College Student Body To Enjoy Ballad Concert

Passing between classes students have in all probability noticed the table outside of the Social Room—the Red Cross Contribution Center of the school.

The records show that about 200 students have taken out $1.00 memberships or more. With the contributions of both students and faculty the fund is now approximately $350.

There are still many students who have not contributed to this worthy cause. IF YOU HAVE NOT PAID YOUR MEMBERSHIP, DO SO AS SOON AS POSSIBLE.

Dr. Henry Klonower Stresses Need for Teachers-in-Service

The great need for in-service teacher education during the next ten years has been stressed by Dr. Henry Klonower, Director of Teacher Education and Certification of the Department of Public Instruction, Harrisburg, Pennsylvania.

Dr. Klonower has released data which indicates the number of teachers holding college certificates employed in districts under county superintendents in 1943-44. The figures indicate that there are counties in which only 25% of such teachers hold college certificates and at the top of the range the highest county has 60% which hold college certificates. The percentage for this county is 58.6%.

In another chart which indicates the per cent of elementary school teachers holding college certificates of all elementary teachers employed, the general range is much lower with one county having as low as 4.9% holding college certificates and the highest county having a percentage of 46.2%. The percentage for this county is 39.8%.

Dr. Klonower points out that the State has reached "the half-way goal" in its teacher education program and that it has taken approximately twenty-five years to achieve a 50% college level of proportion for teachers now in public schools.

Cecile Hamilton Contributes to Aviation Fund

Recent Commencement Speaker Furthers Experimental Courses

The 'Aviation Fund' at Bloomsburg State Teachers College has been the recipient of its first contribution. In a gracious gesture to the experimental aviation programs which have been pioneered at the local college Miss Cecile Hamilton, assistant aviation editor of the New York Herald Tribune, recent commencement speaker, has returned her uncashed honorarium check with the request that it be used in some connection with aviation at the college. Miss Hamilton, in returning the money, requested President Harvey A. Andruss to determine "how it can best be used in promoting aviation at the Bloomsburg State Teachers' College."

Miss Hamilton was an interested observer last July of the experimental aviation laboratory school conducted by the college when, for the first time, boys and girls above the age of fourteen had an opportunity to participate in an organized program of flight and ground instruction. Another feature of the laboratory was the joint participation of high school teachers from four eastern states. The high school boys and girls in the course came from nine eastern seaboard states. A similar aviation program for high school students above fourteen and high school teachers of aeronautics will be conducted this summer.

Science Club Program Features Excursions

At the last meeting of the Science Club in the November trimester, officers were elected for the present trimester. These are: Jean Dickinson, President; Richard Grimm A/S, Vice-President; Althea Parsell, Secretary; May Klinger, Treasurer; and Violet Weller, Program Chairman. The first meeting of the trimester was held March 15. One of the highlights of this trimester is the all day field trip taken by the club every year to some point of interest such as Kitchen Creek Falls. Many other visits to various business establishments such as the newspaper office or florists are being planned.

ing to send to refugee families.

Many of the girls have been knitting booties and lapel pins.

Club members are planning to have a party in which they will dye Easter Eggs for baskets to be distributed at the Bloomsburg Hospital.

Earl Spicer Will Present Program on Wednesday, March 21

Bloomsburg Players Carry on Work

Miss Johnston, sponsor and director of the Bloomsburg Players has a leave of absence to teach and study at Hunter College. In her absence Miss Van Scoyoc third grade teacher at the Benjamin Franklin Training School is acting as sponsor.

Because of the graduation and other elements influencing the Navy men, the club membership has depleted considerably. The club wants new members. The meetings are held weekly at 7:00 p.m. Tuesday evenings. The meetings are made interesting and constructive. Various club members direct and present a one act play. On March 20, the club will present a one act play.

All who are interested are invited to attend this meeting, and those to come as members.

Earl Spicer, America's foremost ballad singer will appear on the Carver Hall stage Wednesday, March 21.

