GRADS TO HEAR PITT PROF

Curbstone Coaches Honor President Duda

Dr. Duda is presented an award by Mr. Charles Coates

Pitt Team And Local Athletes Are Honored

Last Sunday the Eighth Annual Awards Banquet of the Pittsburgh Curbstone Coaches was held at the Roosevelt Hotel Ballroom. Among the honored guests was Dr. Michael Duda, President of California State College, who was honored as College President of the Year. Dr. Duda was presented the award by Mr. Charles Coates representing the Pittsburgh National Bank, the donor of the award. This award is given annually to the college president who has contributed most toward total athletic and academic aspects of his college.

The Curbstoners paid special tribute to the University of Pittsburgh football team of 1963. They were hailed as the best football squad at Pitt in twenty-six years, compiling a 9-1 record. KDKA-TV and KDKA radio presented the entire Pitt team with football-key chains in honoring them as "No-Bowl Champions of 1963." Pitt also received the Old Ironsides Trophy which is presented to the winner of the West Virginia, Pittsburgh and Penn State game. Other Panthers honored were Paul Martha, Fred Mazurek and Coach John Michelosen.

Martha received the Most Valuable Player award at Pitt. Martha led his team in touchdowns, kick-off returns, was outstanding on defense and had an average of 5.5 yards gained per game. Mazurek was given the James H. Coogan Memorial Award as the outstanding player in the Pitt-Penn State game. Coach Michelosen received an award for Outstanding Contributions to Football.

Around the Pittsburgh area the Most Valuable Football Players were: Stan Truskowski, quarterback at Slippery Rock State College, honored as the Tri-State Small College outstanding footballer.

Truskowski led his team to a bowl game, averaged 5 yards a carry, and completed 50 percent of his passes; Al Abels, halfback from Carnegie Institute of Technology; from Pennsylvania State University, quarterback Pete Tiske was honored; center Pete Goimmarac from West Virginia University received the honor from his school; from the Pittsburgh Steelers Myron Potias and Buddy Dial received the honor for defensive and offensive play; and Mike Scarvy of Waynesburg received the honor for the Tri-State College Coach of the Year.

There were also many high school athletes who received awards. There were three qualifications for the "Scholar-Athlete" awards. They were: outstanding in football, outstanding in academic work, and outstanding in leadership and citizenship. Receiving the awards were: Robert Bazylak, quarterback from McKeesport; Richard Musmanno, fullback from Montour; halfback Noel J. Augustyn from Union Area, New Castle; Gregory Montgomery from Gladstone; and tackle Joseph Ward, Mon Valley Catholic.

Mr. Hughey To Retire

It would be impossible to sum up thirty-five years of work in a single newspaper column. And that is how long Mr. Hughey has been at CSC. So then, all that can be done is to give a very few facts about a distinguished and long career.

Mr. Hughey attended South Salem High School in Ohio and then went to Ohio University. He also attended the University of Pittsburgh, Ohio State University and the University of Colorado for graduate study.

He began his teaching career in South Salem Ohio in the elementary grades. Following this he went to Green Field Ohio and taught Junior High School. He then taught at the McKeesport Senior High School and following this began teaching at CSC in 1928.

During his career here he served as advisor of the college paper; was affiliated with Kappa Tau Alpha, an honorary journalistic fraternity; Phi Delta Gamma, a forensic fraternity and was the sponsor of College Publicity.

Mr. Hughey has been turning out English majors for many years. Some of his students have gone on to Johns Hopkins, Iowa University, Penn State University and others.

He was head of the English De-

Mr. Hormell Will Retire

After forty years of service to California State College, Mr. William McKinley Hormell, Plant Maintenance Engineer, is retiring on February 1.

Mr. Hormell has a cottage at Farmington, where he will reside upon retiring. He intends to spend the winter in the South and plans to be in Coral Gables by February 5. May to Thanksgiving and holidays are to be spent with his children, a son who is practicing law in California, Pa., and a daughter, married to a surgeon, residing in Erie.

Mr. Hormell's recollections of CSC go back to 1907 when his brother was a student here. His father was an engineer for the college from 1916-1930. He lived on campus then, though he worked at the shops in the mines on motors.

