

Mini courses slated for January

Six non-credit mini-courses will begin this month at BSC for the general public. Included will be two courses on working with stained glass, two courses in yoga, Genealogy For Beginners and Drawing For Everyone.

Stained Glass I is for students who want to learn the basic techniques of designing, cutting and assembling of a stained glass window, along with using the copper foil method and lead techniques. The instructor will be Joseph Barlett and the class will be offered Tuesday evenings from 6:30 to 9:30 p.m. on Jan. 20, 27 and Feb. 3, 10 and 17.

A stained glass workshop for students who previously completed Stained Glass levels I and II will also be instructed by Barlett. Individualized stained glass windows or projects will be concentrated on during the Thursday evenings of Jan. 22, 29, Feb. 5, 12 and 19 from 6:30 to 9:30 p.m. Both of the above courses are to be held in Hartline Science Center, room 63.

Yoga I will present gentle stretch exercises to adults of all ages and abilities. Each student will experience a limbering of the body while developing a better sense of well-being. Each class will begin with warm-up stretches and breathing techniques and will end with a 15 minute Savasana which is a guided relaxation of the mind and body while in a prone position. Yoga posture will be introduced and expanded upon throughout the course to be offered Monday and Thursday evenings from 6:00 to 7:00 p.m. on Jan. 22, 26 and 29, and Feb. 3, 5, 9, 12 and 20. Valeria Pece will instruct in Centennial Gymnasium.

Yoga II is for those students who have learned the basic

Women dominate Spring registration tally

A total of 4906 full-time and part-time undergraduate degree students completed registration for the second semester of the 1980-81 college year at BSC on Monday, Jan. 12, according to Bernard Vinovrski, acting dean of admissions.

The 4906 undergraduates are comprised of 1936 men and 2970 women. The full-time undergraduate figure amounts to 4462, of which 25 are new freshmen, 85 new transfers, and 31 new readmits.

Over 250 graduate students have registered by mail to date. Dr. Charles Carlson, dean of the school of graduate studies, indicates late registrations and off-campus centers registrations will increase this figure.

Dr. Daniel Pantaleo, dean of the school of extended programs, reports that last week 471 persons who were classified as non-degree students and included teenagers to senior citizens, registered for courses in the continuing education program. Additional registrations in continuing education will be held later in off-campus locations. None of these figures include people who will enroll in non-credit

How to say 'no' and survive

"How To Say No to a Rapist — and Survive" is the topic of a lecture by Frederic Storaska set for Jan. 22 at 8:00 p.m. in Multipurpose A of the Kehr Union.

Storaska, a Bloomsburg native, is founder and executive director of the National Organization for the Prevention of Rape and Assault and has presented his program through lectures to over a million students at over a thousand colleges and universities.

The rape prevention researcher, consultant, lecturer, and karate instructor has authored a book and a movie that have become authoritative sources of rape prevention for the United States Department of Defense, U. S. Justice Department, National Crime Institute and hundreds of law enforcement agencies throughout the world.

Combining his psychology and karate background, Storaska developed a unique methodology of rape prevention. He replaced fear with knowledge, guilt with understanding and doubts with alternatives. He has developed an approach to teach these skills and attitudes which has been enthusiastically received by audiences everywhere.

"Combining his psychology and karate background, Storaska developed a unique methodology of rape prevention."

The event is being presented by the Women's Interests Now Committee, chaired by Linda Zyla, assistant dean of Residence Life. The Community Government Association and the Association of Resident Students are cosponsoring the program. Students, staff, faculty and the community are invited to attend at no cost.

Dance Marathon Update

"The Wonderful World of Animation" is the theme of the 1981 50-hour Dance Marathon for Multiple Sclerosis set for Jan. 30, 31 and Feb. 1, at Centennial Gymnasium.

