

Council rescinds parking ordinance

By ANNE DeMATT

By a three to two decision, the Town Council rescinded the parking permit ordinance in Bloomsburg at Monday night's meeting.

The council also decided to appropriate funds to hire an engineering firm to survey the area along Fishing Creek. The results of the survey will be used to come up with an effective plan for flood prevention in that area.

Ordinance 642 prohibits parking in the defined areas unless there is a decal on the bumper of the car. Outsiders are not allowed to park their vehicles on these streets between the hours of 7 a.m. and 7 p.m., Monday through Friday, excepting holidays and commercial vehicles loading or unloading. The ordinance would affect East Second Street, East Third Street and East Fourth Street.

Mayor Remley stated that he was in favor of the ordinance until the last meeting. He feels that cutting off the streets is discrimination. Even if the ordinance was passed, residents would not be guaranteed a parking space in front of their homes. Now that the ordinance has been rescinded the parking problem must be tackled from another angle.

Another problem that needs to be tackled is the problem of flooding in the Bloomsburg area. Dan Hitchins, a representative of the Corps of Engineers, who has been working as a technical assistant with the budget, presented three possible solutions to the problem. One way would be to control the water by constructing a flood wall or a levee. The second solution would be to control the amount of damage by flood-proofing homes and industries in the areas hardest hit by the floods. A flood warning program was the third solution. The council decided that the construction of levees along Fishing Creek would be the best solution.

Council announced that there will be a demonstration of an aerial ladder truck on Monday, March 26, at 4 p.m. at Columbia Hall, Housenick Ford and the Bloomsburg Hospital. The truck is similar to the one that the town is hoping to buy.

Council stated that it would investigate a complaint of deep sinkholes in the road near the Sesame Street apartments. A resident whose car had been damaged due to one of the holes wanted to know what could be done. Council stated that it would monitor the situation but the landlord was responsible for repairs.

Student trustee sought

by DEB ROSS

A new student trustee is being sought by the Board of Trustees to replace Jeff Hunsicker who will be graduating in May.

According to Hunsicker, a student interested in the position should maintain close contact with the student government bodies. That way the person will know what issues are the most important to the students.

"Initiative is also an important quality," said Hunsicker, "research must be done on the issues coming before the board. After the initial research, the student must evaluate it and make a decision."

"The student trustee must definitely have closer ties with the students than the administration," said Hunsicker.

TRUSTEE'S DUTIES

The Board of Trustees oversees the operations of the college. They have the authority over expenditures and the budget.

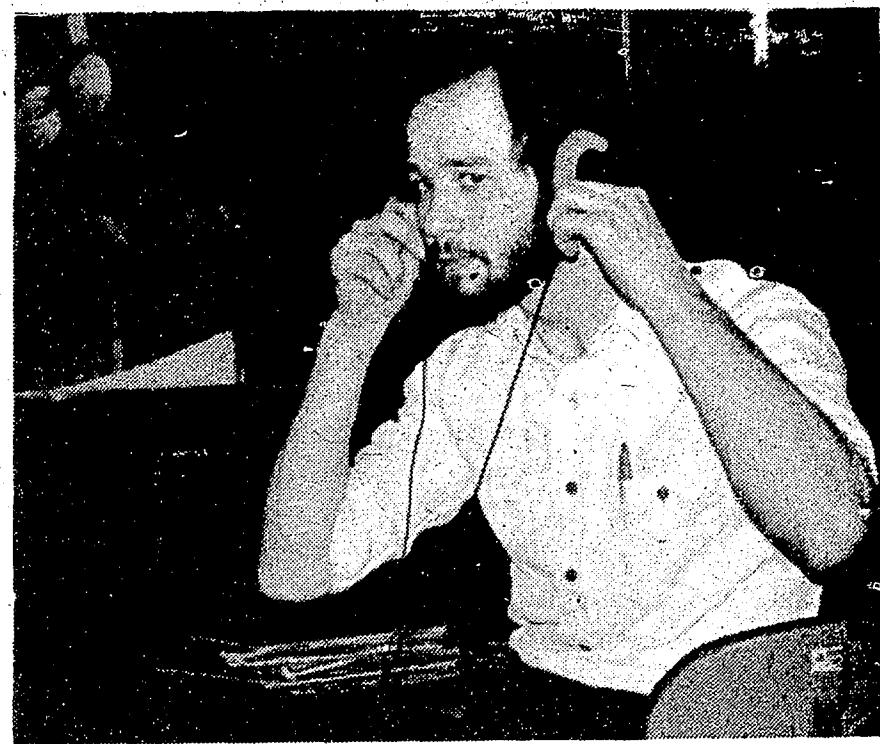

The hiring, firing, and promotion of faculty members is based on their approval.

