

Pizza, T-shirts, and your vote!

By VICKIE MEARS

"1976 is truly the year of the student vote," stated Coalition, Eugene T. Carroll, of the CAS. "Never has participation by young people in politics been more important or more possible."

This urgency has reached the politically active people on this campus and action has been taken to get the rest of the student body involved.

Several weeks ago, prof.

Greenwal organized a shuttle of vans to take any interested students down to the courthouse to vote. This proved to be helpful as about 90 people did register. A lot of students also walked down to the courthouse of their own volition.

This van shuttle is running again and this time a reward of a free tee shirt will be offered for any students that register. All you need to do, is show your registration card at the table in Kehr Union after which you will receive the tee shirt which says "BSC United."

This is the last week to register, and the court house will stay open until 8 p.m. on both Thursday and Friday nights and it will be opened from 8 to 12 on Saturday to allow the last minute voters more time.

Politically involved students have stated that if all students don't get involved now it will result in disaster. The CAS newspaper, STRAIGHT TALK vol. II, No. 2, summed it up in an editorial.

"Never has the threat to your education been more clear...the Pennsylvania Department of Education (PDE), action as an agent of the policy-makers in Harrisburg..." makes fundamental assumptions:

(1) state funding will remain stable for three years, which "warns us of potential tuition increases and further cutbacks and retrenchment."

(2) full time enrollment must be stabilized and programs must be specialized at different colleges. Suggestions were made to refer students to different colleges.

"What does this really mean? It puts a ceiling on enrollments. More specifically, it suggests that you may not be able to switch majors without changing schools to do it."

The editorial goes on to state that the restriction in enrollment hurts the most "economically deprived students first, which are usually the minorities causing 'inadvertent racism'."

The editorial closes; "I must plead with you to show your outrage, forcefully, intelligently... Register and vote for candidates who are concerned with social justice, concerned with the fate of your school... Help change the assumptions that the bureaucrats in Harrisburg work with."

The court house is located on Main St. in Bloomsburg next to the First National Bank. Go in the front door and follow the corridor back to the last door on the left, and go down the stairs...

CGA ... Attorney at last

By Diane Abruzzese

Because of our spring break, this is a combined report of the past two CGA meetings. The first took place on Monday, February 30 in the Multi-Purpose Room of the Union at 7 p.m., and the second occurred on Monday, March 22 in Luzerne Hall at 7 p.m.

The major event at the February 30 meeting was the approval of hiring Attorney Mr. Thomas James to conduct four three-hour sessions to act in an advisory position for students legal needs. After these four sessions are held, CGA will determine if the campus of BSC needs a full or part-time lawyer. The sessions will take place on March 23, March 30, April 6, and April 13.

At least five BSC students will attend the National Forensics Convention in Los Angeles, California, as a result of CGA action. A motion was passed which allocated $1,278.82 for five students and their coach to attend this conference, with another $240 available if two more students qualify. The Forensics Team raised $113 on its own and each student contributed $50.

For last year's Awards Day Convocation, the Service Keys were ordered but did not arrive until August. Therefore, the $172.15 needed to pay for them was taken out of this year's budget. CGA voted to allocate that same amount to be put back into their budget for this year's keys.

In order to continue the tradition of sponsoring a luncheon for award recipients and their parents after the Awards Day Convocation, CGA granted the committee up to $200. The Awards Convocation for May graduates will take place on April 25.

CGA granted $50 to the Alumni Day Committee, as in previous years, so the committee can furnish coffee and donuts at Alumni Day Registration.

Previously, CGA has allocated $300 every year to the Bloomsburg Town Park. Even though the budget is getting low, since this is a Bicentennial year CGA approved the motion to again grant the Town Park $300.

CGA representatives wish to remind students that in order to vote in the primaries, they must register to vote by Monday, March 29.

Commonwealth University Act to consolidate state schools

Tom Mulhern, Bloomsburg State College's CAS representative, is concerned about the Commonwealth University Act, which is presently under consideration by the Pennsylvania Senate Education Committee.

The Commonwealth University Act was introduced by Senator Jeanette Reibman. Under this act, the 14 state colleges would be formed into a Commonwealth University. BSC would be the Commonwealth University at Bloomsburg. Under this system, the lines of power and authority would be with the whole university. The system would be under a Chancellor, who would be the chief executive of the Pennsylvania Commonwealth University. The system would be directed by a Board of Regents, which would be composed of three students.

One budget will be sent to the Chancellor instead of him receiving several budgets from the colleges. This system will not increase the appropriations received, but will allow better use the resources. For example, there would be one computer center and the rest of the state colleges would be tapped into it.

One aspect that is being debated over is whether an applicant would apply at individual colleges or would apply to the Commonwealth University.

This act will de-politicalize the Department of Education. The political power will be taken out of the State Department of Education and given to a body of the institutions. This will aid in student unionism and work for the betterment of a whole Commonwealth University system.

The bill, presently is being discussed and should soon be on the floor, and perhaps may be passed in the next session.

Bike hike for mentally retarded

The Fifth Annual Bike or Hike for Mentally Retarded persons is coming up on Sunday April 25. Everyone is invited to participate.

The route, which will cover 20 miles, begins at the Bloomsburg High School on Railroad Street. It then will follow along River Rd., - Ferry Rd., and Old Berwick Rd. to Route 11, where the participants will turn around and follow the same route back. There will be a number of checkpoints along the route where the riders can rest, make repairs, and get something cool to drink.

Todd Krock and Dixie Lee, co-chairpersons for this year's Bike or Hike, expect to exceed last year's goal of $16,000 and are aiming for this year's goal set at $18,000. All proceeds from the event go into programs for mentally retarded citizens.

Everyone's support is needed to make the Bike or Hike work. If you haven't picked up your registration form yet they are available at the Information Desk in the Union or at Navy Hall.

For any further information call Todd Krock at 389-3283.