Three members of the faculty were students at this college while he was working here: Dr. Roadman, Dr. Hoyes and Mr. Ross. The later worked for him in Student labor in the '20's.

He has seen forty-two classes graduate; CSC almost close and become a welfare institution; and a time when there was only one male on campus.

Dr. Wadsworth Gives Baccalaureate Address

Dr. Frank W. Wadsworth will speak at CSC's third winter commencement on Saturday, Jan. 25, at 2 p.m. in Stele Auditorium.

He has studied under the Woodrow Wilson Fellowship, Junior Fellowship (Princeton), Scribner Fellowship (Princeton), Presidents Summer Fellowship (University of California), Folger Shakespeare Literary Fellowship and the Guggenheim Fellowship. Dr. Wadsworth has received both his A.B. and Ph.D. degrees from Princeton.

Dr. Wadsworth has served as an Instructor of English at Princeton, Instructor-Associate Professor of English at UCLA, Visiting Professor of English at Trinity College and is presently serving in the position of Professor of English and Dean of the Division of the Humanities at the University of Pittsburgh.

He is a member of the Regional Selection Committee, Woodrow Wilson National Fellowship Foundation and has served at various times as chairman of the Regional Committee, a member of the National Selection Committee, a National Representative and a Consultant.

Melega Art Is Displayed

The painting of Frank L. Melega, Jr., are being exhibited in the student study of the J. Albert Reed Library until January 28.

Mr. Melega's exhibit consists of water colors, oils and other mixed media. He tends to express himself successfully by his utilization of color combinations and design.

Mr. Melega resides in West Brownsville. Frank Melega, Sr., is also a prominent artist from this area.

Congratulations to all those hardy souls who attended classes this past Monday. It took plenty of nerve and dedication to risk life and limb in order to learn a little something. Chances were though that when you got to your class your professor was much wiser and stayed home.

His publications include: The Poacher from Stratford 1958 (history of Shakespeare authorship controversy) plus articles and reviews on Shakespeare, Elizabethan and early seventeenth century European drama and contemporary fiction. Among the journals in which these have appeared are The Journal of English Literary History (ELH), Modern Language Review, University of Kansas City Review, Modern Language Quarterly, Philological Quarterly, Drama Survey, and Shakespeare Quarterly.

Dr. Wadsworth, born in New York City, is married and has two daughters, and has served in the USNR as a Naval Aviator. His scholarly interests include Elizabethan and Jacobean drama, history of drama, contemporary drama, and 19th century stage history.

And Once Again

By Tony Spataro

The last few semesters have seen this newspaper go through a lot of turmoil. There has been difficulty with editors, with news reporting, with layout, with just about everything. There is always going to be some amount of difficulty of course, when students gather together for the purpose of doing anything, but this newspaper has seemed to have had more than its rightful share. Why?

Progressive Ideas — But

Perhaps the difficulty is that the newspaper is such a loosely knit organization. Every group begins each new semester with a lot of progressive ideas that seem to be just what needs to be done to make the paper an exciting operation. There are meetings and a lot of talk about method and technique and all the rest. Then the time comes for the actual putting into practice of the high sounding ideals. And here is where all the wrong things begin to happen. Everything suddenly becomes a race against time. All of a sudden there is no time to do anything other than put out the paper, in some form. The people doing the actual work involved with getting the paper out find that there is very little time left for "method and technique." Again, why?

Too Much For Too Few

A large part of the trouble is due to the fact that the staff is much too small. Then too, many of the people working on the staff are inexperienced. There is much that they need to learn. Who is going to teach them? There are only a limited number of people qualified to teach them; they are already busy with simply getting the paper out. But they are forced to find time to teach the new staff members, for if they do not the staff will be a staff in name only. Now then, whoever is in charge must get the paper out (the actual layout, etc.), acquaint new staff members with newspaper procedure, write their own columns and somewhere find time to do a little studying now and then. There are other little time consuming details that I have missed, but what I have said will give you an idea of what is involved in getting the little gem to press. It's not easy.

Just Not Enough People

Now of course anyone wishing to write for a college newspaper must be willing to work. But the work should not fall entirely on a few people. This has been the situation the Times has found itself in for the past few trimesters. There are simply not enough people willing to work!

