

Many Teachers and Administrators Attend Sec. Ed. Conference

"A new look at the schools' public relations program" was the theme around which the annual Secondary Education Conference revolved on Saturday, March 25, in Carver Auditorium. Dr. Ernest H. Englehardt, director of Secondary Education, planned a varied and interesting program for teachers and school administrators of the Bloomsburg service area.

Dr. Jesse Burkhead, Professor of Economics, Maxwell School of Citizenship, Syracuse University, opened the general session speaking on "The Pennsylvania Revenue Problem." Dr. Burkhead, who has written a series of articles for the Pennsylvania School Journal on financial problems, outlined the possible solutions of our difficulty. He expressed the hope that we would not take the easy way out—that of raising additional revenue by adopting a sales or income tax—without first considering the needed improvement in existing property taxes.

An outstanding personality in the field of public relations, Roy K. Wilson, Assistant Director, Press and Radio relations, National Education Association, based his speech on the seven qualities that a community public relations program should have. Honest in approach, intrinsic in value, continuous in application, positive in content, comprehensive in scope, sensitive to public concern and simple in manner—these qualifications will mark any public relations program as a successful venture. Mr. Wilson further described specific public relations programs of varied natures which have been successful in securing community interest and aid in school affairs.

Following the general session, the conference continued with three discussion groups: "Good Teachers are Good Salesmen," led by Dr. John B. Kennedy, Superintendent of Schools, Kingston; "New Ideas in Newspaper—Radio Publicity for Schools" headed by Orrin Cocks, Supervising Principal, Watsontown; and "School Financial Problems Facing Administrators and Directors" with Superintendent Fred Diehl, Montour County Schools, as chairman. After the panel group had introduced the topics, a very beneficial and enlightening discussion followed.

A short summary of each discussion was presented by the group chairmen at the luncheon which included the conference program.

A vocal duet with Joseph Curilla and Aleki Comuntzis, accompanied by Athamantea Comuntzis was given after the general session. Music at the luncheon was furnished by Thomas Jones on the marimba accompanied by Richard Wagner.

Morning Press Plays Host to Students From Ben Franklin

The Morning Press, town newspaper, recently were hosts to the pupils of the Sixth Grade of the Benjamin Franklin School of the Bloomsburg State Teachers College. The group's object was to see how a newspaper is made. The boys and girls have been studying and learning about newspapers, and the class was invited to visit the office of the local newspaper by Mr. Paul Eyerly.

On the tour of the paper, Mr. Eyerly explained the various steps necessary in the publishing of a daily paper, indicating how news was gathered and edited. He showed the group the linotype machines, type-setting, and proof-reading. The composition of the comic strips and the making of cuts for pictures were of special interest to the young visitors. They were also shown the operation of the large printing presses.

The much-enjoyed visit was planned by Miss Arlene Pope, a student teacher under the direction of Miss Edna J. Barnes, Sixth Grade training teacher.

Day Men's Movie and Smoker Well Attended By College Community

The Day Men, under the able sponsorship of Dr. Ralph Herre, made possible a most enjoyable evening of fun and entertainment as well as refreshments for the entire college community last Thursday, March 23. The Day Men's Smoker and Movie was held in the Waller Hall Lounge at 7:30 p.m.

The Day Men did all the work and still paid the bills. The College Community showed their appreciation by thoroughly enjoying themselves and coming out to have an evening of free entertainment.

By means of two moving-picture cameras the movies went on continuously until all of the reels were run. The show included pictures on football, archery, wrestling, boxing, and also cartoons.

Hats off to the day men for a swell time!

Bloomsburg State Teachers College was represented at the First Annual Career Conference of the Montoursville High School Thursday, March 23. Dr. Ralph S. Herre served as consultant to the group interested in teaching as a career.

Student Body Enjoys Another In Series of College Talent Shows

Once again student talent shone as they proceeded to present another all-student assembly talent program, Tuesday, March 28. The assembly committee deserves some congratulations for the splendid work they are doing.

The program was under the direction of David Newberry who also acted as Master of Ceremonies. The show got under way with a piano solo by Mary Joan Williams, a freshman.

Miss Williams played two selections — "Polonaise in A Major," and "Minute Waltze" both by Chopin.

Joseph Curilla displayed his fine voice once again as he sang "A Little Song" by Clifford Shaw accompanied by Richard Wagner. Joe will be remembered for his part in several duets with Aleki Comuntzis as well as for several solos.

