SALES II CLASS VISITS MILL

On Friday, February 28, Mr. Henrie took his progressive Retail Selling II Class on a trip to the Nechoe Knitting Mill, located above Housenick's Garage. This tied in with the program of studying textiles which that class has been doing for the first nine weeks of this semester.

The tour through the mill was conducted by Mr. Cohen, proprietor of the mill, who ably explained and illustrated the various operations of machine knitting. All the machines in this mill are of the circular knitting type. Of special interest was a new and larger machine on which Mr. Cohen was knitting a three color fabric designed to be used for men's polo shirts. This machine contains every conceivable safety device. Whenever any part on the machine is not as it should be, metal will touch metal, the machine will stop, and a light will indicate the area of the trouble. Mr. Cohen also explained how the knitted fabrics must be designed, cut and dyed, in order to be marketable. Trips to other textile establishments are also being planned in connection with this course.

S. C. A. Enjoys Delayed Christmas Party Last Week

At a recent meeting in the Social Rooms of Science Hall, the Student Christian Association held a long-delayed mid-winter party. The organization was unable to hold its annual Christmas party and had to postpone its social gathering until last week.

After a brief devotional service presided over by Shirley Gauger, the meeting was turned over to Shirley Henley and her social committee. Assisted by Mary Shoemaker, Shirley got the party off to a lively start by having the members sing "White Christmas," "Easter Parade," and "Happy Birthday."

The other members of the social committee then took charge of the various games, which included trying to find the biggest sourpuss in the room, "Zip and Zap," and the ever-popular "Truth and Consequences," which provided the biggest laughs of the evening. Betty Bolig proved to be a relentless quiz-master; the contestants took the "Consequences" even if they gave the correct answer! Among the more hilarious stunts performed by the contestants were Betty Phleger's imitation of a woman getting up in the morning, Carson Whitesell's imitation of a milkmaid milking a cow, and LaFerne Shirk's mock proposal to one of the male members of the organization.

At the conclusion of the games, the members were served refreshments consisting of ice cream, soft drink, and pretzels.

A Letter From Home

Nothing irks a genuine college boy any more than shaking out the envelope from home and finding nothing in it but news and love.

COUNCIL MEMBERS OF THE COLLEGE

The following is a list of all members of the College Council for this year. These people have been doing excellent work in their relentless efforts to govern and supervise the college affairs in such a way as to promote cooperation and satisfaction among the members of the college community.

President ----- William Horvath
Vice-President ----- Robert Martin
Secretary ----- Betty L. Fisher
Treasurer ----- Joseph Lyons

Senior Class

President—Paul Rowlands, First Semester; Lado Savelli, Second Semester.

Representatives—Walter Kreitzberger, Alberta Naunas.

Junior Class

President ----- Harry John
Representatives—Mary Moser, Gerald Demaree, First Semester; James Tierney, Second Semester.

Sophomore Class

President ----- John O'Donnell
Representatives—Kenneth Wire, Shirley Henley.

Freshman Class

President ----- Herman Kuster
Representatives—Marie Mack, Robert Kashner.

FASHIONS FILM TO BE SHOWN TODAY

On Friday, March 7, the Retail Sales Department, will present a motion picture "Tomorrow Always Comes" in the Carver Hall Auditorium for the benefit of the sales classes and interested members of the college community. The picture will feature Bur-mel fabrics with original fashions in gorgeous color.

The picture will be shown twice; at 2:00 P. M. and 3 P. M. so that both sales classes and anyone desirous of seeing this highly educational as well as entertaining film will have the opportunity to do so.

Silent!

At a dinner party, the subject of eternal life and future punishment came up for a long discussion, in which Mark Twain, who was present, took no part. A lady near him turned suddenly toward him and exclaimed:

"Why do you not say anything? I want your opinion."

Twain replied gravely:

"Madam, you must excuse me. I am silent of necessity. I have friends in both places."

