

As the white man continued to settle on the new frontiers, resentment grew among the Indians who owned the land. In, 1767, the story has it that Indians met on the present site of California to voice their anger at the intrusion.

Their chief was Sagamoor who was aided by another powerful red man from Washington—Catfish. As was the case with most of these types of sit-ins, the white man paid no attention and settled anyway.

Samuel Johnson bought from the Indians on April 5, 1769 a tract of land containing Indian Hill where he settled.

This was near Fort Redstone (Brownsville). No settler ever built very far from a fort.

Pennsylvania and Virginia laid claim to the territory throughout the period following the Revolution.

Even New England states laid claim to this territory on the Monongahela.

The community of California like so many other such towns was nothing more than trees, a few homes and more trees.

It wasn't until the middle 1800s that California began to grow into important industrial town.

The title to the town of California was at one time vested in an Indian Chief known as Indian Peter . . .

Brick making was a big industry for many years in California.

These bricks were "hand pressed" and a company's daily output might be 20,000 bricks.

The lower end of College Avenue was originally known as Brick Alley.

Beginning in 1851, a boat building industry existed which extended from Coal Center to Phillipsburg or the entire length of California.

The constructed crafts were sent from California to the Ohio, Mississippi, Missouri and Monongahela rivers. Many boats were sent as far as the mighty Amazon of South America.

There were four launch ways for these large crafts—two north toward Pittsburgh and two south toward Brownsville.

Frequently boat races were held on the Mon River when the river was at flood stage. But the boat building industry diminished with the coming of the railroad which sliced straight through the boat yards.

Greenfield (Coal Center) was laid out in lots in 1819 . . . The name of its Post office was "Pike Run", named after the creek that was the dividing line between Greenfield and California.

In the early days of our town, much produce was shipped from this point to New Orleans by flatboats which still slide down the Mon River.

*On the edge of Hi-Point
there were many road houses where the town residents could watch the boats pilot around the horseshoe curve.*

With the coming of the "Omnibus Bill" and its fifth provision concerning "Fugitive Slaves", jury trial for Negroes was made impossible.

Many citizens aided the Negroes in their escape to Canada.

The runaways from Cumberland, upon reaching Pittsburgh, were hidden on boats destined for the upper Monongahela.

Some of these were taken from the California wharf, at the foot of Union Street, and quickly hurried up First Street to the Job Johnson Hotel, corner of First and Woods Streets.

Another home that was a haven for runaway slaves was the hotel that is the present Tau Kappa Epsilon Fraternity House.

STATE NORMAL
CALIFORNIA, P

Reverend Samuel Rothwell, a lay minister, established the first common school in 1851. He was an outstanding instructor in woodwork—the first vocational teacher.

This lasted one year, then the California Seminary was built at Fifth and Liberty streets.

From the pages of the "Monongahela Republican" . . . September 3, 1968, "The laying of the cornerstone of the South Western Normal College at California, August 26, was a decided success.

Early in the morning strangers were coming in and by eleven o'clock the Steamer Chieftain arrived at our wharf with a large crowd of people . . . The number that day was variously estimated at from three to five thousand persons." The term of 1874-75 increased the enrollment of the entire school to 359. All students over 17 who agreed to teach the common schools received 50¢ a week and there was a provision that he would be paid one dollar a week if his father had been killed in the Civil War. He was charged $3.00 a week for Room and Board, and tuition was $1.25. But ill times fell. The Sheriff sold all the house and kitchen furniture. The school was able to rent it back for $100 a year.

*THE COLLEGE 1913 . . .
Students were entertained in the Chapel with funeral marches.*

For one week the College was under quarantine with guards posted around the school to prevent anyone from leaving.

As a treat, one of the woman teachers took the dormitory girls to the moving pictures.

The school had a garden and every senior had a plot. The vegetables were used by the school.

Pitt University ran an advertisement in the Yearbook showing an enrollment of 2,700 students and 300 instructors.

A drinking fountain was established in Main Hall.

STATE COLLEGE

CALIFORNIA, PA

In 1914 the State bought the property and the State Board of Education Established their own Board of Trustees and employed a faculty of thirty teachers.

In 1929, fourteen students received degrees and California State College now offered a Bachelor of Science Degree.

On a typical cold, windy morning in November, people from all over Western Pennsylvania came to California to witness the annual Homecoming parade; many arriving as much as two and three hours early to get a front row seat.

