

Class Officers Elected in the Recent Elections

There's no doubt that the student body at B.S.T.C. is a forward-looking group, and here's even more proof—each class has already elected officers to serve for the coming year. With much friendly competition and some small-scale politicians, the results turned out to be agreeable to everyone concerned. The students obviously realized the gravity of these elections, and seemed to put serious thought into their choices. The people they have chosen as their leaders have a definite responsibility and certain duties to perform to the best of their several abilities. As in previous years, they will discharge these tasks in a sincere effort to maintain the traditional high standards of the college.

Service Keys Presented To Sixteen Seniors at Traditional Honor Assembly

Sixteen members of the graduating class were presented Service Keys this morning at the annual Honor Assembly held in Carver Auditorium. Each year keys are awarded for service rendered the college to ten percent of the Senior Class who have accumulated a minimum of twenty points.

Breaking all existing college records for service points, Alfred Chiscon, a science and mathematics major, received the first key with a total of 89 points. The previous record had been set last year by David Newbury, whose 81 points topped Thomas Anthony's seventy-some record.

Editor-in-Chief of Obiter 1954, Al edited the Maroon and Gold during his sophomore and junior years. This year he served as Vice-President of Kappa Delta Pi, Treasurer of Phi Sigma Pi, Man Representative of his class, and completed his second year in College Council. During his college career he was an active member of the Olympian, Bloomsburg Players, Science Club, and Men's Glee Club.

The second key was presented to Harriet Williams, English and French major, who accumulated 65 points. Harriet was highly active on the staff of the Maroon and Gold, serving as Associate Editor while a junior and this year as Editor-in-Chief. Prior to the presentation of service keys, Who's Who Certificates were awarded to the eleven seniors named during the first semester. The highest honor given by the college, nomination to this group entitles the name and college career of the selectee to be printed in the annual publication, "Who's Who in American Colleges and Universities."

have been eliminated. The senior section contains appropriate graduation messages from prominent leaders of the Commonwealth and College. Names of graduating seniors appear for the first time under their pictures for easier identification. The block system of grouping senior pictures has also been eliminated for the same reason.

The "Who's Who" section has been expanded to its due importance. A new plan of having separate pictures of organization officers and advisers has been partially put into effect. In all, a total of over 700 pictures appear in the publication. For the first time, the yearbook is being circulated to the entire student body, faculty, and administration. By increasing the amount of books sold, the price per book was lowered from four dollars to one and a half.

This year the Obiter sponsored an Obiter show under direction of Tom Rowley and a "Coed of the Year" contest under the direction of Tom Higgins. The yearbook changed printers from the Grit in Williamsport to the Taylor Company in Texas. Senior photographs were taken by Sommerville Studios of Williamsport. Cover photographer was Girton of Bloomsburg.

Cumens Crowned at Gala Junior Prom

Arabian Nights was the theme, Centennial Gymnasium the place, Friday, April 30, the date, of the semi-formal dance sponsored by the junior class. The music was furnished by Gabe Garland, and his orchestra, with dancing from 9:00 to 12:00 p.m.

The high spot was the crowning of Bob Cumens as Shelk by Joan Christie, our B.S.T.C. "Co-ed of the year", in a ceremony during the dance. Mr. Cumens fiancee was also honored at the crowning.

The decorations carried out the Arabian Nights theme perfectly. As one entered the lobby he could see that the doors to the gym were tent entrances complete with draped flaps held up by poles. Once inside the gym one nearly felt "magic-carpet-borne", for the gym had been transformed into a huge tent, pink and aqua in color. Miniature tents and palm trees decorated the tables, and bouquets of spring flowers lined the walls of the "tent". However, at one end of the Arabian Tent was the main attraction, the Shelk's Throne, made of pillows and luxurious materials with a canopy made of the same material as that forming the tent walls. The Junior Class is to be congratulated on this most successful and unique dance.

follows: Dr. and Mrs. Harvey A. Andruss, Dr. and Mrs. Thomas P. North, Mrs. Elizabeth Miller, Mr. and Mrs. John A. Hoch, Mr. and Mrs. Earl A. Gehrig, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Beeman, Miss Honora M. Noyes, Dr. and Mrs. Paul Wagner, and Mr. and Mrs. Walter S. Rygiel.