Foucault Pendulum Is Being Installed In Science Hall

SCHOLARSHIP AWARDS ARE PRESENTED

At the Thursday morning assembly, February 27, Rose Thompson received the $100 R. Bruce Albert Scholarship and Elizabeth Lehet and Albert Rickmers each received $50 Alumni Scholarships.

In presenting these awards, President Andruss stated that they were based on scholastic attainment, personality, professional promise and need.

The $100 award was founded in memory of Bruce Albert, a former president of the Alumni Association. An Alumni fund of nearly $15,000 was established during the late Mr. Albert's presidency in 1888, and the scholarship is an annual award to a student of the college whose achievement and scholastic standing merit reward.

To perpetuate the spirit of helpfulness several members of the college alumni have gathered some money and now want to announce the establishment of the Irma Ward Fund. This will be for small, short-time loans to students, to be made without the legal procedure necessary for larger loans.

For reasons due to conditions outside the college, there has not seemed to be much need for the small loans in recent years. It has been decided, therefore, to convert the Loan Fund into $50 scholarships to be awarded annually to a student who meets the following conditions: A sophomore, junior, or senior working in the college dining room who has better than average scholarship, fine character, and gives promise of becoming a good teacher.

On March 4, Dr. Kehr, on behalf of the alumni who created the Ward Fund, announced that the Irma Russell Ward Scholarship for 1946-47 has been awarded to Elizabeth Lehet.

Creation of Poetry Discussed

At a recent meeting of the Poetry Club "The Creation of Poetry" was the topic of discussion. The president of the organization, Albert Rickmers, who was in charge of the program, gave some helpful hints to the amateur but ambitious poets. He defined and gave illustrations of iambic poetry and the well-known sonnet.

During the meeting, program committees for the following year were announced in addition to the announcement that a section of the "Maroon and Gold" would be set aside each week for a poem written by the various club members.

Pendulum to Show Rotation of Earth; Scientific Wonder of Universe

The question in the minds of the student body at the present time is, "What are they doing in Science Hall?" Everything seemed to be normal, until one day the radiator on the main floor was missing. The next day someone had painted this section of the floor and drew some sort of geometrical design on it. By the end of this week, when the final work is completed, the student body will be gazing on one of the scientific wonders of the universe.

At the present, the Science Department, under the direction of Mr. Lanterman and Mr. Shortess, is engaged in the installation of a Foucault pendulum. Leon Foucault was a French physicist who showed the rotation of the earth on its axis through the use of a long pendulum.

The length of the pendulum will be approximately forty feet, extending from the ceiling to the first floor. The brass ball at the bottom of the wire will weigh about fourteen kilograms. The geometrical design on the floor, when completed, will represent the face of a compass. Once the pendulum has been started, it will remain in motion for a period of twenty-four hours. During this time the earth will revolve, and the path of the pendulum will be changed in regard to the compass on the floor. It will take twenty-four hours for the pendulum to return to its original path. The pendulum does not turn with the earth because it is mounted on a swivel in the ceiling.

The College Community should be proud of the undertaking of the Science Department, because there are very few schools in the country today, that have taken the trouble to install such equipment for the benefit of the whole student body.

SCRIBBLER'S CLUB BEING FORMED

The Scribbler's Club, one of the new extra-curricular activities to appear on the campus, held its first meeting Monday, March 3, in Science Hall. This organization promoted by a few students who like to write and who are interested in discussing their ideas with other students having a similar talent.

Anyone on campus who enjoys "scribbling" in any form—short story, narrative or descriptive writing or essays—is heartily welcomed to join. The club members do not intend to hold regular meetings or elect officers, but rather to get together informally when they like.

Keeping in Line

You'll find that if you're too far ahead of the procession you're just as much alone as though you were way behind it.

Passe

World War II is now passe, but its effects are still being experienced and will be remembered for years and generations to come. Can you imagine a child who has never known the joys of a pretty dress, a new pair of shoes and a life undisturbed by worry about where her next meal is coming from? Or the thrill of bright, shiny toys on Christmas morning. Or perhaps the sense of uninhibited pleasure in making mud pies?

