

BSC graduate heads CAS Campus Services

Jeffrey Hunsicker, a 1979 graduate of BSC, has been appointed Director of Campus Services for the Commonwealth Association of Students. His appointment is only one of the appointed changes in the administration of the CAS.

Hunsicker's CAS position involves traveling to campuses across the state to coordinate CAS local chapters and student-oriented activities.

While a student at Bloomsburg, Hunsicker gained a perspective of student needs and problems by serving as student trustee, CAS statewide vice-president, CAS Board of Coordinators Chair and Bloomsburg Coordinator and was active in the Community Government Association, campus newspaper and forensics.

Robin Winston, a graduate of the University of Louisville in Kentucky has been named to the position of CAS Executive Director. Having served as the student government president at Louisville and as a leader in a wide range of student activities, Winston brings his valuable expertise in student issues to CAS, replacing Executive Director Kathleen Downey.

Downey, executive director of CAS since fall, 1977, resigned her post to accept the position as President of the National Student Educational Fund (NSEF) in Washington.

In addition, former CAS Director of Campus Services Joseph Archut has moved into the position of Legislative Director where he will be coordinating all CAS legislative matters, both on Capitol Hill and on all 14 campuses.

All of these personnel changes within CAS became effective September 1 when the CAS Harrisburg central office resumed full-scale operations.

Cancelled courses explained

by DEB ROSS

Cancelled courses, sections dropped, overloaded faculty and little money are a part of the serious dilemma being faced by the administrations of all state colleges.

"The budget is grim," said Dr. James V. Mitchell, vice president for academic affairs. "There was an increase in the budget, but it is not an adequate budget, it doesn't even keep up with inflation."

"No money, fewer faculty and more students have created a juggling act," said Dr. G. Alfred Forsyth, dean of the school of arts and sciences. "We are trying to distribute the pain as best as possible."

In the economics department, three filled sections were cancelled because there wasn't enough faculty to teach all the sections. The college conducted a full search for a new faculty member over the summer and found a candidate for the position. However, Harrisburg would not give permission to hire anyone.

There are excessive overloads in the economics, math and business departments. An overload is when the faculty teaches more courses or sections than normal. Forsyth feels that overloads decrease the quality of the job that a faculty member would do and it's not fair to the students.

"We tried to accommodate most of the students effected by permitting them to be pink slipped into other sections," Forsyth said.

STARTLING STATISTICS

In the October 10, 1979 issue of "The Chronicle of Higher Education", M. M. Chambers of the Illinois State University compiled information on state support for colleges and universities.

Chambers termed the Northeast states as a "disaster area" because these states have the lowest gains in support to the colleges. According to Chambers, Pennsylvania appropriations for colleges and universities rose by only 6 per cent over 1976 and the purchasing power of those appropriations has fallen 7 per cent.

Ranking the states with one being the highest support to 50 being the lowest support, Pennsylvania ranks 44th in the 1977-78 appropriations per capita with $59.32 per capita. The average for all 50 states is $78.67. Again ranking 44th, $8.46 per $1,000 of personal income was appropriated in 1977-78 for Pennsylvania. The average for all the states was $11.22 per $1,000.

"The Commonwealth of Pennsylvania is not supporting the state colleges," said Mitchell.

Dr. Walter Simon, Prof of Art

Former prof dies

Dr. Walter Simon, former professor of art at Bloomsburg State College, died Tuesday, August 28th, in Richmond, Virginia.

Prior to his death, Dr. Simon was employed by Virginia Union University, Richmond, where he was involved in the development of art programs for inter-city youth. He and his wife, the former Virginia Spottswood, moved to Richmond after his retirement from BSC in May, 1977.

"Walter Simon was a very special kind of person; intelligent, warm, out-going, impassionate and a sensitive artist and scholar," stated Percival Roberts, chairperson of BSC's art department. "He affected all who met him very profoundly — and he will be sadly missed by this academic community."

Dr. Simon came to Bloomsburg in 1971 as Director of the Educational Opportunity Program and Professor of Art. He resigned from the former in 1973 due to health problems and concentrated his efforts in the field of art.

