COLLEGE BOWL

The Varsity Sport of the Mind

under way
at BSC

By ROBERTA CLEMENS

A certain first grade teacher has a 36 member class. If only half of the kids in the class know how to tie their shoes, how many shoes will the teacher have to tie at the end of the day?

BSC student, Mike Nesbith saves prof.

By Mike Pucillo

A professor for the Speech, Mass Communication, and Theater department collapsed in front of the Andruss Library, Tuesday from what appeared to be a heart attack.

Professor Erich F. Frohman was seen falling to the ground around 2 o'clock PM, on his way from Hartline Science Center to Bakeless Center.

Kevin Nesbith, a junior at BSC saw Frohman lying on the cement and quickly rushed to help him.

Nesbith, with the aid of three nursing students covered Frohman with blankets and elevated his feet. Nesbith then proceeded to perform Cardio-Pulmonary Resuscitation (CPR) on the teacher.

Nesbith, an English major who used to work for an ambulance service, brought Frohman to consciousness two times before the ambulance arrived.

"I learned the procedure when I was in the Air Force", he said.

And it was lucky for Frohman he did.

The doctors at Bloomsburg Hospital, where he was immediately admitted to, commented on Nesbith's quick-thinking actions as a "job well done!", according to Mrs. Connie Frohman, the professor's wife.

Frohman, was placed in the Intensive Care Unit (ICU) where he is listed in stable condition.

Name the quiz game that is continually growing in popularity across the country that is played by college scholars?

Thirty six, The Pravda, Surot, and College Bowl of course!

College Bowl, the intercollegiate quiz game that helped make bookworms as popular as football heroes, is springing back with renewed vigor on campuses all across the country.

College Bowl, the varsity sport of the mind is played between two teams of four players each. The teams score points for correct answers to questions asked by the moderator. The fast-paced game tests students' knowledge in a wide range of subjects, including many that are covered in a Liberal Arts curriculum, other undergraduate studies, and current events.

The questions, which are researched by the College Bowl Company, and authenticated by The Readers Digest, are closely guarded and known to only a handful of officially designated people prior to the game. Examples of the questions asked are the ones asked in the beginning paragraphs of this article.

College Bowl can be played on an intramural basis, with teams competing within a given school, or on an intercollegiate level.

This program is being offered to BSC students by the BSC Program Board so scholars sign up now!

The games will be played at BSC starting November 4. Deadline to sign up is Nov. 3. They will be played in the Kehr Union. Applications have been placed in all student organization mailboxes this week, but registration is not only limited to student organizations. Groups of friends, roommates or classmates are eligible. Again, the teams consist of four members, one of them being a team captain.

If you are interested in becoming a part of this scholarly sport, send a list of your team members to box 3397 KUB and a phone number where your team can be reached. You will be contacted as to when the games will be held.

Last year's College Bowl Champion at BSC was Phi Sigma XI, with team members Rick Morgans, Brian Moore,

Housing Availability under student influence

EDITOR'S NOTE

This article was written and submitted to the Campus Voice by John Abell of the Housing Office.

"Student misconduct in the town of Bloomsburg has a direct impact on the amount of off-campus housing units available to BSC students, now and in the future," according to John H. Abell, director of the college housing office. "Local landlords whose rental properties have been heavily damaged by student renters or whose tenants have caused neighborhood hostility are seeking ways to prevent similar problems in the future."

"...Abell expects the availability of student housing in Bloomsburg, par- ticularly for male students, will reach an all-time low..."

Out of sheer desperation, more and more landlords are reportedly adopting a "female tenants only" policy in an effort to reduce wanton destruction and improve neighborhood relations. Some landlords are demanding higher security deposits from their student renters to cover the damages which have become so commonplace in the student housing business, while others are getting out of student housing altogether by converting their rental properties for family use.

To make matters worse, student misconduct also causes difficulties and frustration for local developers who are interested in constructing new student apartment complexes or rehabilitating older rental properties for student occupancy. The tarnished reputation which the off-campus student community has earned in previous years has now made it nearly impossible for these developers to receive official approval for proposed student housing projects. Moreover, town authorities have been subject to incredible pressure from townspeople opposing any further expansion of student housing in their neighborhoods.

"...student mis- conduct also causes difficulties and frustration for lo- cal developers..."

"Unfortunately," says Abell, "student arguments that most BSC students are responsible, law-abiding citizens who do not commit such acts fall on deaf ears. The damage has already been done. Student actions, both

Don't Boycott Homecoming Editorial

This editorial is being written as a preventive factor. The staff of the Campus Voice hopes that BSC students will consider our opinion theirs, and not ruin a worthwhile campus event.

There has been a rumor circulating the floors of the union, dorms and classrooms that a group is being formed on campus whose main purpose is to get BSC students to boycott Homecoming activities. Their reason, so we have heard, is to show the townspeople, police, and administration that BSC students are not pleased with the way the current party policy is in effect.

We feel that this boycott would accomplish nothing, because Homecoming benefits the students many times more than it benefits anyone else.

What activities does Homecoming entail? Some of the more popular ones are: Homecoming parade, consisting of floats made by students, which take long hard hours to compose and different organizations sweethearts, decorating and judging of the dorms; the football game, where the queen is to be named; and a homecoming Pops Concert where three student musical groups have spent all semester practicing. All of these activities are geared towards the student.

Think of the planning and work that has been put into this event already. The Homecoming Committee, composed of a majority of students, has been planning this specific weekend since early September.

Art and jewelry exhibit featured in Haas

An art exhibit entitled "Two by Two" featuring the jewelry of Robert Bruya and the paintings of Marilyn Bruya is on display in Haas Gallery through Oct. 30.

Robert holds art degrees from both Eastern Washington State University and the University of Washington. He has taken graduate work in jewelry at Portland State University with Tony Laws, a silversmith from London.

