STATE TEACHERS COLLEGE, EDINBORO, PA.

FEBRUARY 16, 1949

Article Published By ESTC Teacher

Dr. Hendricks is the author of an article — "James Harvey Robinson and the New School for Social Research" — appearing in the January issue of The Journal of Higher Education, a leading professional magazine. The importance of Dr. Hendrick's eleven-and-a-half page contribution is attested to by the fact that it has been given the initial position in the periodical.

The article concerns the ideology of James Harvey Robinson (1863-1936), a great American historian and pioneer in educational liberalism. Dr. Hendricks points out that Robinson, founder of the New School for Social Research, was a leader in the "reaction against academic tradition in the curriculums, the system of courses, credits, and degrees . . ." It was his conviction that the "traditional liberal arts curriculum needed to be broadened to include all the great fields of human interest of which a college should take cognizance."

Dr. Hendricks' main purpose in writing the article was to throw new light upon Robinson's part in the inception, organization, and early history of the New School, one of the most liberal institutions of higher learning in the United States. Having possession of a wealth of original source material on the educational pioneer, the author has been able to make a material contribution toward the clarification of Robinson's position. Dr. Hendricks' first effort in this direction was James Harvey Robinson, Teacher of History, a volume published in 1946.

News Briefs

It has been announced by Ronald Coleman, chairman of the Orchestra Committee for the Military Ball, that Johnny Strong and his orchestra have been selected to provide the music for the April 2 affair. Paul Grack, local E. S. T. C. student, formerly with Ange Susi's band, is vocalist with the fourteen-piece organization. And here is an important item; the committee has asked the "Spectator" to stress the fact that the affair is open to all.

There will be an important meeting of the Junior Class in the Auditorium this Friday, third period.

Approximately forty-five E. S. T. C. students have signed up to attend the opera in Cleveland on April 9. The program chosen, the "Barber of Seville," features the talented young soloist, Patrice Munsel. The buses will leave Edinboro at 9 A. M. and return about 10 P. M. Any other persons desiring to go should see Mrs. Campbell as soon as possible.

HEAR YE! HEAR YE!

Get ready for the gala affair to be held this Saturday evening in Crawford Gym. Come on you guys and take your favorite heartthrob to the "Heart Hop," which is being sponsored by the Newman Club.

Among Cupid's bows and arrows and paper hearts, there will be dancing to the music of Matt Pommer's orchestra from 8:30 to 12:00 P. M. So plan to go. The gang will meet you there. Admission is $1.25 per couple.

Council President Trained For Job

by ALLEN LAKE

Jack Greenawalt, the new Student Council president, has had a valuable background from which to draw experience for his new position. During his high school days at Oil City, he spent three years on the student council, the third year as vice president.

Aside from the above, Jack was editor of the high school yearbook, and for three years he was president of the Hi Y. During his freshman and sophomore years, Greenawalt held the position of class president. In athletics, he won letters two years in both football and basketball and was elected vice president of the "Varsity O" club.

After a two-year stay in the Army, Jack entered Edinboro in the second semester of the '46-'47 term. He has been both vice-president and president of the Phi Sigs, holding the latter position at present. Basketball and football have been a part of Jack's activity since his arrival in college. Last fall an injury in the first game prevented a full season's work.

JACK GREENAWALT

Speaking of his plans for the coming year in the Student Council, Greenawalt wants closer cooperation between the classes and the Council. Wide student interest is another of his aims, with the hope that campus problems will be taken before the student government by all interested parties.

Jack says that the immediate work of the Council is on a code of ethics and on problems pertaining to the new rec room. Also being undertaken is closer scrutiny of the budget by means of a Student Council preview of all expenditures.

