

Marketing Club hosts Joseph Rado

The Appalachian Marketing Club in conjunction with the School of Business and the Alumni Office will sponsor the third annual Executive in Residence, Tuesday, April 15. The presentations will be held at 9:30 a.m. and 2 p.m. in the Kehr Union Multipurpose Room A.

The Executive in Residence program was initiated two years ago. Since then each year a BSC Alumnus, who has excelled in Marketing, returns to the campus to share his ideas and knowledge with students. Alumnus in Residence

This year's Alumnus in Residence is Joseph A. Rado, a graduate of the class of '63. He is a sales representative for Metropolitan Life. His topic

"How to Succeed in Sales" and will include an introduction to the Keypac computer.

Tuesday evening will be highlighted with a banquet in the faculty dining room of the Scranton Commons. During the banquet, Rado will be presented with the Alumni in Residence Plaque.

For further information on the Executive in Residence Program contact Tom Wright at 387-0578. The public is invited to attend this year's Executive in Residence programs.

BSC security reports thefts

BSC security officials report that several thefts occurred recently on the campus.

A Realistic mini-23 CB radio, valued at $90, was taken from a student's parked vehicle. The CB had the call letters KADI 4907 engraved on its bottom.

On another vehicle, the vent glass was broken, and an attempt was made to take a tape player. The attempt failed but considerable damage was done to the vehicle, according to the security official.

A Pierce-Simpson Tiger 40 CB radio, call letters KBBB 6894, valued at $115, was stolen from a student's vehicle. The left car door was broken during the theft. Total damages were estimated at $165.

A set of speakers, valued at $50, and a CB mike, valued at $30 were taken from another vehicle. The vent glass was broken; BSC security estimated total damages at $100.

ON CAMPUS THEFTS

A six-string Weyman standard guitar with a black case and strap was taken from Room 447, Montour Hall, sometime Sunday or Monday, a BSC security official reports.

The guitar, a two-toned, dark brown, mahogany with about a 10-inch crack on the back and scratches and nicks was valued at $100.

Two rubber walk-off mats valued at $40.26 were stolen from Nelson Fieldhouse pool sometime Tuesday. The mats were 4 x 6'.

U.S.S.A. delighted with draft decision

The U.S. Student Association (USSA) has expressed its delight at the solid defeat of provisions to reinstate the draft and registration for 18-year old males by the U. S. House of Representatives.

By a vote of 252 to 163 the House voted against a proposal by Rep. Sonny Montgomery (D-MS) to retain the draft registration sections of H.R. 4040. The House then accepted a motion by Rep. Patricia Schroeder (D-CO) to officially delete the provisions from the bill.

USSA, a member of the Committee Against Registration and the Draft (CARD), conducted an intense campaign to mobilize college and university students against the draft. Students from throughout the United States wrote letters, marched, demonstrated, petitioned, and lobbied their members of Congress against registration and the draft.

"Students played a vital role in alerting Congress to the dangers and inequities of reinstating registration."

Frank Jackalone, USSA national chairperson, said, "Students played a vital role in alerting Congress to the dangers and inequities of reinstating registration. USSA will continue to organize students to press the Senate to defeat its version of registration, S. 109, which may be voted on shortly."

USSA's Legislative Director, Joel Packer, continued by remarking that, "Peacetime registration is completely unwarranted at this time. The Department of Defense opposes it, the Selective Service opposes it, and the White House opposes it. Those who do favor it see registration as the first step back toward the draft. A peacetime draft runs counter to the principles on which this country was founded, and must be defeated."

Author Lois Lowry speaks at Reading Conference

Author Lois Lowry will be one of the featured speakers at Bloomsburg State College's Sixteenth Annual Reading Conference April 11 and 12. Lowry will speak on "The Patchwork Craft of Fiction" at the conference's banquet Friday, April 11 at 7:30 p.m. in the Scranton Commons.

Born in Honolulu, Hawaii, Lowry has lived in Tokyo, New York City, Cambridge and rural Maine before she settled in Boston, Massachusetts. Her work as a freelance journalist and photographer has been most beneficial for her writing career.

Lowry has written Nastisia Kreipnik and A Summer to Die. Recently Nastisia Kreipnik was named as an American Library Association Notable Book. Her next book, Autumn Summer, will be published in April.

