President Andruss To Review Tests

The Institute of Mental Measurements of Rutgers University, in compiling the Third Mental Measurements Yearbook, has invited President Harvey A. Andruss, of the State Teachers College, Bloomsburg, Pennsylvania, to review tests in the field of Bookkeeping, Accounting, and Clerical Practice. This Yearbook is the most complete list of testing materials with critical evaluations now being published, and is edited by Dr. Oscar K. Buros.

For a number of years, President Andruss compiled Bookkeeping Examinations used in Pennsylvania State Commercial Contests and from time to time completed similar services for the State of New York and some Western States.

"Bloomsburg Plan" Is Counseling System

The present drive for higher salaries for teachers in Pennsylvania has focused the attention of the tax-paying public and teacher education institutions upon the qualifications of persons planning to enter the profession. Increased salaries for teachers can be justified only if the profession continues to demand of those entering its high standards of academic preparation, desirable personality traits, and indication of professional promise.

In order to focus the attention of its student body on these standards of professional education, the Bloomsburg State Teachers College has recently instituted a new-type counseling system under the leadership of its President, Harvey A. Andruss.

Overflow enrollment in teacher education institutions of the country is not, as many persons are inclined to believe, an indication that all those recently enrolled will be teachers at the end of four years. Neither does it indicate that a supply of new teachers will be forthcoming and the present shortage of teachers is about

Dr. Dame To Edit Business Journal

Dr. J. Frank Dame, acting director of the Department of Business Education at the Teachers College, has been named editor of the Journal of the United Business Education Association. The association is a department of the National Education Association and plans to make its journal a full-fledged business education magazine covering all phases of the field. The first issue should reach members of the organization during the month of March.

Dr. Dame, who is co-author of the book "Prognosis Guidance and Placement in Business Education," is also the author of many popular articles in his field. He has had considerable experience in supervision and secondary education in addition to his

Seventy-Six New Students Admitted This Semester

On January 23, 1947, a group of seventy-six young men and women were added to B. S. T. C.'s student body which has swollen to proportions such as have never been seen on the Campus of Bloomsburg State Teachers College. Veterans of the past war comprise the greater majority of the new Freshman Class. There are sixty-eight students who saw service in the past war and are taking advantage of the opportunities offered them under the G. I. Bill of Rights. There are also eight non-veterans in the group.

Of the sixty-eight veterans, two are women who served in the army. One of them as a nurse who saw duty abroad and the other as a W. A. C.

The other sixty-six veterans are typical representatives of the type of young manhood who served their country so admirably in the Army, Navy and Marines. If called upon to do so, many of the new student veterans could exhibit Purple Hearts and many other decorations for outstanding duty in combat.

The traveling and experiences these people have had make them a personable and colorful group which will do much to enhance the spirit and atmosphere of the college.

Due to the prevailing overcrowded conditions on the campus, most of the students are forced to live in private homes of the town. Thanks to the fine work done by Mr. Landis, our Dean of Men, and William Horvath, President of the College Council, all the students accepted for enrollment have been accommodated.

PRESIDENT ANDRUSS NAMED TO COMMITTEE

A recent announcement of a meeting of the Commission on Evaluating Teacher Education indicates that President Harvey A. Andruss is a member of the Executive Committee of ten men who will direct this joint project of the Cooperative Commission on Teacher Education in Pennsylvania and the Association of Liberal Arts Colleges of Pennsylvania for the Advancement of Teaching.

The Executive Committee includes representatives from Temple University, Pennsylvania College for Women, Gettysburg College, University of Pennsylvania, Mount Mercy College, Lehigh University, and the Superintendent of York Public Schools.

ASSEMBLY PROGRAMS

A number of interesting chapel programs have been planned. They are as follows:

February 20—Robert Whitney, pianist.

February 25—Men's Glee Club and Women's Chorus.

March 6—Maroon and Gold Band.

March 11—Mr. Vickman, speaker, sponsored by S. C. A.

Valentine Dance Tonight In Centennial Gymnasium

College Increases Faculty Staff

The beginning of the new semester found two new members on the college staff.

Mrs. Olive Payne Beeman, well-known artist and painter of River Hill, Columbia County, has been appointed a temporary part time instructor in art at B. S. T. C.

The new instructor is a graduate of Hinsdale High School, Hinsdale, Ill., and the University of Chicago, where her scholastic achievement won her membership in Phi Beta Kappa. She taught in the public schools of Winnetka, Ill., for a number of years before becoming supervisor in the Glen Ellyn public schools in the same state. She also held a supervisory position in the Thornton Township High School, Thornton, Ill.

Mrs. Beeman at one time held the position of special teacher at the Chicago Teachers College as well as the Pestalozzi Teachers College in Illinois. She was critic teacher on the staff of the Francis Parker School in Chicago.

Mr. Clayton H. Hinkel, who is now teaching shorthand, accounting and business mathematics, is a graduate of this college. After graduating from B. S. T. C. in 1940, he went on to receive his master's degree at Temple University in 1943. While attending this college Mr. Hinkel served on the staffs of both the Maroon and Gold and the Obiter. He was treasurer of the Business Education Club and a member of Pi Omega Pi and Kappa Delta Pi.

