County Alumni To Be College Guests At Game Tomorrow

Columbia County graduates of B.S.T.C. will be guests of the college at the football game tomorrow at 2:00 o'clock when the Huskies clash on the gridiron with their East Stroudsburg rivals. After the game, the guests will be entertained at an alumni dinner in the college dining room.

Dr. E. H. (Jack) Nelson, president of the Alumni Association and former member of the college faculty, will be on hand at Athletic Field to welcome returning alumni. A section of the stands has been reserved for the guests and former graduates and their friends will have an opportunity to witness the season's most thrilling contest from the fifty-yard line.

Eddie Schuyler, editor of the Morning Press and one of the Maroon and Gold's staunchest friends, will act as toastmaster at the evening entertainment. Greetings will be extended to the visitors by Dr. Harvey A. Andruss, president of the college. A brief business meeting will be held immediately after the dinner.

Alumni may pick up both dinner tickets and game tickets for themselves and their guests at the football game which will begin promptly at two o'clock. For those who plan only to attend the dinner in the college dining room, tickets may be procured in the Waller Hall lobby, either from Mr. Sharretts or Mr. De Voe. Alumni, friends, and guests are urged to make the closing day of the 1949 football season a memorable event.

Officers of the Columbia County branch of the Alumni Association are: Edward T. De Voe, Bloomsburg, president; Donald Rabb, Benton, vice president; Edward D. Sharretts, Berwick, secretary; and Paul L. Brunstetter, Catawissa, treasurer.

Bus. Ed. Club Enjoys Annual Weiner Roast

Tuesday, November 8 found the Business Education Club holding its previously postponed weiner roast. The annual affair was held on Mt. Olympus, and a large number of club members were present.

Preliminary to the roasting, a campfire meeting was held with president Edward Messa in charge. Rita Dixon acted as secretary in the absence of Laura Philo.

Following the short business meeting, everyone roasted hot dogs and marshmallows, and sipped cider. Group singing, led by Rita Dixon and Charles Edwards, program committee co-chairman, was an additional feature of the evening.

The food planning committee, consisting of chairman Muriel Marks, Berdine Logar, Margaret Bourdette, and Joyce Sluyter, served the refreshments.

The club is sponsored by faculty member Mr. Walter Rygiel.

Students Entertain

Aiding in extending a "friendly hand" from the "Friendly College" were three well-known campus musicians who participated last Monday in a parents' night program of the Nescopeck High School commercial department.

The opening half hour of the evening was in the form of musical entertainment, which included waltz selections by Emory Rarig and Richard Wagner and vocal solos by Charles Edwards.

The parents and friends were then shown through the commercial department and the students aided in explaining the work to them.

Introducing the Campus Kings . . .

S.C.A. Plans Annual Holiday Activities At Recent Meeting

Plans for Christmas activities were begun at the Student Christian Association meeting on Wednesday, November 2, in Science Hall. Homer Zeigler, president, presided over the business meeting. Jane Kenvin and Marilyn Evans were appointed as co-chairmen to plan the annual Christmas program to be held in the Baptist Church in town. It was also suggested that the club sponsor a gift collection for poor children of town, if some other organization was not planning such a collection.

Modern Poetry Theme Of Poetry Club Meeting

Margaret Dorsavage was in charge of the program of modern poetry discussed at the Poetry Club meeting on Thursday, November 3 in the Social rooms of Science Hall. Katherine Mitchell read from "Murder of Lidice" by Edna St. Vincent Millay. This poem tells the story of Hitler's coming into a little Polish town. Miss Zealburg is faculty advisor of the club.

Knees Up, Toes Down

The high-stopping, military-styled figure shown above belongs to Miss Hazel Thompson, the drum major—and pride—of B.S.T.C.'s M & G Band. Hazel, a freshman majoring in Business Education, is a veteran-expert in the tricky art of twirling and strutting. Before coming to Bloomsburg, she set the pace for the Shick-shinny High School Band, of which she was head drum majorette. Shick-shinny, her hometown, is proud of Hazel — and so are we.

Speech Clinic Classes Journey to State College For Annual Conference

Miss Alice Johnston, head of the Speech Department, attended the fourth annual Speech and Hearing Conference held at Penn State on November 3, 1949. Twenty-seven students now enrolled in Speech Clinic classes at Bloomsburg State Teachers College also journeyed to the conference.

One of the major purposes of this Undergraduate Conference is to provide an opportunity for those persons who are interested in speech and hearing problems to become acquainted with one another.

Charles Schiefer, who received his degree from B.S.T.C. last year is doing graduate work at Penn State, and he was one of seven graduate assistants who presented cases as part of the afternoon program. Schiefer's work deals with cleft palate cases.