Many local and district bands, majorette corps and drum and bugle corps were included in this year's Homecoming parade. Also included were the many floats entered by the sororities and fraternities. The theme of this year's floats was Movies and Broadway Musicals. Lorraine Bonito, a senior at CSC and the reigning Miss Pennsylvania State

College Queen, rode in the parade. The reigning Homecoming Queen, Nancy Irwin, and the newly elected Homecoming Queen, Kathy Bowers, and her court were also participants in the parade.

The Vulcans found themselves on the losing end of the 14-0 first quarter score against IUP. The second quarter saw junior quarterback Jeff Petricci's passes drill the Indian's secondary for one touchdown and set up the other.

During half time, Kathy Bowers was crowned as Homecoming Queen for 1967 by Nancy Irwin, last year's queen.

The climax of many hours of work was reached due to the announcement of the winners of the float competition.

In the second half a crowd of 4,000 saw Petrucci continue his aerial show and lead CSC to a 27-20 upset victory.

Amassing 251 total points to 216 for the opposition, the CSC Vulcans improved on their '66 season record of 4- with a fine 5-3 performance for '67. Statistic wise the Vulcans for the entire season outscored their opponents on the Frezzel, piled up 1,502 total yards rushing for the '67 season. This rapid real estate dealing resulted in CSC accumulating 187.7 yards per contest. The opponents checked in with 92.6 yards coming for their game average. In the passing department Jeff Petrucci, junior quarterback from Charleroi, attempted to complete 233 aerials this past season; connecting with 114 and having 22 intercepted. Petrucci ranked high in the final NAIA tabulations, with 1,984 yards coming via the pass. On the opponents' side of the log: they attempted 198, completing 84, and had 11 picked off by CSC's defense for a total of 1,238 yards through the air.

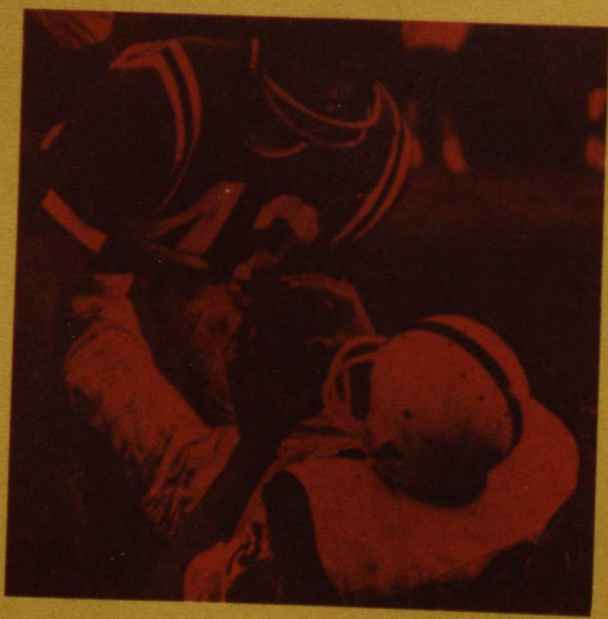

The combined offensive yardage total for CSC was 3,486 yards for a 435.7 yard per game average in both the passing and running departments. As for CSC's opponents they checked in with 1,979 yards for the combined total with a game average of 247.3 yards.

Jim Boggio by virtue of scoring four TD's in the last game of the '67 season against Edinboro, claimed the honor of scoring the most TD's, nine for 54 total points. Checking in with six Td's, George Carlock was in constant rivalry with Pete Gialames who scored five TD's. Carlock snared the oval 26 times in 8 games for 425 net yards that resulted in a 53.1 yard average per game. Edging out Carlock in every department except for TD's Gialames caught the pigskin 29 times in 8 games for 525 net yards and a 75 yard per game average.

