GREAT ADVENTURE TRIP

Today is the last day to sign up for the trip to Great Adventure, which includes round trip transportation, admission to both Safari Park and the amusement park, plus all the rides and shows. Cost is $14.00 per person and sign up is at the Kehr Union Information Desk. We leave the Union Parking Lot at 6:30 a.m. on Sunday, Sept. 25 and depart from the Great Adventure at 7:30 p.m. See you there, don't forget to bring your pith helmet.

Choir Call — The College-Community Choir of Bloomsburg begins rehearsals Tuesday, September 20 at 7 p.m. The large choir is preparing for a performance with orchestra of the Beethoven Choral Fantasia in November and a general concert in May. Although the soprano section is now closed, there are still a few openings for altos, tenors, and basses; it is not too late to join. Call BSC, 389-3107 for more information or come early to the first rehearsal.

Going to law school? - Prepare now!

Proper advisement and preparation are crucial to students' acceptance to law school, revealed Professor Martin Gildea, BSC's Pre-Law Advisor.

In order to qualify for law school, a college degree is usually required. Many pre-law students may ask what major would be the best to prepare them for law school. There is no specific major. Gildea, states that pre-law "is not a discipline but an intention. Students desiring a career in law are urged to select courses that produce skills of reasoning, effective verbal and written communication and broad policy understanding. Be sure to develop writing and analytical skills, obtain breadth in the humanities and social sciences, acquire a general understanding of the business world, and avoid pass-fail courses." Recently, questionnaires answered by leaders of the Bench and Bar recommended English language and literature, government, economics, American history, and mathematics as the most valuable pre-law subjects. Gildea suggests majoring in a discipline you are comfortable with and can rely on if you decide not to go to law school.

LAW SCHOOL APTITUDE TEST

Besides a college degree, all law schools require the applicant to take the Law School Aptitude Test (LSAT) and to submit his grade point average (GPA). The LSAT consists of 225 questions in seven distinct sections (scores range from 200-800). A second test, the "writing ability" test, has a scale of 20 to 80. This second score is reported separately from the first and some law schools disregard the "writing ability" test completely. If you take the LSAT twice, either the two scores will be averaged or 50 points will be subtracted from the second score.

In evaluating your GPA, schools will adjust your average to compensate "grade inflation". That is, you may receive a higher or lower GPA depending on the grading standards of the institution you are attending. The LSAT score combined with 200 times the GPA gives you an "index" score. Your index score is the greatest determining factor as to whether or not you will be accepted. Other considerations are the quality and rank of the college attended, course of study and difficulty of curriculum, activities, and letters of recommendation.

Anyone desiring to take the LSAT must apply at least one month before the testing date. Test dates this year are October 8 and December 3 and in 1978, February 4, April 15, and July 15. Testing places are Temple University, University of Scranton and Villanova, among others.

Gildea cannot get anyone into law school, but he "can assist the student in matching his qualifications with a law school that seeks applicants with his qualifications." He recommends applying for law school admission as early as October, taking the LSAT in July before the senior year, and selecting a curriculum of substance.

PRE-LAW SCHOOL ADVISEMENT

Currently, twenty students are entered in Gildea's pre-law advisor folder but he believes there are other students interested in law who have never contacted him. Books concerning getting into law school, the Pre-Law Handbook, law school catalogues, and the Law School Admission Bulletin and the LSAT Study Guide (the LSAT application form) are available at the pre-law office. Gildea urges anyone interested in law to seek his advisement. His office is at 210 Bakeless and hours are MWF from 1-2, TT from 11-12, by appointment.

There are approximately 375,000 lawyers in the U. S. today. Law school enrollments indicate by 1985 there may be double the number of attorneys than at present. About 30,000 lawyers are graduating every year. These statistics point out the importance of pre-law preparation and advisement in order to obtain the best possible prerequisite to law school.

Card helps students save

by DEBBIE HEIM

The next time you sit down and order a "thin and crispy" pizza your meal will cost 10 percent less than before because of your student discount card. The National Student Discount Cards can be picked up at the Information Desk in Kehr Union Building. What does this card involve? The idea of a discount card originated last summer when Joe Surdoval, president of CGA, received a phone call from a company who organized discount cards for college students. The idea sounded good.

Each business was asked to endorse the card. If they decided to participate they were charged a fee by the company for having their name printed as giving a discount. This eliminated CGA or the student body from paying any fee to the company. The companies' fee was paid through the money collected from participating stores.

Only ten stores from Bloomsburg signed up for the discount card and each had their own reasons as to why they thought it was a good idea. An employee of the Medicine Shoppe said, "We want to help our business and students at the same time. We are a little further away from the main drag of town and we wanted to give students an added incentive for coming to our store.

Martin's Shoe Store is a new business in town and they wanted the college students to get acquainted with them.

The Good Old Days already has a lot of college customers. With the card they hope to get more students into their restaurant for dinner.

The owner of Bardo's Tire Sales thinks that there is a big potential for business with college students, he is also interested in giving the college student a break for once.

Some stores like Bart Pursel's Clothing, and the Salvation Army stress that if students do bring discount cards they must also show their I.D.'S.

The Book Shelf is just aiding their already steady customers, the students.

Renco Home and Sports Center is interested in the potential of the college students buying power. And Phil's Racquet Corner just thought it was a good idea.

The only request is when you go to Pizza Hut present your card before you order not after your bill has been tabulated and you are done with your pizza.

Most of the places on the card agree that the college student does deserve a break. While it may only amount to five or ten cents on a dollar, at least it's something.

