BSTC will enjoy another presentation of the Annual Fashion Show on Thursday, March 20. This year's theme, "Guided Missiles — Emphasis on the Miss" may be an indication of the modern fashions to be featured in the Pre-Easter Show.

Dixieland Session Will Be Presented By the Keystoners

A three-hour Dixieland show will be presented at Centennial gymnasium Wednesday evening, March 26. Music for the Second Annual Phi Sigma Pi Jazz Concert will be provided by the Keystoners.

More than six bands were auditioned before the Keystoners were selected. Although this group may be unfamiliar to BSTC students, it is well known in northeastern Pennsylvania and the southern tier of New York state. They have played in many nightclubs in the areas mentioned above, including Elmira and Binghamton.

Each member of the band is a showman in his own right, and each has his own specialty number. The Keystoners were reported enthusiastically received when they performed at Mansfield State Teachers College.

Phil Mosier heads the committee for the Jazz Concert, and is being assisted by Whitey Farrow, Jack Herman, Walt Hutz, Cap Parry and Stan Swider.

New Faces To Be Civic Attraction

New Faces in Music, a showcase of winners of the yearly competition for young Americans, sponsored by the president of the National Artists Corporation and Civic Concert Service, will be presented in the Bloomsburg High School Auditorium on March 12. This group is torium on March 12. This group is Molly Mattern, Nancy Hane, Wenters and Molly Mattern, Nancy Hane, Wenters Sandy contralto, a Spanish dancer, and a

Joseph Boardman, baritone member of the duo has completed a recent engagement at the Opera House in Bremerhaven, Germany. After studying at the American Theatre Wing, he received a Fulbright Scholarship. This enabled him to study at the Hochshule fuer Musik in Hamburg, Germany, and also gave him the opportunity to appear in leading roles with various well known opera companies in that country.

The soprano member of the group, Arabella Hong, received high praise from the New York Times following her debut in New York. She then went abroad for a concert tour sponsored by the John Hay Whitney Foundation following a series of successful Town Hall appearances in New York. While abroad Miss Hong was invited to tour Italy and Germany.

Thomas 'Darson's Town Hall recital in November 1956 met with the praise of audience and press. He is now a member of the faculty of New York College of Music where he received his keyboard training under the direction of Angela Weschler. Mr. Darson is also a graduate of Wagner College.
The contralto of the group, Elizabeth Pharris, has been a soloist with the San Francisco Symphony under the direction of Arthur Fiedler. She has won additional praise for her radio and television appearances and her performances as soloist at the San Francisco Bach Festival. Miss Pharris also plays the Irish harp.

Walter Carringer, tenor, has participated in many oratorio performances. After serving two and a half years with the Army, where he performed many U.S.O. shows, he returned to Columbia where he re-ceived a B.S. degree in music. Later he became a member of the Robert Shaw Chorale.

The dancer is the youthful Moya la Penya who came to the United

Mary Grace, in the key position as fashion coordinator, announces that the show will demonstrate how the times have influenced fashions from the Pre-Gay Nineties era to the present neo-chemise and bal-lon silhouette Missile Age. For example, Bobbie Creamer will model a Gibson Girl outfit created when women found new freedom in athletics and out-of-the home employment. The false gaiety of the Roaring Twenties after the tensions of World War I and the short skirts necessitated during the Second World War material shortage are also among the functional styles to be demonstrated. Of course, the main body of the Fashion Parade will consist of the many and varied new 1958 styles.

Twenty-one BSTC coeds will display the latest in College and young American fashion. Among these are Carol Ely, Mary Heatley, and Bobbie Creamer, seniors; Joan Dalton, Nancy Herman, Sandra Lewis, and Peggy Markovci, juniors; Lois Car-penter, Sandra Clarke, Ginny Hardy, Susie Heckman, Sally Reifenstahl, Alice Shaw, Cara Kearkuff, and Nikki Scheno, sophomores; Barrie Iveson, Kathi Dunkin, Judy Goss, Carol Mazza, Jackie Schwatt and Margie Ginnick, freshman.

Children's clothes will be modelled by boys and girls from the Benjamin Franklin Training School.

Working with Mary Grace are her assistant, Nancy Herman; and Sally Riefenstahl, children's fashion moderator. Mrs. Margaret Mc-Cern is advisor of the show for the first time this year; Mrs. Olive Beeman and Mr. Robert Ulmer head the art committee who are working on set designs and props.

dy Rundel, Barbara Watts, Sandy Kashner, Doris Whipple, Marge Betz, Gerry O'Brian and Carole Cribbs.