A shy young man was next on the program. Tom Jones, though a sophomore in the college, first showed his versatility to the college community about a month ago. We had to find Tom; he wouldn't come to us. Tom played two selections on his mirimba or "wood pile" as he calls it. Dick Wagner accompanied him on the piano as he played "Parade of the Wooden Soldiers," and "Dancing Tamarine" both of which were arranged by John B. Quik.

Alecki Comuntzis was next on the agenda with two vocal selections. Her sister, Mondo Comuntzis accompanied her on the piano for "Love-light in Your Eyes" and "The Turtle" by Werdmann.

An always-welcomed piano duet by Dick Wagner and Emory Rarig gave the finishing touch to the marvellous performance. Dick and Emory closed the program with "Hungarian Rhapsody #2" by Franz Liszt. As they proceeded to ivorize the virtuoso composition, the audience was surprised to discover the source of the melody of the popular song "Music, Music, Music." The duo handled the difficult composition superbly and students were heard to comment that the down-town team couldn't do much better. Wagner and Rarig did an encore number of the ever-beautiful "Maliguenas."

When the program was completed, Mr. Fenstermaker seated himself at the organ and accompanied the College Community as it sang the "Alma Mater."

Nancy Powell was in charge of the devotional exercises.

April 7 Announced as Final Day To Submit State S.C. Application

April 7 will be the final day to submit State Civil Service Commission applications for two top-level positions in the Rural Child Welfare Division.

The SCSC at Harrisburg pointed out today that there will be no written examination for the Welfare Department posts of Advanced Psychiatrist at $8500 a year and Psychotherapist at $4176 annually. Applicants will be rated solely on the basis of education and experience.

Pennsylvania residence requirements have been waived for this examination but candidates must be citizens of the United States. Information and applications may be obtained from the State Civil Service Commission, Harrisburg, Penna.

The Day Women held a "Spring Tea" on Wednesday afternoon, March 29. With the coming of Spring, the group welcomed her with a very warm reception. Miss Carol Goss was chairman of the event. Miss Ranson is the Day Women's faculty sponsor.

Hopkins School of Music Presents Weekly College Hour Program

The College Hour, a weekly program every Tuesday afternoon from 2:30 to 3:00 p.m. was presented by the Stephen Hopkins Private School of Music of the College. The program consisted of piano solos by the students of Mr. Hopkins.

The first part of the program was given by the elementary group of students. The program opened with a selection called "Swaying Silver Birches" played by Elizabeth Houston. This selection was followed by two numbers by Ship Shelley, "Cuckoo Clock" and "Little Spring Song." Carol Travelpiece continued the program with "Banjo Players," "Swan and the Butterfly," and "Hookay's Shuffle."

Jobee Martin took his seat at the piano next. Jobee played "At the Fairies Ball," "Drink to Me Only With Thine Eyes," and "Chords on Parade." Jobee was so impressed with his first number and he liked it so well that he also played his own

Miss Jane Keller To Reign as Queen of May Day Festivities

Lovely Jane L. Keller of Bloomsburg was chosen May Queen of 1950 by a popular vote of the student body on Friday, March 24. Miss Keller, a popular senior in the Elementary course, is the daughter of Professor and Mrs. George Keller.

The eight members elected as her court are: Susan A. Dreibelbis, Bloomsburg; Mrs. Jane P. Kepping, Hazleton; Lucy Jane Baker, Bloomsburg; Betty J. Ridall, Town Hill; Jean Kelder, New Albany; Honey A. Tarole, Bethlehem; Terry A. Cierlitsky, Tamaqua; and Elizabeth W. Reece, West Grove.

The Queen and her court were chosen from a group of 21 candidates who were nominated by members of the senior class. Miss Keller, as Queen, will preside over the May Day ceremony which is to be held May 10.

Coach Redman and Dean Hoch Guests of Milton Service Clubs

Robert B. Redman, head football coach of the College, and John A. Hoch, assistant grid mentor, were guests of the three service clubs of Milton at the First Annual All-Sports Banquet held last night to honor the Milton High School athletic teams and their coaches. Mr. Redman spoke briefly during the program. Sol "Woody" Wolf, well-known William-sport sportscaster, was the featured speaker. Dean Hoch was master of ceremonies for the affair, which attracted a capacity crowd of 400 persons.

Philo, Marsilio, and Ryan Complete List of Successful C.G.A. Election Candidates

Although the intensity of political campaigning did not reach the same level this year that it did in the past, several events of this "season" are not to go unnoticed.

