State & basic grant deadline info.

1981-82 State Grant & Basic Grant application deadline: Filing deadline for all renewal applicants as well as non-renewal applicants for the Pennsylvania Higher Education Assistance Agency (PHEAA) grant is May 1, 1981. For Basic Educational Opportunity Grant (BEOG) consideration, PHEAA must receive your form sometime before March 16, 1982; but the sooner you send it in, the better. Failure to comply with these deadlines could result in delay of your Basic Grant and State Grant awards or even exclusion from eligible applicant pool for the 1981-82 award year.

1981 Summer PHEAA Grant applications; State Higher Education Grant Program

applications for 1981 summer semester are now available in the Financial Aid Office. To apply, a student must be enrolled for a minimum of twelve (12) semester credits. A summer payment represents one of the eight (8) semester payments for which a student is eligible. The Financial Aid Office is located in Room 19, second floor, Ben Franklin Building.

Financial aid checks - spring 1981 disbursement; All students will be notified by mail concerning the amounts of financial aid awarded and applied to their accounts. If any money appears in the check amount column of the summary, you must visit the Business Office in Waller Administration Building to sign for and receive your refund check(s).

Students receiving refunds with last names beginning with the following letters can pick up their nursing scholarships, BEOG, NDSL, SEOG, and PHEAA financial aid for spring 1981 between the hours of 8:30 a.m. and 12:00 noon, and 1:00 p.m. to 4:00 p.m. at the Business Office in Waller Administration Building. Those students who cannot pick up their checks during the regular scheduled time, Monday, March 16, through Thursday, March 19, may come in on Friday, March 20.

Disbursement Schedule
Monday 3-16-81, A - E; Tuesday 3-17-81, F - L; Wednesday 3-18-81, M - R; Thursday 3-19-81, S - Z; Friday 3-20-81, A - Z (Late).

Students will be required to present their College I.D. Cards.

3 BSC students killed in car accidents over break

Three BSC students died in two separate car accidents over spring break, all of them were members of BSC fraternities.

Patrick J. O'Donnell and Lucio G. Ventresca, members of Phi Sigma, were killed instantly when the car in which they were riding struck a tree and split in half. Both men were from Warminster, Pa. Ventresca was the son of Thomas and Agnes Ventresca. O'Donnell as the son of John and Agnes O'Donnell.

David R. Bittner, a sophomore member of Sigma Iota Omega, was killed in Williamsport when the car in which he was riding struck a school bus on an icy road. Bittner was the son of Mr. and Mrs. Kent Bittner. He resided in Williamsport.

BSC student groups to aid Atlanta investigation

By ROBERTA CLEMENS
Three BSC student organizations are concerned about the Atlanta child slayings and plan to support the investigation of the murders.

Alpha Kappa Alpha, the Third World Cultural Society and Kappa Alpha Psi are sponsoring various events this week in conjunction with the investigation of the murders in Atlanta.

The Third World Cultural Society will be collecting donations in the lobby of Haas Auditorium before the New Freedom Theatre Production of "Hot Mollasses" tonight at 8:15 p.m. The money collected will go towards the funding for the investigation.

Alpha Kappa Alpha Sorority is sponsoring a memorial service for the murdered youths. It will be held Thursday, March 19, at 8:30 PM in the Multipurpose Room. The public is invited to attend.

The group has also set up a table in the Union where members are passing out green ribbons. According to the group, the ribbons, which should be displayed on clothing, are meant to signify life especially the life of children and so that no more children are murdered in Atlanta.

Gregory Wright, president of Kappa Alpha Psi asks that all of BSC support the ribbon campaign and pick one up in the Union. Wright explained that

CGA wants Faculty evaluation

By ROBERTA CLEMENS
Campus Judicial Board selections and CGA faculty evaluations were the main topics of discussion at Monday's CGA College Council meeting.

The procedure for selecting members of the campus Judicial Board was raised at the meeting after several perspective Judicial Board candidates were introduced to the College Council.

Phil Roy, a College Council member questioned Dean Robert Norton, supervisor for the committee that chooses the Judicial Board members, concerning whether the applicants had been properly screened. A vote was taken, and the Judicial Board candidates were approved.

Barb Nugent, chairperson of the CGA student faculty evaluation committee reported that two types of evaluations exist at BSC. One is composed and executed by CGA and one is composed and executed by the BSC Faculty Collective Bargaining Procedure.

Nugent reported that the committee has requested that only the survey conducted by the Collective Bargaining Procedure be held, and have the results published and be available to students. To do this, this request must be approved by ABSCUP, the BSC faculty union. If it is not approved, Nugent said that the two survey systems would be used.

The survey would be conducted every semester, but not to the entire faculty. Every faculty member will be evaluated every five years, and those reports will be published every year, Nugent explained. In either case, Nugent said that the surveys would be available to students in common places such as the Union, Andross Library and the dormitories.

In other business, Mike Azar, BSC comptroller and advisor to the group, introduced Jill Johnson as the recently hired employee in the Community Activities Office. She is replacing Mrs. Betty

Harrisburg rally set

"At the same time that Metropolitan Edison Company is pushing for higher utility rates, to reopen one of its Three Mile Island nuclear reactors, and to dump 700,000 gallons of radioactive water into the Susquehanna River, trade union leaders, antinuclear groups, community residents, and students are gearing up for a big antinuclear action rally (in Harrisburg) on March 28. (from The Militant, March 13).

The Alliance of Student Voters of BSC is sponsoring a bus to attend this demonstration. The bus will depart Elwell Hall at 9 A.M. and return at 10 P.M. Cost is $5, sign up at the KUB Info Desk.

