SENIORS START ACTIVITIES WITH DINNER PARTY

Banquet This Evening in College Dining Room to be Followed By Theatre Party

SENIOR BALL FRIDAY EVENING

The Senior Banquet, on Thursday, May 24, will formally open the Commencement week activities of this year's graduating class. This formal affair, with the theatre party afterward, will be held in the College dining room.

The following evening, the gymnasium will be the scene of the annual Senior Ball. The last formal dance of the year will be a closed dance, guest privileges being extended only to those Seniors planning to attend the affair.

Saturday will bring back to the campus the Alumni. An extensive program, including an Alumni Association meeting in the auditorium at 11:30 o'clock in which the class of 1934 will participate, luncheon in the dining room at 12:30, and baseball and tennis games in the afternoon, will be featured. The classes whose reunions will be held this year are: '74, '79, '84, '89, '94, '99, '04, '09, '14, '19, '24, '29, '32.

The Reverend Mr. Harry Babcock, pastor of the Methodist Church of Bloomsburg, will deliver the Baccalaureate address to the graduating class on Sunday afternoon, May 27, at 2:30 o'clock.

The traditional Ivy Day program will be held at 6:00 p. m., Monday, May 28, on which occasion, Alfred Vandling will deliver the Ivy Day oration. The same evening, the Seniors will present a musical comedy under the direction of Miss Alice Johnston and Miss Harriet Moore.

The Commencement exercises on Tuesday morning will bring to a close the activities of the week. The speaker of the morning will be Dr. Weir E. Ketter, President of Grove City College, and member of the State Council of Education.

DUKE MORRIS TO PLAY FOR SENIOR BALL

Prominent State Band Will Visit The Campus For Its First Engagement Here

For the first time in a good while an outstanding band will be imported to the campus for a social function. Duke Morris and his band will come here from State to play for the Senior Ball.

Up to this time organizations have tried in vain to secure the Morris outfit for numerous occasions, either because of conflicts in dates or general lack of funds.

Enough money was budgeted by the Seniors to allow for an outstanding orchestra.

Fourteen dances have been scheduled for the evening which will run the dance from 8:30 to 12:30.

Each Senior is allowed one bid with bids not transferable.

ADVISORS FOR NEXT YEAR'S FROSH COMPLETE PLANS

Big Sisters Will Help Yearlings Register, Act as Guides and Explain Social Life

RUTH ASKINS IS CHAIRMAN

For the past months the big sisters to the incoming freshmen have been making plans for the 1935 term.

Ruth Askins is chairman of this committee. Miss Askins has appointed as her Advisors Committee: Irene Frederick, Anne Quigley, Eleanor Morris, Amanda Babb, and Charlotte Hochberg.

The plans this year are more detailed than they have been in former years. Each freshman girl will have two big sisters, one of which must be here on registration day. It is the duty of the big sisters to help the freshmen register in the gym, act as guides in Waller Hall and first floor, help them get settled in the dormitory and see that all freshmen go to the meeting in the auditorium after lunch.

Some of the activities planned for the first week are: a party on Monday night given by the floor deans, a tea by the Y. W. C. A. on Tuesday afternoon, the Community Government Association party in the gym for all freshmen on Tuesday night, and Wednesday night, off-campus permission will be given. Friday night, the welcome party for all girls will be given by the W. S. G. A. and on Saturday night the Trustees and Faculty Reception will be held.

All advisors are to take an interest in the freshman girls and aid them in every way possible as in getting the girls interested in the social life of the college, helping them to plan their time, and giving them suggestions on how to study. The advisors will be asked to make brief reports to the Dean of Women on each Freshman girl.

BACCALAUREATE CHORUS

A Senior Chorus of thirty girls will sing on Baccalaureate Sunday in the auditorium.

This is the largest chorus to make an appearance as a Senior group and the reason for the large group is the fact that the Girls' Chorus had such a great number of graduating Seniors. The chorus is made up each year of Seniors from the Glee Club.

The girls will offer "Unfold Ye Portals."