In keeping with what seems to be tradition by now, the Waller Lounge was colorfully be-decked with numerous banners and placards, announcing candidates for office. Contrasting colors presented their messages boldly from the banners. For those who paused to look more closely, the placards carried various slogans declaring the virtues and abilities of several of the more ambitious candidates.

Election eve was highlighted, for the second year in succession, by a campaign dance. Informality was the keynote of the affair as dancing was enjoyed in Waller Lounge from eight until nine-thirty o'clock. Arrangements for this social event were begun by Max Kaplan. Complications arose, however, in the matter of securing an orchestra, although everyone expressed pleasure as a result of the music provided by the aggregation of musicians assembled during the evening. Jack Swartz and Andy Maceiko, alto sax and accordion, formed the nucleus around which the group was built. In a short time these two were joined by Dick Wagner, at the piano. Next to arrive was Bill Gilbert with his tenor sax. A five-man combo remained when, upon the arrival of two trumpet players from the Maynard Laubach orchestra, Macieko left the group. The bass instrumentalists, Jerry Remley and George Heller, Jr., are associated with the pianist in the local orchestra from Berwick.

During a short intermission, all candidates who were present were introduced by Max Kaplan. Most of these persons responded with bows, although Tony Grabowski added a few weighty comments. All those who were in attendance will remember the "bandwagon" entrance of Claire Davis, whose political campaign was directed by Donald Butcofsky.

Further ado was in order in Carver Hall Auditorium on election morning. The arch of the stage, the sides of the balcony, and several of the doors carried banners and cards as reminders of a number of candidates. On the auditorium seats were placed mimeographed pleas, in the form of a defense for some campaign speech remarks, asking members of the college community to "vote for Cal." The real flurry of the assembly period was provided when, during the announcement period, balloons and tags bearing the name of Dick Kressler came floating down from the balcony. The political operations of this aspirant for the office of vice president seemed to be supported to some degree by the Day Men's Association.

"The Boast of Heraldry . . . ."

We have just witnessed one of the most interesting and hard-fought political campaigns in the history of C.G.A. office rivalry. We have seen and heard candidates anabolating and metabolating the faculty, administration and College Council to a greater or lesser degree, depending on the office for which they were running. Some of us have agreed with what was said, some of us haven't. But be that as it were, the election campaigning is now over, the candidates have been chosen by popular vote, and the job is just beginning.

Have you ever stopped to think what a wonderful C.G.A. we would have if the student body gave one-half the support to the elected officials once they assume office as it gives to putting them there. Take for example the recent balloting for president. The winner won by the somewhat remarkable margin of 405 popular votes. Brother, that's a lot of support. If the newly elected president had over 400 students supporting him throughout the college year, he would have powers which would make the average faculty member's hair raise slightly whenever a student body request or gripe was aired.

However, college life is not a life of gripes and requests alone. It is a life of mutual collective effort to better the lives of the entire college community. To do this we must work together; each one contributing in some way to better the other. We must back-up our newly elected officers, carrying on a constant campaign for better student government. We, the majority, put them there; let's make certain that their representation "leads not to the grave." (fd)

Is Our Library Doing Its Job? . . . .

This week, our college was honored with the presence of a board of review for the Middle Atlantic States of Accredited Colleges. This board was made up of College presidents and other persons high in the field of education. Their purpose in visiting was to inspect the facilities at our school, and to determine whether or not B.S.T.C. should be admitted as a member of this all-important organization. If admitted, students of Bloomsburg will be able to transfer credits to any other member college.

Taking everything into consideration, we believe Bloomsburg will receive a fairly good recommendation. There is, however, one important department that, in our estimation, may block our admission. We refer to our library. It's probable that the library will be one of the departments that will undergo the closest scrutiny by the visiting board. For who can deny that the library is one of the most important sources of information available to the student?

Our library needs more new books. Of course, we cannot have new books unless the funds are available. Usually, our library does not have a wide enough coverage on most subjects, and when there is enough material, it's invariably found in outdated books. The student is ever compelled to turn to other sources for his information.

Another "gripe" of most students about the library is that it is always closing. It's either a basketball game, or a fashion show, or a speaker, or some other event. The obvious psychology of this is to offer less avenues of attraction open for the students, so that more of them will attend the activity. What the administration does not seem to realize is that when some research has to be done on a "rush" project, it must be done immediately, regardless of whether or not the student would like to attend the particular community activity. A real boon to the student body would be the opening of the library on Saturday and Sunday afternoons. Many precious hours are wasted over the week-end that could otherwise be put to good use.