Applications are now being received for the position of editor-in-chief of THE CAMPUS VOICE for the 1976-77 academic year. All students are eligible and should bring their applications to the CAMPUS VOICE any weekday after 3 p.m.

"Who Killed John F. Kennedy?" Film presentation this Monday at 8:00 p.m. in Carver. The Assassination Bureau will be present also.

Retrenchment ends, faculty gets raise

By PEGGY MORAN

Retirement letters sent to 189 state employees have been recalled as a result of increased revenue and improved budgetary conditions at the fourteen state colleges and university.

The Commonwealth also agreed to grant APSCUF employees a 7.83 per cent pay increase over two years.

Announcement of these long awaited breakthroughs was made at the Board of Trustees meeting held Wednesday, March 17.

In a statement released to the press, President McCormick cited retrenchment as the most difficult problem he's faced since becoming president nearly three years ago.

"Withdrawing the retrenchment letters will be a great pleasure. It's relief for all of us, but most especially for those who have been directly affected."

McCormick continued, "I'm only sorry that we had to become involved in planning personnel layoffs, particularly with the enrollment being as strong as it is at Bloomsburg. It's good to be able to put it behind us and get on with the important work of providing quality education for our students."

Faculty pay increase

In referring to the APSCUF contract settlement, McCormick pointed out that the union had contracted to terms which could be fulfilled without personnel layoffs. He also stressed that the terms agreed to would be less than at least two other state employee unions had negotiated.

Notice that retrenchment letters were being rescinded came as the Board of Trustees were preparing a resolution to be sent to state Secretary of Education John Pittinger calling for the prompt and equitable distribution of the $3 million supplemental appropriation.

The resolution pointed out that this appropriation, combined with current budgetary economy, and the extra income generated from the increased enrollment, would eliminate the need for personnel layoffs.

Increased housing fee?

As a result of findings of the College-wide Budget Committee recommendations have been made to raise the "Basic room charge to not less than $468 per academic year or more than $540 per academic year beginning with the 1976 Fall Semester."

This breaks down to approximately $2 per week, or $72 per year.

No decision has yet been made, and a final recommendation from the budget committee will be presented to the Board of Trustees at their June meeting.

Why all the T-shirts?

Monday is approaching rapidly—which happens to be one of the most important days in your life if you care about attending this college; and, indeed, the fate of the entire state college system in Pennsylvania.

Monday is the last day you can register to vote in the upcoming state elections. Too many students feel that their voice is too small to matter, and that as long as they are in college they are somehow apart from the politics in the "real world".

But this IS the real world. You may be aware of the fact that there has recently been a lot of questions regarding the possible destruction of the state colleges (i.e., the Kies Memorandum), but it is just too easy to ignore what's happening. There is a false sense of trust emitting from students that everything will work out fine because "they" can't destroy state colleges.

But "they" can!

Only a few students on this campus grasp the full significance of Harrisburg's power over state colleges. That's why there have been a lot of gimmicks used lately (free T-shirts, pizzas, etc.) to encourage others to register to vote. Unfortunately it is difficult to reach every student with explanations as to why it is impressive to vote for candidates running in state elections; hence, the gimmicks.

Slowly, students are beginning to see that even if they do graduate soon, their degree will mean nothing if the college no longer exists.

However, student activist Pierce Atwater and professor Joe Vaughan are back on the scene with T-shirts to help you help yourself. If you register this week, you will automatically receive a free T-shirt.

Eventhough our county commissioners Bill Kile and George Gensemer are scared out of their minds over student's political strength, don't let them stop you. As of this date we have some 1,200 students registered out of over 5,000 possible voters. We could have a magnanimous input in this district if the rest of you go downtown (across from the Magee Hotel) and register to vote.

Remember—Monday is our last chance.

Housing Fee Increase?

Retrenchment is over. APSCUF is getting a pay increase.

Students are getting the once over, again.

Secretary of education John Pittenger said that he cancelled retrenchment because the state college budget situation has improved.

According to Pittenger, nearly 400 positions were removed by resignation, retirement, or death, the state legislature approved a supplemental appropriation of nearly $3 million and close to 2,000 students more than expected enrolled this year.

The contract agreed to between the state and APSCUF is retroactive to August, and provides for a 3.83 per cent pay increase this year, and a 4.00 per cent for the upcoming academic term.

Current salaries range from $10,108 for a beginning instructor to $24,357 for a full professor. When the new increase goes into full effect the salaries will be more like $19,925 for a beginning instructor and $26,300 for a full professor.

Looks as if things are looking up all around.

Not exactly.

The college budget committee has recommended to the Board of Trustees, with final approval by the state, to raise the room fee here $2 per week or $72 per year.

The vote on whether or not to make this recommendation was close, but it still passed.

It seems to me, that if the state can afford to discontinue retrenchment because of the extra money coming in from many different resources, and they can afford to give the faculty union a pay increase (regardless of how insignificant it is compared to the other union's requests), they can afford to hold the line on room fee.

If Bloomsburg's share of the $3 million supplemental income is going to defray the cost of the salary increase, then where will the funds generated from the increased enrollment go?

I haven't been able to find any satisfactory answers yet, so the only conclusion I can come up with is that the priorities are misplaced.

Everyone I questioned about the pay increase quickly pointed out to me that it was substantially lower than what other unions received.

When I asked Mr. Acierno, BSC's president of APSCUF, what he thought of the possibility of a room fee increase he couldn't understand how I could get upset about paying $2 a semester more for my room. He failed to understand that it was a weekly rather than a semesterly increase.

I can understand that the cost of keeping the dorms is increasing and heating bills are going up in price too, but I also thought that the most important commodity of a school was its students.

I thought that the teachers worked for the students, but it seems that it's the other way around now.

I haven't found an answer to this yet, but I'm going to continue looking. In the meantime, let the administrators know that you're paying quite enough for your room — we keep the school in business — let your voice be heard.

My Choice, Cuckoo

society. All aspects of the film are excellent and the acting (by all) especially superb.

