McCauslin Named Dean of Students; Will Coordinate Student Activities

Mr. J. Aldred McCauslin, Dean of Student Life for the past two years at Wilmington College, Wilmington, Ohio, has been appointed Dean of Students at Bloomsburg State College. The position of Dean of Students is an addition to the administrative staff of the College as recommended by President Harvey A. Andruss and approved by the Board of Trustees, due to services required by the increased number of students.

A native of Leesburg, Florida, McCauslin was an honor graduate of the Montverde School. He was awarded a full scholarship to Rollins College where he earned the Bachelor of Arts degree in Economics and History in 1951. He was active in a number of campus activities and was awarded the Hamilton Holt Gold Medal Prize of Oratory. During the following year he completed the requirements for the Master of Arts degree in Sociology at the Pennsylvania State University, and served also as a graduate assistant to the Dean of Men.

McCauslin has specialized in personnel work in the armed services and at the college level, and in 1956, he received a fellowship for doctorate study in college personnel administration at the University of Maryland. He is listed in Who's Who in American Universities and Colleges and Who's Who in American Education.

All Secondaries Responsible for Fall Scheduling

All secondary sophomore, junior and senior students are responsible for scheduling conferences concerning the fall semester's schedule of courses. All sophomore secondary education students are to contact the Dean of Instruction's office for an appointment beginning Thursday, May 12 and continuing through May 26. Those students attending summer sessions are permitted to arrange their fall schedule after the May 26 deadline. However, the schedule must be arranged before the beginning of the fall semester.

Junior and senior secondary students are to meet with Dr. Fike to plan their schedules in his office in Navy Hall.

Dean Hoch placed emphasis on this matter entirely the responsibility of the student to arrange for these conferences.

Nominations for All Classes Held

Sophomores

Candidates nominated for the officers of next year's sophomore class are Benjamin Baum, Richard Kennedy, Robert Moyer, Warren Oszmanski, Francis Whalen, and Judy Zartman for president; Paul Bingaman, Joseph Brann, Manuel Gonzales, and Alice Marchiko for vice-president; Gail Allen, Pat Biehl, Jessie Reppy, Carol Story, and Linda Witmer, for treasurer; Bernadine Ardiere, Linda Dennison, Carol Engelke, Anne Golder, Madeline Gordos, Shirley Klock, and Melinda Sorber for woman representative; and Jerry Atkins, James Case, and Lee Jackson for man representative.

Juniors

The following are the candidates nominated as officers of next year's junior class: president, Richard Lloyd, and Todd Morris; vice-president, D. James Donald, Robert Stienhart, and Robert Strunk; secretary, Penny Harvey, and Judy Stettner; treasurer, Jeanine Ayres, and Milton Weist; woman representative, Elaine Anderson, Myrna Bassett, Ruth Baer, and Hope Wingate; and man representative, William Kuhns, and John Vincent.

Seniors

These candidates were nominated as officers of next year's senior class: president, Ed Kuser, Frank Mitchell, Sandra Moore, Richard Rapson, and Bill Stevenson; vice-president, Ron Boonie, Mary Ann Kiessling, and Norm Shutovich; secretary, Kay Gaglione, Isabelle Gladstone, Mary Joyce Lauro, and Argie Zevas; treasurer, Rose Fatzinger, Connie Terzopolos, Charlotte Mastellar, and Eileen Wolchesky; woman representative, Carole Coolbaugh, Marge Ginnick, Peggy Henry, Gail Hurter, Barbara Schaefer, and Noreen Van Tuyle; man representative, Harvey Baney, Richard Frey, and Jim Simon.

FINAL CLASS ELECTIONS

All classes will hold final elections Tuesday, May 17. Primary elections were held May 10.

16 Students Receive $1100 in Scholarships

Emily Shultz, one of the sixteen BSC students to share in $1,100 in awards, is shown receiving the President's Scholarship from Dr. Harvey A. Andruss.

Increase in Fees Expected in Fall

In reply to student interest concerning the increase in dormitory fees, President Andruss reviewed the set policy. The state of Pennsylvania has designated $35,000,000 for the construction of thirty-five new dormitories on the campuses of the fourteen state colleges. Seven of the colleges will receive funds for two buildings, while the remaining seven will receive funds for three buildings. The total cost of these new dormitory fees are to be paid, in part, by an increase in student dormitory fees. Each yearly increase is not to exceed $3.00 per week, and the Board of Presidents for the State College has approved a $2.00 increase for the school year 1960-1961. Following this formula, the total cost would amount to $16.00 per week dormitory fee. However, if the college decided not to furnish laundry service for the students, the overall cost will be $15.00 per week. This matter of laundry service is on the agenda for the May 20 meeting of Bloomsburg's Board of Trustees, and after this date, the exact increase in dormitory fees concerning BSC will be available. After September 1961, the room rate will be not more than $8.00 per week.