For further information on the Reading Conference, contact Dr. Margaret Spenseller, director, Bloomsburg State College Reading Clinic and the Conference, at (717) 389-3209.

1982 statewide college Band festival is at BSC

BSC will be the site of the 1982 Pennsylvania Collegiate Bandmaster's Association state-wide college band festival.

The Pennsylvania Collegiate Bandmaster's Association at its annual business meeting unanimously endorsed a letter of invitation from Dr. James H. McCormick that will enable Bloomsburg to serve as the host college for the 35th Annual Pennsylvania Intercollegiate Band Festival.

The Pennsylvania festival, the oldest long-standing intercollegiate band festival of its kind in the United States, brings together approximately 140 student musicians from approximately 32 participating colleges and universities within the Commonwealth.

The three-day festival, March 12-14, 1982, will culminate in a public concert on Sunday, March 14 in Haas under the baton of a nationally-known guest conductor.

BSC last hosted the festival in March of 1963 when Nelson A. Miller was host and Dr. William D. Revelli, Director of Bands at the University of Michigan (now emeritus), was the guest conductor.

A 'future' conference

The 1980's, a barely-begun decade which has already produced a few traumas, will be the focus of a major conference in Toronto, Canada, next July.

Called the First Global Conference on the Future, the meeting will convene some 4,000 scholars, decision-makers and other futurists from around the world for a week of deliberations on the theme

Many Activities planned for BSC siblings

By JANET RUSNAK

Brothers and sisters of BSC students will invade the campus on April 18, 19 and 20 for the annual Siblings' Weekend.

This year's activities will get underway on Saturday, April 19, with a block party and movie festival. For younger children, a story hour will be held in the Kehr Union Coffeehouse. Later in the day there will be bowling and pinball tournaments.

On Sunday, April 20, the Women's Choral Ensemble and Husky Singers will perform in concert with the Brass Sextet. The young brothers and sisters will also have the opportunity to hear a Student Recital in Carver Hall.

A special addition to Siblings' Weekend this year will be the opportunity to attend the Republican Mock Convention that is being held in Centennial Gym. Interested youngsters will have a chance to watch the delegates choose a presidential and vice-presidential candidate.

The Mock Convention will begin on Friday, April 18, at 7 p.m. and will conclude on Saturday after the candidates are nominated.

Applications are now being accepted for the position of executive editor for the Campus Voice, 1980-81. A minimum of two years work on the newspaper staff is required. Send resumes and a summary of reasons for applying to The Campus Voice office by April 14.

Movie Review: Kramer vs. Kramer

by JIM PEFFLEY

A novel by Avery Corman was published two years ago and gained respect by depicting a relationship rarely seen in current fiction. However, what made the subject compelling was the stark realism suggested in today's marriages.

Robert Benton, along with superb performances by Dustin Hoffman, Meryl Streep and Jane Alexander, has brought the literary realism into light with the current film hit "Kramer vs. Kramer." Nominated for nine academy awards, the film is currently enjoying a record run at a local theater.

The simplistic tale of a father and son left behind by a confused mother could have been piled with cliches. But from the opening shot of the emotionally drawn mother saying good-bye to her sleeping son to the climactic custody court scene, the movie envelops the audience into the brief joys and painful heartaches of three ordinary, yet quite special people.

Hoffman gives one of the most earthy performances of his career. At first he appears as the job-conscious and oblivious father, but through the course of the movie displays a range of anger, love and pathos while confronting the problems of raising his son alone.

Perhaps what aids Hoffman is the crystalline performance of Justin Henry as Billy. A screen favorite and a natural performer (most of his lines were improvised), he presents an everyday child who must come to grips with the family crisis. The scenes between father and son are destined to become film gems.

What is surprising of "Kramer" is the fact that the audience is not forced to side with either the mother or father. Meryl Streep, on a continuous rise to fame, since "The Deer Hunter," displays every emotion possible. At times confused, and yet fiercely competitive, Streep's facial performance alone is worth the admission price.

And of course, every typical family has a neighbor. The Kramers luckily have Jane Alexander. She enters as the mother's concerned friend and

Editorial Letters

EDITOR'S NOTE: Letters must be typed on a 60-character line and be in the Voice Office no later than 6 p.m. Tuesdays to be included in Friday's edition. All letters must be signed, with a phone number enclosed. Names will be withheld upon request, at the discretion of the editor.