These shortcomings are not the fault of our librarians. Indeed, they are already overlooked. They cannot be expected to purchase new books when they do not have the funds. Neither can they be expected to work longer hours. What we really need is another librarian to share the duties and working hours.

We, as students, must have tools to work with, as well as a workshop. With an increase in funds, we could have a bigger and better library, and longer hours in which to use it. (jb)

Grabowski Chosen New C.G.A. Head

Included at various phases throughout the week-or-so preceding the elections were the distribution of book-matches bearing the expression, "Matchless," and of pencils. A group of "Burma-Shave" type signs paved the way between Noetling and Carver Halls presenting another message in behalf of the "vote for Dick" campaign.

With the passing of the elections, losers have congratulated the victors (campaign managers as well as candidates) and, with the passing of the signs from Waller Hall Lounge, all is once again back to normal for another year.

THE APRIL FOOL

I thought I'd write a verse and say
Next week there'll be no school
And when my friends would believe this fib.

I'd call them April fools.

But next week start the holidays;
There really is no school,
And so I bow my head in shame,
For I'm the April fool.

A Book Review

The Interpretation of Dreams

Marie Mattis

In 1909, the founder of psychoanalysis, introduced to the world in his book, THE INTERPRETATION OF DREAMS, what he himself considered one of the most valuable discoveries of his career. The book has been translated into English by Dr. A. A. Brill, who has long been familiar for putting the theories of Freud into the English tongue.

Freud, in THE INTERPRETATION OF DREAMS, shows how the thoughts of an individual may be revealed through the dream, thus enabling the interpreter to detect hidden mental conflicts producing disorders of mind or body, or both; and helping to treat victims of such disorders.

The psychoanalyst separates the sources of dreams into four categories:

1. An event which has lately occurred, is psychologically momentous and is directly represented in the dream.

2. A number of events which have lately occurred, are psychologically momentous and are directly joined by the dream into a single unit.

3. One or more events which have lately occurred, are psychologically momentous, and which, in the dream content, are represented by an allusive reference to a contemporary but indifferent event.

4. A subjectively important experience which is constantly represented in the dream by an allusive reference to a lately occurring but indifferent impression.

Freud considers in detail the belief of other writers that dreams have a corporeal or somatic source, and proceeds to point out the inadequacies of the somatic theory.

Other dream interpreters have concerned themselves only with the manifest dream content; but Freud, in his process of dream interpretation, considers both the latent dream and the manifest dream content. The dream is joined through the latter with recent experiences; through the former, with the most distant and remote experiences. The manifest dream content grows out of the latent.

The Freudian theory which is dominant throughout the book is that the dream is a fulfillment of a wish.

Dream interpreters who deal only with the manifest dream content do not concede this idea; but, Freud, through penetration of the latent dream thoughts, finds the existence of wish fulfillment. He states that the majority of adult dreams are expressive of amorous wishes.

The lay reader will find in THE INTERPRETATION OF DREAMS a psychoanalyst's explanation of many of the strange phenomena characteristic of dreams. The word "No" does not exist in dreams; it is expressed by the inability to do something. Similarity and agreement are usually expressed by contraction into a unity; thus two persons may be represented as one in a dream. This composite formation is one of the main conditions responsible for the fantastic characters of some dreams. In reference to the symbolism of numerals in dreams, Freud advances the theory that, "the temporal repetition of an act is habitually represented in dreams by the numeral multiplication of an object."

In the last chapter of the book, the former professor of neurology recalls Aristotle's definition of the dream as the continuation of thinking in sleep. Again he emphasizes that the dream is the fulfillment of a wish, and shows how the thoughts of the day are continued in sleep, and how the wish originates. He concludes by explaining the theoretical and practical values of dream interpretation.

The reader who has a philological knowledge and who is acquainted with earlier works of Freud will best appreciate THE INTERPRETATION OF DREAMS. Some of its merits have been lost in the translation; nevertheless, the translator has done a better job than any other could have done. For this, Dr. A. A. Brill deserves credit. He deserves credit, also, for the well-organized alphabetically arranged index at the back of the text.

The book is not one to be read quickly or casually perused. The reader who makes his first acquaintance with Freud through this book and reads it thoroughly may be puzzled after he has finished it. The reader who merely skims through it will be bewildered.