Girls are reminded of the rehearsal which has been scheduled for 1:30 Sunday in the college auditorium.

Retire With Success

Over 280 Copies of 18th Volume of Obiter Given Out Last Wednesday; Book Dedicated to Dr. Waller, Jr., with Education as theme; Maroon and Gold Printed Fourteen Times

NEW EDITORS TAKE OVER TASK OF PLANNING IMMEDIATELY

The eighteenth volume of the Obiter, year book of the graduating class of 1934 of the Teachers College, was given out on Wednesday, May 16. This book is perhaps one of the finest ever produced at the college, and shows much originality in the school colors of maroon and gold.

The Obiter this year is dedicated to Dr. David J. Waller, Jr., President Emeritus of the institution. It was edited by Roland Keeler, of Bloomsburg, with John Krepich, of Berwick, as business manager.

One of the unique features of this edition is the photographs of the campus. The frontispiece, the creation of Grace Foote of Bloomsburg, placed at the beginning of each of the divisions of the volume, are also very original.

The general theme of the Obiter this year is "Education." It is divided into five sections, namely, teachers; and the four parts of the teaching program, mental, physical, moral, and social.

The photographs of the members of the graduating class are grouped six to a page with the group activities of their school years underneath. The border is of clever design with gold used to a considerable extent in the color scheme.

All phases of the college life, such as athletics, dramatics, fraternities, and under graduates, are very interestingly dealt with. Through snapshots of the social life around the campus, it makes pleasant memories for the future.

The members of the staff who have helped to make the College Obiter such a successful edition are: Editor—Roland Keeler

Business Manager—John Krepich
Members of the staff—Alfred Vandling, Miss Grace Foote, Miss Thalia Barba, Miss Rachael Beck, Miss Blanche Garrison, Miss Betty Krumonocker, Miss Althine Marshman, Joe Gribbin, Arden Roan, H. T. Nelson, Richard Menapace, Miss Sarah Lentz, James Gennaria, Mark Peifer, Miss Priscilla Acker, Elbert Ashworth, John Gress, Miss Miriam Eroh, Miss Olewyn Laird, and Miss Clara Singleman.

The Maroon and Gold was issued fourteen times in the year, which is not a bad average considering the times spent in vacations. The ideal situation would be eighteen issues per year. Since a review of changes and criticisms of the present volume is offered to the student body as well as Mr. Young by Miss Barba in an editorial, restatement is not necessary.

ARTIST COURSE FOR NEXT YEAR MADE KNOWN TO PRESS

Program Retains Same Number of Features as Given This Year; Milton Symphony Added

DOROTHY SANDS TO RETURN

The Artists' Course for next year has been announced and will consist of the same number of attractions as this year's course.

The first program will be on October 5, when we will be entertained by Miriam Winslow and her Dancers. Miss Winslow, a pupil of Ruth St. Denis, has studied in Germany and Austria, and next season will launch one of the most interesting dance attractions to be seen in America.

The Siberian Singers present our next attraction on November 9. This novel program consists of ten Russians singing their folk songs, dance songs, choral songs, and robber songs in their native tongue. Nicholas Vasilieff, the director, is well known in the music world. He toured with the original Russian Cathedral Quartet, sang leading roles with the Washington Civic Opera Company, and directed Roxy's Russian Choir.

On January 11, the program will consist of two soloists—John Herrick, well-known baritone, and May Korb, soprano. Mr. Herrick, a New England singer, broadcasts twice a week over WJZ. He is the possessor of a fine voice with much of the same quality as Lawrence Tibbett. Miss Korb, fine soprano, will be remembered by a number of Bloomsburg people as the original woman soloist with the Boston Male Choir which appeared here six years ago. Each of these artists will give a group of solos and a group of duets. This number ought to be one of the most artistic and pleasing programs on our course for next year.

The fourth number, on February 8, is the Milton Symphony Orchestra. This orchestra, under the leadership of E. Hart Bugbee, of Williamsport, contains sixty-five members and is composed of leading musicians from Williamsport, Milton, Sunbury, Danville, and other cities in that area. It is certain to please the college audience.