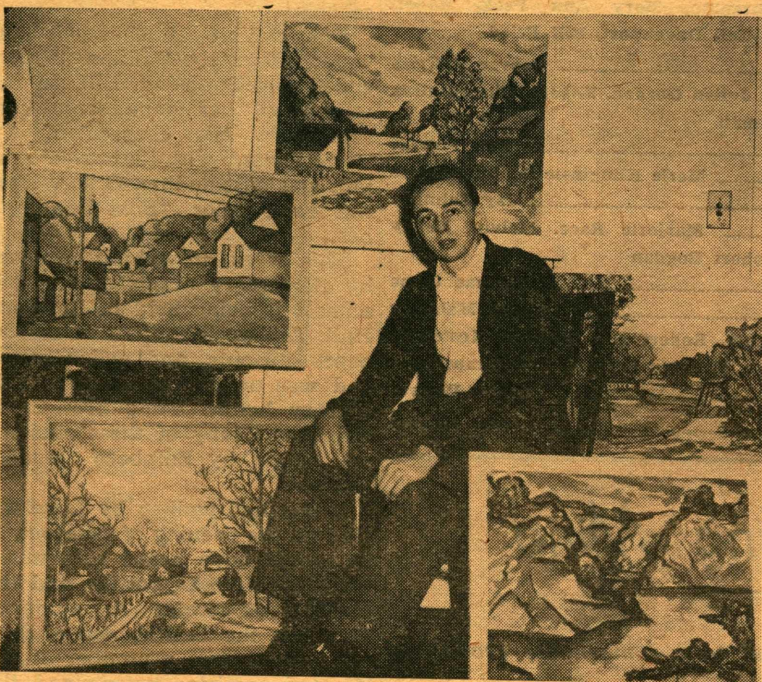

Greenawalt states that he will do everything in his power to make a more successful student government, but he is aware that his aims in this direction will be realized only if the student body is behind him.

Touch Of Novelty In New Typewriters

Two new electric typewriters have arrived for the offices of the President and the Dean of Instruction. These results of human genius were made by the Underwood Company. The machines operate with an extremely light touch, not only to type the print but also to replace the carriage at the end of each line.

The typists who have used the devices agree that it takes some time to become accustomed to the particular intricacies of electric typewriters. Miss Nancy Breckenridge, secretary to Dr. Van Houten, has begun to achieve skill with the machine designated for her use. She declares that they do have a virtue in greater speed and efficiency.

Student Artist To Exhibit Canvases

by RON COLEMAN

One week from today a display of paintings by Pete Gstalder, a junior at Edinboro, will be exhibited in Loveland Hall. The group of oils features mostly local scenes.

Pete is a native of Williamsport, Pennsylvania. He had no art instruction in high school and first became interested in it while a patient in a veterans' hospital, where he drew caricatures of his fellow patients. Pete came to Edinboro with the intention of studying commercial art, but he soon changed his course when his interests developed along more serious lines.

Last summer Gstalder attended the Ernest Thurn School of Modern Art in Gloucester, Massachusetts. At this renowned private institution were many professional artists and teachers. While in Gloucester, Pete lived at the waterfront and had many opportunities to observe the ships continually sailing in and out of the harbor. A quarry scene and three ship pictures done at Gloucester will share the limelight with his local works in the exhibit. Pete says that he learned a lot at the Thurn School but that he is just now beginning to understand and apply that modern style which he was taught there.

A student of the work of Cezanne, Gstalder states that his chief critic, Mrs. Thiel, in whose home the artist has his "studio," maintains that his Stone Quarry is nearest like Cezanne's work. He painted the quarry, says Pete, in an hour and a half on a hot afternoon and then dived into the water to cool off.

Pete, in his modern style, wishes to depict movement and motion. He is striving for a compact composition which will enable his work to hold together in any position — upside down or on either side as well as right side up. He is currently working on a barroom scene.

Gstalder, now taking the art education curriculum, intends to make painting his career. He has never sold any of his work. "My mother," says Pete, "buys frames for my paintings and won't let them be sold."

be Harry Cover, tumbling act; Beverly McIntyre, piano concerto; Carolyn Humphreys and Barbara Giddings, songs; and Donald Prager, cowboy ballads. Nick La Slavic will act as master of ceremonies.