Most important of all their duties though, is the hiring and firing of the college president said Hunsicker.

The Board meets officially four times a year with four (continued on page six)

Funding request, picnic plans stir up CGA

by NANCY FAUSNAUGHT

The Finance Committee's decision not to allocate funds to four Political Science students generated lengthy discussion at a recent CGA meeting.

Four Political Science students requested $480 to attend the tenth annual National Student Symposium in Washington, D.C. The purpose of the trip is to study the presidency.

CGA had sponsored students on this trip in previous years. Several council members argued that the political science department should not be denied funds simply because they have no organization or club to represent them.

Other members said students who excel in sports get money to go on trips, so the same policy should hold true for academic excellence.

However, other members felt that by allocating funds for this, CGA would be setting a precedent for the future. With the state budget crunch, everyone may begin to turn to CGA for additional funds.

Joe Surdoval, CGA president, said CGA has cut funds from student organizations and made them wait, and just because the political science department sends a memo requesting funds, CGA is ready to send them the money.

NEW POLICY FOR REQUESTING FUNDS

Another factor involved was the fact that the finance committee established a new policy for requesting funds. The policy states that CGA will not consider or approve any requests for funds that does not follow the proper channels (finance committee-CGA-president). A written explanation of funds requested must be presented to all members of the finance committee.

Due to these factors, the motion to allocate money to the political science department was defeated.

NELSON PICNIC AREA

CGA members voted to allocate $400 to the recreation committee for a picnic area at Nelson. The money will be used for the purchase of four grills. Twenty-five picnic tables are already at Nelson and will be placed near the grills. The grills will be cemented to the ground.

It was mentioned that the college already pays money to the town park for students use. The recreation committee said the picnic areas are not adequate for student use and students have expressed interest in a picnic area.

Doug Taylor, CAS coor-

ordinator, explained the possibility of having a project coordinator come and review the Pilot. The purpose would be to put the grievance procedures, rules and regulations, and other valuable information in the Pilot. Taylor felt this would be a worthwhile project for CGA.

Jeff Hunsicker, student trustee, reported on the weekend lobbying conference held in Harrisburg. Four BSC students attended. Workshops were held Saturday and Sunday and current issues concerning the state colleges were discussed. The colleges will be lobbying once a week for the rest of the semester.

STUDENT TRUSTEE POSITION OPEN

Hunsicker said the position of student trustee is now open for the next semester. Hunsicker, trustee for the past two years, explained that the student trustee has full voting rights on the board of trustees.

A search and screen committee was appointed by CGA to select the student trustee. Two non-members of CGA, Don Elsenbaumer and Chris Zahay, were approved. Three CGA members, Vince LaRuffa, Kathy Shughart, and Andy Cappelli, were also elected.

Kathy Mercer, democratic candidate for town council, addressed the college council. Mercer, a graduate of Lock Haven, is now a part-time student at BSC. John Abell,

Catch 22, or: why there is a space on page 1

Representatives of over 80,000 students in the state college system convened in Harrisburg last weekend. At least, that's what we hear.

You see, the students were gathered together by their lobbying body, the Commonwealth Association of Students, to learn lobbying techniques.

They attended a series of speeches on the governors budget, the keystone university bill and (possibly) an address from the Secretary of Education to develop an awareness of issues that concern students.

Why the space on page one, you ask?

The Campus Voice, the student newspaper, wanted to cover this first of a kind of student event. It is news.

However, we could not get transportation to Harrisburg. We could only afford to send our editors for one day, so we couldn't hitch a ride with our local CAS members who were staying the weekend.

We tried to get transportation. But you see, even though we requested it 8 days in advance, we were told there were no available vehicles.

This has happened before, grinding newspaper production to a halt.

The Campus Voice is on a priorities list to get a CGA vehicle. We use it about 10 times a week to gather ads, travel to Danville to proof the paper and also to pick up the paper for circulation. We were told that the last two are the only reasons we would get priority for a vehicle.

