Carney, Cullen, Noted Speakers Tip Crowd at Sales Conference

The Eleventh Annual Sales Training Conference was held last Thursday, March 7, at 8 p.m. in the Carver Auditorium of Bloomsburg State Teachers College.

The program was opened by Charles H. Henrie, co-ordinator of the rally. President Andruss said a few words concerning the wise choice of speakers.

Each year a businessman of the area is called upon to introduce the guest speakers of the evening. This year, Robert B. Nearing, executive vice-president of the First National Bank of Bloomsburg, was chosen.

The first speaker was Ralph W. Carney, retired vice-president of The Coleman Co., Wichita, Kansas. In Carney's forty years of salesmanship, he has traveled over seven million miles, and has delivered over 5,500 public addresses. He has been chosen for the Hall of Fame along with Henry Ford.

His talk centered around two points: (1) "No chain is stronger than its weakest link;" (2) "A sale is made when a customer goes out of the store with more goods of better quality than he expected when he went in."

The second guest of the evening was Charles E. Cullen, President of the Charles Cullen Association, Charlotte, N.C. Cullen has delivered over 500 addresses at conferences. His talk was centered on four main points: (1) enthusiasm, (2) personal audacity, (3) showmanship, (4) "you" ability.

Members of the Kiwanis and Rotary Clubs, salesmen, businessmen from all parts of Pennsylvania, as well as students of BSTC, filled the room to make this conference a success.

Catholic Players To Present 3-Act Comedy, March 19

Players Incorporated of Catholic University, located in Washington, D.C., will present Charley's Aunt, a comedy in three acts, on Tuesday, March 19, in Carver Auditorium at 8:30 in the evening.

The play portrays the complications which arise when Lord Fancourt Babberly decides to masquerade as a sweet old lady in order to observe how his friends act when he is absent. Lord Babberly's impersonation causes a money-minded guardian to become his ardent pursuer, and leads a family friend to propose marriage to him.

Charley's Aunt, the third and final in a series of evening performances at our college, will be open to the public. Tickets may be purchased at the door at $1.00 per person. BSTC students and faculty members will be admitted upon showing their ID cards and activities booklet respectively.

Members of the Columbia County Alumni Association will attend this performance following their dinner and business meeting in the new college dining room.

Yearly Dorm Party Enjoyed Last Monday

Under the direction of Mary Grace, the Waller Hall women held their annual dorm party on Monday, March 11. The girls on each floor provided their own en-

Bloomsburg Host To Dixieland Band

Bloomsburg will be host to Bobby Baird and his Continentals, a prominent dixie band from the Valley, at Centennial Gymnasium on April 1, 1957 from 8 to 11 p.m.

This jazz concert will be sponsored by the Phi Sigma Pi fraternity. Tickets may be obtained from any member of this fraternity or the new pledges for one dollar per person. The new pledges are Wilbur Helt, Gerald Donmoyer, Mike Marcinko, Jack Hartzell, Al Nuss, Bernard O'Brien, John Valania, Ronald Romig, and Ed Bowler.

The goal of the pledges is to sell fifteen tickets each in order to be eliminated from Car Wash Day on Saturday, March 16. This is part of the Phi Sigma Pi pledge week.

Robert Aura Smith, Known Lecturer, To Visit BSTC

Robert Aura Smith, political scientist, author, educator, lecturer, is known among American lecturers as the "campus visitor". He will visit our campus on March 19 to lecture on the "Battle for Asia" in the regular assembly program.

Born in Denver, Colorado, Mr. Smith attended such education institutions as Ohio Wesleyan University, Ohio, Rhodes Scholar, and Oxford University. He has taught English and political science at Drake University, Evansville College, Barnard College, and Yale University.

Smith has done much work on some of the nations top newspapers and radio networks. He is a recognized lecturer, magazine, and book writer. His writings are concerned primarily with problems in the Far East.

Mr. Smith, unlike many speakers, uses maps and a blackboard to help explain his talks — never referring to notes. A political science teacher from a campus which Smith recently visited, reported: "I have just seen the greatest demonstration of honest, intellectual, virtuosity that has ever been on this campus."

Stan Freeman To Appear on Carver Stage

Stan Freeman, piano virtuoso and musical satirist, will perform during the assembly period on March 28, 1957. Mr. Freeman is a radio, television, and recording star whose versatility, wit, and mastery of the keyboard have won international acclaim. His repertoire will cover piano interpretations, musical stories, show tunes, and musical satires on numerous phases of the American musical scene.

Freeman made his first mark in the musical world as a serious musician. While serving in the army, Freeman was introduced to popular music which marked the beginning of his diversified musical style. He played with many orchestras and bands, among them the Glenn Miller Army Band. Not forsaking his first love of the classics, Freeman does solo performances with the New York Philharmonic and Buffalo Symphony Orchestra. In addition to shows of his own, he has appeared as a guest on such shows as the Kate Smith Hour, the Steve Allen Show, and This is Show Business.

