Off-campus party policy drafted

by MIKE MIKELL

At a recent meeting of administration and interested students, the following policy on off-campus parties was drafted:

"The college categorically opposes any open parties held in off-campus student residences where alcoholic beverages are consumed. An open party is defined as any social function lacking a predetermined guest list, without any plan for controlling guests, and no restrictions on occupancy designed to insure the health and well being of participants and nearby property owners.

"Should a recognized campus organization conduct such a party, the case will be referred to a joint Student - Faculty - Administrative Hearing Committee which will impose appropriate sanctions on the group concerned.

"Similarly, if an individual(s) in an independent off-campus housing unit has held an open party or been subject to arrest for such activities, the student tenant(s) living in that residence will be required to appear before the aforementioned hearing committee to determine if further disciplinary action is warranted.

"Students who reside off-campus bear a dual responsibility as citizens of the Town of Bloomsburg and as members of the college community. The college cannot provide sanctuary from the law nor can it be indifferent to its reputation in the community.

"Students who are responsible for conducting such parties in defiance of college policy will be held fully accountable for any resultant law suits or other litigation. Information regarding the outcome of such disciplinary procedures will be placed in the student's personal file."

Has the college exceeded its authority in this proposed policy is a question asked by many people.

The policy may be attempting to apply the doctrine of in loco parentis, which states that the college may take whatever disciplinary action parents might take.

The doctrine of in loco parentis has been questioned by some people since the case of Buttny vs. Smiley which concluded, "Because of the age and maturity of university students, courts have found the in loco parentis doctrine no longer tenable as applied to them."

Even if the in loco parentis was still applicable the school may still exceed the scope of its presumed authority by acting in bad faith or unreasonably. The administrative authority is delegated by the legislative and any actions clearly outside these delegated powers are termed ultra vires.

The ultra vires doctrine pertains to the fact that legislatures do not ordinarily give school officials the authority which they might give to municipalities to police unlawful acts taking place outside of school. (Board of Directors vs. Green, 147 N.W.

Vandals deface college property

Vandals defaced approximately 10 areas on campus this past week with orange and white spray paint. Greek letters and other writing was found sprayed on the walls of dormitories, the Scranton Commons, sidewalks and trees.

Investigator David Ruckle said security has collected the facts concerning the incident, but cannot release any of the information at this time.

When asked "In your opinion, are Bloomsburg College students responsible for the defacing of the school property?", Ruckle replied "We have our suspicions that the suspects can be both from campus and out of town. We have some real good leads but cannot say until we are sure."

The final cost to remove the spray paint is $132. Ruckle said.

The consequences of spraying paint on college property will be a nontraffic citation. Since damages were under $500 such an act is considered criminal mischief, a summary offense. Under criminal mischief, the person(s) will pay a fine of cost and restitution for damages.

If damages are over $500 then the magistrate is called and a warrant is obtained for the arrest of the person(s) involved.

Ruckle stated he is continuing his investigation and will release any information to the Campus Voice when it is obtained.

United Fund Drive in full swing

The United Fund Drive for 1978 is in full swing, and Dr. Charles H. Carlson, BSC United Fund coordinator, hopes that all members of the college community will participate in the event.

Faculty and staff have received pledge cards for the statewide and Columbia County drives. Donors can earmark their pledges for specific areas or organizations. Many local agencies are funded through the United Fund, including the Bloomsburg Library, Family Planning Service, Family Counseling and Mental Health Clinic, the Red Cross, and the Salvation Army.

Students and other persons who wish to contribute can contact the Columbia County United Fund at 212 West Fifth St., Bloomsburg, 784-7012. General chairman for the local drive is Paul Conard, BSC's Director of Administrative and Personnel Services.

Contributions needed for the Olympian

NOVEMBER 1, keep that date in mind because it's the deadline for all materials to be submitted for publication in the December 1978 edition of the college magazine, The Olympian.

All BSC members are invited to contribute original writing and art work for publication in BSC's college magazine. Feature articles, short stories, poetry, sketches, graphics, and cover designs should be sent to Box 16, Kehr Union. Materials received after Nov. 1 cannot be accepted due to printing deadlines which must be met.

The 1978 Olympian editor is Barb Hagan. Any questions concerning the magazine should be sent to her at either Box 16 or Box 3788 in the Kehr Union. All those interested in the business aspect of the Olympian such as obtaining and designing advertising should come to Monday night's meeting or contact Scott Lux, the Olympian Business Manager.

The first official meeting of The Olympian will be on Monday Oct. 23 at 7:30 p.m. in the Green Room located on the floor of the Kehr Union.