TO THE EDITOR:

No matter what may be the situation at other State colleges, there is no excuse for a tuition increase at BSC this year. Since there is no law requiring that fees be identical (State colleges don't charge "tuition", but only "fees", which may differ), the CAS at BSC should make an effort to stop the $150 increase here, even if it can't do so at other colleges.

The CAS and the CGA have the power, if they want to use it, to prevent costs from rising at BSC equivalent to the $150 increase for each student.

First, they can demand that the colleges use underemployed professors in Foreign Languages, History, Education, etc. as administrators (in the Alumni Office, Personnel, Library, etc.) instead of hiring so many outsiders, as the Trustees have just done. (There are now, three, highly paid administrators directing the Personnel Office, whereas last year there was only one, not very busy, person in charge.)

Second, they can demand that the unneeded, $6.4 mil "Human Services Center" be scrapped and replaced with a desperately needed $3 mil dorm. At today's high interest rates (9 percent for the State), this "Center" will cost the taxpayers at least $1 mil per year in financing and operating costs (heat, light, etc.); with no return. A dorm, on the other hand, pays for itself, at least partly, from fees to students. A new dorm will mean better living and, especially, studying conditions on campus, and less of a housing shortage in Bloomsburg, leading to lower rents and better housing for students and other poor people downtown, like me.

The "Center" is not needed for the BSC Nursing program, as claimed, (and certainly not a huge $6.4 mil building) since the Bloomsburg Hospital is counting on BSC Nursing to use a $1 mil plus building already in construction. (See Morning Press, page 1, March 19.)

At times like these of inflation and tight State Budgets, I can't believe that the CAS and the CGA are going to be successful in preventing a tuition increase, either this year, or in years to come, unless they show legislators they are willing to help the General Assembly reduce bloated bureaucracies at some of the State colleges, and reduce the construction of unneeded, or less needed buildings.

Deake Porter, former Assoc. Prof. Economics

To the editor:

And we mean it! We're not merely repeating the lyrics of the Village People's hit song. We really need your active participation in and strong support of a unit that supports you.

We are the Bloomsburg State Marching Band. Our need for your time, talent, and enthusiasm has not just begun. We've always needed you. But due to graduating members, student teaching and myriad other reasons, the number of our instrumentalists is dwindling to the point of the group's possible extinction. There could be no marching band next year.

Do you realize that of the approximately 5,100 undergraduates, there are more than 100 members in each class who have played in their high school marching bands? But do we have the support of these individuals? The answer is clear.

Where is your enthusiasm and school support for BSC? This organization wants to stand by our football team, cheerleaders, and student body and be counted as a major source of spirit and fine tradition for the college. Remarks such as "they can't be heard" or "the band stinks" are excuses you've given us because of your lack of participation.

It is a fact that the current program is not the best it could be; it needs some improvement. Current members and you are the people who must make it better next year. Becoming a member is no hardship; you need not have an extensive musical background.

We want you to use your talent and experience as a musician and become part of a hardworking but fun-loving and productive college

Paintings on display

by KATHY ARVIA

Recent drawings and paintings by Chet Davis will be on display in the President's Lounge of the Kehr Union at BSC from April 8 to the 26. Accompanying Davis's work will be the crystalline glazed porcelains of his friend, DeLana Hornbeck.

Davis is currently an art instructor at the Shamokin Area School District and is finishing his thesis to receive his masters degree in Education from the University of Hartford, Hartford Art School in Connecticut. All of his recent work has been done on a square format which enables him to revolve the canvas while he works, purposely done to avoid assigning a top and bottom until the painting is finished. Davis feels this approach allows his paintings to become more than just image landscapes since the canvas is a object to be acted upon as part of his environment.

This is Davis's first one-man show, but he plans to have another next fall in Connecticut. Although he feels there is more of a market for his style of paintings in the metropolitan areas, he says he could never live and produce there. The simple, easy lifestyle he found

Architectural show features Bloomsburg

The Art Gallery Class under the direction of Ken Wilson is proud to present "ARCHITECTURAL BLOOMSBURG: Views and Perspectives". The show is largely a pictorial essay on Bloomsburg's architectural aesthetics.