Yearbook Staff Labors On Annual

Some thirty people are now hard at work to make the 1949 Connaughtean the best that E.S.T.C. has published in recent years. The editorial positions on the staff are filled by juniors and seniors, with Mr. Boak and Dr. Butterfield acting as literary and business advisor, respectively. The editor is Marian Eades.

As business manager, Bob Wallace heads a staff which includes Jeff Douville, assistant business manager; Jim Shaffer, Jim Pasike, Shirley Hazlewood, Jay Barth, Joan Finnefrock, Virginia Batchelor, and Winnie Kisthart. Staff photographer Bob Murray has as assistants Blair Logan, Merle Klingensmith, and Juliana Hanson.

Art editor Frank Bedogne, who has been general right-hand man to the editor, has done a bang-up job in designing the yearbook cover.

Freshmen Re-elect Council Member

At the Freshman Class meeting held last Friday, Eugene Schaffer was re-elected to the Student Council. The nominating committee — Francis Angeloni, Charles Horn, and Shirley Britton — had selected four candidates, Eugene Schaffer, Bob Shaw, Don Harrison, and John Sabatini. Nominated from the floor were Wayne Wilkins and Tom Scott.

Al Pettit, president of the class, suggested that the Freshman Class sponsor an informal dance after a home basketball game in the near future. A freshman booth at the Choir's Irish Country Fair was mentioned.

Schaffer then reported to the class on the work of the Student Council.

FOLK-SONG ARTIST TO MAKE APPEARANCE

Miss Grace Albert, noted dramatist and singer, will be the featured assembly performer on the program for March 7. Having started her career at an early age, Miss Albert has quite an impressive list of associates from the various entertainment fields. She has appeared on many well-known radio programs, and once, while working with Burl Ives, she received her idea for the folk songs which now compose her repertoire.

Combining a rare singing and dramatic talent, Miss Albert presents a new and different type of program, which has been well received by audiences all over the country.

Fraternity Plans Series Of Meetings

The Phi Sigma Pi Fraternity, under the direction of new officers, has initiated a program for the present semester which should prove to be both interesting and educational. The new officers are Jack Greenawalt, president; Blair Logan, vice-president; Warren Williams, secretary; Joe Rodgers, asst. secretary; and Frank Schilling, treasurer.

The committees appointed for the semester are the Professional Meeting Committee, which is made up of Reginald Lawrence, Joe Rodgers, Don Weiss, and Dr. Hendricks, and the Constitutional Committee, which includes Milton Maxwell, Emil Krzan, Don Turner, Virgil Pettit, and Mr. Neel.

On Monday, February 7, the second of a series of monthly professional meetings was held in the basement of Normal Hall. Rev. James Walther, pastor of the Edinboro Presbyterian Church, gave a challenging talk entitled "The Part Religion Must Play in the Life of a Public School Teacher." Attending the meeting were the candidates for pledges to the Phi Sigma Pi. A pledge dinner will be held in honor of those accepted. Arrangements are also being made for a Fraternity Dance in the spring.

CHOIR TO BENEFIT BY AMATEUR SHOW

Another new and different amateur show is scheduled for an E. S. T. C. audience. This event will be a benefit for the Choir Robe Fund and is to be held on February 25.

The Inquiring Mind

A bit of information can lead to a remarkable growth of baseless comment. We, on The Spectator, notice dozens of rumors that fade like shadows when exposed to the light of truthful inquiry. About the Student Council, the faculty, and even about fellow students, comments are made that, when analyzed, prove to be nothing more than exaggeration of some small commonly known fact.

It is a basic requirement for those who would practice critical thinking to analyze little fragments of information and determine just how authentic they are. Anyone who considers himself intelligent should apply this principle not only to the content of the college curriculum but also to any matter in which the welfare of others is involved.

College is one place in which juvenile and intolerant thinking should be a rarity. Let us try to demonstrate that we are realizing some value from our college training. The use of a properly conducted mind is the best way for one to develop clear thinking and wise judgment.