All those interested in participating on the Olympian should attend this meeting. Be sure to come with ideas and enthusiasm for producing a great college magazine.

Math conference presents speakers

The Semi-Annual Conference of Pennsylvania Students in Mathematics (PSIM) will be held on the campus of Bloomsburg State College during the weekend of Oct. 20-21.

PSIM was organized just three years ago, with much of the original planning taking place on the BSC Campus. Ratification of the PSIM constitution occurred in Oct. of 1976, at the university of Pittsburgh at Johnstown campus. PSIM is recognized by several Penna. colleges and universities. Members of PSIM come from 13 campuses across the state.

Speakers at the two-day conference will be:

Dr. Paul Hartung (Bloomsburg) "Number Theory"

Dr. John Mowbray (Shippensburg) "Paradoxes"

Mr. Phillip Connors (Penn Crest School District)

"Advanced Placement Calculus"

Mr. Dave Williams (Math Specialist for Philadelphia School District) "How to Guard Against Burn - Out and Other Job Related Maladies"; also, Williams article in the "Mathematics Teacher" (September)

Welcome address will be given by Dr. Stephen Beck, chairman, BSC math dept., followed by remarks from Donald Schratz (pres.-PSIM) and Dr. Alexander Tobin (pres.-PCTM), Pa. Council of teachers of Math.

The conference will close with a report on the PSIM Executive Board Meeting.

Present Officers are:

Pres., Donald Schratz (Indiana Univ.); Vice Pres., Karen Edwards (BSC); Treas., Jack Faust (Univ. of Pitt); Sec. Jean Marconi (BSC).

Homecoming lures crowds of visitors to the campus for football and celebrations and parades. These crowds — consisting of alumni, parents and visitors — see only the social life at BSC on this weekend.

The parents and alumni don't see the crowds that are in the classrooms during the week. Crowded classrooms lead to many problems including the inability to offer more sections of certain classes because there is no place to hold them, larger sections lead to less chance for class interaction and participation. In this extent, the education process is hindered.

There is a housebill in Harrisburg right now that could alleviate the problems of overcrowding by providing funds for the construction of Human Services Center. House Bill 2632 deals with the Capital Budget, which provides funds for construction and repair projects of all state agencies.

A capital budget has not been passed in Harrisburg in at least the past 5 years. In the past 5 years at BSC the nursing, business and mass communications departments have been growing. Now, there is little space to accommodate these academic departments. If only the legislators could understand the need for the passage of the budget, academic growth at BSC may be given more room to develop full fledged, excellent programs.

Today, the nursing department is run out of a converted garage; the business department is run out of various buildings reaching from one end of campus to another. There is no studio for the equipment needed in a mass communications program, yet we have many students enrolled in the newly approved program.

There are only a few more days left in the state legislatures calendar to act upon the bill. Some say it is already too late to see results before the legislature adjourns for the year. When a new governor is installed, the passage of a capital budget may not be brought up again in the near future.

Students will benefit from the approval of the capital budget. But they have to act...pressure has to be applied to the right people IMMEDIATELY to get HB 2632 acted upon before the legislature adjourns. As alumni and students involved in the quality of education at BSC, everyone should write to the following people to get the bill acted upon.

Letters can be addressed to Max Pievsky, Chairperson, House Appropriations Committee; Amos Hutchinson, Appropriations Sub-Committee on Capital Budget; James Manderino, House Majority Leader; or/and Leroy Irvis, Speaker of the House. The complete address would include: House of Representatives Post Office, Harrisburg, PA 17125

Enjoy Homecoming 1978! Maybe through your prompt action, when you come to a BSC homecoming in a few years there will be a Human Services Center.

Homecoming 1978 — it's BSC's 51st! The theme, "The Animated World of BSC, parade, Homecoming Sweetheart, decorated floats, and residence halls, the football game, alumni returning in masses, and a host of other activities make Homecoming one of the biggest weekends of the year!

I'm sure you're all aware of the festivities planned for this 51st Homecoming weekend, but what was it like back in 1927 when Bloomsburg State Teacher's College (BSTC) held its first Homecoming weekend?

The original idea of a Homecoming Weekend back in 1927 came from the president of the college at the time, Dr. Francis B. Haas. He felt that by having such a weekend, the friends and alumni would return and pay tribute to the college. At the same time it provided a weekend of festivities and fun for BSTC students.

Odds 'N Ends

The first homecoming

Back in the early years there was not an election of Homecoming Sweetheart and there was only a parade if the BSTC football team was victorious. Yes, the parade came after the game rather than preceding it as it does today.

