BSC Student Arrested

One Caller Arrested After Making Bomb Threat To The College

By BREANDA D. MARTIN

One arrest was made last week and several other arrests are pending as a result of the recent rash of bomb threats at BSC.

Dean A. Groves, 19, was charged with making terroristic threats by BSC security, who alleged that he made the telephone call Friday, March 19, about 12:50 p.m., causing the evacuation of two classroom buildings.

Groves was released on bail from the Columbia County Prison last Thursday, and a preliminary hearing has been scheduled for tomorrow at 3 p.m. in front of District Justice Donna Coombe.

Dr. Frank Davis, vice president for administration, said that Groves was caught through a special device that traced his call. These tracing devices, which are placed on phones throughout campus, can trace a call as soon as a phone connection is made. Even when the caller breaks the connection after several seconds, a trace can still be made.

Investigations for four bomb threat calls last Thursday are continuing, and Davis said that there will "almost undoubtedly be more arrests made." These investigations are also the result of phone traces.

Davis said that traces can be made to phones on and off campus, and said that "students are playing a dangerous game of Russian roulette," because they never know what phones have tracers and what phones don't. Davis also commented that he "hopes people will wake up and realize that this isn't a game."

A terroristic threat is a misdemeanor which carries a maximum sentence of five years in prison and-or a $10,000 fine. Davis commented about the possible sentence for the offense and said that, "There will be no leniency and no mercy. This is not a threat, but a reality. The school will prosecute fully and will not consider plea-bargaining."

Davis also commented that other charges could be made involving a bomb incident. One of these charges could be the disruption of a public assembly. Also, anyone present at the time of the call could be charged with criminal conspiracy.

Richard Neuffer, director of safety and law enforcement, said, "I don't know why they do it. Something like this disrupts classes, and everybody all the way around is cheated—students, faculty and staff. I don't know if it was the nice weather or what. But everyone is getting very frustrated. Especially the students who are losing their class time."

The standard procedure followed when a bomb threat is received involves the evacuation of the building where the alleged bomb is placed, a search of the building, and an investigation of the threat.

According to Davis, even though no bomb has ever been found at BSC, the procedure must still be followed to ensure the safety of students. Davis said, "We will continue to close the building because we have no other choice."

Davis said that certain procedures must also be followed when an individual receives a bomb threat. First, the caller must be allowed to complete his conversation. Also, the individual receiving the call must not hang up the phone, because the call can be traced.

Student Allegedly Assaulted

By ROBERTA CLEMENS

A BSC dorm student was allegedly assaulted last week on Second St., in the vicinity of the tri-level, campus security reported recently, and a town resident is being held for the incident.

According to Richard Neuffer, director of Safety and Law Enforcement, on March 21 at approximately 2 a.m., the female Elwell resident was allegedly grabbed across the face by Donald S. Keller, Bloomsburg, and dragged down the alley behind Elwell Hall. Neuffer claims that Keller fled on foot when the town police, which were notified by campus security, appeared.

Neuffer reported that the victim of the assault later identified the alleged assailant through mug shots at the police station.

The original call for help was placed to campus security by an Elwell Hall receptionist. Keller was taken into custody, arraigned, and charged with assault and harassment. Bail was posted in the amount of $2,500 and a preliminary hearing has been set for March 30.

Anniversary of a Disaster

TMI Coalition Formed

Three years have passed since the nation's worst nuclear commercial accident at Three Mile Island. The Three Mile Island Public Interest Resource Center (TMI-PIRC), a citizen's coalition group, marked the March 28 anniversary by holding a public electric bill burning of striking Metropolitan-Edison rate payers.

TMI-PIRC was founded to provide a clearinghouse of information about TMI and nuclear power.

With the after-effects of TMI still being felt, TMI-PIRC is helping to disseminate information on the nuclear disaster that has had a profound effect on all Pennsylvania residents.

