MISS RACHEL TURNER ADDRESSES COLLEGE

Sketches Renaissance of Stories Through the Ages; Depicts the Influence of Printing Press on Story Writing.

"Just as it's born in ducks to swim, and in cats to catch mice, so the same stories are born in the heart and mind of man whatsoever be his language." Thus spoke Miss Rachel Turner at chapel Wednesday as she presented an interesting sketch on "Stories Through the Ages."

Outlining the art of story-telling from earliest man, she showed how it affected and influenced the advancement and progress of today.

"Story-telling was a business in the old days like farming and hunting and fighting. No one was more respected than the story teller. The older stories are, the better they are. If they were not so good they would have been forgotten long ago.

Vividly she depicted incidents in the lives of the master story-tellers of the ages. The fables of Aesop, the parables of Jesus, the tales of Homer and Virgil, and the works of other great story-tellers were sketched.

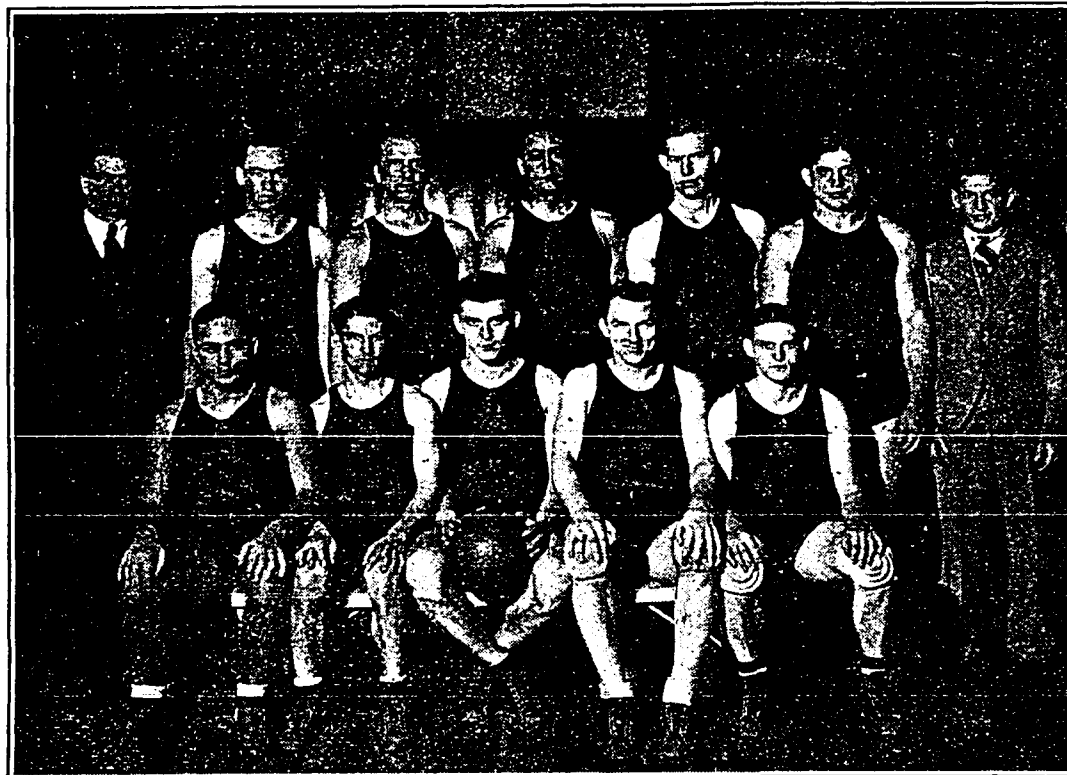

Miss Turner gradually brought the transition of the art of story-telling up to the close of the Middle Ages, when the invention of the printing press completely revolutionized the story. The stories of the medieval period were stories of war, fighting, courage, and heroism. Notable among the stories of this period were the tales of King Arthur and the Knights of the Round Table.