The big event, the football game, was usually played as the last game of the year on the Saturday before Thanksgiving. There is some confusion as to who played BSTC back in 1927.

The records show that the game was played against Wyoming Seminary and that BSTC team was defeated 40-0.

Since the Homecoming game was the last game of the season or the game the weekend before Thanksgiving it appears that BSTC played its first Homecoming game against Dickinson Seminary on November 18, 1927 with BSTC winning 7-6. (I prefer to think that we played Dickinson since we won that game.)

BSTC had a very successful team the first ten years of Homecoming with the team winning nine out of ten of the first Homecoming games played. (Let's go Huskies you can do it!)

Homecoming themes

Hard work behind the fun

by MARY WELLS

"The Animated World of BSC" becomes visible as students buzz busily on this year's homecoming theme. Familiar cartoon characters are materializing into float occupants and residence hall decorations.

Did you ever wonder how a homecoming theme is selected? According to Marianne Montague, Acting Assistant Director of Student Activities and College Union, the process begins shortly after a current homecoming is over.

This year, for example, a committee composed mostly of interested students who volunteer to serve, plus John Trathen, Acting Director of Student Activities, George Kirlin, Dean at Luzerne Hall and Montague will meet to reflect on how it went this year, and to "brainstorm" for the next one.

The committee, bringing ideas from many others, reviews and discusses entire input. They give consideration to ideas that are translatable into floats and decorations and can be used graphically as a theme throughout homecoming week.

Skimming quickly over the past decade or so, we find varied and imaginative themes for this special week, which traditionally culminates in a reception for parents.

Back in 1967 the theme was Mardi Gras. From then, we have come up the homecoming trail with themes like "World Peace Through Cultural Exchange", "Our American Heritage" and "It was a Very Good Year", that very good year being 1971.

A year later it was "Disneyland is Alive and Living at BSC" with Mickey Mouse, Dumbo, Babes in Toyland and Seven Dwarfs among those getting top billing. It was followed by "A Tribute to American Circus" and "Nostalgia — the Fabulous Fifties" to help students and alumni relate yesterday and today.

In 1975 the bi-centennial fever was taking hold everywhere. The theme for that year was, appropriately, "American Contributions to the World", followed by "BSC Salute to Broadway."

Which brings us up to this week, when we are back to characters from the comics — an understandable favorite. It should be a jolly and frolicsome parade of floats with our favorite animal characters there to warm the heart.

As we delight in it all, it might be well to take a moment to think of the imaginative planning and much hand- and- leg- work that goes into producing even one fabulous float.

Audio fireworks after bonfire

"Audio fireworks' will follow the visual fireworks this Friday night when WBSC sponsors the second Nite Club of the year", said Jody Millard, WBSC Station manager.

Millard was referring to the dance-type affair, complete with free refreshments, that the campus radio station is sponsoring Friday at 10:00 in Multipurpose room. According to Millard, this will be a good way to round out the evening's homecoming activities, which include a bonfire, fireworks, and a pep rally. Those activities will be held at the library parking lot, beginning at 7:30.

What exactly is a 'Nite Club'? "Well," explained Millard, "the Multipurpose is set up with tables, candles, low lights, etc. to give the room a nightclub atmosphere. We have a turntable board set up and a number of disc jockeys spin tunes to boogie too. It's basically a dance type affair — we encourage people to 'Come and dance the night away'.

People who don't care to dance aren't excluded from the Nite Club, Millard stressed. "People are welcome to just come and socialize - it's a relaxing atmosphere in which to sit and talk." Everyone's welcome."

Gnothi Seauton - conc.

That Saturday morning Mary Ellen found it impossible to study. Something had happened to her concentration. It was inhibited by a nagging anxiety, the feeling of a debt trying desperately to be forgotten. Yet she wouldn't—couldn't forget what had happened last night. Pete had reached out and touched her soul. The tapestries she had worn on the walls of her psyche had been violated, her intellectual maidenhead forced apart.

No she could not forget, but could only remember the night and having awakened that morning, feeling refreshed, as if some ray of allegorical sunlight had lighted the blackness of the alcove behind the tapestries; beautiful weavings that they were. Intricate patchworks of Philosophers and Composers, Writers and Poets.

It came as a great surprise to Pete when the phone rang as he sat with Sally, Ursula and Daryl Lewis, telling them about his defeat, and Mary Ellen's smooth melodious voice asked for him.

"This is me," he said, amazed. "But last night—I-I thought you never wanted to see me again."

