Judy Goss to Represent College As Laurel Princess in Poconos

Miss Judy Goss

Miss Judy Goss was crowned as Bloomsburg's Laurel Princess by Junior Class President, Joe Thompson, at the Junior Prom, held last Friday night. She will represent BSC in a contest held in the Poconos in June for the title of State Laurel Queen.

"The Enchanted Sea," the theme for the dance, gave dancers the impression of their being under water. A 20-foot "ghost ship" placed at the rear of the gym set the mood accordingly. The blue-green lighting, as well as an array of starfish, octopi, clams, shells, and other hand-prepared signs of sea-life, mounted on fish net, added a misty atmosphere to the scene. The Esquires from Mansfield provided music for the affair.

In charge of the various committees for the dance were Joyce Morgan, decorations; Eileen Wolscheslky and Rita Botteon, programs; Noreen Van Tuyle, tickets; Barrie Iveson, invitations; and Bernadine Search and Paula Schell, refreshments.

College Installs Gates to Honor Oscar Bakeless

Two wrought-iron gates have been installed by the college, and placed at the entrances to Fountain Court, in honor of Professor Oscar Hugh Bakeless who distinguished himself as an educator at this college for 30 years. Professor Bakeless first came to Bloomsburg in 1890, but resigned after three years to become principal of Carlisle Industrial School for Indians, where he remained for nine years. In 1902 the Bakeless family returned to Bloomsburg and remained here until 1929 when Professor Bakeless retired.

Professor Bakeless taught "Theory and Practice of Teaching" and was librarian in 1903 and 1904. Before his retirement he taught "Introduction to Reading" and "History and Principles of Education." He was admired by the students who affectionately called him "Daddy Bakeless." For many years the local chapter of PSEA (FTA) was called the "Oscar Hugh Bakeless Chapter of Future Teachers of America."

Eminent Son

Dr. John Bakeless, son of the professor, also brought distinction to Bloomsburg. He is nationally known as an author, journalist, scholar, educator, and lecturer. In the autumn of 1959 Dr. John Bake-

Noted Folk Singer Visits BSC Campus

Paul Arnold

Tuesday, April 26, Bloomsburg students had the opportunity of hearing one of the outstanding folk singers in America today. Mr. Paul Arnold is not only a leading baritone, but also a lecturer, composer-arranger, actor, writer, and radio and television producer. His masterful interpretive ability, combined with his skillful use of the guitar, brought a new dimension to the realm of folk music.

Mr. Arnold's arrangements of folk songs have been performed by many of the world's leading singers, and he is the only folk singer who has had his own starring show on both NBC and CBS television networks. His audiences have ranged from backwoods mountain people to the President of the United States, and he explored the interesting field of folk music in a unique way for the BSC audience.

less revisited Bloomsburg and lectured at the college.

Bakeless Loan Fund

After the death of Professor Oscar Hugh Bakeless, his daughter presented the college with $2,500 in memory of her father. The money was used to start the Bakeless Loan Fund for students.

This brief history of the Bakeless family has been written to acquaint the recent generations of students with the name Bakeless which is inscribed on the new gates.

Heller, Downey, Girton Chosen To Edit Publications Next Year

The Publications Committee has recently announced the editors and business managers for the 1960-61 college publications.

Frank Heller was named editor of the Olympian, the college literary magazine and Wanda Kline will act as business manager. Dr. Russell is the advisor of the Olympian.

Mary Frances Downey will head the staff of the Obiter, the college yearbook. This year she is serving as assistant editor of this publication. Nancy Wurster has been selected to serve as assistant editor, and Richard Dennen as business manager. The advisor to the Obiter is Dr. DeVoe.

The staff of the BSC student handbook, the Pilot, will be headed by Jeff Girton, with Bob Johnstone as assistant editor. The associate editors of the Pilot who will revise and bring up to date certain sections of the handbook are William Martin, Janet Williams, Ted Oakey and Sylvia Marcheski. No major revisions are planned, but additions such as the Chess and Golf clubs will be included. George Stradtman, Dean of Men, is the advisor to the Pilot.

The editors and business managers were recommended by the advisors to the publications and approved by the Publications Committee and Dr. Andruss respectively.

