Drinking issue elaborated

by TODD MOYER

Students at Bloomsburg State College are well aware of the "crack-down" on campus and off campus drinking. However, many of the students are not aware of the reasons for this semi-prohibition.

Police Chief Shellenberger, Bloomsburg Police Department, stated that many warnings were issued last year with no affect on the parties.

"It got to the point that the warnings meant nothing to the students having the parties," explained Shellenberger, "we were tired of warning so we decided to really clamp down."

Continuing on, Shellenberger explained that he really does not want to arrest students. He realizes that underage drinking does occur. Admittedly in most cases the warnings were abided, but others who continually received warnings and did nothing about them are the actual culprits.

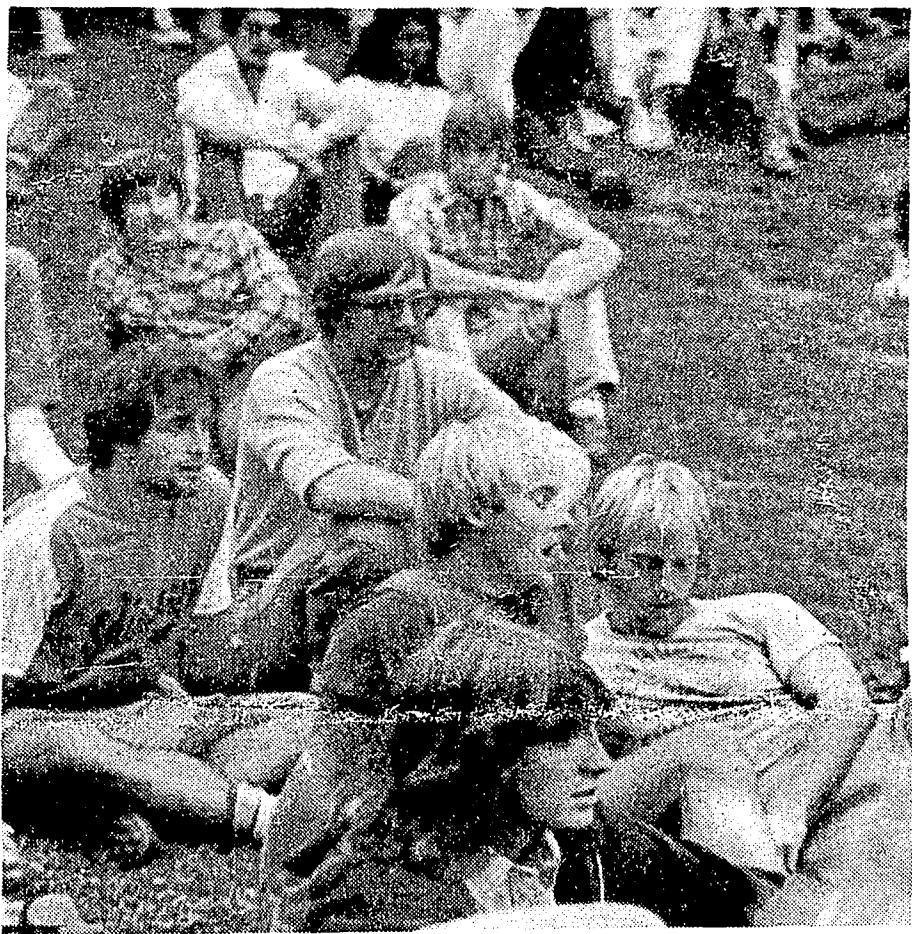

Shellenberger further stated that the police department also has a responsibility to the town of Bloomsburg. Complaint calls about noise or destructive behavior must be investigated.

The police department hopes that some kind of mutual understanding can be reached between campus students and the department. "The student parties have been fairly well disciplined this year," said Shellenberger. "We haven't had too many problems. I hope it continues because I really don't like to cause problems with the students. However, they are not above the law either and when they disturb the other citizens of the town, then we have to take some kind of action."

Vandalism is also a main concern of both the town and campus. Car windows smashed, tree branches broken, plants uprooted and the twisting of antennas are a few of the examples of party vandalism. Campus Security explained that most of the vandalism occurs after the parties are finished and the students walk about the campus or up from downtown.

In addition to the vandalism, security and the college are both concerned with student safety in conjunction with the numerous parties. In a memorandum to the college community from Jerrold A. Griffis, vice - president for Student Life, it was stated, "The liability for party - related death or injury is of major concern and as such, the college

Interest free loans available

Attention BSC student's! Any student can now get an interest free student loan because there are no longer any restrictions such as high earnings.

The federal government will pay the interest during the time the student is in school and for a nine-month period thereafter at which time the student must begin repaying.

Passage last year of the Middle Income Student Assistance Act assured students that no income test would be used in obtaining a student loan free of interest while the student is enrolled.