Camp Counselors Institute Planned

An Orientation and Recreation Institute for summer camp counselors will be held in the Visual Educational Room on Tuesday, March 19 at 4:00 p.m. This institute will be conducted by Mr. Alexander Kornish and Marlin E. Varner, Employment Specialists of the Bureau of Employment Security.

Dr. Ernest H. Englehardt, Director of Personnel, announces that a film will be shown on "Life at a Summer Camp" and a camp director will discuss the advantages of camp counseling and also review a cross section of the camp jobs which will be available.

New Dining Hall and Cafeteria Will Be Opened after Easter

Students going to and from classes for the past several months have watched the erection of the new dining hall and cafeteria. Now at last, Dr. Andruss feels sure that we will be eating in the new building, which is equipped to serve over 1000 people, after Easter. The main dining room will seat 800-900 students and the portico, over 100 guests.

Let's take an imaginary tour through the dining room. A long, narrow porch, running parallel to Long Porch, sets off the front face of the building. It has been designed so that during the spring and summer tables may be set out and luncheons and teas served.

From the porch we enter the front door into a portico decorated in creamy white. This portico may be completely shut off from the dining room to be used for small dinner parties. The main dining room, unlike our present one, has no partitions or columns, and covers a huge expanse of over 9,800 square feet. The two side walls are painted in a restful green and the high ceiling in white. The front wall is composed entirely of windows which afford a good view and comfortable ventilation. New tables and chairs have been chosen with harmony and comfort in mind.

Adjacent to the rear of the dining room is the long, narrow cafeteria divided into two sections to allow faster service. Behind the cafeteria is the large kitchen equipped with a new automatic dishwasher, refrigerators, ovens and stoves, preparation tables, and many other new conveniences. A series of cabinets in which the food is placed to keep it hot, cold, or crisp until the minute it is served, open from the kitchen into the cafeteria.

On the main floor there are also rooms for storage of supplies, a garbage disposal unit, and several large lockers for storing frozen foods. On the first or basement floor are four sections. The first, facing the stairway, consists of two large restrooms for employees. To the rear of these are three storage rooms for food and electrical supplies.

The stairs descend to the entrance of a tunnel that leads from this new building underground through the rear section of the present kitchen, to what is now the last arch of the Waller Hall lobby. An iron grating rather than a door will close the far end to allow plenty of ventilation.

The entire senior section was placed in a pamphlet called the Placement Brochure. During the month of January, these brochures were sent to supervising principals, and superintendents in Pennsylvania and such outlying states as New Jersey, Delaware, New York, and Ohio. Assembling this brochure is also the work of the Obiter staff.

Through the efforts of the yearbook's photographer, Joe Andryck, the pages of this book will be filled with many fine pictures. His excellent coverage of college events has greatly enhanced our Obiter.

The cost of the yearbook has been underwritten through the Activities Fees. Thus, when the publication arrives, it is necessary for each person to pick up his copy at the Obiter office.

The Dean of Instruction's Office has approved approximately 250 students for admission in the fall semester. Qualifying examinations are scheduled for Saturday, March 20, April 27, and May 11. This is the first year that Pennsylvania State Teachers Colleges have required examinations for all students regardless of their rank in high school classes. Dr. Wagner will administer the American Council on Education Psychology and Co-operative English tests. In order to be considered, all applicants must rank higher than the thirtieth percentile on both tests in addition to two personal interviews.

There will be an enrollment of 300 or more in each of the four week summer school sessions beginning Monday, June 3, and continuing until August 23. Summer school will again present all courses for certification in special education for the mentally retarded with the exception of special class teaching and methods. The schedule will be posted on campus bulletin boards when it has been received from the printer.

One hundred seventy-two names appear on a current list of students whose academic average is less than 1.0. This is about one half of the names appearing after nine weeks of last semester. An average of 1.0 or better is required for student teaching and graduation. Some one hundred students met with the faculty committee during the last four weeks concerning their academic standing.

BSTC will be host to the annual state-wide leadership conference from the Pennsylvania Congress of Parents and Teachers during the week of July 14.

One hundred men and women will attend the sessions to be held in Navy Hall. Arrangements are being completed by Dr. Andruss and officers of the state organization.

The polio shot committee has set March 21 as the day for the first polio shot. The committee includes Dr. Bahlke, chairman; Miss Beatrice Mettler, Mr. Bruce Adams, William Sheridan, Kathryn Crew, Don West, Sally Ridgway, and the college physicians, Dr. Hoffman and Dr. Reese.

Shots will be administered between 9:30 a.m. and 11:00 a.m. The one dollar charge will be payable at that time.