Truly Educated

It seems perfectly natural to hear a parent exclaim, "Yes, my son is doing well in college — made the honor roll last semester!" But can we measure our colleges this way? Can we feel that college students are successful merely because of a column of letters on a card? Surely there are more genuine and enduring criteria by which to evaluate the effectiveness of our educational training.

Character development cannot be put into a textbook and given in a lecture course. But we have the opportunity in college, where we must come in close contact with one another, to strive to develop the qualities which will make us the happiest and most successful adults. There are many day-to-day situations where we tend to forget the comfort and rights of others. In the cafeteria on the streets, anywhere, let us remember the impressions we make through either thoughtful or careless behavior. In classrooms let us be more polite in attitude and actions. If we can just stop dashing through life considering only our own aims and ambitions, we can eliminate most of the injuries we inflict upon the feelings of others.

Unfortunately, personality development cannot be added up in an account. We cannot record the worth of human effort. Thus scholastic achievement or athletic skill are more publicized than are the qualities of personality that make the world a more pleasant place. Yes, in our fast-moving American life, we are inclined to forget the kindness and courtesy which are, perhaps, the surest marks of a person who has been truly educated.

Under the able leadership of "Big Bug" Pete Gstalder and "Little Bug" Maggie Funk, the ScaRab Club has recently had a number of social events that will be remembered for quite some time. Other events — a fine exhibition by William Vafeas, which ended last week; and, this week, a display by students of Erie schools.

The exhibit of charcoals and water colors by William Vafeas ended last Saturday. Bill, in our estimation, has done some very fine work. His charcoal of the "Two Shoes," with its intricate detail, was outstanding. Others liked the water color, "Boat Landing," best. This week an exhibit of work by elementary pupils of the Erie schools is being held in Loveland Hall. The work consists of crayon, paper cut-outs, and water colors, and was on display in the Erie Library before being brought to Edinboro. Many of these students are taught by Edinboro student teachers.

If one had walked by Loveland Hall on the evening of February 3, he would have heard soft music, the clink of coke bottles, and the laughter of carefree art students. This was the ScaRab dance. During intermission, a number of our talented artists entertained the numerous guests. Nick Muto was a capable M. C., and songs were sung by Carolyn Humphreys and Barbara Giddings. It was our good fortune to have with us talented Georgia Imig. Her impersonation of movie heroes and heroines was one of the high spots of the evening. The festivities came to an end with the serving of refreshments.

"Splash!" "Glub!" To the majority of the students these words were a mystery, but to the members of the ScaRab Club it meant an evening of real enjoyment — a swimming party for the club members. The swim was a real success. We think we saw every little ScaRab at E. S. T. C. splashing and paddling around the pool. We honestly believe a swimming party at this time of year is a very worthwhile thing — oh, those two-piece bathing suits! From the comments of the students, "Splash" was really ducky.

It is interesting to note how some of the college students earned their first dollar.

Doc Ghering — I earned my first dollar caddying on a golf course. The bags were as tall as I was.

Nancy Spraggon and Jane Twichell — I earned my first dollar by baby-sitting.

Camillo Bonomi — I earned my first dollar in a crap game.

Barbara Wetherhold — I found my first dollar in my own back yard.

Bob Roessner — I earned my first dollar by keeping stray cats away from the neighbor's canary bird when the bird was put outside during the summer.

Mary Sweeney — I earned my first dollar distributing bingo cards.

Gene Munson — I earned my first dollar by picking it off of the ground.

Marjorie Boney — I earned my first dollar by selling a puppy.

Larry Daley — I earned my first dollar by making a nuisance of myself in front of my sister's boyfriend.

Bill Mihalich — I earned my first dollar by asking for it.

Wilma Fox — I earned my first dollar by sitting on my grandfather's knee and singing "Oh Them Golden Curls."

Margaret Lay — My mother gave me ten cents for every pound I gained, and I gained ten pounds one summer.

