

B.S.T.C. Thespians Highly Acclaimed For Presentation

To a large and highly appreciative audience, the cast of "Blithe Spirit" presented an entertaining and memorable version of Noel Coward's hit play on Tuesday evening, April 6.

Superb acting on the part of William Ottaviani as Charles Condomine, Joan Curilla as his second wife Ruth, Avery Williams as his first wife Elvira, Jean Robison as Madame Arcati, Joanne Graeber as the maid Edith, and James Luchs and Wylla Bowman as Dr. and Mrs. Bradman made the play one of the most successful ever.

Mr. Boyd Buckingham, B.S.T.C. speech faculty member, directed this improbable farce, with Dick Williams assisting as student director. Stage Manager Gerald Houseknecht and prompters Glenna Gebhard and Donna Wilcox aided in the smoothness and efficiency back stage.

The unusual "spirit" costumes which added greatly to the effectiveness of the play were the products of skillful Shirley Andre and Joanne Tressler.

Mollie Harter, Judy Bolling, Carmel Craparo, and Mary Hoffercker composed the make-up committee who gave the "other world" actors such an ethereal appearance.

In charge of securing the stage furniture and accessories from the Economy Furniture Store and Deisroth's Department Store were Patricia Dorsey, Joyce Lundy, Alice Ann Swartz, Bertha Knouse, and Hope Clark.

The realistic stage setting was designed and constructed by the scenery committee consisting of Al Davis, David Hines, Ken Weir, Doyle Lynn, and Robert Arbogast.

Radio and assembly announcements, advertising letters to nearby high schools and colleges, and the attractive, colorful posters were the results of Mary Ann Martz's hard work as Publicity chairman, while Mary Romig and Walter Fox handled the all-important ticket sale to people outside the college community.

Light Director Elderson Dean and Organist Myra Albertson added the final professional touch to a production well worth the spontaneous response given the curtain call of the seven exhausted but triumphant actors.

Produced by special arrangement with Baker's Plays and Samuel French, the play was presented by the Bloomsburg Players and Alpha Psi Omega. Members of Alpha Psi acted as ushers for the

Business Ed Club Shows Video Aids

The regular meeting of the Business Education Club was held April 1, 1954 at 3:00 p.m. in Navy Hall Auditorium. Pat O'Loughlin, vice-president of the club, presided over the business meeting. Sherrill Hiller, club secretary, read the minutes of the previous meeting, and Donald Carey gave the treasurer's report. Club members were reminded of the banquet and committees were urged to begin preparing for the event. The club sponsor, Mr. Rygiel, commented on the excellent work that is being done by the general committees of the club.

The program, in charge of Connie Ozalas, featured audio-visual aids which can be used to good advantage in any business department. Mr. Rygiel demonstrated the use of audio aids in the form of dictation records. The set is made by Gregg Publishing Company and is correlated to the Gregg Shorthand text. These records range from 50 to 140 words per minute and contain brief forms and most used business phrases. These records are excellent for warm-up, for repetitive practice, and give the weak student a chance to improve at his own convenience. The cost of this set of shorthand records is $36 and includes a teachers' booklet which tells exactly what is on each record and how it can best be used.

Records demonstrating how to and how not to use a telephone were heard by the club. These records, "The Secretary at the Telephone," are very good audio aids for high school classes.

The second part of the program introduced the audio-visual aid—a movie entitled "The Federal Reserve System." This film showed the beginning of our present-day Federal Reserve Banks and their system.

Club members were urged to use audio-visual aids whenever possible to stimulate interest in subject matter and to broaden knowledge in a particular field.

Annual Business Ed Contest Will Be Held in May

The Twenty-second Annual Business Education Contest under the direction of Dr. R. G. Hallisy and sponsored by the Business Education Department will be held on Saturday, May 8, 1954, on the campus of the Bloomsburg State Teachers College. Twenty-seven high schools from the surrounding area will be represented in the contest by over 150 students. Examinations will be given in Bookkeeping, Business Arithmetic, Business Law, Gregg Shorthand, and Typewriting.

The Business Education Contest was instituted in 1930 by Dr. Harvey Andrus as a means of calling the attention of students throughout the state to the Business Education Department of the Bloomsburg State Teachers College. The specific purposes of this contest are: to promote better testing in business education; to encourage scholarship in business education; to promote the development of a broader curriculum in the high school; to provide opportunities for Bloomsburg Business students in the organization and conduction of a community activity.

The number of contestants who will be given an hour examination in the following subjects are: Business Law—eight, Business Arithmetic—fourteen, Bookkeeping—twenty-seven, Shorthand—thirty-one, and Typewriting—thirty-four.