The annual event, sponsored by the Kehr Union Program Board, has raised over $40,000 for local charities including the American Cancer Society, United Fund, Heart Fund, American Diabetes Society, Easter Seals Society and the

Christmas Story retold

To The Editor:

Heard a different Christmas story this year at candlelight service and thought I'd share it. It's billed as a children's story and it's about a bunny rabbit on Christmas day. He was a lonely rabbit and thought he'd go out and see what everyone else was doing rather than sit at home by himself. He was hoping to get invited to all the Christmas parties. He got all dressed up and hopped over to the mouse's hole and called down, "Merry Christmas, can I come down and join you?"

Well the mouse's Christmas was going strong with a big party, so they all called back, "You'll never fit down the hole. Come back tomorrow and we'll come out to see you."

Well, the rabbit was discouraged that no one wanted him, and wandered around till he came across a frozen pond where a family of beavers lived. "Merry Christmas, and can I come down?" called the rabbit.

"No! It's too wet down here. You wouldn't like it," called the beavers in the midst of their party.

This depressed the rabbit even more and he trudged off. He stumbled around till he came across a squirrel's tree, and he could see all the decorations and the squirrel's party way up in the limbs above him. "Merry Christmas, and can I come up?"

"Sure, but how are you going to get up here in the tree?"

"Well, I'll need some help."

"But we're all busy, and it would be too much trouble anyhow. Come back tomorrow."

By now the rabbit felt so bad he just ran into the forest by the biggest tree he could find and started to cry. He was so busy crying and pitying himself he didn't see the wolf till it was right next to him. But the rabbit was so worked up he screamed, "Go ahead and eat me! I'm not good for anything, anyway. And nobody cares whether I live or not." Sniff, sniff.

The wolf looked down on him and said, "What have you ever done to give anyone cause to ever think that of you?"

"Mr. Mouse always used to come out and talk with me" the rabbit said, "and I've been to the beaver's home lots of times, wet and all. And the squirrels all used to think it was funny to help me up in the tree," protested the rabbit.

"I've watched you for quite a while," said the wolf, "and all you've ever done is take. You just never think of giving. You just aren't very nice, but I'm not going to eat you." And the wolf walked away.

After the wolf walked off and was gone, the rabbit realized what had happened to him. He was terrified! Lord, I just escaped death and do you know how lucky I was that time, he thought. Then, after the fear had passed, the rabbit began to think of what the wolf said. "You know, maybe I have been a little self centered. I never even thought of anyone else's needs, just mine. Christmas is a family time after all, and I didn't even bring anything to any of the places, and then expected to get invited in for their parties." The rabbit worried about this for a while, then jumped up and said. "It's not too late, I can still change my ways." So he dashed off and found some nuts and acorns, and left them under the squirrel tree, and called up, "It's me again, Merry Christmas!"

Oh you again," called the squirrels, "We said we'd see you tomorrow." But the rabbit was already gone. He found some fresh saplings and pushed them into the beavers pond, and yelled, "Merry Christmas!"

It was beginning to get late and cold but the rabbit rumbled around until he found some corn and he took it to the mouse's hole. He left it there and was about to leave when he heard a small whimper. He turned and discovered one of the mouse's children had gotten out of the hole and couldn't find his way back. The rabbit went over to the child and sat next to him and said, "Come, get under me. I'll warm you up, and protect you from freezing tonight, and tomorrow you can go home."

It got bitter cold that night, but in the morning the little mouse child, crawled out from the rabbit and found his way home in the daylight. Meanwhile the mouse family had discovered their missing child and were panicking. "Nothing could survive outside last night; it was really cold. We could even feel it down here," the family said. Just then the missing mouse came in bringing the corn the rabbit had left. The mouse family couldn't believe it. A miracle! Mr. Mouse went outside to look around; but all he found was that dumb old rabbit. He must have stayed around after they'd kept him out and frozen to death. Just as well, he was never good for anything anyway. Mr. Mouse went back home and they all praised God for their luck.

And somewhere up on the bluff, overlooking the whole valley, the wolf smiled and walked away.

back to relive their pleasant memories of college life here. They probably feel the same you feel when you go home to your high school alma mater and see sparse participation in homecoming, activities-disappointed.