"Peter, I'm sorry for the way I acted, but you have to realize. I, well, I've never been talked to that way."

"Never?"
"Well, only by my father."
"Oh wow, last night I was your analyst and now I'm your old man!"

"No, Peter, you're my date. If the offer's still good for tomorrow night."

"It sure as hell is, Mary Ellen."

Maloney commended TO THE EDITOR:

On Monday Oct. 9, Vice-President of CGA Frank Maloney was reprimanded by various members of Exec. Council (CGA) for his alleged "unethical" and "unprofessional" actions during his anti-shuttlebus crusade! Imagine that, Maloney was reprimanded by Exec. Council for "keeping the students informed"! It seems to me that if Maloney didn't arouse the student body to the ludicrous consequences of the shuttlebus system, Exec. Council would surely have tried to "slide" this $63,000 shuttlebus system through an unsuspecting College Council. Imagine paying $63,000 for a "service" which only caters to students within walking distance of campus! Has Exec. Council some keen insight? Perhaps Geisinger Medical Center plans to open a ward at Sesame Street or Glenn Avenue Apartments for "CRIPPLES"? Why else would Exec. Council feel a need to transport healthy young students three blocks to campus? Executive Council doesn't perceive us as being that lazy do they?

If "captain" Surdoval and his "crew" were so worried about pleasing the alleged "Alliance of Student Voters", why didn't they just ask the student body to write a $63,000 check to them? Or their President Neville Mercer? With such people as Mercer and Surdoval working "for" students, maybe we're better off making our ACTIVITIES FEE payable to their favorite "charity" next semester. Another question, if the so-called Alliance of Student Voters is "theoretically" supposed to be pro-students, why were they so enthusiastic to waste our $63,000?

All in all though, if Surdoval and Exec. Council "would see the light" I'm sure they could become a dynamic group and make the Community Government Association an organization in which all students at BSC could be very proud of.

In closing, if it takes Maloney's so called "unprofessional" tactics to save us from wasting $63,000, I'm all for it! Keep up the good work Frank, we're all behind you.

400 expected at conference

by NANCY FAUSNAUGHT

Advertising, Interviewing, Photojournalism, and what to look for in a Journalism School are just some of the topics to be discussed at the Ninth Annual Journalism Institute to be held Friday, Oct. 27, at BSC.

The Institute attracts high school students from around the Bloomsburg area as well as students from as far away as the Philadelphia area.

Dr. Fuller, director of the Journalism Institute, expects well above 400 high school students and teachers to attend the institute.

Local journalists and college professors will conduct workshops in the Union. The workshops will be held in the morning, along with evaluations of high school newspapers by the Campus Voice staff.

Dick Gregory, well known comedian and political candidate, will speak in Haas Auditorium, 2:00.

Some of the speakers and workshops include:

"Student Press Law Center: What it Can Do For You?" Mr. Michael D. Simpson, co-director, Student Press-Law Center, Washington, D.C., "Journalism Schools: What to Look For?", Dr. John S. Nichols, School of Journalism, Penn State University, and "Feature Writing", Mr. Mark Smith, professor and former reporter.

The endowed Lecture's Series contributes toward the cost and the Journalism Institute pays for the rest.

College students can learn a lot from going to some of the workshops, and everyone is encouraged to attend the Gregory lecture, Fuller said.

Eastern Standard time will be in effect starting Sunday, October 29, 1978. College clocks will be turned back one hour at 2 a.m. on Oct. 29.

Pete hung up the phone and turned around, fairly astonished.

"Did you hear that?" He said to no one in particular.

"Yeah," Ursula spoke up, "we heard it all right. But I'm not so sure we believe it..."

The belief came for them the following evening. The studious, analytical, recluse from feeling, Mary Ellen Schaeffer was actually sitting up in Haas, waiting to see a rock concert.

"Did you like the Mime?" Pete asked her.

"Um hm. Very much," Mary Ellen answered as if her mind was somewhere else.

"Look, you don't have to humor me. If you thought he stunk go ahead and say so."

"He was alright, but after all, we did come for a concert."

"Yeah, Wish they'd hurry up." Pete said uneasily. Maybe he was counting on too much.

Housing needed for choir

Thursday, Nov. 2, will bring to Bloomsburg State College the top choral singers from many of the colleges in the state for the Pennsylvania Collegiate Choral Festival. These performers will have three days of rehearsal with a Festival performance to conclude the weekend.