We Americans have a natural tendency to forgive and forget. In many circumstances this characteristic is to be praised. But we cannot forget the war and what it has done to our "one world." The question is "Can you and will your conscience let you forget such things as nameless, starving people?" You would not ignore and shun a next door neighbor whose house had burned down and who was starving. Then why ignore a neighbor across the sea? Water is no boundary where friendship is concerned. Friendship knows no boundaries.

Everyone has seen pictures of these living ghosts in the human race. Ghosts are mere phantoms of what could and should be healthy, active members of society. We can all help in the fight to revive and to instill new hope in these people. Let's not fool ourselves into thinking we are doing our part merely by contributing to the clothing drives. Financial, as well as spiritual aid is urgently needed. But, whatever direction your help takes, give it with the knowledge that you're contributing to a worthy cause.

Few are the persons who want to grow old so to help you keep yourself from growing old, we offer the following suggestions:

1. Drink a full quart of whiskey and then take a ride in a car. Drive as fast as you can to get plenty of fresh air.
 2. Eat more than you can hold at least 10 times a day and get as little sleep as possible.
 3. Sleep in wet basements with leaky gas tanks.
- Follow these simple rules and you will never be bothered with the affliction of old age. —The Collegio.

NIGHT RIDER

The blinding rain smashed against the windshield of Joe's "Mack" with unrelenting force. Joe didn't hear the low rumbling of the diesel motor, the drumming of the rain against the cab, or the steady click, click of the windshield wiper; he was too concerned with watching the road. The rain slanting down into the headlights played tricks on his eyes, and every few minutes he had to close them and shake his head.

Joe had driven truck for three years in the army, and he had been driving this semi-trailer job for six months now between his home town and New York. Even with all this driving time he couldn't recall having driven in weather as bad as it was tonight.

A small yellow sign on the edge of the highway warned Joe of an approaching curve—a bad curve, the scene of many tragic accidents, and appropriately named the "Devil's Elbow." As he let up on the accelerator, a figure jumped into view on the highway in front of him. It was a girl! Quickly, but gently, Joe pressed his foot on the airbrakes and brought the huge truck to a halt. He opened the cab door and the most beautiful girl he had ever seen climbed in beside him. Her clothes were dripping wet, and her hair hung down over her head in dripping strands, but still she was beautiful.

Joe started the truck again and asked his beautiful companion what she was doing along the highway on such a night. She told him that she had been driving to her home in the next town and had gone off the road on the curve. Further conversation revealed her name and address.

After driving for a few more miles, Joe heard something banging the side of the trailer. He stopped the truck and got out to close the rear door of the trailer which had come unlatched. Climbing back into the cab, he realized that the girl was no longer there. He jumped out and walked around the trailer calling her name, but the only answer he got was the steady beat of the rain against the road. Puzzled, he climbed into the cab again and started out for the next town, planning to look up the girl's parents and tell them what had happened.

It was now about 2:30 A. M., and all the houses were dark except one. Joe soon realized that this was the house he was looking for, and a queer premonition entered his mind that they were expecting him. He got out of his truck and went to the door, but before he could knock, an elderly gentleman opened it and asked him to come in. An elderly woman was seated in the living room and was the first to speak.

"We have been expecting you," she said. "Have you seen our daughter?"

Joe was speechless for a minute, but he soon regained his poise and told his story.

The old lady had tears in her eyes when Joe finished, and her husband put his arm around her and said, "You see, our daughter was killed in an automobile accident on that curve four years ago, and every night on the anniversary of her death she comes back and hails a ride. You are the third person to come here and tell us that story since she was killed."

When Joe left the house he didn't even notice that the rain had stopped, and the sky was studded with stars.