Members of the Sigma Alpha Eta, national honorary professional Speech Correction Fraternity, served afternoon tea to the visiting students.

Latvian D.P. Speaks To Lutheran Students At St. Matthew Church

Ivars Avots, who recently came to the United States with his family from Latvia, was guest speaker at the Lutheran Student meeting on Monday, November 7, at St. Matthew Church. He told of his family's flight from the second Russian invasion of Latvia in 1944 and their forced journeys through Germany and Czechoslovakia. For the past several years they have lived in a D.P. camp in the American zone. Ivars worked on a German newspaper as copyreader and proofreader. He has completed three years of Latvian high school, which is equivalent to our four year school, and plans to take up advertising next year.

Robert Maza, Susquehanna area president, attended a Lutheran student retreat at Penn State on November 5 and 6. He reported on plans for the area conference to be held at the new Penn State student house on December 10. Twenty-five students indicated their desire to attend, and Dick Kressler, president of the local group, stated that transportation will be furnished for everyone.

A delicious supper of chicken and rice was served. The next meeting will be held December 5 at the church, at which time final plans for the conference will be made. Forty-six college students attended the meeting.

Curriculum Committees Meet at Green Gables For Revision Session

The curriculum revision committees for the Pennsylvania State Teachers Colleges met last week at the Green Gables Hotel in Lewistown.

The representatives from the various departments of B.S.T.C. were as follows: Mr. Samuel L. Wilson, English; Miss Alice Johnston, Speech; Mr. Howard F. Fenstermaker, Language; Dr. Ernest H. Engelhardt, Director of Student Teaching; Dr. Ted Satterfield, Education; Miss Edna J. Hazen, Elementary Education; Miss Harriet Moore, Music; Mr. George J. Keller, Art; Dr. H. H. Russell, Chairman, Geography; Mr. Ralph S. Herre, Social Studies; Mr. John J. Fisher, Psychology; Dr. K. C. Kuster, Biology; Mr. H. H. Lanterman, Chemistry and Physics; Miss Ethel A. Ranson, Mathematics.

The week of all-day sessions dealt with different departments every day. On Monday it was English, Speech, and Language; Tuesday, Secondary Education and Elementary Education; Wednesday, Music and Art, followed by Geography and Social Studies on Thursday. Psychology occupied the place of importance on Friday, and the sciences, during the final meeting on Saturday.

The purpose of the meetings was to suggest needed changes in the curriculum in order to bring it up to date.

College Trustee Is Rotary Governor

Fred W. Diehl

Special to the Maroon and Gold — Chicago, Ill., Nov. 7—Fred W. Diehl, class of 1912, member of the Bloomsburg State Teachers College Board of Trustees, is a District Governor of Rotary International, world-wide service organization, for 1949-50. As Governor, Mr. Diehl, who is a member of the Danville Rotary Club, coordinates the activities of 36 clubs in one of the seven Rotary districts in Pennsylvania. During the year he will visit each of these clubs to offer advice and assistance.

Mr. Diehl received his bachelor of science degree in education from Bucknell University in 1925 and the M.S. there in 1935. He has been superintendent of schools in Montour county since 1918, and the president of the Montour Trust Company since 1932. Mr. Diehl is also a trustee of Cedar Crest College, president of the Danville Library Trustees, and a member of the district Boy Scout committee. He has been a Rotarian for 24 years and is a Past President

Casting Office Scene Provides Medium for Student Stage Art

"Frosh Time," the cast made up of members of the Class of '53, was a decided success in its premiere performance on the stage of Carver Hall Auditorium on the morning of Thursday, November 3. Produced and directed by Charles Edwards, who has been responsible for the recent series of outstanding student talent shows, the program included a variety of musical artists.

Dave Newberry, who aided Edwards in the staging of the production, acted as master of ceremonies in a scene that was set in the office of the casting director a few days prior to the date set for the opening of the show. The curtains parted as Dave sat tearing his hair and wondering where he could find some talent to participate. Coming to his aid were the performers who had been "notified" of his predicament and who desired to "try out" for a spot in the performance.

Mary Lou Todd received tumultuous applause from an appreciative audience for her excellent rendition of the vocal solo, "Felice." Her accompanist was Mary Joan Williams.

Appearing next on the scene was Francis Stanitski, whose accordion selections, "Sharpshooters' March" and "Helena Polka," were well received.

With no other talent arriving for a few moments, "emcee" Newberry seized upon the opportunity to offer a few select remarks. His humorous anecdotes were accorded appropriate laughter and applause.

Next to enter and offer their services were Ben Linn, vocalist, and Barbara Gulich, his accompanist. Ben sang "Through the Years" for the approval of Dave and the audience.