The second shot will be given in May and the third during the next fall term.

EDITORIAL

One of the main things on everyone's mind right now is the coming CGA election. (At least it should be.) Judging by our own limited experience, this has been one of the best election campaigns we have had for a while. And if this year's campaign has done nothing else, it has added what is perhaps a new word to our vocabularies — apathy. And it's high time, too, that someone has brought to light one of the biggest and most glaring shortcomings of BSTC students.

We have been too darned unconcerned about college affairs. We have lulled ourselves into a kind of drowsy half-sleep. And we have allowed the faculty and administration to dominate the Community Government Association, its duties and its responsibilities. We've grumbled about ineffectiveness of "student" government and we have let our few big ideas remain just that — ideas — because we've shrugged our shoulders and said, "What's the use. It will never be approved anyway."

Actually, we have a good system here at Bloomsburg for effective student influence in college policy. College Council itself, the numerous CGA committees, our own newspaper — all these are set up in a way that, if used properly, they can create a lively, student-dominated community government.

Then we hear a pitiable mumble that BSTC students just don't have it in them, that they're a rather colorless bunch. We know this isn't true. More than anything else, the spirited new political rally on Wednesday (thanks to the efforts of Bill Kautz) proved to us that Bloomsburg students can be alive, resourceful, clear-thinking human beings. We're not a bad lot, really.

We do have the potential and we have the spirit. But we must stop finding fault with everything (any idiot can make grumbling noises) and begin mapping out a system of improvement. First, and this is where next week's election enters the picture, we must vote the best possible candidates into CGA office. But we can't just let it slide from there. Without the support of student College Council representatives, carefully selected and spurred on by demands of the students themselves, the officers are almost powerless. Their tasks are doubly difficult.

Let's not allow this hopeful-looking spurt of interest and enthusiasm before the election go to waste. Let's elect good CGA officers on March 21 and then support them in their efforts at giving us good government.

The Life of a Belt

by BOB STEINRUCK

Did you ever think of how it would feel to hold up a pair of pants all day long? It must be a terrible strain on that little band of leather that is nowadays called a "belt". Of course, some belts have to, shall we say, overcome obstacles.

These necessary particles of clothing have an extra hard job during meal-time. They must learn how to expand and contract as the need calls for it. Of course, if the person wearing the belt eats too much, the belt's life immediately comes to an abrupt end. The buckle will bend, the belt hole will tear out, and only heaven knows what else will happen. At any rate the little belt—brown, blue, grey, black, poka-dotted, or what have you—will be dead. He will be dead fighting vainly for your horizontal cause.

Hardly anyone realizes it, but your belt dedicates his entire life to you, his owner. So why don't you guard, guide, and protect him? Don't eat so much! Please!

Nine Phi Sigma Pi Pledges Weather Stiff Initiation

On March 21, formal initiation will be held for Phi Sigma Pi members. This semester there are nine pledges to the fraternity. They are: John Valania, Ronald Romig, Bernard O'Brien, Allan Nuss, Wilbur Heldt, Michael Marcinka, Gerald Dunmoyer, and Edward Brower.

To become a member of Phi Sigma Pi, one must be nominated by a member, have an accumulative 1.5 average, and endure the rigors of pledge week.

Pledge week was under the supervision of Joseph Butz, Carl Janetka, and C. J. Pentzas. It began on Monday, March 11 and will continue until Saturday, March 16.

General customs for the week included: wearing of shirt and tie with suit or sport coat, purple and gold ribbons, and the fraternity insignia emblazoned on the pledges' foreheads' with lipstick.

On Monday the Pledges were asked questions on their fraternity booklet. They also spent the day walking to classes — backwards. After dinner Brother Sheridan led them to the lounge where they sang the sentimental fraternity sing, "Brothers Are We."

Tuesday was work day. Their Spartan-like tasks included carrying books, running errands, polishing shoes, cleaning rooms, and washing socks.

Wednesday they recited, upon request, the moving "Teaching is an Art," by William Lyon Phelps. Wednesday was also Serenade Night.

Thursday was another busy day. Not only did the Pledges collect the laundry of Phi Sigma Pi members; they also became amateur artists. Very Bohemian looking too, in their smocks, pajama tops, and bedsheets.

Students going home for the weekend had a break on Friday, when Phi Sigma Pi pledges were on hand to load their baggage. As a reward for this good deed the pledges were treated to a party (which they paid for).

The Veep Speaks

Lu Natter

Monday, March 11, at 6:45 saw the doors of room L closed, a sign that once again signified that College Council was in session. Here is a brief rundown on what took place at that meeting.