The next category, Best Actor, is again rather varied. The nominees are Al Pacino, the befuddled Sonny in "Dog Day;" Walter Matthau, the aging ex-vaudevillian of "The Sunshine Boys;" Jack Nicholson, the irrepressible McMurphy from "Cuckoo's Nest;" James Whitmore, for his portrayal of Harry Truman in "Give 'Em Hell Harry" and Maximilian Schell, "The Man in the Glass Booth." In my opinion there is only one possible choice: Jack Nicholson. This is his fifth nomination and possibly his most deserved. His McMurphy summed up all of the characteristics of the classic anti-hero; it is a stunning performance.

Best Actress is a toss-up. Ann Margaret is nominated for her performance as the mother in "Tommy;" Isabelle Adjani as Victor Hugo's tormented daughter in "The Story of Adele H;" Louise Fletcher, the bitchy Nurse Ratched in "Cuckoo's Nest;" Glenda Jackson, the cold-hearted Hedda Gabler in "Hedda" and Carol Kane, the frail, young Jewish wife of "Hester Street." I have to pick Ms. Fletcher; anyone who can turn off an audience as she did gets my vote. Her performance complimented Nicholson's perfectly — an excellent foil.

Best Supporting Actor includes Brad Dourif, the stuttering Billy Bibbit from "Cuckoo's Nest;" Jack Warden, the philandering tycoon in "Shampoo;" Chris Sarandon, "Dog Day;" George Burns, "Sunshine Boys;" and Burgess Meredith, "Day of the Locust." I believe Mr. Burns will win on the basis of sentiment, but my pick is Dourif.

Best Supporting Actress is a more vibrant category than Best Actress. The nominees are Lily Tomlin and Ronee Blakely, "Nashville;" Brenda Vaccaro, "Once Is Not Enough;" Sylvia Miles, the lonely alcoholic in "Farewell My Lovely;" and Lee Grant, the horny housewife of "Shampoo." This is a tough one, but I'm picking either Ms. Tomlin or Blakely; a tie could be possible here.

I'll say that my pick for Best Director is Milos Forman for his deft handling of the filming of "Cuckoo's Nest." However Stanley Kubrick could collect an Oscar for his direction of "Barry Lyndon."

To me, it looks like "Cuckoo's Nest" in a clean sweep of the Oscars this year, but the Academy will have the final say.

The Russian Orchestra will appear in Haas Auditorium on March 28. All are invited to attend. Admission is free.

Register to vote

Bloomsburg State College, like its sister colleges, is owned, controlled, and funded by the State. Ultimately, its fate is in the hands of the General Assembly, which appropriates money for its operation and which determines by whom and how it is to be administered. The problems you face: high tuition and fees, dwindling financial aid, tripling, large classes, cutbacks of various sort — all have one source: the conviction among the bureaucrats and politicians in Harrisburg that students and faculty don't vote and therefore can be treated like dirt. As long as you fail to register and vote, you will be jeopardizing your own future. The cancellation of retrenchment this month is only a reprieve; you can be certain that after the election, Harrisburg will be back to its old tricks: layoffs, cutbacks, and tuition hikes — UNLESS YOU VOTE. IN LARGE NUMBERS IN THIS COUNTY.

In this primary, the College community has a golden opportunity to nominate, in both parties, candidates for the General Assembly who are sympathetic to us and who will really fight for us — candidates, who, if elected, will tell the Representatives from Philadelphia and Pittsburgh, "If you won't support adequate funding and fair treatment for the State Colleges, I won't support the things you want for your constituents." Like it or not, that's how the system works.

Although the importance of voting in Bloomsburg should be obvious, students have raised a number of objections. I will answer each of these in turn: OBJECTION: "My mother says that if I register in Bloom, I will have to pay the per capita tax and other local taxes."

ANSWER: You tax liability has nothing to do with whether you register here or not. You are, in fact, already liable for these taxes. The only reason you are not paying them is that the town considers it too expensive to collect them. The only way you can gain exemption from these taxes is to provide proof that you pay similar taxes in your hometown. You don't believe this? Call the Tax Collector's Office and find out for yourself. The number is 784-1581. Or stop in at 51 E. Main St.

OBJECTION: "My vote won't mean anything."

ANSWER: If your vote won't mean anything, how come everyone in the county is so scared of it? Why are Gensemer and Kile trying so hard to discourage you from voting here? For years, registrars were sent to campus routinely. Only after students registered and voted in large numbers last fall, were they taken away. The fact is, your vote means an awful lot around here, especially in the primary.

In the 1972 primary Kent Shelhamer defeated George Mikulski for the Democratic nomination for State Representative. Know what the returns were? Guess. It was: Shelhamer 2300, Mikulski 830. Shelhamer also won the Republican nomination; he got 491 write-in votes from Republicans. There are, on the BSC campus, approximately 4000 students eligible to vote. Need I say more? In the general election approximately 16,000 people vote in the 109th legislative district. Since a candidate would only need approximately 8000 votes to win, it is easy to see that a decent student turn-out could determine the outcome and insure that whoever goes to the General Assembly will fight like hell for us.

OBJECTION: "I already vote by absentee ballot in my hometown."

ANSWER: If you do that, then your vote won't mean anything. Let me explain why. Suppose there's another wave of cutbacks, and you write to your State Representative complaining. Know what kind of answer you'll get? He'll probably tell you, "Tough, but we've got to economize, and besides, the State Colleges aren't that important any way." And you know why he can tell you that? It's because so few of his constituents are State College students. So he can walk all over you as he pleases. Now, if you vote here, in Columbia County, your Representative will have to work hard for you and be nice to you, because if he (or she) doesn't, he is too liable to lose his job. Not only that but he can put pressure on other people.

OBJECTION: "I don't know enough about the candidates to vote for them."

ANSWER: As the election approaches, you will receive plenty of information from The Voice and elsewhere.

OBJECTION: (to joining a political party) "I'm an independent. I don't agree with the philosophy of either party."

