BSC Students to Suffer Severely from National Cuts

By ANGEL GRASSO

BSC students and administrators recently lobbied in Washington, D.C. against President Reagan's proposed cutbacks in federal aid which could cost BSC at least $3.25 million in financial assistance.

If the proposed reductions are enacted by Congress, Pennsylvania could lose $88 million in Federal aid programs. The Basic Education Opportunity Grants would be reduced by more than $51 million. Currently, families with incomes up to $26,000 are eligible. Grants would be restricted to students from families with adjusted incomes of approximately $15,000.

Campus-based programs in Pennsylvania, such as the Supplemental Educational Opportunity Grants (eliminated under the Reagan plan), College Work Study Program and National Defense Student Loans could face a reduction of about $43 million. Reductions in these programs would result in a loss of awards for 116,500 students in Pennsylvania.

In addition, further cutbacks would be made in the Guaranteed Student Loan program, eliminating an estimated 41 percent of students currently receiving such loans. This would amount to $262 million in loans, affecting 118,000 students in Pennsylvania.

According to Senator John Heinz, who spoke to the Pennsylvania Association of Colleges and Universities (PACU) in Washington, the proposed cuts would "destroy higher education." Heinz added, "I have already expressed grave reservations with everything the administrators have proposed."

"The group also joined over 5000 students from all over the country."

Students and administrators representing BSC in Washington were President James McCormick, Chairman of the PACU, John Walker, Director of Institutional Advancement, Thomas Lyons, director of financial aid, CGA Officers Karen Chawaga, president, Sue Gordon, vice president, Paul Stockler, treasurer, and Michele Kessler, CAS representative. The group met with Congressmen Allen Ertel, James Coyne, James Nelligan, and Joseph McDade.

They were joined by more than 200 colleagues from 80 higher education institutions throughout Pennsylvania which represent 84 percent of Pennsylvania college students.

"We did not go to Washington as a formal protest to the proposed cuts," said Walker, "But rather to inform our Congressmen just how adversely students and colleges would be affected by further reductions."

Both Stockler and Kessler felt that the Congressmen are strongly in support of education, although Coyne and Nelligan seemed to be "evasive of the situation."

The group also joined over 5000 students from all over the country in a peaceful rally on the Capital steps during National Student Lobby Day, where they were addressed by Speaker of the House Tip O'Neill.

"The job is now yours," said O'Neill, "We stand ready to help you in any way we can."

Kessler feels that with such strong support, the proposed cuts "won't be as drastic." But, she adds, "We have to keep putting the pressure on by doing things like writing to our Congressmen. We've gotten this far, we can't stop now."

Students Receive Jail Sentences

BLOOMSBURG — Four students were ordered to pay $3,300 in fines and restitution and spend their weekends in jail for the next three months after they pleaded guilty March 5 to breaking 72 windows in a downtown vandalism spree last month.

The youths will spend 12 weekends in Columbia County Prison beginning March 13. District Justice Donna Coombe also ordered them to pay $601.08 each within the next two months as restitution for the damages, and fines and costs of $230 each.

They will report to the jail at 10 a.m. Saturdays and be released at 10 p.m. Sundays. If they make restitution within the two month period, the third month of their jail term will be suspended, Coombe said.

Pleading guilty were BSC students Jeffrey Baskin, Daniel Myers, Andrew Peters, and Abraham Simon. All four live at 235 W. Main St., Bloomsburg.

Baskin and Simon said they were surprised at the stiff sentence. "I was shocked," said Simon.

But "the town had to do something," Simon said. "I can understand their point of view."

Baskin said people in Bloomsburg were mad about the incident, and upset about problems they feel are caused by college students in town.

"They're making an example of us," Baskin said. "We regret everything that we did; it's unfortunate that this all had to happen."

But District Justice Coombe felt the sentence she meted out was "fair to everyone concerned."

"For the damage that was done, it warranted something more than just a fine and restitution," she said. "I have to serve justice as I see fit."

Robert Norton, dean of student life at BSC, said the four students will also appear before a student-faculty judicial board. They could receive anything from a warning to a suspension from college, he said.

The four students were charged with criminal mischief and criminal conspiracy after 72 windows in 12 town buildings were smashed Feb. 6. They caused more than $2,400 in damages.

The Bloomsburg Middle School, St. Matthew's Lutheran Church, and the Caldwell Consistory on Main Street were among the buildings receiving the most damage.

Reese 2nd in Nation

By DAN CAMPBELL

Don Reese didn't quite do it all, but he came very close. The 134 pound BSC grappler won everything there was to be won in his four year career - except a national championship.

But he came close. Reese finished second in the National Collegiate Athletic Association's Division I wrestling tournament held this past weekend at Iowa State University, Ames, Iowa.

In doing so, he lead the Huskies to their best placing ever in the national tournament. BSC finished 13th in the country.

Also competing for the Huskies were Al McCollum, Joe Wade, Tom Fiorvanti and Tom Gibble.

McCollum won three matches and lost two, including a 29-1 win over Ben Corranado and a 17-10 loss to Lenny Zalesky of Iowa, the No. 1 seed in the tourney at 142 pounds. He came one win away from being an All-American.