With no further action apparent, Mary Joan Williams came forward, from her position with the rest of the cast at the rear of the stage, to ivory-ize the pleasing and familiar "Clair de lune," by Debussy.

Last of the soloists to appear was Mary Grace Almers, who added to the growing list of artistic talent as she sang "My Hero." Her accompanist was Barbara Gulich.

As Newberry was about to close places in his casting, a new campus musical group made its initial appearance on stage. The "Campus Kings," under the direction of Henry Marini, provided novel combo arrangements of several "pop" tunes and the members also presented a number of impersonations of immortals of modern music. With Marini acting as "lead man" on the alto sax,

Day Men's Dance Scheduled for Tonite

Don your best dungarees and plaid shirts, for tonight's the big Day Men's round and square dance in the old gym from 8 to 11. Free cider and doughnuts will be served at the stand throughout the evening.

With the Leonard Band providing music, the entire college community is invited to come stag or with dates.

Before the dance gets underway, a gigantic pep rally and bonfire will take place on the training school field at 7:30. So everyone come on out and cheer the boys on for the big battle tomorrow, and then go to the old gym for the shindig.

That's the Spirit . . . !

Working feverishly this past week, the occupants of North Hall have put forth spirited effort for the big game tomorrow between the "Huskies" and their worthy opponents, the East Stroudsburg "Poconos." Russ Looker's 1923 washboiler Ford coupe has taken on a new look; the maroon and gold trimming has made it one of the standout pieces of the Campus Rowdies. North Hall's colonial architecture has also been adorned with signs, posters, and pep slogans encouraging the Huskies to make it four victories in a row over the East Stroudsburg team. Timely efforts by "Fatty" Kollesar and "disc-jockey" Kreitz have made this extravagant affair a "show-stopper" and have initiated some of that good old-fashioned but almost forgotten college spirit, the like of which should be seen more of around here. According to Kreitz and Kollesar, "You don't have to rob the graves to get the spirit. Just get behind our team, and cheer it." (mk)

Frankly Speaking . . .

It seems monotonous and a trifle revolting to keep on preaching honesty to 800 college students—especially college students who are training themselves to teach American children. It shouldn't be necessary if only for professional ethical reasons; but saying that colds should be outlawed doesn't reduce the sale of Kleenex. We have cheating on this campus—not only the "cooperative" helpfulness between Joe and Sally who sit next to each other in History class, but the more serious "test-thievery." Since the C.G.A. Assembly, conditions seem to have improved. We need not rehash the gory details, or present any arguments pro and con as to the reasons for cheating. We don't have to delve into psychology or sociology or gaze with horror upon the "evident" decay of modern educational philosophy. Let's use some straight common sense. Cheating is wrong. It cannot be rightfully justified by any weak-kneed excuses such as "everybody does it," or "we're forced to do it." You are never forced to do wrong. You have the choice.

Cheating is common ordinary stealing and it's no use labelling it otherwise. You are a thief, if you steal answers or tests. Let's not kid ourselves or salve our consciences by a bandwagon excuse that cheating is in vogue. Rather, let's call a spade a spade. In the end, you alone must suffer the consequences—if you can't be moral at least be economical—can you afford it? (jk)

Athenaeum Club Meets

An interesting program of recordings of the works of Franz Liszt was enjoyed by the members of the Athenaeum Club on Thursday, November 3. Betty Ann Walters was in charge of the program. In the absence of the president and vice-president, the treasurer, Clarence Meis, conducted the business meeting.

"I'm living alone with my thoughts."

Armistice Day 1949

At 11 a.m. on the eleventh day of the eleventh month in 1918, hostilities of the First World War had ended. Over 10 million people had been killed on the battlefield, and 20 million more perished as a result of the struggle. But now the four years of fighting were over! Dizzy with excitement, throngs of people rushed into the streets, screaming and cheering wildly.

On the first anniversary of the Armistice the next year, the world was suffering the bitter pangs and anguish of reconstruction. Problems that had been created so quickly by the Great War would take years and years to solve.

In 1921, America brought from France an American soldier whose grave was marked Unknown and buried him at Arlington cemetery with elaborate ceremonies. In the same year Armistice Day was officially declared a holiday by an Act of Congress. Since then the Unknown Soldier has been our symbol for all those who sacrificed their lives for their country in the First World War. In honoring him we honor every brave American soldier . . . those who died and those who lived to rehabilitate a world of ruin.