Only for publication.

To get technical, gathering news — in Harrisburg or anywhere — is a cog in the wheel of publication.

Administrators suggested that we use our own vehicles if no CGA vehicles were available. The first two times this was suggested we patiently explained that none of the editors available owned a car.

When faced with missing last weeks major event we turned to student life, CGA and CAS as well as other administrators for help. We would have gladly driven in the president's trunk.

No luck. No one could help us. Rules are rules.

Use your own vehicle!

Circles!

A far fetched suggestion would be to request a car be purchased for the Voice. However, we are realistic, we only use the vehicles between 10 and 15 times a week. (Not to mention occasional extra times for late breaking news events.)

A CGA official has promised to deal with this matter for the upcoming year. This year, barring any major news events outside Bloomsburg, can be handled — even with the lack of assistance from college officials who won't amend the rules.

A college cannot be accredited without a student newspaper. We aren't going on strike, but we demand — not request in triplicate — that the rules be adjusted to accommodate the gathering and production of this student newspaper.

We have requested, begged, pleaded and written numerous requests for vehicles to get our job done to the best of our concerted abilities. To be ignored and put off by administrators is a slap in the face of all students who wish to be well-informed.

Housing Action Line

If you have a housing problem on or off-campus, and if the housing office can't help you, send us a letter. This line is here to answer non - or semi - legal questions of the off campus student. As an administrative department, the Housing Office cannot deal with many off-campus problems. They cannot authorize housing, either. This service to students will appear weekly. Post all problems to Box 97, Kehr Information Desk, or drop them by the office.

Lottery misunderstanding To the action line:

My friends tell me that I cannot get a room on campus next year if I don't go through the lottery. However, they didn't tell me what the lottery is. Can you help me? Sincerely, 'I want to stay on campus!'

The lottery is the housing office's game of chance for on-campus students. If you are presently a freshman, you are guaranteed a room on campus. If you are a sophomore (soon to be a junior) the lottery risk comes in.

The official lottery procedure, from a memorandum from Mr. John Abell, is as follows:

"The room selection lottery for eligible resident students desiring residence hall accommodations for the 1979-80 academic year will be held on Thursday, April 19, 1979, from 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. in the coffeehouse of the Kehr Student Union (second floor). Each eligible student wishing to participate in the room selection lottery and his - her 1979-80 roommate should plan to attend the lottery together.

"Roommates should bring their residence hall contracts complete in full and stamped by the Business Office. Interested students should consult the room selection instruction available in each residence hall. This sheet contains details on eligibility, roommate selection requirements, room reservation, deposits, residence hall contracts, and lottery procedures.

Extra copies of these instructions are available in the Housing Office, Room 16, Ben Franklin Building.

Veterans lose GI Bill benefits

Approximately 47,000 Vietnam Era veterans in Pennsylvania will lose their entitlement to GI Bill benefits during the next year.

S.W. Melidosian, director of the Philadelphia VA Center, said the figure represents the total number of veterans who will have reached the tenth anniversary of their separation from military duty. The law provides veterans with a ten-year limit to use educational and training benefits.

Melidosian said that some 43 percent of Pennsylvania veterans have used some or all of their GI Bill rights, there are thousands who can still make at least partial use of their remaining time.

VA estimates that on a nationwide basis more than half the number of veterans who have GI Bill eligibility today will lose it by 1984. "What we're emphasizing here," Melidosian said, "is the time factor. To make maximum use of GI Bill rights a veteran must be aware of the ten-year limit and get started well before time runs out."

A typical Vietnam Era veteran, for example, might have left the service in 1973 having earned maximum training or education entitlement. If that same veteran were to embark on a full-time, four-year college program, it should be started this year so that it could be completed by 1983 when the veteran's eligibility expires. In any event, benefits would be payable only until the veteran reached the time limit no matter how far along the program was.

"There are so many ways the GI Bill can be adapted to individual needs and circumstances," Melidosian said, "I hate to see anyone lose their rights to this program simply because they let time slip by."

Holey problem TO THE EDITOR

I'd like to bring to the attention of the students of Bloomsburg a problem concerning housing. The tenants of the Sesame Street Apartment complex are a bit dismayed with their landlord and with the town of Bloomsburg.