College Store is a business

By DENISE HULSE

Being the educated, objective students that we are (or should be), we can view the College Bookstore as a business organization that has over a million dollars in sales each year, rather than a "rinky-dink" operation trying to "get our money." The latter being a common attitude.

The philosophy of the College Store is to charge as little as possible for the educational items and to make a profit on non-required items. The profits made are utilized to increase the inventory and to provide funds for the Kehr College Union Program Board in sponsoring movies, dances, coffee houses, special events, and other activities.

In accordance with this philosophy, textbooks and English dictionaries are offered at a 5 percent discount. Posterboard, all art supplies, notebooks, mimeograph and ditto paper, ceramic supplies, dittos, stencils, IBM paper, typing paper and binders are all offered at 20 percent off list price. In addition, they sell the New York Times 50 percent off suggested retail price. No other bookstore or newspaper stand in the area does this.

The magazine subscriptions put in every new text book and are offered at a savings to the students, and is another example of the bookstore's not-for-profit objectives. When a student subscribes to one of the magazines, the bookstore receives a commission. However, all the profits go back to the students through Kehr Union activities.

The reason for certain non-educational items, grocery items for example, to have a mark up of 20 percent is because the bookstore buys these items from a jobber in smaller quantities compared to other chain stores in the area. Therefore, they do not get the discounts from the manufacturer.

In conclusion, the common attitude that the College Store is a "rip-off" is an attitude that should be re-evaluated. It is entirely up to you, the student, where and how to spend your money. Just remember that the bookstore is here for your benefit and at your convenience.

Hall and Oats concert scheduled for April 21

Daryl Hall and John Oates will perform the second concert of the spring semester on April 21, at 8 p.m. in Haas.

Hall and Oates have had a string of hits spread out over their eleven album catalog, with highlights being "She's Gone," "Sara Smile," and "Rich Girl." Currently, they are dominating AM radio airplay with "Kiss On My List" from their latest album, "Voices," which also includes, "How Does It Feel To Be Back" and "You've Lost That Loving Feeling".

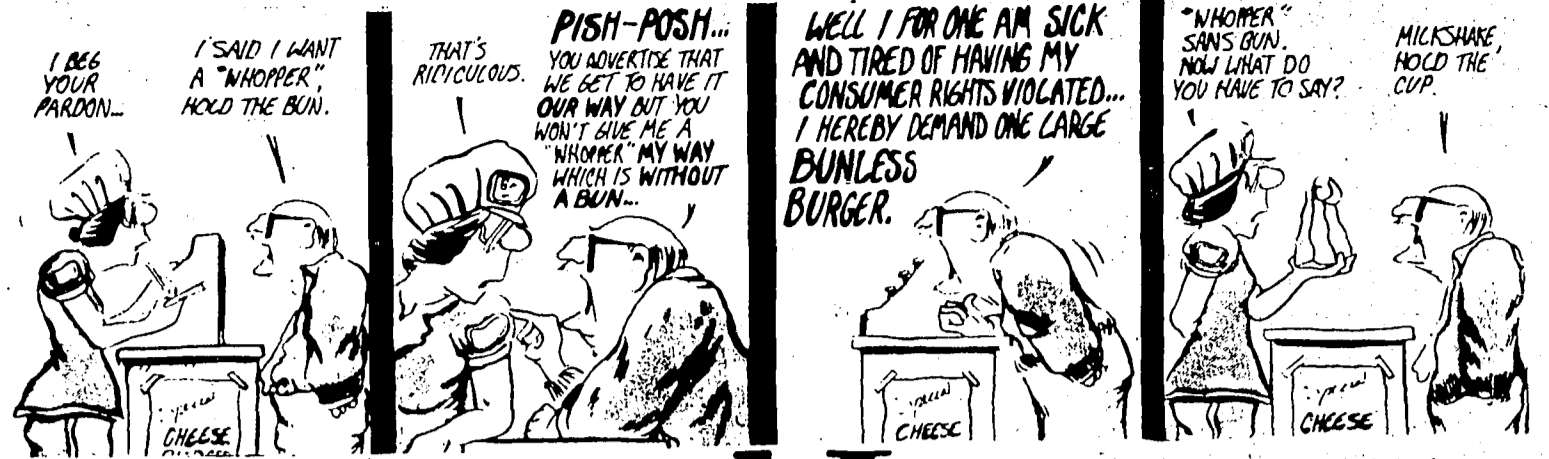

Their music is a fine blend of a number of different styles. Pop, soul, rhythm and blues, and hard rock and roll are all a part of their sound. This combination is sure to have something for everyone.

CONCERT RESCHEDULED

The concert was originally scheduled for April 14, but was changed to the 21st because of studio obligations for the band, which required them to cancel part of their tour.

Tickets for the concert will be $7.50 with a BSC ID and $8.50 without. Tickets go on sale Thursday, March 19, at 9:30 a.m. in the Kehr Union. All seats will be general admission and there will be no reserved seating available.

Editorial Letters

EDITOR'S NOTE: Letters must be typed on a 60-character line and be in the Voice Office no later than 6 p.m. Tuesdays to be included in Friday's edition. All letters must be signed, with a phone number enclosed. Names will be withheld upon request, at the discretion of the editor.

Teachers needed

Dear Editor:

The Foreign & Domestic Teachers Organization needs teacher applicants in all fields from kindergarten through college to fill over five hundred teaching vacancies both at home and abroad.

Since 1968, the organization has been finding vacancies and locating teachers both in foreign countries and in all 50 states. We possess hundreds of current openings and have all the information as to scholarships, grants, and fellowships.