Completing the show staff are Mr. Radice, set construction and Mr. Boyd Buckingham, publicity.

Participating merchants are Arcus', Deisroth's Department Store, Grant's, Logans', Penny's, Ruth's Corset and Lingerie Shop, Snyder's Millinery Shop and the Polmon.

Business Students View Mock Trial

At the regular meeting of the Business Education Club, a mock trial was presented entitled, "Commonwealth vs. Carrano."

Janice Biddle, program moderator, gave a precis of the mock trial which mainly concerned the accomplice of a murder. The trial was presented by members of the club who are students in the Business Law I class.

The verdict was given by a jury of twelve students selected from the club by court crier, Charles Dye. The jury included Eugene Mallarkey, Jean Matchulat, Linda Kistler, William Swoyer, Pat Oswald, Bob Winn, Donald Thomas, Linda Bartlow, Barbara Watts, Nikki Scheno, Carl Braun, and John Longo, foreman.

John Longo, foreman.

The cast included Willard Boyer, Sophia Kish, Milton Lutsey, Sandra Lewis, Blanche Rozelle, Joseph Butz, Aristide Adelizzi, Harold others. Gaughan, Charles Dye, Phil Taormina, Bernice Deitz, Joy Dreisbach. Committees assisting in the program were stage and property, John Fenner, Ellen Drumtra, Emma Kovalevich, Janet Fry; program, Ann Beeson, Audrey Brumbach; program moderator, Janice Bittle; prompters, Lorraine Basso, Paggy Dayles

Peggy Davies.
The program was directed by Donald Yerk and Jay Bangs.

Obiter Queen

Miss Nikki Scheno

Miss Nikki Scheno, nineteen-year-old sophomore coed was proclaimed the most outstanding young lady on campus on Friday, February 21 at the Freshmen-sponsored Sweetheart Ball. Nikki, a General Business student from Berwick was the winner of the coveted Coed of the Year contest annually staged by the Obiter yearbook.

Miss Lorraine Basso, 1957 Coed, relinquished her throne to Nikki, who received a carnation crown, a colonial bouquet and a silver charm brancelet from the Freshman Class.

Escorted by Gary Reddig, president of the class, the College sweetheart was surrounded by her court of the seven other lovely contestants: Carol Ely and Annette Williams Roush, seniors; Joanne Bechtel and Nancy Herman, juniors; Pamie Fox, sophomore; and Judy Goss and Beverly Tuckwood, freshmen.

Master of Ceremonies, Carl Janetka, who directed the contest, presided over the crowning while Joe Stanton and his orchestra played "A Pretty Girl is Like a Melody," and "Sweetheart, Sweetheart, Sweethea

Miss Scheno, Coed of the Year 1958, will reign as Queen of all campus queens until the Freshman Hop of 1959 when another young lovely will be chosen by the entire college community through the Obiter contest.

Tuesday, March 18, Mr. John Selby, a noted personality in contemporary literature, will present a lecture, "A View of the Literary Scene," at assembly in Carver Auditorium.

Mr. Selby writes novels and also selects manuscripts by other authors for publication. As a critic, he knows both the public's taste in books and the problems of writers. He embellishes discussions of the American

He also teaches a class in novel writing at Columbia University.

> Mr. Selby has himself faced the editors and critics with notable success. His first novel, Sam, won the American Prize in the All Nations Prize Novel Competition. His other novels include Starbuck, Ele-Never Changed.

On February 24, John Ciardi, noted poet, critic, translator, and poetry editor presented a lecture on modern poetry to a large audience in Carver Hall auditorium.

Mr. Ciardi's discourse contained his and other poets' views on the nature of poetry. He pointed out why poetry is written and the effects that it has upon the reader. A distinction was made between "reasons" and "causes" for composing a poem and also between what a poem "means" and what it "is".

Mr. Ciardi read examples from several contemporary and romantic works to prove points that he was attempting to make, and his discussion was spiced with numerous puns and asides.

After the program, refreshments prepared by the faculty wives were served in the lobby of the College Commons.

The following morning Mr. Ciardi spoke before a combined assembly on Dante's Inferno, a work which he has rendered into what many authorities consider the finest English translation. Mr. Ciardi omitted most of the "scholar's" problems and attempted to follow the various themes of the play, comparing mod-ern ideas with those of the classical

After the regular assembly program, a group of students and faculty remained to hear Mr. Ciardi read selections from his own poetry.

