Dr. Himes to lead Rep. Assembly

by NANCY FAUSNAUGHT

Race relation seminars and committee elections were two issues covered at the last session of the Representative Assembly.

Dr. Craig Himes of the Biology Department was elected chairperson of the Assembly.

The Coordinating Committee on College Life (CCCL) recommended that the college conduct training sessions and seminars on race relations.

Duane Long, interim chairperson, said two Third World Cultural Society members will be appointed to the CCCL to get minority students' opinions.

The Human Relations Committee is planning to bring more black role models that represent various disciplines onto campus to correct the imbalance of black and white speakers.

Boyd Buckingham, vice-president for Administration said the Capital Budget Bill has still not been passed. Buckingham believes the reaction they received in Harrisburg was good, "but you can't get blood from a turnip," he said.

The Capital Budget Bill (Housebill 2632) concerns appropriations for the Human Relations building, state building repairs and other projects affecting BSC.

Buckingham plans to return to Harrisburg in January. Buckingham stressed the importance of contacting representatives and senators to tell them about the budgetary problems of state colleges and the need for passage of this bill.

The Coordinating Committee on General Education is investigating the general education policy, said Dr. Mitchell, vice-president for Academic Affairs. A questionnaire has been sent to faculty to determine their attitudes and beliefs on general education.

Mitchell expressed a desire to work with other colleges to get their ideas on general education.

Dr. Rosholt of the Political Science department said the Planning Committee is looking into future plans up to the year 2000. The committee is recommending that the president consider carefully the plans on renovating Haas Auditorium before making a decision, Rosholt said.

The results of the committee elections were as follows:

CGA funds firetruck

by ANDREA HOHOLICK

Bloomsburg may be one step closer to purchasing that much needed aerial ladder fire truck, due to a motion passed by the CGA, to give Town Council more money to finance the new truck.

Town council now has the option to choose one of two proposals pertaining to contributions from CGA.

The first is the possibility of a direct contribution of $20,000.00 from the Husky Contingency Fund. The second option is to have CGA set aside $30,000.00 from the Husky Contingency Fund put into escrow and contribute the interest at the end of every fiscal year. In addition to the interest, an amount of $1,000.00 will be set aside in the yearly operating budget to help with the contribution, until the truck is paid for.

It's important to note that a new truck with the 100 foot platform ladder, now costs $250,000.00. If Town Council puts a bid in for a new truck around January or February, and it's accepted in March, it will take a year to fifteen months to get the new truck.

Also if the town has to borrow money to finance the new truck (continued on page five)

Economic outlook discussed at seminar

by BETH BERNARD

Economic policies were discussed at the recent annual Economic Seminar for College Economics Professors sponsored jointly by the Federal Reserve Bank of Philadelphia and the School of Business at BSC held at the Magee Hotel on Nov. 20.

Speakers gave their views on the economic outlook for 1979 and current issues in monetary policy as they relate to that outlook.

The Federal Reserve Bank of Philadelphia regularly conducts a series of economic seminars for the benefit of college professors in PA. and adjoining states each year to assist them in keeping current with the latest developments in the world of business, economics, finance and monetary policy changes.

Dr. Ira Kaminow, Vice President of the Federal Reserve Bank of Philadelphia said, "Major new policy initiatives of the past few weeks are a measure of official commitment to end inflation."

He emphasized, however, that these new policies should be seen as first steps only. "Policymakers have got to follow through with some of the old-time medicine in the months ahead," Kaminow said. Without the right follow through, inflation will head up and the dollar will begin to slide again."

Kaminow suggested that the more conventional remedies include "a dose but not an overdose" of monetary slowing. He noted that "the Fed. is wrestling with the problem of how much anti-inflation restraint can be applied without throwing the economy into a tailspin."

Howard Keen, economist at the Federal Reserve Bank of Philadelphia said that the U. S. economy in 1979 will exhibit slower growth in real output, some upward pressure on unemployment and the same rate of inflation as in 1978.

