NEA Publishes New Book with Chapter By Doctor North

Book To Aid Graduates In Ed. Administration

A new book, entitled "Teacher Education", is attracting nation-wide attention to the Bloomsburg State Teachers College. One of the chapters, "Selection of Students for Teacher Preparation," was written by Dr. Thomas P. North, Dean of Instruction at B.S.T.C.

Published and distributed last week to all prominent educational leaders in the United States by the National Education Association, the book is designed to aid graduate students in the field of education, particularly those who are desirous of specializing in the administrative phase of teacher education.

The publication is based on the results of three different conferences held during the past three years. The last of these conferences was held at Bowling Green, Ohio, under the sponsorship of the National Commission on Teacher Education and National Standards of the National Education Association.

Attendance to the conferences was by invitation only, and was limited to four hundred prominent figures in the field of education who represented all phases of the educational profession.

Dr. North, because of his prominence in this field, was selected as the Pennsylvania representative to these confabs by the Pennsylvania State Education Association.

Bus. Ed. Club Features Magic Demonstration At Recent Meeting

The Business Education Club had an unusual program at its regular meeting on Thursday, March 3. The club members were entertained by a prestidigitator, or legerdemainist (in short, a magician), who was none other than William Kuster, a Penn State freshman. Mr. Kuster's program consisted of card tricks, sleight of hand performances, and many other professional feats of magic. Various anecdotes concerning the tricks and magical feats accompanied his performance, together with several dealing with his experience as an amateur magician.

Richard Grimes, vice-president of the club, presided over a short business discussion in the absence of club president, William Nester. Nester, at (Continued on page 2)

Secondary Education Conference Scheduled Here on March 26

New developments in the field of high school education will be elaborated in a Secondary Education Conference to be held at the College on Saturday, March 26. Since the in-service program of the College is becoming one of the State's finest, this year's conference, with its theme "Secondary Education for Today," is expected to attract many teachers, supervisors, and school administrators from the Central Pennsylvania area.

Dr. Ralph Fields, Executive Officer of the Division of Curriculum and Instruction, Teachers College, Columbia University, and Stewart C. Hulslander, director of the Division of Guidance, University of Michigan, will be featured speakers.

Dr. Fields, an outstanding educational leader, is a Professor of Education at Columbia, and was Superintendent of Schools in San Jose, California, before coming to Columbia. He served also as Director of Instruction in the California State Department of Public Instruction, and while serving in that capacity, did much to improve the public schools of Santa Barbara, California.

Mr. Hulslander, who served until recently as Chief of Occupational Information and Guidance in the Pennsylvania Department of Public Instruction will speak on "Organizing Guidance Services to Meet Pupil Needs."

Husky Football Team Honored at Community Athletic Banquet

On March 3, the undefeated BSTC football team of 1948, together with the Bloomsburg High School team, was honored at the highly successful Community Athletic Banquet which was held at the Caldwell Consistory.

The principal speaker of the evening was Herman Hickman, head football coach of Yale University. Exhibiting an exceptionally well developed sense of humor, Mr. Hickman kept the more than 500 guests in a continuous state of laughter and mirth by telling humorous anecdotes connected with himself and other famous sports world figures.

Master of ceremonies for the affair was capable Edward Schuyler, editor of The Morning Press.

Assistant Coach John A. Hoch, acting in the absence of Coach Bob Redman, introduced the Husky gridders to the assemblage.

Former Student Speaks At Recent Meeting of Pi Omega Pi Fraternity

The Pi Omega Pi Fraternity had for its March 3 meeting, Mr. Harry John, former fraternity member, who spoke on the actual procedures, practices, and situations involved in present day banking methods. He also described the various office machines used in banking world of today.

During the short business meeting, Jack Purcell called the attention of the members to the fact that they will receive election ballots for secret voting on eligible candidates for Pi Omega Pi officer positions.

After the business period and discussion, refreshments were served to the 23 members present, thus rounding out a thoroughly enjoyable and informative social gathering.

Woman's Civic Club To Award Scholarship

The Woman's Civic Club, of Bloomsburg, recently announced that the final plans for the awarding of a four-year scholarship at B.S.T.C. to some worthy student of the Bloomsburg High School were formulated last week at the organization's regular meeting. The gratuitous scholarship will enable the recipient to enter B.S.T.C. at the beginning of the Fall semester in 1950.

Details of the selection for the new scholarship will be announced at a later date.