ANSWER: You don't have to, but if you don't register with a party, you forfeit half your rights, because you won't be able to vote for candidates in the primary. So, if you are presently registered as an independent, go to the courthouse and tell the registrar you want to switch to a political party.

OBJECTION: "Registering is a big hassle. I've heard they don't like students in the court house."

ANSWER: No, it isn't. It only takes five minutes, a wee bit longer if you are presently registered in your hometown (You will be asked to cancel your hometown registration). The process is easy, and the registrars are very helpful and gracious to students. You have nothing to be afraid of.

OBJECTION: "I'm from out of state and can't vote here."

ANSWER: Not so. If you have lived here 30 days, you can vote like everyone else.

The DEADLINE for voter registration is Monday, March 29 at 4:30 P.M. In addition to its regular hours, the court house will be open for registration Thursday and Friday 8 a.m. to 8 p.m. and Saturday 8 a.m. to noon. If you have moved between election districts, (for example, from the dorms to off-campus housing), you must re-register. The deadline for making any changes in your registration status is March 29. So, if you are not already registered, walk down to the court house, the red building on Main across from the Magee Hotel. And encourage your friends to register too. You have nothing to lose, and a lot to gain.

Kudos To Mears

Dear Editor:

I would like to congratulate Vicki Mears on the excellent job she did in her article on Coach McLaughlin. As an ex-swimmer, I will attest to the truth in the statements made by members of the team.

The reason for my writing is that I feel Mr. McLaughlin's undesirable coaching habits carry over into his classrooms. One area is that of being rule oriented. He insisted that a text book be purchased and brought to every class, or the course would have to be dropped. The book was used once in class, and the required material could've been read in one night. Secondly, is the area of favoritism. Coach McLaughlin's like or dislike of an individual seems to have a tendency of being reflected in grades.

The swim team complained of the coach not being present at many practices. He also failed to make classes on several different occasions, but required the class to stay and watch films of past swim meets each time. Another swimmer complained that the coach "never values freshmen's opinions." I feel this is also true of all students in his classes. As an example, one day Mr. McLaughlin spent forty-five minutes debasing fraternities and fraternity members in general. At the end of his lengthy "oracle," I attempted to speak in defense of fraternities, but was cut off and informed that there was insufficient time, which brings me to another point. I pledged a fraternity while a member of the swim team, and can sympathize with Curt Moore's position.

Mr. McLaughlin was rarely well prepared for his classroom presentations. He followed no pattern of topic coverage, but usually jumped from area to area as he remembered stories from past incidents. A professor's past experience is an essential and valuable asset, but not to the point that the class becomes a Gene London session. Coach McLaughlin also has little regard for students' rights. We were informed of the final exam date two days before it was to be held. When students complained, the coach threatened to give it at a later date, but revised to be much longer and more difficult.

I feel that I have a basis on which to evaluate Mr. McLaughlin's teaching of aquatic courses. I have had three courses taught by Mr. McLaughlin, I swam competitively for five years, have five seasons experience on the Ocean City Beach Patrol, and spent a semester working on the Palm Beach County Beach Patrol in Florida. I have trained extensively for both jobs, and taken many related courses in several different states.

Coach McLaughlin possesses a great deal of knowledge in his field, and has been an asset to BSC over the many years he's been here. If he were to realize that students can also contribute knowledge, and respected them for it, he could be a much greater asset, and, in turn, be more respected himself.

Thank you,
David H. Lill

V.P. Candidate

Dear Editor:

I would like to introduce myself. My name is Frank Kile and I am running for Vice President of the 1976-77 Senior Class, i.e. (the present Junior Class).

I am running for this position because I feel rather than sitting back and griping about the things that the class has done or has not done I feel that I should get involved in the class and see what I can do for the class. For one I would like to see our class get more involved that it has been. However, the officers can not do this alone. For example, we will need the help of all the students within our class. Also, I think it should be the job of all the officers to get ideas on ways to help the class from their fellow students. Also, I feel that if anyone within the class feels they have an idea that will help the class I feel that they should feel free to discuss the idea with any of the officers. If elected Vice President I hope that if any member of the class feels that they have an idea which they feel will help the class I hope that they will feel free to discuss the idea with me or any of the other officers who should happen to be elected.

If elected Vice President of next year's Senior Class I will work for you. I will cooperate and work with my fellow officers. I will try to make it possible for everyone who wants to participate in the activities or on the committees of the class to be able to have that opportunity to participate. However, as Vice President I will not force anyone to participate in something if they do not want to. So, if you are a Junior now, make sure you vote for your class officers on Wednesday, March 31, in the union between 9 and 4:30. And furthermore, when you vote make sure you vote for someone who will work hard for you during your Senior year. On March 31 vote for Frank Kile for Vice President of next year's Senior Class.

Frank Kile

Cyclist Cited

Editor:

During my four years at BSC I read a lot of articles in your publication about the athletes at the school. The basketball players, the football players, the trackmen and the golfers always seemed to get the publicity. I suppose this was only right, as these sports seem to draw the majority of interest on the campus. I wish now to speak out in an effort to get some recognition for Bloomsburg's number one cyclist, who has long been neglected and sadly, no one has even realized his ability.

Did you know that right now on your campus, that there is a man who has ridden his bicycle nearly 9,000 miles? He has accomplished this feat in less than three years, while pursuing his studies in biology during the school year, and while holding down a full-time summer job. This man can boast a month of riding which totals 1,001 miles. He has ridden numerous centuries (100 mile rides), and currently holds your school's P.A.R.C. Bike-Hike record of 110 miles. He has ridden in five different states and has taken one extended bike-camping trip of 500 miles. He has ridden in near, hurricane-force winds.

To the uninitiated, this man's accomplishments may seem meager, but as a competent cyclist myself, I can attest to the fact that 9,000 miles in less than three years does not come easily or without much personal sacrifice. If Bloomsburg was to have a cycling team (and it's high time that they did) this man would certainly head the list of prospective team members.