After teaching assignments at both the secondary and higher education levels in the state of Washington, he has been an associate professor of art at Slippery Rock State College since 1971. From 1977-79, he served on the Pennsylvania

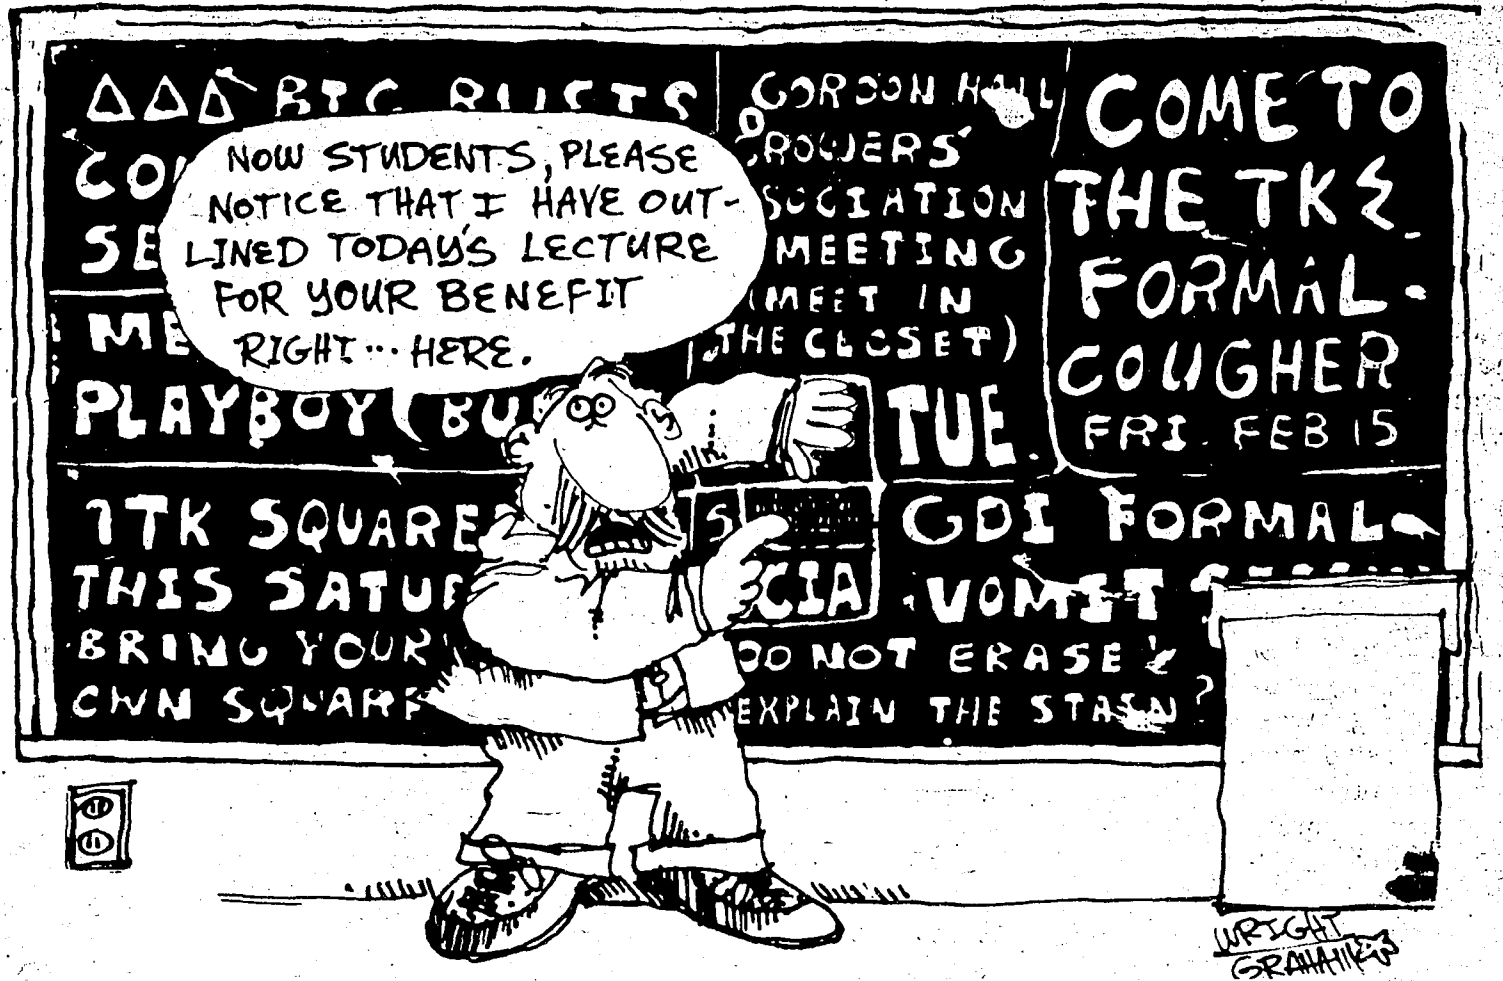

Council on the Arts-Crafts Advisory Panel.

Robert has had one-man exhibitions and participated in selected group exhibitions in a number of states, winning awards throughout western Pennsylvania.

Marilyn received her educational background at Mills College, Oakland, Ca.; Fort Wright College, Spokane, WA; Spokane Art Center; and Portland Art Museum School.

Like her husband, Marilyn's works have appeared in national and selected group shows in various sections of the country, along with one person exhibits. She has also received several awards, among the

Movie Review

Caligula very explicit

By MIKE PUCILLO

Bob Guccione may not have realized it when he started production on the controversial film Caligula, but his would be a first in Bloomsburg.

When the Columbia Theater, located downtown set the landmark and ran the movie, now in its second week, it would go down in history as the first film of its type to be played publicly in the town of Bloomsburg.

Although Caligula does not carry an X-rating, nor for that matter any rating, as a result of a court battle provoked by Guccione, the scenes portrayed throughout the movie are scatological and sexually explicit. There is however an age requirement of 18 years to allow admittance to the movie.

How do the people of Bloomsburg feel about this new journey into eroticism?

According to a spokesperson for the Columbia Theater, "They're coming to see it."

Although it has not succeeded in selling out the movie house, which holds 630 seats, it has been "holding its own".

The audience of the film has been populated by a wide variety of age groups for two showings every night.

The second showing is usually filled with college-students who obviously show a great interest in Roman history. The first showing, however brings in a wide array of ages ranging from young 20's to senior citizens.

Not all stick around for the whole movie though.

One such man, who wished to remain nameless, left the movie after he viewed a rather bloody and violent scene involving a castration. He claims the movie to be "disgusting and ugly".

But others sat and enjoyed the movie, taking in all the riches of the Roman Empire the movie has to offer.