Finally, bringing her address to a close, she said: "A new force had asserted itself which was to exert tremendous influence in swaying the minds of men and nations,—that force which is the printed page—the book."

And then, she closed her talk with a very appropriate poem by John Farrar, former editor of The Bookman:

"THE YOUTH SPEAKS"

And what shall you give me, Sir,
To speed me on my road,
To fill the chinks of lonely hours

PENNSYLVANIA STATE TEACHERS COLLEGE CHAMPIONS, 1930-31

VOD-VIL SHOW TONIGHT

The Y. M. C. A. will present to the College its annual "Vod-Vil" tonight at 8:15 P. M. Last year a night of mirth was enjoyed by a fine audience. The program this year promises to surpass the excellent entertainment of the year before. It is a good chance to see what College men can do.

A capacity crowd is expected to witness the performance. There will be a laugh a minute when such men as "Yock," "Tam," and "Pal," put on their act. The writer is anxiously waiting to see "Bake" come into the "limelight" with his tricks of magic. "Stub" Pennington and his oddly costumed friends will recall campus fixtures. The College Band will open the Vod-Vil with some lively numbers.

Our announcer says the auditorium must be filled to capacity to see the "hit of the season," the "Vod-Vil" of many acts.

To ease my heavy load?

You cannot give me romance
My true love I must find.
Experience I'll meet, alas!
And wealth may lag behind.

You cannot give me life itself,—
Go find a mirror, then,
Where I can see things passing strange—
The lives of other men.

And when the roads not right to tramp,
When all the world's in rain,
I'll turn from life—I'll find your gift—
Come back to books again.

KIRKER, YOCK, GOLDER PLAY LAST GAME

Close Season With Eighteenth Victory; Game Proves Exciting Throughout; Millersville Leads Until Second Quarter.

Bloomsburg gained the Basketball Championship of the State Teachers Colleges in Pennsylvania by winning an exciting game over Millersville S. T. C. on the local court by the score of 29-23, before one of the biggest crowds of the present season.

West Chester was eliminated entirely from the championship by Kutztown who defeated them by a 16-11 score at Kutztown.

Covering themselves with glory throughout this season five men of the varsity will be lost to the team due to graduation: Kirker, Yock, Golder, Wilson, and Baker; each man played a fine game and should be duly commended for their contributions on the basketball court.

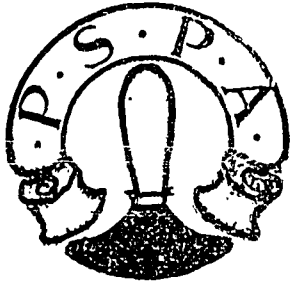

Millersville came here with a wonderful team and showed their mettle by holding the lead at the end of the first quarter, 5-2. Both teams passed the ball with lightning-like speed up and down the floor.

In the second period Bloomsburg played Millersville completely off their feet, scoring seven points while the visitors contributed none. Golder and Rudowski displayed some of the best guarding seen this season in stopping offensive plays of Millersville time after time. Millersville resorted to long shots which were futile throughout the period. Successive fouls by Golder, Kirker, and Rudowski accounted for three points, and then "Rudy" dropped in a neat shot from a pass by Yock. Just as the half ended, Captain Wanbaugh tapped in a much-needed and sensational basket on a rebound off the banking board and the score was 9-5 in Bloomsburg's favor.

The third period was very thrilling from the spectators' standpoint. "Tam" Kirker scored on a foul goal as the second half began. Then Rudowski batted the ball out of the hands of a Millersville player, and Yock caught it to score an easy basket.

News From You, About You, For You

LEST WE FORGET

Saturday night saw our basketball team win a glorious battle to clinch the championship.

"Lest we forget" amid all the joy attending such a momentous occurrence let us pay homage where homage is due. We do not intend to slight the rest of the "happy warriors," but special tribute is to be given to those of the quintet who, in a literary sense, played their "swan song."