On March 1, we shall have the Morgan Trio. This group of musicians are sisters who play a harp, a violin, and a piano. This trio has traveled the length and width of the country and has been received everywhere with approval.

The concluding number will be on April 12, when Dorothy Sands will return to give her Broadway success of the past year, "Our Stage and Stars," which depicts scenes from the American theatre covering from the Colonial times down to the present day talkies. Miss Sands has been brought back in response to the universal demand from the student body.

NOTICE TO SENIORS

Seniors are requested to watch the bulletin boards for announcements of activities.

A compulsory meeting of all Seniors has been scheduled for today at 1:30 and Friday at the same time.

SENIORS NAME MUSICAL COMEDY

"Highlights of College Days," Title of Production to be Given Monday Evening

"High Lights of College Days" is to be the title of the Senior Musical Comedy which will be given on Monday evening.

Much mystery has surrounded the actual news story of the comedy for no good reason at all. Up until this time, no information could be given to any of the reporters concerning the title. In question of the leads we are told that there aren't any.

Who wrote the musical comedy? No one knows, but the Senior class is producing it with the aid of Miss Johnston, Miss Moore, and Miss Mayan.

There is much discussion as to whether this year's production can surpass or come up to last year's rollicking success. The present Seniors are at a disadvantage because last year a musical comedy was new. Notwithstanding the disadvantage, with all the talent in the present class and with the expert coaching and directing, there is no reason why "Highlights of College Days" should not be a brilliant success.

The only way to find out is to see it and form your own conclusion.

LOUISE YEAGER LAUREL PRINCESS

President of Day Girls to Represent College at Pocono Festival

At the invitation of LeRoy Koehler, chairman of the Royalty Committee of the Laurel Blossom Time Event, the Student Council has selected a member of the student assembly to represent Bloomsburg as its Princess.

Announcement of the honored coed has been delayed until approval has been received from the Princess's family. That approval has been received. Miss Louise Yeager, of 225 West Front Street, Berwick, has been chosen Princess. Miss Yeager is a four-year Commercial, member of the Junior Chamber of Commerce, President of the Day Girls' Association and a member of Kappa Delta Pi. Miss Yeager will join the rest of the Princesses and their Queen at the Pocono Mountains on June 15. The festival will run from June 15 to June 24.

The following is a copy of the letter received by Dean Kehr from Mrs. Yeager:

225 W. Front Street
Berwick, Pa.

Dear Miss Kehr:

We are all very happy to learn that Louise has been chosen to represent the college at the Laurel Blossom Festival, and I am sending my approval immediately. She will receive this distinction with much joy.

Mrs. L. E. Yeager.

Published During the School Year of 1933 and 1934 by the Students of the Bloomsburg State Teachers College

BLOOMSBURG, PA., THURSDAY, MAY 24, 1934

To the New Editor

It may seem rather officious or dictatorial for an out-going official to set up recommendations to influence an incoming officer. Maroon and Gold has been our pet extra-curricular for the past four years. We have watched it grow from a small pamphlet without definite make-up to a fairly decent, departmentalized paper. Even as yet we hesitate to call it a newspaper.

We have definitely tried to overcome the high school idea of a column newspaper. In the past two years, the column work has been cut from five regular columns of various matters to the present one column Kampus Kulm. It took a good deal of courage to stand firm and eliminate Waller Hall News, Day Boys News, Day Girls News, and North Hall News. It would be a considerable blow to us to return on some Alumni Day and find what we have labored to eliminate was back in existence again.

If the 32-33 and 33-34 editors could remain next year there are a few logical steps in progress which would naturally occur in the paper. First of all, the quality of the paper would be changed from its present "magazine-ish" quality to ordinary newspaper. This would be in keeping with the internal development of the paper. Although the quality of the paper was considerably thinner this year, it still is too literary in form. The student objection that newspaper is "cheap" is not valid since we are interested in producing a real newspaper. The money saved on the paper could profitably be used in having appropriate cuts made when necessary. The second change would be in that of the duties of the staff. Maroon and Gold can be of great service in conducting surveys of interest of other colleges, not only along lines of administration of other colleges' publications but in other projects as well. Third, a Journalism Club must be established on the campus sooner or later. Although the total responsibility should not fall on Maroon and Gold, the initiative in the movement should be taken by it.