THE POETRY NOOK Daddy's Little Darling

I'm "Daddy's Little Darling!"
 I stay home every night.
 I study all my lessons
 So I'll be very bright.

I'm going then to college
 And I'm going to study there.
 And I'll do all my lessons
 With very special care.

You poor disillusioned child
 I wish you only knew
 That college students exaggerate
 The work they really do.

They have a lot of work to do,
 And that I'll not deny.
 But if they say they're worked to death
 I'll bet it's all a lie.

For you see your daddy also went
 To college in his day.
 And college students praised themselves
 In just the self-same way.

PAT DEAN.

Lewis Mentor of Baseball Team

Thomas A. Lewis, Sunbury, will coach the college baseball team for the coming season. This announcement was made official last week by President Andruss. John A. Hoch is faculty sponsor of the nine.

Lewis coached the well known Olmstead Field Flyers during the 1944 and '45 seasons. During those two years, the Flyers played a "suicide" schedule, which included major league teams. Their list of victims included the Philadelphia Athletics, New Cumberland Reception Center and Indiantown Gap.

During the '45 season, Olmstead twice met the navy-manned Husky nine and defeated the locals on both occasions. Olmstead was regarded as one of the baseball powers of the east during the war years. Last year under the management of Andy Giermak, a former Husky around 1937-40, Olmstead Field got to the semi-finals in the National Amateur Baseball Tournament.

Before entering here in January, Lewis won four letters in both football and baseball at Susquehanna University under Amos Alonzo Stagg,

Announce Schedule For Tournament

The annual Scholastic Basketball Tournament held here each year got underway last evening with some fast action in the three classifications.

In Class "A," Danville met Newport Township. Class "B" scheduled Mifflinburg and Rock Glen while the Beaver Township-Kingston Township and Warrior Run-Catawissa games produced the action in "C" bracket.

At press time, this evening's card was not a certainty, for at that time it was not known definitely whether Bloomsburg would enter, pending the outcome of their skirmish with Milton for the Susquehanna League.

Other question marks included a team to meet Tremont on Saturday evening and Mt. Carmel's entry in Class "A." Due to the fact that state eliminations are held the same time as the tournament, many of the teams must await their outcome before being certain whether or not they could enter. Such is the case with Mt. Carmel, which met Coal Township for the championship of the Keystone.

Included in the tournament are high class ball clubs. In Class "A," Mt. Carmel, should the Tornadoes enter, has a high scoring machine and boasts of a great center in Wisniewski. Newport Township and Bloomsburg, should the latter enter, also will present smooth functioning machines.

Class "B" presents an unusually large amount of strong teams. Abe Sheradin's Tremont five has been winning all season. Conyngham was nosed out both times by a hair in the Keystone race. Norry caused some unpleasant moments for top Susquehanna clubs, and Rock Glen has had a good season.

Class "C" finds a number of schools in the "upset" bracket, many of them playing the role of giant killers during the past season.

Games will begin at 6 P. M. tonight and tomorrow evening. The cost to college students is twenty-five cents for a complete evening of fast entertainment.

The Schedule

Tonight (Friday)

6:00—Nuremberg vs. Lehman Township—(C).

7:00—Conyngham vs. Wilkes-Barre—(B).

8:00—Shamokin vs. Bloomsburg—(A).

9:00—Shickshinny vs. Northumberland—(B).

Saturday Night

6:00—Sheppton vs. Newton-Ransom—(C).

7:00—Tremont vs. Opponent to be named—(B).

8:00—Sunbury vs. South Williamsport?—(A).

9:00—Mt. Carmel? vs. Hanover Township—(A).

In the event that both Mt. Carmel and South Williamsport cannot enter, Sunbury will meet Hanover Township. Those with question marks at press time were uncertain entries.

Chem. Prof.—Come, come, give me the answer, please!

Student—I can't say it, but it's on the tip of my tongue.

Another Student—Gracious! Don't swallow it—it's arsenic!

Bill—You dance wonderfully well.