Then, just recently, additional legislation at the federal level insured availability of funds from private lenders by lifting a restrictive 5 percent maximum cap that had been placed on a "special allowance" paid for participation.

According to the Pennsylvania Higher Education Assistance Agency, which administers the student loan program for the Commonwealth, the special allowance rate now will "float" with the 91-day Treasury Bill rate, and this will guarantee lenders a fair return on their investment in the student loan market. Lenders receive the special allowance in addition to the flat 7 percent they are paid by the federal government for money loaned to students.

The private lending community in Pennsylvania has loaned $1,469,711,241 to 535,044 students since the program began in 1964, with PHEAA serving as the guarantor of these loans.

In recent years, the borrowing activity by students has soared, increasing from $107,371,059 in 1975-76 to an all-time high of $258,352,691 in 1978-79. Last year lenders indicated to PHEAA that the possibility loomed that student loan funds could dry up unless a more favorable return on extended monies was made possible.

Efforts by PHEAA and the American Bankers Association resulted in the "floating rate" legislation being passed.

PHEAA Executive Director Kenneth R. Reeher said he views the removal of the special allowance cap as being of paramount importance in keeping alive the flow of funds from private lenders to student borrowers especially now that many middle and upper middle Vote Today!

Do you feel that the student's voice should be heard more loudly at BSC? Well your voice is heard through your student representatives. Today many important student officers will be elected. Get out and vote for the one you feel is best for the job, then your voice will be heard also.

The positions being filled are: College Council of CGA, a student representative of Representative Assembly, Hall Council, Freshman class officers, Association of Resident Students and Judicial Board.

Elections are being held in the dorms from 10 a.m. to 9 p.m. and from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. in the Union.

Aaron Roetenbuerg is this semester's election chairman for CGA. He explained, "This is the first time all the elections are being held in one day, if you want action at BSC, take a moment and vote."

BSC needs electrical repairs

Results of an annual physical inspection of facilities, leading to a need for electrical repairs and support of continuing projects for BSC, highlighted a recent meeting of the BSC Board of Trustees.

Approval of the 1980-81 General Fund and Capital Budget, a discussion of grant allocations and approval of temporary positions were also discussed at the meeting.

ANNUAL INSPECTION

On August 8, 1979, the annual inspection of the campus' physical plant lead board members to state that "buildings were being properly maintained and in good working order." They also found the college's landscaping attractive and well-maintained.

After presenting their approval, the board gave support to future projects, chiefly among which is the renovation of electrical utilities.

According to Frank Davis, acting vice - president for administration, extensive patching and emergency repairs are needed to insure proper work and safety for the winter.

A 4,000 volt line allegedly blew in a vault area recently.

The only major problem which occurred involved closing the computer center for two days. If the blow-out had occurred in winter, said Davis, the damage could have been extremely costly. Davis further claimed that many of the electrical lines, primarily underground, could possibly be faulty.

"Buildings were being properly maintained and in good working order."

Other projects gaining trustee's support included the proposed Human Services Center, an addition to the library, improving handicap access areas and renovating Sutliff Hall and Hartline Science Center.

The 1980 - 81 General Fund and Capital Budget requests were approved by the board. Prepared by the vice-president for administration, the acting vice-president and personnel members, the budget request totals $26,288,400, an increase of approximately $2.8 million over this year's budget.

Get out and vote!

It's a known fact that elections hold a major decision in the operations of a democracy. This, of course, holds true on a national and local level.

Today, then, is a very important day for the college community. Elections are being held today in the Union and dormitories; elections which will inevitably decide the course of events for the following year.

Leading off will be the elections for College Council (CGA), Representative Assembly and the Judicial Board. These organizations are the mainstream for college politics and are to display the views of all students.

Of interest to the freshman, class officers will be elected. Even though this will be their first election, freshmen students should not hesitate to make their voices heard by electing officers.

Last, but not least, Hall Council and the Association of Resident Students will also be holding their elections today. These two organizations will affect all dormitory residents.

The election booths will be operating from 10 a.m. to 9 p.m. in the dormitories and 10 a.m. until 4 p.m. in the Union. Students are urged to take that extra few minutes to help elect officers who will work for them and with them. After all, what's a few minutes when the matter at hand will decide how this year will go? If you don't vote, remember, you will have no reason to complain if things do not turn out!