Joe Wade and Mark Downing of Clarion met for the fifth time this season and Wade was victorious for the fourth time. Wade decisioned Downing 8-6.

Wade then took on Dave Guselli of Massachusetts and won a 9-1 decision. Wade next faced the No. 1 190 pound seed and lost 12-1 to Hollin Kilran of Lehigh.

Tom Gibble lost his first round match 11-2 and Tom Fiorvanti lost his first match 7-3. Both wrestler's opponents then went on to lose, so both Gibble and Fiorvanti were eliminated.

Reese claimed his second place finish by winning two matches on Thursday and two on Friday. Despite having been to nationals three previous times, Reese had never won a match in the season-ending tourney.

What happened was that Reese got the last word in the first by beating Gibbons 10-5. Reese got the first four points and scored a total of six in the first period to dethrone the defending national champ.

Reese then faced C. D. Mock

Editorial

Students at BSC and 13 state owned institutions gained a major victory this semester when it was announced that the $75 tuition increase had been rescinded. According to the United States Student Association (USSA), this is the first incident of a tuition increase being rescinded after actually being implemented as a result of political pressure coordinated through a state-wide student group.

The victorious students now face the forecast of a $225 increase in tuition during the 1982-83 academic year. Secretary of Education Robert Scanlon, who discounted the win as a mere "technicality", announced this decision last week.

Sceptic students may feel that the increase of $75 over three semesters was favorable, but there is a misconception here if those students think that there wasn't going to be an additional tuition increase in the next year. The court injunction did not force the Commonwealth to raise tuition by $112.50 in the fall.

Governor Thornburgh suggests to the legislature how much to increase appropriations to higher education. Since this request was less than 9% the result was an inevitable hike of $200-400 in basic fees.

Students must now take the realistic view that in the next school year there will no doubt be an increase in tuition. However, the prediction of a figure of $225 may not be accurate. Secretary Scanlon must recommend the tuition hike at next month's meeting of the State College and University Directors Board (SCUD), which implements tuition increases.

Courses of action are being devised by CAS Executive Board and several bills on the state level are emergency appropriations bills. These bills, H.B. 2193 and S.B. 1317, would provide the revenue for the APSCUF settlement. This in fact is what Scanlon addresses as the major reason for the basic fee increase in the fall. Originally, students were requested to pay the $75 by March 1, 1982, but the Pennsylvania Department of Education (PDE) is not paying the money by this date. Once again students, faculty members and administrators are caught in conflicting interests as a result of state decisions.

It is necessary for students to find out who the state senators and representatives are, in addition to the Appropriations Chairpersons. This information is available in the CAS office (3rd floor KUB) and also at the reference desk in the library. Letters must be poured into these appropriate areas to insure that action be taken by those people representing the students' interests.

Students already demonstrated once this year that they won't let their rights as voting citizens be damaged by an unfair tuition increase.

Letters to the Editor

Open letter to students

Dear Editor:

It has recently come to my attention that a number of students are dissatisfied and have complaints regarding the quality of instruction that they are receiving in some cases at Bloomsburg State College.

I have received specific complaints about the irregular meeting of classes by some instructors. If this is happening to you, you are being cheated. You are not receiving the instruction for which you are paying. Granted, your professors must or should attend special meetings or conferences; however, no professor should make a habit of missing classes simply because he/she does not feel like being there.

I have also received complaints stating that even though the professor is present, he/she is apparently inept and/or incompetent in the course being taught. Sometimes this is the fault of the professor; at other times, it may be the fault of the department for assigning the course to a professor who is not qualified to teach that course. Irregardless as to where the blame lies, you are not receiving just compensation commensurate to the price you are paying.

The vast majority of the faculty at BSC want you to receive the very best education possible. They are proud of the work that they do, and feel as I do, that anything less than excellent teaching is not to be condoned.

As President of the BSC Faculty Association, I am inviting you to communicate your complaints to me. My offices are in the APSCUF office in the Waller Administration Building and in room 124 in Hartline Science Center. If you wish to talk with me personally, please call 3514 or 2821 for an appointment.

J.R. Kroschewsky

Team Praise

Dear Editor:

I want to personally thank the 1981-82 Men's basketball team. I've seen them play for 4 years and this is the end of an era. They were a great basketball team. I have enjoyed watching them, both at home and away. I know they always gave it their all.

I hope everyone realizes that they were one of the best Division II Basketball teams in the United States. They deserve a lot of credit for an outstanding season, and the seniors for outstanding careers!

A Dedicated ESC Fan

Positively Speaking

By

Late last month, while most of you were coping with the snow, the cold, and the usual "February in Bloomsburg" weather, I was in Orlando, Florida. The days were sunny, with temperatures reaching into the 80's, and the evenings were a mild 58 - 60 degrees. No need to be jealous, however, for all during the glorious sunshine I was indoors attending a conference on "Financial Management for Women in Higher Education."

I returned from my first "all women's" conference with several thoughts that I believe are worth sharing.