Dr. Bahlke, Bob Gower and others who worked on planning the program reported that they were pleased with the enthusiasm shown and the favorable comments offered by many who were in attendance.

The Ciardi program was un-precedented at BSTC in that it was entirely initiated, planned, and supported by students and student groups. The following campus organizations contributed financial support and initial planning of stu-dent groups. The following campus organizations contributed: Community Government Association, Men Resident's Council, Day Men's Organization, Day Women's Organization, Maroon and Gold, Kappa Delta Pi, Sigma Alpha Eta, and Phi Sigma Pi. Valuable assistance was offered by Dr. Andruss and several faculty members.

March 4 Assembly Folksong Program

Tuesday, March 4, the upper-classmen were invited to the freshman assembly in Carver Auditor-ium to heard Richard Dyer-Bennet, tenor and guitarist; render folksongs from all parts of the world.

Born in England, but reared and educated in California, Mr. Dyer-Bennet sings the songs of the ancestors of the English speaking inhabitants of the world. This is his twelfth coast-to-coast tour and he has chosen pieces from his repertoire of more than 600 folk and art songs, many of which have won particular praise in his New York concerts. He has sung more than fifteen full-dress solo concerts in New York in the past five years at Town Hall and Carnegie Hall.

While he was an undergraduate at the University of California, Richard Dyer-Bennet was divided between a career in professional soccer and the life of a concert singer, and for a while he thought he could combine them. His plans were abruptly changed when, in a game for the Olympic Club, an opponent hurled into him and broke his nose. Realizing "that broken noses are no sid to good usice prenoses are no aid to good voice production, he reluctantly resigned from the sport and devoted himself to voice study.

Since that time, Dyer-Bennet has been singing songs from many parts of the world; songs of the growing pains of America, like "John Henry" which celebrates a great railroad man; comedy songs which might be called 18th century "dougant Journey and The Man Who ble talk"; and love songs of all centuries.

Is It "Squealer" Or "Citizen"?

Will wondrous happenings never cease? Assembly on February 27 was certainly a surprising spectacle — we haven't seen the Little Red Schoolhouse so stirred in many a day. From dormancy to passion in one easy hour. Well, it was an enriching experience, at any rate. At least the student body didn't play their usual Open-CGA-meeting role. But the Awakening of the Dead was not entirely expected and shook up the troops a bit, including members of the panel. It's that people are, after all, people, and their reactions can't always be predicted.

However, the results of the program arranged to discuss the good and weak points of a proposed judicial code for an interim tribunal leave us with these thoughts:

Technicalities cannot be intelligently discussed until generalities are agreed upon. An objective panel, no matter how ideal, cannot be practical until these simple questions are hashed out.

Do we cheat on this campus?—and, if we do cheat, do we want to continue doing so, or do we want to do something about it?— And if we want to do something, is a student tribunal the answer?

Only after the answers to these questions are agreed upon by a majority of students can any progress be made toward the perfection of any judicial code.

The excuse that most people who cheat do so because they must race against other cheaters on the curve system is lame, lame, lame indeed! Is Mr. Smith, who embezzles money to keep up with the Joneses to be exonerated simply because Jones has been embezzling for years? Hardly!

We should think that those who contend that self-defense is the driving force would be the first to support a program designed to diminish the pressures created by dishonesty.

The emphasis concerning the entire tribunal proposal has been misplaced. A perpetual game of cops and robbers is not the objective. The purpose is not to lasso all the bad, nasty little critters into court for the Last Round-up — the more the better. Students have taken the whole idea as a personal affront, a personal threat, a danger to be fought with all the fury of an enraged cat. No court is set up to punish the innocent. Nations, states, and towns have found courts necessary to prevent undesirable acts by punishing those who commit them and to protect the interests of the innocent who are affected by these acts.

Such terms as "squealer", "informer", are unfortunate. They sound like the products of hysteria. Someone evidently has pushed the panic button.

Although we're not absolutely certain that this judicial idea of encouragement — the type ode, as it is written, will be a practical solution to academic ceived can only lead to their discode, as it is written, will be a practical solution to academic dishonesty problems (no one can be), a few points are fairly clear to us:

Dishonestly exists in our school — unchecked, in some cases, rampant, even organized cheating! We cannot deny it, nor ignore it, nor sanction it, nor follow it and still keep our self-respect as adults, as citizens, as teachers.