Yet another problem exists that all males at this college should be keenly aware of - rape. The men especially of this school should feel compassionate towards our female counterparts and help protect them. We can all work to eliminate this danger, only if the students, administration, and the Bloomsburg police Dept. work together.

In closing, I would just like to stress my point again, try to become more aware of the problems and issues concerning life here in Bloomsburg.

Apathy again

To The Editor:

Being on this campus for only three and a half months so far has enlightened me about the startling reality that many students attending this college are very apathetic. I need not mention the poor attendance at football and soccer matches. People at this institution should wholeheartedly support our excellent athletic programs. If you can't play a sport, be one!

Another problem I encountered, by way of the Campus Voice, is that of apathy and even arrogance towards

Human Relations Comm. plans activities

The Human Relations Planning Committee is organizing a two-week-long program in cooperation with CGA and several academic departments. Programs during this week will be of an academic, as well as a cultural nature. A complete program will be announced at a later date.

A special theme will exist for each day of this activity. These themes will include the following:

Monday, March 9 - The Arts - Dance

This will include a special program by the Ohio Ballet. Haas Center 8:15 p.m.

Tuesday, March 10 - Jewish History

Two programs will focus on Jewish history. All programs are scheduled at the Kehr Union Building. A Jewish art exhibition will be displayed in the Coffeehouse.

Wednesday, March 11 - Poet in Residence

b.f. Maiz - This fine Black poet is available for classroom visitation.

Wednesday, March 11 - Kappa Delta Pi Forum

This educational honorary group is celebrating a golden anniversary on the campus of BSC. This forum will feature Charles Sutton, a Black educator from Lincoln University.

Thursday, March 12 - b.f. Maiz

A lecture by b.f. Maiz will be held in Room A - KUB at 8:00 p.m.

Friday, March 13 - Ethnicity

Expenses for BSC students in 1906 considerably less

R.W. FROMM

BSC students grudgingly spend approximately $75 for text books and supplies at the beginning of each semester. This "extra" financial burden has always been a part of student life at Bloomsburg. Taking into account the inflationary spiral that has obtained over the past decades one could wonder whether or not the burden was quite so devastating for students near the turn of the century.

A Bloomsburg Normal School bookroom ledger for 1906-07 shows the following typical expenses for a student at the beginning of one semester:

Psychology notebook - .30;

Geometry - 1.25; Pads, Paper, Pencil - .38; Rhetoric - 1.00; Dissecting Kit - 1.00; School Management - 1.00; Pad - .06; Notebook, Paper - .31; Harmony - 1.00.

The grand total was $6.30. Of course, if that was too steep, a student could go the rental route. The school catalog for that same year describes that possibility:

Students can rent some of the text books in use, at the rate of one cent a week for each book which costs less than seventy-five cents, and two cents a week for those costing more than this sum. Should a rented book prove, on being returned, to have been damaged beyond what reasonable use would necessitate, its full price will be demanded.

BSC needs a new vice pres.

Bloomsburg State College is seeking applicants for the position of Vice President of Academic Affairs.

The new appointee will have a starting date of Sept. 1, 1981 and will replace interim Vice President Dr. Barrett W. Benson. The latter has been serving in the position since July of this year when Dr. James V. Mitchell resigned to accept a position at another university.

This chief academic officer of the college is charged with planning, budgeting, directing, implementing and reviewing all academic programs. He reports directly to the president and when the president is absent from campus, assumes the responsibilities of the chief administrator. The starting salary range is from $34,621 to $41,232, depending on qualifications and experience.

A candidate must have an earned doctorate from an accredited institution, proven administrative leadership in higher education, and a strong teaching and research record. Women and minority candidates are encouraged to apply. Bloomsburg State is an affirmative action - equal opportunity employer.

Applications with enclosed resumes must be received by Feb. 15, 1981 and should be sent to Dr. John McLaughlin, Chairman of Search and Screen Committee, Room 38A, Waller Administration Building, Bloomsburg State College, Bloomsburg, PA 17815.

Bill is signed to give BSC new Facilities

Signing of the Capital Budget Bill by Governor Dick Thornburgh, Dec. 18, gave BSC its first opportunity in nearly a decade to provide facilities needed for new and expanding programs in business and the health sciences, according to BSC President James H. McCormick.