Dick Klingensmith — I earned my first dollar by working in a Red and White store.

Club News . . .

The Forum Club will hold a meeting tomorrow night at 7 o'clock in the music room of the Auditorium. David Deardorff will provide the feature of the evening in the form of a series of records containing the history-making speeches of the past fifteen years. Adolph Hitler, Winston Churchill, and Franklin D. Roosevelt will be among the notable speakers. The business portion of the meeting will be the election of a new president and an assistant secretary for the club.

The recently reorganized Y. M. C. A. has elected its first regular officers. These officers, with the combined assistance of faculty and student body, will guide the infant organization through its initial months of existence. The office of president is filled by Jim Shaffer; vice president, William McKay; secretary, Kenneth Reardon; treasurer, Al Pettit; and Mr. Coffman will serve as faculty advisor. All are welcome to attend the meetings, which are held the second and fourth Wednesdays in the month.

Under the direction of Miss Ludgate, advisor, the Dramatics Club was scheduled to hold cast try-outs last night for their forthcoming presentation, "Years Ago." The "Dramatis Personae" is to include nine major characters and a feline associate. The names of those in the cast will be published as soon as they are available.

The Kappa Delta Phi held its Pledge Party last Thursday at the Campbell Hotel. The master of ceremonies was Ange Juliano, and Sgt. Hashagen was the honored guest. After short speeches by the officers and Mr. Coffman, advisor, sport films were shown.

Pledges present were Joe Mahoney, Jack McAllister, Wayne Wilkins, Norman Perry, Charles Lodge, Ben Manotti, Joe Berthold, Joe Sabatini, and Harry Price. Also Eugene Hardy, Hugh Pompeani, Ben Knapp, Lyle Snavely, John Coleman, Alvin Saul, Richard Hinman, William Probert and Charles Bleakney.

Pinky Nicely — I stuck up my pop with a water pistol at the tender age of two and one half years.

Janie English — I earned my first dollar by blackmailing my brother. He talked in his sleep.

Jeanne Simoni — I was an usherette in the balcony of a theatre at home.

Red Biser — I earned my first dollar by selling kisses.

Wayne Yeager — I never made a dollar.

Jo Baird — I earned my first dollar by singing in the Trinity Choir.

The Y. W. C. A. had a very interesting meeting last Wednesday evening. After a devotional period and business meeting, President Cynthia Lane introduced Dr. La Follette, speaker of the evening.

Always to be counted upon for something interestingly different, Dr. La Follette showed the group how transcriptions are made. He cut several records featuring local talent, including a song by Cynthia Lane, a piano solo by Marion Robertson, and a reading by Dorothy Tucker.

After the program, light refreshments were served, by the newly elected officers, to twenty-six members and Miss McDonnell, advisor.

The Choir is sponsoring an entirely new kind of entertainment in the form of an Irish Country Fair, to be held March 11. This project will be a combination dance and bazaar. Various booths will be operated by organizations on campus, and the proceeds will be applied to the Choir Robe Fund.

Groups wishing to plan a concession are requested to contact Mrs. Campbell. Public recognition will be accorded to the organization which has the most original booth and to the one which sells the largest number of admissions.

The Photography Club, sponsored by Dr. La Follette, recently elected its officers for the coming semester. Jack Jantzer was elected president; Ed Karolak was chosen to take charge of the club's bulletin board; and Jay Zahniser was elected secretary-treasurer.

Last semester, the Club featured lectures by Mr. Bates and Mr. Coffman, and many other practical instructions from Dr. La Follette were given. This semester, the club plans to continue its exhibits of photographs taken by members and also hopes to have demonstrations in developing, printing, and enlarging.

Bertha Silver spent one of our beautiful Sunday afternoons behind the wheel of her brother's pale-green 1949 Chevrolet convertible. It sure is nice to be able to drive around in a new car. Lee Davis' beautiful steel-gray Ford is a recent attraction. "But a car is a car," says Mary Lou Tucker, who drives around in her Model A Ford.