The principle problem with first year teachers is where to find the jobs!

Since college newspapers are always anxious to find positions for their graduating teachers, your paper may be interested in your teachers finding employment for the following year, and print our request for teachers.

Should you wish additional information about our organization, you may write the Portland Oregon Better Business Bureau or the National Teacher's Placement Agency, Universal Teachers, Box 5231, Portland, Oregon 97208.

We do not promise every graduate in the field of education a definite position, however, we do promise to provide them with a wide range of hundreds of current vacancy notices both at home and abroad.

Sincerely,

John P. McAndrew,
President

Poem dedication

This poem was submitted from the Brothers of Phi Sigma Xi in loving memory of Lucio Ventresca and Patrick O'Donnell:

Just Not Here

The sun set a little earlier today,
My world stood completely still like shadows on my window sill why are friends the first to go away.
Why are all the good ones called before we get to know them all, why is it that the best can never stay?

We try, but never understand the twist of fate that no one planned and hold back grief, then try and hide the tears, our brothers didn't say goodbye
the ones who knew them can tell you why-
because Lou and Pat aren't gone they're just not here.

Tribute to "brothers"

Dear Editor:

It is with a heavy heart that I write this letter of tribute to Lou "Guido" Ventresca and Patrick O'Donnell, who lost their lives in a tragic car accident the past February 28, 1981. Those of us who knew Lou and Pat, now experience a feeling of emptiness and disbelief with the realization that we have lost these two young men who we could truly call both "friends" and "brothers." To understand why God has taken them away from us is difficult at this time but to remember them for who they were will never be hard.

When we think of Lou and Pat, we think of two young men who gave us the wonderful gift of laughter. They both held a marvelously boyish quality that enabled them to lift our spirits when we were in the lowest of moods. There was never a time when the Brotherhood of Phi Sigma Xi was anything but proud of Lou and Pat and extremely grateful for the privilege of calling them our brothers. We all know that college life, just like life in general, can at times be frustrating and trying on one's spirits. Through the precious friendship of Lou Ventresca and Pat O'Donnell many of these hard times were quickly transformed into the wonderful memories of our stay at Bloomsburg State College that will always be cherished. Lou and Pat will always be a part of these memories.

They will be greatly missed but never forgotten.

SIO brothers respond

Dear Editor,

The brothers of Sigma Iota Omega, wish to express their deepest sympathy in the memory of Dave Bittner. As a brother of S.I.O., and a dear friend of many, Dave will be greatly missed by all who knew him. Although he is no longer with us, his memory will remain deep in our hearts forever. Our thoughts will be with the Bittner family and friends in this time of need.

New director of Quest named

Carolyn Birmingham, a former instructor at the Institute for Creative Living at Cleveland Heights, Ohio, is serving as the Director of Quest Programs at BSC for the current semester and during the 1981 summer sessions.

Birmingham replaces Stephen Bresett who headed the program since its adoption at BSC in 1973. Bresett, a member of the health, physical education, and athletic department, will be the head baseball coach this year.

The Quest program provides students and other members of the community with an opportunity to experience learning by doing. The classroom for this experience is the natural environment of the USA, including land, sea, and sky. The learning experiences are planned as short term and long term programs ranging from one day to a full semester or summer.

Birmingham brings a wealth of experience to the position. In addition to her many functions at the Institute for Creative Living, she was also a co-camp director for the Cleveland Heights Board of Education which included a six-weeks annual period of programming for about 100 kids for five-day overnight stays, instructing nature studies, initiating games and values clarifications. She also trained, advised and supervised high school intern dorm counselors. Her versatility was evident when she served as a cross-country ski instructor for the city of Cleveland Heights, Parks and Recreation division.

Academy Award nominations listed

For the best performance by an actor in a leading role:

Robert De Niro ("Raging Bull") — This is his fourth nomination and third in this category. He won the award for his supporting performance in "The Godfather Part II" and was nominated for his leading role in "Taxi Driver," 1976, and "The Deer Hunter," 1978. A victory would make him the second man (Jack Lemmon is the other) to hold Oscars in both acting categories.

Robert Duvall ("The Great Santini") — This is his third nomination and first in this category. He was previously nominated for his supporting performance in "The Godfather," 1972, and "Apocalypse Now," 1979.

John Hurt ("The Elephant Man") — This is his second nomination and first in this category. He was nominated in 1978 for his supporting performance in "Midnight Express."

Jack Lemmon ("Tribute") — This is his seventh nomination and sixth in this category. A two-time winner, he is the only man to capture both acting Oscars ("Mister Roberts," 1955, supporting performance, and "Save The Tiger," best actor, 1973). A victory would make him the second man to hold three Oscars (Walter Brennan won three as best supporting actor). Three women have won in both acting categories: Helen Hayes, Ingrid Bergman and Maggie Smith. Lemmon's other nominations were for his leading performances in "Some Like It Hot," 1959, "The Apartment," 1960, "Days of Wine and Roses," 1962 and "The China Syndrome," 1979.

Peter O'Toole ("The Stunt Man") — This is his sixth nomination, all in this category. He was previously nominated for "Lawrence of Arabia," 1962; "Becket," 1964; "The Lion in Winter," 1968; "Goodbye, Mr. Chips," 1969; and "The Ruling Class," 1972.

For the best performance by an actress in a leading role:

Ellen Burstyn ("Resurrection") — This is her fifth nomination and fourth in this category. She won the best actress award in 1974 for "Alice Doesn't Live Here Anymore," was also nominated for her supporting performance in "The Last Picture Show," 1971, and as best actress for "The Exorcist," 1973, and "Same Time, Next Year," 1978.

