DON BLACKBURN SUBSTITUTES AT COLLEGE

Mr. Buckheit returned to the college December 1, after having a well-earned one month vacation. He was missed very much by the basketball squad, but now that he is back, the team is undergoing heavy drills as December 12 opens the season for the Huskies.

During Mr. Buckheit's absence, his duties as physical instructor and coach were taken over by Don Blackburn. Don, being a P. I. A. A. official and also a member of the squad, aided greatly in shaping out the "Bloom" team. Don is an ex G. I., having served in the E. T. O. and is now completing his duties that were interrupted by the war.

Coach Buckheit will have a green team on the floor. He has one member from last year's team—Johnny Hmelnicky. It is evident that the starting positions have not been chosen, and so it's rather difficult to tell who will make the first team.

Practice game with the "Zebras" of the State Penitentiary, Lewisburg, Pa., Friday, December 7, at the "Pen."

C. G. A. Meeting Held in Assembly on December 5th

Cheyney Trip Was Discussed

On December 5, the Community Government Association was in charge of the assembly. Henry Gatski, President, presided and, after relating the duties and activities of C. G. A., introduced the officers: Helen Wright, Vice-President; Eileen Falvey, Secretary, and Ann Baldy, Treasurer.

One of Miss Wright's duties is to appoint committees and their chairmen. She introduced several of the chairmen and said that the student body would meet the others later in the year.

At Cheyney State Teachers College, the group of officers and several other council members participated in panel discussions about the trials and tribulations of college life. After the presentations of these discussions, Marcia Patterson summarized the trip.

The goal of the conference was to develop cultural patterns on the campus.

BLOOMSBURG PLAYERS TO PRESENT COMEDY

Recently the Bloomsburg Players presented "Girls Must Talk," directed by Gloria Maniero. The cast was composed of Shirley Boughner, Ruth Swartz, Betty Bolig, June Hontz, Betty Jane Anella, and Jean Harper. This play will be presented in assembly, January 21.

Tuesday night, December 5, "Holding a Husband" was given for the club. The play was directed by Helen Wright. Karlis Kight, Alberta Nauanas, and Reed Buckingham portrayed the characters in the comedy.

Work on the puppet production has been discontinued temporary because of the lack of materials.

Turkish Students Learning English

(ACP) — Since August, thirteen Turkish students who came to Queens College to learn English have been struggling with American slang, eating at the Huddle, going to movies, talking and listening, with emphasis on the later.

Sent there on government scholarships, the group of twelve men and one woman are just a few in the program of several hundred who are to be sent to English and American universities. The Queens College group, all of whom have their Master's degree in agriculture or engineering, will stay for a year until they know English well enough to continue their Ph.D.'s in specialized fields in other American colleges.

Queens College entered the picture in May, 1945, when a cablegram came from Ankara inquiring whether they could accommodate these accredited students. A quick affirmative reply sent the first group to their new homes for the next four years.

When they first arrived nearly nil

Dance Opens the Christmas Season

The Yuletide spirit was in evidence at B. S. T. C. when the social committee staged a semi-formal Christmas dance on December 8, 1945. Students and their guests danced from 8:30 to 11:30 to the lilting strains of Nick and his "Whitecaps" at the Centennial Gymnasium which was beautifully decorated in Christmas motif.

For several weeks, the members of the decoration committee were scouting around for tree decorations and anything appropriate to the Yuletide season. Posters asking for colorful balls graced the bulletin boards, and because of efforts like this, the dance was really a success.

Santa Claus was conspicuous of his absence, but after all, he's a mighty busy man about this time of the year. The girls in their fancy gowns helped to complete the color scheme.

Tickets, refreshments, decoration, and publicity were in charge of the social committee, consisting of Reed Buckingham, chairman; Xen Hostler, Charles Wagner, Barbara Greenly, Jane Reitz, Midge Fuller, Isabelle Gehman and Bernice Gabuzda.

Names and Biographies Will Appear in "Who's Who Among Students"

Gloria Belcastro, Athamantia Comuntzis, Eileen Falvey, John Hmelnicky, Althea Parsell, Mary Schroeder, Jacqueline Shaffer, and Kathleen Kurilla have been accepted to have their biographies appear in the 1945-46 edition of "Who's Who Among Students In American Universities and Colleges," the official annual directory of distinguished students selected from colleges and universities throughout America.