Three weeks ago, a subsidence caused by a drainage problem was discovered near the road leading to the only entrance to the Sesame Street Apartments. Further investigation revealed a torrent of water removing earth from beneath the roadway. The action of the water compiled with the spring thaw, caused a gaping tunnel, approximately 2' in diameter directly under the road. Part of the street has literally fallen into the chasm caused by the water.

The problem entails who will repair the roadway. After two weeks of waiting for something to be done, I approached my landlord and questioned his knowledge of the situation. He said that he knew of this situation and was currently in negotiation with the city of Bloomsburg, to determine who would be responsible for maintenance of the roadway.

The management of the Sesame Street Apartments gave indication that they would not repair the road, but stated instead, that it was the duty of the town of Bloomsburg and the town should act accordingly. This closed the avenue of help from my landlord.

I then decided to register a complaint at the housing office against my landlord. The housing office checked the road area and agreed that it was indeed a hazard to vehicular traffic. The housing office sent a representative to my landlord to query about the situation. He got about as far as I did.

The housing office then invited me to attend a Town Council meeting to report the situation. At the council meeting I pleaded my case. The town engineer, a member of council, informed me that Sesame Street was never accepted as a part of Bloomsburg and never will be. In essence, the town of Bloomsburg refuses to repair the road, but will inform the officials of the Sesame Street Apartment complex that they, as landlords, are responsible.

There seems to be a conflict as to who is responsible for maintenance of the roadway. This conflict between the town of Bloomsburg and the landlords of Sesame Street has been going on since construction of the apartments.

I, as a tenant, am not concerned with this conflict, but rather with the condition of the road. I believe that a deteriorated roadway, a danger intensified by poor lighting, should be of concern to all who might use this street. I'm writing this letter to warn all that traveling to Sesame Street Apartments may be hazardous to one's health.

I'd like to close with a few questions. I consider a safe access to my apartment part of the facilities which I rent. If this statement is correct, how can Sesame Street still be on the approved housing list of the college?

I would like to address my last question to the Town Council of Bloomsburg. If Sesame Street is not part of Bloomsburg, where then, do I live?

Soccer team wins 2nd place

On Saturday, Nelson Field House was packed with excitement and tension as soccer teams gathered to compete for the Special Olympics State Soccer Championship.

Soccer teams from Bloomsburg, Shikellamy, and Philadelphia competed for the state trophy.

Special Olympics is held every Saturday in Centennial Gym, where children from the surrounding Bloomsburg area can participate in soccer, basketball, swimming, wrestling and track. The BSC soccer team members spent long, hard hours each Saturday morning perfecting their soccer skills for this big day.

Good sportsmanship, team-effort and smiling faces filled the Nelson Field House. Many proud parents and college students cheered our team on, as every soccer player gave it his best.

The championship game was a closely-fought battle between Bloomsburg and Philadelphia, which ended in the last 30 seconds, as Philadelphia scored the winning point.

The long hours of practice finally paid off as our Bloomsburg Soccer Team finished second place.

Gold, silver and bronze metals were awarded to the fine athletes who displayed abilities in many soccer skills contests.

A special thanks to the coaches, referee and the supporting crowd for coming and sharing in our team's excitement.

WOMEN SEEK CHANGE IN AD GUIDELINES

A recently run pizza ad depicting a scantily-clad woman asking, "Had a piece lately?" ignited the fuse of Ohio State U. women's groups that have long seethed over allegedly sexist ads in the Lantern student newspaper.

A petition signed by over 600 people demanded that the Lantern business office refuse to accept any advertising that dehumanizes women.

Lantern business manager Albert Ferdi, in accepting the petition, told protesters he would meet with them to "hammer out" some guidelines. No date was set. Now, two weeks later, Ferdi refuses comment on such a meeting.

Karen Blackwell, coordinator of the office of women's studies, says the newspaper staff has been uncooperative in the past and is unlikely to change now. She says the women are going to buy a display ad in the Lantern to explain their position.

Another spokesperson for the group says all it's seeking is the inclusion of the word "women" in the display advertising policy which now states, "The Lantern cannot accept advertising that violates normal standards of morality and taste, or attacks an individual race, nationality, ethnic group or religion."