Give the guy some credit; credit he deserves. Give the credit to Scott Tarbuck, my cycling companion.

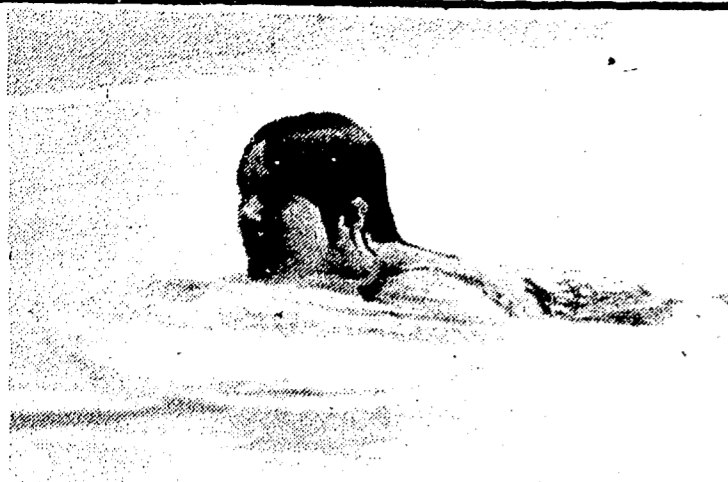

Sincerely yours,
David J. Wisniewski

Bi-ci art is coming

The exhibit is: "Pennsylvania...A Commemorative Portrait." The artist is Nick Ruggieri, and both will be coming to BSC. The exhibit will begin April 7 and will remain on campus until April 21, and the artist will be on campus for a reception on April 7 in the Presidents lounge at 9 p.m. All students and faculty are invited to attend the reception.

The exhibit is said to be the most valuable collection of art work ever to be displayed on the BSC campus, and has been chosen as the Pennsylvania Bicentennial Art Collection. The collection includes paintings of historical nature from each county of this state, and there will also be paintings of the State Flower, Tree, Animal and Bird.

The artist, Nick Ruggieri, has had quite a background in the world of art. He is presently the director of the Harrisburg Patriot News and a Fellow of the Royal Society for the Encouragement of the Arts in London. He began his career with the Harrisburg Newspapers in 1941.

Ruggieri obtained his formal art education at the Art Students League in New York City and then received his masters at the Academy in Florence, Italy. He maintains an active role in art education through many lectures and teachings.

Ruggieri is known throughout the eastern United States for his one-man art shows. Some of his works are part of permanent collections at many museums and many of his paintings have won various awards.

MS fund raiser

Fund is fun with events

The North Central Pennsylvania Chapter of the National Multiple Sclerosis Society has a unique manner of raising money. It doesn't rely on house-to-house canvasses for any part of its funding. Instead, it takes the "d" out of FUND and makes raising money fun. This is accomplished by relying on special events, such as the "OLYMPICLOWNS" which is an exclusive contest patterned after the television series "Almost Anything Goes." There will be six colleges participating in this event: Bloomsburg, Bucknell, Lock Haven, Mansfield, Penn State, and Susquehanna. It will be held in Williamsport.

Bloomsburg sororities, fraternities, and any other campus organizations are urged to sponsor a candidate for the contest. On Thursday, March 25 and Friday, March 26 from 11 a.m. to 2 p.m. there will be a sign-up booth for any nominations in the Kehr Union.

Who's the square???

A simulated version of the popular show "Hollywood Squares" will be presented by the Union Program Board on Wednesday, March 31, at 8:30 p.m. in Carver Auditorium. To participate, students must be full-time and have a valid ID. Contestants will be chosen from door entry stubs which will serve as the pool. Contestants will only be allowed to play one game. The winner will receive $20 and the loser, $5. Each time the secret square is hit (provided the question is answered correctly,) the contestant will have his or her activity fee paid for one semester of the 1976-77 school year. (Seniors will receive a $30 prize). All prize winners will be given a certificate which can be cashed in at the student bank for the amount indicated.

The celebrities will be the following: Mayor Remley, Police chief Haggerty, Dr. Himes, Dean Wolfe, Dr. Warren, Dr. Campese, Dr.

Creasey, Mr. Neisweinder, Jay Rochelle, Ms. Jane Plumpis, Mrs. Jackie Novak, Mrs. McCormick, Ms. Carpenter, Mr. Andres, Gary Clark, Dr. Donald Miller, CGA president Stan Toczek, and CGA president-elect Tom Mulhern.

There will be two rounds of celebrities with nine in the first half of the program and nine on the second half.

Four door prizes of one smorgasboard dinner at the Magee will be awarded throughout the program.

Sue Ann Sagan, a member of the Kehr Union Program Board is chairperson of the event.

'Sigma serves' with 12 hour swim

Sigma Sigma Sigma Sorority just completed their annual service project by swimming the 12 hour marathon from 10 a.m. until 10 p.m. last Saturday. Thirteen people swam in a relay consisting of four laps at a time, with the person who raised the most sponsors receiving prizes at the end of the marathon.

All proceeds from the service project went for the behalf of the Robbie Page Memorial Fund, which was created in 1954 by the members of the Tri Sig sorority, and adopted as their annual social service.

After the polio vaccine was proved effective, the sorority decided to keep supporting sick and crippled children, going under the saying that "Sigma Serves Children."

After all pledges are collected, the money is sent out to such places as North Carolina Memorial Hospital, University of North Carolina (for graduate programs), and Cardinal Glennon Memorial Hospital in St. Louis to name a few.

Sigma Sigma Sigma has been singled out as the only Greek organization to uphold a service project for pediatrics. Among the results of their project, they have managed such things as providing playrooms for hospitalized children, isolation rooms, classrooms for kids in hospitals with staff provided, Robbie Page playroom, intensive care units, and special facilities for teenage kids.

Tri Sig has recently been holding car washes for service projects, but tried something different this year in the form of a swim marathon.

Congratulations to all involved in completing the swim marathon.