Mr. Spicer's program promises to be an unusually different and entertaining one because of his creation of a new type of vocal entertainment. With versatility this widely known baritone has abandoned the stereotyped recital and solved the problem of song communication by dramatizing the songs.

He rose from a country boy who sang as he did his farm chores to a distinguished New York baritone who has sung before Royalties of Europe, the President of the United States, and with many of the leading symphony orchestras.

After his return to the United States from Europe where he was studying and touring, he achieved immediate success, singing opera, oratorio, lieder.

He is exceptionally gifted in singing the old traditional ballads and has been called "A master of the ballad."

Mr. Spicer has a priceless sense of humor. His characterization of the old lady who lost her teeth or the shy country lover promise amusement to the audience.

How Does Your War Contribution Measure Up?

"Our boys over in France and in the Pacific are doing a wonderful job—yup, wonderful!" said the man riding home in the bus. "Anything we folks back home got to sacrifice for the war ain't nothin' compared with what our boys are goin' through!"

Right, Mister, absolutely right! But there are some people—not a lot of them, but enough to make darn nuisances out of themselves—who figure we can have our cake and eat it too.

They're the folks who complain about rationing. They don't like this—and they don't like that. And they tell you that, of course, they know there's a war on, but . . .

But what, chum? They don't have "buts" in France or on the Pacific. America's fighting men know there's a war on—and they like it a heck of a lot less than you do—as much as you dislike it—because they're the guys who are doing the bleeding and the dying.

But what, chum? It's hard to get steak? The kid who used to deliver your paper stretched one can of cold hardly-tasty rations over six and a half days when he was isolated in a foxhole in Belgium during some particularly heavy fighting.

So when you think things are tough—or dreary—or—well you know what we mean, just ask yourself "How does my war contribution measure up to his?"

B. S. T. C. Approved For Veteran Training

EDUCATION . . . a Mighty Force

What Makes a Nation Great?

Not its land, not its mines, not its rivers, not its forests, not its money—important as these things are. Only people make a nation truly great.

Natural resources are of vital concern to a nation but they must be developed and used by people. Our country is richly blessed with gifts of nature.

Science and technology—strictly man-made—are producing synthetic substitutes for many natural resources that we do not have. The future is bright with hope because educated men and women can perform these wonders.

In like manner, people determine the great social trends that carry a nation forward to the more perfect achievements of justice and liberty or backward to barbarism and brutality. The story of every family, every organization, every group, every community, every nation, is the story of people.

All victories in war and peace are won by people. They mine the ore. They make the steel. They fashion the weapons. They fight the battles. They make or break the peace.

We can build a greater and nobler America only as we develop human resources.

People make a nation great.

Around the Dorm

This semester four new girls moved into the dormitory. Two of these are Freshmen, Mary Moser from Ringtown, and Marjorie Brace from Hunklocks Creek, Hazel Gaumer and Virginia King former day girls, also became fellow dorm inhabitants. These girls help to fill the vacancies left by the several seniors who graduated last trimester.

A sure sign of spring! The Navy has begun to muster outside again. The girls have no need for the quarter of seven rising bell since the Navy is more dependable than an alarm clock.

Peggy Lou Anthony done went and did it! She is now Peggy Lou Jones and her husband is—David Jones of the Marine Corps. It was a big surprise to everyone when Peggy came back from vacation a Mrs. but here's to much success and happiness for the Joneses.

Familiar?