The first thing I noticed as we began to gather and chat informally while waiting for the pre-conference luncheon, was that at least 75 percent of the women smoked cigarettes. This made me more than just physically uncomfortable. I was surprised to see the number of women who, despite the abundance of data indicating the many health dangers associated with smoking, continued to smoke profusely, entertained no thoughts of quitting, and who seemed mildly put out when I requested they hold their cigarettes and blow their smoke away from me. As a woman, was I supposed to be proud of the fact that I was attending a conference with seventy-two other women, most of whom were quite intelligent, some of whom had achieved a fair degree of success in their careers, and yet who cared so little about their own health or the health and comfort of others?

I have read several articles during the past few years that suggest that there has been an increase in the number of women who smoke cigarettes. Some authors have attributed this to the growing numbers of women involved in demanding careers who find they must rely on smoking to shed the tensions of the day and relax. Others have expressed the idea that many women smoke so as to emulate the behavior of their male colleagues, making them seem like "one of the boys" and thus, aiding them in their career advancement.

My second concern deals with the concept of "networking" of North Carolina in Saturday night's final. Mock was ranked No. 1 going into the tournament, but Gibbons was given the No. 1 seed. Reese was Ranked sixth going in but was given the No. 5 seed.

Mock took Reese down quickly in the first period and used his weight and experience to edge Reese 9-5 to win his national title.

Reese will complete his student teaching next fall and graduate in December.

"Don Reese is one of the most outstanding young men I've ever had the pleasure of coaching," said Coach Sanders. "You can give him all kinds of descriptive adjectives - hard working, a leader, he's all these things. Its going to be hard to fill his shoes - off the mat as well as on."

His freshman year he lost to Jim Hanson from Wisconsin," explained BSC wrestling coach Roger Sanders. "Hanson ended up third. In his sophomore and junior years Don lost to kids that he had beat in the Eastern Wrestling League."

But Reese got the monkey off his back on Thursday. He won his first match against Mike Garcia of Central Missouri when Garcia was disqualified for illegally slamming Reese to the mat. Later in the day, despite being "pretty groggy" according to Sanders, Reese held off Jim Edwards of LSU, 6-5.

Reese qualified for the semi-finals on Friday afternoon by beating Lehigh's Pete Schuyler. In Friday night's semi-finals, Reese met Jim Gibbons of Iowa State. Reese and Gibbons had met three times previously in their careers and each match ended in a draw. Gibbons was last year's national champ at 134 pounds.

"The first two times we met," Reese said, "the match was his to win and I came back to tie. This year the match was mine and he came back."

Reese continued, "He's very cocky. After last year's East-West All-Star meet we talked a little, but this year after our match (at Iowa State) he wouldn't even come out to the center of the mat to shake hands."

Going into the match Reese was confident even though Gibbons was the No. 1 seed. "I think I'm better equipped and I know his style," Reese said. "We'll just have to wait and see what happens."

College settles copyright suit

Campus Digest News Service

Longwood college has settled with three music publishers for $20,000 in a copyright infringement case.

The music companies, Oxford University Press, Theodore Presser Company and Novello & Company, claimed that a music instructor made unauthorized copies of Christmas carols and distributed them to students.

In the settlement, the school agreed to pay $500 for each of the songs copied and $17,500 in lawyers' fees.

Regan to Speak at Bucknell

Donald T. Regan, secretary of the United States Treasury, will speak at Bucknell University at 9 a.m., Tuesday, March 23, in Davis Gymnasium.

Donald Regan was sworn in on January 22, 1981, as the 66th Secretary of the Treasury. At the time of his nomination by President Reagan in December 1980, Regan was chairman and chief executive officer of Merrill Lynch and Co., Inc.

Secretary Regan serves as chairman pro tempore of the Cabinet Council on Economic Affairs and as the Administration's chief economic spokesman. The Cabinet Council on Economic Affairs has primary responsibility for advising the president on developing and implementing domestic and economic policies. Secretary Regan also works closely with the president's Economic Policy Advisory Board.

As Secretary of the Treasury, Regan is the nation's chief financial officer, and chairs or holds membership on numerous national and international financial, trade, and economic bodies. He is the United States Governor of the International Monetary Fund, the International Bank for Reconstruction and Development and several other international development banks.

Regan also administers the work of the Treasury Department which collects the nation's taxes, pays its bills, prints and mints its currency and coins, manages the nation's accounts and debts, and has extensive law enforcement responsibilities.

Regan joined Merrill Lynch in 1946 as an account executive trainee. Following his training, he worked as an account executive in Washington, D.C., and, in early 1952, was named manager of the Trading Department in New York.

He became a general partner in the firm in 1954 and from 1955 until 1960, he was manager of the Merrill Lynch office in Philadelphia. After several promotions within the company, Regan became president in 1968, and was elected chairman and chief executive officer in January 1971.

Mr. Regan is the author of A View From The Street, an analysis of the events on Wall Street during the crisis years of 1969 and 1970, published in 1972 by The New American Library. He has also authored many articles published in various financial and business publications.

Secretary Regan was a member of the Policy Committee of the Business Roundtable, a trustee of the Committee for Economic Development, and a member of the Council on Foreign Relations. He served as chairman of the trustees of the University of Pennsylvania from 1974 to 1978. He holds honorary degrees from four universities: LL.D. from Pennsylvania, June 6, 1968; LL.S. from Tri-State College, Angola, Ind., December 20, 1969; LL.S. from the University of Pennsylvania, Philadelphia, Pa., October 28, 1972; Doctor of Commercial Science from the Advisory Council of Pace University, N.Y., N.Y., April 3, 1973.