On this Armistice Day in 1949 let us call to mind the terrible dreadfulness that war brings. Let us see the great beauty and happiness that characterizes genuine Peace, and pledge that we will strive always for a world of mutual concord, a world of perfect harmony.—Marie Mattis the other members included John Di Rico on tenor sax, Ed Goodhart on bass, and Dan Fitzpatrick on drums. Aiding the group with both rhythm and melody was Francis Stapinski and his accordion. Selections played by the boys included "Talk of the Town," "Stella By Starlight," "Temptation," and their theme, "Lullaby in Rhythm." The impersonations were of Frank Sinatra, a "be-bop" artist, and Tommy Dorsey. Much laughter and applause were brought forth in response to the contributions of the "Kings."

During the playing of the group theme song, the "emcee" added a few closing comments and presented the cast as a group for a final round of applause from the audience.

S.C.A. Thanksgiving Program Scheduled

The Student Christian Association will present a special Thanksgiving Program at their regular meeting, Wednesday, November 16.

The meeting will be held in the social rooms of Science Hall at seven P.M.

There will be special music, as well as readings and singing. Present will be a special speaker, Reverend Lundy of the Evangelical United Brethren Church of Bloomsburg.

The Unmentionable

Don't speak to me of love;
I've heard enough!
Just say you like the sparkle
In my eyes, the color in my cheek,
My smile, the way I talk;
Just say you like to walk
With me and hold my hand,
And isn't it grand the way
We laugh together and like
To do the things we like to do?
Tell me that you like my company,
That you enjoy dancing with me,
That you like being with me,
And tell me that when I am near You're never lonely, only
Whatever you say, heaven's above,
Don't, oh please, don't speak to me of love.

BELIEVE IT OR NOT

(Believe it or not, these are some logical conclusions which can be drawn from recommendations made by the Ethics classes about ways to prevent cheating at B.S.T.C. Some "slight" verbal embroidering has been done.)

1. PARENTS should not push students to get good grades.
2. B. S. T. C. STANDARDS should be lowered so that students will not have to cheat in order to graduate.
3. ENTRANCE REQUIREMENTS. Bright students should not be enrolled because they make the competition too keen.

G.I.'s should not be enrolled because they make competition too keen for the recent high school graduates.

Recent high school graduates should not be enrolled because they make competition too keen for the G.I.'s.

4. FACULTY TEACHING METHODS. Courses should be planned so that no student will find them too difficult. If the ground isn't covered, that doesn't matter.

Everything should be explained so that all can understand whether they have studied or not.

The faculty should not use any words which students do not understand.

The course should be made so interesting at all times that students will want to be honest.

Instructors should stick to the book and never get off the subject.

The faculty should cut down the amount of subject matter to be taught so as to allow time for preventing cheating.

(Wouldn't it be much simpler to run college teaching on a high school level?)

5. TESTS should be easy and brief. Questions should be announced in advance. Marking should be lenient.

College Trustee Rotary Governor

With the continued growth of Rotary in all parts of the world, membership in Rotary International is now at an all-time high, with 330,000 business and professional executives active in 7,000 Rotary clubs in 82 countries and geographical regions.

One of Rotary's principal objectives is the promotion of international understanding, good will and peace. Rotary Clubs around the world are making many contributions toward the achievement of this goal, one of the most far-reaching being the program of Rotary Foundation Fellowships, which enable outstanding graduate students to study abroad. Since this program was inaugurated in 1947, Fellowships have been awarded to all young men and women from 26 countries of Europe, Asia, Africa, and North, South and Central America. Grants for the one-year Fellowships range from $1,800 to $3,400. These Rotary Fellows have proved themselves to be unusually effective ambassadors of good will both in the countries in which they have studied and in their own countries following their year of study.

A test should be made for each individual. Under no circumstances should a test ever be repeated.

The faculty themselves should type or mimeograph all tests. They should burn stencils and waste paper in the college test incinerator. A safe deposit vault should be provided for tests and an armed bodyguard provided for faculty members.

The auditorium, the Centennial gym, or the athletic field should be used so that the students can be seated far enough apart.

Students should be searched as they go in and out of the place where the test is being given.

A squad of faculty should patrol each test.

(Wouldn't it be much simpler to eliminate tests?)

The elimination of out-of-class work would also help to prevent cheating.

Then since there would not be much basis for grading, grades could be eliminated.

6. FACULTY. Since the faculty must be super-sleuths, they should be hired on the basis of ability to outwit students.

(Wouldn't it be much simpler to hire college police or private detectives and let the faculty teach?)

Perhaps the best solution to the whole problem would be to eliminate B.S.T.C. That might be a good idea if we are graduating future teachers who see nothing wrong in dishonesty.

SENIOR REPORTS

The class budget has been submitted for administrative approval, and it should be ready for release in the near future. If the present budget meets with both administrative and class approval, class dues will be lower than they have been at any time in recent years. The January dues will, as was previously announced, be slightly higher than the May dues. This is due to the fact that the January graduation expense is being shared by fewer class members.