There is a major problem though - housing these members. A request is going out to anyone living off campus to house one or two of the vocalists. Housing will be needed for Thursday and Friday night. Complimentary tickets will be provided for all hosts. For more information please contact Richard J. Stanislaw, Professor of Music. Any help will be greatly appreciated.

Because of this doctrine restrictions on students social activities are usually deemed ultra vires. (Dritt vs. Snodgrass, 27 Am. R 343.) In a recent case students off-campus drinking habits were beyond the reach of the schools authority. (Bunger vs. Iowa High School, 197 N.W. 2nd 555.)

It has been determined in the past that a school administration cannot regulate off-campus activities not directly related to the college.

He doubted that the music would please her. Her ears were like a gourmet's palate, one taste of any common fare and—
"Ladies and gentlemen, welcome to Haas Auditorium and the first BSCC concert. It's getting late and I know you've got a lot of studying to do, so without any further adoo, here's 'Southside Johnny and the Asbury Jukes!'"

The crowd exploded as the stage lit up, and the group launched into their opening number, "This time It's for Real."

It was for real to Mary Ellen—more real than anything she had ever known. The reality of ideas was one thing, but the genuine impact of the music was another. She felt as if every atom of her being was dancing, sparkling, flaring to the vibrant rhythm. The life Pete had spoken of was there, in the primordial beat, and she basked in it like a tanning lifeguard, under the Ocean City sun.

Pete looked over and saw her smiling.

"Want to dance?" He shouted above the music.

"But I can't. I mean I don't know how," she yelled back.

"I'll show you. It's easy."

And so they danced. The only ones at first, but it caught on like a modern epidemic of Saint Vitus.

And Daryl Lewis sat and wondered. He could only ponder how two supposedly divergent human beings could swirl in the aisles together with such perfect harmony, almost like two souls striving to be one. So Lewis laughed his contemplative little laugh and settled back in his seat.

It just goes to show how little Mary Ellen actually knew about herself, thought Lewis. Odd that some one who's studied Plato would neglect the essence of Platonic thought: Gnothi seauton: know thyself. Lord, not odd at all, I suppose. Since when has consistency been an attribute of mankind?

But before his pessimism could provide an answer, Lewis had lost himself in the music as well. -THE END-

Oral leases are binding

by MIKE MIXELL

For those students renting an apartment and lacking a written lease, all is not lost. Oral rental agreements are perfectly binding in Pennsylvania, as long as the term of the lease is for less than one year. According to the Statute of Frauds, a contract (including leases) which cannot be executed within a year's time must be in writing.

As a practical matter, all rental agreements should be in writing. A written lease protects both the tenant and the landlord. With an oral lease agreement, it can be unclear just what each party has agreed to. This disagreement as to the terms of the lease can be avoided by simply putting the agreement on paper.

As a tenant, the written lease is proof that you and the landlord have entered into a binding contract for the use of the property. Without it, the landlord could possibly deny ever intending to rent you anything.

If you are considering renting an apartment next year, and want to reserve it now, a written agreement is essential because the term of the agreement between you and the landlord will be in excess of one year. Even though your tenancy will not begin until Sept., the span of the agreement which begins now will stretch beyond one year.

If you don't understand the prospective lease, check with a lawyer, the student lawyers, the housing office, or just ask the landlord. Copies of model leases are available in the housing Office and can be of great help to students.

Applications for Resident Advisor positions for Spring semester (beginning in January) are available at the Information Desk in Kehr Union.

During the week of October 8 several criminal incidents occurred on the Bloomsburg State College campus. These acts included shrubbery being torn up from in front of the Commons, a car being tipped over and a break-in of the College Store.

CRIMINAL MISCHIEF — At approximately 2:15 p.m. Sunday, Oct. 8 shrubbery was torn up from in front of the Scranton Commons. The shrubbery and its replacement cost were valued at approximately $60.

On Oct. 12 an arrest was made and the student was charged with criminal mischief. In addition to being charged with the theft of the shrubs, the student was also charged with giving false information when he gave two erroneous names to the police.

CRIMINAL MISCHIEF — A car owned by a BSC student was tipped over in the hospital parking lot on Wednesday Oct. 11. The incident occurred between 10:30 p.m. and midnight. The exact amount of the damage done to the Subaru is unknown but is estimated at $500.

There are no clues at this time as to who was involved in this incident. However, an investigation is still continuing.

THEFT — During the early morning hours of Oct. 12 a break-in occurred in the College Store. The amount taken from the Store is not known but is estimated at $607.57.

The burglars entered the store by going through a window on the east side of the building near the air-conditioning unit. They scrapped off the glazing that was put on the glass and gained access through the same window that was used to enter the building during the July 17 break-in.