Born in Brooklyn, New York on June 18, 1916, he was awarded his B.S., M.S. and Ph.D. degrees in art education from New York University. He also received certificates from Pratt Institute's School of Fine and Applied Arts and the National Academy of Design in New York City.

Prior to his work at Bloomsburg, Professor Simon served as assistant to the president, California Institute of the Arts in Los Angeles for two and one half years. He served with the U.S. Information Agency of the U.S. Foreign Services for eight years in the following capacities: 1961-64, Assistant Cultural Affairs Officer, American Embassy, Cairo, United Arab Republic; 1964-68, Cultural Affairs Officer, American Embassy, Kabul, Afghanistan, as treasurer of the U.S. Educational Foundation; 1966-69, Cultural Affairs Officer, American Embassy, Colombo, Ceylon, as chairman of the U.S. Educational Foundation, specifically responsible for the Department of State Cultural Presentations Foundation.

Dr. Simon began his teaching career as an instructor of the Art Department of Georgia State College in Savannah in September, 1948. He also served as associate professor of the Art Education Department of Virginia State College at Petersburg, and as assistant professor in Art Education at New Jersey State College in Patterson. In addition, during the summers of 1949, 1950 and 1951 he was chairman, Art Education Department, Atlanta University, Atlanta, Georgia.

The paintings of Dr. Simon have been exhibited in the famed Wittenborn Gallery, in New York City, the Brooklyn Museum and at other exhibitions and art museums throughout the eastern United States and the countries in which he served with the U.S. Foreign Service. One of Dr. Simons' paintings was purchased by the BSC Art Department for its permanent collection.

He was mentioned in the publications of The Negro Vanguard, and American Negro Art, and was featured in an article in Ebony Magazine in November 1964 entitled "Diplomat With an Artistic Touch".

Dr. Simon is survived by his wife, three children, Antonia, Michael and Deborah, and two grandchildren, Josh and Alexis.

WHAT'S A BETTER WAY to enjoy the last days of summer than to play a game of softball. These BSC students are enjoying the sun before their semester's work load catches up with them and every bit of their spare time will be spent studying for tests and writing term papers. Johnson jams electric guitar

by ALBERT M. SUKOWASKI

Playing before a capacity crowd in the President's Lounge, Richard Johnson presented an excellent night of entertainment.

Utilizing a steel guitar, twelve-string acoustic guitar, a six string guitar and the first electric guitar ever made, Johnson played the meanest slide guitar around.

Johnson's songs dealt with happenings in his life and also with native Americana. One of his selections was a medley of patriotic and religious songs.

Another of Johnson's songs was the Plum Island National Anthem. Johnson was commissioned by the President of the imaginary republic of Plum Island to write this song if they ever do break away from the United States and become an independent state.

Johnson played a lot of selections on his electric guitar. This guitar was the fore-runner of the modern electric guitar. Manufactured in 1931, only three of the 2500 that were manufactured have been found.

Johnson was well received by an enthusiastic audience.

His performance was a successful kick off to the 1979-80 coffeehouse series.

ICP Scholarship

Be a winner

Larry A. Welke, president of ICP - International Computer Programs, Inc. - has announced the second annual ICP Scholarship. The scholarship, to be awarded for the 1980 - 81 school year, is designed to be an investment in the future of the information processing industry.

To qualify for the ICP Scholarship, applicants must be enrolled in a computer science or computer technology program as either a sophomore or a junior. The scholarship will consist of one-year's tuition plus education expenses up to $5,000.00 at the United States college or university of the winner's choice.

The ICP Scholarship Committee, will base their selection on: the student's accumulative grade point average in his field of study, and overall GPA; need for financial aid; participation in data processing - related activities; school activities and leadership roles; DP-related and non DP - related accomplishments and awards. The final test for the ICP Scholarship finalists will be an essay.

The winner of the second ICP Scholarship will be announced at next year's ICP Million Dollar Awards Ceremony, to be held in New Orleans, Louisiana.

Applications are available through the data processing and financial aids departments. The deadline for filing scholarship applications is Oct. 15, 1979. For further information, contact Carol Stumpf at ICP.