A New Staff

Now there is once again a new group about to take the California Times under control. They will face many of the problems we have faced. They are eager and have many new ideas which they wish to put into effect. I only hope they are successful. This paper has faced more problems than it should have.

They Do Push

The new group feels they have the answers to the paper's trouble. I hope they are right. One thing is certain, they have a certain amount of push. I hope they all push together — and in the right direction. They may find this difficult to do. But — they do push.

Experience Speaking

by Lottie Ward

It has become nearly a tradition at CSC for the outgoing editor to publish a kind of "Farewell." This term however the California Times has had no "editor" . . . at least not in title, though Tony Spataro has assumed the responsibilities of such a position and I have maintained the position previously held by the co-editor, this term under the title of "news editor." Tom Patrick has carried the load of the Sports Page in the same manner which he previously had. This will be our final effort as a group of editors working with the other staff members to attempt to fulfill that which we listed as our purpose in an editorial written some four months ago by Mark Luterman stating "to meet the needs of the college community . . . more and better coverage of campus life."

I wish that I could look back on this term and the papers which have been published with the feeling that we have been successful in that which we set out to do . . . but I can't. I could blame this, for it seems that "blame" must be placed somewhere, on inexperienced leadership, or an uncooperative student body and faculty, or an inefficient staff, or any one of a dozen other things without naming the real cause. I don't know that I am in a position to do this but instead of the traditional "Farewell" I'd like to give the incoming staff some advice . . . not only for the newspaper but for any group of officers at CSC.

In the first place, an organization cannot run successfully unless there is some semblance of structural organization used as its foundation. Those persons who accept the positions of leadership must be able to recognize and to accept the responsibilities which are a part of that position. It is necessary that they feel confident in their office or their lack of confidence or ability (or perhaps both) is bound to show in the product of the efforts made.

Those members of any organization which has elected its officers, as the California Times staff has done for the first time this trimester; must remember in the coming months that leaders must have cooperation . . . they cannot be a success by themselves. You, the members, have 'democratically' voted these persons into responsible positions . . . it is now your responsibility to both follow and support them. If a leader is not a success, you are at fault for you have either elected the wrong leader or failed in your own responsibilities as a member of the organization.

Confidence, ability, and cooperation are only a part of that which is necessary in becoming successful. It is obvious that any new group needs time for adjustment and for becoming experienced. It is hoped that each new group on campus will realize this and work toward their goals for the Spring in such a manner that they can in May look upon this Spring term's endeavor as a success.

As I look at that which has developed from the plan laid by us on the Times staff in October, I find that we have learned much of the organization, purpose and actual work involved in publishing a paper. I feel that the paper in general has made some big steps since October when a "green" staff took over; yet, I cannot feel that we are successful . . . mainly because the CT staff is now in the same position in which it found itself four months ago—starting over again with a new and nearly inexperienced staff, as is the case with many of our campus organizations.

It is my advice then not only to the CT staff but to all campus groups that you reevaluate your organization—its goals, activities, standards, etc. Perhaps even more important, take a good look at your own position and responsibility as a leader or follower and make every effort to make a success of the status you hold.

You Go In The Snow Because The Commonwealth Says So

by W. Scott Larson

As I sit at my typewriter in the office of the California Times, I can barely discern sunlight through our nearly subterranean windows because several feet of drifted snow now obliterates the view. Yet, now and again I can make out the head of some foolhardy student ploughing his or her way to class, and I have to sit back in my chair and consider what class of some fifty odd minutes or so could be so important that the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania would ask any student to risk his life on treacherous roads to attend? If, perhaps, our school were a nice little convent institution where all students and faculty members lived on campus, the snow would be a wonderful change for everyone. But at California, where nearly 1800 students commute from outlying communities, snow is a dirty word which means icy highways, impassable byways, and an abundance of splendid slideways.

The entire issue goes back further than the usual winter problems, however. California runs on the antiquated no-cut class system. The reason for this is that the school is a state institution, and the students are in a very real sense nothing but employees of the Commonwealth. If the weather is inclement, you still go to work because it is a working day for the State. Thus, friends, every time we cut class, for any reason, we have cut work and are docked on our paychecks (or if you want to be technical about it, our grade sheets). Then again, if we present a valid excuse for our absence to the proper authorities, we will be excused for that absence. Ah, will we never leave high school?