We have watched with some curiosity the development of THE CAMPUS REFLECTOR of Shippensburg this year. It can be a splendid inspiration to Maroon and Gold. We do not know just what arrangements were made but it has opened its columns to national and local advertisements and increased its paper to a five-page weekly edition. What is possible for one Pennsylvania State Teachers Publication is possible for another.

Do not forget that we have been promised a file for cuts and a separate office for the Obiter.

Best of luck and good wishes.

Don't forget to put my name on the Exchange List.

About These Final Exams

This last week has not been the first time that all of us have had to go through an ordeal known as the "final exams." Without even a hasty review by the professor concerning the work covered during the previous period, the poor pupil crams the night before the test for all he's worth. Then, after a few hours of restless and nervous sleep he dashes to the class to take (like a dose of bitter medicine) the dreaded exam. Strange as it seems, the cramming method is not what it is cracked up to be, for, twenty-four hours after taking the test the victim knows only as much as he knew twenty-four hours before taking the test.

The proper attitude plus the best use of one's time just isn't present in such a case. The pupil who performs his duties faithfully and honestly will not meet unpleasant situations in relation to his studies. Cut out the "last minute stuff" and put a fair amount of concentrated study upon your daily assignments—result—the school will be a much better and a more delightful place for both the pupil and the teacher.

Perhaps you say that this does not apply to the departing Seniors, but are not they going into another still larger school—the great School of Life? No matter who you are, try the new experiment of being prepared—and be convinced of its value.

Commencement

The members of the Class of '34 are about to complete the happiest and most joyful years of their lives. They are about to leave the sheltering wing of their Alma Mater to fill their notch in the world of life. After four years of associations, the parting from classmates and teachers and the breaking of the ties of friendships is a very sad occasion, but the world needs such well educated people to help solve its many problems of every day life.

We are sorry to see you go, for you have left many worthwhile and permanent contributions which, we hope, will act as a goal and will inspire us to greater heights during the next scholastic year. However, we are also very glad and eager to see you enter this wide world, and we are certain you will meet it unflinchingly and will do your best to carry out the aims and ideals received from B. S. T. C. So "bon voyage" Seniors; loads of luck, heaps of happiness, and solid success is for you from the rest of us.

Which Are You?

"Wish-Bone People."—They hope for, they long for, they wish for and sigh—they want this to come, but are not willing to try.

"Funny-Bone People"—They laugh, grin and giggle, smile, deride, and say, "if work is a joke sure they'll give it a try."

"Jaw-Bone People"—They scold, jaw and splutter, they froth, rave and cry. They are long on the talk, but short on the try.

"Back-Bone People"—They strike from the shoulder, and they never say die. They are conquerors in life, for they know how to try.

From Other Colleges

Students at Shippensburg State Teachers College will conduct classes in arithmetic and general science at the Civilian Conservation Camp near Shippensburg. A camp newspaper under the direction of two of the students will be published.

The May Day procession at Shippensburg will be led by Uncle Sam and Miss Columbia. They will be followed by thirteen girls representing the thirteen original states.

Not only do Freshmen have a Kid Party, but the graduating Seniors at Clarion State Teachers College are planning a Kid Party.

"Editorials have been abolished in the Asland College paper because of the belief that the editor's ideas are no better than those of the student body and that they do not represent the policy of the paper."

Lafayette College no longer grants a Bachelor of Science degree. The Bachelor of Arts degree has been made to cover that field.

The University of California has a novel way of stopping cheating. When a student observes one of his classmates cheating, he immediately starts tapping his feet on the floor; this tapping is taken up by the whole class and results in the cessation of cheating.

One student at California State Teachers College can cut a postage stamp into forty-nine parts to make a jig-saw puzzle.