The programs for the dance are of black suede with the gold seal of the college and Senior Ball decorating the cover. Gold tassels complete the programs planned by Ann Gengenbach and Albert McManus, Co-chairmen of the Program Committee.

Investigation, arrangements, and accommodations were handled by Marge Morgan and Merlyn, Co-chairmen, while tickets were under the supervision of Louise Schullery and Kenneth Kirk.

The beautiful posters announcing the dance were the products of the Publicity Committee headed by Ann Kornfeld and Stephen Wolfe, and the orchestra was secured by Phyllis McLaren and Thomas Johnson.

Invitations to the honored guests were sent by Anna Bitner and Sara Jane Hoffman. The decorations have been planned by Rosemary Snierski and John Johnson, while transportation to the Irem Temple Country Club will be provided by the committee headed by Stanley Aagard and James Davenport.

Sessions of Summer School Are Revised

The Bloomsburg State Teachers College will admit new students with the Summer Sessions, beginning June 7 and 28, it was announced today. This will provide an opportunity for veterans of the Korean conflict to meet their requirements for graduation in a shorter time. Young men graduating from high school may take advantage of this opportunity to attain college standing between the time of graduation from high school and entry into the armed forces.

Attendance during the summer sessions provides an opportunity for qualified persons to prepare for teaching as a profession. Present estimates of demands for competent teachers indicate critical shortages of teachers for at least several more years.

A rearrangement of the Summer Session calendar will result in four three-week sessions being offered. In former years, a Pre-Session of three weeks was followed by a regular session of six weeks, and a Post Session of three weeks in length concluded the summer program. The first three-weeks session will begin Monday, June seventh; the second three weeks on Monday, June 28; the third—Monday, July 19, and the final three weeks on Monday, August 9. A wide variety of courses will be offered during the sessions.

Class Takes Tour Of Carpet Company

Mr. Hinkle's business organization class visited the Magee Carpet Company on Tuesday afternoon, May 11. Everyone in the class is still talking about the interesting tour they had. The class saw the entire process of how wool was made into yarn, and how yarn, in turn, was made into carpets. The class was pleasantly surprised when their pictures were taken, and also when refreshments were served to them at the end of their tour. While they were eating their refreshments, they were entertained by a musical group of the Magee Carpet Company. As souvenirs, they received miniature carpets.

Members of the class who went on the tour were as follows: Eug-

PACE SETTERS

By Joan Curilla

Graduation weekend comes with a swirl of gowns, black gowns with mortar boards—and the others. Of course, we're interested in the others. Yours truly, the roving reporter, made a quick trip to the dorm and elsewhere to bring you a preview of senior ball attire.

White is traditional for graduation and we will see a beautiful array of snowy puffs Thursday night. Ann Gengenbach chose ballerina length with tier upon tier of pleated net and eyelot organdy. Judy Bauer turns sophisticate in white lace over pleated tulle. White paper taffeta made a hit with Harriet Williams, whose gown has the new pantaloon-puff hem, and Janet Hughes, with sprinkles of spring flowers.

Let's not forget the men who will be wearing white dinner jackets with maroon bow ties. I could write all the senior boy's names here, but it wouldn't be very practical.

We'll see daubs of color on the dance floor too. Shirley Walters' gown is definitely different in pastel plaid, and Mae Neugard has a beautiful rose print halter-top dancing dress. Ann Bittner will be wearing a bit of green fluff with dainty ruffles on the skirt. Another beruffled dress is Rose Marie Grant's powder blue net.

Farewell to you, fair Seniors! Have fun and lots and lots of success.

F.T.A. Elects New Officers at Meeting

The Future Teachers of America elected its officers for next year at the May meeting of the organization.

The results of the elections are as follows: Al Walburn, president; Tom Sanders, vice-president; Cora Gill, secretary; Sherrill Hiller, treasurer; and Nancy Sue Williams, program chairman.

This year's president, Al McManus, reviewed the club's activities for the past year. He thanked all those who had helped to make the year the success it was.