Quest activities open to all

by LINDA WRIGHT

Quietly canoeing down the Delaware River, rafting on the Lehigh and crawling through a cave in western Pennsylvania are just a few adventures one can take part in as a participant of the Quest program here at BSC.

Quest, run by Dr. Stephen Bresett, is an organization which allows students to do things they otherwise might not have the opportunity to do. An organization led by peers as well as faculty, Quest allows students to develop trust in others, a sense of responsibility and a feeling of accomplishment through experiences including rock climbing, backpacking, bicycling and more.

Dr. Bresett stressed the fact that Quest is not a club or an "outing organization." It's an organization that's designed to strengthen the participant's self confidence by persuading them to excel beyond their pre-conceived limit of ability.

"Many students come here wondering how to join Quest," Bresett said. "You don't — there are no members. Anyone can participate at anytime — you go on the trips you're interested in."

Another fallacy is that you have to be experienced to go on a Quest adventure.

"We automatically assume you're a novice," Bresett explained. "We function on success . . . and through success comes fun."

"We plan things we know you'll succeed at," he continued. "We don't plan failures . . . and we have a safety - orientated record."

Quest supplies adequate equipment for the trips, including sleeping bags. They also hold workshops to orientate students to the event.

This weekend, Quest is going backpacking. There's also a rafting trip Saturday. Canoeing and bicycling are open to interested students next weekend, Sept. 28 - 30.

Anyone who is interested in participating in a Quest event or would like to know more about the program should stop in the Quest office, located in the Kehr Union Building.

ASA install "sisters"

Alpha Sigma Alpha, a national social sorority, gained forty five new sisters last weekend when the Bloomsburg State College chapter was installed.

Mrs. Phillip H. Wallick, ASA national president, presided at the ceremonies which took place Saturday morning, September 8, in KUB. Sorority members from York College, East Stroudsburg and Mansfield State Colleges, and Penn State helped in the ceremonies.

This new chapter, Delta Chi, is the third chapter of a national sorority to be formed at BSC. The new sisters began their pledging in preparation for sisterhood on January 26, and since then have been involved in many service projects in the community. They participated in the basketball marathon for the Heart Fund, and have selected the Special Olympics as their yearly philanthropic project.

Officers installed on Saturday include Suellen Gluckow, president; Toni Roccograndi, vice president; Tracy Oswald, recording secretary; Mary Ann Perugino, corresponding secretary; Angela Dotoli, treasurer; Donna Smith, editor; Judy Brlansky, membership director; and Karen Pierog, chaplain.

Students can choose concerts

by CHERYL PETERSON

Are you interested in learning about concerts on BSC campus?

The first meeting of BSC's Concert Committee will be Thursday, at 6:30 p.m. in the KUB coffeehouse. The meeting is open to all students interested in discussing future concerts.

Bruce Souter, concert committee chairperson and Ruth Rappaport, co-chairperson, will discuss how the committee operates and what happens at each meeting.

Other committee members will be introduced with a full description of their jobs.

The meeting will continue by informing students how they can become more involved with the committee.

The floor will later be open to students who wish to voice their opinions or make suggestions concerning future performers.

Greeks to begin pledging

Beware freshman! Soon BSC's campus will be infested with ladies wearing little hats and carrying pillows, and men carrying paddles and whistling strange tunes very early in the morning. No these upper classmen are not losing their minds from their heavy academic schedules, nor are they trying for a place in the Guinness Book of World Records, but they are going through the procedures of pledging a Greek Organization. Yes, it is Greek time once again at BSC.

The schedule for the Inter - Sorority Council Rush program is as follows: Thursday, Sept. 13, The President's Address, Kuster Auditorium, 9:30 p.m.; Saturday and Sunday, Sept. 15 and 16, Open House; Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday, Sept. 17, 18 and 19, Informal Parties; Thursday, Sept. 20, Formal Parties; Friday, Sept. 21, bids are announced.

The Inter - Fraternity Rush Dates are: Delta Omega Chi, Sept. 9 and 18; Beta Sigma Delta, Sept. 10 and 19; Lambda Chi Alpha, Sept. 11 and 20; Phi Sigma Xi, Sept. 12 and 21; Tau Kappa Epsilon, Sept. 13 and 23; Delta Pi, Sept. 14 and 24; Sigma Iota Omega, Sept. 16 and 25; and Zeta Psi, Sept. 17 and 26. Bids will be announced Friday, Sept. 28.