Three specific rules of the contest are as follows: (1) all contestants must be currently enrolled in the subject in which he or she is competing; (2) no contestant may leave the examination room during the examination except in an emergency; (3) a team of contestants shall consist of five students who have participated in three or more events, and no more than one event may be entered by any one student.

Prizes will be awarded to the winners of each subject, and the winners will be determined by the statistical method of ranking.

In recent years the Business Machine Show has been added to the program to increase the students' knowledge of modern office equipment, and to give visiting teachers and students an opportunity to observe competent demonstrations of the machines.

Speech Class Tours Geisinger Hospital

On Thursday, March 25, the Clinic I class of speech correction students and their instructor, Miss Clara B. Weir, took a field trip to the Geisinger Memorial Hospital in Danville. They observed cases, methods, and facilities related to the field of speech and hearing.

The students visited the crippled children's clinic and observed patients primarily afflicted with cerebral spasticity. Dr. Bush, head of the clinic, demonstrated his methods with the children. Following this the group was shown slides of cleft palate cases. Dr. Smith, chief of oral surgery, spoke to the class on the cleft palate and commented on the slides as they were shown. The last portion of the visit was devoted to a talk on audiology by the head of the hearing clinic, Dr. Davidson. Slides were also shown at this time.

The trip was arranged through Mrs. June Withers, head of the student nurses at the hospital. On March 27, a group of student nurses from the Geisinger Hospital visited our Saturday morning clinic for observation purposes. The same program will follow on April 3 and 10.

"Arabian Nights" To Be Featured At Junior Prom

As I gaze into my steamy crystal ball, a shimmering light reveals a desert. Oh yes, and there is a tent as large as Centennial Gymnasium. Well, that could be because it is Centennial. I also see numbers which tell me that it's April 30, 1954, at about 9:00 P.M.

There are all kinds of people dancing around inside this tent. The oasis seems to be the most popular place on the desert. Strains of music can be heard as Shiek Gabe Garland and his Desert Rogues come clearly into view.

Something big is going on! It seems that the Junior Class of B.S.T.C. is holding a prom that they're calling "Arabian Nights". It looks as though someone has done an awfully lot of work to transform this scene.

As I turn back the time dial on my crystal ball, I see two people busily making plans—Jean Griffiths and Joe Kinder, co-chairman of this big affair.

There are quite a few other people crowded into the view, and they're all working. Mike Moran is busy making plans with Shiek Gabe Garland; Jan Ference and Lynda Bogart are making posters; Carol Shupp and Arnie Garinger, co-chairmen of the advertising committee, are giving last minute instructions to Janet Wagner, Relda Rohrbach, Allen Walburn, and Archie Gurzynski.

George Schell and Janice Bower are completing plans for refreshments on the oasis. Sylvia Krapf and Carolyn Berdy are busy with the refreshments also.

The busiest people are all over the place. I see Mary Ellen Henning and John Panichello giving last minute instructions to Joe Kwak, Mike Bernot, Molly Harter, Ruth Paul, Don McNelis, Nancy Moran and Ruthie Gillman as they are about to add atmosphere with some very unusual materials.

Janice Yozviak and Glenn Wilk are passing out tickets to Hope Horne, Sherrill Hiller, Mickey Bellock, Fred Betz, Pat Phillips, Don McNelis, Dick Hurtt and Don Thomas, who are about to approach the students of a college they call B.S.T.C. and trade one of these tickets for this big affair for a small sum of $2.00.

Grace Histed, and Don McNelis with the help of Cora Gill and Keith McKay have just completed programs.

Invitations are being sent by Joanne McCormick and George Derk with the assistance of Alice Fisher.

As I again adjust the time switch, I see an empty tent which looks as though there had been a fine dance. Jeanetta Mincer and Charles Pope are talking to Grace Ott, Betty Hoffman, Sylvia Krapf, Gloria Harris, Arnie Garinger, Bob Cumens, George Derk and John Panichello as they are about to transform this desert scene back to Centennial Gym after a wonderful time.

Well, since this is a forecast, I am sure that you would like to take part in the big affair. Corsages will be acceptable.

Red Cross Gets 167 Pints Blood

On April 1, a total of 167 pints of blood were obtained in the visit of the Red Cross bloodmobile unit here at B.S.T.C.

The majority of blood donors were college students with a number of townspeople helping to boost the total. The bloodmobile was set up in Waller Hall Lounge.