Gleanings

After geography class the other day, Dan Jones started talking about the rise of the raisin industry in Southern California, but the next day he was not so enthusiastic after class for he was in a fog when Dr. Russel was talking about the rise and fall of temperatures off the coast of Los Angeles.

The President's score in the voting stood at 66.19 per cent, as compared with 57.32 per cent in the 1932 election.

(N. F. S. Satis Verborum

Many years ago, in the province of Minerva, four wise men were summoned to the court of the consul to select a new counselor for the Emperor's son. Sage and incorruptible were these men, each wise in the lore of his office. By popular acclaim, they had been selected to aid the consul in choosing a counselor who would bring honor and glory to the province.

And so, at the season of spring, they met in solemn conclave. The consul, grey, venerable, and sagacious, resplendent in the robes of his office, asked the blessing of the gods on their purpose.

"Oh, Athena," he intoned, "Goddess of wisdom, protectress of the mind, thou knowest the magnitude of our task. Guide our weak and feeble minds to a wise and noble decision. Grant that our personal prejudices be cast aside, and that we may render sapient and worthy service to our people. Magnum est vegetal parsimonia," he concluded thoughtfully.

"Worthy confreres," said the consul, addressing the wisemen, "the object of our meeting is in your minds. This golden casket which I now place before you contains the supplications of those who would counsel the Emperor's son. What should be the order of our procedure?"

The wise man at the end of the bench struggled to his feet. "With all humility," he pronounced, "let us examine judiciously and impartially each supplication. Let the most worthy candidate be the counselor of the Emperor's son."

"A most sage suggestion, venerable colleague," the consul said proudly. "You do honor to your office. Your words shall be our guide. Truly Athena is with us this evening."

"The author of this supplication," said the consul, reading from a scroll which he had taken from the casket, "would teach the son of our Emperor the literature of our people and the most remarkable deductions of Aristotle."

"From whence comes this candidate?" asked the wiseman with the bald head.

"The home of this worthy man is in the adjoining province," the consul answered, reading the scroll carefully.

An unanimous growl of rage arose. "Destroy the supplication," the wise men shouted in unison. "We want only local candidates!"

The consul beamed down upon them. "Truly, my brothers, Athena is guiding your thoughts," he exclaimed. "We shall consider, therefore, only those supplications from our own province."

"This supplication," said the consul, reading from another scroll, "is inscribed by Aruns."

"Ah, he is well known to me," said the wise man with the bald head. "Only last week did he cheerfully help to displace my chariot from the mud in which it floundered. It would be proper and decorous of us to consider his supplication. Besides, as 'tis well known, his father will be our next senator to Rome."

"And this supplication," said the consul, reading from another scroll, "comes from Marius. His instructors speak well of him."

"He is a worthy youth," the wise man with the coffee stains on his toga said. "His father did earnestly suggest me for praetor. We must consider his supplication, worthy colleagues."

"He can, however, teach the son of our Emperor only the tongues of foreign peoples," the consul added.

"'Tis of no importance," said the wise man with the soiled toga. "Such knowledge will be valuable in our wars. Besides, I hold only the highest regards for his father."

"Only one more supplication comes from our province," concluded the consul, reading from the last scroll. "This one was inscribed by Flavian. He asks us—"

"Enough," said the wise man who was writing the minutes. "He is our man. His father did lend me a thousand—"

College Loses Eleven Outstanding Athletes

Captain Jaffin:

Speedy, crafty, and a good leader. "Freddie" demonstrated his ability to take it by spending four years with the pigskin and the same number with the cinders. A fast man indeed. His time in the halls will go down in the books as a record.

"Soapy" Sopchak:

The cutest little cut-up B. S. T. C. has ever had. A real guy on and off the field. Mike showed his mettle in football scrimmages, likewise as a "lobbyist."

"Rex" Turse:

Our College "bad-boy"—witty, humorous and a hard worker. Always held his ground at that guard position. His motto—"they shall not pass unless I sass!"