Mr. Hinkel's teaching experience includes six and a half years at Easton High School where for the last four and a half years he served as head of the Business Education Department and Placement Bureau, and three and a half years of night teaching at the Churchman Business College in Easton. Another of his achievements is the publication of six magazine articles in business education magazines.

TEACHERS COLLEGES TO GET STATE STUDENTS AGAIN NEXT YEAR

The freshman class of the Pennsylvania State College will again be assigned next year to other educational institutions throughout the state, including State Teachers Colleges and area institutions set up for veterans.

The decision was announced by Dr. Francis B. Haas, State Superintendent of Public Instruction, after a conference of officials of Penn State, the Department of Public Instruction, and the State Teachers Colleges.

About 1,400 Penn State freshmen were spread across the state in other institutions this year, about half of

Roses are red,

Hedy's nice,
But I love you.

That little poem might be one your best fellow could send you, but I'm sure you'd rather have him ask you to the St. Valentine Dance that is being held this evening in the Centennial Gym. The sophomore class of B. S. T. C. is holding the annual Sophomore Cotillion as a St. Valentine Dance tonight.

Every one has worked hard to make this possible. Almost every afternoon one would find a few sophomores busy as beavers, making the decorations, etc., ready for the dance. Hundreds of hearts were cut, programs were made and crepe paper twisted.

The programs are in the shape of hearts with white arrows piercing them. Betty Jane Annala, with the help of Gretchen Trobach, made all of the clever programs. Kenneth Wire, as chairman of the dance committee, has worked hard to make the affair possible. Andy Ardos, as chairman of the refreshment committee,

C. G. A. NEWS RELEASES

The C. G. A. is trying to get together the married couples on campus. At the first meeting, held on February 7, in the Centennial Gym, plans were laid to hold a card party in the social rooms of Science Hall, Tuesday, February 25. Twenty-five cents will be requested of each couple to help defray expenses. This will be the first in a series of functions planned for the remainder of this term.

The murals in the old gym were painted by Basil Lynch, who has been working in conjunction with the furniture committee of the C. G. A.

Additional furniture is being ordered for the various social rooms. A large red divan has been ordered for the lobby.

A committee is now attempting to formulate a policy concerning class membership, class dues, and pertinent information. Members are Dr. North, Chairman; Dr. Kehr, Dean Landis, Mary Moser, Kenneth Wire, Joseph Lyons and Lado Savelli.

Last Monday, the president and delegates of all the fraternities on campus met to reinstate the interfraternity council through suggestion of the college council. The first meeting of this council will be held March 3. Officers of the council are: Walter Kritzberger—Phi Sigma Pi—President.

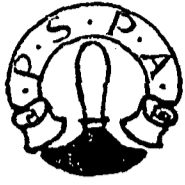

Michael Remetz—Alpha Psi Omega—Vice-President.

William Horvath—Pi Omega Pi—Secretary.

Joseph Lyons—Kappa Delta Pi—Treasurer.

WE'RE ALL AMERICANS

There are some folks who like to think that, unless a person is born right here in America, he just isn't an American.

As you undoubtedly know, that is not the case at all. Many millions of Americans were born in some other country and came over here and became citizens — and just as good Americans as the native-born variety.

But, in the final analysis, the real test of an American is not whether he was born over here—or whether he went through the legal process of becoming a citizen if he came to these shores from another land.

The real test of an American is how he thinks and acts—whether he upholds the best traditions of Americanism—or whether, under the cloak of being an American, he promotes ideas foreign to our way of life.

The person who loves liberty—personal liberty, business liberty, the liberty manifested by freedom of religion, press, speech, assembly, etc.—is an American in the truest sense of the word. He's the only real American.

IT'S SO TRUE!

We were talking to a female friend of ours the other day who had quite a sad story to tell us. It went like this:

"My husband Jim sure puts in a lot of hours down at the plant, but he just never seems to get anywhere."

Well, lady, it isn't enough to put in the hours if you want to get ahead. It's what you put into those hours that really counts toward advancement and real job security.

The person who not only puts in the hours, but puts into those hours careful work, courtesy, good ideas—that's the person who's going to make progress in his work.

Read the history of any man or woman who has made a real success out of life. Usually, you'll find that they were more than just "time-putter-inners"—they put a lot of effort and energy into their time thus lifting themselves upward and upward on the ladder of life.

It's so true! It isn't the number of hours you put in, but what you put into those hours that really counts.

Ed. Note—A poster covering the above article has been placed in the library.

Did You Ever Stop To Think?

Did you ever stop to think
 As you're passing time away
 If every minute were a penny
 How rich you'd be some day?

Or if every precious hour were
 In a chain a gold link
 Miles of chain you soon would have.
 Did you ever stop to think?

Or every day were a page
 In a book of leather bound.
 Did you ever stop to think
 That it might weigh a thousand pounds?