Caligula is a film based on the life of Caesar Caligula, the Roman emperor. Malcolm McDowell skillfully executes the title role. The movie depicts in historical form, Caligula's ruthless rise to power.

The scenes entailing the slaughterings of those who might hinder the emperor's rise to power are gory and violent. Caligula's love for pleasure is portrayed in extensive stagings of orgies and other deviant sexual actions, leaving little to the imagination.

Guccione, editor and publisher of Penthouse magazine and president of Penthouse Enterprises, produced the film along with the assistance of Franco Rossellini.

Guccione promised the movie to his public when he initiated the magazine some 10 years ago.

The film caused some controversy when it first came out at the beginning of the year. After it was given an X-rating, Guccione argued in court that there was nothing obscene or pornographic in the film that was not needed to show the historical revelations of the life and times of Caligula.

Guccione won the case and as said before the film received no rating, but is given the 18 year age limitation. The courts obviously felt minors were not yet ready to learn about ancient Rome.

The film opened in special movie houses across the country that charged $6.00 to $7.00 for admittance - well you know what they say about education being expensive. It can be seen at the Columbia Theatre for only $4.00 now, though.

The film has not been plagued by protests in any form; not even from civic groups or ladies auxiliaries.

Could it be that the town of Bloomsburg is ready for this new step into sexual entertainment?

Prevent a BSC problem: tactics against rape

Rape has become a serious problem at Bloomsburg; a problem that all female and male students must face. Together we can prevent rape from happening. Though there aren't any foolproof ways to prevent a woman from being raped, plain common sense and the following prevention tactics will certainly help to eliminate the problem of rape in Bloomsburg.

These tactics were taken from a hand-out published by the Rape Crisis Center in Washington, D.C. Please read them carefully, and above all, even when it seems inconvenient or silly, use them.

ON THE STREET

How you look is important. An attacker expects a passive victim, so if you walk slowly or in a daze, you will seem un-together to many men. Walking at a steady pace, looking confident and knowing where you are going makes a difference.

1. Try not to overload yourself with packages, large purses or books. Pockets are more practical, keeping your hands free. (Most men on the streets have theirs free.)

2. Dress for use: many styles are nice, but they can make it harder to move quickly. Clogs and platform shoes shouldn't be used if you're walking alone (or, learn how to run in them, since they are good for kicking). Capes, scarves, long necklaces and the like are easy to grab. Tight skirts and pants make it difficult to run.

3. At night, don't walk through dark parking lots, parks or other places where men hang

Bathing with the school brass

(CH) — The quickest way to get through to college administrators may be to hit them where they live - literally.

When Carleton College students complained about the lack of hot water in dormitory showers, President Robert H. Edwards offered them use of his bathroom. Taken aback, perhaps, by this display of personal generosity, only two Carleton students took Edwards upon his offer. One of those was a student reporter who lounged in Edwards' guestroom bath for an hour, reading her Cosmopolitan magazine and enjoying the kind of comfort never found in a dorm.

They'd walk many miles for Letterman

BLOOMINGTON, IND. (CH) — How far would you walk to save your favorite television show?

Three University of Indiana students wanted to walk all the way to New York City to deliver a petition on behalf of The David Letterman Show, the offbeat morning talk show being cancelled by NBC. The trio, all staff members of the campus radio station, left Bloomington on a Friday, planning to arrive in New York City in time to be in Letterman's live audience Monday morning.

They quickly realized covering that distance on foot would be difficult, and adopted a more rational approach - hitchhiking. Several rides, a free home-cooked meal and a bus trip later, they were in New York City, says Mike Conway, one of the three.

They received royal treatment from the comedian's NBC staff. Besides meeting Letterman and his guest, Mary Tyler Moore, they were treated to a tour of the NBC offices and a dinner with Letterman's staff that Conway says "was about the only meal we had."

They were introduced briefly on the air, but didn't get to unravel their lengthy petition until after the taping. "His staff said it would seem too self-serving to do it on the show," says Conway.

Letterman himself was busy with meetings and could see his three fans only briefly. The comedian, an Indianapolis native and former local weatherman, did agree to a long-distance telephone interview for the IU radio station after the three students returned to campus.

What goes up doesn't always come down

EAST LANSING, Mich. (CH) — The bad news is: grade-point averages aren't going up anymore. The good news is: they aren't going down either. A study by Michigan State University shows the grade inflation phenomenon that hit colleges and universities across the country in the early '60s has come to a halt. The same study shows, however, that average grades aren't going down, and may soon begin rising again, says Arvo E. Juola, author of the study.

Juola, who conducted previous grade surveys, bases his findings on reports from 180 colleges. They show that the composite undergraduate grade-point average began to drop in the fall semester of 1975 and continued to fall in 1976 and 1977, from 2.762 to 2.719. In 1978-79, however, the composite grade-point average was 2.720, leading Juola to believe that there was no steady decline in the national GPA and that grades may be stabilizing or starting a new rise.

Juola attributes the halt of grade inflation to college administrators who are re-establishing the importance of grades as indicators of achievement. Some schools are adding pluses and minuses to the traditional letter system of grading, while limiting pass-fail options, tightening restrictions on dropping courses and raising the level of honors criteria, says Juola.

He warns, however, that with enrollments expected to drop, teachers may ease up on grades to retain students. That, and other new approaches to learning, could send the grade spiral back up again, he says.

BSC students to promote BSC

BSC undergraduate students have been invited to participate in Creative Advertising Challenge 1980-81, a copywriting and art competition sponsored by McCaffrey and McCall, Inc., a New York advertising agency. Top prize in both the writing and art categories is a fully-paid, eight-week internship at the agency, beginning in June, plus $1,000 cash.

To enter Creative Challenge '81, students must create an advertising campaign to promote BSC. Individuals may enter either the writing or art category, or two students may enter as a writer-artist team. Participants are required to submit a concept statement of what they intend to communicate in their campaign, as well as the copy or art for three elements of the campaign; a television commercial, magazine advertisement and outdoor billboard.

Entries will be judged on an individual basis against all others received from students at other colleges and universities in the eastern United States. Judging criteria include creativity, originality, appropriateness of campaign theme and effectiveness of the solution in addressing the challenge. The judging panel will consist of creative department executives from McCaffrey and McCall, and several advertising professionals from outside the agency.