1. Approval was given to the Social Recreation Committee to hold a skating party at the local roller rink on April 10. Keep looking for posters bearing more information if this special event.
2. It looks as though we are going to have a new station wagon. For those that rely on this means of transportation, your worries and headaches are over — Council okayed the purchase of a new one.
3. A sinking fund was established to insure adequate facilities for a bigger and better Bloomsburg.
4. If you have any doubts as to how elections are run at BSTC — check the election board policy. It has just been revised and approved; thanks to the efforts of Etta Mae Geisinger and Paul Spahr.
5. Moving day will be coming soon. This applies to both the dining hall which will transfer to the new building during our Easter vacation, and to the Maroon and Gold office, which is making and exchange with the Council office.

Now for a final word about something that concerns you—the ability to pull a lever. What I mean is the coming CGA elections on March 21. Get out and vote for the candidates of your choice. Remember, they are the ones who represent you behind those closed doors of Room L.

MEEOW!

There seems to be propensities of late
 Of seducing cats into a crate.
 Science must be served it seems
 By going to these low extremes
 Encouraging students in each section
 To bring in cast for class dissection.
 Making use of local resources I've heard
 But this seems to me somewhat absurd.
 If cats fall prey to our instruction
 Whose cats to pluck for this destruction?
 A pet, a stray, a local Tom?
 Dear friends, if your pet isn't around at all
 He may be attending classes in Science Hall.

BOOK REVIEW . . . Marjorie Morningstar

by AL MILES

For the few of us that might read a novel primarily to become familiar with the plot, this novel appears to be just another love story in which the heroine "lives happily ever after". The heroine in this case is Marjorie Morgenstern, a beautiful Jewish girl who at seventeen decides to change her name to Morningstar and become a Broadway actress. The hero (?), Noel Airman, is a remarkably talented, Bohemian-type character whom Marjorie meets at a summer camp where she has gone to seek a start in her acting career. They fall desperately in love. The plot is mainly concerned with their love affair which blazes a trail of passion from the Adirondacks to Broadway to Paris. Marjorie's strict Jewish background, however, keeps her from being able to adapt herself to Noel's somewhat unusual life. The affair and the novel end with her marriage to a New York lawyer.

On the surface this sounds like a very routine love story, but Wouk has taken this mediocre plot and turned it into one of our better contemporary novels. In it he has embodied one of the dilemmas facing all of America's youth—conformity.

Noel Airman is a non-conformist whose only attempt at conformity turns out unsuccessfully. His life is filled with love affairs, sparkling conversation, and a general withdrawal from bourgeois practices. He sneers at respectability and security and refers to "nice" girls as "Shirleys".

"Shirley" is the epitome of middleclass life. She conform to the patterns of society. She married into a respectable life in some quiet suburb—a life so many of us seek. "Shirley", in short, represents conformity.

Wouk handles the problem skillfully. Through his pen, we are able to see the futility of Noel's life—his aimless wanderings over continents, through torrid love affairs, and through philosophy and religion.

The chapter in which Marjorie marries her "respectable lawyer" might aptly be termed the "clincher". In it, Wouk tells us that Shirley's way of life is perhaps not best, but at least necessary. This then constitutes the problem. What is best? Shall we do what is necessary or what we consider best? Perhaps Wouk may be able to help you decide.

LINK TO THE PAST . . . by M. THORNTON

The oldest link BSTC has with its past is probably Dean Emeritus W. B. Sutliff. Dean Sutliff, a former Dean of Instruction, first came to the campus of Bloomsburg State Normal School as a student in the spring of 1889. After leaving BSNS he went to Lafayette College where he obtained his Masters degree in 1898. That summer he was married and both he and his wife came to Bloomsburg's campus to teach. Mrs. Sutliff taught music and Dean Sutliff taught a variety of subjects that first year. In 1899 he joined the mathematics department.

Dean Sutliff organized the first summer school in 1919. This program became necessary when the state increased teaching requirements. In 1921 he succeeded Dr. Fisher as Dean of Instruction.

Many students are familiar with Dean Sutliff not only because he lives across the street from the College, but also because some of the poetry which he writes has appeared in previous years in the Maroon and Gold. Before his retirement in 1937 he contributed poetry to the college newspaper using the mysterious letter "Q" as his signature. Miss Andrews, his secretary, collected these poems and the Alumni Association presented him with a bound copy upon his resignation. Most of Dean Sutliff's poems concern campus points of interest. A good example is the one below.

The Lagoon

W. B. SUTLIFF
Dean Of Instruction

By day the lovely goldfish play As in and out the sun's bright ray Comes sifting, drifting thru The tall tree tops and down to you. At night the stars come peeping where Like diamonds on a bosom fair, They see themselves all mirrored bright And add their beauty to the night. But hark the midnight hour Comes booming from the white clock tower The moon by gliding cloud is veiled	The winds arouse—some creature wailed. The old frog yawns a sleepy croak The wise old owl peeps from the oak. Then patter, patter, little feet The fairies come, the pixies meet. High revel hold they round the pool They shout like children out of school. Hush — In East's a streak of light They scamper, scatter, all in fright While in the pool the goldfish play The sun comes out — another day.