Shown above are Mr. John A. Hoch, director of the College's Twenty-second Annual High School Invitation Basketball Tournament which is now in progress, and Joseph Curilla, student director of the affair. On the desk are the three trophies for the winning teams in each of the three classes.

Obiter Extravaganza Gains Student Acclaim as "One of Year's Best" in March 3 Show

B.S.T.C. Student's Article Published In Nat'l Magazine

Michael Iacobelli, a student of the College, recently had an article, entitled "The Semantic Discipline," published in the January issue of "The Modern Language Journal," a nationwide publication.

The paper was originally written as a research assignment for the English II course, under the direction of Mr. DeVoe. The subject of the article concerns the basic need of society for a more communicative language. In it, Iacobelli has attempted to show how a better understanding of the real meaning of words can be accomplished. A fundamental point in his discussion is the "semantic triangle", which shows the relationship between word, thought, and meaning.

"The semantic triangle is the key which should be used for the solution of the two major problems of language. The first problem is the identification of words with things. The second problem is the misuse of abstract words."

The paper concludes: "There cannot be too much stress put upon the meaning of words today. Writers and speakers cannot afford to be easy writers and speakers any more. Every subtlety, and every idiom, every metaphor, must be used with definite understanding. For upon the ability to translate ideas and political policy into terms that have the same meaning to all who use them, depends upon the outcome of the peace of the world for all time."

Iacobelli, whose home is in Port Chester, N.Y., is now a junior majoring in Accounting, and minoring in English.

The January issue of the magazine which includes Iacobelli's work is now available in the college library.

Poetry Club Meets

At the recent regular meeting of the Poetry Club, a poetry quiz was presented to the members of the club. The quiz, devised by Kay Chapin, Eleanor Pupo, and Audrey Terrel, was the quotation-identification type, and was thoroughly enjoyed by those present.

At the next meeting, a round-table discussion of poetry, in charge of Max Kaplan, will be featured.

Yearbook Staff Mixes Business & Pleasure In Recent Assembly

On Thursday morning, March 3, Carver Hall Auditorium resounded with the applause accorded the performers of the "Obiter Follies." The show, the first of its kind on the campus, had a distinctive tone all its own, and was capably directed by Isaac "Zeke" Abraham and Zita Spangler Cortright. The ninety minutes of music and fun have been acclaimed by campus critics as "one of the best all-student productions of the year." Mr. Edward T. DeVoe was the faculty advisor for the program.

Acting as emcee, "Zeke" kept the show moving steadily along with light-natured gag-lines and patter. The only pauses were those taken between several of the cast when Obiter salesmen canvassed the assembly in an effort to promote sales of the college annual. In addition to furnishing entertainment to the College Community, this sales drive was the co-equal purpose of the two-fold extravaganza. Both aims were well achieved—the audience was favorably impressed and entertained, and 76 additional copies were put on order by the peppy sales campaigners of the Obiter staff.

Making its surprise debut on the Carver Hall stage, the "Obiter Chorus" was featured in the first number of the program. Eight girls in gowns formed an attractive setting for the vocal rendition of Cole Porter's "Night and Day," as sung by Harry "Sonny" Coleman, accompanied by Jean Ruckle. Each of the girls carried a parasol, the top of which was cleverly covered so as to present an effective and unusual pattern in contrast as the chorines glided smoothly through a graceful routine. Four of the tops were white, and four were black, thus creating a Ziegfeld-Follies-simulated stage setting that was pleasingly different and unusual judging from past shows presented in assembly. The chorus was composed of eight of B.S.T.C.'s prettiest and most graceful lassies. They were: Susan "Sue" Dreibelbis, Joan Grazell, Kathleen "Kitty" Mitchell, Elizabeth "Bebe" Reece, Madelyn Schalles, Diane Snyder, and Nancy Wesenyak.

The next number was a harmonized presentation of that old, old favorite of by-gone days, "That Old Gang of Mine." Sober-faced and sad-voiced, Grace Smith and Mary Helen Morrow caught the audience's fancy with their clever comedy interpretation and pantomiming as they sang. Enthusiastic applause brought the two young misses back for an encore which they did in a style similar to that used for their first number. The song "All of Me" received adequate (Continued on page 2)

Faith Means Strength . . .

In a recent sermon, a renowned clergyman made this statement . . . "Faith is a bulwark against Communism."

