmacher.

Here is a memo to all Penn State students: All unmarried girls entering for the fall semester of 1948 will be assigned rooms in dormitories on the Penn State Sollege campus. All upperclass women through the seventh semester have 10 o'clock permission each evening from Sunday through Thursday and 1 o'clock permissions for both Friday and Saturday nights.

The Training School will hold its annual gym exhibition on Thursday evening, April 29. The exhibition will be open to the public for a small admission fee.

Dr. Van Houten has announced that Daylight Saving Time, which goes into effect on Saturday night, will be observed at E. S. T. C. However, a Pennsylvania law makes it mandatory that clocks in state-operated buildings be kept on Standard Time. Thus, when classes commence at eight o'clock next Monday morning, the school clocks will show seven o'clock.

Judge Burton Laub will be the speaker at the assembly program on next Wednesday, April 28. Judge Laub, a former Erie attorney and one-time District Attorney of Erie County, will talk on juvenile delinquency.

According to an announcement by Miss Beattie, college dietician, dinner will be served to college students from 5:00 to 5:30 p. m. this coming Saturday. The change in schedule has been made so that the dining hall will be free for the use of the Washington Trail Council of the Boy Scouts of America when the members gather for their annual dinner and business meeting at 6:30 p. m.

3 Famous Mentors To Head Grid Clinic

Three of the country's most famous football coaches, Aldo "Buff" Donelli, Charles W. Caldwell, Jr. and Stuart "Stu" Holcombe, will head up the annual Edinboro football clinic, which is sponsored by the Northwestern Pennsylvania Coaches Association. The coaching school will be in session from August 10 through August 13.

Coaches from Northwestern Pennsylvania will attend the school, where they will hear lectures and see demonstrations of all phases of football. Outstanding high school stars from ten counties will be on hand to act as guinea pigs, putting the theories into actual practice. The clinic will be climaxed by the annual all-star game in the Erie Stadium, when players from Erie County will meet a team composed of players from the other counties.

Holcombe, formerly backfield coach at West Point and currently head coach at Purdue University, will be in charge of the clinic. Donelli, former head coach at Duquesne University and currently head coach at Boston University, creator of the sensational "winged-T" formation, and a past master of razzle-dazzle football, will coach one team, made up of the nine northwestern counties. Caldwell, head football coach at Princeton University, will handle the Erie County schools.

Coach Art McComb will represent the college at the clinic. Players and coaches will be housed on the campus.

Anglers old and young took to the streams last Thursday, first day of trout season; and some degree of luck, or shall we say skill, was displayed in making some fair catches . . . Dr. Offner seems to be pacing the faculty, from last reports, with nine fish caught on the same day that Mr. Mallory came back with only five . . . Dr. Hoshauer hasn't been having too much luck although he has a 14-incher to his credit . . . Mr. McComb has offered to give Mr. Reed fishing lessons at $2.50 apiece . . . it seems that while Mr. Reed was at a loss for a good place to angle, someone fished the small stream that runs behind his home and came up with a 20-inch beauty . . . we haven't learned who caught the fish.

The two ping-pong tables — one newly added — in the Rec Room have drawn a host of enthusiasts . . . among the best and most frequent players are Bob Connors, Jack Greenawalt, Bill Mustoe, and "Archie" Archer . . . some of the fellows developed a high degree of skill in the game while stationed at isolated points, where there was little else to do, during their span in the service.

Miss Ruttle has received complimentary tickets for members of the W.A.A. swimming team for the Allegheny Aquacade to be held Thursday evening, April 29.

Coach Art McComb toured the course with some of his golfers on the first round of the trials last week and came up with a 91 . . . two of his newest proteges, Russ Alward and Howard Stewart, hit 78 and 76, respectively . . . of

GOLFERS INITIATE SEASON HERE FRI. WITH WESTMINSTER

The Red Raider golfing sextet will take to the Culbertson Hills country club course Friday in the season's opener against Westminster. The Raiders will entertain Clarion on the following Tuesday in the season's second match.

Playoffs for the starting berths on the squad were slated for Monday, weather permitting, with all six positions at stake, although lettermen Gene Carnahan, Ange Juliano, and Hubby Lucia are likely recipients of three of the spots.

Newcomers Russ Alward and Howard Stewart look good for positions, both having out-hit all three lettermen in the first trial round. However, other possibilities, George Gall, Carlton Durling, and Spro Factor, are definitely in the running.

course "Mac" was not in his best form, the match being played with little or no previous practice this season, but we expect him to show the youngsters once he hits his stride.

Swift Action Marks Opening Of Intramural Softball Loop

Play Ball! That century-old cry is now echoing throughout the Edinboro campus as the Intramural Softball League, organized early in the month under Coach Sox Harrison's direction, has swung into full-scale operation. The eleven-team league has been hampered somewhat by bad weather since the April 12 opening, but hopes are high for better days, what with the advent of May just around the corner.

Swift action was seen last Thursday afternoon when Bradford, defending champions of the league, went down to defeat at the hands of the strong Aliquippa ten. Behind the deceptive twirling of Lefty John Joseph and Felix "Fireball" Matuszewski, Aliquippa thumped the champs to the tune of 8-4.

While Aliquippa was stomping Bradford, the Bee Bops were registering their second win of the season by leaving the 105 Club on the short end of a 7-2 decision. Although they were out-hit, the Bee Bops effectively bunched their blows to push across enough runs to insure a victory.

In the opening game of the season on April 12, the "Bops" thoroughly drubbed the Bulldogs, 19-3. Roger Hoaglund permitted only seven hits in setting the Dogs down. Due to this paper's deadline, scores were not known of the Night Crawler-Clipper and G. H. Outfit-Dean's List Indians clashes on Monday and the Ell Kop-Kappa Delt and the 105 Club-Bulldog games on Tuesday.

Several of the teams — Snyder's Night Crawlers, Kappa Delta Phi, and the Clippers — have been carried over from basketball, and the Ali-Brads have split into two teams representing those cities. The Night Crawlers are managed by Lou Gardner, the Kappa Delt by Spike Karsznia, and the Clippers by Bob Busch. Aliquippa is directed by Sam Nan while Hank Diller heads the Bradford entry.

Other teams in the league and their managers are: the 105 Club, Frank Sittler; Bee Bops, Al Wolf; Bulldogs, John Stadnicar; G. H. Outfit, Bob Groff; Dean's List Indians, Blair Logan; and Ell Kops, Evan Nardone. The schedule is listed below.