This is the first time B. S. T. C. has been represented in "Who's Who Among Students." These seniors were selected by the Dean of Instruction, the Dean of Women and the Dean of Men on the basis of:

1. Character.
2. Scholarship.
3. Leadership in extra-curricular activities.
4. Potentiality for future usefulness to business and society.

This publication has a two-fold purpose: First, to serve as an outstanding honor in which a deserving student, after displaying merit in college and accomplishing his goals, would be given recognition without having to pay some fee. Second, to establish a reference volume of authoritative information on the great body of America's leading college students.

One of the chief functions of this publication is making employment contacts for their select group of graduates each year.

Observation and research has proved that these people who are active and outstanding as students follow the same pattern after graduation and are well-fitted to work toward key positions in business and society.

"Who's Who Among Students In American Universities and Colleges" has developed into an integral part of college and business life, functioning in several vital capacities:

1. As an incentive for students to get the best results from their college experience.
2. As a means of compensation to

The First American Army University

By HARVEY A. ANDRUSS, President, B. S. T. C.
(Sequence to the First Article)

Acknowledgement of Appreciation

The writer has quoted liberally from two sources. One, War Department Technical Manual, TM 28-205 and the Commencement Address delivered to the first graduating class of the first American Army University by Elmer T. Peterson, Deputy Director, Academic Division, Shrivvenham American University.

To these sources, grateful acknowledgement is herewith recorded.

Since the writer's first hand information includes contacts as pre-registration advisement of G. I. students and later as head of one of the departments in the Division of Commerce, the remainder of this discussion is limited to certain phases of guidance and instruction which have emerged to date. These impressions seem to be sufficiently wide to be characteristic of the whole university offering 365 courses to 4,000 students.

Cooperation With English Universities

Located less than thirty miles from Oxford, Shrivvenham Army University has had opportunities to use many of the facilities made available by the Oxonian colleges. Bodleian Library, Rhodes House, including its library, contacts with English faculty members through lectures, teas and other social occasions have given American G. I. students and faculty much to remember of English open-handed social and intellectual hospitality. Graduate students have found the facilities of Oxford and the University helpful and in some cases indispensable to the task they are performing in the period of eight weeks residence. Certain areas of Academic instruction on the college level are not found in English Universities. Commerce is not a separate area of concentration in Oxford and Cambridge. Although the University of London and the "red brick" or provincial universities have developed college instruction in commerce to a limited extent, it is not comparable to the emphasis given in American universities to this field.

An idea of the stage of development of thinking in the area collegiate business education can be discerned by an item appearing in "The Daily Telegraph and Morning Post" of London, dated October 12, 1945, as follows:

"An inquiry by Cambridge University Appointments Board on university men in business revealed that:

"Seventy-three per cent of employers approached spoke strongly in favour of university education as a preparation for business.

"Only 43 per cent of graduates questioned similarly expressed themselves in favour of such education.

"This is revealed in a report of the inquiry, published today.

"Among the constructive suggestions made to the board is that undergraduates should be brought in contact with their possible employers before their third year, an obvious advantage to both employer and employee.

"A stabilising period of a year in an office or works before going to the university is also advocated."

Division of Commerce

With one exception, the Division of Commerce enrolled more students than any other.

A staff of 60 instructors aided by 15 academic assistants were organized in branches or departments as follows: Accounting, Finance, Marketing, Economics, Business Administration (law, organization, and management), and Secretarial Studies.

Among the institutions represented in the Accounting Branch were: Northwestern University, University of Pittsburgh, University of Texas, Dartmouth College, University of California, and the State Teachers Colleges located at Bloomsburg, Pa., Greenville, North Carolina and Muncie, Indiana, and many others.

An impression of the first Army University can be given by answering the question

What About the G. I. Student?