For some time now the very foundation of Democracy has been rocked by Communism. While we attempt to prevent its entrance from the external world, its strength within the country continues to grow. It communicates its ideas to those who, being shaken by a great war, have lost their fidelity in Democracy.

America must restore her faith if her democracy is to survive. She must reunite her people under the spirit which has kept her strong for these many years. Her workers have to relearn to trust one another; in turn, these workers have to trust their employers.

This united loyalty among fellowmen, together with a faith in Divine power, will result in strength. This is the strength America needs. This is the strength America must have if she is to subdue the mighty forces of Communism. (mm)

Invest in Tomorrow . . . Today!

The S.C.A. is sponsoring a World Student Service Fund campaign in this college. This fund is primarily designed to help meet the needs of students all over the world. Such things as food, books, mimeographed notes, and laboratory equipment are only a few of the things which contributions will help to buy. This may seem slightly inconsequential to you, but in reality it means that universities in war-devastated European countries can go on operating—that students at these institutions can continue their training. It also means that the terrific lack of trained specialists—doctors, lawyers, engineers—can be gradually met and vanquished.

Through the W.S.S.F. you may help your fellow students abroad, without regard to race, color, or creed, in five main fields: food, medical aid, books, clothing, and housing.

"Invest in tomorrow . . . today" is the slogan for the W.S.S.F.

Later this month you will be able to do your share when the Student Christian Association committee, in charge of Martha Rapp, will pass out to the student body envelopes for the purpose of containing your contribution. Start saving your pennies now for this worthy and beneficial cause. "Invest in tomorrow . . . today." (me)

U. of Illinois To Be Site of NSA Congress August 24 to Sept. 2

The University of Illinois was recently selected by the staff of the U.S. National Student Association (NSA) as the site of the second annual Student Congress.

Dates of the Congress are August 24 to September 2.

Final negotiations are now underway between NSA's staff and the University of Illinois administration at Urbana.

It is expected that more than 450 student leaders from colleges and universities throughout the country will attend the Congress to evaluate the progress and policies of NSA for the preceding year and establish its program and policies for the following year.

"Illinois was selected because its facilities are the most adequate," said Ted Harris, NSA president. It was not possible to obtain the Union Building at Michigan, dorm space was limited at Minnesota, and N.Y.U. was not centrally enough located.

The period of the Congress has been increased from five to nine days in order to eliminate sessions which have run into the wee hours of the morning, and to insure adequate discussion and full orientation.

LAFFTIME . . .

- Ashtray: Where you put the butts if the room doesn't have a floor.
- Halitosis: Better than no breath at all.
- Janitor: A floor flusher.
- Pretzel: A doughnut with rickets.
- Upper Crust: A couple of crumbs who stick together.
- Goblet: A small sailor.
- Kibitzer: A person with an inferiority complex.
- Honesty: The fear of being caught.
- Miser: A dough nut.
- Dancing: The art of pulling your feet away faster than your partner can step on them.

THE DOOR

by J. Eddinger

I, lonely and timid, afraid of . . . I know, but fear to state!
Knocked softly at your friendly door,
Hoping you'd ask me in; you did.
We sat and chatted quietly, filled With the wonder of finding;
Welded our new-found love with Joyful kiss and eternal vows;
- And sat on, bathed in serenity.
But then, one day, there came Another knock upon your door;
You rose and answered.
With eager voice you spoke;
And then, softly swung the panel shut.
Turning, you gazed at silent me With clouded, puzzled eyes.
I knew, I rose, you turned away;
But then, as if remembering Enchanted days gone swiftly by,
You smiled, and saw me to the door.

400 Lutheran Students At Regional Confab; 12 Attend from BSTC

Over four hundred students from fifty-four colleges and universities in New England and the Middle Atlantic States attended the North Atlantic Regional Lutheran Student Association Conference held at Buck Hill Falls last weekend.

Rev. Edmund Steimle, pastor of the Lutheran Students of the Greater Boston Area, delivered the key address, "Do We Obey Him."

Also featured were brief descriptions of conditions in foreign countries by German, Austrian, and Norwegian students studying in American schools through L.S.A. aid. The 1949 Lutheran World Action film, "Answer for Ann," was shown to the group, and a campfire service, led by Pastor Korte, of Penn State, was still another feature of the conference.

Fifty-four representatives were present at the conference from the Susquehanna Area, of which Bloomsburg is a member. Twelve students from the College attended, along with thirty-four from Penn State, six from Bucknell, three from Lycoming, and one from Susquehanna.