So when you're sitting idly
 And you're passing time away
 Do not let the time fly swiftly
 But grasp it while you may.

Pat Dean.

Uniforms of the Day . . . Cold Days

Zero weather crept down across our country from nature's ice box of the north. The cold winds spiraled playfully around the dome of Carver Hall, waited for reinforcements, and then plunged down in all its fury to send the student body diving for closets. Of course they didn't intend to hibernate, it was just a rush for "foul weather" gear. The outfits that emerged were combinations of every description—gaudy but appropriate.

Ear muffs of all colors, gloves and mittens of every shape, slacks with eye appeal, and the kind of boots that make all legs look nice, draped the women of B. S. T. C. The fellows stole the "style show," however; they certainly put the jinx on "Old Man Winter." The make ensembles, designed by the well-known clothier, Uncle Sam, showed a pleasing variety. There were boots, modeled by Jim Sampsell, that have fallen through thousands of feet of space and landed in France, the fashion nation of the world. Jim showed them at a gathering in Paris a few years ago. Bob McCafferty sported his "politician front" and a pair of combat boots that have insured dry feet in the swamps of the Islands and the snows of Bloomsburg.

Although boots and shoes, that have tramped many lands made a unique appearance, the pants, coats, and jackets were not to be outdone. The Marines showed their greens, the Army their khaki and the Navy bundled in blue.

A little boy saw a Navy coat "coming" down College Hill. He figured it was one of the ex-sailors that he admired so much. On closer inspection, it looked more like Major Hoople winding his way home from the Owl's Club on a Saturday night.

"Are you hurt, Mr. Hoople?" asked the little fellow as he looked at the man sitting on the ground.

"No," replied the voice in the blue coat on the "deck."

"Can I help you down the hill on my sleigh, Mr. Hoople?" said the boy.

"My name is not Hoople, it's Czerniakowski," said the coat getting off the ground, "and the only thing you can do is to tell your Dad to cinder his walk."

The hats that have come out of hiding to ward off the chill of Jack Frost have really been something. No doubt Carmen Miranda would have envied many of the creations seen on the campus. Some hats had long visors, some had short, some were wool or leather, many looked like creations designed out of this world.

Well, the cold wave will soon be giving out, but it was fun while it lasted. The students had a little more "zip" and there were causes for a little more smiles. Incidentally, did anyone see Gabriel? For further information read, "Snowbound in Sugarloaf."

WALTER KRITZBERGER ELECTED PRESIDENT

Music Notes

By BABS GREENLY

A turn about face—The Maroon and Gold marching band, with the aid of certain changes in instrumentation, has become a concert band. These changes include the addition of more clarinets, a set of tympani drums and a piccolo.

Don't miss assembly March 6. A "Pops" Concert, no less, is in the offing. At the present time, the band, under the direction of Mr. Henric, is rehearsing numbers by George Gershwin, Sigmund Romberg, Al Jolson and others. The band will also present a concert in assembly at the Bloomsburg High School, as well as a radio broadcast from B. S. T. C.

Various small instrumental groups within the band are rehearsing for special numbers. A clarinet quartet, composed of Francis Hantz, Kenneth Waters, Ted Wiedenman, and Rodd Long will play a group of modern clarinet arrangements by Jerry Sears.

A flute trio, composed of Jean Saxton, Fern Shellenberger and Bertha Mae Sturman, will play a novelty selection, "Three Blind Mice."

No "Pops" Concert would be complete without a few solid boogie woogie renditions. Just wait 'til you latch on to "Pig Foot Pete" and "Cow Cow Boogie," hustled out by another special group, featuring that mighty trumpet of George Thear. Need I say more?

VALENTINE PARTY

The B-Club meeting, held at Miss MacCammon's home January 27th, was a preliminary to Valentine's Day. The supper meeting centered in a hearts and cupid theme. A decorated centerpiece held a Valentine for each member. The supper committee, composed of Anne Baldy, Barbara Greenly, Jean Richard and Helen Wright, served a delicious meal of ham patties, pineapple, sweet potatoes, string beans, rolls, coffee and dessert.

A committee was appointed to send invitations to Alumnae and to invite the former B-Club members to the weekend trip scheduled for May. Monday of each week has been set aside for wearing of B-Club uniforms.

has planned to serve "pink lemonade." Al Zimmerman had charge of the decorations and of making all the posters that you see around the campus. Several other class members helped him advertise the dance by making posters, too. Of course those who tried hard to promote the dance by selling tickets, must be given credit also.

Thursday afternoon a group of the sophomores under the direction of Al Zimmerman decorated the gym. The decorations are very attractive and the gym has been changed to a land of valentines with red hearts dangling on red and white streamers of crepe paper.

The "Rhythmaires" from Hazleton will provide the music for the dancing couples to swing and sway to. The band, consisting of eleven pieces, is bringing a male singer, (not Frank Sinatra but someone else for the girls to swoon over).

The dance will begin at 8:00 and last till midnight. Tickets for the dance are only $2.00 per couple. Guest cards can be obtained from the Deans' offices.