The plan to have the class picture taken in January has been temporarily suspended and will be submitted to the class for reconsideration at a future meeting. A group picture of the entire class in January would cost an additional $428.40 for gown rental and cleaning costs, and this would result in approximately $1.80 increase in class dues for both groups. The only apparent solution is to have the pictures taken separately, which has been the customary procedure in past years.

The Graduate Announcement Committee will probably begin to take orders for announcements and name cards for January graduates within the next week. The committee is under the chairmanship of Isabel Bollinsky, and any additional information concerning the announcements may be obtained from her.

The dates for the ball and the commencement exercises will be announced within the coming week. Every effort will be made to secure the dates voted for by the January graduates. However, there is a possibility that these dates may have to be changed in order to integrate Senior Week activities into the college calendar.

by Dot Cedor

Personal appearances characterizes the woman. College women take heed! Your personality is primarily determined by your presentation to others. Those extra minutes you spend each day in careful grooming may mean that part time job you'd like or perhaps create an impression on that certain someone. Certainly no girl is too busy to have personal pride in her appearance. Neatness and cleanliness can take you a long way. Give yourself that last minute check before you start for your next class or date.

Fashion flash to the Doghouse: As yet we have not noticed any college women wearing dog-collared I.D's. What brave fashion-wise lassie will be the first to take up the Doghouse on this fad? If these I.D's will add to the college women's date books may we suggest that the college men carry miniature bank books (with accurate figures, of course) and car keys on their key chains.

A new trend in fashion wear is "Optical Illusion." If you're either the too-tall or too-short type, optical illusion will help solve your problems. Dresses are now being designed with stripes, tucks, pleats, and pockets placed in strategic positions so that they will make the tall girl appear shorter and the short girl taller. "Optical Illusion" can also make you gain or lose whichever your case may be. Check with your saleswoman the next time you buy that new dress. You'll be surprised what "Illusion" can do for you.

What is the definition of a bachelor?

Time Out! FOR SPORTS

by Chris Klinedinst

Perhaps we could be considered as members of the Frank Leahy School of Pessimists, but are consoled by the observation that many football fans and enthusiasts are in the same school. To us, each game is the big one, and the season's schedule is taken game by game, with the crying towel being brought out every week. Sure, we didn't look for that Wilkes upset earlier this year, but it turns out that just when you don't expect it, you get the axe in the form of an upset. The same thing happened two years ago when Shippensburg spoiled our Homecoming and won out over the highly favored Huskies.

Our policy is to prepare for the worst and play your hardest, keeping away from over-confidence. Practically every game since the Wilkes College tilt has been the "toughest" in our estimation. Mansfield was respected and feared, but proved easy; Lock Haven wasn't expected to have much but was not to be taken lightly, so in order to win, we thought we'd really have to be "up" for the contest. It turned out that the game was tough and wasn't decided until the last minute of play. Millersville we thought would be hard to get by, but a good performance and an humble attitude brought a decisive win. Kutztown turned out to be a repetition of the Millersville fracas, and nobody conceded Bloomsburg the victory until the final whistle. The Kings and Lycoming tilts were taken more on the light side, but no chances were taken and the coaches, players and B.S.T.C. followers looked for the opponents to play their best to upset the victorious Huskies.

The point of all this discussion is that we believe it to be a better policy to "point" for the coming game and to look for the worst, not to the point of pessimism, but merely keeping away from over-confidence. That is why we should be careful of tomorrow's clash with East Stroudsburg at Athletic Park. Stroud has lost to West Chester and Rider, but cannot be taken as a pushover. In order for us to take this contest the Bloomsburg football population, players and fans both, are going to have to be "up" for the tilt, as Stroud will do their best to burst our bubble. In our estimation this will be the toughest game of the season, as will Notre Dame's clash with North Carolina be their hardest, according to the crying coach, Frank Leahy.

The Huskies are out for the eighth straight and the mythical State Teachers title, so it looks like a terrific game in the offing.

Prediction Corner . . .

Hit a rut last week and ended up with 20 right, 6 wrong and 2 ties. Excluding ties this gives us a .769 average, respectable, but not outstanding. The season's average stands at .804.

- B.S.T.C. over East Stroud
Bloomsburg HI over Wilkes - Barre Twp.
Navy over Columbia
Minnesota over Pitt
Tulane over Vanderbilt

- Army over Penn, Princeton over Yale, Brown over Harvard, Cornell over Dartmouth, Syracuse over Holy Cross, Penn State over Temple, Notre Dame over North Carolina, Ohio State over Illinois, Michigan over Indiana, Northwestern over Colgate, Michigan State over Oregon State, Nebraska over Iowa State, Purdue over Marquette, Georgia Tech over Alabama, Georgia over Auburn, Wake Forest over N. Carolina State, LSU over Miss. State, Oklahoma over Missouri, SMU over Arkansas, Texas over TCU, Rice over Texas A&M, Stanford over Idaho, Baylor over Wyoming, UCLA over Washington, Calif. over Oregon.