While both government and foreign sectors will be stronger next year, Keen said, the boost to total spending coming from these sources will not be enough to offset the weakness in both consumer and business spending.

The key question in everyone's mind, he says, is whether or not 1979 will be a year of economic recession. The basic pattern that appears to be emerging is one of stronger growth in the early part of 1979 followed by weaker growth as the year unfolds.

According to the Fed. Economist, consumer spending will increase at a slower clip next year as the growth in disposable income lags behind the 1978 pace, and as higher interest rates encourage consumers to save more.

Investment spending by business will be weakened in 1979 by higher financing costs and indications that consumer spending on durable goods might slow up.

The overall growth in total output, Keen said, may not provide quite enough new jobs for the additional workers coming into the labor force. As a result, the unemployment rate is projected to rise a few tenths of a point by year-end.

On the inflation front, the outlook is for prices to increase at about the same rate as in 1978. Productivity gains will be anemic next year, he said, while wages are likely to grow nearly 8 percent.

Keen said that if the Administration's anti-inflation program gains credibility early on, chances are good that, while business activity will be slower in 1979, a recession can nevertheless be avoided.

Attending the dinner meeting were teachers of economics from the following area colleges and universities: Bucknell University, Lycoming College, Wilkes College, University of Scranton, the Williamsport Area Community College, Lackawanna Junior College, Susquehanna University, Luzerne County Community College, Mansfield State College, Keystone Junior College, Lock Haven State College, King's College, Marywood College, and BSC.

Other panel members included Jack Callaghan, Public Relations Officer for the Fed. Reserve Bank and Dr. Emory W. Rarig, Jr., Dean, School of Business at BSC, who was in charge of the meeting.

AUDIENCE PARTICIPATION IS a large part of the appeal of the Harlem Globetrotter's appeal. Geese Ausbie and the rest of the team will be in Nelson Fieldhouse on December 12, tickets now on sale at the KUB information desk.

Globetrotters: an institution

The Harlem Globetrotters, who will be coming to Nelson Fieldhouse on Dec. 12, 1978 at 7:30 p.m., have a following which spans three generations of Americans.

The Harlem Globetrotters are an American institution. Yet, at a time when it is in vogue to knock tradition, the Harlem Globetrotters continue to grow in popularity and appeal. It is as if they possess a secret formula which enables them to transcend the generation gap, the energy crisis, or time itself.

This is not to say that things have not changed since those early days in the late 1920's. The Trotters have grown with the times. But the smiles and laughter are the same today as they were fifty years ago. This is the Trotters undying formula. For what is more timeless than the laughter of a child?

Known as "The World's Greatest Family Entertainment", the Harlem Globetrotters have maintained the "G" rating in what is fast becoming an "R" world. There are no gimmicks. Just a (continued on page five)

CPA's lift ad ban

CPA's promote services Certified public accountants recently voted to end a 50-year-old ban on advertising their professional services.

A new rule adopted by the American Institute of Certified Public Accountants allows public accounting firms to promote their services, as long as the message is not "false, misleading or deceptive."

About 72 percent of the 130,000 member association voted to eliminate the ban.

Just imagine it's 8:00 a.m., most BSC members are either just getting up, at work, or sitting in a classroom. But this is not true for the many people infected with the "racquetball craze." No it's not a medical disease nor will you find it listed in Webster's Dictionary but at BSC racquetball appears to be one of the most popular forms of recreation for everyone.

Every morning at 8:00 a.m. these dedicated lovers of the sport charge to their telephones and dial the magical number in Nelson Fieldhouse which (if they are lucky) will hold for them the opportunity to reserve a racquetball court for the following day. If you are able to reserve a court it's considered by most people as either just plain luck or a miracle. Some mornings by 8:10 a.m. the courts are booked solid through the next day.

The problem at BSC is that there are more racquetball nuts than there are courts. For those of you who haven't been infected by the disease, racquetball is an indoor "modification" of tennis which to play uses a smaller racquet and a ball. It, unlike tennis, can usually be mastered by even the most uncoordinated people. That doesn't mean that if you become a proficient racquetball player you're next in line for Jimmy Connors or Billy Jean King.

