

Sophomore Cotillion Tomorrow Evening; Elaborate Plans Made

BLOOMSBURG BOYS BOUNCE THE BLUES

College Band Sponsors Stirring Pep Meeting in Chapel Last Friday.

To the blare of the band, the blazonry of bold voices and the booming blast of the cheer leader, Booth's brave basketeers banished all blues from their boosters as they responded to one of the greatest exhibitions of chapel pep meetings in recent years. Chapel last Friday was the culmination of a sentiment that had been growing with each succeeding basketball victory. Everyone sensed the spirit of the day; every one had a part in the proceedings.

"Dinty" Thomas, versatile cheer leader, pushed the program off to a noisy start by leading the college in the cheer, "Rah! Rah! Bloomsburg!"

The college band, under the direction of Mr. Fenstermaker, enlivened things with a stirring march. A new Army cheer was introduced by the cheer leader with clamorous success. Following this, the auditorium fairly shook with the explosion of the "Sky Rocket" yell.

At this point Miss Moore stepped in, and with marvelous dexterity succeeded in getting the music of the band and the lusty voices of the student body synchronized into a swelling rendition of the color song. For the rest of the program, honors saw-sawed between "Dinty" Thomas with his gamut of cheers and the band with its repertoire of favorite numbers.

The members of the basketball squad were presented to the student body for acclamation and so heartily was their reception that the janitors peeked through the doors to see if the sounds were mortal.

Like all things tainted with human frailty, the "pep" meeting came to a close—with the singing of the Alma Mater and a scorching march from the band.

The motion-talking pictures on Monday were well attended by the college students, the training school children, the students of the town schools and the many outside visitors. Everyone seemed well pleased with the demonstration.

Large Crowd Expected to Attend. Committees Are Working Successfully.

Tomorrow evening, the Sophomore Class will enjoy its annual Sophomore Cotillion. In previous years, this has been one of the best attended events on the College calendar, and the members of each Sophomore class strive to make their dance the best ever held.

This year, the class has been working hard to make the dance a success. Cooperation is the key to the expected success of the cotillion. The committees which were appointed by President Hensley to take charge of the dance are made up of the following members:

Decorating—Vivian Yeany, Chairman; Thomas Coursen, Gordon Cullen, Thomas Hartman, William James, Carl Riggs, Edna Creveling, Charlotte Osborne and Mary Betterly.

Program—Thomas Griffith, Chairman; Lois Lawson, Ruth Appleman.

Orchestra—James Williams, Chairman; Thomas Beagle and June Mensch.

The music for the cotillion will be furnished by Alexander's Orchestra.

Also, in connection with this demonstration we see no reason for the teacher to fear that this "machine" will take her place in the classroom. Talking pictures may and can greatly help the teacher in a supplementary way, but so far as replacing the teacher the idea is absurd. It might work for a while as a novelty but what about the time to come when the students wanted to ask questions of the "soulless machine."

Maroon and Gold Wins Hard-Earned Game at Kutztown

Rudowski Scores the Winning Field Goal in 27-26 Victory on Saturday Afternoon.

Nick Rudowski, dependable alternate forward, scored the final field goal of the game at Kutztown with the Keystone S. T. C. and "pulled the game out of the fire" for Bloomsburg in the last two minutes of play, giving the Maroon and Gold a hair-raising victory by the score 27 to 26 on Saturday afternoon.

The court of the down-state institution is one of the longest that the Booth-men have played on, and it was a difficult one for our boys to get acquainted with.

The score was close throughout the game, neither team gaining a comfortable lead for any length of time. Keystone scored several field goals on the long "forward-pass" play, which was appropriate for the long floor. On the other hand, Bloomsburg had better pass-work though quite frequently halted from a scoring threat by "jump ball" decision of the referees.

Bloomsburg opened up with some spectacular shots, contributed by "Flash" Kirker. It was not long before Keystone started its offensive drive and kept within striking distance of the Bloomsburg lead. At half time the visitors from Columbia County had the lead of 19 to 15.

Keystone came back in the third quarter with determination, scoring nine points to two for the Maroon and Gold, and took the lead at the end of the quarter, 24 to 21.

With the entrance of "Nick" Rudowski into the game in the last five

DR. NORTH ADDRESSES STUDENTS

"Life of John Dewey," Was Subject of Interest. Given on February 4.