Deadline for entries is Feb. 1, 1981. Announcement of winners and presentation of awards will be made in March. In addition to the top prizes, awards of $750 for second place, $500 for third place, and ten $100 honorable mentions will be made in each category. All entrants will receive a certificate of participation.

Details on how to enter McCaffrey and McCall's Creative Advertising Challenge 1980-81 are available now from Mr. Melvin Hopkins, Mass Communications, Speech and Theatre Arts.

Housing availability

the present rate and landlords devise new measures to protect their investment, Abell expects the availability of student housing in Bloomsburg, particularly for male students, will reach an all time low. Should that happen, BSC students will find it increasingly difficult to obtain decent off-campus residences at prices they can afford.

"Happily, it is not too late for students to take action to reestablish better student-community relations," Abell adds. "The simplest solution to this problem is a direct approach by each and every student who lives off-campus or visits friends in town. Increased sensitivity to the needs of neighbors, greater respect for their lifestyles and acceptance of the responsibilities as well as the rights and privileges of citizenship will do much to reverse this trend and bring about more peaceful living conditions for students and townspeople alike. "I play what feels good to me. My musicians dig it and so does our audience. I am still playing jazz, but blending it with rock and other contemporary elements that appeal to me. I regard jazz as a dynamic, moving, everchanging force, which has helped keep me creative. Some musicians prefer to embellish and perfect what they have been doing over the years to make it constantly more attractive. I prefer to live in the present and work with what is contemporary."

THE DRESS TELLS it all! A blazer, sweater, khakis and docksiders immediately identifies this young girl as a "preppette." Want to be one; just read how. (Photo by Murphy)

How to be a Preppette

By JEAN KRAUS

Throw away those velour tops and silk blouses. Forget about Diane Von Fustenbergs dresses and Bobbie Brooks pants. Kick off those high-heeled Candies. Grab a pair of docksiders instead — no socks please. Buy an alligator sweater and slip on a pair of army-navy khakis. There you are; you're a preppie now.

Being a preppie brings one into a whole new fashion world filled with bright colors and plain, comfortable styles. Cotton tops, pullover sweaters, button-down cardigans, all lavished with an alligator in the left corner, corduroy blazers, khakis, wool skirts and clogs are all a part of this world. And green coordinates are matched with yellow; purple with pink; green with pink; red with green and so on.

When deciding to convert to a preppie wardrobe, it is first essential to chose which of two designers to follow, LaCosta or Hunter Run.

LaCosta is the original designer of the classic look; Hunter Run is a relatively new and cheaper imitation. Therefore to be an elite preppie you should purchase LaCosta garb. Don't think no one will know the difference between the two designer clothes because LaCosta features an alligator on each product it sells including belts, dresses and socks. Hunter Run only displays a horseman and does not manufacture articles other than pants, tops and sweaters.

After choosing which designer suits your look and budget, (don't despair if you can't afford to follow one entirely; many people mix products), purchase outerwear essentials according to season: In the fall, oxford cloth shirts are tucked into high-waisted khakis. Shirts are available in various colors, many of which are striped. Some even have ribbon to tie around the collar. Khakis vary in color from bright green and pink to basic black and white. Khakis can match, clash or coordinate with shirts.

Cotton alligator tops, striped or plain-colored, can substitute oxford shirts on hot days. On cooler days, button-down cardigans or even pull-over sweaters can be tied around the neck or worn close to the body.

In the winter, alligator (horseman) sweaters are worn alone or with the oxford shirt. A blazer may be worn over the sweater for added warmth. Heavier khakis become available in a variety of styles: some belted some straight-legged, some pleated. Docksiders are worn (without socks) at all times.

For a dressier fall-winter classic look, a plaid 100 percent wool skirt is matched with a bow-collared shirt. Clogs substitute docksiders and high knee socks are worn.

During the spring and summer, cresses, shorts, other tops, sweat suits and socks come on the scene. These, too, are garnished with the alligator. Mix and match these clothes according to will.

Where to shop?

This year a preppie is in luck for the classic look is "in." Most stores carry some sort of imitation preppie clothes but the real preppie products are available in major department stores such as Hess's, Bambergers, Gimbel's and Wanamakers. Other stores such as the Lodge of Harvard Square, The Limited and Paul Harris carry these clothes.

After a quantity of "preppie clothes" is purchased to last throughout each season, a set of rules must be memorized to assure perfect execution of style.

Rule 1 Wear bright clothes. The louder the color, the preppier the look.

Rule 2 Always travel with an alligator. At least one article of clothing must feature an alligator at all times.

Rule 3 Appear self-confident. All preppies should display a comfortable, self-assured look at all times.

Rule 4 Shop at stores in Drexel Hill and The Main Line. The areas feature the latest in preppie clothes.

Rule 5 Pull back long hair with a ribbon. Make sure ribbons match pants or top.

Rule 6 Don't forget your docksiders. These match with everything even though they don't appear to.

Rule 7 Be proud of your style. If called a preppie, smile and give a nod. Be excited that the world recognizes your style.

Editorial

The main purpose behind Homecoming is to provide a much anticipated weekend especially for BSC alumni to come back to their alma mater and enjoy once again and perhaps relive their days at BSC. Why spoil it for them, when most of them haven't even heard of the party policy?

If you are planning to boycott, we hope this editorial will make you reconsider. A party policy is no reason to ruin a pleasant campus event, which actually is more of a student enjoyment than anything else.

Pure Prairie League to hit BSC!

The BSC Concert Committee has scheduled Pure Prairie League as its second fall production on Nov. 5 in the Nelson Fieldhouse.

The band, which plays what it describes as "countrified Midwestern rock" is best known for the infectious "Amie," which is an instant crowd-pleaser whenever played. That song, along with "Pickin' Best the Devil," "Two Lane Highway" and "I'll Change Your Flat Tire, Merle," have earned them much critical acclaim. In addition to the individual songs, the album, Two Lane Highway is often referred to as one of the finest examples of the country rock genre.

However, it was not until they underwent some major personnel changes and switched record labels that the Pure Prairie League was able to come through with a hit single. After eight albums on RCA, last spring saw a move to Casablanca and the release of Firin' UP. That LP gave the League the top 10 single that was long overdue in "Let Me Love You Tonight."

The albums also showed somewhat of a change in the leadership and direction of the band. New comer Vince Gill has apparently taken over bassist Mike Reilly's role as the creative leader. Gill, who joined the band on their previous record, contributed the majority of the songs, and is also the dominant instrumentalist, playing guitar, banjo, fiddle and mandolin.