Editorial Bomb Threats Illegal

"Fear follows crime, and is its punishment," said Francois Marie Voltaire. Voltaire was an 18th Century French writer and philosopher. His quote may well pertain to the current rash of bomb threats on the BSC campus. Perhaps an even better reference is in the anonymous quote, "Whoever profits by the crime is guilty of it."

After a total of 13 bomb threats this semester, a student has been charged with terroristic threats with regard to a Friday, March 19 incident. A terroristic threat is a misdemeanor under the law with a maximum sentence of five years in prison and/or a $10,000 fine.

This arrest was the first one this semester, and it resulted from a tracer previously placed on the phone. According to Dr. Frank Davis, acting vice president for administration, these types of tracers have been placed on various phones throughout buildings on campus.

One student arrest may well be the first of many if students persist in calling in bomb threats to get out of classes, tests or just for the sake of causing chaos. Confusion and chaos does result from these calls. Buildings must be evacuated a half hour before the specified detination time and a half hour afterwards. A thorough search must also be conducted by the Safety and Law Enforcement department up until five minutes before this time. This disrupts classes, schedules and detains manpower. Also, threats may cause problems for handicapped individuals who must often be carried from the building. This can be a frightening experience, not only for handicapped students, but other students as well.

Perhaps the biggest problem resulting from bomb threats may be the "cry wolf" theory involved. After 13 false alarms, it is hard for students and professors to take them seriously. While there has never been an actual bomb placed on campus in BSC history, the chance is always there. Students must be made to realize this. Bomb threats, just like other threats are dangerous games to play. It is dangerous for the caller and also for anyone else who is involved. Individuals in the room at the time may be prosecuted for criminal conspiracy. Something else that the offenders must take responsibility for are any injuries that results during evacuation of the building. They will also be liable for this.

Students making threatening phone calls may laugh at it all and feel safe in their rooms thinking no one will ever know. These students may be lulled into a sense of false security. The fact remains that there is a strong chance they will be discovered. What then? If there is a conviction in the case it will remain a permanent part of the student's record. Years later, when the student is applying for a job, he/she will no longer be able to answer no to the simple question, "Have you ever been convicted of a crime?"

There are consequences to calling in bomb threats, not only criminal ones, but social ones as well. Arrest or even questioning can be embarrassing. Friends may lose respect for the offenders and parents may feel let down by their son or daughter involved. Sympathetic students may feel that the penalty for crimes such as these are cruel and unnecessary, but a crime is a crime no matter how trivial it may appear at the onslaught.

Students this semester who get their kicks out of calling in bomb threats should think long and hard about this decision. Bomb scares are not only criminal offenses, but they are also irrational plots conceived by immature minds.

Dear Chris

Dear Chris,

I am a sophomore and my problem is my family life. I try to go home about every two weeks, and when I do I feel very out of place. Everyone is busy with things and I just seem to be in the way.

Friends say I should just concentrate on my life here on campus, but my family is very important to me. Should I say something at home or remain silent and hope this feeling passes.

Donna

Dear Donna,

College is usually the first opportunity that individuals have to be away from their families for an extended length of time. Being away from home offers change, growth, and adaptations to the student. It is important to remember that the family at home also goes through changes, growth, and adaptations. Anyone away from home for a length of time, college students included, are not as aware of, nor exposed to, the everyday experiences of a family. It is not unnatural to feel out of place when taken away from an experience-sharing environment one has spent eighteen years in.

It probably is not that you are in the way. It is more likely that your family has grown and changed during your absence. My suggestion is for you to work hard to become interested in and to participate in the activities which they are involved in. Encourage activities which involve the family. Simple things like conversation at meals and shopping trips offer opportunities to share ideas, activities and experiences. These are chances to bring back family closeness by letting them know what is going on in your life and what is important to them. Try this approach. Give it time to work. If you still feel uncomfortable, you may decide to say something to your family. You are the best judge as to whether you feel this type of communication would alleviate the problem.

Dear Chris,

I am a senior graduating in May. My problem is that I don't know what I want to do with the rest of my life. All of my friends are busy writing out their resumes and I don't have any ambition to do so. My parents and friends are continuously on my back, what should I do?

