Financial gift keeps pool open

A part of the recent financial gift from Kawneer Company, Inc. to Bloomsburg State College has made it possible to have the swimming pool in Centennial Gymnasium available to the public free of charge at certain times during the next five months.

The schedule for Fridays (7:30 PM to 9:30 PM) and Saturdays (1:30 PM to 3:30 PM) is as follows: November 21 and 22, December 5 and 6, January

16 and 17, 23 and 24, 30 and 31; February 6 and 7, 13 and 14, 20 and 21, 27 and 28; March 13 and 14, 20 and 21, 27 and 28.

Following are the rules and regulations for use of the pool as set down by Eli McLaughlin, director of aquatics: bring a lock for the locker and remove it when leaving; showers must be taken by every person before entering the pool; all children who cannot swim effectively must be accompanied by an adult; and bathing caps must be worn when hair is longer than acceptable length, if questionable, check with lifeguard with whom complete cooperation is expected.

Boyd F. Buckingham, vice president for administration indicates that $500 of the $1,250 gift this year will be used for payment of student lifeguards that are required to open the pool to the public. The balance of the money ($750) will be utilized to continue the campus beautification program.

Persons interested in using Centennial pool on the above dates are urged to clip this article and keep it in a handy place for reference.

Image talks and sings with hands

On Nov. 16 and 17, a group of talented BSC students will put their hands in full control, as they share their signing, singing, dancing and pantomime entertainment.

This unique and quite popular sign language performance group, Image, originated here at BSC in the fall of 1976. The group's name is derived from the show's purpose, which is to present and express an image to the audience through the use of sign language, facial expression and body movements.

An audiologist and professor of the Communication Disorders Department, G. Donald Miller is the director-producer of Image. He works closely with the group as they prepare for several sign language performances held each semester.

The group is composed of Kim

Stephens, Charlotte Brady, Mick Magri, Roberta Schultz, Becky Welling, Eileen Smith, Shelly Grozier, Carolyn Loose, Joey Diver and Micki Melnick. Most of the girls are presently enrolled in the Communications Disorders Department and have a concentration in education of the hearing impaired.

Each of the performers has a special interest in sign language and a sincere dedication toward upholding the group's reputation. As Image reaches out in its theme song, "I Hear Your Hands," they express the value of sign language to those who cannot hear the beauty of sound. It also strives for

Let's support pledges

It was reported to THE CAMPUS VOICE, by a Beta Sigma Delta pledge that last Sunday at 5:10 a.m.; a few Beta Sigma Delta pledges were practically beaten up by an unidentified group of hostile men.

One of the pledges had to be treated at the Bloomsburg Hospital, and a small plastic duck was stolen. The Beta Sigma Delta pledges were participating in their bi-annual duck walk which lasts throughout the night and is held in front of the library.

Not all people on our campus feel the greek life is for them. But those that do are entitled to their opinions and actions.

A pledge is hassled enough by members of their perspective greek group. It is unnecessary for them to receive it from others. This is directed to greeks and nongreeks.

To those not in greek organizations, these pledges are your friends and classmates, you should support them, cheer them on and nor ridicule or harass them because they have chosen to become greek.

To those in fraternities and sororities, you may think that this doesn't apply to you, but rumors circulating are pointing the accusing finger at another fraternity. To Bond Branch of The Devereux Foundation, it has received accreditation as a psychiatric facility for children and adolescents by the Joint Commission on Accreditation of Hospitals.

Live-ins receive Training

Several twelve-month resident advisor counselor traineeships are available at Career House, an innovative, transitional, co-ed, residential treatment-therapeutic education facility for post-high school youth with learning and adjustment problems, which works with local colleges, career training schools and work placements. Trainees "live-in" and receive training and supervised experience in supportive counseling and milieu therapy, crisis intervention, residential treatment, social rehabilitation and recreation therapy and report writing. They participate in case conferences and attend clinical seminars.

Experience may also be offered in psychoeducational and vocational evaluations, selective job placements, educational therapy and academic tutoring. Applicants with prior experience in expressive media may be assigned to the Adjunctive Therapies Program encompassing art, photography, film-making, campus radio and TV studio operation and newsletters.