Film review

A fear-filled home

by MARK WARK

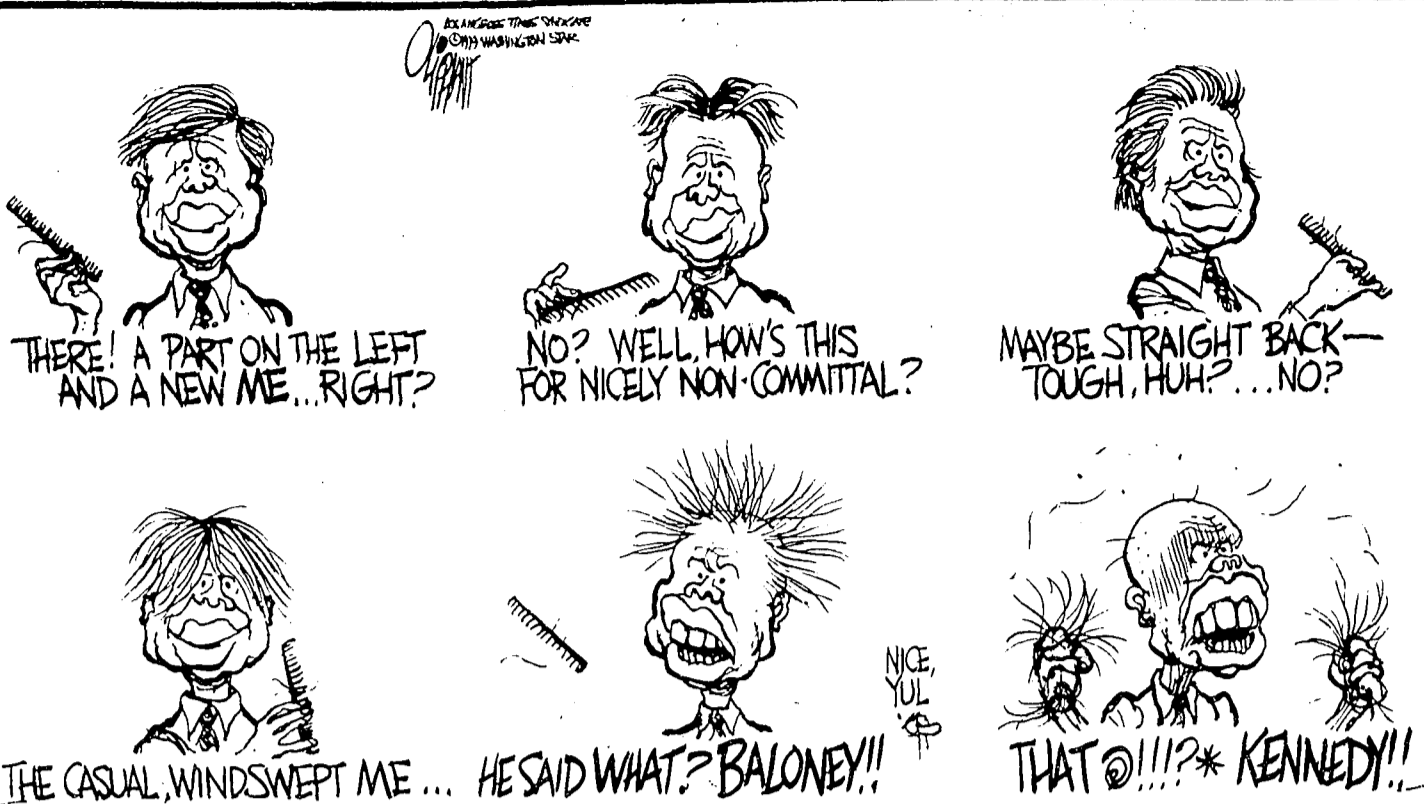

The Amityville Horror, based on a true story and best selling book about a haunted house in Long Island, is at most another occult horror picture with all the gripping suspense of The Exorcist, The Omen or Rosemary's Baby.

The film opens with Ronald Defio murdering his parents, brothers and sisters in the dead of night with a high powered rifle. The slow motion scene full of blood and bodies jerking from the impact of the bullets immediately sends your nerves into shock. The next scene opens with a new family, Lutz's, moving into their dream home, the same home where the murder took place one year ago. The Lutz family encounters terrifying experiences in the house, forcing them to flee the house in 28 days leaving behind all personal belongings, convinced that it was possessed by evil spirits.

The Key performers in the Amityville Horror are: George Lutz (played by James Brolin) who has an uncanny resemblance to the latent murderer Ronald Defio; Kathy Lutz (played by Margot Kidder) who becomes fearfully aware of the mysterious force that haunts her family; Amy Lutz who

by CHERYL PETERSON

Are you wondering why the ice cream dispenser has been removed from the dining rooms of the Commons into the serving lines?

Well, it's one of the procedural changes established by Stan Kashuba, manager of the Commons.

For reasons of sanitation and to reduce wastes, which is one of the causes of an increase in meal ticket price, Kashuba has removed many of the bulk items into the serving lines.

Kashuba, who replaced Joe Winters in April, reports the transition from Winters to himself was accomplished with few difficulties.

Kashuba has instituted a number of changes to improve the Commons.

During the summer months the staff scrutinized the Commons and the menu as well as the staff which was evaluated to make the necessary improvements to make the operation run more smoothly.

The menu, which hasn't changed, offers a salad bar with seven different salads at lunch and eleven at dinner.