Mr. Regan was born in Cambridge, Massachusetts, on December 21, 1918. He graduated from Harvard with a B.A. in 1940, joined the United States Marine Corps, and retired at the end of World War II as a lieutenant colonel. He and his wife, the former Ann Buchanan, of Washington, D.C., have four children: Donna, Donald, Richard and Diane.

Fellowship Holds Prayer Day

Campus Wide Day of Prayer

As college students, many problems, concerns and pressures are constantly worrying us. Our solutions to them do not always work. Bloomsburg Christian Fellowship would like you to try something new. Boxes have been placed in each dorm and in the Union. Any requests, concerns, or praises you may have should be placed in the boxes. On Tuesday, March 23rd, all the requests will be prayed for by members of the fellowship and any other students who wish to stop by Columbia Hall Project Room. From 6 a.m. until 12 midnight, your concerns will be thought and prayed about. So share your requests and see if a little prayer helps you!

Novelist to Present Program In Haas

David Bradley, a young Pennsylvania novelist, will speak on "The Bondage Hypothesis," Monday, March 23, at 3:30 p.m. in Haas Gallery, Bloomsburg State College.

The appearance of the nationally acclaimed writer is sponsored by the English Department and the Human Relations Planning Commission. It is open to the public at no charge.

In addition, Mr. Bradley will be speaking at "The Written Word: A Festival 3," Saturday, March 20, in Bakeless Center for the Humanities at 11:30 a.m. For registration information, contact Lawrence B. Fuller of the English Department at 389-2412.

Both of Mr. Bradley's published novels South Street and The Chaneyville Incident deal with Pennsylvania locales and characters.

The Chaneyville Incident recounts a young Philadelphia professor's efforts to unravel the historical and personal meaning of a pre-Civil War episode in which a band of fugitive slaves chose death to recapture.

South Street deals with a young middle class Black man's efforts to reach an understanding of the inner city Philadelphia ghetto.

The New York Times Book Review chose The Chaneyville Incident as one of its 12 editors' choices for 1981.

The Times said, "Bradley synchronizes five different kinds of rhetoric, controls a complicated plot, conveys much information, handles an intricate time scheme, pulls off a couple of final tricks that dramatize provocative ideas and generally keeps things going at a remarkable pace."

Mr. Bradley is a native of Bedford, Pennsylvania. Born in 1950, he grew up in a rural environment in which his parents (his father was a minister and historian) provided intellectual stimulation.

In 1968 he enrolled in the University of Pennsylvania where he majored in English and creative writing. South Street, his first novel, owes its creation to his discovery of the Philadelphia Black community as an undergraduate. At the same time, with the help of his mother's research, he was gathering ideas for The Chaneyville Incident, much of which draws upon Bedford County history.

After graduating from Penn, Bradley did postgraduate work at the Institute for United States Studies at King's College of the University of London. There he began intensive research into the history and culture of American Blacks and their African ancestors, an interest that has continued to the present. Besides writing, Bradley teaches English at Temple University.

World Religions to be Discussed

Rabbi Herbert Brockman of Congregation Keneseth Israel in Allentown, PA will be visiting our campus on Thursday, March 25, 1982. The rabbi lectures under the auspices of the Jewish Chautauqua Society and his visit to Bloomsburg State College is being sponsored by the Human Relations Planning Committee and the Affirmative Action Office.

As you can see below, many events have been planned throughout the day and opportunities have been provided for both students and staff to engage in informal discussion with Rabbi Brockman. The highlight of the day will be a dialogue between the rabbi and Reverend Greg Osterberg, the Protestant Campus Minister, during which time they will discuss the basic tenets of Judaism as compared with Christianity.

Rabbi Brockman was ordained at Hebrew Union College - Jewish Institute of Religion in 1970. In addition to publishing several articles and writing for and appearing on television programs dealing with religious issues, Rabbi Brockman is actively involved in numerous religious and civic organizations. He currently serves on the Boards of Directors of the Mental Health and Mental Retardation Society of Lehigh County, the United Way of Lehigh County, the Haven House Rehabilitation Center, and B'nai B'rith. The rabbi is also on the Cultic Proselytization Committee, is a mayoral appointee to the Allentown Youth Commission and is on the Board of Directors of the Jewish Family Service Society and the Jewish Federation of Allentown. Rabbi Brockman's visit to our campus and his discussion with Reverend Osterberg will provide all of us at Bloomsburg with the opportunity to gain a greater understanding of the philosophies and beliefs that underlie two major world religions. Please become a part of what promises to be an enlightening and stimulating day.

- SCHEDULE OF EVENTS
- 9:30 - 10:45 A.M. — Rabbi will visit Dr. James Sperry's "History of the Holocaust" class - Room No. 48 - Old Science

New Anthro. Prof. Appointed

Those anthropology classes listed as TBA in the Fall semester, 1982 Undergraduate Class Schedule will be taught by Dr. Gary Feinman, the newly appointed assistant professor of anthropology. Dr. Feinman joins BSC after an exhaustive six-month nationwide search which produced over 100 applications.

