Plan Annual Retail Sales Conference Here Thursday March 9

The College will again be the seat of the Annual Retail Sales Training Conference on March 9; this will be the fourth conference of the series. Mrs. Annie Reese, Director of Promotion for Josiah Wedgwood and Sons, Inc., will be one of the featured speakers. Mrs. Reese, who is a well-known authority on Wedgwood china, as well as the whole subject of dinnerware, was formerly editor of the china and glassware division of "Retailing," a Fairchild publication.

The Wedgwood Exhibition, for which Mrs. Reese is responsible, has just completed a two year circuit of major museums throughout the United States. This Exhibition shows 300 years of the English ceramic history as told through the means of ten generations of the Wedgwood family.

Mrs. Reese's lecture on March 9th will reveal some of the highlights of this famous collection through the use of colored slides showing examples of various types of ware. Special emphasis will be given to bodies, shapes, glazes, and various decorating techniques. Beginning with the crude slip ware of the 17th century, she will show examples of the great advancement made in the 18th century under the influence of Josiah Wedgwood and will then bring the subject up to date with illustrations of modern designs.

The directors of the College's annual conference feel confident that they have secured a speaker who will please the many persons who are expected to attend the 1950 conference since Sales Training divisions of many department stores throughout the country have had the opportunity of sharing Mrs. Reese's wide knowledge.

Gregg Shorthand Clinic And Conference To Be Held Here March 18

Mr. Richard G. Hallisy, Director of the Department of Business Education recently announced that a Gregg Shorthand Clinic and Conference will be held at the College March 18, at 10 a.m. Conductor of the clinic, Mrs. Madeline S. Strony, Educational Director of the Gregg Publishing Company, will speak to persons interested in shorthand, students, and teachers of shorthand.

Mrs. Strony, widely known as a teacher, author and demonstrator, has written numerous articles in professional journals on the general subjects of shorthand teaching, secretarial training, and office practice. New York businessmen know her best for her famous "Business Girl Clinics" at the Packard School and for the numerous in-service improvement courses she has conducted in New York business offices.

She has given many teaching demonstrations and addresses before conventions of business teachers, and during the past summer she participated in numerous business teacher workshops at Midwest and Eastern business colleges.

A cordial welcome is extended to all persons interested in learning the latest developments in shorthand writings to attend the 1950 Shorthand Conference which will be held in the Navy Hall Auditorium by the Department of Business Education.

Science Club Meets

The second regular meeting of the Science Club was held on Thursday, February 16. Plans were discussed for sending representatives to the Science Convention which is being held at Barnard College. Plans for the annual spring field trip were also discussed.

Miss Co-Ed of 1950

NANCY UNGER

Nancy Unger, B.S.T.C.'s "Coed of 1950," is a modest unassuming young lady with brown hair and hazel eyes, and a sincere and charming personality that reflects itself in her engaging smile. Though she was born in Kingston, Nancy has lived the greater part of her nineteen years in Forty Fort, and graduated from Forty Fort High last year. At present she is a freshman in the elementary curriculum.

"A funny feeling, a sort of sinking sensation," was the way Nancy described her reaction when she heard her name announced as the winner of the coed of the Year Contest. She said, too, that she felt "pretty nervous" when she went up to the platform, to be presented with the Phi Sigma Pi trophy. As for the trophy, it's going up to Forty Fort to become a permanent part of the furnishings of her room at home, where, she said, she'll look at it every time she goes home "just to make sure all of this hasn't been a dream."

During her sophomore year in high school Nancy says she entertained a vague notion that she should one day like to become a model. But, to quote her, "by the time my senior year had rolled around I had decided definitely that I wanted to become a teacher." Her reason for choosing B.S.T.C. was that "it is the best teachers college in the State." She said also that she is proud to be a member of the student body at Bloomsburg State Teachers College; and that makes the feeling mutual, because B.S.T.C. is equally proud of Nancy.

Morning Press Editor Speaks at Business Educ. Club Meeting

Mr. Edward F. Schuyler, editor of the Morning Press, spoke at the regular meeting of the Business Education Club on February 16 in Navy Hall auditorium. Mr. Schuyler was graduated from Bloomsburg State Teachers College in 1924 and is a well-known member of the Alumni Association.

He explained to the members of the Business Education Club the various duties of reporters, proof-readers, and printers. The students participated in an informal discussion of methods of selecting and setting up news for the press. He described a typical day at the Morning Press office beginning with machine operation on special features, advance sports, and display composition at 8:30 A.M. The wire editor and reporters begin the make-up in the afternoon which may be changed until after midnight. Their mail starts moving at 5:00 A.M.

A report was given by Miss Milkvy concerning the progress of the year-book which the Business Education Club and Pi Omega Pi are planning to have published this year.