Racquetball is usually played within a four wall court (sometimes three) and the player or players begin by hitting the ball off the wall, it bounces back and then must be returned again. The game can be played by one or two players and provides an excellent work out.

Many would-be players become frustrated and don't play because courts are not available. But there are racquetball courts available other than the two four-wall courts. Dr. Jerry Medlock, Chairperson of BSC's Health, Physical Education and Athletics Department, said that there are seven portable, three wall courts available for those people desiring to play racquetball.

Reservations are not taken for these courts but they are available anytime there is not a varsity sport or classroom being held in the Nelson Fieldhouse Gym. Schedules are available upon request and are posted throughout the Fieldhouse.

Usually Friday afternoons and during various other hours during the week, these courts are available. All it takes is checking the schedule and then asking someone like Dr. Medlock or another Coach to show you how to set-up the portable court.

Dr. Medlock said that most people are not interested in three-wall racquetball because

Coffeehouse presents Kolstad

Papa John Kolstad will be featured at Sunday night's coffeehouse. Kolstad has just released his third album "Beans Taste Fine" and it has received critical acclaim.

Kolstad has been quoted as saying, "I'm more of an entertainer than a musician, I know all about music, how it's put together and played — I'm a pretty good guitarist and singer, in my opinion — I play music only to make people feel up. But in my act, music is just one of the ways I entertain people. I'm also a storyteller, an educator and a humorist. In the East, I'm known as much for my storytelling as I am for my music."

Kolstad sums up his music, "It's a melting pot of traditional blues and folk, some sophisticated swing things, a little pop, a lot of comic material and whatever off-the-wall material that happens to come into my head."

Kolstad grew up in Turtle Lake, Wisconsin, his family moved there from St. Paul, Minnesota to "get away from street crime." Kolstad comes from a family of six boys and two girls. Kolstad described his mother as being amateur piano player.

Accompanying himself on 12-string guitar which he declares is superior because it takes twice as much the ability, talent, skill, intelligence, etc... to play than an inferior 6-string instrument, Kolstad plays blues, rags, folk, and country music with a down-home flavor.

So remember, Sunday night, 9 p.m. in the President's Lounge of the Kehr Union for an enjoyable evening of music. As always, refreshments will be served.

Hopkins promotes fraternities

TO THE EDITOR

One of the problems that we who belong to Fraternities and Sororities have is how to defend them when they are under attack from outside sources. People who are attacking the system often ask what purpose it serves. These attackers can make us mad, but at the same time they can provide us with a challenge to get right to the heart of what we are doing in the Greek system and to ask ourselves what the real purpose of our Greek life is.

For three years I have listened to the pros and cons from both within and outside the system and have heard endless interpretations of the Greek way of life. Despite times that seem dismal when some individuals criticize Greeks as being hypocritical because they don't realize their ideals, the truth is that the system has been a positive force in all the lives it has touched.

As Greeks, we have been fulfilling a void in education and we must continue to do so. In a very real sense, the Greek system creates a family relationship among its members. It aims to bring together in close association a group of individuals who will be congenial, loyal and helpful to one another during the best years of their lives because it contributes to the full development of a person and provides opportunities for growth, leadership and service. Thus Greeks offer to members the nearest possible equivalent to home and these close ties often result in friendship for life.

The Nov. 22, 1978 issue of the Campus Voice was very informative. The history of some of the older buildings on campus is very interesting. Master Plan will assist colleges

by JANETRUSNAK

Opening doors to all qualified students, maintaining quality education at Pennsylvania's postsecondary schools and financing higher education programs are the goals of the Master Plan for Postsecondary Education.

The plan is the third plan formulated since 1967. It was developed in order to try and figure out what is needed to meet educational requirements and enrollment trends in all postsecondary institutions in Pennsylvania. The plan is based on the assumption that there will be a 30 to 40 percent reduction in the school age population by 1990.

"The plan is crucially important because it will set the tone for higher education through 1980," stated Dr. Lee C. Hopple, Director of Institutional Planning and Research at BSC.