Dr. Feinman is currently an adjunct professor of anthropology at Arizona State University. He holds a B.A. from the University of Michigan, and he was awarded the Ph.D. in 1980 from CUNY. Dr. Feinman is an archaeologist with an extensive field background in the southeastern United States and Mexico. In Mexico he worked on the important pre-Columbian site of Monte Alban.

In addition to his interests in archaeology, Dr. Feinman is interested in demography, human ecology, and culture change. He has authored or co-authored numerous articles and two books.

His letters of recommendation and past student evaluations refer to him as an enthusiastic, sensitive, and inspiring instructor, as well as "the finest survey archaeologist of his generation," as one former professor put it.

In the Fall semester he will be teaching two sections of 46.100, General Anthropology; one section of 46.200, Principles of Cultural Anthropology; and one section of 46.301, Field Archaeology.

Jazz Fussion to be Performed

TANGENT

Buzz Lerch, Keyboards

By GINNY REED

How many of you feel that there is not enough musical variety offered on campus? For those of you who fit into this category - take notice! This Sunday evening at 8 p.m. the band Tangent will present their unique form of jazz fusion in Kehr Union.

Their brand of fusion draws from various influences including jazz, rhythm and blues, latin and progressive rock. The group is large enough to offer rich and diverse tonal colorings, yet small enough to achieve stylistic definition.

Members of the group include: Buzz Lerch, keyboards; Paul Phillips, bass; Rick Armentrout, guitar; Kevin Morales, drums; and Joe McIntyre on percussion.

The band was formed in the summer of 1980. Their major compositional influence from their start was in Paul Phillips, Rick Armentrout and Buzz Lerch.

Buzz Lerch, the keyboardist for Tangent is known to be quite skilled with his electronic instruments. Bassist-composer Paul Phillips attributes most of his knowledge to long hours of practice and performance, and is determined to raise fusion music above what he calls "functional funk".

Rick Armentrout the guitarist, played in various top forty bands and toured with a USO group before joining Tangent. Kevin Morales, the drummer, has concentrated mainly on drums and percussion in the past six years although he also plays piano and bass. Joe McIntyre leads the group's percussion area and joined Tangent in the summer of 1981.

It is obvious that this group is diverse in their musical talent. Certainly, a group such as this one does not appear often at BSC, so why not try to attend on Sunday and expand your musical horizons!

William Meredith to participate in Literary Festival

By

William Meredith, a poet who served in 1980 as Consultant in Poetry to the Library of Congress, will be reading from his poems Friday, March 19, at 7:15 p.m. in Haas Gallery, Bloomsburg State College.

His appearance, sponsored by the English Department and the Arts Council, is open to the public at no charge.

Richard O'Keefe, an instructor in the English Department who has taught with Meredith, said, "He reads with the same clarity with which he writes; he carves shapes in air with the sounds he makes."

Meredith's most recent book "The Cheep" was called a "work of art" by Percival R. Roberts III of the Art Department. He said the title poem should be "chiselled in stone."

Meredith will also be a participant in a poetry panel as part of "The Written Word: A Festival 3," Saturday, March 20, at 10:10 a.m. For registration information contact Lawrence B. Fuller of the English Department at 389-2412.

Born in 1919, Meredith attended Princeton University and served for a short time as a copy boy and reporter of The New York Times. During World War II he was briefly with the U.S. Army Air Force and then became a Naval Aviator, a service to which he was recalled for the Korean conflict.

After World War II he returned to Princeton as an instructor and a Woodrow Wilson Fellow from 1946 to 1950. He has taught creative writing there several times since and also at the University of Hawaii and Carnegie-Mellon University from which he holds an honorary Doctor of Humane Letters.

Since 1955 he has taught principally at Connecticut College. For a number of years he taught at the Bread Loaf School of English and at the Bread Loaf Writers' Conference in Vermont.

In 1944 Mr. Meredith's first book of poems, "Love Letter from an Impossible Land," was chosen for the Yale Series of Younger Poets. His other books of poetry are "Ships and Other Figures" (1948), "The Open Sea and other Poems" (1958), "The Wreck of the Thresher and Other Poems" (1964), "Earth Walk: New and Selected Poems" (1970), and "Hazard, the Painter" (1975). His most recent collection of poems is "The Cheer" (1980).

Mr. Meredith has won three annual prizes from "Poetry" magazine and has received a grant and Loines Award from the National Institute of Arts and Letters of which he is a member. He received a Hudson Review Fellowship in poetry for 1956-57, a Ford Foundation fellowship in drama for 1960-61, a Rockefeller Foundation grant for poetry for 1968-69, and a Guggenheim Fellowship for 1975-76.

Brasch Speaks

Dr. Walter Brasch, English professor at BSC, will be a guest lecturer at Muhlenberg College, Allentown, March 25-26. His visit is sponsored by the college and the Pennsylvania Humanities Council.

While at Muhlenberg, Dr. Brasch will meet with students in classes, and present an evening campus-wide lecture on media ethics.