Retail Selling Classes Make Conducted Tour Of Bloom. Mills, Inc.

The members of the Retail Selling Classes at the College recently made a visit to the Bloomsburg Mills, Inc. plant of Bloomsburg where they observed the process of manufacturing rayon and nylon fabrics, a topic in conjunction with their study of textiles.

The members of the class were divided into four groups and conducted through the different divisions of the plant by members of the executive staff of the company. The Bloomsburg plant is one of three divisions of the company which turns out over 30,000,000 yards of fabric on 1,000 looms each year. Mr. Jack Bruhlmeier, an executive of the company, answered the students questions at the completion of the tour.

The class, under the supervision of Mr. Charles H. Henric, retail selling instructor, have made plans to visit other plants in this area including Lorrain Cross Hosiery, Magee Carpet Company, and the Milco Undergarment Company.

Benno, Sylvia Rabinof Score Huge Success In Downtown Concert

The final concert of the series presented by the Civic Music Association was exceptionally well received by an enraptured audience last Thursday evening in the Bloomsburg High School Auditorium. The violin and piano duet given by Benno and Sylvia Rabinof proved to be one of the outstanding musical events of the year. This season marks the thirteenth coast-to-coast U. S. concert tour of Benno and Sylvia Rabinof who, upon their return from their recent tour of Europe, were met with critical acclaim and audience ovations that exceeded all previous ones.

Featured Soloist

Benno Rabinof has been featured soloist with the leading symphony orchestras of the United States, Canada, and Europe and has made regular radio appearances over national networks NBC, CBS, and ABC. His wife, Sylvia Rabinof, an excellent pianist, accompanies him entirely by memory, an uncommon achievement. Before her New York debut in Town Hall, she concertized widely in Paris and Switzerland where her work on the radio and with major orchestras was enthusiastically received.

Present Well-Rounded Program

The couple presented a well-rounded program which opened with Mr. Rabinof's own arrangement of "Air for the G String" by Bach. The first section of the program consisted of three violin and piano duets; the second of three selections on the piano by Mr. Rabinof, and the final section consisted of violin solos. In the course of the program, Mr. Rabinof exemplified his deft command of the violin by imitating various string and wind instruments. As encores he played his arrangement of the "Flight of the Bumblebee" and "Ave Maria."

American Legion To Sponsor Oratorical Contest Here March 17

March 17th will mark the date of the Championship Contest for the state-wide American Legion Oratorical Contest. It will be held in Carver Hall auditorium Friday at 10 o'clock. Details of the contest, which will bring together finalists from the Eastern, Central, and Western divisions, will be announced shortly by Dr. Harvey A. Andruss and A. C. Morgan, Berwick Chairman of the Pennsylvania Department of the American Legion Scholarship and Oratorical Program.

Purpose of the Contest

The American Legion and the NEA jointly sponsor the contests for the purpose of interpreting, promoting, and co-ordinating mutual programs and objective of both organizations. As a part of that program 1,000 American Legion posts in Pennsylvania sponsor essay and oratorical contests in more than 1,200 public, parochial, and private schools of the Commonwealth.

Only Winners To Appear Here

Only the winners, who represent the "cream of the crop" of schoolboy speakers in three sections of the state, will come to Bloomsburg for the state championship finals. The State Department provides an award for the State Champion, but the local winners are awarded by the local posts. In most senatorial districts scholarships are available to contest winners. The winner in the contest to be held here will compete in the National eliminations for scholarships amounting to $8,000.

Four-Hundred Patrons Fill "Cafe Antoine" to Witness Contest's Colorful Climax

Lanky, Lincolnish Tom Anthony arrived early at Centennial Gymnasium, wearing a natty pin-stripe suit and a worried look. The stage was set for what the sophomore president hoped would be "the dance of the year." The spacious gymnasium was lavishly decorated with streamers of red and white crepe paper which ran overhead and down to the floor on all four sides. The night club illusion was perfect. A double row of tables circled the dance floor, giving the "Cafe Antoine" a final touch of continental atmosphere which was considerably strengthened by the Eiffel Tower backdrop on the bandstand.

As nine o'clock approached, the furrows in Anthony's brow grew deeper. The advance sale of Cotillion tickets had been discouraging despite the intensive publicity campaign which had heralded the dance for more than a week. A few early-comers drifted in. The Lee Vincent orchestra tuned up and got ready for the first number. Anthony's apprehension was justifiable. It looked as if the "dance of the year" had turned into the "egg of the year."

Then, suddenly, things began to happen. A line began to form at the ticket booth, and a continuous stream of automobiles poured into the parking lot. The line grew longer at the ticket booth, and within the next half hour nearly a hundred additional tickets had been sold. By ten o'clock all available table space had been taken, and a number of "Cafe Antoine" first-nighters had to find seats in the bleachers.