Student Government Varies In Professional Schools For Teachers

Replies from fifteen colleges and normal schools to an ESAPST Student News Exchange survey of twelve states revealed that in all the colleges there exists some sort of student government.

Tabulation and comparison of the functions and organization of the various types of government reveal that no two are identical and in several cases there is no apparent similarity. In five cases a student government association, composed of the entire student body, elects directly the officers of the student government and a few additional persons to serve as Executive Councils (or Steering Committees, or some other similar, leading group). To all intents and purposes, these smaller groups serve the functions of a college council, although they do find it necessary to meet about once a month with the entire student body. In other cases, a small group is chosen and it serves as the governing body with no reference to the student body. The remainder are generally representative bodies who refer to the student body only occasionally when the decision is one of great importance.

As to the functions of the councils, three appear to be primarily social organizations. One serves as a campus and dormitory policeman. Six appear to have a fair amount of control and assist the administrative officers in matters of policy, student organizations, regulations, etc. Two reserve the right to declare what organizations shall be permitted on campus. One approves the staff of the college newspaper.

Membership of councils varies. On one campus the central council is made up of representatives of the various houses and dorms, with officers of the student government association. Two councils are made up of class representatives only. One college grants equal representation to all classes. Eight colleges have proportional representation on the council, with the preponderance of members being upperclassmen. Seven colleges have representatives of various campus organizations, newspapers, fraternities, sororities, clubs, dorms, etc.—one council even having representatives of the academic divisions. In all colleges members of the council are elected by the classes, although in one of the colleges eight members are appointed by the faculty.

Faculty advisors vary in number and power. From one to three advisors seems to be usual number, and in half the councils advisors have the right to vote. In one college all decisions of the council must be ratified by the President of the College.

Council officers are in three cases elected by the council members. In all others they are elected by the student body. In one college the President and Vice-President of the Council are elected by the students and the other officers by the council. In four colleges qualifications for office state that the candidate shall be of a specific class for certain offices. Councils vary in size from nine up. One college reports 24 members.

Various councils have social functions and three councils sponsor all-college balls, two present annual Thanksgiving dances—one of which is free. Two other councils sponsor annual talent shows, one an annual hayride, and one presents an all-college banquet each year.

Elizabethtown Is Beaten, 60-48 Score

Opponents Prove Easy Prey; Keath Scores Eighteen; Kashner Tops Huskies

Although Frankie Keath showed more success than he did the first time against the Huskies, his outstanding playing was not enough and Wisner's charges defeated Elizabethtown College by a score of 60-48 in Centennial Gymnasium, Friday, January 31.

Keath scored eighteen points during the evening, but six of them came in the closing minutes of play when the Huskies had the game all tucked away.

Bobby Kashner, Johnny Slegeski, and Joe Chesney headed the Maroon and Gold scoring department, Kashner hitting for 15, and the latter two for 13 apiece.

Bloom Takes Lead

Except for the first few minutes during the first quarter when Ira Herr's boys held an 8-5 lead, the Huskies were in front the entire distance. Keath was loose on two occasions and paced the visitors during these early moments.

Kashner, Chesney and Paul Slobozien took care of the scoring as Bloomsburg led, 16-10, at the end of the initial canto. Kashner, Slegeski, and McCaffrey were loose in the second period as Elizabethtown cut down the margin to 29-24.

Third Period Margin

The third period proved the difference as Bloom posted 17 markers while Elizabethtown could garner but 8. Going into the final quarter, the scoreboard read 46-32, Bloom.

With four minutes to go, the Huskies led by a 60-39 margin, and several different combinations were used for the remainder of the fray. It was during this time that Keath again was loose.

For Elizabethtown, Keath was the whole show. Though he did not run roughshod as he has done on so many occasions, his all-around playing was nothing short of outstanding. He showed the best percentage of shots made for the visitors with a .364 mark.

Chesney, Kashner and McCaffrey topped the 400 list for the Bloom five. The team as a unit showed a fair average of .317 while Elizabethtown could boast only a .247 average.

Among the unusual features was one college which required the treasurer of the council to be a faculty member.

Colleges responding to the survey this month were Bryant College, Providence, Rhode Island, State Teachers Colleges at Frostburg and Towson, Maryland; Pittsburgh State Teachers College, Pittsburgh; New York State Teachers Colleges at Bloomsburg and Cheyney, Pennsylvania; State Teachers Colleges at Danbury, New Haven, and Willimantic, Connecticut, State Teachers College, Lowell, Massachusetts, State Normal School, Johnson, Vermont, Teachers College of Connecticut, New Britain, Connecticut, and Rhode Island State College, Davisville, Rhode Island.

Huskies Win Over Shippensburg State

Shippensburg's Red Raiders became the fifth home victim in six starts for the Husky basketeers last Saturday night by a score of 61-46 before a good sized crowd in Centennial Gymnasium.

It was a nip and tuck affair during the first period with the Huskies leading, 14-13, after the first ten minutes of play. Shippensburg led at one point, 8-4, but with Sal Arduini leading the way the Maroon and Gold lads regained the lead.