Goldie Hawn ("Private Benjamin") — This is her second nomination and first in this category. She won the award in 1969 for her supporting performance in "Cactus Flower."

He also stated that 22 children have been murdered in Atlanta. He requested though that the issue should not be taken as a "black white issue."

He explained, "All parents should be aware of the fact that children are being murdered. Those children that have been murdered were so young that they didn't know the difference between being black and white."

He concluded, "We may be hundreds of miles away from Atlanta, but we can certainly hope and pray."

Three ways to save gas and stretch dollars

If you're a typical driver, you drive your car about 11,000 miles per year, and it consumes nearly 800 gallons of gasoline, for an average fuel economy rating of 14-15 miles per gallon. Gasoline costs over 5 cents per mile, or over $600 per year. And the price is rising.

If you'd save only one-tenth of a gallon daily, your savings would amount to a 5 percent discount on every gallon you buy.

Passenger automobiles account for about 31 percent of all the petroleum consumed in the United States, and almost half of the total is imported. And though Americans have cut back the growth rate in overall oil use, their demand for motor gasoline is up substantially.

(Total estimated petroleum demand for the first three months of 1979 was up 1.7 percent from a year ago, but motor gasoline use was up an estimated 4.5 percent.)

This increase in gasoline use comes at a bad time. Members of the Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries (OPEC) have again raised prices, and oil supplies worldwide are tight. And because gasoline accounts for about 40 percent of U.S. oil consumption, demand must be reduced to avoid shortages and to meet a commitment to the International Energy Agency to reduce demand for world oil 5 percent below projected fourth quarter 1979 levels.

Here are three gasoline-saving tips to help you — and your country — save this essential fuel:

1. Share the ride. About one-third of all private automobile use is for commuting, frequently with only the driver in the car. If only one person were added as a passenger, the two occupants of the car would use about half the gasoline required if each drove alone. It should be easy to ask a neighbor or a fellow employee to join in riding with you to and from work. More than 20 million commuters share the ride. Many employers offer incentives such as free or reduced rate parking for carpools, and the trend towards vanpools is increasing.

2. Combine trips and eliminate unnecessary trips. Plan your trips — to market, to the library, to school or to visit friends. You'll find that many neighborhood jaunts could be combined, and you would help your neighbors by offering to run errands for them. Some trips might be better handled or even eliminated — by telephoning, writing, or combining with another trip.

3. Drive at a moderate speed. The most efficient range usually is 35 to 45 miles per hour. On the highway, where you may need to maintain a higher speed stay at 55 mph.

American Lit critic to speak at BSC

By L. B. FULLER

Jay Saunders Redding, a distinguished critic of American literature, will speak twice this week at BSC: on Friday he will discuss "Of the Writing of Books" at 1 p.m. and on Saturday, as part of The Written Word: A Festival 2, he will read several selections from his favorite works at 1:45 p.m. Both presentations will take place in Haas and are free to the community.

Redding has been a prolific writer with much of his work focusing on the American Black experience. Among his books are To Make a Poet Black, No Day of Triumph, Stranger and Alone, On Being Negro in America, and The Lonesome Road. He has contributed articles to Harper's, Atlantic Monthly, American Scholar, Massachusetts Review, Saturday Review and many others.

Presently Ernest I. White Professor Emeritus of American Studies and Humane Letters at Cornell University. Redding has served on the editorial board of the American Scholar, directed the Division of Research and Publication of the National Endowment for the Humanities, and been a visiting lecturer both in the United States and overseas.

He is a member of the Board of Fellows of Brown University, the Board of Directors of the American Council of Learned Societies, the Administrative Committee of the National Fellowships Fund, the Advisory Board of the Center for Advanced Studies at the University of Virginia, and the New York Governor's Planning Commission on Libraries.

Redding received both his undergraduate and graduate degrees from Brown University. He holds honorary degrees from his alma mater as well as several other colleges and universities.

His local presentations are sponsored by the Human Relations Planning Committee, the Arts Council and the English department.

Career questions answered by pros

By MICHAEL A. GOC

Dear Abbee:

I am a coed sophomore at Bloomsburg State College majoring in Business Management. I enjoy most of my courses and I'm learning a lot about business, but I'm not sure if I want to be employed in Business Management after I graduate. Do you know of anyone I can talk with who will help me get all the facts about being employed in Business Management or any other field if I decide not to stay in Business?

Signed,
Undecided Future

Dear Undecided Future

I'm glad that you wrote to me. I have a nephew at BSC who works as a Career Person at the Career Development & Placement Center, 3rd floor Ben Franklin Bldg. Career People are fellow students who know where to get information concerning any major at the college, all types of careers, graduate schools, and civil service. Also, they can help you with summer jobs and internships.

Career People are actually para-professional counselors who not only can help you decide upon a major but how to get a job in that field by teaching you how to write resumes and cover letters, and how to take an interview. They are juniors and seniors from various majors and backgrounds so that they'll be able to reach much of the student body.

So Undecided Future, if I were you I would go over to the Placement Center and talk to a Career Person. After all, it only concerns the next several years of your life.

Tenant problems solved on campus

By J. PETERSON

Do you know where to turn to when you finally grow tired of resident advisers, fire drills, and the Scranton Commons? You might try the Housing Office, room 16, Ben Franklin Building.

The Housing Office is primarily a referral service for both students and faculty seeking a residence in Bloomsburg. Almost 100 local landlords are registered with the office. These landlords have all agreed to undergo a yearly inspection by the town of Bloomsburg. The office makes available lists of landlords, vacancies, and literature on the many aspects of being a tenant.