As intermission approached, an hour of continuous jingling in the cash box had entirely dissolved class president Anthony's earlier apprehensions. He was out of the red, and what was more, he was climbing steadily into the blue.

With the conclusion of the last dance before intermission came a fanfare of trumpets announcing the program which was to reveal the winner and the runners-up in the 1950 Obiter's Coed of the Year Contest. Joe Curilla, Obiter editor, who displays a native talent for emceeing along with a curious predilection for crew haircuts and bow ties, presented each of the twelve contestants to the audience amid the glare of motion picture lights and flash bulbs. Curilla then turned the program over to Don Butcofsky, contest chairman, who named Polly Cooper, Jane Keller, (Continued on page 4)

C.G.A. Nominations On Assembly Agenda Tuesday March 7

The annual nominations for the C.G.A. officers will be held in the assembly on Tuesday, March 7. Those officers to be nominated are the President, who must be a senior next year; the Vice-President, who must be a junior next year; and the Treasurer and Assistant Treasurer, each of whom may be either a sophomore, junior, or a senior when they take office.

To propose a candidate for nomination to a C.G.A. office, choose a scholastical eligible candidate and procure a petition from any Election Board member and have the petition signed by at least 5 students in each of the 4 organizations; day women, dorm women, day men, dorm men.

A student may not sign more than one petition for the same office. The petitions should be left in Post Office Box 258 before noon on Saturday, March 4.

Wild About the Washing Machine . . .

This editorial might better be titled "Ode to a Washing Machine — In Prose." However, for the sake of brevity I have substituted the title which appears above.

Now about this washing machine . . . It seems that on the third floor Waller Hall (girls side) there is a decrepit, antiquated, and by far too noisy machine which chug-chug-chugs from early morning 'til late at night. It performs a variety of duties, chief among which is "rinsing out" females unmentionables. This is a laudible and commendable task, and cannot be dispensed with. However, for the benefit of the dorm men who have to suffer hour after hour listening to the unsweet strains of a combination of "Rag Mop" and "Cow Cow Boogie," I would advocate the purchase of a muffler for the machine, or a schedule of hours with regard to the operating of it. This schedule would specify that the girls do their wash sometime during the day, or else send it to the laundry on Sunday evenings as the men do.

Since enough gentlemen are not affected by the screeching noise which emanates from the "press room" I doubt very much if official action will be taken on this matter. However, since each one of us has within his scope certain unalienable rights to life, liberty, and the pursuit of education (and sleep), I sincerely urge some action on this matter. Perhaps, the installation of equally noisy room on the men's side of Waller Hall, by which we might retaliate against the women, would be the simplest and most practical solution to the problem. This is a somewhat stern course to take, however, and we are hoping that a more suitable and adequate solution may be found. (fd)

Stop, Look and Think! . . .

According to the time-tested gem of philosophy, "You can give advice, but you can't inspire it." Very little meditation on the part of the reader, no doubt, will lead him to the realization that this simplified bit of observation is actually a universal truth. With very little imagination-stretching, the reader can also follow the arrow of reason and apply this bit of reasoning to some of his own personal problems of life and social conduct in general. Perhaps it would even be possible to clear up a few of the campus ills that are prevalent at B.S.T.C. today. All well and good — but, it doesn't take one long to recognize the fallacy in the aforementioned quote. It should be quite evident to everyone. Therefore, no embroidering on the subject is needed. However, a word to the wise should be sufficient. The alternative reasoning theory is, "If they can't listen to what they're told, let 'em feel . . ." or something to that effect.

In closing then, be careful where you set your footsies down when strolling about the campus; put your cigarette butts in the ashtrays; and keep your feet off the furniture! In shorter terms: Stop, Look, and Think! before you do it. (je)

A rather stout lady stepped on the scales, not knowing they were out of order. The indicator flashed around to 75 pounds and stopped.

A genial gentleman, just stepping out of a nearby tavern, watching the whole proceedings with amazement.

"My gosh," he gasped, "she's hollow."

The old mule skinner was a couple of hours late getting into ranch headquarters.

"Why the delay?" asked the foreman.

"Well, you see, it was this way, boss," the skinner replied, "I picked up the parson about five miles back down the road, and from there on them durn mules didn't understand a word I said!"

The pedestrian boarded the crowded bus and gave the driver a $10 bill. "Sorry," he said, "smallest thing I have — don't seem to have a nickel on me."

"That's O.K.," the bus driver grinned — in about a minute you're going to have exactly 199 of them."

"The King of England touched my grandfather on the head with a sword and made him a duke."

"That's nothing. An Indian hit my father over the head with a tomahawk and made him an angel."

Theatre Manager: "I hear that you and the leading lady are on the outs."