"Bloomsburg State College has responded successfully to changing educational needs through responsible academic planning and careful use of existing resources," he said. "This is the first time since I've been at Bloomsburg that we've been able to plan for the facilities we need and look forward to having those plans become realities."

The $425.7 million Capital Budget includes $6.406 million for construction of a Human Services Center at Bloomsburg, a project that was proposed several years ago to relieve a critical shortage of classroom, laboratory, and office space.

The bill also provides funds for other BSC projects including: Sutliff Renovation - $660,000; Hartline Science Center Renovation - $421,000; Fire Protection Renovations - $1,012 million; Electrical System Renovations - $1.05 million; Underground Steam Distribution System Rehabilitation - $707,000.

"Capital construction and major renovation projects are financed through long-term bond issues," McCormick said. "The purpose is to provide funds for projects that cannot be financed by the operating budget. Signing of the bill is good news for the people of this region as well as for the college community. Construction means jobs, and when the projects authorized for Bloomsburg are completed, Bloomsburg State College will have facilities it will need to meet the educational challenges of the 80's. The Human Services and the renovation projects will support our mission to meet critical needs for health services personnel and to accommodate our expanded programs in business.

"We've known for several years the kind of facilities we need. Now we can begin to make the final, precise plans," McCormick said. "The college community under the leadership of the college-wide space and facilities committee, will recommend how and by whom new and existing space is to be used. The final design of the Human Services Center will be based on a careful evaluation of needs across the entire campus."

"Now we can begin to make the final, precise plans."

McCormick commented on the wide range of support the college received. "I'm pleased that so many people were willing to help us. We began seeking approval for the Human Services Center more than six years ago, and there have been many changes since then, on our own campus as well as in the legislature and the administration in Harrisburg. Students who helped in the initial stages are now alumni, and leadership has changed in both AFSCME, the union which represents our non-instructional employees, and APSCUF, which represents the faculty. But there was no change in their support for the Human Services Center.

"Personally, I am extremely pleased by the positive response of the legislature and Governor Thornburgh. I am gratified with the support we have had over many years in our efforts to obtain capital budget funding for these important projects. It was really a community effort. Businessmen, labor organizations, industry and community leaders, state and local government officials, area legislators, and parents of students were involved along with our students, faculty, staff, trustees, and alumni. I want everyone who participated in any way to know that the college appreciates what was done to help us gain recognition and understanding of our critical needs."

SEATTLE, Wash. (CH) — The Dallas Mavericks weren't the only new National Basketball Association team being put together this spring.

At the University of Washington, students in a sports administration seminar were building their own NBA franchise-only on paper, of course. Under the direction of a faculty member and Dick Vertlieb, general manager of the Indiana Pacers, the students drafted players from the league pool, made deals to broadcast the games, promoted the team in press releases, fretted over budgets and in general did everything required of an NBA franchise.

For some students, reality was too much. After Vertlieb made an impassioned opening speech, exhorting the students to work long hours to build a champion, at least one student dropped the course.

Proceeds of this year's event will benefit multiple sclerosis, the mysteriouscrippler of young adults. Rick McHugh, the coordinator for the Multiple Sclerosis Society and other volunteers will work in conjunction with the Program Board to organize and produce the event.

Anyone may enter the 50-hour event which begins on Friday, Jan. 30, at 8:00 p.m., and ends Sunday, Feb. 1, 1981 at 10:00 p.m. Music will be provided by WBSC, the campus radio station and local bands including Kicks, Last Chance Band, Harbor and Risk.

The Bloomsburg Chapter of the American Red Cross has volunteers available throughout the 50 hours to check dancers for fatigue and other ailments and local doctors are present during the last 10 hours.

Besides the 50-hour event, there are also two special mini-marathons on Saturday, Jan. 31, 9:00 a.m. - 9:00 p.m. One is for local high school students and one is for people who want to dance but feel they can only last 12 hours. Contestants are reminded that they need not dance the entire 50 hours in the major marathon, but only as long as they are able.