The main purpose of the menu evaluation was to make sure that the same meals weren't repeated too often.

Prepare for your career

Editor's note: This issues column was written by Michael A. Goc.

Will you be looking for a job when you graduate from school? If you're like most people (95 percent), you will. But did you know that the most important thing you can do in getting a job is done before you graduate? It's called career planning.

In helping you to understand career planning, the Career Planning and Development Center of BSC is presenting Preparing Yourself for a Career, Monday, Sept. 24, 1979, beginning at 6 p.m. and concluding at 8:30 p.m. in the KUB. This free, non-credit course is part of the Student Development Program.

The evening will begin with a short introduction and slide presentation of what career planning is. Then the participants (you) will break into interest groups which will discuss specific areas of career planning. Topics for the interests areas include: decision making and goal setting, changing for future directions, the two career marriage, and several others.

These interest groups will be led by professional people from the area: Mr. Rodney Elser, administration manager, Westvaco Corp.; Mr. William Powlus, production control manager, Bloomsburg Mills; Dr. Barbara Bohnenblust, D.M.D.; Ms. Betty Henry, principal, Berwick High School;

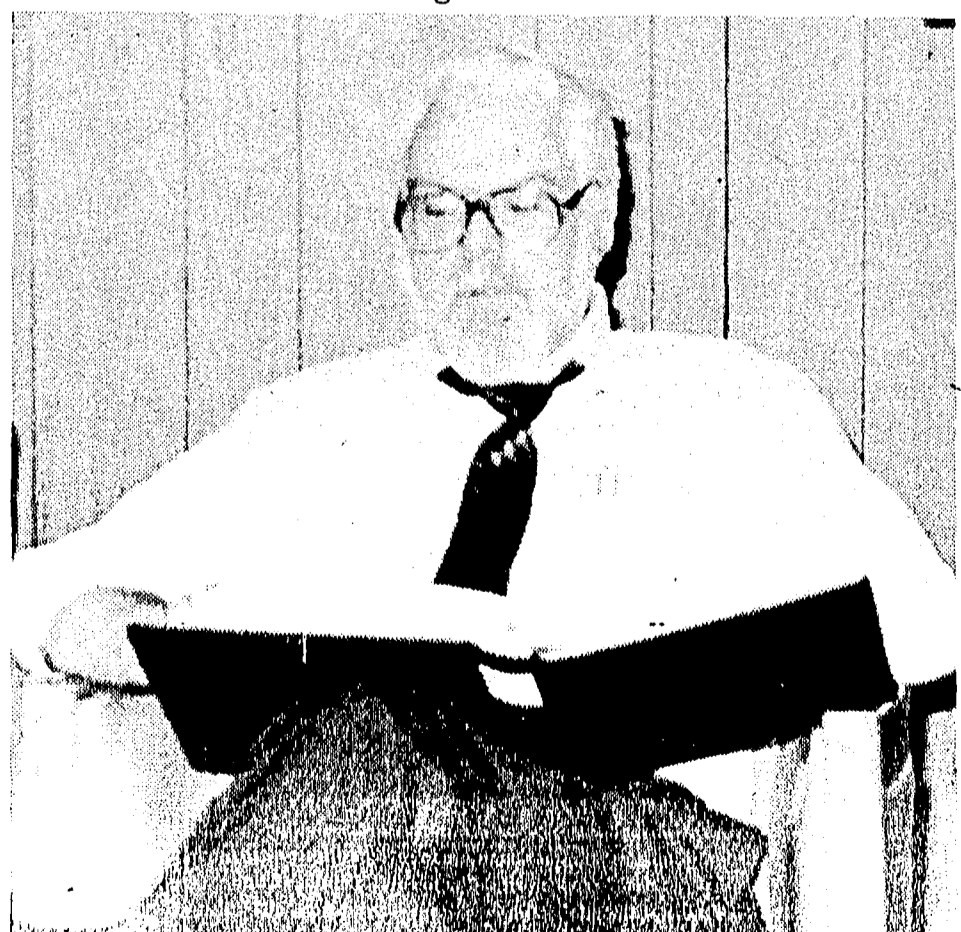

Kim and Ruth Borland, attorneys-at-law; and Karen I. Teisher, certified public accountant. Paraprofessional career counselors, students of BSC, who are trained and employed by the college, will assist these professionals in the discussions.

The participants will be able to join in several interests groups on a rotation basis every twenty minutes.

After the interests areas, Mr. Pete Veruki, director of college relations, Bethlehem Steel Corp., will make the major presentation: Making Yourself the Best Candidate for Employment. This will be followed by a question-and-answer period and informal discussion to conclude the workshop.

So if finding a job is important to you, or will be, come to Preparing Yourself for a Career, presented Monday, sept. 24, 6:00 - 8:30 p.m. in the Coffeehouse of the KUB.