Kiddies invade BSC

The Third Annual Siblings Weekend is slated for April 3-4. BSC students' brothers and sisters who are six years or older may participate in the program.

Youngsters between six and 12 years should stay in their brother's or sister's dorm, and, if possible, in their room. Any sibling over the age of 12 must stay in a residence hall according to his or her sex. In all cases, advance arrangements must be made for brothers and sisters to stay in a residence hall.

If any siblings wish to participate, they should send in the registration form that was sent no later than Friday, March 26. All meals will be paid for as the children go through the serving line. If clean linen is desired, brothers or sisters will be charged $1.50; otherwise, there is no charge for the room.

Last year more than 300 brothers and sisters of BSC students visited the campus during this weekend. If there are any questions don't hesitate to contact John Mulka, Director of Student Activities and the College Union. His office is located in the Kehr Union.

McGovern

Senator George McGovern (D-South Dakota) will speak in Haas Auditorium on Thursday, March 25, at 8 p.m., in conjunction with the 1976 Simulated Democratic National Convention at BSC. The topic of his speech will be New Politics and Old Values. Senator McGovern will be introduced by Charlotte Hess, assistant professor of elementary education.

Preceding the speech, the South Dakota Democrat will hold a press conference in the green room of Haas Auditorium.

What do you think of the food services?

Bob "Rocket" Rosics - The food service has drastically improved from the former food service (ARA) but there is still plenty of room for improvement. The food is better than the service. Considering the amount of people the food services has to provide for, I would rate it satisfactory.

Bob Hamilton - I think that the food service is satisfactory considering the number of people that must be fed. The service could always improve, but it is superior to that of the former service, ARA.

Carlos Calle - I think the food is better than at other colleges around, but I feel the food that is served should have closer attention payed to it when cooks prepare it. They have good quality food but not too much consideration when serving it.

Joe Feilmeier - There is nothing wrong with the quality of the food in the commons, but the methods used in preparing and serving it are below par; meals with pine tar bacon, Lake Erie dipped chicken, and macadam-type hamburgers really know how to kill an appetite.

Chris Farkas - Special meals are great, but usually the food is boring. We have the same thing over and over again. Friday night is the worst - always fish and blueberry pancakes. The extras like salads, bread, and desserts are the best. What we really need is more of a variety of good fresh food.

Marcy Thorpe - It's decent, but nothing to write home about.

Diane Repko - I think the food services are very good at BSC. I really like the special dinners they have, but they could have more of them. The only improvement I would make - more mint chocolate chip ice cream!

Cindy Mull - The food service at BSC is pretty good. The food isn't always that great, but I can remember when it was worse. You can live with it.

Joe Yanuzzi - For the price, it's not a bad deal.

Mary Burchtcher - When SAGA came, I thought the quality of food would go down, but Brian seems to care about the students and I think he is doing a good job.

Looking to the Sun

by Ed Hauck

The Physics Department at Bloomsburg State College is planning to set up an experimental solar heating unit to collect data through funds received from the BSC Research Grant Committee.

Dr. Gene Taylor, of the Physics Department, suggested the idea after attending a solar energy project at Drexel University in Philadelphia. He applied for a grant to the RGC, chaired by Dr. Louis F. Thompson, and has been allotted $475 of the $5,000 that Bloomsburg State College has reserved for research projects.

The data that will be collected specifically is the water temperature: how it relates to the time of day taken, how long it takes to heat up, plus how high the maximum temperature is. Also analyzed will be the atmospheric temperature (regular outdoor temperature). Dr. Taylor's personal expectation is that the water will not be hot enough by itself for heavy-duty heating because of Bloomsburg's latitude, but this device can be used as a pre-heater for water. With this type of use, the data would provide information about how much money could be saved on gas and electric bills by using this system first.

The collection and analysis of the data will be done by students and, Dr. Taylor hopes, "students from different disciplines should be involved." This will be done on a volunteer basis with hours and specific duties in a prearranged schedule.

Dr. Taylor has three objectives: to demonstrate the feasibility of heating water for household consumption in Bloomsburg; to provide students with the opportunity to involve themselves with cost estimates, design, construction, operation, data collection and analysis; and to provide a "show case" project for the BSC community to demonstrate BSC's concern for community welfare.

The system for collecting the sun's energy that Dr. Taylor is looking at is manufactured by the Eammons Company. The panel would be of standard size, 4' by 8', a tank, the size of a hot water heater tank, would be used to store the water for data collecting. Due to the limited funds, Dr. Taylor is now designing the set-up of the project, which will probably be constructed on the roof of Hartline Science Center.

The project will be monitored for a full year, but only in above-freezing conditions, as the added expense of anti-freeze and changing the solutions around is unnecessary.

Dr. Oliver J. Larmi, of the Philosophy Department, and advisor of Students for Environmental Action, has been in contact with Dr. Taylor about the solar energy system. Dr. Taylor was involved in the solar energy display sponsored by SEA in November of last year and Dr. Larmi stated that this type of research here at BSC would be a push in the right direction for energy conservation. Earlier this year a survey was taken by Dr. Larmi and Christopher Fried, a mechanical engineer, in an effort to find potential savings at BSC through elimination of wasted energy.

When the final results are collected and analyzed, Dr. Taylor plans to put them together for presentation to various organizations and physics departments in high schools in the area.

Dr. Taylor will appreciate any constructive advice or volunteer work to help him with the solar energy project. His office is located in Hartline Science Center, room 56.

A lawyer will be available to all BSC students for private consultation between the hours of 7:30 and 10:30 on Tuesday nights. 2nd floor Union don't tell me how fast you can die.

SOON AFTER YOU

just die.
the light of your eyes
cracks the lonely sighs like the brittle bones of a corpse new-born;
a skeleton cannot cry.
torn from your tongueless mouth -
a scream of silence.
writhing motionlessly
in exquisite agony.
however awesome
your violent life was,
it ended in the ease of peaceful passing away,
today.
tears?
yes, they tore me as streaks of lightning flew,
and that's why I died,
soon after you.