BSC's enrollment is up

According to enrollment figures BSC is the place to be. At a time when many colleges and universities are facing enrollment declines, currently four percent nationwide, BSC has had to take steps to limit enrollment growth. A string of 18 years of enrollment increases at BSC was broken intentionally last year when the admissions office cut back on the number of new students admitted.

For the past two years the placement rate of all graduates has been an impressive 80 percent, well above national norms. In some program areas, the employment rate has been at or close to 100 percent.

The college currently seeks to maintain a "steady state" enrollment at or near the level established last year, with ceilings on admission of students in high demand programs. From 1960 to 1975, enrollment of full-time undergraduate students increased 63 percent; since 1975 the increase has been 3.5 percent.

"Last year we deliberately reduced the number of freshmen we admitted in spite of an increase in applications," Tom L. Cooper, dean of admissions and records, said. "It was done for several reasons, one of which is the shortage of off-campus housing accommodations. The college believes, also, that we will be in a better position to face the problems of enrollment declines predicted for the 1980's if we avoid further growth now."

However, maintaining a no-growth level of enrollment is more of a problem than might be expected because it involves several predictions or "educated guesses", as Cooper

by ANDREA HOHOLICK

A new administration usually means changes. This year's new CGA administration began the '79 - 80 school year with a big change, there is a new CGA office on the third floor of Kehr Union. That is, the CGA office has relocated in the old Obiter and Third World offices.

According to Willard Bradley, CGA president and Scott McCabe, CGA vice president, after considering many possibilities, and all the other people involved, they decided on this change which seemed to benefit everyone, not only CGA.

After going through several channels including the governing board, and approval by Dean Griffiths, CGA moved into the Obiter and Third World offices, while the Obiter and Third World were relocated in the old CGA office and the commuters office.

There were several reasons for the move said McCabe. "The main reason was space." Basically, our work is done with committees, but in the old office we didn't have enough room. Also the need for privacy is filled because CGA now has two offices."

Bradley added that, "the bottom line is effectiveness and maximum use of the available space." He also feels that the move will help CGA operations and that there will be more input.

Both Bradley and McCabe think that these arrangements which put CGA offices in a more central location will increase student involvement, as both have already noticed more student interest in CGA so far this semester.

A less recent change is CGA operations in the addition of a part - time student secretary, which allows the staff to be more available to participate in campus activities.

STREAMLINING
THE COLLEGE

There are approximately $256,000 worth of purchase requests by all departments on file. There is only about $12,500 in the equipment budget. Of the 800 requests filed only the first five items can be bought with that budget. The items are in order of priority.

Forsyth said that there is no money available for faculty to travel and that the departments are streamlining their efforts, trying to be more efficient and developing contingency plans for the spring semester.

In a speech to the faculty, Dr. James H. McCormick said that there will be sharp cuts in such items as instructional supplies, library books, telephones, printing and other areas that would directly effect the faculty.

AREAS TO IMPROVE

"More autonomy is needed on the local campuses," Mitchell said. "You don't know until the last minute from Harrisburg what you're allowed to do. The colleges should have control of the faculty compliment not Harrisburg. "That is, the school should be able to control the number of employees to be hired.

"Many of the other state colleges are facing a worse situation with declining enrollments," Mitchell said. "But that is not true for Bloomsburg. We had an unofficial increase of about 1 per cent this year. However, because of the lack of funds and faculty we would like to keep the enrollment where it is."

puts it. The first step is to estimate the number of students who will be needed to replace those who are graduated, who withdrew from college or left for academic reasons. The timetable requires this to be done a year in advance by applying a formula based on experience of previous years.

The second step is to determine how many applicants should be accepted in order to fill the vacant positions. New students include transfers and new freshmen as well as previously registered students who are readmitted. Not all who are accepted actually enroll, so percentages based on experience of prior years must be used to estimate the number of new students who will register in September.

The third step is to see how close the admissions office came to "guessing" correctly.