SPORTS HI-LITES

by DON COFFMAN

Many previous records were smashed and others were established as we glance back over the 1956-57 basketball season in the State Teachers College Conference. Among them was a new season's high point production by our own Huskies with 1140 points in 13 conference games for an 88 point average or three points better than the average set by Millersville.

After losing our last two games of the season, the Husky won-lost record stood at 9-8. As you may recall, we started out slowly, due mainly to injuries which cost us our first two games. After vacation, however, the Shellymen came back, only to be halted by the mighty Mauraders of Millersville. On two occasions the Shellymen went over the century mark at Centennial. Swisher netted 38 points against Mansfield for a record. Below are the final statistics, records, an other facts that complete the 1956-57 basketball season:

QUICK PICK UPS . . . Big John Parker of Millersville, established new scoring records during his four years as an all-star member of the Pennsylvania State Teachers College Basketball Champions. This year he was high scorer for the conference with 271 points in 12 games . . . Don Kistler of Kutztown set the high single game score with 47 points against Cheyney . . . Connie Palumbo of Slippery Rock was the high average scorer of the past season with a 29 point mark or 6/10 of a point from the record set by Jim Kennedy of California . . . Millersville defeated Geneva to represent Pennsylvania in the NAIA playoffs . . . Geneva eliminated Indiana STC to gain the opportunity to meet Millersville.

Student Manager To Leave after 3 Years Service

This is the story of the man behind the wrestling scene, the man who is usually overlooked when a team is praised, but a person who is vitally connected to the squad. The student manager is the person in charge of the equipment and in charge of the general welfare of the whole squad.

Robert Arbogast has served as manager of the Husky wrestling squad ever since the sport was resumed here three years ago.

Bob remembers an event which occurred on the team's trip to Indiana STC in 1955. This trip was made through the seasons worst snow and caused many hardships to the team including a collision at State College. The team lost to ISTC by only one point, their closest battle of the year. That year the Huskies won only one match, so this close match was an important moral victory.

During the 1956 season he also saw BSTC topple an undefeated Wilkes College team, Wilkes' only defeat of the season.

During the past season, Bob states that his biggest thrill was seeing the Huskies place third in the STC tournament at Lock Haven. The tournaments are the most tense and significant events of the season.

Bob comes to us from Canton, Penna., where he graduated from the Tri-County High School in 1953. He is a senior in the Elementary curriculum where he is specializing in special education for the mentally retarded.

His favorite pastimes are hiking and oil paintings of landscapes.

After receiving his diploma in May, Bob is going into teaching, having accepted a position as special class teacher in the Canton Elementary School, in his home town.

Harry Hughes To Close Wrestling Career at BSTC

Although Harry Hughes is well known at BSTC as a first rate football player, he will also be remembered as a first rate wrestler. As a heavyweight, he has established a formidable record with the Huskies.

Harry came to BSTC from Williamsport High School where he starred in football and wrestling. While in high school, he placed 2nd in the YMCA tournament.

Here at Bloomsburg he placed second in the STC tournament this year and came in third last year.

Of course, Harry has had many exciting moments as a wrestler, but he says his greatest thrills were a twelve-second pin while in high school and a twenty-second pin in the STC tournament last year. He lists his toughest opponents as Ken Ober and Elwood Reese.

Harry's major fields at BSTC are social studies and geography. At the present he is student teaching at Bloomsburg High School. He also enjoys bowling and fishing.

After receiving his diploma in May, Harry plans on a teaching career.

CLUB NEWS . .

Newly elected officers of Knox Fellowship for the semester are William Sheridan, president; Suzanne Kierstead, vice-president; Kay Nearing, secretary; and Jack Herman, treasurer. Their next meeting will be on March 20.

The Speech and Hearing fraternity, Sigma Alpha Eta, will take a field trip to the Lancaster Cleft-Palate Clinic next week.

Men Play Finals in College Intramural Basketball

The semi-final round of the Men's Intramural Basketball Tournament will be held on Monday night. The first game, which will begin at 7:15, will find the Dean's List pitted against the Ominous 6. In the second game, which will begin at 8:30, the Cast-Offs will play the Unknowns. The winners of these two games will play on Thursday evening for the championship of the Intramural Tournament.

Listed below are the results of the first, second, and third, elimination rounds. We hope to see all of you at the semi-finals, Monday night, and at the finals, Thursday. A defeated Intramural All-Star team and a Varsity Freshman team will meet in the preliminary game with the finalists in the main attraction.

Know Your CGA Candidates . . .

President

Luther Natter, a junior from Spring City, is presently vice-president of CGA. He is also a member of Phi Sigma Pi, FTA and the Maroon and Gold staff. Lu spends much of his time working behind the Snack Bar in the Husky Lounge.