Hopple further explained, "one important issue that applies to state colleges is the recommendation for a chancellor system or the Commonwealth University system."

This plan recommends that the legislation pass this bill which would make all of the 13 state owned colleges and Indiana University governed by a chancellor."

If this system is approved, the legislation will maintain appropriations at a level of 50 percent of all educational cost and adjust it annually to insure that the increase in operating costs does not exceed the general rate of inflation.

The Master Plan stands behind the issue of open access to the state's higher educational institution. Anyone who has shown that he or she is academically qualified has the right to enter a postsecondary institution. It also includes a plan to reduce all barriers - whether financial, geographic or physical - that can hinder a person from entering an institution.

This means that there would be an adaptation of a more standard means for measuring a family's ability to meet college costs. There are also plans to increase the PHEAA program to include aid for part-time students.

Continued support of the state's traditionally black institution and suggesting a way

because they do not have the money now, the total cost, with interest, could amount to $500,000.00.

According to Jerry Depo, of Town Council, it's important for the town to see the college involved, it will help make the town respond.

CGA also allocated money to WBSC for the purchase of new equipment.

There is a vacancy for a commuter representative in CGA. Interested applicants should attend the next CGA meeting.

to enhance educational opportunities for women and racial minorities is also found in the plan.

The maintenance of quality education is another primary focus of the Master Plan.

Hopple stated, "There is a need for new programs and developing new modes of instruction for a changing society. Part of the program is for the state college system to develop ways of insuring that educational deficiencies are corrected by the time a student graduates."

Another factor would be the on going planning at each college which would monitor all of the programs to see that there are safeguards against unnecessary duplication.

A standard of college credit transfer will be established for all institutions which would be effective whether a student is changing from a community to a state college from one state college to another.

The plan is also concerned with making all programs available to all students. This is related to the plan's emphasis on increasing it's support of adult part time and graduate education.

The Master Plan wants each institution to develop standards for the use of funds. It also calls for an increase in the annual grants to students based on the cost of living, tuition increases and other costs.

According to the plan, past increases in state funds have not kept up with operating costs at the schools which resulted in higher tuition, program cuts, costly maintenance and renovation delays.

STUDENTS PUSH FOR HIGHER EDUCATION LEGISLATION

Students from the Pennsylvania State Colleges and University System, (PSCU) took their concerns to their legislators November 14, lobbying extensively for the passage of a deficiency appropriations bill and capital appropriations legislation.

Twelve of the 14 state colleges had student representation at the "Education Lobby Day" effort sponsored by the PSCU Legislative Coalition. The coalition is made up of representatives from the Commonwealth Association of Students (CAS), the Association of Pennsylvania State College and University Faculties (APSCUF), PCU college presidents, boards of trustees, alumni and the American Association Society of State, County, and Municipal Employees (AFSCME).

Students were given a first hand chance to meet and discuss their campus concerns and problems with their direct legislators. The (continued on page seven)

Colonial days relived by Madrigals

by LINDA WRIGHT
The early American Colonial period in Philadelphia will be the theme for the annual Madrigal banquet beginning today and extending to Saturday, Dec. 2.

The Madrigal Singers, directed by Dr. Richard Stanislaw, will offer banquets featuring singing, eating and entertainment. The theme of the banquet is drawn from Early American-Colonial Philadelphia. It will be held at the Scranton Commons and is open to the public.

Historical characters like Ben Franklin will meet the guests in the lobby of the Commons with punch and musical entertainment. Then the guests will be escorted into the dining rooms, which will be transformed from the usual day-today appearance to a room decorated as in the Early American period. There will be wooden tables, linen napkins and tablecloths. Guests will be served by waiters and waitresses.

During the full course meal, the guests will be entertained by musicians, dancers and speakers. 'Benjamin Rush' will recite an essay. Historical characters will circulate the room, singing solos, duets and entertaining everyone.

The menu will consist entirely of old recipes from the Early American period. The recipes were taken from old recipe books. Joe Winters, the head of Saga Food, will supervise the food preparation.