Next year's regional conference will be again held at Buck Hill Falls. The National Conference of the organization will be held at Camp Interlocken, Michigan, over Labor Day.

10 European Tours Offered by N.S.A. This Summer

Study Tours Thru Italy, France, Holland, England, Scandinavia Available

U.S. National Student Association's (NSA) summer program for 1949 has been expanded to include ten study-tours to Europe and Latin America, five - work - camps in Europe, and a seminar in Italy, according to Rob West, NSA vice-president for international affairs.

Closing date for all applications by students desiring to participate in these projects has been set for March 15 because of the necessity for selecting the participant, arranging sailings, and preparing orientation material for those selected, said West.

Outstanding among the summer study opportunities is the seminar in Latin literature, architecture, Roman history, and archeology to be conducted at Sorrento, Italy, August 4 to 28. In addition to many side trips from Sorrento, plans include visits to the seminar by Italian authorities in the special fields - plus many trips to Rome and Naples to visit famous foreign and Italian artists.

A special trip is prepared for students of history and literature to the Library of Benedetto Croce, and, if possible, a meeting with this famous philosopher. Students of archeology will visit many excavations including the new workings of St. Peter Basilic.

Study-tours are being planned to every country in Western Europe and proposed for five countries of Eastern Europe. The tri-nation tour of last year will be repeated to France, Holland, and England, expanded to include a total of 210 students in small traveling groups.

A Northern study-tour will visit Holland, England, and Scandinavia, for two groups of 50 students. A southern study-tour will spend fifteen days in France, three weeks in Italy and a week in Switzerland.

A special Scandinavian tour of Denmark, Sweden, Norway and Finland will be composed of 400 students divided into small traveling groups and including a work-camp period in one of the countries visited.

A study-tour of Switzerland and Italy for sixty students will spend three weeks in each of those countries, while a Holland-Switzerland study-tour will be conducted through these countries with visits to Italy included for forty students. An international tour for 30 students will visit six countries in West and Southern Europe.

Two tours to East Europe are still tentatively proposed, one to Czechoslovakia, Hungary and Poland for 19 students and one to Czechoslovakia, (Continued on page 4)

Obiter Extravaganza Gains Student Acclaim

justification at the hands of Smith and Morrow, which was indicated by the sounds of acclaim that issued from the audience. Accompanying the two girls for "Gang" was Dorothy Lovett. For "All of Me" the inimitable girls forsook the tones of the ivories, and left the harmony and melody to their vocal cords.

Coleman returned to the stage for his second appearance singing "Golden Earrings," and again accompanied by Jean Ruckle.

"Shades of the Old West!" someone was heard to exclaim as the curtains parted for the next act. The scene revealed to the assembly was that of an old-time western bar, complete with bartender, bar, and "drinks." "Zeke," the bartender, was attired in white apron and shirt sleeves as he "set 'em up" for "Cowhand" Coleman, who was leaning manfully against the mahogany. In the opposite corner, that "back-room piano man," Dick Wagner, was unconcernedly tinkling the blacks and whites. To the tune of "Deep in the Heart of Texas," the chorus came prancing onto the scene, then breaking line-up to give the place the "once over." They were appropriately attired for this number in plaid shirts and jeans, pistols and holsters, and looked convincingly westernish and tomboyish. Settling down to a noisy poker game, they turned their attention briefly to "Sheriff" Eldon Berry, the "Two-gun Kid," as he sauntered confidently into the saloon. The object of his search was "Dirty-neck Mabel," played by "Kitty" Mitchell. With little difficulty, however, this deputy of law and order was turned quickly back when faced by the menacing tactics and hardened sneer of the "moll of the West."

The piano resumed its backroom beat once more, then turned to a different strain as it furnished accompaniment for the vocalizing "Cowhand" Coleman as he sang "Blue Shadows on the Trail." As he finished his song, the curtains closed on the "Oh's" and "Ah's" of the cowgirls whose admiration he had won with his masterful ballad serenading.

Since their first appearance, no student musical variety program has seemed complete without several selections by Ruth Von Bergen and Dick Wagner. The popular duo chose this time to present a two-piano arrangement of "Night and Day," which was done in their usual satisfying manner. An original improvisation of "Honeysuckle Rose" was the second offering of the pair. Audience applause returned them to the stage for an encore, for which they played Hoagy Carmichael's "Stardust," which they presented skillfully and pleasingly.