"Shelly" Shelhamer:

Quiet, friendly—a pal. A ball in one hand, glove on the other, foot in the box, eyes on the batter—"Shelly's" delight. He enjoyed competition as was evidenced by his tossing of the javelin and putting of the shot.

"Ches" Chesney:

His humor and good nature were outstanding. Always willing—a scrapper on the football squad. Finally, he's settled down.

"Doc" Evangelista:

The fellow who carried a tonic in his smile. A live-wire and friend of all. Always willing to give assistance to the needy. Some boy!

"Jim" Karnes:

Every inch "Gentleman Jim"—he loved his Alma Mater—quiet—lovable sort of a chap—never gave up—dependable always.

Arden Roan:

A true friend—always an important cog in cross country circles—a pluggger and promoter.

J. Shollenberger:

"Silent John"—earnest and sincere—track and cross country found him always trying—his spirit is admirable.

"Ernie" Valente:

"A real find"—an asset to the athletic and social organizations of

"No! Marius!"

"No! Aruns!"

"Worthy gentlemen," the consul pleaded. "Restrain yourselves. Surely we can amicably select one of these worthy men."

"Most assuredly we can," said the wise man with the bald head. "We shall consider the supplication of Aruns!"

"We shall not!" the other wise man roared.

"Gentlemen! Gentlemen!" the consul entreated. "Let us settle this problem peacefully. Besides, I must soon leave. My lodge meets in half the hour. What shall we do?"

"Invoke the aid of the Fates," said the wise man who had been asleep.

"Gentlemen, the very solution," the consul exclaimed. "Let us cast lots. Let the winner be the counselor to the son of the Emperor!"

"Tis well," the wise men agreed. "Quod erat demonstrandum!"

Trackmen Complete Successful Season

Showing continued improvement throughout the season, the Buchheit track and cinder squad completed a very successful schedule by placing fourth in the annual state meet held at West Chester.

The Huskies came through with wins over Bucknell University, Lock Haven, East Stroudsburg and Shippensburg.

New material strengthened the team as did the "polishing off" of veteran athletes. Although several members will be lost to the squad through graduation, Coach Buchheit has sufficient reserve material to uphold the standard set by the current squad during the 1935 season.

Members of the team are: Shelhamer, (C), Jaffin, Karnes, Roan, Bertoldi, Menapace, Blass, Cohen, Elder, Howell, Karshner, Lau, Line, Litwhiler, Mericle, Parr, Schroppe, Sell, Webb, Young, and Wilson.

This is the first year in which intensive training has been followed in this branch of athletics. The student body salutes those connected therein.

Kafchinski Playing with Charleston

Kafchinski, now playing minor league baseball under the name of Cobb, is wielding the bat in fine fashion for the Charleston, West Virginia team, according to the newspaper, Sporting News.

In the first two games of the current season, Cobb is credited with four hits in ten times at bat, including one double.

Harrisburg — The Pennsylvania Board of Presidents of State Teachers Colleges held its May meeting at the college at Kutztown and paid tribute to Dr. A. C. Rothermel, who retires this summer after thirty-five years as president of the State Teachers College there.

Dr. James N. Rule, Superintendent of Public Instruction and chairman of the Board of Presidents, gave the principal address at a college assembly in honor of the retiring president. Teachers College presidents participating in the program included: Dr. Landis Tanger, Millersville; Dr. J. Linwood Eisenberg, Slippery Rock; Dr. Norman W. Cameron, West Chester; Dr. Francis B. Haas, Bloomsburg; Dr. Albert Lindsay Rowland, Shippensburg.

Dr. Rothermel retires at the close of the current year, after forty-eight years of active service in the public school system of Pennsylvania. The program at Kutztown was the first time the presidents of all State Teachers Colleges assembled together at one of the institutions to honor its president. Dr. Rothermel is to be succeeded during the summer by Dr. Q. A. W. Rohrbach, of the School of Education Faculty, University of Pittsburgh.

DRAMATIC CLUB HEADED BY YOUNG

Tuesday, May 15, was the last regular meeting of the Bloomsburg Players for the semesters of 1933 and 1934. The meeting was well attended, and officers for the first semester of 1934 and 1935 were elected.