Much work went into the production of the banquet. Mr. and Mrs. John Walker will do all the decorations. The Walkers own an antique shop, and many of their antiques will be used in the decorations. Walker is assistant to President James McCormick.

Mr. George Turner of the History Department wrote the essays that Benjamin Rush and other historical characters will be reading. The casting and costuming were arranged by Mr. M. J. McHale and Ms. Rebecca Ermisch. Mr. Nelson Miller of the Music Department is arranging a flute trio. The dancers of the program will be helped by Ms. Margie Schaeffer of the Physical Education Department.

"The thing really has integrity from start to finish," said Stanislaw. "It involves a lot of interdisciplinary work between the departments.

Stanislaw added that the banquet is always highly successful. This is the fifth year the Madrigals have had a program such as this. Last year the theme was the Elizabethan Age, and the banquets sold out. This year, the banquets sold out in three weeks.

Although the cost of the banquet is $8.50 for students and $10.00 for the general public, the Madrigals actually lose money because of the cost of costuming and decorations.

There are 16 students in the Madrigals group, nine women and seven men. Throughout the year they have concerts both on and off campus. Concerts include singing in dorms and the Union, a big home concert in March and for Christmas, a charity. They also make trips to different parts of Pennsylvania to perform.

Anyone interested in joining the Madrigals singers should call Stanislaw in his office for an audition.

SINGERS FROM BOTH men's and women's choral groups combine to form the Madrigal singers who will soon be donning outfits from America's colonial period as this is the theme for their annual banquet.

Beta Sig leads intramurals

by DAVE HUGHES

Leading the intramural competition for the scoring crown this year is Beta Sigma. They are currently way out in front of their nearest competitor, the Scorpions, with 480 team points for the fall competition. The Scorpions are second with 345 team points. Dirt Road is presently in third place with 290 points.

A total of 35 teams competed in 80 games in the Men's Intramural softball tournament. The teams were divided into six leagues with the winners of them playing each other for the overall championship.

BETA SIGMA WINS SOFTBALL

Beta Sigma won the tournament and was awarded 100 points for their efforts. They were followed by Dirt Road in second place, while the Scorpions and HAA settled for a third place tie.

Rich Durbano won all three races and led TKE-Silver to the intramural cross country championship.

Durbano set a new course record in the final race with a time of 11:49.6 in the 2.27 mile race.

TKE-Silver was followed by the Axtecs and SIO-Red in the team standings.

Mike Myers shot a 75 and teammate Ron Konker shot a 77 to lead Delta Pi to the intramural golf championship.

The two men placed first and third respectively and combined for a total score of 70 in the better ball tournament. George Hamen of the Frosty Devils shot a 76 on the Cherokee Golf course to place second.

Delta Pi was followed by Carbon Copy (71) and Beta Sigma (72) in the team results.

RACKET SPORTS, HORSESHOES, AND PING PONG

Steve Blacksmith and Chuck Trindi teamed up to take the tennis doubles tournament and give the Scorpions their only title for the fall sports.

They were followed by Jeff Sanders and John Petrillo of Elwell's Boosters and the Dave Shard, E. J. Moore team that represented Lambda Chi Alpha (LCA).

Markley of Delta Pi won the P. J. Farrell league and went on to capture the over all title in the men's racketball tournament.

Markley's win gave Delta Pi its second title for the fall sports program.

Phi Sigma XI walked away with the intramural horseshoes championship and the 75 team points that go with it. Beta Sigma was awarded 60 points for their second place finish.

Bob Quick of LCA won the individual crown as 64 men participated in the single elimination tournament.

Dave Williams of Newman's Crusaders and Follet of the Valley Boys went head to head to determine the champion of the ping-pong tournament. Williams beat the Valley Boys representative to take the overall crown.

Archery was a three round tournament. The points of the rounds were totaled and a team and individual champions were crowned.

BETA SIGMA GAINS POINTS
Beta Sigma again walked away with the team honors scoring 1,192 total points for the tournament.