Don Lepley, a recent addition to the wrestling team, with only two weeks' previous experience, in the tryouts pinned his man in one minute and seventeen seconds. He now claims the title in the 175-pound class. Don started his active wrestling career in competition against Bowling Green University and Baldwin-Wallace College.

On our get-well-soon list are Lou Gardei, who has had a second operation on his arm, and Jim Moran, who suffered a broken wrist during an intra-mural basketball game. We want to see Georgia Imig back soon after a bout with the mumps.

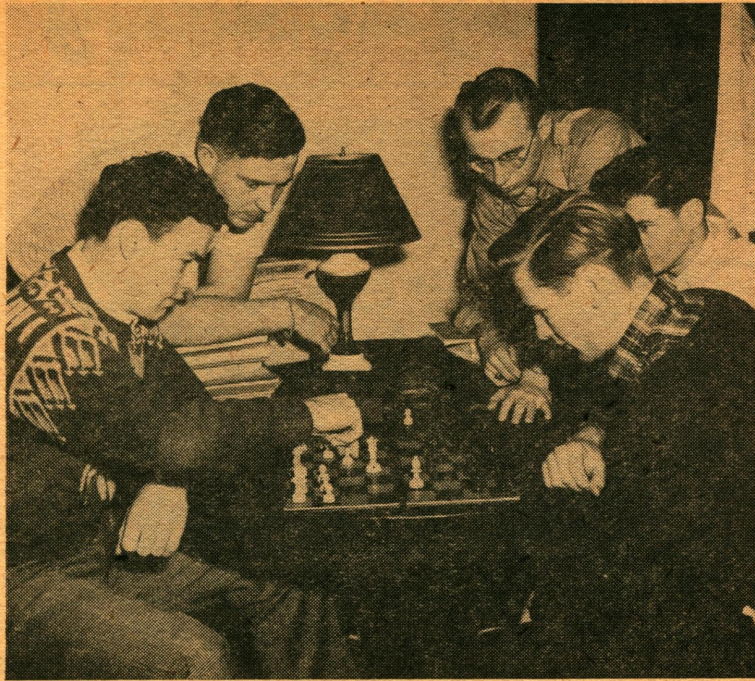

Phyllis Johnson was tempted to buy Ted Davenport a compass for Valentine Day when she learned that in an intra-mural basketball game Ted made six points — four for his team, Men and Boys, and two for the other team.

Some people on the ESTC campus are of the opinion that living in Cambridge Springs is a hardship. In a recent poll of the Friedman Hotel inmates it was discovered that most of the boys would not move to Edinboro if they had the chance. Perhaps the large number of winter sports down at the Spa is the basis of such opinion.

Rain or shine, sleet or snow, somebody is into something. For instance, Dave "Deacon" Keller and Bob Koelle, two aces of our chess league, nightly try out the artful tactics of "Sarge" Hashagen on the bloody battlefield of their chess board. "Louie" Iwanczyk and Bob Newell, on the other hand, prefer the mentally less active sport of checkers. Then there are Bob— and Bill Probert, who have shorn their auburn locks in preparation for their appearance on Amateur Night.

Ault and Zarilla, who feature themselves as the local American shuffleboard champions and are trying to get the inhabitants to honor their claims.

Also there is a rumor that Russ Marasco and Don McArdele will give in to their roommates' pleas and take up sleeping as their winter sport. When Gerald "Stud" McCartney, of McCartney-For-President fame, was asked about his winter sport, your reporter was entertained with a muffled chuckle of laughter.

For the more athletic type, the boys have organized two basketball teams to defend the honor of the Friedman Hotel in the ESTC intramural league. Ted Myers' versatile Friedman Arms men have had a tough time overshadowing the fine work of "Gumpy" Gumbert's "Bridgers."

"Too-Much-Stuff" Schaffer and Bill Whipkey can't wait to begin spring training with the baseball team they are organizing. Along with seven other characters, these two players are planning to engage some of the district's college teams.