Growing Pains

Look around. It's as inevitable as a chemical equation: More students plus more money yield better facilities and an impersonal touch. We would be foolish to predict that in five to ten years Bloomsburg will be a miniature Penn State or a well-organized education factory, but there are signs that BSC is advancing in the direction of big school attitudes and policies.

Never can we expect BSC to adopt the numbered student policy present on some of the largest campuses in the country, but we can expect the impersonality to become more evident. This is no fault of the administration, the faculty, or the students. It is a natural result of rapid expansion and increasing enrollment.

The student-faculty relationship necessarily weakens with jumps in enrollment. A college teacher cannot be expected to continue his former testing and grading procedures when the number in his classes suddenly doubles. An adjustment must be made. Objectively soon replaces subjectivity in grading; blue books are less frequent, and short answer tests seem to offer the only solution. Witness the increasing use of electrographic pencils for machine scored tests. Growing numbers of tests in subject areas from health to accounting are administered to large numbers in Carver. Nearly every day Hardhearted Hannah, the IBM machine, coolly grinds out another set of test papers to be recorded and interpreted by the teacher.

As BSC becomes larger, many areas formerly not under definite policies will have to be provided with written regulations. Note the rash of policies produced by CGA committees in recent months. Already key points have become the prime consideration in decisions concerning awards to outstanding seniors, and it is probable that scholarships and grants will soon be given according to stricter written guides.

Socially, the expanding student population has had its effect. Most students now band together in smaller and more specialized groups than previously. Class and school spirit eventually sags, and interest in student government declines. It becomes increasingly difficult to know a sizeable portion of the student body. We can expect in future years that CGA candidates will be forced to form political parties in order to receive school-wide recognition.

The few items mentioned in this column are not particularly large or alarming. They are a part of the shift from small school to large school attitudes. We can anticipate many more gradual changes, some of them pleasant, some of them no. These are BSC's growing pains.

Ambitious to Teach?

BEWARE!

Approximately 90% of Bloomsburg College graduates usually go into teaching. They will be interested in the following comments which some of them may not have seen in a New York City newspaper on Thursday, February 11, 1960.

Hal Boyle's regular column syndicated from New York for that date carried the following:

- "Remarks that teachers get tired of hearing — or over-hearing:
 - "Those that can, do; those that can't teach."
 - "What are you teachers always crabbing about? After all, you get the whole summer off."
 - "She looks like a teacher."
 - "I hear the reason she never got married was that she had an unhappy love affair."
 - "Surely you must be mistaken. My son wouldn't have said a thing like that to anyone — even a teacher."
 - "The job pays $2,500 and, of course, you'll coach the dramatics club, sponsor the school paper, chaperone the Friday night dances, take tickets at the football game, and . . ."
 - "What does she know about children? She doesn't have any of her own."
 - "Naturally, your private life is your own, Miss Blatz, but this is a small town and we've never had a woman teacher who smoked in public."
 - "Frankly, the opportunity for advancement is limited, but you'll have the satisfaction of molding young minds."
 - "Keep me after class if you want. But you better know one thing—my uncle's on the school board."
 - "Now what is all this nonsense my wife tells me about you thinking my son ought to spend another year in the first grade?"
 - "Oh, Miss Blatz wouldn't care for a cocktail. Get her a nice glass of fruit punch."
 - "I don't understand it. Herbert never had any trouble with any other teachers."
 - "Maybe you did say we were going to have a test today, but I couldn't hear you in the back row."
 - "It's all the board can afford to pay you, Miss Blatz, but we don't feel it looks right for you to be working extra as a cashier in the dime store on Saturdays."
 - "It must be a real satisfaction to have a sense of dedication — and not be worrying all the time about material things."
 - "Ask her for a date if you want to, Joe, but if you don't behave she'll probably make you stand in the corner, like she does the kids."
 - "What in the world do you teachers do with all your spare time?"

The World Outside

by WARREN OZMANSKI

Do your friends know you read this column? Now! quick, while no one is looking let your orbs drop out and roll over the print.

There's a trap door in the rear of the library and curiosity tempted me the other day to look down into it. When I peered in I saw two mice playing on the floor. The baby mouse looked up and saw a blood-hungry bat leering at him. "Ooooh Mommy," he cried, "Look, an angel!"

Fonder Over This!

Did you ever wonder what would happen in the fatal final quarter hour of BSC history?