READING EXCERPTS FROM HIS NEW BOOK, "Ghosting", was Don Murray from the University of New Hampshire. Murray also discussed novel writing at the session last week.

Hunsinger retires after 43 years

After almost 44 years of service, Elton Hunsinger, administrator for grants and federal relations, has announced his retirement.

Submitted to the Board of Trustees, his retirement will become effective December 28, 1979.

Hunsinger began his career at BSC in 1961 as dean of men. Shortly after this he was promoted to dean of students and associate vice-president for student affairs. He also occupied the position of director of placement.

Currently, Hunsinger's job includes working with local state and federal officials to obtain grants for BSC. This year's total grant money is expected to exceed $1 million for various college programs.

Along with his administrator for grants and federal relations position, Hunsinger holds other jobs. He is also food service administrator, a member of the President's council and is a member of several college-wide committees.

A native of Geneva, New York, Hunsinger moved to Hazleton, then Aristes, where he graduated from Conyngham Township High School.

After graduation, he attended East Stroudsburg State College where he received his bachelor of science degree in health and physical education. He later received his masters of art degree in administration from Bucknell University.

Hunsinger is married to the former Grace Kostenbauder.

ELTON HUNSINGER will end 43 years of service on December 28 when he retires.

Olympian is being organized

Have you always dreamed about seeing your artistic works in print? BSC students, faculty and personnel, now here is your chance!

The Olympian, BSC's college magazine is now being organized. Anyone interested in submitting short stories, poetry, photography or art work are welcome to contribute to the magazine.

The deadlines for the different categories are: Wednesday, Sept. 26, for short stories, poetry and articles; Wednesday, Oct. 3, for art, photos and cover design.

The contributions should be sent to Box 16, Kehr Union.

This year's editors are seniors Janet Rusnak and Eileen Callahan.

The Olympian is published once a semester. Last semester's issues are available at the Information Desk in the Union.

has a responsibility to do all that it can to prevent the behavior from which a liability can result." Security is very concerned about students walking up to campus from a party downtown. Students walking in front of cars or tripping down a flight of concrete stairs are two of the more obvious ways of how one can be injured while under the influence of alcohol.

Griffis has also noted another point. The number of students at parties has increased tremendously in the last two years. Only in recent years has there been numbers in the 100 to 200 range of students at a single party. BSC is slowly getting the reputation of being the "Party School" on the Susquehanna. "The reputation of the school is slipping. I hear it from the faculty and usually from the students of other schools," explained Griffis.

The memorandum further explains this point stating, "It is felt by many that the reputation of the college is suffering - that its reputation for things other than an educational institution is increasing. To the extent that this is true, the value of the degree is cheapened. That, in turn, can affect adversely the employment of its graduates and the recruitment of new students as well as the support, financial and otherwise, it receives from the legislature, the public and its alumni."

The "crackdown" will continue from both the Bloomsburg Police, Campus Security and the college administration. No one is out to "get" anyone, it is merely for the protection of the students, townspeople and the reputation of the institution.

income families will qualify for federal payment of interest charges for the first time.

"Removal of the cap," said Reeher, "enables the lender to cope with all market conditions over an extended investment period and is an approach that will effectively encourage continued lender program involvement." He also said that it ensures lenders a competitive return on student loan accounts as compared with other types of investments.

example, engineering is a combination of math and biology. The Ideas Series attempts to interrelate disciplines such as one science and one art, and combining those disciplines into education.

The Ideas Series has existed in BSC under various names since 1967. The series is popular on college campuses throughout the country.

"I wouldn't care to be a member of a faculty that didn't have a forum for general ideas and a synthesis of the disciplines," Smithner said.

The speaker at the Ideas Series last week was Dr. Julius Kroschewsky from the biology department. The next talk is on Oct. 17, and the topic will be "Shakespeare and Politics" by William Baillie of the English department.

Any student interested in giving a talk or who wants to know more about the Ideas Series should call the foreign language department.

A triple concert of old and new

McGUINN, CLARK
& HILLMAN
by MARIA KAHLER

"To everything, there is a season," the Byrds sang in 1966, "and a time to every purpose under heaven."

The folk-rock form devised by the Byrds came and went - but even after a 12-year break, the purpose of ex-Byrds Roger McGuinn, Gene Clark and Chris Hillman has always been to make music and the fall of 1979 is once again their season.

McGUINN, CLARK
& HILLMAN

McGuinn, Clark & Hillman have come together to make music again and will open Homecoming festivities with a concert in Haas Auditorium on Wednesday, Oct. 4 at 8 p.m.

In their time, the Byrds were the most important band to come out of Los Angeles. The group was best known for hits like "Mr. Tamborine Man", "Eight Miles High" and "Turn, Turn, Turn."

Fans attending the concert will probably hear some of the oldies - but shouldn't expect to hear the Byrds. Their music has taken a brand new direction using a more rhythm and blues affect.