Spirit visits day-care

The Great Spirit of Halloween enchanted the children of the Campus Child Care Center early Thursday morning. Silence filled the air while the mysterious Spirit told eerie tales of Halloween. He then judged a pumpkin drawing contest and passed out treats for prizes.

Halloween week at the center included a masquerade party, on campus trick or treating, carving pumpkins, and making spooky masks. The exciting week of fun ended with a Halloween musical produced by Janet Radke, the arts program co-ordinator.

PROVO, Utah (CH) — Some things never change. But even at Brigham Young U., fickle fashion trends forced officials to update their long-standing dress code. While university students agree to abide by the code when they are admitted, and don't seem to mind doing so, many were confused about how the regulations covered new fashions.

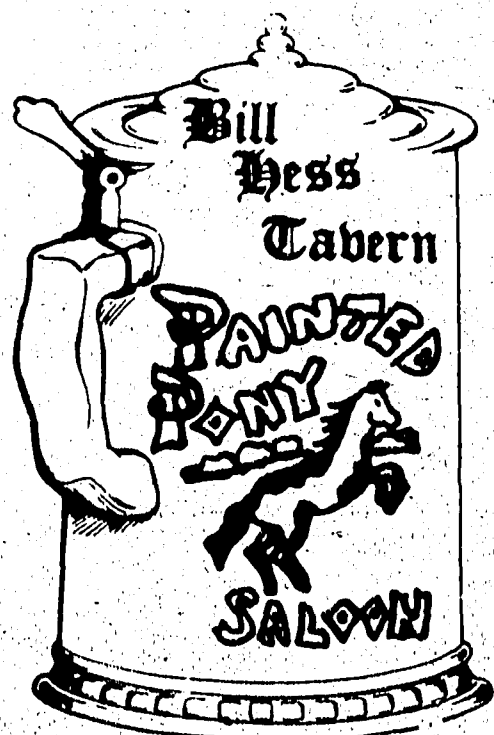

Officials therefore decided to update the code to cover the changes in style. Swimsuits, gym clothes, thongs, sweat suits, dresses or skirts with slits or hemlines above the knee, the ever-popular faded cut-offs and the braless look are definitely out. BYU officials don't require students to wear ties to class however, nor do they force them to give up their jeans, if they're "neat."

Men and women act more mannerly toward one another and treat each other with more respect when they dress well, according to Chairman of University Standards Mike Whitaker. "We still think women should look like women and men like men," he says. These clothing distinctions have their "origin in God's eternal plan for men and women," according to the guidelines, published in a new pamphlet.

Although a few students think the dress requirements are an invasion of personal rights, most of the 28,000 at BYU don't object to the standards, says University Standards Counselor James R. Palmer. "We've had very few problems with students not wanting to abide by the dress code. We try to teach them the correct principle and they govern themselves."

They are told about the regulations before coming to BYU and most students abide by them, but some forget, says Whitaker. Students are encouraged to go to other universities if they feel they'd rather dress like their college contemporaries, Palmer says. Those who refuse to change or transfer are asked to leave.

Travel Agency plans low cost trips

By JEAN KRAUS

Everyone enjoys getting away now and then from the pressures and monotony of college life. But different factors such as transportation, money and planning often stop us from taking the trips we really would enjoy. The campus travel agency now reduces these obstacles for us by planning the trips we want to take at reduced rates.

Two BSC seniors, Chesley Harris and Diane Langley, create the trips they feel students, faculty and other campus-related people would like to attend. They are supervised by Mike Sowash, assistant director of Community Activities. Funds are allotted to every trip planned by the travel agency through a budget established by Community Activities. The 1980-81 budget is $3,000, a 50 percent increase from last year's budget.

"We work through Wainwright's Travel Service when preparing trips," said Harris. "But we plan the other trips by ourselves.