Donors from the college were Benjamin Burness, John Angus, John Anderson, James E. Browning, Joseph Kissinger, John H. Koch, Marilyn Friedman, Enola VanAuken, Alberta J. Semanski, Janice Trescott, Ronald Kanaskie, Alton Schmidt, John Sibly, Byron Bishop, Catherine Christian, Alvin David.

Plans Progressing For Fashion Show

"Fashions 'Round the Clock" is the theme planned for this year's fashion show, to be held in Carver Auditorium on May 7. Mr. Charles Henrie, the producer, has named the models to take part, and these girls are at present practicing three afternoons a week on the gentle arts of standing, walking, and turning correctly. After Easter vacation they will spend even more time in preparation. As yet, the children to model have not been chosen.

Clothes and accessories to be shown will be loaned from Arcus' Women's Shops; Deisroth's; W. T. Grant; Dixie Shops; Dorothy Kashner Millinery; Harry Logan, Jeweler; J. C. Penney; Ruth Corset and Millinery Shop; and Snyder's Millinery.

Pi Omega Pi Elects 1954-55 Officers

On Thursday evening, April 1, officers of the Alpha Delta Chapter of Pi Omega Pi were elected for the coming year. These are: President, Mary Hoffercker; vice-president, Joanne McCormick; secretary, Alta Hermany; treasurer, Bob Carey; and historian, Patricia O'Brien.

The outgoing officers of Pi Omega Pi are: President, Ed Longo; vice president, Kenneth Kirk; secretary, Sally Morgan; treasurer, Pat O'Loughlin; and historian, Rose Marie Grant.

Before the election, sixteen new members were initiated into the fraternity. These are: Bernadine Butz, Bob Carey, Joan Christie, Marion Duricko, Nancy Ebersole, Eileen Gerosky, Pasquale Giangiulio, Alta Hermany, Joanne Hester, Mary Hoffercker, Joyce Kline, Muriel Neilson, Patricia O'Brien, June Reese, Ed Siscoe, and Rosalyn Verona.

The fraternity plans for a banquet and a picnic to be held in May. Various committees for these affairs were named.

After the close of the business meeting, refreshments were served.

Awards Committee Policy

Under the auspices and administration of the College Council of the Community Government Association, outstanding leadership and service to the college and to the public is recognized upon graduation by a limited number of service keys.

- I. The Awards Committee shall be a committee of students and faculty adviser. The chairman and co-chairman shall be appointed by the Community Government Association. The committee shall consist of junior, sophomore, and freshman members selected by the chairman. The size of the committee shall depend upon the work to be done.
- II. The Awards Committee shall review each year the entire awards system and recommend any necessary adjustments to the College Council. The Awards Committee shall check points of all candidates in the office of the Dean of Instruction and recommend to the President of the College those people who are eligible to receive keys.
 1. It will be necessary for all organizations to perform some college or public service during the year, if the organization is to receive service key points. All organizations, with the exception of governing organizations, publications, musical organizations, and classes, shall submit a written report of their college or public service activities for the year by May 1. This report shall be given to the Awards Committee.
 2. The committee shall recommend to the College Council the reduction or cancellation of service key points in the case of organizations which have not justified their right to points.
- III. The faculty sponsor shall be responsible for submitting a signed statement of the name of all people who are eligible for key points. In cases of negligence in office on the part of any student, the faculty sponsor shall use his discretion in assigning less than the maximum number of points.
- IV.
 1. Service keys shall be awarded to no more than 10% of the senior class except in case of a tie for last place, and only last place, when an extra key or keys will be given.
 2. These keys will be awarded to the persons having the highest number of points with a minimum of 20 points.
- V.
 1. The points for a service key are awarded on the basis of one year's service as recorded on the student's progress card. No less than 1/2 point will be given.
 2. In the case of a student who serves 1/2 year, he shall be eligible for up to 1/2 the maximum number of points for that office.
 3. In the case of seniors absent from the campus due to student teaching elsewhere, the above rule shall apply.
 4. Freshmen elected at the end of the first grading period may receive credit for a full semester.
- VI. An organization must be an accredited (approved by administration) on campus, extra-curricular organization, if officers or members are to receive service key points.
- VII. Any person receiving an award for any extra-curricular activity shall not receive service key points for that activity.
- VIII. Persons, while holding office, shall not receive additional points for membership in the body of which they are officers.
- IX. Those receiving Service Keys must have secured points in more than one activity by special approval of the awards committee and the President of the College.

CLARIFICATION

- A. In the case of co-chairmen, each co-chairman shall be eligible to receive 1/2 the total number of points for that office.
- B. In the case of a co-chairman serving 1/2 the year, he shall be eligible to receive 1/4 the total number of points for that office.