This same Saturday night saw the last appearance of three of the best basketball players that ever donned the colors of B. S. T. C.

"Tam" Kirker, the flashy and shifty forward, needs no introduction. "Tammy" played the best game of his college career. He covered more territory than a traveling salesman. It can be truthfully said that Thomas Kirker ended his basketball played at this institution in a blaze of glory. With only about twenty seconds to play Kirker tossed the ball from the middle of the court into the loop for the two points that made the fans heave a gasping sigh of relief.

Joseph Yocabonis, better known as "Yock," Tam's running mate, outshone himself. With his one-hand heaves at the basket he had his opponents bleary. "Yock's" cool unhurried actions makes him an asset that cannot be disputed. Added to this we find him a reliable and con-

NO. 1--COMPILED BY "BAKE"

Editor's Note: This is the first of a series of actual cases which present methods of correcting classroom difficulties. What is your solution to this problem? Send it in! The best solution with the name of the author will be published in the next issue of the Maroon and Gold.

PROBLEM

A large class of boys in ninth grade Algebra has formed the habit of giggling or laughing loudly at mistakes by individual pupils. The general attitude tends to become frivolous whenever any incident occurs that is at all out of the ordinary routine. Whatever can be laughed at is laughed at, and the laughing becomes disorderly unless the teacher calls the class to order at once. How can the teacher correct this attitude?

BECOMES ATHLETIC COACH

James Coursen, '27, a former editor of The Maroon and Gold, becomes an athletic coach. Mr. Coursen taught at Larksville and at present is teaching in the Gloucester City High School, New Jersey. He has been made coach of the second basketball team in the latter institution. Mr. Coursen has distinguished himself in athletics and has shown considerable ability in dealing with boys. Mr. Coursen was the first sponsor of "The Lark," the Larksville High School paper.

sistent scorer. His shots rise in a graceful arc and descend (usually) into the basket with a clean, clear-cut "swish." They are to be marvelled at and many a fan attended the games hoping that "Yock" would thrill them with one of his spectacular flips. The feeling one gets from watching the Mahanoy City boy slip a two-pointer into the hoop is comparable to seeing an athlete run sixty yards in a broken field on the gridiron.

It is much harder to pile laurels at the feet of a guard than a scoring forward. Nevertheless, "Frankie" Golder got them and plenty of them. Always on the spot where he is the most needed is "Frankie." Valiantly, as though defending a sacred charge, he guarded our basket against the onslaught of ferocious antagonists. His level-headed, calculated playing made him one of the most valuable men on the team.

The success of the team, according to "Yack" and "Tam," was due primarily to the underlying recognition of each other's ability. It was not a one-man team, nor a two-man team, but a five-man club that placed them at the top and established them as the premier basketball tossers of the State.

There is no doubt but that we'll miss them. We bid them a farewell filled with untold regrets. We despair of feeling that we may never see them in action again.

LIBRARY NEWS

The attention of our students is again called to the extended library service which is being offered to them.

The library is open from 7:45 A. M. to 9:30 P. M. Monday to Saturday, and from 2:00 P. M. to 9:30 P. M. on Sunday.

The library is readily accessible to all students. It contains approximately 14,000 volumes, including a comprehensive collection of books on general and educational subjects, standard books of reference, books for recreational reading, a children's library, more than 100 of the leading general and educational magazines, and a number of local and city newspapers. Many of these books are needed in the various courses given throughout the college, but many other books are mainly for recreational and inspirational reading.

The library affords a well lighted and quiet place for reading and study. Librarians are always there to serve you. Why not take advantage of this opportunity that is offered to you to acquire knowledge and a stimulus for intellectual interests, to make reading for pleasure a habit, to realize the fullness and beauty of life, by means of BOOKS and the LIBRARY?

OBSERVER

Did our team look and play like champions Saturday last? Ask those who were at the game.

The Boston Male Choir certainly carried Bloomsburg right with them. Their third reception was even greater than the first, or second that they received here.