Betty—I wish I could say the same about you.

Bill—You could, if you could lie as I do.

THE SPORTS DIARY

By MILLARD C. LUDWIG

The Scranton game marked the termination locally of intercollegiate basketball activities for another year. In reviewing the season, there were many bad spots, but there were also good ones. At present, Bloomsburg's position in the conference is a low tenth with the possibility of going a notch lower or higher after the other teams decide how things will come out this weekend. The complete season's record of seven wins in seventeen starts is not particularly impressive, but with a few strokes of luck here and there in the Lock Haven, Mansfield and West Chester games near the end of the season, an equal margin above the .500 mark could easily have been the result.

* * * * *

Though plagued with the injuries here and there, the Huskies rode through the first five games with four victories and were prepared to meet Lock Haven in the big test here, January 11. Although the charges of Peter Wisher were without the services of Mike Remetz and Bobby Kashner, they were set to meet the Bald Eagles head-on.

* * * * *

Wisher was forced to bring up several boys from the jayvees to replace the missing men. Paul Slobozien was one of those to receive a promotion and turned out to be one of the spark plugs of the varsity. Others who aided were Bob McCaffrey, Frank Scatton and Georgie Paternoster.

* * * * *

In addition to Slobozien, probably the most improved player on the varsity squad was Eddie Jones. His play in the last five games was outstanding. Not only was he a good rebound man, but he developed a scoring punch which aided the Huskies considerably. Until the last three games, Johnny Slegeski led the team in scoring.

* * * * *

Except for the final game here with Scranton (which he would rather forget), Bobby Kashner was nothing short of sensational. His offensive play was priceless to the attack, but like Boyer, he was also a marvel on defense, jumping and leaping at anything resembling a basketball.

* * * * *

Joe Chesney closed out a brilliant four years varsity career by playing a sterling brand of ball. The Mt. Carmel veteran was a big gun on attack and was getting his share of rebounds. In addition to Chesney, it is doubtful that you could find a more aggressive player than Vince Washvilla, also of Mt. Carmel. Washvilla is not a high scorer, but if a record of assists were kept Vince would get his share.

* * * * *

The all-round utility man of the squad was Sal Arduini, Jersey Shore, who could fill in at any position. Arduini was a good ball handler, but he came through offensively when the going was tough. Walther and Johns also aided the replacement bracket when called upon.

* * * * *

Looking ahead to next year, the losses of Chesney and Washvilla will be felt, but with the probability that most of the other boys will be back there should be ample material. Assuming that all of the others return, the Huskies should be ready to take on all comers, barring injuries, of course.

* * * * *

The Jayvees, which all season served as a feeder for the varsity, showed an excellent record of eight victories in eleven starts. They defeated the Wreckers, Milton Elks, Pottsville P. S. C., Berwick "Y," Danville Moose, Danville Mfg. Co., Allentown Vets, and Scranton U. Jayvees while losing to Pottsville in a return engagement, Scranton, and the strong Berwick Legion.

* * * * *

This column is in receipt of a letter from an irate student who last week was apparently enraged no little because Matty Kashuba did not get the chance to enter the A. A. U. meet in New York City. The letter was really a corker, and this writer would like to have printed it in its entirety, but a standing rule of the paper is that all communications must be signed.

* * * * *

Anyway, this student (or as he said, a representation of students) claimed the reason was that funds prevented Matty attending the meet. Funds, I might say, are not only low at this school but also at all other teachers colleges. Much money was spent on football and basketball at nearly every institution—more in most cases than had earlier been provided—with the result that every other sport, most of them spring sports, suffered from the heavy toll. Many teachers colleges are not even having track this year. Bloomsburg will, however, have a track team. Although the baseball budget was cut somewhat, we will also have a baseball team.