Many of the townspeople will be pleased and proud to know that their homes, churches, and places of business are included in our survey. The exhibition will be held on the college campus in Haas Gallery from April 9 to the 31.

The opening reception is on Sunday, April 13 from 2:00 to 4:00 p.m.; refreshments will be served and is free to all who come.

S. Columbia musician wins scholarship

Brian Lawrence, a member of the Southern Columbia High School band for the past five years, is the first recipient of a scholarship sponsored by the Bloomsburg State College Preparatory Program in Music in conjunction with the college's School of Extended Studies.

The scholarship is awarded on merit, financial need, and the recommendation of the school instructor, and provides financial assistance towards the recipient's musical instruction at the college.

Brian is the son of Mrs. Nikki L. Lawrence, R.D. 2, Elysburg. The scholarship program is under the direction of Dr. John Masters, of the BSC Music faculty.

thinkers and doers will address the conference, including: Italian industrialist Aurelio Peccei, founder of the Club of Rome; Filipino official Rafeal Salas, now head of the United Nations' population activities; German author Robert Jungk; Indian urban planner Rashmi Mayer; French social scientist Bertrand de Jouvenel; Argentine economist Andre van Dam; Canadian communications theorist Marshall McLuhan, and Swiss economist Bruno Fritsch.

The United States will be represented by such thought leaders as policy analyst Herman Kahn; author-diplomat Harlan Cleveland; public opinion analyst Florence Skelly; environmentalist Lester R. Brown, and several hundred others. The honorary chairman is Maurice Strong, Canadian businessman and former director of the United Nations Environmental Program.

400 LARGE AND SMALL SESSIONS

Topics of the estimated 400 large and small sessions at the Conference will run the gamut from "World Food: Will There Be Enough?" to the technology, art, education, values, medicine, and even recreation of the future.

In his message of convocation to the delegates, Strong declared that "the time has come to move from thinking and dialogue to action."

"This conference must become the launching pad for that important action to occur in the 1980s," Strong said. "It is encouraging to see the broadening concern for futuristic issues. What began as a discussion amongst a relatively small core of scientists, futurists, and public interest groups now engages wide attention. This has fed on our personal experiences with environmental problems and energy shortages .... The people coming to this conference have the capacity to take the required initiative."

Edward Cornish, president of the World Future Society, said the Conference comes at an extremely important juncture in human affairs.

"The world seems to have entered a phase in which some key trends have lost their force and the structure of many institutional arrangements has been seriously undermined. We must anticipate that enormous changes will occur during this crucial 10-year period. We have the opportunity, I believe, to shape the trends in a desirable direction, but we must not fail to take advantage of the opportunity if we want to create a better future world."

Spending power of weekly wages is lower

The real spending power of weekly wages for non-supervisory personnel in higher education today is about 70 percent of what it was in 1967, according to WORKING WOMEN's newly released report, "Becoming a Priority: The Status of University and College Office Staff."

The report, based on a nationwide survey of the pay and working conditions of university and college office staff from 253 universities and colleges in the U.S. and extensive research, finds that 79 percent of the clerical workers surveyed make wages below $11,000.

"Universities and colleges have to stop fighting inflation by paying substandard salaries to office workers," stated Karen Nussbaum, director of WORKING WOMEN, and a former university office worker. "Office staff must become more of a priority in the budgets of institutions of higher education."

The report also documents the role of higher education institutions in the national, regional and local economies as big employers, big landlords and big investors.

The survey showed increased organizing activity, in the form of unions, staff councils, women's committees, and departmental groups. Approximately 50 percent of union drives at universities and colleges were won in 1978 and 1979, despite increased use of university funds to pay anti-union consultants to defeat union drives.

For a free copy of a summary of the report, "Becoming a Priority: The Status of University and College Office Staff", write to Working Women, 1224 Huron Rd., Cleveland, OH 44115. For the full report, send $3.00 to WORKING WOMEN at the above address.

in Paxinos is conducive to his work. Davis has exhibited his work at the Hazleton Area Art League, Joseleff Gallery Hartford Art School, Ivy School of Professional Art, Lackawanna Arts Council, Penn State-Schuylkill Campus Library, Haas Gallery-Bloomsburg State College and Schuylkill County Commission for the Arts.