This new direction has sparked Pure Prairie League and given them a new life which is more than evident in their live performances.

Tickets for the Bloomsburg show will be available beginning Thursday at the Information Desk. Cost is $6.00 with BSC I.D. and $7.00 without one.

Guy Campbell, and Barry Grim. The team participated in regional competition at the University of Pittsburgh in February. Last year's national champion was Cal State - Fresno. Their championship game against Washington University was broadcasted on the CBS Radio Network.

Any BSC student may become a member of a College Bowl team, although there are a few requirements. Up to two members of your squad may be graduate students, but the graduate students must be full time students; undergraduate students must be registered for at least 7 credits, and players on a team must be registered in school for the semester which the games are being played.

Last year there were ten teams competing at BSC. They were: Red House 1, Red House 2, Pi Omega Pi, Forensics Society, CARC, Zeta Psi, Phi Sigma Pi, Newman Student Association, Phi Sigma XI, and The Campus Voice.

Sign up for your team now, again deadline is November 3. If you need further information, contact Marianne Montague at 389-3401.

Program Board holds Late Night Movies

By ROBERTA CLEMNS

Many students complain that there is never anything to do on the weekends at BSC. Some people claim that this is a suitcase college, where everyone packs their bags and heads home for the weekend. Well the BSC Program Board is offering an incentive for students to stick around this weekend and enjoy BSC without having to go to classes.

On Saturday, October 25, a series of Late Night Movies will be shown in the Multipurpose Rooms in the Kehr Union.

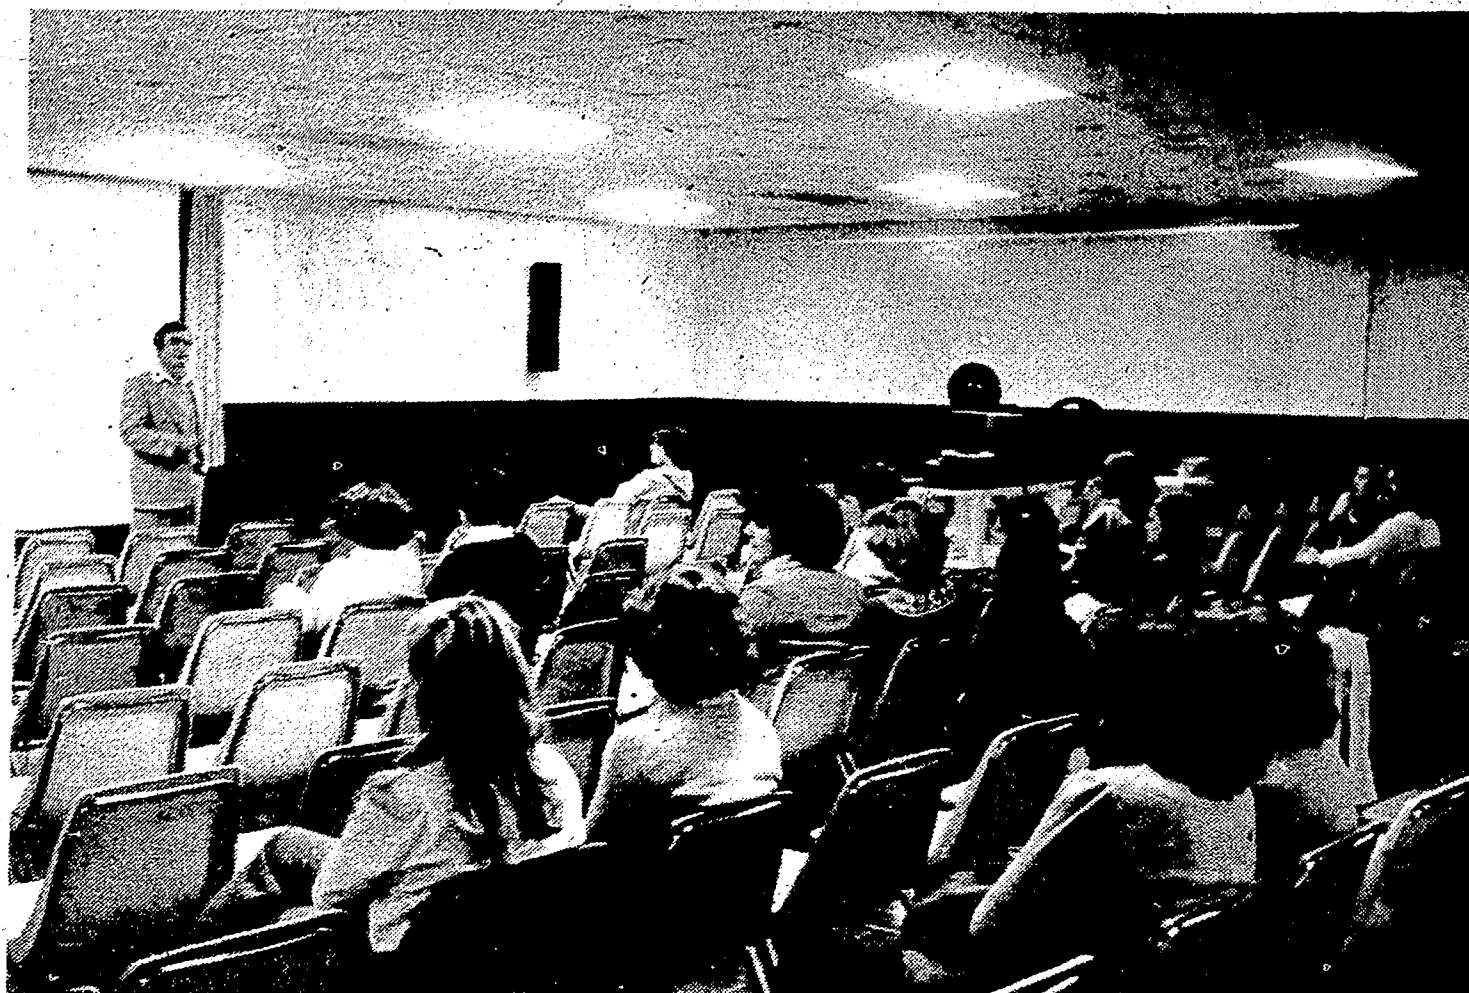

Mary Williams, co-chairperson of special events for the Program Board stressed that the movies were selected to please all movie goers. The three movies that will be shown are "Tommy", "The Pink Panther", and "Love Story".