Class Presents Art Show

The rich modern and traditional artistic pursuits of Pennsylvania's proud Ukrainian-American citizens will be featured in this year's annual show of the Art Gallery class of Professor Kenneth Wilson at Bloomsburg State College from April 5 to April 29 on campus and in Haas Gallery and Auditorium. The public is invited to participate in this popular event.

A display of internationally acclaimed art work is planned and the exhibition and demonstration of the work of local individuals and groups is solicited and encouraged. Many art forms and means of expression are expected to be represented including music, painting, weaving, photography, ethnic art, sculpture, dancing, wood-carving, costumes, poetry, and so on.

Artists reception and special events will begin at 1 p.m. April 24, 1982. The gallery will be open from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m.

Anyone interested in further details, please contact the Department of Art (717) 389-2607 at Bloomsburg State College.

Pres. on Board

Dr. James H. McCormick, president of Bloomsburg State College, has accepted an appointment by Secretary of Education, Robert G. Scanlon to represent the Pennsylvania Association of Colleges and Universities on the Planning Council of the State Library to develop a comprehensive plan for library services in Pennsylvania.

The plan is intended to provide guidance to the state librarian for the remainder of the decade. Representatives of a broad range of library and non-library organizations will be involved in the process of developing a plan.

Psych. Department Offers Course

Increasing people's sensitivity and self-awareness will be the goal of Nonverbal Communication - Interpersonal Relations, a course being offered next fall by the psychology department.

The course, which is only offered sporadically, will involve the theory, research, and experiential aspects of non-verbal communications, and will include lectures, discussions, and activities.

According to Dr. Michael M. Levine, instructor for the course, the course is relevant for anyone who plans to be working with people. Levine said that approximately 70 percent of the information we process is in the realm of nonverbal communication. This is because nonverbal communications includes vocal tones, facial expressions, clothing, hairstyles, kinesics, body language, eye contact and touch.

Levine said that, "Once people start paying attention to themselves, they will become better, more effective communicators." He added that this can be done by making people aware of the impressions that they make.

Levine is qualified to teach the course because of his extensive background in the area of nonverbal communications. His doctoral dissertation dealt with nonverbals, he had been involved in research in the nonverbal area for approximately 15 years, and he has both participated in and organized workshops dealing with nonverbals.

The course is being offered on Wednesdays from 6:30 to 9:30 p.m.

French Culture

To provide an understanding of French Art and Culture, the course, "Art and Culture of France" will be offered for the third time by Bloomsburg State College under the co-sponsorship of the Department of Art and the Department of Languages and Cultures during the summer of 1982.

Emphasis this time will be upon Normandy, including the Norman influences in England. The study-tour will visit England and France June 20 - July 7, 1982, under the direction of Professors Kenneth Wilson and Mary Lou John. Students may enroll for either undergraduate or graduate credit. Cost without tuition will be $1,235.00.

An itinerary has been arranged to form the course content within the listed days. Some of the specific aims of the course include visits to see the famous tapestry at Bayeux, the Abbey of Mont St. Michel, Chartres Cathedral, St. Germain-en-Laye and museums in London and Paris.

Career Person Interviews Slated

By PATTY HAGMAN

The Career Development Office is now interviewing for Career Person candidates for the 1982-1983 school year.

A Career Person (C.P.) is a student who is concerned with helping fellow students here at BSC.

Because C.P.'s are students themselves, they are aware of problems that effect the college students.

The C.P. program is an "outreach" type of position involving faculty and administration. C.P.'s interview students to inform them of the facilities available to them through the Career Development Office. Their goal is to make the office more visible to the students as well as make them aware of programs available to them through the Career Development Office.

A C.P. goes through training sessions so that they may assist other students in scheduling, writing resumes and coverletters, as well as giving them information on graduate schools and career perspectives in various majors.

In order to qualify for a C.P. position, one must be a junior or senior in the 1982-1983 school year and in academic good standing. All applicants must also obtain a Financial Aid Form.

Students interested in applying for this position should pick up an application in the Career Development Office and sign up for an interview with a C.P. The deadline is March 19, 1982. For more information contact The Career Development Office at 389-3808.

Such programs sponsored by the Career Development Office with the help of the C.P.'s include the Career Fair and the Nurses Fair.

that overused term describing the contacts that are made when we meet our colleagues from other institutions around the country. One of the luncheon speakers discussed the importance of networking for women. While I agree that it is, indeed, important that women make contacts, I am concerned by the fact that women always need to be reminded to do this. For men, establishing contacts with people who may prove helpful in the future is the natural course of events, whereas women often have to be prodded.

I began to wonder why it is that women want to emulate their male colleagues in some ways, by smoking for example, but fail to do so in other ways, that is networking. It occurred to me, although not solely as a result of the two observations discussed above, that women do not "plan" their careers in the way men do. Perhaps this will change as more women make conscious career choices. My feeling, however, is that women still tend to "fall into" their careers in haphazard sorts of ways, leaving career advancement more to luck or fate, and less to careful planning than they should. And so, women tend to emulate the behavior that they believe might help them advance in their careers (smoking) but are hesitant about establishing contacts that they see "no" immediate need for and that may not prove useful until several years hence. Those chosen for membership include Mary Brinker, Maria Dematteo, David Gass, Karen Halderman, Iris Hall III, Karen Howley, Robert Lightcap, Lora Mumbauer, and Sue Stanton. Mr. William Acierno, Dr. Mary Badami, Dr. Jerrold Griffis, Dr. Howard Schreier, and Mr. John Trathen are honorary pledges.