Signed,

Uncertain

Dear Uncertain,

I can understand how being a graduating senior, unsure of your career goals, can put you in an uncomfortable position. you must have declared a specific major. What you need to consider is whether you wish to pursue a career in your major or find employment in another area. Also, you may wish to consider graduate school as a possibility.

I suggest you take some time to visit the Career Development and Placement Office located on the top floor of Ben Franklin Building. This office has career people who are more than happy to sit down with you and discuss your options. It also offers pamphlets, books and literature on employment, jobs relating to a major, and graduate schools. CD&P also offers information and counseling on resume and cover letter writing. This office is also responsible for advertising and sponsoring job interviews. These are only a few of the benefits CD & P offers to students. It would be to your advantage to utilize the information this office offers. It will give you ideas to consider, info to help you decide, and direction on employment once the decision is made.

NEWS FROM ALL OVER

National

Operation Greenback in Effect

Operation Greenback proved successful and is now being used in eighteen cities. Operation Greenback is a federal investigation of the narcotics trade in Florida. Federal agents have found that by tracing money, clues in the tracing of drug dealers are found. Federal prosecutors are working together with the Internal Revenue Service and Customs Declarations. If large amounts are discovered and the depositor is found, tax evasions are then put on them.

Football Players Lobby in Washington

Next month between 50 and 100 national premier football players are going to lobby Washington lawmakers. The National Football League Players Association wants to stop the NFL owners from broadening exemptions from antitrust laws. The owners are asking Congress to pass legislation to let 28 NFL teams be considered a single business entity. This would free them from antitrust prosecution. The players are to be chosen for the lobbying team on the basis of their region or school connections with key senators and representatives.

Minority Business Enterprise May Be Extinct

According to the Department of Commerce, by 1990, minority business enterprise in the United States may no longer exist. It was found that minority enterprises represent only 3.8 percent of the nation's concerns, only .5 percent of sales and .6 percent of employment.

Mountains. It is a quarter of the size of Solar One, located in the Mojave Desert. Solar One will be in operation about the same time Themis will be working.

Polish Army Takes Off

United States intelligence reports have indicated that hundreds of young Polish soldiers took off last month and then regrouped in Silesia to form a pro-resistance unit. This would be the first breakdown in the strict discipline of the regular army since three months ago when General Wojciech Jaruzelski imposed martial law.

France supplies Weapons

President Reagan's meeting with French President Francois Mitterand was not successful in bringing the two presidents closer on the question of Central America. Mitterand did agree to slow down the delivery of defensive arms worth $17 million. France sold the arms to Nicaragua. Officially, technical problems will be the reasons for delaying the delivery date of the defensive arms.

Israel Makes Move

The extremist in Israel are planning to block Israel from completing the return of the Sinai to Egypt. The government must remove 1,000 religious-nationalists enthusiasts. The anti-withdrawal movement now hopes to fill the occupied area with 20,000 religious students on April 25. The extremists want to present Prime Minister Menachem Begin with a choice of postponing the return of the Sinai or ordering the army into an evacuation operation that may possibly turn into a bloody battle between Israelis.

Summer Courses Offered For Senior Citizens

BSC joins Pennsylvania Elderhostel for the second consecutive year by offering six courses for senior citizens in history, music and drama during three weeks this summer.

Elderhostel combines the best traditions of education and hosting by helping to fulfill the needs of older citizens for intellectual stimulation and physical adventure. Elderhostel is a network of over 400 colleges and universities in 50 states and other countries which offer special, low cost, short-term, residential academic programs for older adults. It is open to people over 60 or to those whose spouse or companion qualifies. Most programs begin Sunday evening and end Saturday morning and are limited to 30 or 40 students. Over 25 colleges and universities throughout the Commonwealth participate in the program.