DiGiandumenico, who participated in the competition, not affiliated with any team, won the last two rounds to edge out Mike Wynosky of Dirt Road for the individual crown.

Coach Bill Sproule said he was pleased with the fall program. He said that there was a 10 percent increase in competition and he expects more in the future.

He said, "The program went well and we had a good and keen competition. There was a great interest this year."

Sproule went on to say, "The intramural office is always looking for good officials. And the officials do get paid."

Voting figures corrected

A mis-stated figure was reported in the Nov. 15 issue of the Campus Voice.

The article, reporting student apathy towards the Nov. 7 election, stated that 2,777 students were registered to vote, out of which 540 voted, approximately 20 percent.

According to Dr. David E. Greenwald, the correction stands that there were 1,270 students registered out of which 550 voted, approximately 43 percent.

STUDENT-FACULTY EVALUATIONS

On December 5th and 6th, students will have an opportunity to evaluate their professors. Off-campus and commuting students can do so in Kehr Union between 9:00 and 3:00; on-campus students in the C-D Lobby of the Commons from 10:15-1:30 and 4:00 - 6:45.

Student checks to be distributed

by VINCE TRIVELPIECE
Financial Aid Checks will be disbursed starting today, and concluding Tuesday, December 5, the Business Office announced recently. The checks can be picked up in the Business office, which is located in the Waller Administration Building.

This marks the end of two months of long, grueling work, according to Thelma Minnier, head of Basic Educational Opportunity Grant Program and also head of Pennsylvania Higher Education Assistance Programs in the Financial Aid Office. "We started preparing for disbursement near the end of September and have encountered several problems along the way, but we've managed to get done a little earlier than last year," Minnier said.

One of the problems Minnier was referring to is student's failure to bring their Student Eligibility Reports (SER) received from BEOG in Iowa to the Financial Aid Office to be processed. "Even if a student is eligible for BEOG, if he or she doesn't bring the SER to the office, payment will not be made," Minnier said.

This appears to be a major problem on the campus as there are currently 65 students that have been determined eligible for financial aid (BEOG), but have failed to hand their SER's to the Financial Aid Office.

Transfer students present yet another problem. "Many fail to present the financial aid office with aid transcripts from their previous school," explained Ann Vargo, student head of BEOG. "Without the transcripts, students cannot be paid," she said.

Housing status of students is all important when determining the amount of aid a student will receive, so when the fall student directory failed to list the housing status of the students, it created yet another snag in the already choppy flow of disbursement preparation. "The lack of housing status threw us back two weeks," said Minnier.

It should be noted, however that these are not the only criteria for financial aid eligibility. Signed affidavits must be on file for all federal aid programs, which include BEOG, National Direct Student Loans (NDSL) and Supplemental Educational Opportunity Grants (SEOG). Six credits of a degree program are needed for BEOG eligibility, where 12 credits are mandatory for PHEAA.

Kathy Golembeski is the head of NDSL and SEOG. This is her first attempt at disbursement preparation and it has been a successful one. "I didn't encounter any major problems," she said. "Everything is ready to go."

Minnier commented on the time consuming process by complimenting her students. "I have an excellent student staff and much of the credit for early disbursement can be attributed to them." These students include veteran Ann Vargo, Dan Davis and rookie Sharon Greiss.

Students are reminded that they will be required to present their College I.D. Cards at the Business Office when signing for their checks. The Disbursement Schedule is as follows:

Wednesday 11-19-78 - A - E
Thursday 11-30-78 - F - L
Friday 12-1-78 - M - R
Monday 12-4-78 - S - Z

PSCU Coalition's massive lobby effort was launched at a legislative breakfast at a Holiday Inn Town in Harrisburg where the lobbyists were given information explaining the need for pro-education legislation.

"The only way the legislature will know about the problems of our students is having the students confront them face to face with proof of the problems," added CAS Public Relations Director Marcy Carey.

"It is the hope and goal of the Association to get students mobilized enough to funnel their energies into a constructive, massive lobbying effort in January," she said.