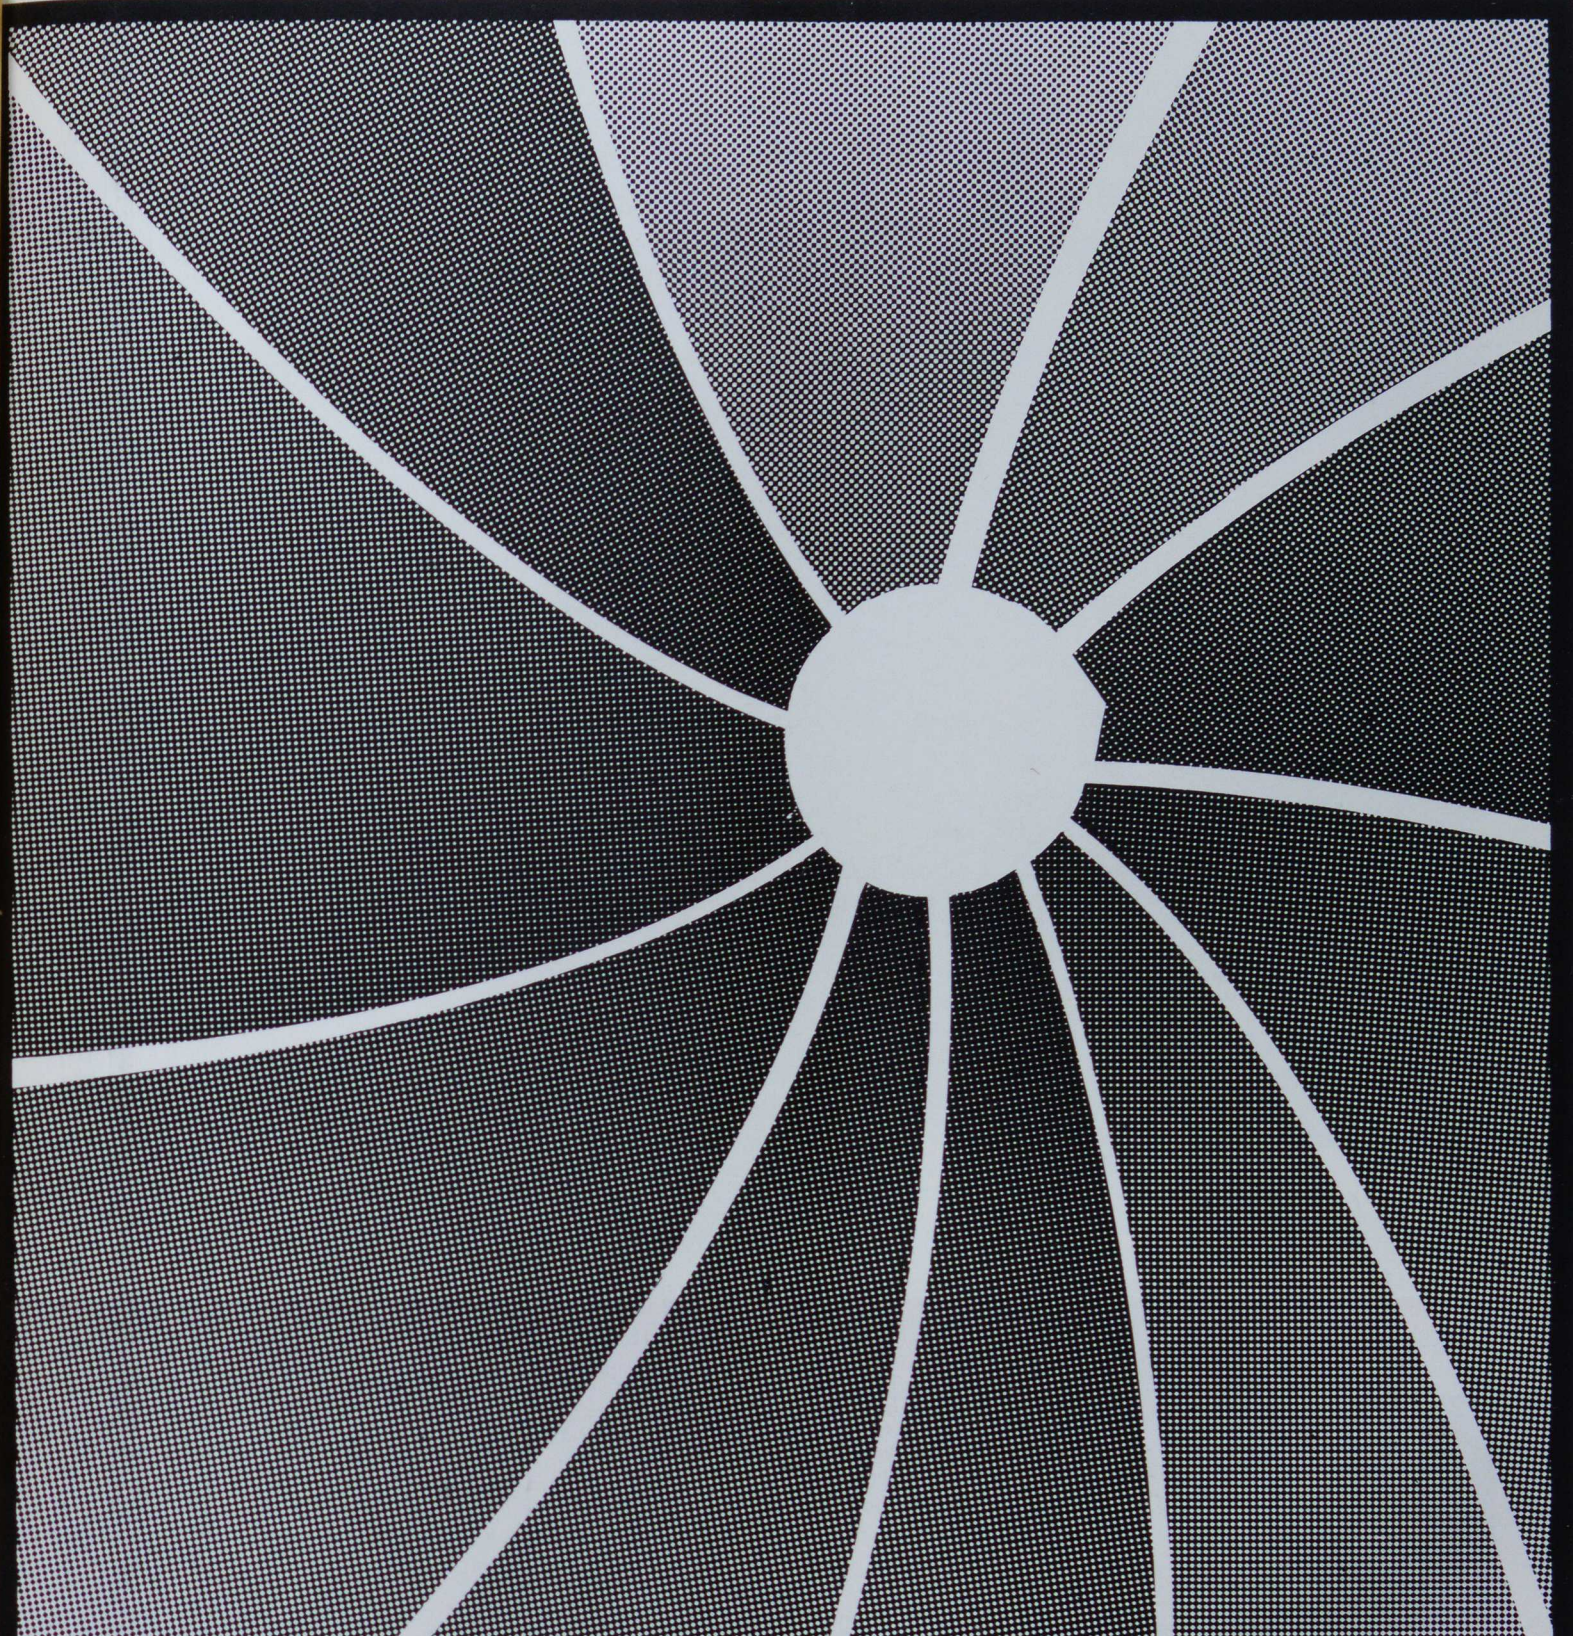

Jeff Petrucci led the CSC Vulcans throughout the '67 season in making clutch calls pay off for Vulcan offensive effort. In the '67 season Petrucci tossed for 19 touchdowns in 8 games and as a result had 1,984 net yards compiled in his favor.

Throughout most of the season the Vulcan offensive line moved steadily into enemy territory and usually capitalized on good field position for the score.

Jeff Weaver, CSC senior center from California, who was forced out of action in the last few contests because of a hair-line fracture of his leg, composed the duo that delivered for the Vulcans. With Petrucci at the helm and Weaver at center the Vulcans had a productive offense in '67 . . . John Wislocki

Since its inception, some years ago, Pegasus has undergone certain changes in format. Perhaps it is now necessary to restate, briefly, its purpose and function. Basically, its purpose remains the same: to publish the creative efforts of students, both in the area of the written word and in visual art forms. Its intent is at once to stimulate creativity and to provide an outlet for that creativity: to publish poetry, short stories, vignettes, short plays, and to reproduce paintings, sketches, photographs, and other works submitted by students.