We certainly were glad to have our friend Dr. Raiguel with us again.

And speaking of Dr. Raiguel, did you see the number of people who came up from the town to hear him?

The new light on Carver Hall looks good. It adds dignity to the tower, but we wonder why they put the "froh" colors on the dome underneath it.

The men's "B" Club is working hard to put the High School Basketball Tournament across successfully. They deserve whole-hearted support.

We have heard that people can become so interested in a series of meetings that they voluntarily attend because of the pleasure and benefits derived therefrom.

Dr. Waller, once a student at the Bloomsburg State Normal School, tells this incident that occurred in one of the classrooms during Arithmetic Class:

The scene:—Room E, Carver Hall. Professor Ferree, pacing back and forth, "Mr. Brower, by what do you multiply the diameter of a circle to find its circumference?"

Miss Forsythe:—"3.14159!"

Professor Ferree, in falsetto staccato, pointing at the young lady:—"Miss Forsythe, your name is not Brower, YET."

KIRKER, YOCK, GOLDER
PLAY LAST GAME

Repeated fouls by Bloomsburg and Millersville mounted the score and Wanbaugh and Rudowski each dropped in difficult shots. Captain Gockley, of Millersville, who seemed to be having trouble in locating the basket the entire game, sank in a beautiful long shot as the quarter ended. Bloomsburg led 19-12.

Though Bloomsburg held a supposedly comfortable lead of 7 points, Millersville rallied to come within three points of Bloomsburg, 21-18, in the first part of the last quarter. Rapid fire field goals by Emerick, Gockley, and Kraft pared the lead down. After calling time-out, Bloomsburg determined to make their final drive for victory. Kraft banked in a basket for Millersville, but Rudowski even it up and brought the fans to their feet by sinking an overhead shot to make the score 23-20.

Shortly afterward, Golder and Kirker made one foul each to give Bloom a five-point advantage. With but three minutes to go, Rudowski fouled out and received a fit oration as he left the game. Shepela, who was bothered with a sprained ankle, replaced Rudowski. Emerick scored the foul.

Holding grimly on to the lead, Bloomsburg began to kill the ball, and then Kirker caged a long shot. Emerick got loose under the basket, then scored for Millersville. Just before the game ended, Kirker made another sensational goal from mid-court, to give the agme to Bloomsburg, 29-23.

NOTES OF THE GAME

Kirker dazzled the opposing team with his two dramatic long shots in the closing minutes of play.

Emerick and Gockley played wonderful games for Millersville.

Three men were sent to the showers by the personal foul route: Whitner and Bender of Millersville, and Rudowski, B. S. T. C.

This season's cage quintet has won 17 out of 18 games, thereby gaining the coveted title of mythical "State Champions."

Co-Eds Close Basketball Season

With Two Exciting Games

Dr. Raiguel Sees Depression Relief

Green-Yellow Team Defeat the Orange-Blue Team, 23-6; Reds Down Silvers, 12-4 in Fast Game on Local Floor.

With a vim and zest that surprised the large aggregation in the College gym, Marion Hinkel, graduate of Hershey High School, literally "tore" through the defense of the Blue-Orange to annex 23 points and win the game by a score of 23-6.

The girl from the chocolate town seemed perfectly at home on the floor, and dropped the ball through the hoop at will.

Chevitski, blonde guard from Larksville, played a fast game and was responsible for many of the clever plays executed by the Green-Yellow. Foley, her fellow-guard, stuck like glue to her forward and held down the scoring for the opponents.

Stine seemed content to let Hinkel make all the points and upon receiving the ball passed it to her fellow player. Bubb, active center, took the tap at least four out of five times. She held down the pivot position very efficiently. Edwards took the tap and passed it to the Blonde Haired Bandit, Hinkel, who put it through the net.

The outstanding players of the Orange-Blue line-up were Vollrath, Rowett, and Acker. Vollrath, former shooting ace of West Nanticoke High School team, played a very effective game but it was impossible for her teammates to stop the candy-town girl.