One has had to search to find a soldier without a definite objective. There is the lad whose college education has been interrupted by his entry into national service and who wanted to pick up where he left off. There's the freshman wanting to get the feel of college work and laying the foundation for his professional training. There's the graduate student, anxious to take refresher courses, to get back into the swing of academic life, or to pursue subjects which he had never had the opportunity to explore outside his specialized field. There has been the medi-

This Collegiate World

"Never park on a professor's desk!" warns a Teachers College professor at Cedar Falls, Iowa. "It will be just the time the wife comes in for those car keys she forgot! And what's more, it's a pretty dumb form of apple-polishing!"

The professor, who wishes to remain anonymous, defined polishing the apple as "working a teacher for a grade you really don't deserve," and added that students who do earn a good grade don't apple-polish. "It's mostly the border-line cases who do," he said.

Asked how professors distinguish between genuine interest and apple-polishing, he said, "Well, I think one reacts to it instinctively. It's something in the tone of voice, the facial expression, that helps to let us know whether it's sincere interest or just a game."

One of the worst types, he says, are "students who phone the instructor at his home in the evening to 'check on an assignment.' How do you imagine it sounds to the wife when she hears a sweet, delicate voice ask, 'Is Professor Smith there?' And his wife turns and says, 'O-o-h, Professor—there's a la-a-a-dy calling . . .'"

Another type comes up after class and says, "I was so interested in what you said about so-and-so!"

And the girl who confesses, "I spend more time on this course than any other! You just don't know how much I enjoy it!"

The intimidating type dashes up and says, "What are you going to give me this term?"

"Well, I don't know—what do you think you're going to get?"

"I gotta get a B."

"Well then, I hope you earn it!"

"But you gotta give me a B!"

"I don't give grades—you earn them!"

"It's too bad," said the instructor, "that the idea of apple-polishing was developed, because I think students miss wonderful opportunities to get acquainted personally with the profs. Profs. really can be of great help to students."

He added, "And apple-polishing really doesn't work like the students cal officer who wanted studio work in sculpturing or painting and the engineer who wanted philosophy. There has been the chap who has decided to farm, or open a retail store, or become an accountant, or go into teaching or journalism seeking technical preparation and assistance.

For the most part, these students have known exactly what they wanted—the most specific and functional training for their own particular job at home.

The activities of the first Army University have been dedicated to the purpose of peace, to the cultivation of constructive forces, to the fostering of spiritual and intellectual life, to the restoration and enhancement of the civilizing influences and values. Opportunities which have been provided have been rich and varied. The response of the student soldier has been magnificent.

Let administrators of college and university education in America note well these outcomes as a sound basis for future planning and adaptation to meet the needs of G. I. students when they return home.

Such are some of the outcomes which emerge from the first army institution of higher learning known officially as Shrivvenham American University.

Grandpappy Morgan, an Ozark hillbilly who had a reputation for being a man of few words, wandered into the woods one day and failed to return for supper. Young Tolliver was sent to look for him and found Grandpappy standing in the bushes. "Gettin' dark, Grandpap."

"Yep."

"Time for supper, Grandpap."

"Yep."

"Ain't you hungry, Grandpap?"

"Yep."

"Well, air ye comin' home?"

"Nope."

"Standin' in a bar trap!"

"In that case, here's a prescription for I don't know what. Take it I don't know how many times a day for I can't tell how long, and you'll feel better or worse, I don't know when."

A Brooklyn soldier on maneuvers in Oregon took a walk in the woods and returned a little later with some rattlesnake rattles.

"Where in the world did you get them," gasped his alarmed companions.

The boy from Brooklyn beamed broadly, "Off'n a woom."

believe it does. It may appear that it's working, but all too often it really isn't." The instructor believes that polishing the apple isn't so prevalent now as it used to be. "Maybe they've given up!"

Then he sighed and said, "You know, I have never received an apple, polished or otherwise, in my entire teaching career!"

Those Little Gold Buttons and What They Mean

From time to time, all over the campus little gold lapel buttons blossom modestly on the coats of many of the boys and girls. Here and there, bits of miscellaneous Service uniforms are worn in conjunction with civilian clothing. With this evidence before us, it doesn't take much Sherlock-Holmseing to deduce that a good part of the men—and one of the girls—now attending B. S. T. C. are veterans of the Armed Forces.