In the first minute of the final quarter hour all the students stop smiling and saying hello to each other on the way to Science Hall.

In the second minute of the final quarter hour all the commuters buy tickets for a dance in the Husky Lounge.

In the third minute of the final quarter hour an election is held to pick the ugliest girl in school.

In the fourth minute of the final quarter hour a 99% plurality vote is reached for the first time in school history.

In the fifth minute of the final quarter hour the CGA calls an emergency meeting in order to discuss whether or not it is profitable to have more social activities on campus.

In the sixth minute of the final quarter hour the elevator man stops drinking water from the fountain on the fourth floor of Waller Hall.

In the seventh minute of the final quarter hour all parking fines will have to be paid or there will be immediate expulsion from school.

In the eighth minute of the final quarter hour the minutes of the CGA meeting are posted—But wait, there is only a blank sheet of paper.

In the ninth minute of the final quarter hour Dr. Fike gives everyone in Practicum an "A".

In the tenth minute of the final quarter hour excuse slips are found to be unnecessary.

In the eleventh minute of the final quarter hour an efficient system for getting marks out on time is found.

In the twelfth minute of the final quarter hour Joe Vannucci invites all of his relatives to the Commons for a chicken dinner.

In the thirteenth minute of the final quarter all the girls in the school come charging into the lounge wearing bermuda shorts.

In the fourteenth minute of the final quarter hour the Senior Class is praised for all it has done for BSC.

In the fifteenth minute of the final quarter hour complete control of the school is turned over to the CGA so they can leave with posterity the ideal government.

The Heiress — Rich in Drama

"Lock it, Maria." This quiet command of Catherine Sloper's climaxed the dramatic impact which carried The Heiress through to an unexpected yet inevitable conclusion. Within the space of two and a half hours, Catherine had grown from a timid, weak-willed daughter into an independent young woman capable of making her own decisions without the aid of anyone else. The audience watched her cower before her stern, hard-principled father in the first act and then exchange positions with him in the final act as her fortune-hunting suitor taught her some valuable lessons about life and the ways of love.

Ann Tooley did an unforgettable job in the role of Catherine, and her complete mastery of the character made the audience acutely aware of her situation. Dr. Sloper was given a sensitive portrayal by Elmer Mowery, and his complete failure as a father was brought out in his broken reply to his daughter, "So you've found a tongue at last, Catherine — was it only to mock me?"

It has been said that "nothing ever happens in a Henry James novel," and the pacing of the show in a few scenes made this seem almost true. However, there was the necessary comic relief in the person of Mrs. Penniman, the widowed aunt, which helped carry the play along. Carol Mazza's mincing step and secretive, romantic notions will long be remembered by all who watched her flutter on stage in her nightcap and bathrobe to act as Catherine's "natural confidante."

Morris Townsend, played by Bruce Van Heusen, exemplified the typical, good-looking suitor who played upon the emotions of a naive young girl but reckoned his power greater than it actually was. The full impact of his self-assurance revealed itself in the final statement of Act 1: "Go to Europe, Catherine, go to Europe with your father."

The play, under the direction of Miss Mary Homrighous and Robert Steinruck, was an excellent contribution to the college theater season.

Ray Eliot Addresses Athletes At Annual All-Sports Banquet

Ray Eliot, Head Football Coach at the University of Illinois for the past 18 years, was the featured speaker at the Third Annual All-Sports Banquet at BSC Thursday, April 21. The program of activities, honoring all athletic teams of the college, both men and women, was held in the College Commons.

As Head Football Coach at Illinois from 1942 through 1959, Eliot posted an overall record of 83-73-11, won or shared three Big Ten Titles, and produced decisive victories in the two Rose Bowl games in which his teams appeared. Earlier, while serving as one of Bob Zuppke's line coaches, he also served as head hockey coach and assistant baseball coach.

Eliot's experiences, as a college student and athlete, have been a source of inspiration to many young men and women. Fighting handicaps such as poor eyesight and the fact that he was self-supporting, he managed to maintain a good scholastic record while playing three years of varsity football and baseball. In 1931, his last season as an Illinois griddler, Eliot was named by Ohio State players as the best guard they had faced all year.

As an Illinois football and baseball player, a small-college coach, a line assistant to Zuppke, and head coach at his alma mater, Eliot has stuck firmly to his dedicated assignment in life, "a builder of fine men."