Everything but Aladdin's Lamp

Who would be a more ideal person to talk to about collections of American antiques than a person who was born and raised in one of the oldest sections of our country—New England? Such a man do we have in J. Almus Russell, LL.D.

The furniture decorating his home is of the type to make an Early American antique dealer's eyes light up. The amazing things about the collection is that Dr. Russell didn't just buy an 1835 Empire Style Cherrywood table and put it in his dining room, but he also refinished it.

Many of the items are a result of travel. Dr. Russell has found pieces like the three-legged pine candle table, and the hard maple kitchen table, from the Carolinas to the Dakotas. Most, though, are actually from the Mason, New Hampshire home where he was born. The house was passed down from father to son since it was built in 1775.

Dr. Russell points with pride to the stencilled-back Boston rocker in which he was rocked as a child, and the Pumpkin Pine blanket chest, without which few young women started housekeeping.

By standing on the stairway leading to the second story, one can piece together parts of the family history, for on the wall are framed documents and letters telling of strange customs of America's early days. One is the affirmation of a minister that Dr. Russell's great grandparents were upright members of the church, and should be welcomed into any new church to which they moved.

The most interesting was the record of a deed to half a pew in church, purchased by his great grandfather. Another is a prized letter from Hamlin Garland, author of the "Middle Border" series, to Dr. Russell.

These articles and others too numerous to mention will decorate the new home that the Russells are building. In spite of the current emphasis on modern modes, as long as people will preserve our country's original styles, early American design will hold a place in our 20th century homes.

PACE SETTERS

By Joan Curilla

All ready to go home? I bet you are. As I look back on former Easter vacations I see only books and papers for that is the time to do those horrible term papers, and catch up on all that back reading. Since there are no more term papers and reading assignments for me, I can look forward to a vacation of lesson plans. Oh well, así es la vida, as the Spaniard would say. That's the only expression I ever learned and I use it all the time. It makes people think that I'm an accomplished linguist.

Don't fret. All isn't lost. Every black cloud has its silver lining (they tell me) and I bet Mary Lou Kubic found it. If you haven't noticed, Mary Lou is wearing a sparkle in her eye. Dave Link-chorst is back and looked terrific when I saw him. Dave was wearing a powder blue cashmere sport jacket over light grey flannel slacks and grey sport suit. I've never seen a more beautiful coat—these Bloomsburg graduates.

Nancy Moran looked bright and cheerful in a black turtle-neck sweater and full, full, full goddurdoy skirt. Plain black pomps added the final touch to the simplicity of her outfit.

Relda Rorhbach looked smart in a suit of maroon and light blue tweed. The finishing touches were a snowy white blouse and red wine pomps.

John Long chose to mix a blue-grey sport jacket with navy slacks, white shirt and navy tie. Real sharp John; we like to see mixed matches.

A cocoa brown flared skirt, tan blouse with rolled "V" collar and a luggage belt was the outfit chosen by Doris Krzywicki. It made one of those indispensable "go anywhere" outfits we all love.

An Oxford black flannel suit looks good anytime—but particularly when Jack Bushey mixes it with a mustard yellow tie and "squared" handkerchiefs in the pocket.

Well, have a nice vacation, keep your chins up and all that.

Waller Hall News

Ah, do you smell those tempting aromas emerging from the laundry-dry rooms? The shuffling and crackling of the yellow kernels cause plenty of excitement as the girls eagerly await the fresh hot popcorn. While the girls are enjoying their "cookery", the other sections of Waller Hall are bitterly complaining that the aromas of the popcorn can make a gal die of starvation, especially if she can't have any!

Second floor girls have a new game which is causing plenty of excitement in the smoker these nights. The girls call it "Spit" and it really gets mighty dangerous at times! No, it's a card game!

The boys in North Hall may have the B. C. fraternity, but a group of coeds in Waller Hall have organized an "A" Sorority. They're really giving some competition to the B Club. Helene Clark is the president and the meetings are hepped up with lectures by B. Bernie Butz.

The collection buckets are being passed in Waller Hall to buy a new pair of dancing shoes for poor Jim Nicholas. Seems he wore his out a few years ago.

The happiest girl on the campus these days—Mary Lou Kubic. The reason—she has her Davie back again.

A new style was created the other evening at Pi Omega Pi initiation when one of the new members wore two different earrings. No, she wasn't the least bit worried about what would happen to her.

Shades of Shavertown! Our dorm is really being modernized—new towel racks and paper towel containers!!

DAY WOMEN'S NEWS

Here's to let you in on the top scoop of last year's day women graduates. We're happy to say that each one of our former members are now employed in the teaching profession. This list was made available to us through Dr. Engelhardt, Placement Service Director and his secretary.