Bloomsburg Grid Machine Rolls Over Hapless Lycoming with 48-0 Victory

Reserves See Action in Piling Up 17 First Downs; Tavalsky Boots 6 Conversions

It was a benchwarmer's holiday last Saturday at Williamsport as the Huskies annexed number seven in the current victory string. Coach Redman had everybody in the game except the dietician and the cheerleaders. The final score was 48-0, over a completely outclassed Lycoming College team. Altogether, fifty-seven players fought for the Bloomsburg cause.

Lycoming was never in the game as the Huskies rolled up 17 first downs to the opponent's five, and scored twice in every period except the third, when only one tally was pushed across.

Steve Kriss rolled around the left end for 46 yards and the initial score. The first quarter scoring was complete. (Continued on page 4)

Husky Booters Hold Strong Indiana Team To Scoreless Tie

The Husky soccer squad kept their record intact at the .500 mark by holding strong Indiana State Teachers College to a scoreless tie last week at the Western Pennsylvania school.

The contest was hard and well played, but both clubs lacked the ability to take advantage of the few scoring opportunities. Substitutions were few: Indiana used only four subs and Bloomsburg sent in one.

The contest marked the first tie of the year for the Shelly-coached aggregation and the third straight shut-out posted against the booters. The slate now reads: three wins, three losses, and one tie. (Continued on page 4)

Huskies Point for Crucial Battle With East Stroudsburg Tomorrow

B.S.T.C. Gridders Rank 2nd in State Scoring With 201 Point Total

B.S.T.C.'s Huskies are in second place in the State's scoring race, it was announced this week by the Associated Press. The local footballers have amassed a total of 201 points in eight contests, while the leader, Villanova College, has scored 220 in the same number of tilts.

Kutztown, the leader two weeks ago, dropped to fifth place with 192 points, trailing Gettysburg and Wilkes College, each with 194.

Victory Over Warriors Can Clinch Second Straight Mythical S.T.C. Title

East Stroudsburg State Teachers College will be invading Athletic Park looking for revenge when they take on Bob Redman's Huskies tomorrow afternoon. The Huskies have played East Stroudsburg in their season's finale for the last three years, and have emerged victorious each time. Since the first time these two teams have met on the gridiron, a bitter rivalry has been in existence.

Everyone will remember the game last year played at East Stroudsburg. The Huskies were undefeated going into their finale while East Stroudsburg had one black stain on their record, a loss to West Chester. The game was a terrific gridiron battle with the Huskies coming out on top 14-0. (Continued on page 4)

Major Norm Hays, Oklahoma A&M, '40 Aviation Executive, U.S. Air Force!

A native of Grove, Oklahoma, Norman Hays graduated from Grove High School in 1935. The following year he entered Oklahoma A&M, where he majored in engineering; also took public speaking.

Active in national 4H Club work while in college, he helped organize its statewide activities, won a national 4H championship in Public Speaking. In 1940 he received his BS degree in engineering.

A month later he began navigator training as an Aviation Cadet. In 1941, he received his navigator's wings and a commission as Second Lieutenant . . . married his college sweetheart.

Sent to an RAF Navigation School in Canada, he graduated with the highest possible rating of Specialist. Norman served overseas for 18 months in the Aleutians, Italy and Saipan.

Accepting a regular commission after the war, he was assigned to development of navigation instruments; navigated the B-29 "Pacusan Dreamboat" on its famed Hawaii-Cairo non-stop flight in 1946.

Typical of college graduates who have found their place in the U. S. Air Force, Major Hays is Chief, Navigation Section, at Headquarters in Washington . . . with a secure career . . . a promising future.

If you are single, between the ages of 20 and 28 1/2, with at least two years of college, consider a flying career as an officer in the U. S. Air Force. You may be able to meet the high physical and moral requirements and be selected for training. If you do not complete Aviation Cadet training, you may return to civilian life or have opportunity to train for an important officer assignment in non-flying fields.

Air Force officer procurement teams are visiting many colleges and universities to explain about these career opportunities. Watch for their arrival or get full details at your nearest Air Force Base, local recruiting station, or by writing to the Chief of Staff, U. S. Vox Populi . . .