Al Walburn then gave a report on the State F.T.A. convention which was held at Slippery Rock S.T.C. on April 22 and 23. Evelyn Weaver was elected state secretary at this convention.

After a few words by Dr. Englehardt of thanks to the officers and the committee chairmen, the meeting was adjourned.

Science Club Plants Redwood Trees Again

Again the Science Club has sponsored an attempt to grow California Redwood trees on our campus. Ten Sequoia Redwood, five Sequoia Semper Virens, and five Sequoia gigantea have been placed in various spots on the campus.

The Science Club held its last meeting of the semester in the form of a weiner roast at the fire place on Navy Hall field. President Oren Baker presided at the business meeting at which elections were held. Those elected were: President, Joe Shemanski; Vice-President, Mike Homick; Secretary, Patricia Hartman; Treasurer, Oren Baker; Program Chairman, Anne Swartwood. Refreshments were served and a softball game was played.

Waller Hall News

The most sparkling fingers at the typewriter these days belong to Alta Hermany. The reason? She became engaged this past weekend. Loads of happiness, Alta. Another coed who has recently become engaged is Peggy Gearhart. The best of everything in the future.

More birthdays this week. Two girls who are going to stop counting the years after this birthday because they feel twenty years are quite a number of years are: Joan Rabb and Muriel Neilson. Happy Birthday girls.

At a recent Governing Board Meeting, Tina Valente was elected Councillor of Waller Hall for 1954-55. Other chairman named were: Joan Rieder, Customs Chairman; Martha Starvatow, Publicity Chairman; Jean Griffiths, Joyce Buck and Pat Phillips, Social Chairmen; and Ann Geary, Book Exchange.

B. S. T. C. girls really traveled last weekend. Jean Griffiths is still exclaiming over the marvelous time she had at East Stroudsburg, where she attended the Senior Ball. Joan Rieder brought a few souvenirs home from Lehigh, where she attended a house party. Muriel and Marion are still starry-eyed over their weekend at Penn State.

In the friendly relations department: Brothers and sisters really invaded the Jr. Prom when Grace Histed and Carol Shupp dated each other's brothers for the gala occasion.

Course for Nurses Will Be Offered

Interested persons should contact the office of the Dean of Instruction at once. The college reserves the right to cancel the course if enrollment does not warrant offering it.

FROZEN FIRE by CORINNE PENTECOST

The huge diamond on her left hand sparkled fiercely as Alieta impatiently smoothed the wrinkles from the billowy skirt of her diaphanous traveling dress. The iridescent folds glimmered and shone in the gold-orange light that is commonly found on the planet Venus.

The ultra-modern interior of the Trans-Planetary-Airways terminal reflected the same orange glow that shimmered upward in dizzying waves from the rock-based runways outside. Spectacular posters along the walls urged all space travelers to spend their vacations on beautiful Venus, only sixty-seven million miles from the sun . . . for the sunbath of their lives, for the tan of their lives, for the rest of their lives.

"Rocket 247 now loading on runway 6. Blast-off time — three minutes. Last call! Please report to runway 6 — Rocket 247 preparing for departure to Earth."

In the mad rush immediately following the announcement, Alieta found herself carried by the surging crowd up the ramp to the rocket. In a few seconds she was comfortable settled in the proper seat, breathing a sigh of combined relief and apprehension.

To herself she thought, "Earth, here I come, ready or not. Eons and eons I've waited for this moment, and now I'm on my way — and I almost can't believe it. What will it be like — will I be happy — will it look like my dreams?" These and other fragments tumbled through her young mind.

Actually it had been only three Venusian years ago that the handsome young space pilot from Earth had saved her from being bitten by a hydra monster. Now she was on her way to become his bride, happy and excited at the prospect of the glorious days ahead of her, her youthful soul overflowing with enthusiasm.

She opened the crystal compact Roger had sent her last year to celebrate the complete eclipse of the moon. Her rosy skin and violet eyes contrasted beautifully with the white-blond hair which hung in waves to her shoulders. A picture of warmth and loveliness to greet a promising young man.