He is a young composer, poet-lyricist who has performed on both American and Canadian television.

Si Zentner

A crowd of about 300 people danced to the music of Si Zentner and his 17 piece orchestra, recording stars of Liberty Records, featured at the Homecoming Dance held Saturday Nov. 4, 1967. Zentner has won numerous awards and has several hit records, including his most famous "Up The Lazy River".

Happenings

CSC also has its own community symphony orchestra which performs yearly.

Jr. Walker

To a packed audience at Hamer Hall the brightly clad Jr. Walker came forth to perform many of his popular songs. His show consisted of such favorites as "Shotgun" and "Soul Session".

Jay And The Techniques

The seven man group of Jay and the Techniques appeared at CSC Sat., May 10, to help make the Spring Weekend a success
They performed a variety of their hits
such as "Apples, Peaches, Pumpkin Pie".

Jay And The Americans

On January 17 the audience at Hamer Hall had a double treat. This night two groups instead of one appeared—Tommy James and the Shondells and Jay and the Americans.

College Players

The College Players and the Children's Theater produced many enjoyable plays throughout this year. These two fine groups endeavored to present as much as a variety of plays to the campus as possible. Some of these plays were "Enemy of the People," "The Emperor's New Clothes", "The Chalk Garden", "King Midas and the Golden Touch", "The Program of one Acts", and "The Canterbury Tales".

BASKETBALL

The 'fire gods' of CSC gave the home crowd an exciting game, at least in the first half, in the first home basketball game of the 1967-68 season, held December 6. The Vulcans held slight lead up until there were only 2:00 minutes left in the half. Due to some good playing on the part of both teams, the score at the half was tied. Turnovers plagued the Vulcans in the second half and the Indians took advantage of this and built up a nine point lead. The Vulcans fought back and took a one point lead.

From this point on, the lead exchanged hands by no more than one point until 1:12 remained. The Vulcans committed eight fouls and the Indians took a 84-72 lead. The Vulcans tried to come back but they were finished for the night. The final score was 84-78 in favor of IUP. The Vulcans are coached by Miles Witchey.

WRESTLING

The CSC Vulcan Wrestling team, in a come from behind effort, defeated the Indiana Indians 24-13 in the season opener, December 6, at Hamer Gym. The Vulcans, coached by Paul Ross, overcame a 13-3 deficit by winning the last five bouts. This victory was the first of nine victories as the Rossmen ended the season with a 9-3 record.

As winter spread out its white blanket, the dormitories, lounges, library, lobbies, and Snack Bar became crowded with anxious students trying to find shelter to keep dry and warm.

Winter also gave impetus to the gray matter, as some students finally began to open a book.