NEWSPAPER EXCHANGE SPARKS NEWS SERVICE

The editor of The Observer newspaper at Case Western Reserve U. in Ohio says a "news service" resulting from newspaper exchanges with 200 other universities has not been as well received by students as editors had hoped.

"Surprisingly, they say they're not interested in what goes on at other campuses," says Dan Duffey.

The Observer Cooperative News Service was born at the start of the school year in the hope of learning from other publications as well as obtaining story ideas, Duffey says.

The "service" has no subscribers per se, but the editor says a packet of features will be sent to participating schools as a thank you gesture for their cooperation.

NEWSPAPER TEST ACCURACY

The U. of Florida Alligator has ready ammunition when critics assail it with charges of inaccuracy and shoddy journalism. The first results of a now-ongoing accuracy survey show news sources give the Alligator an A on that score.

Each day four major stories are selected for review, the major news sources of each receiving a copy of the article and a "credibility sheet" to be completed and returned to the newspaper. Requested information includes the accuracy of the source's name and title, whether the source believes the thrust of the article was appropriate and the facts were correct, and whether the source believes the article to be fair.

Of 118 credibility sheets currently on file, seven sources noted content inaccuracy and only one registered a complaint about fairness. That computes to a 94 percent accuracy level.

One source who also happened to be a UF journalism professor added a postscript to her sheet, which did note a fact error: "Checking accuracy this way is one of the finest steps I've ever seen a newspaper take. My heartiest congratulations."

CAMPUS MAGAZINE GETS DOUBLE REPRIMAND

Versus, Vanderbilt U.'s general campus magazine, earned censure by two student legislative bodies over its recent self-parody issue called "Versux."

The Nursing Council and the Undergraduate Legislative Council both passed resolutions reprimanding the magazine staff for "not taking into account the sensibilities of students" when it ran a satirical survey of the sex practices of undergraduate women.

Women were ranked by academic major, with nurses depicted as being "easy" or "oversexed."

The magazine editor was reportedly unperturbed by the reprimands. His comment, according to the editor of the student newspaper, was, "At least they're noticing our hard work."

Versus, published monthly, is funded by student fee allocations.

Fasting students raise $530

Approximately $530 were collected through those students participating in the Fast Day, last Tuesday, March 20.

The Fast, co-sponsored by the Bloomsburg Christian Fellowship and Saga Food Service, had 624 participants. Saga contributed 85 cents for each student not eating all day.

The student co-ordinators for the program were Sue Potter and Kathy Witmer.

Potter commented about the success of the Fast, "We were surprised and excited by the number of students that participated. The students were very receptive, all we expected were maybe 100 students to sign up. Also, Joe Winters, from Saga Food Service was very cooperative."

The money will go towards the Food for the Hungry Group. According to Potter, the group has a very low overhead. They work through missionaries, which cuts down the expense to run the program.

According to the movie that was shown during the lunch time hours by the Christian Fellowship, to occupy the fasters, for every 10 dollars that is raised here, it is worth $100 overseas. The groups' contributions to the needy center mainly on the hungry in other parts of the world, besides America.

Planning Commission looks to 1980's

By JANET RUSNAK

Realistic plans for the 1980's to insure the maintenance of a healthy student enrollment at BSC was the emphasis of the Planning Commission's meeting last Wednesday.

The Planning Commission recommends that BSC's enrollment goals for the next ten years should range from a minimum of 5,000 students to a maximum of 5,500 students.

Also, a special student recruitment and retention task force should be established to attract and keep students at BSC. The entrance and retention standards should be maintained at or near current levels.

Efforts to expand enrollments in non-traditional categories including programs in lifelong learning and experimental education was discussed. A special concern was for matters involving person-to-person relationships such as academic advisement, financial advisement and counseling.

BSC must maintain program flexibility if it is to meet the challenges of the 1980's, according to the Planning Commission.

Program flexibility requires that promising new programs and promising program changes be implemented quickly whenever resources become available.

This means that BSC should forward a list of new programs to the Pennsylvania Department of Education for their approval so that they can be implemented when funds become available.

Funding sources (Commonwealth budget, government grants, foundation grants, alumni donations) must be tapped to make these new programs possible.

In other programs and activities, the establishment of an office of student development to be staffed by the reassignment of existing student life personnel has been proposed.