There were only two girls in the business field: Leone Diltz of Muncy and Miriam Neyhard of Orangeville. Miss Diltz is teaching at Elverson, and Miss Neyhard at Hughesville.

Most of our graduates were in the elementary curriculum. Shirley Carmody, a past secretary for the D.W.A., is teaching in our capital city of Harrisburg. Two jobs were found in New Brunswick, New Jersey by Arlene Gardner and Winnie Hileman. Girls teaching in Pennsylvania are Barbara Gulick, at Warrington; Carolyn Heacock, at Lititz; Margery North Hosler, at Bradford; June Long, at Allentown and Phyllis Margan, at Yardley. A few of the girls have established themselves in South Hampton. They are Jeanne Wallace, formerly of Berwick, and Nancy Lou Rhoades of Catawissa. There is only one other girl teaching out of state and she is Mary Lou Kruskosky, now at Raritan, New Jersey.

In the high schools, we have but two girls teaching. A former president of D.W.A., Delores Harding, is teaching in Huntington. Ruth Thomas, a past member of our official board, is teaching in Millville. As you can see, quite a few of our graduates were active members of the day women's association.

Candidates for 1954-1955 official board have been selected and the election will be held Monday, April 26, 1954. Those nominated for president are Patricia Hartman and Bertha Knouse. For vice president: Alice Eyer, Nancy Hyde and Carol Nearing.

For official board representatives, we have Allene Burlingame, Hope Horne, Joyce Lundy, Shirley Redline, and Mary Jane Trefsgar as 1954-1955 seniors. Juniors selected are Peggy Bartges, Nancy Ebersole, Elaine Fowler, Patricia Hartman and June Reese. The following sophomores were nominated: Alice Eyer, Arlene Rando, Nancy Hyde, Lavell Lindenmath, and Carol Nearing.

Traffic Safety Conference To Be Held Here in May

George C. Lowe, director of Traffic Safety Education, Atlantic Refining Company, will be the keynote speaker for the first annual Teen-Age Traffic Safety Education Day Conference at Bloomsburg State Teachers College Friday, May seventh. John A. Hoch, who is regional chairman for the conference, said that more than 200 high school boys and girls will attend the conference from schools in Columbia, Luzerne, Montour, and Northumberland counties.

A planning committee composed of leaders in Bloomsburg and surrounding towns will be announced soon, and a general meeting is planned for the near future.

The conference will be one of fourteen held on the same day throughout the Commonwealth on the campuses of the State Teachers Colleges.

Track and Baseball Now Take Spring Spotlight

With track season just around the corner Coach Harold Shelly has probably the toughest job a cinder coach ever had. Plagued by a lack of experienced material, the one time college discus champ has to develop a group of "willing to try" boys who can carry the colors of Bloomsburg against such foes as West Chester, the victor last week-end over Lincoln U. with 14 of 15 1st places.

Starting his fifth season as coach of the Bloomsburg track and field squad, Coach Shelly has but four returning lettermen and only seven more boys who ever ran on a cinder track. Of the hopefuls out for track, a great majority never had track in their high schools at all. If one will note, there isn't a high school with a track team in a 30-mile radius of Bloomsburg. Therefore the coach must go up the valley to Wilkes-Barre and west to Williamsport to find any track material.

Coach Shelly has 22 hopefuls out working to get in shape for the season opener on April 27 at Lock Haven. Of the 22, twenty are freshmen and sophomores, so the outlook for the future is brighter if the "never-before" pull through in championship style.

The one senior on the squad is Jerry Kopec, Forty Fort's star broad jumper, who earned his letter as a freshman and again as a sophomore, but last year he had to pass up track because of an injury. This season, however, Jerry's speed in the dashes and his broad jumping will be vitally important in the Huskies having a winning season.

Of the other three returning lettermen, one is a sprinter, and the other two are field men. Al Tucker, the lightning-fast sophomore from Coatesville might have been our State champion in the 100 yard dash if he hadn't pulled a tendon in his leg while running a qualifying test. The hard working speedster is determined to make up for it this year at West Chester. Al is one of the members of the relay team who will travel to the Penn Relays in Philadelphia on April 23, for the match against all the State Teachers Colleges. The other two lettermen are sophomores Keith Weiser and Larry Bush, who hail from far-away Kane, Pa. Keith is Bloomsburg's talented high jumper whose 5'8" jumps last year were topped only by Cheyney's Sam Green. Keith, like Al, is aiming at that first place in the state meet being held this year at West Chester on May 8. Larry is the only pole vaulter on the squad and his jump of 11' last year earned him a 3rd place in the state meet. Last year, as a freshman, Larry was undefeated on the home field in three meets, and is out to keep that slate clear again this year.