The theft was not discovered until the bookstore was opened at 8:15 a.m. Thursday.

At this time there are no clues as to who entered the building. Security officials are still continuing the investigation.

Huskies achieve pinnacle game

by AL SCHUCH, JR.

The Huskies have finally come around. After five weeks of up-and-down football, getting blown out, squeaking by, and less than impressive victories, the Huskies have achieved the perfect football game with the win over West Chester.

Bloomsburg head coach Ron Puhl finally didn't have to say such things like, "we should come around" and "those fumbles hurt us" and "the defense was good but..." Everything has fallen into place.

"The defense was just great," said Puhl, "and Morucci had another outstanding game." Yes, everything is coming up roses for the Saturday stars of Redman Stadium.

Well, enough of the past, let's ponder the future. True, the Huskies are now 4-2, they have won four straight games, they are in the running for the Pennsylvania Conference East Division crown. The question is, can they keep it going, can they remain the consistent machine they have been at Wilkes and West Chester? What better way to test the Huskies' potential than with this week's homecoming guest Millersville?

Millersville is a good team. Coach Puhl knows it, the team knows it, and Millersville knows it. They have openly claimed the division crown already, and the way they are doing now, who is going to tell them no? Undefeated through their first five games including a 27-0 thrashing of West Chester and a 13-7 victory over Kutztown. Nationally, they are ranked fifth in the nation in Division II (another BSC opponent, Ithaca, is in the top three). Quarterback Mike Kopenhaver had to replace Millersville legend Carmen Lex, and so far is doing a commendable job. Running backs Ron Register and Terry Jones are holding their own, with Jones doing the bulk of the running (134 yards against Kutztown). And their defense has allowed a mere 37 points this season, 20 of which was scored by Edinboro (they are on a two-game shutout streak).

A real tough game? It looks like it. A slaughter by the visiting team? Well, the coaches and players are confident and are riding the emotional high from last week. Coach Joe DeMelfi heard that Bloomsburg is two-touchdown underdogs. Don't be discouraged, now. BSC was underdog to Lock Haven and West Chester, both of which were away games. Tomorrow Redman Stadium is the place to be in Bloomsburg, and who knows what can happen. After all, it is a given Saturday.

HUSKY HEADLINES — With another 100-plus game last week, Morucci now has 755 yards on the season, 50 away from his school record of yards rushing in one season, and 245 away from the magic 1000... The Huskies are basically all healthy for tomorrow's homecoming showdown, with the exception of Mark Fenstemaker and Jerry Sullivan, who will not see any action... Millersville coach Gene Carpenter's career record is presently tenth in the nation among all active coaches... According to coach Puhl, Morucci is ranked second in the nation in rushing.

Four BSC faculty members honored

by KATHLEEN KOSTELAC

Despite what students may say about some of the professors at Bloomsburg State College, there are a few who do deserve recognition. Recently announced were the Distinguished Faculty Awards received by four of the members of the BSC faculty.

A Joint Academic Service Award was given to John R. Hranitz and Ann Marie Noakes for Elementary and Early Childhood Education. In the field of Special Education, John M. McLaughlin with Tej Bhan S. Saini, for Economics, received the honor of Commonwealth Teaching Chair. Both are very high awards given each year by the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania and the Association of Pennsylvania State College and University Faculties (AP-SCUF). A state wide banquet will be given on November 28 in Harrisburg to honor all award winning professors. BSC is honored to have these people on their staff.

These professors, along with many others in the state of Pennsylvania went through a full year of judgement. An extensive outline of events takes place before any honors are awarded to anyone.

A preliminary application is submitted after a faculty member has been nominated either through self-nomination or nomination through a colleague or student. If accepted by the APSCUF - Commonwealth Distinguished Faculty Award Committee an Oral Presentation will be scheduled. At this time a face to face confrontation will be held where the nominee discusses their teaching service activities. Candidates who the Committee shall further consider will then fill out a Detailed Application. Through this they will be able to judge their performances. This application will also be viewed by the Distinguished Faculty Awards Commission if the candidate wins an award. Finally, Certification of Results are given and Awards are announced.

When applying at the very beginning, the applicant specifies the pursuit of a Teaching Excellence Award or that of an Academic Service. Each follow the same basic outline of events except that the Academic Services is awarded to those pursuing scholarly and/or research activities.

There is an Exceptional Academic Award which is given to a maximum of 18 candidates with a cash value of $2,500 plus a "Certificate of Exceptional Academic Service Award." Distinguished Academic Service Award is also given, but only to eight candidates and a cash value of $3,500. They also receive a "Certificate of Award" signed by the Commission.