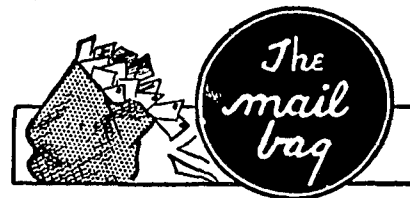

THE MIDNIGHT MINUET

The bewitching hour was at hand; but the rustle of housecoats could be heard as their owners swished to and fro, tending to those millions of last minute details that simply must be taken care of before one can retire with a satisfied conscience. Then came a period of silence, broken only by the infrequent, muffled, feminine giggles. The time passed and soon were heard the familiar steps of the night watchman making his usual rounds. Yes, by this time all good little girls on third floor should have been deep in the arms of Morpheus. But hush! From somewhere down the hall drifted the sounds of footsteps—ever so faintly, but yet definitely footsteps. Someone—several "someones" in fact was trying to make as little noise as possible; but regardless, a steady tap-tap-tapping could be heard. Soon a faint melody that seemed to blend with the now more audible tap-tap-tapping. Slowly—and ever so silently, as if some ghostly hand penetrated by fear were turning the knobs,—several doors opened. The disturbed and bewildered sleepers tiptoed inch by inch through the wide corridor. There was nothing in sight, and yet the melody and the tapping were becoming more distinct with each advanced inch. It was noddingly agreed that the source of "It" lay around the corner. Ah, now, almost there but who was to be the first to look around the corner? Each faint-hearted Sherlock shook her head horizontally. Finally, by common consent, all took that last inch together. "It" was only a student teacher and her pals vainly trying to recapture the long forgotten steps of the Minuet; for the student teacher was to present the same to her classes the following day!

Story of Panzarine And Silverstein

Once upon a time there was a bashful boy with a friend who was a bashful boy too. Now these two bashful boys had saved their pennies and bought a beautiful white sticker with a red cross on it. After these two bashful boys had looked and looked at their beautiful white sticker with a red cross on it they decided it was just too lovely for their humble abode. So, they put their bashful heads together and decided to donate their beautiful white sticker with the red cross on it to the public so the public could enjoy its beauty. They ran their tongues over the sticky side of their sticker and then pressed it to the window just outside of the Dean of Women's Office. As they stood and looked and looked at their white sticker with a red cross on it they decided that something was lacking. There was nothing on it to explain who gave it to the public. So the one bashful boy, said to the other bashful boy: "Let's put our names on our sticker so that the public will know who gave this beautiful sticker. But the other bashful boy, who was just a wee bit "bashfuller" said, "No, let's put 'pretend' names on our sticker!" And that's just what they did!

That is why the Red Cross sticker

Be a Teacher

According to M. R. Thompson of Iowa S. T. C. "teachers make the best wives, stay successfully married longer, and live happier lives as wives and mothers than girls from other professions. Even though there is a man shortage and leap year is 4 years off, you are compensated by the fact that you will some day be a teacher."

Huskies Close Court Season with Victory

Fast, Steady Play Brings Triumph

Remetz and Mariaschin Are Leading Scorers

Thoroughly out-classing their opponents in the last home game of the season, Bloomsburg's Navy quintet added another win to its skein, bringing the victory total to 10. In playing one of their best games on the Centennial Gymnasium floor, the Huskies proved themselves to be worthy of any praise due them for the season's efforts. During the winter months they gave the crowd the brand of ball it wanted—fast with plenty of baskets.

Huskies Maintain Lead

Watching Ithaca move the ball, the early minutes of the game gave expectation that they might prove tight competition for the Maroon and Gold outfit. Once the Husky forwards began getting away for fast breaks and their passes started to click, the outcome was evident. It didn't take the Huskies long to grab the lead and maintain it throughout the game.

Mike Remetz, playing his last home game for B.S.T.C. before being transferred, scored 18 points the first half which was the total scored by the entire Ithaca team during that period. Zurner's fine play under the basket, Mariaschin's passing on the fast breaks, and a couple of lead-up plays by Klinefelter sparked the play during the first half of which found the score 28-18—Ithaca trailing.

Final Score 59-40

Beginning where they left off, the Huskies continued their fast pace, with Mariaschin doing the brunt of the scoring the second half. Halfway through the last period, Coach Buchheit substituted by sending in a new team on the floor. These boys held their own, bringing the final score to 59-40.