All of us know, of course, that the little gold lapel button with the perched eagle folding his wings stands for an honorable discharge from the Service, but we sometimes fail to consider that each tiny button has behind it a big, personal, individual, and usually, extremely interesting story of its own.

For example, behind the one that John—"Jack"—Davis sometimes wears is a tale of twenty-five B-24 "Liberator" bomber missions over Germany as a staff sergeant tail gunner, of being shot down and then captured, and of being confined as a prisoner of war for eight months. Jack, whose home is in Kingston, is now a Sophomore here at the College. He is interested in basketball and baseball. His Army career began on January 16, 1943, and extended for two years and eight months until September 5, 1945. His training in the Air Force took him all over this country—Texas, Colorado, Nevada, New Mexico, Virginia and New York, and then to England via British Guiana, Brazil and Dahar. He was a member of the 49th Bombarrier Group of the 8th Air Force and was shot down on his twenty-fifth mission on September of 1944. He was released from the prisoner of war camp by the British Army, and hospitalized in Belgium, England and this country. He holds the Distinguished Flying Cross, the Air Medal with three clusters, The Purple Heart, Presidential Unit Citation, and the European Theater Ribbon with three battle stars. And he is single with ideas, so, girls—

Another Air Force man is Glenn—"Red"—Loveland, from Trucksville, Pa., who is a Freshman here. He is interested in basketball and football, and played hockey in the Army. Red entered the Army in September of 1942, and served for over three years. He became a First Lieutenant in the Air Corps and a pilot-navigator of a P-61 "Black Widow" with the 12th Air Force. He was in on the invasion of Italy and southern France, and was awarded the Air Medal with four clusters, the Distinguished Flying Cross, and the European Theater Ribbon with six battle stars. He is very much single.

When Albert—"Al"—Zimmerman, from Hazleton puts on his button, it stands for four years and three months as a Navy man. Al is a Freshman here, art editor of this paper, and interested in most sports—football, basketball, and swimming in particular. In fact he was captain of his high school swim team and State Champ in the 50 yards free style. Here, believe it or not, is a sailor who can swim. Maybe it is lucky he could because he was a machinist mate, first class, on the Brunswick when it was sunk. He also served aboard the Violet and the Seattle, and got over a lot of this world's water—Africa, Italy, Sicily, England, France and Russia. He was wounded in the invasion of Italy and hospitalized in Africa and at Norfolk.

He holds the Purple Heart and the European Theater Ribbon with four battle stars. He is single and, he says, interested!

Charles Harmony, from State College, Pa., doesn't have a button yet because he is still in the Army. He is attending school here on a convalescent furlough. Charles is a former student here and is taking work in Special Education as he is much interested in that kind of work and intends to go into it fairly far. When he does get that button, it will have quite a lot to tell. He was inducted on August 28, 1941, over four years ago, and was in every army in the Pacific. He was in the Sixth and Eighth Infantry on the Phillipines and a mortar gunner (a tough job) with the Tenth and Ninety-sixth on Okinawa, where he was wounded. He was hospitalized on Guam and at the McGuire General Hospital in Richmond, Va., from which he is now on furlough. He says he is single and—"That's all."

Peter Parnell who is called "Jitterburg," has his home at Hazleton and "Lakewood." His sports are basketball and that grand old army game of Rolling Dominoes. He entered the Air Force in 1942 and served for three years as a big shot Technical Sergeant stationed in the Pentagon at Washington, where he fought many a pitched engagement warding off the female wolves. He emerged the presumed winner and still single.

Frank Pape who answers to the name of "Shanghai," is another sailor. He is interested in football and basketball. He, too, is a Freshman here at B. S. T. C. His home berth is Hazleton and he up-anchored from there in 1943 for Norfolk and the Navy. He participated in an Atlantic expedition on an L. C. I. and served as a radar man—Seaman, First Class until 1945. His little button said he was single and gave a big wink. What it meant, I don't know.