Trips planned for this semester include shopping at the Reading Christmas Village and dining at Haags Restaurant afterward on Dec. 6 (cost $10.74) and a five-day skiing excursion to Killington, Vermont, Jan. 4-9 (cost $225).

Two New York trips have also been tentatively scheduled for next semester along with a golf trip to Myrtle Beach over the Easter break.

"Trips to Reading and New York are our most popular," said Harris. "People don't usually sign up for pro-games and we have to cancel them." Sign up for trips can be made in the games room of the Union where the travel agency is located.

The most popular excursion taken each year is Spring Break in Ft. Lauderdale. Last year, over 250 students participated in the air travel package offered by the travel agency. Trips by bus, planned by fraternities, were taken by hundreds of other students.

"I think our package offers a better deal than the bus trips," said Harris. "Included in our trip is free admission to bars, namely Flanagans and Big Daddy's which cost $5, discounts in the hotel and restaurants and a choice of hotels."

Four Ft. Lauderdale Beach '81 packages are being offered at prices ranging from $279 to $319. All packages include round-trip airfare, transfers to and from the airport in Ft. Lauderdale, parties every night, choice of hotel (where prices vary) and taxes, baggage handling and maid gratuities. Sign up for the trip began Oct. 1.

"A trip to the Bahamas is also scheduled this year for students who already went to Florida," said Harris.

Trips to Ft. Lauderdale and the Bahamas are planned by Wainwright's Travel Bureau, Bethlehem.

"We use Wainwright because their trip to Ft. Lauderdale is about $150 lower than other travel bureaus," said Harris. "Wainwright is also one of the largest travel bureaus on the East Coast."

How does the travel agency know what students want?

"We take a survey for monthly trips," said Harris. "But we mostly take suggestions from people." Suggestions can be admitted to the travel agency any time.

AGENCY PLANS YOUR TRIPS

In addition to creating trips, the travel agency also helps plan individual trips for students.

"Since we are a member of the AAA we can easily get maps and information," said Harris.

Toll free calls can also be made to Wainwright for information concerning cost of specific trips. Tickets from the ticketron and other locations can also be obtained.

"A girl recently came in and asked for information on Vermont," said Harris. "We called around to see how much it would cost to fly, or ride by bus or car. We gave her this information plus flyers."

Harris and Langley keep files on each state, emphasizing information on resorts. Flyers and magazines on travel are also ordered and displayed for public use outside the office.

"Many students are unaware of everything we (travel agency) do," said Harris.

A knowledge of these functions can become an asset to students after graduation because Alumni can take advantage of all service. Alumni can even join a special travel club that entitles them to mail concerning all trips.

The travel agency is one of the few campus services that doesn't end after graduation. It's a lifetime benefit to everyone connected with BSC.

Doonesbury celebrates his 5th birthday

A Pulitzer Prize. The mayor of the nation's capital declares a day in its honor. Newspapers across the country have chosen not to publish it.

"Doonesbury," of course. And on Oct. 26, 1980, the famed (and sometimes notorious) comic strip by G. B. Trudeau celebrated its tenth anniversary. What began a decade ago as a humorous look at two archetypal collegians — Michael J. Doonesbury and B. D. — has earned a reputation for biting satire that focuses on anyone in the cultural limelight, from politicians, journalists and authors to television shows, football and lifestyle trends.

Trudeau, now 32, began his work on a comic strip with "Bull Tales," carried in the late '60s by the Yale Daily News. The strip was spotted and renamed by James F. Andrews and John P. McMeel, the founders of Universal Press Syndicate, which distributes the comic strip to 600 newspapers in this country and abroad.

Initially, 28 newspapers signed up for "Doonesbury." Helped by the comic strip's reputation for irreverence and brashness, the number of clients grew steadily, attracting a young and educated readership.

The comic strip has frequently been the center of controversy and has received considerable attention for its treatments of John Mitchell, Senator John Warner, Governor Edmund G. Brown and presidential candidate Ronald Reagan. The comic strip has also blazed new trails by introducing a gay character and exploring the lifestyle of single people.