To enter, couples or individuals must register and submit pledge sheets.

Entry forms are available at the Kehr Union Information Desk. The 1980-1981 presidents of the Kehr Union Program Board are Claire Dillon and Carol Hermes. For further information, contact Program Board advisor Marianne Montague at 389-3304.

Bloomsburg matmen second in quad meet...

By DAN CAMPBELL
While the rest of us were home enjoying the last week of our vacation, the Husky wrestlers were back here at Bloom and hard at work. The Huskies started off the new year at home on Jan. 7 with a quadrangular meet. Participating in addition to BSC were East Stroudsburg, Shippensburg and the nationally ranked Tigers of Missouri. Missouri won all three of its matches handily, allowing only a total of nine points the entire day. Bloomsburg managed six of these in a 31-6 loss. Don Reese won a 13-12 shoot out against Keith Whelan at 126 lbs. Bart "Bucky" McCollum returned to the Husky line up with an 8-6 victory over Dale Whitehouse, at 167 lbs. Al McCollum lost a close match 6-5, as did Brian Jeremiah (4-2). Missouri beat East Stroudsburg 49-3 and Shippensburg 50-0. The Huskies also beat Shippensburg. The big win was at 134 lbs. when Ed Fiorvanti destroyed his opponent 19-0. The final score of this match was 29-4. Against East Stroudsburg, the Huskies won handily again, this time by the score of 26-8. Big wins in this match were Tom Fiorvanti's 6-0 decision and Mike Mirra's 13-7 win. The big disappointment of the day came when Butch Snyder beat Ray Meyers of Shippensburg. Despite winning, Snyder tore ankle ligaments and will be out at least four weeks. Wrestling at 177 lbs. or at 190, Snyder had amassed a 10-3 record so far this year, making his career mark 54 wins and 27 losses. Also hurt was Gibbes Johnson, who sprained an ankle in his first match since returning from hand surgery. The team went to the University of Delaware Invitational on the last weekend of break with hopes of defending their string of three consecutive tourney titles. They were successful and are now the only team to win that tournament in four years. And they had to do so without Johnson and Snyder. Despite a tough challenge by a much improved Army squad. Bloomsburg won by capturing four individual crowns. Reese had two pins and a major decision added to his record on his way to the 134 lb. crown. Todd Cummings and Bucky McCollum also won individual crowns. Ed Fiorvanti was also in the finals but had to settle for second, as did Alan McCollum. Woody Fry and Jeremiah finished fourth.

MEN'S BASKETBALL
Bloomsburg State College junior Jon Bardsley has been named to the ECAC Weekly All-Star Basketball Team for his performance during the week of Jan. 5-10.

The 5'10" playmaker led the Huskies to a 67-58 win over nationally ranked Clarion in their only game of the week.

Along with doing the bulk of the ball handling chores, he scored 23 points on a 9 for 16 performance from the field and a 5 of 5 effort from the foul line. The native of Lansdowne is currently BSC's second leading scorer with a 13.8 average and also averages 6.7 assists per game.

SOCCKER
Two Bloomsburg State College performers have been named to the 1980 All-

Pennsylvania Conference eastern division soccer team.

Toby Rank and Luke Sakalosky who combined for 13 of BSC's 23 goals this season were the only Huskies on the squad announced by Clyde Witman, athletic director at East Stroudsburg State College and chairman of the conference soccer committee.

A senior Striker, Rank has been selected to the All-Conference team in all four seasons at Bloomsburg, and with seven goals in the recently completed campaign, finished with 29 career goals to his credit.

Sakalosky was in his first season at BSC after sitting out last season following his transfer from East Stroudsburg. He tallied six goals at his full-back position while competing in all 18 games.

...bow to mighty Hawkeyes

BY BRUCE GEISLER

The Iowa State Hawkeyes won or tied all 10 individual bouts enroute to a crushing 38-2 victory over the BSC Huskies in the one-sided dual wrestling match held at Nelson fieldhouse Friday evening.