Electrician: "Yes, it was one of those quick change scenes with the stage in total darkness. She asked for her tights and I thought she said lights."

A young lover was obviously reeling out a heavy line to impress the beautiful young girl at his side. "Those soft lovely hands," he whispered, "your warm lips. And those beautiful eyes! Where did you get those eyes?"

The girl answered unimpressed, "They came with my head."

Mary had a little lamb,
A lobster and some prunes,
A glass of milk, a piece of pie,
And then some macaroons;
It made the naughty waiter green
To see her order so,
And when they carried Mary out
Her face was white as snow.

Speaking of Beauty Contests

Have you ever wondered what a male co-ed is? I have often given this question a great deal of thought, but I have never been able to reach a satisfactory answer. If we are able to answer satisfactorily, we might possibly lay the foundations for an all-college all male beauty contest, or perhaps an all male scrounge contest sometime in the near future. All we need is a title for the contest; we have the males.

We cannot be too serious about this proposed plan. Already the female population of the college community has the jump on the males. Their goddess of feminine pulchritude reigns supreme and unquestioned on her throne of silver and gold, unchallenged by any pulchritudeness male. Gentlemen, this cannot, must not, and will not continue. We males have to save face. But how to do it???

Our plan of action might possibly be carried out in several ways. A committee of females (hand picked) would select twelve gentlemen with an unlimited amount of sex appeal. These twelve would then be photographed at some downtown photo studio which specializes in "touch-ups." A copy of each photograph would then be sent to Jane Russell, Lana Turner, or the "Downtown Club of Broken Hearted Women" who would make the final selection. The contest winner would receive his trophy from the charming hands of the president of some female organization on the campus, possibly the president of the B-Club. The presentation would be held at some social function before the present semester ends, perhaps the Junior Prom.

Think it over men. Let's see if the women call our bluff. If they do, we'll rally together and determine once and for all which sex has the most appeal. To the lucky representative of our population would go our undying gratitude and heartfelt sympathy. (fd)

A man has a different effect on different girls. The athletic girl wants to know "What can he do?" — the chorus girl wants to know "How much money has he got?" The literary girl wants to know "What does he read?" — the business girl wants to know "What has he accomplished? But the old maid wants to know "Where is he?"

I wasn't feeling well so my doctor said, "Avoid all forms of excitement. Don't even look at 'em on the street."

"Well, how was the burlesque dance?"
"Abdominal."

THANATOPSIS

Oh, Prophet Dream,
Thy necromantic power
Leads me through dark corridors
To these strange seance chambers
Where thanatoid spirits meet
To commune with sleep-drugged guests.

And here I learn
That Death and Content are one
. . . But Reality stirs me
And my vapid mind awakes;
But not ere long, for Truth
Comes, confirms the prophecy.

Oh, Prophet Dream
My mind grows torpid as the
Dirge fades; hears no more Adieu
For I tread the corridors
To those strange seance chambers
Where Eternity awaits. (MM)

Student Group Presents Musical Program at Milton High School

A group of College students, under the direction of Charles Edwards, presented a well-balanced musical program at the Milton High School, February 23. The program, prepared in the form of a radio broadcast, was emceed by Ben Burness.

Edgar Coleman, Claire Davis, and Mary Lou Todd sang vocal solos for which Jean Ruckle, and Barbara Gulick accompanied. A group of musical selections by the Campus Kings — a swing combo featuring Henry Marini, John DiRico, Dan Fitzpatrick, Ray Wagner and Ben Linn.

The always popular 'Campus Four,' the college male quartet, also featured the program members of the quartet Dick Wagner, Charles Edwards, Emory Rarig, and Jack Wintersteen. Dr. Ralph S. Herre was in charge of the entertainers.

Dr. Engelhardt Speaks To Safety Ed. Class

"The school patrol in addition to saving lives, is a medium for teaching better citizenship," Dr. Ernest H. Engelhardt told members of the Safety Ed. Class on Wednesday, February twenty-second. Speaking on the topic, "Objectives of School Boy Patrol," Dr. Engelhardt said that an efficient patrol not only serves the community but it helps make the administrator popular with the community.

During his remarks, the speaker indicated that it is important for the patrol to be on duty the first day of school.

Mr. Redman, the class instructor, plans to have several more guest speakers.

Poetry Club Presents 'College Hour' Program

The Poetry Club, an extra-curricular organization on campus, presented an interesting program on the College Hour, Tuesday, February 28. Miss Alice Johnston is in charge of the weekly college programs.

The program presented an example of what goes on at a Poetry Club meeting. The theme of the program was a round-table discussion on poetry conceptions and the works of MacLeish, Whitman, Woodsworth and Kipling. Those members of the club participating included Priscilla Abbott, Marilyn Evans, Max Kaplan, Marie Mattis, and Alice Quick.