FORM 1040 AT GETTYSBURG

One score and 16 years ago our fathers brought forth upon this nation a new tax, conceived in desperation and dedicated to the proposition that all men are fair game.

Now we are engaged in a great mass of calculations testing whether that taxpayer or any taxpayer so confused and so impoverished can long endure. We are met on form 1040. We have come to dedicate a large portion of our income to a final resting place with those men who here spend their lives that they may spend our money.

It is altogether anguish and torture that we should do this. But in the legal sense we cannot evade, we cannot cheat, we cannot underestimate this tax. The collectors, clever and sly, who computed here, have gone far beyond our power to add and subtract.

Our creditors will little note nor long remember what we pay here, but the bureau of internal revenue can never forget what we report here. It is rather for us to be dedicated to the great task remaining before us — that from these vanished dollars we take increased devotion to the few remaining, that we here highly resolve that next year will not find us in a higher income tax bracket.

FASHIONS

a la femme

by Dot Cedor

Spring means but one thing to the fair sex . . . spring fashions . . . new spring magic for your wardrobe. To start the spring season with a flourish, you may want to experiment with the white collar look. This simple fashion is designed to go everywhere, everyday, throughout the spring season.

Spring's leading motifs are the polka-dot and the minute-check whose blouse-belted, side-split contours are already entrenched in fashion. Certainly they will make an exciting dress for spring.

Dramatic bat-wing sleeves combined with the season's important checks are fashion news. Two variations on these sleeves are the full cut coat, flowing and smartly belted or the molded, princess coat with the bat-wing sleeves which are the more effective because of the simplicity of the rest of the coat.

In dresses, slim lines and brief sleeves provide the keynote. This spring's bare armed "little boy" dress is getting a second look from fashion minded femmes.

Gay spring prints are, as always, a safe bet for any spring wardrobe. This season they are being featured with detachable pique collars.

As you probably know, navy is the color this spring, with red running second best.

See you in the navy, girls!

Babbling Brooks

by Harry Brooks

Moose, the most widely used term on the campus, has virtually become a byword in everyday College Hill conversation. There is no special class or species to which this word applies, but the meaning is an abstraction fitted to the speakers' desires. With such liberalities, it is due time that some individual or group of persons compose a song in honor of this word which says so much and yet means so little. To the best song submitted will only go the reward attached to a deed such as this. How about it? If you have any ideas, put them in box 254 within the next three weeks. Should the venture be successful, the official Moose song of the campus will be played at the next informal dance . . . .

Cheers to the "Barretts" cast for their fine performance. From Lizzy right down to Mr. Reams' talented canine who barked just at the right time, goes the thanks of the entire college community for another entertaining drama in the annuals of B.S.T.C.'s little theatre.

Don't forget the Junior Prom is coming up on Friday night, April 21st. Plans, committees, and all the ballyhoo needed to concoct an exciting affair are now in the developing stage. Remember, April 21 will be one of the highlights of the second half of the year so be sure to be there . . . . In the last few weeks, the Day Women and the Day Men have presented two enjoyable programs for the test-weary college crowd. The Day Women's brawl was in form of a Sadie Hawkins dance, while the Day Men presented several action-packed sport films. Now how about the dorm associations throwing a shindig just to let the outside world know we're still alive up here?

Tomorrow at noon marks another prison break for the next twelve days at B.S.T.C. Most of the student body will "ball" for the rest homes today, but to those unfortunates who have Saturday classes, we say 'tough luck.' On returning the twelfth of April, many activities will confront us from then until the end of the year. This is just an advanced clue to the male members of the campus to bring back a little extra of the Fort Knox stuff. Remember the campus motto . . . . Be prepared.

Husky Baseball Squad Continues Workouts For Coming Campaign

Despite the fact that Mr. Redman has 38 baseball aspirants out for the squad, the Huskies' chances of repeating last year's performance of twelve games without a setback seem dim. Via the graduation route, several key players have been lost. Two Maroon and Gold stars—Paul Slobozien, Johnstown ace, and Bob Thomas, Danville, shortstop—are missing from this year's nine, but ample replacements are available if the new boys perform as they are expected.

The brightest spot on the whole squad is the mound staff. Big Mike Evans, last season's star hurler from Wilkes-Barre who copped five consecutive decisions is ready for the opening call. Two other holdovers, Buck Byham, Kane sophomore, six game winner last season, and the little Nanticoke senior Henry Brunn, who recorded two victories, are also back.