The 26 million miles sped by, and with only 40 thousand miles remaining, Alieta reached for the shawl her mother had carefully woven from the fine white feathers of her pet egret, Mercury. She shivered a little, and a tremor of nervous tension skittered up her spine. In her state of excited anticipation, she failed to notice the increasing stiffness of her usually flexible fingers.

They found her sitting in the same position later at the T.P.A. spaceport on Earth — Roger, worried when she failed to appear, and the captain, who wanted no difficulty concerning his passengers.

The coroner in his official report stated that "the young lady obviously succumbed due to an insufficient amount of heat for the maintenance of normal body temperature."

"It's a pity," went the gossip. "They say her skin was completely blue," continued the whispers, "and she was frozen solid, like ice!"

"That's what he deserves, if our Earth girls aren't good enough for him," said the more vicious. "Serves him right, importing a girl from Venus. He should have known what would happen — hmmmph, 26 million miles farther away from the sun. No wonder she froze."

And Roger could only think, "Ice — cold, blue, and stiff. My fault. But it happens so rarely. Why did it have to be Alieta? Oh, my darling, why you?"

But Alieta would never answer, lying deep within the walls of her eternal earthen home. The only thing left now was the massive diamond resting in the palm of Roger's hand, burning even more fiercely than before, holding within itself the beautiful frozen fires which were as cold and lifeless as the girl herself.

Faculty Member Has Poem Published

The 1953-54 edition of the National Poetry Anthology compiled by the National Poetry Association contains a poem, "Harvest," by Russell Schleicher, of the faculty of the Bloomsburg State Teachers College. This is the latest of Mr. Schleicher's poems to appear in print.

Last year, Mr. Schleicher's "Twilight" was published in "America Sings," a publication of the National Poetry Association. These publications are composed of materials submitted by college teachers and librarians. In past years, the Harbinger Press has published a number of Mr. Schleicher's poems, while some of his articles have appeared in Nature magazine, Clearing House, American Childhood, Journal of Education, and the Pennsylvania School Journal. At the present time, Mr. Schleicher is writing several articles for future publication and a children's book is partially complete.

Gamma Beta chapter of Kappa Delta Pi will hold its last meeting of the current college year tonight in the social rooms of Science Hall.

An entertaining program has been planned, featuring a new film entitled "Crossroads—U.S.A."

Alpha Psi Pledgees Initiated Recently

The social rooms of Science Hall were the scene of the Alpha Psi Omega initiation on Wednesday, May 7, at 7 P.M. The national co-educational dramatic organization, the local chapter of which is under the direction of Mr. Boyd Buckingham, is an honor society for those doing a high standard of work in college dramatics for at least two years and having a high scholastic standing.

The initiates include: David Hines, Doyle Lynn, Glenna Gebhard, Elizabeth Adams, Avery Williams, Toni Czerwinski, Wylla Mae Bowman, Jo Hester, and Joyce Lundy. They were required to know the Greek alphabet, 12 lines from Shakespeare, the names of 25 chapters of the organization in other colleges, and the names and addresses of the national officers. After the old members were convinced of the thorough knowledge of these facts by the new pledgees, a formal initiation was held with a ceremony and an oath. The meeting was concluded with refreshments.

The following evening, Thursday, May 6, at 6:30 the annual banquet of the local branch of Alpha Psi Omega was held at Pine Barn Inn in Danville. Both old members and initiates attended.

Bloomsburg Road Efforts in Vain Against Colonels

The Huskies continued their road efforts when they met the Colonels of Wilkes College at Wilkes-Barre May 6. The Huskies apparently hadn't forgotten what they did the day before against Mansfield as they committed five errors, but were out hit in a chilly May afternoon contest dropping a 9-5 decision.