Just as the second period opened, Marlin Kessler, Red Raider captain, caged two fouls to put his team ahead momentarily. Bobby Kashner draped the nets from his favorite position, and from then on the Wishermen were never headed. They led by a comfortable 25-15 margin at half-time.

Stewart Scores Ten

Just when the Huskies appeared to be racking up a landslide victory, six foot-seven inch Jeb Stewart, the Chambersburg athlete, stepped in and rolled up ten points within about six minutes to cut the score down to a 31 to 35 margin. Once again the Huskies rose to the occasion. Arduini was good on a one handed push shot, Johnny Slegeski hit with a long one from the right side and then came through with a lay up. Kashner whipped the chords, and Bloom took a commanding lead.

During the fourth period, the Huskies continued their last half scoring pace of eighteen points a period. Bob McCaffrey headed the pace with seven.

Well Distributed Scoring

The individual scoring of the Husky five was well balanced, six of them showing a total of six or more. Bobby Kashner and Johnny Slegeski again led the way with twelve and ten points respectively. Arduini had eight, McCaffrey seven, and Paul Slobozien and Vince Washvilla each six. Chesney, Arduini, Washvilla and Slobozien stood out defensively.

"Big Jeb" Stewart headed the individual scoring for the evening with nineteen points, eight field goals and three fouls. Had it not been for the big boy, the game would have been

James Tierney Presents Own Skit

A humorous skit written and arranged by Jim Tierney was presented in a regular meeting of the Business Education Club. The scene took place in a business office where two secretaries were employed. The one secretary, Miss Right, did all the work while the other, Miss Trim, just loafed and, by scheming, received all the credit and also the boss' attention. Due to the carelessness of the office boy, Eddie, the office building burned, but through clever manipulations the boss, Mr. Robinson, was able to recover a large sum of insurance. The cast was as follows: Mr. Robinson, Jim Tierney; Miss Right, Pauline Kokolias; Miss Trim, Gladys Kuster; Eddie, Dale Mantz.

The president, Harold Miller, welcomed all new members and presented the club's officers.

Betty Lehet, chairman of the Commercial Contest, announced the names of those serving on the various committees.

A shorthand contest will be held at the next meeting in which any member of the club may participate.

MANSFIELD AND WEST CHESTER WILL PLAY HERE NEXT WEEK

With the Rider College game cancelled, local cage fans are looking forward to the two conference tests listed for Centennial Gymnasium next week. Both Mansfield and West Chester are in the upper bracket of the conference standings, and the Huskies will particularly be anxious to avenge earlier defeats.

Kodish is Next

The last two games in Centennial Gym have seen two of the state's top scorers in action—Frankie Keath and Jeb Stewart. Next Tuesday night when Ted Casey's quintet appears here another high scorer will be in action. Ray Kodish, Mansfield forward, had scored 201 points in eleven games for a better than eighteen average. Against East Stroudsburg, he racked up 25.

Mansfield has won nine of twelve games played to date against some tough opposition. Although losing to Lock Haven the first time, 64-44, they came back to trim the Bald Eagles, 47-41. Last Saturday they dropped a 69-52 decision to St. Bonaventure, one of the strongest teams in the east.

In addition to the Lock Haven victory, they won over East Stroudsburg twice, Bucknell Junior College twice, Rochester M. I. twice, Bloomsburg, and Hartwick each once. At present they are in third place in the conference standings, only a jump back of Lock Haven and Indiana.

Mansfield's starting line-up will probably be: Kodish and Randon at forwards (they scored 44 points between them against E. Stroudsburg); Harrington at center; and McEneny and Johnson at guards.

Thursday evening will see another topflight team appear in Centennial Gymnasium when the colorful Purple and Gold Rams from West Chester pay a visit here. Always a favorite with the fans, the Rams annually present a strong team, and this year is no exception. They are deadlocked with Clarion for fourth place in the standings.

Although West Chester will not present any "one man" threat, they have a well balanced team. Lew Reynolds is the key man, and he will bear watching. Harrison Stump is another lad who does a bit of scoring, mostly from well out.

Coach Emil Messikomer will probably start a line-up including Reynolds and Ben Monticciollo at forwards; Pete Monska at center; and Stump and Jack Miller at guards.

The Bloomsburg combination which has been clicking has included Bobby Kashner and Johnny Slegeski at forwards; Joe Chesney at center; and Vince Washvilla and Paul Slobozien at the guard posts. However, Sol Arduini, Bob McCaffrey, and Eddie Jones have been showing up well, and this is an aid to Wisner since Boyer and Remetz are out for the season.

POETRY CLUB TO HOLD BINGO PARTY

On February 13, the Poetry Club made final plans for a Bingo Party which will be held on April 11 in the old gym.

The admission is twenty-five cents for twenty games, tax included. The time is 7:30 P. M. to 10:00 P. M. Prizes, including a door prize, will be awarded to the fortunate bingo players. The party is open to the College Community, and everyone is invited a rout.