Frank Luchnick and John Trimble, "the roving cowboys," were in rare form as they again won the overwhelming applause of the student body with their presentations of western ballads as only they can interpret them. Adding to the effect of their individualized stylings was the bow tie worn by "Johnny." In each of the two wings of the tie was a small flashlight bulb which the wearer winked provocatively on and off at appropriate moments. "Frankie" provided the guitar accompaniment as he harmonized with his range pal on melodies both new and old.

Closing the hour-and-a-half of musical gaiety was another production by the Obiter chorus-line. The girls, again attired in gowns, prouetted about the stage in a routine set to the accompaniment of George Lambrinos as he sang Irving Berlin's well-known composition, "A Pretty Girl Is Like a Melody." Delphine Buss presided at the piano for this climaxing finale.

SIDELINES IN SPORTS . . .

by Wayne Von Stetten

The boys from the Associated Press have issued their 1948-49 All-State Teachers College basketball fives. Our own Charlie Boyer, that handsome individual from over Pottsville way, was named on the second team. This was the third consecutive year Boyer has landed a position among the coveted "All Staters." Big Elm Kreiser, who played brilliantly throughout the season and displayed the most consistent brand of ball, in our opinion, was given honorable mention. Our Huskies, by placing two men on the AP team, were well represented in spite of a mediocre season.

We noticed with a great deal of pleasure that Jackie McClelland, of Shippensburg Teachers, snared a berth on the first team. In the three years we observed the sharpshooter from the Cumberland Valley, he has shown us more than All-State play. In addition to averaging better than twenty points per game, he was a ball of fire with the fast break and played fine defensive ball as well. Husky fans who witnessed the Red Raiders-Huskies game at Shippensburg this year are still talking of Jackie McClelland and his performance against our boys. Our hats are off to the AP boys for making a fine choice.

The coming of warmer weather, which seems to be setting in a bit early this year, will afford Coach Bob Redman a chance to size up his proteges who have been working out daily in the Benjamin Franklin School gymnasium. While indoor practice has its advantages, it's difficult to ascertain the strength of your pitching staff until the fingers commence chucking regulation intrasquad games upon Mt. Arctic. It is our hope that Coach Redman can come up with a hurler or two who can survive the gusty gales. Incidentally, speaking of outside drills brings to our attention the importance of a regulation batting cage at Bloomsburg. Many hours of valuable time could be saved by purchasing such a valuable piece of equipment.

Now that the basketball season is completed, it is fitting that we compliment the players who worked very hard to make the season a successful one despite the fact that the Huskies failed to nab the Teachers Crown or finish as high as some of the more ardent supporters predicted at the season's start. Every one of them did a splendid job, and with a few more breaks thrown in their direction, the season would have been more successful on the basis of won and lost. Coach Pete Wisner experienced a bit of difficulty in the early stages of the season in his search for a winning combination, but once found, he did a fine job in molding a smooth combination. The second half of the cage campaign was highly successful.

The intramural leagues have proved to be quite popular with the students, thus fulfilling the main objective. The purpose of intramurals at any school is to furnish those individuals who cannot participate in varsity athletics (many times for reasons other than lacking ability) with an outlet for physical activity. The enthusiasm shown thus far in the four basketball leagues Bob Redman and his able assistants have set up is assurance enough for its continuation in future years. One can't say enough about such a program. In many schools there are facilities for handball, wrestling, and intramural volleyball leagues with amazing results recorded.

NOTES FROM HERE & THERE—
The Annual High School Invitational Basketball Tournament got underway here last week with a bang. There is every indication that this year's tourney will be the most outstanding in the event's long history. A big hand for John Hoch who is promoting the whole tournament. . . The Husky football team expressed in unison after last Thursday's banquet that they are 100% in favor of more food and less talking and introducing of guests at these affairs. See you next week, Sports Fans!

The public-school enrollment for 1948-49 is 24,653,383, a gain of 552,083 over the enrollment a year ago.

24 Newcomers Join Vet Diamondmen In Pre-Season Work

Forty Swatters Answer Coach Redman's Call for 1949 Baseball Candidates

Approximately forty aspirants answered Coach Bob Redman's initial call last week for candidates for the College's 1949 baseball team. The Huskies face a tough fourteen-game schedule that lists tilts with Susquehanna University, Ithaca College, and a number of Teachers College opponents.

The list of candidates, who have been working out daily in the Benjamin Franklin School gymnasium include veterans from last year's club and twenty-four promising newcomers.