Dr. North, a member of the faculty of this institution, addressed the students and faculty at the regular chapel period on Wednesday, February 4, 1931. A resume of his speech follows:

John Dewey, the greatest educational philosopher of today was born in Vermont, October 20, 1859. His preliminary education was received in the Vermont schools and in 1879 he became a student at the University of Vermont. He then went to Oil City, Pennsylvania, where he taught school. While here he became greatly influenced as a reader of the "Journal of Philosophy." A few years later he received his degree of doctor of philosophy at John Hopkins University. He then went to the West, where he taught philosophy in the Universities of Minnesota, Michigan and Chicago. From there he went to Columbia University where he later resigned to become independent in politics. He has contributed greatly to modern education by writing books, over fifty in number, some of which are "Democracy in Education," "Democracy and Education" and "The Pedagogic Creed" which sounds modern although it was written thirty years ago.

He is a modest, humble, simple and ordinary type of human being. He has contributed very much to American schools and to the home. He holds that the trends of moral education, administration and policy rest on the following principles:

First. Child growth rather than subject matter as the center of school activities.

Second. Education as a process of experience—learning by doing.

Third. Interest in effort, and Fourth. The school as a social institution and as an embryonic community.

Dr. Frank G. Davis, head of the educational department at Bucknell University, attended the demonstration of educational talkies last Monday.

News From You, About You, For You

ARE YOU EXERCISING ENOUGH?

Last week permission was granted to the men students of the college to use the gymnasium on Saturday afternoon without having a faculty member present. The only rules are that they must act like gentlemen and that absolutely no one but men of the college may play there. This permission was granted to the men who are not on either of the basketball squads because there are few facilities for physical exercise during the winter months other than the physical education courses which are given for only two years.

No system of intra-mural athletics has as yet been worked out. If the men awake to this opportunity and make the most of it they may go a long way in developing something along that line.

We noticed that B. S. T. C. looked like a deserted city over last week end. The waiters and waitresses in the dining room had a hard job earning their money.

The library, under the new regulations for week ends, was well used by a representative group of the people who stayed here.

The schedule cards are past due. Reports to Harrisburg have been delayed by neglect on the part of some of the students. Are you a delinquent?

MEMORIES FROM MY CHILDHOOD

Alvina Picarella

I had been told time and time again not even to go near Don Peppo's studio—Don Peppo with his statues pictures pictures of madonnas and saints. How I loved to watch him! Don Peppo's studio was a one-room affair with three steps leading to the only door. It was on these steps on hot summer days that I would watch him wrap and unwrap or mend broken statues of every size conceivable. Nothing could keep me away from there, and, besides, wasn't I always doing something that my parents disliked? The reason for my having been told to keep away from Don Peppo's studio can be easily explained. This old gentleman loved to make pinwheels, sky rockets, Mount Vesuviuses, and all the usual colorful Fourth of July oddities. Everyone knew that he kept explosive powders in his shop for that purpose. Of course the children loved to buy from him rather than at the store around the corner.

It was with genuine sorrow that the children of the neighborhood learned of the explosion which occurred at the shop. I was too stunned to feel sorry. All I could think of was my good fortune in not having been a victim of the unfortunate accident. It seemed that I had overslept on this particular morning, the only morning that I had failed to appear about the studio. Is it any wonder that I began to believe in Providence at the early age of nine?

Listening to Mother as she told glorious tales about her native Italy was a thing of which we children never tired. There were tales of the birth and death of Christ and of the martyred saints which were repeated over and over again; of good Queen Margharita and of other Kings and Queens who had been loved by their countrymen for their kindness and mercy; superstitious tales of long ago. There was one story, however, which set our childish hearts throbbing with pride. Mother told it only once. After that we told it.

In a little province not many miles from the ever-erupting Mt. Vesuvius, Grandfather lived. Earthquakes and small volcanic eruptions were frequent in this particular part of the country. It was a beautiful summer evening. All was quiet and peaceful. After hours of weary toil in the warm sun the tired peasants eagerly welcomed the coming of dusk. There were the trees overladen with fruit silhouetted against the pale blue sky, the soft strain of music coming from the open doorways—nothing to hint of coming disaster.

In the stillness of the night slight unexpected tremors aroused the frightened inhabitants of this little village. Experience had taught these people that running to the hill-tops was much safer than remaining in the valley. As they attempted to reach the hills the earth writhed in convulsion and ended with a loud tremor, shaking the earth and threatening to rock the buildings from their foundations. Men, women and children shrieked, fleeing from their homes, dazed, into the streets with only the thought of personal safety. Imagine the courage it must have taken for one who had already reached safety to return and risk the same danger which he had struggled to avoid in order to aid a friend. That is the story of Grandfather's heroism which is told in that little village even to this day.