The Housing Office also provides personal counseling for tenants who run into problems with off-campus life. In legal matters, the office can refer the tenant to either a local attorney or the CGA lawyer.

John Abell, directory

Housing, says his office continuously tries to educate students about what off-campus life is like, how to prepare for it, and how to conduct themselves.

According to Abell, there has been a steady growth in the number of off-campus students which is currently around eighteen-hundred. He sees many advantages to off-campus housing. It provides an opportunity for students to be out on their own, learn to deal with landlords, and do their own cooking and cleaning.

Abell says of off-campus living, "I think it's as good a laboratory as a lot of the class room experiences on campus."

The availability of housing has kept pace with student demand. Abell does not think that the point has been reached at which supply is so much higher than demand that students have "a wide latitude of choice." He feels that a person looking for a place in town, who goes about it seriously, is bound to find something.

Asked about town-student relations, Abell says "I can't help feeling that the horror stories and rumors that surround off-campus housing don't give a true picture of the off-campus situation." As a group, he feels the off-campus students get along with the townspeople. Even under ideal conditions there will be a clash of lifestyles between the students and the older residents in Bloomsburg. Although the student has a responsibility to behave in an adult manner, the town must realize that he-she is still growing.

Students will always do things that annoy townspeople, and vice versa, but Abell feels the relationship between the two in Bloomsburg is as good as, or better, than that in any other college town.

From the Archives

German not to be taught

Foreign languages have had their ups and downs in American academia, with respect to the notion of foreign languages in general and with certain languages in particular. Latin and Greek had their heyday and then a subsequent demise from which they have never fully recovered. French, Spanish, and German have been the mainstays of the modern languages. Occasionally world political events influenced college courses.

This record has been paralleled at Bloomsburg with Latin, Greek, and German being taught in the earlier years; Greek was eventually dropped with French and Spanish being added in the middle period. The 1980-81 catalogue lists French, German, Spanish, Russian, Italian, Polish, Portuguese, and Latin as offerings.

World War I had its effect on the teaching of foreign languages at Bloomsburg as witnessed by the following local newspaper report of June 23, 1918:

GERMAN NOT TO BE TAUGHT AT NORMAL IN FALL

German Teacher Had Previously Decided Never to Teach the Subject

When the fall term opens at the Bloomsburg State Normal School, German will cease to be studied by the students there.

In that connection, the German teacher at the school Miss Morrill, a native of New England and a graduate of Holyoke, announced some months ago that she would never again teach the German language. Also with the study of German eliminated from the course, she will not be back at the school in the fall.

"German was not resumed until 1961."

This strong expression against German apparently was felt for many years as the 1919-20 college catalogue omitted German and, according to catalog course listings, (with the exception of the 1927-28 and 1928-29 school years), the teaching of German was not resumed until 1961.

Save Gas

Most automobiles get about 18 percent better mileage on the highway at 50 than at 65 mph, and 20 percent better mileage at 55 than at 70 mph. You may note that some drivers abuse the speed limit on superhighways, but state police are cracking down on speeders.

Women swimmers second best in conference

BSC's women's swim team tied for second place in the PSAC championship. They shared the honor with Shippensburg State College. Both teams scored 400 points by the end of the three days of competition.

Clarion State won the event as BSC finished highest ever in their years of participation.

It was an exciting meet and the teams places were not determined until the last event of the meet. BSC needed to beat SSC in order to tie the meet.

The 400 freestyle relay team of Cathy Sheridan, Sue Brophy, Kelly Reinert and Linda Smith managed a fine victory with the winning time of 3:41.61 which was a new team record for the BSC women.

"Every swimmer contributed points to the victory and that's what really made the whole effort so worthwhile," said coach Mary Gardner adding, "We were ahead of SSC by 30 points after the first day of competition and then on Saturday we dropped down to third. We had a few let downs, but for the most part we were able to hold our own. Then on Sunday we just had to get everyone who was swimming into the finals and consolations in order to pick up our point total."

The day was led off with Beth Gallagher and Kim Arway taking ninth and tenth respectively in the 1650 yard freestyle with Lee Ann Pietrzykoshie pulling through with a fifth place in this event in the finals.

Sheridan and Reimert were both place winners in the 100 yd. freestyle and Smith miraculously pulled through a win in the consolation heat. Smith was suffering from an intestinal virus during the last two days, but even in a weak condition she was able to hang in there and do the job that needed to be done.

In the 50 yd. butterfly, Brophy placed third and Sue Bender took seventh to win the consolation heat.

The climax of the meet came in the 200 yard breaststroke in which Sheridan became the Pa. State Conference Champion. "Cathy is an extremely hard worker and it was such a wonderful feeling to see such a deserving person win," noted Gardner.

Sue Boyer and Vickie Orme also turned in a fine performance in the consolation heat of this event by placing eighth and eleventh respectively.

Another event swim during the final day of this meet was the 100 yd. individual medley. Tina Klamut turned in an excellent time of 1:03.72 which placed second and Boyer placed seventh which won the consolation heat.

Freshman diver Darcie Laudenslager made a very fine showing in both 1 and 3 meter diving. In both events she captured tenth place.

Other place winners and times are as follows:

200 yd. medley relay: Klamut, Boyer, Brophy, Smith (1:55.98 - third)

50-yd. breaststroke: Klamut (33.45 - second); Smith (34.26 - fourth); Boyer (34.37 - fifth).

500-yd. freestyle: Sheridan (5:16.73 - third); Pietrzykoshi (5:35.11 - ninth).