In mid-September the admissions staff will begin a series of visits to high schools and community colleges to provide information about BSC programs to potential students.

"Our best recruiters are our currently enrolled students, alumni and friends of the college," Bernard Vinovrski, assistant director of admissions, points out. "Most of the students we will see will already have heard about BSC from their teachers, their parents, or their friends. Our job is to tell them in some detail about the college and to answer questions. We encourage them to visit the campus, because we know they will like what they see here."

Funds allotted for revision of handbook

Such instances of misleading information and lack of student rights will be corrected for students at BSC, Slippery Rock and West Chester State Colleges as part of a two-year grant project recently awarded to the Commonwealth Association of Students Foundation (CASfound) by the Department of Health, Education and Welfare.

CAS found Executive Secretary Joseph Archut received notification on August 22 of successfully obtaining $77,000 from the Fund for the Improvement of Postsecondary Education (FIPSE) to conduct studies of student rights and responsibilities systems, implement fair changes and publish accurate, up-to-date campus handbooks for students at the three model campuses. The results of the project will, hopefully, prompt the remaining 11 schools of the state-owned system to revise their student handbooks and student rights systems.

"Obtaining the FIPSE grant is a great accomplishment for the CAS Foundation," said Archut. "This project will be a great benefit to the students at the three participating schools. Because of this grant, students at Bloomsburg, Slippery Rock and West Chester will soon have the best possible judicial policies, grievance procedures and other campus policies compiled in a comprehensive, student-oriented student handbook."

The three participating schools were chosen for the grant based on the cooperation and financial assistance pledged by student governments and college administrations. Office space and supplies for a project coordinator on each campus will be provided by the student governments, while the administrations will be incurring the costs of printing the handbooks.

The project is scheduled to begin in late September with the establishment of review panels on each campus to study existing campus policies.

Such panels, made up of a CASfound-hired project coordinator, students, faculty and administrators on each campus, will weed out unfair policies and practices and will make necessary recommendations to campus governing bodies to ensure policy changes.

These changes, along with student consumer information such as accurate transportation schedules, phone listing for campus problems, will be used in publishing a thorough cost efficient student handbook.

Stealing a phone call isn't a game.

Most students play by the rules when placing a long distance call. They take advantage of bargain rates and make their calls during the discount periods. If you're not sure when you can call at discount rates, check your phone book.

A few students think it's O.K. to break the rules by stealing their telephone calls. They're not beating the system, they're taking advantage of all of us, because it drives up the cost of providing telephone service.

Students who break the rules also run the risk of paying a large fine. Spending time in jail. And getting themselves a permanent police record.

It's just not worth it!

Young talent shown, x-country begins

by KEVIN KODISH

The 1979 BSC Cross Country team will feature quite a bit of young talent.

Losing five seniors from last year's squad, head coach Clark Boler is looking at a lot of new faces this fall.

Gone from last season are captains Steve Eachus and Mark Bond. Eachus will be the biggest loss for the team to absorb. Aside from being conference champion, he finished third in NCAA Division II competition last season.

Returning from last year's team are Steve Johnson, Tom Groff, Chuck Martin and Ann Grab. Johnson and Groff were in the top seven last year on the team.

Coach Boler is looking to the large contingent of young runners to help the team. This group includes: Bob and John Feeley, Denny Reup, Mike Mosakowski, Brian McIntosh, Bob Neiderer, Norm Bar-chumus, Bill Harte, Mike Swank and Alan Musselmen.

There are six women out for the team this season. They are:

Theresa Purcel, Donna Nemeth, Mary Urban, Wendy Farell, Susan Hartman, and Grab. Boler notes that Purcel could be used for scoring in the men's meets.

The harriers will be out to improve last year's 4 - 5 record. Boler expects Indiana and Milersville to be the teams to beat in the conference race.

"I am semi-optimistic about this season. It is hard to tell how we'll make out. It depends on how our young people come around," Boler said.

The coach also points out that the young runners coming out of high school are used to running a three mile race. They must work hard to adjust to the five mile race in college.