Miss Catherine Zealberg is the faculty sponsor of the organization.

Campus Kept Informed By Community Criers

Singing out the news of the campus every Tuesday and Thursday morning in Chapel is the livewire team of Kanyuck and Kaplan. Since both come under the tutelage of Miss Johnston, perhaps her "I must talk slowly, then I can talk well" technique is taking their effect. At any rate, the boys are doing a commendable job in fulfilling their duties as Campus Criers, especially when it is considered that most of their announcements are handed to them split seconds before "air time." The theme song of the duet is "I Cried for You," and the college community certainly appreciates their efforts.

"Cal" Kanyuck hails from Glen Lyon, Pennsylvania. He arrived on the campus in September, 1948, as a transfer from Wilkes College. Science and mathematics interest him most, and it is in these fields that he has decided to concentrate. Calvin is active in dramatics on the campus, and has recently been seen in Chapel in the Dramatic Club presentation, "Why I am a Bachelor." Calvin is a bachelor at present, but for future reference be it known that he putters around in the culinary arts. Some of his specialties in the kitchen are doughnuts, roasts of beef, and "Betty Crocker" chiffon cakes. One of Cal's favorite pastimes is square dancing

Thirty-two Teams Enter Annual Invitation Basketball Tournament

The Twenty-Third Annual Invitation High School Basketball Tournament to be held at the College beginning Monday night, March 6, has received acceptances to participate in the tournament from thirty-two Central Pennsylvania high school teams.

The Class A bracket is almost complete, the latest entry of which is Sunbury High School. Coach Eddie Rushin said that the Owl entry will assure fans of seeing Fergus Sloan, ace pivotman, in action against some of the region's fastest schoolboy combinations.

Berwick High School's powerful Bulldogs, runner-up for the second half honors in the Wyoming Valley League will enable local fans to watch one of the finest high school marksmen in the state — Davy Pollock. Area cage devotees will also be interested in the outcome of such Class A favorites as Danville's Ironmen, who have the Susquehanna League's scoring champ, "Big Dick" Dietrick; Tamaqua, Nanticoke, Shamokin, and Mt. Carmel. The one remaining spot in the Class A will be filled before the end of next week with any one of a number of clubs which have expressed interest in the big meet.

Class B entries have been slow to come in. Those in the brackets are Shickshinny, St. Edward's (Shamokin), Freeland Mechanical and Mining Institute, and South Williamsport. Other teams are expected to sign up next week.

(Espy), Newton Ransom, Freeburg, Moscow, Locust Twp., Nuremburg, Nescopeck, McClure, Hughesville, Ringtown, Falls-Overfield, Monroe Twp., Fairview Twp., and Plymouth (St. Vincents).

After copping their tenth floor success last Saturday night in Centennial Gymnasium, the Husky cagers at least assured themselves of a better than 500 percent for the entire season. With but two games remaining, the Maroon and Gold holds a ten won and seven lost record at the present time. No matter what the final results are, the entire squad, both JayVees and varsity, deserve a big shout of praise for their fine performances. Few coaches could mold a squad into a winning ball club during the first year like Mr. Shelley did, so to everyone concerned, we can be proud and point to future years and future success A few interesting notes on the fading basketball season as of last Monday finds the Huskies have copped all but one home game. Only the early season drubbing by powerful Temple nars the perfect record. Also the local State Teachers College record for the same period lists 6 successes against 4 setbacks. No teacher rival topped the Maroon and Gold in both meetings In meeting Wilkes on the foreign court tomorrow evening, the planksters campaign will draw to a close, so let's have some representation at the brawl. Last January, Wilkes fell to the Shellymen 68-38, but since that time, the rival Colonels have racked up victories over several strong foes

National News Pie Traynor, one of past baseball's greatest third baseman suggested the other day that players be selected for the Hall of Fame when they are alive rather than when their glories along with life is immortal Joe Page, ace Western Pennsylvania "fireman" for the New York Yankees penned another contract with the big city club for a reported $35,000. By the way, this is the highest salary ever to be paid a Yank pitcher As of February 16th, the Dunkel ratings listed these teams as the top ten in the nation: 1. Holy Cross, 2. Ohio State, 3. Bradley, 4. LaSalle, 5. Western Kentucky State, 6. U.C.L.A., 7. Duquesne, 8. Indiana, 9. St. Johns, 10. Kentucky. According to these ratings, Holy Cross, with a 79.1 rating would be a 35 point choice over Bloom. Is that possible? Four of Temple's stars who helped to dump the Huskies will be lost by May graduation