Husky Percentage Good

The Huskies attempted 72 shots from the field and were successful 27 times for a high percentage of .375. Shippensburg could show only 18 successes in 80 tries for a mark of .225. Slegeski posted the best Bloom average of those shooting seven or more times, hitting the basket four times in nine attempts for a .444 percentage. Kashner, Washvilla and McCaffrey were next with .429. Arduini was the fifth Bloom player with .400 or better.

Kessler topped the Shippers with a .375 mark. Stewart followed with .320, having made eight of his 25 tries.

Kashuba Second in Philadelphia Meet

Matt Kashuba, the best high jump man ever to wear the Maroon and Gold, placed second in the Inquirer Meet at Philadelphia, January 24, third in the Millrose games at New York, February 2, and third at the Boston A. A. track and field meet in the Hub City last Saturday.

At Philadelphia, Matt leaped six feet-four inches, being nosed out by John Vislocky, of the New York A. C., who jumped six feet-five and one half inches. Last year Kashuba defeated the same Vislocky in the Quaker City.

The Millrose games had plenty of competition, and it was here that Matt set his all-time record of six feet-five inches, which was good for third place. Irving Mondschein, of N. Y. U., was first with six feet-seven and three fourths inches, and Vislocky was second with six feet-seven inches.

Last Saturday at Boston Matt jumped six feet-four inches to again place third. Vislocky took the jump with a leap of six feet seven and three fourths inches, while Mondschein was good for six feet-six inches.

All three events proved to be filled with competitors of much-better-than-average ability, and to place in any of them is an honor. The Millrose games annually draw the cream of the crop from various parts of the nation.

Kashuba has been specializing in the high jump the last two years, but he is also noted for the shot put, discus, and broad jump. In a dual meet against East Stroudsburg in 1942, Kashuba finished first in the high jump, discus, and shot put and second in the broad jump for 18 points.

Huskies Edge Millersville In a Thriller

A big first period lead was too much, and the Huskies won a close one from Millersville State Teachers, here, Friday, January 17, by a score of 44-41.

With Bobby Kashner racking up eight points while playing on a weak ankle, the "Goldies" posted a 19-10 lead at the end of the first quarter. From then on the Huskies were in front, but there were many anxious moments, especially near the final buzzer when Raymond Dunlap, Marauder high scoring guard finally began to hit the bucket.

Kashner headed the individual scoring bracket for the night with thirteen points. Dunlap had eleven, Johnny Slegeski and Pecuitch, Miller forward, each ten.

Kenny Depoe, highly touted scholastic star of last year, was held at bay by the Bloomsburgers. He made two of his three attempts good from the field, but Washvilla and Slobozien turned in a fine job backcourt.

Accuracy in shooting, especially from the foul line, decided the issue. Although the Marauders outscored the Huskies, 17-15, from the field, the Maroon and Gold five converted 14 of 22 attempted foul shots while the Millers missed ten.

The Huskies boasted an average of .326 from the field goal attempts while Millersville could get but .262. Honors for the best percentage of the evening went to Washvilla, .375, and Kashner, .353, (seven or more shots).

THE SPORTS DIARY

By MILLARD C. LUDWIG

The basketball season is coming down the home stretch, and though Coach Peter Wisher is still wondering if there is such a thing as "Lady Luck," the campaign thus far has displayed some excellent basketball. One thing is certain, local fans could not ask for a much better home record, the Lock Haven defeat being the only one suffered at home thus far.

Victories have been registered at the expense of the Alumni, Kutztown, Millersville, Elizabethtown, and Shippensburg on the hard-woods of Centennial Gym, but on foreign soil the record has been anything but pleasing, especially to Wisher. The answer to the poor road record is a problem. At home, the Huskies look like a championship team, and fans are wondering how they could lose to a team like Millersville, for instance, by 20 points when the Millers were defeated here, and the Huskies had a patched-up squad.

It is doubtful that a cage season has produced more thrills, and it is not yet over. The "all-important" Lock Haven tussle, for instance, here, on January 11. Although the Huskies were minus Bobby Kashner and Mike Remetz, they were determined to take the game, and the gym was packed. It was Lady Luck again and Sonny Boyer was the third casualty of the year. The fans were certainly sympathetic, for in changing combinations the Havenites were bound to have an advantage. Since then, however, Kashner has come back to play stellar ball, the boys who were on the varsity have showed hustle and spark, and several of the jayvees have been promoted to the varsity and have turned in fine jobs.

The closest game of any at home this year was the Millersville fracas, which had the fans on edge to the very last. It was characteristic of those famous Miller-Husky clashes back in the late thirties when Reifsnyder and Ehemann roamed the hardwoods for the Marauders and Kerchuky, Herr, and company wore the Maroon and Gold.

The Jayvees had a thriller when the Berwick Legion nipped them by a point on a foul shot in the final fifteen seconds. This was the preliminary game to the Millersville contest. The Jayvees have certainly served as a feeder for the varsity this year, no less than six having come up from the ranks.