Commonwealth Teaching Fellows are awarded a $2,500 cash value. They are chosen from those who received Certificates of Excellence in Teaching. The maximum is decided by a Collective Bargaining Agreement. Ten Distinguished Teaching Chairs are awarded with a $3,500 cash value from those holding Commonwealth Teaching Fellows.

All of this is put together by the Campus Co-ordinator of each college. This year, Phillip Krause is the man in charge to get things going. We are hoping to hear of more BSC faculty members receiving such great honors.

I KNOW WE GOT HIM, I CAN FEEL THE BALL... This mass of numbered humanity is of course part of the defensive unit of the BSC Huskies. See more pile-ups tomorrow against Millersville. (Photo by Staff)

The first Homecoming parades were held on the Monday following the event as sort of a reward for the victorious team. During the 60's the parade began to open the weekend of festivities and a Homecoming Queen was also introduced as part of the festivities of the weekend.

Naturally there were always many alumni who returned for the weekend and even back then there were plenty of things to do. There was a band concert, alumni luncheon, football game, tea following the game, and the annual dinner and dance which is still part of Homecoming weekend.

No there was not a bonfire where a Millersville Marauder was roasted, nor were there fire works, a night club, dozens of decorated floats, or Harry Chapin to begin the weekend but as you will note there were still many activities to keep the campus jumping.

So remember, as you sit in the football stands cheering on the Huskies, there has been thousands of other people who have participated in the same activity. You'll be making BSC history — the 51st Homecoming celebration!

Bus plans discussed at meeting

by JAMI ROBISON

Shuttle bus plans, Student Convention Day, and the election of a student representative were the main areas of discussion at the CGA meeting Monday evening.

Plans for a shuttle bus system that would have been funded by CGA have been delayed while the possibility of a county transit system is being investigated.

The county system, according to County Commissioner Carol Hiday and Town Secretary Gerald Depo, would provide services for all county residents, including college students, and would be paid for at state, federal, town, and college expense.

Student Convention Day will be held on November 7. There will be various workshops conducted by students and the special guest speaker will be Jerry Rubin, a political activist of the 60's. The activity is sponsored by CGA.

Lee Lawrence was elected to be the student representative to the Bloomsburg Chamber of Commerce.

Among other topics discussed at the meeting were attendance policies for CGA members and goals for the 1978-79 academic year.

Striders beat

by DOUG TAYLOR

Running with reckless abandonment, finally caught up with the cross country team Saturday, at the PSU Open Meet, as the Huskies turned in a disappointing performance.

Twenty-six teams, representing colleges, universities, running clubs, and individuals, participated in the 10,000 meter (6.2 mile) race. The race was won by Penn State's John Ziegler with a time of 30:12. Steve Eachus, BSC's number one man, placed second, finishing only two seconds behind Ziegler. Eachus admitted, "I was disappointed that I didn't win, but I was pleased with my time. The competition was good which made it a fast race."

Mark Bond who earned a 58th place with his 32:35 effort, stated, "We weren't psyched up enough. A lot of the guys weren't used to running in a big race like this one, plus we've run five races in 15 days. Meets are physically and mentally draining."

Randy Griffith, the 138th runner to finish, added, "We didn't do as well as we expected to do. The course was easy, the footing was good, but we defeated ourselves mentally."

Other BSC Harriers who participated in the meet were Tommy Groff, 105th, Steve Johnson, 106th, Chuck Johnson, 111th, Aaron Johnson, 197th, and Don Taylor, 219th.

Within the context of the open meet, the BSC Harriers also had a dual meet with Millersville, which they lost, 22-39. In that meet Eachus took first, but Millersville captured the next three places before Bond could cross the finish with his fifth place finish. Millersville then proceeded to take the next four places before Groff, Steve Johnson, and Chuck Johnson crossed the finish line for Bloomsburg.

RUNNING ON ... Coach Boler, Eachus, Bond, Griffith, Groff, and Steve, Chuck, and Aaron Johnson are looking forward and are preparing for the National qualifying meet this week. The meet will be held Sunday at Van Courtland Park in New York City. Thirty-six teams will participate in the five mile race. From that, a certain number of teams and individuals will qualify for the National cross country meet to be held at Indiana University (PA) on Nov. 11th.

Goalie: a lonely spot

by PAUL MITCHELL and

Excitement. Challenge. Center of activity. Hero of the game. The goalie and her position is the envy of the whole hockey team, right?

