Swing Band In the Making

Twelve College Men To Provide Musical Entertainment

Perhaps you have heard the distant strains of "Anchors Aweigh" or the "Star Spangled Banner" attempting to come from Science Hall on Wednesday nights. Well, it's our new college military band practicing up for campus athletic events.

College men make up the massed talent behind the music racks. With a few intermissions over the Christmas leave, the band has been practicing every Wednesday night and is doing the best it can with only 12 players (a proper band needs 30 men) but after a canvass of every room, the band has its maximum number.

Both terms are represented in the band: Pstrak, baritone; Hodge, sax; Terhune and Hantz, clarinet; Wright, trombone; Bisbing, bass drum; Gunnison, Walsh, snare drums; Ruldoph, cymbals; Nickerson, Posoda, trumpet.

This congregation of famed musicians hope to organize a swing band as soon as Hodge has that G-sharp fixed on his sax. They hope to get Ghezzi, that man who really sent everyone in the intermission of one dance, on the electric guitar.

Eight men are needed, but so far, there are only seven. Another sax is in demand, so if you play one, don't hesitate to notify Russ Nickerson.

"More informal dances" is a popular request, so here's hoping this swing-band gets started.

Pianist Appears in Assembly Recital

Robert Whitney, American pianist, appeared before the college assembly in a recital on January 17. He had been here previously as accompanist to Nelson Sabin, here on November 15.

Miss Johnston Books "Mr. & Mrs. North"; Presentation on Feb. 2

Rehearsals under the direction of Miss Alice Johnston are now in progress for the presentation of "Mr. and Mrs. North," by Owen Davis. This thrilling murder mystery is laid in Greenwich, New York City in the North apartment arouses the curiosity of the audience as to "whodunit?"

The situation is very clever and very amusing and keeps everyone guessing the plot. (Incidentally, there have been threats of murder to those who reveal the true facts of the case.)

This play which had a long run on Broadway in 1942 is not to be confused with the radio program of the same name.

Those people participating in this production are: A/S Douglass Jackson A/S Carl Crosby, A/S George Ballerstein, A/S Baron Pittenber,

B-Club Holds Chili Supper

The January meeting of the B-Club was held Monday in the form of a chili con carne supper in the Science Hall social rooms at 5:30. The chief chef of the evening was Marylou Fenstermaker who was ably assisted by Hazel Keeler, Frances Saunders, Julia Welliver, and Jacqueline Schaffer. Too many cooks did not spoil the soup.

Following the meal there was a business meeting. The President, Jacqueline Shaffer, read the club constitution and the girls discussed certain sections of it.

The B-Club will meet regularly the third Monday of each month at 5:30

On Friday, January 26, the Navy men and the civilian students are going to hold a semi-formal dance in the Centennial Gymnasium.

Music will be furnished from 8:00 to 12:00 P.M. by Willard Shillinger's orchestra. Now appearing at the Hotel Casey in Scranton, Shillinger is quite popular with music lovers in this section. Vocalist Alevyn Beddoe will take the spotlight with dreamy songs that will send the "sentimentalists" right out of the world. For those active and peppy jitterbugs, "boogie and swing music" will fill the hall. In the way of a little refreshment, punch will be served in the lobby during the evening.

The gymnasium will be decorated in a patriotic Navy setting so that all thought of gym class may be forgotten and the desirable atmosphere will prevail.

The Navy chairman in charge of preparations is John Lydon, with Eudora Berlew as chairman for the college. Their assistants are Phyllis Schrader, John Walker, Bernice Gabuzda, Michael Remetz, Irving Felsstadt, Jacqueline Shaffer, Dorothy Kocher, John Zagoudis.

This committee is doing a fine job so that everything will be ready for the enjoyment of the entire college community at the Navy and College Dance.

Colleges Seek Emergency Aid

A resolution asking Congress to extend and amend the Selective Service Act to handle all emergencies that may arise pending the restoration of peace and the return of our armed forces was passed January 15 by delegates to a convention of the Association of American Colleges.

The Group also adopted a resolution pledging full cooperation in maintaining a program of adequate military defense.