Williams said, "We picked the movies to please all, that is we chose a musical, a comedy, and a love story."

Also being sponsored by the Program Board this weekend is Bingo, which will be held Sunday, October 26 at 9 p.m. in the Kehr Union.

The entire BSC community is invited to attend these functions.

Defense tactics prevent rape

4. Don't walk through a group of men. Walk around them, or if possible cross the street.

5. If you are alone, be extra aware of what's around you. Listen for footsteps and voices nearby. Look around to see if someone is following you. If you think someone is following you, change your walk - either quicker or slower - to see what happens. Try crossing the street; try walking down the middle of the street; stay near the lights. If you fear danger yell loudly. Yell "FIRE," not "HELP" or "RAPE." Go to the nearest lighted place and get in quickly. Break a window instead of ringing the bell. If you break into a run, make it quick and yell the whole way.

6. Carry a whistle wrapped around your wrist and use it when you think you should.

7. Don't walk alone if you're upset, drunk or high on drugs. Ask a friend to go with you.

8. Don't walk too close to the inside of the sidewalk, near bushes, alley entrances, driveways or entrances to private places.

9. If you are waiting for a friend outside, a bus or a light to change, notice how you stand. You should be balanced; feet apart and hands outside of pockets. (Your elbows are easy to grab, but hard to free quickly.) Don't lean against streetlights, fences or signs. Be aware of cars that might pull up next to you, or cars that pass you more than once.

10. If you carry a purse, newspaper or umbrella, keep it tucked under your arm.

11. It is always best to arrange transportation with people you work with, go to school with or are friends with.

12. Don't walk home the same way every day. (Rapists often follow their victims and plan the attack beforehand.)

Hockey team to vie for conference title

BSC was one of four schools chosen to compete for the 1980 Pennsylvania Conference field hockey title this weekend, Oct. 24-25, at Shippensburg State College, the school's athletic officials learned Monday.

Other teams chosen with BSC were the host Raiders, who won the AIAW Division III title last season, Lock Haven and Millersville. The squads were chosen on the basis of their current record, both conference and non-conference games.

"I'm very pleased we're getting the opportunity to go this year because we're so young and the experience will be invaluable in the future. Most of the girls will be around for at least two more years and this will be great for them," stated head coach Jan Hutchinson.

On Friday, BSC, the fourth seeded team, will play top seeded Lock Haven at 1:00 p.m. followed by the Shippensburg-Millersville game. Those teams are seeded number two and three respectively. Saturday morning the two first round losers meet in the consolation game and the winners clash for the title afterwards.

The Huskies currently show a 7-4-3 mark following Monday's 3-0 win over the University of Scranton. Included in the record are contests involving each of the other three teams entered in the tournament.

In Bloomsburg's earlier game with Lock Haven on Sept. 15, the two squads battled to a 0-0 tie. At the time, the Bald Eagles were the heavy favorites because of their fine showing in last season's AIAW Division I tournament. Hutchinson stated, "I'm sure they'll be up for us and will be looking to average the unexpected tie. Also they are coming off of a win over West Chester, who up until last season, had won four consecutive Division I championships."

The meeting with Shippensburg on Oct. 9 resulted in a 3-0 loss, while the Huskies and Millersville played to a 1-1 tie on Oct. 17.

Senior inner Lauren May leads the Husky attack with six goals, two assists; sophomore Diane Imboden and freshman Polly Dougherty have four goals and three assists apiece. Goalie Laurie Snyder has 56 saves in 13 games for BSC.

"This should be a great tournament, the teams are pretty even and anybody could win it," Hutchinson added.

Bloomsburg has one regular season game remaining on the schedule following this weekend at Marywood on Wednesday, Oct. 29 at 3:00 p.m.

Tennis team undefeated

Paced by four champions the BSC women's tennis team finished second behind Slippery Rock in the Pennsylvania State Athletic Conference Tennis Tournament held at BSC last weekend.

Heading into the finals, the only possibility of BSC finishing on top was if all five finalists won their matches. Only four proved victorious, however, and Slippery Rock won the title.

In a gallant bid to come from behind, BSC made a strong run at the lead but fell two points behind the winner. Slippery Rock finished with 24 points and BSC ended with 22. Edinboro State finished third behind BSC with 18 points.

In singles competition, BSC's Debbie Orendorff defeated ESSC's Marie Magee 6-2, 6-2 and Linda Becker downed Lynn Poznanski of Slippery Rock 6-4, 6-4.

Doubles competition saw the team of Jane Kaufman-Orendorff defeating SRSC's Stottlemeyer-Snelson 6-3, 6-1. Debbie Gundrum and Becker teamed up to beat Poznanski-Easley 6-4, 7-6.

Early round casualties for BSC were MaryLou Hnatin and Ellen Williams, both of whom were defeated in the second round. Gundrum fell to Edinboro's Janis Finn, who went on to win the championship at the number five position.

Dual winners for BSC were Orendorff and Becker who both added doubles titles to go with their singles championships.

Coach Mike Herbert commented that "although we have enjoyed success in the past, this was an excellent team effort by the finest group of women I've had the pleasure of coaching. They are great competitors and just super persons."

Chris Wheeler: The man behind the scenes

By KEVIN KODISH

He is the target of the other announcers' jokes. He gets blamed when a mistake occurs. He puts a lot of hours in during the course of a year.

He is Chris Wheeler, assistant director of publicity for the Philadelphia Phillies baseball club.

During the season, Wheeler works at his public relations job during the day, and often works on the Phils radio network during the games at night.

Wheeler graduated from Penn State in 1967 with a degree in broadcasting and public relations.

After graduation Wheeler started working as a DJ for WCAU in Philadelphia. He later found employment at stations in Chicago and New York before coming to the Phillies in 1971.

Wheeler didn't always announce for the Phillies after his arrival with the organization. When did he begin announcing? "The second game of a doubleheader at Montreal in 1976," Wheeler revealed.

"Wheels" pointed out that the Phillies had just clinched their first eastern division title in the first game of that Montreal doubleheader, and that gave him the exposure. "We just won the division and nobody felt like doing the second game, so I got to announce it." He also added, "I think Whitey (Richie Ashburn) just wanted to see me screw up, but I ended up doing a pretty good job."