* * * * *

The angry student brought out the fact that Matty is a stellar performer and deserves a chance to participate in the big time. That is very true. Although the quiet Forty Fort athlete did not place first in any of the four events he entered this winter, the positions and laurels he did attain ranked high, for to place in those big events is certainly an honor. As the student pointed out, Matty has certainly given Bloomsburg its share of publicity, and the least reward to be given him is a chance to participate.

* * * * *

Needless to say, we were glad to receive the letter. In the future, should communications in the nature of editorials be directed to the sports department, we would appreciate it if it were signed so that we may print it. There's nothing like getting something off your chest, and that's what this student apparently was doing—and I might add, he did a fine job, too.

* * * * *

The spring track schedule will officially be completed in the near future. Roughly, Coach Wisher announced at the informal meeting of track candidates that the following schedule would be reeled off: April 11, Indoor Relays, at Lock Haven; April 24, 25, Penn Relays; May 7, East Stroudsburg, dual meet; May 10, triangular meet with Shippensburg and Lock Haven; and the State Teachers College Meet. This is not official and is subject to change. With all of those events taking place, the track and field boys promise to be in for a busy spring.

Intramural Basketball League In Home Stretch

One of the most successful intramural cage programs in history is rapidly nearing its end with a few unplayed games still on the list before the playoff, which will be staged between the winners of the Gold and Maroon Leagues in Centennial Gymnasium, Monday, March 10, at 4:30 P. M.

Hotshots Defeat Hawkeyes

With Jack Lenhart and Harry John setting the pace, the league leading Hotshots defeated the Hawkeyes, 37-33 in a thriller. The losers' chief threat was Talarsky.

Redskins Upset Forks

In a surprise sweep, the Redskins knocked undefeated Forks Inn into second place, 31-29, with Fred Cook's extra period basket deciding things. "Lefty" Kepping scored 22 points for the winners while Williams kept the Forks Inn team within range throughout the game.

Killers Slay Hurricanes

The Killers won their second seasonal victory by defeating the Hurricanes, 34-27. Johnny Slegeski led the Killers' attack while Luther Butt set the pace for the Hurricanes.

Gold League Standings

	W.	L.	Pct.
Hotshots	5	1	.833
Forks Inn	4	1	.800
Hawkeyes	4	2	.667
Redskins	3	2	.600
All-Stars	2	3	.400
Hurricanes	2	5	.286
Killers	1	4	.200
Rowdies	0	5	.000

Maroon League

"Big Bart" Kellogg led his Kilroy's "5" to a 29-18 victory over the Globetrotters. Shellman was Kellogg's scoring partner while Litwhiler was tops for the Trotters.

Kibitzers Win

In one of the season's closest games, the Kibitzers outscored the Corncrackers by one point to win, 34-33. The losers had difficulty in checking the keen shooting of Whitby. Kieser was the leading point getter for the Corncrackers.

Bullets Undefeated

The only undefeated team in the two intramural leagues—the Bullets—continued its winning ways by hammering Santo Prete's Nutcrackers, 45-23. Charlie Hawk led the Bullet fire while "Lefty" Kepping performed spectacularly for the losers. Unless the Bullets lose their final game, they will represent the Maroon League in the playoff.

Standings

	W.	L.	Pct.
Bullets	4	0	1.000
Kibitzers	4	1	.800
Kilroy's "5"	2	2	.500
Corncrackers	2	2	.500
Local Talent	2	3	.400
Nutcrackers	1	4	.200
Globetrotters	1	4	.200

(Standings include games played February 28).

LEWIS MENTOR OF BASEBALL TEAM

Jr. He also played in the West Branch League for a number of years.

Workouts for battery candidates were expected to begin this week in preparation for the opening game at Lock Haven, April 16. Although several weeks away, Easter vacation will begin March 29, ending April 9. After the layoff, the Huskies will have only a week with which to prepare for the opener.