Something for everyone

By JIM STABINSKI

The Shar-Ed Gallery of Bloomsburg is presenting the "Something For Everyone" art exhibition in the Presidents Lounge, Kehr Union. The exhibition, which was arranged by Sharon and Ed Noyce, is entirely the work of local artists.

The title of the exhibit, "Something For Everyone," certainly reflects the diversity of art work on display. For example, "Summer Days" by N. Jean Smith is a picture of a young innocent looking child whose golden hair and rich blue eyes instill a feeling of passionate tranquility. Carol Wowak's "Jester" does just the opposite. It's character representations seem to be taken from Gothic literature, perhaps one of Poe's roguish creations. The "Fernville Bridge" by Sue Grace, is an excellent print that has clarity in style and structure. In looking at the picture one could imagine lying by the bridge side, starrng at the bridge and the cool waters beneath.

For leather enthusiasts, Sara Darlington has a "Leather Sculpture" on display. It's abstractness makes it something familiar, and upon a closer look, turns it into something unreal and mythical in it's composition.

The "Sparrow Hawk," by Barb Petorak is a perfectional print in that the colors, contents, details, and exactness, make the bird seem ready to flutter it's wings and fly away.

For metal advocates, Bruce Brazzo's 3-dimensional conglomeration of welded metal in rectangular and circular shapes and forms will definitely be a dessert to the artistic eye. The coldness of the metal and the warmness of the metal connections give it a winter-summer effect.

Charles Berkey has some unique pottery and sculptures in the display case. "Little Son's Ancient Insect Bottle" and "Lucky in Love" are simulating pieces to observe. The former seeming to be a replica of ancient pottery, still together in one piece due to its strong desire to remain alive, and the latter one being a two-piece sculptured creation whose personality is damp and deserted, due to the small lizard perched on top one of the pieces.

There are numerous other paintings, prints, and abstractions on display. Allow your own mind to freely interpret the exhibition. It will be on display until April 6 in the Presidents Lounge.

This is just one of the pictures on display in the Sha Shar-Ed Gallery appearing in the President's Lounge.

CGA Misunderstood

It's not a bank

By LOUIS HUNSINGER

The Community Government Association is a campus organization that is often misunderstood.

According to Stan Toczek, President of the CGA, "It's the voice of the students. It's where students can air their opinions on various issues. And if we don't receive input from the students, then student needs and desires can not be met adequately and effectively."

Tom Mulhern, CGA president-elect, states: "The role of CGA is that student governing body that represents the social and academic needs of the students. It supports student viewpoints and upholds student positions and utilizes support to most effectively represent these desires."

In theory, the CGA is the place where students or any other member of the college community can air a legitimate grievance or desire and expect at least consideration; but in practice this is not necessarily so, because students have merely moaned to other students instead of utilizing the proper answer which is the CGA.

The CGA governs and administers the Community Activities Fee that students pay. Every budget that the CGA approves or disapproves has an effect on a vast number of students by either depriving or benefitting students by allowing or disallowing certain activities to occur.

CGA is probably the most important organization at this college, so students should take an active interest in this vital organization by attending its meetings, which are held every other Monday, generally at 7 p.m. in the Multipurpose Room in the Union.

Tino becomes Husky favorite

By CRAIG WINTERS

"Tino DiMarco represents the first bonafied heavyweight to wrestle at Bloomsburg in quite some time." Such was the preseason appraisal of head coach Roger Sanders of his star freshman grappler.

DiMarco, the husky frosh from Conestoga High, did much to fulfill these expectations as he posted a 16-1 dual meet record, 26-7 overall and second 26-7 overall and second place finishes in both the Pennsylvania State Conference and Eastern Wrestling league championships. In addition to these accomplishments, Tino also earned the runnerup spot in four tournaments, held during the course of the season. The only blemish on his fine 16-1 mark was a loss to two time state champ Chuck Coryea from Clarion.

The Husky star also suffered losses to the tough Coryea in both the Pa. and EWL Championships. Despite the losses, Sanders noted that DiMarco fought a game battle in each match with the seasoned veteran from Clarion and felt that he had nothing to be ashamed of.

During the season, Tino became the favorite of the fans at Nelson Fieldhouse as he overpowered many of his adversaries and impressed them with his quickness and agility. Some of his more impressive victories on the Husky mats were over his opponents from Shippensburg, Indiana (Pa) and Pittsburgh.

His greatest collegiate thrill, thus far, he maintains, is his 10-2 regular season and 2-1 Pa. State tourney victories over Lock Haven standout Jim Shuster.

DiMarco attended Conestoga High School and began wrestling competively in the tenth grade at the request of Conestoga coach Al Wolsteinholen. Despite this rather late start, he displayed enough ability to fashion a 54-10 record and a strong showing in the Pa. State Championships in his senior year.

For these accomplishments, DiMarco was offered several scholarships including one from the university of Georgia. However, Husky coach Sanders was also interested in him and convinced Tino to make Bloomsburg his choice.

Tino appears to be glad he did for he expressed a fondness for the college community and respect for the fine wrestling program here and the expert coaching of Sanders and his assistants. DiMarco also appreciates the favorable female-male ratio on campus.

Currently majoring in Business Administration he has no definite plans for the future except for acquiring a business background to fulfill his dream of establishing his own business upon leaving school.

In his spare time he enjoys fishing, paddleball and just some well deserved relaxation from his grueling schedule.

During the summer, he plans to do construction work and compete in summer tournaments. One such tourney in which he desires to compete, is the qualification event for the Junior World Team, which would take him on a tour of Europe.

Coach Sanders noted that DiMarco is one of the best heavyweights on the East and feels if he continues the improvement shown this season, could become the top heavyweight in the country. This sentiment is echoed by assistant coach Rohn who feels Tino's future is quite bright and feels that he exhibits exceptional leadership qualities.