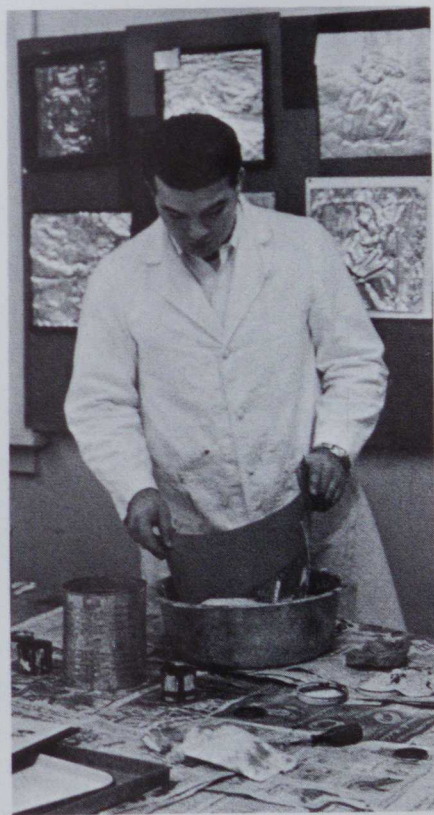

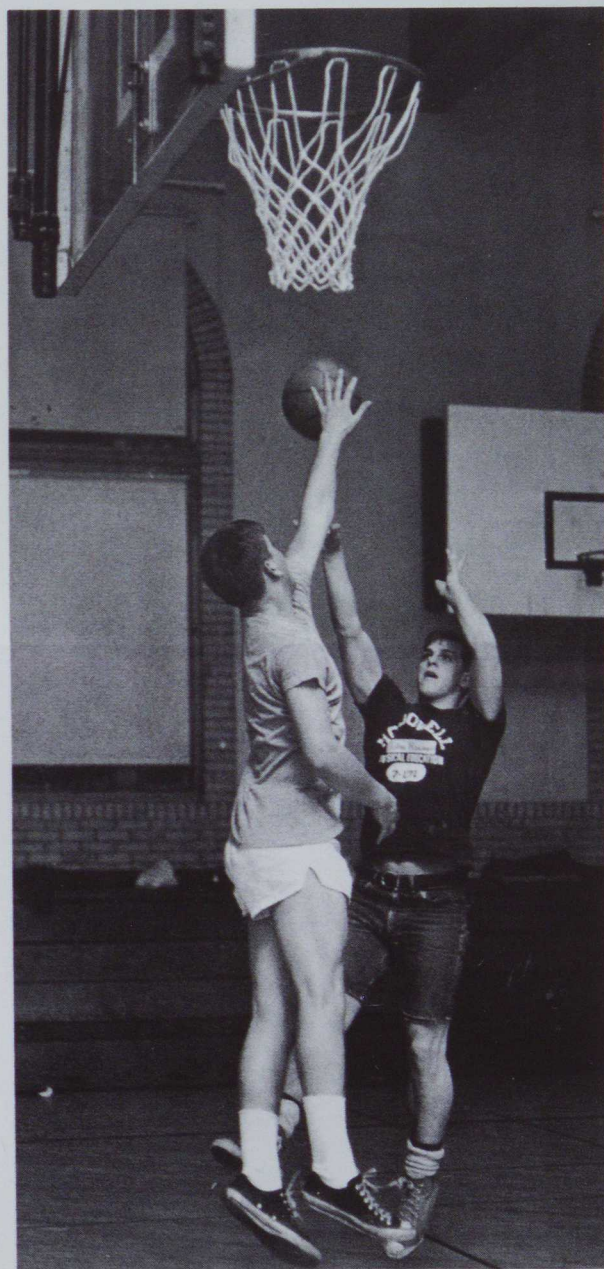

Winter was also the battleground for the resident as it provided the ammunition for many bitter snowball fights.