Average 60 Points Per Game

The evening's scoring honors went to Mike Remetz with 22, followed by Mariaschin with 18. All through the season, these two lads have been battling it out for team scoring honors with Remetz holding the edge up to this point. After dropping the first home game against Indian-town Gap, the Huskies have won six straight home cage encounters averaging 60 points per contest.

Climax of the basketball season will be the National Invitation Tournament which is to be staged at Madison Square Garden during the week of March 17-25. All the teams have been selected with travel limiting selections east of the Mississippi. R. P. I. from upstate New York was the last entrant in the tournament.

Bad news from the front again concerning a star athlete. Al Bozis, towering giant who made quite a name for himself at Georgetown before hitting the big time with the New York Giants pro football team, was listed as missing in action during an infantry engagement in France. He was a second lieutenant.

With spring training about to get underway for most of the major league clubs, their outlook for a successful season is optimistic. Thus far, the major problem is getting ball players to report.

High scorer of the past season is six-feet eight-inches Vince Hanson of Washington State. In leading all college basketball players while in his first year in college ball, he rang up a total of 505 points.

Sweden's famed track star, Gunder Haegg, has yet to win a race in his recent trip here. In two tries at the mile he was defeated both times. A rough sea voyage plus an indoor track may have had some bearing on Mr. Haegg's defeat.

Hugh Devore will coach Notre Dame this fall replacing Ed McKeever now coaching up at Ithaca.

In three and one half years of play teams representing the Great Lakes Naval Training Center have won 320 games while losing 49. These included baseball, basketball, and football aggregations with the baseball team showing the most enviable record.

Honorable Mention

Devoting time and energy and playing an important part in bringing an enviable record to the halls of B.S.T.C. as far as basketball was concerned this past season, special credit goes to the boys who warmed the bench and participated in the preliminary games. Although they were not in actual competition in the main games, in their practice games every afternoon, they kept the varsity on their toes playing hard. Those games were just as hard fought if not more so than the Saturday night crowd attracters.

Coach Buchheit managed to get a few preliminary games in which these lads held their own. By the time next season rolls around a few of these lads shall give quite a battle for a varsity position.

Rounding out the basketball squad are Austin Ackerman; Robert Baker, who handled himself nicely in the ball games he participated; Charles Geiger; Al Kelly; Ned Roudabush; Vince Shedler; Robert Smith; Paul Snyder; Robert Spegal; Joseph Stulb; and E. D. Wasilewski.

Weather Man Stymies Baseball Practice

Owing to the unpredictable weather which brings snow, rain, and sunshine in one day, the Husky baseball team has been kept inactive. Waiting anxiously for the last snow to clear away and the ground to thaw out, the boys didn't contemplate Old Sol Pluribus acting up as he has been doing.

A few of the more ambitious lads have been spending their afternoons up at the gymnasium in the training school, limbering up; getting their throwing arms loosened. Practice has not as yet been officially called by "Doc" Nelson who by the way has garnered a pretty good looking schedule thus far.

As soon as there is a sign of a break in the weather we will probably see some activity on the school diamond. With a likely number of good prospects among the Navy V-12 students and a fine playing schedule, B.S.T.C. should look forward to an eventful baseball campaign this year.

Any fellows interested in trying out for the team contact "Doc" Nelson if you have not already done so. Don't be modest with your ability if the other fellow can do it, so can you.

Why Strength Tests?

A comparison was made between physical fitness and success in flying among 1,076 U. S. Naval flight students. One thousand completed the intermediate stage of training and 76 failed at this stage for seasons of poor flight performance.

Physical fitness was measured by means of the "pack" or "step" tests, and over-all athletic ability and physical conditioning by means of a series of tests and evaluations which were collectively referred to as the "complete" fitness test. In using the term "physical fitness," the ability of the human organism to perform external work is referred to. It is nearly synonymous with muscular fitness and implies a state of health over and above the mere absence of significant bodily defects and disorders.