In the second game, the Reds defeated the Silvers by a score of 12-4. Derr and Barba starred for the Reds, while McCormack and Harrison led the action of the Silvers. The low scoring can be accounted for by the excellent work of the guards of both teams, Reinard, Bernosky, Meyers and Lowry.

Mabel Rinard, former guard on the Sunbury High School team, did not seem up to her usual form. However, it must be admitted that she time and again, kept the opposing forward from annexing a field goal.

Contini and Felker handled the center of the floor very nicely, and took the tap repeatedly from Bayliff and Cechini.

A very large number of fans turned out for the game. Quite a few boys were on hand to cheer their favorites.

Some of the boys present expressed the opinion that "those girls sure can shoot." "Pagan" Greco could not keep score for the contest due to objections of some of the girls. "Frosh" Chudzinski was present in the grand stand and was recognized by the Maroon and Gold reporter. Kafka was also present but fell asleep during the intermission and was awakened by Krauss.

The following was the Frosh Co-ed basketball standing prior to the play-off.

In the Frosh Tournament there were two divisions of teams, an A and a B depending on the amount of experience the girls have had either in high school or college. The A teams are quite evenly matched and show some fine material; the B teams have some outstanding individual players.

The standings to date were as follows:

THE JAY-VEES END UNDEFEATED SEASON

In a preliminary game to the Millersville fray the Bloomsburg Jay-Vees scored their twelfth and final victory of the season by defeating the Lackawanna Shops of Scranton by the score 46 to 30.

The Jay-Vees outscored their opponents in each of the four quarters. The pass-work of the Jay-Vees was a big feature of the game.

Washeleski, promising center, was the high scorer for the evening with seven goals and one foul. Yaretski and "Freddie" Jaffin, hard-working forwards, scored heavily also.

The experience which these lads have gained this year should prove a valuable aid to them in order that they might step into the places on the varsity left open by graduating players.

Predicts a Bitter Presidential Fight in 1932; Roosevelt and Longworth May be the Possible Opponents.

Dr. George Earle Raiguel, noted lecturer, in an exceptionally fine chapel program on Friday morning, told the college that the business depression in the United States was certainly bound to be relieved during the summer months. This was Dr. Raiguel's last appearance at the College this year, and many who heard him felt that it was his finest interpretation of current events yet given at the College.

In predicting the next year's presidential development Dr. Raiguel spoke of President Hoover's unpopularity and the possibility of a Longworth-Roosevelt tilt at that time. He expressed his belief that Governor Roosevelt would be the next Democratic candidate. In the Democratic ranks are three likely candidates, Owen Young, Al Smith and Governor Roosevelt. But of the three Smith and Young are mere pictures in comparison to the influence of Governor Roosevelt.

The Republicans also have three big men to offer: Hoover, Dawes and Longworth. In the event that Hoover's unpopularity prevents his nomination, it is likely that Speaker Longworth would be a possible choice, in that he is backed by Senator Boran and Alice Longworth, formerly Alice Roosevelt, both of whom have no small influence in political circles. However, if Hoover secures the nomination, the party will support him one hundred per cent, declared Dr. Raiguel.

The lecturer carefully analyzed the motives of President Hoover in regard to the veto of the Bonus Bill. The President's stand was not true to the Hoover tradition, Dr. Raiguel argued. In the first place Mr. Mellon and President Hoover had misconstrued the facts. Contrary to the Hoover plan, there is $900,000,000 now available for veteran relief. Of the three million veterans not more than one-half are likely to draw upon their policies, so that the present treasury surplus will care for the exigency imposed. Dr. Raiguel suggested that the reason for Hoover's veto lay in the fact that Owen Young, a Democrat, had originated the bill.

The speaker was optimistic concerning the present business depression. He declared the depression was aggravated by the drought last summer, and expressed the hope that our national building program and better weather would improve the situation.