Charley Kwiatkoski, after pitching a very effective relief stint just six days before at Millersville, got the mound assignment, but found rough going right from the first inning. In the first stanza, Rick Ferris led off with a line single; Richards, in an attempt to advance Ferris, laid down the bunt. Ski came in to field the sacrifice and couldn't find the handle, so all hands were safe. Len Bartroney then singled home Ferris, and the Colonels established a lead they weren't to give up until the Huskies' half of the third. Ski walked in the top of the third and was advanced to second on Terry Zackowski's sacrifice. Chuck Casper then got a free ticket to first as Joe Sikora hit him on the foot with a pitched ball. Bobby Cumens then came through with one of the three hits he was to collect for his afternoon's efforts. With the bases loaded and 2 down, Jimmy Starr lined a single to left and Dick Moss tried for a shoe string catch, but missed it, and three runs scored. Wilkes came back in the bottom of the fourth as Rick Ferris led off with a ball that was hit right back to Ski; again he wasn't able to field it in time, so Wilkes had a base runner with nobody out. Ski got the next two men without any trouble, but Trosko and McNew followed each other with slashing singles, and Wilkes narrowed the lead to 3-2.

The Wilkes half of the fourth was slightly less than fatal. Eddie Davis led off with a sharp single to left, and was followed by another hard hit single by Moss. Ski then got Sikora on a pop-up to Cumens. Ferris, who had been on twice before, was purposely passed to set up the possible double play. Richards hit the ball to shortstop Chuck Casper, who had only one play, and that was at third allowing one run to score. With two down and the score knotted at three all, Bartroney singled scoring two more. This was followed by a single by Trosko, putting runners on first and third. McNew set the final blow when he cracked a tremendous triple over Starr's head, scoring two more, and Wilkes led 7-3.

Ski held on retiring the side and giving Bobby Dipipi a chance to warm up to come on in relief in the fifth. In four innings Ski was hit hard, giving up nine hits, while the only walk he gave was the intentional pass, and struck out one. Dipipi gave only three hits in the next four after having pitched better than six innings the day before.

The locals gathered ten hits off two Wilkes pitchers: Joe Sikora pitched into the seventh when he was relieved by Ken McNew. All ten hits were off Sikora. Chuck Casper and Bobby Cumens had three each. Ron Steinbach, Jimmy Starr, George Derk, and Bobby Dipipi had one each to aid the locals' fated cause.

Powerful Scranton Team Downs Huskies

The powerful Scranton Royals, grabbing 11 of 14 first places handed the Bloomsburg Huskies their first loss of the track and field season. The B.S.T.C. lads just didn't have the depth to contend with the speedy upstate boys.

The Huskies could capture only two first places and a tie for another. Keith Weiser took the high jump without much opposition, and Jerry Kaufman got off a beautiful 44 ft. heave of the 16 lb. shot put to earn himself the other first place. Larry Bush was held to a three-way tie for first with two Royals at a 10 ft. height. The Huskies came up with five seconds though and with a little more effort could have been first's — Jerry Kaufman was the leading point getter for the Huskies with a first and a second for eight points.

The Huskies next meet is with Cheyney down there and it looks to be an exciting meet.

1954 Track Team

Mansfield Hands Bloom Defeat in Series Renewal

On Wednesday, May 5th, the Huskies traveled to Mansfield to play the Mountaineers for the first time since pre-war days at Mansfield. This game has been plagued with weather difficulties during this period, but in the opinion of some, it would have been better if the locals hadn't made the trip this year. Score: Mansfield 8, Bloomsburg 5.

Mansfield out hit the Huskies 7 hits to 4, and out played them on the field by a much greater margin. The Huskies committed no less than ten mistakes in the field; that told the story.

Bobby Dipipi got the starting nod from Coach Yohe, and was the loser only because he happened to be in the game when the Huskies started their parade of errors. Dipipi gave up only five hits and walked six while striking out seven. There were six runs scored while he was in the game, but only one was earned.

The errors (all ten of them) were fairly well distributed, every infielder getting into the act with the exception of Terry Zackowski. Even Dipipi and his successor, Johnny Dennen, felt they should get their licks in, so they did their part with one each.

In the hitting department it wasn't any brighter. We only had four hits, and Zackowski had two of them, one being a double in the fourth that scored Dipipi. Zackowski then scored himself on a follow-up single by Chuck Casper. Johnny Dennen ended the hitting efforts when he singled in the eighth, a line drive over the shortstop's head, scoring Frankie Fisk, who was on with a walk, and George Derk who was on through an error by the right fielder, Don Zimmerman. That error scored Ron Steinbach who was on through an error by the pitcher, Dave Williams.