Bernard Young was elected president, and the faith of the club was not ill-placed. Young is Editor of the Maroon and Gold for next year and has taken a major part in the athletic, social, and scholastic life of our college.

Anna Jean Laubach was elected secretary of the club. Miss Laubach will be a Sophomore and so far she has shown marked ability in her college career.

For the office of treasurer, the club chose another Sophomore, John Supchinsky. Supchinsky has been active in the various athletics of the college and has won his spurs in the recent play production "School for Scandal."

The retiring officers are: President, Dan Jones; Vice President, William Morgan; Secretary, Jane Manhart; and Treasurer, Bernard J. Young.

The present year of activity has seen many new members added to the Dramatic Fraternity, Alpha Psi Omega. The installation of new members took place last evening in the college auditorium.

ANNUAL MAY DAY PLAY DAY SUCCESS

500 People From Training School and College Participate in Dual Event

On May 16, B. S. T. C. held its first Play Day—May Day. Of the twenty high schools receiving invitations, twelve sent groups of girls. Of the eight color squads, the yellows won by having the highest point score in all the activities: bat ball, dodge ball, baseball, relays, tennis, quoits and croquet.

Over 500 people from the Training School and College took part in the activities. At 3:30 the procession opened the program, led by the May Queen, Gene Britton and her court.

With the Queen were Guy Hutchison, as Prince Charming, and the ladies-in-waiting: Marjory North, Arlene Carl, Ethel Heistand, and Anne Shortess. The Prince's attendant were George Hemingway and William Duy.

During the one and one-half hour program of dances, a crowd which more than filled the bleachers, grouped around the participants. The college girls gave three dances and each grade of the Training School presented a dance.

The program of the afternoon came to a climax with the winding of the May poles by the college students and training school pupils. The scene was very colorful as all the college girls were dressed in spring gowns in pastel shades.

Under the direction of Miss McCammon, the seventeen May poles were wound in many beautiful designs. During this time, the Queen and her court left the field.

LEAVE NECKING OUT IN 9 GOOD POINTS OF BOY FRIEND

Widewater, Mass.—Girl students at the State Teachers College here have a list of nine qualities they like to find in their "boy friends."

Without amplification, they follow: He must be—

A gentleman. Good manners are necessary to keep girls interested in a man.

A good dresser. A taste in clothes that leans to proper selection of colors and color schemes is far better than wearing expensive clothes that do not match.

A good sport. He must be willing to mix with a crowd and bend to their wills once in a while. But he can't be a "yes man."

Capable of playing bridge, dancing, swimming and other sports in which a girl can indulge.

Capable of giving the girls a little bit of a line when the occasion demands, but not a long one.

Good looking. Not handsome; but well-featured.

An honorable chap who does not neck, necking is taboo.

The type that gives a wee good night kiss to a girl that he is going with. (There's no harm in that, the girls said.)

A man's man. An athlete, two-fisted and popular is the kind to invite to a social function if a co-ed wants to have an escort that most of her classmates will be envious of.

Y. W. C. A.

Violet Brown took charge of the song service of the Y. W. C. A. held last Wednesday evening in Room 22, Science Hall. This was the last meeting of this nature to be held this year. Next Wednesday evening, instead of the regular meeting, the girls are planning to hold a Pajama Party at nine o'clock on the second floor lobby of Waller Hall. This will be in the form of a farewell party, at which time games will be played and refreshments served.

Award Point System Adopted by the Student Council For the Current Year STATE TEACHERS COLLEGE, BLOOMSBURG, PA.

For some time past the Student Council has been considering some means of recognizing outstanding service by students to the Institution. At a regular meeting of the Student Council held in November, 1933, the question of awards to students who have made outstanding contributions to the college life by serving as editor, class president, leader in dramatics, music, and other worthy extra-curricular activities was discussed in detail.

As a result of this discussion, a Chairman of an Award Committee, Mark Peifer, was appointed, with power to select the other members of the committee. The members of the committee are as follows: Fred Jaffin, Grace Foote, Anne Quigley.