The chief mission of this office would be to create an environment and a set of activities that would promote the maximum growth of the whole individual student. Emphasized would be intellectual, cultural, social, emotional and recreational values.

BSC must improve the quality and size of its staff, the Planning Commission further stated. When hiring new people, prime consideration should be given to the acquisition of unique talents not available elsewhere in the college.

A Human Services Center is critical for BSC. The Planning Commission feels that the college must use any conceivable (but legal) means to get the project approved.

Two other important projects not included in the capital budget are boiler and the acoustical renovation of Haas Auditorium. These projects are important to BSC's future.

Finally, the Planning Commission needs a campus-wide equipment plan to analyze the wide-ranging and exceedingly diverse equipment needs of BSC. An inventory of all major pieces of existing equipment would serve as a guide for the analysis of subsequent equipment requests.

The academic affairs plan listed that BSC will need over $600,000 in equipment needs over the next five years.

Any senior who has not received their Senior class newsletter. In their campus box may pick one up at the Kohr Union Information Desk.

HUD fights discrimination

by MIKE MIXELL

If you feel that you have been discriminated against in finding housing, because of race, color, religion, sex or national origin, the Federal Government can help you.

The Office of Fair Housing and Equal Opportunity in Washington, D.C. has made available a toll free number to deal with this specific problem. The number is 1-800-424-8590. By calling the number, you will be in touch with the national office, which is a branch of the Department of Housing and Urban Development. This department is more commonly known as HUD.

The office in Washington will refer you to a regional office, (in this area it is located in Philadelphia). An investigator will be sent to review the complaint.

After this has been completed, the representative from the Office of Fair Housing and Equal Opportunity will sit down with the person who has filed the complaint and the person who the complaint has been charged, and try to solve the problem. According to the employees in the office in Washington, the presence of a federal investigator is usually enough of a stimulus to clear up the problem.

Other housing problems may arise that are not covered by the five types of discrimination mentioned above. The State Government of Pennsylvania has an organization to deal with these various types. In Pennsylvania, the Department of Justice has a branch that devotes all its time to help consumers. The agency is the Bureau of Consumer Protection, and they are equipped to handle a number of different complaints. The closest office in relation to the Bloomsburg area is in Scranton. The phone number is 717-961-4913, and the address is: Bureau of Consumer Protection

A term lasts for three years or until graduation which ever comes first.

Hunsicker said that the board prefers that the student be able to serve for more than one year. It is not a requirement however.

APPLICATION PROCEDURES

Students interested in the position should send their resume to Jeff Hunsicker, box 3996 KUB. All the resumes will be reviewed by the Search and Screen Committee.

The committee includes five students, one faculty member, one administrator, one trustee, and Hunsicker will be the non-voting chairman.

Five applicants are chosen and sent to the Secretary of Education of Pa. He then chooses one and that person must be approved by the Governor.

The resumes are for background information. Hunsicker said that most of the decisions rest on interviews with the Search and Screen Committee and the Secretary of Education.

HUNSICKER'S TERM

Hunsicker was a member of the Board for two years. He said that a student on the Board helps the trustees to be aware of the differences of the administration and the students on many important issues.

Hunsicker said "The Board is a reactive body. Everything must go through channels before the board can act. The board is not a body to bring reforms. I am disappointed that not everything I wanted was achieved. But I am pleased with the action the board did take with the fire truck for the town and reducing the room rate for students who are tripled in the dorms."

THE KEHR UNION PROGRAM BOARD provides much weekend entertainment for BSC students. Here the Kixxs entertain at one of the many dances, this one held last Friday, March 16.

Democratic Delegate to be chosen

by FAY WALTERS

Are you interested in being a delegate for the Pennsylvania Democratic Committee? If you are 18 years of age or older, live in Pennsylvania as a registered Democrat, you can apply to become one of the 185 delegates from Pennsylvania to attend the convention to be held next May.

Four years ago, a student from BSC, Randi Mason, went through the simple process and became a student delegate to the convention. The first step to become a delegate is to pick up an application at the courthouse. From there you petition and get placed on the ballot. Once on the ballot, a student candidate shouldn't have much trouble acquiring the delegate seat, that is, if enough students from the college vote.

As one of the delegates, a student will have full voting privileges and other roles involved in electing the democratic candidate for President of the United States! Students should accept this opportunity and challenge since the convention is organized to involve students and to encourage them through educational program within the experience of the convention.