THE TIDBITS FARMER

What kind of a poet are you? If you have never tried poetry before here is your chance to do it. Just fill in the blanks with double letters of the alphabet and see what the result will be. The first line is, "There is a farmer who is y y's." That's easy, now you fill in the rest. We will not give a brand new Buick car to the one who sends in the best answer, nor will we give a cash reward of one hundred dollars for promptness. We do not even want you to send in your answer, but the Maroon and Gold staff would greatly appreciate it if you would send in any poetry, or good piece of prose that you might think would interest the students. Just place your name on it, (Names will be withheld from publication if desired) and drop it in the post office after having placed on the outside "Maroon and Gold, Box 179." We'll get it.

All right, now get your pens ready and with them fill in the following blanks.

WHAT OTHER COL-LEGES ARE DOING

The purposes of the scholarship contest for elementary school pupils in conjunction with the annual high school scholarship contest at Pittsburg College, Kansas, according to Prof. Edgar Menderhall are: (1) Winners of various county contests will be given a chance to compete with one another; (2) Elementary students will be brought in contact with a college in the hope of stimulating continuance of scholastic careers; (3) Primary school administration may evaluate the work of the respective schools by the results of the contest.

We quote from "The Vidette," the paper from Illinois State Teachers College:

"It is always surprising that Europeans are so ready to believe anything that they read about America, especially if the story is a bit exaggerated or badly colored. Sinclair Lewis and H. L. Mencken have done more to make us as a nation look ignorant and lacking in refinement and culture than any other writers. Foreigners coming to visit in America, land, firmly believing that we are one hundred and ten million human beings all alike."

Bloomsburg Trounces East Stroudsburg by Score of 64 to 41

Gain Coveted Victory Over Eastern Rivals, Avenging Previous Defeat.

The Bloomsburg State Teachers College basketball team won over the East Stroudsburg Teachers College in a handy fashion, decisively making up for the lone defeat which was handed to us at the eastern institution a few weeks ago. The college gymnasium was packed to its limits to accommodate the record breaking crowd which attended the important contest on Friday evening. When the final whistle blew, the score was 64 to 41 in favor of the Maroon and Gold passers, giving them their twelfth victory of the current season.

The game opened up with the din of mighty roaring and cheering of the capacity crowd. Two teams, fighting the tell-tale contest which was to decide the supremacy of one or the other, struggled for the possession of the ball. In a short time the score stood at 7 to 2 in favor of Bloomsburg. Throughout the first half the battle raged furiously, indicating that both teams were determined to win.

The Booth-men were in fine condition and they ran up the score to next to the highest number of points it has been this season. Scoring from all angles of the floor, the "hill-top" quintet absolutely demoralized the East Stroudsburg aggregation in the first half. When the half was over, Bloomsburg held a comfortable lead 30 to 16.

Starting the second half, Kirker caged a beautiful side shot; "Nick" Rudowski, who had replaced Shepela, followed suit with two goals from behind the foul line.

The count went up to 64 to 35 in the final period, and a stream of reserves for Bloomsburg entered the fray. Hayden, brilliant Stroudsburg forward, caged the most spectacular shots of the evening and was a big help in keeping the eastern college "in the run." The final score was 64 to 41.

The entire Maroon and Gold quintet contributed in the winning of the much needed and well-earned victory. "Tam" Kirker again went on a scoring spree, making 22 points. Yock played a brilliant game, especially in the second half, to score 19 points. Wanbaugh, Shepela, and Golder each in his best manner showed why Bloomsburg could win from Stroudsburg.

It would be of interest to note that the lad who proved to be the poison in the cup of defeat handed to Bloomsburg on January 16 at Stroudsburg, Payne by name, was held scoreless.

East Stroudsburg conquered Mansfield the following night at the upstate school by the score 34 to 26.

COLLEGE JAY-VEES ANNEX VICTORY, 31-17

In defeating the Keystone junior varsity on Saturday afternoon the Bloomsburg Jay-Vees now sport their eighth consecutive victory and remain undefeated this season.

The Junior Varsity took the lead from Keystone in the early part of the first quarter and piled up a lead. At half time the score was 19 to 8.

Yaretski and F. Jaffin lead the attack with 9 points each.

Carr supplied the thriller of the game with a spectacular long shot from the center of the floor.

COLLEGE JUNIOR VARSITY TROUNCES BLOOM RAMBLERS

In a preliminary to the Stroudsburg game the College Jay-Vees defeated the Bloomsburg Ramblers for the second time by the score 44 to 20.

"Freddie" Jaffin led the scoring with 15 points followed by his teammate, Yaretski, who had 10.

Washelski, a Simpson product, played a fine game at center and should develop into varsity timber next year. Valente, a former Hazleton High luminary, showed up well also. "Nick" Jaffin caged a few neat side shots in the second half. "Dependable" Carr played his usual defensive game.