BSC Students Visit Modern Art Museum

Thirty-five students from Bloomsburg State College, accompanied by two art instructors, Miss Edith Zinn and Mrs. Myrri Krieger, visited the Museum of Modern Art, Tuesday, April 26, as part of a program to broaden their interests and cultural background.

Among the exhibitions they saw were paintings and sculptures from the Museum's collection, arranged chronologically to give a history of American and European art from 1875 to the present.

The students examined a 13'7" x 6' x 5'2" high model of the additional wing the museum plans to build at the conclusion of its Thirtieth Anniversary Fund Drive, walked through the Sculpture Garden, and saw an outdoor show, three structures by Buckminster Fuller: a radome and two experimental projects.

Fire Fans Frenzy

An impromptu beauty pageant was staged for both the North Hall men and the fire company on Thursday evening, May 5, around 12:15 a.m. A smoke bomb set off in one of the fire towers was designed to alert the girls to real danger and force them to move quickly and efficiently. It was certainly a mor-

Bereday Speaker, Commencement

On Sunday, May 29, 236 seniors will be graduated from Bloomsburg State College with a Bachelor of Science degree in education.

The Baccalaureate service will be held at 10:30 a.m. in Centennial Gymnasium. The Reverend Dr. Paul C. Empie, Executive Director of the National Lutheran Council, New York, will be guest speaker. His theme will be "Divine Nonsense for Victorian Living." Dr. Empie is a prominent national figure and speaker.

At 2:00 p.m., the Commencement exercise will begin. Guest speaker will be Dr. George Z. F. Bereday, who will speak on "Education for Creative Action." Dr. Bereday is Professor of Comparative Education, Teachers College, Columbia University, New York.

Pres. Andruss to Speak at Capitol

The Committee on Education, appointed by Governor Lawrence, has invited the Presidents of the State Colleges to appear before the task forces on Teacher Education and Higher Education.

Dr. Harvey A. Andruss, President, Bloomsburg State College, will be the spokesman for the fourteen Pennsylvania State Colleges on Teacher Education, June 3, 1960, in Harrisburg.

A two-day meeting of the Planning Committee will be held May 12 and 13, preceding the presentation to task forces on Teacher Education and Higher Education. Dr. Catherine Coleman, Director of Teacher Education, Department of Public Instruction, is Chief of Staff of Task Force 4 on Teacher Education.

Doctor Andruss is completing 30 years of service at Bloomsburg State College, of which more than twenty years has been as President. Prior to 1930 he was on the faculty of the Indiana Normal School, and Northwestern University, Chicago, Illinois.

Doctor Andruss is the author of three books, three workbooks, and numerous articles, and is serving currently on a committee of the National Education Association concerned with the academically talented students in American high schools.

ale booster when the girls staggered out on Long Porch walk to be greeted by sarcastic smirks from the male population. As one amused spectator commented, "The only disappointment was that all the girls remembered their long coats."

NDEA Loans Replace Bookstore Grants

At a special combined assembly held May 3, 1960, more than $1,100 in scholarships were awarded to students for outstanding academic achievement. Dr. Donald Rabb, Chairman of the Faculty Committee on Scholarships, presided at the meeting.

Dr. Cecil C. Seronsy, advisor to the class of 1957, presented the Class of 1957 Scholarship to Rose Fatzinger, Bethlehem. Rose received the scholarship for obtaining the highest average in the junior class.

President Awards Scholarship

Dr. Harvey A. Andruss, President of the College, presented the President's Scholarship to Shirley Smeltz, Gratz, and Emily Schultz, Drexel Hill, two students in the Division of Business Education.

Joyce Welker, Sunbury, received the Faculty Association Scholarship from Mrs. Margaret McCern, President of the Association. Dean Elizabeth Miller, representing the American Association of University Women, made the presentation to Kay Gaglione, Sunbury.

Both the Day Men's Association and the Men's Resident Council awarded scholarships to members of their groups. Edward Glennon, President of the Day Men's Association made the awards to Donald Pedro, Shamokin, and Richard Domalage, Shenandoah. Thomas Regan, President of the Resident Men's Association, made the awards to Rollin Cunningham, Lewistown, and Thomas Jones, Ridgeway.