We can't believe that the majority of students cheat (that might account for the fury, the panic). If they do, we don't think they are happy about it. And if the offenders are in the minority, then the other students can't be happy about that either. The proposed code is an attempt at easing all this unhappiness. Let's consider it in this light and not cloud the issues with emotionalism and prejudices.

Henry Celebrates His 72nd Birthday

Henry Morrow

Henry Morrow, who recently celebrated his seventy-second birthday, stays youthful by associating with young people. Mr. Morrow, custodian of the Husky Lounge, was born February 18, 1886 in Shamokin, Pennsylvania. He has been associated with BSTC since 1930. His first position on campus, that of first position on campus, that of janitor of Carver Hall, began when Dr. Haas was president and Dr. Andruss was teaching in Noetling Hall. He then became custodian of the Snack Bar which has made a steady improvement since its early blacker days.

Drafted during World War I, Henry served in the railroad service. He saw the Navy program initiated on Campus during World War II. Navy Hall and Centennial Gymnasium have changed from dreams to reality during his relationship with the college.

Mr. Morrow has four children: two boys and two girls. He is the grandfather of six and great-grand-

WHAT PRICE GLORY?

Sometimes after the Christmas vacation a group of stout-hearted students began to work on a play which was going to be presented to the student body.

These "above average" students worked many late hours rehearsing lines, making props, and figuring out proper lighting effects. These students were majoring in courses which did not aid them in the field of dramatics. In other words, they weren't professional dramatists.

The play was presented to half of the student body, an excellent percentage. After having seen the play, many of the people in the audience consented that the dramatics club, under the leadership of Mrs. Smith, did a fine job. The cast and the people behind the scenes did a job which was worthy of praise — not destructive criticism.

Why should these people work hard to try and please us when instead of being praised they are severely criticized. This is not my couragement.

There are only a few people in our school who are aggressive and strong enough to spend many hours trying to fulfill a task that will benefit us. Should these people benefit us. Should these people be discouraged? What about the dormant associations of our school? They do very little to benefit us. They are the ones who should receive the harsh criticism.

The point is, don't demoralize the students and faculty who love Bloomsburg, but "get behind" the people who have ability but are unwilling to crawl out of their shell for face of barsh criticism for fear of harsh criticism. So let us show the dramatics club (and every other hard-working organization) that we appreciate their efforts with laudation instead of expostulation.

- Bill Stevenson

It is certainly a surprise to us that we indulged in "destructive" criticism. - the Ed.

The Old Philosopher

Hello there Jacobins, Girondists, and Conservatives. Maybe we should call the column "The Old Philosophes" this week. Last Thursday's assembly reminded us of the television (if you'll excuse the nasty word) show "You Are There"— back to the days of the French Revolution and all that sort of jazz. One of our own philosophy students succinctly summed up the proceedings, when he said, "A lot of heat, but no light." Now let's get in our little old satellites and orbit our way to Science Hall to see what the latest news from outer space is. First person we met was Bob "Hi-Ho" Stish, who asked us if we knew what the men from the stratosphere were called. "Of course," he said, "everyone knows that they're called Stradt-a-men." While we were in the old building we were reminded that the Maroon and Gold unintentionally forgot to mention, a few issues back, that the science curriculum has a Saturday class also — Quantitative Analysis. Are you satisfied now, Egli? Science Hall also — Quantitative Analysis. Are you satisfied now, Egli? Science Hall is also the scene of Dave Snook's accident "so to speak." He knocked over one of Dr. Kuster's jars "as it were." "But that as it may"—the jar

Quig, BSTC's answer to The Caine Mutiny, has so many pockets in his jacket he needs a card catalogue to find his pencil. And Miss Mettler has found an additional expense living in Waller Hall — being charged overtime on the telephone. Ma always said, "It's not a shame to be poor but it's mighty unhandy." And everytime we attempt to describe a certain girl on campus, we have trouble. It seems her hair changes colors so fast and often. Oh well, variety is the spice of life.

Is it true that Mr. Sellers majored in meatless meals in college? Incidentally, Mr. Sellers, it was the "basketball" not the "football" team which ate early the other night. And we think a certain prof would make a terrific traffic Dogberry. Is the administration fasting on dancing for Lent? The students aren't — well not from choice anyway.

We hope you saw Witness for the Prosecution at that expensive theatre commonly referred to as the "Bang-Bang". Its surprising ending was almost as strange as Carl Janetka's philosophy on women — sorry you can't read it here.