Trudeau remains a shy, reticent individual and has stated that he prefers to let his work do the speaking for him. James F. Andrews, editor of Universal Press Syndicate, and the man who discovered "Doonesbury," summed up Trudeau as effectively as anyone: "It was clear he was a comic genius."

Women swimmers hoping for impressive season

Three All-Americans complimented by an outstanding group of freshmen recruits lead the BSC women's swimming team in their preparation for the 1980-81 campaign. Coach Mary Gardner, in her seventh year at the helm, stated "I'm looking forward to a very competitive season; this group is young, but very compatible and they're working hard together."

Linda Smith leads the list of returning veterans with some impressive credentials. The junior was a five-time All-American in both of her first two years at Bloomsburg. She received the honors for her performances in the 50 yard freestyle, 100 individual medley, 200 medley relay, 200 freestyle relay and the 400 freestyle relay. Smith has also won two individual Pennsylvania Conference titles; as a freshman she won the 100 individual medley, and last season as a sophomore, the 50 yard freestyle.

Senior Susan Brophy was also named All-American in each of her first two years at BSC. She was honored as a three-time recipient for her efforts in the 200 medley relay, 200 freestyle relay and the 400 freestyle relay.

Brophy, as well as Smith, was a member of the Husky 200 and 400 freestyle relay teams that won conference titles last season. The 400 freestyle relay team holds the Pennsylvania Conference record with a time of 3:42.03.

Also back this year is junior Vickie Orme, who was named All-American as a member of the 200 medley relay team both in her freshman and sophomore campaigns.

Gone from last year's team is Joanne Kitt, who transferred to Temple University to follow a course of study in pharmacology. Kitt was a six-time All-American last season, as well as a five-time selectee two years ago.

Nine outstanding freshmen will be in the lineup when BSC opens the season at home on Nov. 15 with Ithaca College.

Cathy Sheridan is, according to Gardner, "an excellent all around swimmer." She will be used in the freestyle and breaststroke races, as well as the individual medley. Tina Klamut is strong in the backstroke along with the individual medley; and Kelly Reimert will compete in freestyle events.

Other top frosh and their specialties: Sue Boyer - backstroke; Karen Beccaria - butterfly; and Mary Beth Gallagher - freestyle; Darcie Laudenslager - diver and Megan Fitzgerald - diver. Also a member of the diving corps is senior Margie Ahern, who returns to the team after two years absence.

"We open our season a lot earlier than usual and I'm really looking forward to seeing how the younger girls perform in their first college meet,"

Gardner said. "They're a super bunch and we're going to be a little stronger than in the past. I have 19 girls and they're all working hard, so we're really not going to have any weaknesses. It's the best all around depth we've ever had," Gardner concluded.

The coach feels Clarion is the team to beat again this season in the Pennsylvania Conference, however, "they used to be in a class all by themselves, but now I think the rest of the conference is catching up a little," she sated. "Slippery Rock and Shippensburg should be tough and we're going to be able to compete with anybody." The Golden Eagles of Clarion are the defending AIAW Division II national champions.

Tennis club victorious

By HORACE WHITE

The BSC Table Tennis Club was victorious at the recent Slippery Rock Fall Open held at Slippery Rock State College. The tournament consisted of two-man teams and singles events.

Representing the Huskies in the open event was Joe Shino and Horace White. Kathy Hartzell represented BSC in the women's singles, Johnny Burke in the class D singles and Dr. Paul Hortung and Jeff Brent both in the novice singles.

In the open teams, Shino and White exceeded, only losing once to the team from Pittsburgh. Shino and White took second place.

Hartzell, top seeded female at the tournament, brought home the women's singles title for the Huskies without losing a match. She then teamed up with Brent in the class C teams, but failed to place in the finals.

Playing the women's singles was Sharon Weber, who was representing the Huskies for the first time.

BSC's next title came in the novice singles. The event was an all Husky final between Hortung and Brent. Brent took the honor of first place and Hortung second.

The BSC table tennis club's next tournament will be at home on Nov. 15 and 16 in the Kehr Union.