Waller Hall Assn. Installs Officers

Monday, May 2, an Announcement Dessert was held in the College Commons at 9:00 P.M. to announce the new officers and representatives of the Waller Hall Association for 1960-61.

Judy Goss, Social Chairman of Governing Board, extended a welcome to the girls, after which Becky Henry, President of the Association, led the installation of the new officers. Elected as officers of the Waller Hall Association were: Elizabeth Brooker, President; Margaret Bower, Vice-president; Barbara Hickernell, Secretary; Jeanne Fisher, Treasurer; Elaine Anderson, Social Chairman; Mary Zevus, Assistant Social Chairman; Eileen Wolchesky, Judy Goss, Kay Gaglione, Senior Class Representatives; Diane Andrews; Myrna Bassett, Nancy Yocum, Junior Class Representatives; Mary Somers, Carol Bendinsky, Margaret Snook, Sophomore Class Representatives. Mrs. Miller, Mrs. Hoke and Mrs. Anderson will serve as advisors.

Refreshments were served, and entertainment was provided by Marti Moyer who sang, "You'll Never Walk Alone."

Cole Named Maroon & Gold Editor

Harry Cole has recently been named the new editor of the Maroon and Gold, the college newspaper. Serving as the Associate Editor of the newspaper this year, he will head the staff for the year 1960-61.

Harry is a member of the sophomore class, and is in the secondary curriculum. At present, he serves as president of the sophomore class; he is a member of the Bloomsburg Players, Alpha Psi Omega, Phi Sigma Pi, and Perspective.

Succeeding Sandra Moore, the editor of the Maroon and Gold for 1959-60, Harry will begin his duties in September, 1960.

The Play's the Thing

Ever since the first caveman stood on a stump to act out the events of the day's hunting or the capture of a new wife, drama has been a part of man's life. Because of its lack of facilities, Carver may not be far from the stump of the caveman, but the performances during the past year have been a far cry from the tale of the hunt. Audiences have been offered a variety of dramatic experiences. They have been witnesses to psychological study of an over-protected daughter, a social commentary, a modern poet's inspection of a small Welsh town, and two Shakespearean comedies. Almost all of these productions have been heavily attended and heartily enjoyed.

What lies behind this increased student interest in the theater? The answer is simple — increased opportunities. It is encouraging to hear criticism, even bitter criticism, in Lounge discussions. More students are using their right of critical evaluation and demand performances equal to the standards they erect. Few of the productions this year could be weighed and found wanting by very much. Minor points, such as the burlesque and sound effects of The Comedy of Errors, have been criticized by many, but the season has been a success.

If we were to hand out awards for a job well done, the first would have to go to the evening entertainment committee and the Bloomsburg Players. First rate traveling companies such as the Canadian Players and Players, Inc. do not come cheaply, but we feel the money was well-spent. Professionals can best surmount the difficulties encountered in a Shakespearean play without the detrimental empathy of many amateur productions.

However, amateur actors, under the direction of Miss Homrighous and Mr. Cope, have shown that BSC students can do high quality work in spite of the limited time most college students can devote to dramatics. The Cave Dwellers and The Heiress were superior presentations in educational theater, and both deserve a word of praise. In addition to their entertainment value, they served as a training group for future teachers who will be called upon to stage high school class plays and supervise dramatics.

Under Milk Wood offered a unique theatrical experience. Though it was the most poorly attended, it was perhaps the most stimulating. Once the novelty of its style was dismissed, it was found to be rich in thought-provoking lines. Still puzzling is Polly Garter's "Isn't life a terrible thing? Thank God!"

Once playgoing at BSC was not a very time-consuming pastime. This year drama at Bloomsburg has grown significantly. In the next several years, we hope to see it grow even more.

ODE TO A STARLING

Despicable must be the marshes whence ye come
 Iconoclast of birds.
 Only bird to penetrate Ike's budget.
 Desecrator of a thousand city halls.
 Ugly, deranged non-conformist
 To the popular notion of nice-birdism.
 Yet as I watch you from my window
 Ruling the bird feeder
 Attacking all other birds for food
 Pecking the back of the cardinal
 I identify.
 Thou wast not born for death, immortal Bird!
 But you are life and death and world.
 Perverted symbol of perverted race in perverted world.
 I must love you and help you as myself.
 This is the only answer.

The World Outside

by WARREN OZMAJSKI

Well, only thirteen days, twenty-six exams, and thirty-nine meals to go till the suntan lotion and dunnage are packed for that popular summer pastime — UGH — work begins.