At Centennial The coming high school basketball tournament to be held up at the gym should really prove to be a real ballyhoo of entertainment. Some of this area's best interscholastic teams will compete for trophies provided by the college Only six of seven weeks before the B.S.T.C. diamond season begins. Along with an attractive schedule throughout the spring months, there will also be a top notch battle come Alumni Day. This fray will commence the baseball activity for the year within the next few weeks, the annual All-State Teachers College team will be selected. Several Huskies certainly deserve recognition. Let's hope they get it After a terrific grind for weeks, a group of B.S.T.C. students survived the strain to pass the life saving course held in Centennial gymnasium pool. Congratulations Tomorrow evening, the Jay Vees will conclude their 15 game court campaign with a battle against the Wilkes frosh in the prelim to the Shellymen-Colonel fracas. Protecting their seven game winning streak should really be a task against the ever-surprising Wilkes-Barre aggregation Now that the idea has been presented in last week's issue, how about a game between the varsity and the male faculty members, or the frosh. What do you say, Mr. Shelley?

Raiders and Packers Continue to Pace Intramural League

Action, last week, in the men's Intramural Basketball League was confined to two games played on Wednesday, February 22. The four o'clock game brought together the Raiders and the Crackers while the Cadets and Packers tangled in the 4:45 tilt.

The first contest was a rather even match up until the end of the first half when the Raiders took the lead 10 to 5. However, the Raiders turned on the steam in the final two stanzas to breeze to a 26 to 10 win. Furgele and Eremich were high scorers for the winners with 7 and 5 points respectively. Keiser led the efforts of the losing Crackers with four counters.

In the second fracas, the Packers continued their winning ways with a 23 to 7 triumph over the Cadets. Frank Womer netted 9 points to lead the Packers' scoring while Borst got 3 of the losers' 7 markers.

The records of the teams up to Friday, February 24, were as follows:

Lycoming Five Drops 65-45 Encounter with Fast-Breaking Huskies

The Huskies had a minimum of trouble breaking out of its most recent slump, Saturday evening, at Centennial gym, trouncing Lycoming College, 65-45.

A deadly fast-break entertained the average sized crowd and broke the backs of the Warriors. The Huskies used the breaking offense more Saturday night than in any previous game this season. Most of the reason was slipshod passing by the visitors, passing which more often than not ended in a Bloomsburg hand and set the break into motion.

Jones Starts Fast

The Huskies were off to a big lead in the opening moments. Ed Jones tallied nine of his dozen points in the opening quarter and that sparked the winners to a big 22-9 gap at the end of the first ten minutes.

Bill Bartleson paced the scoring in the second period when the Huskies extended their margin to 37-19.

The second half was more even, but it took a last minute rush by the losers to make the score as presentable as it was.

Andrews Sparkles

Bob Andrews turned in one of his best games of the season for the Huskies. In addition to pumping in 13 points, the Johnstown veteran took command of the Bloomsburg offensive and alternately slowed down and speeded up play as the occasion demanded.

The Huskies held high-scoring Billy Graff to just nine points, although Graff did not concentrate on shooting until the final period when he got his only three field goals of the evening. Jim Brodmerkal was the big scorer for both teams with 19 points.

One of the reasons Lycoming stayed fairly close to the Huskies was foul shooting. The visitors plunked 17 for 18 from the foul line. Meanwhile, Bloomsburg converted 15 of 27.

Banull Passes 200

Walt Banull became the first Husky to pass the 200 mark for total points this season, his 15, Saturday, giving him 208. Lycoming concentrated on stopping the Husky plays that originated from Banull in the pivot, but the gangling up proved only moderately successful.

Intramural Swimming

Dr. Ted Satterfield, intramural director, churned an intramural swimming meet in the College Pool last Thursday afternoon. Dividing the 8 natators into two teams, the Gold squad submerged the Maroon quartet. Individual victories were scored by Bill Harrel in the 50-yard breaststroke event, Fred Rummage in the 25-yard backstroke race, and Charles Roberts swimming first in the 25- and 50-yard freestyle events.

and he can be seen stomping around with the best of them. His favorite farewell-address is "Remember — if anything turns up, turn it down." Max Kaplan, a product of Port Chester, New York (also the home of Life Savers, the candy with the hole in the middle) came to Bloomsburg in January of 1948. A student of versatile abilities, he has been active in dramatics, song-writing, newspaper work, poetry, and entertainment. Students who were here last semester remember him as a member of the Kaplan, Kline, Macelko combination, making up the inimitable "Andy Mac Trio," which provided campus audiences with memorable entertainment. It is rumored that Max's inspiration is a certain "Mary T." back in Port Chester.

Andrews and Banull Are Top Husky Scorers in 80-66 Tilt

Victory number eleven rolled into the records Wednesday evening for the College as the Huskies blasted Mansfield, 80-66, in Centennial gym before a fair crowd.

Each team had four players in double figures in the high-scoring fray. Smoky Andrews and Walt Banull were the top gunners for the Huskies with 19 and 18 points, respectively. That represents Andrews' high mark for the year.