Men's Glee Club rehearsals for the Spring Show: Monday, Wednesday, and Friday at 12:45. Thursday at 3:20.

Girls Open Basketball Season; Thirteen Teams Organized

WEST CHESTER CANCELS GAME

West Chester State Teachers College has cancelled the game with the Bloomsburg State Teachers College scheduled for Bloomsburg on Saturday evening, February 21. West Chester, undefeated, and Bloomsburg with a lone defeat, are looked upon as the outstanding claimants for the State Teachers College title. For this reason West Chester was looked upon as the big game of the year.

When arrangements were originally made a home arrangement for the year was considered and the date for the game in Bloomsburg fixed. When later in the season, the two institutions could not find a date agreeable for the game at West Chester, that institution cancelled the scheduled game.

The managers are attempting to secure a first class attraction and several college fives including Bucknell, are mentioned as possible opponents for the fast traveling Maroon and Gold team.

Y. M. C. A. AND Y. W. C. A. HOLD VALENTINE PARTY

At 7:30 Wednesday evening the Y. M. C. A. and Y. W. C. A. held a Valentine Party. The members met in the "Y" room, Science Hall. Long rows of chairs were lined up along the walls, leaving the center for free passage. The party proved to be a tremendous success. A large crowd attended the social event and all expressed their appreciation to those who had made the event possible.

Refreshments were served shortly after the social was under way. The splendid way in which this was directed was due to the committees headed by "Dinny" Thomas and Mary Davis. "Dinny" sure knows his refreshments.

Too abruptly attention was called to fleeting time and at 9:30 P. M. the happy group retired from the scene of the festivities. These organizations should make the Valentine Party an annual event.

NOTICE

The following is the program of the Junior Chamber of Commerce meetings for the next two months: Thursday, February 19, "Sources of Financial Information"—address by Mr. A. W. Duy, Jr.; February 26, Demonstration of Remington Electrical Typewriters; March 5, Demonstration of the Ediphone—Mr. Dampf; March 12, Demonstration of the Stenotype Machine; Friday, March 20 (at 4:10 P. M.) Mr. A. J. Watt, of G. A. R. Memorial High School of Wilkes-Barre—Address "Teaching Typing"; Thursday, March 26, Demonstration of Dictaphone—Mr. W. D. Hassenplug; April 2—Mr. Eckley Hoyt from Berwick—Address on Insurance.

Excellent Players Are Discovered Among Co-eds; Vollrath, Bubb, and Evans Star.

They say that 13 is an unlucky number, but this is not so with the Senior Basketball Co-eds. Having 13 teams is no ill omen and the tournament is moving along in fine shape. Take a slant at the line-ups and see for yourself why it is so successful:

- Team I. Kelly, Mensch, MacCawley, Reng, Hartt.
- Team II. F. Evans, Busch, Beck, Creveling, Lawson, M. Evans.
- Team III. Beale, Hopkins, Gorham, Noble, Gilbert, Rabb.
- Team IV. Fahringer, Zadra, Maddox, M. Davis, Roachford, Werchok.
- Team V. Quoos, Townsend, Kelley, Krauss, Ingram, Edmunds.
- Team VI. Rhoades, Banta, Cole, Booth, Rozanski, Fortner.
- Team VII. Kisner, Bowman, Dildine, Sechrist, Hayes, Yeager.
- Team VIII. Carpenter, Hart, Miles, Balas, Jones, Bonham.
- Team IX. Williams, Stryzak, Galazin, Forgeing, Schuyler, Hirleman.
- Team X. King, Harrison, Mack, Ollendick, Morgan, C. Fahringer.
- Team XI. Jacoby, Klinger, Wyandt, Cunningham, R. Williams, Masluski.
- Team XII. Sonner, Shook, Levers, Kelley, Ellis, Jones.
- Team XIII. Stackhouse, Kile, Bitler, Stewart.

The playing this year cannot be confined to Friday and must, because of conflicts, be played Friday afternoons and Saturday afternoons. The Saturday afternoon idea did not prove so agreeable to the majority of the players but a minority came out and showed their real sporting spirit. Some played positions they never tried before, others acted as the clowns to keep up the spirit, and still others played more than one game so as to enable all to have a chance to play. Sonners and Hubler playing together were too much for the rest so they were separated in the second game and then put to a real test. Townsend, Dildine and Booth played two games and Cunningham, the protege from Walter L. Main Circus, provided the pep for two full games. All played in a worthwhile manner and deserve a lot of credit for their sportsmanship.