One of our students was relating a dream (maybe we should say a nightmare). He attended a dance in the College Commons. It was a beautiful April evening; the music sounded great. The patio doors were open and some of the students sat on the adjoining porch taking in the beautiful spring air. But then his alarm went off and the "impossible" beautiful spring air. But then his alarm went off and the "impossible" here at BSTC was more emphatic than ever.

Janice Biddle is making a record — no, not a vocal. She stayed here two consecutive week-ends, and she's honestly finding out BSTC isn't quite as bad as some people believe. "Chad" Wetzel is thinking of taking Horace Greeley's advice this summer, "Go West Young Man". Women sure make a man travel, Wendy Rundell is in the midst of a big venture — blackmail. We hope they catch the culprit, Wendy. And Bob Corrigan thinks someone told him the "Stroll" is a "Socialist" jitterbug.

Attention Freshmen — and we mean the men. Your dance would have been much more successful if more than ten of you showed up. After all dancing isn't that fatiguing. Along with that week-end of the Freshmen Hop, boredom was at its maximum in the Husky Lounge the following Hop, boredom was at its maximum in the Husky Lounge the following night. This was obvious by the huge (considering the percentage of people that stayed) crowd which was subjected to watching Bandstand that Saturday night. The Drum-Drum's are looking for a room to requisition to complete their plans for their biggest event this year. We hope some of our friends weren't caught in the raid on Marone's last Priday.

Congratulations to Jim Garman and the rest of the wrestlers who made such a fine showing for the "Friendly College" at Lock Haven.

Is P.S. still interested in Miss Benton? And is Bob Shalius dreaming that he's a night watchman making two trips through Waller Hall every night? Keep sleeping Bob — you seem to be enjoying yourself.

Fasting for Lent — Mary Francis Downey, unicolored hair (on you it looks good); Bill Norton, anything that isn't fattening; "Rebel" Davies, going to the beach; Dr. Russell, blue book tests; The Librarians, on saying "sh".

Remember comrades, if you miss half the questions in a test, you're still batting five hundred — and that's good in any league. Even Ted Williams isn't doing that well. And don't forget, you people who fear x-rays from television, to wear the particular article of clothing apparel to repel such danger.

Lolly Niehoff thinks she'll be ready for the Olympics when she's through with Phys. Ed. from Miss Wray. And what room on second floor of Waller Hall was temporarily quarantined last week? Prepare yourself people; one of our former students, Jim Nichols, is planning a Second is the report of the annual Firemen's Ball of BSTC held at the Lightstreet Firehall, on February 25 at 7:30 p.m. The coeds of BSTC want to congratulate Mousie upon reaching 21 — officially. Who are you going to leave the car to,

We've had a request to present a question for a student who wasn't called upon at last week's meeting of Congress. This student wanted to know if informers will be paid the present college wages; and if so, where does one apply for a position in the O.S.S.?

We suggest a collection to buy Henry a motivated dish picker-upper. After all this is the age of progress.

We are sitting in the lounge list-ening to the true, true stories of Tom Dunkin. Swear that boy reads books that have even been banned in Greenwich Village. He claims they're erecting a monument to him but the inscription is in Sanskrit so as not to offend anyone.

LIBRARY LINES

by Patsy Fetterolf

The college library has recently acquired an outstanding list of books which fall under the heading of contemporary fiction. Among them are such notables as Juan Ramon Jimenez's Platero and I, now translated by Eloise Roach thirty years after its original publication in Spanish. One of the best-loved books of the Spanish-speak-ing world, it is composed of 138 prose poems of life and death in a small Spanish town. The reader is given this intimate glimpse of Spanish life through the eyes of the author as he talks to his "silvergrey donkey Platero." Time has listed it among the year's best.

SPORTS HI-LITES ...

by Jim Wagner

The Men's Intramural Bowling League is now in full swing as the teams completed their third round of matches this week. After overcoming a "bit" of loose organization, the league has now smoothed itself out considerably and is running as efficiently as can be expected of a college league. True, there are still some problems which have not been completely settled, such as the question of handicap commutations.

In regard to handicap, there is a vast amount of confusion as how to compute it. Actually, the process is quite simple. For example: If Team A has five bowlers averaging 140, 160, 170, 130, and 150 their team average would be the sum of these or 750. The team against which Team A is bowling has for example, a team average of 700; the difference between the two teams is fifty pins. The American Bowling Congress rulebook has several different methods of computing handicap. However, the league agreed to adopt the 60% of the difference method. That is, Team A would spot Team B thirty pins for each game. This figure is derived at by taking 60% of fifty pins. In other words it is 60% of the difference between the team averages.