In another resolution, the delegates, representing 600 colleges, said universal compulsory military training was justified only on grounds of national defense, and opposed it as a health or

Twelve Things To Remember

Sometime or other all of us have heard long lists of things we should attempt to remember and desirable traits that should govern our actions. Take, for instance, the value of time. How many times have we heard someone say "Time is too precious—don't waste it!"? At such a time, we usually laugh and continue to procrastinate. The fortunate few who are able to take advantage of their spare moments invariably benefit by this practice.

Secondly, consider the success of perseverance. No one ever made a success of life until he was able to apply that "extra push" that sent him over the goal line.

The pleasure of working occupies the third rung in the ladder of "things to remember." In a democracy like that of America, every man has the right to engage in a suitable occupation that he himself desires. His vocation too which may require a great deal of work has been chosen by him and striving to make it a success should be a pleasure.

Next comes the dignity of simplicity. Nothing seems to satisfy the heart of the American people more than the simple things of life. Whether he be a powerful magistrate, a man of moderate means, or a gentleman of low pecuniary facilities, his philosophy will include a pattern stressing the dignity of simplicity.

The fifth rung requires little explanation. From the time a child is born, his parents begin to teach him the worth of character. A desirable character is one thing all of us should seek to obtain and retain.

The power of kindness fills the next position. It has often been stated that the only time people really enjoy living is when they are being kind and considerate to the less fortunate.

In seventh place is the influence of example. Once again our democratic way of living enables us to set and follow examples. Instead of finding out everything for ourselves, we are privileged to the extent of benefitting by the examples of others.

On the eighth rung is the obligation of duty. Now more than ever, during this time of war, each one of us is obliged to fulfill his part in the fight for continued democratic ways. Even in seemingly unimportant things such as children's play, his obligation of duty is prevalent. It is a wise man indeed who knows the wisdom of economy. Vast economy now will prevent a world-wide depression later.

The virtue of patience occupies the tenth rung. The "patience of Job" has often been called a human virtue and this is just another one of the things to be remembered that pertains to our present-day life.

In eleventh place—the improvement of talent. One of the aims of education is to allow the individual to realize and develop his own potentialities. God gave us talents for a purpose and we should be ever striving to enrich them.

At the top of the ladder is the joy of originating. Such things as art and music must be original, but the conventional things of life are more interesting if they are presented in various and original ways.

The old philosophy that "a chain is as strong as its weakest link" very definitely applies to the "ladder of things to remember."

The Challenge Of Teaching

A Major in the Army recently said that the great promise of public education "stirs my blood more than bugles!" And the head of the United States Chamber of Commerce avers that "in wartime or peace, public education is vital to our national strength and progress.

Already, amid the wreckage of war, the re-building of the world commences. In this prospect — vibrant with the hope of humanity—lies a challenge to the best minds in America—the challenge to set up a program of education that will not only meet the present urgent needs of youth, but so moving and dynamic in its impact on the new generation as to make forever impossible a repetition of the holocaust of war.

The moving force in this world-sweeping enterprise is the teaching profession—a profession which now is calling for young men and women who realize the full significance of public education in the social order, who are keenly interested in young people, and who see in the profession of educa-

Why Teachers Get Gray

Just a few lines to those people who read this column last week and who still think they want to carry out their noble intentions.

The valuable material found below is strictly for your benefit. If you have any questions regarding its source ask Shirley Wolfe, Mary Lou Fenstermaker or Bernard Kane.

And now for this week's problem—Why Student Teachers get gray? You get up every morning at six o'clock. You slave every evening until 12. You correct homework papers until you are blue in the face. You get up in front of the class—a group of little brainstorms. You ask them what is meant by an "outline", and the boy with the highest I.Q. tells you that it is a type of line used in fishing!

Of course, when you begin teaching you are supposed to know all of the answers. (Be sure you do!) Never count on learning anything from the students. They will tell you anything—Even that hotels run on the European Plan make arrangements for polishing your shoes. All you have to do is leave them outside of your door when you retire at night.