Mansfield, who hasn't beaten a Bloom baseball team in quite a few years, played just as if they knew how. It didn't look as if they were in any way related to the same Mountaineer team that played the opening game here on Mt. Olympus this year. That score read 15-2. Once they were ahead they fought hard to keep the lead, and the pitching of Dave Williams was an important factor in the victory. Previous to the Bloom game he pitched only five innings, and gave up no hits.

Yohemen Defeat Millersville On Their Home Field

The Bloomsburg State Teachers College diamond crew journeyed to Millersville on Saturday May 1, to take the Marauders over by a 4-3 count. This was considered one of the finest diamond victories posted by a Husky baseball team in recent years — a victory over Millersville at Millersville.

Johnny Dennen got the starting mound assignment, but was plagued with a sore arm and was forced to give way to Charley Kwiatkoski.

Despite the fact that Millersville had a three-hitter thrown at them by the Yohemen, they were ahead in the ball game from the third inning up to the top of the eighth. Millersville scored in the third on a Dennen-issued walk to Tony Marcello, a single to Dick Michaelwicz which sent Marcello to third, and then scored on Tommy Caden's infield roller. The Marauders notched another again in the fifth when pitcher Dave Fry walked, and again it was Caden who put him on third with a fielder's choice, and scored on a single by Chuck Resavy. In the sixth, Dick Aspril walked, and raced to third on an infield misplay by George Derk and scored on a fly ball by Marcello. This was all the scoring that Millersville could muster. It looked like three was a lot of runs as Dave Fry was sailing for seven innings giving up only two hits, one being a solid double by Terry Zackowski in the top of the fourth; this was the only extra base hit of the day for either team. A single by Bobby Aurand led off the sixth, but he, too, died on third as the next three men went down in order.

In the top of the eighth, with one man down, Aurand walked and was then moved to second as Ed Shustack walked on a three-two pitch. With runners on first and second, Zackowski hit a ball to the shortstop who threw the ball to second and forced Shustack. So the picture didn't look too good as there were two away and runners on first and third. At this point Coach Yohe sent Frank Fisk up to bat for Chuck Casper, and Frank delivered with a single to center, scoring Bobby Aurand. Johnny Halcovich then stepped in and rapped another single to center; this time the center fielder let the ball roll through his legs and three runs came across.

SPORTS SCUTTLEBUTT

by BILL BITNER

SOME NEW PROPOSALS FOR TEACHERS' CONFERENCE On Monday, May 3, representatives of ten of the fourteen State Teachers College conference met in Harrisburg to discuss the eligibility rules of the conference. Bloomsburg and only three other Teachers Colleges belong to the NCAA which sets up strict rules governing the eligibility of athletes. In the case of some of our Tutor rivals, they were counting only the actual semesters, or years of competition, as the years of used up eligibility. For instance, if a player were to get injured before the first game of a particular athletic campaign, and did not compete during that season, he could remain in college another semester and compete for the season he was sidelined because of injury; this would give him more than the allotted eight semesters of eligibility which the NCAA sets as the maximum. This rule is especially effective in football when, in many cases, freshmen come to college not quite ready for intercollegiate competition and wouldn't be on the playing roster of a college, but could be practicing with the squad or just getting another year of experience without playing. So after their fourth year of college had been completed, they could remain for another semester and still be eligible, this semester actually being their ninth semester of eligibility. Under the new proposed rule which needs only to be approved by the Board of President of the Teachers Colleges, the conference will limit each boy to eight semesters, regardless of the circumstances he might encounter in college. This rule would prevent the freshman year from being a prepping year for varsity competition, and at the same time not counting as a year of used-up eligibility. This of course would be in favor of Bloomsburg, because we have been living up to those standards since becoming a member of the NCAA; we have, however, run up against teams that aren't governed by these rules, and were using players that would have been ineligible by our standards.