On January 1, 1960, after 28 years of service at Illinois, he retired from active coaching to become Assistant Director of Athletics.

Mr. Eliot's stirring address was interspersed with incidents from his past experiences. He said that it is helpful to have strong, fast, intelligent athletes but add the desire necessary and then, and only then, will you have a great team.

At the conclusion of the banquet, the athletes were given their awards by their respective coaches.

Mansfield Blasted; Huskies Take Two

BSC continued its winning ways on the diamond last Wednesday by sweeping both ends of a double-header from the visiting Mansfield nine. The Huskies piled up lopsided scores of 13-3 and 17-4, to make their record 4-1 for the season. Their only loss so far this season has been to Shippensburg SC.

The Blairmen held a 12-2 edge at the end of three innings in the first game, before Walt Blair cleared his bench. Pete Periales went the distance for the winners, giving up 5 hits and 4 runs. Big guns for the locals were Bill Gentile and Frank Fisk, who each contributed two hits to the cause. Winning pitchers Pete Periales also helped the attack with a booming triple.

In the second game won by Stan Keszowski, Bloomsburg collected 11 runs in the first inning and led 15-4 at the start of the fourth. Leading the attack were Bob Rohm, Tom Stover, and Ed Blackburn who each contributed a home run. Bob Rohm also had a double and a single which gave him 3 for 3 with 5 runs batted in. Other notables were Joe Rishkofski, who had 3 hits which were good for 3 RBI's and Ed Blackburn who also chipped in with 3 RBI's.

B-Club In Action

On Saturday, April 23, the "B" Club played host to Wilkes, Lock Haven, and Mansfield colleges in a sports day competition. The sports in which the schools competed were softball, swimming, and badminton.

The girls began arriving around noon, and after all the schools were assembled, a buffet-style lunch was served. Following the meal, Gloria Glahn welcomed the guests and introduced the hostesses for each individual event — softball, Laura McVey; swimming, Nancy Wurster, and badminton, Judy Beaumont. The participants were invited to look over the campus until the games began at 1:30 p.m.

The Bloomsburg girls captured a first place in both softball and swimming. One of the primary purposes of the Sports Day is to meet new friends and exchange ideas, and on this count the "B" club activity scored high. Let's hope there can be more of these recreational competitions in the future.

Cindermen Grab Win Over Millers

Overcoming an 8 point deficit in the last four events, the Husky thin-clads nabbed their second victory by downing Millersville 71 3/5 to 59 2/5 on the Mads track.

Appearing on a "track" for the first time this spring, the cindermen were paced by work-horses Roy Peffer and Terry "Lung" Englemen, with 16 and 15 points respectively. Peffer garnered top spot in the low hurdles and broad jump and second in the 120 high hurdles and 100 yard dash. Englemen, undefeated distance ace, scooped up first place in the 1/2 mile and two mile events. John Taylor grabbed first and second in the light and low hurdles respectively with Painter winning the 440 dash with a determined stretch drive. Huttemen chucked the spear for a first place and Scott and Carl Stanitski tied for top honors in the high jump. The Shellymen's mile relay quartet of Stevenson, Jones, Cole and Painter ran away from the pack in grabbing the laurels to end the meet.

Lock Haven Downs BSC in Twin Bill

Monday, at Mt. Olympus, the BSC nine suffered their first twin loss of the season. The victors were Lock Haven, 1959 State College Conference Champs. The Huskies, up to this double-header, had a 4-1 record and had just hung up two impressive victories over Mansfield State College.

Lock Haven started things off in the first game with 4 runs in the first inning off of starter Stosk Kiszowski and were never headed thereafter. However, Bloom did rally in the last inning and nearly pulled the game out. This rally was sparked by Phil Tockuff's triple with two men on base. It wasn't enough though, and the score ended Lock Haven 8, Bloomsburg 7. Old dependable, Bob Rohm, again made his presence felt with a triple and a single and Bill Gentile, local shortstop, sparked in the field with his fine glove-work.

The Blairmen had a 3-0 lead early in the second game, but Lock Haven constantly pecked away. Bill Eberz started this game but was relieved early by Bill Kertzell. The local cause was helped by Joe Rishkofski's homer, but the final score read Lock Haven 8, Bloomsburg 4.