One of the more open-minded student teachers had a chance to spend a week-end in the big city. Remembering the bit of advice picked up in the classroom, he decided to make use of it. So, he carefully placed his only pair of shoes outside the door just before calling it a day. The next morning at 10:00 he awakened and opening the door to retrieve his shoes, he found—what do you suppose? His shoes! Sans polish. See what I mean by knowing all the answers?

GRUESOME TWOSOME

At an auction sale at Kansas S. T. C., the auctioneer offered a date with Ed Scott A/S to the highest bidder. The bidding was hot and furious but finally boiled down to one; and when the lucky bidder arose to pay the clerk for the purchase, the audience was astonished to see that Jack Hamalian A/S had purchased the services of Ed Scott A/S for a date. Hope you had an exciting evening, fellows!

Lena Horne, glamorous star of the stage and screen, recently visited the campus of Tuskegee Institute. The students were also entertained by the Southernaires, popular colored quartet on the N. B. C. network.

Date Bureau

An ideal system for getting the students and navy together for social events was initiated at Kansas S. T. C. They conducted a date bureau for their Christmas dance and got everybody "fixed up." Wonder if we could install a similar system here for our dances.

Dr. Leslie P. Hill, president of Cheyney S. T. C. recently delivered a speech outlining race prejudice cures. He pointed out that the earth can hardly expect enduring peace unless everyone who has the care of small children instills in them a loving, tolerant attitude toward other groups.

Here's something that was seen in the paper. "Pun" my word, it's not so bad. Two marines who were stranded on a barren island for three months with a Ford V-8 were finally rescued and returned to the States. Upon being questioned as to what they used for food, one marine replied, "It was a Ford V-8." —Girard News

Sprited Husky Quintet Subdues Bucknell 51-52

Drive by Huskies and Fouls Are Featured in Thrilling Hard-fought Game

Out to avenge a defeat dished out by Bucknell earlier in the season, the Navy-manned Maroon and Gold team accomplished their mission Saturday night, handing Bucknell their third defeat of the season to the tune of 56-52. The game was fast with the ball moving up and down the court in rapid fashion.

Bucknell Opens Scoring

As in the previous encounter with the boys from Lewisburg, they started the scoring by ringing in eight points to Bloomsburg's one at the opening of the quarter. At this point the only laxity of the game appeared with Bucknell showing some fancy passing but failing to penetrate the Husky defense to score. While holding the Bisons, the Bloom five managed to whittle their advantage down to one point. From here on both teams started to score freely, using a fast break, leaving one back on defense.

The fight shown by Zurner and Hmelnicky beneath the basket helped the Huskies keep close to the tall Bison quintet, who certainly had an advantage of height centering around their high-point man of the evening, Williams. Using his height to advantage, Williams aided by Heddings, kept snaring rebounds off the boards which kept the Bloom scoring down, bringing the half-time totals to 31-27 in favor of the hilltoppers of Bloomsburg.

Lead Seesaws Frequently

Bucknell erased our lead and forged ahead by two points on layups by McDaniels. Saul Mariaschin evened it up with a set shot from fairly well back. A foul shot made by Swarner placed Bucknell in the lead again only to have Mariaschin retaliate with a free throw to tie the contest at 34-34.

After hectic play under both baskets, the ball was brought out and McDaniels threw in another two points putting the Bisons ahead 40-37. Another long set shot by Saul followed by two free throws dropped in by Hmelnicky gave us the lead which we never relinquished during the remainder of the game. Out of the hard play quite a few players held personal fouls against them. Remetz made a free throw giving us a 42-40 advantage at the end of the third quarter.

Three Huskies Evicted

On a beautiful feed by Mariaschin, Klinefelter made the scoreboard read 44-40. A foul shot made by Zurner raised it to 45. Heddings came thru with a tap underneath the basket to tighten the score. Mariaschin's set shot closely followed by Williams' two free throws kept the gap unchanged.

With the score 48-45 and five minutes left to play, Zurner was out of the game on personals. No sooner had Baker come on the floor, when Bucknell's star, Williams, left us with one slim point margin, caging a basket.