Bloomsburg State College will also be organizing a simulated event for March or April of 1980 which will be similar to the real democratic convention in May of that year. This experience could be an exciting preview and good preparation for our student delegate.

If you're interested in politics and wish to examine more details about becoming a delegate to the Democratic National Convention, contact the courthouse soon!

Forensics represented

Pi Kappa Delta is a National Honorary Forensic Fraternity whose purpose is to promote scholarship, especially in the field of forensic speaking in American Colleges and universities.

The fraternity's pledging will begin March 19 and continue through March 23. This spring's pledge mistress will be the most honorable Miss Cindy Fissel.

The pledge class consists of: Lucille Scarpino, pledge class president; Cheri Walker, Phil Olinger, Dave Pautsch, Paul Lyons, and honorary members, Bev Romberger and Dan Dessel.

The organization will be attending the Pi Kappa Delta National Convention held in St. Louis, Missouri, on April 6-13. Pautsch, a prospective member, is planning to compete in the tournament, which will be held at the convention.

The advisor of Pi Kappa Delta, Professor Harry Strine, will also be attending the convention.

Men's lacrosse team organizes for season

By BRUCE ANDERSON
Men's lacrosse is now at BSC for everyone to enjoy. The game combines ice hockey, soccer and football into one quick hard-hitting game with lots of action.

The club was started last spring by Gregory Talse, Cliff Tillman and Bruce Anderson, who are now the president, vice-president and treasurer of the organization, respectively.

Under their leadership and the help of Bill Battey Sporting Goods of Media, Pa. and CGA funds, the club has bought equipment and is practicing everyday.

DEFENSE TOUGH

The team has many beginners, but this does not stop the hitting or enthusiasm. In goal, there is Talse, who would rather eat a ball than let it get past him. The defense is led by "The Sleeper" Cliff Tillman, with Jim and Joe Earley, Johnny Burke and Gary Lewis.

The midfield, which plays both offense and defense, is led by senior Glenn Schneider, with Joe Aceto, Bruce Anderson, Brian Burke, Wes McGuckin, Steve and George Foedisch and Greg Eckert and Russel Dilts.

The attack, which only plays offense, is led by the ever quick footed Frank Aceto with Ken Hamel, Steve Morlick, Phil Dayl, James Columbus, John Sheelen and Chuck Hidalgo. The advisors to the club are Dr. Christopher Armstrong and Dr. Alien Murphy.

MATCHES SCHEDULED

This spring the team has two matches scheduled, one at home and one away. The first is on Sat., April 7 at Millersville. The only home match is on April 28 at 2 p.m. on the lacrosse field against Penn State's Club. The team is still looking for people to play, so if you are interested, even though you never have played before, contact: Greg Talse (387-0203) or Bruce Anderson (389-2234).

Today is the last day to withdraw from a course without grade assessment.

Physical contact not necessary in competition

Many people believe that collegiate competition consists of football and basketball games, wrestling matches, and the other traditional big time athletic activities.

A group from Bloomsburg State College, however has represented this school in another aspect of collegiate competition, namely, billiard, ping-pong and bowling contests.

A bowling team, a billiard player and a ping-pong player from Bloomsburg attended the Association of College Unions - International (A.C.U.I.) tournament in February at George Washington University in Washington, C.C.

Those on the bowling team were: Scott Cheek, Steve Sneiderman, Mark Wolfe, Warren Rozelle, Scott Kaysen and Bill Snyder. As a team, the men placed fourth among 26 teams. Individually, Snyder placed sixth in the singles event of 130 competitors, fifth in all-around competition, and the bowling high game award with a score of 269.

In billiards, Phillip Orons placed 11th in a field of 32, and had a high run of 16.

BSC's Carrie Fielding placed eighth in a field of twenty competitors in table tennis.

Next year the A.C.U.I. tournament will be held at West Virginia University. BSC Kehr Union will be held at West Virginia University. BSC Kehr Union will be holding qualifying tournaments in order to enter as many students as possible in next year's competition.

Events included in the A.C.U.I. are: bowling, billiards, table tennis, backgammon, bridge, chess, table soccer and frisbee. The competition in these events is a stepping stone to National competition.