The threesome's fresh new sound can be heard on their new album release entitled McGuinn, Clark & Hillman, with hits such as "Don't You Write Her Off", "Surrender to Me" and "Bye Bye Baby".

Livingston Taylor, songwriter and entertainer will also be among the performers lined up for the Homecoming concert.

LIVINGSTON TAYLOR

Livingston, who has been playing to audiences for the last 5 years, has recently put out his first album for Epic Records entitled 3-Way Mirror. Its concise ten song collection of Taylor's wit includes hits like "I Will Be in Love With You", "I'll Come Running" and "How Much Your Sweet Love Means to Me".

Born in Boston and raised in North Carolina, the 27 year old Livingston is tall, blond and handsome and with a brother like James Taylor, how could he be anything but great?

COOPER BROTHERS

Dick and Brian Cooper are the core of a seven man musical group - The Cooper Brothers, who will be the last of the three groups to perform at the Homecoming concert.

The group from Ottawa, Canada, saw the release of their first album following the signing of a deal with Capricorn Records in the U.S.

The debut album simply titled Cooper Brothers is set for world-wide release.

The strength of the band is two fold - the variety of material which comes from the pen of Richard Cooper, and the fact that the group boasts four lead singers which gives a variety of sound combinations.

The group has been established for some time in the Ottawa area, winning a strong local following throughout the Ottawa Valley. The album, however, is giving the group an international breakthrough.

Tickets are available at the Information Desk in the Kehr Union, and are priced at $7.00 without a BSC I.D. and $6.00 with one.

ANSWERING QUESTIONS ON UPCOMING CONCERTS are members of this year's student concert committee. The committee held an organizational meeting last week which highlighted possible concert ideas for the upcoming year.

Ideas Series

Learning by combining ideas

by LINDA WRIGHT

If you are an authority on anything from music to bicycle racing, the foreign language department has a proposition for you!

The Ideas Series, held bi-monthly for students and faculty, is a learning experience involving subjects from biology to backpacking. Although the foreign language department sponsors the talks, they seldom focus on foreign languages. It's an interdisciplinary involvement with every department on campus, and also interested students.

Dr. Eric W. Smithner of the foreign languages department is in charge of the speakers. Some of the talks involve professors returning from oversea sabbaticals with current ideas; others involve a student with an interesting hobby. The purpose of the Ideas Series is to combine the various departments and break down a synthesize of ideas. For compartmentalization to form (continued on page three)

Service fraternity opens its doors

Alpha Phi Omega is offering an open invitation to all BSC students. Whether or not you are presently a member of a social organization on campus, you are still able to join APO which is the only service fraternity or sorority on campus.

Starting this semester, the Xi Lambda chapter here at Bloomsburg is open to all BSC students. By becoming co-ed we will be in accordance with the national Alpha Phi Omega fraternity, which is presently co-ed on many campuses across the nation. We hope to gain a "new look," appealing to all, and provide more services to the college and surrounding communities.

Presently, APO is working with the Explorer's Post around Bloomsburg, providing campus tours and helping with the Bloodmobile here on campus. APO is still looking for fresh, new, and different ideas, and talents. So if you are interested and want to help, please contact Vern Fisher at the APO house, 353 Lightstreet Rd., 784-1627; Dr. Devore, Hartline 57, 389-2513; or just ask any APO brother.

Amateur photographers have a new source to advance their darkroom techniques.

Braun North America, a division of the Gillette Co., has launched the Paterson Darkroom Club. A membership fee is $5 for one year, or $8.50 for two years.

A member receives a kit of useful information: a layout for a darkroom, a quarterly publication, written by professional photographers, and a "how-to" book on the darkroom.

There are some other useful items, such as a darkroom doorknob sign to advise if one can enter the room, or should wait. Identification labels for chemicals and trays are also included in the kit.

One of the more valuable items is a membership card which provides a 10 percent rebate on darkroom merchandise bought at a photo store.

Koshuba thinks the students are hard workers but not dependable, therefore, a cut system is in effect, which the workers feel is fair.

Hopefully the rotation scheduled will make sure the Commons isn't short-handed during the weekends.

Some special events the Commons plans to hold are, Nutritional Awareness Day, held in conjunction with the Nursing Department, a Halloween party, with a special buffet, where the students are encouraged to wear costumes, plus Thanksgiving and Christmas dinners.

The Food Service Committee, has 15 members consisting of students, off-campus students, faculty and administrators.

The committee will meet twice a month to discuss the Commons.

The committee will examine the Commons by instituting a complaint department, where students can comment or make suggestions concerning the menu and or operational procedures.

The committee will set up a "Beef Board" outside the dining rooms where students' complaints and suggestions will be answered.

The students may also give constructive criticism, which the committee will review and act upon those that are the best.

The committee hopes to open communications between themselves and the students in order to operate the best Commons possible.