After many weeks of consideration, a definite point system for selecting candidates for service awards was adopted. All extra-curricular activities were divided first into major, minor, and sub-minor groups. The points are accumulated for the entire four years. The citizenship of the candidates must be approved by the proper Dean. The award selected is a gold key showing the Bloomsburg Husky and the word "Service."

Each activity has been weighted by a system of points as follows:

DUKE MORRIS AND HIS ORCHESTRA AT COLLEGE FRIDAY

Dance lovers in B. S. T. C. are eagerly awaiting the arrival of Duke Morris and his famous orchestra of Penn State on Friday when he will be featured at the Senior Ball.

As an undergraduate at Penn State, Morris organized his band in 1928 as the Varsity Ten Orchestra, but after augmenting his ensemble to twelve men, he abandoned the use of that name. Under the name of the Varsity Ten Orchestra, this organization established an enviable reputation for itself in this section.

Morris's spectacular novelty numbers, in which he features Paul Filer, diminutive trumpeter, and Phil Grant, drummer, have met with overwhelming applause at every engagement. Jim Hornbeck, who has been with Morris since he organized five years ago, is featured as baritone soloist and is also responsible for the scoring of many of the colorful arrangements which the Morris ensemble plays. At the present time this organization is being acclaimed as the outstanding collegiate band in the east, and because of new attendance records which Morris has set at recent engagements, he is considered one of the music world's coming names.

DUKE MORRIS

Kampus Kulm

(Editor's Note: One-half hour before deadline, the creator of Kampus Kulm crawled into Maroon and Gold office and whispered "I don't have copy and I don't have ideas so I can't do my column this time." There is nothing an editor can do in a situation like that but smile and say, "We'll I'm sorry you had to be worried with it at all. I'll take care of it. Just you run along and take a nap.")

Once before I wrote a column, but my English teacher told me to continue with washing the blackboards.

Jerusalem the Golden I have an idea—Here goes. If Buchheit were writing this column, here's what he'd say "Well—ah—er—ah—er—it sure was a great game—ah—er—well I guess the boys will win—ah—ah."

If Kreitzer were writing it he'd say "By gum, if any fool woman thinks I'm going to sit here on a hot afternoon and chase keys around a typewriter she's been kidding herself!"

Wonder where the idea originated of signing year-books. Phooey, the only two people in the entire class that say what they mean are Bill Young and Chud, and if you ask me after viewing a few samples of their gem-like truths I prefer the soapy slush of the other 213 or whatever it is.

So the Seniors have gone big town. Nice to have a band imported from another campus. The honest inside story is that Duke Morris is pretty good in every one else's estimation but Penn Staters. The old story of the prophet not being without renown save in his own land.

Talking of inside stories, you'd be surprised how many "straight" stories there were to the effect that Seniors would be excused from classes on Wednesday noon. Would be interesting to write a history of stories that have been circulated from time to time as Real Things, such as the yearly tale of a convention around each vacation time which will add ten or fifteen days to the too short vacation.

Rutabagas? Gee that's a gorgeous idea. Turnips to the Senior Program Committee that saw fit to eliminate the class roll from the leather programs in order to insert a whole string of committees. Turnips, I say. Sure I know. I'm just angry cause I wasn't on a committee. Sure.

Turnips to people who even at the close of the school year still insist on sending stuff to the Morning Press first. Mashed turnips without butter.

Rutabagas to North Hall crew that decided to be Kings for an evening last Sunday and cut high school capers and scared Sonny Andross out of two years' growth with their yowlings.

Snow white lilies to — well no one is worth snow white lilies—Gardenias to Miss Rich, Miss Murphy and Miss Moore for the royal party they threw to the fourth floor girls.

Faculty looked rather snozy stepping high, wide and handsome at the dance Saturday night.

We don't know what to give Nelson but we presume it should be a book on speech making and how to get applause from a crowd.

If we keep this up we won't have to wait until Tuesday morning to go home. Wonder if in case of "accident" there is a refund on the five dollars.