Phillies sponsor 'toga' night

Every year, the Philadelphia Phillies employ special promotion gimmicks to draw spectators to the ball park. Usually, though, children under the age of twelve are the benefactors of such efforts. They receive items such as free caps, T-shirts and batting helmets.

This year though, college students are the target of one of the Phillies give-away days.

But wait — don't get too excited yet. There is a catch.

In order to receive the prize which will be given away on college night, April 20, you must wear a toga. (This writer thinks the world envisions college students as one big mass of beer drinking toga wearers. I've yet to see anyone wear one in the halls of Sutliff or Bakeless, or anywhere else on the BSC campus for that matter!)

For those daring enough to do it, wearing a toga to the Phillies - Mets contest might be worth it; the reason being that one lucky person who is wearing a toga will win an all expenses paid, one-week trip for two to Rome, via Pan Am.

Women's lacrosse team preps for season

The sounds of spring can be heard throughout campus: the chirping of birds, whooshing skateboards, gentle voices. They can be heard, that is, until you reach the boundaries of the lacrosse field, which is across from the tennis courts.

At that point, the sounds of sticks being checked, spikes pounding the turf, and blasts of the coach's whistle take over.

STICK SKILLS PRACTICED

The Bloomsburg State College women's lacrosse team spends sunny afternoons on the field (and rainy afternoons in Centennial gym) practicing stick checks, body checks, dodges and cradling. Drills are interspersed with laps and sprints, in order to give the women the endurance needed to run for two 25 minute halves with only a five minute break in between.

BOLGER CAPTAIN

The team, in its third year as a varsity sport, is coached by B. J. Rost. Senior Fran Bolger, the team's cover point (defense) is the team captain.

In addition to Bolger, seniors on the team are Pam Chamberlain, Scilla Elliott, Ellie Hatch and Leslie Kulick. Several of these seniors are the last of the players who have been with the women's team since its inception as a club team four years ago.

According to Coach Rost, "The seniors are supported by a cast of experienced juniors, competent sophomores and eager freshmen. We're looking forward to a successful season."

SEASON OPENER

The team will open its season on April 5 at 3:30 against Millersville at home.

For the first time ever, a Pennsylvania State College Conference Championship will be held this year. The championship will be hosted by Kutztown State College. Teams scheduled to compete are: Lock Haven, Kutztown, East Stroudsburg, Slippery Rock, Millersville, Shippensburg and Bloomsburg State Colleges. The competition will be a single elimination tournament with a consolation round.

SCHEDULED GAMES

The schedule is rounded out with away games at East Stroudsburg, Shippensburg and Bucknell. The final game will be played against Kutztown at home on May 5.

No 'slapstick comedy'; this hockey team for real

CONTRIBUTED BY BILL REILEY

In addition to the rise in temperature, another sign of spring is the annual conversion of our quiet little campus from Bloomsburg State College into the ever popular "Slapshot State College".

STREET HOCKEY SEASON

Yes, the street hockey season is upon us once again, and despite the usual setbacks, the league is looking stronger than ever.

Thanks mainly to the outstanding work of Tom (Doctor) George, the league will start on March 26 (next Monday) on the caged parking lot, commonly known as the tri-level. George, a Bloomsburg State College senior who is in his second year of directing the league, is aided by two coordinating assistants, Bob Umberhauer and Charlie Wilson, also graduating seniors.

THIRTEEN TEAMS

The league consists of thirteen teams who will play each other once during the course of the season. The three division winners and a wild card team (the team with the best record that is not a division winner) will meet in a showdown playoff which will determine the league champion.

Setbacks which the league has had to face are of two types: those the participants have control over, and those which are uncontrollable. The two problems are the presence of cars on the playing area at game time and the weather.

Campus car owners can't do anything about the weather, obviously. However...

BE CONSIDERATE

We in the hockey league appeal to you, our car owning public, to please be considerate of the request not to park on the top level of the lot if your car will not be moved at 5:00 p.m. in March, 4:30 p.m. during April and May.

The league is sponsored by Association of Resident Students (ARS), not men's intramurals. As a result, all refereeing officiating and coordinating work is volunteered. Therefore, please help us keep our schedule intact by cooperating with the parking situation.

The entire BSC community is more than welcome to visit the tri-level and enjoy some of the games. If one game doesn't suit your fancy, the one going on next to it might.