Davis' accompanist, Hornbeck, has been concentrating on developing crystalline glazes on porcelain bodies. Only porcelain can produce the life radiated by these crystals. Each piece is an individual artistic exploration, not to be repeated. Each form is thrown or hand built in wet porcelain and refined to the desired surface quality when hard and again when totally dry. Hornbeck evaluates her completed forms for aesthetic quality and the surviving forms are coded and recorded in her register. An electronically programmed bisqued fire hardens the pieces for the application of the specially formulated glaze. Once the pieces are glazed she decides how to grow the desired crystals on the form. The glaze firing process is slow, controlled and long-around 40 hours. Hornbeck feels waiting for the kiln to cool to see how the crystals have grown requires the most discipline.

A reception for Davis and Hornbeck is on Sunday, April 13 from 2-4 p.m. in the President's Lounge of the Kehr Union at BSC. Refreshments will be served and the public is invited to come and enjoy the art.

Everyone wants to know "What's in it for me?" I'll tell you what I've found. I feel that I have importance because I'm directing who I am - my energies, my talents toward the student body of an institution in which I'm proud to be a part. I may not be able to throw a 100-yard pass or psyche spectators with jumps and cheers but neither am I content to sit in the stands and be like one tiny, insignificant dot in the upper right hand corner of a television screen.

CRAIG BEVAN AND THE TOURISTS, a new wave band from Dallas, will appear at BSC on April 17.

New wave rockers visit BSC

New Wave rock - n - roll will make its debut at BSC on Thursday, April 17, when Craig Bevan and The Tourists, a new wave band from Dallas, appears in Carver Hall.

The Tourists, whose latest single "No Movies Tonight", are receiving heavy airplay on many local radio stations and are veterans of New York City's CSGS, the club which spawned such alumni as Television and Talking Heads.

Their concert in Bloomsburg is being sponsored by the Alliance of Student Voters. Profits will be used to continue the fight for student rights on campus.

ASV President, Neville Mercer said, "We feel that student's rights are constantly being violated on this campus, and if we are to be an effective counter-weight to the bureaucracy at BSC, we need funds to keep people informed of the latest developments. Our conclusion was that a "new wave concert would not only bring much needed musical diversity to campus, but would also be an appropriate activity as a fund-raiser for an organization of our type. Progressive music and movements for social justice have traditionally been supportive of each other, to the benefit of all concerned."

The Tourists describe their own particular brand of new wave as "fun mausic."

Lead singer, Craig Bevan, stressed this aspect when discussing his musical philosophy.

"I think our material is original and has potential. We're playing for the people and giving them lots of energy and excitement. That's what the people want to see," he said.

Bevan, who has been playing rock - n - roll for 14 years, is probably best known for the rock musical "CrazyBoy and Toyz."

Fellow Tourists include: Dave Dirisio (drums), Paul Fersch (keyboards), and Bob Gryzic (bass).

All have extensive experience which qualify them as Tourists. Tourists is a professional band, one of the best to emerge from the new wave genre.

They should not be missed by aficionados of the new music.

The Tourists concert begins at 9 p.m. in Carver Hall. Tickets are on sale — $2 with ID or $2.50 general admission at the Union, Record Revue or at the door.

Honor Society inducts students

The Bloomsburg State College Chapter of Phi Kappa Phi, the national interdisciplinary honor society, inducted 51 undergraduate students, six graduate students and one faculty member at a dinner meeting Thursday, March 20.

Both the graduate and undergraduate students were invited to join on the basis of their high academic achievement in the schools of arts and sciences; professional studies and business.

John Fiorini, a BSC graduate who has had a distinguished career as English teacher, high school administrator and intermediate unit official, addressed the group on the importance of expert, responsible use of language by people who seek or attain leadership positions.

Prior to the induction, a business meeting was held to elect faculty officers for the 1980-81 college year. They are: president, Lawrence B. Fuller, English; president-elect, Nancy Gill, English; secretary, David Minderhout, anthropology; treasurer, Constance Schick, psychology; and publicity, Nancy Gilgannon, educational studies and services. Joanne Baryla, the junior with the highest academic ranking, was named vice-president.

Barbara Behr, a member of the business administration department, was elected to membership.