In Frankie Keath and Big Jeb Stewart, two individual stars were presented to local basketball fans. Although he score 18 points, Keath was bottled-up to a certain extent, for six of his points came in the late stages of the game. One thing can not be taken away from the Elizabethtown star—he is a good ball player. He is not only a high scorer, but he is a team man, handles the ball well, and is plenty fast going down court. One shot in which he is particularly effective is the "right-left-right" switch shot in which, while being covered by a guard, he shifts the ball twice and finally shoots with his right hand, bringing the ball up in doing so.

Of course Keath has been compared to numerous college players. One comparison mentioned was to that of Peter Pasko, the ex-East Stroudsburg star. However, it is hard to compare these two lads. In the first place, Pasko played on a team of stars—Sager, Ford, Mascavage and Disque (the latter two are playing pro ball). His play naturally sparkled with such an outfit. During the time that "Pistol Pete" was in school, the Big Red always had top-flight teams.

Elizabethtown is not a large school, and most of all, it is definitely not a physical education institution. Not taking anything away from the plucky little school from down state, they just don't have the material, for their enrollment is far less than any teachers college. Keath is only a sophomore, and we're inclined to think we'll hear a lot more from him.

The other lad, Stewart, is probably one of the most colorful boys to come into teachers college basketball since Pasko was around. Jeb (not to confuse him with the Confederate hero, Jeb Stuart) is six feet—seven inches tall, weighing approximately 225 pounds. First of all, there is some confusion as to the spelling of the big boy's name. All through high school he spelled it S-t-e-w-a-r-t, and the Harrisburg newspapers carry it as such now. However, there are others who spell it S-t-u-a-r-t.

There were also reports that he played with Mechanicsburg High School whereas in reality it was Chambersburg High School. During the 1940-41 season, he was a freshman at Chambersburg (only six—six then), and he scored 215 points. The following year he rolled up 333 markers in nineteen games, scoring 33 in one contest against Waynesboro. He won the individual scoring race both years, but Chambersburg on both occasions lost out in the playoffs to powerful Gettysburg, an all-around team which was defeated by Lower Merion in the Eastern finals, 21-13.

Stewart entered the service in '43, and just entered Shippensburg during the January semester. That is the reason he did not play against the Huskies the first time. From the attitude of the fans last Saturday night, it is easy to see that a fellow like Stewart is going to be an asset to teachers college basketball. He is somewhat comparable to the well-known professional baseball player, Ernie Lombardi—everything he does is news.

In three teachers college games thus far, Stewart has scored 54 markers, or an average of 18 per game. A big fellow like Jeb usually must score 25 or 30 points before he is noticed. It will not be surprising to see him break some records in the future. Shippensburg will not only benefit from him, but all opponents of the Cumberland Valley institution will be glad to see the big boy around (though he might cause some anxious moments).

Swartz Takes Scoring Honors

High scorer of the Thursday, January 30, round of the Girls' Basketball Tournament was Ruth Swartz, who sank six baskets for a total of 12 points. Second place scoring honors were shared among Bolinski, Sharkey, Pethick, Frye, and Friday, each of whom had eight points.

The most decisive victory of the evening went to Young's team which, with a score of 26 to 8 against Gilbody's team, held an 18 point margin.

A 10-10 tie ended the fast and furious game between Frye's and Buck's teams. Faust's team had but a narrow margin to defeat McNinch's team 8-6.

Dunham's team took Elder's with a final score of 12-4. The contest of Saxton vs. Condor resulted in 12 for Saxton to defeat Condor's team which had 8.

The line-ups of the various teams were as follows:

SPEECH STUDENTS PRESENT PLAY

At a recent meeting of the Business and Professional Women's Club, a one-act play, under the direction of Miss Alice Johnston, was presented by several students in the field of Speech Correction at B. S. T. C. The following students took part in the play: Barbara Greenly, Gretchen Trobach, Evelyn Hirt, Barbara McNinch, Jean Richard, Rosanna Broadt, Gloria Mainiero and Martha Hathaway.

Little Success on Road Trips Thus Far

Huskies Drop Four Straight to Mansfield, West Chester, Kutztown and Millersville

Foreign courts have definitely proved a hazard to the Wishermen this year, for during the past month they dropped four straight after winning over Shippensburg at that place early in January.

With three forwards on the sidelines and a rejuvenated team on the floor, the Huskies took it on the chin at Mansfield Wednesday, January 15, 55-39. A big first half lead of 34-10 was too much for the Bloom lads to overcome although they did cut the lead to some extent during the last half. Sol Arduini and Vince Washvillia paced the Huskies with thirteen and twelve points respectively.

West Chester Next

A West Chester team, which had been rudely dumped earlier by Millersville, defeated Bloomsburg at that place Saturday, January 25 by a score of 57-40. Although on two occasions the Huskies fought back to within one point of the Rams, they never regained the lead and fell completely apart during the last fifteen minutes of play. Johnny Slegeski and Paul Slobozien, each with thirteen markers, paced the Bloom scoring.