The return to classes also brings the start of the fall season for the 1979 - 80 men's and women's tennis teams. The men's team, coached by Burt Reese, steps into action Sept. 15 - 16 when the netters host the BSC Invitational Tennis Tournament, while the women travel to East Stroudsburg Sept. 20 for their first encounter of the season.

Heading the line-up for the PA Conference defending men's champions; who sported a 13-7 dual match record in 1978-79, is senior Rob Vance, the number one player in the conference and a three - time PA Conference doubles champion. Vance, who is team captain, is looking to establish the BSC all-time win record currently held by Jim Hollister. Vance is now 82-28 and needs only 14 wins to break the record.

Husky netters Ken Grove,

Craig Diehl and freshman Marty Coyne are in the midst of challenging for positions 2,3 and 4.

Grove was last years' number two player and the defending singles champion in the conference at that position plus the number one doubles champion. Sophomore Diehl was the defending singles champion at number three, plus the number three doubles champion.

Coyne, from Hazleton, is "a very strong singles and doubles player."

Positions five and six are being contested by freshman Dave Superdock, who won the District four high school title three years in a row at Bloomsburg High School, Rick Willders, who has played as high as number two in the past, and Gary Golbitz, the number four player last year and a finalist in the PA Conference Tourney in singles and the number two doubles champion.

Also vying for positions are last years' number six player and the defending number three doubles champion, Tim Blanchard, along with Dave Williams, a junior from Dallas.