Another plan that was submitted for discussion by the Board of Presidents was a long range plan of compulsory scheduling for football. The plan devised by Shippensburg's Vint Rambo, would divide the Conference into two sections, an East and a West division. The East would be composed of Bloomsburg, West Chester, Millersville, Kutztown, Cheyney, Mansfield, and East Stroudsburg; the West would pit Shippensburg, Clarion, California, Indiana, Edinboro, Slippery Rock, and Lock Haven. The proposed plan would be that each team would have to play four teams in his own division out of a possible six teams. The team would play these four teams for two years, at which time they would drop two and pick up the other two that were in their division, but weren't on the original schedule. They would play these four teams for two years, and then drop the two teams that they had been playing for four years, picking up the first two that were dropped. Beside playing the four teams in their own division, they would also play one team from the other division which would change every year. It would take fourteen years for this proposed plan to make a complete cycle. Of course it couldn't possibly go into effect until '56 because of scheduling commitments, but there will no doubt be lots of "ifs, ands, and buts" inserted before anything like this could ever become a reality. To be sure, it sounds like the answer to the difficulties that have come into being as far as making a schedule goes.

LOCK HAVEN CANCELLED Coach Jack Yohe won't get an opportunity to get back at the thorn in his side, as far as baseball has been concerned, since he came to Bloomsburg, as the Lock Haven game that was rained out last Saturday has been cancelled. Last season the Yohemen bowed twice to Teacher rivals — Lock Haven on both occasions. This year a trip to Lock Haven saw the Huskies drop a real heart-breaker to the Bald Eagles by a 6-2 count after they jammed five runs across before we could get the second man out. We out hit them, but when we had a look at the morning paper we found they had more runs. The fact that Coach Yohe hasn't beaten Lock Haven in baseball is hard enough for him to swallow; but what is worse — Lock Haven is his Alma Mater. Maybe that's why the score was so bad in football?

KEN HIDLAY OUT FOR THE SEASON It seems like some guys just can't get away from bad breaks. When Ken finally gets into the lineup and he's knocking the cover off the ball (a sharp 430 BA), he goes and gets sick. Ken was in the hospital for about two weeks, but we understand he is at home now and won't be able to play ball anymore this season. Ken has been missed around first, but his big bat has been especially missed during a couple of the Huskies' hitting rallies.

Ken is not the only one that is on the injured list. Johnny Halcovich was tossing a ball around between innings down at Millersville when one took a bad bounce and broke his nose for the second time. John didn't play at Mansfield, and was only able to pinch-hit at Wilkes.

STARS AND STRIPES WRITES OF JIMMY THOMPSON In an article taken from the Armed Forces official newspaper, Stars and Stripes, the following article is directly quoted:

FORT CAMPBELL, KY.—One of the most versatile players on the Campbell team is Pvt. Jim Thompson on the 11th Medical Bn. Because of his habit of "coming through when the chips are down", Lt. Jim Woods, his coach, often speaks of him as the team's clutch player.

Like his teammate John Armstrong, Thompson played professional basketball. He performed with the Wilkes-Barre, Pa., Barons of the American Professional League.

Previous to that, Thompson, after a brilliant prep career at Kane, Pa., High School, attended Bloomsburg State Teachers College. There he played varsity ball until his play with Wilkes-Barre made him ineligible for amateur basketball.

Thompson has not confined his sports activities to the cage game. While in his third year of college, Thompson signed a pro contract with the St. Louis Baseball Cardinals. Harrison Wicker, who signed Stan Musial, signed Thompson.

He played a year each with Allentown and Spartanburg, two "B" teams in the Cardinal chain system.

Campbell fans are expecting a big performance from Thompson in the 3rd army tournament at Camp Gordon, Georgia, March 22-26. Thompson may throw in the last-second basket as he did against Memphis Naval Station. He may make the difference.

Thinclads Bow to Spirited Cheyney

Despite a cold, rainy afternoon the spirit-happy Cheyney thinclads weren't to be denied another victory on the track as they handed the Huskies their second straight loss, 75-51.

The Huskies captured 7 firsts and a tie for another, while Cheyney could get only 6 and a tie, but the difference was in the fact that they got all three places in the short races and broad jump.