The Huskies never lost the lead after the opening minutes and held a nineteen-point bulge going into the final moments.

Coach Harold Shelly used eleven players in the last home contest of the Huskies. Eight of them scored. Bobby Kashner made his final home appearance count for 12 points, a total matched by Don Butler.

High-Scoring Jayvees Rack Up 96 Points to Defeat Pottsville P.S.C.

Coach Ted Satterfield's Jayvees enjoyed their best scoring night of the season in beating the Penn State Pottsville Center Wednesday evening, 96-71, at Centennial gym.

Only a letdown in the final quarter kept the winners from passing the century mark. Chuck Daly, Larry Ksanzak, Jimmie Thompson and Tom Reed all scored in double figures.

Powers Model Presents Final Lecture In "Future Perfect" Series

The "Future Perfect" series of lectures by Powers models was completed on Wednesday, February 22, with a talk by Miss Jane Abbott entitled "You and Your Wardrobe."

Miss Abbott stressed the fact that one's wardrobe should reveal personality, not bank account. This is done through the use of simplicity and originality. This means that one should meet the fashions halfway; don't go overboard for anything which is not becoming to you and your figure. Consider your figure. If a style is agreeable, adapt it to yourself; if it is not agreeable and cannot be adapted, do not try to wear it. Always remember: it's not the New Look — it's the You Look that's important.

According to Miss Abbott, the girl with a well-chosen basic wardrobe of six pieces can be the envy of the girl with a closet full of clothes. In planning a basic wardrobe, the first thing to do is to choose a basic color. For winter this should be black, brown, or Navy; and for summer, it may be white or a pastel.

First consideration is the selection of a coat, which should be in the basic color, full length, and with self-covered buttons. Next comes the suit, in the basic color, simple (this means with no detail, but not necessarily man-tailored), with self-covered buttons. The dress should be, again, in the basic color; it should be very simple, with a high round neck, straight sleeves, and with a straight skirt. It should be completely lacking in detail.

Accessories may be of leather for day and suede for evening. They should be very carefully chosen, as it is these which make or break the effect of the whole. A strict rule for accessories is that shoes and bag should always match in color and fabric, and should be as dark or darker than the outfit.

Another dress or suit in a high color will add sparkle. This could be in wool or crepe for winter, and rayon print or crepe for summer. This dress also should be very simple.

A list of accessories which would give variety and versatility to such a wardrobe would include scarfs, flowers, a collection of gloves, pearl choker and earrings, gold choker and earrings, scatter pins, stoles and shawls, collars and cuffs, blouses, sweaters, vests, overskirts, and panels.

Graduation Activities Planned at Friday's Senior Class Meeting

Meeting in Carver Hall Auditorium on Friday, February 24, the Senior Class spent a profitable hour and a half in deciding various issues yet confronting them along the way to graduation. Presiding officer was Donald Butcofsky, under whose direction the meeting proceeded smoothly.

First items on the order of business were relative to plans for the annual Senior Class Banquet and Ball to be held on Thursday, May 25. Paul Plevyak, General Chairman for the affair, asked members of his committee to report the results of their investigations of various available facilities. Discussion followed the reports, after which the group voted that arrangements be completed for staging the event at Irem Temple Country Club, Dallas. Harold White, Chairman of the orchestra committee, reported the results of contacts he had made, from which the class selected Al Anderson's orchestra to furnish music for the occasion.

Considered last in the arrangements, although certainly not least important in the minds of most of the students, was the menu. From a tempting selection, the group chose a roast turkey dinner.

Lionel Livingston, Chairman of the invitation (announcement) committee, described to those present the type of announcement that had been decided upon by his committee. Differing from the usual form, this year's announcement will be a two-fold pattern, the inside cover containing an etching of the front of Carver Hall. The cover will carry a maroon and gold emblem, while the inner fold will contain the engraved graduation announcement. Price for the announcements has been set at fifteen cents each. Mr. Livingston asked that members of the class leave their orders with him as soon as possible. Name cards are also available through this committee.

A brief discussion followed regarding the possibility of holding Commencement exercises out-of-doors because of the limited accommodations presently available in Carver Hall Auditorium. However, no action was taken on the matter.

Richard Gloeckler, Chairman of caps and gowns committee, asked that seniors turn over to him, within the next two weeks, information regarding cap size, weight and height. This information is to be directed to him through Box 280 of the College post office in order that proper assignment of the academic robes may be made. Brief comments by Mr. W. F. Rygiel, faculty advisor for Commencement exercises, were made regarding the care and handling of this equipment.

Nominations for Ivy Day Orator were next on the agenda. Kenneth Cook and Charles Roberts accepted their nominations. Following administrative approval, the class will vote to select the speaker at a later date.