Of the six sophomores who showed good promise last year, we have Dick Caton, the Berwick High School graduate who never ran track before in his life. Dick specializes in the 440 and 220, and has been running since Feb. to be in tip top shape for the opener against Lock Haven. Another sophomore, Alex Boychuck, a G. I. from Shamokin who came back to school after a hitch with Uncle Sam, is also a first-year trackman, and his spring showing in the 440 and 220 looks as if he may be a winner before the season is over. Ronnie Krafjack, who hails from Duryea, is a sophomore who shows good ability as a middle-distance runner last year. Ronnie's second year as a trackman may prove to be a winning one. Big "Moe" Morson, a Radnor boy with a good arm for the shotput, javelin, and discus, has dropped baseball this year and should be a big help in the previously weak weight events. Bob Huntz, Forty Fort middle-distance runner, showed up quite well last year as a first-year man, and that experience should fit well into the track picture this season. Another boy from Forty Fort is Don Wise, a shot putter who should add strength to the weight team with a year's experience behind him.

Of the twelve freshmen there is Williamsport's "Buzzy" Wool, a great distance runner who grabbed himself a sixth place in last year's state high school meet. Buzz's long windedness and long stride will be a tremendous addition to the 1954 Huskies 2-mile, 1-mile, and half-mile hopes. Another freshman is Donald Beck of Berwick, who is sporting a track suit for the first time for a try at the half-mile and 440 runs. Jerry Kaufman from Dover, New Jersey, had a strong arm for the sorely-needed weight events, and so far has shown that he can really heave the 12-lb. ball of iron. Another Williamsport graduate is Ed Bresnick, a boy who should be one of the best javelin throwers ever to come to Bloomsburg. Ed was the 1953 state champion in the javelin and hopes to wrap it up this year as a collegian. Brit Kile from Kulpmont, Joe Samon from Coughlin of Wilkes-Barre, and Abe Brassington are three of the finest looking prospects in the hurdling event that Coach Shelly has seen in quite a while. All three have fine speed and clearing ability, and should add quite a few points to the Husky total score this year. Basketball star, Len Kozick from Dallas Township is trying his hand in the high jump for the first time. Len has good spring for a high jumper and should add strength to the flying field event. Bob Blomesderfer, a Hershey lad, is trying the distance races for the first time, and if he comes through the Huskies could have a "tough to beat" team of runners. Larry Dudeck is a beginning high jumper who is hoping he can help the squad this season in that event. Harry Hughes, another Williamsport boy, is making that discus look like a flying saucer this spring. When he gets that left-handed spin of his own down pat, he's going to be one lad who will be tough to beat.

1954 Baseball Season Here

One of the few signs of spring that has been exhibited around the Bloomsburg campus is the welcome sign of baseball provided us by Coach Jack Yohe and 23 of his Husky hopefuls. Despite the weatherman and his unfavorable conditions, Coach Yohe and his assistant Bells Colone have been working feverishly for over a month in an attempt to mold the 1954 edition of Baseball Huskies.

Coach Yohe has six monogram winners back from last year's squad that posted a record of seven wins against three losses in a weather-riddled schedule. Of the three losses that were handed the Yohemen last season, two of them came at the hands of Lock Haven's Bald Eagles by the scores of 11-9 and 10-8. The Bald Eagles went on to win the Teachers College Title. The other loss came at the hands of little Nemo Allen, pitcher for Rider College who wasn't much bigger than the pitchers mound, but he was able to toss a three-hitter on Mount Olympus as the Huskies went down by a 3-1 count.

Graduation took three Huskies, captain and shortstop Kenny Mincemoyer who batted second and was the team's big run producer; versatile Dave Linkhorst, a four year veteran at third base and was the team's leadoff man; last but not least, the popular Wild Bill Bartelson, the Warrior Run speed merchant. Besides the graduation toll, two other varsity outfielders, Bernie Mont and Joe Glosek have found it impossible with student teaching, to report out for the squad, and the team's leading hitter, Bob Stroup, who handle the first base chores last season, left school at the end of the first semester.