WOMEN'S TEAM PREPARING

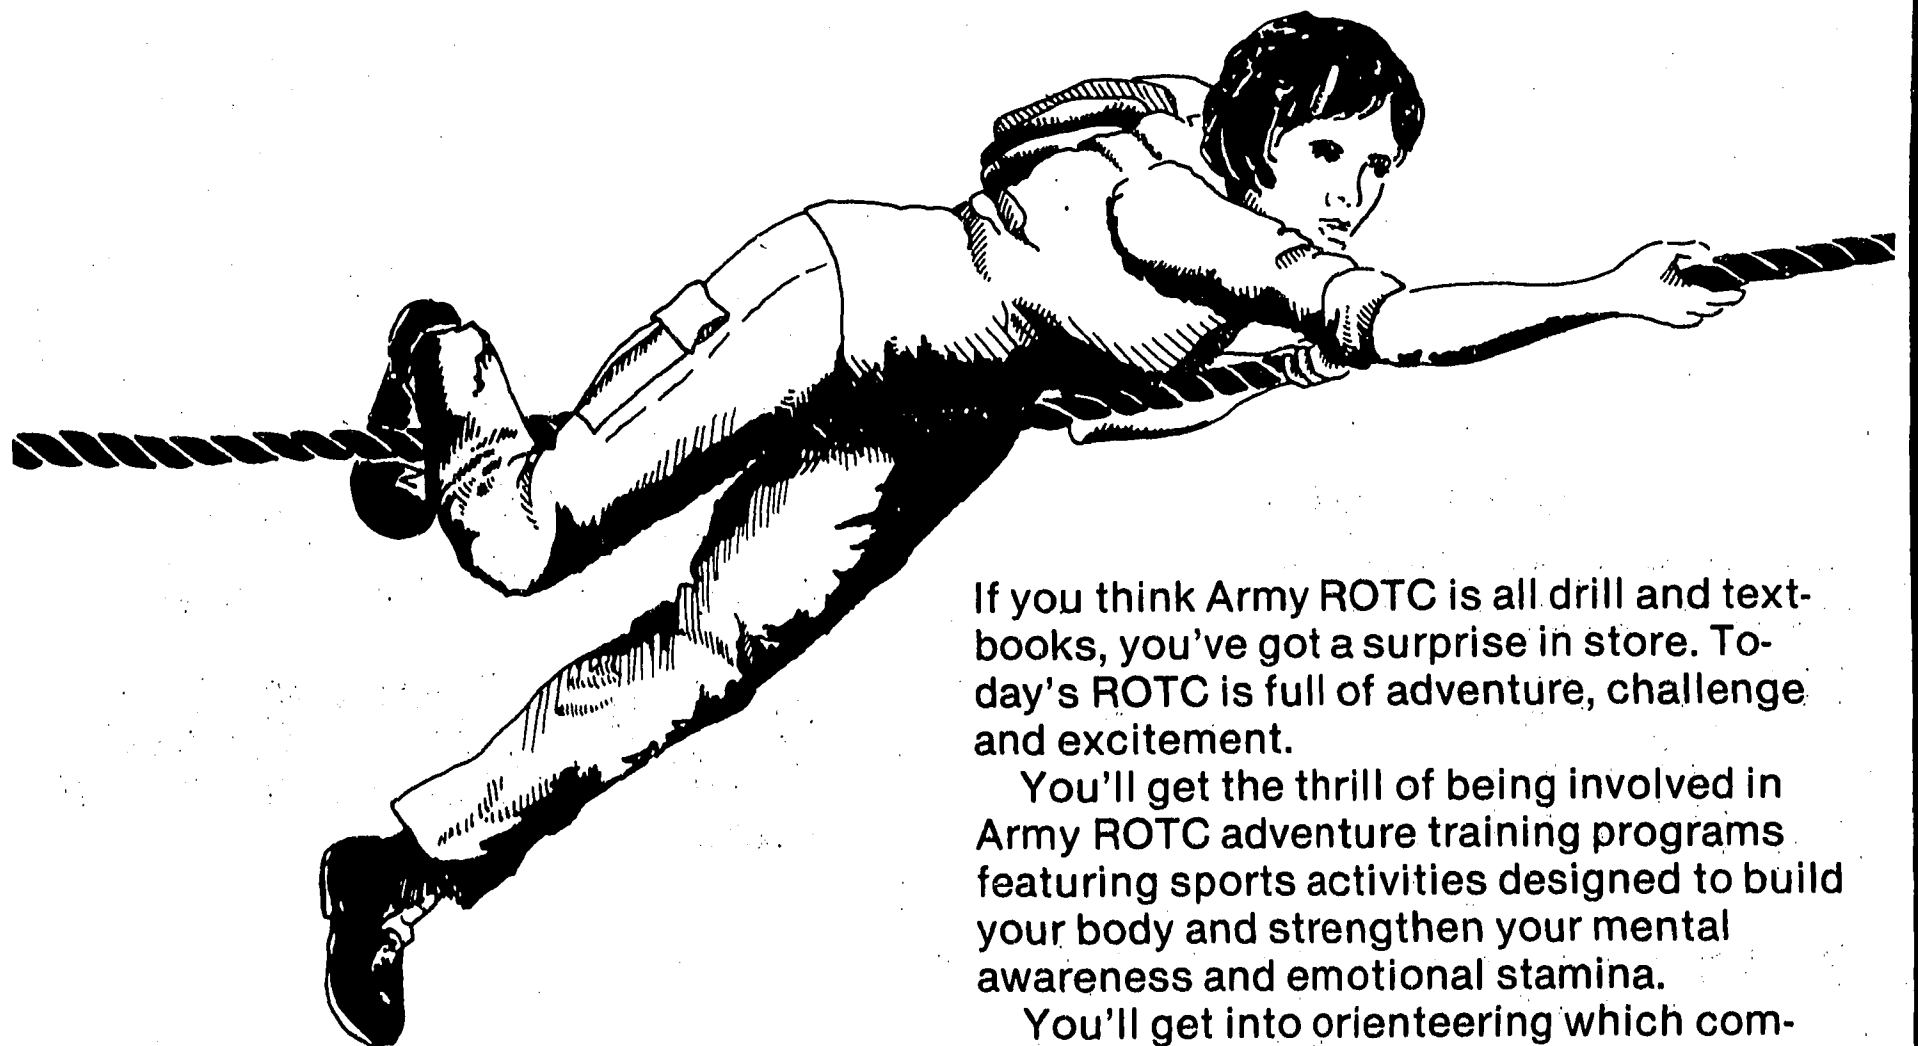

The women's team, under the direction of Coach Michael Herbert, finished at 8-4 last season, and was tied for the conference title; they finished second due to the use of a questionable volleyball tie - breaker system.

The top position will again be held by team captain Lorie Keating, who has held the spot for four years, while Mary Lou Hnatin has moved from number three last year to number two this season.