John Guy, "Baumer," from Nesquehoning, was one of those famous fellows every one in the Army wanted to meet after the war—an Army cook! His button speaks of over four years in the Army and three years overseas. He entered the Army in February, 1941, and was discharged August, 1945. He was a T/4 in the 865th Tank Destroyer Battalion in Mark Clark's Fifth Army and made jelly rolls and "stum-gullion" all over Italy, England and Africa. He has the Pre-Pearl Harbor Ribbon and the European Theater Ribbon with four battle stars. He came into Newport News on July 25, 1945, after three years across with his mind on two things—milk and a girl. He got the milk but he is still single and won't he make someone a "wonderful wife" with all that cooking and dish washing experience!

Another Air Force man is Henry E. Crawford, "Hank" for short, who lives here in Bloomsburg. "Hank's" sports are basketball, baseball and tennis. He entered the Army July 21, 1944, and served for over a year as a teletype operator for the headquarters of the Second Air Force with headquarters at Colorado Springs, Colorado. On his machine were dispatched all the orders relative to the Second Air Force throughout the world. "Hank" is a day student and says he is single—as yet. He wants to go back

WANT TO LEARN TO SWIM?

Open house really offers a wonderful opportunity for all sport fans to have the time of their lives every Thursday evening.

The swimming pool is now repaired and in excellent condition. Anyone who does not know how to swim should come to open house and learn.

For the land-lovers, scavenger hunts, badminton, pingpong and cageball contests provide an evening of gay activity.

Interclass activities are still very popular on the campus. The Freshmen are still leading the upperclassmen in the cageball contests.

Every girl in the College Community is invited to share the fun with the other gals this Thursday and all those to follow!

INTERCOLLEGIATE BROADCASTING SYSTEM

Network radio broadcasting is no longer only a job for professionals. On November 12, four Eastern Pennsylvania colleges joined their student-run campus stations in a permanent wire hookup. This direct link will transmit a continuous exchange of important lectures, debates, music and sports between Swarthmore, Haverford, Bryn Mawr, and the University of Pennsylvania, all members of the Intercollegiate Broadcasting System. The IBS also includes campus stations at Harvard, Yale, Princeton, Columbia, Brown, Williams, Union, Cornell, Bucknell, University of Virginia, Alabama and Stephens.

Swarthmore will open the new regional collegiate network with an hour-long preview of the outstanding radio features to be aired during the coming fall months. Various college celebrities will participate.

Establishment of the hookup was predicted six months ago by the first college network broadcast, linking twelve IBS member stations for an hour-long program celebrating the San Francisco United Nations Conference. The broadcast originated at the campus station of Columbia University in New York, and was carried to the other colleges over 500 miles of wire. Student engineers insist no "first" network offering was ever so technically flawless.

Before the war, college stations were going on the air from Maine to California. Special wired-radio transmission systems confined their broadcasts to the college campus. In these stations, student actors, engineers, writers, announcers, musicians, and sound effects men are now receiving invaluable radio experience. Many of them have carried college degrees and college radio experience with them into the broadcasting industry.

to Colorado and teach school when he is finished here. And they say the climate in Colorado is so nice, girls—

Zooming down out of the wide, blue yonder, we meet another Ground Force man, Mark C. Wanich, Jr. Mark is a Senior and busily engaged in student teaching. He is interested in all sports, mainly soccer, football, basketball and baseball. He played two years of varsity soccer for B. S. T. C. and coached it last season. He was on the baseball squad for two seasons. Mark left the school for the Army in February of 1945 and was assigned to the Ordnance Replacement Training Center at Aberdeen Proving Ground, Maryland. This is where all the captured enemy weapons were brought for examination and testing and where our own weapons are tested. He received his discharge in June of 1945. He says he is single—period.

Samuel Pleviak, from Carbondale, is a Freshman here and is interested in football, basketball and swimming. His little button signifies that he entered the Service in August of 1943 and was discharged almost two years later in May of 1945 after becoming a Pfc. in Co. "A," of the 22nd Infantry Training Battalion where he worked in the headquarters message center. Samuel is single.