Tennis toughies

"With seniors Drew Hostetter, Phil Christman, Bob Rosics and Jim Overbaugh, Bloomsburg State College has a veteran men's tennis team with something to prove. It has yet to win the Pennsylvania Conference title and that must be the number one goal of every player. Anything less than that must be considered a disappointment," states BSC Coach Bert Reese in his pre-season outlook.

After last year's 6-4 record and third place finish in the Pennsylvania Conference, it is difficult to determine if the Huskies can improve this season. Perhaps the toughest schedule in BSC history makes the situation even harder to assess. The schedule includes Penn State, Temple, Haverford, and PC powers West Chester and East Stroudsburg.

Reese explained, "Although the team lost only one player through graduation, Tom Sweitzer is a tremendous loss. He won many 'big ones' for the Huskies and will be sorely missed."

BLOOMSBURG TRACK '76

by Ed Hauck

Well, it's now time for the in to go out and the out to be in. For you people who don't understand, it means that indoor track is over and outdoor is in the beginning stages for the 1976 year.

The Huskies finished the indoor season last weekend with a poor showing at the East Stroudsburg Invitational meet at ESSC. BSC placed fifth with a total of 21 points. East Stroudsburg won the meet and Frostburg, of Maryland, was second.

A reason for the poor showing at the meet was the fault of some of the team members failing to show for the meet where obvious points would have been scored. Mr. Puhl was quite displeased with the situation but now that the whole incident is over, he is prepared to look to the out-door season for a little better showing.

The Huskies final record for the indoor season was officially 8-4, with a final season dual meet loss to ESSC by a score of 80-43. BSC had only three winners in this meet: Ken Curcio in the 50 yd. hurdles, Jay Wohlgemuth in the 300 yd. dash and Rob Wintersteen in the Two Mile run.

Some of the point scorers at the East Stroud. Invitational were Ken Curcio, winner of the 60 yd. high hurdles in a Kohler Fieldhouse record of 7.5, Fred Koetteritz, fourth in the pole vault. Jim O'Brien third and Howie Pillot fourth in the 1000 yd. run. Mike Keiper second in the high jump and Rob Wintersteen fourth in the two mile run.

Turning to the outdoor outlook, the coaches foresee a year that will mean a lot of work for the team, because they have their work cut out for them.

"We have many OOD SPRINTERS THIS YEAR BUT NOT AS SUPER AS LAST YEAR. I think they have the potential to go under 42 seconds for the 440 yd. relay. It's a very precise handoff procedure that can mean winning or losing the race," Mr. Puhl continued. "Our middle distance and long distance runners are in fine shape but now that we're outdoor, we'll have to alter some of the workouts of our athletes."

The team starts off the outdoor season this weekend down at the Delaware Relays at Delaware State College. The special attraction at this meet will be the fact that this meet is the start of a new era for the runners because they will be running metric distances for the first time. Consequently, every person from BSC that has the fastest time in the event will have a school record to his name. Good luck, boys!

Husky nine open season

By John Eichenlaub

On April 1 at 3 p.m. the Huskie Baseball Squad under the direction of Coach Clarke Boler will host Bucknell University in the season opener at Danny Litwhiler Field (on upper campus).

Inconsistency in the pitching and catching staff, lack of clutch hitting and injuries to key players hurt the Huskies last season. But this season the team is excited.

"The potential is there, we believe we can win this year," stated co-captain Greg Oswald. Three transfer students Sam Crivellaro, catcher, plus Scott Vercoe and Pat Pretinger, infielders, have contributed to this excitement.

For the most part the team is

Women's Tennis

Following a 3-2 fall season, the Bloomsburg State College women's tennis team will play a seven match schedule this spring starting with a home match against Susquehanna University on Tuesday, April 13.

Kutztown, Shippensburg, Lehigh and Lock Haven replace Mansfield, SUNY Binghamton, Lycoming and Wilkes on the schedule.

The Huskiettes are coached by Eleanor Wray, the Coordinator of Women's Athletics at BSC.

Golf team swings back

Following a two season absence from the Bloomsburg State College golf schedule, York College returns to the BSC list of opponents for 1976.

The Huskies, coached by Dr. Michael Herbert, will compete against eight opponents on six different dates starting with a home match with Lycoming College on Thursday, April 1, at 1:00 p.m. A highlight of the BSC schedule is a quadrangular home match with Kutztown, Lock Haven, and Shippensburg on Tuesday, April 13.

Last spring, BSC had a 2-8 record with victories over Lycoming and Lock Haven.

BSC's 1976 golf schedule is: 4-1—Lycoming, H; 4-5—York, A; 4-8—Mansfield, A; 4-13—Kutztown, Lock Haven, Ship., H; 4-15—Millersville, H; 4-20—East Stroudsburg, A.

Freshman class meeting
There will be a meeting for all freshmen on Monday, March 29, in the multipurpose room of the Kehr Union. The Freshman Class Spring Banquet will be discussed. You will also have the opportunity to meet the candidates running for Sophomore class officers. Freshmen who are running for an office should plan to be there.

Employment application deadline extended

The March 1 deadline for student employment applications for Summer 1976 and Academic Year 1976-77 has been extended to April 16. Students wishing to work during these terms must submit their job application cards to the Financial Aid Office by April 16 if they have not already done so. Resident Advisors should submit their cards immediately if they have not already done so. If there are any questions on either matter, call William D. Andres, Assistant Director of Financial Aid, at 3908.

Study Tour of England
Bloomsburg State College is sponsoring a study tour of England from June 5 to June 18, 1976. The cost of the tour will be approximately $524. This price includes round trip air fare via British Airways, transfers between London Airport and Hotel, accommodation (two to a room, private bath and continental breakfast), theatre tickets to London plays, and some day excursions to areas outside of London. This tour will also allow for the possibility of a visit to Paris.

Reservations must be made approximately 40 days prior to the flight. For further details, please contact A. Sylvester, History Department, phone 2515.