Romantic eve sets the stage

by LEE G. VIVIAN

On Sunday, Sept. 30, Haas Center for the Arts will be filled with the sounds of Romantic music. Appearing will be the Northeastern Pennsylvania Philharmonic Orchestra, under the baton of maestro Thomas Michalak. The guest artist will be Jorge Bolet. Bolet is considered to be the world's greatest contemporary interpreter of Romantic piano music. The Sunday evening concert will begin at 8:15 p.m.

The orchestra is an 80-piece, fully professional organization. It was formed in 1972 through the merger of smaller symphonies in Wilkes-Barre and Scranton, and has become the region's largest and fastest growing performing arts organizations. Under the direction of Michalak, it has received a nationwide reputation for musical excellence as one of the country's finest and most versatile metropolitan orchestras.

Michalak is an artist of international stature. In his career he has won the Exxon Fellowship for young conductors, as well as the coveted Koussevitzky Prize.

Guest artist Bolet has been heralded by major music critics throughout the world. The Washington Post classifies him as "one of the few living superpianists." His performances have been called "a triumph of piano playing and of honest musicianship" by N.Y. Times critic Harold Schonberg. In London, Bryce Morris of the renowned journal "Music and Musicians" summed it all up by saying "London is treated to displays of this calibre on only the rarest of occasions and the entire recital amply confirmed Bolet's status as one of the world's greatest pianists."

This recognition of Bolet has been evident as each season he fills a crowded schedule of engagements. He now performs all over the world. Major summer festivals at which he has appeared include Philadelphia's Robin Hood Dell, Chicago's Ravinia and the Hollywood Bowl. He is the third person ever to head the piano department at the renowned Curtis Institute -- his predecessors having been Josef Hofmann and Rudolf Serkin. Bolet took this prestigious position exactly 50 years after he first auditioned there.

Tickets for the concert are available now at the KUB Info Desk at the price of $5 each. Current Community Activities sticker holders may receive two free tickets.

Free clinic on asthmatic children

Central Pennsylvania Lung and Health Service Association is planning a "Conference on Asthmatic Children" co-sponsored in cooperation with the Geisinger Medical Center on Saturday, Nov. 10, 1979 from 1:00 to 4:00 p.m. in the Hemelright Auditorium Bush Pavilion at the Geisinger Medical Center, Danville, Pa.

This free clinic is being presented on children with asthma for their parents, teachers, nurses and interested people who have contact with children who have asthma - to help them better understand asthma.

There will be a panel discussion consisting of four doctors from the Pediatric Cardiopulmonary and the Chest Physical Therapy departments - all of the Geisinger Medical Center staff will present the program. A question and answer session will be conducted by the panel for those attending the program.

Advanced registration is available by contacting the Lung Association in Sunbury - phone 286-0611.

Father Delaney (played by Rod Steiger), the priest who's attempts to exorcise the spirits from the house, becomes nothing but, fatal to his own health.

As for the film, the special effects are atrocious. We in the audience, during rare shots, see a giant pig in Amy's bedroom window, hear a demon's voice come from a frail young woman's mouth and watch windows and doors blow out of their frames. Apart from the array of special effects that holds us on the edge of suspense, Director Stuart Rosenberg holds our interest by forcing us to share in the terrifying experiences along with the Lutz family.

Whatever Jay Anson claims to be factual in his book, comparatively in the film, seems to be stretched through Hollywood fiction and box office glamour. In all, the book and the film seem to have "a documentary quality" to them that allows even the most atheistic imagination to be wary.

Huskies downed by Red Raiders

A late-minute touchdown by the Red Raiders of Shippensburg State College gave the visitors a 16-13 win over the Huskies in Bloomsburg football action here Saturday afternoon. Shippensburg's game-winning score came with just 34 seconds left to play in the final quarter. Up until that point, the BSC defense had done an outstanding job of containing the Raiders.

Senior Mike Morucci collected 140 yards for the afternoon and the Bloomsburg captain scored both Bloom-

Internship in real estate available

A national grant - internship program for college sophomores, juniors and seniors interested in a professional real estate career has been announced by United Farm Agency, Inc., national real estate firm.

The program is for the summer of 1980 and is being offered to students of colleges and universities in states where United maintains sales offices. "This is because students chosen for the program will work in offices of United representatives," according to Wayne Martin, director of development for the company. Excluded are Hawaii, Alaska, Louisiana, North Dakota and

New Jersey.

Applicants should be degree-seeking students of business or economics at an accredited college or university in the sophomore, junior or senior study of study. He or she must have an interest in pursuing a real estate career after graduation.

Students selected will receive a stipend of $2000 to defray expenses during the 10 - week internship. The program also includes an expense - paid, 5-day pre - internship training program and a 2-day post - internship evaluation at United's national headquarters in Kansas City, Missouri.

Students will be placed in a

United representative's office in their state of residence for the 10 - week period as a sales associate, fully eligible for commission earnings on the same basis as other sales associates. They will receive continuing training and supervision by the sponsoring agent and United's district manager.