The one thing America must learn is to curtail governmental expenditures and extravagance. Dr. Raiguel warned the audience that the

PHILOSOPHY CLUB DISCUSS REASONING

At the regular meeting of the Philosophy Club Tuesday, March 3, Dr. Kehr led the club in a discussion of the kinds of reasoning. Deductive reasoning is used in mathematical sciences and inductive reasoning is used in modern sciences. Many mistakes are made in reasoning because there often enters the matter of feeling and prejudice, because the meaning of terms is confused, and because links in the process are often left out.

Because there are so many mistakes in reasoning and so many conclusions arrived at for the same problem there must be tolerance in this world. Each one's opinion may be best for him.

The place where both reasoning and tolerance must be used is in the consideration of the universe. The universe is complex, infinite, harmonious. It consists of man, nature, planets, present and past, and the possibility of God.

The nature of the universe is an unsolved riddle, but many opinions are vouchsafed. There are the skeptics who say "I don't know, and no one can know." There are those who believe the universe "just grew" like Topsy; and those who believe that there is a Supreme Being back of it all. Dualism supports the theory that the universe is made up of two things, matter and spirit. Then comes the question, "Is matter fundamental and spirit the spark from the machine, or is spirit fundamental and matter the medium through which spirit flows, or are they equally important?"

This week "The Existence and Nature of God" was the subject. Visitors are always welcome.

government is expending great sums for which the coming generations would have to pay. The national budget now totals over $3,000,000,000.

In turning to international affairs the speaker gave a brief review of the present naval race between England and United States. He lamented the fact that our naval policies were so impractical and antagonistic. In the Naval Arms Conference it was agreed, upon the insistence of United States, that we have equal responsibility with England for policing the world, notwithstanding the greater need of England for police forces. America agreed at the conference to assume the added responsibility. But America has fallen down in the bargain.

Events are stirring in France. Briand, the greatest Frenchman of our generation, is to be elected president of France in June—that is, if Briand wishes to be elected, predicted Dr. Raiguel. If Briand chooses to be president, he will do so for a reason. Briand is the sponsor of "The United States of Europe." Unless he can put this idea to work in the next few years, France is doomed. Briand

CARVER HALL TOWER LIGHT

The dome of Carver Hall once carried a flagpole, which was struck by lightning, leaving a part of the staff shattered and broken. This semester under the supervision of Mr. Englehart, Superintendent of Grounds and Buildings, a tower light has been placed on the dome of Carver Hall. This illumination of the dome will make our Alma Mater a landmark for many miles. The light is eight feet high and over three feet in diameter. It is held in position by a three-inch stem that extends eleven feet downward to a heavy beam placed in the tower for support. The electric service contains two circuits of four lights each and has its switch control from a panel board on first floor.

The workmen took advantage of the presence of the scaffolding to make a number of repairs, including repairs on the copper sheeting, and to painting the dome itself. As soon as weather permits the woodwork of the entire tower will be repainted.

P. S. E. A. CONVENTION MEETS AT WILKES-BARRE

The Sixth Annual Meeting of the Northeastern Convention District of the P. S. E. A. was held at the Elmer L. Meyers High School in Wilkes-Barre on Friday and Saturday, March 6 and 7.

All of the general sessions were called to order by the President of the Convention District, Dr. Francis B. Haas.

Mr. Earl N. Rhodes was chairman of the College and Teacher Training Department of the Convention. In the Social Science Section Miss Maupin spoke on "Development of Attitudes and Abilities in School Studies." Mr. Fenstemaker's topic, in the Language Section, was "Why Virgil Is Still Popular." Miss May T. Hayden led the discussion group in the meeting of the Grade Department. Dr. North addressed the Agriculture Section on "Social Problems of the Supervisor of Agriculture." Dr. Kehr led the discussion in the Round Table meeting for Deans and Advisers of Girls.