Another reply from the authorities who have the say might be this: Since the school runs on the Trimester system, and the terms are shorter than the regular semester, we must make full use of every class day. Well, the University of Pittsburgh, which has long been noted for being stingy with "weather holidays" and is also on the abbreviated Trimester system, closed its revolving doors and bowed to nature's demand. I might also point out that Pitt is located in a veritable hub of a "we go in the snow" public transportation system.

The entire issue boils down to this, my friends; we are here to learn from our professors, and the amount of knowledge which they possess, is directly proportional to the degree to which we are educated. Therefore, since I consider my professors to be more experienced and better educated than I, I shall endeavor to follow their sensible judgment: I have been to three classes this A.M., and as of yet, none of my professors has made the scene.

Letter to the Editor

Dear Sir:

I am not accustomed to writing letters to the editor, but I've seen something in The California Times that shocked me. It seems to me that educated people with even the least little bit of true Christmas feeling would know better than to use "Xmas" for Christmas. It's bad enough that advertising for this holiday starts before Thanksgiving and that the Church is the only institution that even pretends to celebrate the true significance of this holiday, but when a college newspaper doesn't take a few extra spaces to write Christmas as it should be . . . It certainly is a shame that so many people actually do lack religious sentiments about Christmas.

Sincerely,

Eleanor Evans

Ed. Note: As president of the TUCIS-Y organization I am fully aware of the importance of keeping Christ not only in Christmas but in every phase of our lives. However, education, advertising, pretense, and sentiment are not the criteria used in writing headlines.

CAMPUS LUB CORNER

The Young Democrat Club of California State College held elections of officers last week. Those elected were: President, David Weber; Vice President, Adolph Chiste; Treasurer, James Kratfel; and Secretary, Willa Pearson. The party at Garibaldi's was a success. All members are advised to watch the California Times and Tower Notes for Spring Trimester activities.

The Classic Club invited Mr. Dexter Martin to give the first in a series of "listening concerts." The concert program included selections by Brahms, Villa Lobas, and Schoenberg, all of which provide a delightful evening of entertainment. "The music is both glorious and gorgeous," said Mr. Martin. The concert was held Tuesday, January 14, 1964, in the Alumni Lounge from 7:00 p.m. to 9:00 p.m.

Next semester the Classic Club will hold weekly concerts, and everyone is invited to attend and relax to the sound of good music.

The GREEKS SPEAK

by Donna Loncaric

Alph Phi Omega, the national service fraternity, recently donated one hundred dollars to help pay for a flag pole and memorial to be erected on main campus near senior walk. The original idea and money was left by the graduating class of 1963, and more money is still needed.

The brothers recently held a party at the Garibaldi Club in Dunlevy. Refreshments were served, and a good time was had by all the brothers and their dates.

The brothers collected money on campus and donated some more from the treasury to purchase canned goods and groceries to donate to needy families in California. Four large baskets were made up and distributed by the brothers to four families.

This past Saturday the brothers traveled to the Central Blood Bank at Gateway Center in Pittsburgh to donate blood. Efforts are being made to get the bloodmobile to come to campus sometime next semester.

Sigma Sigma Sigma

The pledges of Tri Sigma held a big and little sister party in the Colonial Room on January 11. "Pajama Party" was highlighted with the presenting of gifts to the big sisters.

PROF PROFILE

By Devorah J. Silverman

A new professor of education in the Psychology Department this trimester is Dr. John A. Long, Jr. In this position he teaches Educational Psychology and Professional Orientation.

He holds a B.S. from Bloomsburg State College, a M.S. from Bucknell University and a D.Ed. from Pennsylvania State University.

Prior to coming to CSC he was the elementary school principal in the Westshore Joint School District. He has been a member of the start-up crew for the United States government in the manufacture of TNT, a construction foreman in highway construction and bridge building. He also has extensive experience in landscape gardening and stone masonry.

Dr. Long has traveled to Panama, Columbia, Ecuador, Peru, Argentina, Uruguay, Brazil, Venezuela and Puerto Rico to study their educational system.

He makes his home in Watson-town, Pa. His other activities include golfing, fishing and hunting.