Both Defeated Here

The next two defeats away from home came at the hands of two schools which were beaten here in previous clashes. Kutztown, which was an easy victim in Centennial Gym by a 52-39 count, defeated the Maroon and Gold, 59-58, in two extra periods at the Berks County institution, Wednesday, January 29.

It was a close one the entire distance with first one team ahead, then the other. Paul Slobozien, with fourteen, and Joe Chesney and Johnny Slegeski, with thirteen each, headed the Bloom scoring list.

Clarke Deppen, who was the only man who could keep the Avalanche in the ball game here in December, dropped in a foul shot which was the deciding marker. He and Raunzahn, each with fourteen points, topped the Kutztown scorers.

Millersville Easy Winner

At Millersville, February 6, the Marauders continued the mastery on foreign courts by defeating the Huskies, 57-37. Raymond Dunlap, Kenny Depoe and Schultz scored 42 points among them to decide the issue then and there. Chesney, Kashner, and Slobozien boasted the most markers for the Huskies.

The Marauders got off to a fast start, and the Huskies were never in the ball game. A double score of 48-24 at the end of the third period was a big deficit for the Huskies to overcome, and the Millers walked away with the victory. The summaries:

to be relieved. In fact, a survey of new students enrolled in teacher education institutions might well indicate that no more than 50 per cent are planning to enter the profession.

Since a large number of freshmen are not considering the teaching profession, even though they are enrolled in a teachers college, a counseling system becomes important, first, in helping the student make up his mind what he would like to do and, second, to assure the college that those students who continue have the academic ability, personality traits, and professional promise which are desirable in teachers.

The "Bloomsburg Plan" is not a formal guidance system but a counseling system that sets up some of the aspects of the well-known tutorial plan. Since all members of the faculty participate, the ratio of counselors to counselors is one to ten or less. The great influx of freshmen students renders the former system of counseling by Deans and Department Heads unworkable. These administrative officers, however, are responsible for counseling upperclassmen, who constitute about 30 per cent of the enrollment.

The first step in the "Bloomsburg Plan" is the assignment of students to faculty members. Freshmen are assigned on an alphabetical basis, while upperclassmen are directed to departmental directors. It is planned, however, to give the student some choice in the matter of a faculty counselor as the plan develops.

The faculty members who serve as counselors are given the students' grade reports immediately at the close of the nine weeks' grading period. The first conference, then, between the counselee and the counselor includes a discussion of the college quality point system and a computation of the individual's quality point average based on his nine weeks' grades.

Other problems relating to general scholarship, subject-matter difficulties, and study habits are discussed in the individual conference, and every effort is made to suggest specific steps which would lead to improvement.

These individual consultations are not regularly scheduled conferences, but at Bloomsburg the emphasis is placed upon interviews requested either by the counselee or the counselor when the need seems to arise.

There is also made available to faculty counselors student profile charts showing the results of the college placement tests. These charts containing data relating to intellimore recent work in business teacher-training institutions. He is a member of the executive committee of the Eastern Commercial Teachers Association and is active in other professional groups.

In his work with the new publication, Dr. Dame will be assisted by a staff of specialists in each of the following divisions: stenography and typewriting, bookkeeping and accounting, general clerical occupations, and distributive occupations. Supervisors, classroom teachers and leaders in the field of business and commercial life will contribute articles of interest to workers in the field. Space will be devoted to activities within the United Business Education Association, such as, testing programs, future business leaders of America clubs and national headquarters notes.

Dr. Dame wrote in the first editorial of the new publication, "We are embarking on a tremendous enterprise . . . (and) I am possessed with a great feeling of humility and a heartfelt desire for the personal cooperation of all business teachers everywhere. Only through such action can success in any measure be achieved."

NAMED ON COMMITTEE

a series of meetings were held at the Penn-Harris Hotel, Harrisburg, Pennsylvania, where President Andruss represented the State Teachers Colleges of Pennsylvania in this voluntary procedure for the improvement of the education of teachers.

gence quotients, English, reading, and general achievement in social studies, natural sciences, mathematics, and contemporary affairs. These profiles are placed in the hands of the faculty members immediately following the first grading period and are often used as a basis for planning remedial work.

To augment these individual consultations, the entire faculty holds a general discussion of selected cases during the semester, and the results of these conferences are referred to the Student Progress Committee for action. These group conferences have proved to be most helpful in bringing together many items of information from sources not available to the individual counselor at the time of his first meeting with the student.

The counselor holds another conference with the student when the semester grades are available. At this consultation, much good is accomplished by helping counsees to plan the semester's work. This series of conferences begin shortly after the start of the new semester.

Faculty members in the "Bloomsburg Plan" are encouraged to have available the latest information regarding the status of the present drive for higher salaries for teachers as well as the efforts being made to improve the social status of the profession. Counselors can do much to encourage worthy young people to enter the profession, while a special effort is being made to encourage qualified students to elect the elementary fields where so great a need exists for teachers.

Although the "Bloomsburg Plan" is relatively new, it has already been instrumental in helping the college to fulfill its stated role in Pennsylvania's educational plan; namely, the educating of teachers for the public schools of the Commonwealth.