Other members of our faculty present were Dean Koch Mr. Keller, and Mr. Andruss.

as president could wield more power and also forego the risk of not being included in the next cabinet.

In Germany, Von Hindenburg is still in the hearts of the people to such an extent that the national constitution will perhaps be amended to allow him to enjoy a longer term as president. The depression in Germany is acute. Of the 60,000,000 people not more than 4,000 have an income equalling $25,000.

The greatest menace to America comes from within. It comes from those who want to keep the status quo, in order that they can line their own pockets. A new day in government is coming. We must welcome it with joy.

BOSTON MALE CHOIR PLEASURES

Pleasing from the time of its sincere greeting behind the curtain to the last acclamation of "He's a wise and good judge" in the one-act operetta, the Boston Male Choir, assisted by Yvonne Des Rosiers and Reginald Boardman, made its third appearance in Bloomsburg.

The ability with which the well-balanced program was given resulted in many encores. If the selection was a march, one felt the contagious rhythm, if it was a love song, the audience sensed the tenderness, if it was impersonation, the entire choir disappeared, and in its place came the subject of impersonation.

Miss Des Rosiers, a soprano of no mean ability, was charming. Mr. Boardman has shown that he is a splendid pianist and accompanist by his work with Boston Male Choir and the Durell String Quartette, which visited us last January.

The second part of the program was a debonair operatta by Gilbert and Sullivan, "Trial by Jury." The jury was entirely captivated with the pretty plaintiff, who used her lover for breach of promise. The Judge, after much ado, settled the case by marrying the plaintiff and proving his ability as a capable judge.

DRAMATIC CLUB AT THE METHODIST CHURCH

Thursday evening the Dramatic Club of the College presented two plays at the Methodist church. The plays presented were "Speaking to Father," by George Ade and "The Fifteenth Candle" by Rachel Lyman Field.

The plays were very well presented and were received enthusiastically by the audience.

The cast of characters of "Speaking to Father" was:

Septimus Pickering — Maynard Pennington.

Luella, his wife—Dorothy Foust.
Caroline, his daughter—Laura Shultz.

Edward Worthington Swinger—Jack Eble.

Professor Bliss—"Tom" Coursen.

"The Fifteenth Candle."
Vediti, a shoemaker—"Tom" Beagle.

Sadie, his older daughter—Gladys Dildine.

Roas, a younger daughter—Martha Oberman.

Mr. Goldstein—Nick Rudowski.

Miss Roberts, an art teacher—Ruth Lewis.

Y. M. C. A. NOTES

Leo Kohl was speaker at "Y" meeting last Wednesday evening. Leo, who is the State Student secretary, is always a welcome visitor. He spoke on the need of prayer in a student's life. There was a good attendance.

This has been a busy week for the "Y." It stages its annual "Vod-Vil" tonight. The members of the organization will appreciate the College support at this entertainment.

THE NATURE STUDY CLUB DISCUSS CORAL

The Nature Study Club had an interesting meeting last week with Bernice Cuthbert and Grace Callender as leaders. Grace Callender told the club about coral and the formation of coral reefs. The coral is a by-product of the coral animal. These animals form outer structures and some of these outer structures are composed of calcium carbonate which form a massive story structure or coral.

Coral is found only in warm waters. Florida and Australia forming the chief sources. Investigators have tried to find the depth of the coral reefs in Florida. They drilled to a depth of six hundred feet and did not come to the center and had to give up the project.

It was thought that coral grew only where there were carbonic springs, but that theory has long since been exploded. The sea water and crustaceans furnish material to build the mighty structure. Coral also needs protection to thrive; hence the large corals are found near the shores. Contrary to expectations the small animals grow out quite a distance and the huge reef-forming ones in the lagoons and protected areas of the sea.

One species, the Adamsia Palliata, does not stay in one place and build a wall around itself, but attaches itself to the back of the hermit crab and travels with him on his venturesome voyages.

Mr. Hartline reported to the club the coming of the bluebird.