President

Raymond Hargreaves, a junior from Scranton, is a member of Phi Sigma Pi, FTA, and the Pilot stag. He is also president of the Business Education Club and chairman of the Business Education Contest.

Vice-President

Carl Janetka, is a business student from Hatboro. In addition to his duties as president of the Sophomore class, he is also active in Phi Sigma Pi, and on the Social Recreation Committee. Carl has distinguished himself scholastically by being named on the deans list for three consecutive semesters.

Vice-President

Erwin (Cap) Parry, a transfer student from Syracuse University, graduated from Blakely High School in 1951. After three years in the Army, Cap came to BSTC and is presently enrolled in the secondary curriculum. At Syracuse he served as a representative to the student government.

Secretary

Louise Campbell, a sophomore business student from Lewistown, has twice represented her class as a representative to the College Council. In her freshman year, Louise was a delegate to the state convention of College Councils held at Mansfield State Teachers College. She is also a member of SCA.

Secretary

Joanne Bechtel, a sophomore from Easton, is a business major. She is a member of the Business Education Club, Maroon and Gold staff, Obiter staff, Social Usage Club, College Chorus, and the Newman Club.

Treasurer

Norman Balchunas, Shamokin, is a junior in the Business curriculum. As treasurer of the Junior Class, he is seeking the corresponding office in CGA. He is also vice-president of the Business Education Club and holds memberships in Phi Sigma Pi and FTA.

Treasurer

Patrick Golden, vice-president of the sophomore class, has served as chairman of the sophomore dance committee. He is co-chairman of the planning committee for the sophomore picnic, and a member of the CGA Furniture Committee.

Assistant Treasurer

James Peck, a business student from Boyertown, is the only freshman to be nominated for a CGA office. This semester Jim served as co-chairman of the Freshman Hop. In addition to membership in SCA, Jim has also done committee work for the Freshman Hop and junior varsity basketball.

Assistant Treasurer

Kenneth Wood, a sophomore from Mechanicsburg, has been active at BSTC with membership on the Student Council, Science Club and the Varsity Club.

What CGA Means to Me As a Candidate

by LU NATTER

CGA stands for Community Government Association. Technically, the community is our college campus. The government is an agent of the community which makes rules and policies; the association, of course, is the student body, faculty, and the administration functioning as a unit. Actually everyone of us is a member—a member in good standing. College Council—the organization we usually think of when we mention CGA—is an important, but small representative group which carries out the functions of the larger organization, your CGA.

I was not thinking of that small group, alone, when I decided to ask you to elect me to the office of President. What was in my mind, and still is, covers a much larger area. I want to work for the whole college. The policies and discussions arising from meetings of College Council affect every person connected with any phase of life here.

CGA is not a static or dormant body—it is dynamic. It moves and changes with the times. College Council must be composed of representatives who are equipped to go forward with it. Progress on a college campus is important, for it is on these campuses that men and women are preparing to become representatives of a far more important and dynamic organization—a nation.

The qualities of leadership are not measured in terms of IQ, Kuder preference tests, or other such objective weights and measures. Instead, we should think of more subjective qualities—enthusiasm, sincerity, character, and deep, true feeling for the welfare of BSTC. It takes all this and more. (The more meaning HEART) Yes, it takes heart to fight for what is best for the thing that means so much to you. If you cannot do it yourself at least elect to your representative group someone to fight for you. You may not realize it now, but good old Bloomsburg means a lot to you, just as it does to me.

MANY, MANY MOONS AGO

by RAY HARGREAVES

Many many moons ago, Chief Sittum Kautz of the Huskonian tribe located on a hill overlooking the Susquehanna River decided the time had come for him to move on to better hunting grounds. This created a problem — Who was to take his place?

Many pow wows were held and many peace pipes smoked while the Indian counsel narrowed the list of eligible young braves to two, Lu hooah and Hirayawatha. These were the hippest braves of the tribe and had the largest collections of college professors' scalps. To prove their worthiness, these young braves had to do such feats as hew water-tight canoes out of old, used telegraph poles, lead squirrel expeditions through the campus wilderness, and grow maize in the window boxes outside their teepees.

People off the reservation thought the Huskonians would make their final choice of a new leader by his war paint, headdress, and ability to shout above the tom toms. However, the Huskonians were an intelligent group of Indians and showed they knew how to pick a good leader. They realized that, while both braves were strong and courageous and hard workers, Hirayawatha was better at diplomatically counselling with the "higher-up chiefs".