The first offering at BSC will be from May 30 to June 5 and will include: "Israeli-Palestinian Conflict: United States Foreign Policy" - a course which examines the forces that gave rise to Zionism, Arab reaction to it, the impact of Hitler's genocide policy, the attitude concerning the establishment of Israel in 1948, and an assessment of American foreign policy and the prospects of resolving the Palestinian issue; "Shakespeare: Love's Labors Won?" - a study of selected sonnets of an early comedy, The Taming of the Shrew along with a discussion of Shakespeare's views of love and his art in presenting them; "An American Composer; Aaron Copland" - study and analyzation of Copland from Appalachian Spring (1920's) to Old American Songs (1950's).

During the second week (June 27-July 3) courses are "Right Wing Extremism in Contemporary America" - an examination of the recent success and growth of right wing extremist groups in contemporary America, including the KKK, American Nazi Party, American White People's Party and religious groups linked to the right. "Nationalism in Twentieth Century American Music: Aaron Copland" - a study and analogy of representative Copland works from Statements (1934) to Drio for Flute and Piano (1971); "Shakespeare's Love's Labors Won?" will also be offered.

For the final session (August 1-7) the last two courses listed above will be offered along with "The Holocaust and Its Impact Upon Contemporary History," which emphasizes the history of the Holocaust and concentrates upon the influence it has on contemporary world events, particularly as they pertain to the U.S. and Israel.

All of these non-credit courses are taught by regular faculty members of the college. Classes are scheduled so hostellers may take all of the course offerings during the week.

Applicants for on-campus living at BSC can register by calling the national headquarters at 617-426-8056. Commuters can obtain applications from the BSC Office of Extended Programs, Waller Administration Building, Monday through Friday from 8 a.m. to 4:30 p.m.

Union Clocks Teach Time Concept

Editors Note: The following is a Satirical look at Minor Irritations on Campus.

By MIKE DILLON

In an effort to make students aware of the cultural differences between our country and other countries around the globe, the B.S.C. administration has implemented an intercultural awareness program on the campus.

The program's purpose is to expand the awareness of students to intercultural phenomenon through subtle, non-classroom strategies.

The program, which is designed in a series of steps, is basing its first lesson on "time."

Perhaps the best example of the program's first step is the clock located in the coffeehouse of the Kehr Union Building.

At any given time the clock may be seen representing West German Standard Time, Central American Revolution Time, or Mexican Siesta Time.

Spokesperson May Deare explained: "At first students may think that the clock is set incorrectly, when actually its settings are precisely planned as a part of our intercultural awareness program."

The process can best be described as a self-education exercise, as students must look at the clock and then translate the time given into Eastern Standard Time.

For students who find the challenge too rigorous or stressful, there are other clocks throughout the building which are set in accordance to "Bloomsburg Time."

The administration is making an all-out effort to maintain at least two "intercultural" clocks in each campus building.

Spokesmen claim that the next step in this unique experiment will focus on "food."

While the spokesmen will not comment on the specifics of this second step, unofficial sources have revealed that the plan will involve unannounced menus at the Scranton Commons. The food will be prepared and served as usual, but it will be up to students to determine the source and country of origin of the food.

There have been unconfirmed rumors that this "second" plan has been in effect for years, but has just recently received official clearance.

The administration also announced that further programs are underway for foreign language instruction through the economics department and terrorist awareness instruction by means of unannounced bomb scares in Hartline Science Center.

Pothole Survival Tips

By BEV WARNER

During the past semester, it has become necessary to utilize unusual tactics to duck the potholes in the student parking lot. The following suggestions should enable the perceptive student to survive until repairs are made (if ever):

1. If you find yourself at the bottom of one of the potholes do not leave your car. Someone will be down for you. Tie a pair of pantyhose on your car antenna so you will be easier to spot.
2. Please be patient since others are in a similar fix.
3. Carry some exciting reading material with you at all times. Some suggestions: War and Peace, a Fundies of Math textbook, along with the old scripts from Ronald Reagan's Death Valley Days, and possibly an autobiography of Gov. Thornburgh.

4. Never travel alone through the student parking lot. Take someone with you that you would like to spend the rest of your life with in the pothole. You may have to do just that!