Another pitfall which many of the beginning bowlers use is to assume that there is no handicap when a full team is bowling. This is not true. Handicap is to be granted to a team regardless of the number of men bowling. Incidentally some of the rookies and veteran bowlers have been using a standard 130 or 110 point handicap which is incorrect. If we are going to use handicap we must have all teams using it so that the league will be consistent to its procedures and policies.

This column wishes to express its appreciation of the fine cooperation team captains and members are giving to Bob Mescan. As Bob had previously stated, "Cooperation is essential for the success of the league." The league as far as the teams concerned, can be said to balance themselves fairly good. We have a normal distribution of good, fair and well not too deadly teams. (Just joking Jeffersonians).

A word about the Zephyr Lanes. All of us must agree that the lanes are the most modern in the area. The underlane ball returns just can't be beat. As for the alley's themselves, they are kept in top condition. There is a wide selection of good balls, but a very limited supply of shoes. As a whole I anticipate a very successful bowling league.

High School Cage Tourney Underway In Centennial Gym

The Thirty-first Annual High School Invitational Basketball Tournament held on the campus of Bloomsburg State Teachers College started on February 27 and will continue until the Night of Champions on Saturday, March 15.

In all three classes the defending champions will be returning. In Class A will be McAdoo, in Class B, Tri-Valley Joint, and in Class C, Black Creek Township.

Millersville Displays Form In Defeating Husky Cagers

The Bloomsburg Cagers, under the tutoring of Coach Shelly, bowed to the Millersville Marauders, 96-79, in what can easily be termed the most exciting game of the season.

The Millersville squad put on a sparkling display of ball handling and shooting in their warm-up drills and continued their mastery of the court from the opening whistle. The Huskies were never in the game as they fell 11 points behind early in the contest, and never managed to narrow the gap. It was Millersville all the way as Wright and Williams continually bombarded the nets from the out-

Rams Whip Huskies

Twelve hundred fans witnessed February 28, at Centennial Gym, which resulted in a 92-81 defeat for BSTC. With nearly every man well over the six foot mark, Coach Messikomer's quintet definitely had Rams' strength right down to the wire, running hogwild with a bar-rage of fast breaks and forcing the West Chester cagers to play heads-up ball throughout the entire contest in order to remain in the fight for the conference crown.

times and the score was tied six times in this seesaw battle before Nels Phillips put the Rams ahead to stay with a free throw, 29-28. Phillips and Carr were a terror under the boards as they snatched most of the Rams' 52 rebounds, while Berger and Shutovich aided

Utilizing the fast break, Coach Shelly's squad jumped out in front 4-0 as the contest got underway. When the Rams finally broke into the scoring column, it was nip and tuck for most of the game. Although Swisher continually chalked up points on his expertly man-euvered fast drives and Gustave hit beautifully from the outside, the Rams managed to hold a four-point lead in the closing minutes of the first half. Boyle closed the gap with a neat push shot from about ten feet out, and Swisher hit from the outside, only to have the Rams forge further ahead with two free throws by Nels Phillips. An acrosscourt pass to Carson Carr, who stood unguarded under the basket, ended the half with the Rams on

Bill Swisher brought the Huskies within five points of the Rams' lead with a fast drive in the opening seconds of the second half. But the Rams retaliated with three quick baskets to hike their lead to 47-35 before John "Hacker" Schaefer, who limited action because of an ankle injury, hit with a one-hander from the outside to make the score 47-37. With good back court play by Kingsmore and Rosa, the Rams' lead jumped to 70-57. Then speedy Bobby Boyle drove under for a basket and was fouled in the act. He converted the free throw, and score stood at 70-60 with approximately five minutes left to play. Terry German, stopped by a touch Husky defense in the first half, came on with a rush in the closing

Hotz Top Scorer In STC Conference

JOHNSTOWN, PA., Feb. 21-Roger Hotz of California and Ronald Botz of Clarion are in a mad race for scoring honors of the Pennsylvania State Teachers Colleges Bas-ketball Conference. Hotz and Botz became the first players of the 14-team league to have scored more than 200 points in league action, according to records released as of February 21. Hotz with 253 points leads Botz by 31 points.