Hearing from its president that the offer of class funds to aid in erecting a fountain in the Waller Hall court had been declined because sufficient funds are now available, the group acted to establish a scholarship fund as the class memorial. Undecided about the exact nature or operation of such a project, a suggestion was made that a committee be appointed to study the possibilities and formulate plans for carrying out this activity.

Congratulations go to Miss Nancy Unger on her winning the Obiter's Miss Coed of the Year Contest. John Powers certainly had a difficult task in selecting the winner, but no matter who won, we all know that the girls picked by the college committee could make the best twelve list on any campus.

The Sophomore Cotillion was another social hit of the year last Friday night. Over 150 tickets were sold to the gala affair, decorated as the French "Cafe Antoine" . . . Local coeds often complain about the hours they have to keep during the week nights. If you are one of these, don't transfer to West Chester. The female flock there has to sign in at 8:00 on the week nights.

A magazine recently carried the following article, "Are You an Important Person?" Among several, here are a few of the questions determining your social rating.

1. Are your health habits better than a year ago?
2. Do you know what you want out of life?
3. Is your self-confidence growing?
4. Is your circle of friends wider than ever before?
5. Do you keep your promises to others?

If not, then you have 5 basic reasons why people are avoiding you. Don't switch deoderants, switch your attitudes.

Finally the campus Hit Parade has come into existence. A box on top of the juke box had been provided for student ballots on their favorite tunes. It's up to you to get the music you want, so place a list of your three record selections if you want to hear them. The discs most in demand to be heard will be placed on the turntable.

Nancy Unger Named Co-Ed of Year

Kitty Mitchell, and Laura Philo as the four runners-up selected by John Robert Powers. Butcofsky then read the letter written to the contest committee by Powers, in which the noted modeling agency head revealed that he had made his decision primarily on the basis of natural beauty.

Following his reading of the Powers letter, Butcofsky then named Nancy Unger, a freshman from Forty Fort, as B.S.T.C.'s "Miss Coed of 1950." A moment later the surprised "Coed of the Year" was presented with the Phi Sigma Pi trophy, while the "Cafe Antoine" rang with the applause of more than four hundred persons who had remained through intermission to witness the conclusion of the contest which had been the center for a wide circle of interest since early January.

The Cotillion was a definite success: it had attracted the largest crowd ever to attend a class dance in recent years; it more than made up for the financial reverse the sophomore class suffered with its not-too-successful November dance; and, finally, through its teaming up with the Obiter's contest it had given its patrons an evening of double-barreled entertainment.

The Tom Anthony who watched the last patrons leave his "Cafe Antoine" was different from the apprehensive one who had watched the first few patrons arrive. He and his energetic committees had worked hard to make the dance a success.

Have You Heard?

BELLS AND BELLES. While Mr. Hinkle was completing a lecture to his eight o'clock Tests and Measurements class one day last week, Rita Dixon . . . industriously scanning a textbook . . . entered the classroom. When she had walked some distance into the room, Rita looked up and discovered that she was somewhat early for her nine o'clock class.

A few days later two freshman girls who thought they were late for their nine o'clock class interrupted another of Mr. Hinkle's classes.

Moral to the story: When will the bells toll so that the belles can be told the right time?

TIMELY TIP. Those of you who have deprived yourselves of frequent breakfasts because you thought the sight of doughnuts would drive you to dunking and embarrass you in front of your table mates . . . Listen! There is no more need of retiring to your room to drool and contemplate the satisfaction of watching hot coffee oozing into the pores of a fresh doughnut. According to a current news article, Emily Post has approved doughnut dunking at social gatherings. The only limitation is that the doughnut must be broken in half before the dunking process is begun.

POET'S PROGRAM. On Tuesday a few members of the Poetry Club spoke over WCNR. The similarities and differences among poets, particularly Whitman, Kipling, Wordsworth and MacLeish, were discussed by the group which included Priscilla Abbott, Lois Dzuris, Alice Quick, Marilyn Evans and Max Kaplan. This is the first time that the Poetry Club, sponsored by Miss Zealberg, has taken "to the air."

BERWICK BETROTHAL. Blanche McHenry, of Lime Ridge, and Junior Eddinger, of Berwick, announced their engagement recently. Junior is a senior in the Secondary department.

CHOREGRAPHIC COMPETITION. Trying to outdo the Sophomores who sponsored the Cotillion last Friday, the Juniors are preparing to have "the" dance of the year when they hold the Junior Prom in April. Walt Zorn, class president, is supervising the preparations.

HERE AND THERE. Bob Reitz, '49, visited B.S.T.C. last weekend. Diane Snyder, a B.S.T.C. sophomore, journeyed to Penn State.

Woman to husband: "Have you noticed how much brighter than people machinery seems to be getting?"