5. Items to carry with you for survival: First, don't worry about food. You can forage for that along with the other survivors at the bottom of the pothole.

Second, several months supply of Charmin.

Third, as many bottles of your favorite brew as it takes to keep your sense of humor over a long period of time.

Don't be surprised if a bulldozer begins to fill in the hole while you are in it. It is rumored they are going to use cars for fill in potholes before the student parking lot is paved. It is also rumored that this method will cut down on the over-population in the dorms since the student population will be decreased. Happy pothole dodging!

Porky's Hogs Comedy Spotlight

By RICK DILIBERTO

Ah, high school days. The mischievous ranks and the great relationships during those years are often topics of discussion at BSC. However, it is likely that noone's story of how crazy their high school escapades were can compare to the antics portrayed in the new Bob Clark film, Porky's, presently at the Capital Twin Theatre in downtown Bloomsburg.

Perhaps best described as a high school Animal House, the film stretches its "R" rating as far as possible, without causing the Moral Majority to storm the theatre.

This hilarious story of a group of Florida students and their adventures in growing up places the viewer in a state of laughter from beginning to end. As far as comedy goes, the film is the best to hit the silver screen in years.

The boys in the film pass their time playing practical jokes on each other, but soon tire of this and decide to try to gain access to "Porky's," a local "red neck" nightclub. It is everything they expect it to be, at first, but soon they experience a rude awakening by the less than hospitable owner and local nepotistic police force.

The goal to gain revenge for being ripped off and humiliated at Porky's possesses one member of their group to return several times despite others' warnings, only to come back badly beaten.

The boys finally decide that they cannot win with their fists, so they use an ingenious plan to get back at Porky, the owner.

The film hardly has a dull moment and is guaranteed to make you laugh unless you are, (1) dead, or (2) tied to your seat and gagged.

lives! If someone you cared for needed blood wouldn't you hope someone cared enough to give blood for them. There are millions of families out there today praying for you to do just that. Giving blood is not a painful or scary experience. It is good for you as well as for others. By donating blood you are preventing a built-up of germs and diseases in your blood stream. So in the long run you will feel better physically and mentally knowing you cared enough to help someone else. Statistics show that only 3 percent of the entire population donates blood.

Students to Fast

By DAN CAMPBELL

Do you think you can last for a whole day without eating? Well, a group on campus known as Inter-Faith is sponsoring a Fast Day on Friday, April 2, and they are challenging you to try it.

According to the Inter-Faith group, students with meal tickets are asked to sign up at registration tables in the Scranton Commons throughout the week. Those who sign up will be forfeiting their Friday meals in the Commons. The Commons, in turn, will donate $1.00 for every registered student to Inter-Faith. Inter-Faith will in turn donate the money to CROP, a program of the Church World Service, a multidenominational organization.

Inter-Faith consists of the leaders of the Catholic Campus Ministry, Protestant Campus Ministry, Interservice Christian Fellowship, and the Fellowship of Christian Athletes.

People who do not feel they should give up all of Friday's meals are encouraged to make donations at the registration tables set up in the Commons's lobbies through Friday. Students with questions are encouraged to call Gregg Osterberg at 784-0703 or Jack Hess at 389-3472.

In conjunction with Friday's fast day the Fellowship of Christian Athletes will be having their weekly meeting dedicated to Human Awareness. The meeting will be at 8:00 p.m. on Thursday in the Coffeehouse.

Concert Planned

The Duke Ellington Orchestra, conducted by Mercer Ellington, will present a memorable evening of music at Bloomsburg State College on Sunday, April 4, in Carver Hall. The show starts at 8 p.m.

Students may pick up free tickets at the Information Desk. A limited number of free tickets are also available to patrons; faculty, and staff. All other tickets are $8. Call to order your tickets for this exciting event at 389-3902. All seats are general admission.

doubles. Ranked 10th in the MSTA, the self-taught Coyne is also thought to be a sure bet to repeat at nationals. He had a 9-2 fall record, which included a trip to the BSC Invitational finals. This was no small feat considering the field included Division II national powerhouse Hampton Institute and Mercyhurst College. Coyne's career record currently stands at 59-14.