The Penn State grad has been doing games on the radio when the team is also on television. In addition, he works with Tim McCarver on PRISM, a pay television station, 31 games a year.

When Chris doesn't have the microphone on, what does he do during a Phillies game to keep himself busy? "I'm working with the scoreboard. The ticker-tape brings information from other games going on, and I update the scores and pitchers."

Wheeler also said that he produces the Tastykake Wrap-Up show following some games. This involves taking the highlights of the game and preparing them for replay on the show.

Wheeler has busy days during the season. He puts a lot of hours working on the stat sheet that must be updated after each game. Chris added that the phone rings quite a bit daily, and he always has plenty of work to do.

When asked if he would ever go into broadcasting exclusively, Wheeler replied, "If the right thing comes along I might consider it. Right now, though, I couldn't tell you what the right thing would be."

There's no doubt Wheeler

"there will be some changes in the club, to what extent I don't know right now."

knows a lot about the Phillies management. Are there any changes in the club coming up next year? ("There will be some changes in the club, to what extent I don't know right now.")

Wheeler has plenty of work during the off-season also. The majority of time is spent preparing the annual media guide. Chris said that he writes the biographies of the veteran members, while Larry Shenk writes up the younger players. "The most busy time is around Christmas. We do most of the work on the guide then," Wheeler pointed out.

Wheeler revealed that the guide is usually sent to the printer around Jan. 15. Sometimes, if a big trade is in the works, the publication is printed later.

Wheeler's broadcast partners (Harry Kalas, Andy Musser, Ashburn and McCarver) need him at times, but he doesn't mind at all. "The reason they do that is because I know more than them," a grinning Wheeler announced loud enough for Kalas to hear.

Wheeler said that he really enjoys his job and the people he works with. Next time you hear the voice of Wheeler during a Phillies game, don't forget that that is only a part of Wheeler's day.

Husky gridders travel to Cheyney this week

The winless BSC football team visits Cheyney this Saturday afternoon, Oct. 25 at 1:30 p.m. for a Pennsylvania Conference Eastern Division clash with the Wolves.

Following last Saturday's 42-15 loss at the hands of the Marauders of Millersville State, the Huskies now stand at 0-6 on the season and have a losing streak of 11 games over two seasons. BSC's last win was in its homecoming contest Oct. 6, 1979, a 27-7 victory over Wilkes College.

Cheyney is 4-3 after losing its last two games to East Stroudsburg 25-14 two weeks ago and to Kutztown, 7-6, last Saturday.

Despite scoring only 15 points on Saturday, the Husky offense had its highest total offensive output of the season. They rushed for only 48 yards, but quarterback Kurt Werkheiser completed 25 of 45 passes for 272 yards to give BSC 320 yards for the game. Again, turnovers hurt the Huskies, stopping several drives in the Millersville contest, they had two passes picked off and lost three fumbles. Also, costly penalties continue to plague the young team. On Saturday, Bloomsburg was penalized 12 times for 116 yards.

Tailback Rob Riddick had an outstanding day for the Marauders carrying 22 times for a school record 247 yards. He also scored four touchdowns, three running and one in the air.

Millersville used the big play to score four of their touchdowns. Defensive end Randy Reid picked a Werkheiser fumble out of the air and raced 55 yards for the game's opening score, while Riddick scored two third-quarter touchdowns on a 65 yard run and a pass play good for 63 yards. The Marauders' final score of the day came from freshman runningback Brent Thomas on a 54 yard jaunt.

Tackle Bob Schwalm was outstanding on defense for Bloomsburg making 17 tackles, and middle linebacker Brad Drexler had eight tackles and recovered both Millersville fumbles.

Cheyney employs an alternating quarterback system using both Tyrone Balkum and Nevaughn Norris. Through the first seven games Balkum has completed 46 of 91 passes for 743 yards and seven touchdowns while Norris, who missed the first two games of the season with a shoulder injury, has thrown 46 times completing 17, three for touchdowns for 245 yards. Their main target is Mike Steward, who has 28 catches for 477 yards, three touchdowns and averages 4.0 catches per game.

The Wolves' ground attack is led by runningback Mark Johnson averaging 88.5 yards a game on 119 carries for 620 total yards.

Cheyney has won three of the last five meetings between the two teams including last year by a score of 9-3 in Redman Stadium. The series dates back to 1960 when the squads met in Bloomsburg in a night contest, with the Huskies coming out on top, 39-0. BSC has 13 wins compared to six for Cheyney. There has been one tie.

BSC faces competitive wrestling schedule

Iowa State University, which finished third in last spring's NCAA championships, leads a list of eight teams that finished in the top 20 appearing on the 1980-81 BSC wrestling schedule released today by head coach Roger Sanders.

The Cyclones placed behind champion Iowa, who won the title for the third year in a row, and Oklahoma State. Despite their third place finish they led the way with seven place winners, all of whom return along with the rest of the squad. Coach Harold Nichols' grapplers finished with a 19-4-1 record last season and will be visiting the Nelson Fieldhouse on Jan. 16, 1981. Match time is set for 7:30 p.m.

Other highly ranked teams appearing in Bloomsburg include Clarion, who won last season's Eastern Wrestling League championship; Missouri, a member of the tough Big Eight Conference and Temple, a team that finished just above the Huskies in the NCAA tournament.

The Huskies have an unenviable road slate that takes them to four invitational tournaments, two league tournaments, as well as several dual matches.

BSC is entered in the Lehigh University tournament, Dec. 5 and 6, an eight team event, which has five teams that finished in the top 20 competing; the Mat Town Tournament in Lock Haven, Dec. 13-14, an excellent 16 team invitational as well as the Wilkes College Open, Dec. 29-30, and the Delaware Invitational, Jan. 10.

Championships will be held in both the Pennsylvania Conference at Indiana University of Pennsylvania on Feb. 13 and 14 and the Eastern Wrestling League in Cleveland, Ohio, Feb. 28 and March 1, 1981.

"There is no question that this is the toughest schedule we've had since I've been here," stated Sanders. "The pressure on the kids is going to be grueling because of the way it is set up. Our lack of depth may hurt us because we're young and untested at a couple of weights, but we will get stronger as the season goes along," he added.

Bloomsburg is coming off an 11-3 season in which they successfully defended their Pennsylvania Conference crown as well as finishing second in the Eastern Wrestling League.