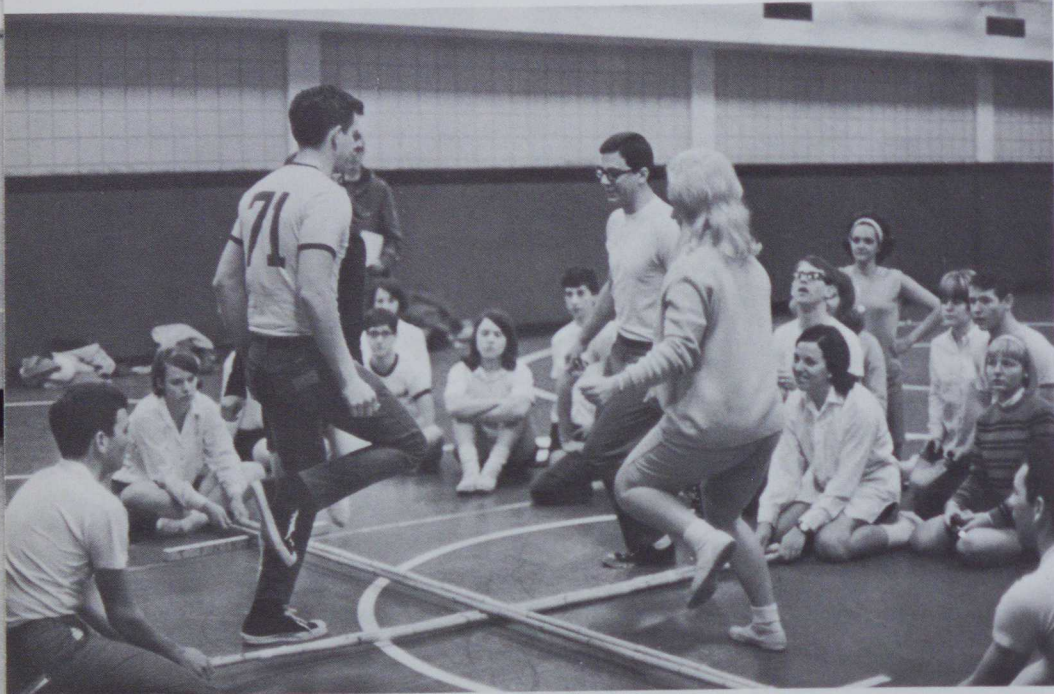

Indoor recreation programs, bull sessions, long term papers and extra sleep took up the time of most of the C.S.C. students. The group fully benefiting from winter's treasures was the Ski Club. The majority of the student body was waiting for these treasures to melt and expose the fresh signs of spring.

The image features a dense, black and white halftone pattern that creates a textured, almost vibrating effect. The pattern consists of small dots and fine lines arranged in a way that suggests depth and movement. At the bottom of the image, the words "DORM LIFE" are printed in a large, bold, white, sans-serif font. The letters are thick and blocky, with a slight shadow effect that makes them stand out against the dark background.

Education is the process of intellectual, spiritual, social, cultural and vocational development of the individual. In all these areas, development means expansion into new vistas, the response to new intellectual stimuli, the discovery of interest in things yet unknown.

Since such is the generally accepted task of the California State College, the students must receive this sort of education. The college teaches Teacher Education, the Arts and Sciences, the Graduate Studies and the General Studies. It reflects a deep conviction as a people about man's place in the creation, that he is important in the overall plan, and that he is so designed that everyone should and could have a life of satisfaction and achievement. It assumes, therefore, that man's mind must have absolute freedom; freedom to explore the unknown; freedom to discover new knowledge; freedom from prejudice and ignorance; freedom to discover its own powers and its own identity. That is why we look on education as an absolute necessity not as a convenience or a luxury. We believe that the mind must be cultivated and prepared to function productively and well.

Our college is doing just that. The curriculums will vary, the methods will vary, but there will always be one common objective . . . to educate fine men and women. We want California men and women to be able to take their place side by side with every educated American.

We believe that each student arriving here comes to learn. He has limited amount of time here to fulfill his mission. He is respected for himself.

With this in mind, the college endeavors to place before the students the intellectual wealth of our culture, the scientific knowledge, the sociological advances and triumphs of the arts so that their minds will function productively and well.

The faculty members of C.S.C. have given the students a great foundation with which to pursue their professional interests. The faculty has built this foundation through taking a keen interest in their students' progress and comforts. This has made C.S.C. a college of which we all can be proud.

As professors, faculty members have brought to California many diverse backgrounds from other colleges, cities, and even continents. These professors have unlocked hidden talents which many of us never knew we had—talents which were matured by our professors and given a chance to grow into what we've now become.