POOR SHOOTING MARKS FINAL GAME AS SCRANTON BEATS HUSKIES

Maroon and Gold Record Was Lowest Average of the Season; Royals in Front Most of the Way; Final Score Was Scranton 42, Bloomsburg 34

The curtain was drawn on the 1947 basketball season last Saturday night when Scranton University defeated the Huskies, 42-34, in Centennial Gymnasium. For the seventeen game schedule, the Maroon and Gold showed seven victories as against ten losses.

Both clubs were off on their shooting, Scranton boasting a mark of .213, and the Huskies an anemic .141. It was the lowest average by far that the local cagers have turned in all year.

Kashner Is Scoreless

One of the reasons for the Huskies' low average was the fact that high-scoring Bobby Kashner went through the evening without a single point. Until last Saturday evening, Kashner had scored twelve or more points in each home game.

Eddie Jones, Paul Slobozien, and Joe Chesney took care of the brunt of the Bloomsburg scoring, Jones and Slobozien each getting eight, and Chesney seven.

Bad Foul Shooting

Not only was the shooting very poor from the field goal standpoint, but the same was true from the foul line, the Huskies netting only twelve of 22 and the Royals caging ten of 21.

For Scranton, Mike DeNoia led the scoring with thirteen points while Bill Griglock showed ten. Kolojeski's shooting average of .286 was tops for the evening. Tommy Notchick played a fine game before leaving on personals late in the third period. DeNoia was also ejected in the fourth quarter for five personals.

First Period

At the tip-off, the Huskies took the floor with two seniors playing their last game, Vince Washvilla starting at left forward, and Joe Chesney taking the center spot.

In the first minute of play, the Maroon and Gold looked great with Slobozien and Chesney sinking long shots in two attempts. DeNoia broke the ice for Scranton with a lay-up. Slobozien caged a foul. Notchick and Kolojeski both hit to put the visitors ahead, 6-5.

Chesney tied it up with a foul goal, and Jones hit the mark from the right side. Notchick knotted things up with a net-swisher from the side. Kolojeski and Chesney matched foul shots. Then Griglock put the Royals in front, 11-9, and from then on they were never headed.

DeNoia caged two successive field goals, but Washvilla got one in close, and Slobozien whipped the chords from well out to make the score 15-13, Scranton, at the first period mark.

Listless Quarter

The second period showed little in the way of scoring as the two teams time after time missed shots. DeNoia made a foul goal and Kolojeski two. Jones got one from the left side, and Washvilla shot a perfect pass to Arduini who was good on a lay-up to put Bloom back in the game.

Notchick netted a foul, and DeNoia came through with two more points. Walther made one of his two attempted foul shots. Griglock's one handed push shot was good and Scranton led at half-time, 23-18.

Third Period

Play continued to possess little success in shooting during the third quarter as both teams fouled frequently. After two minutes had passed Chesney got a foul goal for Bloom. Griglock draped the nets from the right side, and DeNoia hit with a long one. Jones once more came through with a long shot. Arduini and Jones converted foul shots, and Georgie Paternoster was good from in close as the Bloom fans once more sat on the edge of their seats in preparation for what might have been a thrilling finish.

With Scranton ahead only by 27-25, they proceeded to do something about the matter. DeNoia and Griglock pushed in field goals and Kolojeski made a foul as the third quarter ended, the Tommies leading comfortable, 32-25.

Only Six Field Goals

The last period proved a listless one as both clubs continued frequent fouling. Only six field goals were recorded, three by each team. Lefty Olsheski started things off with a one handed push shot. Slobozien and Jones added foul goals and Arduini brought a ray of hope with a field goal.

This was short lived, however, for Olsheski caged a foul, and Griglock made his favorite, a one handed push shot. Paternoster got a foul and Slobozien hit from well out to make it 37-32 with three and a half minutes to go.

Play then slowed up as Bartkowski made three foul goals to sew up the issue then and there. With thirty seconds remaining, Chesney closed out his collegiate career with a delayed shot from well out. Kolojeski got a field goal just before the final gun.