Dave Superdock, also a junior, will be at number three. Last spring he set a school record when he ran off 18 straight wins. Superdock ended with a sparkling 19-1 log. His overall mark stands at 58-11. Dave will be gunning for his third PC singles title and could be the third Husky to return to the national tourney.

Sophomore Brett Briscoe is the fourth returning netman and also the fourth returning PC champ. If he can avoid the injuries which slowed him during his freshman campaign, the talented Briscoe should capture his second singles and doubles titles. Brett had a 6-3 fall slate and is now 23-10 overall.

Freshmen Rob Lario and Chris Antipas look like they'll be rounding out the Husky Top 6. Lario is a hard worker who could prove to be a big surprise if his improvement continues at its current pace. Antipas, who took a year off after high school, could also be a pleasant surprise as the year progresses. Both had 6-3 fall records and according to Reese, will be key to BSC's success.

If any of the top six players falter, look for freshmen Neil Eisenberg, John Weiland, Pat Woolford, Walt Brenner, or Chris Lovernic to jump in.

Winter Wrapup

This team gave us the most wins in a season ever against one of the toughest schedules ever.

It provided us with some of the highest quality basketball the game has to offer. A second place finish in the conference which followed last year's championship season. A runnerup in one of the toughest, if not the toughest regions in NCAA Division II. A consistent top ten national ranking, a number seven ranking in the final poll. Who can ever forget the Cheyney games or the standing ovations, given to Jon Bardsley - Mike Wenrich and company, that drowned out the announcer?

Then there was the Husky wrestling team. A team that also brought us some of the best performances and competition the sport has to offer. The Huskies provided us with a 134 pounder who was the best in the nation. Even though Don Reese didn't win a national championship; when you get to the finals of the NCAA Division I Tournament, you are the best.

And the team didn't just consist of one man. It was the 13th best wrestling team in the country-not just Division II or III, but the whole country. This is a truly amazing feat for a small school in rural Pennsylvania.

No words, spoken or written, nor any reception, banquet, or ceremony are sufficient to describe these outstanding performances. CGA can be commended for their effort and here is mine: Thank you and good luck!

Bung's strong performance in wrestling propelled the well-recruited team to the top of the standings with an accumulated total of 1062 points.

And while Bung's and FCA were preparing for a showdown in the basketball finals, the Scorps managed to sneak by everybody to win the championship. Bung's was knocked out in the first round of the playoffs by eventual runnerup Maximus Super in a one point game. However, FCA failed to take advantage of the Bung's misfortune by losing a tough semifinal game to the eventual champion Scorps. FCA ended in third place by virtue of a forfeit win over the Demons, who didn't even bother showing up for the consolation game.

Despite being dismissed by everyone, the defending overall champion Scorps furthered their comeback in the standings. In addition to winning basketball, they placed two players in the final round of the badminton tourney. However, Chris Skelly of the Monarchs demolished everyone in sight enroute to the championship. The foulshooting competition was completed last week but the official results have not been released. Water polo, soccer and one-on-one are next on the Intramural agenda. The teams will hit the pool this week, while soccer will begin after Easter break.

Tennis Forecast Remains Good Despite Rocky Beginning

and
WADE DOUGLAS

Coming off their eighth straight undefeated fall season, the men's tennis team began their 1982 spring season with a southern swing in mid-March. Two tough Division I teams and unpredictable weather played havoc with the Huskies.

Against what Coach Burt Reese called "good Division I players," the Huskies fell to Navy and the University of Richmond, while matches with William and Mary and Loyola of Baltimore were rained out.

Upon returning to the friendly confines of Bloomsburg, the netters got back to their winning ways by trouncing Lycoming College 8-1.