Leading point getter for the Huskies was Ed Bresnick with one first and two seconds for a total of 11 points. Following closely behind him was Buzz Wool and Jerry Kaufman with two first places each for 10 points.

Small Husky Squad Takes Fourth Place In Teachers Meet

Last Saturday the track and field hopefuls of Coach Harold Shelly traveled to West Chester for the Penna. State Teachers College meet. It wasn't a big squad that went, six in all, but results were good as the squad came in fourth with 20 2/6 points.

Once again powerful West Chester dominated the events and walked off with the net scoring 105 points—a record. The Rams took 11 out of 14 first places and a load of seconds and thirds.

The Huskies couldn't manage to get any firsts, but took three seconds and could easily be turned into firsts next year.

Under-Currents

by Arnie Garinger

I guess for the majority, this will be the last column of Under Currents you'll be reading for this year. (stop smiling) Although one will come out on Alumni day, most of you will be home in the nice warm sun, and those lucky enough to have gotten a job will be hard at work. For a slight fee of $3.98, I will see that the last issue is sent to your door. Be the first in your neighborhood to get one, be the envy of your pals. Send for your copy of the M. & G. now. Offer not good outside U.S.A.

To the Seniors. Certainly we're going to miss you all. With the brand of teaching we know you're going to turn out, it will be about 87% easier for us to get jobs. With such people as Chiscon, Crisci, Jacobs, and Andrews, and the rest, Bloomsburg can't miss getting a good placement percentage in the armed forces.

I want to thank two persons without whose help this column never would have been possible. Their cute little ways of messing things up, and their genial manner after being jerked about it made fine material. Now you know and I know that I've exaggerated a lot of things, and I hope you haven't gotten the wrong impression of two great guys, my buddies, Angus and Panichello.

Now for some current affairs. For you who missed the comedy of errors, the third floor girls dropped a close decision to the prospective teachers from 4th floor by the amazing count of 23-22 in the first girls' softball game of the year. I hear the alcohol (rubbing), hot water bottles, and ice packs were really in evidence that evening.

Wish you could have seen the look on Dr. Englehardt's face when Mrs. Beeman came into our Problems of Secondary Education class, and searched under all the desks for her prodigal turtle which hadn't returned. It must have been a fine animal because she said she would gladly trade two fine snakes for it.

Thanks to everybody who came to the Junior Prom and made our male co-ed of the year crowning a success. When they chose a fellow for personality, scholarship, athletic ability etc. believe me, they couldn't have picked a better guy than one Bobby Cumens. (Good thing looks didn't have anything to do with it or I'd have edged you out Robert!!)

Who turned de hose on? That was the theme song in Waller Hall last week after the softball game. Investigation went on, but no one had a point of order so the hearings were closed. Nobody was found to be a Red but I hear a couple people saw red. That roof needed washing anyway.

They must have been using a two headed coin at the state track meet because a lot of times our boys had to flip with a West Chester trackman for a second or third place medal and you'd think out of about five flips one might win one but we didn't.

At the time of this writing we (the Big Boys) just got finished beating the Whiz kids in the semi-finals of the softball play-offs. I wish I could say we'll beat Norwall, but the way Tuck's pitching it'll be tough. (Big Ed hasn't hit as far, I hope he starts.)

From what I hear, Joe Kwak has received threatening letters from a secret society who thinks he has been too rowdy lately. They said they were going to "take him for a ride." Joe retorted, "If I ever hit those guys, they'll think they've been run over by a mob." Joe's about as big as a fair-sized mob, too.

To Jo Graeber, loads of luck with your turtles. I certainly hope they came through the ordeal all right. Name one U. C. What is this column coming too? Having to turn to turtles for materials.

Well, I guess I've written enough for this year, but before I close, I want to thank each and everyone of you who has suffered through these weekly or semi-monthly sessions with me. Thanks especially to youse who were brave enough to tell me you liked something, even if you didn't, and next year, with the help of Uncle Sam and Dean North and Dean Hoch, I hope to be back with a few digs and puns for the new freshmen who might, perchance, read the first article anyway. I leave with one fervent prayer. Please Angus and Panichello, come back, I need you.

Till September
Love yas all,
Arnie