The following graduate students were inducted: Juliette L. Abell, 912 Country Club Drive, Bloomsburg; Susan J. Haas, 44 Beverly Drive, Beech Creek; Stephen H. Hancock, 2435 Blair Street, Williamsport; Laurie E. Miest, Main Street, Lightstreet; Audrey M. Metro, 147 West 4th Street, Bloomsburg; Jane A. Prutzman, R.D. 4, Box 85-AB, Boyertown.

The following undergraduate students, by school, were inducted: arts and sciences - Jeri Ann Boose, 39 Fairview Drive, Akron; Elizabeth Dougherty, 28 West Birch Street, Hazleton; Kim Hellerman, 873 Ferry Road, Doylestown; Cathy Homish, 170 Handley Street, Eynon; Karl Kenner, R.D. 1 Box 93 B, Port Royal; Patricia Lewis, R.D. 1, Bloomsburg; Mary Lieb, 920 North Front Street, Sunbury; Louise Lisicky, Edgemont Road, Stroudsburg; Joann Matani, 287 Tripp Street, West Wyoming; Brett Polenchar, 630 Hamilton Avenue, Bethlehem; Constance Shope, 412 Drexel Place, Quakertown; Anette Starrantino, 1632 Ward Street, Linwood; Linda Welkom, R.D.

Softball team rolling along

by KEVIN KODISH

Scoring 51 runs in their first four games, the 1980 women's softball team has sprinted to a 4-0 record on the young season.

The Huskies downed Messiah College 8-3 and 8-2 before bouncing Susquehanna University 15-11 and 20-11.

MESSIAH DOUBLEHEADER

Sue Kelly had mound duty for BSC in the season opener and responded by going the distance for the first Husky win of the year.

The locals exploded for six runs in the sixth inning to break a 2-2 deadlock. Bloomsburg picked up three basehits and four walks in the inning to break the game open.

Beth Rohrback went two for three for BSC in the triumph. The shortstop also knocked in two runs and stole a base. Ann Gehman had two hits for the losers, a single and a double.

In the second game, Kathy Kercher and Donna Bonfiglio combined to allow Messiah just one hit in the contest.

The Huskies rapped 12 hits in the win. Roberta "Spez"

Speziatti led a group of five BSC hitters who had two hits. Spezialetti went two for four and had two RBI's.

Gail Geberich also had two singles and an RBI in the battle, as did Sally Houser, Bonfiglio and Maureen McDonald.

SUSQUEHANNA SWEEP

In the first game, Susquehanna answered a two-run BSC first inning by tallying eight opening frame runs of their own. Bloomsburg fought back with an eight spot in the fifth to take the lead for good.

Kelly was the winning pitcher as she upped her record to 2-0 for the season.

Sue Hicks was the Husky hitting star of the game. She socked three hits, knocked a run in and scored three times. The freshman also showed good base running ability by stealing three bases.

Geberich chalked up two hits on the day and added no less than five stolen bases. Bonfiglio chipped in two hits, two RBI's and a steal to the totals. Jay Mitroka also had a two hit day for Bloomsburg. The centerfielder tallied two RBI's and a stolen base.

Rohrback was another BSC player who had a pair of hits. Rohrback had a single and a triple plus a stolen base in the clash. Beth Wickham ripped a triple while enjoying a three for four game in the losing cause.

The Huskies had 10 hits and received 14 bases on balls in the nitecap to easily down SU. Kelly pitched in relief and picked up her third win of the 1980 campaign.

Houser stole the show offensively for Bloomsburg. The senior went four for four, including a homer. Houser was backed in the hit column by Rohrback and Carolyn Bartoni, who collected a pair of hits apiece.

Lisa Eckman was the only Susquehanna player to get more than one hit, as she singled twice.

HUTCHINSON COMMENTS

Head coach Jan Hutchinson was very pleased with her team's showing to date, especially the comeback effort in the first game against SU. "We were down 8-2 and we came back. It's a real good sign that we were able to pull out the game. I was pleased to see that kind of determination. This is the first time we have ever beaten Susquehanna twice."

The coach thinks the season looks bright so far. "I think our base running is coming along, and the hitting is the best in three years. Things look promising."

The team travels to Scranton for a doubleheader today. BSC will host Millersville on Tuesday. The action will start at 2:30.