GRANTS DISCUSSED

Elton Hunsinger, acting administrator for grants and federal relations, explained several grant possibilities for BSC. Areas which may benefit include the special education department, communications disorders, upward bound and the Center for Academic Development.

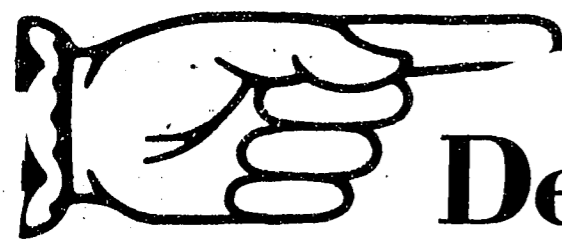

Of particular interest is one of the largest grants which will include six higher education institutions in the area. The grant, to be reviewed soon, will incorporate religious, state, private and community colleges in north eastern Pennsylvania: a precedent for the area. According to President McCormick, it will be a big step in area-colleges relations.

Also at the meeting, the board approved open instructional and maintenance positions, to be filled on a temporary basis.

sburg touchdowns.
Morucci scored BSC's first touchdown with 13:37 remaining in the second period. Husky Ed Bugno, sandwiched by two Shippensburg defenders, snared a pass from quarterback Matt Figard on the 10 and was finally brought down at the one-yard line, setting up Morucci's first score.

Shippensburg rallied with a 21-yard field goal and a touchdown to carry a 9-7 lead into the fourth quarter. With 4:08 left to play, Morucci scored on a 39-yard run to give the Huskies a 13-9 lead. Bloomsburg marched 91 yards in six plays for the second touchdown.

Then, what looked like a sure victory turned into disappointing loss for BSC when a quick series of completed passes gave Shippensburg their second touchdown of the day in the final seconds of the game.

DEFENSIVE EFFORT STRONG

Throughout much of the game, the Bloomsburg defensive unit displayed a strong game. With one second remaining in the first half, the Red Raiders had the ball on the one yard line, but the visitors were thrown for a five-yard loss by the Huskies as the time ran out.

Three times in the second half, the Huskies again stopped Shippensburg deep in their own territory. In the third period, the Raiders had to settle for a field goal, as their offensive drive was halted by Bloomsburg.

The game saw many turnovers on the part of both teams. Bloomsburg gave up four fumbles and had three passes intercepted. Shippensburg coughed-up two fumbles, while losing the ball twice on interceptions.

Two Huskies received injuries during play on Saturday. Starting quarterback Rick Knisely was sidelined in the first period with a leg injury. Senior Bill Lund missed play because of an ankle injury.

Bloomsburg will travel to Lock Haven State College for a 1:30 p.m. game on Saturday.

Harriers toppled

The BSC cross country team opened its 1979 season on Saturday afternoon, losing to the visiting West Chester Harriers 16-47.

The top runners for Bloomsburg were co-captain Steve Johnson, who finished the five-mile course in fifth place with a time of 27:30 and Mike Swank, who placed ninth with his 28:16 time.

Huskies Tom Groff, a co-captain who is recovering from an ankle injury, and Bob Feeley, a freshman runner, captured the 10th and 11th spots. They turned in 28:28 and 28:34 times, respectively.

"Inexperience had a great deal to do with the score," commented head coach Clark Boler, who added that injuries contributed to the score.

"With a little more mileage and training, I'm sure the scores will improve," he said. He said also that he has already noticed a good deal of improvement in a number of his young runners since practice began three weeks ago.

The team will be in action again this Saturday when they will face Mansfield State College. The home match will begin at 3 p.m.

Stickwomen gain experience

by DENIS RATH

In preseason play on Thursday, the field hockey team lost to East Stroudsburg State College 1-0. On Friday, in an informal scrimmage with Wilkes College, the Huskies scored the only goal of the afternoon.

In Thursday's scrimmage, the Huskies held the strong offense of East Stroudsburg scoreless throughout the first half. Likewise, the defense of the hosts prevented a BSC goal in the initial 35-minutes of play.

In the second half, ESSC continued to apply strong offensive pressure. Bloomsburg's play was often disorganized and lacked spirit. East Stroudsburg's goal in the period gave them the 1-0 victory.

WILKES

Despite Friday's heavy rains, a squad from Wilkes College traveled to Bloomsburg for a scrimmage consisting of 15-minute segments.

Bloomsburg scored its goal when a center pass by sophomore Kim Rice found freshman forward Diane Imbeden waiting in front of the case to tap the ball home.

Coach Jan Hutchinson commented at the end of play, "we played good hockey — it was only an indication of the talent that has yet to be tapped. We're on our way."

The Huskies are on their way this afternoon — they face Kutztown State College at 3:30 p.m., at Kutztown, in their first official game. A junior varsity contest will follow the opener.