TEAM SUMMARY

Scranton and Olmstead Present Biggest Block To Winning Streak

With the Huskies rolling along on the strength of a three-game winning streak, and hopes for an outstanding season soaring with their sparkling victory over Bucknell, it seems a good time to pause for a look around at the opposition ahead and for the records—a quick glance at the already behind.

Coach Buchheit's charges have come a long way since that first night in December when Indiantown Gap punched out a 44-40 victory. Given another crack at the soldiers, the Maroon and Gold could probably gain a full measure of revenge. But the loss is not a particularly black blotch on the record, because the Army team has racked up a fine record of eleven wins against only two losses, and look to be tops in their service circuit.

At present, Scranton University and Olmstead A. B. are the biggest Klinefelter missed a foul shot but Williams didn't, knotting the count at 48-48. Remetz, tied with Williams for the evening's scoring honors, broke the tie by dropping in two shots from the foul line. Hmelnicky drew his fifth personal, fouling Williams who made the score read 50-49 leaving two minutes to play. Schedler replaced Hmelnicky.

A well-timed pass by Baker to Mariaschin who made a difficult shot put us well ahead with the time running out. Mike Remetz again came through with two field goals in rapid order, dribbling through the entire Bucknell outfit to score on one and give us firm lead. At this point Mariaschin also drew his fifth personal, Williams again being the recipient. Roudabush replaced Mariaschin with seconds to go. The gun ending the game sounded, but not before the Bisons scored, bringing their total to 52 against our 56.

Saturday night's victory gives us a string of three in a row and an average of .666. The Huskies played heads-up ball against a good aggregation from Bucknell being sparked by Mariaschin and Remetz.

Musial Bows Out

Uncle Sam Issues Call for Star Outfielder

When the world's champion St. Louis Cardinals step out on the diamond this '45 season, they will be minus the service of one Stanley Frank Musial—Sam's got him. He is scheduled to depart from his hometown for duty in the United States Navy this week, leaving behind a wife and small child, not mentioning a brilliant baseball career.

Musial and all of his twenty-two years, practically just started his major league career. The past season was his second complete one in big-time ball but even this brief stay did not take away any laurels due him. Stan's ability to club and snare the agate which seemed to come natural, placed him on All-star teams both years and brought him a batting championship in his freshman year, hitting .374. During the 1944 season he was runner-up to "Dixie" Walker, batting .347.

Fate it seems took a part in this boy's life through a freak accident forcing him to roam the outfield. Stan alternated between the slab and the outer garden till he tried a shoe-string catch which he never made. This resulted in a bad arm nullifying his pitching ability leaving one spot on the field open—outfield. After nursing his arm, he leaped from Class C ball to the majors, finishing the '42 season with the Cardinals, hitting well above .400. Musial was branded a "natural" and found little difficulty proving the statement with his play.

We say good luck to you, Stanley Musial, and may you come back soon to help keep our national pastime on top.

blocks to an extended winning streak that plausibly could carry to the season's end. The "Tommys" are not rated high but have proved themselves dangerous on occasion and are not to be underestimated. Marshall College nipped Bucknell in overtime, and two nights later was hard pressed to stop Scranton by a 46-44 count in one of the Purple's more inspired contests.