100-yd. butterfly: Brophy (1:01.87 - fifth); Bender (1:04.68 - twelfth).

200-yd. individual medley: Sheridan (2:16.05 - third); Reimert (2:21.96 - fourth); Boyer (2:22.76 - eighth).

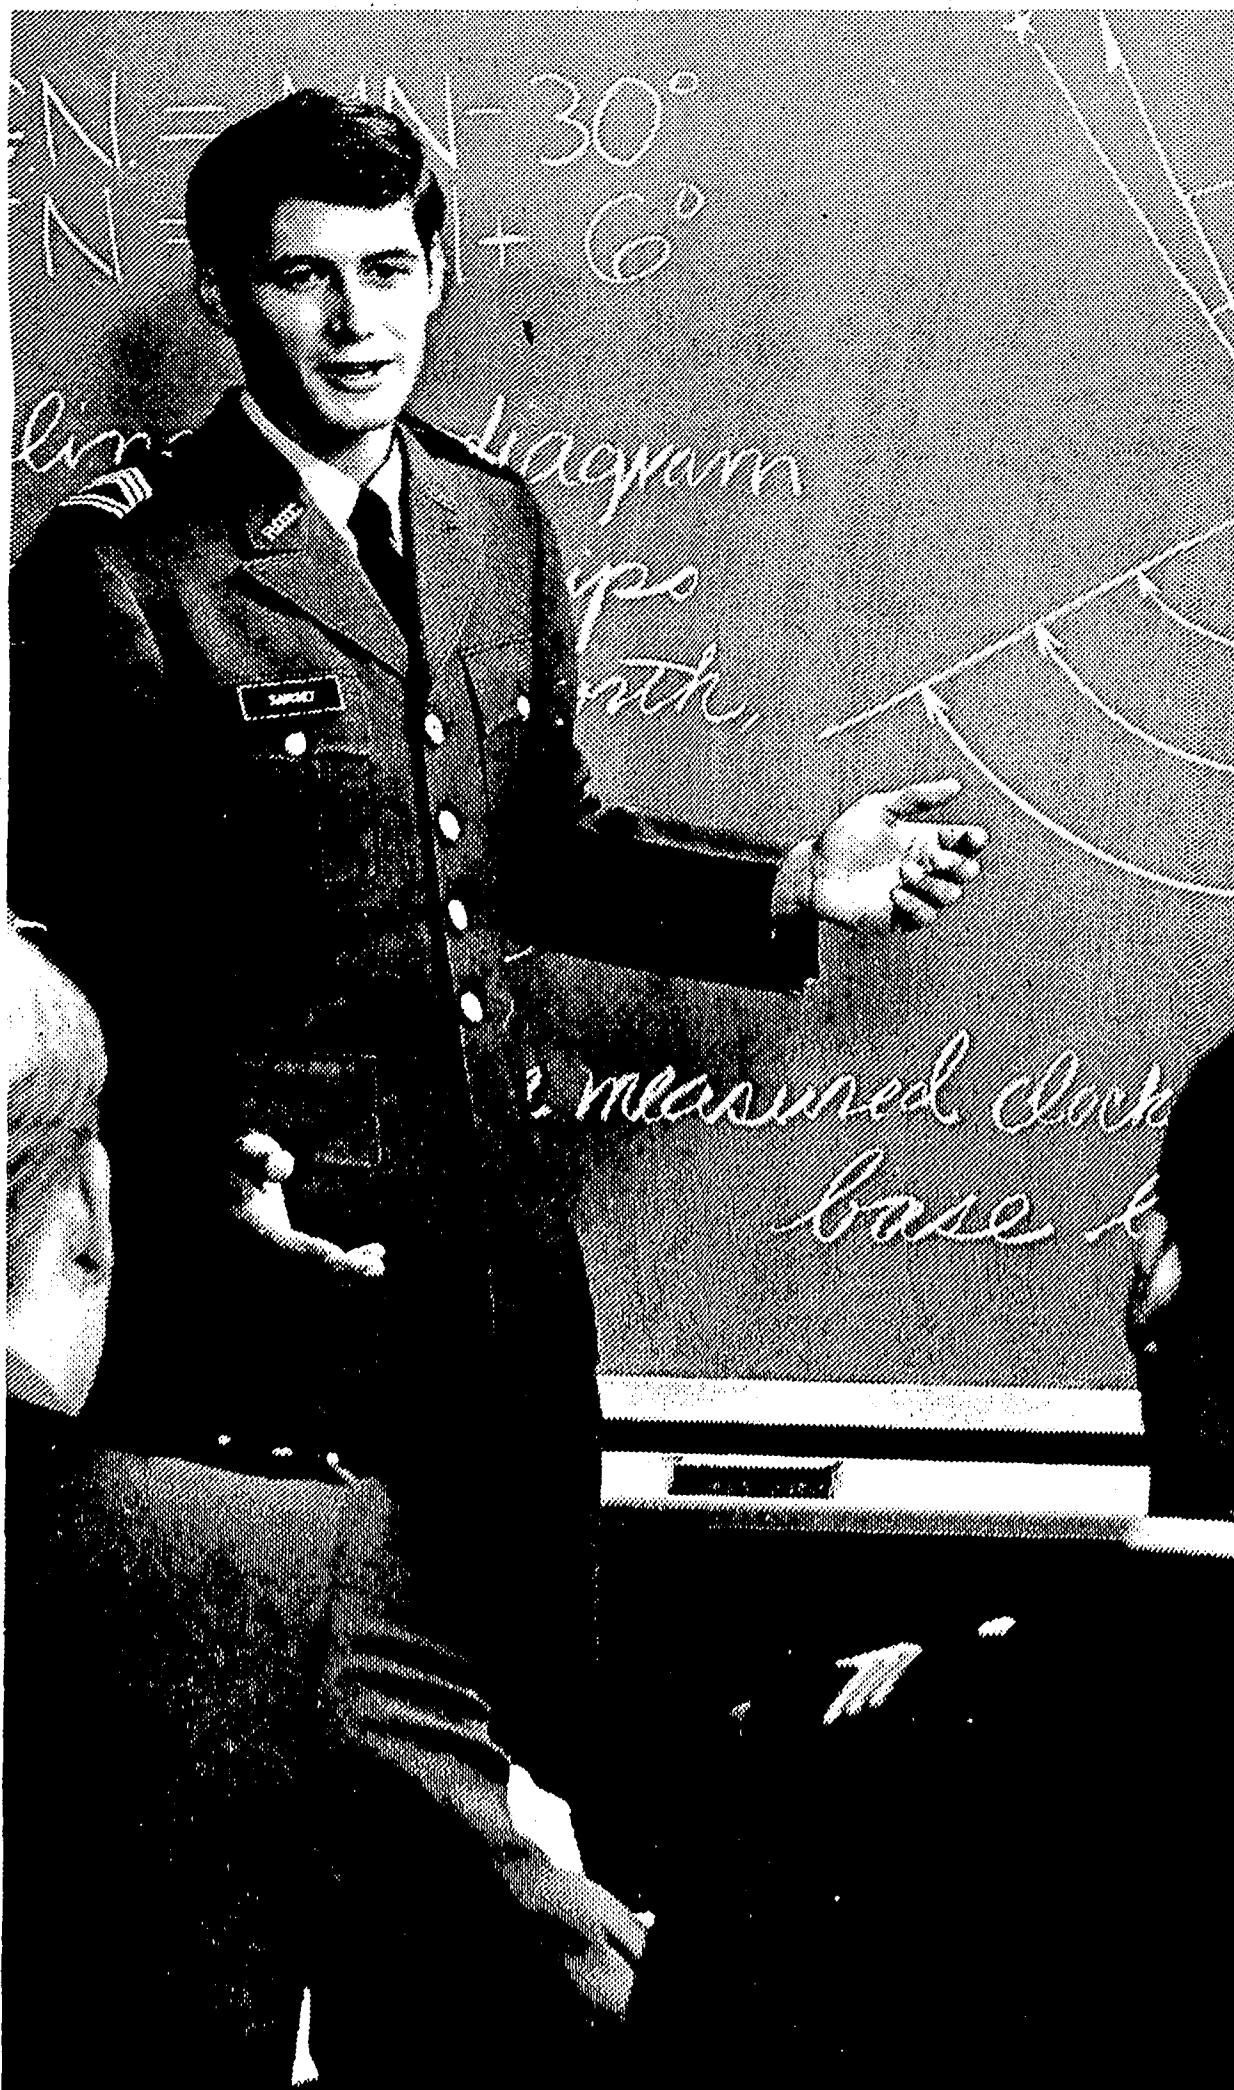

200-yd. backstroke: Nancy Semisce (2:28.84 - eleventh)

800-yd. freestyle relay: Sheridan, Klamut, Reimert, Brophy (5:08.08)

1 meter diving: Laudenslager (tenth).

YOUR LAST 2 YEARS OF COLLEGE COULD BE YOUR FIRST 2 YEARS OF MANAGEMENT.

The Army ROTC 2-year program trains you to become an officer for a modern organization — today's Army — which also includes the Army Reserve and Army National Guard.

An officer who is not only a leader of men, but a manager of money and materials as well.

That's why one of the things you'll learn in our 2-year program is management training skills.

Your training will start the summer after your sophomore year, at a six-week Army ROTC Basic Camp.

You'll earn over $400 for attending Basic Camp. And up to $1,000 for each of your last 2 years of Army ROTC.

But the biggest reward comes on graduation day. That's when you receive both a degree in your chosen major and a commission. And join the Army management team.

Hockey club champions

By MARC MANFREDI

The Bloomsburg State Ice Hockey Club dominated East Stroudsburg State College for the second time in as many nights last Tuesday 6-2, to win the Northeastern Pennsylvania Amateur Hockey League Championship at the Wilkes-Barre Ice-a-rama.

It was the first time Bloomsburg has ever appeared in the finals, while ESSC was the defending champions. East Stroudsburg was the favorite in the series because of the way they played against the Huskies during the regular season, as well as the rest of the league with an overall record of 18-1-1.

In the first game of the best of three final series, Bloomsburg came out flying and East Stroudsburg appeared overconfident, as Bloomsburg rolled to an easy 4-1 victory.

Game two saw BSC come out storming again as John Scavilla took the puck off the right wing boards and skated in alone for a backhand goal and 1-0 lead. Just moments later, Jerry Valletta scored on a slap shot to give Bloomsburg a two goal lead.

East Stroudsburg came back to tie the score quickly by getting two goals in 49 seconds. Mike Grady put Bloomsburg on top to stay with a power-play goal in the last minute of the period.

The only goal of the second period was another power-play tally by Dean Bertsch, and BSC was one period away from their first championship in four years of league competition.

Edgar Sheetz gave the Huskies a 5-2 lead just 13 seconds into the final period with a perfectly placed shot with the help of the post. Mike Polkowski finished the scoring with 8:49 remaining on a set up from Valletta.