Back from last season's squad are: catcher Owen Diehle, first sacker Ed Piestrak, short stop Bob Thomas, third baseman John Czerniakowski, and outfielders Paul Slobozien, Jack Buynak, Clair Mensinger, and Henry Marek. Two veteran pitchers are back for another try at college ball—Mike Evans, rangy right-hander and Henry Brunn, a diminutive southpaw.

Among the newcomers who are making serious bids for berths on the 1949 club is Bill Byham, promising Freshman hurler, who throws from the port side of the mound. Other hopeful newcomers are: Bernie Kotula, Dick Hummel, Dick Ledyard, Bill Bartleson, Curtis Herb, Bernie Hamershock, Ed Kolodgie, Charles Getchey, Stan Levan, George Lambrinos, Don Kearns, Buddy Hartman, Jim Hulsizer, Frank Gallo, Jack Gallo, Jack Thomas, John Sheleman, Don Butler, Hugh Elliott, Ken Borst, and Charles Lewis.

The Huskies open their campaign against a powerful Second Army team at Fort Meade on Saturday, April 9.

Bloomsburg Jayvees Fall Before Bucknell Frosh Attack, 85-69

In perhaps the most exciting game the Husky Jayvees have played this season, the Pups came out on the short end of an 85-69 score against the Bucknell University Freshmen at Lewisburg. The score is not indicative of the brand of ball that was displayed by these two teams as the fans who came to see the Bucknell-Muhlenburg game were brought to their feet many times in the second half of a contest that was to see the victors pull away only in the last few minutes of a hard-fought contest.

Leading a rally in the closing minutes of the third quarter and at the beginning of the last, Al DeGatis, Jim Heller, and Lou Byham turned in some fancy shots that delighted the fans. The locals came within a few points of the Bucknell club only to have Gallagher, the Bucknell star forward, put the home team out in front with a comfortable margin.

Perhaps the most instrumental factor in the Pup's spectacular showing was the shooting of Al DeGatis from outside the foul circle and the accurate passing of Byham who repeatedly set up Husky scores with his well-placed spot passes. DeGatis, Heller,

Don't Laugh Now . . .

An organization known as "Laughs Unlimited" is now dishing out corn by the bushels for persons who have the desire to be funny but can't quite make the grade on their own resources. Listed among its clients is a variety of professional people ranging from senators to school teachers. The appearance of this latter group is good for a laugh in itself, since most of us here plan to teach after we graduate. Traditionally, school teachers are able to make one tried and true joke last a lifetime, and if the profession has now decided that the act should be revised from time to time, it will be a revolutionary change in the field of education. In light of this trend toward variety, it seems that teachers colleges could render their students a valuable service by including a unit on effective joke telling in the curriculum materials course. Since the three R's are more palatable when served up with a little humor, every teacher should keep a straw hat, a cane, and a pair of roller skates on hand for emergency use when all other sources fail.

Now It Can Be Told . . .

The sponsors of the Obiter Show were visibly worried about whether their idea would sell Obiters or not, so they pulled an old trick out of the bag and planted about a dozen 'buyers' out in the audience. Fortunately, they had no need of them once the show got rolling, for it proved itself a double-barreled success entirely on its own merit. It not only sold 76 Obiters but turned out to be one of the best entertainment programs of the whole year. The Obiter sales are now over the 400 mark, which is more than a hundred over the number the staff had originally expected to sell. It might not be a bad idea if a show of this type were to be made an annual affair. It would go a long way toward maintaining student interest in student activities.

Verily, Verily . . .

Any of you local lads who have been quarreling with your female of late might pay particular heed to an observation made by an eminent psychiatrist. This chap claims that the whole secret of getting along with the fair sex lies in recognizing the fact that they are extremists by nature. What he means is that women are always either very happy or very sad, or very something or the other. They are never able to strike a happy medium in their outlook on life—things must necessarily be very wonderful or very terrible. They have even developed a special language of superlatives. A dress or a hat is either utterly delightful or perfectly stupid. In fact, the dress or the hat may be anything at all just as long as it is very much so. This extremist tendency can also be seen in the ever-changing trends in women's fashions. Hemlines are up and down more times in the space of a year than the window blinds in an old maid's apartment. So, young fellow, if you're going to get along with the women, you'll have to take them for what they are—dyed-in-the-wool extremists.

Briefly Noted . . .