SNA to examine

by AL SUKOWASKI

High blood pressure is a big issue in the world of medicine today. Bloomsburg student nurses are planning to do their part to combat this disease by taking blood pressures at the Bloomsburg Fair. Research will be done on the results of the clinic.

Literature has been obtained from the American Heart Association to aid in the clinic.

The researchers will attempt to detect people having high blood pressure (hypertension) who aren't being treated so that they can seek medical aid. The students hope to compile statistics in order to determine the causes for the sickness and the area where it is most prevalent.

Lock Haven drops BSC gridders

The Lock Haven Bald Eagles, under second year coach Bill Connor, defeated Bloomsburg State's football team 21-14, in a less-than-spirited game last Saturday at Lock Haven's Hubert Jack Stadium.

Husky letterman Dan McCallum began the game with a kick-off deep into Bald Eagle territory. The Husky defense and a delay-of-game penalty combined to force Lock Haven back to its own four yard line, where a Bald Eagle fumble gave BSC the ball on the seven. In Bloomsburg's first offensive carry, sophomore Mike Morucci drove into the end zone to begin the scoring battle. McCallum booted the extra point to put the Huskies in the lead for the only time of the game.

Chuck Muller and Kurt Pettis, on defense for Bloomsburg, sacked the Lock Haven quarterback several times. Dan Spittal managed to squeeze off a last-minute pass to Joe Brooks, however, and Brooks bounded across the goal line to score for the Bald Eagles. Lock Haven's Kent Hasschman made the extra point to tie the score at 7-7.

After the kickoff, Bloomsburg failed to move the ball and narrowly missed a first down. Bloomsburg's Stan Kita punted, and Lock Haven had the ball on their own 44 yard line. On first down, Bald Eagle freshman Steve Houser evaded the Husky defense and carried the ball 56 yards to give his team the lead and end the first quarter scoring.

From then on it was all downhill for the visiting Huskies. Bloomsburg quarterback Mike Canzler was creamed by Lock Haven's Jim Dressler, allowing the Bald Eagles to gain control of the ball on the Bloomsburg 27. Excellent defense by Husky Chris Betterly could not stop Lock Haven's Brooks, whose carries culminated in another touchdown by Houser.

The Huskies managed to score again to close the gap to 21-14. This time it was Canzler using his arm instead of using the ground game. Canzler found Tom Brennan on a 47 yard touchdown pass for the final points of the game.

Neither team scored during the second half of the game, but there were a few close calls. A Bald Eagle touchdown was called back due to an illegal procedure penalty, and in a fine defensive play, Husky Rob Keyser blocked a possible Lock Haven touchdown pass.

Bloomsburg often failed to score again as they were plagued by penalties and Lock Haven players breaking through the line to sack the quarterback.

Bloomsburg has been Lock Haven's oldest and most arch-rival over the past 70 years. Since BSC won the first game between the two schools back in 1908, the series has remained close. After Saturday's game, Lock Haven moved into the lead in the series with 28 wins to Bloomsburg's 27.

Bloomsburg's next game is at Mansfield, next Saturday afternoon.

Husky booters remain unbeaten

by ERIC YAMOAH

"I don't believe in exactly eight days we have lost to Bloomsburg State in two games in which we have always excelled," commented a disappointed Shippensburg State college soccer fan after the Husky booters shut out the Red Raiders last Saturday, 4-0.

From the kickoff the Red Raiders offensive line took control of the ball, but BSC goalie Horst Bernhard, who played a magnificent game, and the defensive line of Tim Delp and Mark Fedele held them at bay. Five minutes into the game Delp took a long pass from Fedele, dribbled past two men and passed to Millhouse whose 25 yarder was punched over the line for a corner kick. A perfect kick taken by Rick Monaco found the head of Mike Layfield for the first goal of the game.

Despite the jeers and boos from the Raider fans, the Huskies fought harder. A chestnut pass to Delp on the right side resulted in a high lob to Layfield on the Raiders' 18, but goalie Dave Wilkenson handled the ball beyond the penalty area. A direct free kick taken by Jim Mailey sailed past Wilkenson for the second goal. Another goal by George Steele put BSC in front 3-0, at half-time.

The second half was balanced with the Raiders trying all they could, by pushing, pulling, kicking, and tripping to get a goal, but it was all in vain. With only six minutes to go in the game, Mailey showed off his running ability. A throw in from Lockwood to Mailey on the 50-yard line is all one saw. In a whirlwind fashion, "the Jet" burned the two defenders and hit the back of the net for the fourth and final goal.

BSC tops Scranton, 4-3.

In one of the most exciting soccer games played here last Wednesday, BSC beat the defending Middle Atlantic Conference champion University of Scranton 4-3.

Down 3-1 at halftime, the Huskies, who "never say dead until the bones are rotten", got two quick goals from Steele and Steve Buch. With all the spectators on their feet and cheering, the Huskies got to work again. Delp got a through-pass from Lockwood. He moved the ball cautiously, looking for an opening. He saw one and sent a perfectly timed and well placed pass to Layfield, who scored the goal in the first half. He tossed a high one to Mailey. Mailey chested the ball and dribbled the entire defense, faked the goalie, Glen Brodwater, and fired in a low shot, a shot which could have beaten any goalie for the winning goal.

So in eight days, the young BSC soccer team has demolished last year's ECAC champions and crushed the defending MAC champions. The next home game for the Huskies will be Saturday at 1 p.m. against Wilkes College.