Pi Kappa Delta is an honorary organization formed in 1912 for intercollegiate forensic competitors, including public speakers and debaters. Its purpose is to promote scholarship in the field of forensic speaking. The society's motto is to uphold "the art of persuasion, beautiful and just."

Present Pi Kappa Delta officers are Karen Pingar, President; Marian Wilson, Vice-President; Iris Walsh, Secretary; Treasurer; and Bonita Hull, Pledge mistress.

If women want careers (which I realize is not something that every woman desires, nor does it have to be), and if they want to advance, it is necessary to plan for that advancement. We must capitalize on the opportunities that present themselves, and must be aggressive about creating opportunities as well, because somewhere down the road, even if we don't know exactly where or when, even one of those experiences might be the ticket to career development and growth. Women must not entrust their professional lives to karma or whatever other forces they think might be operating, but rather, must define their career goals and then determine the steps they will need to take to achieve those goals.

Women's Lacrosse May Be Cut

By K. FITHIAN

Although there is still snow on the ground, practices for the spring sports have begun. However, according to Athletic Director Cecil Turberville, if the Athletic Department doesn't have sufficient funds to meet the rising departmental costs, certain spring sports could be cut out in the near future.

Turberville said that women's lacrosse would be the first sport to be cut out. "Unfortunately lacrosse doesn't enjoy the success that sports like basketball and wrestling have acquired," Turberville said.

Women's lacrosse coach B.J. Rost feels that lacrosse should be given a chance to grow. This year the women have a 7-game schedule. Coach Rost said, "If lacrosse is to be successful, the schedule must be increased. Most of our opponents play 12-15 games." However, in order to increase the schedule, the budget must be increased.

Sophomore lacrosse player Deb Orlando also feels that the lacrosse program has good potential, but needs more attention in order to be successful. Orlando said, "Our competition is usually uneven. Most of the teams we play are better than us. On good days we can win, but winning shouldn't just be based on a good day."

According to Orlando, the program would be improved if there were two coaches. "Coach Rost is a great coach, but lacrosse is a tough sport to handle alone," Orlando said. She feels that there should be an offensive and defensive coach because a good team needs a lot of time and attention in order to develop better skills, play, and strategies.

Orlando's ideas also require a budget increase. According to Coach Rost, the existing budget is enough for an adequate job, but the team could be very successful if the budget is increased.

"I've heard rumors for the past 2-3 years," Orlando said, "that lacrosse could be cut out of the Athletic Department's funding and revert to a club sport. If the rumor is true I would be very angry and so would the team."

The big question is, why isn't there more money coming out of the athletic department? If the athletic budget is increased with inflation instead of remaining stable or decreasing, spring sports, especially lacrosse, would not be vulnerable to a cut back.

According to Turberville, there are three ways of funding in athletics. First, the athletic department receives money from CGA which is their operating budget. This includes meals and their traveling expenses, equipment and insurance.

Last year the Athletic Department got $177,465.00 from CGA. This amount varies each year depending on the CGA budget. The athletic department receives 34 percent of the total amount of CGA's budget.

Second, there is a trust fund which is made up of contributions from anyone interested in athletics and of small contributions from anyone interested in athletics and of small contributions from alumni. This money is used for scholarships and to supplement travel and equipment expenses.

As of January 31, 1982, the trust fund total is $64,575.35. If this amount were increased, more scholarships could be offered, which would benefit the lacrosse team and all other teams. An increase would also allow for more travel money, enabling the lacrosse team to increase their schedule.

Finally, the salaries of the coaches and faculty, and money for maintenance to work the fields and facilities comes from the state. Turberville was unsure of the amount of money the department receives from the state, but he said it was just adequate enough to meet their needs. An increase in this money would allow the lacrosse team to hire a second coach.

There are 18 varsity sports which receive funds from the athletic department and are under its jurisdiction. The operating budget from CGA is just enough to meet the needs of these sports. Therefore, as inflation continues and the budget remains fairly stable, some sports will suffer.

Turberville said, "Since school ends in mid-May and snow and ice cover the ground until mid-March, the spring sports season is short. The melting ice and snow cause very poor field conditions, further shortening the season." Therefore, he said that spring sports could be the first to be cut out if the financial situation becomes severe enough.

Spring athletes protest when they hear that their sports could be cut out. According to Turberville, the probability of a cut back does exist, but it is not definite.

Baseball Team Looking to Better 12-11 Record

By ANDREW J. McCARTHY

The BSC Baseball team, led by captains Jeff Koscelansky, Glen Hoffman, and Kevin Sobocinski has started preparations for the upcoming season. The squad is looking to better last year's mark of 12 up and 11 down under Head Coach Stephen Bresett. Included in the plans for this year's team is a spring-break swing to North and South Carolina where the Huskies will lock horns with the likes of Davidson College, Wingate College, and the formidable University of North Carolina-Charlotte.