The explanation of the campus time system came as a blessing. Actually, there are five different 'times' available at any given moment—three on the campus, one on the court house clock down town, and the correct time. The college could take advantage of this publicity angle and advertise itself as a place where time comes in five delicious flavors . . . Sorrowed banter: the girl with the seven-day kiss—it makes one week . . . The improvement in conditions in the college lounge is encouraging. Shows what a little co-operation can do . . . Stop me if you've heard this one: one of the persons who claimed the plan for the distribution of recreational equipment would never work has signed up for a stint on the committee . . . Barks for Diane Snyder who has shown herself worthy of her popularity by remaining as modest and unaffected as ever . . . We are awaiting the arrival of the drinking fountains, at which time we shall meet the shipment at the freight station and give it an honor escort up College Hill . . . Campus landmarks: Mr. Garner's colorful bow-ties . . . Luchnick claims that Trimble's Hupmobile is a more reliable vehicle than the official Doghouse car. We still wonder whether anybody got hurt in that wreck . . . Class dismissed!!! db

HEARD IT WITH MY OWN EARS—Miss Johnston telling a member of "The Late George Apple" cast to "Drop dead!"

IN THE SWIM. Louise Lohr spent last Saturday at Franklin and Marshall College in Lancaster, watching her boyfriend, Dave Wentzel, represent Dickinson in the intercollegiate swimming meets. Incidentally, Dave won a medal in the 300 yard relay race!

BIRTHDAY GREETINGS to Ruth Doody who was 19 on February 23 and to Geraldine Funk who was 18 on March 2.

A WEEKEND AT WILKES COLLEGE began this morning for the Dramatic Club delegates who were selected to attend the intercollegiate dramatic conference there. Those making the trip are Audrey Terrel, Charley Schieffer, Bob Sickinger, Max Kaplan, and Miss Johnston. The group will return sometime late Sunday afternoon.

NOW WE KNOW why Bill Tiddy was seen downtown in Ray Starr's raincoat last week! Seems that poor Bill ripped his britches on one of those infamous auditorium seats in Science Hall.

MEMBERS OF L.S.A. are still raving about their trip to Buck Hill Falls. It must be quite a place!

AWAY OVER THE WEEKEND. Last weekend Pauline Kokolias visited her sister Louise, who is in training at St. Luke's Hospital in Bethlehem.

Gay Palutis spent the weekend at Penn State with Effie Lou Lichliter and Larry Rekus who were Penn State frosh here last year.

Lois Newman visited friends at Bucknell.

JUST WONDERING why women's intramural basketball games aren't given more publicity. The girls really have some good teams. Incidentally, we want to toss a few orchids to Miss McCammon and Mrs. Redman for the time they have spent in planning and supervising these tournaments.

DID YOU SEE Carson Whitesell when he was back for a visit on Saturday? Quoth Carson, "I'm taking it easy for a while."

DON'T BRING SUIT, I was only foolin'! Guest speaker in the journalism class recently was a lawyer, Mr. Berninger, who instructed the students on some of the more costly aspects of the writing profession. Mentions your kitten had best switch, hisses to kisses henceforth!

THE YARN will unravel more of the same next week, but—nyot nyow!

College men spend so much money getting engaged that they have no money left to get married on.

The train ground to a sudden stop. The nervous lady called the conductor. "What happened?"

Conductor: "Nothing much—we just ran over a cow."

Old Lady: "Was she on the tracks?"

"No," replied the disgruntled man, "we had to chase her across the field."

He: "We certainly had a good time last night for ten cents."

She: "Yes, I wonder what little brother did with it."

"Would you scream if I kissed you, little girl?"

"Little girls should be seen and not heard."

Teacher: "You'll have to remain with me for an hour after school tonight."

Bobby: "I don't care on my own account, Miss Bones. But ain't you afraid you'll get talked about?"

She: "Do you think this skirt is too long?"

He: "Either that or you didn't get into it far enough."

A souse weaving toward the hotel elevator stepped into the open shaft and plummeted down three stories to the basement. He arose painfully, brushed off his clothes, and looked up toward the open elevator door. "You scoundrel," he screamed indignantly, "I said 'UP.'"

"Ah's sorry, but Ah jes' kain't give nothin' to the church right now. Ah owes nearly everybody in dis ol' town now."

"But don't you think you owe the Lord something, too?"

"Ah does. Ah certainly does. But He ain't pushin' me like the rest o' mah creditors is."