FEDERAL FUNDS BOOST STUDENT LOANS

Nearly $6 million in federal funds have been paid to the state to enable expansion of the student loan program through creation of additional guarantees for the coming year.

The funds were received by the Pennsylvania Higher Education Assistance Agency (PHEAA) which serves as the guarantor for the student loan program in the state.

Under a new federal law, states that operate under federal rules are able to receive more federal money to enhance student loan guarantees. Student loans are a big source of funds for those who attend college and other postsecondary schools and need to augment their source of aid when grants are inadequate.

Much of the input for the new federal laws on student loans originated with the Pennsylvania loan agency. Prior to the law's passage, state funds had to be appropriated each year to create reserve money to guarantee student loans.

Pennsylvania's student loan program has been in operation since 1964 and has guaranteed 931,278 loans worth $1.2 billion up to October 31 of this year. In the 1977-78 academic year, PHEAA provided 101, 150 guarantees worth $185,228,407.

This was the biggest year in the program. However, Reher predicted an even larger volume this year since the new federal law (Middle Income Student Assistance Act) removes the income ceiling on student loans for federal interest benefits. Every student can now obtain a student loan free of interest while enrolled regardless of the student's family income.

Reher said the volume of loans guaranteed continues to show a sharp rise. The increase in federal funds to PHEAA will let the Agency maintain its reserve and help students to borrow from the state's participating lenders. Private lenders provide the funds which are a source for the student to get money now by willingly encumbering future earnings to repay when he or she is out of school.

Other changes in the federal law were helpful in the administration of state programs and many were the result of input provided by PHEAA staff. These included 100 percent repayment to state agencies in the cases of death or disability of a student borrower and the exclusion of student loan funds from bankruptcy action.

Another change was the institution of a "floating" default ratio whereby the lower a state's default rate the higher the percentage of federal guaranty returned to a state. Due to diligent prevention, pursuit and collection efforts, PHEAA has kept the rate of default on student loans to under 3 percent, thus insuring 100 percent reinsurance from the federal government for all state agency's losses.

Israeli, Palestinian views to be presented by JEAN KRAUS

Dr. Izhak Ben Meir, member of Israel's Ministry for Foreign Affairs and Dr. Hatem I. Hussiani, Director of the Palestine Information Office in Washington, D.C. will be featured at two free programs sponsored by the Bloomsburg State College History Department next week. The topic of discussion is the Arab-Israeli conflict.

Dr. Ben Meir will discuss the Israeli viewpoint on Dec. 4 at 7:30 p.m. in the Kehr Union. (Multipurpose Rm. A)

Ben-Meir immigrated to Palestine from Baghdad in 1941. He joined the Kibbutz Kfar Menahen and was later employed by the Political Division of the Jewish Agency. In 1950, he earned a doctorate in public international law from the Paris University. He became a member of his country's Ministry for Foreign Affairs in 1952 and is still presently a member.

Dr. Hussiani will discuss the Palestinian perspective on Dec. 5 at 7:30 p.m. in the Kehr Union. (Multipurpose Rm. A)

So, racquetball nuts, there are seven more courts available for your pleasure. The only suggestion I have is that you check the schedules and make sure a court is available when you want to play. If you're not interested in three-wall racquetball then good luck with your telephoning.

In case you're wondering just how popular racquetball really is, next semester all sections of the new course are full and it meets at 8:00 a.m. - that's real dedication.

Sports Profile: Terry McHale

by CINDY PECK

A varsity player for seven seasons, senior Terry McHale is now beginning her eighth season on a BSC athletic team. Terry has been an asset to the women's hockey and basketball teams since her freshman year at BSC, having made the varsity hockey team after one season as a junior varsity player, and the varsity basketball team in her first semester as a freshman.

Since the hockey season runs from August until November, and basketball runs from the middle of October until the end of February or the beginning of March, Terry is involved in sports during most of her school year. She doesn't even get a break between hockey and basketball seasons, since the two overlap.

"I would be bored if I didn't play sports. In the spring, it seems weird not playing on a team," Terry said. "And I always find the time to keep up with my work, because I know I have to do it."