Number one player Marty Coyne had no trouble with Jim Sawyer, cleaning up 6-1, 6-2. Captain Craig Diehl defeated Pete Wesley 6-4, 6-3 at number two. Dave Superdock and Rob Lario each won easily at number three and four, respectively. Number 5 Brett Briscoe blanked Steve Russell 6-0, 6-0, while Chris Antipas finished the singles sweep with a 6-2, 6-1 win over Drew Falk.

In the doubles competition Coach Reese utilized his corps of six freshmen to grab 2 out of the 3 matches. Lario and Antipas combined for a 7-6, 4-6, 6-0 victory, while Neil Eisenberg and Pat Woolford made it eight wins for the Huskies, winning 6-3, 6-0. Lycoming managed to avoid a shutout by edging BSC's Walt Brenner and Chris Lovernic 3-6, 6-4, 6-4.

Coyne, Diehl, Briscoe and Antipas helped the Huskies even their season record at 2-2 on Wednesday by winning their singles matches against Haverford. In the doubles segment the teams of Coyne - Diehl and Lario - Antipas gave BSC their final margin of victory, 6-2. Superdock and Briscoe won the first set of their doubles match before darkness set in.

Fall Recap

The '82 spring season promises to bring nothing but good news about the Husky netters. The team has won the Pennsylvania Conference title the past three years, and Burt Reese has been named "PC Coach of the Year" four of the last five years. The Huskies are also coming off an 8-0 fall season, one where they extended their fall unbeaten streak to 44 matches.

The netters are also hoping to top the accomplishments of last year's spring season, one where they swept all six singles titles and all three doubles championships in the PC. In the past two years the Huskies have won 17 of 18 titles. In addition to the conference sweep, the Huskies sent four players - Coyne, Diehl, Superdock and Ken Grove - to the national tourney, where they ended up 13th in the country.

Spring Outlook

Leading the Huskies will be the lone senior Craig Diehl, who was named team captain. He is ranked in the Top 25 in the Middle States Tennis Association (MSTA), and Coach Reese feels he is a shoo-in for a return trip to nationals. If things go according to plan, Diehl could also become the first Husky to sweep the PC singles and doubles championships four consecutive years. Craig's fall record was a fine 7-3 and his career mark 83-24, which ranks him third on the all time Husky win list.

Junior Marty Coyne will be playing number one singles for the second year in a row and is a two-time defending champ in both singles and

Winter Sports Wrapup

A column
By DAN CAMPBELL
CV Sports Editor

The extremely successful winter sports program at BSC was honored last Tuesday with a reception sponsored by the Community Government Association.

The reception honored specifically the men's basketball and wrestling teams, as well as the women's swimming team. All three represented BSC in national competitions - and the results were outstanding, to say the least.

Amidst the noisy surroundings of the Kehr Union, the hard work and accomplishments of these teams were pointed out by the coaches and athletes-well, most of the athletes-as well as President James McCormick, Athletic Director Cecil Turberville, and CGA President Karen Chawaga.

"On behalf of the student body," Chawaga said, "I'd like to express sincere appreciation for your efforts. It is an honor to have you represent BSC."

President McCormick congratulated the students and teams and their "outstanding commitment to excellence."

Mr. Turberville extended his congratulations and thanked the teams for the positive recognition to the athletic programs gained by their efforts.

Next, Coach Roger Sanders and his wrestlers were individually recognized-specifically seniors Don Reese and Todd Cummings.

Basketball Coach Charlie Chronister and his team followed. Tina Klamut represented the women's swim team in place of Coach Mary Gardner, who was busy having a baby. Klamut summed up the feelings of the day when she said, "I am very proud to be on that team."

And proud may they be remembered. Because it is going to be tough to match this winter season.

The women's swim team-AIAW Division III runnerup...Setting an unprecedented national mark for all three college divisions by sweeping all five relay events...10 All-Americans-nine who gained multiple All-American status...Outstanding...

The men's basketball team. Oh, how they'll be remembered as providing some of the most exciting moments in BSC sports history. It seemed as if the college lived and died with every game.