The next year proved to be a successful, prosperous one, and the Huskonians enjoyed better benefits than ever. Every Wednesday night after the water skiing matches in Centennial pool, Calypso parties were held. To provide entertainment for their wee-end pow wows, the chief's counsel had such famous visiting tribesmen as Heap Big Fats Domino, Daniel's grandson, Pat Boone; and Pocahantas Mansfield, come to the Huskonian village. They even invited Elvis, but he was busy on the warpath and couldn't appear. Pre-fab teepees were provided for all new Indian families and after three years they were furnished with venetian blinds. Never had any Indian village showed such progress as this on old under the capable leadership of Hirayawatha.

So, as the sun sinks slowly into the west, the echo of the Huskonian alma mater reaches our ears. As we turn to wave a last good-bye to the friendly, little Indian village on the hill, we see these smoke signals rise in the air saying . . .

Grid Letter Winners Honored in Assembly

At the regular assembly period, Thursday morning, March 7, awards were presented to the 1956 football letter winners. Head football coach, Jack Yohe, took charge of the program. Assistant mentor, Walter Blair, recognized the JV letter winners.

Seniors on the squad were presented with gold keys as remembrances of their final season on the gridiron. Coach Yohe made the presentations to Harry Hughes, Joseph Wascavage, Dick Strine, Robert Stroup, Joseph Malczyk, Robert Rainey, and Charles Casper.

Gold footballs were awarded to those earning their varsity letter for the third year; sweaters were presented to the two-year letter winners, and those gridders earning their first varsity award were given a six-inch block letter.

Rams Edge Huskies 77-73 in '56-'57 Season Finale

The Rams from West Chester State Teachers College edged a 77-73 victory over the Huskies on Friday, March 1 at West Chester. The Huskies completed the 1956-57 season with an overall record of 9-8 and a conference record of 7-6.

Len Kozick completed his basketball career at BSTC by netting 21 points. Carl Swisher, second high scorer in the conference, contributed 12 points while Jim Snyder and Bob Boyle added 11 and 10 points respectively.

Garman and Carr paced the powerful Rams with 23 and 24 points while Kingsmore added an equally commendable 20 points.

OBITUARY

MAE BUSH

Funeral services were held for Mae Bush, a student here at BSTC, last Monday night in the Husky Lounge. Mae died tragically of a broken heart following the death of her pet dog Charlie.

Pallbearers were Don Coffman and Ray Seitz of the Maroon and Gold staff, Stiney Lumpczyk, Herman Hinksonworth, Percival Van-Floot, and Harvey H. Applepress.

Miss Marianne Angradi provided music for the service, and Ginny Hardy and Sandy McBride led the congregation, in cheers.

The epitaph on her tombstone says — "She was a good girl, but she couldn't say no."

Under-currents . . . by KEN WEIR

We're wondering how many fellows saw the luscious prospective student wander into the lounge last week. From our vantage point . . . "Let's have lots of Basketball Tournaments if they bring such visitors." Without a doubt . . .

She Was The Kind Of Girl
This. Like At Look You

Did you hear about the time Jim Gustave came home from third grade with tears in his eyes? His Mother tenderly asked him what had happened and between sobs Jimmy told her that some boy had called him a sissy. Mrs. Gustave asked Jim what happened next. Jim's reply . . . "I hit him with my purse."

And then while we were standing by the post office last night we heard one coed tell the other, "If you write illegibly when you sign out, it won't be so obvious when you sign in." We wonder what she meant?

By now you've probably been contacted by at least five men representing Phi Sig and their big Jazz Concert. Phil Mosler and his boys are really pushing the tickets and we're behind them (if that means anything). Bobby Baird and his Continentals promise a real evening of Dixieland. Don't miss it!