Terry plays an attack position on the hockey team, which finished the past season with a 10-3-1 regular season record. The team also placed third in the Susquehanna Field Hockey Association Tournament, where Terry and five other BSC players were picked for the Mideast team from that tournament.

"We had a good season," Terry commented, "and a good time."

The basketball team, of which Terry is one of the tri-captains, has its first game on Dec. 6. The women also will compete in a pre-season tournament in Salisbury, Maryland, on Dec. 8 and 9.

"The team looks good," Terry said, "but we haven't faced any competition yet. We should have a good year."

Last year's basketball team finished at 9-6. The team has not had a losing season since Terry has been a member. She will be playing at guard and forward positions this season.

Terry, who majors in Elementary Education, with a minor in physical education, will be student teaching in the area in January, so it will not affect her basketball participation.

After graduation, she wants to stay in sports, hopefully by coaching a high school team.

Eachus runs final race

Monday, Nov. 20, and Madison, Wisconsin are important in Bloomsburg's athletic history. They are the date and site of Steve Eachus' last performance as a Bloomsburg State College Athlete.

When Eachus crossed the finish line in Madison, he ended a brilliant four year running career as a representative of BSC. He considers all his achievements to be achievements for the college. His explanation: "Without the support of the student body, faculty, and all those associated with the college, I would not have been able to have been as successful as I have. I'd like to thank everyone for everything they've done for me."

In Madison, Eachus placed 32nd in NCAA Division I Nationals. The runners who competed on the 10,000 meter (6.2 mile) course represented schools from Divisions I, II, and III.

In comparison with the other Division II runners, Eachus garnered second place. The day of the race was cold (14 degrees) and according to Eachus, the course was tough. Neither seemed to adversely affect his performance though, as he once again performed well enough to gain recognition for both himself and Bloomsburg State College.

NOTE: Steve, you'll be missed. You've been a fine representative of BSC, both as an athlete, and a gentleman. Congratulations!

Bowlers in national contest

by LORRIE FRY

Five Bloomsburg State College men bowled their way to a 195 team average, capturing eleventh place in the Intercollegiate National Team Match Play held Nov. 25 and 26 in St. Louis.

Out of 500 invitations sent to colleges throughout the U.S., BSC was one of the 24 chosen for the competition.

The five-man BSC team consisted of junior Scott Kaysen, senior Mark Wolfe, sophomore Steve Sneiderman, senior John Servose, and sophomore Bill Snyder.

Outstanding performances were turned in by Kaysen; Wolfe; and Servose, who bowled a 208; 207; 206 average respectively.

Wolfe also had a high series of 671; while Kaysen had a high game of 269.

The team felt good finishing in the top half of the 24 teams. Added Snyder, "It will help in our national ranking."

The 24 teams were chosen from the top colleges invited. This is based on their record and their competition.

The BSC Men's record stands at 4-1 after the two big wins last week.

On Nov. 18, the men handed Drexel a 15-10 defeat; the following day they defeated Temple University 17-8.

The men are not the only bowlers at BSC. Their female counterparts, defeated Drexel 25-0; but lost to Temple 22-3.

The women's 25-0 victory over Drexel was their first for the season; a somewhat powerful one, giving them a 1-3 record.

Snyder feels that the main factor hurting the women's team is the lack of female participation. Stated Snyder, "This year the girls are losing matches they are capable of winning."

Lisa Houser, sophomore women's team member, noted, "We need support; as well as more bowlers." Most of the bowling club members agreed with her.

"Even though we are only an intercollegiate club, we are one of the winningest teams at Bloomsburg," said sophomore team member Bradley Smith, referring to the mens team, "and every team needs support."

The club's history is a winning one. Their first year, 1976, they finished second in the league and last year they finished third. This year they again expect to have a winning season and have their goal set on first place.

"We have a positive attitude", stated Smith, "and look forward to competing in states and nationals."

The team's next match is on Sunday, Dec. 3, when they travel to the University of Maryland.