The gripe sheets which appear on the college lounge bulletin board from time to time have just about become a campus institution. The latest edition ran the gamut from requests for Coke machines in the dormitories to suggestions that certain persons ought to do a "double d.d.," namely, drop dead twice. The freshman girls complained that they are teased too much; the girls in general wanted a new group of boys, preferably boys with senses of humor; the boys in general wanted a new group of girls; some requested classes on "How to Jitterbug;" others requested better faucets on the dining hall water coolers; and, as might be expected or suspected, a fair share of the gripes were not suitable exactly for publication. But the big question is how the girls concluded that the boys were lacking in sense of humor. This complaint probably originated among the freshman girls who claim they are being teased too much. What do they expect us to do in the line of being humorous — chew bubble-gum and ride bicycles through the corridors?

Of Automobiles and Other Things . . .

A new member has been added to the 'relic row' section of the North Hall parking lot, and this one really dates back to the days when Pa was courting Ma. It's hard to tell who owns it at the present time, since the title has changed hands more times than a pair of dice on payday night. However, as we go to press, the owner of this ancient and venerable vehicle is Russ Looker, and Russ has expressed his intention of keeping it at least until he learns how to drive the goldarn thing. Some of us thought at first that the Pilgrims had brought it along over on the Mayflower, and we figured it would be sort of nice to have it around to look at on Thanksgiving Day. But Russ tells us that it is an authentic Model-T Ford of 1923 vintage. Right now he has enough requests for rides to keep him busy for the greater part of the winter. At any rate, the boys up on 'antique alley' have given him the honorary title of campus capitalist because he's the only local lad with enough legal tender to keep a brace of buggies on the parking lot.

The Grapefruit: Friend or Foe . . . ?

It is surprising that more has not been written about the grapefruit. Perhaps it is because we are over-sensitive about the subject since the grapefruit is one of the few animals we have never been able to domesticate. If you have never given thought to this matter, sit in the dining hall some morning and watch your colleagues perform the ritual of baptism at the breakfast table, as they shower themselves with geysers of vitamin C. Some advance upon their grapefruit with caution and stealth, others rush in and deliver their hemispherical adversary a single lightning thrust of the spoon; but in either case the result is the same, and the attackers reel back groping blindly for their napkins. The faint of heart quit after one try, but the more courageous keep trying until they run out of napkins or until their yellow-colored tormentor has spent its fury. Nevertheless, it's a poor psychological principle to start the day off by coming out on the short end of a grapple with a grapefruit. Someone could render humanity a great service by developing a variety of this fruit which would submit itself more readily to the yoke of domestication.

Too Late to Classify . . .

Put a circle around November 17 on your calendar, for that will be the official Sadie Hawkins' Day this year. We had a nice Sadie Hawkins prelude last Friday night when a certain well known lassie spent ten or fifteen minutes chasing a certain well-known laddie around the college lounge. Seems that the young man had let her down none too gently . . . Coach Redman and Lou Gabriel played a well matched ping-pong game recently. Neither one was able to bend over the table for close shots . . . The juke box committee will some day be arrested on a town ordinance for disturbing the peace. Coming over Monday mornings you can tune in on the B.S.T.C. juke box as soon as you cross the Catawissa river bridge . . . And by the way, don't forget the shindig the Daymen are throwing. Bring your lassie and spend a gala evening tripping the light fantastic . . . A female subscriber has observed that the writer of this column doesn't look like she thinks the writer of this column ought to look. What does she expect — a black nose and long ears? . . . Let's make that Stroud game a date. It will be our last chance to see that great Husky aggregation in action . . . And speaking of games, how about the lambasting our ferocious frosh gave Lycoming in the last quarter of last Saturday's game . . . Those senior proofs have proved that some of us will have to depend on more than our looks in order to make a living . . . The 1950 Obiter will be featuring a rare collection of ears and noses . . . But look who's talking! . . . Don't forget the Daymen's plowboy polka party, and by all means make Saturday's game a must on your week-end agenda. We'll be looking for you!!

pleted as Parrell plunged for one TD following Witchaboo Lang's 57-yard sprint.

A 66-yard drive was capped early in the second period when Jake Lichty plunged for touchdown number three. Later in the quarter Lichty fumbled on the Lycoming nine, but Bob Thurston alertly picked up the bouncing pigskin and transported it across the final yard marker.

Fred Denesevich intercepted a Lycoming pass and set up the fifth score with a 40-yard runback to the seven. Stonik scored on a reverse three plays later. The last quarter belonged to Wayne VonStetten's charges and Gino Poli plunged for the first score of the fourth period culminating a 42-yard drive. Joe Green threw to Charlie Brennan for 13 yards and the final score of the day. The Lycoming fans at this point got the only satisfaction of their dreary day as Ed Tavalsky missed the try for extra point. He had converted six consecutive times before missing, bringing his season's total to 21 out of 30 tries.