A WORD TO THE WISE

With term papers due about now, here is something to think about. It seems as though a gifted young student turned in a research paper and received a low grade for it. The student happened to think that the paper was quite well written and should have earned a better grade. When he inquired why he received the low grade he was told, "Son, I handed that paper in to an instructor at this school ten years ago."

With summer fast approaching we find that the want ads are swamped with requests.

WANTED:

Crib sheets for those with four or more exams in one day.

Voters to participate in class elections.

A package of good razor blades for Richard MacFarland.

New residents for North Hall; it seems as though a few of the recent boarders have broken their leases.

More fraternity parties on Friday nights.

More speeches in assembly by Dave Laubach.

Something besides salad for lunch.

Veterans to head the training program for World War III.

A course in semantics for Tom Little; things are always too ambiguous for him.

Someone to help Dr. Russell correct typewritten blue-books.

Two extra bottles of oxygen for the "Lung."

Someone who doesn't think anatomy should be studied by the Braille System.

An honest advocate of the Honor System, who doesn't say, "We've got the honor, you've got the system."

Much spiritual guidance for all BSC students in the coming exams.

A personal stenographer for those who have two or more term papers to complete in two weeks.

A "snap" course which occasionally turns out to be a "snap."

A bomb proof shelter for the author; he'll need it by now.

DR. RABB TO ATTEND RADIATION INSTITUTE

Dr. Donald D. Rabb, associate professor of biology at BSC, has been awarded a scholarship to the Institute in Radiation Biology for College Teachers at Syracuse University. The six week institute studies the relation of radiation to biology and genetics. Dr. Rabb is one of twenty selected from applicants throughout the United States.

Grass Grows on Llareggub Hill

"To begin at the beginning: It is Spring, moonless night in the small town, starless and Bible-black, the cobblestones silent and the hunched courtiers and rabbit's-wood-limping invisible down to the sloeblack, slow, black, crow black fishing-boat-bobbing sea..."

On a stage which was bare of scenery and without the benefit of complex lighting, a group of students came together last week to present "Under Milk Wood," a play in verse by Dylan Thomas. This is the "ceremonial portrait" of the circle of a Spring day in a small Welsh coast town.

"The principality of the sky lightens," and the morning opens with the loud "get out of bed bell" of Captain Cat. The bell awakens the early morning dreamers into the babble of the day. The gossips gather at the pump, and the dead husbands of Mrs. Ogmores-Pritchard recite their tasks in order: "Dust the china, feed the canary, and before you let the sun in, mind it wipes it's shoes."

The Reverend Jenkins recites his poetry, Charry Owen and his wife recount last night's activities, and Willy Nilly, the postman, rushes from door to door to deliver the mail... which he has already read. There is a paternity summons for Mr. Waldo, who rushes to the Sailor's Arms to forget it with a pint of beer... "and no egg in it!"

The day rushes by, but Nogood Boyo doesn't notice... he is busy fishing from the prow of his lorry. He's never brought anything up but a Mrs. Samuels "and she'd been in the water a week." Polly Garter hums the afternoon away on her knees, and Capt. Cat listens quietly to her song. She sings of Wee Willy Wee... "who is dead, dead, dead."

Through this condensed town, the narrator strolls affectionately, and pauses as the villagers enact their brief scenes. He waits as the inhabitants of Thomas's menagerie exhibit their dreams, their hopes, and their domestic nightmares.

"Now the town is dusk." The goats and sheep are herded in from the hills by Bessie Bighead, whose fondest memory is of Gomerowen, "who kissed her once by the pigs when she wasn't looking because he was dared, and never kissed her again, although she was looking all the time." Mr. and Mrs. Pugh sit down to their every night supper in the dining vault.

Captain Cat doesn't know what time it is. He is blind, and it is always night to him. He has closed his eyes, and is swept away by the sad echoes of his long-dead dreams. Through those dreams floats the "one love of his sea-life that was sardined with women"... Rosie Probert. "Lazy, early Rosie with the flaxen thatch," who "is going into the darkness of the darkness forever." Rosie is "with God, she has forgotten dying." Captain Cat, because he is living, cannot forget, and so he weeps.

The day ends with the rustle of the wind-shaken wood.