COUNT ON CHEVROLET TO BUILD THE ONE YOU WANT

ONE-STOP CHEVROLET SHOPPING never meant more than it does today. Five lines to choose from—starting with the Jet-smooth luxury Chevrolet, then the totally new Chevelle, the better-than-ever Chevy II, sporty Corvair, and the exciting Corvette Sting Ray. And you've got 45 models and 22 engines to choose from.

Chevrolet's Impala Super Sport series tops the lineup with luxury you'll love to get used to.

Chevelle has the room you want in a size you can handle. Chevy II's handsome in sparkling new trim. Corvairs for '64 enjoy crisp styling accents and more power—nearly 19% more horsepower in the standard engine. The famous Corvette Sting Rays have a smoother ride and smarter interiors.

Put all this choice together and you see why you can count on Chevrolet to build the one you want in '64! And it's at your Chevrolet dealer's!

California Firemen battle fire at Dixon

Acetylene Flame Toasts Dixon Dining Hall Roof

At 11:55 a.m. on Tuesday, Jan. 14, just as the last table of people were leaving the dining room after lunch, first sitting, Bill Fitzgibbons came into the dining room from the kitchen and calmly told those persons still in the room to leave because a fire had started. At first it was taken as joke . . . but not for long. Seconds later the fire signal was heard. Cries of "Dixon's on fire. The kitchen is on fire," and, "This is a stupid time to hold a fire drill," were echoing around Dixon Lobby.

By 12:05 p.m. everyone realized that this was no fire drill. The roof which extends from the Dixon Hall Dormitory over the Georgian Dining Room's kitchen was on fire. It seems that in avoiding the danger of a clogged drain, an acetylene torch was being used to melt the ice. The improper use of the torch started a fire.

California's Volunteer Firemen were on the scene in a matter of minutes after the alarm sounded. They found it necessary to use axes to open the roof in order to stop the smoldering.

CSC students stood around, looking on, making comments about the temperature, the snow, the absurdity of being on campus at all today, and the excitement created by a thing like a building which may soon fall down being on fire . . . among other things.

At 12:20 p.m. the kitchen staff, waiters, and waitresses were permitted to re-enter the dining room. At 12:35 the doors were opened for the second lunch sitting — only forty minutes after the "fire" warning. By 1 p.m. nearly everything was back on schedule at CSC.

President To Hold Dinner

The President's Dinner honoring the graduates who will be participating in the Winter Commencement on Saturday, Jan. 25, 1964, will be held on Thursday, Jan. 23, 1964, at 6:45 p.m. in the College Dining Room.

Mr. Hormell will prepare the accommodations for wraps in the Main Hall. The Colonial Room and the Alumni Lounge will be opened for guests prior to the reception which will take place in the Faculty Lounge.

The reception will be from 5:45 to 6:45 p.m. The line will be short to allow ample time for the Dinner. The Senior Class Officers, the class advisor, the Dean of Instruction, the President and Mrs. Duda, will make up the reception line. The Personnel Deans will direct the guests through the receiving line.

Rehearsal for commencement will follow the dinner.

Boy and Girl Go College

ACP — See the girl, says The Red and White, University of Georgia, Athens. She is a pretty girl. See her checked madras skirt. And puffed out hair. She is a college girl.

See the boy. He is a college man. See his tapered slacks. And Ghant shirt with the loop.

See them at a dance. Watch them twist and yell and wave paper cups in the air. It is hot and noisy. See them after the dance in the girl's parking lot.

Now it is 12:30. See the girl run from the car. She must get inside her dorm on time. She is a big girl.

See them in class. The boy is slumped in the chair. He is asleep. The girl is slumped in her chair. She is asleep too. The professor is very dull.

Now they are taking a test. See the little pieces of paper in their laps. They help them pass the test. It is hard.

They are college students. Their adult friends call them "Young men and women." And "Future leaders of America."

God save America.

CSC Dumps Lock Haven

In a State College Conference game last Friday CSC was dumped by Lock Haven 70-63, on the victors' home court. The loss put the Vulcans at 4-4 for the season and 2-3 in league play.

The Vulcans scored first in the contest but after a close first half the Vulcans trailed by three points, 35-32. CSC jumped off to a fast start in the second half taking the lead, 36-35. This was the last time the Vulcans led in the ball game. The Vulcans were in the game all the way in a game that could have gone either way.