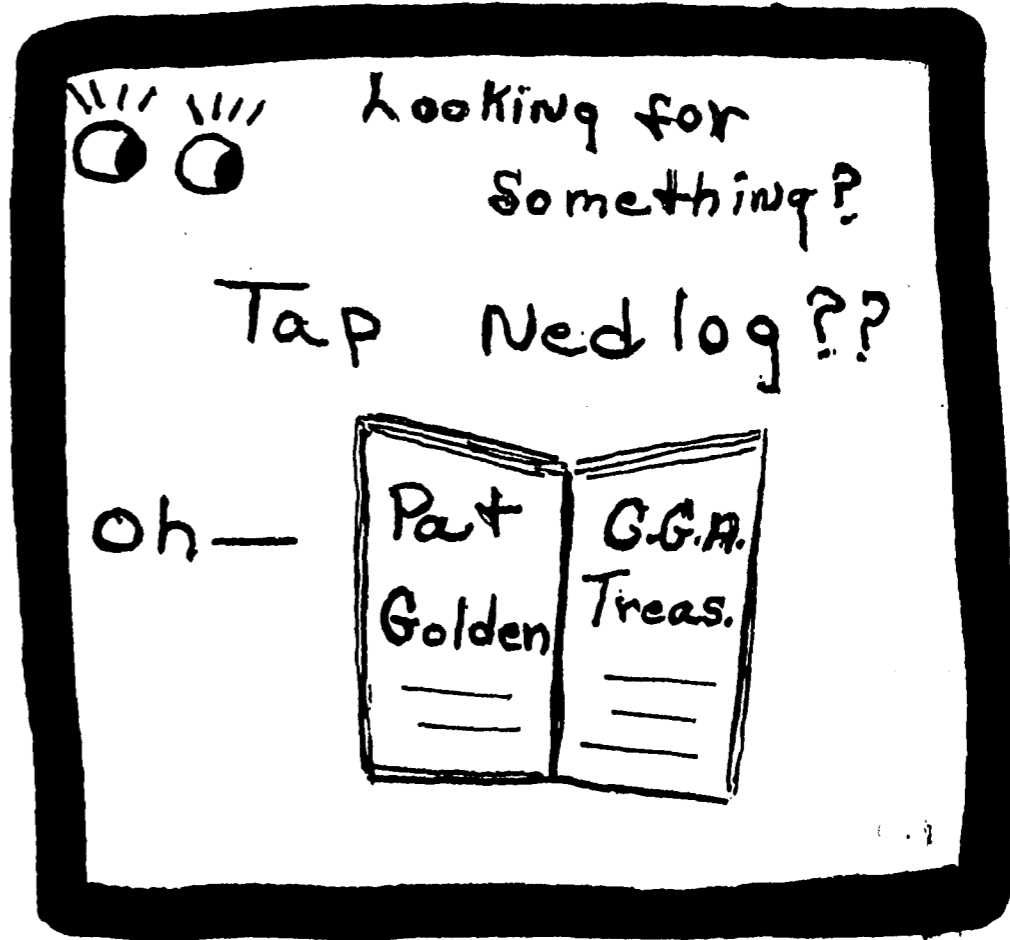

Mr. and Mrs. Jack Bushey (Barb Kiene) are at home at 108 N. Elmer Avenue, Sayre . . . with automatic washers, dryers, and the works . . . Overheard Patty Hawk telling Wes Atkins that she wouldn't call her dog Wesley?? . . . and then Frances Guido was telling Mr. DeVoe that her father raises hounds, while she sat there in a nice white collar . . . but she never growls or barks in public . . . and Lynda Firmstone had a real birthday brawl . . . and Don MacLean and Bill Kautz found a crack in the sidewalk on College Hill. They noticed that steam was seeping through each day at the same time. Immediately they notified National Geographic of a budding volcano and advised the team that they wanted the forthcoming mountain to be named in honor of their geology professor . . . who knows — we might be detouring around Mount Sterling in order to reach the campus? . . . and from the apartment dwellers come many amusing stories . . . like the ones about Sue Osborn who heard the water on the electric range boiling at a terrific pace. Sue looked into the boiler with certain doubts . . . then grabbed a big spoon and began stirring so that the water wouldn't stick to the boiler. Then, too, you might enjoy hearing about Sue's can opening experiences . . . ask her about it. After reading the new Olympian we couldn't help wondering about Joe Mazeski's "Conversation With an Ant" . . . do you think all that really happened? . . . and do you think Kerm McMeans walked out in the sweet young thing he told us about in his story? . . . we're inclined to believe he stayed but didn't care to tell us the rest of the details . . . and on the back cover we were glad to see that the House of Hess emerged as a Tavern . . . haven't we always called it a Grille in the past? . . . but what about this Bill Blagbrough with the earphones and antenna? . . . is he an agent . . . or just amusing those of us without short wave gadgets? As you may have guessed, scattered through this incoherence, we have the names of the month.

To mention the Under-Currents in educational trends we're wondering if you noticed the recent headlines regarding the speech made in Washington, D.C. by a noted West Coast educator saying that the schools should realize that "sex is here to stay." Yes, on February 25 this startling observation was made before a large group of educators. We're wondering just what changes they expect to make in current procedures now that their California comrade has enlightened them!

Also along the line of school business we couldn't help but wonder if the aim of the school wasn't pretty well expressed in the philosophy of Life magazine when Henry R. Luce announced just twenty years ago that his new magazine hoped "To see life, to see the world; to eye-witness great events; to watch the faces of the poor and the gestures of the proud; to see strange things—machines, armies, multitudes, shadows in the jungle and on the moon; to see man's work—his paintings, towers and discoveries; to see things thousands of miles away, things hidden behind walls and within rooms, things dangerous to come to; the women that men love and many children; to see and take pleasure in seeing; to see and to be instructed . . . to see and to be shown . . ." Is this perchance what we hope to do?

In a lighter vein . . . did you hear about our confused campus radical who exclaimed, "Thank God I'm an atheist."

And now a Thought For Today . . . "Love Your Enemies — It Will Drive Them Nuts."