This then, is "Under Milk Wood". This is the last work of a poet who heard the life blood of the world running in one small capillary. This is the poetry of Dylan Thomas as interpreted by a group of people who love poetry. It is worth listening to. The Poet speaks for himself:

"Poetry is what in a poem makes you laugh, cry, prickle, be silent, makes your toenails twinkle, makes you want to do this or that or nothing, makes you know that you are alone in the unknown world, that your bliss and suffering is forever shared and forever all your own. All that matters is the eternal movement behind it, the great undercurrent of human grief, folly, pretension, exultation and ignorance..." — Mary Frances Downey

Judges Crown BSC's Carol Bowman Miss Greater Shamokin

Miss Carol Bowman captured first place in the Miss Greater Shamokin Contest, Saturday evening, May 7, 1960. Miss Marty Moyer, and Miss Virginia Hardy placed second and third respectively.

Carol, a freshman English major from Millville competed with nine area contestants and was judged winner at the annual pageant at Coal Township High School auditorium. She was awarded a natural squirrel cape and a $150 wardrobe for the Miss Pennsylvania contest, for which she qualifies.

A week prior to the Miss Pennsylvania contest at West Chester, June 24 and 25, Carol, as the 1959-60 Laurel Queen, will preside at the annual Laurel Queen contest at Wellsboro.

Moyer Is Second

Second place in the contest was awarded Miss Marty Moyer who placed first in the talent contest with her presentation of a soprano solo. Marty is a freshman from Pottsville, majoring in English.

Miss Virginia Hardy of Kingston, a senior at BSC, came in third. She is an elementary major.

Miss Bowman succeeds Miss Carol Olshefski, Danville, a sophomore at BSC, who was Miss Greater Shamokin of 1959. Her talent offering was a comedy monologue about a young girl on her first date.

Petruzzi Elected Bus. Ed. President

At the regular meeting of the Business Education Club, Ron Petruzzi was elected president of the organization; Janice Werley, vice-president; Hope Wingate, secretary; Joe Patrilla, treasurer; and Kathy Buggy, historian.

Betsy Clark, chairman of the project committee, distributed copies of a survey, which was the project for this year. Its purpose was to find out the requirements of businessmen for beginning office workers. It can be used by the members, as future business teachers, to set standards of achievement for their business classes.

Roger Fitzsimmons, outgoing President, presented the President's pin to Ronald Petruzzi, and Ron presented to Roger the Past-President's pin.

The members of the club honored Professor Rygiel, the sponsor of the club, with a silver tray. The presentation was made in behalf of the club by Roger Fitzsimmons. The inscription on the tray reads as follows: "Presented by the Business Education Club — to Professor Walter S. Rygiel — a Teacher, Scholar, and Friend — in recognition and appreciation of his twenty-two years of service as sponsor of the Business Education Club in the Bloomsburg State College — May, 1960."

On May 5, the club held its annual picnic at 3:00 at the Bloomsburg Municipal Park.

From the Office of:

C. Stuart Edwards

Mr. Edwards reported that the placement of graduates for this year is ahead of last year. The demand is particularly high for elementary and special education graduates.

Dean Hoch's

Planned increases in the number of faculty members will make it possible for a wider selection in the courses being offered for next semester, according to Dean Hoch. For the first time in the mathematics curriculum, Mr. Leitzel is offering the course, modern mathematics, for math majors or math minors who have had at least eighteen semester hours in mathematics. The thirteen available electives in social studies and geography include such courses as: history of American political parties, social and cultural history of the United States, and cartography. The course on British writers, planned by the English department, will be required by all who plan to teach English. All sophomore English majors should plan on taking this course. Other English offerings include such new courses as: grammar and philology, earlier English drama, and the essay. Proposed science electives will include: ecology, genetics, anatomy, organic chemistry, quantitative analysis, and electricity and magnetism. Elementary seniors will be interested in the new art offering, creative art.

Mr. Frost told Carol that he thought Bloomsburg was the finest State College in Pennsylvania. Carol also spent some time with Vice-President Nixon. Just by coincidence, Carol happens to be a very active member of the Richard Nixon Club.

We would like to close with a wish to all the graduates — May your heart be always light and your purse be always heavy.

German Measles

Stand in front of a mirror. Do you see any suspicious-looking red spots? If so, you have now become a member of the Measles Epidemic Society of BSC. Girls are more susceptible to this pesky disease than boys, but the even distribution of cases between the sexes at this college proves that the competitive spirit hasn't died yet.

We are told that this epidemic is German measles, which are caused by a virus. The usual symptoms are extreme fatigue, headache, and the characteristic rash. However, such complications as sore throats, and glandular troubles can keep students out of classes longer than the prescribed four days. After the rash disappears, the disease is no longer contagious. Cheer up; maybe the mumps will be around next!