Eddie Piestrak, Danville veteran seems to have the first base positions sewed up, while Dick Hummel, Northumberland stylist, appears to be the outstanding contender for the second sack slot. Coach Redman faces the problem of filling the shortstop post left vacant by Thomas' graduation, and until John Czerniakowski, hard-hitting third sacker recovers from automobile injuries, someone will have to fill in at third base.

Stanley LeVan may nail down the backstop position now that George Lambrinos is no longer with the squad.

Clair Mensinger, Don Butler, and Hank Marek, letter-winners from last season will lead the outfield. Of the many candidates, several will give these vets a run for their positions.

The complete roster follows: Pitchers: Mike Evans, Wilkes-Barre; Bill Byham, Kane; Henry Brunn, Nanticoke; Don Kline, Berwick; William Savage, Chester; James Thompson, Kane; Clem Makowski, Kulpmont; Don Kearns, Lewistown; Dan Fitzpatrick, Northumberland; Ardell Zeigeforse, Ashland.

Catchers: Stanley LeVan, Bloomsburg; Jack Rittenmeyer, Plymouth; Edward Johnson, Bloomsburg; Donald McClintock, Berwick.

First Base: Edward Piestrak, Danville; Richard Ledyard, Bloomsburg; William Bartleson, Warrior Run; Danny Boychuck, Shamokin; Ben Duke, Berwick.

Second Base: Richard Hummel, Northumberland; Walter Montz, Weatherly; John DiRico, Wayne; Jimmie Johnson, Benton; David North, Bloomsburg.

Shortstop: Bernard Kotula, Cumbola; John Stevens, Morea; Al Williams, Nanticoke; John E. Riley, Danville.

Third Base: John Czerniakowski, Plains; Thomas Goodwin, Kane; Walter Baker, Meshoppen.

Outfield: Henry Marek, DuPont; Clair Mensinger, Mifflinville; Donald Butler, Warrior Run; Gene Fink, Berwick; John Hayes, Pottsville; Jack Pepper, Kulpmont; Joe Barkley, Hatboro.

The wife of a Congressman sat up in bed one night, a frightened look on her face. "Jim," she whispered, "there's a robber in the house."

"Impossible!" was the reply. "In the Senate, yes; but in the House, never!"

The squaw and papoose were on the platform at a jerkwater stop in South Dakota when the train pulled in. A society matron from the East pointed a finger at the papoose and inquired: "Him Injun?"

"Him part Injun, part injineer!" replied the squaw.

New Clerk: "What do you do when a person forgets his change?"

Manager: "You tap on the counter with a dollar bill."

"A hick town," it is said, "is one where, if you see a girl dining with a man old enough to be her father, he is."

Husky Cagers Set New BSTC Scoring Record

A recent release, by Coach Harold Shelly, of the 1949-50 B.S.T.C. basketball season statistics shows that the Husky cagers scored 1153 points, establishing a new B.S.T.C. scoring record, averaging 60.8 points per game. Last year the Maroon and Gold squad scored 826 total points. The first eight Varsity basketballers took 1248 total points during the season, completing 424 goals or 34 per cent of their shots; they averaged 65 shots per game.

The Huskies shot 430 fouls, chalking up 257 points or 59.7 per cent of fouls taken.

In aiding the B.S.T.C. basketball squad, "Tweet" Reed scored 6 points. Thompson and Ksanznak swished in five points each, while Daly and Williams basketed four points each. (Chuck Daly was eligible for only the La Salle game.) Rittenmeyer, McCaffery, and Raker helped the Husky victories with three, two, and one points respectively.

Launching its most comprehensive program since its beginning seven years ago, and introducing a new mode of travel by air, the University of Houston International Study Centers are looking forward to a peak enrollment for the coming summer's activities in Mexico and Guatemala, Dr. Joseph S. Werlin, director, said in announcing the 1950 program.

This non-profit, all-expense educational venture of the University of Houston will again be divided into two centers, the first to be held in Mexico City in cooperation with the University of Mexico, from June 8 to July 13, the second in Guatemala, July 20 to August 24, in conjunction with the University of Guatemala.

Intended for all students regardless of field of specialization and with all courses taught in English, the study centers appeal particularly to persons interested in sociology, history, Spanish, art, architecture, and all social-cultural aspects of Latin America. Courses carry credit on both graduate and under-graduate levels, or may be attended on a non-credit basis. College veterans are entitled to enroll under the G. I. Educational Act, receiving their tuition and subsistence allotments.