The rest was academic as the boisterous Bloomsburg crowd that made the trip to Wilkes-Barre began celebrating before the game was over.

Chronister honored

Bloomsburg State College basketball coach Charles Chronister has been named Pennsylvania State Athletic Conference "Coach of the Year" following the Huskies' 23-7 season, which included the school's first ever conference basketball title.

Chronister concluded his tenth season at the helm and has an enviable 169-87 record since coming to BSC in 1971 from Gettysburg College, where he was an assistant under Bob Hulton.

The Huskies posted a 9-3 mark in the tough PC eastern division tying for the top spot with Cheyney and Mansfield. They advanced into the loop's post-season play-offs where they defeated East Stroudsburg (80-57) and Clarion (76-70) before handling Indiana University of Pennsylvania a 72-63 setback to nail down the championship and with is an automatic bid into the NCAA Division II tournament. The Mustangs of Cal Poly (SLO) University knocked the Huskies out of the tourney in an Eastern Regional contest by a 71-43 count and with the loss went any hopes of a national championship.

The 23 victories during the recently completed campaign established a new mark surpassing the old mark (22) set by the 1973-74 squad that captured the NCAA Mid-East regional crown and lost to eventual national champion Morgan State in the quarter-finals that year.

Chronister currently serves as president of the PC Coaches Association as well as being chairman of the National Association of Basketball Coaches Hall of Fame Committee in District II. He is also founder of the "Husky Basketball School," a summer basketball camp held at BSC for boys in the junior and senior high school age category, entering its sixth successful year.

Huskies beaten in playoffs

By DAN LOUGHLIN

Well it finally happened! Bloomsburg State's basketball team was brought back down to earth and landed with a sudden, surprising thud.

When a team gets an NCAA tournament bid, it is because that team is a good, strong, deserving team. Bloomsburg certainly deserved their bid, entering the tourney with a 23-5 record and the Pennsylvania Conference championship under its belt.

BSC picked the wrong time to play their worst game of the year, as their offense crumbled under the number one defense in the country. Cal Poly-San Luis Obispo came into the opening round game of the NCAA Division II East Regional held at Monmouth College (N.J.) giving up a mere 55.9 points per game.

The Mustangs overwhelmed Bloomsburg, 71-43. The final score is not a good indicator of the 1980-81 Husky team. Cal Poly beat BSC in every phase of the game and was simply the better team that day.

There were two obvious reasons to the lopsided score. The first was a swarming matchup defense that held Bloomsburg's Jon Bardsley, Terry Conrad and Barry Francisco scoreless. Bardsley was a main ingredient in BSC's offense, and not having his needed scoring punch proved to be disastrous for Bloomsburg.

The second obvious reason is the number 71. The Mustangs not only scored 71 points, but shot an incredible 71 percent from the floor. They missed only 12 shots in the game, going 26-38.

Cal Poly led by 20 points at halftime, 44-24, thanks to its awesome defense and a crisp, accurate fast break attack that led to quite a few easy layups. They forced the Huskies into 14 turnovers in the half, capitalizing on eight of them for 16 points.

Ken Casey sank 10 of the Huskies' first 12 points. However, Bloomsburg couldn't stay close with only one man doing all of the scoring.

Casey led Bloomsburg with 17. Mike Wenrich also hit doubles with 10.

The winners were led by Pete Neuman (15), Rob McKone (14), Ernie Wheeler and Kevin Lucas each had 13.

With Bloomsburg being ousted from the tournament by Cal Poly, the Huskies also lost the consolation game to host Monmouth College, 79-64. BSC was led by Doug Greenholt with 15, Casey 14, Bardsley 13, and Conrad 10.

The Hawks were paced by King with 22, Blair 15, Taylor 13, and Mazlich 12.

Even with the two poor showings to end the season, BSC's accomplishments cannot be overlooked. Some highlights of the impressive season: the Pennsylvania Conference championship; 23 wins-a school record; Bardsley selected to first team all-conference and all-tournament team; Wenrich selected to second team all-conference, MVP of Penna. tourney, and all-tournament team.

Three seniors have concluded their college careers. Dave Kiersnowski, Dave Ogden, and Bill Tillman should be applauded for their many hours of dedication.

Women finish winners

By KEVIN KODISH

Mindy Lerit and Kathy Palubinsky played their last game at Nelson Fieldhouse on Feb. 24, and the pair of BSC roundballers will probably never forget that contest.

The seniors combined for 36 points as the Huskies thumped King's College 80-69. Lerit canned 10 field goals for 20 markers. The Morrisville native also recorded five steals and six assists in the triumph. Palubinsky dropped in eight shots from the floor for a 16 point night. She also tallied five rebounds, four assists, two steals, and a pair of blocked shots.

Two other Bloomsburg hoopsters had a good night in the scorebook. Junior forward Trina Knittel shot a sizzling 62 percent enroute to a 16 point performance, while sophomore sensation Hilarie Runyon tallied 14 markers and 16 rebounds.

King's was led in scoring by Mary Beth Bowler. The sophomore connected on 13 of 22 shots from the field and four of five from the charity stripe, for a total of 30 points. Her 26th point of the game was a milestone, as she broke the 1000 point barrier.

The Monarchs had two other players who reached double figures. Teresa Bowler netted 16 markers, and Julie Isaac chipped in with 13.

The Huskies rebounded from a one-point halftime deficit, outscoring King's 47-35 in the final 20 minutes.

BSC dominated the boards in the clash. The Huskies recorded a 42-32 margin in caroms, including 24 offensive rebounds.

The victory closed the campaign for the locals. The Huskies finished with a 6-11 log.