Banquet Speaker

In choosing Ray Eliot as the speaker, the Athletic Council procured one of the most inspiring speakers we've heard in a long, long time. Mr. Eliot had the audience on the verge of combat many times during his after-dinner talk. With his ability to stir up desire, he could probably have been a winning coach without knowing anything about football.

After dropping two contests to Lock Haven, Husky diamondmen were given another setback as they approached the College Commons for their well-deserved evening meal. They were refused admittance to the dining hall because they were late, even though it was then only a few minutes past six. Although there was a banquet scheduled for that evening, in all fairness, the team should have been fed. Even though Slater's Caters had an obligation to meet with the banquet, it seems to us that their first primary obligation should be the catering to the student body. The team could have been fed in the kitchen part of the Commons where there are accommodations which can be used for such an occasion.

North Hall Rocks

Rock and Roll has come to North Hall. The boys from the dorm have been entertaining students passing to class with a blaring radio, vocal accompaniment, foot stomping and other assorted noises. We heard one visiting Mansfield baseball player remark, "That's one swinging frat house." We'll get this campus jumping yet.

Former member of the Husky nine, Jerry Oravitz has been more than holding his own at Tigertown, Florida. The curly-haired infielder is being given stiff competition by some slick fielding South Americans. Jerry is reported to have batted about .290 in spring-training and is expected to be assigned to a class C minor league team in the Tiger chain.

Softball League

A good time is being had by all those participating in the men's intramural softball league now underway at Mt. Olympus. Approximately one hundred young men are participating in the zaniest, craziest, laugh-a-minute ball games ever seen on campus. Most of the contests are funnier than the Three Stooges comedies. Drop around and see for yourself.

The Huskies missed Flip Houser during last Monday's Lock Haven doubleheader. Coach Blair could have used the lanky first basemen's bat as the Huskies dropped two. Flip has the measles. Cheer up "Flipper," who knows, half of the college may join you shortly.

"On the Beach"

After playing a few sets of tennis on the BSC courts, we're convinced that they were used in filming "On the Beach." All prospective participants in the net game should add one dust mask to their list of tennis equipment before venturing to the Mount.

Good-bye for now, dear reader — must rush to watch Wayne Morrissey set the volleyball world on fire.

College Donates To Hospital Fund

On April 14, Dr. Andruss gave final approval to the recent proposal by college council that the student body of BSC donate a sum of money to the Bloomsburg Hospital Building Fund.

The donation is expected to be between sixteen and seventeen hundred dollars; a dollar for each student enrolled at BSC in September, 1960. The money will be taken from the profits of the Husky Lounge made during the 1959-1960 term.

Other donations have been made to the hospital by BSC in previous years. Two years ago the student body donated a thousand dollars to the hospital's Ambulance Fund; and in March of 1955 the students, faculty, and Board of Trustees each contributed two hundred dollars to help refurbish a room in the Bloomsburg Hospital. The money helped to buy new furniture, drapes, and paint and to provide for general repairs in the room.

The donation of money to Bloomsburg Hospital from time to time by BSC is becoming tradition which the college would like to continue.

Summer Session

Advanced Registration for the summer session has indicated a record-breaking attendance. More than 300 Bloomsburg students have enrolled for one or more sessions. Replies received from teachers-in-service, and reservations from students attending other colleges will probably increase the total in attendance.

Proposed Curricula Revision

The Academic Council has completed its review of the proposed new curricula in business education and special education. A meeting was held during this week to review the proposals made for elementary education. After the curricula has been approved by the faculty, the President of the college, and the Board of State College Presidents, the proposal will be effective for all students entering the college in September 1960.

Admissions and Placement Office

The Admissions and Placement Office is completing the final phases of its work for this year. There are still a few openings for perspective men students, but the quota for women has already been filled. One more qualifying examination will be held this month.

Council Formulates New Stereo Policy

College Council has recently formulated a stereo-policy which has been approved by President Andruss. According to the policy, the stereo set may be used for any of the regular Wednesday night record dances, any weekend dances, and those dances sponsored by the Social Recreation Committee.