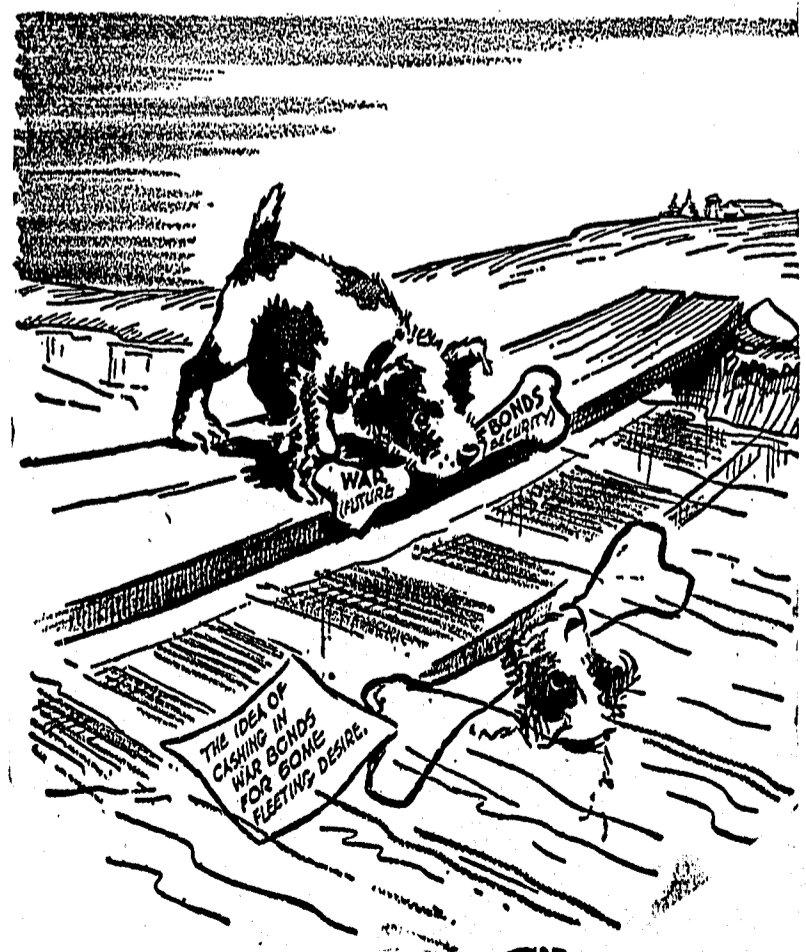

Olmstead is another team to be feared. The Flyers were dropped by Bucknell 37-36 last week (despite what the program reads) and have a center who will dwarf even Williams, the Bucknell long boy.

Ithica College bounced back this week to trounce St. Bonaventure 73-47 and proved themselves of fair caliber. The Ithicans will appear here for a return game late in the season. The 52-48 score of the first game does not indicate a definite superiority of the Huskies. The Ithica encounter may prove to be one of the highlights of the year.

The rest of the schedule does not show any outstanding competition—Stroudsburg, Kutztown, and Westchester have all been struggling along without notable success. Stroudsburg has the best record of the three, but was upset by Kutztown last week. Barring an upset, the Huskies should roll on until the final game closes the books.

Sailors used to whistle because they liked the sound of it. Now they whistle because they like the looks of it.

Sorry you haven't heard from me but you know—I suppose I'll never change.

Received a copy of the Maroon and Gold today. Please change my address so I'll be sure to get it sooner. I see that Harry Reitz wrote. I lost contact with the chap. I'd give a day's pay to have him near me for a few old talks. Swell fella—Harry.

Bernie, I'll appreciate very much if you would send me news on Harry. I'd like to hear about him.

Please give everyone my love, especially my good friend Miss Johnston.

P.S. Must close—only five minutes to get to work. I'll write more again. Here's some startling news: I'm engaged and will probably marry come the 21.

Alone in Classic Rome

Within the last three days I've received three different letters from the college—one containing the Homecoming notice and two of them the "Maroon and Gold." Though they may be late, they are, nevertheless, welcome, and I wish to thank whoever is responsible for their coming.

I haven't written for quite some time, now, hy? I don't know. It's just that there isn't much to write about, aside from the fact that my hours are quite long, at present.

But it won't be too long before I am, I hope, in Bloomsburg once more. And as for college—well, I think maybe I will do a little better the next time, for I'm planning to finish when I get back.

In my latest travels, I've been to Rome, and believe me, there aren't many more buildings any place more beautiful than there are there. Got to mention the ruins. I went on a tour of the city, myself, so I saw nearly all of the new and old places.

Right now, my favorite sport, basketball, is about to start, and I'll take an active part in that. We have one gym already turned into a court, and two more, nearly completed, under a canvas top.

That's about all for this time. I would appreciate your writing to me—that is—if you have any time to spare.

His engagement to Florence Faust, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Henry K. Faust of Ambler was announced sometime in September.

Miss Faust is a graduate of the class of 1944 and is a teacher in the commercial department of West Reading High School, West Reading, Pennsylvania.