Donald Blackburn—"Blackie"—from Wanamie, is a returnee to B. S. T. C. He was a student here some time ago and distinguished himself in the field of sports, particularly basketball. He was on the basketball, football and baseball teams. He is a member of the P. I. A. A. and the N. A. A. B. O., which means he is a basketball official. He is here for some additional work. He entered the Army in June of 1941 and was just discharged in September after over four years of service. He was a staff sergeant in the 317th Infantry Regiment of the Eightieth Division and was overseas for fifteen months. He was a supply sergeant and an instructor in language at Camp Wheeler, Georgia. He sailed on the Queen Mary and saw service in Scotland, England, France, Luxembourg, Germany and Austria. He came back on the U. S. S. Breckenridge. He is single, so there—

The lone feminine veteran on the campus is Miss Helen G. Arment who was a Pfc. in the WAAC, and the WAC's. She began her basic training on the "Beach" at Daytona, Florida, in February of 1943 and was stationed with the Air Force at George Field, Illinois, in the Post Library. In addition to working in the library, she painted murals in the mess halls and in the Service Club, and did book reviews for the camp paper. She served with the Signal Corps at Columbus, Mississippi, and in Personnel Headquarters with the 2137th A. A. F. Base Unit near Sebring, Florida. She was discharged at Fort Dix after over two years in the service.

Robert Hartman, of Bloomsburg, is a Senior at B. S. T. C. after an interruption of almost four years of service in the Army. He entered college in 1938 in the Business Education Course and after the end of his Junior year and a short spell of work with the A. C. & F. at Berwick enlisted in December of 1941, shortly after Pearl Harbor. He was assigned to a signal construction battalion and was stationed at Langley Field, Virginia. He sailed from New York in September of 1942 and served in England for three months, Africa for ten months, and in Italy for 23 months. He returned to the United States in September of 1945, after a little over three years overseas and with 102 points. He was separated from the service at Indiantown Gap in time to return to Bloomsburg in October of this year. His final rank was Technician Fourth Class and he wears the Good Conduct Ribbon and the European Theater Ribbon with six battle stars. His sports are football and basketball for which he received a varsity letter while at Bloomsburg High School. He is not married.

Another Senior at B. S. T. C. this year in the Secondary Field is Ralph McCracken, from Danville. "Mac" has already had some experience in teaching in the elementary field and left his school in February of 1941 with the 28th Pennsylvania Division when it was called into Federal Service prior to Pearl Harbor.

He was a First Lieutenant in the Field Artillery and was battery executive of Battery "C," 107th Field Artillery for two years until he was assigned as an instructor at a school for non-commissioned officers. During the Axis U-boat campaign of 1942, he was stationed with a battery of field artillery on a tiny island out in the Gulf of Mexico guarding oil tankers. Later he commanded a company of German officer prisoners of war for ten months, and various companies of German enlisted prisoners of war for sixteen months. He was separated from the service at Fort Dix in June of 1945 after four years and four months in the Army. He is married and has two children—a boy and a girl. His kid brother, Allen, who was a Junior at B. S. T. C., was killed with the 78th Division in Germany in February of 1945.

There are a few more little buttons on the campus which have not divulged their stories as yet. Perhaps we can get them to "unbutton" for a subsequent issue.

Weep No More, My Coed

Here's good news. College women needn't turn grey any more at the prospect of being old maids.

A survey made by the Metropolitan Life Insurance Company proves that the smarter a woman becomes the more likely are her chances to make a so-called "good match."

The study shows both men and women are likely to choose mates with schooling similar to their own. Almost half the college men interviewed had married college women, and only one in sixteen had married a woman whose education had stopped with grade school.

The fair sex did even better. More than half stated that they had married college men.

The survey didn't go into the details on how to catch the male. Undoubtedly they feel that college women know the hows and wherefores of the chase.—The Daily Athenium, West Virginia University. (ACP).

BROADCASTING SYSTEM

System, a non-profit organization, links all these stations, and is cooperatively administered by its members from its offices at 507 Fifth Avenue in New York. It offers complete technical and programming advice by mail, and personally through its field representative. When the new college radio workshop meets the proper standards, it is offered membership in the organization.

The slow IBS expansion during the war years has now taken a sudden jump. With students and veterans pouring back into the nation's colleges, IBS has been swamped with requests for information and help in getting college campuses all over the country "on the air."