Two Students Play Last Collegiate Basketball Game

Mt. Carmel Athletes Close Brilliant Cage Careers

Vincent Washvilla and Joseph Chesney, both of Mt. Carmel, wrote "finis" to their collegiate basketball careers last Saturday night in Centennial Gymnasium against Scranton University.

Both entered Bloomsburg in September, 1940, and played four years of basketball. Chesney immediately broke into the starting line-up of a combination that was hard to beat—Walinchus, Herr, Kerchusky, McCloskey. He worked at guard with the defensive wizard, McCloskey.

With Kerchusky graduating in May, 1941, Chesney was moved to the center post the following year, a spot which he has filled most of the time since then except for three years in the service. In his senior year here, Joe became noted, for the "finger-pointing fake," which fooled many opponents and gave the fans a hearty laugh.

Washvilla, an aggressive ball hawk, who at times blossomed into a high scorer but was always trying his best at any rate, broke into the starting line-up as a sophomore.

Against one of those great Millersville combinations in January, 1942, Washvilla became the hero of the game when he hit the mark with two vital baskets near the end of the fray to give the Huskies the win by a narrow margin.

Just as Chesney was well known for his finger-pointing fake, so Washvilla was recognized by his "galloping dribble" and the "stomp, stomp" sound of his feet on the hardwood. Washvilla was the leading scorer of the 1942-43 team.

The surroundings of spacious Centennial Gym were quite different from the cigar-box old gym, where these two athletes first saw action in collegiate basketball.

Both played outstanding ball throughout their time here at Bloomsburg. They played when the fruits of victory were plentiful, and they played when there were lean years—but always they gave their best. This was particularly noticeable during the latter part of this year when the going was tough.

Kutztown Is Victor Over Lock Haven

Score Was 44-41; Indiana Upset by Shippensburg

Upsets continued to headline the teachers college games as the final week of the 1947 basketball season opened. After Lock Haven got by Shippensburg safely, Kutztown invaded the Bald Eagle field house and handed the homesters a 44-41 beating a week ago last Wednesday.

With Lock Haven, Indiana, and Mansfield each showing two defeats, it appeared that the latter two had a good chance of overtaking the leaders. However, Indiana lost its chance last Saturday when unpredictable Shippensburg edged the Indians, 61-59, in an extra period. The loss all but mathematically eliminated Indiana from a possible title.

Mansfield is the only other team with a mathematical chance of overtaking the Havenites. At this writing, Millersville and Kutztown remained on the Mansfield card while Millersville and East Stroudsburg

Husky Reserves Close Season With 69-38 Victory

Paternoster Gets 24 as Scranton is Beaten

The Husky Reserve squad gained sweet revenge for an earlier defeat by handing the Scranton University Jayvees a 69-38 lacing in the preliminary game last Saturday night. This made the Jayvee record for the season eight wins and three losses.

Georgie Paternoster led the assault with 24 points, but every one of the team contributed to the cause. The Huskies took a commanding 16-7 lead at the first quarter mark and were never in trouble the remainder of the distance, increasing the margin to a lopsided 42-15 lead at half-time.

Scranton had edged the Husky Reserves earlier in the season at that place, 50-45, but the Tommy seconds were no match for the Cubs this time.

were to play Lock Haven. Neither is regarded as a set-up, for the Big Red is fresh from a lopsided 76-55 win over Kutztown, which just defeated the Bald Eagles.

In other conference games, California pulled into eleventh place with a surprise win over strong Slippery Rock, 72-67. A few days earlier the Vulcans had been defeated by Indiana, 70-45.

Besides the games mentioned above, here is the general picture during the last few days of the season: Shippensburg will meet Slippery Rock this evening and California tomorrow night. The Red Raiders play both games away and by winning both can finish the season at the .500 mark. Kutztown has two games remaining with West Chester, one having been snowed out last week. In addition to clashing with Shippensburg, Slippery Rock has a game with Edinboro on the books. Those games will close the lid on the '46-'47 season.