In a display of talent which proved why they are the top rated team in the nation, Iowa State grappled and man-handled Bloomsburg's matmen with little apparent difficulty.

But injury to some Husky head coach Roger Sanders' key starters contributed somewhat to the lop-sided score. His team, having already lost several athletes to injuries, among them tri-captain Gibbes Johnson, suffered the loss of NCAA qualifier Walter "Butch" Snyder to an ankle injury only three days before the match.

In the early stages of the match, the home team did show some competitive spirit. At 118 lbs. BSC's Todd Cummings lost an 11-3 decision to Iowa's Kevin Darkus after having kept the match close for the first two periods.

At 126 lbs. Iowa's Mike Picozzi just barely got by tri-captain Ed Fiorvanti winning 5-2.

The Huskies scored their only points at 134 lbs. as Don Reese tied Iowa State's Jim Gibbons 6-6. The team score then stood at 9-2.

The Hawkeyes' biggest wins came at the middle weights.

Iowa's Dave Brown handed BSC's Keith Fairman a 9-3 loss, at 142 lbs. The visitors then went on to win 17-8 at 150 lbs. 17-5 at 158 lbs. and 19-8 at 167 lbs.

After that impressive series, Iowa State was in total command with the team score 25-2 in their favor.

In a hard fought match at 177 lbs. Dave Allen took the 8-3 decision from BSC's Tyrone Johnson while Iowa's John Forshee coasted to a 10-1 victory over Greg Sacabage at 190 lbs.

The only fall of the evening came in the heavyweight match when, with 1:51 left in the second period, Iowa State's Dave Osenbaugh was able to pin Bloomsburg's Mike Mirra.

Men roundballers win pair

By KEVIN KODISH

Following a third place finish in the Sacred Heart Holiday Tournament, the BSC men's basketball team returned home to the friendly confines of Nelson Fieldhouse last week to begin a five-game homestand.

CLARION CLASH

Junior playmaker Jon Bardsley fired in a game-high 23 points to fuel the Huskies in a 67-58 triumph over the Clarion Eagles.

The Eagles entered the contest ranked eighth in the latest NCAA Division II poll and fifth in the east by Eastern Basketball Magazine.

BSC had to contend with All-American candidate Alvin Gibson. The CSC star hit seven shots from the floor and added four free throws for 18 points.

Backing Bardsley in the scoring column for the Huskies were Ron Zynel and Mike Wenrich. Zynel came off the bench to contribute 17 markers, while Wenrich converted six field goals for 12 points.

BSC jumped out to a 39-34 halftime lead and added a 28-24 edge in the second half to record the victory.

Bloomsburg tallied a 26-23 advantage in field goals, plus a 15-12 free throw total. Clarion did make a better percentage of their foul shots, however. The visitors canned all 12 of their attempts, compared to 15 of 23 shooting for the Huskies.

It is quite possible the two teams could meet again in the Pennsylvania Conference tournament on Feb. 27-28 at Nelson Fieldhouse.

LeMOYNE WIN

Bloomsburg's next victim was LeMoyno College. The Huskies handed the guests an 80-65 loss last Monday night.