Sanders is entering his ninth year as coach of the Huskies and has a career record of 92-34-3. BSC is seeking its eighth consecutive winning season.

The complete schedule is as follows: 11-21-22 BSC Invitational Tournament; 12-2 Mansfield; 12-5-6 Lehigh University Tournament; 12-9

Millersville; 12-13-14 Lock Haven Mat Town Tournament; 12-29-30 Wilkes College Open; 1-7 Shippensburg, University of Missouri and East Stroudsburg; 1-10 Delaware Invitational Tournament; 1-16 Iowa State; 1-17 Slippery Rock; 1-21 West Chester; 1-14 Clarion; 1-29 Lock Haven; 1-31 Cleveland State University; 2-6 West Virginia University; 2-7 Indiana University of Pennsylvania; 2-8 University of Pittsburgh and U. S. Naval Academy Pittsburgh, Pennsylvania; 2-13-14 Pennsylvania Conference Championship Tournament at Indiana, PA; 2-19 Penn State University; 2-21 Temple University; 2-28-3-1 Eastern Wrestling League Championship Tournament at Cleveland, Ohio; 3-12-14 NCAA Division I Wrestling Championship Tournament at Princeton, New Jersey.

Lacrosse club gains first triumph ever

By TONY DURAN

The BSC Lacrosse Club earned the first win in the club's three year history with a thrilling 9-8 overtime victory over East Stroudsburg State College (ESSC) Sunday afternoon.

The Huskies drew first blood in the opening period when Jordy Binnetti fired the ball past the ESSC goalie on BSC's first shot on goal. Tom Sharp gained an assist on the play.

The lead see-sawed back and forth throughout the first half with ESSC holding a 3-2 edge at half time. Sharp scored BSC's second goal with an assist by Gene Kornsey.

BSC came back in the second half with Kornsey scoring the first goal with an assist by Bill Maitland.

The lead changed hands frequently during the third quarter, but ESSC scored twice near the end of the period to give them a 5-4 lead going into the final period.

The teams exchanged goals in the beginning of the fourth quarter. Then BSC regrouped and scored three unanswered goals. The first tally was made by Pat Larkin, assisted by Sharp. Sharp added the second score with an assist by Binetti.

Kornsey finished BSC's scoring attack with his third goal, giving BSC an 8-6 lead. Sharp gained his third assist on the play.

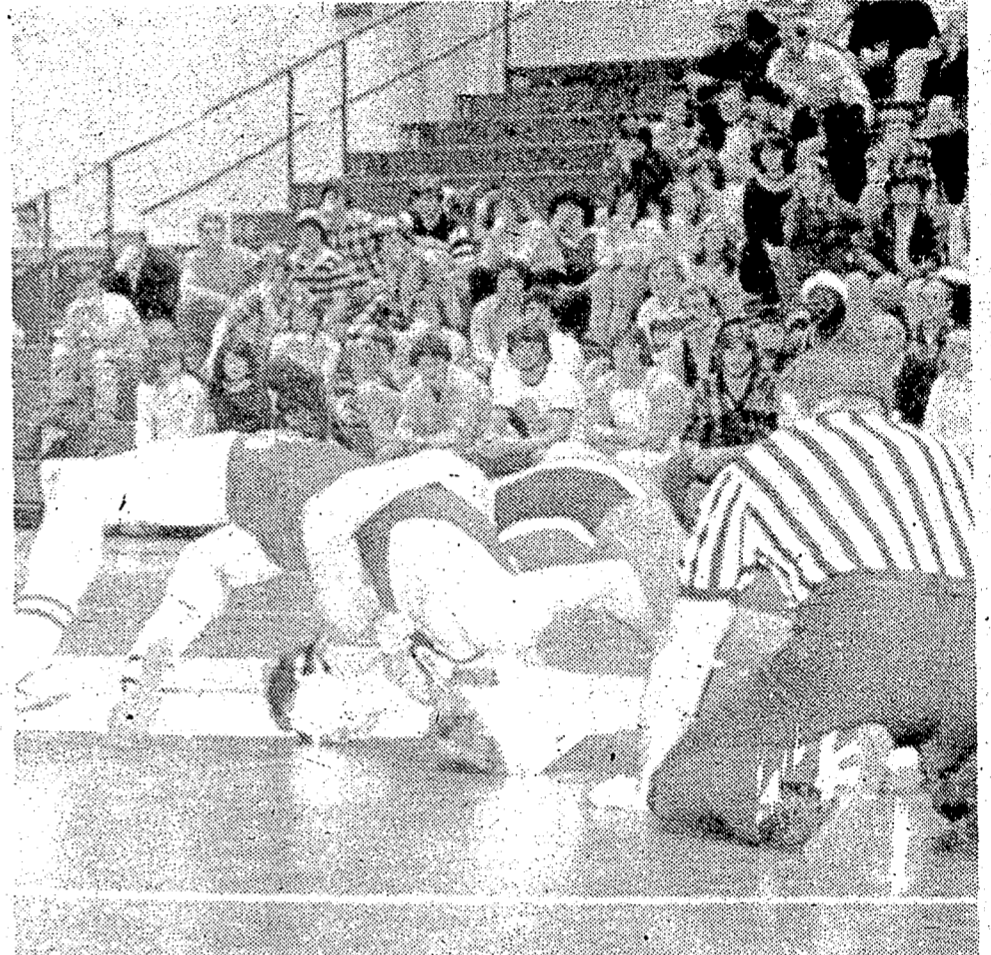

ESSC fought back and scored two goals in the last three minutes, tying the score and sending the game into a three minute overtime period.

At 55 seconds of the overtime period, Kornsey took a pass from Sharp and scored the deciding goal. ESSC managed only two more shots on goal the rest of the game. One shot hit the post, and Huskies goalie Vito Thatcher saved the other. John Murtin also did an outstanding job in goal in the first half.

The BSC defense consisting of Maitland, Bob Kramer, and Roy Satterthwaite did an outstanding job allowing ESSC only 23 shots on goal.

It took a team effort for the Huskies to earn their first victory. All players who participated in the game should be credited for their achievement.

The BSC Lacrosse Club's next game will be Nov. 2, at home against West Chester.

BSC WRESTLERS like the one pictured above will soon begin their 1980-81 season facing a competitive schedule.