- Team: Green—Yellow—5. Captain—Marion Hinkel. Score, 21-19.
  - Team: Green—Black—2. Captain—Mary Witkowski. Score, 18-14.
  - Team: Blue—Yellow—7. Captain—Mae Evans. Score, 7-4.
  - Team: Orange—Blue—1. Captain—Mary Vollrath. Score, 20-0.
- The outstanding shooting forwards were: Bubb, Howett, a substitute, Grover, Vollrath. Vollrath has proved the rumor that she is an outstanding basketball athlete.
- The referees were Crawford, Betterly, Keller, Hubler and Sonner.

MAROON AND GOLD
WINS FROM KUTZTOWN

minutes of play, it looked as though Keystone was going to win. Rudowski promptly caged a beautiful shot from the side, giving added spirit to the Maroon and Gold. Keystone followed with a field goal under the basket, evening things up. At this time Captain Wanbaugh broke through the Keystone defense to score a thrilling, much needed field goal, putting Bloomsburg within one point of Keystone, 25 to 26. With about two fleeting minutes to play Rudowski cut fast for the basket and banked the deciding field goal on a pass from Kirker, giving the lead to Bloomsburg, 27-26. Fighting hard to get "that elusive pill," both teams were endeavoring to get possession of the ball; Bloomsburg successfully "killed" the ball for the final seconds of play. Spadt, Keystone center, had a chance to tie the score with a foul, but he missed it.

As the game ended, the whole Bloomsburg contingent on the sidelines rushed on the floor to congratulate the team for upholding the winning streak for Bloomsburg, with this their thirteenth victory.

Spadt, star center for Keystone, and a former teammate of Captain Wanbaugh, played a fine game for Keystone as well as did Stump, who scored five goals.

The varsity and junior varsity teams journeyed to Kutztown by bus, arriving there an hour late due to the bad weather conditions and returning to Bloomsburg at midnight. Coach Booth was very exuberant about the result of the game and congratulated the members of the team on their fine performance.

Today the Maroon and Gold quintet travels to Lock Haven. A stiff

TO HEAD PHI SIGMA PI

The Phi Sigma Pi fraternity held an important meeting February 9. After the regular business was disposed of, officers were elected for the ensuing year. Those elected were—President, Oliver Krapf; Secretary, Clarence Hunsicker; Treasurer, Wilbur Hibbert.

The Phi Sigma Pi is a national fraternity and has chapters in many of the colleges throughout the country, where teacher training courses are offered. The local chapter is planning to hold several professional meetings.

Clarence Hunsicker has been chosen to represent the Iota Chapter at the National Convention to be held at Detroit the third week in February.

EDUCATIONAL TALKING PICTURES WERE ENJOYED

The presentation of educational talking pictures in the College auditorium on Monday, February 9, attracted many educators to Bloomsburg where they, along with the students of the State Teachers College and the public schools of Bloomsburg, enjoyed a well arranged program.

The program started at ten o'clock during the regular chapel period. Two pictures were shown. They were "The Play of Imagination in Geometry," "Fundamentals of Football."

At eleven o'clock the "Symphony Orchestra Series" attracted many College students and the training school children. This picture, many agreed, was the best part of the program.

Those who were interested in the mechanical part of talking pictures were shown how the pictures were made. At 1:20 two pictures, "Acoustic Principles" and "Finding His Voice," explained what makes the movies talk.

At 2:20 the Bloomsburg Public School students helped to fill the auditorium when the picture of "Our Government at Work," was shown.

The last period of the day was given over to the presentation of four pictures dealing with teacher training. They were, "The Testing of Child Intelligence," "The Study of Infant Behavior," "The Creative Approach to Education" and "Tests For Babies."

THE BOSTON MALE CHOIR

On Friday, March 6, the student body and friends will have the opportunity of hearing again in our auditorium the Boston Male Choir. This group of men has appeared before us three times in previous years and at each appearance it received a great ovation. Last year the members comprised the chorus of the opera, "The Tales of Hoffman," which was presented at the high school. They also gave us, wholly through courtesy, a concert for the benefit of the hospital fund.

Their program this year will be in two parts, the first part their ever enjoyable concert numbers, the second "The Trial By Jury," a scene taken from the opera "Mikado" by Gilbert and Sullivan. This part of the program is rather humorous and will be worth anyone's while to attend.

SHORTENED PERIODS TUESDAY

The regular short period schedule was in effect on Tuesday, February 10, in order that a special faculty meeting might be held.

Practically the entire meeting was given over to a continuation of the work on the curriculum analysis project. The faculty has been working on the project for some time and hopes to finish the work soon.

According to a report from the Girl's Locker Room spring is in the air in more ways than one.