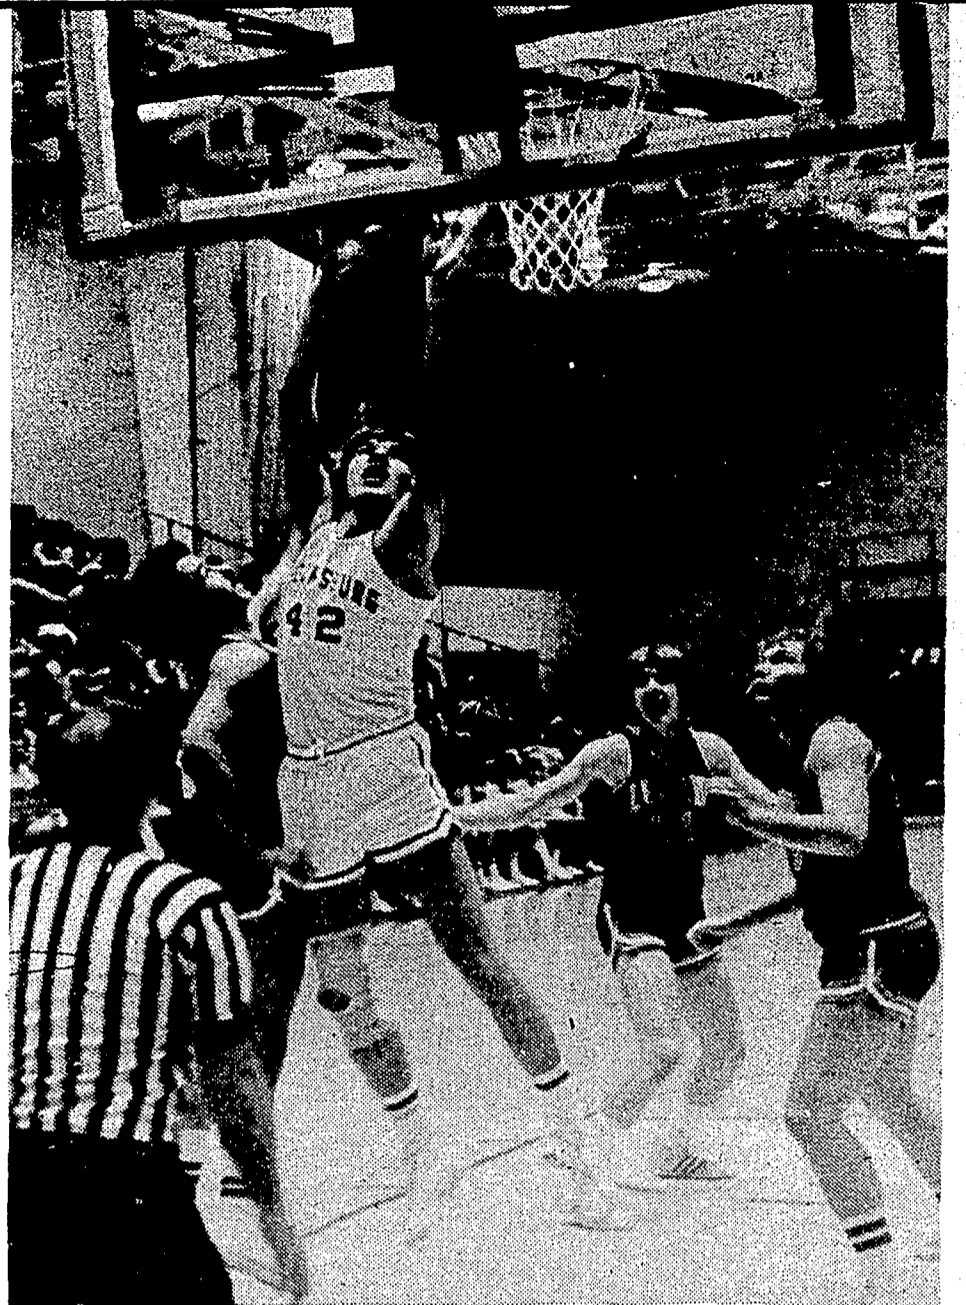

Supersub Zynel led the BSC attack with 19 points. Backing the junior forward in double figures were Barry Francisco, Bardsley, Wenrich and Doug Greenholt. Freshman Francisco netted 14 markers and Bardsley chipped in with 12. Wenrich and Greenholt each popped in 10 points.

"Jr. playmaker Jon Bardsley fired in a game high 23 points."

Jim McDermott paced the losers with 15 points. Dan Fletcher added 14 and Mike McDermott 11 for LeMoyno.

The locals raced out to an early 10-point advantage and were never headed in their third straight win.

The pair of triumphs upped the season log to 9-2. The Huskies will now host Cheyney in a key clash tonight at Nelson Fieldhouse. Tip-off time is 8 p.m.

UP FOR TWO. BSC's Doug Greenholt powers his way up for a bucket during the contest with LeMoyno.