Professor David Red, who will teach the art and architecture courses, is a member of the department of architecture at the University of Houston and has traveled extensively through Mexico and Central America. The orientation course on Guatemala is given by outstanding professors and others designated by the University of Guatemala, while the courses in conversational Spanish are given in both centers by trained linguists, attached to the cooperating Latin-American universities.

To carry out the basic purpose of the Centers of introducing the members to the present-day life and culture of the Latin American countries in meaningful, systematic yet pleasant fashion, the classroom lectures and activities are integrated with numerous field trips, week-end excursions away from the capital cities, and a round of evening entertainment and events.

An all-expense arrangement is worked out, including tuition, airfare traveling, field-trip and living costs. For the Mexico Center this amounts to $325.00 from Houston back to Houston. For the Guatemala Center (including a visit to the Maya ruins of Chichen Itza in Yucatan) the cost is $495.00.

Further information can be secured by contacting Dr. Werlin at the University of Houston.

"I'm in favor of feeding all starved-looking people in the world," says Senator Hornblower, "including the models in women's fashion magazines."

35 Candidates Report To Coach Shelly for 1950 Track Campaign

Approximately 35 candidates have reported to Coach Shelly to inaugurate the 1950 track campaign. This is Mr. Shelly's first year as mentor of the Husky speedsters. It is hoped that more prospects will try out for the team.

A week of good spring weather would certainly be welcomed by Coach Shelly. Practice so far has been confined to the gymnasium. With a tough schedule, including such crack outfits as Cheyney and West Chester, Tutor Shelly will have his hands full trying to get the boys in shape for these meets.

Many new faces will appear in this year's team. Among them will be Joe Feifer, freshman, who has been showing good form in the half mile. Much interest has been shown in the weights, specifically the shot-put.

With the purchase of a new imported Swedish Vaulting Pole, Frank Womer, holdover, is expected to exceed his 12.6 record of last season. Also among the returnees are Frank Gallo, Bob Conrad, William Gilbert, Harold Lundy, and Bob Lepard.

Her lips quivered as they approached mine. My whole frame trembled as I looked into her eyes. Her body shook with intensity and our lips met, and my chin vibrated and my body shuddered as I held her to me.

Moral: Never kiss with the engine running.

"Dat's from walking in de mud when ah was a little girl."

"Well, Mandy, you mus' have sat in de mud, too."

"Are you troubled with improper thoughts?"

"Why, no. I rather enjoy them."

Student: "Is your ice cream pure?"

Salesgirl: "As pure as the girl of your dreams."

Student: "Give me a ham sandwich."

"I'm going to quit dating engineers. They leave blueprints on my neck."

"Yeah, but lawyers are worse — always contesting your will."

"Look, is that lady's dress torn or am I seeing things?"

"Both."

If Mr. Redman and the weatherman can get together, there is a possibility that the Husky diamond squad will be ready for the initial opener in Wilkes-Barre on April 15th, against the Kings College nine. Thus far, the Maroon and Gold trainees haven't been outside enough to wipe the white markers off the playing field. If the Huskies are to keep last year's twelve game win streak intact, they will really have to bear down in the next few weeks. One good point in B.S.T.C.'s favor is that none of our opposition has had any more practice than we have . . .

The thinclads face the same weather problem. Mr. Shelley is not seriously thinking of equipping the tracksters with snow shoes as someone suggested, but it wouldn't be a bad idea . . . With the resumption of the cider series with the West Chester State Teachers after a period of over ten years, the incident is brought to mind as to just why the B.S.T.C. tutors and the down-state club have not met in such a long time. It seems that when the state built Navy Hall, a portion of the track was used for the building. West Chester officials refused to let their squads run on the smaller track for fear they would lose . . .

Every sports writer must face that time of the year when predictions are in order. With the baseball openers just a little over two weeks away, I shall endeavor to pick the National and American league races on no information at all. Here's the way I think that the clubs will finish up come next October.

National League

1. Brooklyn
2. Boston
3. Pittsburgh
4. Philadelphia
5. St. Louis
6. New York
7. Chicago
8. Cincinnati

American League

1. Boston
2. New York
3. Detroit
4. Philadelphia
5. Cleveland
6. Chicago
7. St. Louis
8. Washington

Don't bet the price of a good book of matches on these final standings.