Husky Booters Hold Indiana To Tie

The kickers will attempt to put the Bloomsburg jinx on Stroudsburg this weekend in the season's finale, in addition to pushing the mark over the 500 mark. Last year the highly favored team from the Poconos surprised by a B.S.T.C. outfit that had won but one game all year. The Huskies will be out to post their third straight win over a Stroud soccer team in as many years in order to duplicate the feat performed by Bloomsburg football teams during 1946, '47, and '48.

five games. Gannon, West Chester, and St. Vincent are the only undefeated college teams in Pennsylvania. St. Vincent has allowed the opposition only six points, while West Chester has permitted 27 points to their foes.

In game standings, the Huskies follow these three leaders with seven victories and one defeat. Others duplicating this feat are Villanova, Clarion, California and Gettysburg.

It is interesting to note that East Stroudsburg, with a record of five wins against two losses, has permitted the opposition only seven TD's, five of these by the only teams that defeated the Big Red, West Chester and Rider.

Tomorrow's game against East Stroudsburg will find one of the State's top defensive teams against one of the top offensive powers.

Have You Heard?

PROUD PARENTS. Mr. and Mrs. William Kreisher who had been "infanting" are now parents of William Kreisher, Jr. The father is a Junior in the Business Curriculum.

"SANTA" STIMELING. Any resemblance between Santa Claus and Al Stimeling is purely coincidental. The prankster who slipped a stocking into Al's pocket last week ought to visit an optician. It might be wise to be somewhat more practical, too. A nylon stocking wouldn't hold very much!

FRIGHTENED FEMMES. Many a lass of third floor, Waller Hall, retreated to her room to self-administer shock treatment after seeing a frog bounding through the corridors on that floor. Finally Pat Penny and Mickey Casula quietly admitted that the amphibian was their inanimate pet made of a resilient material to "appear" real.

OH, BROTHER. If you are married, have a new Buick, and are in the doghouse, read on. Last week Barbara Fredrick's brother telephoned and said he'd come to drive her home on Saturday in his new Buick which Barbara had never seen. On Saturday Barbara had some trouble finding her brother, but discovering what she thought was his car, she left this note: 'Dear Bill, You don't have to take me home tonight. I've taken the bus. See you later. Love, Barbara.'

P.S. The car didn't belong to Barbara's brother!

FOOTBALL FANS have hoarded all available November 6 issues of the Philadelphia Inquirer. The newspaper bore a photo of Coach Redman and Huskies Steve Kriss and Elmer Kreiser.

FRANKIE FAMISHES. We've noticed that Hank Marini (The Voice) has been absent from the dining room quite frequently since the Freshman Show on November 3. Is this starvation diet a further effort to satisfy the swooning females? Perhaps it would be less painful to visit a good barber and imitate "The Groaner" instead.

THEY DIED IN VAIN. The attempts of Ruth Doody and Carolyn Vernoy to alter the natural hue of their locks proved fruitless. The young ladies are in possession of several henna towels and a few blonde blouses, but they are still brunettes.

VISITORS TO B.S.T.C. George Thear and Marvin Meneely, former graduates, visited the Friendly College last week.

Borrowed Banter . .

Lawyer: "I believe the court is prejudiced."

Judge: "Nonsense! I'm here with a perfectly open and unbiased mind to listen to what I'm convinced is pure rubbish!"

"Oh, I've kissed all those beautiful girls before!"

"Yeah?"

"Yeah, before they could stop me."

"Do you close your eyes when you're being kissed?"

"No . . . I have to keep on the lookout for my husband."

Old Maid Teacher: "I could have married anybody I pleased."

Curious: "Then why are you single?"

Old Maid: "I never pleased anybody."

Frosh: "Gee, do you think Jane will like me?"

Advisor: "She might if you keep on the right side of her." . . . "She can't see out of that eye."

This verse don't mean a doggone thing,

It's simply here for volume;
We only put the darn thing in
To end this doggone column.

Huskies Point to East Stroudsburg

Records may be disregarded when the men from the Poconos and the Huskies meet on the gridiron tomorrow afternoon. East Stroudsburg has romped over Panzer, Mansfield and Cortland Teachers to date, while bowing only to undefeated West Chester and Rider College on consecutive Saturdays. The Huskies to date have lost only their opener; since then they have crushed all opposition.

The game between these two traditional rivals will be what the doctor has ordered if you want to see an afternoon of good football.

Letter to student from Business Office of Elite School of Culture: "We taught you and made a refined gentle lady of you. So, once again, why don't you pay your tuition, you crooked little tramp!"

A school teacher sent a note to the mother of Daisy saying she should bathe her more often. The reply she received was: "Daisy ain't no rose—don't smell her—learn her!"