The biggest question posed for Coach Yohe to figure out will undoubtedly be the pitching problem. Last season Coach Yohe had four front linkers in Johnny Dennen, a junior from Exchange who won two and lost one and is expected to really come around after some reports of the impressive pitching he did in the local twi-light league; Charley Kwiatkoski, a sophomore from Plymouth who proved himself last season against Scranton University as a starter along with several effective relief chores against Wilkes and Millersville; Big Al Bolinsky, the Berwick fireballer who will be missed this season because of professional commitments; and Rudy Holtzman, a junior southpaw who ran into sore-arm difficulties. Filling in for the starters of last year will be Bobby Dipipi, the Old Forge mighty mite who will be remembered for his football pitching last fall; Eddie O'Brien, an Ashland hopeful; and Jack Risewick, another freshman from Bloomsburg High School. Another pitching prospect that Coach Yohe may call upon is Eddie Zajackowski, an ex-GI from Nanticoke who can either handle the bull pen duties or help Bells Colone with the pitching staff.

In the catching department it is reminiscent of last fall's bumper crop of football tackles, with no less than five hopefuls waiting to don the "tools of ignorance", as the catching equipment is sometimes classified. Coach Yohe is no more certain as to what catcher will call the pitches in the opener than he is sure what kind of weather we will have. Last year Bobby Aurand, the Millville hustler, was the first string receiver, and he turned in a commendable job; but this season Big Jack McCarthy, who hails from down Harrisburg way, is expected to make known his intentions for the first-string squatter. Two other hustling prospects from last year's squad are John Panicello, a junior from Glenside who relieved Aurand last year on occasion, and sophomore Joe Keefer, one-time star for Mechanicsburg High School. Rounding out the catching prospects is Bernie Sherin, a freshman from Trucksville.

Last year's veteran-packed infield is only a pleasant memory as the only holdovers are a pair of second basemen who have been vieing for the same job for the past three seasons. They are Bob Cumens, a junior from Coatesville, and Johnny Halcovitch, also a junior, from Shamokin. This is the third season that both boys have made their bid for a varsity position, and it may be a good bet that Cumens will be shifted to third to fill the gap that Linkhorst held down for four seasons.

SPORTS SCUTTLEBUTT

by BILL BITNER

THIS GUY BELLS . . . The story of Joseph Colone is not only the story of a great athlete, or a guy who coached his way through college, but above all, the story of a regular guy.

Where do you begin when you all are trying to tell of the exploits of such a person? Well, the best place to begin, I guess, would be in the city of Philadelphia back in 1942, when little Berwick High school was in the PIAA State Finals in basketball. They were beaten that year for the crown, but there was some consolation for their efforts, for their captain, Bells, Colone, was picked for the first All-State team. The next year Bells was a senior, and captained both the football and basketball teams of the Bulldogs, being an outstanding star on the track team.

Upon graduation Bells signed a baseball contract with the Cleveland Indians who farmed him out to Wilkes-Barre Barons. Managing the Barons at that time was "Poosh 'em up" Tony Lazzari of Yankee fame, who had Bells for only six weeks when Bells got the call to move up to a higher league, the U. S. Army.

Bells took his basic training in Camp Gordon, Georgia, after his he volunteered for the Ski Troops and served with the Tenth Infantry Division in the Northern Alps Campaigns.

After the war Bells got back into baseball with Harrisburg of the Inter-State League. That year the Senators won the Governor's Trophy, and Bells won more games than anyone on the staff, seven-teen.

After baseball Bells went back to his first love, basketball. That winter he played with Saratoga Springs of the New York State League under one of basketball's all-time immortals, Dutch Danner of the original Celtics.

Another successful season with the baseball Senators, Bells signed to play with the New York Knickerbockers of the National Basketball Association. It was while Bells was with the Nicks that he enjoyed the greatest thrill of his colorful athletic career. The thrill came from something someone else did rather than something he himself accomplished. The game was with the Minneapolis Lakers at New York's Madison Square Garden; the year was 1948. With the Lakers was George Mikan, considered by many as the greatest player basketball has ever known. That night Mikan put on a scoring exhibition that will long be remembered by Garden fans, as he scored 42 points. Among other great stars that Bells had the opportunity of playing with was "Sweet Water" Clifton, who distinguished himself as a star for the world famous Harlem Globetrotters and the New York Nicks. During this time Bells also pitched with Sunbury of the Inter-State League for two seasons, during both of which he posted winning records.

In 1951 Bells decided to go to college, and upon arrival on the Bloomsburg campus he was put to work as an assistant to Bob Redman, who was then the Huskies' head man in football and baseball. These duties, along with assisting Coach Shelly with the Husky hardwood hopefuls, have been an important part of his college experience. Bells didn't confine his time to being a student and coach, but he also found time to play pro ball with the Wilkes-Barre Barons for better than two seasons. In the 1951-52 season Bells set an all-time scoring record for that league by dropping in over 1100 points. Bells tells us that he has had the pleasure of playing against the Harlem Globe Trotters no less than eight times, and each time he gets more laughs from the clown princes of basketball. This year Bells is playing with the Sunbury Mercurys who took first place in the Eastern League.