Not so, according to Tricia Nixon, goalie of the Bloomsburg State College hockey team. "It's boring. I get to touch the ball three or four times a game." The BSC hockey team is so strong offensively, that this is understandable. The ball just doesn't get to the Bloomsburg defensive end of the field that often.

In addition to seeing little action during the game, the goalie often finds herself on her own during practice. The rest of the team concentrates on running and stickwork at one end of the field, while Nixon and Jody Deterick, the junior varsity goalie, work on goalkeeping techniques at the other end.

"We're left to ourselves — it gets lonely," Nixon said. Practicing skills by themselves makes the goalies feel somewhat separated from the rest of the squad. In addition, there are only two coaches (varsity and junior varsity) for two squads (varsity and junior varsity). As a result, little coaching time is devoted to the development of the goalies' skills. Since the majority of the team plays 'field' positions, the coaches' time is devoted to that majority, according to Nixon.

The actual playing of the position requires very little physical exertion, but a lot of mental concentration. "There's more mental stress," said Nixon.

To add to the appealing description of the position, Nixon talks about the threat of physical injury. "It's scary when the ball comes up in the air and lofts above my waist." (the only protective gear the goalie wears is shin pads and gloves. The ball is a hard, rubber sphere, with much brusing ability. "I was afraid of the ball for a while, but I'm over it now.")

Despite all the unglamorous aspects of being the 'person behind the scenes', Nixon would like to play the varsity goalie position next year, and plans to try out for the spot.

Birds in a gilded cage? No, the field hockey goalies have shown us, that's not quite the case.

FB history made

by AL SCHOCH, JR.

Third-year assistant football coach William Derr is doing more than helping out on the offensive line. Derr is trying to get some organization into the all-time Bloomsburg State football records. In his research, Coach Derr has found the following interesting facts of recent Husky achievements.

Following the win at West Chester, the Huskies had won four straight games for the first time since 1967.

The last time the Huskies won five straight games was 1951.

Saturday's win was the first victory over West Chester since 1959, and first win at West Chester in 32 years.

The win over West Chester was only the fifth by BSC in the series.

A win tomorrow would give the Huskies a three-game home winning streak for the first time since before 1960 (Derr is still looking for that one).

Not only was 1970 the last winning season, but it was the last time BSC beat Millersville, and that was the last time BSC won on homecoming.

With Mike Morucci among the nation's leaders in rushing, Derr had to look for another leading Husky. He found that Stan Kucharski was at one time leading the nation in scoring in 1967 with 64 points in four games.

So, if you attend tomorrow's game (1:30 at Redman Stadium,) you just may be in on another of those few and far between historic Husky moments.

H.P.E. Classes that are to start the second half of the Fall Semester will begin October 23 and 24th."

Sports personality

Purnell asset to netters

by CINDY PECK

The women's tennis team will this year lose a good leader and friend, as well as a good tennis player when captain Sue Purnell graduates.

Coach Herbert commented: "Sue is a very competitive person, and has provided excellent leadership."

Sue does hold those qualities important to a member of any team — competitiveness, friendliness, and leadership.

Sue, a member of the BSC team during her four years of college, has served as team captain during her senior year.

Her ability as a player is impressive, considering the fact that she has only played tennis for about six years, mostly during her college years. Sue played in the fifth position as a freshman and number four as a sophomore; last year she held the third position, and she is presently the number two player.

Last year at PSAC competition, she was the champion in the third flight of singles; in her first two years on the team she competed in doubles at states.

Sue stated about her coaches,

"Both Coach Herbert and Coach Reese have been helpful during my years on the team. I've learned a lot." According to Sue, being on the team is a lot of work. But she has enjoyed it and gotten a lot out of it.

She also mentioned that the women's team appreciates the help the men's team has given them in the past year.

Sue, who graduates in May, will be student teaching next semester, but still hopes to play on the team in the spring season.

Her major is elementary education with a minor in the hearing impaired. After graduation, she plans to attend graduate school to earn her master's degree in hearing impaired. Sue also is planning to continue playing tennis on an individual basis, and in tournaments.

In addition to Sue's accomplishments at the PSAC tournament, last year, the women won the championship as a team, the first team state title brought to BSC in quite awhile.

"We have a good chance for the team championship again this year," commented Sue, "but it will be harder than last year because there will be more teams competing. Everyone will have to play their best."

Sue will be competing in the PSAC Tournament championships at Millersville this Friday, Saturday and Sunday.

Best of luck to Sue Purnell and her teammates this weekend at the PSAC tournament.