Dr. Bresett will continue his controversial and much maligned coaching strategy of watching from the bleachers during ball games and delegating all the decision making to the triumvirate of captains. Reacting to insinuations that he is a quasi-coach, Bresett let it be known that there is a profound purpose to this unique and unconventional manner of running a baseball team. "I feel that the players on our team will learn leadership and decision-making under stressful circumstances." He also suggested that there is more to playing baseball than meets the eye. "I view baseball as a tool; a means to an end. The players will gain self-confidence and a sense of responsibility which they will hopefully carry over to life situations."

The hopes for this year ride highly on how effective the BSC pitching staff will be. Bresett commented, "We have a young staff that will either make or break our ball club. If these youngsters come through, we'll be all right." The Huskies lost four front-line mound men to graduation and transference of schools.

Whatever happens with the pitching staff, the Huskies should be able to score plenty of runs. The squad averaged better than six runs per game last year and Bresett expressed confidence in his lumber jacks again this year. Most notable among these hitters are Sobocinski, a Junior shortstop; Tom Speakman, a Senior third baseman, and Tom (Mr. Nautilus) Angle who drove home an astounding 29 runs in 23 games. One can also expect tremendous things from Captain Glen Hoffman, a senior, who will be playing his final season as a Husky.

Coach Bresett did not offer any predictions on how the team would fare but he did say that Mansfield, Millersville, and Shippensburg would be "the class of the league".

Softball Team leaves S.C. with 5-3 record

By SUE HICKS

The BSC women's softball team traveled to South Carolina over spring break and returned sporting a 5-3 record. BSC, which is a Division III team, faced four teams from Division II and the University of South Carolina which is Division I.

A typical day for the softballers entailed practices in the morning and doubleheaders in the evenings.

In their debut, BSC defeated West Chester State 6-1. Denise Henderson had the big bat for BSC going 2-for-2 at the plate and accounting for 3 RBI's. Veteran mound ace Tina Souders picked up the win and added two hits to her cause. BSC dropped the nightcap 12-0 to Winthrop College. Anne Schmidt was a two time hitter for BSC.

On Tuesday, the Huskies split a doubleheader downing West Chester in the opener 4-2 but losing the nightcap to Ithaca 2-1. Cheryl Sedlak and Sue Hicks had hot bats against West Chester with two hits each. Rookie hurler Brenda Long got the win. Against Ithaca, freshman outfielder Deb Schneiderhan led the Husky hitters with two singles, while Deb Long and Souders each singled.

On Wednesday BSC swept a doubleheader from Cortland State. Behind the pitching of Souders, the Huskies blanked Cortland 3-0. Sedlak and Kathy Behan led the offensive attack for the Huskies.

BSC took the second game 4-2. Sedlak and freshman infielder Deb Minsky each had a perfect day at the plate to pace the Husky hitters. Brenda Long chalked up the win for BSC.

Souders and Long combined pitching efforts to defeat Ithaca on Thursday, avenging Monday's loss. Veteran outfielders Caroly Harley and Hicks were top hitters for BSC. Long was credited with the win.

In their final game BSC faced Division I powerhouse, the University of South Carolina. The game was the battle between the pitchers with Souders fanning eight and giving up just five hits. USC held the Huskies to just four hits. Deb Long collected two hits while Laurie Snyder and Behan each hit safely.

The game remained a scoreless tie throughout regulation play. USC finally scored in the bottom of the eighth inning to give them the 1-0 edge.

Junior standout Cheryl Sedlak commented following the USC game. "I feel like we won! We really played great! I hope we can continue to play this well throughout the season."

Coach Jan Hutchinson commented on the trip. "I think it was a good experience for us. It really showed us a lot. We had a chance to see everyone play a variety of positions. Prior to the trip we had only been practicing in Nelson on the gym floor. It was nice to get outside and play on dirt for a change."

Hutchinson seems optimistic about the upcoming season. "Our goal for the season is to advance into post-season play including States, Regionals and Nationals. We must take one step at a time, however. I think that if we play well, we have the potential to place even higher than last year when we ended up ninth. At this point I feel that we've got a lot of work to do in order to achieve our goal."

Partick J. Murphy

DON REESE, the 134 pound BSC standout ended his wrestling career by placing second in the NCAA Division I Tournament. Reese accumulated 126 wins, 25 losses and four ties in addition to winning an unprecedented four eastern wrestling league titles and one PA. conference title while at BSC.

Women Bowlers 18th in nation

By MARY FORD

The BSC women's bowling team has been ranked 18th in the nation in the women's Intercollegiate Bowling Conference.

With only two matches left in the season, the women are tied for first place in their division with a record of 10-2, with losses only to Penn State and Temple.

However, last Sunday in the Kehr Union, the women handily defeated number two ranked Penn State in their second bout, by a score of 14-5.

"The women are tied for first place in their division with a record of 10-2."

The team was led by senior Roxanne Teahl with games of 208 and 179. Other support came from sophomores Jan Knolles (180, 193), Mary Ford (173, 187) and Kim Kuronya (203).

Throughout the season, the Lady Huskies had little trouble beating the University of Maryland, George Washington, Lincoln, Drexel and Howard. They did pull out one squeaker match against Temple by a score of 10-9. It was their first win over Temple in the team's eight year history. The win over Penn State this season was also the first-ever.