Certain hours of the day have been set aside for general listening and Mr. Horace Williams, manager of the Husky Lounge, has been appointed to have control over the volume. According to Joseph Zapach, CGA President, the type of music to be played will not be that of the rock-and-roll variety. Hours for general listening are as follows:

- Mon.-Fri. 10:30 a.m. to noon
- 2:30 p.m. to dinner
- Mon.-Thurs. 7:30 p.m. to 10:00
- Fri. 7:30 p.m. to 11:00
- Sun. 2:00 p.m. to 4:30
- 6:30 p.m. to 10:00

The stereo will also be used for special student or faculty meetings and entertainment for groups, organizations, or visitors to campus. Receptacles will be installed in order to move the speakers to achieve the desired effect for either dances or concert listening.

The stereo is to be operated by the Social Recreation Chairman or Co-chairman, any persons appointed by the Social Recreation Council, or the CGA president or vice-president.

Intercollegiate Press

Schenectady, N.Y. (I.P.) — "No recipient of a Union College scholarship or a grant-in-aid may drive a car on campus." This new college policy, according to Calvin Schmidt, director of Student Aid, has been a result of observations by Union's Administration that in granting financial aid, the college seeks to "subsidize education, not automobiles."

"The administration expects every student who is receiving financial assistance from the college to reduce his expenditures for non-essentials to a minimum. Although it is not easy to enumerate expenses which fall into the nonessential category, there is one expense, the operation of an automobile at college, which the Student Aid Committee does believe should not be incurred by recipients of financial aid.

"Therefore, unless special permission is received, students having aid will jeopardize renewal to their aid for the next semester if they maintain an automobile during the academic year."

There are 150 College Scholarships and 125 grant-in-aid holders in the student body. Of these, only a small percentage is violating the rule. Certain legitimate excuses are allowed, but specific permission must be received.

Decentralization of Social Rec. Committee Proposed by Council

A plan has been proposed by College Council for the purpose of decentralizing the Social and Recreation Committee.

This plan will enable each campus organization to sponsor one weekend activity during the year. The choice of the activity is to be left to the discretion of each organization.

The purposes of the proposed change are: to include more students in the planning of activities on campus; to create a variety of activities; and to schedule appropriate activities at the time they are needed.

The committee will plan the activity with the sponsoring organization. The Social and Recreation Committee will finance the activity from its budget; any amount which is in excess will be paid by the organization.

Advisors of the organizations will act as sponsors for the activities, and they will also arrange for chaperones if needed.

TV POLICY NOT APPROVED

The policy concerning the use of the television set has not, as yet, been approved and plans are now being formulated as to its use and location. Until the new plan is sanctioned, the television set will remain in its present location on the upper deck of Husky Lounge. The authority for purchasing additional television sets for the Men's Dormitory, Day Women's Lounge, and the Men's Lounge have been referred to their respective governing bodies.

Alpha Chapter Selects Cribbs As BSC Delegate

The Alpha Chapter of the Council for Exceptional Children appointed Carolyn Cribbs to represent Bloomsburg at the National Assembly for the Council of Exceptional Children. This council meeting was held in Los Angeles, California, from April 19th to the 23rd. The delegate had the privilege of casting one vote by mail which represented the Bloomsburg chapter. Betty Brooker was chosen as the alternate delegate.

College Students Enhance Census

The population of the Town of Bloomsburg, as reflected in the 1960 census, will be increased over that of 1950 by the number of college students living in town and in the college dormitories. The population of 10,000 in 1950 would probably not have been reached had the students in the college dormitories not been counted. It is expected that in 1960 the total population of the town will be increased by at least 900; this number represents the 500 students on campus and at least 400 in the town of Bloomsburg.

The total population figures for any community are the basis of information for industries who are seeking to locate in the community, and are also of concern to parents who are expecting to send their children to a college located in the community itself.

Although population statistics do not present a complete picture, they are indicative of the life, vitality, and growth of the community itself. Therefore, the possibility of a student population in Bloomsburg of 4,000 in 1980 will probably mean that at least 2,500 of this number will reside in the dormitories or in the town of Bloomsburg, itself.

Banquet

The Day Women's Association will hold its annual banquet Thursday, May 5, at 7:00 p.m. in the College Commons. Guests of honor include all Senior Day Women. The Governing Board for 1960-61 will be announced at the dinner. Carol Colbaugh is acting as Social Chairman in charge of all preparations.

It takes approximately 3000 bolts to hold a car together. But it only takes one nut to scatter them all over the road.