Dr. Butterfield represented Edinboro at an Executive Committee meeting of the Faculty Association of the Pennsylvania State Teachers Colleges. The group met at Harrisburg last Saturday.

The regular meeting of the Student Council was held last Thursday evening. There was a discussion of the proposed Code of Ethics for the college, and it was decided that after amendment by the Council the Code would be published. Miss Nancy Coates was elected Vice President of the group. After it had been decided that Student Council meetings would be held only on the second and fourth Thursdays of the month, the discussion was turned to financial reports up for Council approval.

Dr. George Miller, Chief of Art of the State Department of Public Instruction, was in Edinboro last week to aid in the planning of the 1949 Art Conference, to be held here on April 28 and 29. One item of business during his stay was the selection of experts in various fields of art to serve as speakers at the conference.

Francis Angeloni, a Penn State freshman, has been a diligent and efficient worker in practically every department from layout to photography to business, and now to sports writing. He is handling all the men's sports write-ups. Jane Venman is covering girls' sports. As literary editor, Kathryn Magoon will, of course, have to add and subtract commas in the right places.

Peg Wyneken and Phyllis Ledwick are typists. Others who have fulfilled miscellaneous duties for the yearbook are Martha Evans, Anne Mathis, and Jane Panzarello. Staff members from every department have pitched in on the big jobs such as cutting and mounting photos.

Editor Eades says that those who are "dying to know" what the '49 Conneauttean will be like, will just have to curb their curiosity until May 18, date set for the debut of this year's annual.

Cagers Split Games On Foreign Courts

The Edinboro cagers traveled out of state last week-end, playing Buffalo and Fredonia State Teachers on consecutive nights. They came home from the contests with a split decision, losing to Buffalo 57-45 and edging Fredonia 48-43.

The Friday night game with Buffalo saw the second-half shooting of Bob Lang, a substitute Buffalo center, break the backs of the Raiders. In the last half Lang tallied 18 points, 12 of which were consecutive. Keith Nicolls stood out on both offense and defense for the Red and White. He led Edinboro in scoring with 11. Edinboro held the lead twice during the game, at 17-16 and 28-26. In the final stanza, however, the "Queen City" men poured in 21 points for a comfortable 57-45 win.

FREDONIA GAME A THRILLER

On Saturday, Sox Harrison's hardwood charges copped their first victory on a foreign court this season, downing Fredonia. The home squad jumped off to an 11-6 advantage by the end of the first quarter. A 17-point barrage by Reed, Ghering, McVeigh and Nicolls shoved the Raiders ahead by halftime, 23-15. Edinboro stretched its lead to 12 points during the third stanza, but Fredonia bounded back in the final frame. A lay-up by Barrisi shot them into the lead with 4½ minutes to play, 37-36. The lead changed hands several times until Nicolls and Reed teamed up to put the Raiders in front to stay. Reed was high scorer for ESTC with 12 points, and he was closely followed by Nicolls with 11.

Correction

Because of a typographical error in last issue's write-ups of Bill Mihalich and Harold Ghering, fans were astonished to learn, among other things, that Bill is 6'1" and weighs 185 pounds. The amended statistics follow, as they appear in the "Handbook."

Mihalich, Bill: Freshman, 22 years old, height 5'8", weight 145. He graduated from McKeesport High School at McKeesport, Pa., with the class of 1944. Had no high school basketball experience.

Ghering, Harold: Junior, 22 years old, height 6'1", weight 185. He graduated from Edinboro High School at Edinboro, Pa., with the class of '43, where he lettered 3 years in football and 4 years in basketball. He has won a letter in football at Wooster College and has won a letter in basketball at Grove City. He has also won two letters in soccer with the Raiders and one in basketball.

With the W. A. A.