Bells is married and is the father of a boy and a girl. Bells is enrolled in the Elementary Curriculum and will be graduated this spring. His future plans are for teaching and of course, coaching.

Also making a strong bid for the keystone sack is freshman Terry Zackowski, the Reading High basketball and baseball star. The first base job will go either to Ken Hilday, one time Bloom High great or George Derk, a junior from Montandon. At shortstop Bellefonte's little Chuck Casper is making a strong bid and may force Coach Jack Yohe to switch senior Ron Steinbeck, who plays either short or outfield, back out to the left field where he played last season.

Besides Steinbeck in the outfield there may be Joe Kinder, St. Clair junior who was a member of last year's team; Jimmy Star, sophomore and former Williamsport Millionaire who was also a utility outfielder and pinch swinger for the Huskies last season; Ron Girton, another Bloom High product and utility outfielder from last season; Eddie Shustack, a promising frosh from Shenandoah who could make a couple of upper-classmen hustle if they expected to play; and finally, Frank Fisk, a freshman from Danville who might be called on for either outfield or infield chores.

Under-Currents

After the paper came out last time, I got up enough nerve to ask a few people how the column was. They said, "Well, it was longer." If you could see the things I write that they censor before it's published, you'd understand why any columnist for the M & G has trouble.

Congratulations to Ed, Dutchy and the rest of you shiny, new C.G.A.ers. I guess you know what you're getting into. I've seen Crisci get gray hairs and become rather shaky in the last couple of years. Probably if you don't take it too seriously, you'll get along better.

Never have I seen one movie make such an effect on a large group of people as "The Wild One" did. Hitchkiss wanted to trade in his car for a motorcycle. Groover rode one to class everyday last week. All you have to do is fo Vroom, Vroom, turn the spark and gas (which is found in the handlebars for you kiddies who were wondering why they turned said handlebars) and you too can ride right into Barrooms. Don't try Hess', the door opens the other way.

In case Betz or Jones haven't told you, on Friday afternoon ten youngsters left Bloomsburg for Renova, Pa., to play in a basketball tournament. Maybe we didn't win but we had more fun than a barrel of Simians (it's in your zoology book, Phillips). We did win the consolation game though and came home happy. The reason I thought Fred or Ed might have told you was because they both made the All-Tournament Team. Ed also got the sportsmanship award. It was easy for him because no one could hurt him or knock him down so why shouldn't he be a good sport about knocking the other guys down. But even though he got all these awards, Ed isn't the big boy anymore. If you'd like to know why, ask Ondrula.

Keep this Junior Prom in your mind. If you haven't gone to any of the other dances, you can make them all up by just going to this one. I'm quite sure that the theme will be "Arabian Nights." No, the girls don't have to come in transparent gowns. (Ed, why didn't we think of that?) Panichello is setting up an escort service for either sex, so if you're in need of a partner get in touch with Punch.

If you visit the Hochs anytime, don't go in the living room before you remove your shoes, and for heaven's sake stand on the throw rugs, cause Mrs. Hoch got a beautiful new rug.

The parking situation seems to be coming along nicely. Lots of fellows are losing some weight from their daily walks. I guess Angus will have to start parking down at Ent's before the walk will start doing him any good.

I don't know if it's the way Myra plays the organ, or if it's just Myra, but one of these days, Dick Williams is going to fall right out of the balcony and frighten Dr. Andruss something awful. Dick seems to get hypnotized when Myra plays and leans way over to get a better look.

Remember that announcement I read in assembly about the B.C. Club. I found out that it's the Bachelors Club made up of North Hall men. Nicholas is president.

The Dramatic Club deserves a lot of credit for all the work they must have done to make "Blithe Spirit" a success. Orchids to Ottaviani and his two dead wives.

Chiscon told me some of the funnies his 9th graders make in class. Out of a clear blue sky, one lad asks, "Do you know what the French Poodle said to the butcher?" "No," says Al. "What?" "Save ze bone," was the reply. One more: "What is a bacteria?" "Naturally, it's the rear end of cafeteria." Things like this make for good algebra instruction.

Well, once again I've run out of material. Let's do one thing. When I handed this in there were 16 paragraphs. If there are any less than this when you read it, (please do) revolt cause you're getting cheated.

Happy Easter Bunnies,
U. C.

To whom you speak, of whom you speak,
And how, and when, and where.