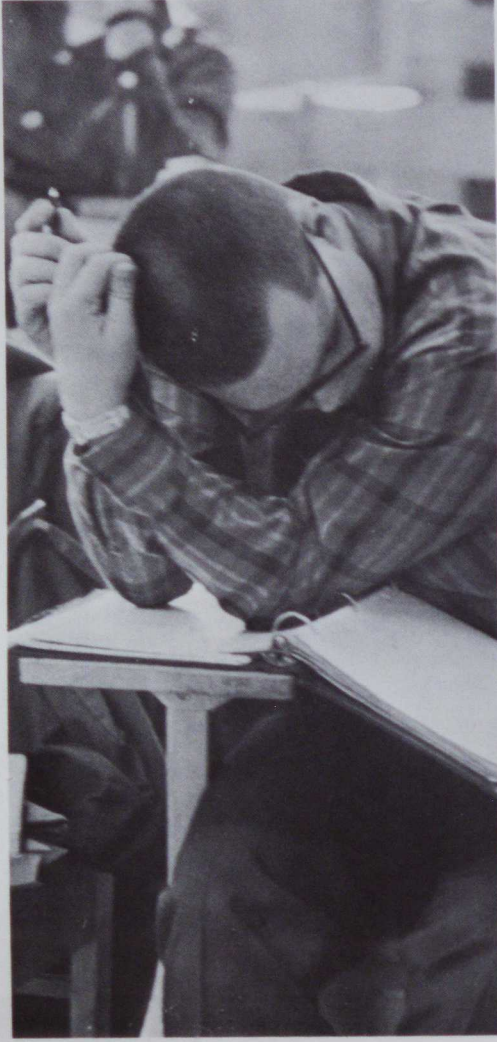

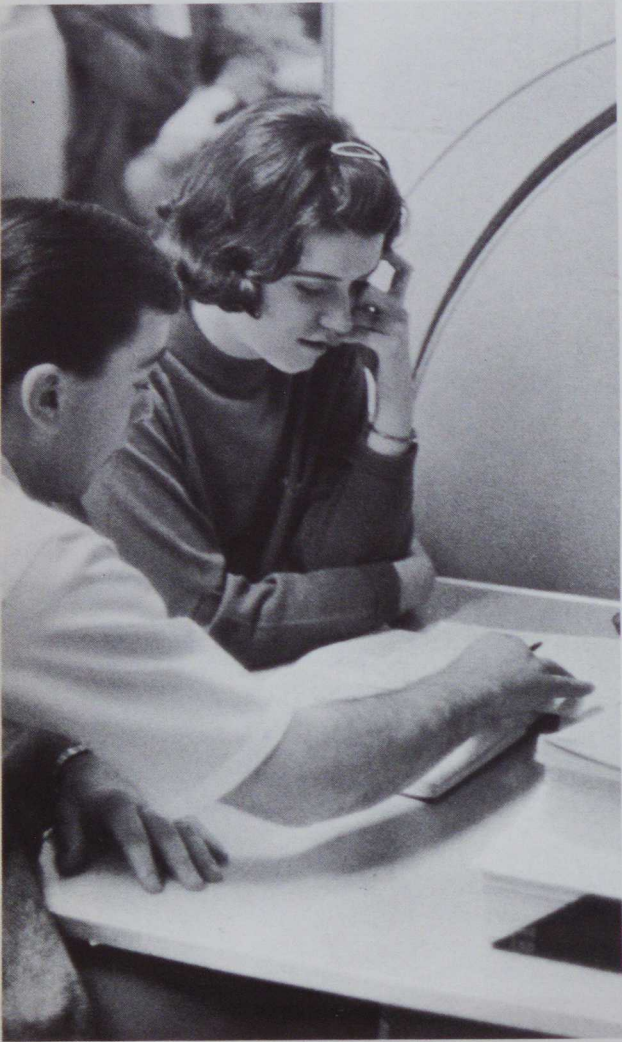

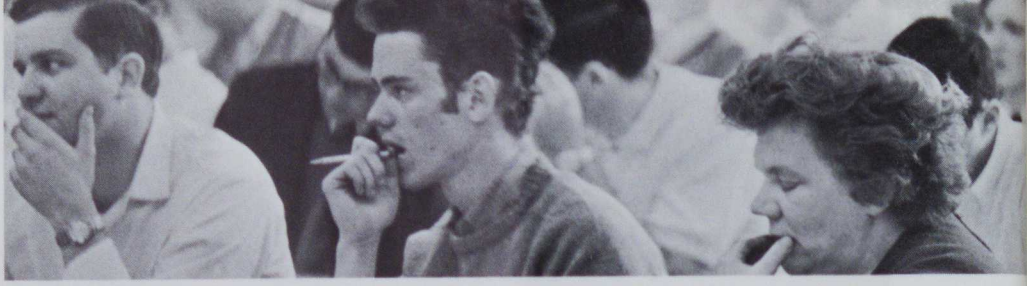

The congenial projection of the faculty members has contributed greatly to the congenial atmosphere of our college. As supervisors, advisors, sponsors, and coaches, the faculty members have devoted numerous hours of their time. There have been times when some students have gotten so exhausted that they just wanted to get away from it all. But it was words of encouragement from the Deans that enabled them to take the last few steps to graduation. It was a smile from Dr. Duda as we walked across campus that made us feel that we were an integral part of California and not just a number.

The faculty members have given us tools with which to conquer tomorrow's problems. And the gratitude which we hold for them will never cease. For they have instilled in us a strong and well balanced foundation which will enable us to build high.

SPRING

*Spring . . . the feel of warmth . . . the fragrance of new life from nature . . . it offers one more excuse for not

. . . the first budding leaf makes one aware that the end is near for one more

Wet umbrellas, curled-up shoes, wrinkled term papers, stringy hair, unpassable puddles and smelly sweaters are grievances come about by that very substance that stimulates the green around us—rain.