Swimming

On Friday night the W. A. A. will be host to Allegheny, Westminster, and Thiel colleges for a swimming meet. Official events will follow the standards of the National Intercollegiate Telegraphic swimming meets. There will be competitive synchronized swimming, to be demonstrated again in the aquacade scheduled here for March 22, 23, and 24. Also featured in the swimming meet will be games and stunts. The diving will be judged by the official grading of the Federation Internationale de Natation Amateur.

On February 10 there was a swimming meet held in which the Delts came out victorious. The Delts totaled 40½ points to the Phis' 13½. Swimming for the Delts were Jody Welms, Jean Webster, Dot Johnson, Ruth Knapp, Mary Bowen, Carol Sundean, and Clea Johnson; for the Phis, Mary Ann Peck, Marti Evans, Ann Siegel, Mary Lou Handley, Peg Wyneken, Adele Gillespie, Muriel Gundersman, Diane Stearns, Barbara Giddings, and Marge Alder.

Bowling

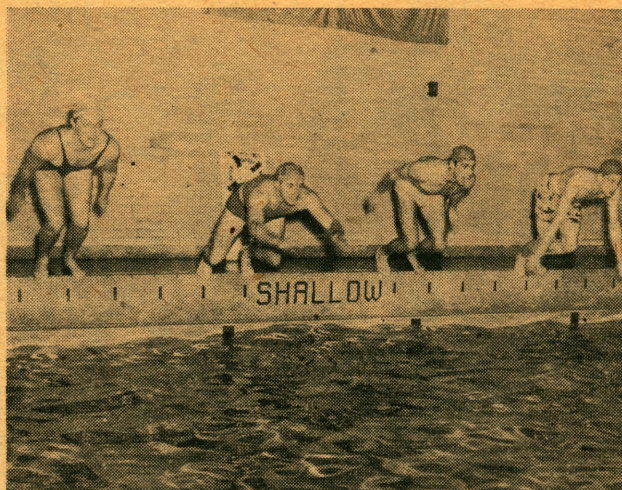

There are thirty-seven girls bowling regularly, and they will participate in interclass and Phi-Delt bowling competition. Next Wednesday there will be a bowling exhibition by five outstanding women bowlers in Erie County. Five stellar Edinboro bowlers will also take part in the event.

Basketball

For the first time in four years the Delts beat the Phis in basketball. In a twenty-minute game the final score was 27-26. This is better than four points a minute. It looks as though Miss Ruttle will have a high-scoring varsity team this year and won't have to worry too much when we have the intercollegiate tournaments.

The Once Over . . .

by GEORGE W. JEFFRIES

In the February 2 issue it was erroneously reported by the writer that Rusty Santel had wrestled in the Penn State - Army meet, competing in the 155-lb. division. However, this statement has been disproved, since it has been learned that Santel was ineligible for the team because he had not been enrolled in the college for the entire semester . . . Santel lost by a fall the following week at the Syracuse meet, in which Penn State lost, 16-13.

John Walker, ESTC's other representative on Charlie Speidel's mat team, was beaten in pre-meet eliminations for the second straight week.

Following last night's home engagement with Alliance, Coach Sox Harrison's cage squad will meet four foes on foreign courts before returning to the native gymnasium for a March 4 set-to with California, one of the fives which will entertain the locals in their quartet of away contests. Up to last night's game, the Red Raiders had a won-and-lost record of 4 and 5.

Seek To Upset Foe; Enter As Underdogs

Coach Jim Reed's veteran grapplers will attempt to make it four wins to two losses when they play host to a seasoned Waynesburg mat squad this evening at 8:00 in Crawford Gymnasium.

The Green Countians' traditionally strong squad will be minus the services of Georgie Lewis, former Farrell High PIAA title-holder for four consecutive years and, at present, National Amateur 125-lb. champion. He is now serving with the U. S. Army, and his absence will not dismay the local sports fans. Even without Lewis, the Raider "grunt-and-groaners" anticipate quite a stiff meet.

Waynesburg rules as top-heavy favorite, having whitewashed Bowling Green, 33-0, while Edinboro was vanquished by the Ohioans, 17-11, last Friday evening.