Both may establish new scoring records in conference play. Hotz had to score 37 points in season's final with Slippery Rock on March 1 to reach the magic figure of 290—one point beter than the 289 mark set by John Parker of Millersville during the 1956-57 season. Botz needs 68 points in three remaining games (one game not officially reported as yet).

Hotz's average thus far this season is 28.1 points per game which is 1.5 points short of the record win, their fifth of the campaign, held by Jim Kennedy of California. Leading scorers:

Pups Lose First to Bucknell Freshmen

On February 21, the charges of Coach Norman Hilgar journeyed to Bucknell University to meet the Bisons and were defeated for the first time this season by an 82-66

After trailing by a narrow margin at halftime, the Bison under-studies came to life to bombard the nets with a fury of shots which the Pups were unable to weather.

High scorers for the Huskies were Stokes with 15 points and Shutovich with 11 tallies. Norm Shutovich dropped down to Jay Vee ball because this contest was to consist of only freshmen and the varsity was idle. Bucknell displayed a wellbalanced attack as they had their five starters in double figures.

Bloomsburg Places Third in STC Wrestling Tournament

For the second straight year the BSTC Huskies have finished in third place at the annual STC Wrestling Tournament held this year on the campus of Lock Haven State Teachers College. Bloomsburg's Jim Garman repeated as State Champion for the second time in three years in the 123 pound class. Robert Rohm gained a second place for the Huskies while Elinsky finished in third. The other two Husky wrestlers to place were Dick Rimple and Andy Litavec as they nailed down two fourth

Grapplers Win at Lycoming College

The Husky invasion of Lycoming College on Saturday, February 15, spelled doom for the battling Warriors as they fell prey to a touch squad of Bloomsburg grapplers who were determined in their quest for four consecutive victories. Never trailing their opponents during the entire meet, the Huskies came against two setbacks. The Warriors failed to topple three of Coach Houk's matmen from the undefeated ranks. Jimmy Garman, Dick Rimple, and Bobby Rohm contin-ued to display their mastery in the 123, 130, and 167 lb. divisions.

Back to back pins got things off to a magnificent start for the Huskies, giving them a 10-0 advantage at the outset. Jimmy Garman led all the way before pinning Jack Fortin in the 123 lb. division. Then his versatile teammate, Dick Rimple, repeated the process by downing Lycoming's 130-lb. contender, Don Flick, in the third period in one of the outstanding matches of the evening. Pound for pound probably the best wrestler on the Warrior squad, Harry Romig, decisioned Bill Stevenson, 6-0, in the 137 lb. class. Mustering up some terrific stamina in the remaining seconds of the third period, Walt Fake decisioned Dave James, 11-7, in the 147 lb. class. They were tied going into the final period before Walt scored the win that hiked the Husky tally to 13-3. George O'Connell went down to defeat to a 157-lb. bruiser, Dick In Steele, 3-2. Bobby Rohm, the third Ex undefeated man on the squad, held E true to his enviable record by the decisioning of Ed Receski, 4-3, in the 167 lb. class. The third Husky pin was registered by Bob Asby over Jack Kain, his former high school teammate, in the 177 lb. class. Outweighing Jack Chidester by nearly fifty pounds, John Joe of Lycoming pinned him in the un-limited class, making the final score 21-11 in favor of the Huskies.

Robert Rohm gained a second place in the 157 pound class by virtue of first decisioning Bloxdorf of Edinboro and then losing to Shaw from Lock

Stanley Elinsky was BSTC's surprise package as he finished third in the STC conference. Stan lost out in his first match on Friday night but came back into the consolation matches to defeat Shippensburg's unlimited entry Stifole, 4-1, and East Stroudsburg's heavyweight grappler Gall, 4-2, to secure the third place for BSTC.

Bloomsburg's other two wrest-lers to place were Dick Rimple and Andy Litavec. Rimple drew a bye in the first round an then faced Lock Haven's 130 lb. Champion, Galluci, who decisioned Dick, 7-3. Rimple, wrestling with a bruised knee, was unable to garner a victory in the consolation matches as he lost two in a row. Pleamshure's he lost two in a row. Bloomsburg's final point getter was Andy Litavec. Having drawn a bye in the first round, he later lost out to Bowser from Shippensburg and then to Abrahams of Lock Haven. The lineup for the Huskies at the meet was Litavec 115, Garman 123, Rimple 130, Stevenson 137, Fake 147, Pohm 157, Asby 167, Chidester 177, and Elinsky, unlimited.