Joe Pascole sparked the winners with 30 points and Lou DeSarbo had 19. Bob Coulter paced CSC with 14 points, Tom McDonald had 11, and Ted Barnett, 10.

Schedule For Registration

Finals

Final exams for the fall trimester at CSC will be given on January 23, 24, 27, 28, and 29; next Thursday, Friday, Monday, Tuesday, and Wednesday. A final exams schedule, released by Dean Roadman's office, will be posted soon.

Term Ends

The Fall trimester will close at the end of classes and tests Wednesday, Jan. 29, 1964. The Dining Room and Dormitories will be closed after dinner on Wednesday, Jan. 29, 1964.

Spring Trimester Opening

Dormitories will be opened to the students at 3 p.m. on Wednesday, Feb. 5, 1964. The Dining Room will be opened at breakfast on Thursday, Feb. 6.

Registration for the Spring Trimester will be on Thursday, Friday, and Saturday, Feb. 6, 7, and 8. (The registration on Saturday, Feb. 8, will be for Part-Time and Graduate Students.) Students will apply the following schedule in registering:

Vulcans Fall To Mounties

Vulcan grapplers traveled to Morgantown, West Virginia, on January the seventh and were hogtied by the Mountaineers, 26-5. It was sweet revenge for the Mountaineers who were beaten by CSC last season. The MOUNTY wrestling team had been reminded of that defeat all week as signs in the gym read, "California beat us last year 15-13." As home-town fans cheered, the Vulcans were crushed.

Only two Vulcans were able to come home with points for CSC. Jerry Dumm (130) picked up three points as he scored a 3-2 victory over Dane Cain. Captain Pete Belch (147) earned two points as he fought Jerry Booden to a 1-1 tie.

California State College Wrestling Squad

Prefab Union Vote Needed Waynesburg Pins Matmen

To: Student Body
From: SAA Board of Directors

Through the College Union Building Committee a recommendation has been made that we consider the construction of an all steel temporary building, 100 x 120 to be located on or near the college campus which would house a snack bar and possibly a book store. This area which would be divided in half would allow for a snack bar, 100 x 60 and a book store of equal size. Specific costs of the construction of this building have not yet been determined, but it will not exceed the amount which has accumulated in the college building fund. In order to take any action it is necessary that a vote be taken by the student body, authorizing the S.A.A. Board of Directors to take the necessary steps to erect such a building.

If this building does become a reality it can probably be constructed in a period of no more than eight weeks. Our plans are to use this building until the General State Authority erects a College Union Building. This building will be large enough to accommodate our growing student population until the General State Authority completes a College Union Building. At that time, we would like to move this building to the College farm to house a variety of activities such as building floats, rifle range, indoor basketball court, etc. We urge your approval so that this body can take the necessary steps to have this building become a reality in the very near future. Without delays, it is very likely that the building could be completed before the end of the Spring Tri-

CSC returned to Herron Hall on January the ninth to face their toughest test of the season, Waynesburg College. At the end of the evening CSC was on the losing end of the score 24-5.

Injuries to starters Jim Dumpman, Jim Hart and John Mosier did not help CSC. If these wrestlers would have been healthy it might have been a different story. Dennis Urso (137), who usually wrestles at 130, took over for Dumpman and gave a very impressive performance before losing on a reverse, 2-0. Jerry Hall (157) and Dale Garret (hwt), taking over for Hart and Mosier, were both pinned.

Again Captain Pete Belch (147) came through with a big win for CSC. He beat Fred Beruachin 8-6. Frank Rousseau (177) was denied a decision over Waynesburg. Captain Gene Arrigoni as a take-down was ruled out of bounds. Rousseau had to settle for a 1-1 tie.

The second referendum deals with revising the amount allocated to the College Union Building Fund. Currently 25% is being set aside for the construction of the College Union Building. Since the General State Authority will be building the College Union Building, we feel that this percentage could be reduced. Through this action, more funds should be available for recognized student activities.

In summary, we urge you to vote "yes" on both of these issues feeling that we are acting in the best interest of the student body.

A ballot will be distributed during registration on February 6 and 7, 1964.