Here and there . . . The Day Men movies last Thursday evening included some of the best sport films ever seen on this campus . . . That basketball chart long overdue, is finally in the paper this week. Interesting percentages and facts on every player are available . . . The Husky pitching staff should be as strong as any in the state teachers college conference this year. Some of the other schools are reported to not have much in the way of a mound corps . . . Former B.S.T.C. baseball star, Danny Litwhiler, is pounding that ball at a fine clip for the Cincinnati Reds in spring training. Danny looks like a sure bet to be among the top performers of the Red Legs this season.

Raiders Clinch Title In Gold Division of Intramural League

The Raiders of the Gold League clinched the title in that division, Thursday, March 23, by beating the 88's, 35 to 29. Williams and Kleman were the big guns for the victors, each garnering 8 markers while Babb led the efforts of the losers with 11 counters.

Over in the Maroon circuit the Packers continued to be the pace-setters by turning in a 31 to 21 conquest of the Cadets. Lundy was high for the winners with 8 points; however Borst of the Cadets took top scoring honors by bucketing 3 field goals and 4 fouls for a total of 10 markers.

The only other game played in either loop was the 28 to 14 victory of the Red Raiders against the Cadets. Martin led the victors in the scoring column with 8. The standing of the teams up to March 24 and the results of the game of March 21 to 24 were as follows:

Major Roy Carlson, U. of Iowa, Training Executive, U.S. Air Force!

Born in Red Oak, Iowa, Roy graduated from Thomas Jefferson High School at Council Bluffs. He was ready to enter the University when war changed his mind.

He went to work at Consolidated Vultee in San Diego, building PB-24's and B-24's. But it wasn't long until he had put in his application for Aviation Cadet training.

Cadet Carlson won his wings in April, 1943, was assigned to P-47 "Thunderbolts" with the 368th Fighter Group in England, to break ground for the Normandy invasion.

Roy completed 125 combat missions, leading many of them, supporting the invasion and the advances on into Germany. Won Air Medal, D.F.C., many other decorations. Promoted to Captain, then to Major.

Back home, he married the lovely Army nurse from Lowell, Massachusetts, whom he had met at Cannes, France. After the honeymoon, he returned to finish his studies at the University of Iowa.

Major Carlson is now Chief of Operations, 2471st Air Force Reserve Training Center, at O'Hare International Airport, near Chicago. Has two husky sons, a fine job, a great career still ahead of him!

If you are single, between the ages of 20 and 26½, with at least two years of college, consider the many career opportunities as a pilot or navigator in the U. S. Air Force. Procurement Teams are visiting many colleges and universities to explain these career opportunities. Watch for them. You may also get full details at your nearest Air Force Base or U. S. Army and U. S. Air Force Recruiting Station, or by writing to the Chief of Staff, U. S. Air Force, Attn: Aviation Cadet Branch, Washington 25, D. C.

Have You Heard?

by Marie Mattis

This has been a profitable week for news collecting. So, without further waste of words, let's find out what's happening. (Advance Warning: If you have no intention of reading this column to the very end . . . do not begin!)

OKLAHOMA is the theme song of Nancy Powell and Bob Sickinger. After their splendid performance last night in The Barretts of Wimpole Street, the two dramatists were confronted by a talent scout who presented them with contracts with The Thespian Team of the Tulsa Theater.

BENEFICIAL BONUS. Rumor tells us that Al Marsilio has purchased a new Cadillac. We are wondering if Al is a member of the Bonus Brigade, or if he has made an advance drawing on his next year's salary as C.G.A. treasurer.

DAMSEL'S DISCOVERY. Nancy Crumb, who is majoring in science, has recently been conducting an investigation to discover if there is any life on the moon. Yesterday, Nancy revealed that she believes the ticks which infest the earth's sheep, oxen, dogs, goats, and other animals also exist on the moon. To these parasites Nancy has given the name lunar-ticks.

RETROSPECTION ON THE ROAD. While driving along a road outside Bloomsburg the other day, Tony Grabowski looked in his rear view mirror and thought he saw a policeman following him. Tony slowed down but it really wasn't necessary; he had been the victim of a "cop"-tical illusion.

DELAYED DANCE. Members of the Junior class may decide to postpone their Prom scheduled for April 21. According to a pre-dance inventory, so many people want to attend the affair that there will not be enough room in the gym to accommodate them.

PLAYFUL PREVARICATION. Now that you have read all the news, don't believe a word of it; none of it's true. You might say we were just jesting . . . April Fool!