Cagers Post Ninth Win at Lycoming

The BSTC Huskies rolled to their ninth victory of the campaign by virtue of a 79-71 triumph over the Warriors from Lycoming College in Centennial Gym. It was sweet revenge for the Bloomsburg cagers as they evened the score for the game at Lycoming earlier in the season

Norman Shutovich got the BSTC Huskies off on the right foot in the first half as he scored 10 points to keep them in what was a nip and tuck game. The local forces commanded a one point, 35-34, lead at the halfway mark. In the second half, Norm Shutovich fouled out, but not before he had contributed. but not before he had contributed 17 points to the cause. Bill Swisher then took the scoring reins as he dumped in 15 points in the last 20 minutes. Jim Gustave and Stan Covington also came to life late in the second half.

Bill Swisher was high point man for the evening as he ripped the cords for 21 markers. Able assist-ance to the cause was rendered by Jim Gustave and Norm Shutovich as they scored 18 and 17 tallies respectively. Boyd and Miorelli led the losing Warriors with 16 points

Huskies Defeat Mansfield Quint

On Saturday, February 22, the BSTC Huskies journeyed to Mansfield where they met the Mountain-eers and defeated them by a 76-67 score. It was the second setback suffered by the Mountaineers via the hands of the BSTC cagers.

Bloomsburg, paced by the dazz-ling shooting of Jim Gustave, took a 36-32 halftime advantage. However, in the second half the Mountaineers were not to be denied a chance at victory when they began to push the Huskies as was evidenced by their taking control of the game in several instances.

When it seemed as though the Mountaineers might gain revenge on BSTC, Bill Swisher came to life and scored eleven points in the final three minutes of play to ice the contest for Bloomsburg.

Jim Gustave continued his bask-etball mastery as he led the Husk-ies to their eighth victory with 23 points. Bob Boyle and Bill Swisher each threw in 17 points for the win-ners. Pete Zyga led the Mountain-eers with 21 while Felt and Martini followed with 14 and 12 points respectively.

Wood Players Give "The Chalk Garden"

The Peggy Wood Players have recognized the need for a new and simplified concept of theatrical production which would eliminate the necessity for expensive scenery, but retain the meaning and entertainment value of the play. The college community saw this concept last night in the delightful play The Chalk Garden.

The play was sponsored by Miss Peggy Wood, one of the foremost actresses in the American theatre. Her talents vary from musical comedy to Shakespeare. Many students are familiar with Miss Wood through the television series, "Ma-

The success of all plays is dependent on the actors. Each member of the cast has been specially chosen by Miss Wood and the directors. Their years of theatrical experience combine to form an integrated and versatile organization.

Last, but the most important, was Dick Moore, director. Mr. Moore has worked in every medium of entertainment for the last twenty years. He has been with the Players for the last four years. He shares the directional duties with Stratton Walling, a veteran of fif-teen years on the professional stage, both as actor and director.

The play was attended by a large number of college students, faculty and townspeople.

Bethany, W. Va. (I.P.)—Following President Eisenhower's warning that America must increase production of scientists and engineers, Bethany College has been notified that its graduates will be admitted to the engineering graduate school of Columbia University without question.

In a message to Dr. Perry E. Gresham, president of Bethany, Dr. Frank H. Lee of Columbia outlined a "4-2 Combined Plan" to supplement the "3-2 Plan" already in effect between the two institutions. Under the new plan, any graduate of Bethany is guaranteed immediate admission to the Columbia graduate school of engineering. The student will then receive the engineering degree on the Master's level within two years.

Heretofore, students could spend three years at Bethany and two at Columbia and be granduated with both Bachelor of Arts and Bachelor of Science degrees. This 3-2 Plan will be continued, but under the new plan, students will be enabled to do advanced work immediately upon entering Columbia.

In effect, the new plan cuts off one year of the time spent preparing to do advanced work. Dr. Gresham said here that Bethany and Columbia will make up the difference by intensifying the course requirements in the science fields such as physics, chemistry, biology, mathematics, and geology.

Dr. Lee, Chairman of the Combined Plan committee at Columbia, bined Plan committee at Columbia, said the action was taken following a caucus of the faculty there and that it "expresses the satisfaction of our faculty at the results being obtained under the 3-2 arrangemen." He said that Bethany would be supplied with a guide outlining required entrance subjects and expected achievement levels for the pected achievement levels for the several engineering departmnets at Columbia.