The necessity of achieving and maintaining a high level of physical fitness for the successful performance of hard work or strenuous sports is known to many persons by experience and has been proved by actual measurement. There is a decided relationship between physical fitness and various psychological factors such judgment, ability to learn and to think quickly, motivation, morale, courage, and mental stability. Physical educators declare that such a relationship exists to an important degree, but offer little or nothing in the way of scientific evidence as proof. The same problem has interested psychologists and teachers. Attempts to study this relationship in school children have led to inconclusive results. Up to this time, there has never been a satisfactory demonstration of this relationship.

Physical fitness tests are given to the Navy men at B.S.T.C. twice every trimester, and thus every man is graded according to his physical condition.

Tracksters Prepare For Active Season

Under the watchful eye of Coach Buchheit, track participants are now undergoing the early phases of getting in shape for the cinder track. With the weather clearing up, the boys should be getting outdoors for some real workouts bringing the hurdles with them.

The Burma and Lido Roads are due for some hard times and it looks as if it won't be long now. Fellows still interested in track and a crack at the Penn relays should see Mr. Buchheit.

LIFE WITH UNCLE

by B. W. Kane

In a January edition, we carried a news report on the heroism of Lt. Buddy M. Hartman, a mustang pilot and former student of B.S.T.C. Here's more details on Hartman's activity; they were sent to us by the 15th Army Air Force in Italy.

15th AAF IN ITALY—The distinguished Flying Cross, an award for "extraordinary achievement in aerial flight," has been awarded to First Lieutenant Buddy M. Hartman, 20, son of Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Hartman, R.D. No. 3, Benton, Pa.

A 15th AAF P-51 Mustang pilot, Lt. Hartman has been cited for his successful strafing of the Seregelyes Airdrome in Hungary on October 21, 1944. Attacking the airdrome in the face of intense light flak and small arms fire, Lt. Hartman's plane was hit in both wings and a fuel tank was hit while he was making his first two passes over the field.

In spite of the damage to his plane, he continued his attacks and made four more passes and destroyed two German planes, damaged four others, and also destroyed a locomotive on a siding near the airdrome.

The citation accompanying his award concludes, "Lt. Hartman's outstanding courage, professional skill and devotion to duty in the face of the most determined enemy fire and with a badly damaged plane, reflect great credit upon himself and the Armed Forces of the United States of America."

A veteran of 43 successful missions over enemy territory, Lt. Hartman has flown over 224 hours of combat flying. In addition to the DFC, he is authorized to wear the Air Medal with 3 Oak Leaf Clusters.

A graduate of the Benton High School, he was enrolled as a student at Bloomsburg State Teachers College when he entered the AAF in April 1943. He was awarded his pilot's wings at Napier Field, Dothan, Ala. on January 7, 1944.

Just a few lines to say hello to the old gang back at B.S.T.C. and to let you know that my address has changed since I last visited B.S.T.C. I am now overseas and somewhere in France. My unit is part of the Seventh Army.

While over here, I have seen in the "STARS AND STRIPES" some awards given men that I knew while attending college. There is not much more to say except that we are enjoying some good weather after a rather cold January. We had almost two feet of snow then, but now you cannot tell if there was an inch of snow here.

Despite the fact that I have been away from the college for several years—thanks to the Army—I have kept abreast with college activities through the Maroon and Gold. And being a former sports editor on it, makes me more interested in its continued improvement.

I have been up to my neck in publicity work in my capacity as Bu. Public relations Chief which is, of course, activity, in addition to my other duties. Since we have been attached to the famed 5th Div. and the 3rd Army for some time they have made plenty of news.

At present am plugging a contest to select the "Sweetheart of the 499th" from among pictures of men in the unit. Our Dv. Public Relations Officer and Aaron Borand, former Life staff artist and now a war correspondent, are the judges. Also author a weekly news column which reaches our isolated men on their guns.

We are on the move again and God willing we hope this is the swan song.

Sure miss the old campus and I might add a bouquet for the pictorial issue of the college bulletin.