Huskies, Warriors prep for air raid this week

An aerial show can be expected at East Stroudsburg State College this Saturday, Nov. 8, when the Huskies close their season by invading the Warriors' Eiler-Martin Stadium in a 1:30 p.m. contest.

The teams represent the top two passing attacks in the Pennsylvania Conference eastern division. East Stroudsburg averages 149.3 yards per contest, while BSC is close behind averaging 141.8 yards.

Bloomsburg comes into the game with a record of 1-7 following last Saturday's 28-7 defeat at the hands of Kutztown State. East Stroudsburg also lost a week ago, and now stands at 5-3. The Warriors went down to the powerful Rams of West Chester under the lights last Friday night by a score of 26-13.

Kutztown's offense amassed 327 total yards and scored all four of its touchdowns in the first half last week; then sat back and watched the defense hold the Huskies to just 35 total yards in the second half. Even without the services of fullback Don Shaver, the Golden Bears ran for 303 yards on the day, as well as passing for another 132 yards. The Bears moved almost at will in the first half on Saturday, and the Husky defense will have to come up with a better performance to stop the Warrior attack.

Bloomsburg's Kurt Werkheiser was the PC eastern division individual passing leader completing 11.09 passes per game according to the latest stats. In eight games, the junior quarterback has completed 95 of 189 attempts for 862 yards. He has been intercepted 14 times. His main target is senior flanker Duane Frantz, who has 32 receptions for 459 yards and three touchdowns.

East Stroudsburg's quarterback Tom Meier, who replaced the injured Barry Kennedy at West Chester, hit on 7 of 12 passes for 107 yards and scored both touchdowns on runs of one and 14 yards. When he hands off, the BSC defense must stop tailback Jim Snyder who averages around 50 yards a game.

Meier's prime target will be his leading receiver and brother, Jamie, who has 24 catches for 341 yards. Last year he set an ESSC school record against the Huskies catching seven passes for 215 yards.

Defensively the Warriors are led by senior safety Mike Lush. He currently leads NCAA Division II in interceptions with an average of 1.3 per contest. Lush has also recovered four fumbles and caused another fumble.

Tackle Bill Brown is third on the team in total tackles with 55, but has been chosen ESSC's outstanding defensive lineman four of the last five games.

Kicker Scott Taylor leads the Warriors and the PC eastern division in scoring with 37 points. He has made eight of 12 field goal attempts along with 13 of 14 PATS.

East Stroudsburg head coach Denny Douds was the winningest coach with five or more years experience in NCAA, Division II coming into this season with a record of 47-11-1. This includes the last seven in a row, against the Huskies. The last BSC victory was in 1972 under Bill Sproule by a score of 20-6. The Warriors won last year's game at Bloomsburg, 31-3.

Bowlers strike

By JOHN UKLEYA

The BSC Intercollegiate Bowling Team has opened the new season with three consecutive wins. The bowlers downed Penn State Capitol Campus and Gettysburg College twice to start off the year 3-0.

The men's team, which is coached by Floyd Moyer, has had a couple of keglers who have spearheaded the Huskie attack. Gary Gershenson's 200 average, along with the steady bowling of Steve Sneiderman, Gary Kochinsky and Moyer have brought the Huskies their opening wins.

Along with the men's victory, the lady Huskies got off on the right foot by traveling to Gettysburg and bringing home their first victory of the season.

Leading the women was Jan Knolles with a 490 series, with help from Cindy Norman and the women's coach Joni Klinefelter. The women's record now stands at 1-0.

It should be noted that Huskie bowler Sneiderman set a personal goal over the summer. While bowling in a summer league at Faxon Lanes in Williamsport, Sneiderman threw a perfect game, for his first 300 game ever. Sneiderman joins bowlers such as John Wilcox, Woody Christ, Bill Miller and Al Clees to master the 24 lane house.

President of the intercollegiate team is Cathy Zahradnick, vice president is Jack Steele and the treasurer is Geoff Young.

The BSC men will put their 3-0 record on the line this weekend when they travel to the University of Maryland and George Washington University in the nation's capital.
